State Aide's School Stand Results In Criticism

AROUND THE CLOCK

By BILL SCOTT

Reaction to the opinions a [illegible] state industrial education offi[illegible] cial expressed to newsmen after the Seminole Chamber of Com[illegible] merce's industrial committee was Leslie Crew director, was mentioned for the Sanford [illegible] ing school like the one he [illegible] ed with it.

Crew, director of the Florida Industrial Commission, told Sanford Industrial Committee Chairman Howard Wood Vollmer that the prohibition was "the only thing I disagreed with."

Crew's statement, which was made during a luncheon meeting at the Sanford Country Club, was interpreted by some as a criticism of Sanford's industrial education program.

Crew said he was not criticizing the Sanford program, which he said he considered to be "very good."

Crew said he was merely stating his opinion that the prohibition was unnecessary.

Crew's statement was made in response to a question from Vollmer.

Vollmer had asked Crew if he thought the prohibition should be considered by the delegation next week.

Sanford police are sporting something new on their right shoulders. A replica of the famous Smokey Bear patch is now being worn on the shoulders of the uniforms of police officers.

Police Chief Cecil Bothwell said the patches were ordered from the Florida Division of Forestry in Tallahassee.

Bothwell said the patches are being worn by police officers in an effort to promote fire prevention.

Forecast of things to come may be seen in last Tuesday's issue of the Florida House of Representatives Journal for the Florida House of Representatives.

Rep. William Fulford, Sanford's representative, introduced a bill which would require municipalities throughout the state to submit their plans for urban renewal projects to the state legislature for approval before they could be instituted.

The bill, which was unanimously approved by the House of Representatives, would require that the state approve all urban renewal projects before they could be instituted.

Fulford said the bill was introduced as a result of a controversy between Sanford and Lake Mary officials over the annexation of property in the Lake Mary area.

Fulford said Sanford officials were opposed to the annexation because they felt it would hinder the city's urban renewal program.

Fulford said the bill would not affect the annexation of property in the Lake Mary area.

Fulford said the bill would only require that the state approve all urban renewal projects before they could be instituted.

The bill was introduced by request of Sanford officials, Fulford said.

City Clerk Fired, Councilman Quits

By DONNA ESTES

Altamonte Springs City clerk of eight years, Mrs. Dorothy Barduen, was fired and dismissed on a three-to-two vote by the City Council last night.

Immediately following the dismissal, Councilman Vice Mayor Keith Nixon announced his resignation from the city government, for nearly eight years submitted his resignation effective at the city meeting tonight.

Nixon first came to the clerk's defense during discussion of the matter.

According to Mrs. Barduen, she was told by Councilman Nixon that she would be dismissed at the end of the month.

Nixon met with Mayor Ed Dowdy and Councilman Lawrence Swafford and told them he would not be a party to firing the clerk. Swafford and the three members of the governmental body then voted to dismiss Mrs. Barduen.

Nixon said, "I can't understand why you have been fired. You have done nothing constructive for the city in the past year. I have been very disappointed in the action you took tonight."

Nixon then told Mrs. Barduen, "I will not be a party to firing you. You have been very conscientious and helpful to the city and I have looked at Nixon's suggestion."

In a personal hassle at the meeting, Nixon told Councilman Swafford that he was "very unprofessional" and "unconstructive" in his comments.

Altamonte Spring's Volunteer Fire Department held its annual election of officers at their weekly meeting Tuesday. The following were elected: Frank Papia, Assistant Fire Chief; Al Farnum, Captain; Larry Albrecht, 1st Lieutenant; Chuck Randall, 2nd Lieutenant and Wayne Speerburgh, treasurer.

Kerry Blodworth was re-elected as secretary of the department.

Chief Gary Kaiser reported that two new men had joined the Altamonte unit. They were Joe Wolkenski and Bob McGrath.

Next Tuesday the ABC Fire Equipment Company will conduct a demonstration at the fire hall. The meeting will start at 7 p.m.

Make Hobby Dollars From Decoupage

By JOYCE LAIN

Miss Lain awards a Mercury portable, courtesy of the Royal Typewriter Co., to Roy Chamberlin, Nampa, Idaho, for his suggestion:

"Please write more careers-in-crafts ideas."

A — Response was riotous the last time we explored ideas on turning hobbies into profit. So here's another on one of the hottest crafts going today: decoupage (pronounced day-coo-pah). It's meticulous but fun, and you don't have to be a Michelangelo to do it.

What is Decoupage? This charming 18th Century French creation is the delicate art of cutting out elaborate pictures and mounting them on any object — wood, glass, plastic, metal and even cork! There's also a much simpler form, referred to as "board art" — hardly boring when you can come up with a real work of art by gluing pretty pictures on wooden backgrounds, then varnishing them to a satin finish. Whether you're doing the real decoupage or board art, the best work takes time and such accents as using decals are considered bad manners by connoisseurs.

Who's a cut-up? Men and women, shuts and students. One man became so gifted that his decoupage gems are exhibited in the Metropolitan Museum of Art in New York. Mrs. Lyndon Johnson used decoupaged lamps as gifts for heads-of-state. Hundreds of items, from pill boxes to furniture, become treasures when properly executed.

How to begin? There are excellent private schools throughout the country teaching decoupage, as well as school systems and community centers. Some YWCA's offer it. Check your telephone yellow pages under "Arts and Crafts," ask an art store dealer for a reference, or query your school board and city recreation department.

By mail. For places to write for instructions and materials by mail, plus a suggested reading list, write me in care of this newspaper. Enclose 10 cents and a long, white, stamped and self-addressed envelope. Ask for my decoupage resource sheet.

Money-maker? Yes, but you should consider decoupage earnings as pocket money until you are really professional at it. Then there's a good chance your fiscal fitness can improve dramatically, particularly if you become skilled enough to teach. For instance, the Marie Mitchell Center of Decoupage in Detroit trains some 800 teachers each year through regular classes and short seminars. Later these graduates often open their own studios on a full-time basis, teaching and selling decoupaged creations.

Many decoupagers sell products through gift or art shops, or any store willing to handle the work of craftsmen, usually on a consignment basis (this means you are paid when the item is sold; no sale, no payment). The selling fee is typically 25 per cent of the price. Others sell through benefit bazaars, mail order, family and friends, and home studios.

Release Ready! I'm told that anyone who has ever cut out a paper doll can become proficient in the art of decoupage. The key is to take instructions from a qualified teacher, then practice to make perfect and money.

Speaking of putting a little fund in your life, here's a pleasant surprise: Your initial outlay for instructions and materials can be held to about $50, lots less than many hobby ventures. With the money saved on materials alone, you could splurge on an extra pair of scissors to clip investment coupons — the ones you acquire through your decoupage profits.

Deltona Cyclist To Tour

By MILDRED HANEY

Barret Caldwell, member of the ABCD Bicycle Club of Deltona, is participating in a five month excursion of nationwide bike riders who will start from New Jersey and continue to Massachusetts, where they will pick up more riders.

They will then continue to Halifax, Nova Scotia. He is expected back in October to relate his experiences to his fellow ABCD Club members.

The ABCD Club met Thursday for a leisurely ride to Debarry accompanied by A. C. Feddern, member of the Deltona Camera Club who is filming the club's activities.

The final filming will take place today and at the end of the ride members will meet at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Bill Pozzo and enjoy a barbeque.

All members of the group are invited to attend.

'Romance' Upsets K-9 Corps

RICHMOND, Va. (AP) — The rules of Richmond's K-9 Corps don't provide for maternity leave so Lady, a six-year-old German Shepherd, will have to go.

What's more, Lady's unplanned pregnancy means an all-male K-9 Corps in the future.

She's the only female we've got left and we're not going to fool with any more of them," said Det. G. A. Taylor.

Taylor said Lady's pregnancy probably resulted from something akin to an "office romance." She had been detailed recently to a night patrol in the city's abandoned car lot with a male German shepherd.

Ranch Visited By Pupils

First grade students of Enterprise School were guests Tuesday morning of Mr. and Mrs. Eddie Young at "17-92 Ranch." They saw how horses were exercised on a mechanical exercise machine and how to saddle a horse. They learned about the feed given horses and even saw a baby calf bottle fed.

Young demonstrated how horses are trained to herd cows with a mechanical cow and Mrs. Young treated the children to a cool drink and cookies.

Some of the parents accompanying the first grade teachers, Mrs. Annabelle Trupf, Miss Marcella Hintz and Mrs. Vera Thomas, intern teacher, were Mrs. Virginia Thompson, Mrs. Wanda Combs, Mrs. Rosemary Robinson, Mrs. Marion Hulbert, Mrs. Lillian Hallis, Mrs. Ethel Perrick, and Principal Sylvia Hardin.

Camera Clubbers See Slides

By MILDRED HANEY

Professional photographer Art Headaugh of Cocoa Beach showed slides of the flora, fauna, and scenery of Alaska at the first regular meeting of the Camera Club of Deltona held at the Little Red School House.

He was so impressed by Deltona, that he plans to move his family there in the near future.

The program was followed by refreshments.

The next meeting will be at the community center in the Arts and Crafts Building. The program will be based on Kodak's "Garden of Flowers." Members are requested to bring whatever slides and prints they have of the local area for discussion.

Nixon Move On 'Hunger' Welcome, Important

President Richard M. Nixon's special message to Congress on "hunger in the United States" is most important in its own right.

Yet when viewed as an indication of the change in both content and character which now is defining itself as the traces of Dick Nixon, GOP presidential candidate, yield to the schooling which comes from presidential responsibility and authority, it is momentous.

We did not support his candidacy. It is, therefore, with a rather critical eye that we have watched this welcome change come about.

First, there was the Nixon mastery of the revealing TV press conference. Then came his European trip which depicted a potential in the President which had not been evident prior to that exposure.

Now there is a Congress in session. The persistent inherited and grave crises which confront the White House at home and abroad remain. The usual 100-day honeymoon with the Democratic opposition, controlling majorities in both House and Senate, is at an end.

Considered against this general background, the "hunger" message is not only most welcome but fits into the development of that kind of public climate which must be created before our national strength can be properly mustered.

When our President states that the presence of hunger in America is not only embarrassing but intolerable, he is not only stating a truism but we are sure shocking many complacent citizens, who just can't or won't believe it.

We are not at all happy that an investigating committee from the United States Senate found such deplorable living and food conditions in Florida that its findings certainly must have had some bearing on the Nixon message.

But we are agreeing completely with the Nixon conclusion that with such conditions existing in every region of this prosperous country tagged with a label of "affluent" the honor of American democracy is at issue."

Nor does the president content himself with undefined plans. He asks that more millions be approved for the battle against hunger and that steps be taken at once to relieve those who are suffering from hunger.

This is a move which is avoiding the "sweeping-under-the-rug" tactic which has been allowed to exist in so many of our other domestic situations. Each contains the possibility of violence, exploding when such practices can no longer be endured.

There are limits to what the national government can or should do in issues which are primarily those best solved at the local level.

Of course this message is an indication of a national leadership which would be much more in harmony with the concern for the underprivileged which has been a Democratic characteristic.

We trust this concern will be more and more surfacing as our immense resources at every level of government can be directed towards the causes which are now exploding on the campus and in the cities where minorities still are disturbed.

Nor can any comment on the national situation, even when made on a purely domestic problem, be made without the recognition of the malaise which arises from the war in Vietnam and the "Peace" talks in Paris.

The Nixon policy towards this over-whelming issue is yet to be spelled out. It seems as though this definition will come only as time unfolds the policy through events — battles in Vietnam and talks in Paris.

But here and now we do have the Nixon domestic policy revealing itself in statements and acts. Of these, we would give significant status to the "hunger" message of May 6, 1969.

None So Bold?

Newspaper editors for many generations have patiently endured the trials of having to read communications taking courageous stands —but written by people not courageous enough even to sign their own names.

So it comes as something of a comfort to know that other professions, also, are plagued by the inconsistency of anonymous letter writers. An example is provided by an article in the current issue of the South Carolina United Methodist Advocate, written by Bishop Paul Hardin Jr.

The bishop tells of a letter he has received, demanding that he take a determined stand against the low quality of motion pictures being exhibited in Columbia. The letter, as it goes on, gains in confidence, and suggests that the bishop also denounce current television shows and books.

"It is rather ironical, however," writes Bishop Hardin, "that a writer would suggest that I take a bold stand, and somehow fail to sign the letter. I'm afraid that I couldn't count on that correspondent when the going got tough!"

We somehow imagine that this is not the bishop's first experience with people unwilling to stand up and be counted, but insistent that someone else do so. If it is, we welcome him to the club.—Augusta (Ga.) Chronicle-Herald

Girls And Girls

A man may slap a friend on the back and greet him with, "How are you, old man?" But it would be a brave fellow indeed who greeted a woman friend with, "How are you, old woman?" Today the beautiful word "girl" sweeps across the years and takes no heed of time. "The girls are coming to the party" is a phrase so delightful in its ambiguity that masculine gallantry is summoned to its best response. Perpetual girlhood — this is feminine genius. Ever young, and never old. And who would change it? — Shreveport (La.) Journal

Crane's Worry Clinic:

When Is Nudity Art?

By GEORGE W. CRANE, Ph. D., M. D.

CASE J-588: Nanny G., aged 19, attends the University of Wisconsin.

"Dr. Crane," she began, "isn't it possible to use the term "art" as an excuse for obscenity and cheap publicity?

"For example, here at Madison several nude coeds participated in a student play.

"The house was packed and the producer argued that such a big turnout proved the interest of youth in art.

"But the District Attorney ruled the play obscene.

"The producer stated that no one has the right to censor a work of art except the audience.

"Dr. Crane, do you agree with this rule?"

In a democracy, that rule of the majority prevails.

But a democracy can easily be stampeded into error.

Pontius Pilate thus changed his courtroom into a democracy where men, women and children apparently could vote.

And they voted 100% wrongly, so they freed a proved murderer named Barabbas and sent the innocent Jesus to a cruel death on a cross.

Our country is thus a Republic! Every school child acknowledges that fact in the "Salute to the Flag."

And it was not mere chance that caused our Founding Fathers to give us our Republic.

Chief Justice John Marshall thus said the difference between our Republic and a democracy is the difference between order vs. chaos!

So college youth must begin to realize that a majority vote does not necessarily prove truth or justice or even scientific facts.

A propagandized mob could thus vote that 2 times 2 make 5, but even their unanimous vote would be as wrong as was Pontius Pilate's courtroom.

Discernity is thus a matter of scientific appraisal; not a popularity poll, as of lewd students interested in watching their nude classmates.

Nowadays, many people disdain prostitutes and burlesque shows, yet try to glamorize the same thing under the camouflage of "Art."

"But, Dr. Crane," somebody may protest, "isn't the nude body artistic? So why deny that realism is obscene or lewd?"

Well, realism extends to a backhouse, too! Or a farm manure pile!

But we don't exhibit them on campus stages and claim they are marvelous works of art, do we?

Society has set up tested codes of human conduct that have proved wise throughout the ages.

Nudity in your private bedroom is proper.

But when used for attracting cash customers on a college campus, it may be sound business strategy, but never try to debase the word "Art" by thus trying to camouflage an amateur burlesque show.

Girls who thus parade nude before their college classmates are addicted to the Narcissus complex plus the willingness to do anything to rate headlines and a possible stage contract.

Many Hollywood stars have bribed their way to movie parts by free sexual indulgence with key executives, too.

But "Art" is never determined by majority vote nor crass financial sell-outs.

Nancy is like most coeds who still have "horse sense." They disdain the rioters, hippies and other headline grabbers as being juvenile grandstanders.

(Always write to Dr. Crane in care of this newspaper, enclosing a long stamped, addressed envelope and 20¢ to cover typing and printing costs when you send for one of his booklets).

Interpretive Report:

What "High Official Source"?

By RICHARD WILSON

WASHINGTON, D. C. — One headline read, "Nixon Firm on Cautious Viet Strategy." Another: "Nixon Aides Weigh Troop Cutback Plan." Still another: "U.S. Officials Find New Hopefulness in Vietnam Talks."

All this confusion and circumlocution came from one "high official source who had been cited by President Nixon to try to clarify the administration position on Vietnam and gain a little more time before the hard decisions have to be made. The clarification took the form of a "background" press conference at the White House by a "high official source" who has to be neither identified nor quoted and who succeeded only in confirming that it is difficult to explain what is essentially a policy of ambivalence.

The Nixon administration wants to talk about drawing troops out of Vietnam at some indefinite future date under carefully defined conditions at the same time it asserts its firmness in peace negotiations on maintaining the political and military security of South Vietnam. It is obvious that these two policy lines could become wholly contradictory. It is obvious also that there are significant differences in shades of meaning between Secretary of Defense Laird, Secretary of State Rogers and Presidential Adviser Henry Kissinger.

Anyone can find in what each of these officials is saying something to confirm his own view that we ought to follow a tough policy in Vietnam, or that we ought to pull out. If you believe, like Republican Senators Hugh Scott and George Aiken, that we should begin now to withdraw troops and turn the war over to the South Vietnamese Messrs. Laird, Rogers and Kissinger will supply you some reason to think this may be happening.

From a purely rational point of view there is probably nothing necessarily contradictory in continuing a firm policy while projecting a future withdrawal when the Vietnamese armed forces are capable of maintaining the military and political integrity of the South Vietnamese government. Under such a formula withdrawal could begin this year or 10 years from now.

But the talk about beginning a withdrawal carries with it the implication that this is an irreversible beginning of a rapid disentanglement. It would arouse hopes and expectations which might be politically impossible to deny. The Nixon administration was on the verge of getting trapped in that predicament when President Nixon decided to let it be known that he would not be pressured into hasty action by the rising demand in his own political party for withdrawal.

At the same time Nixon persists in a constructively optimistic attitude that progress is being made toward a peaceable settlement, which North Vietnam vehemently denies. The result is a measure of confusion which an official spokesman has not been able to clear up by the magic of a background conference.

The important factor is not so much what the American public thinks about this as what the government in Hanoi thinks.

