Chit-Chat of the Play Houses in Sanford

"Bullets and Brown Eyes"
New York American calls it a great play of unusual power and compelling interest. Friday, June 30th, At Lyric Theatre.

The New York reviewers continue to be enthusiastic about the quality of the Triangle features offered at the Knickerbocker Theatre. For a month there has not been a discordant note, and "Bullets and Brown Eyes" Bessie Barriscale's newest starring vehicle is held to uphold the standard set by "Peggy." "His Picture in the Papers" and "Hell's Hinges." A few excerpts from the reviews follow:

"Bullets and Brown Eyes" has all the qualities that make for an excellent motion picture. Action, romance, adventure, panorama and superb acting by Bessie Barriscale and William Desmond combine to make a picture which exploits
every opportunity of screen art.
William Collier, in "Better Late Than Never," was an excellent added feature.—New York Tribune.

Love and war divide interest in the story of "Bullets and Brown Eyes." Constant action, large forces of players, beautiful scenic effects and a constant love story combine to give the photoplay unusual interest.
New York American.

The picture play contains some remarkable effects of distance, especially in showing a battle, which is supposed to last for three days.—
New York Sun.

Thomas H. Ince has succeeded in showing a modern war as it might really look if the camera man could follow a soldier from the front to the rear and in addition to this he was fully paid.—New York Press.

There was a pretentious fall at the Knickerbocker, with Bessie Bar-riscale in "Bullets and Brown Eyes."

Bessie Barriscale makes her brown eyes shine in "Bullets and Brown Eyes." The play is a picture of action and adventure. It is a story of love and war. The picture is well acted and well directed.—

The action takes place in the mythical countries of Rothalia and Marosow. Prince Boris of Priesland determines to seek the hand of Countess Olga of Rothalia after looking at her picture in his mother's art gallery. Before he can carry out his plan war is declared between the two countries and Boris, at the head of the huzzars, is sent on a raid into the enemy's country. Michael is sent by their father, Count
Ivan to take his sister to a convent for protection.

huzzars to depart and remains behind, as he waits for her to finish her preparation. Boris tells her that he will marry her and Boris and Olga will hold his life for her woman's word. She can have her man and take the throne prisoner. This Olga does not believe and she is taken to a convent and hidden.

Federal Inquiry or Railroad Strike?

Faced by demands from the railroaders, farmers, teamsters and brackmen that would impose on the country an additional burden in transportation costs of $100,000,000 a year, the railroads propose that this wage problem be settled by reference to an impartial Federal tribunal.
With these employees, whose efficient service is acknowledged, the railroads have no differences that could not be considered fairly and decided justly by such a public body.

Railroads Urge Public Inquiry and Arbitration
The terms proposed of the railroads in their reply to the statement of the Interstate Commerce Commission are as follows:
1. Arbitration in accordance with the provisions of the Federal law (The Newlands Act).

Leaders Refuse Offer and Take Strike Vote Leaders of the train service brotherhoods, at the joint conference held in New York June 1-15, refused the offer of the railroads to submit the issue to arbitration or Federal review, and the employees are now voting on the question whether authority shall be given these leaders to declare a nation-wide strike.
The Interstate Commerce Commission is proposed by the railroads as the public body to which this issue ought to be referred for these reasons:
No other body with such an intimate knowledge of the railroads' affairs, such an opportunity and position at the public conference.
The rates the railroads may charge the public for their services are now largely fixed by the Government.
That of every dollar received by the railroads from the public nearly one-half is paid directly to the employees as wages, and the money to pay increased wages
can come from no other source than the rates paid by the public.
The Interstate Commerce Commission, with its competent staff, is in a position to make a complete investigation and render such decision as would protect the interests of the railroad employees, the owners of the railroads, and the public.

A Question For the Public to Decide
The railroads feel that they have no right to grant a wage preferment of $100,000,000 a year to these employees, now highly paid and constituting only one-fifth of all the employees, without a clear mandate from a public tribunal that shall determine the merits of the case after a review of all the facts.
The single issue before the country is whether this controversy is to be settled by an impartial Government inquiry or by industrial warfare.

The Final Word

PRESIDENT'S MEXICAN POLICY BESPEAKS THE MAN

(NEW YORK GLOBE)

The message sent to the de facto government of Mexico carries the signature of Lansing, but presents internal evidence of being in some passages from another hand. It states with clearness why American troops may not be withdrawn from Mexico, and why the right to dispatch others must be reserved.

