Store clerks lives threatened

SANFORD - Seminole County deputies are searching for two men that reportedly threatened to "blow away" two clerks at a conven-ience store this morning. It is unknown if the two men were armed, although they implied they had weapons, said sheriff's spokesman George Proechel.

The incident was reported at about 6:30 this morning. Proechel said. Clerks at the Handy Way on West State Road 46 at Orange Boulevard told deputies two white men, both with black hair and mustaches, entered the store and threatened them, Frontiel and There was no effort to rob the store, he said. The men, one wearing a striped shirt and the other a red shirt, fled in what is beleived to be a blue Chrysler, Proechel said. The clerks also said the man with the red shirt had tatoos all over his body, said Proechel.

Senator Gardner disappointed

TALLAHASSEE — Sen. Winston "Bud" Gardner said this morning he was disappointed Leon County Judge Thomas Bateman refused to consider arguments by his attorney that he didn't have to report free trips provided by lobbyists.

"I was not too surprised," Gardner said. "All I know about courtroom proceedings is what I see on T.V., 'L.A. Law.' and stuff. He didn't even let my attorney finish his arguments."

Gardner said the ruling won't deter his decision to defend charges he failed to report the trips on financial disclosure forms.

"Stopping the process — that's not an option I'm willing to consider," Gardner said. But Bateman's ruling Monday doesn't end the case for Gardner, a Titusville Democrat, representing Seminole county, who chairs the Senate Appropriations Committee. Bateman wouldn't accept the argument by Gardner attorney Bill Corry that, until last year, the law was vague on whether a trip was a gift that had to be listed.

Lake Mary may close Broadmoor

LAKE MARY — Another move will be made Thursday night to close Broadmoor Road. The road has been one of the major accesses to Seminole Community College from the City of Lake Mary.

City of Lake Mary.

The first official discussion on the closure was brought up during a Lake Mary City Commission meeting on Aug. 20. The commissioners voted 3 to 2 to have the staff draw up a resolution calling for the closure. The discussion at that time produced some citizen reaction, most of whom were in favor of the closure.

Now, opposition has been heard from several citizens.

Navy Commander Bruce W. Buckley, who is stationed at the Central Florida Research Park but is living in Lake Mary Woods, expressed his opposi-tion in a letter dated Aug. 27. While Buckley said he was sympathetic to the plight of the residents along Broadmoor, he suggested closing it is certainly not a solution. He wrote, "We cannot allow ourselves to temporarily close a road and then find that at the end we are no smarter than we were at the beginning." He added, "The only change will be that we will have erected a barricade that we won't know what to do with. Will it then be up to the residents of Main. Webster and Lake to complain loudly enough to tear it down?"

Jack and Carolyn Gale, of Cakland Terrace also wrote of their opposition, submitting

Cops solve spate of home burglaries

By VICKI Desorm Herald Staff Writer

SANFORD - As many as 30 burglaries that have taken place in Sanford since January may have been solved with the arrest of a 15-year-old boy on Saturday, police revealed today.

The boy, whose name could not be released because of his age, was arrested on unrelated charges this weekend and began telling police of other crimes.

Investigator Guy Brewster of the Sanford Police Department, said this morning that this is "not the first time" the youth has been in trouble with the law.

Other charges he has faced also involved burglaries and prowling charges, according to the police.

Brewster said the young man has not yet been charged with the crimes which have netted more than 500 items, including bicycles. tools and lawn mowers.

A survey prepared by the Florida Education Association (FEA-United) shows that half of one percent of the criminal offensese that happen in Florida schools occur in Seminole County.

The biggest problems among the more than 200 incidents reported in the Seminole district seemed to be the use of alcohol by minors, the use of illegal drugs and the possession of weapons on campus by students, officials said today.

However, individual schools in the district said they do not keep statistics based on the nature of an offense committed by students who are recommended to the board for expulsion.

The number of crimes is relatively low, but that doesn't mean that action is not needed.

-Ron Sachs, union spokesman

"All the information is kept on the individual student, but we don't break it down into 'crime statistics' at the school," Kathy Roberts, the dean in charge of discipline at Lake Mary High School. 655 Longwood-Lake Mary Rd. in Lake Mary, said.

Sachs said there were 222 crimes reported in the Seminole County school district during the 1990-91 school year. "There were no reports of murder, no reports of rape, no reports of arson, no reports of larceny and no reports of vandalism." Sachs said of Seminole County. Investigations into the April 1991 fire at Tuskawilla Middle School in Oviedo revealed that the incident was an arson, which may have been committed by students at the

Streetman fends off referendum

By J. MARK BARFIELD Herald Staff Writer

SANFORD — Seminole County Commission Chairman Fred Streetman has fended off the second attempt this year to call for a referendum to decide whether county commissioners should be elected solely from within their districts.

Bill Gilmartin, chairman of the Seminole County Democratic Executive Committee, asked Streetman to place the single-member district issue on the ballot before the end of the year. Commissioners, although required to live within their district, are elected by all voters in the Streetman wrote Gilmartin, saying "Under single member districts an incumbent who is a devout 'politician' could become practically un-beatable while still being generally ineffective."

Elderly man arrested, hangs self

FORT LAUDERDALE — An 84-year-old man arrested and told to stay away from his estranged wife hanged himself in the Broward County Jail, authorities said.

Joseph Smith, who lived in a retiree development in Sunrise, had been arrested by police on Saturday and charged with violating a court order prohibiting him from going to his wife's apartment in the same complex.

At the jail, Joseph Smith had told a nurse he was not suicidal, according to the Broward sheriff's office. Because of his age, he was treated as a "fragile detainee" and was put in a cell by himself about 2:30 a.m. on Sunday, said Jim Leljedal, a sheriff's office spokesman.

Smith strangled himself Sunday with a strip off a blanket, looped around the bunk bed above him, police said.

On Friday, his wife, Naomi, had told police she was afraid that he was going to harm her. Joseph Smith told police then that he kept going back to his wife's apartment because he

Cost-cutting layoffs reduced

PENSACOLA - The Pensacola Naval Aviation Depot has reduced cost-cutting layoffs from 250 to 171, officials say.

"The reason for the decrease is because of efforts to place individuals into other federal jobs ... merit promotions to other commands and resignations," said Harry White, a spokesman at the Penascola Naval Air Station.

In April, the Navy had announced 400 jobs would be eliminated at the depot, one of six across the country that refurbish naval aircraft, to save 98.5 million a year.

