A major issue of concern to the association, Mrs. Rauth said, is something she finds herself dealing with more often at her job - child abuse. She said there are more instances of child abuse than in the past, but added it has always been around, with many cases often going unreported.

More of it is coming to light and people are willing to deal with it and do something about it," she said.

In addition to tracking down child abuse, Mrs. Rauth's dutles as a counselor include individual guidance and talking to children in small groups. Her emphasis is helping children to develop problem-solving and decision-making skills. She also serves as Goldsboro's liaison to community groups and agencies, like the police and Department of Health and Rehabilitative Services.

She said the most enjoyable part of her job is watching children succeed. According to teachers and parents who have filed letters with the school. Mrs. Routh is also succeeds.

A common theme in many of the letters is that Mrs. Rauth helped them and their children through difficult times in their lives. One writer also said she has been "very influential in narrowing the information gap between parents and the school."

Sanford Workers Get HMO Option

By Donna Estes Herald Staff Writer

Sanford city employees may become the first government personnel in the county to have the opportunity to try the services of a health maintenance organization.

Federal law now requires municipalities to give employees the option of an HMO plan or conventional health insurance.

The idea behind HMOs, a new concept in Florida, is that by of whom are located in the city offering preventive care as part of a health program, health care costs will go down.

City Manager W.E. "Pete" Knowles will inform the Sanford City Commission at its 7 p.m. moeting today that the city in compliance with federal law-in offering city employees the choice of becoming insured by a health maintenance organization (HMO) or continuing with the city's group health insurance plan.

A study by Assistant City Manager Steve Harriett shows the city could save about $4,800 per year in premiums if 150 of the city's 281 employees opt for the HMO.

Harriett said once a person actual cost. gets over the hurdle of being restricted to a list of specified doctors, under HMO, "you find that HMO of Florida benefits far exceed those provided by the Florida Municipal Health Trust Fund," the city's group health plan for city employees and their dependents.

He said HMO of Florida uses a ...t of authorized physicialis two of Sanford - Dr. Vann Parker and Dr. Brook Smith.

Among the advantages, he said, is that hospitalization, surgery, x-ray, laboratory work, consultations are covered in full with no deductible, no limit and no claim forms to hassle with. Other benefits, Harriett said, not commonly covered by group plans, are routine physicals, gynecological examinations, eye examination with $35 rebate if glasses are needed, and preventive dental care including cleaning and fluoride treatment for dependents 12 years old and

If employees elect before Dec. I to join HMO, Harriett said the premium savings per employee will be $2.70 cents per month.

The city was also notified in recent months that It had to make group health insurance available for city retirees.

Harriett said the retirees should also be offered the HMO.

Meanwhile, Knowles will recommend to the city commission that it spend $22,901 to buy 2.43 acres adjacent to a 7.8 acre parkland site to be donated to the city by K. Hovanian, the developer of Pine Ridge subdivision.

Developers are required by city law to set aside and donate to the city a portion of their development for parkland. Pine Ridge subdivision is on a parcel at Airport Boulevard and 25th Street.

The purchase of the additional property will bring the park site to 10.2 acres.

County Mulls Selling Port To Private Enterprise

Herald Staff Writer

Is the time near when the Port of Sanford should be sold to private enterprise and put on the taxrolls?

Lame duck County Commissioner Robert G. "Bud" Feather says it is. He says the tax-exempt status of the port makes it possible for the port to lease land and buildings to industries for less money than privately-owned industrial parks. He said the governmentally owned port provides unfair competition to private enterprise.

The port has done its job, now it's time it should be sold to privateenterprise and put on the taxrolis," Feather said.

Commissioner Bill Kirchhoff said a sale of the port is a possibility in the Commissioner Robert Sturm, the county commission's liaison to the port and a voting member of the seven-member port governing body — the Seminole County Port Authority - is opposed to the idea, at least for now.

Commissioner Barbara Christensen said she would like to hear both the pros and the cone of selling the port. "I'm not enthused about selling it, if it is making money," she said.

And Commission Chairman Sandra Glenn says she has an open mind on the

In recent weeks the commission voted 4-to-1, with Sturm opposing, for the chairman to write a letter to the port authority asking that they share their thoughts between now and next summer at budget time on the possibility of selling the port.

Meanwhile, Dennis Dolgner, the port's administrator for the past decade, says within the next five years the port will be turning more in excess revenues over to the county's coffers than would be realized in property taxes by the county if the facility were privately-owned and operated. The port has not developed as it was envisoned in 1965. It is mostly an industrial park. But in the mid-1960's it was planned as a port for large vessels that would ship products directly to Sanford.

In 1965, construction of a cross state barge canal, linking the Atlantic Ocean with the Gulf of Mexico, was being touted as the way to bring prosperity to the state of Florida. And in preparation for that happening Seminole County leaders persuaded the county's legislative delegation to push a state law authorizing the creation of a port of Sanford. If a cross-state barge canal would bring prosperity to Florida. a port would surely bring prosperity to Sanford and Semi-ple County, leaders

The Port of Sanford on the St. Johns was dedicated on a 120-acre site, near what is now the Interstate 4-U.S. Highway 17-92 eastbound interchange in Sanford, in August, 1970. The slip at the port was dredged, a 20,000 square foot dock warehouse was constructed and roads were built. And in 1972 the administration building was constructed.

But after some right-of-way was acquired for the cross-state barge canal and environmentalists battled long and hard, President Richard Nixon called a halt to the planned barge-canal and the project was abandoned.

Few water related activities were interested in building at the port and instead land and buildings were leased for industrial operations.

Guru, Townsfolk Battle For Control Of Government

PORTLAND, Ore. (UPI) - A political feud between an Indian guru's followers and their outraged neighbors has moved into federal court - with control of the county government at stake.

U.S. District Judge Edward Leavy, who held an unusual full court session Saturday, was to resume the hearing today on whether street people imported by the sect from urban ghettos around the country have the right to register to vote.

The guru's followers seek a preliminary injunction ordering Wasco County Clerk Sue Profflit to resume accepting registrations.

An estimated 3,500 homeless persons have been brought to the central Oregon commune of guru Bhagwan Shree Rajneesh in the past six weeks, raising the population to about 7,000.

The sect plans to run write-in candidates for the two open seats on the three-member Wasco County Com-

Algae Offers Herpes Relief

SANTA CRUZ, Calif. (UPI) - An extract from marine algae found along the California coast provided relief from the painful symptoms of herpes to 10 volunteers, a researcher reports.

But Dr. Raphael Pappo, a noted organic chemist who has devoted the past four years exclusively to herpes research, cautioned that the test results do not represent a cure.

Herpes afflicts an estimated 20 million Americans, with some 300,000 to 500,000 new cases reported annually. The 10 volunteers tested by Pappo since 1982 experienced a marked reduction in the frequency of outbreaks and severity of symptoms from facial or sexually transmitted genital herpes when treated with an extract from Dumontiaceae red algae. The test subjects have been free from recurrences for as long as six months, compared to the monthly or more frequent episodes suffered before treatment.

Shipwrecked Sailor Sought

PORTLAND, Maine (UPI) — Family and friends of missing solo sailor Bill Dunlop, their fading hopes rekindled by a desperate "Robinson Crusoe-type" note found on an Australian beach, launched an aerial search today of the Great Barrier Reef.

The search was prompted after Dunlop's wife was contacted in Maine Saturday and told that a note for help stashed in a small plastic container had been found washed up on a Queenaland beach.

"Shipwrecked on an island," the unsigned note read.

Battered Women

Wheels Of Justice Turn Slowly For Victims Of Home Violence

Editor's Note: This is part two of UPI's series on abused women which began in the Herald Sunday, it concludes tomorrow.

By Patti Bond United Press International

Too often, the law stops at the front door of the family home, the U.S. Attorney General's Task Force on Family Violence recently concluded.