A nation whose territories are used as a base of operations for hostile expeditions against a neighboring nation may not complain when the aggrieved defend themselves. Its sovereignty is not disregarded when the marauders are pursued wherever they may go. Neither the spirit nor the letter of international law is violated when measures are taken needful to prevent recurrence of the offense. It is preposterous to contend that the policing Carranza is either unwilling or unable to do may not be done by others. By objecting under the circumstances to the United States doing that which he is under obligation to do Carranza makes his government a party to the crimes committed against peaceful American citizens. The issue is not one involving punishment. As a matter of right we may claim privileges inherent in self-defense. When the pirates of Barrataria were sheltered behind the islets that fringe the gulf of Mexico no one thought of contending that their nests were sacred. It is not inconsistent with the land pirates of Chihuahua.

It is desirable to have the conditions of this country clear in all respects that it may take in ending its tolerable conditions. It is desirable that intelligent Mexicans, and there are many such, may not raise the cry that another Maximilian invasion is upon them and they are eager to defend their country. It is desirable that the relations of this country to the other Latin republics may not be complicated by bases for a claim that the United States is applying the Prussian principle to the new world. It is desirable that our domestic problem may not be aggravated by the spirit of a militant imperialism. The note in publication is long, but it is to be remembered that it is addressed to more than Carranza.

The president, besides informing the de facto government of Mexico of an unalterable purpose to bring to a close bandit activities, indirectly rebuffs his numerous critics in this regard. He has been clear and definite in his Mexican policy. To the charge that he has been slow and that he has been unable to get on with the situation he has replied in his Moble address. He has so wished to avoid interfering in Mexican affairs and has been so eager for Mexico to settle and maintain her own peace that he has constructed every possible barrier to the intervention of the United States. He has lived up to the sentiments expressed in his Moble address. He has so wished to avoid interfering in Mexican affairs and has been so eager for Mexico to settle and maintain her own peace that he has constructed every possible barrier to the intervention of the United States.

As to the future, should Carranza be mad enough in his pomposity to provoke a conflict, the United States, as it has been applied to by the different parties and factions, should be our guide. We intervened in Cuba for our own good, and even more strikingly for the good of Cuba and of civilization.

Little Coat of Blocked Silk

6821

Coat of black and white silk with revers of white and collar of black. If desired double capes may be added to meet the demands of a popular fashion.

Taffeta of black or checked designs for small girls. The latest fad in trimming is to make the revers of white fabric or cloth and the collar of black velvet. It is a charming combination and not unreasonably expensive. In medium size the coat shown here requires 2 1/2 yards 54-inch or 3 1/2 yards 36 inch material. The back of the design extends over the shoulders forming a yoke effect. If it is desired not to have the revers, the coat may be finished in high effect at the neck, with turn-down collar. The fulness about the waistline may be gathered or smocked, and a half-belt of velvet added.

The back of the coat is laid on a lengthwise fold of material, thus avoiding a seam. The collar is placed to the right. The front, sleeves and underfacing are placed on a lengthwise thread. If the silk is only 36 inches wide, it will be necessary to cut the model from an open width of material, two widths being used at a time, laid right sides facing, so that section will be cut in duplicate.

