Lake Mary residents burglarized

LAKE MARY — Lake Mary Commissioner Tom Mahoney was among six victims of a series of burglaries in the Cardinal Oaks subdivision early Wednesday morning.

Lake Mary Police arrested Millard Filmore Johnson, 20, of 212 Yarmouth Rd., Fern Park, and charged him with the burglaries. He is being held at the John E. Polk Correctional Facility.

Charges include armed burglary, auto theft and grand theft.

According to arrest reports, Lake Mary Police first responded to a report of a bicycle theft at Gator's Dockside Pub at about 1:30 a.m. Wednesday.

After completing the report, Lake Mary Police were besieged with several prowler and burglary calls during the next 90 minutes. When police first responded to the subdivision, they reported finding the stolen bicycle.

While responding to one burglary in the Cardinal Oaks subdivision, a policeman recognized a vehicle, belonging to a longtime resident, parked across the street from the first reported burglary. The vehicle, found to be driven by Johnson, was stopped several blocks away. Police report Johnson admitted to stealing the bicycle, driving it to the subdivision and burglarizing the residences.

Police report states, Mahoney, unaware of the burglary until notified by police, was brought to the scene and identified three checks which he found had been taken from his jeep parked outside his 616 Mourning Dove Circle residence.

Another victim identified Johnson as an individual he discovered in his home earlier. The victim said Johnson ran away.

Police report finding several stolen items in the vehicle, which had been reported stolen.

Guard arrested on assault charge

SANFORD — Jack Robert Hudson, 59, 322 N. Country Club Road, Lake Mary, has been arrested on a charge of aggravated assault. The incident took place Tuesday night, when, according to police reports, Hal Kelly, arrived at 9 p.m., to look at used automobiles at Phil Bettis Car Center, 27105 Orlando Drive in Sanford.

Hudson, who is listed as a security guard, approached Kelly and reportedly asked what he was doing there. Kelly reportedly explained that he was there late because of his work schedule, but would leave as soon as he checked several vehicles.

The police report said Hudson told Kelly to leave, and pointed a loaded 12 gauge shotgun at him. Kelly left, and contacted the Sanford Police Department, saying he wished to file charges.

Police located Hudson at the auto dealership where he was arrested, and taken to the John E. Polk Correctional Facility.

Security guard slain

POMPANO BEACH — A self-appointed security guard at his apartment complex was slain while calling the 911 emergency line to report a gunman was after him.

"The guy got a gun," Glen Powell, 34, excitedly told police from a pay phone across the street from the apartments.

Compiled from staff and wire reports.

Tax bill showdown

Joyce and Harold Christensen had a front row seat.

Sanford resident leads property-tax-cap drive

By LACY DOMEN
Herald People Editor

SANFORD — A rebellious Harold Christensen may not pay his property taxes next year.

"I have always paid my taxes by the end of the year, but I have a strong feeling right now that I won't pay them at all next year. Enough is enough," the retired engineer said of the appraisals that hiked the tax bill on the three pieces of property he owns in Sanford 200 times the amount paid last year.

Armed with constitutional amendment petition forms calling for a cap on property taxes, Christensen said he passed out all he had last night at a forum of homeowners who gathered to listen to Seminole County Property Appraiser Bill Suber explain

Lake Mary to discuss spending

By NICK PFEIFAU
Herald Staff Writer

LAKE MARY — The Lake Mary City Commission will hold a special meeting tonight. The majority of the items on the scheduled agenda deal with spending issues.

The special meeting is the second one to be called since the last regular commission session held on August 15th.

One of the major items to be brought up for discussion is the Interlocal Agreement between Lake Mary and Seminole County, on the Lake Mary Boulevard Beautification project financing. The Seminole County Commission approved $230,500 for the landscaping and beautification project Tuesday by a 3 to 2 vote.

Lake Mary Mayor Randy Morris said, "I'm very pleased at the results of the vote. I'm sure they have done the right thing in approving this interlocal agreement."

The boulevard project as it stands now, is for that area east from Interstate 4 to C-15, Country Club Road. Morris explained that the remainder of the boulevard widening project to go easterly from the city, is SANFORD — Amidst jeers and staccato bursts of applause from an angry audience last night, Sanford City Commissioner Lon Howell and Seminole County Property Appraiser Bill Suber sparred orally over methodology used in recent property reappraisals.

Older homes, hardest hit, were valued at up to 100 percent increase, raising real dollar cost to the taxpayer as much as 50 times the amount paid last year.

"There was no rhyme or reason to how the appraisals were done in Seminole County," Howell, using an overhead projector to compare slides of random properties to the downtown area told the audience of about 250.

Suber said he would not answer questions about specific properties. He said property owners could come to his office and discuss their appraisals.

"On August 15 we mailed notices to all property owners in Seminole County. By law, you have 25 days to come into my office and talk about your property. If we find a problem, we'll adjust what we've done. Everyone in my office is human, as you all are, but we were careful to be as accurate as we could be," Suber said, after explaining reappraisals were done after a three year study.

The crowd rumbled in discontent. "I talked to one of your people," Sanford resident Harold Christensen called from the audience. "He said 'sell it.'"

"Does he run for office?" Doug Starrow said aloud. "He'll never be

In that office again."

"Your wasting your time. Going to his office is a joke," Steve Balant said.

Howell said he visited Suber's office and asked for the formula used to calculate property values.

"This is what they gave me," he said, holding up a ream of computer paper that he let fall to the floor. "Would you explain this?" he asked Suber.

Suber said methodology for the reappraisals was a complex set of many factors, including resale market value of comparable property and the existing state of the property.

New school, county districts

By J. MARK BARFIELD
Herald Staff Writer

SANFORD — The first four options for changing district boundaries for county commissioners and school board members are under review by Seminole County political leaders.

Under each option, District 5, which is now served by Jennifer Kelly, and includes Sanford, would pick up several Markham Woods Road neighborhoods, including Wingfield Reserve, Mandarin and Springs Landings. Under one option, the sections of Lake Mary east of Country Club Road and north of Lake Mary Boulevard would shift from commission District 2 to District 5.

Under another option, Chuluota and the remaining southeast corner of the county would enter District 5 from District 1.

Commission District 5 is also the school District 5 served by Jeanne Morris.

County commissioners, which must review precinct boundaries after every census, will review the precinct and district proposals Sept. 10. County commission district boundaries are the same as school board district boundaries, but school board district numbering is different.

The four district options are being circulated to the leadership of the county Democratic and Republican party organizations, the League of Women Voters and school board officials. Their comments and recommendations may be used to support one option or to modify an option, said county statistician Don Hastings.

Mary Ostrander, president of the Seminole County League of Women Voters, said she has not completed her review, but was pleased to see county staff maintained similar populations in each district.

The proposed precinct boundary changes were made to target an average population of 1,700

Book order pulled for sex education classes

By VICKI DeSORMIER
Herald Staff Writer

SANFORD — Sex. The mere mention of the word can arouse controversy, and when it comes to teaching young people about it there's sure to be a row.

The district's order of "Education in Sexuality," a book approved by the committee charged with selecting materials for use on lessons on sexuality in Seminole County high schools, has been pulled.

The committee will meet on Sept. 1 at 1 p.m. in the district boardroom to discuss the curriculum of the high school sexuality education classes. There have been no complaints about the curricula developed for the kindergarten through fifth graders, the sixth graders and ninth graders.

"I began to get involved when I heard the concerns of some members of the community," said school board member Barbara Kuhn. "Our programs are supposed to be abstinence based and this book is not."

Kuhn said that the book, which includes references to homosexuality, masturbation and levels of sexual activity, would send mixed signals to the high school students who would use it.

Roger Beathard, director of health education for the district, said only certain sections in the book would be used as supplemental materials in the class and that the books would not leave the classroom, so there would be little chance of the students doing any "outside reading" on unapproved subjects.

Kuhn, who said she has taught sex education both in her church and in the public school system, believes the Teen Aid program which is the basis for the high school curriculum can stand alone and needs no supplemental material.

FLORIDA BRIEFS

Chiles calls for new energy sources

FORT LAUDERDALE — Gov. Lawton Chiles wants the Sunshine State to take the lead in use of alternative energy sources, and researchers and public workers around Florida are testing their practicality.

Many of the projects are supported by state grants issued this summer from national fines paid by oil companies, primarily for violating pricing regulations. The wide-ranging experiments involve cars, buses and garbage trucks running on everything from recycled paper to solar power.

Algae threatens beaches

MIAMI — Massive algae blooms are threatening Florida's beaches and coral reefs, experts say.

Some scientists believe coastal pollution is the culprit, pointing to unnaturally rapid growth in two types of algae — Sargassum and Codium isthmocladum — near Florida's shores. Both normally grow more slowly, deep in the Atlantic Ocean and the Gulf of Mexico.

"It's a symptom of a larger problem we can't afford to ignore," said Brian Lapointe, a seaweed expert at Harbor Branch Oceanographic Institution on Big Pine Key. "Our coastlines are literally dying."

Other experts say changes in weather and ocean currents or the recent demise of some seaweed-eating species might have more to do with the problem.

It may even be a naturally recurring phenomenon, said Paul Carlson, a marine research scientist with the state Department of Natural Resources.

Crenshaw lines up support

TALLAHASSEE — Over the objections of some colleagues, state Sen. Ander Crenshaw has lined up enough support to become Republican designate for Senate president.

Whether he actually gets the leadership post depends on the party's showing in the 1992 elections. Some GOP senators who last year backed Sen. Jim Scott of Fort Lauderdale said Wednesday that Crenshaw's drive for the designation came too soon.

"I just think the timing is bad," said Sen. Malcolm Beard, R-Seffner. "You can't cut the pie until you get the pie. I think they're jumping the gun."

The election last month of Republican Locke Burt to a Volusia County seat vacated by Democrat Tom Brown gave the GOP 18 members in the 40-seat Senate. Republicans think they have an excellent chance to gain control after the 1992 election because of their strong gains in registration throughout Florida.

Crenshaw, R-Jacksonville, said "nearly all" the 18 Republicans had thrown their support to him. Scott, who wanted to keep the designation, was not among them.

Rolling defense calls no witnesses

TAMPA — The prime Gainesville slayings suspect won't have any witnesses testify in his defense at his trial on charges he robbed a Tampa grocery store at gunpoint last fall.

Instead, Danny Harold Rolling's defense attorneys said they will use today's closing arguments to try and convince a five-woman, one-man jury that the Louisiana drifter is simply a victim of mistaken identity.

Rolling, 37, faces charges of robbery, attempted robbery and aggravated assault on police in the holdup of a Tampa Save and Pack store a few days after the last of five bodies were found in Gainesville.

The charges, which carry a possible life sentence, could help place Rolling in Gainesville around the time of the slayings. The getaway car used in the Tampa robbery was stolen from a Gainesville student apartment complex two days after the last bodies were discovered.

Defense attorney Mary Lou Cuellar has argued positive identification of the robbery gunman is impossible because he was wearing a ski mask. She also noted some witnesses were not even able to tell if the man was black or white.

But prosecutors produced a grocery shopper who claims he saw the gunman unmasked during his escape. He swears it's Rolling.

The state also had experts testify how Rolling left 26 fingerprints on the tan Buick getaway car, and closed its case Wednesday with a crime lab expert who found nine of 14 hairs recovered from the ski mask similar to Rolling's.

Man survives crash

TAMPA — A Tarpon Springs man was in guarded, but stable condition at a Tampa hospital today after he walked away from a crash that destroyed his homemade plane in a remote area of Pasco County.

Jack Lenehan crashed his plane about 6 p.m. Tuesday, then walked more than a mile and spent the night in a cattle-feeding shed.

Wednesday afternoon, about 18 hours after the crash, Lenehan flagged down a news helicopter aiding the Civil Air Patrol in the search.

In each area, though some smaller precincts were drawn to accommodate growing neighborhoods. District boundaries were drawn with a goal of having 87,500 in each district, roughly one-fifth of the county population of 287,530.