The task force heard testimony from battered women across the country from December 1983 to February 1984 and decided that police, prosecutors and judges frequently treat family violence as a 'private matter" to be settled in the home. The panel's conclusions were announced last month.

Victims repeatedly told task force members that the police either do not respond to domestic disputes or, when they do, do not arrest the batterer.

The nine-member task force found that police focus on the relationship between the victim and the offender, rather than the crime, treating family violence much less harshly than violence inflicted by a strang-

One victim told the panel, which included Detroit Police Chief William Hart, Missouri Attorney General John Ashcroft and Suffolk County District Attorney Newman Flanagan of Boston, that her husband "would have stopped the violence long before if the police had arrested him in the beginning."

Another woman recounted: "When my husband tried to kill me, I finally called the police, who came, took a look at the house and at me and we were both broken and bloody, asked if my husband was gone -- he was - and said, 'Lady, it's his house, he can do what he wants.""

"The police officers would not arrest," said Donna Medley, executive director of the National Coalition Against Family Violence. "That came out over and over again in the testimony."

"Domestic violence is not treated like a crime, but like a personal problem," said Dreams Moon, director of the YWCA battered women's program in Oklahoma City, Okla.

There must be swift and sure consequences" for beating your wife or girlfriend, Moon said.

The Police Foundation in Minneapolis, Minn., studied three methods of handling domestic violence - allowing a cooling off period, using counseling, and arresting the offender - and found that arrest and incarceration is significantly more effective in reducing recurring assaults...

Police conducting follow-up interviews with 205 victims in Minnespolis found that sience was repeated within six months in 37 percent of the cases where officers simply jeaued a warning.

Sending the suspect away from the home for a few hours to cool off did not net much better results, with violence recurring in 33 percent of the cases. In cases where the suspect was arrested, 19 percent of the victims were attacked again.

Minneapolis Police also found that combining arrest with listening and interviewing the victim brought the recurrence of violence down to 9 percent.

Mediation or several hours of "cooling off" does not hold the offender accountable for his actions and gives him no reason to change his abusive behavior. Medley said.

James Cox, who, as police chief of Midwest City, Okla., has initiated a program to train police to deal with domestic violence, said family violence is a prime cause of many other problems in society.

"If you see mom and dad assaulting each other, you learn that it is appropriate to resort to violence." he said.

In Phoenix, Ariz., where Police Chief Ruben Ortega - another task force member - is implementing the panel's recommendations, one-third of all homicides were the result of family violence.

In more than half of those killings, police had been called to the home less than a week before to deal with family disturbances.

The task force recommended that officers presume arrest is the appropriate response to family violence and that a report be filed on every response to support the filing of a complaint by a prosecutor.

The panel found that officers many times do not file a report because they do not take the situation seriously. That leaves the batterer with a clean record if he eventually goes to court, even though police may have been called to the residence several times for violent incidences.

Then there is the problem of victims dropping charges againt their spouses.

Shelter directors, however, say women drop the charges because they are not properly protected after they file them. They are harrassed by the batterer or made to feel ashamed, and the state puts the burden completely in their laps.

And, when a case is prosecuted succesafully, the judge will hand the offender a suspended sentence or a light term, because of the relationship to the victim.

One woman, testifying in New York on behalf of her sister, gave an example of how the results of legal inefficiencies can be tragic -- "My sister asked what the record number of postponements on a case such as this was. The clerk said he remembered one case was delayed twelve times. She then said, 'Well, I guess he will have to kill me before this comes to trial.' We were postponed again that day to July 14, 1983 — on that day we buried my sister."

In The Event Of Nuke Attack, Go Jump In Lake

WASHINGTON (UPI) - The nation's preparedness agency is moving to scrap a $174,000 study of a plan for workers to protect themselves during a nuclear attack by jumping into a large body of water wearing "as much clothing as possible."

"The report is ludicrous." Richard Feirman, project manager in the Federal Emergency Management Administration's industrial protection division, complained in an internal memorandum on Aug. 29. "Conclusions and recom-mendations" made by the Lawrence Livermore National Laboratory in Livermore, Calif. "are abourd."

"Unfortunately, one is of the opinion that the LLNL author is making light of a most serious subject, namely survival," Feirman wrote.

FEMA is moving to cancel the $174,000 study grant given the Livermore laboratory.

"A body of water could provide a unique protective option for some indi-viduals, said the report issued last summer for the Federal Emergency Management Agency. "Considerable protection could be obtained from the prompt nuclear effects by wearing as much clothing as possible, diving about four feet down and spending as little time as possible at the surface for air.

However, workers taking advantage of large bodies of water should not only be good swimmers, but they should also tether themselves to a flotation device with a 10-foot line."

It also called for workers to shield themselves from a nuclear blast by wrapping themselves in a "wet, opaque blanket.

Besides assailing the conclusions, FEMA accused Lawrence of "plagiarism" because it allegedly copied British and FEMA material in its report.

Laboratory director Robert Hickman said he has not had a "detailed discussion on the deficiencies" in the ag: eement. But he said, "It's not uncommon for project managers to ask for revisions or additions." Responding to the report, Feirman wrote the chief of the FEMA industrial protection division it was unlikely a worker "will be wearing a tether," find sufficient water, or be able to remain submerged long enough to mitigate blast effects. "It is statements like these made by LNL that undercut the entire civil defense program, and cause loss of validity to the very real concept of nuclear survivability," said Feirman. Disclosures about the Livermore grant come as FEMA faces subpoenas from a House subcommittee investigating un-related allegations of contracting favori-ism involving two private companies.

Poles Pray For Release Of Kidnapped Priest

WARSAW, Poland (UPI) - The abduction of a pro-Solidarity priest brought thousands of Poles to their knees in prayers for his safety and into the streets for demonstrations demanding his return.

Priests nationwide conducted prayer services Sunday for the return of the Rev. Jerzy Popieluszko, who has been repeatedly criticized by authorities for his popular anti-state sermons.

Lech Walesa, founder of the now-outlawed union. warned the kidnappers not to harm "even one hair" on the priest's head and in the scaport of Gdansk, thousands marched in the streets shouting "Free Popieluszko."

Poison Candy Manhunt Put Off

TOKYO (UPI) - Authorities today put off a door-to-door search of more than 3 million homes and offices but kept a fifth of the nation's police on a dragnet for extortionists who have scattered cyanide-laced candy on store shelves.

No deaths have been reported as a result of the poisoning scheme, carried out to back an extortion gang's demand for 100 million yen - $410,000 - from the Morinaga candy company.

Police refused to say why today's scheduled house-tohouse search of the Osaka area - where most of the poisoned candy has been found - was put off.

The "Man with 21 Faces" extortion gang said it planted 20 packets of poison candy — marked with labels bearing such warnings as "Eat this and Die" — in stores between Tokyo and Fukuoka, about 700 miles west. Thirteen have been found - most in and around Osaka.

The gang said last week that it would begin placing unmarked packets of poisoned candy in stores.

Leffler To Return To Bench

Seminole Circuit Judge Kenneth M. Leffler, who has been recuperating from major surgery at his Longwood home, will be returning to the courtroom Oct. 29 on an at least "half time"

Leffler, who was admitted to the hospital on Sept. 19 and underwent surgery Sept. 24. said he expects to pick up a full schedule of court cases by the week of Nov. 5.

Mondale said he would issue a statement today proving that the president once said that submarine-based missiles "could be recalled" after they were launched toward targets - a statement Reagan adamantly denied during the debate.

