Juvenile Court Cases Increase In Last Year

By MARION BETHA (Seventh in a series)

Juvenile Judge Wallace Hall, who wears two hats, also serving as county judge, told a recent hearing of the Orange Seminole legislative delegation, that the case load on the increase with 1,500 juvenile referrals during the past year, and 120 cases per month in the last six months.

Contrary to a popular belief, the referrals are not for the most part drug related but include an alarming amount of child neglect cases, beating being the most prevalent. "The beatings come in bunches," the judge said, with the most recent incidents occurring a month ago with three children severely beaten. Judge Hall says that one-time a child is admitted to a hospital, and mistreatment is suspected, it is reported. Other reports, he said, some times come from school authorities or the family or neighbors of the victim.

A favorite weapon of the child abuser is a doubled extension cord used on the child's back. Judge Hall displayed one recently confiscated as evidence. "Publicity concerning child beatings does not accentuate a desire to commit the offense but in cases of child molestation the opposite is true, in the judge's opinion.

Another factor, of which most are unaware, is the numerous cases of incest in Seminole County, which Judge Hall sees as "alarming." Cases which are initiated through juvenile court and in which the fathers/mothers are found guilty are disposed by the parent being sent to prison. However, teen-agers are required to take a "poly-graph" (lie detector) test, due to the fact that they sometimes become disgruntled at their father and "distort the truth" in reprisal.

As of Oct. 1, 1971, the Division of Youth Services, a part of the State Department of Health and Rehabilitative Services, took over all counseling functions of the juvenile court regarding delinquent children, with the Division of Family Services handling all functions regarding dependent children. Delinquents are classified as having committed a crime; dependents as having a crime committed against them. The latter category includes beaten children, those deprived of support, abandoned, etc.

According to Judge Hall as of Jan. 1, 1972, all sentences will be divided. There will be four classes of felonies; two classes of misdemeanors. A felony of the first degree will carry a 30-year penalty (this includes second degree murder); second degree felony imposes 15 years (this includes statutory rape) and third degree felony, five years.

In the case of a repeated offender, the counselor handles the matter. Some times, the youth is placed under the supervision of a probation counselor. If the offense should come to a hearing and the offender is found guilty, the youth may be sent to a boy's or girl's school or placed in a "halfway house." Another alternative is placing the individual in the home of another family. Some times they are placed in hospitals but this is infrequent, due to lack of available space.

If the youth is sent to a school there can theoretically remain there until attaining the age of 21 but as a practicality, the judge notes, the length of time is dependent on the attitude of the offender and how well he acclimates. All of the schools, Mariana and Okaloosa for boys, two at Ocala for girls, a new one at Tereon, which is co-educational, are crowded with a waiting list of six months to one year.

There are a number of halfway houses with group living settings. Also there are forestry camps at Ft. Clinch and Jacksonville. Many youths do so well at the schools, they are transferred to the halfway houses, a minimum security type affair.

Separate Court Judge Hall envisions the drug problem in the county as "not getting any better, and will be critical for at least a year." Many of the offenders which he sees in court for delinquency are drug users.

The proposal for a separate juvenile judge in this county, of course, receives the backing of Judge Hall, who notes that this would afford more time to spend in each 22-23.

The juvenile case load in Seminole County has increased in the last year. In 1970 there were 702 cases; in 1971, 1,532.

SJC Sings In Holidays

Sunday will be a day for music at Seminole Junior College. The holiday season will be ushered in with the performances of the college's two choral ensembles, the Choral, directed by Janis B. Ellis, and the Chorales, under the direction of Burt H. Perinich. The Chorales, a new group of 20 voices, at 4 p.m. Sunday will perform Benjamin Britten's "A Ceremony of Carols" with Miss Rosalind Conn, principal harpist of the Florida Symphony Orchestra, providing the accompaniment. This choral work has become a traditional part of the Christmas music literature throughout the world since written first wrote it in 1922.

Britten is a leading figure in contemporary music of his native England and his name is esteemed internationally for his compositions, both choral and instrumental. "A Ceremony of Carols" is an original setting of carols in Middle English, Modern English and Latin. Soloists with the Chorales will be Valerie Hudson and Patrice Shirer, freshmen music majors at the college. Students will hear the group at 10 a.m. Dec. 8. The Choral will present Mendelssohn's one-act opera, "A Midsummer Night's Dream" on Sunday at 5:15 p.m. and on Wednesday, Dec. 8, during the school activity period at 11 a.m. This opera was commissioned especially for television and is be-

County Wide Committee Farr To Meet With Officials

By ANN SIECKOWSKI

In an unusually fast moving meeting of the Seminole County Commissioners on Tuesday, County Planner David Farr reported that Altamonte Springs and North Orlando officials had finally responded to his communication concerning the county wide joint planning and zoning committee.

It was decided at last week's commission meeting that a copy of the agenda be mailed to each of the municipalities within the county borders so that any or all of the officials could be apprised of matters pending and could attend the commission meetings if they wished to comment on anything on the agenda. Farr was instructed to respond to the recent communications from the interested officials and set up a time to meet with them. Pollution Control Officer Larry Adair requested that the board reject the bid on the Atomic Absorption Spectrophotometer. He said, "I learned last week that East Central Florida Regional Planning Council will not require the testing for heavy metals in the Basic Water Quality Study Program.

He said, "I learned last week that East Central Florida Regional Planning Council will not require the testing for heavy metals in the Basic Water Quality Study Program.

For that reason, I do not feel that the expense of the instrument is justified at this time. I do plan, however, to be running some tests in the future which will require the use of this instrument... but we can discuss it then."

Continuing his report, Adair said that on Tuesday, Commissioner John Kimbrough notified him that complaints were being made about muddy waters coming down Soldier's Creek and into Lake Jessup. The Department of Pollution Control was notified and Michel Bell and Adair investigated this situation. Land clearing operations at the site of the Shoosh Golf Club in North Orlando was allowing muddy waters to enter the creek.

