By RUSS WHITE Herald Staff Writer

No man, woman or child has burst into the Sanford Herald building with nearly as much awe and wonder as Frank Melvin displayed when he arrived Wednesday. Melvin, a 63-year-old retired high school German teacher from Bakersfield, Calif., came to visit his comical childhood buddies the Katsenjammer Kids

The Herald, Melvin breathlessly said, is one of two U.S. newspapers still running the Katsenjammer Kids - the oldest and most durable cartoon strip in America, begun 100 years ago in the New York World Journal.

Melvin brought with him a bandsome copy of the February-March issue of German Life which carried a cover story on the comic strip. "It's been years since I saw the strip." he said. "I wondered where I could find it. The Sanford Herald and the Martinsferry Times (Ohio) were mentioned in the article...that's why I'm here."

Featuring the wild antics of two German rapscallions - Hans and Fritz - and their good-natured, broad-beamed momina - the WASHINGTON - Republicans are urging President Clinion to ban partial-birth abortions after it became known that a key abortion rights supporter lied in 1995 when he said just a few hundred of the abortions were performed annually - and then only to save the mother's life or abort deformed fetuses.

Now, activist Ron Fitasimmons says several thousand are performed yearly, and not only in the third trimester, but on some healthy women in the middle of programcy.

Republicans are calling on Clinton, who supports a woman's right to an abortion, to reverse course and agree to the ban.

Seminole County: A place to grow

People often complain about portions of programming on WMPE. Channel 24 tele-vision, which appear to be constantly asking for financial support. During these piedge drives, they regularly tell you how money goes toward programming designed to help the communities served by the Educational Television station Television station.

Tuesday evening. WMFE-TV presented a program which is certainly an example of the way donations help in the local area. The program is part of the "Assignment" series, and was entitled "A Place to Grow." It was all about Seminole County, specifically the Lake Mary/Sanford area.

Few, if any television programs have ever painted such an outstanding portrait of Seminole County. It consisted of interviews with many top business leaders including the head of AAA in Heathrow, and several others. Each spoke of the benefits his or her organization found by locating in Seminole County.

The program also gave an aerial view of Seminole Community College, the I-4 cor-ridor, and other points of interest some of which those of us on the ground seldom see or even imagine. It's us, but it often looks like a much larger metropolitan ares.

According to word from Channel 24, the program is scheduled to be repeated again this Bunday, March 9, beginning at 13 noon. We suggest every local official arrange to have their video age machines set for that time, and obtain their own copy of this documen-tary. # Police problems are not racial ones

As the wife of a Santord Police Color, 1 same great offense is former Santord City Commis-sioner Bub Thomas's addicital in the March 4 edition of the Santord Herald. The problems is the Sanford Police Department are NOT caused by racial prejudice against Police Chief Joe Differd. This is NOT, nor has it ever been a race

The police officers and the POP couldn't care less if Chief Dillard is black, white or purple. The problems in the department have been going on for several years, but Chief Dillard did not just inherit the problems caused by former Chief Russell. He has been the direct cause of many of m over the past few years.

As the Deputy Chief he has been the creater of any of the current policies of the administra-on. He has had very direct input in the pro-sotians, discipline and everyday running of this ent.

The officers in the Sanford Police Department put their lives on the line every day. We in Sanford have the highest crime rate in the county, yet the officers do without the proper equipment and have had very little training in the past few years. They are understaffed and greatly overworked.

But yet the response time in this city is to be admired. The officers feel very strongly about this city and work hard to make it sale for the citis citizens. However, how would you feel if you worked for a company of less than 100 and your boss would not even acknowledge a "good morning"

The Chief and Deputy Chief never atland briefings, let alone upsail to the officers. When one officer was hurt in a car accident, no one from the administration even bothered to check and see if he was hart. Thief Differed seems to field that the POP is the cause of all the problems with the department. On the construry, the unless was voted in three years ago as a music of basically the same problems they are still betting. The construct was finally ratified in Oct. 1996 after two and a half years of negotiating. This contract was seen by the officers as a way to have some say in the way things are. It protects them from unfair and uneven discipline, makes for fair and honest promotions to Corporal and Sergeant.

Sergeant. The Union is not the big bad wolf causing disharmony at the door. The POP has worked hard to essuare that everyone is treated fairly and evenly. In addition, the POP is not just a union but a fraternal organisation as well. The officers have worked hard to make things better in the city. They have spensored read cleanups, worked with Easter Seak, based many local charities and had great excess in the past two years with our "Annual Shop with a Cop" program helping underprivileged children have a nicer Christmas. The FOP is not the energy Chief, it is your officers.

Chief, it is your officers. There are great distances to cross to make this department one that the city and the officers can be proved of, but each elds must be willing to go the extra while to make it happen. In the past, Chief Dillard's attitude has been, "Do it my way, right or wrong, or there's the

Adubato is perfect fit for Magic

Two weeks ago, everyone was ready to unplug the life support system.

There was no spirit, no heart, no soul to the Mutineers that canned coach Brian Hill-

All of a sudden, the Magic found a heart and fell in love with Richie Adubato.

That's the same Richte Adubato that lost at Detroit in the 70's. Dallas in the 80's but seems to be a miracle worker in Orlando.

Keep him.

The Muttneers like him.

The fans like him.

The press likes him,

So forget all the conversitations with retread Chuck Daly.

Forget Rick Pitino

Give Adubato the job.