At a post-debate campaign rally, Mondale quoted Reagan as saying that while land-based missiles cannot be recalled once fired, "Those that are carried in bombers and submersibles, they can be recalled if there is a miscalculation.' "When a president makes a mistake — even a serious one like this - admit it," said Mondale. "Don't ask the American people to believe the unbelievable." The Reagan campaign had taken on a near-juggernaut air until the first presidential debate two weeks ago in Louisville when Mondale skillfully handled domestic policy issues, while Reagan found himself stumbling at times. Mondale, who flew to Kanaas

City with the slogan "Louisville Slugger" freshly painted on the nose of his chartered airplane, has enjoyed a sudden surge in popularity in recent days - but needed to become a "Kansas City Star" in order to close the gap. Polis going into the final clash put Reagan's lead at between 13 percent and 25 percent over his rival.

Reagan, like Mondale. stumbled once or twice in his answers, but appeared far more confident than in the earlier clash - this time deftly using humor to counter the age issue that arose after the first debate. "I am not going to make age an

In one of the more heated exchanges. Reagan suggested Mondale would give in to the Soviets in arms negotiations. "Mr. President, I accept your commitment to peace, but I want you to accept my commitment to a strong national defense." Mondale snapped back. The political combatants also mixed it up over Lebanon, and the death toll caused by terrorist attacks at a Marine barracks, and the U.S. embassy. "The Joint Chiefs of Staff urged the president not to put those troops in those barracks because they could not be de-fended," Mondale said, adding that the contingent was withdrawn after a deadly attack. "The bottom line is the United States left in humiliation,' Mondale charged. "Our enemies are stronger. ... Who is in charge? Who's handling this mess? Reagan countered that "Mr. Mondale should know that the president of the United States did not order the Marines into that barracks. That was a command decision made by the commanders on the spot and based with what they thought was best for the men there.'

Then, when Mondale chided him for threatening to retaliate for terrorist acts but never fol-lowing through, Reagan angily said in his response that "I'm tempted to say, What would you do?"" Reagan said: "We're not going to go out and kill people just to say we got even."

Any time we see a crowd of children we can be sure that some will succeed in fulfilling their ambitions and some won't. How to predict such successes and failures remains a mystery. We need not be so helpless in predicting success and failure in another realm - the struggle of poor countries to improve the living standards of their people.

Arthur Brown, a Jamaican who is deputy administrator of the United Nations Development Program, pointed out recently at a U.N. seminar for editors that not all Third World countries are pleading for relief from debts they cannot pay, and there is a reason. His agency has been examining why countries that are equal in terms of geographic circumstances and their endowment of natural resources can have dramatically different experiences in their quest for economic development. Some make it, and some don't.

Mr. Brown said the countries which get into economic trouble have something in common. They make the same kind of mistakes, and the principal ones are these:

- There is too little attention to the quality of management of development programs. Managers may be chosen for political reasons. not their expertise. By the time incompetence is recognized, millions have gone down the

- Price policies encourage consumption of goods, including imports, at a greater rate than what the economy can support. These policies are based on political considerations rather than economic realities.

 State-owned industries make too great a claim on the country's resources. Such industries usually are inefficient and operate at a deficit, absorbing economic resources that otherwise would become the basis for permanent economic growth.

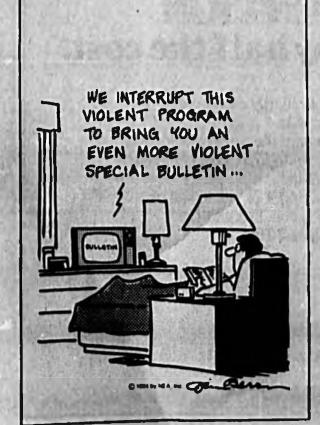

- There are extravagant expenditures on capital equipment. In countries with bogged-down economies, the landscape is often littered with nearly new equipment and vehicles for which there is no practical use.

The diagnosis by the U.N. official devetails with a recent study of the Third World debt crisis by economist Edward L. Hudgins for the Heritage Foundation. Mr. Hudgins believes that loans from the International Monetary Fund have done more harm than good in some developing countries. "The money generally was used irresponsibly to finance consumption, high wages for state bureaucrats, graft for corrupt politicians, and ballouts for failing state-owned or operated enterprises," he writes. "Consequently, little new wealth was created with which to pay back loans or interest - much less to benefit the developing countries."

Political leaders in developing countries like to blame their economic problems on external forces - the rise of energy prices in the 1970s, high interest rates required to refinance their loans, declining demand for their exports because of recession. They like to blame "imperialism" or an "economic order" benefiting the developed industrial countries at their expense.

Few are willing to admit that their own economic policies and socialistic schemes have led their development programs down dead-end streets and saddled their governments with debts they cannot pay. Until they accept the fact that the old way of doing things isn't going to work, rescue missions devised by the World Bank and the IMF will amount only to throwing good money after

One Man's Heroes

By Arnold Sawislak UPI Senior Editor

WASHINGTON (UPI) - Walter Mondale has been complaining lately about President Reagan's habit of raising the ghosts of popular Democrats in his campaign for re-election as a Republican.

Reagan repeatedly has quoted Democratic stalwarts from Alfred E. Smith to John F. Kennedy since taking office, has put on White House shows honoring not only Franklin but Eleanor Roosevelt and the week before last went whistlestopping in Ohio in the same railroad car Harry Truman used in his 1948 comeback campaign.

Too much, says Mondale. If you have to wave heroes around, find some Republicans and stop 'grave-robbing' ours.

Reagan says It makes Mondale mad to hear a Republican quoting Democrats because the party's current leaders have turned their back on their own heritage, citing. for example, Kennedy's firm positions against the Soviet Union. And he says he has every right to quote Democrats, because he used to be one until people like Mondale took r the party:

It is true that you don't hear Mondale talking much about the most recent Democratic presidents. Lyndon Johnson and Jimmy Carter, and it came as something of a jolt to note that there wasn't so much as a single picture of traditional Democratic heroes Thomas Jefferson, Andrew Jackson, Franklin Roosevelt or Kennedy on display at the party's national convention last summer.

But Mondale probably is wasting his time and his voice trying to get Reagan to keep his hands off Democratic presidents. One reason may be that it has been the Democrats, at least in this century, with whom Reagan feels the kinship of show business.

Just about the only Republican with a theatrical flair and the kind of way with words that Reagan likes to quote was Teddy Roosevelt. However, the president might find it the better part of discretion to lay off T.R., a progressive trust-buster and conservationist.

Reagan did say once that his favorite president was Calvin Coolidge, and in firing the striking air traffic controllers, he did emulate Coolidge's dismissal of the Boston police when they went on

But since the federal deficit started rising, not much has been heard about the frugal Coolidge, who said, "They hired the money, didn't they?" when he was told the United States' World War I allies couldn't repay their debts.

That doesn't leave much for Reagan to pick from.

Ferraro: It's Over

The nation's capital is a small town, and the gossip travels almost instantly, so I pass along a few

Rep. Geraldine Ferraro is now running for a New York Senate seat in 1986. She is spending more time in New York, ostensibly for family reasons but she a running hard against the Republican Incumbent. Sen. Alphonse d'Amato. Everyone in the Washington political community has by now heard that Ferraro has told — in total confidence — reporters close to her that the presidential campaign is "over."

The Mondale people now believe that Ferraro is losing votes for the ticket, and this kind of internecine bitterness is a sure sign of a sinking ship. Their polls indicate that Ferraro gave the ticket a boost in the days following the Democratic convention, due to the excitement of having a woman on the ticket. Then the questions - some of them still unresolved - about her finances, disclosures, taxes and business associates, put a brake on her momentum. Mondale's people also now believe that a mistake was made in allowing Ferraro to seize the limelight, at Mondale's expense. for a period of about a month. They believe that these should have been subordinated to the top of the ticket, and that Mondale is now paying a price for that, as in the bumperstickers that read "Ferraro-Mondale."