The boundary options were prepared by the county statistics and cartographics offices, which worked with elections supervisor Sandra Goard to reconfigure the county's 95 precincts into a proposed 101 voting areas. The additional precincts were needed to keep up with population growth and maintain voting convenience and efficiency.

Although county commissioners are elected at large — by every voter — they represent the residents of the district where they reside. Commissioners respond to complaints from constituents. They also make recommendations for zoning issues in their districts which are routinely accepted by other commissioners.

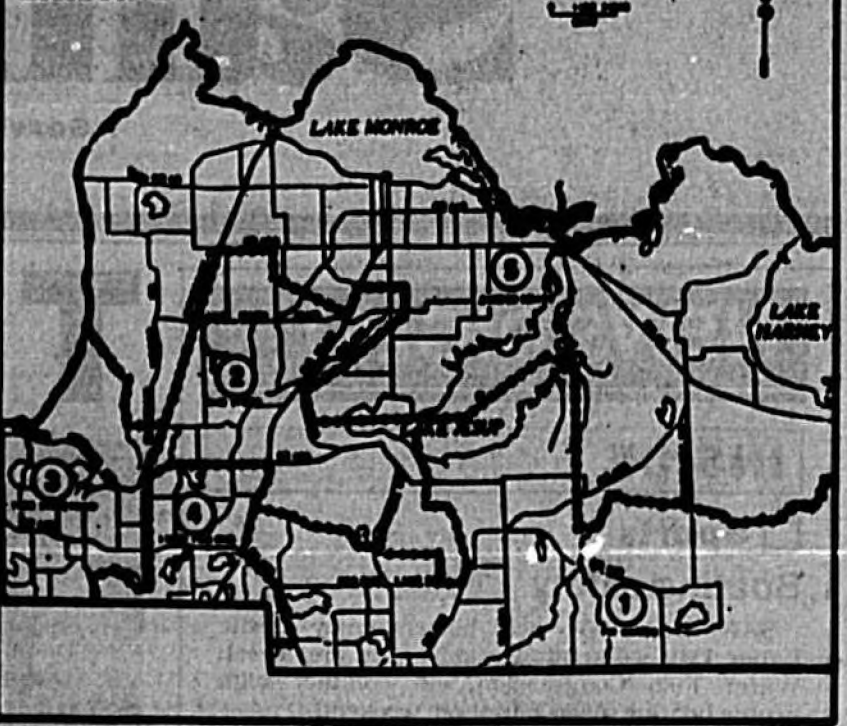

Boundary changes could have significant impact for commission District 2, currently represented by Bob Sturm. The district is school District 1, served by Sandy Robinson.

Although most of the District 2 configuration retains portions of Winter Springs in the district, one option would move a large portion of voter-rich Winter Springs, including the Tusawilla subdivision into commission District 1, now served by Pat Warren.

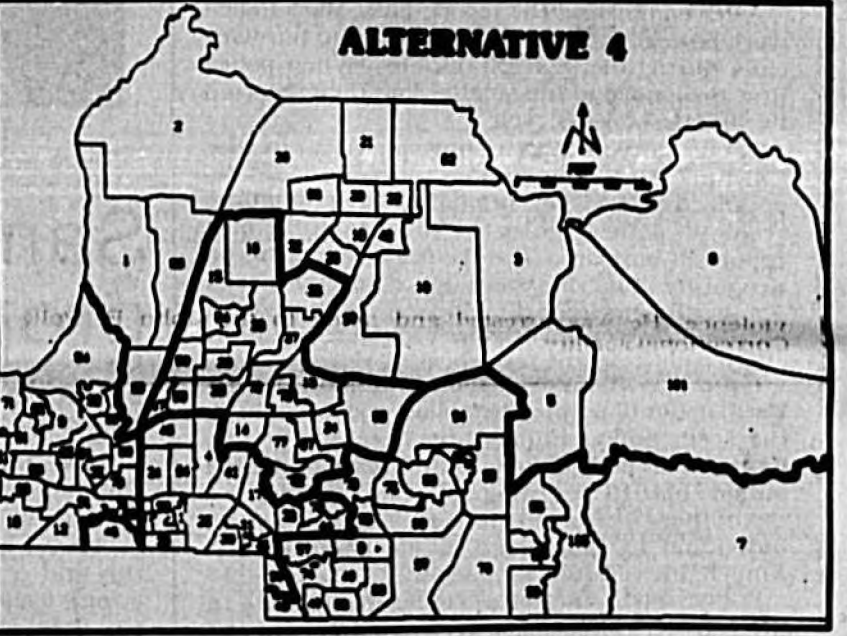

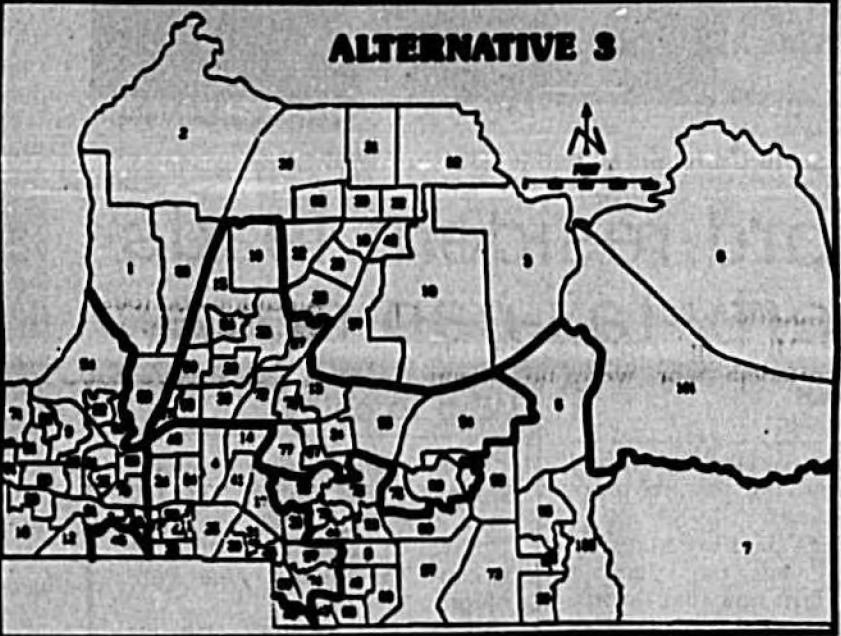

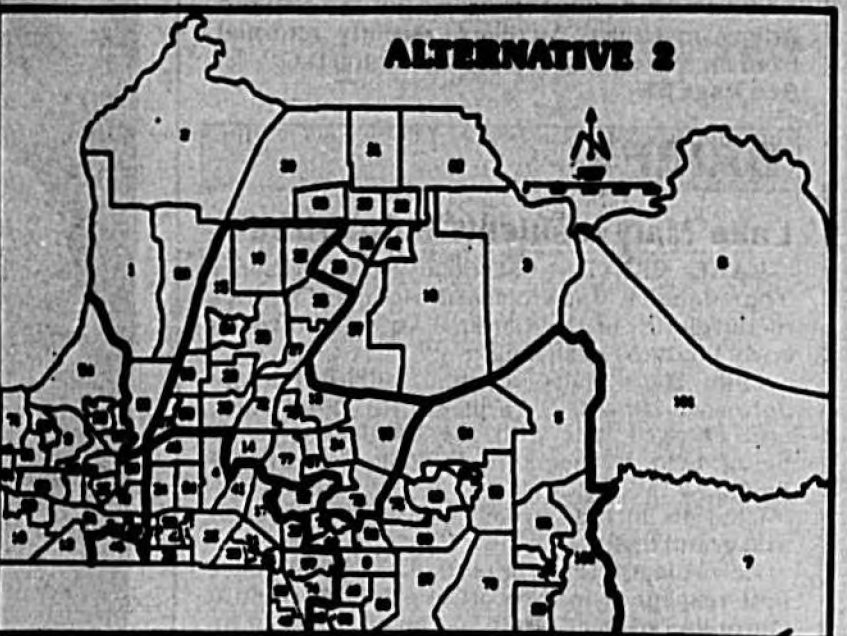

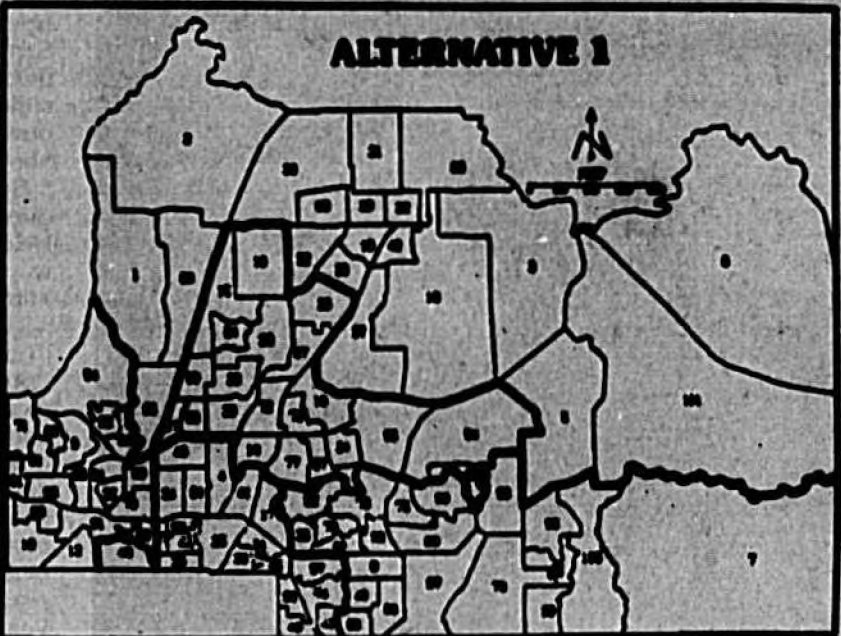

Commission District 3, now served by Fred Streetman, keeps much the same boundaries as now in each option with the loss of Precinct 93 to commission District 5. Commission District 5 boundaries are shared with school District 2, served by Nancy Warren.

Commission District 4, now served by Larry Parling, would remain much the same. It is the same as school District 3, served by Joe Williams. Commission District 1, served by Warren, would remain much the same.

EXISTING

although some boundary changes could occur depending on the configuration of commission Districts 2 and 5. Commission District 1 boundaries are the same as the school District 4, served by Barbara Kuhn.

Florida trees to help Old Ironsides

PENSACOLA — The oldest warship afloat in any of the world's navies will be repaired with some majestic live oaks that are being removed to make way for a parking lot and athletic fields at Escambia High School.

The Navy has selected about 30 of 52 trees that were being removed Wednesday for refurbishing the USS Constitution, the legendary sailing ship that earned the nickname "Old Ironsides" in the War of 1812, said J.B. McNamey, public affairs officer for the Pensacola Naval Air Station.

"We'd prefer to see them go to the Constitution than to firewood," said Barbara Frye, spokeswoman for the Escambia County School Board.

The frigate, moored in Boston Harbor, isn't made of iron but of Massachusetts, Maine and Georgia oak so sturdy that British cannonballs are said to have bounced off its sides. It still is a commissioned Navy vessel. The Navy searches for live oak wood to use in the ship's regular maintenance and repair, waiting until trees are downed by natural causes or construction.

"We don't have a lot of live oaks on hand because it's been a protected species," said Don Turner, supervisor of the shipyard where the Constitution is moored at the mouth of the Charles River.

That protection has been going on for nearly 200 years when live oaks were prized for building wooden warships because of their strength. In 1828, the Navy established its first tree plantation in what is now Gulf Breeze, a suburb of this Florida Panhandle city, to make sure the Navy had a reliable source of live oak. Headquarters now for the Gulf Islands National Seashore, the Naval Live Oak Reservation never was needed for shipbuilding before wood was supplanted by metal.