Officials said in July that only 250 workers had received layoff notices because some positions were vacant, some employees retired early and temporary workers were released.

SANFORD - The Salvation Army needs people to dress teddy bears. They will not only become Christmas gifts, but be entered in competition. Clubs, groups and individual persons are being sought who will volunteer their time and materials to make outfits of clothing for teddy bears. The bears will be provided by the Salvation Army, and are to be completed and returned by Dec.

Last year, the bears were dressed by girl scout groups, a number of area clubs, and several individuals, but this year, the aim is to make it an area wide event, Connie Cormican at the Basterd Salvation Army of the said. 'Our soal this year is to have 325 teddy bears com-

Cormican reported, "Last year, a young boy dressed one of the bears, but didn't want anyone to know he was a male." She added, "He ended up producing a costume that made the bear look like Rambo, and it was one of the most original ideas we had." Cormican said it was a good example that anyone can help out in this project.

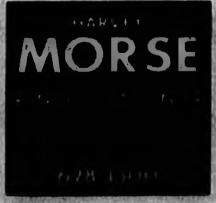

Initially, this year's dressed bears will be judged in competi-tion, with the winners to receive ribbons. The winning dressed bears will then be exhibited at area banks prior to Christmas.

Free voice

Radio Free Europe, the Munich-based, U.S.-run station that broadcasts news and commentary to Eastern Europe, is under siege by budget-cutters in Washington who claim that its mission has been accomplished. They are wrong.

Last year, an advisory board to the U.S. Information Agency — which controls the Voice of America but no RFE — recommended phasing out RFE by making it a part of VOA.

Those most affected disagree. Presidents Vaciav Havel of Czechoslovakia, Lech Walesa of Poland and Arpad Gones of Hungary have urged that RFE stay on the air. Democracy may have come to their countries, but they know better than anyone that its survival is not guaranteed. And as Havel notes, RFE covers events in the region better than any indigenous service. Even Mikhail Gorbachev. during his Crimean house arrest, listened to Radio Liberty, RFE's sister station which broadcasts to the Soviet Union, for news about events in Moscow.

Past complaints about RFE and RL were mostly about their political character. For decades they were financed by the CIA, but that changed 20 years ago. Now they are financed by Congress, and an independent panel that includes private media figures oversees them.

Some Americans also have objected to the polemical tone of RFE commentators, most of them emigres; to factionalist disputes among them that sometimes got on the air, and to the broadcast of anti-Western distribes.

These problems have been dealt with through tighter oversight. What's going on in Washington now is a bureaucratic turi battle

Washington now is a bureaucratic turf battle over which agency is to decide who speaks for America abroad seal as what tout.

Members of a bipartisan presidential task force, fearing that the Office of Management and Budget may preempt their own review by slashing RFE funds, are said to have urged President Bush to withhold a decision until he sees their final report on whether RFE/RL should be left alone, reorganized or, as State Department officials prefer, absorbed into VOA.

The last choice would be the worst one.

The last choice would be the worst one. VOA is the official, generally objective, usually bland voice of the U.S. government about global and American topics. RFE and RL are more controversial, which they ought to be. If they are kept at arms's length from the bursucracy, they can go on providing an essential service on the front lines of the struggle for democracy in Eastern Europe.

That's what they were created for.

Until the democratic triumph is far more secure than it is now, Radio Free Europe and Radio Liberty ought to retain their indepen-dent voices and the funding needed to make that possible.

Thinking beyond the Cold War era

how radically our mental processes will have to be changed as a result of the end of the Cold War. Our way of thinking about almost every public issue will require revision.

For the last 45 years — which is to say, for the adult lifetimes of virtually its whole relevant population — the United States has been engaged in a war to the death with the Soviet Union. It certainly deserved to be regarded as, and may actually come to be called, the Third World War.

It lasted so long only because neither superpower dared to launch a nuclear first strike against the other, Instead, therefore, it was waged by political and military means, supplemented by regional wars (Korea, Vietnam, Afghanistan) fought, on one side or the other, by

Ultimately the United States won the un-derlying war, because the Soviet economic and social systems proved incapable of competing with the West in the technology of modern warfare, or even of providing an endurable life for the citizens of the Soviet Union.

For 45 years, however, there has never been such a thing as a purely civil war, anywhere in the world, if Yugoslavia had broken apart while the Cold War was still on, it is as certain as sunrise that we would have backed the Croats

Most Americans, I suspect, don't yet realize and Moscow the Serbs (or vice versa). Similarly, whenever a revolution broke out in some obscure capital, the central question was necessarily.

"Are we backing the government or the rebels?" — and the Soviets could be depended on to support the other side.

Even here at home. especially in the earlier stages of the Cold War when ul-timate Soviet victory seemed entirely possible, those Americans (and there were quite a few) who rooted, publicly or secretly, for a Com-munist triumph had to be taken seriously as enemies of our mortally threatened society.

As a result of our victory in the Cold War, all of these calculations must now be revised.

For the first time in the memory of the great majority of Americans now living, we are able to contemplate and deplore the civil war in Yugoslavia without feeling obliged, on Cold War grounds, to back one side or the other. Similarly, we may have deep reservations about the ANC and Nelson Mandela, but if they manage to seize power in South Africa the damage will largely be confined to that lovely land; they will not be able to turn it over to a going communist world enterprise — as they most certainly would, if there still were such a thing.

And here at home the communists especially those still holding tenured positions on our college and university faculties — can at last be regarded, and treated, as the essentially comical and slightly pathetic figures they are.

To be sure, there is still one major communist power - China. But it does not have the ability. even if it had the inclination, to attack the United States successfully, so we can afford to wait with reasonable patience for its downfall. It is still dominated by a handful of octogenarian veterana of the Long March: first-generation communists quite capable of slaughtering their domestic opponents. When these die, however, the momentum for fundamental change will quickly become overwhelming. History, then, has taken a major turn — but it has not ended.

Democrats their own enemies

About the time the 99th potential Democratic candidate announced that his hung toenail would keep him out of the 1992 presidential campaign. I finally figured out what the Democratic Party has become. It's my Uncle

Don, who died not long ago in his 80s.

The comparison has nothing to do with his death, particularly since he was a vigorous man right up to the last. It definitely has nothing to do with his politics, true-blue Republican as belitted a man of his education republican as befitted a man of his education (Yale) and class (upper). The comparison is with his state of mind for most of the period between 1933 and 1968, a time in which, by Uncle Don's lights, the United States took leave of its collective senses. The Democratic Party's begemony left him as bewildered as he was apoplectic.

was apoplectic.

