Winter Springs Votes Protest Of Utility Hike

The Winter Springs city council at a special meeting Saturday morning adopted a resolution directed to the Florida Public Service Commission protesting a proposed water and sewer rate increase, expected to be approved by the PSC Monday.

Oh, Happy Day! Patient Seminole Gridders Gain Revenge Over DeLand

It was a reversal of last year which supposedly had driven the Seminole football team toward the DeLand game ever since the "robbery" during the intervening 12 months.

Today Police Claim Bias

Two Sanford police patrolmen have filed formal complaints charging racial discrimination in civil rights violations in job classification, terms and conditions of employment, and promotions within the police department.

4-Hers Celebrate

It's National 4-H Week and Seminole youngsters are planning the best year ever for local 4-H clubs.

For All Seasons

The "double life" of a person transplanted to Sanford from the other side of the equator is the subject of Jean Patten's weekly column. See page 1C.

Carter, Ford Aim At Next Debate

Aides to Jimmy Carter say he accepted corporate hospitality as governor of Georgia, and sources in Washington report there will be no prosecutions as a result of an investigation in President Ford's old congressional district.

Ford Reprimands Butz For Slurs Against Blacks

WASHINGTON (AP) — Reprimanded by President Ford for slurs against blacks, Agriculture Secretary Earl Butz says he regrets his language, but some fellow Republicans are calling for his dismissal.

Holding sheriff's Capt. J. Q. "Slim" Galloway, center with rose in lapel, was named "Judge for an hour" as he retired Oct. 1 after 24 years in law enforcement.

Butz was summoned to the White House on Friday and was given "a severe reprimand" by Ford, who found Butz' racial comments "highly offensive," presidential aides said.

NATION IN BRIEF

94th Congress Ends; Now Part Of History

WASHINGTON (AP) — With clocks stopped far short of the actual hour, the 94th Congress completed its business early Saturday and entered history.

Probe To Clear Ford?

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Watergate special prosecutor will publicly clear President Ford next week and close his investigation of campaign financing in Ford's home county without any prosecutions, sources familiar with the probe say.

Burton Says He'll Get Post

WASHINGTON (AP) — Democratic caucus chairman Philip Burton says he is far ahead of his three rivals in collecting votes for the second-highest House leadership job despite opponents' claims that his support is slipping.

WORLD IN BRIEF

Mexican Storm Victims Buried in Mass Graves

LA PAZ, Mexico (AP) — Mexican troops dug victims of Hurricane Lize out of the mud and buried them in mass graves Saturday after 100-mile-per-hour winds slashed across the Baja California peninsula.

Drive By Christians Slowed

BEIRUT, Lebanon (AP) — In savage fighting, Palestinian guerrillas have slowed an attempt by Lebanon's right-wing Christian forces to overrun the last Palestinian mountain strongholds above Beirut.

Briton Pleased By Assignment

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP) — Ivor Richard, the man tapped by Britain to chair the talks on an interim government for Rhodesia, says he's "extremely aware of the problems" he confronts.

RESOLUTION
ON MOTION BY COMMISSIONER KIMBROUGH, SECONDED BY COMMISSIONER WILLIAMS, THE FOLLOWING RESOLUTION WAS UNANIMOUSLY ADOPTED AT THE REGULAR MEETING OF THE BOARD OF COUNTY COMMISSIONERS OF SEMINOLE COUNTY, FLORIDA, ON THE 31ST DAY OF AUGUST, A.D. 1976.

WHEREAS, Florida Law requires the adoption of a Resolution establishing temporary polling places when no accommodations presently exist within the boundaries of a precinct adequate in compliance with Florida Law;

WHEREAS, Florida Law, Chapter 101.21 and 101.22 further prescribes that the location change in any polling place can only be made with the board of county commissioners determine that the accommodations for the holding of an election are inadequate at the permanent polling place, and

WHEREAS, the Board of County Commissioners of Seminole County, Florida, has determined that no accommodations presently exist within Precincts 7A, 12, 27, 34, 52, and 53, adequate for the expeditious and efficient housing and handling of voting and voting paraphernalia within said precincts;

NOW, THEREFORE, BE IT RESOLVED BY THE Board of County Commissioners of Seminole County, Florida, that for Precincts 7A, 12, 27, 34, 52, and 53 the following polling places be designated as temporary polling places for the GENERAL ELECTION called for November 2, 1976, said polling places being outside their respective precincts, but contiguous thereto:

- PRECINCT 7A Community House, Avenue E & 7th Street, Chuluota, Florida
- PRECINCT 12 Florida Federal Savings and Loan, Intersection 42 & 43A, Altamonte Springs, Florida
- PRECINCT 17 Portable, Casaberry Elementary School Parking Lot, 451 S. Winter Park Drive, Casaberry, Florida

FLORIDA IN BRIEF

University Student Kidnaped, Killed

MIAMI (AP) — A university student kidnaped for $2,700 — all the money he had in the bank — was probably slain before an attempt could be made to deliver the ransom, police say.

Judge Refuses Ballot Bid

TALLAHASSEE (AP) — A federal judge has refused to place the names of former Georgia Gov. Lester Maddox and Libertarian candidate Roger MacBride on the Florida presidential ballot.

University Contract Okayed

GAINESVILLE (AP) — The faculty and staff of Florida's nine state universities now have a two-year working agreement after the Board of Regents approved a contract with the United Faculty of Florida.

Victim Bears No Grudge

MIAMI (AP) — "I have no hate," says a Miami radio newsmen who has returned home after losing both his legs five months ago when a terrorist bomb exploded in his car.

Tough Gambling Laws Urged

TALLAHASSEE (AP) — The statewide grand jury is urging tougher anti-gambling laws and more spending to counteract a trend they say has made Florida a haven for mobsters.

New Nursing Law In Effect

TALLAHASSEE (AP) — The state's tough new law governing nursing homes has gone into effect after a circuit judge denied a challenge by 22 South Florida operators who called the law a "curse."

Weber Suit Dismissed

TALLAHASSEE (AP) — A circuit judge has dismissed former state Sen. Charles Weber's suit to remove Gov. Reubin Askew's Sunshine Amendment from the Nov. 2 ballot.

Merit Retention Opposed

TALLAHASSEE (AP) — A defeated Florida Supreme Court candidate has filed a federal suit seeking removal from the Nov. 2 ballot of the constitutional amendment for merit retention of judges.

Demos Sign Up 350,000

TALLAHASSEE (AP) — Florida Democratic Party workers say an aggressive voter registration effort has added 350,000 additional Democratic voters in the state.