Reagan's strategists are saying that Mondale made a big strategic mistake in campaigning for constituency groups instead of for states' clectoral votes. It takes 270 electoral votes to win, and you have to carry states. Instead, Mondale has been spending time in the South where he is hopelessly trying to mobilize the black vote, with women's and labor groups, where he is strong anyway, and with interest groups in California, a state where his chances are nil. The Reagan people think Mondale should have begun his campaign in the Northeast and Midwest, trying to consolidate his electoral base there. Instead, he wasted his time elsewhere, allowing the Reagan campaign to now turn from its solid base in the West and South and fight the campaign on what should have been Mondale's electoral vote fortress.

Everyone in the Washington politand community is completely. cynical about the indictment in the Bronx of Secretary of Commerce Raymond Donovan. No one believes that Bronx District Attorney Mario Merola has any new material not proviously available to A. federal special prosecutor, who ruled that there was no basis for indictment. The timing of the Donovan indictment, five weeks before the election. is regarded as gross. Many people believe that the fingerprints of another Mario, not Mr. Mario Merola, are all over this one, i.e., Gov. Mario Cuomo of New York.

Gov. Cuomo's statement that he will not run for re-election in 1986 if he decides to run for president in 1988 is regarded as incredible, and as a new recipe for political suicide. As governor, his clout would remain powerful. As Mr. Cuomo, he would be just another candidate. However, this performance as governor is not highly regarded, even though New York voters continue to give him high marks. New York has the highest state deficit in the nation. Cuomo has bungled nuclear power decisions, taxes are high, and there seems to be no overall guiding economic conception.

Top Democratic talent has been avoiding any connection with the Mondale campaign. Aside from any possible connection with the Mario Merola-Ray Donovan flasco, Gov. Cuomo has remained in Albany. The best political mind in the Democratic Party, former Chairman Robert Strauss of Texas, has been invisible. Lane Kirkland of the AFL-CIO, who barely saved Mondale from destruction at the hands of Gary Hart, has not committed his personal prestige to the Mondale effort and might as well be out of the country.

Bypass Surgery

By Patricia McCormack UPI Health Editor

Alternate

NEW YORK (UPI) - A heart doctor at the Presbyterian Hospital says up to one-third of coronary bypass operations before long may be replaced by a simpler procedure that is easier on patients and the pocketbook. In the new technique, called angioplasty, a balloon-tipped catheter is threaded into an artery and guided to the spot where the c ronary artery is narrowed by a buildup of fatty material. The balloon is then inflaced with fluid to widen the passageway. In coronary bypass surgery, by contrast, the chest is opened and veins taken from the legs are used to bypass clogged arteries leading to the heart. It is major surgery done under general anesthesia and usually requires a two-week hospitalization and lengthy recuperation at home. Dr. Dennis Reison, director of the Coronary Angioplasty Program at Presbyterian, said coronary angioplasty patients only require a local anesthesia and generally go home in a day or two to resume a normal lifestyle

'As far as patients are concerned. this is a medical miracle," said Dr. Eric Powers, director of the Adult Cardiovascular Laboratory at Presbyterian. "They know what the difference is and they really appreclate it.

Reison said people with solidly clogged heart blood pipelines are not suitable candidates for the less invasive procedure.

Reison estimates that currently 10 percent to 20 percent of patients whose coronary artery disease persists despite medical treatment can be treated with coronary angioplasty instead of bypass surgery.

Dr. Andreas Greutzig performed the first coronary angioplastics in Zurich, Switzerland, around 1977. Greutzig, still working at even bolder applications for angioplasty. now is a professor at Emory University Medical School in Atlanta.

"Until 1980," Reison said, "veryfew angioplasties were done anywhere. But in the last several years the practice has become increasingly widespread as the technology involved steadily improved.

"I expect the percentage will increase significantly and rapidly as the technology is further refined and as more physicians acquire the expertise necessary to perform the procedure."

Reison said bypass surgery costs from $20,000 to $25,000 and angioplasty, $5,000.

He said the long-term success of angioplasty depends on how the vessel wall heals. Eighty percent of the time, he reported, the procedure is successful. The vessel heals. leaving a nice round opening.

Arms Seller's Shady Record Ignored

WASHINGTON - CIA Director William Casey has been caught in the uncomfortable embrace of Basil Tsakos, a Greek arms promoter whose international dealings have attracted the interest of intelligence services around the world. I've seen a thick report on Tsakos from the files of Greek intelligence alleging that he had a criminal record in Greece and was suspected of dubious international arms deals.

Sources say Greek intelligence cooperates closely with the CIA, and at least some of the information is in CIA files.

At the snap of a finger, Casey could have obtained a report on Tsakos. Either he failed to check his own files or ignored what they contained. Casey also ignored warnings about Tsakos' criminal record. This says a lot about the competence and coherence of the nation's spy master.

Tsakos came to Casey during the early days of the Reagan administration with a multi-billion-dollar scheme to build a trans-Africa oil pipeline. Casey has denied endorsing the project, though a CIA spokesman said the agency was interested in the idea because of its potentially strategic importance.

The pipeline would carry Saudi Arabian oil across Africa, bypassing the unstable Persian Gulf and transiting three central African states - a route of questionable stability.

Whether the plan was endorsed or not, the meetings with Casey gave Tsakos and his American partner an old Casey sidekick named Joe Rosenbaum — an important name to drop as they sought support for the pipeline at the Pentagon and State Department.

Casey also put Rosenbaum in touch with some former intelligence agents who might have been interested in the project.

Here, meanwhile, is what my associate Corky Johnson found out about Tsakos from Greek intelligence reports and other sources:

- In the mid-1960s, Tsakos represented the British government in its effort to sell nuclear power plants to Greece. Sources described Tankos as a "bag man" who was paid thousands of dollars to influence Greek officials to buy the British reactors. Though Tsakos was apparently influencing the right people, the deal fell through abruptly when a military junta seized power in Athens in 1967.

- Taakos is suspected of being more than just a nuclear-plant middleman for London. Greek intelligence, the KYP, suspects that he was a part-time British spy. "Taakos is very closely associated with an agent of the British Intelligence Service." a KYP report states, adding: "Our reports indicate he is a collaborator of the British services."

- The Greek files show that Tsakos represented several British firms, but he moved his militarysales operation to Switzerland shortly after the Greek government began investigating him for possible national crimes.

- Tsakos was suspected of running an antique-amuggling operation based in France. The antiques were smuggled from border posts and even from the Athens airport with the aid of a Greek Civil Aviation Service employee. The network was also suspected of smuggling illegal immigrants from Italy and Bulgaria to the United States.

- The Greek army investigated Tsakos when he tried to sell tank parts to Greece in 1973. More recently, the Greek defense ministry launched a major investigation of a Tsakon-related tank deal, which I wrote about.

- Greek government reports confirm Tsakos' earlier criminal record and describe him as someone who would do anything for money. The Greek files state that Tsakos was denied a passport in 1949 because he had been an army deserter. He later obtained a special diplomatic passport.

McLucas: Small Frame, Large Accomplishments

Leonard L. "Whitey" McLucas had to be tough and intelligent. At 5-8 and 125 pounds - there was no other way.

McLucas was spunky enough and shrewd enough to guide the 1923 Sanford High School team to a 9-1 record and the Central Florida Championship. But his playing skills were just one-third of the makeup of Whitey McLucas.

He was a brilliant coaching strategist and take-charge administrator. He is regarded by many as the best coach in the history of Sanford/Seminole High School. The school's most valuable player for all sports is given in his honor. McLucas, too, was a cornerstone of the Florida High School Activities Association as its first executive secre-

For Richer And Sorer: It's Nelson

LAKE BUENA VISTA (UPI) -Larry Nelson changed the way he positioned himself for his shots and the switch left him sore, but $72,000 richer after winning the Walt Disney World Classic.

It was Nelson's first victory in 16 months and his seventh in 11 years on the PGA Tour. He said the changes he made in his game worked muscles he hadn't used for several years and left him aching.

But the soreness was a minor irritant for Nelson, whose last win was the U.S. Open championship in June 1983. His first major championship was the PGA in 1981.

