Jackpot waits to be claimed

HARRISBURG, Pa. - State lottery officials probably will not know until Friday who has won Pennsylvania's record $100 million Super 7 lottery, and even the exact amount in the jackpot had not been computed.

The frantic buying of thousands of would-be millionaires ended at 7:02 p.m. Wednesday when 11 numbered ping pong balls dropped from a revolving transparent globe: 06, 16, 24, 34, 35, 37, 40, 41, 45, 60, and 71.

Lottery Executive Director James Scroggins said officials expect to have a final adjusted value for the record-smashing prize on Thursday or Friday.

"Anything's possible," the director said when asked how large the kitty would be, "And I suspect there will be multiple winners. But you never know ...

Piranha found in Michigan river

YPSILANTI, Mich. - A fisherman was astonished when the fish he hooked in the Huron River near Ford Motor Co.'s Ypsilanti plant turned out to be a piranha.

"I thought it was a bluegill." George Kearney

Dr. Ned Fogle, of the state Department of Natural Resources' fisheries division, said the catch supports suspicions that the dumping of tropical fish in Michigan waters is increasing. He cited a trend among aquarium owners who get bored with their exotic fish, but he said it doesn't mean the river is infested with piranha or that swimmers are in danger.

Defense budget outlined

WASHINGTON - President Bush's scaledback 1990 defense budget added $20 million to a controversial project to develop an anti-satellite weapon, officials said.

It also retains full funding for a new chemical weapons program that includes money for research and development of an agent that could break down the protection mechanism in gas masks, rendering them useless.

Development in limbo

Bankruptcy leaves uncertain future for Plantation project

By J. MARK BARFIELD Herald staff writer

SANFORD - Developers of the controversial Plantation development adjacent to the Wekiva River are uncertain of the 400-home project's future after the developer's parent corporation filed for protection from creditors under Chapter 11 of the U.S. Bankruptcy Code two weeks ago.

American Continental Corp. of Phoenix. Ariz. is the parent company of a California savings and loan placed under conservator management by federal bank regulators earlier this month. The thrift, Lincoln Savings and Loan, has 11 California-created subsidiaries. One of these is AMCOR Investments Corp., the developers of Plantation.

American Continental filed for Chapter 11 reorganization April 13 in the U.S. Bankruptcy Court, Arizona District, according to court information. The action was taken the day before federal regulators took over management of Lincoln to place the assets of the subsidiaries under supervision of a federal bankruptcy judge. a corporate spokesman said.

AMCOR has sought county approval for more than three years to build Plantation. The development is located on 473 acres west of Longwood Markham Road. When county commissioners refused AMCOR's initial plans to build 1,240 homes on the site in 1986, the developers appealed the decision to the governor and Cabinet, who upheld the county decision last

The new AMCOR proposal for Plantation calls for a "clustering" of homes at least 750 feet away from the river. The development is still opposed by residents of the Markham Woods Road area, who don't want more than one home on an acre of land west of Orange Boulevard.

The current plan has some favor with environmental groups, including the Seminole County committee of the Sierra Club and the Friends of the Wekiva River, Inc., because it offers more protection of the river and its nearby vegetation and wildlife. Commissioners gave their initial approval of the new 420-home clustering plan March 28.

But whether AMCOR will be the developer of Plantation remains uncertain in the light of the. financial and legal melee. County and state officials say the approval process will continue

City utility director: Beware those peddling water treatment devices

By LAURA L. SULLIVAN Herald staff writer

SANFORD — The city director of utilities has warned local water customers against persistent salesman peddling water treatment devices.

Paul Moore said water treatment device salesmen "come out of the woodwork" at this time of the year. "I don't have anything against companies like this, but the public should have all the facts so they can make their own choice," he said.

An Orlando business has hit Sanford with the area's most recent sales campaign, Moore said. The county health department complained to one of its officials earlier this week about packages hung on doorhandles in several area neighborhoods.

Amendment: Use iotto funds to neip build new schools

From staff and wire reports

TALLAHASSEE - A House committee Wednesday passed a surprise amendment that would require all profits from the state lottery to be spent on school construction, an approach Seminole County school officials have favored.

Currently, lottery proceeds are placed in the Educational Enhancement Trust Fund for allocation by the Legislature. Despite the name, critics have charged the money is increasingly being spent on items other than enhancement of educational programs.

Commissioner of Education Betty Castor has repeatedly said voters wanted lottery money spent solely on educational enhancements - such as computers, drop-out prevention programs and other items not in existing budgets — when they approved the lottery in 1986.

The money was not intended for school con-struction and other costs normally paid for by general revenue funds, she has said.

Union says Longwood dragging its feet in negotiating contract

By SANDRA BOUCHAHINE Herald staff writer

LONGWOOD - Union officials say the city is "dragging its feet" in negotiating a contract with the International Union of Operating Engineers Local 673 (IUOE).

However, Acting City Ad-ministrator Don Terry said yesterday the city has been "making good progress" and the city's labor at-torney, Frank C. Kruppenbacher said if there is slow progress, it's the union's fault.

Elmer Seaver, business manager of the union, said last week there has been "not near enough progress" since the union and the city began bargaining in January.

"We've been trying to negotiate an agreement for the city employees when we certified as a bargaining agent. They (city) seem to never have the time to really get down to bargain. Kruppenbacher is always very busy." Seaver said.

The union has been the bargaining agent for approximately 45 white and blue collar workers since last November.

Seaver wrote a letter to Acting City Administrator Don Terry. dated April 18, to complain about Kruppenbacher not showing up at the bargaining session held that "During seven meetings, almost no real bargaining has taken place. Kruppenbacher always had a reason to delay..." the letter stated.

Seaver also told Terry that meetings usually only lasted 20 minutes In the letter to the city. Seaver wrote, "We both have an ability to bargain. Lack of progress has been very frustrating. Kruppenbacher said this morning that he didn't show up at last Tuesday's meeting because there wasn't one scheduled. "He (Seaver) showed up at the city last Tuesday unannounced. If-

Man opens fire on Customs boat

MIAMI — A Miami boater opened fire on a U.S. Customs patrol boat with a semi-automatic weapon off the coast of Bimini, then later explained he had been "target shooting" at floating litter, federal agents said Wednesday.

'The bullets were coming close enough to see them splash in the water. Fortunately, no one was hit." said Customs spokesman Clif Stallings.

The master of the 28-foot Performer, John Mason Toole, 34, of Miami, was arrested late Tuesday on charges of assaulting a federal officer. He was being held Wednesday night on, $100,000 bond. Five other people aboard the vessel were not charged.

The incident began about 6 p.m. Tuesday in international waters of the coast of Bimini in the northern Bahamas.

Customs and Coast Guard officers aboard a marked Customs patrol boat saw the Performer heading west toward Florida at a high rate of speed, Stallings said. They tried to stop the boat for a routine inspection, but it fied and someone began firing shots toward the Customs boat, he said.

Customs gave chase, and with the help of Customs and Coast Guard helicopters, they stopped the boat about 30 minutes later, said Leon Guinn, Customs' assistant regional commmissioner for enforcement.

Undercover sting nets 14 students

BRADENTON - An 8-month-long undercover operation in which detectives posed as students has resulted in the arrest of 14 students at two Manatec County high schools on drug

The Manatee County Sheriff's Department said a handful of adult suspects also were in custody and 133 people were named in arrest warrants. Among those arrested was Jason Haram, 16-year-old son of Bradenton Beach Mayor Lynda Barrett-O'Neill, Haram was taken into custody Monday on charges of selling small amounts of marijuana.

School Superintendent Gene Witt said despite the numbers. the investigation showed that drugs are not a major problem in Manatee County schools.

Detectives said they made 28 drug buys from 19 students at Bayshore and Palmetto High Schools since school started last August, with only four of the buys occurring on school

All but one of the arrested students were released to their parents, and he was placed in the custody of juvenile authorities because of a prior arrest record. All the charges involved sales of small amounts of drugs.

Cocaine found in suspect and victim

TAMPA - Traces of cocaine were found in the urine of a man charged with killing four people and a fetus, as well as in the blood of one of the victima, according to preliminary lab

Newton Carlton Slawson, 34, has been charged with four counts of first-degree murder in the death of a couple and their two children April 11 and with manslaughter in the death of the 8-month-old fetus the woman was carrying.

Slawson had told police he killed Gerald Wood, 23, because Wood tried to force him to swallow cocaine, and then killed Peggy Wood, 21, Jennifer Wood, 4. and Glendon Wood, 3.

investigators discounted Slawson's explanation for the bloody rampage, and said Tuesday the lab reports do little to explain the massacre.

The lab report says Slawson tested positive for cocaine in his urine, but not in his blood, which authorities said suggests he had taken the drug recently but not immediately prior to the

United Press International

TAMPA - A federal judge ordered a school board to admit to public school a 7-year-old mentally retarded girl who suffers from AIDS, saying the risks involved failed to outweigh the child's right to attend school with other children.

Although U.S. District Judge Elizabeth A. Kovachevich did not set a deadline for the Hillsborough County School Board to admit Eliana Martinez, who has never attended school. the girl's lawyer, Stephen Hanlon, said the child would be brought to Manhattan Elementary School Thursday.

