Board Fails To Act On Proposed Budget

Solution To A3D Bailout Drill Problem Devised

A solution to the problem of conducting A3D bailout drills has been devised by LT. Gordon L. BACKER (MC). Heavy Attack Wing ONE flight surgeon. Previous efforts at improvising a method whereby flight crews could successfully utilize the "Skywarrior's escape chute" during survival drills resulted in torn parachutes, lacerations, dislocated backs and even one broken leg. Dr. BACKER's invention resembles a playground slide and is fitted integrally with the aircraft escape chute thus eliminating the probability of snagging a parachute during the drill.

Recognizing the possibility of low-altitude bailout and subsequent time lost in locating parachute release ring, Heavy Attack crews are instructed to exit the aircraft, arms crossed, right hand clutching the ring. Tactical crews have achieved an average bailout time of 11 seconds with 9 seconds top for three men. It is conceivable that an eventual 6-8 second average may shortly be attained.

Jaycees Report Drive Cooperation Is Encouraging

"We are receiving spotty but heartening cooperation in our drive to clear the street parkways of shrubs and low tree limbs," said M. L. Raborn Jr. in this week's edition of the Jaycee Journal. Letters are being sent to property owners this week. Raborn 4344 in the Seminole County Junior Chamber of Commerce club bulletin mailed to each member of the organization. The letters, he pointed out, ask the cooperation of property owners in clearing of the shrubs and low hanging tree limbs from the parkway areas. Already, however, Raborn is asking the Jaycee membership for assistance in "helping to follow up on this project" after the 30-day educational period. The Jaycees will report to the Board of Sanford City Commissioners at the end of the 30-day period on the results of the appeal to citizens for cooperation in clearing shrubs and limbs from parkways in order to create a safer condition for both pedestrians and motorists.

Eisenhower Influence On Senate Denied

Civil Rights Subject

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Eisenhower denied today that he has resorted to threats to try to keep the Senate from adopting a jury trial amendment to his civil rights bill. Eisenhower told a news conference that he still firmly opposes a jury trial provision in any form. But he said he does not believe a President should or can influence congress by threats. Sen. Richard B. Russell D-Ga., leader of the southern bloc fighting the civil rights measure, had accused Eisenhower of turning "the heat" on Republican senators to vote against a jury trial amendment. Eisenhower also expressed concern that Senate leaders have not yet been able to arrange a temporary halt in the civil rights debate to allow action on a number of appropriations bills and a measure extending the life of the Small Business Administration. Unless this is done soon, he said, thousands of government workers may miss getting their paychecks. Try For Cease-Fire Senate leaders were expected to try again during the day for a cease-fire on civil rights—even if only for an hour—to take up another matter. Sen. Wayne Morse D-Ore blocked such a move Tuesday when he objected to the necessary unanimous consent to allow a halt in the debate. A halt would permit action on a House-passed resolution to let the Defense and Agriculture departments, the Atomic Energy Commission and the Foreign Aid Agency go on spending money at their present rate for another month. Their regular appropriations have not cleared Congress. Without such a resolution, their spending authority legally expires at midnight. Eisenhower pointed out that unless the Senate acts the pay of employees of the affected agencies, including military personnel, would be in jeopardy. Furthermore, he said, government loans to small business would have to be halted. Jury Trial Debate In reiterating his opposition to a jury trial amendment, Eisenhower said his position had not changed since he explained it in detail on July 16. He repeated that the gov-

Detachment Back From Cruise Says 'Great To Be Home'

"It's great to be home" was the opinion of about eighty officers and men of Heavy Attack Squadron Seven's Detachment 34 as they returned to Sanford Friday and Saturday from Mediterranean deployment. Led by Officer-in-charge Commander A. K. Simmons and Lieutenant K. F. Enney, who landed at the Naval Air Station Friday, the detachment returned to Mayport, Florida aboard the U. S. S. Lake Champlain. From Mayport to Sanford, boxes of family care and the moving. As they arrived in Sanford they were greeted by "Welcome Home" signs across First Street, on the Air Station tower, and around the squadron area. The logistics problem for the transfer seemed like a job for the Army. Steel trunks called "crucifix boxes" for tools, supplies, and mountains of paper had to be packed, labeled, shipped, and then claimed at Sanford again. Keeping track of personnel as they traveled by plane, ship bus, and family car took real coordination of effort. Integrating the detachment with the parent squadron at Sanford is another problem, since they have been operating as nearly separate units for half a year. But with a heavy schedule of commitments for the future, and a vigorous training program ahead, Detachment 34 will soon live on only in photographs and in the sea stories of its personnel.