Florida Land Commission was notified about the problem and assurance was given by the department of pollution control that immediate steps would be taken to correct the situation. On December 15, the Department of Pollution Control officials will be the site of a meeting between pollution control officials to discuss mutual problems. One item of special interest is a meeting with General Waterworks Company, Adair and the Orange County Pollution Control Department to discuss future plans of General Waterworks.

Sanford's Municipal Election Needs Vitalizing

One week from today the registered voters in the city of Sanford will have hired two men at $1,800 a year to help provide leadership and management for this fast growing municipality.

They will sit on the city commission and share the responsibility of handling an annual budget of not less than $2,750,000. They will be confronted with major decisions which will determine the course which this hitherto municipality will take during the three years of their terms.

This is a matter of extreme importance. Of course it is an election. Unhappily the response of the registered voters for such elections has been marked with apathy in the past.

In Sanford there are 6,672 registered voters. They are entitled to some sort of guidance from the men who are seeking the commission job as to their qualifications.

Two seats are to be filled. One is that of Dr. W. Vincent Roberts who is seeking re-election. The other is that of James H. Crapps, who decided to bow out from the rigors of the commissioner office.

In addition to Dr. Roberts, there are two hopefuls who want his seat. They are Carem Gager, a teacher and A. A. McClanahan, real estate salesman.

Bidding for Mr. Crapps' chair are Earl Higginbotham, former city commissioner; Rev. Edward Connelly, minister and only black candidate; and John Morris, title company manager.

We list these names without any endorsement. Two of them, Dr. Roberts and Mr. Higginbotham have their own track records. Three are newcomers to the political arena.

What has been a rather surprising condition, however, is the lack of personal campaigning which has been done by the hopefuls. True this is a holiday season and not easy to attract crowds, hold attention and speak clearly.

On Monday night, day before election, the two chambers of commerce, the Greater Sanford and the Sanford-Seminole Jaycees, are planning a candidates' night at the Sanford Civic Center.

At that time each candidate is expected to appear to state his reasons for getting the job and then answer questions from the floor. This is a very worthy purpose. Public participation is the only thing, however, that will make it useful.

There is one other item on the ballot. This is the proposal to issue a $4 million in bonds which would be used for a major attempt to handle the drainage problem which has plagued several areas in the city.

No one needs to be told that drainage is a critical issue. But someone certainly needs to spell out just what such an issue would do to the ability of the city to use another bond issue as a tool to meet other and unforeseen emergencies.

We believe that tying up such a fiscal resource to such an extent at this time is not wise. It seems as though there should be found other ways to solve this admittedly critical problem.

Should the bond issue be approved, the owner of a house appraised at $10,000 would be paying about $40 a year increased city taxes, as a four mill increase is estimated.

But the hiring of the new public servants is, in fact, the issue. More information from them within the next few days would help well voting. Hard facts, specific commitments and past records are needed.

No Shoplifting!

Among the most unwelcome of the holiday season's hangovers on the increase in shoplifting. A hazard to merchandising at all times, the crowds of shoppers and the mountains of goods offered for sale make shoplifting entirely too alluring now.

But it must be stopped. Not only for the actual loss which merchants suffer, or the shame which the caught culprit experiences but to stamp out one phase of crime which can be eradicated.

For shoplifting, regardless of the excuses employed to rationalize something which defies any normal rationalization, is a crime. To sully this holiday season and degrade the normal joy of buying and gift selection by shoplifting is a crying shame.

There are at least three types of shoplifters which security forces classify as: Professionals, supporting a drug habit with skillful devices to make a haul; opportunists, housewives or senior citizens who can't resist temptation; juveniles, usually teenagers out on a spree.

Here in Seminole County there are surely some of each class engaged in shoplifting. It is also only factual to note that the stores and markets where such thievery is taking place are aware of what is going on and taking practical steps to guard against it.

How unpleasant it is, however, to realize that these joyous times are being darkened by such practices. For there are some results which are saddening.

One is that those so apprehended have marred their lives with an act which may have started with a sense of adventure but can end with only the blasting of careers.

This is only too certain when young people are concerned. To them it can be one event which would haunt them for life. Not something which should have a dateline of the Christmas season.

Shoplifting is wrong morally, law-breaking in fact and an issue which should get the full recognition and support of all in stamping out an evil holiday custom.

Allah Will Give Me a Sign When It is Time to Jump Off!

Don Oakley Says: OK Labor, So You Told Nixon

It had accomplished nothing else, the AFL-CIO convention in Miami Beach at least proved that this is still a free country, insofar as freedom consists in telling the President of the United States where to head in.

The President "knew what he could do" if he didn't like labor's attitude of non-cooperation with Phase II, said AFL-CIO president George Meany. And if that message were not clear enough, it was underlined by the failure to play the traditional "Hall to the Chief" as the President entered the hall. Some delegates refused to stand, thereby showing the world that nobody can push free Americans around.

President Nixon was wise in discarding a "laundry list" of pro-labor accomplishments of his administration which he planned to read to the delegates. He could have told them he was instituting a union shop in the White House and still labor would not love him. He could open his veins to labor and Meany would call it to-mato juice.

The funny thing is that had the President been a Democrat — ANY Democrat — the delegates would have rolled on their backs and kicked their legs in the air like puppy dogs being tickled. Phase I and Phase II would be the greatest things in the world.

Nixon Trade Curb Embitters

TOKYO (NEA)—If Japanese self-appraisals today are tough, there are still some who think we are being unfair in singling out their land as a very special target of our restrictive economic policy.

Top government men in Japan have very good channels into Washington. They have been told that President Nixon's imposition of a 10 per cent surcharge on imports though applied to all nations, was directed mainly at heavy Japanese exports to America.