Eliana's mother, Rosa Martinez, told a news conference following the ruling that she did not expect any problems from parents.

"I think the parents have been underestimated," she said. "I think that once they know about the ruling, and I'm sure most of them know about AIDS and how its contacted. I don't feel there will be a problem with that. I may be surprised, I don't know, but I really don't think so."

In her ruling, which ended a three-year legal battle. Kovachevich said her decision balanced "the risk to the child versus the benefit which flows from the attendance at school."

"Keeping this child out of school does not guarantee her safety and long life." the judge said. "Upon conscientious consideration of the issue from all sides, the court cannot find that the risk is significant enough to counterbalance the benefits and rights to this child inherent in attending school with other. children.

News photographs of Britain's recent soccer tragedy sent chils of horror rippling through the world. In vivid detail they showed the twisted faces of men, women and children fighting for breath ... limbs pinned at grotesque angles against an impenetrable mesh fence ... soft flesh clawing in futile desperation at unyielding steel. Could this really have been a sporting event in one of the world's most civilized countries?

Ninety-three spectators were crushed to death and 200 were injured at an English Football Association Cup Semifinal in Sheffield. The direct cause of the tragedy was the action of crowd-control police, who deliberately allowed thousands of ticketless gate-crashers to flood into the standing-only terraces just after the start of the soccer match. This are stabled gives of humanite. match. This on-rushing river of humanity broke down metal railings and crushed barriers, pinning those already on the terraces against a 10-foot-high steel-mesh fence angled inward at the top and fitted with

But the disaster has roots deeper than the Con-scene mistakes of the police. The real causes are the deplorable stadium conditions and the feudal attitude of soccer administrators toward fans, the majority of whom come from working-class backgrounds. Labor Party member of Parliment Tony Banks charged: "They're treated like dirt, inside and outside the stadium." Dr. John Ashton, professor of medicine at Liverpool University, said: "They treat people like animals. Police hard visiting supporters from the train, and the soocer clubs put them in these pendida a security with the

This late he was referring to are the cheap, standing only terraces, which are totally exposed to the weather. At many British soncer stadiums, the terraces comprise at least 60 percent of the accommodations, the remainder being covered scating. To prevent the control of the terraces from spilling over costs. fans on the terraces from spilling over onto the field of play, soccer clubs erect concrete walls and high, steel-framed fencing. It was against such fortifications that 93 spectators were crushed to death.

Although the tragedy of Sheffield is unlikely to be repeated at an American baseball or football game, where the idea of cramming 10,000 excited fana into a fenced pen is unthinkable, there is no room for com-placency. There are lessons to be learned from Sheffield that are applicable wherever large crowds gather for sport or live enter-tainment, especially rock concerts.

Meanwhile, it is the standing-room terrace, the notorious ghetto of British soccer, that is likely to attract most attention from the board of investigation established by Prime Minister Margaret Thatcher. As long as such terraces exist, the potential for tragedy remains.

Wright angles: Did cronies profit?

WASHINGTON — The question of who has a "direct interest in legislation" before the House of Representatives may be the determining factor in whether most of the ethics charges against "peaker Jim Wright stand or fall.

What has been lost sight of in media coverage of the bipartisan House ethics committee's report is that Wright is being accused of violating very specific House rules.

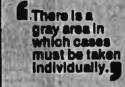

Wright will not be judged on whether he broke general ethical standards to which all honorable people abould subscribe. If that were the case, he could very well have been found wanting on many issues raised by special counsel Richard Phelan in his report to the committee. Those Pheian in his report to the committee. Those issues, however, have already been rejected by the panel because they do not violate any specific House ethics rule.

specific House ethics rule.

For instance, Phelan reports one instance in which a federal banking regulator was bedeviling a banker friend of Wright. The speaker tried to force the man's agency to fire him on the grounds he was a homosexual. Some members of the committee said privately they found Wright's actions reprehensible, but that it did not directly violate any House ethics rule.

That is the key. Wright must be found to have knowingly violated specific rules, many of which have purposely been drafted with huge loopholes unknowingly broke them.

Four of the five counts brought by the ethics committee relate to Wright and his wife Betty's longtime close personal relationship to Fort Worth businessman and developer George Mallick. The four counts say that Wright violated House rules by accepting $145,000 worth of gifts from Mallick in the form of the use of a car and apartment, a salary to Betty Wright and income from several joint investments from which Wright seemed to profit without any risk of

Accepting those gifts is a serious violation of and vague definitions in order to allow potential House rules only if Mallick had "direct interest in violators wide latitude when claiming they legislation." If no such interest existed, then, at legislation." If no such interest existed, then, at worst, Wright only violated some highly technical reporting requirements and would merely be required to amend previously filed disclosure statements to reflect the gifts.

In his 450-page report to the committee. Phelan spent much space defining "direct interest." He noted that, on one end of the report was might seems that almost everyone.

nterest." He noted that, on one end of the spectrum, you might argue that almost everyone has some interest in most laws passed by Congress. All taxpayers could be said to have direct interest in tax legislation. But he dismissed this as clearly not being what is meant by the phrase in the ethics rules.

On the other hand, the direct interest of lobbyists, interest groups and companies doing husiness with the government is easy to see in business with the government is easy to see in legislation that directly effects them.

Phelan admitted that there is a gray area in which cases must be taken individually, and that reasonable people can differ on those cases.

Mallick, Phelan admitted, falls into this category. However, Phelan argued at length that Wright's friend did ultimately have a direct interest because of his varied business concerns, including real estate, savings and loans, oil industries and a Fort Worth project receiving federal development money.

What are the ethics of politics

BOSTON — The ethics charges came with a price tag on them. I was walting for that. After all, Americans like to price things, even our values. Numbers, dollars and cents, act like the magnetic sensors they use in department stores. They set off a public slarm.

The specific price attached to the charges leveled against Speaker Jim Wright add up to $145,000 in improper gifts. That's 69 charges, or an average of $2,101.44 per charge.

I do not know whether this price tag is a fair one or what the ultimate cost will be to Wright.

But as a somewhat mathphobic observer of ethical debates and debacles, it strikes me that our culture is much more comfortable weighing people's personal ethics than their political ethics.

We are at east with a moral judgment made against someone's private ain — lust or greed.

We are much less comfortable judging someone's public ethic - those decisions that can lead to such outcomes as aggression, the abuse of the environment, the neglect of the

After all, not far from the Capitol where Jim Wright's deeds were being added up, Oliver North's brass was being tarnished in the final days of his trial. The hero of the summer of '87 was less damaged by admissions of lying or defying Congress than by the petty stuff. The petty cash, that is.

The prosecution portrayed him to the jury as a loose rudder on his own foreign-policy course. But the charges that came home to the jury of public opinion were those that pictured his hand in the till. This time the price tag in dispute was on a GMC suburban van.

Whatever the costs of a covert operation in terms of life and legitimacy, they were less impressive to many than the source of a $3,000 payment on a private van.

So, too, when the Michael Milkens of the world come to grief, accused of insider trading, It is less the system's abuse of the economy that's excoriated in public than his greed. His memorable price tag: $550 million in income in 1967.

If it ian't money, then it is often sex that sets off the righteousness alarms. It happened with Gary Hart. It happened with Jimmy Swaggart and Jim Bakker. People are more likely to judge — harshly — the ethics of intimacy than those of public policy.

What toppled John Tower were not concerns about what effect the military-industrial complex might have on his judgment. It was concern about the effect of alcohol on that judgment. In Alaska, Captain Joseph Hazelwood may be responsible for the ruina-tion of an entire bay, but has only been accused of drinking when he should have been

At times it seems that our ethical verdicts are barely related to the most egregious behavior. They are as out of kilter as the charges that jailed Al Capone for the least heinous crime in his career: income-tax everyday misdeeds. The hand in the till. The body in the wrong bed. Corruption. Infidelity. Drunkenness. Thou Shalt Not Steal.

We are much slower to discuss, let alone decide, the ethics of governing and managing. What kind of ethics are behind the decisions to build bombers and housing? What value judgments can be made about the choice to develop land or conserve it? How do we decide which governments to support? How do we determine our Third World friends and enemies? These are harder and more divisive questions. We prefer to put them in the utilitarian realm of practical politics, to keep them out of heated atmosphere in which values are discussed. We risk being accused of naivete for questions that sound like cliches: How do you make a choice between swords and plowshares? Yet these are also in the realm of ethics.

If it isn't

money, then it is often sex

the righteousness alarms.

that sets off

I am not suggesting that we turn down the concern over personal ethics, although at times it can be a distraction, even a cover. I think rather that we should expand the attention, the circle of light, to a much wider arena. We are comfortable talking about the ethics of politicians. We should be equally comfortable discussing the ethics of politics.

Here, too, there are prices to be paid.

Crack: Not just a ghetto drug anymore

WASHINGTON — A few years ago, police officers from Sioux Falls, S.D., traveled to seminars in the East and heard horror stories about a potent new form of cocaine - crack. They thought the stories were hype, like the old "Reefer Madness" movies. Now police in Middle America have a strong hunch that crack is there.