For one thing. Magic president Penny Hardaway likes his style. Ever since Adulato took over, Hardaway has been happy and the entire team has decided to try to play defense.

See last week's four-game homestand? Was that the Magic playing agressive defense, diving for loose balls and forcing turnovers all week?

Was that Hardaway freelancing on offense? Dennis Scott and Nick Anderson playing like the Dennis Scott and Nick Anderson of two years ago when the Magic reached the NBA finals?

Adubato has to be the reason.

Actually, not having a coach is the reason. Tuesday night. Orlando travelled to Seattle, a team that beat them up two days before, and pulled out a road win. That isn't something that happens in the NBA, especially in the land of Gary Peyton and Shawn Kemp.

Was it jet lag? Was it not having to hear O-rena pulbic adress announcer Paul Porter shrieking throughout the game2.

It was the Magic being the Magic. Tossing the ball inside to Shaq was the answer last year. Tossing the ball to Rony Seiklay isn't the answer this year.

Adubato realizes it and just tosses a basketball

Behind 11 points from K. Blanks, SPJC, the Suncoast Conference Champions, took a nine point lead, 37-28, at halftime.

But with Angela Meiser catching fire in the second half, along with a lot of help from Sandra Draskovic and Marja Kettinen, the Raiders, the runners-up from the Mid-Florida Conference. rallied to take a lead early in the second half. Meiser had 15 second half points, while Draskovic and Kettinen added seven points each.

The Trojans then battled back to regain the onto the court and lets his players play.

It has worked. Since the mutiny, the Magic has won seven of eight with a gimme coming up against the Los Angeles Clippers tonight.

If the regular season ended today and the Magic could pull by Cleveland for the seventh-seed in the Eastern Conference playoff race, the Mianit Heat would be the opponent. The Magic has beaten the Heat two straight times.

After that?

Probably an embarrassing sweep.

That's about the best the Magic can hope for. Chuck Daly couldn't do more, Rick Pitino couldn't do more and, for that matter, neither could Brian HIL

What the Magic has is a team run by Penny Hardaway and the rest of the Mutineers. That isn't necessarily a bad thing.

With the current collection of Magic, the best thing to do is let them be themselves.

Throw the ball onto the court and let them play.

That's why Adubato is the perfect coach for this team. He's not a control freak like Daly or Pilino. he has no ego and lots of humility and he's an all-around good guy.

The Magic can do all the searching they want for a new coach this summer, but who can they find that's better than Adubato?

Daly has lost at more places that he has won.

Pitino is popular because he's young, coached in New York, and has 13 less national championships than John Wooden, two less than Bobby Knight or Dean Smith and the same amount as the unemployed Jim Harrick.

Bob Hill, the ex-coach of the San Antonio Spurs. has been tossed out as a possibility but look at why he's unemployed. He lost his star center and franchise player David Robinson and couldn't stop the bleeding.

Isn't that what happened in Orlando?

Give Adubato the job. He's carned it and he comes at a low price.

The Magic can throw millions of dollars at Chuck Daly and get the same results.

If you go to a high-priced record store at the mall for a Springsteen CD and go to K-Mart for the same thing, they'll both sound the same.

That's what the Magic need to think about as they let Adubato wonder if he'll have a job tomorrow.

Give him the job.

The game was stopped in the bottom of the sixth inning by the 10-run mercy rule.

We open conference play with Lake Brantley on Friday." said Brown, "We needed a game like this to get everyone some work and keep us loose." Oviedo spotted Mount Dora a two-run advantage in the first, then promptly exploded for six runs tall with two out) in the bottom of the first.

After the first two Oviedo hitters were retired on Kelly Ballard's first two pitches. Jeremy Frost slashed a double and came home on Jay McFarlane's double. Lawrence Pultz then extended his hitting streak to nine games when he singled in McFarlane with the game-tying run.

The Lions loaded the bases as Guy Ervin was hit by a pitch and Troy Boutwell walked, Jorge Hernandez followed with an infield single to score Pultz with the goahead run. Ervin came in on an error on the play. Freshman Justin Holmes, appearing in his varsity game, hit a two-run single to cap the rally. For the Hurricanes (1-8), it only got wome and didn't end until Eric Wilson's bases-loaded single in the sixth forced the 10-run rule to be employed.

Frost led Ovjedo's 16-hit assault by going 4-for-4 with two doubles. two runs scored, and two RBI. He was intentionally walked his fifth trip to the plate. Holmes was 2-for-4 with a run and three RBI while Pultz went 2-for-3 with two runs and two RBL

SANFORD - Indian River Community College took all of the suspense out of the game Wednesday afternoon as the Pioneers scored six runs in the top of the first inning and went on to handle Seminole Community College 9-2 in a junior college baseball game at Raider Field.

IRCC did the damage with power as Dewey blasted a two-run home run and Craig Lariz, the former Most Valuable Player of the Lake Brantley Big Blue Baseball Classic from Key West, pounded a three-run shot later in the inning. The 6-foot-4, 270-pound Lariz also hit a solo home run in the seventh inning and also had a double to finish the game three-for-five. Shamwell, Castellano (double) and Spiczio (double) added two hits each for the Pioneers (17-3).

Former Lyman star Jason Gronert, a freshman, came on to catch in the eighth inning and doubled in IRCC's final run of the game in the top of the eighth inning. Another ex-Greyhound. Freddie Young, played right field but did not have a hit in four trips to the plate.

The Raiders got both of their runs in the bottom of the second inning.