In a forthcoming article, a Japanese writer will say that many of his people see Nixon's move as making Japan "a most convenient scapegoat for all the economic evils Americans were suffering."

He sees American industry as evidently inefficient and our monetary policy as "undisciplined, benign neglect."

Many key Japanese agree with U. S. reporter Frank Gibbons, who says we practice a kind of "courtroom diplomacy" in which we accuse an adversary relationship rather than a partnership with Japan.

More than once I have heard the issue put in harsher terms. The recognized spokesman for his country's makers of man-made textile fibers, Kagayaki Miyazaki, president of Asahi Chemical, wondered aloud to me whether we were exhibiting racial hostility. So did one or two others.

Miyazaki knows Japan's volume of man-made fiber exports to America far outruns Europe's shipments. But he does not see the fairness in crumming a severe limiting textile agreement down Japan's throat, while we demand no new restraints from such exporters to us as Italy and France.

The Japanese newspapers are filled with stories which, if taken at full value, seem to add up to some measure of economic recession which they ascribe mostly to Nixon's policy. Capital investment is off (that happened before the Nixon shock), there are said to be some production cutbacks and considerable loss of jobs.

Officials say earlier voluntary quotas on textiles to America cost their government $200 million in adjustment relief for a consequently depressed industry. With the government planning to buy up and scrap 100,000 looms under the tough Oct. 15 textile pact, the outlook is for outlay of many times the previous sum.

It is hard for the outsider in one visit to gauge the real burden of Nixon's policies on Japan. Treasury Secretary Connally says there is no real recession here. U. S. sources say the damaged Japanese textile firms were inefficient, middle-range outfits and should go anyway. To Miyazaki, that belittles a potential job loss of 300,000 involving painful relocation in other work of people with little mobility.

Many leaders think their American counterparts are ignorant of what Japan is doing. Though the government really needs more money for domestic social development, it is trying to push through a personal income tax cut as a spur for the home market which might help offset possibly curtailed exports.

The Japanese insist, too, that they have responded—if somewhat belatedly—to the call from us and others to slash their tariffs and import quotas and open the way to wider foreign investment in Japan. They get support on this from U. S. scholars testifying before Congress.

Except for the fairly raised race matter, the worst in all that from the Japanese view is that we and perhaps Europe are seen as wanting to penalize the poor.

The recognized spokesman for these part supermen, part prima donna for their matches hard work and ingenuity. Said one leader in a mixture of anger and anguish: "What do the Americans want us to do?"

Count On Phase II Confusion

WASHINGTON (NEA) — The longer Phase II lasts, the more confusing it may become, except to lawyers.

This is in part intentional. For Phase II is designed to bend with political pressure from all sides, and snap back like a willow tree.

That is, Phase II is designed to defuse confrontations like that involving AFL-CIO president George Meany. It is structured hopefully to absorb the strains set up by the 13 per cent wage raise agreed in the coal settlement, the 7 1/2 and 7.6 per cent increases on tin plate products, the 8 per cent increase on some steel rolls and some even better gas price boosts in New York.

This may seem like some pretty weak defusing. Certainly the word battles will continue as long as Phase II lasts. But the actual day-to-day working battles are over an endless number of detailed points. The strategy is for the best to frazzle out in a long and drawn-out battle over individual cases.

The administration figures it can afford to compromise its stand in many of these arguments, after suitable delaying actions that are calculated to soften the impact of greater-than-guideline wage and price boosts.

Contrast this with what the situation would have had Nixon, Secretary Connally or a government board set down hard-and-fast ceilings for wages and prices, instead of the vague guidelines which can be argued and "dated."

The architects of Phase II feared that if the program were definite and precise it would break in the first strong push from labor, industry, Congress or protesters.

Phase II's indefiniteness is a result, too, of the fight that went into putting it together.

Hal Boyle Says: Here We Go - Jumping Again

NEW YORK (AP) — Jump "to conclusions" — we are laugh almost from birth to be ambitious and get as much out of life as possible. But anyone in his 80s who aspires to live into his 90s is regarded as vain or stubborn, not ambitious. When we become something of a nuisance to others, we are all expected to be polite and die gracefully and without making too much of a bother about it.

A thing we've never heard of and never expect to—is for a pro football quarterback to ask heaven for a white Christmas.

Here's an acquaintance doesn't always lead to knowledge. A city-born friend of mine confessed the other day he hadn't seen a live cow until his 18th birthday. When I asked him how many milk faucets there were on a cow, he confessed he didn't know. "I was just interested in what a cow looked like," he said, "not how old-fashioned kitchen match? I haven't even seen one for years. Has it struck out?"

The trouble with Christmas gifts is that they often aren't tokens of affection but tokens of tribune exacted under duress.

In this category fall most gifts by businessmen to their customers, gifts by nieces and nephews to wealthy aunts, and gifts by lawning parents to placate their greedy children. If we all gave presents only to those we really wanted to please, and none to those we didn't, our secret hearts would stand revealed. And who could really afford for that to happen?

Doodling has fallen to a low estate in this country. Doodling shows the state of your mind. A friend of mine had doodled the same thing—row after row of empty squares—for 25 years. If he would but now and then doodle a circle with a dot in it, that would show he wasn't altogether in a rut—and had had a fresh thought.