Some have more than a hunch. Police in Enid, Okla., told our associate Scott Sleek how crack crept up on that city of 50,000 people. "We didn't expect it to hit so hard," said Enid's narcotics officer Mark Bouriden. "We figured we had two or three dealers and we could take care of the problem."

bigger problem than that. Using the tactics of a big-city sting operation and the help of nearly a dozen federal and state agencies, Enid police unearthed crack in the combelt.

The small towns that may have escaped the costly cocaine habit are now prime targets for crack dealers. You don't need a fancy crowd. All you need is $10 in your pocket.

Most do not yet have crack dealing on the rap sheets of the local hoods. But Enid police uncovered a major crack distribution ring that included two local high-school students.

The eight-month probe, which ended in March, named a Cuban, Emiliano Guerra, as the alleged candyman for the Enid crack market. Police now claim Guerra was known to have shot people who couldn't pay up and terrorise his customers with stun guns when they were "late on their billa."

The Enid police recruited a serviceman from nearby Vance Air Force Base who had been charged by base officials with using cocaine. The sirman was later wounded during an undercover buy that erupted into a gun battle. In the end, End's little crack problem netted 33 arrests and a cache of 26 WEADORS.

The police in smaller cities have an advantage because they know who everyone is, but they also have a disadvantage because everyone knows who they are. Many drug rings are exposed by undercover operations, and rural police have a hard time going undercover.

In Lincoln. Neb., police say crack is flowing into the college town from Kansas City. Denver and Chicago. Sioux Falls police recently arrested two Minneapolis residents and confiscated $10,000 worth of crack. In Des Moines, Iowa, drug counselors are seeing a sharp rise in clients seeking help for crack Crack merchants aren't shopping for just any burg. They need high volume sales for their cheap product. A wide spot in the road with one street light and 2,500 people won't cut it. But a city with a population of 30,000 to 100,000 is just right for keeping one or two big fish happy in a little pond. They can claim the whole town and not worry about competition.

"The dealer may not be making the kind of money that dealers in Florida or other coastal cities are." South Dakota attorney general Roger Tellinghuisen told us. "But it's still a significant law enforcement problem in this state."

Stocks open higher

United Press International

NEW YORK - Prices opened higher Thursday in moderately active trading of New York Stock Exchange issues, extending the modest gains won in the previous session.

The Dow Jones industrial average, which rose 2.20 Wednesday, was up 6.42 to 2395.53 shortly after the market opened.

Advances led declines 411-320 among the 1.252 issues crossing the NYSE tape. Early turnover amounted to about 12,179,000

Stock prices closed slightly higher in lackluster trading Wednesday, posting their first gain of the week, despite receiving little direction from a report on first-quarter eco-

Before the market opened, the government reported that first-quarter gross national product rose at a 5.5 percent annual rate, with 2.5 percentage points of that increase representing recovery from last year's drought.

While the GNP data showed the economy grew at a higher rate than the 5.1 percent rate economists had forecast, the rise after the drought adjustment was below the 3.5 percent adjusted growth rate for the fourth quarter.

As for the inflation data contained in the report, analysts said the 5 percent growth rate in the fixed-weight price deflator, up from 4.2 percent in the fourth quarter, showed that prices remain under pressure.

unless AMCOR withdraws its application to change the land use for the alte. If Plantation is sold, the new owners would have to abide by all conditions of county and state approval, unless they seek approvals to change the plans.

Mark Connally, American Continental apokesman, said the company will pursue development of Plantation and other projects. although he said the bankruptcy judge will determine whether it will be sold.

According to reports published in the Wall Street Journal, American Continental filed for reorganization the day after negotiations to sell Lincoln failed. On April 14, federal regulators from the Federal Home Loan Bank Board took over operations of the $5.5 billion S&L, federal authorities said.

The board took the action against the thrift because Lincoln had "substantially dissipated its assets through violations of regulations and laws and was operating in an unsafe and unsound condition," a federal spokesman quoted the bank board as saying.

Connally said the company filed for Chapter 11 protection and reorganization to protect the subsidiaries of Lincoln, including AMCOR, from a "fire sale" liquidation by regulators. He said any actions by the bank board must now be approved by the bankruptcy judge.

Dave Loveday, a spokesman for the Federal Home Loan Bank Board, said Lincoln depositors withdrew between $60 million and $70 million from the thrift's 29 branches April 14 and 15. although deposits are federally-secured to $100,000. On April 17, American Continental filed a $150 million suit against the federal regulators for the action, according to court Wall Street Journal reports also indicate the more than 23,000 people who bought unsecured American Continental bonds at Lincoln branches are seeking class-action status in California in a suit to protect their purchases.

Loveday quoted the bank board as saying Lincoln officials had "repeatedly violated regula-tions relating to transactions with affiliates."

Barrett Allison. Plantation project manager for AMCOR, said Wednesday Plantation is partly funded by Lincoln.

Allison said he hopes to know in about two weeks what the future of Plantation will be.

Parts of Indiana, Ohio and Kentucky braced for thunderstorms Thursday following storms that unleashed high winds in Iowa, killing a con-struction worker crushed by a concrete wall after he returned to retrieve a shirt.

The National Weather Service said a severe thunderstorm watch was in effect for portions of east-central and southeastern Indiana, southwestern Ohio and northern Kentucky.

On Wednesday, winds knocked over a concrete wall that had just been erected in Granger, lowa, killing construc-tion worker Leroy Lundberg, 23, the Dallas County sheriff's office said. The construction crew had stopped work earlier, but Lundgren had re-entered the building to retrieve a shirt, the officials said.

Gusts also blew the roof from one barn and destroyed a hog barn near Little Rock, Iowa.

In the West, an Oregon teenager was pitching in a baseball game when he was struck by lightning. He survived to pitch another day.

Thunderstorms spawned a tornado Wednesday evening east of Carrollton, Ill. No injuries were reported.

Earlier, thunderstorms dumped 2 to 4 inches of rain in some places. Dayton, Ohio, reported 2.29 inches, Parkersburg, W.Va., 2.15 inches and more than an inch was recorded at Elkins, Clarksburg, Lewisburg and Charleston, W. Va., before flash flood warnings for streams in 11 counties were canceled.

Webster County sheriff's deputy David Morris reported sever-al hundred residents were evacuated Tuesday night because of thunderstorms that produced large hallstones.

damaging winds and heavy rain. Electricity was knocked out in Webster Springs in the eastern part of the Mountain State. The deputy said there were no reports of injuries but the water did cover Bakers Island, a city park. "It's just wiped out."

Violent weather roams Midwest World mourns death of Lucy

LOS ANGELES - Millions of fans mourned the sudden have indicated this at all." death of Lucille Ball, the carrot-topped comedian who was one of television's most original and enduring stars.

Ball died Wednesday of a ruptured aorta, eight days after undergoing heart surgery. She was 77.

"Oh, what a blow. What a shame. Damn," said fellow TV comic Dick Van Dyke. "She didn't deal in jokes, she dealt in human behavior."

It was just one of hundreds of expressions of shock and sorrow at the loss of one of the world's funniest and most savvy women - the inventor of the situation comedy and the re-run.

Her doctors and family were stunned. She had been walking around her hospital room and eating, and they had issued optimistic predictions that Ball would be able to resume her career.

Ball's husband, Gary Morton, and her two children, Lucie Arnaz and Desi Arnaz Jr., were in "deep grief and shock and not accepting any calls," a family spokesman

"It was totally unexpected," said Ron Wise, a spokesman for Cedars-Sinai Medical Center. "There was nothing in the previous week that would Ball's heart surgeons, Drs. Robert Kass and Auerlio Chaux, said a section of her aorta — the heart's main artery — burst about 5 a.m. and so much, blood escaped that none was left to pump through her heart.

"You are asking yourselves
'was it possible to do something else to try to save her?'
and the answer to that is 'no,''
said Chaux. "The chances of somebody recovering from that second episode are very, very small, if not zero."

President Bush extended his "deepest sympathy" to Ball's family, and called her a "legendary figure." "We too loved lucy. So did the world."

Former President Reagan and his wife, Nancy, said "Her red hair, her antics on the screen, her timing and her zest for life made her an American institution. Just the mention of her name brings a smile."

"Tonight" show host Johnny Carson said Ball "ret a standard for television comedy for everyone to follow. She was a great friend and the whole world will miss her greatly."

Fusion researchers ask for funds

United Press International

WASHINGTON - The Utah scientists who claim to have created nuclear fusion at room emperature asked Congress for $25 million for a center to develop practical uses for the process and to explore its scientific underpinnings.

Stanley Pons, chairman of the University of Utah's chemistry department, and Martin Fleischmann, an electrochemist at England's Southampton University, eagerly explained Wednesday their controversial and still-disputed work to the House Science, Space and Technology Committee.

Pons told the committee he was as "sure as sure can be" that the heat-generating process his team created in a laboratory flask was caused by nuclear fusion.

Fleischmann agreed, saying no known chemical reaction could explain the prolonged heat production from the devices. One got so hot that the water in it boiled.