Commissioners Refuse To Okay Tax Rolls

Commissioners yesterday "let their hair down" when the Board of Seminole County Commissioners, sitting as a Board of Equalization, let its discussions run into the problem of reassessment in an attempt to find money for an expanding overall county expense voucher. On hand to furnish information relative to individual assessments were Mrs. Mary Earle Walker, Seminole County Tax Assessor and her assistant George Dangleman. However, there were no taxpayers attending the session to explain about increased assessments. Commissioner John Krider asked pointedly "How does a person know if there is any change in assessment or value of property?" Mrs. Walker stated "they can come to my office and ask—it is open for their service." Not satisfied with the answer Commissioner Krider questioned again "Is it possible that the public could be better informed?" Mrs. Walker's answer was "I don't think that it is necessary—the office is open."

Six Guardsmen Get Promotions

The promotion of six Sanford National Guardsmen was announced today by 1st Lt. John D. Keeling Jr., commanding officer of the Sanford National Guard unit (Co. B, 154th Armored Infantry Battalion, Florida National Guard). The men, all members of Co. B, were promoted for their outstanding work over the past months and by meeting the required qualifications. Promoted from Private First Class to Specialist 3rd Class were John C. Allman, Osteen, Samuel Dunn, 928 W. 3rd St., and William P. Thompson, 2115 Chase Ave. These men all serve as riflemen in the Company's rifle platoon. Also promoted from 1Pc to Sp-3 was Ernest L. Tyson, 401 W. 1st St. Tyson is assigned as an armored infantry vehicle driver in the unit's 2nd rifle platoon. Receiving advancement from Private to Private First Class were Edwin C. Cowan III, 819 Catalina Dr., and Richard S. Smith, 1118 Douglas Ave. Cowan is assigned as an ammunition leader in the unit's 4th mortar platoon while Smith serves as a rifleman in the 2nd rifle platoon.

Summer Program Climaxes Tomorrow

"All phases of Sanford's summer recreation program will climax Thursday Aug. 1," said John Angel, Recreation Director, today. Angel said that this year's program has been well attended by all groups. "When compared with previous years," he said, "attendance by the younger children in the mornings was off somewhat." But the recreation director explained that participation by the teenagers in the afternoon and evenings was good enough, however, that the overall change wasn't obvious. Angel emphasized that "the statistics seem to indicate that this year's program was pretty well accepted by all who took part." Counting each child as one unit for each phase of participation during the day, he said, the overall number of children taking part was an average of 4,200 weekly. Other figures, said Angel, revealed that the number of pupil hours per week went up to 10,800. Last years average weekly attendance, he pointed out, was 3,800 and the hourly participation was 2,760.

McCarthy. TALLAHASSEE (AP) — Gov. Letoy Collins predicts that Florida's new educational television commission will put Florida in front of the nation in the field of television instruction. Collins has named seven members to the commission, which was created by the 1957 Legislature at the governor's request with $600,000 appropriation. The commission will spend $500,000 of the money for a microwave network connecting the state universities with four existing and six proposed community colleges. DEER LODGE, Mont., (AP) — Rioting convicts who threatened to kill eight hostages if National Guardsmen stormed their cell block ended their revolt early today on assurance their grievances would get "fair consideration." The 600 demonstrating prisoners, constituting the entire prison population, released all of their hostages and calmly returned to their cells. Members of the Seminole County Junior Chamber of Commerce will learn more about Florida at their noon luncheon meeting tomorrow at the Yacht Club. Bill Lockard, secretary of the club, arranged tomorrow's program which will include a film presentation, "Fabulous Florida." "It is a traveling of the Sunshine State," the Jaycee Journal pointed out.