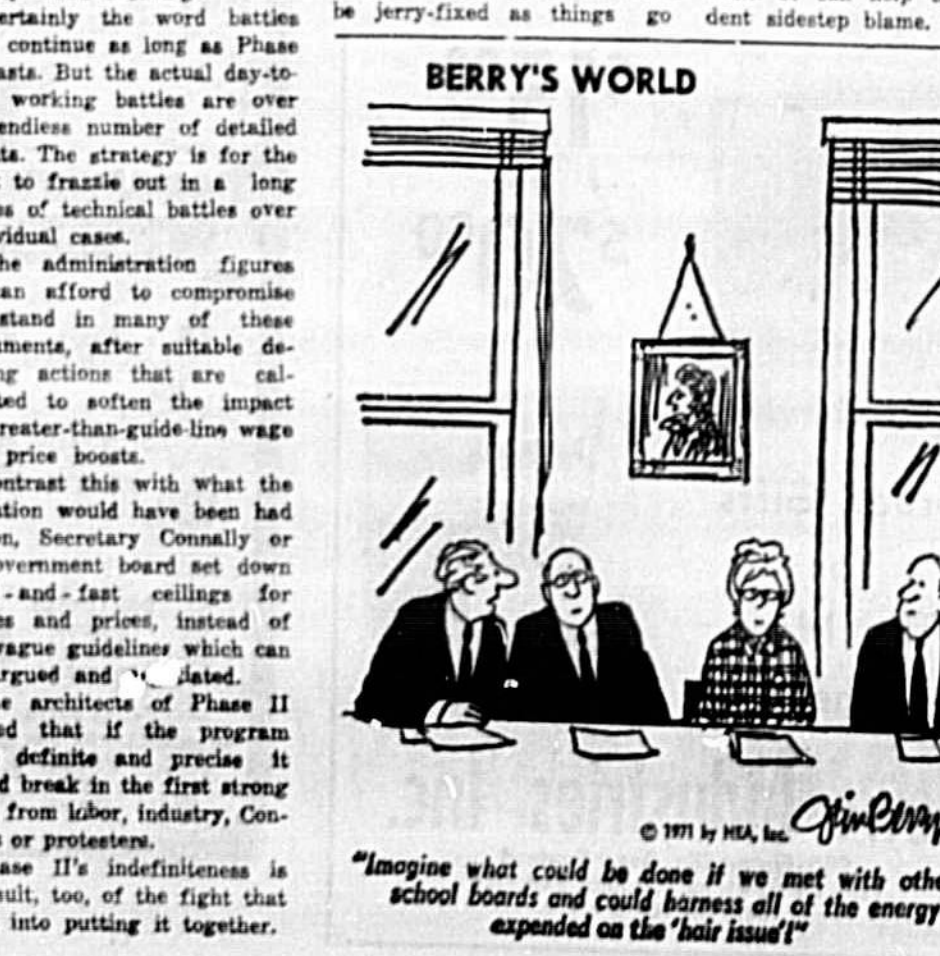

Where there is no friction in a marriage, there isn't likely to be very much real love or real life either.

Adrift 6 Days, Rescued

MIAMI (AP) — Two Miami men adrift for six days without food or water on a small life raft in shark infested waters said Tuesday they survived by eating shrimp and crabs they picked off clumps of sea weed.

Mike Williams, 25, a gem importer, and Joe Migon, 21, a junior at Florida Atlantic University, said their fishing boat sank off the coast of Andros Island in the Atlantic on Thanksgiving Day.

Both men said they were asleep, and woke up just as the ship was going under.

"We tried to get to Cuba just to get to safety," Williams said. "But the tide and the current were unbelievable."

Migon said that at one point they "floated through a weird channel where the current was going six ways at once and you're spinning around and you can't go anything."

Both men said they began to hallucinate while aboard the raft. And had to contend with sharks and tough seas.

"We would hear radio stations and wake up," Migon said.

Askew Tax Relief Plea Mulled By Legislators

By RICH OPPEL,
Associated Press Writer
TALLAHASSEE, Fla. (AP) — With Gov. Reubin Askew's corporate income tax bill passed by the House 98-13, the Legislature today turned to Askew's appeal to give Florida consumers tax relief by New Year's Day.

Both houses were to debate on Askew bill to repeal the 4 per cent sales tax on household utilities, a levy which produces $39.3 million in state revenue annually.

Also, the Senate had to act on Askew's proposal to strike down the corporate income tax amendment, while the House was to consider Askew's bill to abolish the cane pole tax.

Askew forces won all battles except one major one in the House's overwhelming passage of the $100 million corporate income tax. The loss was in its allowing power companies and other utilities to deduct 50 per cent of the gross receipts tax which they pay from their corporate tax payments.

The governor's press secretary, Don Priddy, said Askew was pleased with the bill "but he's still very much in favor of a clean bill as far as the utility credit."

Saying voters had mandated a broad tax revision program by their Nov. 3 approval of the corporate income tax amendment, Askew called the Legislature into a special 15-day session which began Monday to act on the program he outlined.

The House passed bill to implement the corporate tax on Jan. 1 was sent immediately to the Senate, where the Ways and Means Committee was to give it a going over.

Chairman Louis de la Pardo, D-Tampa, said the measure was almost identical to the Senate corporate tax bill and he anticipated no problems in its getting Senate passage if it is expected to hit the floor there on Thursday.

The bill to ease the tax burden on consumers' monthly utility bills slipped through the House Finance and Taxation Committee in four quick minutes but not with the Jan. 1 effective date Askew recommended.

The committee voted to delay the tax out until July 1. Chairman Ralph Tarrington, D-Gainesville, said replacement revenue from the corporate tax "just wouldn't begin rolling in until sufficient amounts until July."

"We need a sufficient amount of other revenues," he said, "then we can come back and make the date sooner."

Askew had pinned hopes of a Jan. 1 date on the success of the proposal to repeal all the state's mercantile sales tax on collecting state sales taxes—a $24 million-a-year bundle. But the chances of that passing are not bright.

Tarrington's committee put off action on the apartment tax (tax collector—which would cost the state $13 million annually—was proposed by Sen. J. St. Petersburg, said something should be done first to make sure "unwieldy" don't share in the tax break.

1971 Hurricanes Claimed 9 Lives

MIAMI (AP) — The 1971 hurricane season is over. Nine persons died and there was $125 million worth of property damage on the United States mainland during the six-month period of tropical unrest.