Will the government in Hanoi think that the conflicting pressures on continuing the war are pulling Nixon apart and if they continue to fight and talk for another year Nixon will have to give in? Or will the Hanoi government conclude that Nixon won't make any significant unilateral pull-out and Hanoi had better settle now for the best it can get?

The kind of ambivalence that now exists in the Nixon administration could give support to those in Hanoi who want to continue the war and who see American public support for the war weakening to the point of collapse.

Political Notebook:

Bad News For Tenn. GOP!

By BRUCE BIOSEAT
NEA Washington Correspondent

NASHVILLE, Tenn. (NEA) —National Republican strategists who are arguing seriously that they might add Tennessee to their governorship scoreboard in 1970 had better come and take a closer look at a Democrat named John Jay Hooker Jr.

He has had two Oliver Quale polls taken which show him sweeping aside his potential Democratic rivals and the man one thought most likely to be his Republican opponent, Rep. William Brock. The latter now says he will not try for the job.

Four years back from the 1970 race, Hooker as an "irregular" got 47 per cent of the Democratic primary vote while losing to Gov. Buford Ellington. Ellington, seeking a second term, laid it on the young man, then a practicing lawyer, for his lack of "business experience." That hurt him with thousands of Tennessee conservatives.

Things are different today. Hooker, looking like an Ivy League professor but sounding like a driving, jivy businessman, has become what he sounds like.

He has stopped practicing law and is piling up business money for himself and others. With his brother, Henry, he is an impresario wafting a wand over one of the most unusual collections of industrial and service enterprises in the United States.

It all began with chickens around June of 1967—nearly a year after his 1966 loss to Ellington.

Hooker telephoned Minnie Pearl, popular and charming Tennessee country singer, and asked:

"Minnie, how would you like to go into the chicken business?"

He told her he had been looking at figures showing huge growth for the Kentucky fried chicken firm, and did not see why Kopy—using her name for a catch—could not "get a piece of the action."

That was the start for the Minnie Pearl Chicken Systems, a skyrocketing chain of 1,700 franchised, fast-food outlets (150 built) across the country and in some foreign places. What began for $650,000 has zoomed into a $110 million conglomerate.

The word "Systems," indicating use of the most modern operating and marketing techniques, seems to be the only cord that ties together Minnie Pearl's chickens and the other assorted things the two young Hookers have since put together.

They include electronics, steel fabrication, barge and bridge building, chemical research, oil and gas exploration, real estate, a chain of hospitals that may exceed 100 some day, a planned network of child care centers. And the Hookers hold 50 per cent of the new Mahalia Jackson Chicken Systems, a plunge into black capitalism.

Thick-haired and bespectacled, the 35-year-old John Jay Hooker Jr. sits today in his paneled office behind a Minnie Pearl store and says he has not decided about 1970. But he is almost surely going.

He makes friendly sounds about Ellington and could have his support—or at least his neutrality—in a primary fight.

The newest Quayle poll shows him beating Frank Clement, former governor, by 20 points. His margin over Brock is somewhat greater. He outdoes Lt. Gov. Frank Gorrell by around 4 to 1. These figures are flitting freely about Tennessee and are having their effect.

They deal a hard blow to the aspiring Gorrell, and to the aging Clement, though he is telling state-county leaders he is running, no matter what.

Brock knew of the Hooker trend from the earlier poll. Brock's bow-out will leave the GOP governorship nomination to state party chairman Claude Robertson or some other.

H. L Hunt Says:

Why Involve Ourselves?

The question of whether or not we should be in Vietnam in the first place is one that has received heated debates since their involvement began. Theorists have laid the responsibility for this involvement on Presidents Kennedy, Johnson or even Eisenhower. Few, however, remember when President Truman provided aid for the Vietnamese prior to the Korean War, when that part of the World was known as Indo-China.

Arguments against our involvement just such things as Vietnam not being a member of SEATO, or we do not now nor have we ever had a commitment to Vietnam. Here opponents claim, is where the U. S. is being imperialistic and flagrantly violating the law of sovereign nations.

On the contrary, the U. S. does in fact have a commitment in Vietnam. We have a commitment to over 25,000 American lives lost. We have a commitment, morally speaking, to protect the freedom of any nation that so asks. Historically, any move we have made to allow a free people to come under the influence of communism has ended in virtual imprisonment for them, e.g. Czechoslovakia and Hungary.

Why, then should we not be in Vietnam? We are there and rightly so. Our legal commitments to Thailand, Pakistan, Malaysia and our close ally Australia all hinge on our strength in South Vietnam. If we allow freedom to die in Vietnam, the psychological defeat could spread even as near to us as Latin America.

The talk of an honorable victory for one or both sides in the conflict, carries only as much weight as it sounds. Victory is the only word that can mean anything in this matter. Freedom must be victorious over Communism. Whether we obtain this victory in the Paris "Peace" Talks or on the battle field, the outcome will be the same. The communist world must be shown that its hunger for control over the human race cannot and will not be tolerated.

He will be turning over photographs and proof of his discovery to one of the major museums as soon as he returns to the United States.

Heart Transplant Patient Dies

MIAMI BEACH, Fla. (AP) — Heart transplant patient Barry Goodkin died early today from complications resulting from pneumonia that developed two weeks after he received the heart of a 29-year-old Miami housewife.

Spokesmen at Miami Heart Institute said the 33-year-old Boston salesman died at 1 a.m.

Robert Summers, administrator of the institute, said death was caused by "progressive deterioration of lung functions with parasitic pneumonia."

"Cardia action remained good until just before the end," Summers said.

A surgical team transplanted the heart of Nancy Nickerson, wife of a Miami policeman, to Goodkin on April 24. He had progressed satisfactorily until early this week, when the pneumonia was discovered.

The rare drug pentamidine was administered to him late Wednesday night that the pneumonia appeared to have been stabilized.

Mrs. Nickerson died of a brain hemorrhage.

Meanwhile, Vero Beach aircraft mechanic Herbert Minchew, 33, who received a kidney from Mrs. Nickerson's body, was reported in satisfactory condition.

Two Drugs Aid Heroin Addicts

MIAMI BEACH, Fla. (AP) — Two drugs show promise of helping heroin addicts kick their habits. One of them works 10 times as well if the addict has a wife or steady girl friend, a group of psychiatrists says.

The drugs are methadone and cyclazocine. Methadone is a narcotic substitute for heroin with none of its bad effects. Cyclazocine, nonnarcotic, blocks the action of heroin.

Results of experiments with the drugs were reported to the convention of the American Psychiatric Association today by Drs. Richard B. Resnick, Max Fink and Alfred M. Freedman of New York Medical College.

A questionnaire technique indicates which drug would be most helpful in a given case, Resnick said.

Methadone appears better for addicts who feel that heroin reduces their anger, tension and disappointments, and increases their ability to work or study. They have physical or metabolic needs for a drug.

Cyclazocine appears better for addicts who use heroin as a way of getting along better socially, even though they realize that heroin doesn't really help them function.

Fourteen of 31 addicts studied have stayed on cyclazocine successfully for as long as three years, Resnick said. The others dropped out after one week.

Most likely to succeed were men having a continuing relationship with a wife or girl friend, he added. Their chances of staying off heroin were about 10 times greater than those of other men.

Observing this, the psychiatrist gave the women the task of seeing that the men took their cyclazocine regularly.

This prevented the addicts from reducing the dosage so they could "get high" just for a day, and perhaps slip back to regular use of heroin.

All but one of the 14 men continuing to take cyclazocine have remained employed, the psychiatrist said.

Alvin Morse Tops In Beta Club Show

By PHYLLIS BRANSON

Alvin Morse was acclaimed overall winner of the Lyman High School Beta Club Annual Talent Show recently for his exciting rendition of "Sitting on the Dock of the Bay" and "A Man." He was accompanied by Gary Huggins, guitar, and Bob Roland on the drums.

Trophies were also given winners in the three categories. Gary Huggins was chosen for the best single musical for his solo rendition of "California Dreaming," accompanying himself at the guitar.

Winner in the best combo division was "JR's Fin" group consisting of Randy Toole, leader and trumpet player; Jay Quinn, bass; Jeff Pattishall, trombone; Gary Griswold drums, and David Branson, electric guitar. Jim Dunkle won for the best variety special with his drum solo.

Judges for the event were Mrs. Bobbie Davis, Mrs. William Lane, George Eirsten, and Merle Kent.

Judging was based on maintaining interest, presentation, delivery, choice of material, talent and stage skill, originality, confidence and general impression.

Perhaps the funniest act in the show was John Dennis with his hill-billy interpretation of "There's a Hole in the Bucket," which seemed to go on and on, but produced many laughs.

The purpose of the Beta Club is service to others and faculty advisors are Mrs. Marjorie Tingley and John Moriarity.

Job Corps Closings Debatable

WASHINGTON (AP) — Republican congressional leaders have been told by the White House there will be no compromise in the fight over President Nixon's order closing 59 Job Corps centers.

The GOP delegation also got a cram course Tuesday on the Job Corps' reputed failures as ammunition for a significant test of the administration's ability to move domestic programs through the Democratic Congress.

Senate Republican Leader Everett M. Dirksen said he will lead a fight to shelve a resolution sponsored by Sen. Allan Cranston, D-Calif., 20 Democratic colleagues and GOP Sen. Edward W. Brooke of Massachusetts.

Dirksen said Republicans supporting the President's decision will rely heavily on a General Accounting Office report unfavorable to the Job Corps.

Sen. Winston L. Prouty, R-Vt., said the GAO study indicates the Job Corps is "simply a waste of the taxpayers' money."

The Cranston resolution would call for a delay in center closings until current participants at each had completed their job training courses. Administration officials have promised that trainees who want to continue will be transferred to other centers and none will be left stranded.

The administration holds there are more effective ways to train ghetto youths for jobs. The Democrats say that, despite its failures, the program has taken some dead-end kids off the streets who would not have been reached by any other means.

First Tax OK In Six Years

YOUNGSTOWN, Ohio (AP) — Public school officials rejoiced today over passage of a 12-mill tax increase that means classrooms will open on schedule next fall for 27,000 students.

The first school levy increase here since 1963, it boosts school taxes to a total of 34.3 mills.

The new tax means the financial crisis which forced schools to close for five weeks last winter won't be repeated in September.

Six school tax proposals turned back since December 1966 brought education to a standstill here between Thanksgiving and last New Year's.

School officials said that, without the new tax, classes would not open next fall.

The total tax rate includes an earlier 7.5-mill levy that comes up for renewal in November, but officials are optimistic that voters will retain it.

The city school system currently is operating on a $15.5 million annual budget with $14.8 million in expected income, which may be reduced by year's end.

Round - Up Scheduled

Christy M. Harp, principal of Casselberry School, has announced that a pre-school roundup will be held for children who will attend first grade at the Casselberry school next fall in the school cafeteria 9-11 a.m., Friday, May 16.

Parents wishing to register their children at this time are asked to bring the child's birth certificate with them. To enter first grade this year, the child must be six years old before January 1, 1970. The school will serve the same area as this year with the exception of North Orlando children, who will be attending Longwood School.

The county school nurse will be present to assist parents with filling out health forms and the schedule for the coming year will be announced.

It is not necessary that the child be present for the registration.

Tentative registration will take place May 9-23 in the school office for the school kindergarten classes. To be registered the child must have his fifth birthday prior to Jan. 1, 1970.

Schools Look To Loss Of Federal $$

By JANE CASSELBERRY

School Supt. John Angel told the Council of Teachers and Parents at South Seminole Elementary School that he expects official notification within 2-3 weeks of the withdrawal of federal funds from county schools and elaborated on what it will mean when the schools have to "tighten their belt."

Among the changes to be brought about by the loss of aid will be reduction of the number of teacher's aides in the county from 197 to 37 and the return of the 12-13 reading teachers back to classroom teaching.

Also facing possible curtailment will be educational television, machine scoring of tests, and expenditures for supplies according to Angel.

The building program will be effected only indirectly, he stated. According to the Atlanta office, he said, the federal aid to the school lunch program is not expected to be withdrawn.

Although it is partially funded by federal aid, the summer school program will not be effected this year, Angel said.

Angel said that he has set a limit for kindergarten and first grade classes of 25 pupils per class and in the secondary schools of an average of 29 students per class.

"There is nothing sacred about this figure" he stated, "just pure logic" adding that pupils will be able to get a better grasp of the basic fundamentals, which will help eliminate dropouts and troublemakers in the upper grades.

In the way of planning for the rapid future growth of the area property has been obtained for future elementary school sites in North Orlando, Eastbrook, between Oviedo and Florida Technological University, Red Bug Road, and Lake Brantly, (both high school and elementary), during the past few months.

Cigarette Taxes Up

Cigarette taxes collected during the month of March and returned to the municipalities and county government of Seminole this week climbed by 30 percent in comparison with the same period last year, according to report received today from A. R. Branigan, director of the State Beverage Department.

Total funds returned to Seminole's six cities and the county is $44,224.61 for a grand total of $461,822.86 during the fiscal year to date.

Receiving the major portion is the City of Sanford with $22,-381.94 compared to $20,308.42 in May of 1968. Received during the fiscal year to date is $40,-309.79.

Receipts in the other five municipalities with first amount shown being this month's total, second amount comparison with May, last year and total for fiscal year are: Casselberry—$8,931.31, $7,689.46, $85,064.84; Longwood— $3,736.30, $2,776.27, $41,931.37; Altamonte Springs— $2,934.90, $2,278.55, $27,752.42; Oviedo— $2,034.41, $1,381.65, $20,372.28 and North Orlando — $319.52, $230.93, $3,062.93.

At the same time, $4,364.27 was returned to the county government for total of $40,360.79 for the fiscal year to date.

Nixon Happy With First 100 Days

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Nixon, presiding over $2.7 million worth of Republican rejoicing, has declared his administration is at "the end of the beginning" in dealing with war, crime and inflation.

"I think the American people will begin to see the results of that progress," he told a $1,000-a-plate GOP fund raising dinner Wednesday night.

Nixon said "naturally and understandably" some people have been critical of the pace of his administration during its first 100 days.

The President said he deliberately sought "not to make the kind of record that looks very good in the headlines tomorrow" but is found wanting in the history books.

"We want a record of solid achievement," he said.

He said it would have been easy to promise withdrawal of American forces from Vietnam or an end to inflation but that kind of pledge could not immediately have been fulfilled.

"We're never going to promise something we can't produce," he said.

Paraphrasing Winston Churchill, Nixon said that even after three months in office he cannot say the new administration is at the beginning of the end in dealing with national problems.

"But I can say that we have reached the point that it's the end of the beginning," he said.

He said he spent the first 100 days developing plans and programs to reach that point. And he told the Republicans who paid $1,000 to dine on filet mignon that a year from now "this administration will have made the progress that you wanted."

The dinner was billed as a salute to the President, and Rep. Gerald R. Ford of Michigan, the House Republican leader, said it was the biggest and most successful in history.

Republican officials said the dinner in a hotel ballroom was expected to produce between $2.5 and $2.6 million after expenses. The proceeds will be divided evenly among the Republican House campaign committee, Senate campaign committee and national committee after unpaid expenses of the Nixon transition period are covered.

KEY BISCAYNE (AP) — President Nixon is spending a long weekend at his bayside home with aides saying he's busying himself mainly with domestic problems.

Although the President was accompanied to Florida Wednesday night by Dr. Henry A. Kissinger, his special assistant for national security affairs, press secretary Ronald L. Ziegler said business aspects of the holiday in the sun did not concern Kissinger. He suggested the foreign policy adviser simply came along to get some sun, too.

The only announced event of the weekend was a Saturday convocation of Nixon and some of his advisers on domestic policy. Scheduled to fly here for the event were Vice President Spiro T. Agnew, Atty. Gen. John Mitchell, Secretary of Health, Education and Welfare Robert Finch, and Bryce N. Harlow, special assistant for congressional liaison.

Mrs. Nixon did not come here with her husband. The White House said she stayed behind on this Mother's Day weekend because daughter Tricia will be hostess at a masked ball at the White House Saturday night. There was a possibility Nixon might return to Washington by Sunday night.

No major announcements were expected during the presidential stay, even after the Saturday summit meeting. However, it was said there was some slight possibility Nixon might send a special message to Congress Friday.

Demonstrators Hold Up Senate

DENVER (AP) — The Colorado State Senate, stung by demonstrators' brief seizure of its rostrum, reacted quickly with antitrespass, antidisturbance legislation.

Using roundabout parliamentary maneuvering Wednesday, the Senate—just a few hours after the incident—approved measures providing fines of up to $500 and jail sentences of up to a year for conviction of trying to take over a public building.

The 14 young demonstrators —including three clergymen and a nun—elbowed their way through a side door of the Senate chamber, took over the rostrum and held it until carried out, limp, by police.

They were protesting the legislature's failure to act on 22 pieces of legislation dealing with farm labor, welfare, law enforcement, consumer protection and school aid for the underprivileged.

Some members of the group, all Mexican-American or Anglo-American, had participated in earlier marches and fasting in support of the same social legislation.

Lt. Gov. Mark Hogan recessed the Senate when the protesters headed for the platform. Most of the 35 members left the floor.

The demonstrators were booked on disturbances charges on complaints signed by Hogan and Sen. William L. Armstrong, the majority leader.

Gov. John Love, who was not present, said such disruptions would not be tolerated. "We will take such precautions or will use such force as necessary to insure the legislative bodies ... are allowed to operate in an orderly and peaceful manner," he told newsmen later.

The Senate took a circuitous route to pass its antidisturbance bill. It took two bills dealing with trespass and disturbance —neither of which had passed the House—and tacked their provisions onto a House bill dealing with postdated checks. The check bill had passed both houses and was in the Senate for final amendment or passage.

The Senate approved the amalgamated version 26 to 2 and sent it to the House for concurrence today, which is intended to be the final day of the session.

Color TV To Moon

SPACE CENTER, Houston (AP) — Apollo 10 will carry a color television camera on its flight to the moon and back, space agency officials said Wednesday.

The Apollo 10 astronauts will use the camera to send back 12 television transmissions, one of them lasting up to 40 minutes, officials at the Manned Spacecraft Center said.

The camera will be aboard the command module, the mother ship which stays in a 60-mile orbit of the moon while the small lunar module drops to within nine miles of the moon's surface.