He could not bring himself to blame the Orand Old Party for its long decline, Incapable of accepting that the Republicans' problems lay in themselves, he looked elsewhere for answers. He found them in the devious strategems of "That Man," Franklin D. Roosevelt and the benighted stupidity of the electorate. How could anyone follow such an obvious Pied Piper, he would fume, a man of little intelligence who counted on a jaunty grin and mellifluous voice to diaguise his cheap demagaguery?

My immediate family was not exactly ince-jerk Democratic, Dad and Mother having backed Wendell Wilkie, Thomas Dewey (in 1948) and Eleenhower in 1962, each man and time for a different reason. But they supported the social welfare legislation that FDR had maked and believed he had saved the nation from the excesses the Republicane had encouraged in the 1920s. Uncle Don was the edilect of considerable intra-family humor, it was easy to see him as a funny, out-of-date political dinosaur whose extinction was certain.

Plack forward to 1991. Who's whining now about "That Man," in this case the ageless actor with the optimistic air and shallow philosophy who was the master communicator? Who blames the voters? Who still believes that the same message in the same bottle should be as eagerly received by an electorate waiting on a barren shore in 1992 as it was in 1932? Who is willing to blame just about everyone and everything for its nearfatal condition except itself?

The Democrats, of course, and as recently as three years ago they were detuding themselves that their failures were transient. When the next election came round, they would say, the Plack forward to 1991. Who's whining now restore the rightful order of things. It had been a nightmare, but nightmares passed with the

Then came the landelide of 1988, wrought by George Bush, the world's least charismatic politician. He wasn't Ronald Reagan. It wasn't George McGovern and his longhairs taking their lumps from a second-term cinch, Richard Nixon. It wasn't Jimmy Carter, preaching malaise and disdaining politics, recling under the triple shock of inflation, unemployment and America held hostage.

No. now it was unavoidable. Scapegoats need not apply. The Democratic Party's enemy was the Democratic Party.

That is not a message that the conventional politi-cian wants to carry to the party faithfui. What is required is a different kind of messenger with a different message — a Barry Goldwater in Democratic drag is one way to describe it. The party cetablishment has to be crushed in order

He could not bring himself to blame the Grand Old Party.

The party's platform has to be radically restructured, not to abandon the party's core beliefs but to give them form and thrust appropriate to the last

That's what happened to the Republican Party, which is why the last laugh was Uncle Don's. His team stopped trying to be "me-tooers." They stopped crying over split milk. They took a close look at the voters' concerns and packaged their programs to reflect many of them. In the process, the party's Eastern Establishment, which had nurtured Uncle Don, was crushed. He didn't much care for that part, but he loved the results.

Not long ago, a man in Florida wrote me an angry letter, protesting what he described as the self-satisfied vacuity of a talk show on which I had participated. He listed a few things we might have discussed,

He was right in more than one. His list would be a great platform for an opposition party as well as a talk show, assuming either had the taste for getting down to the nitty-gritty.

Witnesses in trial head for the hills

WASHINGTON - The prosecution team trying to put Manuel Noriega away on drug charges has assembled a witness list of pots calling the kettle black. Most of the witnesses ready to finger Noriega as dirty are tainted themselves, and Noriega's lawyers plan to have a field day with them.

But, one by one, the most embarrassing of the rogues have become conveniently unavailable to testify.

A recent example is Boris Clarte Morales, a convicted drug smuggler who was to take the stand against Noriega. In another drug trial, Olarte admitted to lying under oath, and there were problems with his story in the Noriega case. But they aren't problems anymore; because Olarte won't be testifying. He was shipped to Colombia to work as an informant for the U.S. Customs Service. The move became so embarrassing to the government that last week Olarte was unexpectedly brought back, but there are still no plans to put him on the stand.

The U.S. Attorney's Office in Miami, where Noriega will be tried, would not comment on reports that Olarte had been threatened with prosecution if he returned.

Jose Blandon, once a star government witness who provided key information leading to the original indictment of Noriega, was allowed to return to Panama and is not expected to take the stand at Noriega's trial

That won't hurt the feelings of prosecutors. Blandon, Noriega's former political adviser, is reportedly under threat of indictment by U.S. authorities who say he is the one who gave CNN the controversial tapes showing that the government was eavesdropping on Noriega's telephone calls from jail.

Widening Blandon's credibility gap are doubts about his version of an important chapter in Noriega's alleged drug career. Blandon claims that in 1984 Fidel Castro mediated a dispute between Norlega and the Medellin cocaine cartel of Colombia. But Blandon has the dates and key facts wrong on the Castro-Noriega meeting in Havana, according to our sources.

Another potential witness, Felipe Camargo, was at that meeting, but he probably won't be testifying either. As we reported last year, U.S. authorities gave the cold shoulder to Camargo when he offered to testify against Noriega. Camargo had extensive ties to Cuban intelligence, and, as a lawyer for one of Noriega's co-defendants told us, the prosecutors "won't touch anyone that smacks of intelligence."

Why? A former friend of Camargo told our associate Dean Boyd, "Camargo could blow open the whole case with what he knows about dirty U.S. operations in the region."

about dirty U.S. operations in the region."

Today. Camergo sits in a Panamanian jail awaiting the verdict from his recent trial for human rights abuses while he was a ranking member of Norioga's intelligence force.

Also among the missing is Ramon Arturo Navarro, a drug runner whose own criminal escapades would have damaged the prosecution's case if he showed up to testify adviced.

tion's case if he showed up to testify against Noriega. But he won't show up. As we reported last April, Navarro died in a car crash a few days before he was scheduled to testify against two Noriega co-defendants. Navarro was killed when his speeding red

BMW plowed through 75 feet of wood fence in a Miami suburb. Authorities ruled that the crash was an accident, but some witnesses said Navarro was being chased by another

Broadmoor-

Continued from Page 1A Laurie S. Linaley, of Calico Road, wrote to City Clerk Carol Foster on Aug. 29. She is employed at SCC. She suggested the closure, "would have a definite negative impact on businesses along Lake Mary Boulvard which college employees and students now patronize in great numbers."

When the matter was brought up last month, Commissioner David Mealor, who serves on the Blue Ribbon Committee along with officials from Seminole Community College, was opposed to the ordinance plans, saying he had been asked by the commission to work with SCC in finding the best solution to the traffic problems on Broadmoor, caused by the school.