"I'm glad to pass that sixth victory," Nelson said. "I hope I don't hold on seven.

Nelson won the tournament with a 22-under-par 266, lowest 72-hole total on the Tour this year. He had rounds of 66-66-64-70 to finish a shot ahead of Hubert Green.

"It was exciting," Nelson said.

Nelson started the final round with a two-shot lead over Chip Beck and three shots over Green, as the three played head-to-head.

Beck blew himself out of contention with a double-bogey on the second hole and Nelson and Green battled it out to the end in what boiled down to match play in the final few holes.

Green had moved to within two shots of Nelson going onto the 14th green, but the two began swapping birdies and bogeys. Green moved into a tie with a birdle on 14 while Nelson took a bogey.

Green bogeyed the next two two-stroke lead. But Nelson failed to put it away when he bogeyed 17 while Green was carding a birdle and that left him with the one-stroke lead he protected on the final hole. "It became a match-play situation," Nelson said. "I felt like it went from very difficult to very casy, but then he made a great birdle on 17."

Green, who won the Southern Open last week, had a final round of 4-under 68 to collect $43,200.

Beck, a non-winner in seven years and the leader at the halfway point, finished with a par-72 and was tied for third with rookie Brad Faxon and Jay Haas at 18-under 270, which each taking home $20,800.

Haas and Faxon, a member of the 1983 U.S. Walker Cup team. each had a final round of 68.

Defending champion Payne Stewart had a final round 69 and was tied for sixth with Larry Rinker, 67, and Mark Lye, 69, at 271. They each won $13,400.

Amie Sparks Wildcats Win

Robert Amie rambled 45 yarda for a touchdown in overtime to lead the Wildcats to a 12-6 victory over the Bulldogs in Sanford Recreation Flag Football Junior League action Saturday at Chase Park.

The game was a scoreless tied until, with 1:40 left to play, the Bulldogs took a 6-0 lead on Oscar Edwards' 33-yard run. The Wildcats came back to tie the game with 40 seconds left when Amie broke loose from 12 yards out, sending the game into overtime tied at 6-6.

In other Junior League action Saturday, Mike Merthie un-loaded a pair of touchdown passes to lead the Rams over the Cowboys, 13-6.

Merthie's first TD pass was a 55-yard bomb to William Davison with 3:06 left in the first half. The Rams held on to their 6-0 lead at the half.

With 1:45 left in the game. Merthie hooked up with Alton Dixon for a 35-yard scoring pass that iced the game for the Rams. Merthie ran in the extra point for a 13-0 lead.

The Cowboys came back to score with 53 seconds left when Bill Shanel threw a TD pass to Anioine Bell but it was too little, too late for the Cowboys.

In Midget League play, Charlie Farmer and Dante Jones scored touchdowns to lead the Steelers over the Bucs, 12-0. Farmer scored from 18 yards out with four minutes left in the first half and Jones scampered 35 yards for the Steelers' second TD with 10:40 left in the second half.

Tampa's No Payton Place, But Bears Roll Anyway, 44-9

TAMPA (UPI) - Suddenly, the Chicago Bears are no longer in a slump. Suddenly, they have a healthy two-game lead in the NFC Central division. Suddenly. things are looking very, very good indeed.

The Bears came into Sunday's game with second-place Tampa Bay Buccaneers with sole possession of the lead at stake. A Buc win would have meant a tie. The Bears had lost three of their last four games, but things were different Sunday. They simply laid the wood to Tampa

Chicago marched to touchdowns the first three times it had the ball and kept on coming in the third and fourth

"Everbody-knew the Importance of this ball game," said Jim McMahon who completed 12 of 18 passes for 219 yards and three touchdows. "Now we've got a two-game cushion but It's no time to let up." "I think we executed well and controlled the ball well. You've got to keep their offense off the field," McMahon said.

The only downer was the failure of Walter Payton to gain 100 yards. The Bucs are the only team to hold the all-time NFL rushing leader under the century mark this season. They did it before in the season opener. a 34-14 Bear victory.

Payton picked up 72 yards in 20 carries Sunday, but he didn't seem to mind the low production as much as he did the weather.

"We won the game and that's what counts," said Payton, who was obviously exhausted from the 87-degree heat. "We knew we had to win this one."

As for the two-game lead. Payton said, "It's too early to start thinking about that. Minnesota's next and we'll take them one game at a time."

Payton scored on touchdowns of 8 and 3 yards. McMahon hooked up on touchdowns with Dennis McKinnon for 32 yards, Willie Gault for 10 and Brad Anderson for 49.

The Buccaneers' only touchdown was on a 4-yard completion by Steve DeBerg to Gerald Carter.

Their defense did a good job of stopping our running game," DeBerg said. "I think our passing game is improving and we already have a good running game. When the two click we will be all right."

And he echoed his coach's conviction that the season is not over, even with a 3-5 record.

"I have never given up and I hope no one on this team will." DeBerg said.

"We have a very tough road," said Coach John McKay. "We no longer can do anything with Chicago. We no longer play them, so we have to bet that other teams can beat Chicago.

'I think we have an excellent chance to win enough games to win the division, but I don't know if anybody can beat

"I don't think we have a bad team. We had a bad day and I think everybody can have one and this was the worst we played all year. I still believe this team is a pretty good football team." McKay said.

Non-Stop Dolphins Blitz Patriots

FOXBORO, Mass. (UPI) — John Hannah is sure Dan Marino and the Miami Dolphins offense will be stopped. He just doesn't know when.

New England's All-Pro guard expressed his guarded optimism Sunday after Miami beat the Patroits 44-24, rolling up 552 yards offense to remain the NFL's only undefeated club at 8-0.

'Sometime, someway, somebody's going to find a way to adjust and stop them," said Hannah. "But, right now they've got a passing attack that can't be stopped."

Miami scored on seven of its nine possessions and Marino threw for four touchdowns, including two to Nat Moore. Recently acquired back Pete Johnson scored on 1- and 3-yard bursts.

Marino hit 24-of-39 passes for 316 yards to negate the performance of Patriots quarterback

Tony Eason, who completed 19-of-29 for 313 yards and three TDs.

Marino's four scoring passes gave him 24 for the season, breaking Bob Griese's club record of 22. Dolphins coach Don Shula expressed admiration for the quick development of his second-year

All-Pro signalcaller.

"This guy is doing it so early in his career that with this kind of consistency over time, he's got a chance to go beyond what others have done (at quarterback)," Shula said.

"He's got quick feet, he's a heck of an athlete with a quick release, quick arm and he's strong. You're not just going to put your hand on him and have him crumple.

The Dolphins had lost seven of their previous eight games at Foxboro, but made their second victory in nine years memorable. They forced the Patriots. 5-3, to give up the most first downs (34) and total yards in their history.

'Hollywood' Knights Shock Illinois State

Herald Sports Writer

ORLANDO - The University of Central Florida Knights yanked a page from a Hollywood script Saturday night. They let the bad guys dominate the early going, then cut them off at the pass, and finally, rode into the west with their hero top their shoulders.

UCF, a 24-point underdog, somehow overcame 507 yards by Illinois State to hang an emotional 28-24 setback on the visitors before 11,648 delighted fans in college football at Orlando Stadium.

It was a game played and won for Lou Saban. The players taped LOU to the front of their helmets with adhesive. The 63-year-old veteran resigned his position last week, and Saban's trusted assistant, offensive cooridnator Jerry Anderson, was named Intermim coach.

He couldn't have received a better baptisim. "For once the good guys win," exclaimed Anderson about his 2-6 squad which hosts Austin Peay for homecoming next Saturday.

It didn't look like the good guys would win anything in the first quarter as the Redbirds racked up 21 un-answered points before eight minutes were gone in the game. But the muchmaligned UCF defense stiffened the rest of the way as it allowed just a third quarter field goal while scoring two touchdowns itself.