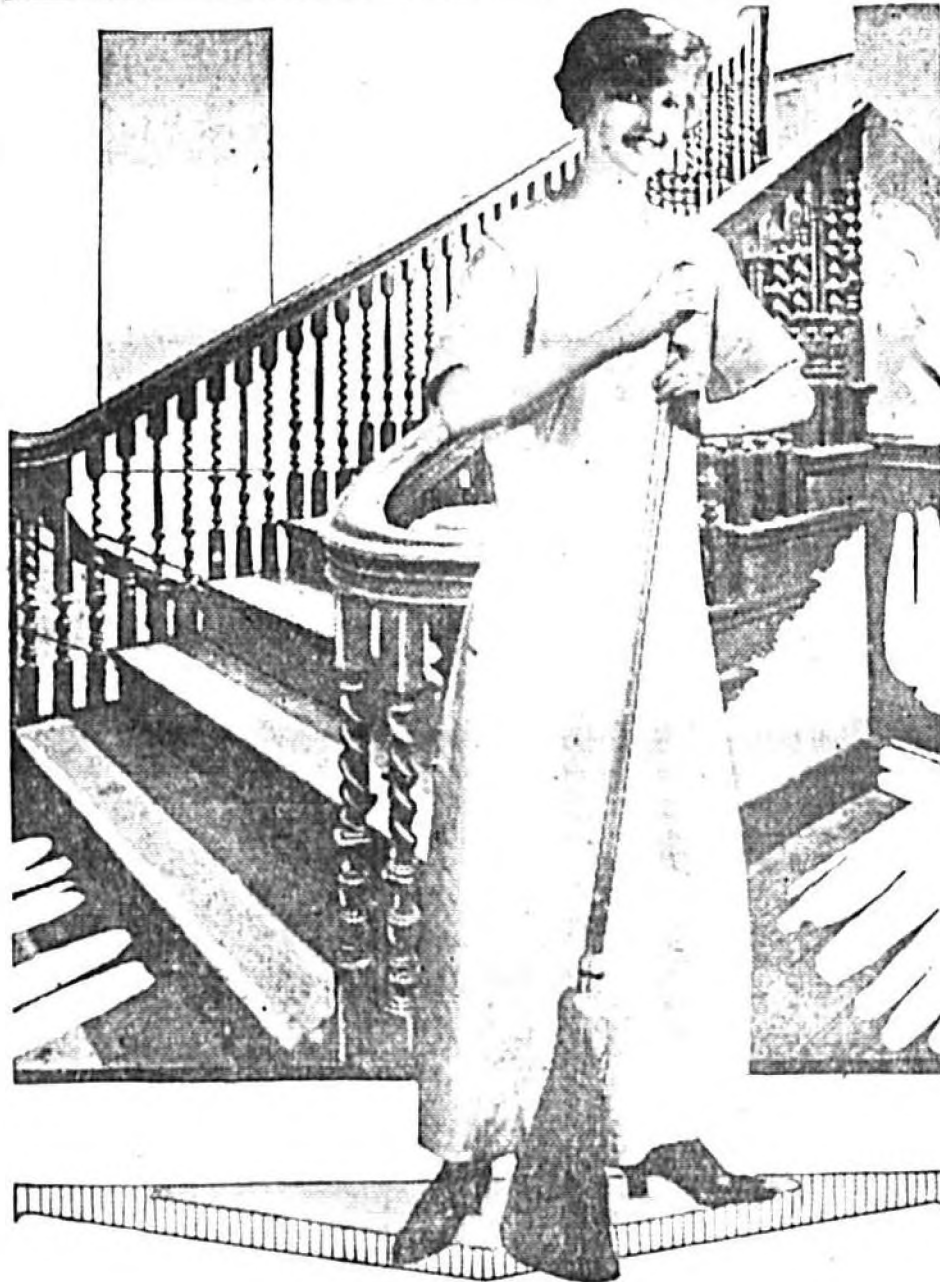

Cape effects are so much in demand this season that the trimming has been provided in this instance. There is practically no difference in the placing of the pattern sections, except that the capes are laid on a lengthwise fold with the back and collar.

A coat of this design is charming fashioned of light colored silk with capes of organza, of chiffon cloths. For party wear or gala occasions nothing is daintier for the miss of

About Patterns for Kitchen Aprons

In January the order of the year brings about the making of new undergarments, house dresses, kitchen aprons, and all the white work required by the household and the house. And in the annual January sales, all over the country, of white goods, merchants present the stocks of cotton fabrics which they have assembled in anticipation of the demand for them. There is no better season in which to buy cotton products than at the beginning of the year.

There has been a steady advance in the standard of quality in many lines of cotton goods and in the introduction of high class novelties, the mills are making a rapid progress.

A kitchen apron that may be made of cotton crepe, as well as of the usual percale or gingham, is shown in the picture, and hardly needs description. It covers the figure and fastens at the back, unlike many of the late patterns, which fasten at one side. Blue is the favorite color for the apron of cotton crepe, and it is finished with white braid bindings. The chief claim to attention is based upon the fact that this kind of apron requires almost no ironing. Although the subject of kitchen aprons is not one to arouse a great amount of enthusiasm, it is not by any means without interest. Many aprons manage to be attractive, while they cleverly fill all that is required of them in the way of usefulness. This means that they must cover the figure, be plain and easily adjusted, good looking and shapely. They must be neatly finished and provided with at least one pocket and made of material that will stand any amount of tubbing.