Also during the first meeting on the issue. Commissioner Tom Mahoney suggested the proposal were done in a mid-term, so SCC would have ample opportunity to inform present students of the change. The suggestion was also made by city staff members and planners from Dyer, Riddle, Mills & Precourt.e

All of the earlier input has now been compiled in the resolution to be brought up at Thursday night's meeting.
SCC earlier had indicated its opposition to the closure. In a letter sent to City Manager John Likon on July 26. Connie Austin, discussed the results of a meeting on the problem.

Austin suggested the city consider two proposals to help resolve the Broadmoor traffic problems. "Widen Broadmoor for the purpose of creating an attractive median;" regarding which, she said, "history indicates that traffic will respond with slower speeds." The second suggestion was to investigate the to close the road as of November possibility of adding speed 25, might better operate if it bumps to Broadmoor to control the speed of traffic. She also suggested, "Prior to taking any action on Broadmoor, perhaps the state traffic engineer should be consulted, since this is some possibility that this person could shed additional pertinent information." The resolution, as it is to be presented, calls for,"Closing Broadmoor Road by the erection of a barricade on Broadmoor Road at the Lake Mary City Limits.

The end area would have a six foot chain length fence with a double gate, securied with a high security combination lock.

The ordinance also states, "The closure shall be for a period of 180 days. Said period may be extended from time to time or made permanent by resolution."

The proposal is scheduled for Thursday night's regular city commission meeting, beginning at 7 p.m., in the Lake Mary City

By Mick (France)

LAKE MARY - The Lake Mary City Commission will again tackle ordinances to adopt the ad valorem tax millage rate for flacal year 1992 and next year's budget Thursday night.

Ordinance 561 establishes the miliage rate at 3.8991 mills, the tentative rate set by the commission in conformance with the requirements of state law. The legally required published ad identifies it as "Notice of Tax increase", even though the rate

U.S. base in Philippines still open

By OLIVER TOVES Associated Press Writer

MANILA, Philippines — The government today withdrew a notice closing down the U.S. Subic Bay naval base to give President Corason Aquino time to hold a popular vote she hopes will allow the Americans to stay.

The lease for Subic, the largest U.S. naval base in Asia, expired Monday but by today's move was in effect extended indefi-nitely. The Philippine Senate on Monday rejected a new lease in an attempt to end the 93-yearold U.S. military presence.

Mrs. Aquino has promised to launch a "people power" refer-endum to let the public decide the issues. She told reporters today that she was considering timing the vote to national elections due for May.

U.S. officials said they would wait until the referendum issue is resolved before withdrawing from Subic, 50 miles northwest of Manila.

Approval of two-thirds of the 23 senators was needed to ratify the lease agreement, which provided for $203 million in annual compensation and for the closure of the second-largest base in the country, Clark Air

Survey: Church role declining in the moral life of Europeans

"I've never had more fun making money"

So. California woman cashes in on "paper," makes $5,500 on first deal

By Jacon L. Barrett Pinencial Posture Writer GLENDALE, Calif. — Karen Barta awoke one morning and decided she wanted to forego her mundane career as a legal secretary and make some serious money.

Barta, who is in her 40's, has since found the new lucrative career she was looking for.

Last August she attended a week-long seminar on how to buy, sell and trade discount mortgages (or "deeds of trust"). Instead of owning actual property, she owns the mortgage note, which is nothing more than a piece of $5,000 Profit On One Deal But Barta is turning these "pieces of paper" into an ample supply of green paper — money. One of her first discount mortgage transactions

In fact, in the first 12 days of January alone this former legal secretary turned discount mortgage professional saw some $750,000 worth of paper flow through her office, with each one producing a generous profit.

"I knew that the area to go into was real estate. I was totally convinced of that. I know that testing researches to make it selling that you're never going to make it selling vacuum cleaners, water purification systems or ladies underwear. The mark up you get on those products is so little compared to the

Barta then proceeded to conduct her own investigation into the various real estate

"There are many divisions or sectors in real estate. I looked into the area of foreclosures, but I found it to be a heartbreaking and horrible aspect of real estate to get into. I thought it was comparable to ambulance chasing," said Barta. "I have very strong desires to uphold a squeaky clean and ethical life. That's very important to me," she added.

Search Leads To Paper While other real estate systems seem to have worked well in Southern California, Barta couldn't find any students from these systems with success stories.

Deciding on discount mortgages was the result of very intense research into all avenues

'It wasn't that I woke up one morning and said, 'Oh, I'm going to do discount mortgages!'
It wasn't out of the blue sky. It was the result of three to four months of intensive research. I ed into what I wanted to do with my life and what area of real estate I wanted to be in,"

Barta's interest in discount mortgages began after borrowing a tape from a friend. On the tape, an attorney named Laurence J. Pino mentioned the lucrative career available in the discount mortgage business. This piqued Barta's interest enough to track down Pino. She found he taught a discount martgage course. She graduated from this course in August of

She's since closed numerous profitable deals. "I've never had more fun making money. This is the new lucrative career I was looking for,"

Barta attributes her success to the expert instruction of Pino and his business partner John Stefanchik.

Stefanchik and Pine, co-owners of the Stefanchik and Pino, co-owners of the National Mortgage Investors Institute (NMII), are regarded as the nation's premiere experts in the discount mortgage business.

They've already trained several groups, including those associated with financial guru Howard Ruff, rual estate expert Dave Del Dotto and Financial Freedom Report publisher Mark Haroldsen.

"Every time I've invested in paper, I've never made anything less than yields of 18%. Within the last year, I've literally doubled my money with paper," said Haroldsen. Barta has nothing but glowing comments about Stefanchik and Pino's ability to teach the discount mortgage business.

"John is not some ivory tower professor who prophetically talks about this business. He's actually done it. He's a player. He's a hands-on-teacher. He's street smart. That's one of the big things that convinced me he could teach this business so that I could succeed at it." said Barte.

According to Barta, Pino's valuable because he teaches all the legal aspects of this business and is, himself, an investor.

"They're both definitely well qualified to teach this business," Barta said.

"The business," Busineshik and Pino teach is real estate oriented, yet it's a whole new approach.

Real Batate Ownership
Without Management Backaches
By buying someone's mortgage note at a discount, you're merely buying the promissory note or "LO.U." secured by real estate. That means you're not buying any management headaches. This "hassie-tree" aspect of discount mortgages is what turned Pino on to this

"When it comes to property management, I had no desire to deal with tenants, toilets, rent and so forth," said Barts.

and so forth," said Barta.