Apollo 10 is scheduled for launch May 18. Air Force Col. Thomas P. Stafford, will command the flight. His crewmates will be Navy Cmdrs. Eugene A. Cernan and John W. Young.

No 'Strongman' Yet Appears In Nixon Following

WASHINGTON (AP) — The administration's seeming reversal on a hunger program dramatizes the pitfalls of a favorite Washington guessing game over who is the President's top lieutenant.

The answer after 3½ months appears to be no one—yet—and that President Nixon has made good so far on a post-election pledge there would be no empire building among his advisers.

"Their problem is that there's no Joe Califano, there's nobody you can go to and get a yes or no," said one federal official.

"It's a little fuzzy," said another.

Joseph Califano was an aide to former President Lyndon B. Johnson. He wielded almost absolute power on domestic issues during the waning months of the Johnson administration.

Although no such strongman has become visible in the Nixon administration, there is no lack of candidates.

Among those mentioned most frequently at the moment: economic counselor Arthur F. Burns, legal counsel John D. Ehrlichmann, Atty. Gen. John N. Mitchell and Robert H. Finch, secretary of health, education and welfare.

Cabinet and agency officials who must deal daily with the White House, often on an urgent basis, appear divided over whether there's a need for a "Califano." Some say there is a lack of coordination in the executive mansion that wouldn't exist with one man totally in charge below the President.

Others say the current situation allows freer discussions of all issues on any one subject.

"It gets everything on the table," said one official.

Perhaps mentioned most frequently as the leading candidate for the White House power is economist Burns. He came to Washington only after winning guarantees he would not be closed out as some say he was while a member of the Eisenhower Council of Economic Advisers.

Recent reports have credited Burns with watering down an ambitious welfare program being pushed by Finch and with killing proposals for an all-out war on hunger also favored by Finch and by Agriculture Secretary Clifford Hardin.

Into the midst of the cooling guessing game this week dropped a new report that it wasn't Burns at all, but Daniel P. Moynihan who killed the hunger program by telling the President there was no evidence of malnutrition in the United States is severe enough to affect learning powers of children. Moynihan is special White House assistant on urban affairs.

Such reports don't suggest that Moynihan, the only liberal Democrat among presidential advisers, is becoming the strongman. But they do tend to tarnish Burns' blossoming image as the man with the President's ear on all subjects.

The guessers were jolted Tuesday night when the administration suddenly announced that instead of wanting $15 million to expand hunger programs in fiscal 1970, it wanted $270 million. If the earlier reports were accepted, the new turn of events suggested still a third candidate for emerging strongman.

The likeliest person would be Finch, a long and trusted friend of Nixon who pushed hard for an expanded food program and who has a reputation for not giving up.

There has been a temptation at some quarters to picture Finch as Nixon's right arm. But Finch has appeared to go out of his way on several occasions to make it plain he has enough to do running the vast welfare establishment without being a clearinghouse for unrelated issues.

Some punished reports and the comments of sources in Cabinet departments and agencies suggest Knetlemann may be the one to emerge as the most influential, but he appears in this role in "inside" reports only sporadically.

While all this is going on, Atty. Gen. Mitchell is said to be spending part of every day at the White House. He also reportedly commented shortly before the inauguration that he wouldn't have accepted the post of attorney general without some assurance of a much broader and more powerful role in government.

Gas Disposal Worries Solons

WASHINGTON (AP) — Army plans to haul 27,000 tons of obsolete chemical warfare gas bombs overland by train and then sink them in the Atlantic Ocean are being attacked in Congress as possibly unsafe.

Within minutes of the Pentagon announcement of the plans Wednesday evening, Rep. Cornelia S. Gallagher, D-N.J., called a meeting for today of his House Foreign Affairs subcommittee to investigate.

Gallagher said the plans "pose a serious problem for population centers through which the gruesome cars will pass, as well as to fishing banks off the United States."

The Army insisted the shipment and disposal procedures can be executed safely. Maj. Gen. Wendell Coates, the Army's information chief, conceded judgment is involved in possible pollution factors in the seawater.

Unless tentative plans change, outmoded nerve gas bombs, mustard gas and blast gas in steel cylinders are to be loaded between May and August into a dozen trains of 50 to 70 cars each. The troop-guarded trains with safety crews aboard would move slowly in the Naval Ammunition Depot at Earle, N.J., near Asbury Park about 60 miles south of New York City.

At the Earle depot, the cylinders would be loaded aboard four derelict Liberty ships, towed to sea and sunk in 7,200 feet of water off the Continental shelf, the Army said.

The disposal, if carried out, would be the largest ever attempted by the Army, the spokesman said.

The outdated post-World War II gas will come mainly from arsenals at Rocky Mountain, Colo., and Edgewood, Md. "Minor quantities" will be shipped from arsenals at Anniston, Ala., and Lexington, Ky.

Rep. Richard D. McCarthy, D-N.Y., a critic of gas stockpiling and movement, said in letters to Defense Secretary Melvin R. Laird and Transportation Secretary John A. Volpe: "A number of safety factors appear to have been underestimated." He asked Laird to halt the shipment plans for now.

He also questioned possible unknown effects on sea life from the gas.

Rep. William T. Cahill, R-N.J., asked the Department of Transportation to withdraw permission and waivers pending an investigation of the possible dangers.

Graduation Tea Honors Miss Brenda Patterson

Miss Brenda Patterson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Hardy C. Patterson, was complimented with a graduation tea, Saturday, May 3, from 2 to 4 p.m. at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Melvin Dekle, 2405 Adams Ct. Hostess was Mrs. Dekle, assisted by Mrs. R. D. Dekle.

The hostess presented Miss Patterson and her mother with orchid corsages. Brenda received the guests at the door, wearing an orange and lime dress with white accessories and the beautiful, white orchid corsage.

Mrs. Patterson received a pink orchid to complement her pink and white polka dot crepe dress with pink accessories. Mrs. Dekle, the gracious hostess, wore a pale yellow lace dress with green accessories and a white orchid corsage.

Among the decorations in the party area was a floral arrangement of orange and yellow mums, baby's breath, and greenery in a white milk glass pedestal container.

The refreshment table was overlaid with an imported white linen cut-work cloth embroidered in dark ecru. A corner arrangement of orange and yellow daisy mums, baby's breath, white carnations and fern in a cut glass container was placed in front of a large wall mirror. Flanking the attractive arrangement were burning yellow tapers in cut glass holders.

Sparkling orange fruit punch was served from a large cut glass punch bowl on the opposite side of the table, also near the mirror. Orange and yellow mums frozen in a block of ice floated on the top. Served with the punch were assorted open faced sandwiches, lemon pastries, cheese puffs, nuts and mints, all in crystal and silver containers.

Miss Virkie Patterson, sister of the honor guest, kept the guest book and assisting with the serving and entertainment were Miss Lynne Frizzell, Mrs. Webster Hunt and Mrs. R. D. Dekle.

The hostess gift was a silver charm bracelet. Among the more than 100 friends and relatives, who called between the appointed hours of 2 to 4 p.m. were members of four generations, Brenda, her mother, grandmother, Mrs. Lois Richardson and great-grandmother, Mrs. W. W. John.

Tea Planned By Oviedo Women

The May meeting of Oviedo's Woman's Club will be a tea, May 9, beginning at 3 p.m. Mrs. John Puda Jr. will give the devotional program. Serving on the refreshment committee are Mrs. C. T. Niblack, chairman, Mrs. Alexina Anderson and Mrs. Hazel Baker.

Pants Etiquette

Even the most fashion-conscious girl can be confused about pants etiquette these days. The whole matter boils down to a subtle distinction between just slacks or shorts worn with any kind of tops or footwear and the carefully assembled pants costumes designed to be worn in town with exactly the right accessories. The former does not belong on city streets in any circumstance. The latter is now appropriate for strolling in some cities, but still may not be right for matinees, museums and art galleries, and most restaurants.

Azalea Club Sets Supper

The Azalea Garden Club will meet Thursday, May 8, at 6:30 p.m., for supper at the home of Mrs. Dempsey Carnes in Estenfeltre. Mrs. Henry Russell will be co-hostess.

Those desiring a ride and directions to the Carnes residence should meet at the home of Mrs. Mabel Cullen, 870 East 20th Street, promptly at 5:45.

While here, they spent a good deal of their time in Chuluota with the Charles Bakers. Other guests of the Bakers the past week were Mr. and Mrs. M. W. Gunning and son Joe from Tamms, Ill. While in Florida they toured the Cape and other points of interest.

By DORIS WILLIAMS
Society Editor

Sanford Woman's Club mental health benefit parties got underway Saturday night, May 3, with a festive pool and patio party at the Oviedo home of Mrs. W. H. Martin.

The friendly gathering attracted 31 friends and neighbors with all relishing the warm hospitality of the hostesses, Mrs. Martin and Mrs. W. R. Clonts.

Guests enjoyed swimming at 5:30 p. m. with dinner following at 6:30 p. m. Tables were arranged on the spacious patio in a setting of beautiful orchids and roses. Delectable steaks were grilled by master chefs, Bill Martin and Rex Clonts.

In addition to all the fun and festivity, Mrs. Martin and Mrs. Clonts made the first contribution to the mental health building fund, $102.50, donations from their paying guests. Congratulations to Oviedo neighbors for being the first in the county to contribute to the worthwhile benefit.

The second in the series of parties will be May 10, a coffee at the home of Mrs. W. L. Merritt, from 10:30 a. m. to 12:30 p. m. Hostesses with Mrs. Merritt are Mrs. A. C. McKeynolds and Mrs. Karl Weldon.

On May 17, Mrs. Ralph Austin Smith and past presidents of Sanford Woman's Club will entertain at an afternoon silver tea at the Smith home on Park Avenue.

Double Ring Rites Unite Miss Fehrman, Mr. Adams

Miss Evelyn Louise Fehrman and Charles Adams were united in Holy Matrimony, April 22, 1969, at 7 p. m. at First Baptist Church of Sanford. The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Russell B. Fehrman and the bridegroom is the son of Mrs. Charles Adams and the late Mr. Adams.

Rev. Fred B. Chance was the officiating clergyman at the double ring ceremony before the altar enhanced with white floral arrangements, potted palms and standing candelabra.

Mrs. Marvin Milam, church organist, presented a pre-wedding recital of appropriate nuptial selections.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride chose for her vows a dress of white bonded crepe, fashioned along the A-line silhouette, with long sculptured sleeves and a square neckline. She carried a Bible centered with crysanthemums and an orchid.

MR. AND MRS. CHARLES ADAMS

Serving the bridegroom as best man was Al Flanary. Ushers were Danny Smith, Gary Fehrman and Jimmy Palmer.

Immediately following the ceremony, the church social hall was the reception site. Serving were Mrs. William Reynold and Mrs. Joe Routh. Glenda Allen kept the bride's book.

The newlyweds are residing in Mansfield, Ga.

The grand finale to the dinner parties will be a luau at Lake Golden, May 24. Mrs. J.J. Sieczkowski, Sanford Woman's Club president, and her committee cordially invite one and all to the South Seas inspired affair. Tickets are now being sold and reservations are limited.

Geneva Personals

By LIZ MATHIEUX

Boy, howdy, did we "Genevaites" ever have a grand ole time this past Saturday and Sunday when the Geneva Historical and Genealogical Society met on the shores of beautiful Lake Harney in historic old Fort Lane Park. The Sieg pavilion provided an ideal place for our table settings which literally moaned and groaned from the weight of all sorts of epicurean delights. Now you say we all ate more than we should, ruined our diets, and "swore-off until the next time!" Gosh what a wonderful time, too bad we have to wait another whole year. I saw friends whom I seldom see. We had wonderful chats and reminisced to our hearts content. Silent prayer was offered by those in attendance for our dear departed members. So much for that, but I should like to tell you to expect even better and bigger happenings for next year under the leadership of our new president, leadership of our new president. girl is a go getter and needs little help to organize anything she undertakes (but we will just wait on the sideline just in case, Jean!).

Poor little Tony Sanchez suffered two broken arms when he was standing on the railing of his front porch shooting birds from the Mulberry tree and the railing broke. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Kernis Sanchez and attends Geneva Elementary School. He is back at school but finds his arms just a little awkward since both arms are in casts up to his elbows. Better luck next time Tony.

Charles Lamb of Rest Haven on Lake Harney has had four generations of Charles Lambs visiting with him for the past ten days. Guess that accounts for the big grin, eh, "Mr. Charley." Speaking of Mr. Lamb, he dooded it again. He brought us a jug of calamondin marmalade at least as long as your arm. Its more than delicious, but what it will do to my, ahem, figure—okay, what figure? ? ?

Honestly, these people in Geneva are so generous, I believe that one could almost raise a family with the gifts of their friends and Joe and I get more than our fair share! What with the fresh greens from Tom Kinnird's garden, the beautiful (even already washed) squash from the Martin's yard —not to mention the other goodies shared among one and all —really a fellow would never go hungry in Geneva.

While we are speaking of the Tom Kinnirds, did you know that Mrs. Kinnird is in the hospital, not for long we hope!

Dan Myers, son of Mr. and Mrs. W. A. Myers is in Holiday Hospital in Orlando where he will have to stay for the next five days. Dan had an accident with a B-B gun but he is progressing well and we pray for his continued return to good health.

'Give 'Em Hell' Harry S. Truman 85 Years Old Today

WASHINGTON (AP) — His clothes hang loose now on a pitifully thin frame; his knuckles go white as his hands clutch a cane; his visits with cherished old friends are few—he tires easily.

This is Harry S. Truman, 85 years old today.

Once he presided over the world's mightiest nation. Now his world is usually bounded by the short walks an arthritic old man can take from the century-old white frame home in Independence, Mo., where he has lived since he left Washington 16 years ago.

Once his every action made waves. Now, on the back stoop of history, he is watched mostly by Bess, the grade school sweetheart he married 50 years ago next month.

Once his words were flashed around the world. Now he gives no interviews, makes no speeches. What there is to be learned about him has to come from intimate friends.

In the quiet of that big house at Truman Road and Delaware, separated from the world by his feebleness and a big iron fence, he is busy with the avocation of a lifetime, the pursuit of knowledge. He reads or is read to from four books at a time, skipping restlessly like a hungry diner from one tidbit to the next.

Five years ago, Truman's 80th birthday was celebrated with a round of parties in Kansas City, Washington and New York. He returned home exhausted and Mrs. Truman put her foot down. He began to appear less and less at public functions.

In 1967 he asked Henry Talge, an industrialist who had thrown huge birthday luncheons for him since 1953 to cut them out "because I need to conserve my energy."

Talge said "you can't do too much for this man" and continued to stage the luncheons with guests raising their glasses in salute to an empty chair. Ministers of six faiths were on the program for today's luncheon.

Age has altered many of the Truman hallmarks. Famed as an early-morning riser, Truman sleeps now until after 7 a.m.—late for him. Part of this, friends say, is because of the medications he takes for the arthritis in his right hip, for the intestinal ailments that sometimes plague him, for the dizziness he often suffers.

He used to say his brisk morning walks kept him fit and he hoped it would prevent arthritis from crippling him as it did his sister. But a few years ago, because of the dizzy spells, he had to abandon the walks.

He was never a big eater, and the lack of exercise shrunk his appetite further. His weight, friends say, is about 125 pounds—30 pounds under his presidential weight.

Nowadays, after getting an okay from Mrs. Truman, VIP's come to the Truman home. They rarely stay more than a half hour. Mrs. Truman sees to that.

Mrs. Truman, only nine months younger than the former president, has a noon-to-seven maid during the week but cooks Truman's breakfast and lunch and does all the marketing.

They celebrate their 50th anniversary on June 28.

Even at 85, Truman continues to be concerned with the peace of the world. He gets briefings from the White House liaison office set up originally by President Lyndon B. Johnson and continued by Nixon.

And history, Truman's first love, continues to absorb his interest.

Truman's fourth book—a study of presidents from George Washington through Franklin Delano Roosevelt—is nearing completion. In it, friends say, he makes a personal assessment of each man. Truman's first book was a personal account of his own presidency, the second and third were memoirs.

The former president once said he "can't see any difference between the 60s and the 60s —a man is as young as he feels and a woman is as young as she looks."

He was asked how long he wanted to live.

"As long," he said, "as my think-tank works and my legs stand up. When [illegible] re finished then I'll depart."

Congratulations

PEMBROKE, N.Y. (AP) — Mr. and Mrs. John E. Wittman, celebrating their 78th wedding anniversary, have received a telegram of congratulations from President Nixon.

Viet Cong Propose 10-Point Peace Plan For Vietnamese

PARIS (AP) — The Viet Cong today advanced a 10-point peace plan calling for establishment of a coalition government and leaving to the Vietnamese people the question of dealing with Vietnam armed forces.

The plan, presented to the 16th session of the Vietnam peace talks by Than Bau Kiem, representative of the Viet Cong's National Liberation Front, combined elements of previous North Vietnamese and front proposals, but added some new provisions.

The idea of a coalition government as well as some other terms of the plan previously had been rejected by the United States and the South Vietnamese government.

Kiem called the proposals a plan to allow the Vietnamese people "to settle their own affairs without foreign interference."

It was quickly supported by North Vietnam's Xuan Thuy.

The proposals did not refer specifically to the presence of North Vietnamese forces, but the reference to leaving the question of Vietnam armed forces to the Vietnamese themselves appeared to be intended to cover the North Vietnamese troops.

Kiem made his proposal after the United States told the North Vietnamese and the front that "we must be ready for the unwelcome contingency that your side does not want to negotiate a peaceful settlement."

Kiem's plan called for a provisional coalition government to take over between the establishment of peace and general elections. This government would be made up from representatives of all political trends, including personalities who for political reasons are now living outside Vietnam.

The election would be to choose a constituent assembly. There would then be a coalition government based on the old come of the election.

Kiem called for the total withdrawal of U.S. forces, arms and war materiel without posing any conditions whatsoever. He also demanded the withdrawal of all non-Vietnamese allied forces and the liquidation of all allied bases.

Ambassador Henry Cabot Lodge told the 16th weekly session of the enlarged Vietnam peace talks that the forces of Hanoi and not the United States are intensifying the war.

