BE STRONG Be strong! We are not here to play, to dream, to drift.

A question, innocent enough nowadays is "What makes the wheat go up?"

Our office boy says three of the greatest men in the world's history are Hart, Schaffer and Marx.

Things to worry about: Why the hole in the doughnut doesn't diminish its value.

The best way to start a conversation nowadays is to inquire, "Is it not enough for you?"

American girls are finding success as easy in the Olympics as the men athletes are.

It is reported that the baseball diamond at the athletic field will soon be ready for use.

Lakeland recently endorsed a progressive program amounting to the expenditure of two million dollars by a vote of nearly two to one.

Renno, Nevada, will have to look to the laurels now that Russia, as an inducement to tired married couples, offers a divorce within five minutes' time at a cost of one dollar and a half.

William Manville, accused of swindling from stockholders more than four hundred thousand dollars, was recently arrested in Atlantic City.

A fellow who drives his car down the street exercising some degree of care by keeping his eyes straight to the front, soon becomes known as a snob.

Three thousand civilians have been killed in Sao Paulo since the fighting began. Brazil is the largest and sankest to the most progressive nation in South America.

One thing sure, a hobo stealing ride on a modern passenger plane is a crime, that he will not be kicked out, as in the days of passenger train traffic.

Letter from Major Imbick, states that "just as Boston is the home of the worst baked bread in the world, so Major Imbick is the worst baker in the world."

As a result of the Halifax Summer Frolics Florida in general and this section in particular is receiving national publicity.

The Party, Now and Then

The attitude of various newspapers, civic societies, political leaders and individuals toward the conduct and achievements of the recent Democratic convention, is sometimes interesting, sometimes disgusting.

But how it is possible for a New York Democrat and a Georgia Democrat to sing "Our Party" in the same chorus and stay in tune is something very few have attempted to explain.

It was these two conflicting forces that fought it out on the floor of the convention. The Southern and Western Democrats wanted a man who truly represented their ideals, who stood solidly against privilege, a friend of the masses, who advocated law enforcement, a prohibitionist, privately and politically.

One of the few newspapers which has had the nerve to write truthfully of the New York convention is the Miami News, not the Miami News owned by former Governor Cox, but the original Miami News edited by a man possessing brains, and the fearlessness to express his convictions.

In the light of events at the Democratic national convention, he called, there is no longer a doubt in the minds of Democrats that party leaders committed their greatest blunder in assembling the Democratic hosts in New York, under the very shadow of that enemy of popular government, Wall Street.

With their own governor a candidate for presidential honors, not so much on his excellent record as a public official but as a tool of Tammany and Wall Street, it was perhaps to be expected that enthusiasm resolved itself into flagrant and unscrupulous efforts to encompass the defeat of the chosen leader of the truly Democratic states of the nation.

Spurred by the omisseries of the financial interests, who had packed the galleries and the convention floor itself, the noisy rabble that represented the host of a thousand men and women hurriedly deflected into the teeth of the Democratic South, shamefully insulted its staunchest leader and veteran of quarter-century of conventions and thence Democracy's standard-bearer, William Jennings Bryan, and by every foul means at their command strove to accomplish their aim.

It was Tammany's day, and Wall Street's. By injecting into the consideration of the party a manufactured issue of religious intolerance they created division and distrust and turned orderly procedure into a bedlam of tumult and confusion. They poisoned the minds of delegates and perverted every sincere effort to restore harmony.

The result of this Wall Street-Tammany victory, while it cannot yet be completely envisaged, must be inevitable. It will take heroic measures at best to prevent the worst. For the present it appears that the hopeless outlook which faced the Republican campaign and its Wall Street-controlled standard bearers has been brightened again.

Through it all there stands out the figure of that Southern gentleman, William Gibbs McAdoo, courageous, able, honest and a proven leader in every pursuit of life. In the convention he and his group of supporters met villainous assaults with forceful courage, and defeated wily strategy with singleness of purpose that held his delegates to his standard when others swerved and switched their choice.

As to the nomination of the party—John W. Davis is the man who, prior to the convention, told those who came with offers of support if he dropped his Wall Street connections, that he would rather be right than president.

As Brisbane Sees It

In the Judge's hands. No "apres vous." Radio in politics. Ford on peace.

BY ARTHUR BRISBANE (Copyright 1924)

THE PARENTS of Leopold and Loeb display wisdom in having the young men plead guilty to murder. This does away with all harmful talk of "millions being freed to save them from the gallows."

It puts the young men's fate in the hands of the judge. Of his own volition, although the guilty men have waived all rights, the court will decide as to their mental responsibility and sentence them accordingly to death, to life imprisonment or to the insane asylum.

PREDICTING anything about this election is dangerous. But if the old parties make a milk-and-water campaign, a sort of "for you, Alphonse" fight, LaFollette may surprise them.

THE RADIO will play an important part in the campaign, a blessing for LaFollette, who will be obliged to make short speeches, thus saving strength. LaFollette is the best speaker of the three presidential candidates beyond comparison.

LAFOLLETTE SAYS he believes the editors of reactionary newspapers will be forced by very shame to tell the truth, and to give him a fair chance when they know that he is talking directly to the people over the radio.