"The beauty of this business is that it doesn't bring with it all the typical real estate investment headaches. Because you're just dealing with the paper side, you don't have to ever worry about the plumbing, evictions, collecting rent, or any other hassles. You receive a check every month without collecting rent," said Pine. rent." anid Pino.

Pino teaches students how to avoid falling into any legal pitfalls.
"I teach people how to understand the legal terms of the mortgage trade, securities regulation, licensing, and how to negotiate a deal," tion, licensing, and how to negotiate a deal, said Pino.

Pino has personally bought and sold millions of dollars worth of real estate — including many discount mortgages. In fact, it was Pino who taught the discount mortgage business to noted author Charles J. Givens.

According to Pino, this business offers more than just eliminating management headaches.

Keren Barta, a housewife and mother, enjoys the new lucrative career she's found in the discount mortgage business. She operates the business out of her home.

"It doesn't require you leave a present job (unless you want to), you can live where you want and buy and sell across the nation, and it can generate a positive cash flow almost immediately - with little up-front capital

'in addition, there's little or no overhead involved because there's no need for employees or inventory," said Pino.

But what's really opening the eyes of savvy investors is the vast size of the discount mortgage market.

$400 Billion Market

Every mortgage owner is a potential customer. In fact, there's currently more than $400 billion worth of personally held paper in the United States," said Stefanchik.

"Many of these people are looking for or wanting cash. When someone comes along offering up-front cash for their mortgage, you've got their attention. Since they'll be receiving their money long before it's due, it's only fair they will their mortgage to you at a substantial discount," added Stefanchik.

No Nood To Use

Own Capital To Buy Notes
According to Stefanchik, the cash used to buy discount mortgages doesn't have to be your cash. He teaches people how to find investors quickly. His own company will even buy deals.

"If someone finds a deal that meets certain criteria, my office will go ahead and make an offer on it. If the person who found the note convinces the seller to sell the note for less than what my company offers, the difference is his profit," explained Stefanchik.

Gayle Brandon, who graduated from the course in November of last year, used Stefanchik's office to make $6,262 on her first deal. She found a note and faxed the details to Stefanchik's company. His company offered $38,000 for the note. Brandon then turned around and offered the seller $31,738. The difference (96,282) was here to keep.

"I wanted to work through John because this was my first transaction. After the training, I was eligible to use John's office for support. I had all the closing documents and had been trained on how to handle them." Brandon said.

"But as you get into a closing, it can be a little complicated preparing the paperwork and knowing exactly what to do. Fortunately. John's office was there to tell me exactly what I needed to do. Without the training from John and Larry, I wouldn't have done this discount mortgage deal. Their training and knowledge was invaluable," added Brandon.

"As soon as someone does enough deals like this, they'll eventually have the cash to purchase their own deals. That's when you start realizing yields of 20 percent and up," said Stefanchik.

One-day Workshops Available Stefanchik and Pino occasionally teach oneday introductory workshops to interested people. Sell out crowds are common.

How to find mortgages, negotiate the deal, determine the right price, and how to turn the deals quickly are some of the topics covered at the workshops.

"You can't learn this business by reading a couple of books or by attending a local college course. The surest way to succeed in this business is to learn the step-by-step business system I've perfected," said Stefanchik.
Stefanchik bought his first mortgage note with a small refund he received from the I.R.S. "I was amazed at the simplicity of this transaction - and even more amazed at the tremendous return on this investment," said

Corporate Cione Turned Millionaire At the time he was working full time for a Fortune 100 company, having no idea or control of his future. Stefanchik fine tuned his techniques for purchasing discount mortgages into a step-by-step business system and found more and more success. Within a few years he propelled himself to millionaire status.
He calls the "system" he's created for discount mortgages an "Independent Business

"An IBS is not a franchise. Nor is it a business you start from nothing. It's a blend of the best elements of both," said Stefanchik.

Responses Recessary for this business?

"No. You can do this business even if you don't have previous experience with property. Once you've trained, it's just as easy with or without prior real estate experience," anid

"There isn't any other field in any other industry where you can make a few thousand dollars in one closing. Figure out how many Encyclopedia Britannicas you'd have to sell to make a thousand dollars." Barta added.

Agency at major crossroad, devoid of firm leadership

By RUTH SINA! Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON - The CIA is at a major crossroads: The demise of the Soviet Union has deprived the agency of the heart of its mission for the past 40 years and the congressional budget ax is poised to cut its resources.

The crisis is compounded by a void in the agency's leadership as a result of renewed doubts about the role of senior officials, including CIA director-designate Robert Gates, in the Iran-Contra affair.

The agency will likely send its cloak to the dry cleaners and sheath its dagger, but officials insist the intelligence community is far from being post-Cold War surplus.

Just as the CIA was born in response to Japan's catastrophic surprise attack on Pearl Harbor 50 years ago, the argument goes, so now intelligence is a vital element of U.S. defense.

"The challenges ahead of us in a world of instability, in a world of real confusion and realignment, are much greater in many ways than ... when we had a single, rather straightforward enemy to look at," acting CIA director Richard Kerr recently told a group of intelligence veterans.

Gates, or whoever is confirmed for the job, will face the mammoth task of revamping the direction of the intelligence community. And he'll have a lot less money to do it with.

At best, officials estimate, the budgets of the CIA and more than a dozen of its sister intelligence agencies will be cut by 15 percent. But it's likely the cuts will be far larger.

The reversal in the fortunes of the intelligence budgets — following a 1980s growth of as much as 200 percent by some estimates (the figures are classified) - will hit hardest in the Soviet

About 30 percent of the intelligence community's $30 billion estimated budget has until now been devoted to gathering and analyzing in-telligence on the Soviet Union, officials say.

That figure probably will be cut by as much as 50 percent over the next five years, said a senior intelligence official who spoke only on condition of anonymity.

With the dissolution of the Soviet-led Warsaw Pact and drastic reductions anticipated in the size of the Soviet armed forces, the need for military intelligence is substantially lessened, the official

Already, the Pentagon has begun to consolidate some of its intelligence organizations to weed out duplication and redundancies, officials say.

And the CIA has transferred about one-third of its military analysts from the Soviet section, the senior official said.

Gates cruises through first day of hearings

Y JIM DRIMKARD ssociated Press Writer

WASHINGTON - Shielded by an admission of poor judgment related to his handling of the ran-Contra affair, Robert M. Bates cruised through the first lay of his confirmation hearings to be director of the CIA.