CONTINUING THE FIGHT

Sanford Policemen Claim Bias

Under federal regulations commission investigators now have 120 days in which to determine if the complaints are justifiable. If the complaints are found unjustifiable the city will be given such notice and Moore and Brooks could file federal court lawsuits on their own.

Sound Principle Seldom Utilized

The promising by politicians of special favors to special groups has long been deplored.

Political candidates should look to the general public interest. It is said, and ask, "What is good for America?" rather than "What is good for this group or that group?"

It is a sound principle but one that is seldom carried out impartially in practice.

A politician who has no trouble denying the pleas of welfare mothers or senior citizens may suddenly become attentive and submissive when approached by a lobbyist for a business or professional group.

A statesman who spurns the support of organized labor can tremble at the first word of criticism from the chamber of commerce.

We need legislators who are independent of all special interests, all pressure groups.

Lyndon Johnson had the right idea when he was a Texas senator and said he was a free man first, an American second, a Texan third and a Democrat fourth.

Public officials should think in those general terms, putting the common good ahead of any special or partisan interest.

It is in the nature of pressure groups to have artificially narrow interests. Presumably every individual who is a member of such a group is a whole person, with many interests which he shares with members of other groups. But as a member of the pressure group his other interests become irrelevant.

The group and its lobbyists concentrate only on the special issues, usually economic, that concern the group as a whole. They are spokesman for the group's self-interest — and nothing else.

Doctors are interested in the welfare of their patients and lawyers in the welfare of their clients. But doctors' lobbyists tend to be interested only in the interests of doctors. And lawyers' lobbyists are preoccupied with the interests of attorneys. The patients and clients have no lobby.

That is why it is important that anyone who seeks to speak for the public interest consult directly with the people, with individuals who speak only for themselves, with the uncommitted and the open-minded, before making decisions that affect the general welfare.

Sugar Protection

Sugar prices peaked out a couple of seasons ago at a level that was almost incredible, even in those inflationary times.

The reaction was predictable. Consumers cut down on consumption. They intentionally lost the sugar habit. And producers all over the world geared up to take advantage of the high prices.

Now there is a sugar surplus. Prices have dropped sharply. There is talk that some producer countries are dumping their sugar in the United States at lower prices than they can get at home in the producer countries.

And there is a rising demand from U.S. sugar cane and beet growers for protection. They want the government to raise the tariffs on imported sugar. That would raise the price of sugar in the supermarket.

We believe the Ford administration should resist such pressure. There is no military or strategic reason for protecting our domestic sugar industry. If it is unable to compete with foreign producers. The cane and beet growers should switch to other crops better suited to American growing conditions and farming techniques. Those crops can compete successfully on the world market, as American farmers have proved by their huge sales of wheat, corn and soy beans abroad.

BERRY'S WORLD

WASHINGTON — The federal establishment is so inundated with government forms that the bureaucrats simply can't keep up with all the paperwork. The loss in paper alone is staggering. But additional billions are swept out into the waste paper.

It costs the taxpayers at least $2 billion a year, for example, because the Internal Revenue Service is too swamped with paperwork to cross-check tax returns with income reporting forms.

Like most government agencies, the IRS issues forms right and left. But what happens to all the forms that the harassed citizens are required to fill out? Many of them are discarded. An unredeemed congressional report, "routinely destroyed by IRS without examination."

Every year, half a billion income reporting forms flood into IRS offices. Most are those familiar W-2 forms that list the wages earned by employees. But the annual deluge also includes forms 1097 and 1099, which are used to report income from dividends, interest, rents and royalties.

Considering these forms with income tax returns, the IRS can identify tax cheaters. Every tax cheater who is caught saves the money of the honest taxpayers.

Yet the House Monetary Affairs subcommittee, headed by Rep. Ben Rothenberg, D-N.Y., has found that the IRS routinely ignores the income-reporting forms. "Half of the total forms submitted were destroyed or discarded," alleges a committee report being prepared for release.

The tax agencies have found that they catch fewer cheaters and stretch the IRS treasury when they take the time to match the reporting forms against the tax returns. In 1972, for Okay, you want some more pep? Try these on for size.

I defeat people who have little concern for their fellow man when they deem it necessary to make inconsequential telephone calls after 10 p.m.

Too, I think it's absolutely absurd that a telephone company, or any other utility for that matter, can make $1 billion profit in three months (yes, the figure is correctly quoted) and still have the unmitigated gall to ask for a rate increase.

And how about those political incumbents who tell us exactly what they are going to do in the first 100 days after they are elected when for the past 700 days they have been sitting on their hands instead of enacting the same programs they now promise for the future?

Or Saturday night drunks who call me at home and want me to settle a wager over who won a heavyweight championship fight back in 1947?

Then there are people who issue a statement for public record that is printed verbatim and then when the utterer of the words realizes he's made a mistake says he was "quoted out of context."

How about the dentists and doctors who demand that you be on time to keep an appointment or pay 'X' amount of dollars for their time lost, yet when you show up before the scheduled time you end up in the waiting room two hours later, still waiting to see the good doctor?

I also look with disdain upon people who insist they've known me for years yet repeatedly spell my name 47 different ways and can't pronounce it correctly either.

Politicians who vote themselves a raise while in office particularly irritate me.

So do people who vote a straight ticket without consideration of the individual office-seeker and what he/she stands for.

And then there are those people who call up to complain like crazy and cuss you out about this or that particular item they've seen in the newspaper, yet refuse to give their name or any clue as to their identity.

I'm also aggravated when I think that a letter mailed from Florida's West Coast arrives here in one day's time, but one mailed from Orlando arrives three days after it's postmarked.

One thing that really grinds me to a halt to all the "extras" we parents have to pay for to think of children through another school year, such as notebooks, paper, pencils, art materials etc., after paying out a healthy chunk of hard-earned cash in school taxes.

Or going to the post office to purchase stamps on Sunday morning to mail an important item only to find that the stamp machines are empty?

Ever try shaving when you're still half asleep and realize that you'll have to use a dull blade because your better half used the last new one you had to cut something that left little nicks in it?

Oh, this one really gets me: I neatly place one sock inside the other when placing them in the laundry basket, yet when the clothes come back all clean and nice I only have one sock of each pair.

There are many others that irk me. I suppose, but the one that really takes the cake is when I get mad at myself and take it out on someone else. You know, falling to court to 10 before opening my mouth, or putting the mouth in motion before putting the mind in gear.

What are your nevers?

Carter Claims Refuted

WASHINGTON — Throughout his campaign for the presidency, Jimmy Carter has been asked to detail his plan to reorganize the federal government — that is, to tell specifically how he will reduce the number of agencies in Washington from 1,800 to 500, as he has promised.