The ship is scheduled to be drydocked next July

Workers exhausting benefits

By KAREN BALL
AP Labor Writer

WASHINGTON — More than 300,000 out-of-work Americans exhausted their unemployment benefits in July, the highest level in at least 40 years, said a study released today by a group that advocates programs for the poor.

While no statistics were immediately available on Seminole County benefit losses, Robert Moore, economist with Job Services of Florida said, "Claims for unemployment compensation from July, 1990 to July 1991 in Seminole County increased by 39.4 percent."

With a labor force of 183,002 in Seminole County, 11,989 or 6.5 percent were unemployed in July of this year. Non agricultural employment dropped by 1 percent for the third consecutive month, with a loss of 5,900 jobs during July alone. August figures have not yet been compiled.

"Most of Seminole County's job losses were in manufacturing and construction jobs," Moore said.

About 318,000 Americans exhausted their regular unemployment benefits in July and were unable to qualify for extended benefits, the Center on Budget and Policy Priorities said.

The study, based on figures from the Labor Department, said the 318,000 was the highest one-month total since the government first began tracking monthly statistics in 1951.

At the current pace, the study said, the number of Americans who run out of jobless benefits this year will exceed any year since the nation's unemployment insurance program was established in the 1930s.

"The problem is likely to remain acute in the months ahead, even if the economy continues to recover," said Isaac Shapiro, who researched the study for the liberal, Washington-based center.

It would take months of rebounding economic activity before the impact is great enough on the jobs market to bring down the number of jobless Americans exhausting benefits, Shapiro said.

In early August, Congress passed a $5.2 billion package to extend unemployment benefits to the long-term unemployed.

Drugs sold in a school area

Three Sanford persons have been arrested on drug related charges. A passing Sanford police officer saw a man standing by a vehicle near Hamilton Elementary School, near Mellonville Avenue and 8th Street Tuesday evening. When he stopped to investigate, he reportedly noticed the man had what appeared to be a baggie in his hand, along with $10 in cash. The bag was later determined to contain cannabis. The man, identified as Stanley Roy Reid, 48, 1106 E. 8th Street, Sanford, was charged with possession of cannabis for sale within a school area, and possession of a controlled substance.

The officer also checked the two persons in the vehicle and arrested them. They were identified as Sandra Kucynski Malcolm, 44 and Terry LeRoy Patton, 41, both of 1833 Landings Drive, Sanford. Both persons were charged with possession of a controlled substance, cannabis. Malcolm was also charged with possession of drug paraphernalia. All three persons were taken to the John E. Polk Correctional Facility.

Sanford man arrested on warrant

Don Paris Newsome, Jr., 21, of Sanford, was apprehended at the home of a friend, at 120 Grove Hollow Court, Sanford, Tuesday. Newsome was wanted on two separate warrants issued in Seminole County, charging him with violation of parole. He had reportedly been convicted in May of 1989 and was serving five years probation on charges of burglary to a conveyance, two separate grand theft convictions and a conviction for possession of a controlled substance. He was placed in the John E. Polk Correctional Facility.

Man robbed in Midway

Rufus T. Carter, 3650 Main Street, Sanford, was reportedly robbed early Wednesday morning. He reported to Seminole County Sheriff's deputies that three men accosted him near Broadway and Midway Avenue shortly after midnight. He reported they took a beeper phone device and several dollars worth of cash from him. Sheriff's officers are investigating the incident.

Law offices burglarized

The Seminole County Sheriff's office is investigating a reported burglary late Monday night, at the law offices of James G. Atkins and Associates, P.A., 212 Sheridan Avenue, Longwood. Entry to the building was apparently made through a side door. Several offices were reportedly entered. Items reportedly taken included a fax machine valued at $1,000 and a computer valued at $2,400.

Occupied home burglarized

Someone reportedly pried open the back door of a residence at 809 Sweetwater Club Circle, Longwood, Tuesday evening, and burglarized several rooms. The owner of the home, Harold D. Miller, reported his son was in the living room watching television during the reported break-in, and did not hear any unusual noises. Jewelry, with a total value of several thousand dollars, was reportedly taken from the bedroom area. Seminole County Sheriff's deputies are investigating the case.

Second try proves successful

Seminole County Sheriff's deputies succeeded on their second attempt to locate Michael Larry Tucker, 24, at his residence, at 388 Tulane Drive, Altamonte Springs. Tucker was wanted on a warrant charging him with violation of parole. He was serving two years parole on convictions in May 1991 of battery to a law enforcement officer and resisting arrest with violence. He was arrested and taken to the John E. Polk Correctional Facility.

Teens get prison terms in beating death of deer

By BILLY BOON
Associated Press Writer

MIAMI — A judge slapped the maximum sentence on two young men who fatally clubbed an endangered Key deer, calling it a "heinous offense."

Kevin Goodwin and Tim Daniels, both now 19, were convicted June 27 of beating to death a nursing Key deer Aug. 12, 1990. Fewer than 300 of the diminutive species are left in the wild.

"It was a malicious act and a cruel act. It also resulted in the death of a fawn, a needless death," said U.S. District Judge James Lawrence King. He accepted the prosecution argument that a nursing doe's offspring could not survive without its mother.

Goodwin, who had a previous juvenile record, was sentenced Wednesday to a year in federal prison and Daniels to 10 months.

Minimum sentences for the misdemeanor were no prison time to six months in jail. But assistant U.S. attorneys Thomas Watts-FitzGerald and Patricia Fahlbuch argued that neither defendant showed remorse.

The teen-agers also were given one year of supervised release and were banned from entering any federal or state wildlife refuge for one year following their release. The pair also faced fines of $100,000 each, but King said fines weren't appropriate in their case.

The judge ordered both men sent directly to prison. Their lawyers said they would appeal.

Key deer are the smallest whitetail deer. They average 28 inches tall at the shoulder and weigh 60 to 70 pounds.

NASA sets launch date for Discovery

Associated Press

CAPE CANAVERAL — NASA has set Sept. 12 for the launch of Discovery with five astronauts and a satellite to study the ozone layer.

Weather permitting, the flight will end at Kennedy Space Center at 1:55 a.m. on Sept. 18 in the first night shuttle landing at Kennedy. NASA said Wednesday. Kennedy was designated the first-choice landing site this summer.

Discovery is scheduled to lift off on NASA's 43rd shuttle flight at 6:57 p.m.

The crew will release the research satellite midway through the flight. The satellite is to spend at least 1 1/2 years measuring the ozone, atmospheric temperature and winds, and solar energy from an orbit 372 miles high.

Experts believe the Earth's protective ozone layer is being destroyed by pollutants.

The project's cost is $740 million, officials said. NASA said the 14,500-pound satellite is the largest atmospheric research spacecraft ever flown.

The mission will be the 13th flight for Discovery, NASA's most traveled spaceship, and the fifth shuttle mission this year.

Defense

After an investment of seven years and $21 billion in research costs, the U.S. effort to devise defenses against nuclear missile attack may soon move beyond the drawing board. A plan to deploy a limited ground-based system of 100 interceptor missiles at Grand Forks, N.D., by 1996 was approved earlier by the Senate with bipartisan support. But the measure faces stiff opposition in the House.

The Senate vote is significant because it advances the Strategic Defense Initiative, also known as Star Wars, from the research stage to the development of the actual architecture of a scaled-down missile defense. Such a system would begin to shift the strategic balance of terror toward defenses and away from a total reliance on mutual assured destruction to deter war.

The success of the Patriot missile in intercepting Scud launchers fired by Iraq during the Persian Gulf war contributed to the support among senators for deploying missile defenses to protect the United States. Under the system proposed by Sens. Sam Nunn, D-Ga., and John Warner, R-Va., ground-based interceptors would defend a large swath of the country against a limited nuclear strike. This could include an unauthorized attack by rogue Soviet military commanders or, more likely, a future assault by an aggressive Third World regime such as Saddam Hussein's Iraq.

According to Pentagon estimates, 18 Third World countries now possess ballistic missiles and that number is expected to grow to 24 by the end of the decade. The longest-range missile under development in the Third World is India's Agni, with a capacity to hit targets 1,500 miles away.

At a cost of about $10 billion, the Nunn-Warner system would comply with the 1972 Anti-Ballistic Missile Treaty, which restricts the United States and the Soviet Union to no more than 100 interceptors deployed at a single site. The Soviets earlier fielded a less sophisticated system to defend Moscow from missile attack.

The Senate-passed measure also urges the Bush administration to begin negotiations with the Soviets on amending the ABM treaty to permit more-ambitious missile defenses, including space-based components that now are prohibited.

Although the Pentagon has given qualified support to the Nunn-Warner proposal, the administration is pushing for a much-larger defensive system that would require major amendments to the ABM pact. It also would take many more years to deploy. The Bush plan is known as GPALS, for Global Protection Against Limited Strikes.

According to current estimates, GPALS would cost $41 billion to deploy. It would consist of 1,000 orbiting interceptors called Brilliant Pebbles and a second defensive layer of 750 ground-based missiles. The major advantage of GPALS is that it would be able to knock out missiles soon after they were launched instead of only as they approached their targets.

It is not difficult to foresee a time in the not-too-distant future when an irrational Third World leader might have at his disposal an intercontinental-range missile topped with a nuclear warhead. Even a limited anti-missile defense could help avert catastrophe under such circumstances, just as the Patriot blunted the threat posed by Iraq's conventionally armed Scuds.

People united can not be defeated

"Naroz nepobedim, naroz nepobedim" does not have the same joyously rhythmic cadence as the street chant of Philadelphia voters after they rejected Frank Rizzo's 1975 bid for three terms as mayor.

But the sentiment — "The people united, can never be defeated" — accomplished the same goal for the Russian people. (The actual translation of "Naroz nepobedim" is, "It's impossible to defeat the people." That's something Soviet military hard-liners discovered to their chagrin.)

American commentators and Soviet experts were shown up as well. Nobody predicted the coup. And nobody predicted it would last only three days. One distinguished columnist even rushed breathlessly into print under the assumption that the coup d'etat was an irreversible fait accompli and chided Gorbachev for not having gone far enough.

But history is our teacher. For centuries, the Russian people have docilely accepted some form of tyranny — either monarchical or ideological. Almost everybody, especially Soviet hard-liners, blithely assumed the Russian character, with its incredible capacity to absorb oppression, would knuckle under.

They were as wrong as King George III was in 1775, or as American slave owners were during the slave rebellions of the 1800s. Freedom is indivisible. All rulers succumb to what Alfred called "the fallacy of North Whitehead misplaced assumptions."

Ironically, the chief beneficiary of the Russian people's peaceful revolution to restore Gorbachev to power is the adversary who may eventually replace him, Boris Yeltsin.

Without Yeltsin taking a stand and his supporters demonstrating their willingness to die for freedom, the Soviet hard-liners had no way of knowing that the Russian people could no longer be contained. They miscalculated their power in much the same way that King George III and American slave-owners miscalculated theirs. During the three days of August, the Russian people passionately embraced the universality of Frederick Douglass' wisdom: "The limits of tyrants are prescribed by the endurance of those they oppress."

Following the three-day August political quake that shook the world, we should pause and reaffirm two political facts of life: the Hegelian guarantee of Mikhail Gorbachev's place in History is our teacher.

Russian and world history, and his lion's share credit for political progress in South Africa and the Middle East peace talks.

This Russian people's revolution might never have occurred had not its architect detailed his mandate for change. Without Gorbachev, the Berlin Wall would not have tumbled, the Eastern European countries would not have been inspired to overthrow their communist tyrannies, the work to restructure the Soviet economy would not have begun.

By the same token, the Gorbachev "quiet revolution" made it possible for South African President F.W. de Klerk to release Nelson Mandela from prison and lift the ban on the African National Congress — under the rationale that the communist-controlled ANC was no longer an internal threat.

In the Middle East peace talks, Syria, a former Soviet ally, has evinced a new flexibility for negotiation, and the hard-line Israeli government of Shamir has been pushed to the negotiation table because it could no longer hold the Damoclean threat of communist aggression in the Middle East over America's head.