But President Bush's nominee till faced harsh questioning oday about that and other spects of his role in the shaping f U.S. foreign policy over the sast decade, and testimony from ritnesses expected to dispute is version of events. And at least member of the Senate Intelligence Committee, Sen. Howard Metzenbaum, D-Ohio, remained suspicious. He called Gates' mea culpa "a confirmation conversion", meant to disarm his opponents.

Gates, now Bush's deputy national security adviser, began his testimony Monday with an admission "about the misjudgments that I made and the lessons I learned," from the covert program to sell arms to Iran and aid Nicaragua's Contra

He conceded that as the CIA's No. 2 official in 1986, that he should have taken more seriously the first indications he heard that money was being diverted to the Contras; pressed harder to get the full truth from hen-CIA Director William Casey: and sought to inform Congress about the affair.

The admissions seemed to be just what many senators on the intelligence panel wanted to hear. And they were a marked contrast to Gates' testimony in 1987, when he stubbornly denied wrongdoing and eventually was forced to withdraw as President Reagan's nomines for CIA dent Reagan's nominee for CIA director.

"It takes a big person to step up and say, "Looking back on my past actions I feel I should have done things differently'." said committee Chairman David Boren, D-Okia., an early backer of Gates. "Clearing the decks in that way does make a very positive impression on the ommittee." A critic of Gates, Sen. Bill Bradley, D.N.J., agreed. "I think it was an honest thing for him to do because he obviously had made serious mistakes. He was not defending the indefensible," Bradley said.

One senior Democratic aide id the 15-member committee ppeared poised to support lates' nomination. "There just loesn't seem to be the stomach fight this (Iran-Contra affair) tain," said the official. who poke on condition of anonymi-

But Bradley said he planned to rill Gates on a series of other seues, including his slowness to ecognize the tide of reform and lemocracy in the Soviet Union nd whether he overstated the oviet threat to justify the 1980s efense buildup. Gates' back-round is as a Soviet analyst.

"It is hard to excuse his indly fatalistic view in 1988 hat 'the dictatorship of the communist Party remains unsuched and untouchable or lat 'a long competition and truggle with the Soviet Union a before us." Bradley said.

"There is no question that Mr ites got it dead wrong," he sid. "The question is why."

Thomas' approval looks 'good'

By RICHARD CARELLI Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON - Senators of both parties say Clarence Thomas' chances for confirmation to the Supreme Court appear good as the Senate Judiciary Committee turns its attention to some 90 witnesses with varied opinions of the conservative judge.

Thomas ended an exhaustive, five-day job interview before the committee Monday by expressing gratitude for "the courtesy and the fairness you've shown me."

Thomas then embraced his wife, mother and sister and shook hands with most of the 14 committee members before leaving the ornate hearing room where he repeatedly had refused to discuss abortion and at times had disavowed provocative stands taken as a Reagan administration official.

Democrats continued to complain that Thomas, named by President Bush to replace the retiring Thurgood Marshall, had ducked too many questions. But committee approval of his nomination appeared likely.

Sen. Orrin Hatch, R-Utah, predicted that Thomas would win the support of at least eight Judiciary Committee members - all that are needed to send the nomination to

It also appeared, from the tone of their questions, that two traditional swing members - Sens. Arlen Specter, R-Pa., and Dennis DeConcini, D-Ariz. - were leaning heavily toward voting for Thomas.

As Thomas neared the end of his testimony, Chairman Joseph Biden, D-Del., told him, "You are going to be the judge (on a court) with nothing to bind you but your

Judge drops all charges North faced

By JILL LAWRENCE Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON - Retired Lt. Col. Oliver North may well write a book or run for political office, but there are at least two things he plans to avoid in the future: testifying in court or on Capitol

In the years since becoming embroiled in the Iran-Contra affair, the former National Security Council deputy has started a successful business, a conservative think tank and a lucrative lecture career.

On Monday, after a federal judge dismissed all charges against him, he hinted that he might write a book.

"If you could just give us a sense of why you feel vindicated by all of this," someone asked outside the courthouse.

"I am going to look for a better forum to do that than the hot sun here today," North replied. Rep. Dana Rohrabacher, R-Calif., who has known North for 10 years, said it would be natural for him to become an author.

"He has got a lot of name recognition and people want to know his point of view behind all of these events of the late 1980s," Rohrabacher said in an interview. "When people saw him testify, he was someone they empathized with. And I'm sure they want to know how he felt on not getting pardoned by Ronald Reagan. I certainly sensed a bitterness in him."

The flamboyant Marine came off to some viewers as a valiant patriot, by turns misty-eyed and swashbuckling, when he testified before Congress four years ago in his beribboned uniform.

The bravura performance at the hearings inspired a TV miniscries on his life and led to a guest appearance as the narrator of "Peter and the Wolf" with a 46-piece orchestra.

North, now 47, went out on the political circuit, raising money for Republican candidates and fucling speculation that maybe someday he, too, would be on a ballot somewhere.

His conviction on three felony charges would have disqualified him from federal office. But he told audiences from the start that "it's all going to end well."

Panel knocks out key part of banking bill

By DAVE SKIDMORE Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON - The Bush administration's sweeping bank overhaul proposal emerged from a House panel missing one key element - corporate ownership of banks.

The Energy and Commerce subcommittee on telecommunications and finance adopted the bill by voice vote without opposition Monday. sending it to the full committee for action by Oct. 4.

The bill opens the securities industries to banks for the first time since the passage of the Glass-Steagall Act in 1933. However, it sets much stricter terms on relations between banks and affiliated securities firms than the administration wanted. And the subcommittee version, contrary to administration wishes, would maintain current law forbidding commercial firms such as General Motors Co. and Sears, Roebuck

SAN FRANCISCO — The Atlanta Braves lost their leadoff man in the midst of the pennant race when Otis Nixon, leading the majors in stolen bases with 72, was suspended for 60 days for violating baseball's drug policy.

The penalty cannot be appealed, but it can be grieved through the players' union. Michael Weiner, assistant general counsel of the union, said he had spoken to Nixon and his agent Joe Sroba and a decision on filing a grievance would probably be made within 24 hours.

Tribe sloppy in loss

DeLand unhappy despite win, Wynn looks for service game

By BILL KERNS Herald Correspondent

SANFORD - Didya' ever have one of those days?