Replying to North Vietnamese and Viet Cong allegations that the Nixon administration is stepping up military operations while talking peace, Lodge said:

"The responsibility for any intensification of the fighting which has occurred or which may occur in the future must rest with the North Vietnamese and the Viet Cong. If they persist in attacking the South Vietnamese people, their armed forces and the armed forces of their free world allies, then those attacks will be repulsed."

Lodge said captured documents show more attacks are being planned. He cited one document which called for "greater victories at a faster tempo."

Seated in the conference room was Le Duc Tho, member of the North Vietnamese Politburo, who has just returned to Paris after three months of consultations in Hanoi and visits to Peking and Moscow. It was one of Tho's rare personal appearances inside the meeting room.

Lodge made no reference to private talks. Neither did the South Vietnamese representative, Nguyen Xuan Phong, who spoke next.

Lodge pointed out that Secretary of State William P. Rogers had stated that the only alternative to early progress in the peace talks is not an indefinite extension of the present U.S. role. He warned the North Vietnamese and the Viet Cong not to count on a unilateral U.S. troop withdrawal unless, as Rogers said, there was a deduction in the fighting and progress in the Paris talks.

"Whether peace comes more gradually or more rapidly to Vietnam is, thus, a decision for Hanoi," Lodge said.

Phong, speaking in the absence of Pham Dang Lam who is in Saigon for consultations, also dealt with the other side's charges that the United States is intensifying the war.

Buddha's Birthday To Halt War

SAIGON (AP) — The South Vietnamese government announced today a 24 hour cease-fire in observance of the 2,513th birthday of Buddha May 30.

The announcement came as police sources reported the Viet Cong appear to have launched a new terror campaign in Saigon aimed at undermining the government.

A spokesman for President Nguyen Van Thieu said the cease-fire would run from 6 a.m. Saigon time, May 30, until 6 a.m. May 31.

Saigon time is 12 hours ahead of Eastern Daylight time.

The announcement was made over nationwide television.

A spokesman for the U.S. mission said: "We were consulted and we are in agreement."

Five terror attacks were reported between 6 p.m. Wednesday and noon today. Five Vietnamese were killed and 47 Vietnamese and six Americans were wounded in the capital's worst rash of terrorism this year.

In the most sensational attack, two plastic bombs exploded simultaneously in the crowded main room of Saigon's central post office just after 8 a.m. The blasts killed a South Vietnamese army captain and three Vietnamese civilians and wounded 21 Vietnamese civilians.

The bombs, wrapped as packages to be mailed, went off in opposite ends of the cavernous room. The bigger bomb contained about 15 pounds of explosive, the smaller one about two pounds.

Police said the explosive packages, were brought into the yellow stucco building by a group of youths who apparently dashed out and escaped on motor scooters.

The other attacks involved the throwing of grenades at U.S. and South Vietnamese military trucks and civilian cars and the plastic bombing of a South Vietnamese navy truck 400 yards from the post office.

Police sources said they had seized Communist documents three days ago in Saigon calling for a terrorist campaign between May 7, the 15th anniversary of the French defeat at Dien Bien Phu, and May 19, the 79th birthday of North Vietnamese President Ho Chi Minh.

Meanwhile, Viet Cong gunners shelled Hue, the old imperial capital 400 miles north of Saigon, for the first time in two months. Military spokesmen said two Vietnamese children and an adult were killed. One Vietnamese civilian and one American civilian were wounded.

Six 100-pound Russian rockets landed on the city shortly after midnight Wednesday, and two hospitals were hit.

"Damage to the second floor at the provincial hospital was reported heavy," a spokesman said. "A tuberculosis hospital sustained light damage."

The U.S. Command announced that a force of 4,000 American, South Vietnamese and South Korean troops are making an intensive sweep of 40 square-mile Barrier Island, on the coast 20 miles southeast of Da Nang, seeking to root out the Viet Cong who have controlled the island for years.

Swofford Defies Council Members

Charges the City Council was attempting to usurp the powers of the mayor were leveled by Altamonte Springs chief executive, W. Lawrence Swofford, as he refused time after time last night to recognize or entertain a motion of Councilman William Nuckols to appoint a planning and zoning commission.

Nuckols citing the city charter, whica reads that the advisory board will be appointed by the Council, tried to get his list of names for the planning and zoning group into the record. Swofford ordered the clerk not to record the motion, calling it "out of order and not properly before the Council."

Councilmen Albert Sabbarese and Donald Martin attempted to vote with Nuckols on the matter of naming James Bunch, Stanley Sage, Stanley Trahan, W. H. Campbell and Elso Caponi to the board but Swofford continued in his position that the mayor must appoint the group.

Ned Julian, sitting in for City Attorney S. Joseph Davis Jr., who is hospitalized, was asked for a ruling on Council's right to appeal the chairman, but Julian declared he was "not a parliamentarian, but an attorney."

Nuckols then asked for a 10 minute recess and was seen to confer briefly with his attorney in the audience.

Following the recess Council adopted Roberts Rules of Order by motion as its rule for conduct of the meeting and Nuckols again pressed for the appointments and was again called out of order.

Swofford for the third time attempted to name the commission, calling every name given by Nuckols with the exception of Caponi. Swofford insisted Robert Webb still has another year to serve on the commission.

As Councilman Keith Nixon attempted to move to confirm the mayor's appointment, Nuckols moved for adjournment and the stormy meeting was ended.

In other business, the Council earlier:

Requested the mayor not to sign the contract with contractors for extension of water and sewer lines into Spring Lake Hills until easement deeds in writing and plat for the subdivision are filed, and on record. The board further instructed that a letter be received from the attorney that all contracts and easements are in order before execution.

Agreed to request the legislative delegation to include Altamonte Springs in the industrial bonding act for the county.

Agreed to begin procedure for obtaining the services of a city manager.

Accepted the low bid of the volunteer fire department for $300 for a used radio and authorized the installation of the equipment in the fire chief's car.

Increased allotment of $50 per month to the fire department to $150.

Ordered that an escrow account be set up at the bank for the money paid by Alfred Tracey and Charles Dooley, developers, as their share toward extension of water and sewer utilities to their development.

Bracken Elevated?

Several job changes affecting positions in the Seminole County School Administrative office and Seminole High School are expected to be presented to the County School Board at the regular scheduled Thursday afternoon meeting.

An important item on the agenda is expected to be a discussion of an administration proposal to promote Andrew Bracken, Seminole High principal, to replace Thomas Richey, administrative aide, when Richey leaves for Mississippi to work on his doctorate degree after the conclusion of this school year.

A second change would move Richard Barnett, assistant Seminole High principal, into Bracken's job.

School Supt. John Angel declined to confirm or deny the reported changes.

'Clean Up, Fix Up' At Oviedo

City officials of Oviedo are reminding residents that this is "Clean up, Fix up" month and the last month for voluntary disposal of junk cars before the new ordinance goes into effect on June 1.

After that date the new ordinance will be enforced and, when notified, residents will have just 72 hours to comply by getting rid of junk cars or other unsightly junk. Violators can be fined up to $500.

To encourage the "Clean up, Fix up" project, each Saturday a truck will be picking up trash in front of houses during the month. Residents are asked to have loose trash bagged.

City Clerk Fired, Councilman Quits

her dismissal with only Swofford and Nixon voting against the move.

"Mr. Martin, are you for this?" the clerk asked and again no reply was given.

Sabbarese then moved to pay Mrs. Bardeen two weeks' vacation pay. Swofford voted against the plan, noting his vote was not against the money for the clerk but against her being fired.

Nixon's unexpected resignation appeared to shock the entire Council. He remarked that his resignation also would be effective May 30, insisting, "there is nothing I can do for the city from then on." He asked the board to accept the resignation but no second was forthcoming.

The mayor stated his hope that Council would not accept the resignation and "Keith would reconsider."

Mrs. Bardeen had been the target of Councilman Nuckols during Council meetings for the past several months. Nuckols complained of her being driven to Sanford to take care of city business, of minutes not being in his hands within two days of Council meetings and other matters.

Last December, she, in her spare time, aided the mayor in preparing letters to the citizens of the community which contained marked sampled ballots in support of Councilman Martin's and Sabbarese's opponents in the municipal election.

In addition to serving as city clerk, she also served as tax assessor, tax collector and supervisor of voter registration.

The charter requires the mayor to appoint the city clerk with approval of Council.

Solon Sees Impeachment Move Against Abe Fortas

WASHINGTON (AP) — Rep. Robert Taft, R-Ohio, has forecast an impeachment move in the House against Supreme Court Justice Abe Fortas unless Fortas explains a $20,000 fee offered him by the Louis E. Wolfson family foundation.

"It all depends on what happens in the next few days," Taft said, adding that he doesn't now plan to file such proceedings himself but might later depending on developments.

Taft said he and other House members think Fortas should be given an opportunity to make further explanations of the fee.

BOSTON (AP) — Supreme Court Justice Abe Fortas has canceled his share of a fee for a speech today at Northeastern University.

Tom Conrad, student chairman of the committee sponsoring Fortas' appearance, said the fee was canceled Monday by the Harry Walker Agency in New York, which booked the speech.

Conrad said, "The agency called Monday and said the fee would be only $675, instead of the original $2,000." He said no reason was given.

The student chairman said the agency told him the $675 was to cover the agency's commission and Fortas' travel expenses from Washington to Boston.

Life Magazine in its current issue says that in 1966 Fortas was given a $20,000 fee by the family foundation of Louis Wolfson, and that Fortas returned the money 11 months later.

Wolfson on April 25 began serving a one-year sentence for stock fraud.

Fortas could not be reached for comment on the Northeastern cancellation. However, a spokesman for the justice said in Washington that "he hasn't been accepting fees for speeches for quite some time."

Senate Ponders Control Of Law

TALLAHASSEE, Fla. (AP) — The Florida Senate, striving to finish its massive reorganization plan, was set today to tackle the problem of who should control law enforcement.

The Senate proposal now calls for the entire Cabinet to have authority over crimefighting efforts, but some members have said they feel either the attorney general or the governor should have sole control.

The House was scheduled to debate a $66 million program for construction projects in the coming year. The appropriations committee has recommended that it be paid for out the general budget, even though it will leave the state $20 million in the red.

The Senate Wednesday turned down the concept of having an "education czar", and voted to put control of schools under the entire Cabinet. The governor's power to appoint the Board of Regents was removed.

A far-reaching legislative reform bill that would require that the Legislature's budgets be reviewed by the Cabinet and give the governor veto power over lawmakers' salaries and expenses was cleared by the House by a 110-1 margin.

The House also approved an amended version of a Senate bill which would provide for jail terms of five years to life for persons convicted of selling hallucinogenic drugs or pep pills to minors and a Senate bill making obscene phone calls unlawful.

Moving through its second day of debate about reorganization Wednesday, the Senate also decided that the Division of County Finance and authority over the Railroad Assessments Board should remain in the hands of the state comptroller.

The proposed bill had put these functions in the community affairs department, which was under the governor's control.

The senate decided earlier in the week to put the whole Cabinet in charge of planning, budgeting and management services instead of the governor.

The education system approved by the Senate would put the Cabinet in charge of all policy, planning and coordination of schools, junior colleges and state universities. The education commissioner would function as the state's chief education officer under the Cabinet.

Passage of this system—which was pushed for by Education Committee Chairman Wilbur Boyd, D-Palmetto—came by a 24-19 vote.

It meant doom for the proposed "education czar" and voted to give virtually all powers relating to education to the education Commissioner, as proposed in the reorganization bill.

After extended debate, senators also agreed to create a separate division of vocational education in the new education agency.

Lobbying activities include everything from a $5,000 party to a $3.78 breakfast for three lawmakers.

Lobbyists expense reports filed with the secretary of the Senate and the clerk of the House amounted to more than $13,000 for the first four weeks of the session.

The amounts reported don't include personal expenses and $50 a week in lobbying expenses which may be deducted. But some lobbyists went ahead and filed reports showing no expenses or payments of less than $50.

Most of the expenditures were tagged as "entertainment," and the largest single amount reported was a $5,000 party thrown by the Florida Homebuilders Association.

10% SS Increase Asked By Solon

WASHINGTON (SpI) — Congressman Sam Gibbons (D-Fla.) today introduced legislation providing for a minimum increase of 10 per cent in Social Security benefits across the board, effective July 1.

Gibbons stated the Nixon Administration's proposal of seven per cent entirely inadequate. "Those Social Security recipients who accepted Mr. Nixon's pledge of a cost-of-living increase in their benefits last fall must be wondering what became of it," he said.

Gibbons stated that because of the lag between benefit increases and increases in prices, social security beneficiaries are probably the group that is hardest hit by inflation.

"The elderly are least able to combat inflation. They are caught in a squeeze when the cost of living continues to go up. Just recently, the Labor Department announced the greatest increase in cost-of-living in 18 years.

Gibbons commented that studies by the Social Security Administration have shown that social security beneficiaries, as a group, have little other income besides their annuities.

"I just don't see how our Social Security recipients, living on small annuities, can exist on today's inflated prices" he said.

Gibbons said that the Social Security Administration estimates that as of January 1970 about 8.5 billion beneficiaries will be living in poverty and that a 10 per cent increase, combined with the $80 minimum primary insurance account, would move about 1.2 million of these people out of poverty.

"I am for economy as much as the next man," Gibbons said, "but I don't think we should economize at the expense of our Social Security recipients."

Gibbons said he will push for an early enactment of these increased benefits. He is a member of the ways and means committee which has exclusive jurisdiction of all Social Security matters.

Life Can Get Easy

NEW YORK (AP) — Last year the American work force totaled about 78,727,000 civilian employes and more than seven million new jobs were filled. More than 20 million used cars were sold in 1968 and over eight million new ones were manufactured. Approximately 6,750,000 students enrolled in two and four year colleges. More than a million new homes alone went on the national market. These figures obviously point up a critical need for the individual consumer in our highly mobile, educationally-oriented and affluent society.

Through its Computerized Information Centers, NISARC Computers, Ltd., now helps the consumer use a computer to simply and quickly define his needs precisely, match these requirements to the jobs, cars, colleges or homes available and provide the pertinent, objective reports that satisfy the consumer's need for information on what is available and where to buy it. NISARC's research and retrieval system starts with a patented device called a Search Request Card.

Through the use of a short film and the services of a search consultant, the consumer lists his individual preferences on the card. The card, in turn, is interpreted into computer language and relayed to a central computer. The computer then performs a total extraction search by matching the consumer requirements to the information in its memory bank.

This is actually the first time that a consumer is able to gather detailed information in these four vital fields, on a completely objective and impartial basis. NISARC is not interested in whether the consumer buys the house, gets the job, goes to a particular college or purchases a car, since the company's income is derived from the agents involved and not from the consumer.

Not too many years ago, the NISARC concept was considered by people as a far-fetched, "space-age" idea which was thought to be too complicated, too costly and too impractical for our century. Today it is a reality, and at least 100 additional centers will be opened in the near future in cities all over the United States.

Miss Shelley Burrell, 18, representing St. Johns County, was crowned Miss Florida Potato Blossom 1969 by Doyle Conner, Commissioner of Agriculture, at the annual barbecue sponsored by North Florida Potato Council at Hastings.

The event is held the middle of April to signal start of the potato harvest in St. Johns, Flagler and Putnam counties. This year more than 26,000 acres of potatoes will be harvested in the tri-county area. (FFVA Photo)

Property (?) Owner

PONTIAC, Mich. (AP) — Because she is running for a seat on the Pontiac Board of Education, Mrs. Eldred Sweeney has bought her first piece of property—one square foot. It cost $1.

"I'm kinda proud of that property. I'm going to make a white picket fence out of ice cream sticks and then plant some flowers, probably three red tulips," said the 30-year-old mother of three.

Mrs. Sweeney says the purchase qualifies her as a Pontiac property owner and thus as a candidate for the city's school board.

Boa Stolen, Boy Sorry

LA PUENTE, Calif. (AP) — The theft of a six-foot boa constrictor was reported to sheriff's officers—by an 18-year-old boy who said he did it for money.

The youth said his conscience bothered him after he and a 15-year-old companion had taken the snake, named Charlie, from its cage Sunday at Bassett High School. They sold it to a pet shop for $16.

Remorseful, the older boy went back Wednesday with the $16, returned Charlie to school and confessed. He got a stern lecture.

Colorado Cities Hit By Floods

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Showers and thunderstorms soaked most of the midcontinent today and aggravated a flood situation which threatened Colorado mountain communities north and south of Denver.

The weather bureau reported showers fell Wednesday night in 30 of the 48 contiguous states.

Steady downpours since Sunday, totaling 7 inches in some areas, sent flood waters churning five feet deep through parts of Jamestown, Colo., an isolated mountain town 55 miles northwest of Denver.

Waters rolling down Jamestown's main street Wednesday swept away eight houses and the town cafe. No injuries were reported.

Heavy snow in the Colorado Rockies—some points measured a foot or more—and in the foothills added to the high water problem. The hardest-hit area was a belt several miles wide 50 miles north and south of Denver.

Washed out roads and bridges, downed utility lines and flooded basements were numerous.

The heavy rains which swamped portions of eastern Texas Tuesday night and Wednesday tapered off or ended, but flooding remained a threat in some communities.

A 250-foot section of dam of Crystal Lake broke near the southeastern Texas town of Livingston Wednesday night and forced evacuation of residents in sections east and southeast of the town.

Similarly heavy downpours hit parts of northern Missouri late Wednesday. Six to 7 inches of rain brought warnings of flash floodings of some rivers and streams.

High winds and hail were common over the severe weather belt. A violent windstorm blew over a trailer and toppled trees and power lines at Ravanna, Mo., near the Iowa line, late Wednesday.

Tornadoes or funnel clouds spun out of the thunderstorms in Colorado, Kansas, Oklahoma and Texas through Wednesday. Damage reports were scarce, and there were no known injuries.

Clear skies were confined to the Pacific Coast and the Northwest.

Cool air settling into the northern Rockies dropped the temperature to 33 at Lewistown, Mont., well before daybreak.