Finally, the supreme irony: A major world leader who cannot get his domestic act together, George Bush, has formed a successful partnership for peace with Gorbachev, who shares the same weakness. And Bush has shown an almost mystic faith in Gorbachev's ability to succeed where he himself has failed: putting his domestic house in order.

Scandal could cost billions

WASHINGTON — Why should you care if John Gutfreund, former chairman and chief executive of the nation's most powerful investment firm, has resigned in disgrace? Because the Salomon Brothers bond scandal could end up costing U.S. taxpayers billions a year.

Gutfreund — once dubbed the "King of Wall Street" — was virtually a symbol of the '80s on the Street. Gutfreund and Salomon President Thomas Strauss and Vice Chairman John Meriwether announced their resignations.

They stepped down less than a week after admitting that they had waited months before telling federal regulators about illegal practices by Salomon's government securities trading desk.

Every week the federal government finances the ever-growing national debt by selling notes, bills and bonds backed by the "full faith and credit" of the U.S. government. It currently has $2.33 trillion in these obligations outstanding, and they are traded in a secondary market with a daily volume of $119 billion — more than 10 times the value of stocks traded daily on the New York Stock Exchange.

Mostly, the Treasury sells to 40 "primary government dealers," of which Salomon is one of the top three. By law, to be designated, a dealer must bid in all auctions, maintain at least 1 percent of the market, and be directly responsible for guaranteeing a liquid secondary market.

Gutfreund surprised Wall Street when he announced that his company's government security traders had violated trading rules on four occasions between last December and May of this year. He said that the company was suspending its two top government securities traders, another trader and an order clerk pending completion of both federal and company probes.

However, much more shocking was the news was that Gutfreund, along with Strauss and Meriwether, had learned that Salomon had wrongfully acquired 57 percent of a note issue at a February sale, but had not reported it to regulators until Aug. 9.

Salomon's problems began with the Treasury's May 22 sale of $12.25 billion in two-year notes. The sale was a success, and it was assumed that the 40 primary dealers had split up the offering.

No dealer can buy more than 35 percent of an issue from the Treasury. The fear is that if any one dealer controls more, it can "squeeze" the market and artificially inflate resale prices. A fixture in the secondary government securities market are "when-issued" sales. Effectively, these are secondary market trades in announced issues before the government actually sells them. Like short-sellers in the stock market, traders will agree to sell a bill, note or bond at a future date at a given price. The trader gambles that the price actually paid for the security will be lower than the agreed-upon selling price, allowing him to buy at a lower price than he is selling. The buyer, in turn, is hoping the price will be higher so he can immediately resell at a profit.

There was a great deal of short selling of the May 22 two-year note issue. Most of the short-sellers agreed on a May 31 delivery.

But for reasons that were unclear at the time, little of the May 22 issue appeared on the open market. Frantic short-sellers quickly bid up the price. Suddenly the notes appeared. It was clear that someone had made a killing.

That someone turned out to be Salomon. Buying in various clients' names, Salomon traders had purchased 85 percent of the May 22 offering. They then kept the notes off the market until prices soared before selling out for huge profits.

After receiving a flood of complaints, the Treasury began investigating.

At no time during the course of its meetings with Salomon did the company or its executives admit the earlier trading violations. In fact, insiders say, the belated admission came only after Treasury officials began investigating a $1 billion February purchase in the name of a Salomon customer who claimed no knowledge of the purchase.

Why, you might ask, should this further example of Wall Street greed bother you? Simply put, the Treasury depends on these sales to finance the government. About a quarter of each issue is bought by foreign concerns. They, in turn, depend on a fair and liquid secondary market.

Millions of Americans could see the value of their holdings plummet.

High-tech hideouts conceal big flaws

WASHINGTON — One of the government's most secretive projects — high-tech hideouts where the president and other key government officials would work during a nuclear war — may also hide waste and gross mismanagement.

But, as several people have found out, blowing the whistle on this top-secret project is risky business.

The top-secret Continuity of Government project, or COG, was created by the Reagan White House staff, including Lt. Col. Oliver North and then-Vice President George Bush. It is run by the Federal Emergency Management Agency and consists of a $5 billion network of bunkers filled with high-tech communications equipment at secret locations around the country to ensure that the government would survive a nuclear war.

Fred Westerman was hired by the Army Corps of Engineers in 1986 to do security work for the COG project. He was a retired Army major and a counter-intelligence officer for 20 years, and apparently he did his job too well. According to sources and documents obtained by our associate Dean Boyd, Westerman found serious flaws hidden under the cover of "top secret," and they were flaws that the government didn't want to correct.

When Westerman reported faulty alarm systems at the bunkers, the government replaced them with ones that were worse. When Westerman complained to the Army about engine parts falling off of emergency vehicles, water seeping into high voltage lines and toxic chemicals leaking into the bunkers, the Army told him they didn't want to hear any more. Westerman had joined the ranks of persons non grata employees who have tried to expose waste and abuse in the COG program and who have had their careers destroyed as a result.

In November 1987, officials from the Army Corps of Engineers and FEMA paid Westerman a visit and ordered him to turn over his records to one of his competitors for an audit, or he would lose the contract. Westerman refused.

After that encounter, Westerman claims in a subsequent legal suit that his office was broken into, his phone was tapped and he was followed by government agents. At one point he was tailed by a car with license plates that he traced to an elderly Delaware couple who knew nothing about the car.

In December 1987 Westerman's contract was canceled. He submitted a bill for close-out costs but the government refused to pay. Fed up, Westerman filed two separate suits against the government.

Sources say that Westerman's efforts to get the FBI and the FEMA inspector general to look into the COG program went nowhere. So Westerman took his story to the House Armed Services Committee, which initiated an investigation and found serious problems with the program.

But the government wasn't finished with Westerman yet. After he cooperated with Congress, Westerman became the target of a fraud investigation and his claims for the money the government owes him were frozen. In August 1989, he was put under a gag order preventing him from discussing his case with anyone, including Congress. There are even some top-secret details that he isn't allowed to share with his lawyer.

They were flaws that the government didn't want to correct.

Attempts to ban books on rise

By JIM ADAMS
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON — Parents backed by conservative groups in the past year sought to ban books ranging from "Little Red Riding Hood" to "The Grapes of Wrath" in what a civil liberties group calls "an epidemic of censorship" in public schools.

"This is a nationally driven movement that has embraced censorship as a political weapon," Arthur J. Kropp, president of People For the American Way, said Wednesday in presenting his group's ninth annual report on school censorship.

The report cited 264 incidents of what it described as attacks on the freedom to learn in the 1990-91 school year, including 230 attempts at censorship. The figure represented an increase of about 20 percent from 1989-90.

The Rev. Lou Sheldon, head of the California-based Traditional Values Coalition, accused Kropp's group of "demagoguery" in labeling the right to criticize school material as censorship. People, he said, "don't want intimidation from the radical left."

Among the works challenged to intimidate schools into dropping controversial material. "This epidemic of censorship also sends a terrible message to our children, namely that ideas are something to fear, something to avoid," Kropp said.

He said two conservative groups, James Dobson's Focus on the Family and Don Wildmon's American Association, were among the most active in attacking school reading material. Less than 5 percent of cases involved liberal groups trying to expunge material deemed not "politically correct."

One of the biggest targets was a reading series for young children called Impressions, challenged 45 times by groups alleging it contained satanism and violence. The series includes works by A.A. Milne, Martin Luther King Jr., Maurice Sendak, Dr. Seuss, Rudyard Kipling and C.S. Lewis.

"Special curricula dealing with drug abuse prevention or sexuality issues came under heavy fire last year," Kropp said. "Typically, attackers charged that these materials promoted satanism or what they called New Age religion."

Beverly LaHaye, president of the conservative Concerned Women for America, charged in a statement that People For the American Way was "outside the American mainstream and totally out of touch with parents."

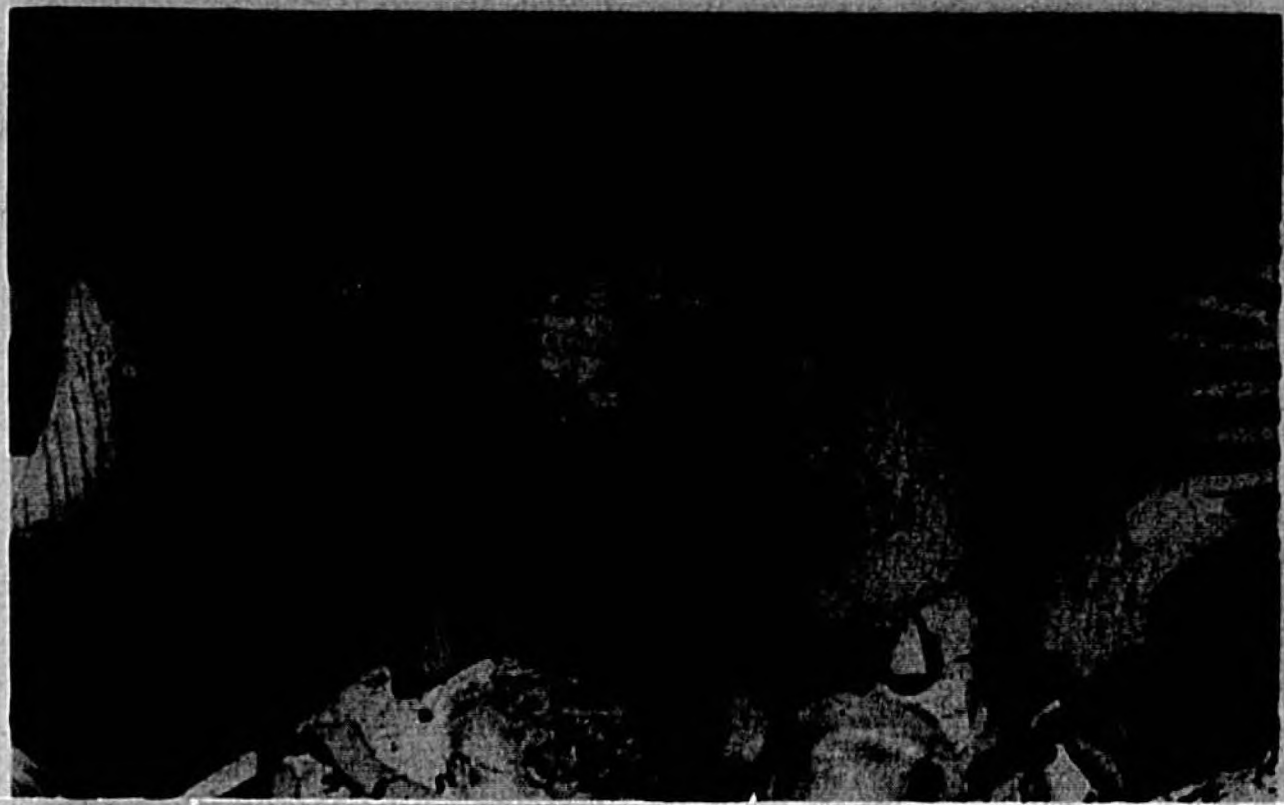

Kropp blamed the "far right or religious right" for the increase in censorship cases, saying conservative organizations are increasingly turning to litigation

during the year were John Steinbeck's "The Grapes of Wrath," Roald Dahl's "The Witches," William Golding's "Lord of the Flies," Robert Cormier's "The Chocolate War" and Richard Wright's "Native Son," along with "Little Red Riding Hood," "My Friend Flicka" and "Webster's Ninth Collegiate Dictionary."

Opponents objected to "Little Red Riding Hood" because her basket held wine, and to "My Friend Flicka" and the dictionary because they contained profanities. About one-third of challenges were successful, Kropp said.

As in past years, critics took aim at two classics of youthful rebellion, J.D. Salinger's "Catcher in the Rye" and Mark Twain's "The Adventures of Huckleberry Finn." Some objected to what they called Twain's degrading depiction of blacks.

Valrie Cox asks Bill Suber a question about paying property taxes.