In a non-conference contest on Monday night at Seminole High School's Bill Flemming Memorial Gymnasium, both the DeLand and Seminole boys varsity volleyball teams did.

The Bulldogs won the match in straight games by the comfortable scores of 15-4 and 15-6, but neither team lived up to its potential.

"That was one of our worst games of the season," said DeLand head coach John Zeoli. "Not to take anything away from Seminole, but we made too many mental errors and played without intensity. Both teams played sloppy. We're both better teams than we showed tonight."

The Tribe's head coach Sylvester Wynn voiced similar sentiments.

"We weren't aggressive enough." said Wynn. "They wanted it more than we did. I thought we had the better team, but they just wanted it

Throughout the game, Seminole's achilles heal was an inability to serve consistently.

"Our serving was terrible," said Wynn. "We won't win too many games serving like that. Because if you can't serve you can't score, and if you can't score you can't win."

Trailing 7-1 in the second set and perhaps faltering. Wynn inserted his second group and the intensity level increased. They scored two straight points and closed to within 14-6 before the Bulldogs' Ed Rinderle finished the game with a service point.

The tribe fell to 0-2 on the young season. In the two lossed, Seminole has been out scored 60-22

"We lost our concentration toward the end," said Wynn. "When the second group came in we played more aggressive, but it wasn't enough. We'll be better in the future.'

With the win DeLand improved to 4-0 on the season. But even with an undefeated record, questions still remain about just how good the Bulldogs really are. The win against the Tribe certainly didn't answer those questions.

"I don't know how good we really are," said Zeoli. "We beat two pretty good teams in Lake Brantley and Deltona, but we've still got 17 games left on our schedule. Someone said they thought that this is a rebuilding year for us, and I tend to agree. If we play like we did today it's going to be a tough season, believe me. You can't play games without intensity and make mental errors and expect to win."

In the Junior Varsity match. DeLand also won impressively in straight games by the scores of 15-3 and 15-6.

Seminole travels to Oviedo on Wednesday for a Seminole Athletic Conference contest with the Lions. The Junior Varsity match starts at 6 p.m. with the varsity contest following at 7 p.m.

The Bulldogs return home today to face the Scabreeze Sandcrabs starting at 5 p.m. They will return to Seminole county Wednesday for a match at Lyman starting at 6 p.m.

DeLand's Ricky Apgar (number 44, right) and Josh Halloway go up to block an attempted spike by Seminole's Trung Vung during Monday's volleyball match at Bill Flemming Memorial Gymnasium. The Buildogs remained undefeated with a straight game sweep by the scores of 15-4, 15-8.

Lee, the lone starter among the trio, was the Dolphin most seriously hurt Sunday. He suffered torn cartilage in his left knee, and a piece of bone was torn away. Shula said Lee will be sidelined for eight to 12 weeks, which means he could miss the rest of the season.

Glenn, voted an alternate to the Pro Bowl for his special teams play last season, tore ligaments in his left ankle and will be out six to eight

Banks, who is used mostly in four-wideout formations, suffered torn cartilage in his right knee and will be sidelined four to six weeks. Lee and Banks will undergo arthroscopic surgery today.

Adding to the Dolphins' misery
Monday was a flu bug afflicting about 20 players. Sickest was re-ceiver Mark Duper, who had a fever of 104 before the game. Shula specifically cited the salary disputes as a factor in his team's disappointing 1-2 start.

"You can't expect guys to line up and execute and be as physically and mentally prepared as they would be if they would have been here from day one," Shula said. "That's just a fact."

Rustiness may have cost the Dolphins the game Sunday during a Detroit goal-line stand late in the fourth quarter. On third-and-goal at the 2, Miami guard Harry Galbreath went the wrong way on a running play, which clogged up the hole and resulted in a 3-yard loss.

"Harry said that he got confused." Shula said of Galbreath. who missed all of training camp in a contract dispute.

A miscue also cost the Dolphins on first down, when Dan Marino failed to see an open receiver and threw incomplete.

"The first play should have been a touchdown. The third play should have been a touchdown." Shula said. "That's the kind of game you've got to win."

Jacksonville to make bid for NFL franchise

JACKSONVILLE -Touchdown Jacksonville! Inc.'s application for a National Football League franchise is being delivered today to NFL offices in New York.

The league is receiving a 214-inch-thick binder full of information including demographic materials, economic studies, information on the area's Fortune 500 companies, the city's new expanded airport and polls showing the city's passion for

One item not addressed in the package is who is going to be the money man behind the city's NFL hopes. Although separate ownership

Ownership will be examined in detail by the league when it receives ownership applications on Oct. 1. At that time, each group seeking a franchise will have to put up $100,000.

Roger Goodell, the league's executive director for club relations, will weed out the weaker applications before sending the rest to the expansion committee, which is made up of six owners and chaired by Commissioner Paul Tagliabue.

Associated Press

DAYTONA BEACH - Ricky Rudd has closed the gap on leader Dale Earnhardt in the third-closest NASCAR Winston Cup points battle in history.

Rudd moved to within 36 points of Earnbardt, 3,400-3,364, after Sunday's Peak Antifreeze 500 at Dover Downs (Del.) International Raceway. Both drivers had mechanical problems; Rudd finished seventh and Earnhardt 15th in the 500-mile race.

Third-place Ernie Irvan remained within striking distance of the lead. The Modesto, Calif., native has 3,223 points and is 177 out of the lead.

Six races remain in the battle for the $1.3 million national driving championahip.

"I've been racing under the assumption that the Winston Cup was going to come down to the final race of the season regardless," said Earnhardt. who has won the title four times. "I think it's going to stay close and it's going to be a heck of a battle the rest of the season."

The closest championship battles with six races remaining was Darrell Waltrip's two-point lead over Bobby Allison in 1981 and Mark Martin's 21-point lead over Earnhardt in 1980, Waltrip won in 1981, while Earnhardt came from behind to take the title last season. "Good finishes and winning races - that's what it's going to take for us to win it, and that's what it's going to take for Earnhardt to win it," said Rudd-His best Winston Cup finish was fifth in 1986.

Davey Allison is fourth in the standings with 3,195 points. followed by Martin, 3,085; Ken Schrader, 3.037; Harry Cant. 3.021: Sterling Marlin, 2.961: Waltrip, 2.971: and Rusty Wallace, 2.853.

Gant has won three consecutive Winston Cup races, the first driver to do so since Wallace late in the 1987 season, and five races in a row overall, including two wins in the Grand National ranks. Gant's victory Sunday marked the fifth time in his career the 51-year-old Taylorsville, N.C., native has been the oldest driver to win a Winston Cup race.