Fleischmann also underscored what he called a need to break with U.S. scientific tradition and start working on commercial development of "cold fusion" even though the scientific process was not fully understood.

Even so, the blochemistestimated that any wide, practical application of cold fusion was at least a decade

University of Utah President Chase Peterson asked the com-mittee to allocate $25 million to set up a center in his state to explore the "promise" of cold fusion. The state of Utah already authorized $5 million and private sources invested $1 million in such efforts. Rep. Robert Walker, R-Pa, agreed that $25 million in science funds already in the current fiscal 1990 budget should be diverted to cold fusion research. "It's the very least we should do at the time such great promise is being shown," he

But Steven Jones, a researcher from Brigham Young University in Provo, Utah, detected a similar phenomenon about the same time as Pons and Fleischmann, but reported a much lower generation of heat than the Utah team found.

Jones urged the committee to be cautious about pouring money into cold fusion research.

"So far these findings have not passed the scrutiny of other scientists," said Jones, whose research was published Wednesday in the journal Nature.

Salmon released in Alaska waters

VALDEZ, Alaska - Fishermen have begun releasing the first of a half billion young salmon into waters fouled by the nation's biggest oil spill in hopes of salvaging something of Alaska's multimillion-dollar fishing season.

The decision by the Prince William Sound Aquaculture Corp. to begin releasing salmon fry into the polluted sound Wednesday was sparked by the appearance of spring plankton, which is a staple of the young salmon and which bloom only

CHICAGO - A distraught father who kept hospital workers and police at bay with a pistol while removing his hopelessly comatose child from a respirator, said "I did it because I loved

The 15-month-old boy died in his father's arms about a half-hour after Rudy Linares walked into the Rush Presbyterian-St. Luke Hospital brandishing a .357 Magnum pistol.

"I'm not here to hurt anyone," a tearful Linares said Wednesday as he held little Samuel and waited for him to die. 'I'll only hurt you if you try to plug my baby back in."

When the boy finally was pronounced dead, Linares surrendered peacefully to police. As he was being led into the Harrison Area police station after his arrest, Linares shouted: "I did it because I loved my son, airight? I loved my son, airight? I

The Cook County state's attorney's office later filed first-degree murder charges against Linares, who is employed as a painter. "No one has the right to take the law into his own hands," State's Attorney Cecil Partee said.

Laser, chemical weapons in budget

United Press International

WASHINGTON - President Bush's scaled-back 1990 defense budget added $20 million to a controversial project to develop an anti-satellite weapon, officials said.

It also retains full funding for a new chemical weapons program that includes money for research and development of an agent that could break down the protection mechanism in gas masks, rendering them

Defense Secretary Dick Chency outlined to the House Armed Services Committee Tuesday the $10 billion in spending cuts he made in President Reagan's original $315 billion military budget for fiscal 1990, which

The revised budget, however, also added $20 million to the $15 million Reagan aiready requested for the Army's "directed energy-free electron laser" - part of the anti-satellite or ASAT program, defense spokeswoman Jan Bodanyi said. Total ASAT-related funding requested in 1990 and $235.2 million in 1991, according to updated figures.

Cheney has called development of a satellite-ki ling weapon "most important," arguing that the Soviets have an edge in the technology and could knock out U.S. surveillance and communication satellites

Put Congress has been less than enthusiastic about the project.

Congress killed the Pentagon's previous ASAT weapon by prohibiting the Defense Department from testing it against targets in space. That weapon, launched from an F-15 jet fighter, was managed by the Air Force.

Critics have charged that the United States is more dependent on military satellites than the Soviets and thus would have more to lose in a superpower race in anti-satellite weapons.

The new ASAT proposal, including research on laser beam weapons, is a joint service project that the Pentagon hopes will attract more congressional support. It hopes to have an ASAT missile or laser capable of attacking low-orbiting Soviet spacecraft by the mid-1990s. The latest round of budget cuts also had no impact on a controversial new chemical weapons program. Army Lt. Col. John Reitz

The 1990 budget carmarks $7.2 million in 1990 and $27.7 million in 1991 for a new. two-part chemical weapons program.

The first part is for research, development and testing of a new multi-launch warhead, essentially a new binary round. The second part of the program is for research and development of two new incapacitating

The first is a lethal new chemical called an "anti-protective agent" that would be used to break down the filter mechanism in an enemy's gas mask so that he could then be gassed.

The other is a new knockout gas for use against entrenched soldiers in door-to-door fighting in urban areas.

Senate questions missing documents

United Press International

WASHINGTON - The Senate Intelligence Committee was asked to investigate why the White House did not provide Congress with at least four documents and submitted altered versions of two others in the Iran-Contra scandal.

Three Senate leaders said some of the documents deal with U.S. foreign policy in Central America "and raise questions regarding the activities of government officials in possible efforts to circumvent the provisions of the law."

The documents were introduced during the trial of Oliver North, the former White House aide facing 12 felony counts on charges stemming from the Iran-Contra affair, and hinted that President Bush was more familiar with a plan to reward Honduras for aiding the Contras than previously dis-

The request for the investigation was made Wednesday by Sen. Daniel Inouye, D.Hawaii. the chairman, and two members of the special panel, Sens. George Mitchell, D-Maine, and Warren Rudman, R-N.H., which investigated the scandal. In a letter to the vice chairmen of the Intelligence Committee, the three senators said, "It appears that at least four" of the documents released at the North trial were not provided to the Senate committee and two others were turned over "in a form different" than in the federal courtroom.

"We have no way of knowing whether there are other documents which were not provided to the committee or were provided in a form different from those made public by the order of the court," the letter said. "We also have no way of knowing whether there are still other documents which were not provided to the committee or to parties of the pending case. The letter said, "These six documents are sufficient to raise questions about the procedures followed by the executive branch," urging an "immediate review" and a report.

Commenting late Wednesday about the senators' letter, White House press secretary Marlin Fitzwater said, "We will cooperate in any way we can, but otherwise we don't know much about it. This doesn't involve us directly.

'This is between the senators and the Intelligence Committee. They're looking into the last administration's procedures (for providing documents to the committees). And it doesn't relate to us."

Fitzwater said the request involved "an internal matter for the Senate to look into.'

Also Wednesday, the White House released a letter from counsel C. Boyden Gray to Mitchell in response to an earlier inquiry by the senator about the Iran-Contra documents.

In the letter, Gray said he had consulted with A.B. Culvahouse, White House counsel in the Reagan administration, and said Culvahouse had "offered to review these matters together with other persons familiar with the document-production and informally brief you and anyone you may designate with respect to the specific concerns stated in the letter."

The Feb. 20 North-to-McFarlane memorandum deals with a proposed letter from Reagan to Suazo, expressing gratitude for Honduran aid to the Contras and "talking points" for the ambassador which included expedited aid. The memo has a notation in the margin from Poindexter saying "add that we want VP to also discuss this matter with Suazo."

Bush has refused to comment on his conversations with Suazo in Honduras, on March 1, 1985, during the North trial. The Senate leaders also pointed to a memorandum from McFarlane, dated April 25, 1985, dealing with a proposed telephone call from Reagan to Suaso which they said was different from the one submitted.

Jordan's king names new prime minister

AMMAN. Jordan — King Hussein named a close adviser. Zaid Ibn Bhuker, as the new prime minister to succeed Zaid Rifal, who resigned Monday in the wake of riots that left at least 10 people dead, government sources said Thursday.

Shaker, a cousin of the king, was armed forces chief before his appointment in January to chief of the royal court. The sources, who asked not to be named, said Shaker is the new prime minister, but no official announcement has been made.

Rifal and his Cabinet left office this week after the riots triggered by government-imposed price increases in basic commodities like food and Juel. At least 10 people were killed in the riots and several people were arrested.

This rest of the incoming Cabinet was not immediately known, but the sources said the new chief of the royal court would be Modar Badran, who was prime minister before Rifal came to power in 1964.

Japan's budget on way to approval

TOKYO - Japan's ruling party rammed the 1989 fiscal budget through a lower house committee Thursday, clearing the way for adoption of the spending plan stalled by a bribery scandal that caused the downfall of Prime Minister Noboru

The officials said the bill will be passed by the lower house lespite the boycott before Takeshita leaves on a nine-day tour of five Asian countries Saturday.

"We hope the budget will be enacted as soon as possible so that it is implemented for the benefit of the people." Chief Cabinet Secretary Keizo Obuchi told a news conference.

The government was forced to work out a stopgap budget of $69.4 billion to cover the first 50 days of the 1969 fiscal year.

Mir cosmonauts return to Earth

The official Tass news agency said Commander Alexander Volkov, Sergei Krikalev and Variey Polyakov landed in a Soyuz TM-7 spacecraft northeast of the city of Dzheskazgan at 6:59 a.m. Thursday (10:59 EDT Wednesday).

But the agency did not describe the condition of the commonsute or give further details of their journey back to

The three cosmonauts jettisoned a Progress 21 supply cargo ship last Friday in preparation for their return to Earth, leaving the station unmanned for the first time since Feb. 7, 1987.