Showdown

"My job is to fairly appraise your property. I don't make the taxes," Suber said, turning to Howell.

"And if you'll notice in this whole scenario, I haven't gotten to your pocketbook. Any value I place on the role will not create a tax. No tax is associated with that value until budgets are set by, guess who, taxing authorities such as the one on which Mr. Howell sits, the Sanford City Commission."

Suber pointed out that the city had reappraised facts and figures from his office in June, prior to setting their own budget.

"They could have compensated. They could have rolled back the millage but they chose not to," Suber said.

Howell produced a comparison of taxes levied on two pieces of property with and without the millage rollback.

"We're talking about a 400 or 500 percent increase in dollars because of the appraisal. Rolling back the millage only saves a little over $30," Howell said.

Suber countered, saying the city always has the option of rolling millage back enough so taxes will not rise, despite the increased valuation of the property. "That's not the whole tax bill, the schools for example still get theirs, but the city could have levied no increase in tax this year by simply rolling back the millage," Suber explained.

Attorney Steve Lawrence, who successfully represented a Sanford homeowner in his bid to equalize property appraisals, told the audience he thinks Suber's office is finally doing its job.

"The appraisals are finally fair. My point is up to now he hasn't been doing his job. My house was appraised last year, the year before and the year before that. We're in the middle of a recession. I know my house hasn't doubled in value in one recessionary year. He hasn't been doing his job and now he's making up for it," Lawrence said.

Howell said his point has always been that the appraisals may have undervalued property, but Suber should not have tried to catch up all at once. "I talked to more than one 85-year old lady who may lose her house because this wasn't done incrementally," Howell said.

Homeowners of all ages commented. Kevin Stubbs said he understood both sides of the tax issue. "If the city was notified beforehand and commissioners were not paying attention, it's their fault too. Unfortunately, it's we who have to pay," he said.

"It just doesn't seem fair that it can go up that much in one shot," Jim Valerino shook his head and said.

"Maybe your appraisals weren't so good before, but its a recession and maybe our jobs aren't so good to pay for this all at once," Valrie Cox, who must find about $1,000 over last year, said. "Can't they leave us alone until after the recession?"

commented. Kevin Stubbs said he understood both sides of the tax issue. "If the city was notified beforehand and commissioners were not paying attention, it's their fault too. Unfortunately, it's we who have to pay," he said.

"It just doesn't seem fair that it can go up that much in one shot," Jim Valerino shook his head and said.

"My job is to fairly appraise your property. I don't make the taxes," Suber said, turning to Howell.

"And if you'll notice in this whole scenario, I haven't gotten to your pocketbook. Any value I place on the role will not create a tax. No tax is associated with that value until budgets are set by, guess who, taxing authorities such as the one on which Mr. Howell sits, the Sanford City Commission."

Suber pointed out that the city had reappraised facts and figures from his office in June, prior to setting their own budget.

"They could have compensated. They could have rolled back the millage but they chose not to," Suber said.

Howell produced a comparison of taxes levied on two pieces of property with and without the millage rollback.

"We're talking about a 400 or 500 percent increase in dollars because of the appraisal. Rolling back the millage only saves a little over $30," Howell said.

Suber countered, saying the city always has the option of rolling millage back enough so taxes will not rise, despite the increased valuation of the property. "That's not the whole tax bill, the schools for example still get theirs, but the city could have levied no increase in tax this year by simply rolling back the millage," Suber explained.

Attorney Steve Lawrence, who successfully represented a Sanford homeowner in his bid to equalize property appraisals, told the audience he thinks Suber's office is finally doing its job.

"The appraisals are finally fair. My point is up to now he hasn't been doing his job. My house was appraised last year, the year before and the year before that. We're in the middle of a recession. I know my house hasn't doubled in value in one recessionary year. He hasn't been doing his job and now he's making up for it," Lawrence said.

Howell said his point has always been that the appraisals may have undervalued property, but Suber should not have tried to catch up all at once. "I talked to more than one 85-year old lady who may lose her house because this wasn't done incrementally," Howell said.

- INTERGOVERNMENTAL COORDINATION
- MASS TRANSIT
- TRAFFIC CIRCULATION
- SANITARY SEWER
- CONSERVATION

THE BOARD OF COUNTY COMMISSIONERS WILL CONSIDER THE ENACTMENT OF AN ORDINANCE TO ADOPT THE COMPREHENSIVE PLAN. THE TITLE OF THIS ORDINANCE READS AS FOLLOWS:

AN ORDINANCE REPEALING ORDINANCE NUMBER 87-14, WHICH IS THE CURRENT SEMINOLE COUNTY COMPREHENSIVE PLAN, AS AMENDED BY NUMEROUS ORDINANCES; ENACTING THE 1991 SEMINOLE COUNTY COMPREHENSIVE PLAN AS WELL AS THE ASSOCIATED FUTURE LAND USE MAP AND OTHER MAPS AND MAP SERIES ASSOCIATED WITH THE PLAN PURSUANT TO CHAPTER 163, FLORIDA STATUTES, AND RULE 9J-8, FLORIDA ADMINISTRATIVE CODE, AND ALL OTHER APPLICABLE LAWS AND RULES; PROVIDING FOR FINDINGS; PROVIDING FOR AN EXPRESSION OF PURPOSE AND INTENT; PROVIDING FOR THE ADOPTION OF NUMEROUS REQUIRED AND OPTIONAL ELEMENTS OF THE COMPREHENSIVE PLAN RELATING TO PLAN IMPLEMENTATION, FUTURE LAND USE, CAPITAL IMPROVEMENTS, CONSERVATION, DESIGN, DRAINAGE, HOUSING, INTERGOVERNMENTAL COORDINATION, LIBRARY SERVICES, PORTS, AVIATION AND RELATED FACILITIES, POTABLE WATER, PUBLIC SAFETY, RECREATION AND OPEN SPACE, SANITARY SEWER, SOLID WASTE, TRAFFIC CIRCULATION, MASS TRANSIT AND ASSOCIATED MATTERS; PROVIDING FOR THE ADOPTION OF GOALS, OBJECTIVES AND POLICIES; PROVIDING FOR THE PROCEDURES TO ENCOURAGE AND FACILITATE PUBLIC PARTICIPATION AND FOR AMENDING THE PLAN; PROVIDING FOR A CONCURRENCY MANAGEMENT SYSTEM WHICH MAY IMPACT OR PRECLUDE THE ABILITY OF PROPERTY OWNERS TO DEVELOP PROPERTIES DUE TO DEFICIENT PUBLIC FACILITIES; PROVIDING FOR CONSISTENCY BETWEEN THE COMPREHENSIVE PLAN AND COUNTY DEVELOPMENT ORDERS AND LAND DEVELOPMENT REGULATIONS; PROVIDING FOR THE REFERENCE TO SUPPORT DOCUMENTATION; PROVIDING FOR SEVERABILITY; PROVIDING A SAVINGS CLAUSE; PROVIDING FOR EXCLUSION FROM THE SEMINOLE COUNTY CODE AND INCLUSION, AS A SEPARATE VOLUME, IN THE LAND DEVELOPMENT CODE OF SEMINOLE COUNTY; AND PROVIDING FOR AN EFFECTIVE DATE.

PUBLIC PARTICIPATION IS NEEDED

A COMPREHENSIVE PLAN EXPRESSES THE POLICY DIRECTION OF THE COUNTY AS TO NEW DEVELOPMENT, PUBLIC SERVICES, MANAGING NATURAL RESOURCES AND RELATED MATTERS AND ISSUES. THE PROCESS OF DEVELOPING THE PLAN DEALS WITH BROAD COUNTY-WIDE GOALS, OBJECTIVES AND POLICIES AS WELL AS SPECIFIC ISSUES AFFECTING PARTICULAR AREAS WITHIN THE COUNTY. THUS, PUBLIC PARTICIPATION AT THIS PUBLIC HEARING IS ENCOURAGED. ALL PUBLIC COMMENT WILL BE SUBMITTED TO THE BCC, REVIEWED FOR POSSIBLE ACTION, AND INCORPORATED IN THE PLAN'S SUPPORT DOCUMENTATION. ANY MEMBER OF THE PUBLIC IS INVITED TO FILE WRITTEN, PREPARED STATEMENTS OR TO PROVIDE ORAL COMMENTS AT THE PUBLIC HEARING, OR MAIL COMMENTS TO THE ADDRESS LISTED BELOW.

PREVIOUS REVIEW

EACH PLAN ELEMENT HAS BEEN REVIEWED BY THE LOCAL PLANNING AGENCY AND BY AT LEAST ONE CITIZEN ADVISORY COMMITTEE. THE PRIMARY COMMITTEE USED IN THIS UPDATE IS THE PROGRAM REVIEW COMMITTEE WHICH IS COMPOSED OF ELEVEN COUNTY RESIDENTS APPOINTED BY THE BOARD OF COUNTY COMMISSIONERS FROM VARIOUS ORGANIZATIONS, INTERESTS AND PROFESSIONS.

OTHER COMMITTEES HAVE REVIEWED SPECIFIC ASPECTS OF THE PLAN ELEMENTS. THESE COMMITTEES INCLUDE:
• CONCURRENCY MANAGEMENT ADVISORY COMMITTEE
• LIBRARY ADVISORY BOARD
• AFFORDABLE HOUSING TASK FORCE
• SOLID WASTE TASK FORCE
• STORM WATER TASK FORCE
• WATER/SEWER UTILITY STEERING COMMITTEE
• SEMINOLE COUNTY HISTORIC COMMISSION AND
• PARKS ADVISORY BOARD

ON MARCH 5, 1991 THE BCC TRANSMITTED THE PLAN TO THE FLORIDA DEPARTMENT OF COMMUNITY AFFAIRS FOR REVIEW BY THE DEPARTMENT AND OTHER AGENCIES AND ENTITIES. ON JULY 12, 1991, THE COUNTY RECEIVED THE OBJECTIONS, RECOMMENDATIONS AND COMMENTS REVIEW REPORT ON THE PLAN. THIS REPORT CONTAINS SPECIFIC REQUIREMENTS WHICH THE COUNTY MUST ADDRESS WHEN THE PLAN IS FINALLY ADOPTED. THE REPORT SUGGESTS CHANGES AS SMALL AS ADDING A DATE TO A MAP AND AS LARGE AS REVISING AN ENTIRE ELEMENT. A COPY OF THE FULL REPORT IS AVAILABLE FOR REVIEW AT EACH OF THE COUNTY'S PUBLIC LIBRARIES (ALONG WITH THE TRANSMITTED PLAN AS TRANSMITTED) AND AT THE COUNTY'S PLANNING OFFICE WHOSE ADDRESS AND HOURS ARE PROVIDED BELOW.

Stress doubles risk for colds

By DANIEL G. HANEY
AP Science Writer

BOSTON — Hard times may be nothing to sneeze at, but some people may have no choice, according to a study that found those who are stressed-out are more likely to catch cold.

Scientists at the Medical Research Council Common Cold Unit in Salisbury, England, reported today that they exposed volunteers to five cold viruses, and that test subjects who had lost their jobs, ended relationships, experienced sickness in their families or felt overwhelmed by life's challenges were nearly twice as likely to catch cold as those who weren't as stressed-out.

The idea that stress is bad for people's health is nothing new. Those who believe this notion contend that stress weakens the body's resistance to germs.

But until now there has been little proof that people who lead stress-filled lives are more apt to get sick.

Some experts say the carefully controlled cold experiment gives them the evidence.

"It is the first evidence for an association between stress and a biologically verifiable infectious disease," said the study's director, Dr. Sheldon Cohen of Carnegie Mellon University in Pittsburgh.

CAPSULE REPORT

The top 10 prescription drugs dispensed in pharmacies in the United States

Rank	Brand name/generic name	Drug type	Marketer

8	Synthroid/levothyroxine sodium	Thyroid substitute	Boots
9	Ceclor/cefadroxil	Antibiotic	Eli Lilly
10	Seldane/terfenadine	Antihistamine	Marion Merrell Dow

The study, published in today's New England Journal of Medicine, exposed 394 volunteers to equal doses of five cold bugs.