"That's pretty small considering we had five storms in a row strike the U.S.," said National Hurricane Center forecaster Paul Hebert.

The Atlantic season officially ended at midnight Tuesday after spawning 12 storms — five of them hurricanes — since it began June 1. Edith, Fern, Ginger, Irene and Beth produced winds of 75 miles per hour or more.

While only nine persons died in this country, Hebert said it's still unknown what the toll in human lives was around the Caribbean.

Hebert said Ginger's 31 day life span from its formation as a depression to its eventual demise was the longest in history. The 81 advisories issued by the center on Ginger's whereabouts and strength was similarly a new mark.

Two separate seeding experiments were performed on Ginger but results of the tests are still being tabulated.

At one point in September, the eight man center team had its hands full keeping track of two hurricanes, one tropical storm and two depressions all on the same day.

Edith coursed into the Gulf of Mexico after a rampage through Honduras, British Honduras and Mexico. She was then demoted to tropical storm status. But, later she regained hurricane force winds before slamming into the Louisiana coast.

"The sugar cane crop in Louisiana suffered pretty heavy damage," said Hebert, a veteran of six seasons.

While Edith was the strongest, she was Hurricane Doris, her predecessor, did the greatest damage to the country by dumping torrential rains along the already soaked eastern seaboard states.

Hurricane Ginger set track records as she ran a lengthy course well south, east and then south again, off Bermuda.

Hebert said Ginger's 31 day life span from its formation as a depression to its eventual demise was the longest in history. The 81 advisories issued by the center on Ginger's whereabouts and strength was similarly a new mark.

Two separate seeding experiments were performed on Ginger but results of the tests are still being tabulated.

At one point in September, the eight man center team had its hands full keeping track of two hurricanes, one tropical storm and two depressions all on the same day.

2 Women Slain, Girl Missing

MELROSE (AP) — A "real pretty" teenaged girl, believed kidnapped, was probably the only witness to the brutal slaying of her mother and another woman at a rural beauty shop near here Tuesday, police said.

Deputies from three counties searched for 16-year-old Valerie Turner, a student at Keystone Heights High School.

Police said she accompanied her mother, Bobbie L. Turner, 38, of Lake Geneva, to Nell's Style Shop Tuesday morning to get a haircut. The nearly nude and bullet-riddled bodies of Mrs. Turner and another beauty operator, 22-year-old Patricia Marrs of Melrose, were found in a shop storeroom.

The Turner girl wasn't found at the scene and failed to show up at school, police said.

Investigators said Tuesday night no arrests have been made.

"We're trying to run down as many leads as we can," said John Yarborough, chief investigator for State Attorney T. E. Duncan of Gainesville.

One report that "a swarthy looking man" asked for directions to the beauty shop at a nearby convenience store Monday night was not confirmed by police. "It's only a rumor at this point," Yarborough said.

"The beauty shop is located near the intersection of state roads 21 and 214 between Melrose and Keystone Heights. The neat little salon sits by itself on the winding road, with no other buildings for a mile around.

Sure glad to hear Chuck Anderson has thrown his crutches away, poor fellow injured his ankle three weeks ago and has just parted with his crutches and back to work. Hurting his ankle wasn't trouble enough for him, he developed an ear infection and it took some doings to rid himself of that. But all his troubles didn't hinder his favorite hobby, playing his prized guitar, no kidding, Chuck is real good with his pickin' and singin'. He lives at 510 East Third Street with his pretty little wife, Eloise and their two darling daughters, Missy and Charlene.

Talking to our daughter Monday night, Marcella Burdine in Yaxoo City, Miss. she said she was at the local bank and the teller waiting on her asked if her mother lived in Chuluota. The teller, Mrs. Jeanie Moore has a sister and brother-in-law, Joe and Mildred Nichols who live in Sanford.

How did Mrs. Moore come through the Sanford Herald, through-out the year and have their gifts ready to deliver at Christmas. They do it out of the goodness of their hearts and it is a worth while pass time for them.

Geneva Gems
By LIZ MATHEUX
Well, Thanksgiving has come and gone and it is quite obvious that I, along with a few others I could mention will have to let out a few more seams. Woe is me! I love to cook and don't I just show it?

Speaking of Thanksgiving, isn't it grand how holidays brings friends, families and loved ones closer together? Even though our children did not make it home from Atlanta this year, there were many happy folks scattered here about Geneva and the area because of the company of loved ones. Not the least of which was my own grandchild, little Edward, 12-year-old grandson, Edward Burdine started his school years in Titusville and being in Mississippi for three years he just met a young lad in his school in Yaxoo City who also moved there from Titusville.

I was so happy to see Karen and could not help but shed a tear after our all too brief visit after I sat down with Joe and reminisced about how she used to call us when she was a wee tot (sometimes five times a day, and we loved it just to say "Hi" or to tell us about the "destrated" Trisette" which she was going to get. How time flies! When I think of how I used to "baby-sit" Karen and Jayvee and here they are both grown into such lovely adults I do feel just a twinge of pride. Makes me feel as if I had a hand in their upbringing, in some small way... anyway, we were more than happy to see them... It makes one feel happy, especially when young folks remember. Watch out Liz, old girl, your senility is showing!

Before we leave the subject of the Stowells completely, I'd like to say that Cathy is an accomplished decorator. She could make a wooden box look as if it came from Tiffany's! Some folks seem to get all of the breaks, talent and good looks!

Christmas Delights Of Finland

By TOM HUGG
Associated Press Writer

A friend just returned from a year in Finland has been regaling me with tales of the fare in that remote land of spiced herring, hot reindeer steaks and frosted vodka. Most fascinating was his account of a northern Yuletide dinner.

For Christmas dinner, the Finns may feature some odd dishes by our standards, such as fish soaked in lye and porridge. But other dishes such as spicy sausages stuffed with barley, rich ham and a casserole of liver, potatoes and vegetables compensate.