Mr. Carter has invariably ducked the question by changing the subject to what he says were his accomplishments when he was governor of Georgia.

So it was no surprise at all, when this issue surfaced in his debate with President Ford, to hear Mr. Carter say that he would do "the same thing" as president that he did when he was in the statehouse in Atlanta, which he says was "a tremendous success."

But just how successful was Mr. Carter in reorganizing Georgia's government? Did he, as his campaign propaganda declares, eliminate 278 of the state's 300 agencies? Did he slash administrative costs by 50 percent? Well, I don't know. But here's what those who do know say:

"I have personally not been able to identify any savings that resulted from reorganization per se." This interviewee said Carter's claimed reduction of administrative costs "is definitely phony," adding, "A detailed analysis would not show such a reduction." — Georgia State Auditor Ernest Davis, quoted in an AP story in the New York Times, Feb. 14, 1976.

In that same article, Davis also said: "Mr. Carter speaks against the tax load on the average worker. As governor, he proposed the state's first tax increase since 1955 and most of the state's major tax increases since then."

"There may have been a few inconsequential failures that were eliminated, but mostly he just created a monster, like HEW in the case of the state," said Walter D. Georgia, Commissioner of Labor, quoted in the Washington Post, Feb. 28, 1976.

"Carter's reorganization was less significant than the reorganization that was a political success, as a tool in creating a sense of leadership and uniting various groups behind it for whatever else he wanted to do." — Same interviewee.

— Excerpt from 1976 Carter profile, authored by Phil Sanford and published by Capitol Hill News Service, an organization begun by Ralph Nader.

"He couldn't pass any of his reorganization bills. We had to pass legislation for him about 40 percent of it anyway." — A top Georgia politician, quoted in Time magazine, May 10, 1976.

"Several 'cran capital figures question the effects of the organization, scoffing at Mr. Carter's appraisal. Of it as 'a radical piece of surgery that restored the patient's health.' Mr. Mathews called the program nothing more than a cosmetic rearrangement of the furniture, and other critics who asked not to be identified were none or less agreed." — Tom Mathews, Georgia Speaker of the House, quoted in the New York Times, May 16, 1976.

"Governor Busbee, however, complains that the largest of Mr. Carter's creations, the Human Resources Department, had unnecessary layers of management, lack of accountability, unclear lines of authority, confused job definitions, and inadequate administrative procedures."

"After studying Mr. Carter's campaign pamphlet, most say his broad claims are grossly inflated, exaggerated and misleading." — Governor, who supports Carter, present, Democrat in the Christian Science Monitor, July 13, 1976.

"A great majority of the nearly 300 state agencies, boards, and commissions he says he merged or shuttered were in fact non-functional entities that simply hadn't been cleared from the organization chart." — Newsweek magazine, Sept. 13, 1976.

"I'm not saying that he was a spendthrift or anything, but Jimmy has a tendency to shoot off at the mouth a lot. That savings business is a lot of junk and one agency was left in a real mess. I respect the man. He worked hard and tried, but saving money? No, nobody can show me any savings."

"About about the claimed savings, Carter campaign staffers were unable to point to any specific dollar amounts in the plan, either before or after it was instituted." — New York Daily News, Feb. 10, 1976, report by William Sherman, quoting Georgia's state legislative editor, Pete Buckley.

McLuhan: Apocalypse Is 'At Hand'

The writer-educator and media guru who coined the phrase "the medium is the message" recently told "is at hand."

Marshall McLuhan told the Media Club of Canada that the 20th century man has a death wish and lusts after nothing so much as the legal right to kill. "Buchwald and Dechau were just a taste. We're on the verge — on the very verge of another binge of human slaughter."

You remember, of course, that Buchwald and Dechau were Nazi extermination camps where Jews, and others, were put to death because of a madcap Adolf Hitler blamed Jews for the ill of pre-Nazi Germany — and the world.

McLuhan may be correct. All it takes for a nation to go berserk is indoctrination by a totalitarian regime. If you don't believe that, read books by Albert Speer, who was an architect and business manager of sorts before he joined up with Hitler to become his chief armaments minister.

Then there's Joseph Goebbels, a young man whose one desire in life was to be a poet. Out of that unrequited desire grew the chief of propaganda for the Nazi regime. The grandiose stagings including flag waving, Wagnerian music, parades and party propaganda were promotions by Goebbels, a young man whose byword desire was to write good poetry.

Whether you agree with McLuhan, or not, is up to you. But his theory is an interesting one... and certainly it bears watching. If it flashes out, it bears more than waiting.

SCIDA's suggestion to sell the Port of Sanford to private industry wasn't too well by Port Administrator Jim Ryan.

In retaliation, port officials are threatening to put up a sign at the port which says "For Sale, See SCIDA."

First, I suggest the suggestion by SCIDA board member Georges St. Laurent is a madcap scheme. But St. Laurent is serious, and the SCIDA board has requested a study by the county commission into the feasibility of selling $5-million in port assets into private ownership.

The issue centers on who, if anybody, gets phased out if the two entities are ever merged. There's some talk about merging, but at this stage it's just that — talk.

But, who knows? A county commission study might show it's feasible. In that case, I guess the "For Sale" sign could stay.

Maybe even play him a quiet game of checkers before breaking the news. You might do it at the drugstore. Throw in a few goodies — mention a few names (First names only, though, Barney) and the first thing you'll know is the message will deliver itself.

You might call County Commissioner Harry Kwiatkowski first, too, Barney. You know how those two are: old buddies, and all, from former days in the Jaycees. SEARS VOGT

State Sen. John Vogt (D-Occoee) is being challenged for his District 17 seat in the Florida Senate by Curtis Sears (R-Hoquoting).

The 17th district is comprised of Seminole, Brevard and parts of DeSoto and Orange counties. The 17th district is the only one in the state in which the incumbent is being challenged.

Imports, Freeze Change Concerns United Growers

United Growers, in its 10th annual citrus crop poll released today, reported as "very manageable" supply-demand projection. But at the same time, the Orlando-based growers' organization warned of "under-supply" as a "major problem."

For ideal conditions, explained General Manager Wilson McGee, supplies are adequate. But, he noted, his concern with the possibility of a freeze and pressure from juice imports from Brazil and other nations.

The poll, built on grower estimates of commercially certified citrus crops, shows: Round oranges: 186.5 million one and three-fifths bushel boxes, a 3.8 per cent increase over 180.3 box 1975-76 crop.

Two terms and they're out means less dollar government and that makes sense. "The proposed personal contributions of the candidate should be limited to four times the qualifying fees and limit contributions to within the boundaries of the office they seek to serve and there should be reorganization every session," Sears said.