Typically in such experiments, about 35 percent to 40 percent come down with the sniffles. But in this study, 47 percent of those under the most stress caught colds, compared with 27 percent under the least stress. "I think it is one of the very best pieces of work ever conducted in this area," said Dr. Janice Kiecolt-Glaser of Ohio State University.

But in an accompanying Journal editorial, Dr. Morton N. Swartz of Massachusetts General Hospital in Boston cautioned against making too much of the findings.

"The size of the effect suggests that the clinical importance of this relation may be limited," he wrote. He also said the study does not propose any easy way to treat or prevent colds.

The researchers calculated a numerical stress level for each volunteer by questioning them about such burdensome events during the previous year as moving, being fired, changing jobs, having a child, getting an abortion, suffering a burglary or experiencing a death in the family.

They also asked the volunteers about whether they had trouble coping with life's demands as well as whether they often felt such dark emotions as anger, depression, nervousness and guilt.

Drug testing gets new impetus

WASHINGTON — The discovery of an empty crack cocaine vial in the operator's cab of a wrecked New York subway train is lending new urgency to the push by federal transportation officials for uniform drug and alcohol testing of mass transit workers.

Rapid rail transit systems in cities such as New York, where a crash early Wednesday ripped a subway train apart, are exempt by court order from the strict U.S. drug and alcohol testing regulations imposed on airlines, railroads and long-distance truckers.

All of the nation's rapid rail systems have testing programs of one kind or another.

But James Kolstad, chairman of the National Transportation Safety Board, said they are neither uniform nor consistent.

Motorman charged in subway calamity

NEW YORK — A subway motorman who passengers said took a train on a hurtling, white-knuckle ride before it crashed, killing five people, was charged with manslaughter. Police said they believe he was drunk.

Robert Ray, 39, fled after the crash early Wednesday and was picked up at home five hours later. His blood-alcohol level was .21 percent more than 13 hours after the crash, police said. In New York, .10 is considered legally drunk.

A crack vial containing traces of cocaine was found in the motorman's compartment, but it wasn't immediately known if the container was his, police said. Ray was given a drug test; results were expected today at the earliest.

At least 133 people were injured — 20 seriously — when the Brooklyn-bound Lexington Avenue train derailed near a lower Manhattan station, trapping riders in a hot, smoky tunnel.

Russia, Ukraine sign pact

By THOMAS GINSBERG
Associated Press Writer

MOSCOW — The two richest and most populous Soviet republics, Russia and the Ukraine, today announced formation of a temporary military and economic alliance that appears to leave the Kremlin out in the cold.

The two republics invited other states "of the former U.S.S.R." to join their alliance, striking a serious blow to Mikhail S. Gorbachev's efforts to regain some semblance of the power he wielded before last week's failed coup.

Today's agreement was a victory for Russian President Boris N. Yeltsin, who after leading opposition to the Communist-led coup has forced Gorbachev into the weaker role in a power-sharing relationship.

The agreement also underscored the diminished stature of such institutions as the national Supreme Soviet legislature, which began its today's session by hearing with reports on the Russian-Ukrainian accord.

Leningrad's reformist mayor, Anatoly Sobchak, who participated in the negotiations between Russia and the Ukraine, told lawmakers today that he did see a future role for Soviet institutions such as the national parliament.

"It ought to play a coordinating, an arbitrating role to prevent a misunderstanding from growing into a conflict," said Sobchak.

An all-out assault on the Communist Party, which has had property seized and seen mass resignations at all levels, spread to several Central Asian republics on Wednesday, Soviet media reported today.

In another development, about 30 Soviet ambassadors including those assigned to Britain and Ireland have been recalled to Moscow "for consultations," the Russian government's news agency reported, quoting an "informed Soviet diplomat."

There was no immediate elaboration on why they were being recalled. But officials say Boris D. Pankin, the former ambassador to Czechoslovakia named foreign minister after the coup, was the only Soviet envoy abroad to denounce the coup before it collapsed.

Today's Russian-Ukrainian agreement amounted to a treaty between emerging independent states.

Declaring the union dead simply "expresses today's reality," said Russian Vice President Alexander Rutskol, who signed the agreement after meeting in the Lithuanian capital of Kiev with Ukrainian President Leonid Kravchuk.

Soviet lawmakers took part in the meeting but the communiqué did not mention a future role for the Kremlin or Gorbachev, who had been trying to preserve the Soviet Union with a treaty that promised to shift power to the republics.

But the Soviet president has seen his authority plummet since the failed coup, which was mounted by hard-liners in his government.

Yeltsin, on the other hand, has issued a number of decrees in the coup's aftermath aimed at wresting authority and resources from the central government

Nightmare locates skull

By Associated Press

GAINESVILLE — The skull of a murdered woman whose body was discovered three years ago was turned over to her mother who had repeated nightmares that her daughter's skull was missing.

Three years ago Wednesday, a hunter found the nude and decomposed body of 32-year-old Rita Grace Melton in a patch of woods. Her body was cremated, and the ashes placed in an urn in the home of Ms. Melton's mother, Pat Zimmerman.

But shortly after the funeral, Ms. Zimmerman said she began dreaming the skull was sitting in a solution in an office somewhere. She started making inquiries, and although deputies didn't take her seriously, she persisted.

Following that lead, investigators discovered in April 1990 that the skull was at the Florida Museum of Natural History, in the office of forensic anthropologist William Maples.

Maples told The Tampa Tribune he kept the skull as evidence after helping the local medical examiner identify the woman's remains in 1988. But until Ms. Zimmerman began her odyssey, neither the Alachua County Sheriff's office nor the state attorney's office knew he had it.

Ms. Zimmerman said she thinks Maples may have kept it as part of his "repertoire" because Ms. Melton was an identical twin with a unique skull. Maples says he kept it only in the event the case goes to trial.

"In almost every autopsy, different parts may be retained," Maples said.

Attorney takes on the task of naming nudes

By Associated Press

TAMPA — An attorney assigned to protect the privacy of about 100 women whose nude photographs turned up in a stranger's albums is dubious about men calling her office to ask about their wives and girlfriends.

"I'm very cynical, very cynical. No information will be released whatsoever to anyone other than the person who is allegedly in the photo," promised attorney Vivian Maye.

Maye has been named guardian to safeguard the interests of women whose pictures appeared in two albums allegedly produced by Eckerd drug store workers who printed duplicates of nude pictures.

Calls on Wednesday were running four-to-one from men, and "most of them have been from supposed or alleged husbands or boyfriends," said Maye, suspicious of ulterior motives.

The existence of the albums came to light after a man spotted an ex-girlfriend's nude picture in an album at a party even though the couple had destroyed the print and negative shortly after the picture was taken in 1987 or 1988, said attorney Matt Powell.

He represents Wendy Ellingson, 26, in her invasion of privacy and defamation suit filed July 23 against Jack Eckerd Corp. and three former photo-processing employees at an Eckerd store in Tampa.

Eckerd's lawyers say the drug chain is not at fault. Two of the former employees deny the charges, and a third hasn't been available for comment.

Powell says he has received hundreds of calls. He isn't dismissing the calls from men, saying women who posed for nude photos are reluctant to come forward.

"It's a very touchy situation for these people," Powell said. "A lot of people who have contacted me have contacted me through agents because they were too embarrassed or worried to come forward themselves. I've had lots of boyfriends, lots of husbands."

Powell turned the albums over to Hillsborough Circuit Judge Robert Bonanno on Aug. 7, and they now are under the control of the clerk's office. The attorney said the albums include dozens of "innocent pictures" of women in street clothes and bathing suits.

Maye said she hasn't decided how she might match up women and pictures.

"Someone could send me a non-nude photograph of themselves in order for me to look at the pictures to determine whether they're in the photo albums," she said.

Officer sues his attacker

By Associated Press

KISSIMMEE — Police officer Rick White has filed a damage suit against a teen-ager who tried to kill him, partially as a warning that criminal prosecution is only the start of the problems for such attackers.

White's civil suit stems from an undercover drug investigation in which he was injured by a chunk of concrete thrown at his car. Morris Bill Allen Jr., 18, was convicted of attempted second-degree murder in July.

White and his wife are each seeking damages in excess of $10,000 from Allen, who faces a 15-year prison sentence.

"Basically, this is a fight for principle," said the officer's lawyer, Russell Troutman. "We don't see any deep pockets. I think this sends a message to the criminal element that not only will they face criminal sanctions but civil liabilities as well."

White said he was "just exercising my right as a normal citizen" by filing the lawsuit Tuesday.

mandated increment that teachers receive each year.

SANFORD — Representatives of the Seminole Education Association and the Seminole County school board will present their cases to a mediator who will try to help them resolve their differences.

During the last meeting between the two sides on Aug. 13, they failed to come to an agreement on the issues of salary, on the addition of two paid holidays during the year, on the manner in which teachers are selected for summer school employment and on the issue of forcing teachers to take monitoring duty in the school lunchrooms.

In addition the teachers want a five percent lump sum added to their final paycheck in June. If and only if, state money becomes available.

State money is being given to the district at the rate of 23 percent of the total allocation per quarter. If enough is available at the end of the fiscal year in June, a 31 percent allocation will be given to the district then.

This afternoon at 4:30 p.m. each party will present their case to special mediator Dick Deem.

Each group will retire to neutral corners and Deem will

IN BRIEF

BASEBALL

Vero Beach's Snedeker perfect

PORT ST. LUCIE — Sean Snedeker retired 21 consecutive batters for the first perfect game in the 12-year history of the Vero Beach Dodgers. Snedeker threw 48 strikes out of 64 pitches to lead the Dodgers to a 3-0 win over the St. Lucie Mets in the opener of a doubleheader sweep. "Things went my way tonight," he said. His perfect outing was the first in the Florida State League since Miami's Thomas Kibbee blanked Pompano Beach in 1976. Snedeker (7-3) struck out six and the closest the Mets came to a hit was an Albert Diaz dribbler in the sixth inning back to the mound. Snedeker fielded the ball and threw Diaz out. Snedeker, 28, of Woodlands, Texas, became the fourth Dodgers pitcher to throw a no-hitter.

Jackson returning to form

HOOVER, Ala. — Bo Jackson is gradually working himself back into major-league form. It's not so much that Jackson has five hits, all singles, in 15 at-bats since beginning a minor-league rehabilitation program. It's that he's beginning to show the frustration that comes when his club is struggling. In this case, the team is Class AA Birmingham, which is in the throes of a five-game losing skid. Jackson has been with the club the last three nights and twice has endured shutout losses. In his final at-bat Wednesday night, Jackson popped out to short leading off the ninth. As he ran toward first, Jackson snapped the bat over his right knee. Jackson went 1-for-3 with a walk Wednesday night as Birmingham was beaten 3-0 by Jacksonville. Jackson singled to short in the first inning, struck out in the fourth and walked in the sixth before popping to short.

FOOTBALL

Oliver seeking redemption

MIAMI — Miami Dolphins safety Louie Oliver, burned in the snow at Buffalo last January, is tired of taking the blame for the loss that ended his team's season. "It wasn't like I was the only one that screwed up," Oliver said Wednesday. "A lot of people screwed up when we gave up some touchdowns. I guess you guys didn't see those plays." But Oliver admitted that he views Sunday's season opener at Buffalo as a chance for redemption. "I want to make some big plays just to ease my own mind and try to make up for the mistakes I made back in January," he said. On that frigid day, Oliver was left in the cold. Miami's blitzing against the Bills' no-huddle, three-wideout attack forced Oliver to cover Andre Reed or James Lofton alone on the slick field, and they combined for 271 yards receiving and three touchdowns in a 44-34 playoff victory.