Alcoholism Creeps Up On Victims

EDITOR'S NOTE: This is a dispatch on alcoholism. It reports on the symptoms of this "progressive disease" and offers a test for anyone who fears that he is on the way to becoming one of its five million victims.

By LOUISE CASSELS
United Press Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON — Alcoholism creeps up on you. Medical history records a few cases in which people seemed to become alcoholics as soon as they started drinking. Their susceptibility was so great that addiction came virtually with their first drink.

But the overwhelming majority of alcoholics slip gradually into the stage of uncontrolled habituation, usually after years of what they regard as "social" or "moderate" drinking. They deny, even to themselves, that they are becoming alcoholics. And they buttress their denials with many popular misconceptions about the nature and symptoms of alcoholism.

The best hope of arresting the spread of alcoholism, authorities say, lies in persuading its potential victims to recognize the danger signals and to seek competent help now.

Danger Signals Listed
And what are the danger signals? "The first sign of abnormal drinking," says Dr. Paul H. Stevenson, alcoholism expert of the National Institute of Mental Health, "is apt to be a change in the person's drinking pattern."

Mrs. Marty Mann, a recovered alcoholic who is now executive director of the National Council on Alcoholism, listed several other "early symptoms" of alcoholism: "Making promises about drinking."

Lying about the amount of frequency of drinking.

"Gulping" drinks.

Taking a drink BEFORE going to a party or appointment where drinks undoubtedly will be served.

Feeling the necessity to have drinks at certain regular times, and with any special event.

Feeling that you "must" have drinks for weariness, nerves, depression or to maintain a "pleasant" disposition "for the sake of others."

There is, moreover, one test which you can use to determine whether your dependence on alcohol has reached the stage of an illness from which you require outside help to recover.

How To Tell
The test is this: Set yourself a daily ration of drinks, not less than one and not more than three.

If you're not a daily drinker and some alcoholics confine their drinking to weekends then the ration should be for those days on which you do customarily drink.

Decide that you will stick to this ration for a fixed period, at least three months, beginning now. You must not exceed the ration under any circumstances whatever — weddings, funerals, sudden death or a friend, inheritance or promotion. No "special occasions" or other excuses must be allowed, or you have flunked the test.

Any normal drinker, even one used to drinking regularly and fairly heavily, should be able to pass the test. But the chances are a hundred to one against a true alcoholic passing it — or even being willing to try it sincerely.

"It appears that this drug may quite easily become a substitute for alcohol or barbiturate intake and that habituation may occur," they reported to the New England Journal of Medicine. Dr. Ewing said he had seen two patients who said meprobamate "feels just like a taking a drink" and two others "who had lost control over the amount they were consuming."

Placebo

By DELOS SMITH
United Press Science Editor
NEW YORK — A psychiatrist of experimental bent has found that a majority of his over-anxious or over-tense patients respond quite as well to a placebo as to "happy pills."

A placebo is anything which is known positively to have no physical effect whatever when taken into the human body. If it does produce an effect, that effect is produced by the power of suggestion.

To compare the effect of any chemical compound believed to be active within the human body with the effect of a placebo "given for real" is, therefore, to subject it to a tough test.

Dr. Robert R. Schopach, psychiatrist at the Henry Ford Hospital, Detroit, used the test in obsessional, anxious, and tense neurotic patients—a placebo opposed to the "happy pill," meprobamate which is sold under the trade names "Miltown" and "Equinal."

Same Effects Produced
In a majority of the patients, what effect one produced, the other produced. No one should understand this to mean that the pill's only power is that of suggestion, since there is no question of its being chemically active inside the human body.

However, the doctor's point was that suggestion plays a part in how people respond to anything they take into themselves. For instance, he found that with promazine which is a "tranquilizer" much more powerful chemically than meprobamate, seven out of 22 neurotic patients "felt just as well on a placebo."