Some early morning reports: Boston 50 partly cloudy, New York 56 cloudy, Philadelphia 58 cloudy, Washington 66 cloudy, Atlanta 69 partly cloudy, Miami 76 partly cloudy, Detroit 53 rain, Chicago 57 rain, Minneapolis-St. Paul 52 rain, St. Louis 66 partly cloudy, Kansas City 60 rain, Dallas 65 partly cloudy, Denver 41 rain, Phoenix 63 partly cloudy, Los Angeles 57 clear, San Francisco 55 clear, Seattle 53 clear, Anchorage 43 rain, Honolulu 74 partly cloudy.

About 84 per cent of the 9,550,000 inhabitants of Belgium speak mainly Dutch; 45 per cent French.

Happy Mother's Day All Weekend!

Geneva Hosts Annual Two-Day Historical Meet

By MRS. JOSEPH E. MATHIEUX

The Geneva Historical and Genealogical Society observed its annual meeting on the shores of beautiful Lake Harney this past weekend with a fish fry picnic and covered dish dinner served to more than 250 members, their friends and members of their families. As in the past Orie Mathieux and Mr. and Mrs. G. S. Mathieux prepared and fried the fish and hush puppies (of which there was a super abundance.

The Sieg Pavilion, site of the festivities resounded merrily as the many old friends greeted each other most heartily with many expressions of greetings.

The women of the Society busied themselves with the preparation of the promised feast while the men helped the ladies with setting up the tables and catching up with the news of the past year.

After all present had feasted to capacity, they set to the task of cleaning the park and pavilion as they had found it. During a short intermission, until the evening hour when we would return for a business meeting, all retired for a rest period.

The annual business meeting was conducted at the Geneva Community Hall with President G. Stewart Mathieux presiding. The meeting was opened with prayer after which each chairman presented his annual report to the society. Mathieux was generous with his praise for those who were responsible for the success and achievements of the year, especially the fact that the indebtedness of $3,000 on the museum had been paid off in less than three years.

Mrs. W. B. Heath, incoming president, was presented to the assemblage and gave an inspiring pep talk about the many things which she anticipates for the society's continued sucess, during the ensuing year.

The business portion of the meeting having due attention the gathering was turned over to William G. Kilbee, who, in turn, introduced the family groups present. A sandwich supper, relishes, coffee and tea was served to all present.

Sunday dawned bright and fair with the society members and their families and friends attending the church of their choice.

After church services, everyone hastened to Fort Lane Park and the Sieg Pavilion for the much anticipated fried chicken dinner. The tables literally groaned under the pressure of all the delicious foods prepared to the delight of all.

During the Sunday meeting, the Geneva Historical and Genealogical Society museum was opened to the members and their friends and this month features a display of antiques and momentos belonging to Mr. and Mrs. Joe Mathieux.

New Holiday, Old Custom

NEW YORK (AP) — Mother's Day was first observed nationally in 1914, but the practice of honoring mothers at a special time of the year goes all the way back to ancient times, report researchers at Hallmark Cards, Inc.

The early Greeks honored Cybele, mother of the gods, and by 250 B.C. Romans were paying homage to Cybele.

Christmas transferred the veneration to the Madonna and by the 17th century English Christians honored both their mother church and their earthly mothers on "mothering Sunday," the fourth Sunday in Lent.

Silent Prayer

BENTON, Ky. (AP) — Mrs. Joe Creason was sitting in church behind a 4-year-old girl who was accompanied by her grandmother.

The child kept twisting and turning despite efforts to shush her.

"Why do you want me to keep quiet?" the girl asked. "Are you afraid I'll wake up the other people?"

2 Children Endangered

Two Casselberry children narrowly avoided injury and possible death Tuesday as an unidentified driver veered off Seminola Boulevard in the 1200 block, shearing off a speed limit sign near where they were playing.

The vehicle then turned around and sped back toward Highway 17-92.

According to Casselberry police report, witnesses described the car as white in color and possibly a 1960 Ford. The car was damaged on the right front side and a broken head light.

Officer Joan Hendy is continuing the investigation.

Monkey Jungle

CALCUTTA, India (AP) — People of Boincheegram village in the outskirts of Calcutta have complained to the government that monkeys are "making our lives miserable."

Monkeys are sacred to Hindus and are not killed. The villagers do not know what to do with their monkeys, who are multiplying fast and boldly attack anyone trying to drive them away from fields where they gobble fruits and rice.

A West Bengal government official said monkey catchers will be sent to capture the trespassing monkeys and deposit them in unoccupied forests.

TOKYO (AP) — The massive Diet (parliament) building, symbol of government authority, has become too small to house the various committees and subcommittees of its upper and lower houses.

The government is spending $6,000,000 to build two four-story buildings on both sides of the Diet to house committees and subcommittees.

SOS Spolski on Sports

SPORTS EDITOR

Meanwhile, Up At F.S.U.

"I hope I'm not disturbing you at home, John," said the excited voice at the other end of the telephone. "But, I just had to fill you in on our Sanford boys who are doing real, real well well at Florida State, O.K.?"

"Sure . . . O.K.," says I, "I'm always glad to bet the good word."

As it turned out, the words of praise were being heaped onto the gridiron talents of Frank Wigham, Mike Gray and Jay Stokes . . . Seminole High School graduates who performed well while in high school some two or three years ago.

It's entirely possible and most probable that these three S.H.S. standouts will be playing together this coming season.

Whigham never did have too much trouble at the QB slot and has a rifle-arm. His only problem insofar as a starting assignment is concerned revolves around a goliah by the name of Cappleman.

On the receiving end of one of Whigham's aerials this past Saturday at Tallahassee, during the Garnet and Gold game, was Mike Gray . . . like it used to be in high school days. This one was good for 25 yards, leading to the eventual score, which was a 6-6 tie.

The caller continued to ooze in praise, especially when he described "the animal" . . . Jay Stokes who weighs 222 and stands 6'3". Jay is rated by the coaches as one of the fastest men on the team, especially on his lateral movements. This should gain him a starting berth at either guard or center.

So, after 25 more minutes of the glorious details, the caller concluded his eye witness report.

I thanked him and made a promise I wouldn't reveal his identity. So, in keeping the reporter's sacred word and oath, I won't tell you his name . . . but it surely does make my job so much easier, Buck.

Thanks again.

More On That Pro Football Offer

BUDDY BOWEN

There really isn't too much more that I can report to you regarding that offer made by Buddy Bowen of Titusville to bring his 'Commanchero' to Sanford.

It all hinges around financing and whether or not you fans would support their efforts . . . that's to the tune of about 1,500 to 2,000 fans for each of their home games.

Bowen claims he has 23 of 'em under contract, and did in fact compile an enviable 7 - 0 record last year while toiling under the Missiles' banner. His team would be functioning within the framework of the Southern Professional Football League, including teams from South Carolina, Georgia and two from here in the Sunshine State.

As soon as we're advised when the first public meeting is to be held, you'll be advised via our sports pages. In the meantime, they have Sept. 23 as the opening game date.

Wonder if anyone's giving thought to one little item . . . like, where the games are to be played, etc.

NOTEBOOK SCRIBLINGS . . .

For goodness sake, don't forget to get down to Lake Monroe this Saturday and watch the 'crews' in action. Activities get underway at 6:30 a.m. with the various schools' JV units and the big boys do their stroking directly afterwards. Locally, we're giving a big 'splash' for the efforts of the Middies from the Sanford Naval Academy.

Thanks to genial George Touhy for this little tid bit 'borrowed' from Shirley Povich's column — "The squabble over which is the best-attended sport, racing, baseball or football, drove a laugh from another section. TO JAY BERGMAN and his fighting Raiders baseball nine . . . Best wishes to you and the lads and may you be successful in returning to Sanford as the State Junior College diamond champs. They're currently vying for this distinct honor down south of us a piddle or two, in Miami.

OH, WHAT A TERRIBLE SHAME . . . The admission was FREE to the U. of Maryland students for a Monday night appearance by lecture-circuit performer Cassius Clay, who used to command $100 ringside when he had the gloves on. (Gee, and I didn't even get invited . . . like I said, "What a Shame already!")

Add our note of recognition and applause to Flotilla 41, U. S. Coast Guard Auxiliary, on their being awarded the Captain's Award of Excellence for the year 1968. In addition to a big pat on the back to Commander Vince Holmwood, a personal vote of appreciation to Bill Jacobs on his weekly column, Blue Ensign. A fine job indeed.

Congratulations to Jettie Palmer, experienced newsman and public relations expert, for being named Publicity Director for the Orlando Panthers. Betcha we get releases this year . . .

And since we're speaking of the 'suburb of Sanford'— (Orlando, that is), appreciate the kind note from Orlando Twins General Manager Bob Willis. Honest, Bob . . . this is one year when I'll be down to see those future Twins. And who knows but that maybe we'll be having a Major League team in training right here in Sanford, too.

Wouldn't that provide some friendly rivalry between Little Ole Orlando and the Scintillating City of Sanford!

Spolski The Sport

When the call is issued, you betcha I'll answer in the affirmative.

For instance, next Friday I'll have the opportunity of meeting with my friends in the south end of the county at the All American Awards Party, honoring the Casselberry Police and the North Orlando Firemen. All of this will take place at the Tradewinds Cafeteria, starting at 6:30 p.m.

Now, naturally the fact that Miss Zip Code of 1969 being there has absolutely nothing to do with my accepting the 'call' this time . . . heh, heh, heh!

And then, let's not forget about that special prize . . . an all-expense round trip flight for two persons, sitter.

COME TO THINK OF IT . . . 'ROUND TRIP TO WHERE?! (Maybe from Sanford to Casselberry and back, huh?)

Only kidding . . . but, am seriously looking forward to this evening of fun.

My Favorite

I'm sure you've seen those bumper tags with the driver's initials on 'em . . . J.A.S. — L.J.S., etc.

But, the one I like best was seen over at the Seminole High athletic field. Just a little ole Volkswagen with great, big letters . . . ALL OURS.

Reen Paces Raiders Over Chipola

By TOM ALEXANDER
Herald Sports Staff

MIAMI — John Reen, who has already inked a scholarship with the nation's number two ranked college team, Florida Southern, gave Florida fans a preview of things to come yesterday as he sparked Seminole Junior College to a 8-1 victory over Chipola JC in the opening game of the FJCC State Baseball Tourney. With the win Seminole of Sanford advances in the winner's bracket, and will meet the junior college team that finished second in the nation last year and won the Florida pennant, Manatee. Gametime today is at 4 p.m. on the Dade-North Field.

Reen fired the Raider attack against the slumping Chipola nine yesterday as he lashed out with four key hits that resulted in four RBI's and raised his batting average well over the .400 mark.

Hurler Ron Harry was the other ace in the hole for Coach Jay Bergman's squad as he whiffed five Chipola batters while allowing six hits. Harry ran into difficulty only once during the contest. The trouble for the ex-Seminole High hurler started in the top of the fifth inning as Chipola loaded the bases. Facing the top of the batting order, Harry blanked Chipola's number three man, then got number four to pop out, before closing the inning as the number five man popped to catcher Reen. Everything else was clear sailing for Harry except for a freak play in the sixth inning that allowed Chipola to score their single run. The play came about with two outs, as Rod Gibson singled to left. Mike Ferrell the left fielder threw wide to second allowing Gibson to advance to second. Gary Semanchik then picked up the ball and again threw wide to second allowing Gibson to move on to third. Gibson then came home on a single.

Seminole's scoring barrage started in the second inning as Alvin Williams walked. Reen doubled and Williams came roaring in for the first Seminole run. Carl Shumaker then lashed out with a single and Reen came tumbling home. Brent Helms moved on to first on a fielder's choice followed by Harry who walked. Waldron then singled in two runs with a base hit.

The Raiders picked up a solo run in the seventh frame as Semanchik singled and then was tripled home by Reen.

The Raiders closed their scoring attack in the eighth inning as Harry led off with a single, Waldron doubled down the left field line and John Beasley walked, which loaded the bases. Williams walked, allowing one run to score before Reen singled driving in two more Raiders.

Today Seminole has a job cut out for them as they face Manatee who boasts three All-Americans, one of whom will assume the pitching role against the Raiders' Robin Flaka.

Jay Bergman felt this way about this afternoon's match. "Today we have the big test."

Beard Says That He's A Business

By BOB GREEN
Associated Press Sports Writer

SAN ANTONIO, Tex. (AP) — Frank Beard, who says he's a businessman, set out in the first round of the $100,000 Texas Open Golf Tournament today with all the emotion of an executive walking into his office.

"It's a business with me now," the studious, articulate man from Louisville, Ky., said before his round on the 7,139 yard, par 71, Pecan Valley Country Club course.

And he's made it quite a good business, this quiet perfectionist who lacks the color of Doug Sanders and Lee Trevino, the fame of Arnold Palmer, the power of Jack Nicklaus.

But he's got the game. The figures prove it. He hasn't won a tournament since 1967, but already has collected $41,363.26 in official money this year and won $101,936.84 last season.

Spolski Does It Again

By TOM ALEXANDER
Herald Sports Staff

The local bowling history books were rewritten again last night, via the left handed slants of John A. Spolski when he tabbed still another 700 three game series during the course of the City League session.

This is Spolski's fourth 700-plus series, the highest and only local kegler with that number in his credit, and his second 700 effort this season. Earlier in the year, again during City League play, Spolski shot the All Time High for Sanford with his 746.

Last night he started with a 245, dropped some in the second game to a 217, and then strung out a total of nine strikes in the last game to finish with an 248, which included two open frames within that last game.

Spolski's other 700 series were 702 and 718, along with these most recent superlative series, ranking him as one of the few amateurs within the state to have rolled that many high sets.

Others who have achieved this milestone in bowling, where the individual has to average better than 233 per game in order to crack over a 700 three game series, are John Bridges, Garry Fex, Jack Kanner, Gordon Honeycutt, Pete Peterson and Gerald Murphy.

When asked about his reactions to this latest feat, Spolski remarked, " I really wasn't doing anything differently from other games; it's just that the seven pin didn't stand for me on those pocket hits this time."

"Like I've so many times before, a strike is nothing more than luck," concluded Spolski.

Bill Hardwick Goes Into PBA Bowling Lead

MIAMI (AP) — Veteran Billy Hardwick of Louisville and Shirley Garms of Chicago surged into the lead Wednesday night after the first round of finals in the 28th annual $65,000 all-star bowling tournament.

Hardwick, a former bowler of the year, won seven games in a row and ended the day with 4,156 pins for 18 games, including 600 pins for 12 games won. He averaged 222.

His lead was 216 pins over second-place George Pappas of Charlotte, N.C., who had 2,946 after winning 11 games, losing four, and tying one. In third was Allie Clarke of Akron, Ohio, with 2,940.

Defending champion Jim Stefanich of Joliet, Ill., had trouble winning games and was sixth 2,715.

Mrs. Garms, a 44-year-old housewife, dominated the women's field as she sought her second title. Shirley won the 192 crown in the Miami Beach Auditorium.

Shirley finished with a total of 2,962 for nine games, in which she averaged 206 in 400-pin bonus. She was 100 pins ahead of second place Doris Coburn. Buffalo, N.Y., who had 2,862 and Betty Kyczynski, also of Chicago, who had 2,912.

Baseball Coming Under Congressional Eye Again

By TOM SEPPY
Associated Press Sports Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — A New York senator seeking reinstatement of two American League umpires fired last season may ask for a congressional inquiry into their dismissal and it possibly could lead to a review of baseball's antitrust protection.

Congressional sources said Sen. Charles E. Goodell, R-N.Y., has become distressed because meetings with baseball's officials have failed to regain the jobs of umpires Al Salerno and Bill Valentine, both fired a few days before the close of the 1968 season.

Goodell and Rep. Alexander Pirnie, R-N.Y., met in Goodell's office with Bowie Kuhn, baseball commissioner, to discuss the firings, the source said. The meeting Tuesday was said to have been at Kuhn's request.

"Kuhn was rather noncommittal," the source said. "And the senator was rather put out about the attitude of noncommittal on the part of the commissioner."

He said Goodell's office received a telephone call afterward from Paul Porter, the commissioner's attorney, who said Kuhn "was not going to do anything about the firings."

Goodell and Pirnie issued a statement April 26 in which they said they had tried persuasion on American League President Joe Cronin, who fired the two umpires, but failed.

Goodell plans to discuss the situation with Sen. Jacob K. Javits, R-N.Y., and Sen. Ralph W. Yarborough, D-Tex., chairman of the Senate Labor and Public Welfare Committee. Javits is the ranking Republican on the committee.

Goodell has said that if the Congress investigated the firings it could open a "Pandora's box" into baseball's antitrust suit.

Just Like College

Aqueduct Racing Resumes

By ED SCHUYLER JR.
Associated Press Sports Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — There were helmeted police and paddy wagons and arrests. The scene could have been a strife-torn college campus—but it was a day at the races at Aqueduct.

Racing resumed at the Big A Wednesday in an atmosphere of grumbling and distrust for the first time since horsemen boycotted the entry box April 25 in a dispute over a proposed pension plan for backstretch employes.

And although the dispute still is unresolved and many trainers are still keeping their horses in the barns, a nine-race card was scheduled to be held today.

"There definitely will be racing tomorrow," Thomas Trotter, racing secretary for the New York Racing Association, said shortly after Wednesday's program began two hours late.

The delay was caused by a group of backstretch workers who blocked a gate through which the horses pass on their way from toe receiving barn en route to the paddock, and for a time it appeared there would be no racing at all.

About 100 demonstrators stationed themselves in front of the gate shortly before the horses were to go on to the track for the first race which was scheduled to go off at 1:30 p.m.

And for about 1½ hours they stood quietly despite pleas by NYRA officials while track police and about 125 city police summoned to the scene stood by.

"No Race Today," a sign carried by one.

Another shouted, "We're not going to leave here. If you arrest one, you arrest all of us."

And shortly before 3 o'clock, when the blockade had dwindled to about 40, that's just about what happened.

With the city police looking on, the track guards moved in and took them individually to an improvised compound. They were later transported to a nearby precinct house and 34 of them were booked on charges disorderly conduct and harassment. They were later released in their own custody for a hearing May 19.