But Tass said in a Wednesday report that the station will get new occupants in August when a crew is launched to start a busy second half of the year in which two new modules will be sent to expand the station.

'Since the two new modules will be ready only in the second half of the year, time is needed to process the recived data, and it was decided to continue the Mir's pilotless flight until August," Tass said earlier this week.
"Integration of the modules into the scientific complex will practically double the total mass of the of the station and its equipment." Tass said.

This will contribute to a more effective use of the orbital station's potential in the interests of the science and national economy, ushering in the second phase of Mir's service life," Tass said Wednesday.

It said that the crew was "mothballing some on-board systems in preparation for the complex's operation in the unmanned mode.'

The three cosmonauts, who have been in space more than four months, returned to Earth aboard a Soyuz TM-7 spaceship, which had been docked to the Mir.

The plans to expand the Mir are liable to meet vociferous criticism from the new Congress of People's Deputies that is to meet May 25. Many of the deputies to the new legislative body campaigned on platforms calling for a cut in the space budget. or at least better accounting of the costs. The space budget has never been disclosed.

Tase said the Mir station was being left unmanned because of delays in the production of the two new modules scheduled to be attached to the platform later this year.

Soviets investigate grave

MOSCOW - The Soviet Union said it hoped soon to finally heal a deep wound with Poland over allegations that Soviet troops massacred at least 11,000 Polish army officers and troops captured by the Red Army in 1939.

Government spokesman Vadim Perfilyev said Wednesday, "It is true we are finding new facts" about the massacre of the Poles in Katyn Forest near Smolensk in 1940, most of whom were shot to death.

The Soviet Union officially has blamed the crime on Nazi German troops and Katyn has for years been a symbol for many Poles of the injustice they have suffered at the hands of the Soviets.

Late in 1986, historians of the two nations started discussing what officially are referred to as "blank spots" of history during the reign of terror under despot Josef Stalin. The Katyn issue has become, for Poles, a test of the sincerity of the drive for glasnost by Mikhail Gorbachev since he came to power in 1985.

"Polish colleagues together with our scientists are now reaching new conclusions. The results should soon be published." Perfilyev said.

"Perhaps we will even soon be able to introduce these scientists and their Polish colleagues to you here in the Foreign Ministry press center for a meeting," he said.

He did not say when the two sides hoped to resolve the issue. but his remarks in response to questions at a news conference clearly indicated the Kremlin's awareness of Polish sensitivity to two centuries of conflict and contempt of Moscow.

BEIJING - More than 150,000 students and workers swarmed past police lines and over army barricades Thursday to march into central Tiananmen Square in bold defiance of a government ban on pro-

About 1,000 unarmed police lined up across the main Changan Boulevard as the tens of thousands of demonstrators approached the vast square after marching from the city's northwestern university district.

But the police line was swallowed up by the huge crowd, estimated by witnesses at more than 150,000, and the demonstrators surged toward the northwest corner of the square, which was blocked by four army trucks carrying 60 soldiers each.

The marchers swarmed over the vehicles and into the empty, aquare. No injuries were reported and the trucks later were driven slowly away as the crowd took over the huge plaza considered the heart of communist China.

Despite government warnings, tens of thousands of workers and onlookers appeared to have joined the students as they a marched through the capital to the square. site of nearly two weeks of railies demand-

As the students marched on a main boulevard on Beijing's west side, they twice confronted lines of about 300 police who tried to slow them down. The marchers pushed through the ranks of police, who allowed them to pass.

"Long live democracy," the students chanted, "Down with corruption."

A group of uniformed hospital workers. carrying aloft a flag emblazoned with the symbol of the Red Cross, joined the students despite government threats of reprisals against those who get involved in the demonstrations.

Truckloads of about 300 unarmed People's Liberation Army soldiers were moved into Tiananmen Square by late afternoon. At least 5,000 uniformed police earlier fanned out in ranks and closed the world's largest public square to traffic and pedestrians, an extraordinary move.

Police blocked streets leading into the sprawling plaza for about a half mile in each direction as traffic snarled throughout downtown Beijing and thousands of curious onlookers pressed against police lines. Several hundred members of a special anti-riot squad, wearing helmets and carrying shields, stood guard at the Great Hall of the People on the square's west side.

Canadian budget includes big cuts

United Press International

OTTAWA - Finance Minister Michael Wilson, fending off calls for his resignation after an un-precedented leak of the federal budget proposal, said the government plans to sharply cut spending on defense and transportation programs and raise taxes in an effort to balance the books by 1994.

Wilson, who was scheduled to unveil the spending plan before Parliament on Thursday, instead released the document at an emergency news conference Wednesday night after the budget proposal was leaked to a Toronto-based television station.

Among the key measures contained in the budget were the scrapping of a plan to build up to a dozen nuclear-powered sub-marines, the closing of 14 mili-tary bases across the country and the elimination of nearly all funding for VIA Rail, the country's only national passenger railway.

The government also would sell off the rest of its interest in Air Canada, the country's publicly owned international airline: drop its commitment to a unemployment insurance program, which would be placed entirely in the hands of employers and individuals.

The spending plan also calls for increasing taxes on large corporations and middle and upper-income wage-carners. Wilson said. Taxes on cigarettes would jump by $3.32 a carton and taxes also would be raised on alcohol and gasoline.

By January, 1991, the gov-ernment would impose a 9 percent national sales tax on all purchases of goods and services with the exception of food and health care.

"This budget is critical to our future. These measures reflect the seriousness of the situation we face," said Wilson. He said the combination of increased taxes and reduced spending would result in a balanced budget by 1994.

The deficit is expected to reach $25.3 billion in 1989 before falling to $23 billion in 1990, Wilson said.

The severity of the measures was lost in the drama of the unprecedented budget leak. Toronto-based Global TV obtained copies of budget documents from an anonymous

Entire cabinet resigns in Chile

Inited Press international

SANTIAGO, Chile - The resignation of President Augusto Pinochet's entire 15-member Cabinet could signal a tougher stand by the Chilean leader against sweeping constitutional reforms demanded by the opposition.

Among those resigning late Wednesday was Interior Minister Carlos Caceres, who began talks last month with opposition and conservative leaders in a bid to work out an agreement on reforming the 1980 military constitution.

Government sources said Pinochet would not reappoint Caceres, fueling speculation the president has decided not to permit the extensive re-forms demanded by opposition political parties to diminish the power of the military.

The Cabinet resignation was the second this month and the fourth since October 1968.

Government sources said others who would not be brought back into the Cabinet included Foreign Minister Hernan Felipe Erraguris, Education Minister Juan Antonio Guzman and Minister of Mining and Economy Pablo

Caceres, asked if the resignations were an indication the constitutional reforms were being scrapped, said the decision was up to Pinochet, who he said asked for the resignations as part of a policy evaluation.

"He is going to make a decision (on constitutional reforms) in the coming week and will make the decision public." Caceres said.

Lt. Col. Jaime Garcia, the acting secretary-general, told reporters that Pinochet was still studying possible reforms.

Pinochet is "doing a political analysis and once he has made the (Cabinet) modifications that are forseen, he will issue the new political line and criteria," Garcia said.
Asked if Pinochet accepted

Caceres's resignation because he was unhappy with the minister, Garcia said the president "has evaluated the situation and considers it convenient to modify the Cabinet."

The Cabinet also resigned April 3, but all but four members were reappointed. That shake-up began when Budget Minister Hernan Buchi quit and said he was considering running for president.

Wednesday's resignations marked the fourth time Pinochet's Cabinet has quit aince Oct. 5, 1988.

Violence kills 3, injures 8 Palestinians

JERUSALEM - Violent clashes between the military and Palestinians in the Israelioccupied territories left two Arab teenagers and an 8-year-old boy dead and than 30 people wounded, Palestinian sources said.

The military confirmed one killed by army gunfire Wednesday and was investigating the two other reported deaths. an army spokesman said. He reported 10 Palestinians wounded during confrontations with soldiers in the West Bank and Gaza Strip. Most of the confrontations and casualties occurred in the Oaza Strip, the scene this week of some of the worst violence in months. Palestinian sources and international relief officials said.

Since Sunday, soldiers have shot and wounded 113 people, according to reports through midday Wednesday compiled by international relief officials. Palestinian sources place the number of wounded at more than 130 this week. Three Palestinians have been killed in the Gaza Strip by army gunfire. the sources said.

Poland, Vatican to re-establish relations

United Press International

WARSAW, Poland - Prime Minister Mieczyslaw Rakowski said Poland and the Vatican will establish diplomatic relations soon and submitted a draft agreement to the Polish Parliament on church-state relations at home.

"This document will decide about significant issues dealing with the establishment of diplomatic ties between Poland and the Vatican," Rakowski said. "I am convinced that expected talks between Poland and the Vatican will result soon in the signing of an international agreement."

The pact with Poland, whose population of 38 million is 95 percent Catholic, would be the first between the Vatican and a communist East Bloc country. Hungary is also attempting to work out an accord with the Vatican.

Rakowski did not say when final talks with the Vatican

The Vatican did not recognize the Moscow-installed communist government in 1944 and Warsaw broke ties with the Vatican one year later.