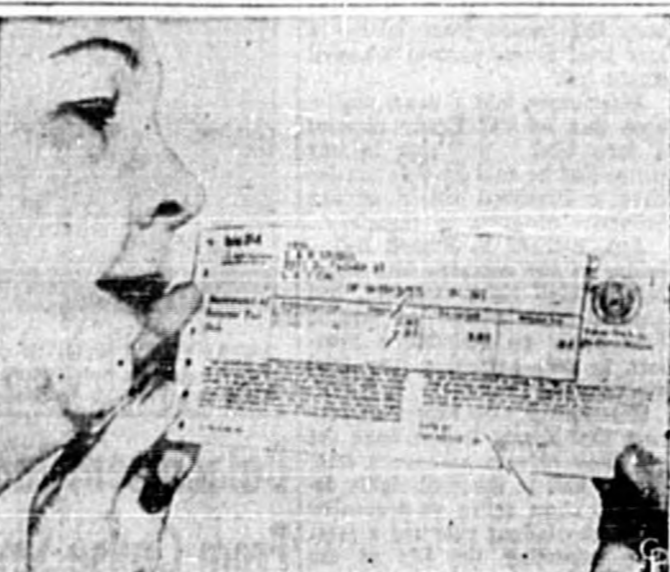

He was reporting in the hospital's technical bulletin on the many new medicines which are intended to reduce anxiety. "None of these drugs are cures but may be useful crutches," he said. "The patient should always be evaluated to determine if psychotherapy might not be more helpful in a curative direction."

Addiction Feared
In another report on "tranquilizers," which is a red-hot subject in medical science these days, Dr. John A. Ewing and H. E. Fullilove psychiatrists of the University of North Carolina School of Medicine, urged physicians not to use meprobamate for any length of time in patients addicted either to alcohol or drugs.

Rademacher Says 'Tickled To Death' With Champ's Win

COLUMBUS, Ga. (AP) - Pete Rademacher, the Olympic amateur boxing champion who is scheduled to fight Floyd Patterson for the heavyweight title Aug. 22, said he was "tickled to death" with the champion's victory over Tommy Hurricane Jackson.

Rademacher viewed the fight on television here Monday night with his trainer, George Chermes, and Columbus business man Mike Jennings, who drummed up $250,000 to get the Olympic boxer a title shot.

"Champ, you're in now," Chermes told Rademacher after Patterson scored a decisive technical knockout victory over Jackson.

"You set the pace and I'll do the work," Pete replied. Chermes said Rademacher "had smiles all over his face after the fight. Now he's really ready to go to work."

Rademacher, who has never gone more than three rounds in a single fight, has been in training near here for more than a month. His Aug. 22 bout with Patterson in Seattle was contingent on the champ's beating Jackson.

Jennings said he thinks Patterson is a great fighter but added that the champ will "meet a greater fighter Aug. 22."

FILM STAR Anna Magnani bids the United States goodbye until early next year as she sails from New York on the Italian liner Cristoforo Colombo for Rome. The 1956 Academy Award winner told reporters that "the most important thing is to have a life as woman, actress, lover."

The entry list for the Eighth Southern 500 mile stock car classic at Darlington Raceway Labor Day has jumped to fourteen cars and drivers today with the release of four more driver-entrants in the $53,000 event.

Heading the list is former national champion Lee Petty of Randleman, N. C. Petty will drive a 1957 Oldsmobile, the first of that make in the field.

Two newcomers are Whitey Norman, Winston-Salem, N. C. and L. D. Austin, Greenville, S. C. Norman, who has never driven in a 500 made his bow at Darlington in the Rebel 300 and with relief driver Tiny Lund finished eighth.

Norman will drive a Ford and Austin a Chevrolet.

Peck Peckham, Old Bridge, N. J. is the fourth entry. Peckham will also pilot a Chevrolet.

Petty, currently fourth in point standings, is one of six drivers who have competed in all seven runnings of the Southern 500. Twice, 1950 and 1952 Petty finished sixth, for his best showing.

The handsome North Carolinian has gone to the post in Plymouth, Dodge, Chrysler and a Ford. Last year he was awarded 17th finish position.

Time trials for starting positions will open the long racing week at Darlington August 28. Inspections and formal practice will take place on Monday.

Jacksonville Beach will hold its Fourth Annual Woman's Ocean Marathon Swim this coming Labor Day.

This event is open to entrants from 15 years of age and up and those wishing to enter should contact the Jacksonville Beach City Recreation Department.