"I would not favor limiting the terms of cabinet officers," Vogt responds. "This is not a popular answer because of the current widespread distrust of government," Vogt concedes, "but many cabinet members have performed good and valuable service to the state for more than two terms. With the provisions we now have or will soon have for financial disclosure and outside interest, we have further safeguards against abuse of the office," he says.

Sears is opposed to the Equal Rights Amendment (ERA). "I am for non-discrimination," he stresses.

Vogt is for ERA. "Since I cannot imagine anyone voting for a constitutional amendment that would allow discrimination against women (or against men) because of sex, it follows that I cannot imagine anyone voting against a constitutional amendment that would prevent discrimination against women (or men) because of their sex," Vogt said.

Sears did not advocate any new laws. "I would introduce (or call for enforcement of our current laws) legislation to not let the state rise on any department of Florida State government that has not been annually audited to prove the degree of need to continue. I am for zero-based budgeting," Sears says.

Board Selection On Annual Agenda

Stockholders of the Sanford-Seminole Development Co. Inc. will be asked to vote on a change in the number, tenure and qualifications of members of the board of directors during the group's annual meeting 8 a.m. Oct. 12 in the Chamber of Commerce offices, Sanford.

Specifically, the proposition asks that each of the 10 directors be "elected for three years with no fewer than one quarter of directors elected in any one year." Presently, the 10 directors hold office until the next annual meeting.

The company is also expected to report on the start, in the past fiscal year, of a facility for the operations of Florida Extrusion Inc., an aluminum component manufacturing firm.

Seminole No. 1? Gainesville In Wings To Find Out

By KRIS NASH
Herald Staff Writer

Every time halfback Tim Raines scores a touchdown, he comes jogging off the field with his index finger raised significantly in the air. And his Seminole High teammates have picked up the practice, imitating the gesture and raising cries of "No. 1, No. 1," whenever things go favorably for the Tribe.

Conference title and a berth in the AAAA district playoffs — to "play them one at a time." "The word is now that Colonial has beaten Boone, 37-0," Posey announced during the jubilation celebration in the end zone following Seminole's fourth straight decision of the young season. "And Colonial is next."

But it's a long road to Seabreeze, and winning the Five-Star championship doesn't assure Seminole of a playoff spot. District AAAA opponents Lyman and Lake Brantley must be conquered first. The toughest obstacle looming on the Tribe's warpath still has to be Gainesville, however.

received extensive scouting reports on the northern club but has not yet had time to review them. "I can tell you that they've got one heck of a back," the Seminole chief disclosed Friday night. "They say he's just like Tim Raines, only bigger. That's just the way he was described to me. And he's their big offensive force. The DeLand coach, Jim Bohl, told me that he just tore them up."

Hey, wait a minute Seminole. You guys just might be a football team yet. Friday night's 26-20 victory over DeLand left the door open for that possibility.

The ball was just there and no one was around me. So, I picked it up and ran with it. "When the game started, Woodworth explained the play that brought the Lake Howell Silver Hawks an 84 upset victory over the Oviedo Lions Friday night.

Baseball Baffler: Stengelese Remains Inscrutable

By JIRA BERKOW
Casey Stengel left more than a great baseball legacy when he died last Sept. 29. What also remains is his estate worth $40 million. Casey went out in characteristic fashion, however, leaving a financial plight that is as inscrutable and as enigmatic as Stengelese.

He was the vice-president of a bank in Glendale, of which his brother-in-law and executor, John Lawson Sr., is chairman of the board.

Stengel died at age 65, and for most of his public life — he became a major league outfielder in 1912 and managed many teams, most notably leading the New York Yankees to an unprecedented 10 championships in 12 years, 1949-1960 — he was considered a clown or a fool. For some reason, I looked in the satchel. It was loaded with bundles of cash. I counted up $3,000!

"When I saw Casey I said, 'Why did you do that to me?' He said, 'Because I trust you.' I said, 'But why didn't you tell me?' He said it was part of a business deal and wanted to keep it quiet since he didn't want family after it. I said, 'But what if it were stolen?' He said, 'So what... By the way, take some.'"

To Assist In Purchase Of Homes Builders Propose Govt. Program

BALT LAKE CITY — The Executive Committee of the 99,999-member National Association of Home Builders has put forward a proposed program of governmental assistance to provide homes for purchase by young families, the elderly and moderate income families and still be non-inflationary.

Endorsement of the proposed program, to be submitted to the Administration and the Congress, came during NAHB's Fall Board of Directors and Builders Conference.

The proposal was conceived by NAHB President John C. Hart of Indianapolis. It involves a front-end subsidy by the government. It would reduce prevailing mortgage interest rates by up to three percentage points for the term of the mortgage.

Under the plan the federal government would make a one-time payment to the mortgage lender covering the cost of the difference between the then market interest rate and a variable below-market rate. This payment would be secured by a non-interest bearing second trust (or the term of the mortgage) given by the buyer and payable to the federal government.

The funds advanced by the government would be recaptured upon the resale of the home.

This new program is "truly American," Hart said. "Lower income families, formerly excluded from the new home market, would be able to choose a home of their own in the location of their choice, the costs subsidized by the government would be recaptured, and repayment by the home buyer would be accounted for by the equity built up in this home through normal appreciation in value.

In addition, if housing opportunities were provided for 100,000 families per year, Hart said, "this program would create 185,000 jobs for craftsmen, laborers, and minorities. It would develop $600-million in federal personal and corporate tax revenues and $100-million in state income and local real estate taxes."

Hart's program sets a sales price limit of $50,000. It is intended for conventionally financed, new single-family units including condominiums.

The below-market interest rate would vary according to the sales price of the home — the lower the price of the house, the lower the interest rate. For example: assuming a market rate of 9 percent, buyers of a $25,000 home would receive a below-market interest rate of 6 percent. The interest rate would increase 1/4 of 1 percent for each $5,000 increase in the sales price up to $50,000 at 7 1/2 percent.

"Another feature of this program is that it would be limited to the United States," Hart said.

HOMES FOR AMERICANS

THIS GAMBREL ROOF DUTCH COLONIAL TWO-STORY HOUSE USES DEVICES SUCH AS windows, a corner fireplace, brick entrance steps and large carriage lanes to add to the Colonial theme. A breakfast nook off the large pantry kitchen has direct access to rear yard. A second-floor balcony adds a touch of luxury. Plan H1855-V has 926 square feet on the first floor and 851 square feet on the second. It was designed by Herman H. York and those wishing further information may write him—enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope—at 90-94 181 St., Jamaica, N.Y., 11432.

Women Buy Chain Saws Too

By ANDY LANG
AP News Service

By the end of this year, more than 2 million chain saws will have been sold since January 1964.