All of the new aprons are made with elbow sleeves except those that are sleeveless. Very shapely and attractive models have a large bib at the front of the body fastened by flat bands of the material to the belt at the back. A favorite finish for all edges is a flat band of material in contrasting color. All the fast colors are used with white, and striped effects prevail.

Some of you Sanford "iggerers" can now get busy with paper and pencil and find out how much good Sanford money was spent on the Fourth in other cities that could have been kept at home if some enterprising citizens here had gumption enough to arrange a big celebration in Sanford instead of going to some other place for amusement.

There are spasmodic efforts every year to have a Seminoles county fair in Sanford. These efforts usually fall flat because a few so-called Sanford men throw cold water on anything that is agitated for the benefit of Sanford.

THE NEW PARTY
Before another presidential election there will be a new party in the United States. The American People's Party is being organized.

SOLDIERS' MARRIAGES
We confess we cannot see any reason, none or high in the action of many soldiers who hurry into marriage immediately prior to leaving for the battle front.

WE FURNISH THE RESPECT
Occasionally a man who has been hauled into police court, says the Emporia Gazette, asks that his name be withheld "on account of his mother."

It takes a lot of nerve for a man or a boy to ask a newspaper to withhold his name in connection with a police court story, because the person who makes the request virtually admits that he expects the paper to show a respect that he lacks.

Staying out of police court is optional with most persons. But until the end of time, white livered individuals who get in will crawl to the newspaper offices and ask others to respect mothers whom they, by their presence in police court, show that they do not respect.

It also happens in newspaper offices that friends of men who deserve no mercy ask newspaper men to suppress facts or omit comment "out of respect to the man's family."

THE NO FENCE LAW
For the last ten years the subject of a county option election to decide whether the state conditional law of the subject of open range should be enforced has been discussed in Polk county.

The damage done by range cattle is hard to calculate, but it amounts to a surprising sum in the aggregate. This however is the very smallest part of the loss due to the free range custom.

There is talk here of another striking example of the thoroughness with which the British secret service has been doing its work in peace time.

It would seem that the secret service had made a bad blunder. But it hadn't. They showed by direct evidence that this man during his whole residence in this country had been in regular communication with the German government.

London—A correspondent of the New York World has just had an opportunity of learning something of what the British secret service has accomplished from one who, though not an official, has been in the way of knowing something about it.

Lenient With Woman Spy.
Anent the killing of Miss Cavell by the Germans when she was not even charged with espionage, the British government has under lock and key here now, under a sentence of merely ten years' penal servitude, the German woman whose accomplice was one of those shot in the Tower as a spy.

The most ingenious and daring inventors of spy stories are left puffing and panting with exhausted imagination compared to the schemes, devices and sacrifices that the spy of real life is known to have made.

ARMY CAPTAIN SUSPECTED
Needless to say, this tribunal has had some extraordinary cases before it. For example, there was the appeal for the confinement of a British army captain, with near relatives high in the service, and coming of an old English family.

MIDGETS SHINE ON BASEBALL DIAMOND

A man big in stature makes a fine appearance on the pitching mound for a major league club. It is a surprise if you see a midget pitcher. It matters how long a record a minor league pitcher has made. He would pass him up if he did not measure up to the physical standard. But things are changing in baseball. A midget pitcher is now a regular feature in the big leagues. Al Walker is the highest pitched midget pitcher in the big leagues. He is 5 feet 10 inches tall and weighs 125 pounds. He is a right-handed pitcher and has a fast ball that is 90 miles an hour. He is a hard hitter and has a batting average of .300. He is a member of the New York Yankees and has won several championships. He is a very popular player and is loved by the fans. He is a true midget who has made a name for himself in the big leagues.

Bunch of Small Men Making Good in Big Leagues

A man big in stature makes a fine appearance on the pitching mound for a major league club. It is a surprise if you see a midget pitcher. It matters how long a record a minor league pitcher has made. He would pass him up if he did not measure up to the physical standard. But things are changing in baseball. A midget pitcher is now a regular feature in the big leagues. Al Walker is the highest pitched midget pitcher in the big leagues. He is 5 feet 10 inches tall and weighs 125 pounds. He is a right-handed pitcher and has a fast ball that is 90 miles an hour. He is a hard hitter and has a batting average of .300. He is a member of the New York Yankees and has won several championships. He is a very popular player and is loved by the fans. Laura Jean Libbey's TALKS ON HEART TOPICS

THE WOES OF THE LITTLE BOY.