HENRY FORD says peace is the great thing and adds that millions of airplanes will soon be flying overhead. If Ford, who could do it more rapidly than anybody else, will help to make the "millions of airplanes" a reality, he will do much for peace.

FORD'S PREDICTION about airplanes shows how much rapidly things change and compel us to change our opinions. A short time ago at Dearborn, Ford was talking to his writer that the time for commercial development of the airplane had not arrived.

"MUSCLE SHOALS could make Amprick invincible and war could be ended by the mere threat of United States power," says Ford. Muscle Shoals would provide enough nitrates to blow any nation into the air and Ford should have been allowed to develop the Muscle Shoals power for fertilizer factories in peace and nitrate factories in war.

ALEXANDER E. MILLER, playwright, called his colleague, Shamus O'Brien, and said, "The world is useless to me and I am of no value to it, and then killed himself. There NEVER comes a time when a human being is of no use to the world."

The Greek philosopher, 20 years old, that killed himself because he stumbled on leaving his college made a mistake. He should have said: "I may stumble, but I shall go on teaching."

Everyone can be valuable to the world by setting an example of courage and endurance. The other day a young woman lay in a hospital with both legs amputated. That was the price she paid for giving birth to a child. She might have said: "The world has nothing more for me. What she did say was, 'I am delighted to lose both my legs. I must, as long as I have my baby.' That's worth a good deal to the world."

SCIENTISTS have discovered in tea a new vitamin called "Bios," the Greek for "life." There is no doubt that tea possesses great powers. Men working in the woods at forty degrees below zero, drink cold tea and say they get out of it heat, another name for life.

SECRETARY HUGHES, arriving at Southampton, tells England, "The American nation backs the Dams plan. We consider it a sound basis for the recuperation of Europe." This is fine as long as American tax payers and bond buyers are not called upon to supply the "sound basis." Secretary Hughes and his European friends are mistaken if they think that Europe is to be helped now as she was in the war. If you don't see that you want, ask for it.

WHY CONFINE THESE TERMS STRICTLY TO POLITICS?

THE LURE OF JOURNALISM TAMPA TRIBUNE

There is, perhaps, no profession so perplexing to others as the journalistic profession. The newspaper man is constantly meeting the question, "Why do you remain in the newspaper business?" Behind this question is the general knowledge that journalism is not a particularly profitable profession.

A PERFECT CONVENTION ST. PETERSBURG INDEPENDENT

The convention or conference is a substitute for a fight. Those who criticized with severity the length and volubility of the national Democratic convention, the warring of factions and stubbornness of candidates, do not quite realize that, however unfortunate it may seem, it is more civilized than any method yet employed for the settling of disputes.

NO EXCUSE FOR APATHY ASHEVILLE CITIZEN

Recently a correspondent wrote to The Citizen to justify the apathy of the average American voter on election day. The two great parties, said this writer, so often nominate second-rate men for the highest office in the land, or first-class men with their hands tied by political bosses, that the average man or woman simply shrugs the shoulders when urged to vote and says: "What's the use?"

DAN DOBBS A red nose is no excuse for a gentleman, but now months to pay one table. It once took nine months to pay one table, but now months to pay one table. An optimist is a man who makes a molehill out of a mountain. Soon after father gets his pay on Saturday he is clean for Sunday. The man who refuses to work usually expects the best work. Some people like to party. Others like to party. mad bride tells his joys and sorrows the joys and sorrows. Always carry a stump speaker along trip in case you have a puncture. Guess the weather away on his vacation two-months' supply predictions. Neighbors should small boys are no more than them they are boys.

In the dining room the large birthday cake with its four tapers in rosebud pedestals was placed on the table centered by flowers. Children's games were played during the afternoon. J. B. ## Radio Inventors Keep U. S. Patent Office Very Busy

WASHINGTON, July 24.—The rapid strides made by radio are exemplified in the patent office, the records of which show approximately 3,000 patents issued for radio apparatus, both sending and receiving.

During 1920 there were 624 applications for patents considered to be essentially of radio character; in 1921 there were 723; in 1922 the number was 1,092, and last year 930. For this year the estimate has been placed at 1,200.

While the bulk of the applications for patents come from the younger class of workers, experimenters, young graduate engineers and technical students, the records indicate that those who are making the greatest theoretical advance are the mature and more experienced research workers, including many university professors.

Six assistant patent examiners are devoting most of their time to radio in the patent office, and at least half of the time of the principal examiner and his clerical force is taken up in this work. This examining force in the radio division has been augmented somewhat during the last few years so that at present it is the largest of all the examining divisions.

While it has not been possible in the past to materially reduce the number of applications on hand awaiting action, this delay, it is said, on the average, has been greatly shortened until now cases are reached for action within seven months from filing or amending compared with the previous delay of a year.

St. Augustine to Vote On Issue of Bonds

Departments May Unite in Movement

JACKSONVILLE, July 24.—A co-operative movement has been proposed by George W. Simons, Jr., chief sanitary engineer of the State Board of Health, whereby the state, county and city would unite to rid Duval county of the unsanitary and insanitary conditions. Various communities of the county have made much greater headway against the miasma as well as insanitary conditions, Mr. Simons points out, by working together.