About 60 per cent will have been sold to non-professionals, nearly all of them women.

About 316,000 of the same will have been sold to women.

These are interesting industry figures that have been intriguing the statistics about female purchasers. They just didn't seem correct. More than 10,000 women in the United States using chain saws? It couldn't be. Then the light dawned. There weren't 10,000 women using chain saws, merely that a far different thing. Anyway, let's check and find out.

Franklin Maddox, president of the National Chain Saws Association, has discovered that 24 per cent of all consumer chain saws are purchased by women.

That's more than 100,000 women who have bought chain saws. But more and more women are using chain saws themselves to cut firewood and to clear away brush and vines. Many are cutting down a tree.

CB BREAK

Sportsmen, Hobbyists Move CB Outdoors

By ROBERT ANGUS
CB may have gotten its start in the cabs of 18-wheelers, but it's matured under the dashboards of the nation's automobiles...

CB is expected to be a major adjunct to the winter for recreationists. The reason is it's proved so popular in the car...

FCC Throws Industry A Curve

By DON OAKLEY
Beginning January 1, the nation's millions of Citizens Band addicts will gain a little breathing space in their crowded radio space.

As a company that makes nothing but communications antennas and related accessories, and which sells more of them than any other manufacturer in the country, Antenna Specialists is not directly affected by FCC decision-making.

OPINION

As a company that makes nothing but communications antennas and related accessories, and which sells more of them than any other manufacturer in the country, Antenna Specialists is not directly affected by FCC decision-making.

That means the CBR can obtain a permit application through any of the Canadian Department of Communications regional offices.

"Six Boom Bah!" they yell, romping and tumbling, cheering and dancing.

Hospital Would Rather Give Than Receive

They've come up with a novel idea at Seminole Memorial Hospital. It has to do with the hospital caring for the community at all times — not only when someone is sick.

The time to really put this philosophy into practice. Chairman of this year's Christmas party committee is Daniel L. Rayman.

good-as-new items and planning massive take-ins to supply merchandise for the sale. All the proceeds will go to buy Christmas gifts for two patients of the hospital.

Living 'Double Life' Has Its Advantages

It's strange sometimes, living with each foot planted in a different continent — one in Africa, the other in North America.

When in the same breath, I go into an American supermarket and buy my grocery shopping, and do not see but pumpkins and cranberries on display — unmistakable heralds of fall.

When I go to the hospital, I see the news of the hospital's Trick or Treat Sale planned for Oct. 30 in the hospital auditorium, and spilling out, most likely, into the adjacent parking lot.

2076: Kids Spell, Foretell Tricentennial

By DORIS DIETRICH
Herald Correspondent
Where do they get their insight — these bundles of love, our children?

When the Bicentennial year is but a memory, who is to bring us many of the exciting things we will be celebrating to celebrate the nation's 300th birthday party the Tricentennial?

Last spring, toward the end of the school term, fifth grade students at Idlewild Elementary School were given a spelling assignment by teachers, Cynthia Wright, Florence Sheibenberg and Priscilla Carraro, to forecast what the year 2076 will be like.

Fifth grader Chuck Abernathy's concept of the year 2076 is as follows, based on the letters in 'BICENTENNIAL': T-more advanced technology; R-revolution in space exploration; I-more advanced industries; C-many cures in cancer; E-underwater exploration; N-nuclear powered cars; T-terrace breakthrough in medicine; G-egret education; N-automotive navigation for planes; N-new computer technology; O-nuclear powered watches; and I-liquid cement and concrete.

Bride's Book

Warren, Williams Marry Van Duyn, Helme Wed

Shirley Jean Warren became the bride of Larry T. Williams Sr. Sept. 4 at 7:30 p.m. with Rev. Leo King officiating at the candlelight ceremony at the First Methodist Church, Sanford. Mary Beth Williams, sister of the bridegroom, was organist.

Mrs. Larry T. Williams Sr.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James V. Warren, Sanford. The bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Ted Williams, Sanford.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a formal length gown of Chamilly lace with high neckline and long, full sleeves accented with a double ruffle at the wrists. The A-line silhouette skirt had a white satin ribbon bow in the back at the empire waistline. Attached to the gown was a chapel train of matching white lace. The three-tiered elbow-length veil of silk tulle was secured to a Juliet cap of lace and seed pearls and she carried a crescent bouquet of three cattleya orchids set in a starburst of pompons and white lace.

Linda Warren served her sister as maid of honor in a formal length gown of baby blue with square neckline trimmed with lace, and two rows of flower-shaped lace at the hem of the full skirt. She carried a cascade of mixed flowers centered with a single cymbidium orchid.

Yndoliana served his son as best man. Ushers were Scott Bridges and Jim Terrell. A reception followed the service in the church fellowship hall.

The couple will live at 2414 Grandview Ave., Sanford. The bridegroom is employed at Knight's Shoe Store, Sanford. The bride is employed at the Evening Herald.

Mary Ellen Van Duyn became the bride of John Michael Helme in a candlelight, double ring ceremony performed by Father William Ennis at All Souls Catholic Church, Sanford, on Sept. 11 at 4 p.m. John Alken was organist.

Mr. and Mrs. John Michael Helme

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Richard Van Duyn, 211 Scott Ave., Sanford. The bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. William L. Helme, Savannah, Ga.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a gown of candlelight organza mesh over satin styled on a princess silhouette with white embroidered flowers trimming the bodice, sleeves and cascading down the sides and back of the train. She wore a candlelight headpiece securing a veil which fell to below her shoulders, and carried a cascade bouquet.

Carol Brown, Orlando, served as matron of honor in a gown of white with yellow and white daisies and roses with a white headpiece adorned with matching flowers.

Bridesmaids Gail Penton, Sara Lee Roberts and Colleen Harrison wore long gowns of aqua, powder blue, coral and yellow and carried white roses and daisies matching the color of their gowns.

William Helme served his son as best man. Ushers-groomsmen were Jack Watkins, Thomas Hood and Keith Meredith.

Following a reception in the church parish hall, the couple left on a wedding trip to St. Augustine. They will live in Tampa where the bridegroom will resume his studies in mechanical engineering at the University of South Florida. The bride is employed at a photo finishing center.

Parent Education Program Slated

Seminole Community College, in cooperation with Seminole County schools, is expanding a Parent Education Program started in two county schools last spring. The program teaches parents ways of helping their children make the most of home learning experiences.