COLLEGE FOOTBALL

'Gino Marino' set to lead 'Canes

CORAL GABLES — Gino Torretta can sound humble and cocky in the same breath as he becomes accustomed to his role as the Miami Hurricanes' starting quarterback. "I'm only one person of 11 on the offensive team," Torretta said. "But I'm going to be the leader. And I'm going to lead the offense to touchdowns and wins." Receiver Lamar Thomas put it more succinctly. "Gino Marino is ready," he said. The fourth-year junior from Pinole, Calif., won the starting job last week when coach Dennis Erickson gave him the nod over third-year sophomore Bryan Fortay. Fortay then quit the team and transferred to Rutgers. Saturday's start will not be Torretta's first at Miami. In 1989 he led Miami to three wins in four games as a fill-in for an injured Craig Erickson. Against San Jose State, Torretta threw for a school-record 468 yards. "I think I showed 'em two years ago that I have the tools," he said. "And I think I'm going to show it this year."

Gators suffer another injury

GAINESVILLE — Florida offensive guard Dexter Smith was scheduled to have magnetic resonance imaging done on his left leg Wednesday night, leaving the backup right guard's status in doubt heading into the season. Smith, who was moved to the offensive line after spending time as a backup defensive tackle the past two seasons, was injured in practice when another player rolled over his leg. Smith is the latest addition to coach Steve Spurrier's walking wounded. The Gators, who will conduct a full-contact scrimmage on Florida Field Thursday at 4 p.m., will also be without outside linebacker Monty Grow, fullback Kelvin Randolph and offensive tackle Mark White.

Raiders receive infusion of height

By DEAN SMITH
 Herald Sports Writer

SANFORD — Over the past few years, the Seminole Community College women's Basketball team has been able to put as much talent on the floor as most teams but lacked the height to combat opponents on the backboards.

But this year should be different. Coach Ileana Gallagher has put together a 14-member team that will have seven girls who are 5 feet, 10 inches tall or bigger. The Raiders will also be an experienced bunch as five transfers join four girls who return from last year's club.

Gallagher and her assistant, Val Roessler, have also inked five talented freshman.

All four of the returning players saw considerable playing time last year, three of them having started. Among the returning starters are Michelle Kumpf and Brandie Groves, who formed the Raiders' starting backcourt.

Both are 5 feet, 5 inches tall, handle the ball well and are better than average shooters. Groves is from Ocala while Kumpf, an Air Force veteran, is from Vermillion, Ohio.

The third returning starter is Pam Williams who lives in Sanford but played her prep ball in Germany. A 5-foot, 10-inch sophomore, Williams is a good scorer and rebounder who had an outstanding season last year.

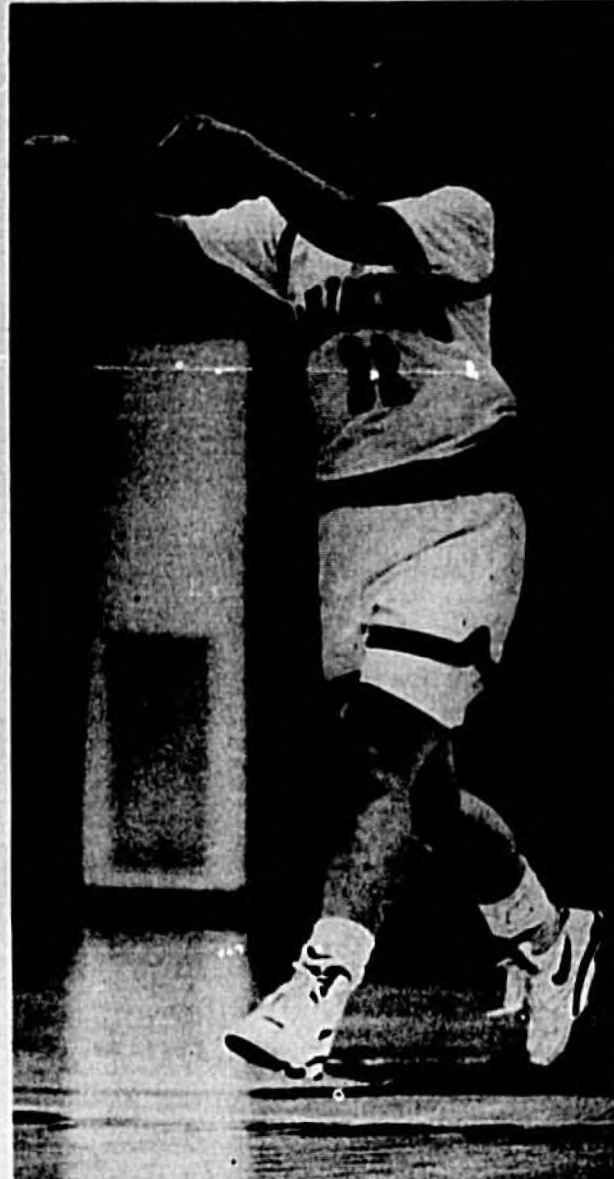

The fourth returnee is West Palm Beach's Carla Letbetter. At 6 feet, she was the tallest Raider last season who did an exceptional job scoring and rebounding after getting eligible at Christmas time.

The five who transferred to SCC all came from South Florida Community College, which dropped its program. All five should be familiar with the Raiders' style of play after facing them

Chances are most of the boats at the Monroe Harbour Marina (above) will see action this Labor Day weekend on the St. John's River (below). In an effort

Coast Guard Auxiliaries offer classes

By NICK PFEIFAU
 Herald Staff Writer

SANFORD — Two Coast Guard Auxiliary flotillas will be offering special courses in boating safety starting in September. In addition, the Seminole Power Squadron will start a similar course in October.

Classes at Hidden Harbour Marina in the Port of Sanford will begin with registration on Thursday, Sept. 12, at 7 p.m. The maximum number of persons for the class has been set at 30.

Carl Carlson, with Flotilla 41, said the course will deal primarily with basic sailing skills. Individual subjects to be covered include trailering, safety, legal requirements, aids to navigation, radio communications and weather.

Classes will continue on Monday and Thursday nights from 7 until approximately 9:30 p.m. with graduation scheduled for the final night, Monday, Oct. 7th.

Coast Guard Auxiliary Flotilla 411 will also be holding a similar six-week boating course beginning Monday, Sept. 9, for interested boaters in the southern end of the county. The course will be held in Winter

Park. Larry Ross, public affairs officer for the Orlando-Winter Park Flotilla said, "We have many Seminole County people who have requested this particular course, apparently those who work in the Orlando area, even though they may live in Longwood, Sanford or Lake Mary."

These courses will be held at Winter Park High School on Summerfield Road off Lakemont Avenue every Monday and Wednesday beginning Sept. 9. They are all evening courses, beginning at 7 p.m.

In each of the two courses, the instruction is free. There is a charge to cover the cost of textbooks and materials. Reduced charges are available in cases where more than one person in a family is registered and are sharing materials.

In addition to the two Coast Guard Auxiliary courses, the Seminole Power Squadron is also planning a seven week course for boaters starting Wednesday, Oct. 2, at 7 p.m. That class will be conducted at the Seminole Agriculture Center on Highway 17-92.

There is a charge for the course material but additional family members taking the course will not be

Boating should be safe fun

By TONY DeBORNIER
 Herald Sports Editor

SANFORD — This coming holiday weekend, state law enforcement officials want you avoid drinking and driving, observe the posted speed limits and wear your personal safety devices.

Not only will that decrease your chances of being involved in a boating accident, it will significantly increase your chances of surviving a boating accident should you happen to become involved in one.

Come to think of it, it'd also probably be a pretty good idea to follow those simple rules of thumb while driving your car this Labor Day weekend as well.

And just as the Florida Highway Patrol steps up its activity to try to keep the roads as safe as possible under the circumstances, the Florida Game and Fresh Water Fish Commission will conduct high profile boating safety patrols and safety awareness campaigns this weekend.

"Although accidents appear to be decreasing, there have been 72 boating related deaths as of Aug. 14 compared to 67 for the same period last year," said Capt. Bob Poole, the boating safety coordinator for the Commission, in a press release.

Through Aug. 14, boating accidents on Seminole County waters have resulted in five injuries, $9,050 in property damage and $96,380 in vessel damage. There have been criminal charges filed in the cases of six accidents while four accidents were drug or alcohol related.

On Volusia County waters, boating accidents have resulted in six fatalities, 13 injuries, $10,996 in property damage and $50,830 in vessel damage. The were criminal charges filed in the cases of four accidents. Five accidents were alcohol or drug related.

"The St. John's River and its tributaries have a high number of accidents because of the high volume of use it receives," said Poole. "Any time you have that high amount of use, it creates more opportunities for accidents to happen."

Across the state so far this year, there have been 426 accidents reported resulting in 72 fatalities, 217 injuries, $177,225 in property damage and $5,056,389 in vessel damage. Poole pointed out that while the number of reported accidents is down 47 percent from the same time period last year, the number of fatalities has increased 9 percent.

"According to those numbers, there's a 68 percent chance of you getting killed or injured if you're involved in a boating accident," said Poole.

What makes it all so frustrating is that many of those fatalities could have been prevented just by wearing a personal flotation device, or life jacket.

"Over 80 percent of the deaths, regardless of what caused the accident, might have been prevented had those individuals been wearing personal flotation devices," said Poole.

"The state does not require boaters to wear life jackets but they have to have them readily available. But when you're faced with an impending accident, you aren't going to have time to get them on. The best thing is for everyone on the boat to be wearing a personal flotation device the whole time you're on the water."

As another piece of evidence, Poole pointed out that the national boating mortality rate (determined by dividing the number of fatalities resulting from boating accidents by the number of registered boats) is 4.4 per 100.00 registered boaters.

In Florida, that figure is 14 per 100.000 boaters, nearly triple the national mark.

To try and keep that figure from climbing any higher this weekend, the Florida Game and Fresh Water Fish Commission boating safety enforcement officers will be out in force this weekend conducting safety awareness campaigns.

"We'll have every available boat on the water this weekend," said Poole. "We hope to increase safety awareness."

Also, boating under the influence, or BUI, is a growing concern for the Commission officers. Just as the Florida Highway Patrol will be on the lookout for drunk drivers, special emphasis will be placed on BUI during the Labor Day holiday weekend.

"The dehydrating effects of wind, water and the sun make people drink more, and with wave action and all the fun, they're becoming intoxicated," Poole said in a Commission press release. "Officers can't ignore that problem. They will be making BUI arrests."

Commission officers will also be enforcing the speed limit in those areas where there is one posted (along the St. John's River, there is a 25 mile per hour speed limit through the manatee area south of Astor). They will also be paying attention to boats passing through no-wake zones, which are a kind of speed limit.

While the common perception may be that the Commission officers are trying to keep boaters from enjoying themselves, Poole said that all the officers and reservists are trying to do is help boaters avoid having accidents and improve the passengers' chances of surviving an accident should one occur.

Counseling saves woman's marriage and self-esteem

(EDITOR'S NOTE: Abby is on a two-week vacation. Following is a selection of some of her favorite past letters.)

DEAR ABBY: May I second your excellent recommendation to "Nervous Wreck," whose bull-headed husband refused marriage counseling, was walking all over her, and was teaching her son to do the same?

We had a similar situation at our house. I finally sought counseling alone because my husband not only refused to go with me but also tried to talk me out of it.

Several sessions with a psychiatrist relieved my depression, and at the doctor's suggestion I signed up for a course in assertiveness at a nearby mental health clinic.

Well, Abby, our marriage is on an entirely different footing now. In counseling I was treated as a rational, sensitive person whose feelings are important, and I came to view myself that way.

Because I changed, my family's reactions toward me did, too. They found that I would firmly reject disrespectful attitudes and actions and that I demanded my rights in any situation.

My husband now seems like a different man, and we are both 100 percent happier. As for me, I'm...

NO LONGER A WRECK
DEAR NO LONGER: Thank you for supporting my constant recommendation to "get counseling." To some it may sound like a broken record; to others, a cop-out. Mental health clinics across the nation continue to provide lifesaving support for troubled people at a price everyone can afford to pay. If your marriage is in trouble and your mate refuses counseling — go alone!