Rakowski also submitted a draft law to Parliament recognizing the legal status of the Catholic Church in Poland. The draft will be discussed and is expected to be approved during the next session, whose dates have not yet been announced.

The Catholic Church up to now has operated on the basis of an agreement with the government in the 1950s that restricted church activities.

Among other things, the new law returns to the church some health care institutions confiscated after the war, allows it to engage in more charitable activities, permits nuns to be nurses and puts Poland's 62,000 priests under social security.

HELSINKI. Finland - Government officials from 90 countries and organizations gathered in Helsinki for two weeks of conferences to study preservation of the Eurth's ozone layer.

Two meetings - one of the 46-nation Vienna Convention and of the 37-nation Montreal Protocol - were convened Wednesday in Finland's capital by the United Nations Environment Program to focus on strengthening ozone protection.

The United States. Canada and European Community are signatories to both conventions.

One day before the Helsinki meetings, U.S. environmental organizations for the Bush administration appealed for tougher measures to protect the ozone.

Pour environmental groups cited new U.S. Environmental Protection Agency findings showing controls imposed on the use of ozone-depleting chlorofluorocarbons by the Montreal Protocol will still allow a drastic worsening of the problem.

Seaver requested a mediator from the Florida Public Employees Relations Commission (PERC) in Taliahasee to help expediate the process.

"Maybe with a third party at the bargaining table, we will be able to establish some dialogue and make progress toward an agreement," he wrote.

One blue-collar employee, who asked to be anonymous, said the lack of a contract is "causing unrest" among the workers.

"Everybody's asking 'why don't we have a contract? Why ian't the city bargaining in good faith?," the employee said yesterday.

The city has two unions. The fire department joined the international Association of Firefighters last July. Last month, the Longwood Professional Firefighters Association Local 3163 became the firefighters' certified bargaining agent. A union representative said they will be negotiating a contract with the city for the firefighters in the near future.

Castor estimates that 70 percent of the lottery proceeds have been used to replace tax funding for schools, rather than to enhance schools

A group of Seminole County educators, including the members of the school board, Super-Intendent Robert Hughes and members of the PTA and school representatives are currently in Tallahassee lobbying law makers on educational issues.

Before leaving, school board chairman Ann Neiswender had said the group planned to discuss with legislators their dissatisfaction with the way lottery money was being spent.

None of the group was available for comment on Thursday morning.

According to an educational plant survey done in the district earlier this year. Seminole County will need to construct 20 elementary. five middle and two high schools within the next two decades. The issue of the method to be used pay for the new facilities has been the subject of much debate in recent weeks. This year, Gov. Bob Martinez has proposed spending $117.5 million in lottery money, 15.8 percent of the projected lottery proceeds, on school constrution.

Rep. Mike Langton, D. Jacksonville, had hoped to stop that drain on enhancement money with a bill (HB 9) that would prohibit using lottery profits for needs generated by inflation or increased student population. That would have effectively blocked using the money for construction.

That changed entirely when the House Finance and Tax Committee voted 14-6 for an amendment by Rep. Art Simon,

In a liquit PORTABLE MAN

D-Miami, mandating that lottery profits go to the construction fund rather than the enhancement fund, beginning July 1, 1990.

The panel voted 10-8 in favor of a second amendment that would allow the usage of enhancement money to help school districts "that incur extraordinary expenses due to foreign immigration" that are not paid by the federal government. That amendment, which would be in effect only until the first amendment takes effect in 1990, was intended to help South Florida school districts overwhelmed by the recent influx of Nicaraguan refugees.

The amended bill passed 14-4. It goes next to the House Appropriations Committee.

The packages include a vial for water samples and a "Water Analysis Data Form" that states. "For the next two weeks, we will be testing the water for the residents of this district."

Moore said the form was written to sound like an official city notice so customers feel obliged to comply. Tests run on the samples are to determine what minerals are in the water, Moore said. water from the ground has minerals in it," he said. "They're natural-occurring...It's not hazardous."

But Moore said the flyer plants a seed of doubt in customers about the safety of city water.
"...As far, as we know, your drinking water meets all safety

Moore said a sign at a Longwood business musters that same doubt. The sign reads "End water poliution in your home today, flouride, chlorine and ph levels, Moore said. In addition, the city takes samples from 40 sites in the distribution area monthly for bacterial checks.

"We're constantly testing our water," he said.

George Griffin, Quality Water Systems vice president, said, "The irony of the thing is there really shouldn't be any animosity between water treatment facilitles and water treatment equipment compaintes. City water is safe...but there's a higher grade of water available to you.'

Griffin said he met with Mayor Bettye Smith last year to discuss concerns about panicked water customers.

"We've been here 11 years and we shy away from" scare tactics and stories about unsafe water, Griffin mid. When the city of Sanford closed a well a few years ago, he said other companies told water customers the well was closed because Sanford water had killed several people. "We never used that story."

Griffin said his Longwood firm does not do door-to-door sales, and does in-home presentations only by appointment.

Most of the devices being peddled in the area are water softeners, Moore said. "It's not a matter of health, but a matter of preference" between soft and hard water, he said. Because many city water customers come to the area from northern states. Moore said, they are accustomed to soft water.

Moore said customers who search the products, understand City water is tested hourly for what the products do, and consult their doctors.

> "Talking to a salesman pushing a product is not necessarily the best source of in-formation," he said. Some salesman demonstrating the products make three-hour presentations, Moore said, warning customers not to let salesmen "wear you down" during the pitch.

Similar sales campaigns have been noted in Lake Mary and Seminole County, Moore said.

Any customer who has questions about city water and com-panies who offer free testing may call Moore at city hall, he said.

Spaceport could benefit county

By J. MARK BARFIELD Herald staff writer

launch facility in Brevard County could have economic benefits to Seminole County, a state official has told county

Chris Shove, director of the state's office of space programs, said Seminole County could benefit through new residents and businesses moving here to serve "Spaceport, Florida."

"This area will be affected," Shove told commissioners on Monday, "How much, I don't know."

Shove said the most promising site in the state for Spaceport is three unused launch pads at the Cape Canaveral Air Force Station. Another site north of Ken-nedy Space Center, called the "Shiloh" site, has been removed from consideration by Gov. Bob Graham because of the sensitive environmental conditions there.

Shove said the state is seeking $10 million from the Florida Legislature this year to finance construction of a launch pad at the facility. Future plans call for an attraction, including a mock lunar base, a research facility and a business development program.

Richard Tesch, executive vice president of the Industrial Development Commission of Mid-Florida, Inc., encouraged com-missioners to support Spaceport in their conversations with legislators.

"If it comes up, then we'd like your support and if it doesn't and you bring it up, maybe you'd want to bring it up,"

Commissioners expressed interest in the project.

Shove said the state is also seeking to eliminate the sales tax for satellite launches, which he said is currently a deterrent to private launches in the state. He said sales taxes can range from $6 million to $50 million for one proposal. Telecommunications satellites are currently exempt from the taxes, Shove said.

Shove said Florida is facing strong competition both from overseas and in the United States in commercial launches. He said the French aerospace agency, Arianespace, currently commands about 70 percent of the commercial launch industry. Japan and Australia are jointly developing a launch facility in Australia. Hawaii and West Virginia are also considering spaceports, he said.

IN BRIEF

AMERICAN LEAGUE

Ken Jr. does it all for Seattle

Ken Griffey Jr.'s talent has made American League opponents stop and notice - and sometimes just stop altogether.

The rookle Scattle phenom capped a 4-for-4 performance with a seventh-inning, tie-breaking homer and then quelled a potential rally with a dramatic catch Wednesday night, helping the Mariners to a 7-6 victory over the Toronto Blue Jays.

Griffey, who also had two singles, a double and three RBI, has eight hits in his last eight at-bats, tying a club mark set by Harold Reynolds and Darnell Coles last year. He lined a 2-1 pitch into the right-field scats with two out in the seventh off reliever Dave Wells, 1-1, to break a 6-6 tie and hand Toronto its fourth straight loss.

Elsewhere in the American League, Texas nipped Cleveland 3-2, Boston topped Chicago 5-4 in 10 innings, Milwaukee routed Minnesota 12-0, Kansas City dumped New York 5-3, Baltimore edged Oakland 2-1 and California throttled Detroit 1-0.

NHL PLAYOFFS

Original Six final still possible

Putting aside the fact that the regular-season champion Calgary Flames and scoring leader Mario Lemieux are still lurking about the playoffs, there remains a possibility of the first Stanley Cup final in a decade between members of the NHL's Original Six.

The Chicago Blackhawks, the last team to make the playoffs with a 27-41-12 record, gained the Cup semifinal Wednesday night with a 4-2 triumph over the St. Louis Blues, who were eliminated from the Norris Division final in five games.

The Blackhawks and the Adams Division's Montreal Canadiens give the NHL's charter members - nicknamed the Original Six - two remaining teams in the semifinals.

YOUTH SOCCER

F.C. Shredders second in cup

This past weekend, the F.C. Shredders, an Under-16 girls soccer team, took second in the Presidents State Cup Finals. The team, coached lix Martinez, actually tied for first but was awarded second according to the tie-breaker rules.