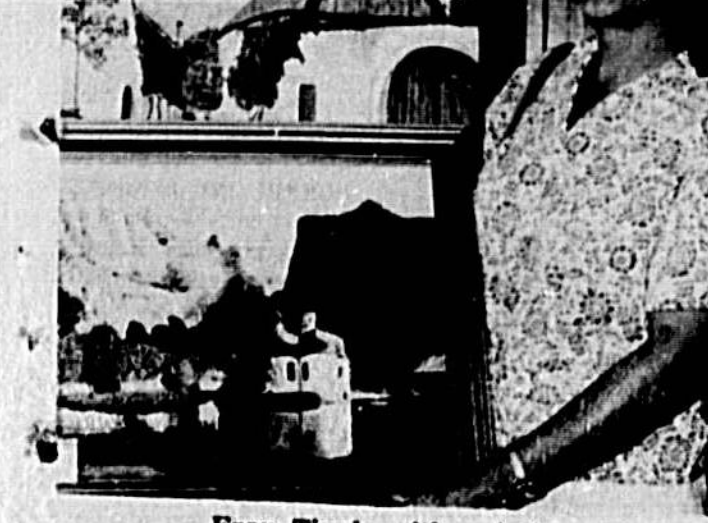

Eighteen of the county's elementary schools will each conduct a series of five night classes, starting the first week in October. Parents of children in kindergarten through third grade will be shown how to make teaching aids and conduct exercises at home that will help their children learn without it seeming like a chore.

The five-session program this fall will dwell on ways for parents to help their children learn in the home and community. Another program of classes will be offered in the spring designed to show parents how to reinforce their children's learning during the summer months.

There is no charge for the course and it is hoped parents will take advantage of what is offered.

Painter Records Romantic Castles

Fran Tingle with paintings

Castles in the air are a romantic subject for dreams, but Sanfor artist Fran Tingle prefers the reality of painting her dream castles on canvas.

Three years ago, Mrs. Tingle returned to Sanford from a four-year stay in Germany with her Air Force husband, William. "I just fell in love with the castles in Bavaria," she says. "I decided if I couldn't bring them home with me, I'd paint them."

Fran has always wanted to paint, but never knew what subject — until she viewed the romantic castles of Germany. So she enrolled in Helen Hickey's painting class at SCC, and this month is exhibiting her works at the Plaza Rocking Chair Theatre, Sanford. As well as castles, she paints the churches and picturesque farm houses viewed while traveling in Europe.

A member of the Sanford-Seminole Art Association, Mrs. Tingle mentioned that other artists exhibiting in Seminole Plaza, Caswellville buildings during October include Julia Nutting, Elizabeth Berga and Mary Walters.

Orphan Brothers Reunite After 49 Years

This week has been a happy reunion at a tea Oct. 7, at the Sanford home of Mr. and Mrs. William (Jean) Norris, 115 Lakewood Drive, Idylwild.

Sponsored by the Democratic Women's Club of Seminole County, the public is invited to call between the hours of 2-4 p.m. to meet and chat with Katie.

Orphaned when they were small boys, the Davis brothers were separated and this is the first time the two brothers have seen each other in 49 years.

When the Sanford couple's son Ronnie was stationed in California with the U. S. Navy several years ago, he located his Uncle Jim through some detective work on his own.

Since that time the two families have kept in touch, and now the brothers are together again after nearly half a century of separation.

Katie Nichols, Democratic candidate for the Public Service Commission, will be honored at a tea Oct. 7, at the Sanford home of Mr. and Mrs. William (Jean) Norris, 115 Lakewood Drive, Idylwild.

Friends of Jeno Paudel, who calls Sanford and Duluth, Minn. home, might be interested to know that he will appear on the NBC national program, "Profile," which will be aired locally Sunday, at 8:30 p.m., on Channel 2.

Although the City of Lake Mary may have observed Bicentennial a little late this year, the committee in charge reports a successful celebration.

According to Letha Fowler, who was in charge of compiling a historical brochure as a bicentennial salute, the booklet will be available in the near future.

And thanks to Mr. and Mrs. Horace (Olade) Cochran, Lake Mary now has its very own original flag. The Cochrans contributed and presented the flag to the city. Iona Yehovich designed and painted the flag.

Hotel and their room overlooked Walden Beach and Diamond Head. Jerry said, "It was the best trip we have ever had. Honolulu is so beautiful and modern. The food was wonderful and hospitality and entertainment were out of this world."

The Kirks have some lucky friends. The couple brought back as gift mementoes luscious hand-picked pineapples.

Mrs. George (Pat) Beers attended a business seminar in Atlanta, Ga. Pat's business is beauty and she is a living model in this field she represents.

Lanora Green of Idylwild said now that she and her husband Curtis have their children educated and married they are having a ball. The lucky couple spent 34 days touring Japan, Hong Kong, Bangkok, Singapore, Bali, Austria, New Zealand and Tahiti.

Declaring that freedom of information is the most important right which makes this country great, Gordon Britson, a past president of the Sanford Rotary Club, told the club members of efforts being made throughout the world to curtail the free communication of information.

Nancy W. White became the bride of Robert Finnet Steele on Sept. 29 at the First Baptist Church of Sanford.

Births recorded were Craig Richard Keogh, Raymond Leon Bass Jr., and William Wright Kirley.

Happy birthday greetings went to Mrs. J. Abohy, Viola Campbell and Julia S. Earnest.

The advertisement read: "Who like to drive at 85, heed well this little verse. You won't exceed a normal speed, when riding in a hearse." Take it easy! You might injure a customer of Andrew Carraway Agency.

And it all happened 25 years ago this week!

Culbertson, Bugaj Join In Matrimony

Marie Culbertson, 80 East 14th St., Sanford and Chester G. Bugaj, New York, were married Sept. 25 at 1 p.m. in the Orlando home of Mr. and Mrs. Robert C. Brown, sister of the bridegroom, with Rev. Robert A. Fleming of Delaney St. Baptist Church, Orlando, officiating at the double ring ceremony.

The bride is the daughter of Mrs. Martha Haffield, Longwood, and the late Homer Haffield. The bridegroom is the son of the late Mr. and Mrs. William Bugaj, Albertson, N. Y.

Given in marriage by her brother, Charles E. O'Dell, the bride wore an off-white floor-length gown with a long sleeve and a long sheer lace top. She carried a bouquet of mixed flowers and baby's breath.

Barbara L. O'Dell, niece of the bride, served as maid of honor in an orchid suit gown with V-neckline, short sleeves and lace trim around the neckline, bib front and the back. The floor-length skirt was gently tapered. She wore a white carnation corsage.

Louis M. Soprano, nephew of the bridegroom was best man.

A reception followed the service at the Robert Brown home.

The couple will make their home in Sanford. The bride works in the advertising department of the Evening Herald. The bridegroom is a machinist.