"The defense has taken a lot of negative comments all year long but tonight. I think they showed what they're made of," Anderson said. "That defense won that ball game for us tonight, I can't have enough praise for what the defense did."

If the Knights could count on anything this season, it has been their offense, which was scoring an average of 22 points a game, and the play of senior quarterback Dana Thyhsen. But in the first half. Thyhsen could complete only three of 13 passes for a paltry 30 yards and two big intercep-

"I was mostly just trying too hard," said the senior quarterback from DeLand. "I knew what we could do and I knew everybody else was on tonight and I was just trying too hard. The first pass of the game, I just forced it because I wanted it so bad."

Thyhsen's first interception, on the second play of the game, set up ISU's first touchdown from the UCF 25. ISU quarterback John Coppens hit wideout Billy Garrett from three yards out for the score. The point after made it 7-0.

Illinois State came right back after a UCF punt with a 90 yard drive which Coppens ended with a 36-yard touchdown pass to Lance Brooks. Coppens attempted 60 passes on the evening, completing 27 for 379 yards. He also had two costly passes intercepted.

After UCF wideout Ted Wilson

jump-started the Knight offense with a 58 yard reverse for a touchdown, it was up to the defense to put a plug on the Redbird offense.

Illinois State took over on the UCF 24 after a bad snap on a punt. The Redbirds drove down to the Central Florida five-yard line before UCF defensive back Jeff Bolle dove in front of a Redbird receiver for the touchdown-saving interception.

The Knights went into the locker room in much better shape than could have been anticipated considering the horrendous start. "We still were hanging in there in the first half," Anderson said about his troops. "We kept trudging along and I told them at halftime, 'Hey it's only 21-6,' and we thought they (ISU) were losing it and getting tired. We felt if we could just make it to the fourth quarter that we could win that football game.'

Thyhsen, meanwhile, had a slightly different version. Thyhsen said, "He (Anderson) told us. 'We've lulled them to sleep with our ineffectiveness, now lets get out there and kick butt.""

Whatever Anderson said, he should bottle it and sell it because it worked. Wilson's fumble on the first UCF drive of the third quarter gave the Redbirds the ball on the Knight 36. Illinois State quickly turned that into three points with a Paul Politi 23-yard in for the score and the lead. field goal. But that was all the Redbirds would get for the rest of the Thybsen finally got untracked by first hitting tight end Glen McCombs for 36 yards and then Wilson for 37 yards and a touchdown. Tim Russ ran in the conversion to cut the Redbird lead to 24-14.

That didn't last long as on the next drive, the Knights defense turned up the intensity level. First defensive end Darrell Rudd, who had nine tackles on the evening, threw Kevin Jones for a three-yard loss. On the next play, Kim Nixon, playing defensive back, almost intercepted Coppins' pass. But the other defensive back, Curt Ashley picked up his partner's slack on the next play. Ashley grabbed a Coppins pass on the UCF 25 and raced down the right sideline 75 yards for the score. Ed O'Brien's extra point cut the lead to just three points vith plenty of time left in the game.

When it rains, it pours, and Illinois State got drenched. On the next series. the Knight defense bent a little bit as the Redbirds drove to the UCF 48. But Rudd made the big play again when he sacked Coppins for an eight-yard loss and killed the drive.

With ISU's Link Woodward back to punt. Corris Ervin burst through the Redbird front wall and blocked the punt backward to the ISU 30 where Jeff Farmer picked it up and carried it

The UCF defense held ISU in check for much of the fourth quarter. The Redbirds started one last gasp drive on their own 25 and brought back visions of the Knights' loss to Akron. In that game, the Knights lost the lead in the waning minutes of the game.

Illinois State started the drive with 4:53 left on the clock. The Redbirds faced a third and 26 but Coppins hit Garrett for 27 yards and a first down on the ISU 47. Again UCF pressed Coppins into a third and long, this time 10 yards, but Coppins answered with an 11-yard pass to Garrett. The Akron game loomed greater when Coppins hit Garrett, this time on fourth down for 15 yards. With 1:51 left in the game the Redbirds had a first and 10 on the UCF 27.

"I'll tell you the truth, I was worried to death but the defense was doing everything they could to win that game." Anderson conceded. "We missed some interceptions (on the last drive) but the guys were there knocking balls down, bodies were flying around - in their mind - they were going to win that football game."

And like the ending to a perfect movie, the Knights knocked the last three passes of the game and Anderson rode off into the night on his players shoulders.

And somewhere Lou Saban smiled and said. "Thank you men."

USFL Ends Meetings Unsettled On Number, Location Of Teams

AMELIA ISLAND (UPI) - The U.S. Football League ended its owners meeting a day early, with the league still unsettled on the number and location of teams that will play in 1985.

The meeting was scheduled to last through Sunday, but ended abruptly Saturday amid fanfare - but no confirmation - of reports of four possible mergers in the 18-team league.

Bassett said the league was delaying release of the merger agreements to give owners time to notify their staffs and players of the potential changes. But Simmons added that some "paperwork" still must be completed before the deals are finalized.

In hopes of quelling speculation about possible league mergers, USFL sources said a news blackout on the subject will be backed up with a $50,000 fine against anybody who spills the beans.

Details of possible mergers that slipped out of the owners meeting included:

- A move by the Chicago Blitz to Dallas, possibly with the help of a merger with the Houston Gamblers. Chicago owner Eddle Einhorn has said he will move a USFL franchise back into Chicago once the league completes its planned switch to fall play in 1986.

- A merger of the Michigan Panthers and Oakland invaders in Oakland, Calif.

- A merger of the Pittaburgh Maulers with the 1984 league champion Philadelphia Stars in Baltimore. If the league could get permission from the University of Maryland, the new team would play at College Park in 1985, moving to Baltimore Memorial stadium in 1986. - A merger of the Oklahoma Outlaws with the Arizona

Elliott Skins Possom For 500

ROCKINGHAM, N.C. (UPI) - Bill Elliott wouldn't have given two cents for his chances of winning the American 500 going into the final lap, but he refused to back off and won by three feet.

It was a classic duel, the kind that breeds legends in stock car racing - the 29-year-old youngster against 44-year-old Harry Cant.

When the 492-lap race had ended Sunday at the 1.017-mile North Carolina Motor Speedway, Elliott had earned $30,400 and his third victory this year on NASCAR's Grand National Circuit.

Elliott took the lead from Gant on lap 438 and at one point pulled out to a 10-car length lead. 'I definitely knew he was playing oposeum with me."

sald Elliott.

With two laps remaining, Elliott drove his Ford into turn one with Gant's Chevrolet right behind. As they raced down the backstretch, Cant shot past Elliott, but Cant slid high as they went through turn three and Elliott pulled

The two were side-by-side again as they exited turn four, but Gant led by a nose as they took the white flag, aignailing one lap remaining.
"Coming out of turn four I wouldn't have given two cents for my chances," said Elliott, who averaged 112.617 mph in the race interrupted for 75 minutes by rain. 'I knew it wasn't going to be easy. Everytime I would get in traffic he (Gant) would get on my bumper. My car didn't go through traffic as well as his."

On the final lap, Gant passed Elliott in turn two, but Elliott refused to back off. Going through turn three, Gant took the high groove and Elliott scooted low and the two were even as they raced off turn four. Elliott finally nudged ahead at the finish line to claim the three-foot victory.

Ist-Inning Trap Snares Mice

A terrible first inning put Angelo's "Mice" in a run-trap that they could not escape as they lost to the Swinging Dots in Longwood Women's Softball League play.

Four straight walks to the Dots to open the game plus three hits and five Mice errors gave them a seven-run first Overall, the Mice outhit the winners, 10-8, but those walks, along with a horrendous total of 11 errors, proved to be too much of a burden to overcome. Stephanie "The Goose" Nelson pitched five-hit ball over the last six innings, in relief for Angelo's.