Allison leads the circuit in money earned with $1,095,595. Earnhardt is second with 9922.630, followed by Irvan (9753.225); Gant (9720.385); Schrader ($638,790): Martin (9608.850): Rudd (9596.505); Bill Elliott (9540.395); Waltrip ($432.355); and Marlin (6431,035).

The circuit next moves to Martineville (Va.) Speedway for Bunday's Goody's 500. Pole qualifying is scheduled Friday.

More letters about faking orgasms

DEAR ABBY: Please tell "B in Dallas" her confession about faking orgasms made my day, my month, my year! I know that God will forgive me this small deception. Actually, it's an act of kindness; it makes my husband feel so virile and masculine. I truly love him, so it's no great sacrifice on my part.

Enjoy it! I was married to the same man for nearly 50 years and my sex life died when he did. I'm a great-grandmother now, but if I could find a nice clean man between 70 and 80. believe me, I wouldn't have to fake it. Please don't use my name. I live in a senior citizens complex, and if my neighbors knew I wrote this, they'd have a

CITRUS MESONTS, CALIF. DEAR ABBY: All the world is a stage, and everybody fakes enjoyment of something at some time. Some husbands fake enjoyment of opera, the symphony, ballroom dancing and other activities their wives relish. Unselfish people are accustomed to accommodating others.

A MALE'S PERSPECTIVE

DEAR ABBY: I simply submit to sex as my wifely obligation to "service" my lusty husband. To him, sex is just another bodily function. I always leave the lights on so I can read something until he's finished.

Subaliting, not faking

DEAR ABST: Hoorsy for "B in Dellas" for admitting she's "faking it." I'm a 55-year-old woman, married for 83 years, and I've had enough sex to last me a lifetime. But I'm starving for love! L AIR PARRE DEAR ABBIT I don't have to

TOM IN MICHIGAN DEAR ABBY: I am a 55-year old woman and have been married twice, and I'm not sure I've ever experienced an orgasm. Oh. I may have had one once when I was 17, and I was so overcome, I nearly blacked out. It's just as well it never happened again.

MARIE IN MADESON

DEAR ABBY: I am a 61-year-old widow who is finan-cially able to take care of myself. I have had a man in my life for the past three years. We tried living together (at my place), but it didn't work out.

Right now he is broke and unemployed, so I have been paying for all of our activities dinners out, trips, etc. He ws just served with an eviction notice for non-payment of rent, and he wants to move in with me again.

I do get lonely at times, but with him here it would spoil my chances of finding someone else.

I feel bad for him, but he has caused his own problems. I find it difficult to say no. Abby. please give me some words of wisdom before I make a big mistake. PLORIDA WIDOW

DEAR WIDOW: I ace nothing wrong with a woman picking up the tab if she's better able to le it than the man. But since he has caused his own problems, that changes the bet-ting.

Tell him. "No — we tried living

Over the years, my in-laws have given us cards with checks enclosed for Christmas and anniversaries. They just hand the envelope to Harry in front of me, he promptly pockets it, and I never see it again. Once, I noticed that the check was made out for $1,000 to both of us.

If my in-laws ever asked me what we did with the money, I'd tell them the truth, but they have never asked. A few times I've asked Harry, and he said. "I've got it." End of conversation.

Don't mention "divorce," which I have considered a few times, but Harry would kill me before he'd give me a divorce. And lately, there have been times when I wish he would.

TRAPPED DEAR TRAPPED: Marriage should be a partnership; yours is more like a master-and-slave relationship. Christmas and anniversary checks from the in-laws should be spent on some-thing you can both enjoy, something for your home or a vacayour husband's pocket never to be seen again. But there's more than material inequality ailing your marriage. Please see a marriage counselor. If Harry refuses to go — go without him. And if you still would "rather be dead," ending r miserable marriage to pref-le to ending your life. BAR ABBE My problem to my grandmother. (My father's mother.) Every now and then she says she is not sure that my brother and I are actually her grandchildren. Once, she introduced us to someone this way - these are her actual words: These are Wilbur and Thelma's children. Well, anyway, they are Theimas's, but I'm not sure if they are Wilbur's or not."

My mother has asked my father about his mother's insulting introduction, and he just shrugged it off as if it was nothing.

I feel that my father should talk to his mother about this alur on our mother's good name since he has no reason to believe that he is not our father. He refuses to say anything, because according to him. Grandma just means it as a joke.

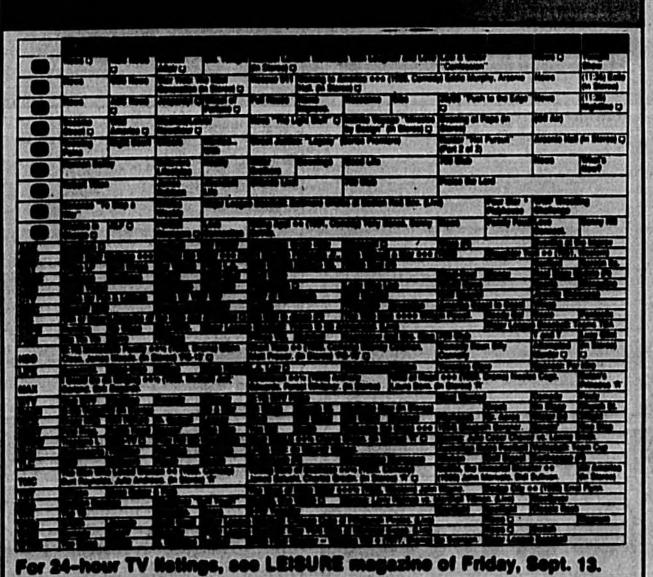

This is not my idea of a joke. and my brother feels the same way. What is your opinion of a grandmother who would act like this?

TWO BURT TEEN-AGERS DEAR MURTI Grandmother could be experiencing mental or emotional problems. If that's not the case, she has a very vicious tongue. Tell her that when she makes such insulting comments about your mother, she hurts you deeply.

Therefore, if you are taking these drugs, your doctor should probably substitute other medicines, such as beta-blockers, that do not worsen gout. In addition, Zyloprim (allopurinol) and Col-benemid (probenecid) are antigout prescription medications that prevent attacks.

Diet plays little or no role in controlling gout because the medicines I listed are so cffective. Alcohol can worsen any medical condition, including gout, so you should minimize your consumption of this substance.