In their first game, the Shredders beat Coral Springs on a penalty kick by Lake Howell's Jessica Cardarelli. But in the second game, the Shredders lost an evenly contested match to Miami Cutler Ridge 1-0.

But the Shredders rebounded to defeat Miami Lakes in their final game, breaking from a 1-1 tle at halftime to win 3-1. Scoring the Shredder goals were Jennie Yearick, Michelle Cook and Cardarelli.

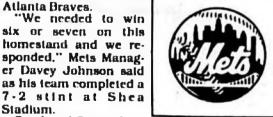

NATIONAL LEAGUE

Gooden does it again for Mets

The symbol of the Meis emergence over the last five years as perhaps the best team in baseball Wednesday gave a boost to New York's current surge toward the top of the National League East.

Dwight Gooden scattered five hits over 8 2-3 innings and delivered a double and a single to lead the Mets to their fourth straight victory, a 6-1 decision over the

'We needed to win six or seven on this homestand and we responded." Mets Manager Davey Johnson sald as his team completed a 7-2 stint at Shea Stadium.

Gooden, 4-0, struck out nine and walked six. He took a two-hitter into the eighth inning, but appeared to weaken and was replaced by Randy Myers after giving up a single and consecutive walks in the ninth, loading the bases.

In the National League it was: Los Angeles 3, Chicago 1; San Diego 3, Pittsburgh 1; New York 6, Atlanta 1; Cincinnati 6, Montreal 5; St. Louis 3. San Francisco 1: Houston 6. Philadelphia 5.

Mackey, Carr lead Lyman in golf qualifier

BY JIM RICKENBACKER Herald Correspondent

LONGWOOD - Boom.

Lyman sophomore Becky Carr launches a rocket-like tee shot that ascends near the top of the first fairway at Rolling Hills Country

Yes, that's the same Carr that drove opponents crazy this past soccer season as the Greyhounds' goalkeeper, the same girl that will unlace her golf shoes shortly after the season and use her talents to help a 16-and-under select soccer team in a challenge round qualifler for next month's soccer state cham-

On the next hole, Lyman junior Kim Mackey successfully negotiates a tricky 20-foot putt to save par. Not bad for a girl who spends two or three days a week either bowling in two leagues or teaching kids, ages 6 to 11, to bowl.

Mackey swears the pressure of a picking up a spare pales compared to a three-foot putt in a duel match against Lake Brantley.

"The pressure of high-school golf surprised me," said Mackey, who sports a 170 bowling average, highlighted by a 264 game. "The pressure of golf is much more evident, and I'm constantly struggling with keeping the game fun and living up to what people expect of me. "I don't feel pressure in bowling.

but I can't figure out why. Maybe it's because it doesn't seem like you're on the lanes by yourself when others are bowling around After a personal-best 76 assured Mackey of the individual title in last year's District 6 Golf Tournament at Ventura, folks began to expect more when she teed it up.

championship. The path to that goal starts on Friday with the District 6 tournament at Ventura.

Carr will carry the Greyhounds to a has the heart of a champ and is an second consecutive district team extremely hard worker. When she title Friday at Ventura - and a gets her mind set on something, she subsequent trip to next week's state goes for it. And Becky can really hit tournament in Sarasota.

"Kim and Becky have been my mainstays," said Lyman's ninth-Supporters figure Mackey and year girls coach Jesse Harry. "Kim the ball a long way. She's just so physically strong.

Mackey, who's held down the No. I spot on the team this season, insists Carr takes the game a little more seriously than her. At first, Carr seemed surprised but confessed that she is changing her position on golf slowly but surely.

"Soccer is my first love, but this year I realized golf can take me past college. So I'm starting to take the game more seriously."

Defense leads Oviedo to district tourney win

CASSELBERRY - The Ovledo Lady Lions started their quest for another post-season title Wednesday afternoon with a walk in Red

It took a little over an hour for the Lady Lions to close out Kissimmee Gateway's season, pounding the Panthers, 8-0, in the quarterfinals of the District 3A-6 Tournament before 151 fans

Oviedo, which meets the winner of Wednesday's game between Kissimmee-Osceola and Orlando-Jones at 4:30 this afternoon at Red Bug Park, pounced on the Panthers for three runs in the bottom of the second inning.

Offense wasn't the only story on this sun-kissed afternoon, though.

Second baseman Anna Hollis, the only sentor in the Lions' infield, turned in a brilliant game defensively and was a factor in one of Oviedo's two double plays.

When the Panthers finally mounted a scoring threat in the fifth, shortstop Melanie Schrupp scooped up a slow grounder, stepped on second and whipped the ball to first to complete the final double play.

"Our defense has been a big reason why we've won five straight games," said Oviedo coach Jackie Miller, whose team ran its record to 13-7. "We're peaking at the right time, but it's not unusual for us to make it to regionals."

Even if Hollis and company hadn't handcuffed the Panthers, the Lions would most likely have had enough hits to send them to today's semifinal contest.

Corrie Lawson, one of Oviedo's leading hitters, amassed four hits in as many trips to the plate. Credited with a triple, double and a pair of singles, Lawson collected three RBIs as did Hollis, who was 3-for-4.

Lawson highlighted the second inning with a two-run double and picked up an RBI single in the fourth to propel the Lions to a 4-0

Cindy Willming, who wound up 2 for 3 along with Sunny Pullarin, contributed an RBI in Oviedo's three-run fourth inning.

Michelle Schiaffo, 3-for-3 in the Lions' hit parade, added an RBI single in the fifth to hike the advantage to 7-0. Hollis capped off the scoring with an RBI single in the Backed by a solid defense, Oviedo pitcher Lisa Hollon threw a shutout against Kissimmee-Gateway to open the Class 3A-District 6 tournament.

Loch Lowe Prep will be gunning for its first ever district championship today when it begins action in class 1A-8 district action at Montverde against Mount Dora Bi-

It will be the fourth time the two schools meet and Loch Lowe owns two wins over the Lady Bulldogs this season. Mount Dora beat Loch Lowe 5-4 in a 13 luning affair early in the season.

Loch Lowe, 10-9, goes into the tourney as the second seed and is riding a five game winning streak. Coach Tina McFerren will hope her team can stay confident and continue its winning ways in the tournament. "I'm very proud of what the girls have accomplished this season,' McFerren said. "I pushed them and they have responded very well. To do what they've done in two years is outstanding." Loch Lowe owns two impressive victories over the Lady Bulldogs, 18-1 and 10-8, and will hope to reach the finals of the tournament against the winner of the Montverde-Orangewood Christian matchup

LAKE MARY - Heather Golden connected for a double and a triple, driving in three runs, and led Lake Mary to a 10-2 opening round victory in district 4A-9 action at Lake Mary High School.

In other opening round action Lake Howell hammered Lyman 23-2 while DeLand took on Spruce Creek in Daytona. The tournament will now move to Lake Brantley where the host Lady Patriots will take on the winner of the DeLand-Spruce Creek game and Lake Mary will battle Lake Howell.

We came out and stroked the ball well today." Lake Mary coach Karen Nolen said, "If we continue to hit the ball throughout the tournament I'll be happy."

The Lady Rams opened the scoring in the first inning with one out as Terry Peters started things off with a single, the ball was misplayed in the outfield and Peters advanced to third. Golden followed by ripping a triple the bounced against the right center field fence. Paula Songer then singled to bring in Golden and give Lake Mary a 2-0 lead.

Mainland cut the lead to 2-1 in the second inning when Bonnie Moss tripled to right and scored on a throwing error by the Lake Mary second baseman.

Lake Mary put the game away by scoring four runs in the third inning as Peters led the frame off and reached on an error. Golden followed with a double before Songer doubled in both runners. Renee Sandville then reached on an error in the outfield allowing Songer to score. Marti Citerella then grounded out and Mainland attempted to double up Sandville who darted for third. The throw was off line, though, allowing Sandville to score and up the lead to 6-1. Lake Mary added four more runs in the fifth to build an insurmountable lead. With two outs Sandville, Citerella and Marta Montalvo all singled to load the bases. Dena Morash then stroked a single to score two runs and advanced to second on the throw and scored along with Montalvo on a single by Tara Calvin.

In other action Lake Howell erupted for 20 runs in the first two innings and totally dominated the weaker Lyman squad. The Lady Silver Hawks pounded out 18 hits which included nine extra-

Missy Martinez paced the attack with a single and a home run and three runs batted in. Leslie Barton connected on two doubles and a single and drove in three runs with Julie Barton connecting for a home run and a triple and four RBIs. Christy Dees added a pair of hits. Cat Foldeak added two doubles and two runs batted in with Carolyn Dewar adding two hits, a double and a single, with one run batted in-

"I was happy to give everyone a chance to play," Lake Howell coach Jo Luciano said, "It's good to let the younger players get some experience. Again this was a tune-up for the rest li was come-from-behind night in the Sanford Little Major Baseball League as both the Disable American Veterans and First Union Bank charged from behind to post wins in American Division action at Roy Holler Field on Wednesday.

in the opening game, DAV came back from a 7-2 deficit to post a 16-9 victory over Ken Rummel Chevrolet, then First Union Bank raffed from a 7-1 deficit to come up with an 11.8 triumph over Seminole Ford in the nightcap victory over Sunniland Corporation. It looked as though DAV was going to suffer its first loss in more than two years when Terrance Jenkins blasted a grand elam in the second to give Rummel a 7-2 lead. But DAV came up with a pair of runs in the bottom of the second and five in each of the third and fourth innings to pick up its fifth victory of the season.