By the time racing got under way at 3:30 p.m., many in the crowd of 18,036 had left.

Milwaukee Bucks Go Just Like UCLA 5

NEW YORK (AP) — The Milwaukee Bucks of the National Basketball Association may have two-fifths of UCLA's NCAA championship team in their line-up next year.

The Bucks grabbed the Bruins' Ken Heitz, a 6-3½ forward-guard in the first round Wednesday as the NBA completed its college player draft.

UCLA center Lucius Allen, junior, the No. 1 pick, was signed for $1.4 million after the NBA skimmed off the cream of the crop in the first two rounds of the 14-round grab bag on April 8.

Heitz, who majored in economics and completed his undergraduate studies with just below an A average, said Wednesday night he'd prefer to enroll at Harvard Law School where he has a scholarship.

The draft was completed amid improbables as well as probables.

The San Francisco Warriors

tried drafting an Iowa high school girl in the 12th round and the New York Knicks selected Dwight Durante of Catawba College in South Carolina, who lists his height at 5-8 but is said to be several inches shorter. Durante was selected in the sixth round.

Dear Sir

A few months ago you wrote an article about Coach Stumpf and how he has given his whole life over to coaching and working for the students at Seminole High School.

Now I hear that this same hardworking Coach Stumpf has been replaced as head football coach and athletic director! I don't know who they plan to put in his place but they could never find anyone who could really do so. He's as fine a man as Seminole County has and has given the students much more than the rudiments of football. They all love him — male and female — black and white, rich and poor alike. If there has been poor support by the people in the past and Coach Stumpf is "kicked upstairs" or released I doubt, personally, if there will be any support, by the students OR the people!

Sincerely
Shirley Ryan

NFL-AFL Prepare For Shift

NEW YORK (AP) — Pro football club owners were to resume merger meetings today with discussion expected to focus on the shift of three teams from the 16-team National League to the 10-team American League.

Commissioner Pete Rozelle reportedly was ready to name the three teams. If both leagues agree, the pattern of realignment in the AFL would include three divisions, two of four teams each, and one of five. One of the NFL transfers would be in each group.

The teams most prominently mentioned as possible contenders for moving include New Orleans and Atlanta, the two most powerful NFL franchises; Philadelphia, now under new ownership, and Minnesota and Baltimore.

The meetings began at Palm Springs, Calif., in mid-March, continued last week, and recessed again without any firm plan emerging over realignment, Rozelle caucused with the NFL owners Wednesday to prepare a proposal to submit at today's joint meeting.

Mauch's Quick Kick; Sorry, But It's Illegal

By MURRAY CHASS
Associated Press Sports Writer

When Gene Mauch punted, it looked as if he was trying out for the National Football League team the city of Montreal hopes to have in the near future.

But the umpires didn't see it that way and penalized the Montreal Expo manager for illegal procedure.

Mauch's quick kick came during the fifth inning of the Expos' 5-3 loss to Atlanta Wednesday night.

Incensed over a balk call against his pitcher, Mike Wegener, Mauch kicked the pitcher's resin bag twice, called for a new pitcher, then picked up the ball and punted it 40 feet into the air.

That's when the umpire threw down the flag and raised the thumb, ejecting the manager from the game and forcing him to walk further than 15 yards to the clubhouse.

Elsewhere in the National League, Houston whipped Philadelphia 6-1, Pittsburgh topped San Diego 7-0, Cincinnati blanked New York 3-0, Los Angeles stopped Chicago 4-2 in 12 innings and San Francisco nipped St. Louis 5-3.

In the American League, Minnesota crushed Cleveland 10-3, Chicago defeated Baltimore 6-4, Detroit knocked off Kansas City 6-2, Oakland edged Washington 3-4, Boston beat Seattle by the same score and California topped the New York Yankees 4-2.

The Expos were leading 3-0 when rookie Wegener ran into trouble in the fifth. After the Braves rallied for two runs, Hank Aaron grounded into a double play, sending Felipe Alou to third. That's when Wegener balked, forcing in the tying run, and that's when Mauch put on his kicking shoe.

"We've had two balks called this year, and he called them both," Mauch said afterward, referring to umpire Stan Landes. "He's always anxious to show how much he knows about the rules. You could call half a dozen balks a day if all you wanted to do was stand around and look for balks."

The Expos didn't have a chance without their kicker, giving up runs to the Braves in the sixth on Alou's single and in the seventh on Bob Aspromonte's double.

Larry Dierker struck out 14, high in the majors this season, as Houston halted Philadelphia's victory string at five. Dierker also triggered a three-run, fifth-inning outburst with a single. The runs came on Jim Wynn's homer.

Bob Veale struck out 13 Padres but needed ninth-inning relief help from Chuck Hartenstein. Veale drove in the Pirates' first run in the second game, and Willie Stargell homered in the third.

Jim Merritt and Clay Carroll combined for a three-hitter in Cincinnati's triumph over the Mets. Tony Perez' fourth-inning homer spoiled Gary Gentry's sparkling pitching performance.

Los Angeles downed the Cubs with a three-run rally in the 12th, the last two runs coming on Willie Davis' second homer of the game. The Cubs rallied for a run in the last of the 12th, but Nate Oliver was picked off first for the last out of the game.

San Francisco got a key play from pitcher Gaylord Perry in beating St. Louis. In the sixth inning, Perry threw out Julian Javier as the plate, preventing him from scoring the tying run. Jim Hart's run-scoring single in the top of the inning had given the Giants a 3-1 lead, and they scored the eventual winning run on Jim Davenport's sacrifice fly in the seventh.

Oakland Oaks Capture ABA Crown With Win

OAKLAND (AP) — "It's the most satisfying victory in my whole life," says Alex Hannum, the only basketball coach to win titles in both the National and American basketball associations.

Hannum's Oakland Oaks defeated the Indiana Pacers 135-131 in overtime Wednesday night to take the ABA playoffs, four games to one.

After the game, the Oaks sent a telegram to the Boston Celtics, NBA champs, asking "How about a game between the world champions?"

"To take a bunch of guys who were down last year and to come back and win the title has to be the biggest thing that ever happened to me," said Hannum, who won NBA titles with strong teams at Philadelphia in 1967 and St. Louis in 1958.

Oakland finished last in the ABA Western Division last season, losing 54 games for a pro basketball record. This season, former NBA scoring champ Rick Barry helped the Oaks to a fast start, but suffered a knee injury and missed nearly half of the games. Barry didn't play at all in the playoffs.

Indiana, trailing by as much as 12 points in the third period, pulled even at 122-122 with four seconds left on Perry Sank two free throws.

Pacers' Coach Ben Leonard said he told his players to try for a three-point basket from 25 feet out to win the game rather than go for a tie. But the play didn't work.

Three Pacers—Roger Brown, Fred Lewis and Tom Thacker—fouled out in overtime.

"It's always a concern when you get men in foul trouble," Leonard said. "But I had to go with my best players because there is no tomorrow."

Dear Abby:

By Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: My mother-in-law is widowed and spends a lot of time with our family. She's a good soul and we wouldn't want to hurt her for anything.

The problem is that she is about 60 pounds overweight, and she's not very careful about the way she sits. Her dress hikes up and she shows more than people care to see.

Last night our sons (ages 10 and 12) had some friends over, and they were all sitting on the floor supposedly watching TV. Grandma was there in her usual position, and those kids barely took their eyes off Grandma.

She sits "side saddle" at meal time, instead of putting her knees together under the table. She says it's more "comfortable."

We keep telling her to watch how she sits. She'll be careful for a day or two, but then she goes back to her old ways.

How can we effect a permanent cure without hurting her feelings?

NO NAME

DEAR NO NAME: You probably can't. Just keep "reminding her" gently—and often. And by the way, this lady is old and obese, but what excuse can there be for some of those young, slim gals for sitting that way?

DEAR ABBY: We are having a family argument. If a 16-year-old girl has a date with a boy she has never dated before, should the girl be expected to take the boy down in the recreation room to meet her father? Or, shouldn't the father come upstairs? This was a formal, and the girl would have had to take the boy thru a rather messy kitchen and down the basement stairs. The mother CAME up to meet the boy, the father stayed downstairs. Who was right? THE GIRL

DEAR GIRL: If the father really wanted to meet the boy, he'd have come upstairs. Perhaps the father was "relaxing"—shoes off, unshaved, engrossed in reading or watching television, in which case, he obviously chose to pass the introduction, which is his privilege. Who's complaining? If the father complains because his daughter didn't bring the boy downstairs, shame on HIM. If the daughter complains because her father didn't come upstairs, shame on HER.

DEAR ABBY: Please be fair and print this for "DISGUSTED": I realize that you are young and gullible as you are only 16, but if you actually believe that the army reserve turned down a volunteer because his hair was too long, you had better do some further checking on your armed services.

If this volunteer qualified in every other way, the army would have given him the oath one minute and had him sitting in the barber's chair the next.

If you swallow hogwash like this (which you supposedly saw in the newspaper), then I am not so sure we wouldn't be better off if you did pack your bags and move to Australia.

R. C. G. (PROUD NAVY MAN)

DEAR ABBY: I would like to reply to the 16-year-old girl who was indignant about a man who wanted to fight for his country, but was turned away because his hair was too long.

If a man truly wants to "fight for his country," he can always join the regular army. A man's civilian hair style is one problem the army solves most easily.

Very truly yours,
"RESERVIST"

Jacoby On Bridge

Jacoby and Son

West opened the three of diamonds against South's three no-trump contract. It was the same lead any normal bridge player would have made and West was mildly happy when South overtook dummy's 10 of diamonds with his jack. If South had only two diamonds one more lead would clear up the suit for West.

West became even more happy when South led the jack of hearts at trick two and East gathered in the trick with the queen after South played low from dummy. It looked as if the three no-trump contract was headed for trouble.

East led back a diamond and when South produced the six, West's feeling of well-being disappeared. That nasty South had started with three diamonds to the king jack and the suit was still stopped.

Then West began to do a little serious thinking. He was sure that East would get in with the king of hearts. If West could persuade his partner to lead a spade, they might beat the contract. With a third diamond lead South would surely romp home.

Finally West figured out a way of asking for a spade lead. He played his queen of diamonds! South took dummy's ace of diamonds; returned to his hand with a club; led a heart and played dummy's eight spot! East was on lead with the king.

Now it was his turn to think. He did so and decided that the queen of diamonds play was intended to tell him that declarer held the king. Then East led a spade and three quick spade tricks saved the game and rubber.

Polly's Pointers

By Polly Cramer

DEAR POLLY — Do tell Harry that blenders are the greatest invention since cream for making smooth, creamy butter. Fill only about three-fourths full of cream, put the lid on, switch to low speed and let it churn. The motor changes its tone when the butter begins to gather. Then I know it is time to take a rubber scraper and carefully push the thick cream down and away from the sides. I pour the butter into a large strainer. With the spray on my kitchen tap, I spray it thoroughly but gently to rinse away the remaining milk. Wash and wash and wash until every drop of moisture is out of the butter. Salt sparingly but according to taste, mold it and serve with pride.—CAROL-ANN

Polly's Problem

DEAR POLLY — My dishwasher has a strange mildew smell and I wonder if there is any way to get rid of it. I have left it stan ing open to air out. It is used every day but nothing helps. — MRS. J. L.

DEAR POLLY — My kitchen sink was clogged and I did not have a plunger. I took a plastic lid from a three-pound coffee can, laid it flat over the opening. By pushing up and down real fast with the palm of my hand it did the work of a plunger. If I get a Polly Dollar I will buy a plunger with a handle.—MRS. G. R.

DEAR POLLY — I do a lot of sewing and was always misplacing parts of patterns until I started using a clip board. Now I clip the pattern envelope and instruction sheet to the board. As each individual section is removed from the material it also goes under the slip. Each piece is handy if needed for reference. When the garment is finished, all are ready to go back into the envelope for use another time. This is a great timesaver and organiser. — GRANDMA.

You will receive a dollar if Polly uses your favorite homemaking idea. Polly's Problem or solution to a problem. Write Polly in care of this newspaper.

Know-how makes the job easy. There are dozens of clever timesavers in Polly's new book. To get it, send name, address with zip code and 75 cents (in coins or check) to POLLY'S HOMEMAKING POINTERS, The Sanford Herald, P.O. Box 4956, Chicago, Ill. 60680.

Beauty after Forty

by Edyth Thornton McLeod

"I hate to look at my profile in the mirror. My head keeps forward, my neck is wrinkled dreadfully. What course should I pursue? Age forty-six. I feel young and my face is nice and clear of lines." Sue T.

You must hold your head high, as I often say, as if held up by a string from the ceiling. Bring your shoulders back. Now, look, see how much better you look and as you feel young, then look young-er! Take care of your neck by my neck care plan. If you wish a copy of "How to Youthify your Neck", send me a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope and enclose ten cents in coin. Follow the plan and you will be successful. An "old" neck is bad for morale!

"I have some colorful prints for wear during the coming Summer, but must I have colored sandals to match? I cannot afford several pairs." Fla. Lady.

Choose beige leather sandals. They "go with" all colors. Also dark green are very pretty as are most "colorful" prints contain a bit of green in the design. Of course, there is always black, which is a bit heavy and dull.

"Would going without a girdle and bra in summer really cause my figure to go bad? I find undergarments very hot, I live in the Tropics." Meader.

If you leave off your undergarments, your figure will "slump," and you will look badly grossed and your clothes will not look nice on you. There are shiny summer weight undergarments on the market; have a set fitted to your figure. When a woman does not wear undergarments she just does not care about her appearance.

New Prison Uniforms

LONDON (AP) — Male inmates of Britain's prisons are getting a new look.

As Lord Stonham, Minister of State at the Home Office—the government department which looks after police, prisons and the like—said when he unveiled the new creations, the designs "do not immediately conjure up Savile Row or Carnaby Street."

The new fashion puts prisoners in blue worsted jackets with narrow collar and lapels and slant pockets, and tapered self-supporting trousers with a permanent crease. A stylish striped shirt, a knitted tie and modern shoes with elastic gussets complete the prison garb.

Lord Stonham explained that the idea is to give prisoners clothes more acceptable in the outside world to help restore their self-respect.

Horoscope Forecast

FRIDAY, MAY 9, 1969

GENERAL TENDENCIES: Although there is much discord if you try to put some fresh new ideas across, aspects are excellent for most anything that requires tact, method and diplomacy. You have an opportunity to organize and plan your future quietly. You can make headway with experienced persons.

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19) You have to use that good mind to think out a plan to overcome your worries. Listening to an elder can be very helpful. Stop talking so much, too, and you get more done.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 to May 20) Those trubles in the business world can be alleviated if you sit down with a powerful person you know and get the right advice. The future can be much brighter. Show concern for those in real trouble.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) You can get some new ideas and a finer system only through the help and influence of an expert who is also a friend. Getting into the social swing of things will help you to get ahead faster. Be charming.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to July 21) Look to one who has had much experience to help you with obligations now facing you. Be more understanding of what your mate desires. Stop having preconceived motives, notions. Be wise.

LEO (July 22 to Aug. 21) A new inspiration will assist you to have rapport with an associate who desires to be more successful. Situations come up that are opportunities for you to have benefits. Be wise.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) Get out and find the work that will help bring in the bread and butter so that you rid yourself of some annoying bill. Go along with some coworker who understands money well. Why struggle when you can be affluent in the future?

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) You want to get some plan going, but it would be wise to first talk it over with an associate, if you are to have success with it. A cheerful attitude gets you the cooperation you want. Be kind.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) Get those matters at home settled earnestly and carefully, and you soon restore harmony. Studying the situation wisely helps to get that new project on the road. Strive for a much bigger success.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) Know what it is that faithful co-workers want to accomplish. Then give them a helping hand so they reach their aims. Look reports over for possible errors. Get them cleared up quickly.

CAPRI-ORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) Study your monetary position and put a quietus of unwise expenses and ideas. Build up instead of tearing down. Listen to ideas which your family have to give you. A business expert, usually reliable, is too busy to help you today.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) You have had considerable experience and can give advice to others who come to you. Think carefully before you accept some social invitation. Is it going to cost you more than you can afford in the long run?

PIS-ES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20) Look at the practical side of any problematical affairs and they are soon solved wisely. Consider the money part of that private sin. Stop leaving things to chance or you may regret it later.

IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN TODAY . . . he, or she, will be one of those somewhat strange-acting young people who must be taught early to be diplomatic. Also, teach to study a situation before jumping into it, and not to criticize others unfairly. Be careful of the diet and give as much sports as possible to make the young body firm and strong. There can be real success in restoring and repairing old things.

TV Time Previews

THURSDAY, MAY 8, 1969

7:30-8 p.m. The Flying Nun. "The Return of Father Lundigan." (Color) (Rerun) After a trip to Destiny Paradise, who practices hypnosis, Sister Bertrille and Mother Superior show symptoms of psychosis. So back again comes psychiatrist Father Lundigan (Paul Lynde), but can he cure an earth-bound sedate Sister and a mini-skirted, flighty Mother Superior? Outrageously silly, but nonetheless funny.

8-9 p.m. CBS. The Jonathan Winters Show. (Color) The comedy is pretty routine until Winters and guest Paul Lynde, the very fey comic, start playing around with a bear and a snake in a sketch concerning a group of sea boys in the Bluejay Platoon. Then, in blackout bits on the subject of love and marriage, Alice Ghostley and Barbara Minkus prove up to snuff. Vic Damone provides the music, sounding better than ever with his version of "Why Can't I Walk Away."

8:30-9:30 p.m. NBC. Ironside, "Side Pocket." (Color) (Rerun) Drama students will enjoy this encounter between two master scene stealers, star Raymond Burr and visiting actor, Oscar-Winning Jack Albertson. It's a play about a pool shark's (Albertson) attempt to steer a youngster (Michael Christina) into a life of corruption in the green felt jungle, and of Ironside's effort to stop him. The confrontation scene that occurs after the Chief accuses the shark of throwing a match makes the hour worthwhile.