Perkins, Stair Wed In Island Ceremony

Susan Byrd Perkins and Rodney Miles Stair II were married Sept. 18 at 2 p.m. with Rev. George Starling officiating at the double ring ceremony at Turtle Bay Estate House, Caneel Key, St. John, U. S. Virgin Islands.

Given in marriage by her father, she wore a floor length white designer gown of imported French eyelet and a wide-brimmed white hat. She carried a cluster of white island flowers including those in the crown of her hat; frangipani, cleander, jasmine and orchids.

Rodney M. Stair served his son as best man. A wedding reception followed the ceremony at Turtle Bay Estate House, Caneel Key, St. John, U. S. Virgin Islands.

The couple left on a wedding trip to the B.V.I., a tour of St. John, and a formal dinner at Turtle Bay on the wedding eve.

The couple has been employed by Caneel Bay Plantation for four years; the bride as gift shop manager and the bridegroom as food and beverage manager and formerly as manager of Cinnamon Bay Campground. They will be leaving St. John in October to spend the fall and winter traveling throughout the United States and will resume their resort careers in the spring.

Friends from Florida, Virginia, Louisiana, Colorado as well as Puerto Rico, Virgin Gorda and Tortola. The family and close friends enjoyed a pre-wedding week of festivities which included a picnic and cruise to the Virgin Islands.

Joining the couple for their wedding were the bride's family from Sanford, Mr. and Mrs. Braxton Perkins, her sisters Patricia and Marti, and brother Braxton; the groom's family, Mr. and Mrs. Rodney M. Stair from Evergreen, Colo. and the groom's sister, Sherry Stair from Newport News, Va. Also attending were family and

Dear Abby

DEAR ABBY: I've been going with this guy for five months, and both of my parents like him a lot until he grew a beard. When he showed up at my house with his new beard, my parents were actually rude to him.

They said he looked like a bum or someone who was trying to overthrow the government. Abby, I think his beard looks great and told him so. It's not shaggy or neglected-looking — it's carefully cropped and really looks neat.

I was so embarrassed when my folks put this guy down, I didn't know what to say or do. Abby, you're my parents' age, at least. How do you feel about beards?

DEAR BONNIE: If they're neat and well-cared for, I think they're great. Some of the most important men in history had beards: Moses, Jesus, Abraham Lincoln and Sigmund Freud, to name a few. And the Smith Brothers, who coughed up a fortune.

DEAR ABBY: I'm 43 years old and should know better, but it still hurts. I'm married and have three attractive children. I have one married brother who also has a fine family. My brother lives in the same city as do our parents, and he sees them often. I live in another city, but for many years I've visited my folks once a month.

My mother has a large picture of my brother on her living room wall, and several pictures of him, his wife and all their children displayed in the same room.

My picture is hidden in a back bedroom. There isn't one picture of my three children anywhere in sight, and I've given her several. When I stop with my mother she takes pictures of my brother out of her wallet and shows them to store clerks, saying, "Here's my son. Isn't he handsome? He's the president of the Blank Company."

It takes several days after I return home to get the ache out of my heart. Abby, I wonder how many mothers have favorites? Is there a solution to my problem?

DEAR HURTING: Although they won't admit it, most mothers (either consciously or unconsciously) have their favorites, but your mother is extremely insensitive to act out her preference so blatantly. I suggest that you bring your hurt feelings out into the open. Perhaps it will motivate your mother and will remedy the situation. It's too bad you have to preempt her to keep her from hurting you, but it's preferable to aching forever.

CONFIDENTIAL TO V.H. That little "get" about "talking health" was written by Ella Wheeler Wilcox. I quote: "Talk health. The dreary, never-ending tale of mental maladies is worn and stale. You cannot charm or interest or please by harping on that minor chord — disease. So, say that you are well, and all is well with you. And God will hear your words and make them true."

Everyone has a problem. What's yours? For a personal reply, write to ABBY: Box No. 4796, L.A., Calif. 90016. Enclose stamped, self-addressed envelope, please. Try to have a "Lovely Wedding." Send $1 to Beyond Van Buren, 131 Lusk Dr., Beyond Hills, Calif. 90212. Please enclose a 10¢ postage stamp. Self-addressed, stamped (10¢) envelope.

Kitchen Tips

If you haven't yet acquired a rolling pin, you will be able to make do with a bottle.

Nine-inch round and square pans are useful for baking yeast rolls as well as for cakes.

Baked bread leaves sound hollow or "thumpy" when tapped with knuckles.

Mash sardines with softened butter, finely grated onion and lemon juice; use as a sandwich filling.

Craig's Story: One Small Boy Fights For A Chance At Life

By JACQUELINE DOWD
Herald Staff Writer

Craig Joiner is a special child. He is special because he can make a visitor stop in mid-sentence to smile. In his mother's eyes, he is special because she says, "He's given us so much more good than grief."

To the state of Florida, Craig is special because he was born with Down's syndrome — what used to be called a "baby" — and is borderline mentally retarded. Craig learns things more slowly than most children. He was 13 months old before he was able to sit up on his own. He celebrated his second birthday in August, but he still isn't potty trained or walking.

And now one of his main sources of learning may be closed.

The Little Red Schoolhouse, which offers an education program for Seminoles' low-income, mentally retarded youngsters, may have seen its last day.

The school's federal funding — nearly $200,000 a year — was cut off Oct. 1 when new regulations went into effect. Now schools are eligible for federal funds only if they serve developmental retardates like Craig — those with little hope of ever functioning on a "normal" level.

Most of The Little Red Schoolhouse's youngsters are functional retardates, who are capable of functioning at "normal" levels but — for a variety of reasons — don't. The federal government will no longer support programs designed to bring them up to normal levels.

Last Thursday was the last day Craig and 95 other children were in school. "Every day, when the schoolbus came to pick him up he cried," said his mother. "But that last day he didn't cry. He had finally adjusted."

Craig Joiner is one of the lucky ones. His mother, Donna Joiner of Altamonte Springs, who is now pursuing a degree in special education at FTU, will soon begin the search for another school for him.

But there aren't many possibilities. And most of the schools that are available are at least an hour's ride away. "He'd be wasted in school after that long a ride," Mrs. Joiner said, stroking her 3-year-old son's hair. "He'd be too tired to learn anything."

But she and her husband Mike are determined to give Craig the best shot at life they can. They are determined to find a way.

They haven't always felt that way. "The first six months after he was born was a grief period. I just sat there and cried. 'Why would this happen to me?'" Mrs. Joiner said. "After that I got a hold of myself and said, 'Let's go find out what we can do.'"

They thought they had found an answer. But it turned out too good to be true.