The only bright spots on defense was the play of Nelson off the mound and Tina Bozzo in left field, plus occasional play by Karen Boehmer at short, filling in for "The Goose," who had to go to the mound, early. Terri Mann led the attack with three hits. Boehmer added a pair of safeties. Mann and Boehmer each scored twice. Renee Kelley drove in two with a smash to center in

John L. — Romp Could Have Been Much Worse

GAINESVILLE (UPI) - John L. Williams says if the Gator second string was kept out of the game when Florida ran over Cincinatti 48-17 Saturday, the slaughter before a homecoming crowd of 73,690 would have been much worse.

"I think if the starters had stayed 🤼 most of the day, we would have easily scored 100 points," said Williams, a running back from Palatka. "This is the kind of game that really helps your stats."

Williams contributed to the breaking of one record. It was the first time when three Gator backs rushed form more than 100 ards in a single game: Reserve back cames Massey had 120 yards, followed by Williams' 111 and 105 for Neal Anderson, also a starter.

Florida, ranked 18th, improved its record to 5-1-1 while the Bearcata fell to 1-5.
Florida had 578 yards in total offense, 393 on the ground and 185 through the air.

Quarterback Kerwin Bell, who threw for 148 yards on 8 of 12 attempts, then hit Nattlel on the 45-yard touchdown throw for a 31-0 lead.

Backup signal caller Rodney Brewer, from Apopka, went to work in the final period, scoring on a 4-yard keeper with 8:01 to play. TULANE GAVE BOWDEN A SCARE IALLAHASSEE (UPI) - Florida State football coach Bobby Bowden said his team's 27-6 thrashing of Tulane was anything but a certainty at the half.

"I was sincerely afraid we were going to get beat," Bowden said after the Saturday nights contest. "While our offense and defense walked around with masks on, our kicking team went out and won the game. They blocked kicks, got position, got the points and got touchdowns."

The show started early in the third quarter when Joe Wessel and Jesse Solomon scored touchdowns on blocked punts in a span of 1:08.

Wessel, who has blocked four kicks this season, ran the final 10 yards after Lenny Chavers blocked a punt by Tulane's Sammy Amarena at 11:32 of the third quarter. It was Chavers' second block of the year.

Solomon followed at 10:44 of the third quarter by blocking a second Amarena punt

MIAMI (UPI) - Quarterback Bernie Kosar had another big day in Saturday's 27-7 defeat of Pittsburgh despite a sore ankle swollen "as big as a grapefruit" before the game ever started.

Kosar finished with a Miami record 29 completions in 42 attempts for 351 yards and a touchdown, and he spent the fourth quarter with his left ankle soaking in a plastic waste basket filled with ice. "I was sitting with him when we came. over on the bus and I guess his ankie wrap

O'Donoghue NFL Roundup Boots Skins; Dallas Wins

United Press International Neil O'Donoghue was more concerned with feeding his family than moving the St. Louis Cardinals into a tie for the NFC East lead Sunday.

He ensured both by hitting a 21-yard field goal with three seconds left to give St. Louis a 28-24 victory over the Washington Redskins that left both teams and the Dallas Cowboys at 5-3 stop the NFC East at the midway point of the regualar season. Early Monday morning, the Cowboys posted a 30-27 overtime victory over New Or-

At St. Louis, O'Donoghue earlier had missed an extra point and a 40-yard attempt so he knew his job was on the line.

"You miss it and you're gone," O'Donoghue said. "I've got a wife and family to provide for and I thought, 'Hey, let's do it for a couple of more weeks anyway,' I felt pretty comfortable about it.

"As bad as things were, I honestly felt I was going to get another opportunity to vindicate myself. I just knew there was going to be another chance."

O'Donoghue is running out of chances. Last year, he missed three field goals in overtime in a nationally televised Monday night game against the New York Giants that ended in a 20-20 tle.

And his blown extra point Sunday would have tied it 24-24 following an 83-yard scoring bomb to Roy Green with 11:51 remaining.

Well, he had to get that son of gun," Cardinals coach Jim Hanifan said when asked if O'Donoghue's job was on the line. "He had to get that one and he did. He hit it and he's on."

FLORIDA

IN BRIEF

Citrus Can May Have Found Its Way To S. Florida

FORT LAUDERDALE (UPI) - Hundreds of citrus trees in Broward and Paim Beach counties face destruction because of the discovery that they were purchased from a contaminated nursery. Florida agriculture officials say.

State officials said Sunday the infected trees - in both nurseries and retail stores - were purchased from Adams Containerized Citrus Trees Inc. in Polk County where canker bacteria was confirmed this month.

Jack McCluskie, citrus canker regulatory supervisor for the state's Division of Plant Industry, said it was not yet known if the trees would have to be destroyed.

At least 7 million seedlings at 45 nurseries in other parts of the state have been destroyed since canker was first discovered Aug. 24. Before the recent discovery in Broward and Palm Beach counties, no trace of the highly infectious disease - which cuts fruit productivity in citrus trees was found in south Florida.

Interferon For Cancer Pushed

ORLANDO (UPI) - The use of Interferon on Florida cancer victms could increase tenfold over the next six months as a pair of pharmaceutical firms work for wider acceptance of the drug, doctors say.

Interferon, a product of the body's own white blood cells, was hailed as a miracle cure for cancer when it was introduced in 1980 but faded from prominence when it proved ineffective against cancer of the breast, prostate, colon and other common malignancies.

Despite the drug's apparent potential in cancer treatment, delays in implementing a 1982 Florida law allowing manufacture and distribution of interferon in the state has prevented the licensing of prospective manufacturers until this year.

Other obstacles remain to the use of interferon. The drug is expensive, costing up to $1,500 a week for therapy that can last 10 weeks. And Florida doctors can only begin dispensing interferon after they are approved to do so by the state Department of Health and Rehabilitative Services.

At the same time as the legislation creating the port authority was adopted, so was a requirement that the port receive $60,000 of state money. funneled to the county, from pari-mutuel wagering receipts.

Those funds are pledged to pay off a bond issue floated when the port was initiated. The bond issue is slated to be paid off In 1997.

And up until three years ago, the county levied a special property tax annually to help support the port operation.

Dolgner said, however, the port is now operating within its own revenues generated from industries at the port, except for the bond issue payments.

In the 1984-85 fiscal year, the port anticipates excess revenues of about $50,000 from an annual budget of $500,000, which will be used to upgrade some roads at the port and for some drainage improvements.

The port has 22 tenants now, a few own the buildings they occupy while the port owns the land. Most, however, are leasing buildings from the port. And about 150 persons, with an annual payroli of $2 million, are employed in the enterprises there which Dolgner says range from sawmill operations to a company which molds plastic parts to cabinet makers.

The port itself operates with three employees - Dolgner, a secretary-bookkeeper and a maintenance person.

Dolgner says every few years or so someone comes up with the idea of selling the port to private enterprise to put it on the

He reminds that the port is authorized by special legislation and it will take new special legislation to sell it and put it on the taxroll.

"I thought that horse had been buried." Dolgner said, noting that a county commissioner went to the Seminole County Legislative Delegation in 1974 or 75. seeking that legislation and the delegation turned down the idea, saying the port should remain as is.

We have demonstrated we are a viable, economic and Industrial development." Dolgner said, insisting that eventually the port will be able to turn over excess revenues to the county coffers. He admitted, however, the decision of whether any money is turned over to the county commission is up to the port authority directors, appointed by the county commission.

The directors now are: Wendell Agee, chairman: James V. Rowe, J. Wallace Schoettelkotte. David P. Lanier Jr., Claire Fite, Joe F. Justice, and Sturm.

Dolgner also points out that the port continues to develop.

The latest enterprise at the port is a project of Sun International at the west side of the slip area, he said.