DEAR ABBY: Some people seem to think that just because we have a large family, our yard is a public playground.

At this moment I have 16 kids playing ball in my back yard, and only seven of them are mine. My problem is that the kids aren't allowed to play in other yards because they ruin the grass and fall in the flowers. I really don't mind, but it wouldn't hurt some of the other parents to let the kids play in their yard once in a while.

At night, the kids ask me to turn on my yard lights so they can play after supper. The yelling and the screaming can be heard for blocks.

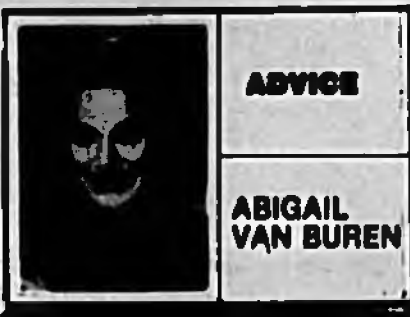

When, oh when, will I have peace and quiet again?

Spend your leisure time learning something new

Leisure Programs at Seminole Community College announces that the following classes will begin during the week of September 9, 1991:

Divorce and Separation — Mondays, 9/9-10/21, 7-10pm.

ADVICE

FLATGROUND

DEAR MOM: Too soon. Count your blessings, Mom. You're lucky your children are occupied in a healthy, wholesome sport. You don't have to worry about where they are, what they're doing and with whom. Anybody can raise grass. It takes special people to raise children.

DEAR ABBY: While in church, I saw a woman put a $5 bill in the collection plate and take back $4. Is that considered proper etiquette?

DEAR CURIOUS: Why not? God knows she put in $5.

DEAR ABBY: When a reader asked you if Indian men were superior to white men in the art of lovemaking, you suggested that he contact the Bureau of Indian Affairs or the American Indian Movement.

As the executive director of the American Indian Movement, I feel it is my duty to respond.

For the Indian, "love" does not begin when the lights go out or when pot or liquor is consumed, and it is not confined to the bedroom or any other hidden place.

The way in which the Indian treats his wife throughout the marriage is the key to making him a superior lover. His daily acts of kindness, consideration and respect for her demonstrate his love.

While we recognize that the sex act may send man's mind aloft for a few fleeting moments, it is but a minute part of the overall act of love.

The above code of behavior plus the Indian's respect for women have been passed down from father to son. I personally have 15 children and am an Ojibway Indian. Very truly yours,

Scouts home from D.C.

Girl Scouts from Sanford Troop 592, Ashley Voltoline and Kelley Langston, accompanied by Brownie Chris Langston, (l to r) spoke to the Sanford American Legion Auxiliary recently about their trip to Washington D.C., which the auxiliary sponsored. The girls said they enjoyed everything, especially the Hard Rock Cafe. Auxiliary President Sue Hill reminds members that there will be a get acquainted social on September 22, 2 to 4 p.m. hosted by membership chairman Claudia Burt.

Property tax protest

A standing-room-only crowd of property owners packed city commission chambers last night.

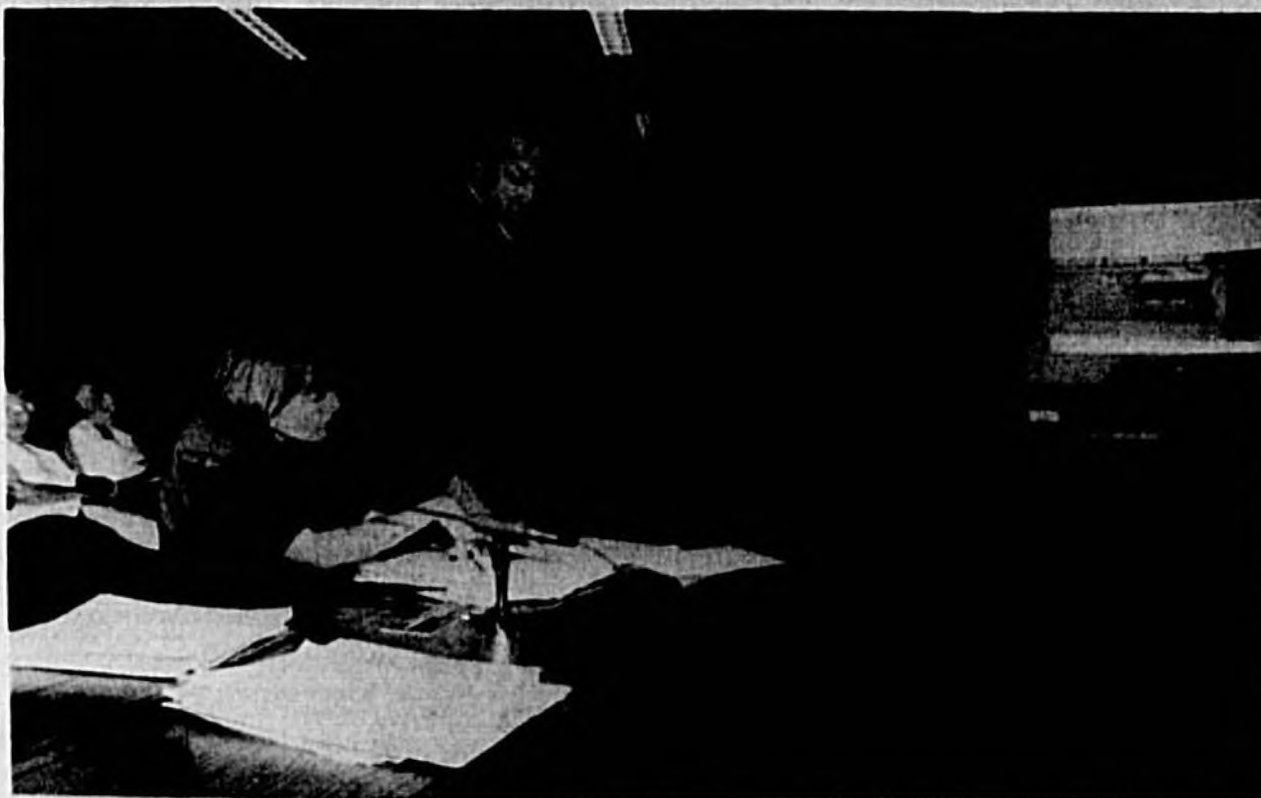

"No tax is associated with property value until budgets are set by, guess who, taxing authorities such as the one on which Mr. Howell sits, the Sanford City Commission."

-Bill Suber

"I talked to more than one 85-year-old lady who may lose her house because valuations weren't done incrementally. Mr. Suber shouldn't have tried to catch up all at once."

-Lon Howell

Lon Howell confers with Laura Sollien, assisting him in a slide presentation of area properties that he says have been reappraised with 'no rhyme or reason'.

Property owner Doug Sharrow questions Bill Suber about inequities he feels are reflected in evaluations on both commercial and residential properties.

Diet may induce chronic diarrhea

DEAR DR. GOTT: For the past 20 years my wife has suffered almost constant diarrhea. She's had numerous sigmoidoscopies, CT scans, upper and lower GI series and lab exams of feces. Medication doesn't seem to help, although she continues to take a small dose of Immodium daily. What would you recommend?

DEAR READER: On the strength of your short summary about your wife's 20-year problem, I doubt that I can outguess the cadre of doctors who have followed her case for so long. In dealing with chronic diarrhea, doctors usually try to identify (and reject) serious causes — such as colitis, cancer and infection. Your wife apparently had the necessary tests to rule out dangerous causes for her problem. Therefore, if she hasn't already done so, I recommend she obtain a consultation with a gastroenterologist.

There may be something in her diet causing her diarrhea or she may have a metabolic deficiency, such as lactose intolerance (an inability to digest milk products). The specialist may be able to identify and treat any unusual condition forming the basis for your wife's difficulty. Of course, this tack may not be successful; she may simply have to put up with her diarrhea, using Immodium or other over-the-counter remedies for control.

DEAR DR. GOTT: About eight years ago I developed Goodpasture's syndrome and spent 47 days in intensive care. I've tried repeatedly to obtain information on my condition and no one seems to know much about it. What can you offer?

DEAR READER: Goodpasture's syndrome is an unusual, serious autoimmune disease characterized by anemia and bleeding into the lungs, associated with kidney failure. The cause is unknown. Blood tests show antiglomerular basement membrane antibodies, meaning that patients have developed a life-threatening reaction to their own kidney tissues.

Therapy consists of high-dose cortisone and other drugs, as well as dialysis (artificial kidney support) if needed. With prompt treatment, the outlook is favorable, although long-term dialysis or kidney transplantation may be necessary. Patients with this syndrome should be hospitalized in major teaching centers where beives of specialists, such as renologists and pulmonologists are handy.

MEDICINE

WIN AT BRIDGE

By Phillip Alder

It doesn't matter if you lose a trick that you could have won, as long as you get one back in return that you didn't think you could win.

Cover the East-West cards and plan your play in six hearts. West leading the diamond king.

Over West's classical preempt, North wanted to enter the auction but had nothing obvious to say. Three no-trump would be an overbid, and to make a take-out double with only two spades is very dangerous. However, when South jumped to four hearts, North came out of the bushes, cue-bidding his diamond ace to express slam interest. South was happy to accept the offer.

You have two potential losers in clubs. If you consider that suit in isolation, the correct play, after the other suits have been stripped, is to cash the ace, go to dummy and lead low back to your queen. You have only one loser whenever East has the king or when West started with king doubleton. (He will be forced to concede a ruff and discard.) However, with the actual distribution that line fails.

There is a better approach. Win trick one with dummy's diamond ace, draw trumps, ruff a diamond in hand, cash the spade ace and lead a spade to dummy's king. Now lead dummy's diamond six. If East plays a higher diamond, ruff and adopt the line mentioned above. Here, though, East discards; you do likewise, throwing the club four and endplaying West.

If he returns a diamond, you ruff in dummy and discard the club queen. If he leads a club, it is into your A-Q.

HOROSCOPE

By B-rance Bede Osof
YOUR BIRTHDAY
Aug. 30, 1991

Don't be reluctant to take on greater responsibilities within the parameters of your current involvements in the year ahead. You'll do a good job and be rewarded accordingly.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) Your behavior in competitive involvements with friends will be closely scrutinized today. Whether you win or lose, do so with grace. Get a jump on life by understanding the influences governing you in the year ahead. Send for Virgo's Astro-Graph predictions today by mailing $1.25 plus a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope to Astro-Graph, c/o this newspaper, P.O. Box 91428, Cleveland, OH 44101-3428. Be sure to state your zodiac sign.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) Collective endeavors are very "iffy" today, especially those of a financial nature. Be certain that the anticipated returns justify the investment.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) If you make a bad decision today, don't let your ego keep you from rectifying the situation. No one — except you — expects you to be perfect all the time.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) Favors you do for others today should be done out of the goodness of your heart and not in the hope of getting something better in return. It won't work.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) Look for ways to trim or eliminate expenditures instead of incurring new ones today. Be prudent — even tight-fisted, if necessary — with your resources.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) You must take control of events today rather than let them dominate you. Don't see yourself as powerless.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) You're apt to be sociable and charming today when sharing your views with kindred spirits. However, you could become very irritable when opposed.

ARIES (March 21-April 19) Be careful you're not drawn into a venture today where the true costs are masked in ways that are difficult to perceive. Everything must be well-defined.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) You may be more attentive to a casual acquaintance than you are to a proven pal today. Thoughtlessness could impair your relationship.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) Instead of requesting others to do things for you today, try to extend yourself a bit for them. The example you establish will determine their response.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) If you attend a social function this evening, don't wear out your welcome. Friends will enjoy your company, provided you have the good sense to leave before they tire.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) Unless your objectives are achieved in detail today, your efforts may end up counting for little. Bits and pieces of a victory do not constitute success.