I became so interested in his account that I finally persuaded another friend with Scandinavian connections to wangle me an invitation to lunch with some Finnish officials at Scandinavia House, their New York headquarters.

There we were served a yellow pea soup filled with chunks of ham, chunks of sautéed herring with sour cream, Finnish dark bread with cheese, and finally tiny pancakes dressed with a berry jam and powdered sugar.

For me, however, the piece de resistance was a herring salad called Rosoli-Sillistatti which is a feature of every Christmas dinner in Finland. It contains boiled potatoes, beets, dill pickles and several other ingredients. Here, it is as prepared by the wife of a Finnish official at Scandinavia House. FISHING-SALAD

2 small cans herring fillets, cubed
2 cups cooked beets cubed
1 1/2 cups boiled diced potatoes
2 cups cooked cubed carrots
2 dill pickles sliced
2 hard boiled eggs
2 apples diced
1 small onion cubed raw

Toss ingredients in a bowl, dice the egg and mix in. Mix other egg with fork (yolk and whites separately) and use for making decorative stripes atop salad. Garnish with parsley. Prepare dressing of sour cream adding a little mustard, vinegar and sugar. Color with beet juice and serve on salad.

GOOD DINNER
Smoked Boneless Pork
Shoulder Butt
Potato Cheese Puff
Snap Beans
Salad Bowl
Rolls
Pineapple Cake
with Whipped Cream

POTATO CHEESE PUFF
Chives and cheese add excellent flavor contrast.
2 1/2 pounds potatoes, 2 large or 4 medium
1/2 cup milk
2 eggs, separated
3/4 teaspoon salt
Tabasco sauce to taste
1/2 teaspoon baking powder
2 tablespoons chopped fresh chives
1 package (6 ounces) cheddar cheese cubes
Pare potatoes and cut into 1/2-inch pieces. Cover with water and boil until tender—about 25 minutes; drain. With electric mixer, beat at high speed until light and fluffy. Gradually beat in milk and egg yolks. Add salt, tabasco, baking powder and chives; mix well. Beat egg whites until stiff; fold in. Fold in cheese. Turn into a 6-inch pie plate and pile high in center. Bake in a preheated 375-degree oven for 30 minutes. Makes 8 servings.

FAMILY DINNER
Chili con Carne
Tossed Green Salad with Sliced Raw Fresh Mushrooms
Mary E. Greene's Rosy Applesauce
Mashed Potatoes
Cream of Chicken Soup
Mashed Potatoes
Cinnamon Apples
Ice Cream

MARY E. GREENE'S ROSY APPLESAUCE
No need to peel or core the apples.
2 pounds apples, use McIntosh or similar red-skin variety
1/2 cup water
1 cup sugar
Juice of 1/2 small lemon (1 tablespoon)
Wash apples and quarter; remove blossom ends and any stems. Turn into a large saucepan, add water and sugar, covered over low heat, stirring occasionally, until apples are soft—15 to 20 minutes. Put through a food mill. Add sugar and lemon juice and stir until sugar is dissolved. Serve warm or chilled. Store in refrigerator. Makes about 1 1/2 quarts.

A New Year's Resolution: Enjoy Good Food

By AILEEN CLAIRE

Holiday Cookie Wreath

An almost-too-pretty-to-eat cookie wreath begins with a good molasses cookie recipe. For those who do not want to take the time, simply make a batch of cookies. However, even small children will enjoy their part in helping cut-out bells and other pieces for a Molasses Cookie Wreath for a Christmas centerpiece. Arrange the wreath on the dinner table with a few pieces of greenery and other holiday baubles. To keep nibblers away from the wreath for a short time make extra french molasses cookies and place them near the wreath for eating first.

MOLASSES COOKIE WREATH

- 1 1/2 cups vegetable shortening
- 1 cup sugar
- 1 cup light molasses
- 1/2 cup boiling water
- 6 cups all-purpose flour
- 2 teaspoons baking soda
- 1 teaspoon salt
- 1 teaspoon ginger
- 1 teaspoon nutmeg
- 2 teaspoons cinnamon
- 1 teaspoon allspice.

Cream shortening until light and fluffy. Grind ailly heat in sugar and molasses ingredients until well-blended. Read a few time on a floured board just until a smooth ball is formed. Call dough for 2 hours. Roll out half the dough on a floured board, using a floured rolling pin, to 1/4-inch thickness. Cut out a cardboard holey leaf 2 inches wide and 4 inches long. Cut out leaves and arrange them in a circle on a greased cookie sheet leaving a hole in the center 4 inches in diameter. Roll small balls of the dough and arrange them near the center of the wreath at the bottom of the holly leaves. Roll out remaining dough to 1/4-inch thickness and cut two 1-inch wide strips of dough 5 inches long and shape them into the bows on the wreath. Cut 1 strip 1 1/2 inches long and place that strip at the bottom of the bow to represent the ribbon ends. Roll out remaining dough to 1/4-inch thickness and cut out desired shapes, using a cookie cutter. Bake wreath in a preheated 375-degree oven for 15 minutes or until puffed and lightly browned. Bake cookies for only 7 to 10 minutes. Cool wreath thoroughly before removing from cookie sheet. Outline leaves with prepared frosting.

EVENING REFRESHER
Raw Vegetable Tray with Sour Cream Dip

APRICOT BARS
A two-layer cookie.