In a late game played at Lee P. Moore Park Tuesday the Railroaders posted a 15-12

Alton Jenkins came on in relief for DAV in the fourth inning and gave up only one run on two hits over the final three innings to pick up the victory.

Offensively. Curtis Peterson had three hits, including a home run, and five rbi while Quentin Hunt slammed two home runs to also drive in five runs. Jenkins drove in a pair of runs with a double, Lloyd Dixon had a double and a single and Donny Hinson had a pair of singles.

For Rummel. Jenkins had three hits, including the grand slam, and five rbi while Josh Watson had three hits, including a double, and acored two runs.

In the second game, Seminole Ford held a 7-1 lead after the top of the fourth only to have First Union explode for seven runs in its half of the fourth. Singles by Philip Eubanks, Adrian Mitchell, and Ivan Byrd.

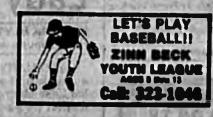

plus a double by Clifton Branch were the big hits in the inning for First Union. A three-run fifth gave First Union a little breathing room.

Branch threw the final three innings for First Union and gave up only one run and one hit. Eubanks had a double and a single. Mitchell had a pair of hits. Brach had a double, and Byrd a single, to complete the Seminole Ford only had three hits and they were collected by Ryan Colgate with a double and a single, and Joe Tittle who had a double.

In the Railroader victory Tuesday, they scored 15 runs on just three hits by Robert Dickerson (double). Ronnie McNeil, and Scott Kirkby. Cedric Williams scored four runs, Tony Lewis and Erik Johnson scored three, Thomas Isrial scored two, and Anthony Morales and Damin Brown scored

Women Voters work for change

By LAURA L. SULLIVAN Herald staff writer

When the League of Women Voters of Seminole County organized in 1966, there were no county libraries. The League studied the problem. brainstormed for solutions and petitioned the county commission for action.

Today, the Seminole County library system boasts five fullservice branches.

"We have a very sophisticated library system, and the League was very instrumental in its coming about," said Jean Rhein.

county library services director.
"Whenever I felt a need for support (of the library system), I felt I could call them," said Rhein, who is a League member. She said the League maintains a library committee, and includes support of the library in its platform.

Seminole County Commis-sioner Bob Sturm has been a League member for about eight years.

"It's very valuable," Sturm said. "It's a group that I listen very carefully to when they do make a recommendation."

Sturm is one of a few male members, said League President Polly Miller. While most male members are not active, slie said, "they certainly do support our group.'

The League, the traditional non-partisan sponsor of presidential debates, has grown to 1,250 chapters nationally since it was founded in 1920. The Seminole County chapter has 104 members.

Unattended baby has mom at odds with pizza-loving hubby DEAR ABBY: Please, please with a collection of strangers I print this as soon as possible so my husband and I can stop fighting about it. I'm sure you will see it my way.

I work days and my husband works nights. We have a 5-month-old baby boy who my husband takes care of during the day, and I take care of at night.

My husband accuses me of being too protective of our son. He may be right, but I will let you be the judge. One day, I was talking to my husband on the phone and he said. "The baby is sleeping-I think I'll run over to get a pizza and bring it home." I flipped out! Abby, the pizza parlor he wanted to "run to" is two blocks from where we live.

I told him he shouldn't even think of leaving the baby along for two minutes-ever! Then he started in again with how overprotective I am, and we had a huge fight on the telephone.

He never did get the pizza that day, but I worry now, wondering if he has ever left the baby alone without telling me. Or maybe he would do so in the future. I wanted to ask friends and family what they think so I could prove my point to him, but I don't want any of them to know that he even considered leaving our baby alone. Please settle this. I am desperate.

MASSACHUSETTS MOTHER

DEAR MOTHER: A baby should never, never be left alone. If you have the slightest doubt that your husband has left your baby alone for as much as five minutes-or that he would do so in the future-don't trust him to look after the baby. Get a sitter.

DEAR ABBY: A while back you had a letter in your column from someone who wanted to know if it was OK to ask "who else will be there" before accepting or declining an invitation.

There could be a good reason. I am a 56-year-old successful professional woman with a rather usual handicap I've never been comfortable disclosing to others: I am unable to remember the names of casual friends and acquaintances. Once a person has been identified for me, my memory of that person returns. and from then on, I'm fine. I have a good memory and function well in other areas. I have been psychoanalyzed up one side and down the other, so I know this condition isn't caused by emotional problems.

When I attend a social event, if I know in advance who will be there, I can recognize them. Otherwise, I must wait until someone uses their name, which doesn't always happen. This has caused me endless embarrassment. I cannot very well say. 'Who are you? I've only seen you 100 times."

So, please, Abby, don't con-demn those who ask, "Who else will be there?"

DRAWS A BLANK DEAR DRAWS: Obviously, knowing in advance who else will be there has its advantages. I had in mind those who inquired before accepting an invitation in order to decide whether to accept or not. For a valid defense of that inquiry, read on: DEAR ABBY: What's wrong with asking, "Who else will be there?" I am not anti-social; I thoroughly enjoy the company of friends with whom I can exchange some meaningful conversation. But I consider it a waste of time to make small talk may never see again. If I know in advance who will be there, I can always stay home.

DEAR ABBY: I want to thank you for telling your readers about the book "Flying Without Wings" by Dr. Arnold Beisser (Doubleday). Excellent! My husband has severe emphysema and is on oxygen full time. We got the book, I read it aloud, and we enjoyed and discussed it.

It gave me a totally new respect and feeling for my husband's condition. He could identify with the author, who was severely disabled because of polio.

Again, you have helped many. MRS. GERALD O. TRUDELL, MESA, ARIZ.

than 50 years of trial-and-error eating habits. I found myself allergic to beef, eggs and poultry. The healthiest foods seem to be pork, butter, ice cream and peanuts. Last month's exam revealed low cholesterol, a blood pressure of 120/80 and A-1 health. So what is all the hullabaloo over eating lowcholesterol foods?

DEAR READER: Each of us has a genetically determined method of metabolizing cholesterol; this method may be extremely efficient (resulting in low blood-cholesterol) or dismally inefficient. Therefore, the level of blood cholesterol and the risk of developing arteriosclerotic heart disease from the fat is more a matter of inheritance than of diet.

Some people can eat cholesterol-rich food, such as animal fat and dairy products, with impunity and live to old age. Other individuals, because of their genetic programming, are very sensitive to dietary cholesterol. Most normal adults lie between these two extremes. That is, the average adult can readily elevate his cholesterol level by "overloading" the system and eating imprudently. This is why nutrition experts recommend that most Americans reduce dietary cholesterol.

Statistically, the more "normal" the blood cholesterol (around 200 milligrams per deciliter), the less the risk of heart discase.

Nonetheless, a few people do not have high blood cholesterol values, despite a cholesterolladen diet. You may be one of these lucky few and can thank your parents for this. Of course, before approving your unusual diet, I'd have to know what you call "low" cholesterol and what forms the cholesterol has taken in your body. High-density lipoproteins (HDLs) are "good" cholesterol, low-density lipopro-teins (LDLs) are "bad." Ask your doctor about this.

By James Jacoby Today's deal demonstrates the value of being brave when it's your turn to bid. East had a minimum opening, and partner West was right to pass. (Re- readers might argue that North sponding with a queen and two jacks is looking for trouble.)
North now doubled for takeout. At this point many players with the East cards would reason as follows: "Partner could not respond to one spade, and North probably has four hearts for his double. Since I have a minimum hand, I'll just pass quietly." If that happened, it is virtually certain that South would jump to three diamonds (not forcing, but showing a good hand). North would then bid three spades, asking for a spade stopper, and South would bid three no-trump. And you can't beat that contract.

even with a pickax.

Instead East pulled himself together and bid two hearts. South bid three diamonds and West bid three hearts. Some should now act, but because South's three-diamond bid might have been simply competing for the part-score, it seems OK for North to pass. thinking that he will probably beat three hearts. Alas, South continued with four diamonds. and that was set a trick.

This fine result for East-West came about when East bid two hearts, changing the effect of South's three-diamond bid from game-invitational to merely competing. Over a game invitation. North might have found another bid, but not over the simple competing diamond bid.

your usual share of responsibilities with which to contend. Try to meet these matters head-on, because, if you sweep anything under the rug. it might be tougher to handle later. PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) If you expect something done right today, it looks like you are going to have to take care of it yourself. People to whom you delegate aren't likely to give your directives proper priority. ARIES (March 21-April 19) There's a possibility you might meet opposition today pertaining to an issue about which you feel strongly. Should this occur, neither you not your opponent is likely to yield. (C)1989. NEWSPAPER EN-