There is no entry fee and all swimmers who finish the mile will receive a medal. Handsome trophies will go to those finishing first, second and third.

This event continues to grow in popularity and is witnessed by thousands of people each Labor Day.

NEW YORK (AP) - After 22 years, it took boyish Floyd Patterson just three minutes to come of boxing age.

He went out under the cloud shrouded stars at the Polo Grounds against a snarling, dark visaged man known as the "Hurricane." And before the first round ended, the kid from nowhere knew that his first defense of the heavyweight championship of the world was a distinct success.

"That was it," the melancholy appearing champion said later as, completely unmarked, he relaxed in his crowded dressing room without drawing a deep breath.

9 Top Golf Pros To Represent U. S. At Ryder Cup Match

DUNEDIN, Fla. (AP) - Nine of the nation's top professional golfers will represent the United States at the annual Ryder Cup matches in Yorkshire, England, Oct. 4-5, but Dr. Cary Middlecoff and Jimmy Demaret will not be among them.

The PGA Executive Committee Monday named as members of the 1957 U. S. team: Jack Burke Jr., Tommy Bolt, Daw Finsterwald, Doug Ford, Ed Furgol, L. L. oneil Herbert, Ted Kroll, Dick Mayer and Art Wall Jr.

PGA President Harry Moffitt said Middlecoff and Demaret are not eligible because of a rule which requires that golfers participate in the last two PGA championships to be eligible for the Ryder Cup team. Neither Middlecoff nor Demaret played in this year's championship.

Middlecoff did not enter and Demaret cancelled out at the last minute because, he said, "36 holes in one day is just too much for me."

Both would have made the team on point basis in cup standings.

"That Tommy Jackson, I used to like him. A nice fellow. But he made a lot of strong statements coming up to this fight and it sort of hurt my feelings. People wasn't too sure I deserved to be the champion. But I guess I showed 'em. Right?"

Teyed With Challenger
He did indeed. The young man who barely beat a reform school rap and came from the other side of the railroad tracks to win the biggest prize the ring has to offer, surely did "show 'em." He toyed with the scowling, dark-browed Jackson as if the superbly-conditioned "animal" was a babe in arms.

And when Patterson strolled back to his corner at the end of the first round, he had a smile of certain satisfaction on his usually gloomy face.

"He told me at the weigh-in we wasn't friends no more. He said he was gonna take care of me. Then in the fight, he kept saying, 'Come on, and fight, you bum, you'."

Patterson did the young champion - youngest in the history of the heavyweight division - had been called

CHAPTER 23

THE MATHERS cabin was far from finished. A range took up one corner, with the wall on the other side of the stove covered by shelves from the floor to the ceiling. The furniture, I judged, had been brought from Missouri.

"A lot of work still to be done on the cabin," Mather said apologetically, "but we're putting it off until winter when the weather's too bad to work outside."

"You've done wonderfully well, John," Sarah Pardee said.

"I'm satisfied," Mather admitted, "but I do want to put up a lean-to for Nela so she'll have her own room. She's sleeping in the tent back of the cabin and I'm sleeping in the wagon."

Nela Mather was wearing a white dress with a ruffled collar that gave a tone of primness to her, a cooling touch, I thought. Now that it was an opportunity really to look at her, I took full advantage of it. She tried to be lady-like, but her nose and square chin gave me the impression she was a tomboy at heart. Even when the conversation was serious, her gray eyes held a twinkle of laughter.

She was prettier than I had first thought. Her face had the peered look and was smoothly tanned, and I liked the speed with which she put a good meal on the table.

She caught me staring at her and winked boldly at me. I lowered my head, my face hot with embarrassment. She looked down, too, laughing silently, and I wished I had her outside alone where I could deal with her properly.

The colony probably had some single men who were interested in her, and I could name at least six eligible cowboys who would be coming in from the Mather cabin from now on until one of them got her roped and tied. As far as I was concerned, I'd go after her so hard my tracks would be smoking if she didn't been John Mather's daughter.

Nela rose the instant we finished her three-layer cake. "Dad, will you help Maria do the dishes? I'm going to ask Mr. Beeson to take me for a ride."