- 1/2 cup (3/4-pound stick) butter or margarine, softened
- 1 1/4 cups firmly packed light brown sugar
- 1 1/2 cups unsifted flour
- 2 eggs
- 1 tablespoon lemon juice
- 1/2 teaspoon baking powder
- 1/2 cup chopped walnuts

With a spoon work together the butter, 1/2 cup of the sugar, 1 cup of the flour and 1/2 teaspoon salt; put mixture into bottom of greased 8-inch square cake pan. Bake in a preheated 350-degree oven for 25 minutes. Beat eggs with remaining 1/2 cup sugar until light and fluffy; beat in 1/2 teaspoon salt, lemon juice, baking powder and remaining 1/2 cup flour; stir in nuts and apricots. Spread over baked layer. Bake 30 minutes. Cool; spread with confectioners' sugar glaze; cut in bars.

Grid Loan
FRANKFORT, Ky. — (AP)—The state has approved the borrowing of $9 million to help finance a new University of Kentucky football stadium at Lexington, 30 miles from here.

Surround this with tomato roses and add a spicy touch with a horseradish sauce for a memorable meal. A busy hostess or a young bride hosting the family for the couple's first Christmas will find a roast requires a minimum amount of attention. Season with salt and pepper, a little garlic salt if desired or lay a bay leaf or two on top the roast. Pop roast into the oven and bake to desired degree of doneness. A meat thermometer is a safe guide to roasting since many of us forget to watch the time when involved with presents and holiday activities. Remember the roast will continue to cook after taken from the oven so remove it just before the degree of doneness is reached.

HOLIDAY STANDING RIB
Place beef flat side up on rack in shallow pan. Insert meat thermometer so tip will be in center. Roast in 325-degree oven to desired degree of doneness. Let roast stand 20 minutes in warm place before carving. It will continue to cook after taken from oven and internal temperature will rise a few degrees.

TOMATO ROSES
Select large, round, firm, red-skinned tomatoes. Cut slice around stem end, separating it from pulp but leaving attached to skin at one end. Cut skin from tomato in continuous 1-inch wide band, being careful not to break. Starting at free end of skin, roll band around, shaping into rose and assemble on base.

HORSERADISH SAUCE
Fold 2 tablespoons drained prepared horseradish into 1/2 cup whipping cream, whipped. Add 1/2-teaspoon salt. Sprinkle with chopped parsley. Makes 1 cup.

Standing Rib Roast Tops For Holiday Eating Pleasure

By GAYNOR MADDOX
NEA Food Writer

Looking for a good New Year's Resolution? Here's one from a respected nutrition scientist.

"Take more responsibility for choosing the food you eat. Don't just eat anything put before you. You will be surprised how much more fun and pleasure this will bring to you. And a lot better health."

No predicts Dr. Ruth Leviton, science adviser to the U.S. Department of Agriculture.

"Establish a pattern of eating. The greatest value of a good pattern is that it saves a lot of time. Get in the daily habit of eating not only meat and potatoes, or macaroni and cheese, but vegetables and fruits and many other things for nutritional variety. The secret of good food is variety."

Is money any guarantee of a good diet?

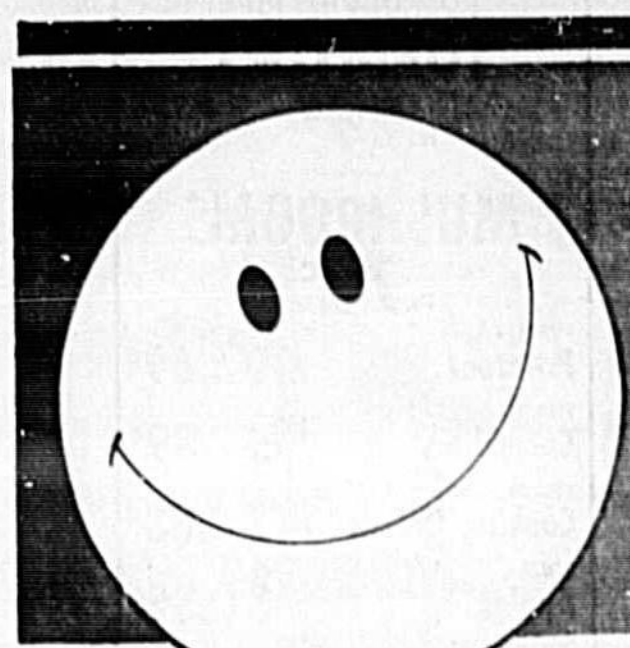

"I don't think people who eat poorly are necessarily short of money. The very poor, yes. But plenty of people with money in their pockets seem indifferent to good food," says Dr. Leviton.

A great challenge to people in the nutrition sciences is to find out what motivates people to eat other than sheer hunger. To the scientist, the lack of vital interest in the quality of food is a realistic problem.

"You cannot make people eat home life, with few meals shared by all the family. It looks as though each man or woman will decide pretty much where and what he will eat."

Look at all the fat people. Certainly they must know that extra calories mean extra pounds — yet they continue eating mostly carbohydrates and sugar. I don't think they like being fat. But they don't take responsibility of restricting themselves."

Dr. Leviton, author of "Fat Becomes You," whose lectures and writings on the eating habits of America are notable for their advanced ideas, hopes that in 1972 we all will pick up a good eating pattern and enjoy the rewards — better health, better figures and more happiness.

Builder Gets OK From City

Builder Braley Odham has apparently convinced the Sanford City Commission to allow him to proceed with his Sanora planned unit development (pud) project, to be located at the Onora Road and Sanford Avenue intersection.

Wednesday the commission approved the utilization of open, paved drainage ditches of adequate design as approved by the city and the establishment of a capital drainage improvement fund with three-quarters of one per cent of the cost of constructing each dwelling unit, but not less than $100 each unit, to be collected for drainage expense.

These steps recommended by City Manager W. E. Knowles resolved the confrontation between the city and Odham over a drainage ditch, which Odham wanted to pave and wall, but which the city engineer Mack Lazenby had some misgivings.

Odham had threatened to suspend work on his $15 million pud, which will someday cover 145 acres with more than 624 apartments, single family dwellings and 113 acres of commercial development, if required to run expensive underground drainage pipes.