9-11 p.m. CBS. Thursday Night Movies. "The Angel" (1956) (Color) Starring Curt Jurgens and May Britt, with Theodore Bikel and John Banner. Another cast of a remake that should never have been made. The original, of course, was the 1930 German classic that brought Marlene Dietrich to international fame. It's the story of a prim, proper schoolteacher who throws up his career for a sleazy, ruthless nightclub singer but, in this version, the Hollywood boys have tacked on a happy ending. Miss Britt has the Dietrich role and, though she's good looking, she lacks style and the ability to act. Jurgens, as the professor, does his best to give the wooden production some life.

9-1 p.m. ABC. Special. "Kitty Hawk to Paris: The Heroic Years." (Color) The first of a new series produced by John H. Secondari ("The Saga of Western Man") on the early days of modern communications. A must for flying buffs and aviation historians, the program has enough color, drama and romance to appeal to everyone. Using period graphics and photographs, on-camera interviews with eyewitnesses and simulations of historic flights, you'll get a vivid impression of the Wright Brothers, aerial circuses, World War I dog-fighting, the first air mail runs in the old Jennies, and Lindbergh's solo flight to Paris in 1927. All these are put in historical perspective. A beautifully produced show, consistently entertaining and informative. Watch.

10-11 p.m. NBC. The Dean Martin Show. (Color) (Rerun) Groan Welles and Rock get things off to a volatile start with a spoof on uncensored European movies, then Welles narrates some hilarious vignettes of people's reactions to his famous Martian Broadcast. Also starring are Patricia Crowley, who sings, dances and clowns her way through "Everybody Ought To Have A Maid," Comedian Stanley Myron Handelman, talented actor Jack Gilford, plus Edgar Bergen and that eternal child prodigy, Charlie McCarthy. A good one.

'African Safari' Shows

"African Safari," a color feature showing Thursday through Saturday at Sanford's Plaza Rocking Chair Theatre, captures the mood, tension and excitement of Africa perhaps better than any other film. Ron Shanin, a rocket engineer turned animal collector and film producer, conceived the idea, produced, directed, wrote the narration, helped in the editing, and was responsible for principal photography. The result is a film of magnificent scenery, intriguing action, spectacular displays of Nature, and wild life at its best. Nor are the natives neglected, for Shanin seems to have a sensitive understanding and responsiveness to the various tribes among whom he lives where he works.

Mud, sand-mountains are obstacles to be overcome in the safari across thousands of miles of creature-infested jungles. At one point he joined a team of Uganda government mappers and scaled the icy summit of the Mountains of the Moon where a young Briton lost his life. Later he encountered the violent eruption of a huge volcano in the Congo and the color shots of the eruption at night, taken by Shanin at such close range that at times you are looking right into the throat of the exploding inferno are scenes no viewer will ever forget. Readers of Life Magazine will recall his dramatic color photos of this eruption of the Kitumbani volcano.

That the film ever reached the screen was a stroke of Fate itself. Once his truck was struck og a river bottom in Zambia for four hours and everything was ruined except film and camera equipment which were packed in waterproof cases. On completion the film was moved from a building in South Africa one week before that building burned to the ground.

Every precaution was taken to insure a top quality picture and that is what emerges on screen. The film has been called the "most remarkable wild life film ever produced." Also, everything is authentic; no dubbed sounds or voices here. All was recorded where and as it happened.

BAMBUTTI language, as voiced by a pygmy chief elephant hunter, is recorded by producer Ron Shanin in "African Safari," showing Thursday through Saturday at Sanford Plaza Rocking Chair Theatre.

How To Make A Point!

TAMPA, Fla. (AP) — In the early days of automobiles, car owners became accustomed to the jeer: "Get a horse!"

Monday one of them did—and she rode it right up to the service entrance of a Tampa Chevrolet dealer, with a small truck in tow.

"This is the only going thing I have," said 26-year-old Karen Rafferty as she sat astride her horse Tami.

While Tami — adorned with letters of yellow axle grease that spelled F-O-R-D — pranced in the driveway, Mrs. Rafferty asked, "May I see the manager of the service department, please?"

Her truck, said Mrs. Rafferty, was in need of repairs—for the 20th or so time. And although the warranty had covered the overhauls, she was tired of bearing the inconvenience and the cost of renting other transportation.

As the crowd gathered, service manager Bill Lowery came forth.

"You're not affecting us one bit, lady," said Lowery.

"You're upset and I've made my point and I'm glad," replied Mrs. Rafferty. And then she added, "If you can't fix that truck, I don't want it."

With the television cameras looking on, Lowery spoke again.

"All right, lady, you get what you wanted. You get that animal out of here and come back and I'll talk to you."

The horse left, the truck went in, and Mrs. Rafferty just smiled.

Strike Over

BORGER, Tex. (AP) — An unidentified Borger man correctly predicted in mid-March that striking employes of Phillips Petroleum Co. would be back on the job one midnight.

He said he knew the strike was over when he was in a grocery store and watched wives of workmen on the midnight shift burning supplies for their husband's sandwiches.

Aid For Blind

SENDAI, Japan (AP) — The blind have no difficulty in crossing one busy intersection in Sendai City, 180 miles north of Tokyo.

City fathers have installed one-meter-high poles on the sidewalk at the intersection that tell the blind when to walk and when not to.

The pole vibrates when traffic signals at the intersection turn green.

Ceylon, an island southeast of India, had the world's first woman prime minister, Mrs. S. Bandaranaike.

CZECH BOSS — Gustav Husak, 56-year-old leader of the Slovak party, has been named to succeed Alexander Dubcek as First Secretary of the national Czechoslovak party.

Auto Inspections Prove Valuable, Owners Find

By VIRGINIA SCRUGGS

"It's made people more conscious of their cars. Some of which it's a big joke, car inspection, but it has made them more conscious of their cars and how they're working," says Motor Vehicle Inspection Supervisor Virgil Nieders.

This is just one of the benefits of Florida's year-old car inspection program, a program that is so controversial that the matter has already been returned to the legislature for consideration of change from a semi-annual to an annual basis.

Seminole County has had the distinction of being the only county in Central Florida that was open and ready for work on the first day of implementation, June 1, 1968. Now that the inspection program is approaching its first holiday, inspectors can speak from past experience in its evaluation.

Are people beginning to accept the inspection?

"I would say so," Nieders answers thoughtfully. "On the second go-round we've had a lot less arguments—we've never had a fight."

Are they ever thanked for finding defects?

"Yes, we even get phone calls to this effect, and some of the inspectors tell me they get compliments.

Nieders say that his wife has pointed out that the program is a particularly good one for women, for many don't know that much about the working of the cars they drive and don't know when something is wrong.

The headlight alignment question which filled so many Letters to the Editors columns months ago ceased to be a problem in Seminole County, Nieders says.

"It was (a problem) the first six months, but we've noticed now on the reject rate that about five per cent of the rejections are for headlights." Rated with other lights—tail and brake lights, tag lights, back-up lights—and other inspection points, "it's evened out now so we cannot pick out one item as a main item—they're all about equal.

"The major mechanical problem has been the front end or steering system. The percentage of rejection on the front ends is practically the same as it was during the first six months."

Returning to the discussion of the reject rate, Nieders maintains, "It's lower right now because people are starting to check bulbs, lights—minor things they can see themselves. They're more conscious of the problems."

When it comes to the local mechanics who must repair the defects found, Nieders maintains that "we have all the cooperation anbody could ask for."

Concerning the much-discussed headlight adjustment, Nieders points out, "Upon request the State Trooper assigned to this area will assist them and help calibrate their equipment. The State is the one really making this program work."

"In the second cycle—it's on a six-month cycle—we've gotten approximately the same number of cars we had in the first cycle," says Nieders.

"On the first cycle, we were failing approximately 40 per cent. On the second cycle, we're down to 25 per cent rejected. They (the public) should be able to see from that with the repetition of the cycle, there are fewer rejections.

"There's been less waiting time on this particular cycle, but it's still the same old story —people still wait 'til the last of the month."

Gazing at the empty station driveway, he reflects, "You see how it is now, but come over here on the 29th," then shakes his head in disbelief.

The feast-or-famine aspect of the lines has been one problem for the inspectors, who must stay at the station during operating hours whether or not there is a car to be inspected. Would part-time help be the answer?

"You couldn't very well have part-time help—the people who are hired have to be approved by the State of Florida, they have to go to a school, successfully pass the school, then they are licensed by the State of Florida as motor vehicle inspectors. To have the caliber of personnel we have now, we have to have them full time."

For the auto inspection was instituted by state law, and though the county must supply and maintain the stations and equipment and pay the personnel, the equipment, stations, and inspectors must all be approved by the State.

"This is STATE LAW," Nieders emphasizes,"—people should not complain so much to the county commissioners or motor vehicle personnel" for these people cannot change the law or its requirements; this can be done only by the Legislature.

Seminole County has two stations, one in Sanford and one in Casselberry. Many people in the south end of the county have complained about the congestion at the Casselberry station, but the county cannot legally turn away out-of-county cars, the main cause of the jammed lines.

"My poor station in Casselberry is still picking up the overflow from Orange County," says Nieders ruefully. "I'd say 75 per cent of their inspections are of out-of-county cars. At the Sanford station, it's 20 per cent."

Sanford's "foreign" cars are mostly from Volusia County, for many people from DeBary and Deltona come over here to shop, and they have their cars inspected here for the sake of convenience.

"What it means in Casselberry is that the Seminole resident has to get in line with so many out-of-county vehicles. By state law they can go to any station they desire. We get a multitude of cars from Winter Park and Maitland."

Many of these people from northern Orange County come to Casselberry despite the fact that there is an inspection station on Lee Road, near Interstate 4, because there is less traffic congestion along 17-92.

Then, too, there is another peculiarity that Nieders has discovered about human nature—that even if a new station is built nearer their homes, people will still travel to the first station they used, probably because it is more familiar to them. Therefore the older stations get more than their share of "customers" who don't want to change loyalties.

On the brighter side, many cars never reach the lines because owners of fleets may be licensed by the state to do their own inspections. They must meet the same requirements for equipment and licensed mechanics that the county-operated station does, and they are checked by the Florida Highway Patrol to be sure that everything is being done right.

Recently 12 decals were stolen from an Orange County automobile dealer, but all 12 were recovered the next day where they had been dropped in a garbage can. Because of the importance of the decals and the possibility of a black market in them, a state law has been passed making the stealing of a decal a felony, punishable by imprisonment, rather than a misdemeanor, which could be paid by fine.

Now that the vacation season is approaching, many Florida motorists will be wondering what to do about their inspection deadlines. Nieders says that the cars can be inspected early, but warns that the re-inspection date will be six months from the time that the car is actually inspected rather than the month it was SUPPOSED to be inspected.

For some who still wonder why state laws about turn signals (not required) and tail lights (only one required) differ from the inspection criteria, Nieders explains that "what's standard equipment on the vehicle must work."

So if an old car comes for inspection, one antedating the more modern turn signals and bright double taillights, the owner will not have to modify the car. All the newer cars, however, must have two taillights and working turn signals.

Trucks undergo the same inspection, but they must have additional equipment such as running lights, reflectors, and side markers. Because of this they take longer to inspect, so in peak periods they are shunted to a separate line.

Will once-a-year inspection disrupt the present motor vehicle inspection arrangements in Seminole?

"Even with once a year we would still run two stations," says Nieders. "It is not anticipated, if the law is passed for once a year inspections, that we'll lay off any personnel. We'll still get out-of-county cars which will keep them busy!"

The Sanford station, on 25th St., and the Casselberry station, on Lake Triplett Dr., are open from 8 a. m. to 5 p. m. Monday, Wednesday and Friday and from 10:30 a. m. to 8 p. m. on Tuesday and Thursday.

Good Car Care Comes In Cans

Last year the U.S. Motor Vehicle Bureau registered over 80 million passenger cars, and that number is increasing every year with a total of 114½ million predicted for 1985.

Cars need care, and the Aerosol Division, Chemical Specialties Manufacturers Association, lists dozens of products now packaged in spray form to do the various jobs needed to keep your auto in the best possible running order.

The place to start your car care is under the hood, with an aerosol engine cleaner. A degreasing spray will loosen nuts and bolts and remove any rust, and a carburetor and choke cleaner will spray away the carbon buildup.

You can stop here if you wish, or go on with some of the protective items that help keep the motor and other working parts in condition.

A high-heat engine enamel, specially made for cars, will make the oldest engine look factory-fresh, and also provide protection against rust and weathering.

You can also buy aerosol coating for your battery terminal, fan belt and ignition system which will cut the wear and tear on these parts, saving you some costly repairs and a lot of annoyance.

Now you can turn your attention to protecting and prettifying the outside of the car. Your de-rusters is handy here too, for loosening nuts on the wheels. Has the paint been marred or scraped? You can buy touch-up paint to match almost any U.S-made car, a lot cheaper than a bodyshop paint job.

A combination cleaner/wax will save you the time and trouble of scrubbing the car, and for a really high sheen, use your cleaner/wax first and spray over it with plain auto wax. Then spray a chrome protector on your fenders and other metalwork.

An aerosol windshield washer is next — antifreeze additives make this another double-duty product — and it's time for the finishing touches. There are aerosol cleaners for almost every type of upholstery, and a tire cleaner to brighten up those whitewalls.

Teflon spray-glide can be helpful in dozens of places — window frames, hood, trunk and door latches, accelerator, brake and clutch pedals and many others. Finally, tuck a car deodorizer spray into your glove compartment and you're ready to roll.

Or are you? Did you remember all the aerosol safety products that add the extra plus to your own safe driving? A fire extinguisher is important, and an aerosol tire inflator so easy a woman can use it might be a "lifesaver" for night driving.

Winter brings its own problems — and the aerosol industry has solutions to many of them. Do you have trouble starting your engine in cold weather? Spray some starting fluid into the carburetor and listen to it turn over. Defogging and de-icing agents are a must, and the latest aerosol item on the automotive shelves is a traction spray for the tires, to drive yourself out of the snowbank.

Aerosols can handle almost all your car care, except perhaps to drive to the service station and fill up the tank. The CSMA gives these tips for proper use: (1) read the label; (2) store away from heat; and (3) keep out of the reach of children.

This could have been forestalled. In Windsor, Ontario, a policeman removed the tags from a car following a safety inspection. With brakes defective and alignment components worn, this car was rejected. Repairs had to be made before plates were returned to the owner. A more careful motorist would have been able to avert this embarrassment if he were in the habit of having his car checked periodically by competent mechanics.

Seeks New Vistas For Joys Of Driving

Getting there — to a vacation, that is — can be more than half the fun, if you go by car. And if you include one of a handful of America's great drivers' routes in your tour.

Once accessible to only a few who had unlimited time, all these drives are now easy to reach for most Americans and Canadians on a two-week vacation, thanks to distance-whittling limited access, divided highways.

The writer has not driven every mile of North America's roads, or even every route that has some fame or is beautiful. But I will recommend the following 10 as outstanding on anyone's list of great motoring experiences.

• • •

CALIFORNIA'S OCEAN ROAD—Numbered US 101 with frequent cuts west on California 1, this road curves through a variety of spectacular scenery from sea level to 2,000 feet and down again on the way from Los Angeles to San Francisco.

It goes through or past sand, mountains, cliffs, artsy-craft, fishing villages, onion fields, grape arbors, remote and beautiful Big Sur country, rock caves, crooked cypress trees (among the world's oldest living things) and plenty of palms.

• • •

CANADA'S BANFF-JASPER DRIVE—This road seems to have been built over animal trails, it turns so often. It follows five great river valleys through a virgin wilderness along the most spectacular portion of America's crumbly mountain chain — the Canadian Rockies.

Banff-Jasper has been called the most scenic highway in the world, and hundreds of vari-shaped mountain peaks, from needled spires and inverted ice cream cones to sawtoothed piles and razorback edges give this claim credence as they stand watch on both sides.

• • •

COLORADO'S MILLION DOLLAR HIGHWAY — Anyone who picks just one Colorado highway will get arguments, there are so many great ones. But US 550 from Durango to Ouray has got to make even the most sophisticated motorist catch his breath at least once a minute.

Blasted out of sheer rock, this road offers just enough room for two cars to pass in places, and a scarcity of guard rails. In places top of the cliff cannot be seen from one side, or bottom of the canyon on the other. Its spectacular switchbacks keep one constantly in view of soaring peaks.

• • •

FLORIDA'S OVERSEAS HIGHWAY—One can go over the Atlantic Ocean in his car for most of the way from Miami to Key West on US1.

Taking off on a series of hurdles sometimes skipping at water level, sometimes vaulting 75 feet above the ocean, this concrete thread holds together a necklace of 750 keys, or small, low, narrow spits of limestone, coral and sand that poke their heads a few feet above salt water in the highway's path or alongside it. There are 40 bridges totalling nearly 18 miles.

• • •

GREAT LAKES STATES, ONTARIO'S LAKE SUPERIOR DRIVE—The essential appeal of this drive is it makes wilderness easily accessible. It meanders through mushrooming rifles through rock, snakes through swamps, curves through rock canyons, roars through rock gorges, is sometimes smooth as a billiard table, sometimes bumpier than a chuckhole-filled street in spring.

From it one sees magnificent sweeps of Lake Superior, vast vistas of mountain and valley, glimpses of gem-like lakes hidden in the trees, many of which have never been fished, and which are visited by moose and bears regularly.

This is a drive of such variety that everyone will bring home a different impression.

• • •

HAWAII'S CIRCLE OF OAHU ISLAND DRIVE — Toughest job I had was deciding which to describe of many drives the Hawaiian Islands offer. For they are all lovely, and most feature esentially the same things; breathtaking vistas of the ocean in its many colors, accessibility to beaches which are little-used, roads edged with everything from stately coconut palm trees to flowers ranging in color from white to red seemingly growing wild, roads which cut through lush green sugar cane fields higher than one's car, or which edge sugar pineapple fields rich and red. Volcanic country with black rock alongshore, rock crumbling to red and turning into rich earth inland.