Parents who have a younger child in such a family do not realize how hard it is for the older child to make life for him. They will say they have no one else to leave in charge to wash the breakfast and tidy up the place and row the cradle until mother's return. Other means should be resorted to. Some woman in the neighborhood can be induced to care for baby during those hours in which she is watching her own, for a very small stipend. This money is wisely spent if it affords the little lad an opportunity to run about and play in the fine health-giving air and glorious sunshine when his books are thrust aside for the day.

Almost every boy who is forced to care for the "younger fry" of the family grows up with a secret dislike of little ones. This trait is pretty apt to cling to him long after he has grown to manhood and has wedded. He has a cordial dislike for children, he knows why. Boyhood is playtime. Parents should not forget this and should make due allowance for it. Even the boy born to poverty may not feel that life is empty and hard to live through if he has his playtime and indulges freely in it. Childhood is with him out of him, he cannot pass that way a second time.

HER HUSBAND'S FRIEND.

Bind the sea to slumber stilly,
Bind its orders to the lily,
Bind the aspen never to quiver,
Then bind love to last forever.

There are young women who seem to take especial pride in letting their overfondness for the admiration of some men be noticed. It makes no difference to such one whether he is the husband of her dear friend. She forgets the warning that the heart of the wife he won long ago is trembling with the fear lest she will be at the mercy of her cherished chum and he will be taken away from her.

He has whispered into the ears of more than one foolish, flattered woman the well-studied story he had cleverly concocted of an unhappy home life, invalid wife, who was ungenerous, treating him coldly and having outbursts of temper which are driving him away.

The old, old story is his plea, interspersed with deep-drawn sighs and often moistened eyes. It is downright dangerous and pitiful for young, attractive women who are susceptible and believe they can charm one and all to be exposed to the constant companionship of a man who strives with all his might to render himself agreeable, despite the fact that he is a husband. A married man has no principle if he shows undue attention to any woman save his wife. Her dignity as his wife, the hope she has always had to protect his honor and make glad his home, usually suffer when the tongues of the gossips are set wagging by the reports of her husband's friend.

No young women of proper regard for their standing would accompany a married man on a two hours' drive or meet him near a theater, sit beside him, laughing with flushed cheeks over a play of some gay amusement, or join in a dance, his arms encircling her waist, hours winging by that he should have passed at his own free will with his wife. Most wives are careful as to the friends they make, whom they bring into their domestic circle. They look ahead wisely and are not sorry if they seem indifferent to some who persistently plan to mingle with them as close friends, and use every available effort to enjoy their hospitality on every occasion that presents itself.

These cautious wives are not the ones who are unduly jealous. Often the opportunity occurs which gives her a chance to talk with her understanding guest quietly but firmly, telling her opinion frankly and gradually. More often than not this adroitly mends matters in time to save fatal consequences. Husband and wife can ill afford to cease having tender watch care in a measure over one another. It saves many a snare. Love binds a man to happiness in the bosom of his family and closes the door on unhappy love's tempters and upon all that leads astray. He who is true to his wife, to his young woman who crosses his path, will never reach her long time to her. No young woman should beguile herself into the belief that the married man respects her. Single women should attract no one who wish to marry for love and honor.

WANTED GREEN IN SHIRT

McKee Wrecked Store Because Clerk Showed One With Orange Stripes

Pittsburgh, Pa. — Lemme are something nifty in shirts—something with a classy green stripe," said Dan McKee of Soho street, as he cruised into the men's furnishing store of Emil de Santis, in Webster avenue. The lone clerk evidently did not notice all the specifications of McKee's order, and flatteringly drew out at random the first box of shirts his hand touched. Picking the top shirt out, he laid it before McKee.

"There's something nice," he began. "Oh, is it?" yelled McKee. Things happened in rapid succession for a few minutes, during which the clerk ran for a policeman. A show case was smashed and haberdashery strewn about the floor.

"McKee" asked Magistrate Sweeney at the hearing the next morning, "what on earth made you try to wreck that store?"

"I asked for a green striped shirt, judge."

"Well?"

"And that fellow handed me a bright orange one."

"I see," said Sweeney. "But I'll have to make it thirty days."