Commission approved the city manager's recommendations unanimously and it is anticipated that Odham will begin work immediately on his project.

City Commissioner, in another action, instructed the city manager to obtain a copy of Winter Park city election procedures to study the changing of present city elections to conform with state elections beginning in 1972.

No date was specified, but it is possible city elections may be held at time of presidential elections in November, depending on what information is gleaned.

Fires Are Allowed To Protect Groves

Open burning for the purpose of frost protection will be allowed under the new open burning regulations of the department of pollution control. Until June, 1972, all types of fuels may be used, including tires and railroad crossings, but the county pollution control officers has urged all grove owners and farmers to keep the burning of rubber tires and crosscut materials to an absolute minimum.

Weather conditions that prevail during periods when frost protection is necessary are also favorable to the ground, particularly in the early hours of the morning.

The dense smoke and particulate matter released from the burning of tires, oily or creosoted materials can cause hazardous health and safety conditions in Seminole County.

When weather conditions warrant the burning for frost protection, it will not be necessary for the grove owner or farmer to call either the office of pollution control or the division of forestry. Each person who does burn, however, should be familiar with the burning regulations as outlined in chapter 17.3 regulations of the department of pollution control.

Crapps: Voters Are Uninformed On $4 Million City Bond Issue

Only one of Sanford's five city commissioners has indicated support for the proposed $4 million drainage bond referendum on the Dec. 7 city ballot.

Commissioner Gordon Meyer, at a Wednesday afternoon work session, told his fellow commissioners, "I support the bond issue because I feel it is needed."

Of his four colleagues, only Commissioner J. H. Crapps voted on record as opposed to the bond referendum but there were indications from Commissioner W. Vincent Roberts and Mayor Lee Moore they "had mixed emotions" concerning how they would vote on the matter.

Commissioner Julian Stenstrom was the least talkative concerning his position on the referendum, which, if passed, would add four mills in debt service over a 20-year period to the taxpayers tax load.

Stenstrom said he had not made up his mind on "just how I will vote" when pressed for a statement regarding his stand.

Roberts, who is seeking reelection on the same ballot that will determine whether city property owners are willing to shoulder more taxes to provide drainage, said, "I have some misgivings on the bond issue."

He explained his concern is over the tremendous amount of interest ($9 million over 20 years) it would require to pay off the bonds at six per cent.

Roberts envisioned a plan whereby the city's drainage problems could be resolved on a smaller scale, with approximately $100,000 or the equivalent of a single mill being used each year and earmarked for correcting the drainage problem in a progressive fashion.

He said there is other things more important, such as a new fire station in the southern area of the city where annexation is extending the city limits.

"I don't know whether I'll vote for the drainage bonds," he concluded.

Crapps was adamant in his opposition to the proposal and said it is "useless to put it on the ballot, since I can't see how anyone would saddle himself with such a debt."

He added that people do not know what they are voting for since they have not been informed.

Commissioners instructed W. E. Knowles, city manager, to prepare bond issue information for dissemination to the press and hence to the voters before Tuesday's elections.

Motorist Unhurt Auto And Train Collide

A rash of traffic accidents Wednesday afternoon and Thursday morning were reported by the Florida Highway Patrol, sheriff's department, Oviedo Police and Sanford police. Two of the accidents involved motorcycles, while in another a motorist escaped serious injury when her car was struck by a train at a Sanford crossing.

Samuel Joseph Kales, Jacksonville, suffered a broken leg and arm after he tried to pass a truck and struck a car driven by Patricia Quinn Roundtree, Kaled, who was charged with "failure to yield right of way" by the Oviedo Police. Chief Kenneth Triplett, was riding a 1961 Triumph motorcycle. The accident occurred on SR 419 just inside the Oviedo city limits.

According to Deputy T. R. Hey, Joseph E. Paolo and John Margas were riding a motorcycle on Snow Hill Road about 1:30 a.m. this morning when the cycle ran out of gas and was struck from behind by a car driven by Harold Jefferson Bridges was engineer on the Seaboard Coast Line train. The car was termed a total loss.

Charges are pending further investigation by investigating trooper M. E. Ernest Leggett of the Highway Patrol. He was assisted at the scene by Lt. LeRoy Rice and Deputy Hey.

Brenda Faye McPherson was charged with "no driver's license" and "driving a stop sign" after a Wednesday afternoon accident at Ninth Street and Palmetto Avenue in Sanford. Her 1969 Pontiac crossed into the path of a 1967 Pontiac driven by Diane B. Bailey. Both drivers were from Sanford and damages to both vehicles was estimated at $300. Officer Herschel Gilbert of the Sanford police investigated the accident. He was assisted by Patrolman Walter Jones.

Public works director Donald Bundy said for the first time during the dump's nine-month operation, garbage was not covered yesterday due to a breakdown in city equipment. If the city equipment is not repaired today, a tractor will be rented and the garbage covered, Bundy promised.

The city's sanitary landfill is located in a section of the former Allen R. Pyle borrow pit west of Douglas Avenue.

There was also a fire in the adjoining borrow pit belonging to the Earl Lettner Company last week. Cause of that fire also has not been determined.

Kiwanians Of Sanford Plan 50th Birthday

Kiwanis Club of Sanford, which will be 50 years old Sunday, announces the golden anniversary dinner celebration will be held in the Sanford Civic Center on Saturday, Dec. 11.

The gala affair will be the beginning of several activities planned throughout the year in commemoration of 50 years of service to Sanford, reported Ernest Cowley, president.

Kiwanis International trustee Charles Roberts will be the keynote speaker. All five of the state officers of the Kiwanis Florida district will be present to assist in honoring the living charter members and the special recognition of representatives from the two Kiwanis Clubs - Kiwanis Club of Eustis and Kiwanis Club of Maitland - whose charter was sponsored by the Sanford Club.