The Joiners are not optimistic about The Little Red Schoolhouse's chances at continuing. They know that over 900 a day is needed to keep operating the two learning centers — one at Victory Baptist Church on 88-477 south of Sanford and one at Messiah Lutheran Church in Casselberry.

And now that the school is without federal funds, its 36 young pupils are totally dependent on private donations. "Unless something comes through by Wednesday, then the school is closed," Mrs. Joiner said. "We're going to be stuck."

Since the state pays for Craig's schooling — he is a developmental retardate — getting him into another school will require another round of testing his intelligence, social maturity and psychological adjustment.

"By the time we get through all the red tape, it will

Butz Steps Down Cites Racial Slurs

A WEEK FOR FIRE PREVENTION
Sanford's firefighters kicked off Fire Prevention Week this morning with a special presentation for pupils at All Saints School. This afternoon, the firemen visited the Seventh-day Adventist School.

WASHINGTON (AP) Secretary of Agriculture Earl L. Butz, embattled over voicing an obscene racial slur, resigned today.

Butz himself announced his departure after meeting with President Ford in the Oval Office at the White House.

"I have just submitted my letter of resignation to the President, and he has accepted it," Butz told reporters in the press room.

"This was completely my own decision," he said. "It is what I and Mrs. Butz felt would be in the best interests of the President and his election campaign."

Butz declared that this was "the price I pay for a statement ... used in a private conversation."

Butz' return to the White House follows an official reprimand from the President on Friday and charges from Democratic presidential candidate Jimmy Carter that Ford displayed a lack of leadership by allowing Butz to stay on the job.

Before going to see Ford, Butz canceled a speaking engagement at Camp Hill, Pa., scheduled later in the day, according to Ford campaign aides in Pennsylvania. The speech was to be made instead by Assistant Secretary John Knebel, who would be acting secretary if Butz resigned.

An Agriculture Department source told The Associated Press today that the President had left it solely up to Butz.

Ford, meanwhile, was quoted as telling some black plant workers today that Butz was "merely telling a story" with the offensive language but had been punished "very severely" with Friday's reprimand.

Ford, Carter Schedule Dual Frisco Arrivals

WASHINGTON (AP) President Ford and his Democratic opponent, Jimmy Carter, arrive in San Francisco tonight to make final preparations for their debate on foreign policy on Wednesday.

Carter, vowing to be more aggressive than he was when the two men confronted each other over domestic issues 11 days ago, said he intends to charge that American foreign policy lacks morality and that Ford has abandoned its conduct.

A New York Times-CBS poll showed Carter ahead in states with 294 electoral votes, 24 more than needed to win. But it said his support was slipping in important states. A Gallup poll said Carter's lead had dwindled from 18 points this summer to eight now, 50 to 42 with 8 percent undecided. A Newsweek News Service survey said today states that had been in Carter's column were now undecided. And Time magazine reported a tightening race.

WASHINGTON (AP) — The two years of the 94th Congress saw headlines inspired more by scandals among its members, confrontations with a veto-wielding President and investigations than by legislative accomplishments.

But as time provides a longer perspective, the period that ended with adjournment last Friday may be seen as a turning point when the legislative branch began to turn against a century-long drift of power to the executive branch.

Using for the first time the budget procedures enacted by its previous Congress, the 94th took hold of the national budget as a whole, set spending and taxing goals and held them, and asserted against the President its own views of national priorities.

Previously, the executive branch had the initiative in setting overall goals, while the legislative branch merely approved individual pieces of legislation.

One Congress doesn't set a trend. But the next occupants of Capitol Hill and the White House will be watched to see whether a real shift of power within the federal government is under way.

Club Juana License Topic Of City Meet

The Casselberry City Council at its 7:30 meeting tonight will discuss whether to cancel the occupational license of Club Juana because of the nude go-go establishment's recent run-ins with the law.

Participants in a dancing act at the club, west of U.S. 17-92 and south of SR 436 and club owner Mike Pinter were recently acquitted of charges that the dancers exposed their sexual organs.

Other items on the agenda include authorization for Mayor Gerald Christensen to represent the city at the upcoming Florida League of Cities convention in Miami; authorization for advertisement of public hearing on the proposed new charter and a report from Acting City Manager Mary Hawthorne on increased compensation for her position.

In a workshop to follow the meeting, City Attorney Kenneth McIntosh will discuss legal points of the charter.

Barbara Walters Begins Earning Her $1 Million

NEW YORK (AP) — Barbara Walters begins earning her $1-million salary tonight, joining anchorman Harry Reasoner on the "ABC Evening News."

After considerable planning and rehearsal, Miss Walters and Reasoner officially begin their new partnership with a new set, a new format and a larger staff in an effort to move ABC up from third place in the evening news slot.

ABC expects a huge audience for Miss Walters' first regular newscast and hopes a large number of those who tune in out of curiosity will continue to watch in the future.

Miss Walters joined ABC for a seven-figure annual salary — the highest in TV news — after leaving NBC's "Today" show. In 15 years there, she had worked her way up from publicity worker to coanchorperson.

But he and Miss Walters have worked together preparing for today's debut, he says. He says he felt ABC was not giving him enough of a chance to build an audience on his own.

Itemizing Deductions Key Factor

By LOUISE COOK
Associated Press Writer

When you spend can sometimes be as important as what you spend in determining income tax deductions.

It is now too soon to start thinking about next April's tax bill, deciding whether you want to spend now or delay purchases until 1977.

The idea is to use the deductible expenses where they will do the most good. If you jump medical expenditures, charitable contributions, etc. into one period or the other, you may be able to cut your taxes by having itemized deductions greater than the standard allowance.

(The standard deduction currently is 16 per cent of adjusted gross income — after business expenses, but before most other deductions — with a maximum of $2,400 for single persons and $2,800 for married couples.)

Now, figure out whether there will be any big difference between your income this year and next. Deductions generally increase in value with the size of income. If, for example, you are paying 10 per cent of your taxable income in taxes, you save $10 for every $100 in deductions; if you earn more and are in the 25 per cent bracket, you cut $25 off your tax bill for every $100 in deductions.

If you expect your income to drop — because of retirement, for example — it probably pays to spend now so you can have the deductions for a year when your earnings are high. If you expect your income to rise — a new job, a working spouse — you may want to save the deductions.

Even if your income will remain about the same, timing can save money. Here's an example from the tax experts at Citibank, the nation's second largest commercial bank:

Assume that for both 1976 and 1977 you expect to qualify for the maximum standard deduction of $2,800. Your itemized deductions will probably run no more than $2,700 for either year. So at first glance it would appear that you would be better off settling for the