• • •

MONTANA'S GOING-TO-THE-SUN HIGHWAY—Of all the roads I've ever driven, this one bisecting Glacier National Park is my personal favorite. I have driven it both ways eight times and always see something new. The late Stephen T. Mather, first director of the National Park Service, wrote of it:

"It is doubtful if in any other road in America can in the same distance unfold . . . such a grand array of beautiful forests, dashing torrents, wonderful gorges and valleys, towering cirques, and a virta of bold, needle-peaked mountains and serrated escarpments . . ." It's probably the only road in the world so engineered that one can climb 4,000 feet with numerous switchbacks in less than 25 miles, cross the Continental Divide, descend 4,000 feet in 25 miles, and never have to change driving ranges once. Even those who fear mountain driving should have no trouble here.

More eye-filling vistas include the Upper Tahquamenon Falls in Michigan's Upper Peninsula (top) and the necklace of 750 keys linked by Florida's Overseas Highway (bottom).

Wet Streets Treacherous

Summer showers, especially after a long dry spell, can make road surfaces as slippery as winter ice, a special safety bulletin issued by the Rubber Manufacturers Association warns.

The danger of skidding is great, says the trade group, during the first 15 to 30 minutes after it starts to rain; up to an hour or more in a light drizzle.

This is due to the little known fact that rain tends to float up onto the road surface a greasy film of oil, gasoline and rubber residue which becomes a treacherous ice-like lubricant between the tires and the road until enough rain falls to wash it away.

The possibility of an accident on a wet road, says the Association, is between 5 and 10 times as great as on a dry road, in terms of the likelihood of a skid and loss of control of a car. In terms of stopping distance it may take up to four times as far to stop on a wet road as a dry road.

What Tops List Of Careless Car-Owners?

While some controversy rages over new car warranty provisions for 1969 cars, there is one area in which there is agreement. The motorist will bear more responsibility for keeping his car in condition.

Actually, even with the more liberal warranties of previous years, routine yet important maintenance was always the responsibility of the new car owner. However, in many instances the owner lulled himself into believing the warranty was a pay-all in case of trouble. This is not the case.

The major difference in 1969 new car warranties lies in the length of time most parts (excluding tires and tubes) are covered. New provisions call for 12-month or 12,000 mile coverage. In 1968, the warranty called for two-year or 24,000 miles.

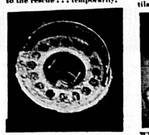
Still intact is the five-year or 50,000-mile protection on components generally referred to as the drive train. (Items like internal engine parts, transmission, rear axle and differential.)

To protect their warranties, motorists must do the following:

1. Change engine oil and oil filter and clean the filter cap at periods specified by the manufacturer. (Typically, every six months or 6,000 miles.)

The tip of this coil was so badly eroded it had completely disappeared on one side. Plastic tape to the rescue . . . temporarily.

When the air filter is so badly clogged with dirt it can't be cleaned any more, you have two choices: buy a new one or ventilate it, as was done here.



This is an oil filler cap. It is supposed to breathe through a wire mesh filter. This one choked to death long ago and its engine suffered the consequences.

What do you do when the spark plug insulator breaks? Wrap it with some plastic tape and keep on driving . . . but probably not for long.

2. Clean the carburetor air filter and replace it at specified intervals. (Usually, six months or 6,000 miles for cleaning; 24 months or 24,000 miles for replacing an eight-cylinder engine — 12 months or 12,000 miles for six-cylinder engines.)

3. Service the crankcase emission control system every six months or 6,000 miles, and replacing the emission control valve every 12 months or 12,000 miles. Parts must be cleaned or replaced when needed.

4. Replace the engine coolant at recommended intervals. (Typically, every two years.)

Other owner responsibilities for service are vital to good operation but no time periods are specified.

One such item is tune-up including replacing spark plugs, points and condenser. Common recommended tune-up procedure is every 10,000 miles. Other typical services that are the motorists' responsibility, include the following:

Wiper blades, brake servicing including linings, lubrication, aligning of lights and front wheels, wheel balancing and other car components which are subject to normal wear.

Helpful Hints For Automobile Care

By JOHN EUK

Director, Emergency Road Service, American Automobile Association

A long winter of commuting back and forth to work, schools and shops—often under severe weather conditions — has left your automobile "out of condition" just at a time when you're all set for the pleasure trips of spring and summer.

Nearly 72 million U. S. motorists had some problem with their automobile in 1967, the American Automobile Association's annual survey showed. Forty-three percent of them were due to battery, starter and ignition system failures, an increase of 20 per cent over the previous year.

The 14 million flat tires motorists had in 1967 was the second highest figure on the list of all troubles. There also were 581,000 incidences of brake failure.

The Emergency Road Service Department of the AAA suggests you consult a good auto mechanic early this season.

A checklist has been developed for your use in working with him to discover and correct any problems which may have developed during the colder months.

• • •

Sixty years of experience in auto repair, and our day-to-day observation of the repair needs of 11 million AAA driver-members, lead us to recommend:

TUNEUP. An engine tune-up is a wise investment. Have the ignition, points, spark plugs, battery, voltage regulator, generator and all wiring checked.

LUBRICATION. A thorough lubrication job will lessen wear on vital moving parts. Change to the grade of oil recommended for the driving conditions you expect to encounter. Install a new oil filter cartridge. Check all hydraulic fluid levels.

COOLING SYSTEM. Have the cooling system cleaned and flushed; refill with a good permanent-type antifreeze or add a rust inhibitor. Have the thermostat, fan belt and water pump checked.

BRAKES, TIRES AND WHEELS. Have the brake linings inspected and check the brake seals. Have the tires rotated; replace worn or damaged tires to eliminate blowouts and flat tire worries. Check the wheel alignment and balance—unaligned and unbalanced tires cause excessive and uneven wear.

Be sure shock absorbers are in good condition. In addition to causing discomfort, bad shock absorbers can be dangerous.

• • •

That is a fairly thorough examination! You may have reason to believe that your car is essentially in good working order—that you do not have the time or the need for the entire check-up routine.

There are certain minimum precautions AAA suggests before any long-distance travel by automobile, however. They also can be presented as a checklist, which we call a "Trip Check."

INSPECT AND ADJUST all "make ready" to assure you fan belts.

CHECK AND ALIGN front end.

LOAD TEST battery and clean terminals.

INSPECT AND TIGHTEN all hoses.

INSPECT ALL TIRES.

ADJUST BRAKES, check linings.

• • •

You should consider these additional services and have your mechanic perform them according to your car manufacturer's recommendations:

DRAIN AND FLUSH cooling system, adding rust inhibitor with refill

CHANGE motor oil.

LUBRICATE.

CLEAN OR CHANGE air, gas and oil filters.

CLEAN AND CHECK crankcase ventilation system.

CHECK OR CHANGE transmission and differential fluid.

CHECK AND GREASE front wheel bearing.

These are the preventive measures, taken frequently, which will not only give you peace of mind while traveling this summer, but will also increase the life of your car and help it to give you top-notch performance in all seasons and under all conditions.

Proving grounds were introduced by the industry in 1924. But what probably was the first test track designed specifically to test and evaluate production vehicles was built by a Detroit auto maker back in 1915. A half-mile planked track circled a steel-fabricated "hill" more than 40 feet high, which cars had to climb prior to leaving the factory.

Cars were also required to plow through a sand pit and travel around the track at all speeds before being approved for shipment. Before the track was built, newly-assembled vehicles were tested on nearby city streets.

Battery May Not Be To Blame

Blaming starting trouble on the battery can be like blaming a broken leg on bone failure. In both cases, something is wrong but something other than the affected part is causing the problem.

A well-maintained battery that hasn't outlived its usefulness should not cause starting problems. More likely some other electrical component is at fault and is draining the battery power. For example, faulty wiring, worn spark plugs or malfunctioning distributor may be overworking the battery during starting.

As a result the battery wears down to a point that it may seem dead. The alert service man will look beyond the battery as the cause of the starting failure, especially when he is reminded to do so by the customer.

To keep your battery in top operating condition, here are some pointers: A quick visual inspection every time you gas up and a voltage test every six months should assure you maximum efficiency battery life.

It's a simple job for the service attendant to check battery water level and condition of cables and terminals. This should be tested. At the same week to guard against premature deterioration.

Twice a year, the battery should be tested. At the same time, terminals should be cleaned thoroughly to get rid of corrosive materials and dirt. Foreign matter on the terminals or cable clamps can cause battery failure.

If the battery shows premature loss of power, chances are other components may be at fault. For example wiring may be short circuiting or you may have a problem in the charging. Have your service man conduct an electrical check.

Corroded terminals can shorten effective life of your battery. Clean off the corrosion with a solution of baking soda and water, applied with a stiff wire brush.

Foster Mothers Deserve A Share Of 'Mother's Day'

By VIRGINIA SCRUGGS

"Why I do this—I need them and I hope they need me," says Mrs. Claudia Miller, who with her daughter, Mrs. Marville Smythe, operates one of the county's carefully licensed foster homes for stray, parentless, neglected or troubled children. "They need a home anyway, and I love children."

The amalgam of Mrs. Miller, Mrs. Smythe, and homeless children is a happy one for the State of Florida's Department of Public Welfare. It is one of the department's duties to place children in a proper home atmosphere until a permanent home can be found for them.

Mrs. Miller's home is just right for this. She and her daughter live in a comfortable, attractively decorated four-bedroom house on a quiet street in the Sanford area. On the large lot there are bright flowers for smelling and low-branched trees for climbing, and there are even children next door for playing with.

Though Mrs. Miller has been a foster mother for only two years, her entire life has been dedicated to the care of others, particularly children. She had six of her own, 18 grandchildren, and three great-grandchildren.

After Mr. Miller's death she found a vacancy in her life that only lots and lots of children could fill.

"I had 18 grandchildren, but they all grew up and were in school," she smiles. "I didn't have enough to keep me busy."

So she became a foster mother, feeding, bathing, and caring for the children sent by the department at all hours of the day or night—children whose parents have neglected them, children in trouble with the law and their parents, lost children, and children whose parents have been in accidents. All of these have one thing in common—they have no place else to go at the moment.

Some stay for months, others for only hours.

"Some come for just a few hours until their parents can be located," says Mrs. Miller. "Oh, some I have just one hour, just long enough to bathe and feed them. There's two and three and four at a time like that—of a family.

"The last two who came in—the police found them in the street, just babies. They were in their pajamas, dirty and wet

Final School Bonds Offered

SHRINERS will be out in force this evening and Saturday selling copies of Bahia Shrine's "Temple Banner" newspaper for the benefit of the Shriners Crippled Children Hospitals and Burns Institutes. Heading Sanford Shriners will be J. D. McNeill (left), president, and A. L. Keeth.

Seminole County School Board yesterday afternoon adopted a resolution approving the sale of $3.8 million in school bonds.

This sale will involve the balance of the $10.3 million approved a year ago in a bond referendum by county freeholders.

Board directed the interest bid openings to be held at 7 p.m. June 12, at the board's next regular session.

Board action followed a recommendation of Kirk Gunby, fiscal bonding agent, who appeared to read the resolution which will be published today in the Sanford Herald. Gunby said if interest figures are not "right" the bonds do not have to be sold June 12.

In another action, the educators accepted a proposal from representatives of the League of Women Voters, who were present to ask the board to allow them to assist in setting up a redistricting plan for the county.

Jean Bryant, board member, will work with the group in getting the necessary recommendations to submit to the board, which has indicated a desire to redistrict this year.

W. P. LAYER

After three unsuccessful attempts, the educators managed on a fourth try to approve by a 3-2 vote all but four of Supt. John Angel's appointments for next year's school staff.

The four positions requested by Angel and tabled for later action were: Moving Andrew Bracken, principal of Seminole High School, to the county administrative office to replace Tom Richey as director of administrative services; elevating Richard Barnett, present assistant principal at Seminole High to fill Bracken's position; move David Sawyer, English Estates teacher, to principalship of new portable Idylwilde Elementary School, and create a new position of internal accounts auditor and textbook manager for John Colbert, presently teaching at Seminole High.

Board, in declining to accept all the administrative appointments at the top, indicated a desire to consider administrative appointments in line with an earlier decision of the board to cut some teacher aides and other personnel as these positions are being funded with federal money which may be withdrawn if county is declared in non-compliance with federal laws outlawing discrimination of children based on whether the court rules the board's free-of-choice school plan for 1969-70 as discriminatory.

Board approved the elevating of William P. Layer as principal of Milwee Junior High and approved 24 other principal appointments.

Some 414 teachers on continuing contracts were re-appointed along with 61 other teachers, who were placed on tenure for the first time.

Private School Lease Nixed

By BILL SCOTT

Request of Mellonville Private School to lease Building 15 and adjacent tennis and handball courts at Sanford Airport for a reported $3,000 per year ran into a snag yesterday at the regular meeting of the Sanford Industrial Commission.

The apparent reason for the decision not to lease the property hinged on belief of SIC members that price offered by the school group is not realistic when compared with the higher leasing figure paid by other leasees of airport structures.

Prevailing opinion expressed by several SIC members was in sympathy with the creation of the private school but the industrialists also felt that further negotiations will be necessary to bring the price upward, when the school is in a position to negotiate.

From the tone of the meeting, it was apparent that the school would be in a better position when student registrations bring the enrollment near 225, a figure set by the private school as required before the school can begin in September.

Another problem that could hamper the school from leasclosure that Avco's Economic Systems Corporation wants the property for a proposed government financed training school.

Don Rathel, SIC director, said this does not mean the Avco people will not choose another building if the private school is established in Building 15, the former bachelor officers quarters for Navy personnel.

Another request from a boat and trailer manufacturer for a short term lease on a 42,000 square foot hangar on the flight line was turned down by the commission on the grounds that the facility occupying the structure should be an aviation-oriented concern since the hanger (Building Four) is on the flight line.

It also was disclosed that Page Airways, probable airport fixed base operator, has expressed an interest in the same building and had first refusal rights.

In a positive action, the commission asked Rathel to enter negotiations with Mel Dekle, service station operator, to lease the former automobile service facilities. SIC would rent to Dekle on a five-year basis at $100 to $150 per month fee.

Some minor problems involving the leasing to Kaiser Aluminium of a structure was discussed after William Hutchison, SIC attorney, informed that the metal company wanted to include a provision in lease allowing it to demolish a structure. Another contract problem with Kaiser concerned the omission of an ad valorem tax provision.

Commission directed Hutchison to remedy the defections with the metal firm, by the inclusion in the lease provisions to handle the problems.

In other actions, the SIC approved leasing to Jens Paulucci 20,000 square feet of concrete footings left when a metal hangar was removed after NASA left the Navy base. Paulucci will pay $600 yearly for the space in which he will construct his own hangar facilities to handle his private plane, gas tanks and car parking area.

Board directed Hutchison to work out a lease with the help of W. E. Knowles, city manager, outlining criteria for a private group to follow a proposal to operate the enlisted man's pool and tennis courts at the base.

A private group headed by Thomas McDonald sought to lease the pool at $200 a year but expected to spend approximately $4,000 to get the facility in good condition.

Mills Murder Trial To Jury

Jury was out as press time neared today in the trial of Artis Mills charged with the murder of James Reid of West 16th Street last December.

The ten-man, two-women jury was charged by Circuit Judge Volie Williams in the case early this afternoon.

During the trial yesterday afternoon, chief witness for the prosecution was Dr. Thomas Hegert, Orange County medical examiner and pathologist, who had performed the autopsy on the body of the dead man last Dec. 23.

Dr. Hegert testified he found numerous bullet wounds" on the body and that death had been caused by "massive hemorrhage from the wounds."

Mills' attorney, Albert Fitts, asked for a directed verdict of not guilty declaring the state, represented by Assistant State Attorney Thomas Speer, had not proved the defendant had any connection with the dead man and that nothing had been shown that Reid did not die by his own hand or by accident.

Judge Williams denied the motion.

During recesses of the trial, Circuit Judge E. Thom Rumberger sentenced Ben Posely, who had pleaded guilty to a charge of grand larceny to a term of one year in the county jail. The judge ordered that 90 days of the sentence would be spent in the jail with four years probation. As a condition of the probation, the defendant was ordered to make restitution of $166.03 and to pay court costs of $200.

In another case, Judge Rumberger gave five years probation to Steven Darryl Kimbro, who pleaded guilty to breaking and entering with intent to commit a misdemeanor. Kimbro was ordered to pay $200 attorney fees and $800 court costs,

Mayor Scores Legislators

By DONNA ESTES

Referring sarcastically to the "illustrious" Seminole - Orange legislative delegation as a "bunch of nuts with only two exceptions," Longwood Mayor Ken Brown at the meeting of the City Council last night predicted "none of us are going to get our legislation."

The city has submitted a total of five bills to amend the municipal charter, "I have it on a good authority none of us are going to get our legislation with Sandy Dandy Bassett up there," he declared.

The two exceptions cited by the mayor in labeling the delegation "nuts" were Rep. William Pulford and Sen. Bill Gunter.

Brown's remarks came after an attorney representing a group of property owners with lots bounding the highways which Longwood plans to annex stated fears that if the city obtains its requested legislation to make the municipal charter conform with state law concerning annexation that some properties may be taken into the town against the owner's will.

The particular requested legislation would permit annexation by petition or referendum.

The city's current plan is to annex the major arteries surrounding Longwood including 17-92 from Dog Track Road to General Hutchison Parkway, SR 427 north to General Hutchison Parkway and south to Milwee Junior High, Dog Track Road, and SR 434 to I-4.

Brown explained the city's plan is to square up its boundaries— for better traffic control and to lay water lines down the artery rights-of way. "There is no plan to annex any properties against the owners' will," he declared.

The Orlando attorney called the practice of cities "picking up rights-of-way" an "old trick. You pick up part of a right-of way and then pick up parcel after parcel of property," he declared. "It's a technical deception."

The mayor assured the persons present that "it is not the intent of the city fathers of Longwood to bring anyone into the city who does not wish to come."

Ordinance to annex the rights-of-way is expected to be placed on first reading at the June meeting of Council.

In other business, Council:

Confirmed the appointment of R. E. Sweat as chief of police with the appointment to run to January of next year. The mayor stated Sweat, during the past month as temporary chief, has done an excellent job.

Authorized the police chief to hire an extra employe to fill in during vacation periods during the next three months.

Authorized the mayor and city attorney to negotiate with South Seminole Bank for a loan to expand the water system.