The port has leased a small land area and the rights to Sun International to develop that land and build a marina, with clubhouse, pool and docks for 180 boats. Construction is about half completed, Dolgner said.

He said Sun Internation, a limited partnership, is investing $1.3 million in the development. The port will get a percentage of the marina's gross revenue.

Kirchhoff said hopefully the prosperity at the port will continue and perhaps the day will come when it would be something attractive for someone to purchase as a profit making Kirchhoff served a year as a member of the port authority board.

Sturm, who has served three of his six years on the county commission as the commission's representative on the port authority, said a sale of the port ultimately could be considered. but "it's premature right now."

"The port is just now getting out of property tax support from the county. It needs a little age under its present structure before a decision on whether it should be sold is made." he sald.

Calling himself a supporter of the port. Sturm said the authority is doing a good job of marketing what they have and revenues are showing appreciable gains every year.

Sturm also said a committee of the port authority directors is conducting an informal study to see the amount of acreage left at the port and how use of the remaining land can be "maximized" for the greatest return.

And he added Dolgner may be correct in his prediction that the port will ultimately turn over to the county much more in excess revenues than the county would receive from property taxes from privately-owned facilities there.

Mrs. Christensen said the idea of a sale should be investigated.

"For the first time the port is going to be an asset and actual money could go back into the county's general fund,"she said.

"I believe we should look at this with an open mind. We should give the port a chance to pay back all the money people of Seminole County put into it. For years it was a drain on the general taxpayers. I was more inclined to sell the port back then than now when it is income producing." Mrs. Christensen

Iran, Iraq Both Claim Victory

ABU DHABT, United Arab Emirates (UPI) - fragian and Iraqi casualties appear to be heavy in five days of flerce fighting for control of strategic border heights overlooking Iraq.

Both sides are claiming victory in the first major ground fighting in nine months in the 4-year-old Persian Gulf war, although neither country's claims could be independently confirmed by Western journalists or military attaches, who have been barred from the battlefield.

Iran claimed Sunday its troops had "completely squashed" Iraqi attempts to regain 50 square miles "liberated" in an Iranian ground offensive since Wednesday.

Iraq denied the claim, saying it had regained control of the territory in a counteroffensive supervised by President Saddam Hussein at the central sector of the war front, the official Iraqi news agency INA said.

Diplomats in the Persian Gulf region said both Iran and Iraq have suffered thousands of casualties in fighting around Melmak, in the mountains 60 miles northeast of Baghdad.

'It is a difficult terrain ... and in some areas inaccessible to tanks and armored vehicles." said one diplomat of the mountainous region. The Iranian news agency IRNA quoted a military statement as saying, "1,100 enemy forces were killed or wounded in their futile attempts Sunday morning and Saturday afternoon" to regain the land it had

In the latest fighting, Iran and iraq are battling for control of land that Iran claims to be rich in oil and farm resources.

Second Medical Opinion Of Primary Importance

DEAR ABBY: I am a healthy, active, 46-year-old man whose doctor told me I needed a triple (and possibly a quadruple) bypass heart operation immediately! It came as a shock to me because I had never had heart trouble of any kind. This news came to me on May 2, 1983. On the following day, I read something in your column that I believe was more than just a coincidence. It was as though the good Lord had sent a message to me through you.

I acted on your recommendation and got not only a second opinion, but a third, and both doctors told me I did not need heart surgery. When I told my first doctor about the opinions of the other two doctors, he suggested that since I had so little confidence in his professional Judgment. I should find another doctor, 1 dtd

DEAR ALSO: I will. And here

DEAR ABBY: Thank you so much for printing the government's Second Surgical Opinion Hotline. (The toll-free number is 1-600-492-6603.) It's easy to see why you titled your column "Second Opinion Likely to Offend Doctor." It's been my experience that asking your original doctor for the name of a second-opinion specialist poses no problem for him. He will simply refer you to someone down the hall, in the same building or belonging to the same country club who will invariably corroborate his own opinion.

I cannot stress enough the importance of seeking out specialists totally independent from one another for second (and third and fourth) opi- ions in surgical or medical matters. Find a different doctor who will really take an objective look at your case, without regard to ego. fear of loss of control over a patient, his wallet, or any other irrelevant (to you) issues.

DEAR ABBY: My problem isn't exactly earth-shattering. but I'm sure it's one that is shared by many.

My husband and I are friendly with a couple I'll call Joe and Schatzi. Schatzi is German-born. but she's been in this country for many years and speaks fluent English. Joe also speaks German. When the two of them are in a group converse in German, and nobody else can understand what they are say-

DEAR FED UP: People who speak German (or Spanish, or Chinese or pig latin) in the presence of those who cannot for the school's Halloween understand it are rude, insensitive and offensive.

Local Begging Laws Not Affected By Appeal Court Ruling

The 1st District Court of Appeal in Tallahassee has struck down a Jacksonville ordinance which banned begging on city streets and in public places, calling the ordinance unconstitutional.

And even though Sanford has an identical ordinance, adopted some 30 years ago, the Tallahasseee court decision will have no local effect, according to City Attorney Bill Colbert.

Explaining that Sanford and Seminole County are within the jurisdiction of the 5th District Court of Appeal in Daytona Beach, Colbert said the Tallahassee decision involves the city of Jacksonville specifically and would merely set a precedent for legal argument if a suit were filed against Sanford or some other city here on the

"If it were a Florida Supreme Court decision, I would be concerned," Colbert said.

All this decision does is strike down an ordinance in Jacksonville, Colbert said.

Lake Mary also has a similar ordinance begging is forbidden unless a person gets a permit from the police department.

The three-judge panel said the right of an individual to beg for himself is not absolute and municipalities can apply certain controls short of a total ban.

The court also said the Jacksonville ban violates the right of free speech.

"A city has the duty to control undue annoyance on the streets and public places and prevent the blocking of vehicle and pedestrian traffic," the court said, adding: "That lofty goal must be measured and balanced against the rights of those who seek welfare and sustenance for themselves by their own hand and voice rather than by means of the muscle and mouths of others."

The appeal court ordered the city of Jacksonville to drop a charge of violating the ordinance against a juvenile identified in court papers only as "C.C.B." -Donna Estes

CONSTANTLY

DID YOU HEAR THAT?

Situations will arise this coming year where you will be able to take advantage of opportunities not apparent to others. Your intuition and insights will give you the edge. LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) Your leadership qualities will be more pronounced than those of your peers today. Exercise your initiative in your mutual involve-ments. Major changes are in store for Libras in the coming year. Send for your year-ahead predictions today. Mail $1 to Astro-Graph, Box 489, Radio sure to state your zodiac sign. SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) This can be a very productive day for you, provided you can work in an environment free from outside interferences. Shut come from partnership arthe office door.

City Station York, NY 10019. Be

BAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) Today contemplate on hopes for things you would like to bring about. Your farsightedness will help you visualize the right game plan.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) Your ability, to sense the pulse of your environment is your greatest asset today. It can aid you in achieving a desired AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) Be confident of your own judgment today. If you feel you have good idea, don't let others dissuade you before you test it.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20)

Someone may try to change something today hoping it may be of special benefit to him. However, you'll end up being the recipient of its advantages.

ARIES (March 21-April 19) Although you usually prefer to do things independently, today your greatest benefits are apt to rangements.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) Try to keep your nose to the grindstone at this time because you now have opportunities to catch up or get a little ahead in your work.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20)

Take time out today to enjoy some pleasurable pursuits. They shouldn't interfere with anything vital and besides, you're entitled to enjoy yourself. CANCER (June 21-July 22)

Give family matters priority over other interests today. You'll derive pleasure from doing a bit extra for those you love.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) Your resourceful mind invites intellectual challenges today and successfully subdues them. Emphasize the mental, not the muscle.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) Continue keeping your financial affairs in balance. Being prudent now will enable you to enjoy finer things later.