"Of course Maria will do the dishes," Sarah broke in. "I can do 'em. You won't have to help John." She nodded at me. "Will you go ahead?"

"Sure," I said, and getting up, whirled my chair around like a

Painful Plantar Warts A Problem In Summer

By HERMAN H. BUNDEIN, M.D.

WITH pleasant summer weather at hand, plantar warts become more of a problem than ever.

Like the more common ailment of athlete's foot, plantar warts frequently are contracted in public shower and locker rooms. As going, softball and other summer sports activities increase, so do foot troubles.

Several Treatments
Anywhere from three to seven treatments may be required before the wart is completely removed. During the treatment, you will have to avoid vigorous exercise and swimming.

Whatever treatment your doctor finally settles upon, do not think you can do as good a job by yourself. Many persons indolently employ acids, frequent parings or a callus file in an effort to remove the offender. Do not do it. Most likely you will only make things worse.

QUESTION AND ANSWER
Q. Mrs. M. L. I am developing a patchy baldness on my head. Will my hair ever grow?
A. Answer: It is possible that you are suffering from a type of baldness known as alopecia areata. Many times the hair grows back by itself in this type of disease. You should consult a skin specialist for treatment, however.

Doctor's Help Needed
Don't try to treat these warts yourself. As a rule, you will need the help of a doctor if you want to get rid of them permanently. Probably the easiest method of getting rid of plantar warts is by X-ray. However, X-ray therapy

LOOK MA, NO HANDS
Distance swimmer Jose Cortinas swam a mile and a quarter down the Mississippi River in 27 minutes Monday while training for his planned 300-mile river swim. Observers weren't particularly impressed by the time until they discovered how he did it. Cortinas swims with hands and feet tied.

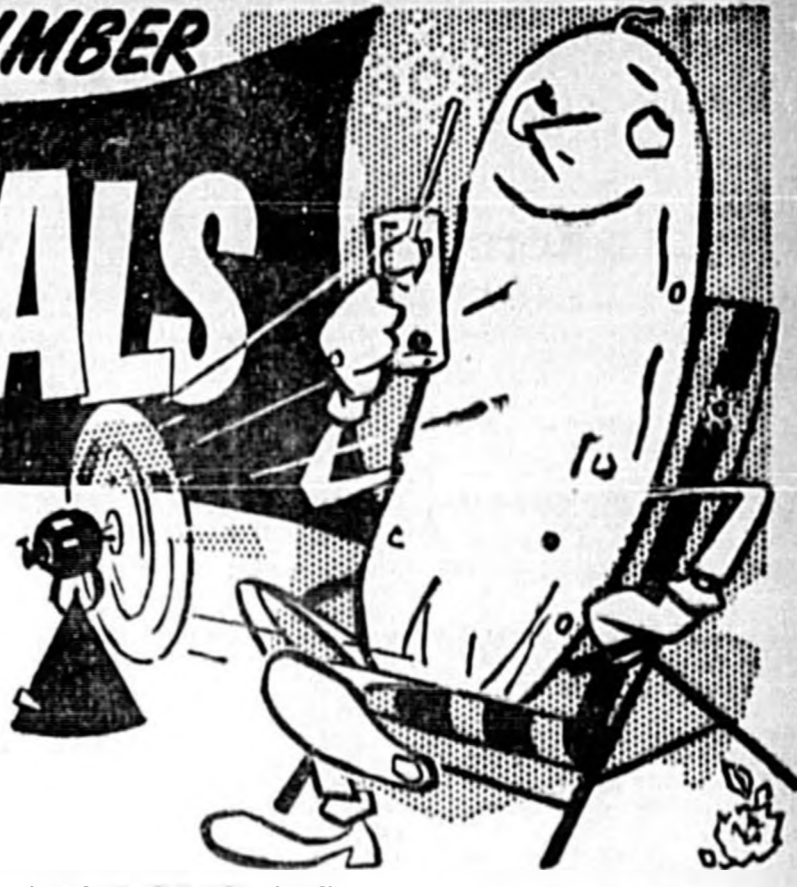

You can remove corns safely by using a small, stiff brush.
