Is student drug program really working?

Herald Staff Writer

SANFORD - Despite some controversy over how to go about educating children on the evils of drugs, local officials say the program is working.

Drug Abuse Resistance Education (DARE) is an excellent program in operation in Sanford and Lake Mary, police officials say, DARE is the nation's most popular drugeducation program offered in at least 60 percent of school districts nationwide, reaching 25 million youngsters here, and in 41 other countries. Even Chelsea Clinton is a graduate.

Some smaller cities would like to start a DARE program but say they can't afford it. Some of the larger ones however are dropping the programs saying they are too expensive to operate. Others say it is a lack of manpower.

"I don't agree with that way of thinking at all," said Sanford police Chief Ralph Russell. "The DARE program is a matter of education, and you can't put a dollar value on education. The DARE program, or anything else we can do is going to □See Druge, Page 5A

County spared from heavy storm damage

Staff and Wire Report

SANFORD - Seminole County was spared any serious damage from tropical storm Josephine Monday. The storm has now pushed its way northeast to the South Carolina area.

"All we had in Seminole County was the typical standing water from the rains." said the county's Emergency Management Coordinator Ken Roberts, "But there was no major damage reported (as of 8:30 this morning) and we didn't have to close any of the major roada."

The Agriculture Center weather station in Sanford reported 2.94 inches of rain fell on the area

Some twisters associated with the storm were reported in neighboring Volusia County however. One touched down in the Deltona area causing damage to several structures. Another was reported in Edgewater along the coast.

Across the state, other twisters were sighted Monday evening in the northwest countles of Taylor. Franklin and Wakulla, according to the weather service.

Tornadoes were reported in Hillsborough and Manatee counties in the Tampa Bay area of southwest Florida as well as Nassau, St. Johns, and Putnam counties in northeast Florida and Marion County in the SANFORD - An early morning accident on State Road 46 left one woman dead and east and west bound traffic in disarray for several hours.

According to a spokesperson at the Florida Highway Patrol, the accident occurred on the dark and rainsoaked road in unincorporated Seminole County just before sunrisc.

Though details were not readily available this morning, those at the accident scene reported that traffic was blocked in both directions while rescue workers tried to clear the scene.

The accident occured just before 7 a.m., the FHP said, when the woman who was killed pulled into the path of an oncoming truck just west of the entrance to Cameron Wight Park.

Rescue workers arrived on the scene almost immediately and tried to cut the woman from the vehicle. she was pronounced dead at the The accident involved two other

Search continues for deputy's assailant

From staff reports

LONGWOOD - While the search continues in areas near Longwood today for a person wanted in connection with the stabbing of a Seminole County sheriff's deputy early Saturday, the deputy was to be honored.

Sgt. Mike Weippert, said to be remaining in stable condition today was to be presented with the Sheriff's Office Purple Heart at Orlando Regional Medical Center this morning. Weippert reportedly sustained severe cuts to his face and underarm Saturday morning during a struggle with a suspect.

McDonough, Sgt. Weippert was checking the parking lot at Ramada Inn. on SR-434 near Longwood at approximately 1:45 a.m. Saturday when he noticed an unidentified man crouching behind two parked cars.

As Welppert approached the man, McDonough said he ran into the woods directly behind the motel, with the officer in pursuit.

About 20 yards into the woods, the suspect reportedly attacked the deputy with a four inchknife. Sgt. Weippert managed to draw his handgun and fire two rounds at the suspect but it is believed neither round struck the man.

After Sgt. Weippert was taken to ORMC. an all-out search was launched by sheriff's deputies from both Seminole and Orange counties, police from Altamonte Springs and the Florida Highway Patrol. Two helicopters and K-9 units were also called in.

McDonough said the suspect is a black male, six feet to six feet one inch tall, medium build, with medium afro haircut.

The sheriff's office has announced a reward of $5,000 to anyone who provides information which leads to the arrest and conviction of the suspect. In addition, CrimeLine has also offered a $1,000 reward for the same information.

Anyone with information is urged to phone the sheriff's office at 330-6650, or CrimeLine at 423-TIPS (8477).

Teen charged with murder

TALLAHASSEE — A teen-ager has been accused of fatally shooting a junior college student who had tried to act as a peacemaker when a dispute erupted during a party.

Alfonso Lucas Longver, 16, of Tallahassee was arrested late Sunday and charged him with second-degree murder for the slaying of Josy Kosson, 21, of Meunt Dora, during the early morning hours.

morning hours.

The victim was shot in the neck after he tried to calm Longver, who had been wielding a gun and threatening a group of people outside the party hosted by Florida State students at an apartment complex near campus.

Kosson, who did not know Longver, who was a student at Santa Fe Community College in Gainesville visiting Tallahassee for a football weekend.

Police arrested Longver based on information from witnesses and the license tag of the automobile in which he left the scene with two other individuals who were not charged.

Witnesses told police that Longver's friends had tried to pull him away from the conflict and leave, but he drew a handgun and pointed it at Kosson's head, officer J.B. Johnson wrote in a sworn statement.

"At this point, the victim reached for the weapon the defendant had aimed at him and a struggle ensued for the weapon," Johnson wrote.

They continued to struggle across a roadway and another shot was fired and the suspect fied, according to the statement.

Toddler drowns in bucket

CLEARWATER —. A toddler apparently drowned after toppling head first into a bucket of dirty cleaning water, intoppling head first into a bucket of dirty cleaning water, investigators said.

The child, Nadia Bunch, died Sunday afternoon. She was to celebrate her second birthday Friday.

"She was into everything," said Betty Andrews, the girl's great-grandmother. "She was just beginning to walk real good.

"She was just like a little butterfly, flitting here and there."

Investigators believe Nadia may have tried to reach for a blue sponge floating in the bucket, said Pinellas County Sheriff's Office spokeswoman Marianne Pasha.

Andrews said her grandson, Michael Harris, had forgotten to discard the cleaning water after mopping the kitchen floor.

Harris. 25, is the father of Nadia and her 1-month-old sister. He was caring for the children and their 7-year-old brother while their mother, Simone Bunch, 23, was at work, Andrews

The 7-year-old discovered Nadia, who was head first in the bucket, authorities said. Harris "rushed out and pulled her out and tried to do CPR," said Sheriff's Sgt. Larry Roach.

Nadia was taken by helicopter to Bayfront Medical Center, where she died. She is the second of Bunch's children to die in the home in the past 18 months, Pasha said.

And while Nadia's death appears to be an accident, Pasha said, it has focused new attention on an investigation into the death of Nadia's older sister, Gabrielle Bell, 2, who died at the home April 22, 1995.

Accidental hanging

ORLANDO — An S-year-old boy was found hanged in a garage where he had been playing with other children, and investigators said the death appeared accidental.

The youngster, Cassiell Chambers, died Sunday afternoon at the house where he lived near Orlando with his sunt and uncle, said Orange County sheriff's spokesman Michael Pagan.

The aunt and uncle were working and a 13-year-old cousin was watching the boy and three other children, Pagan said. There were no witnesses, he said, but the boy was discovered by other children. The child had a faint pulse when paramedics arrived, but he died at a hospital.

Drug charges at late-night club

SATELLITE BEACH — An undercover investigation resulted in a raid of a late-night club and the arrest of 27 young people, four of them teenagers, on drug dealing charges.

The Dimensions Nite Club in this Atlantic Coast community near Melbourne was shut down Sunday. State agents suspended its liquor license.

A six-week investigation showed that drug deals were made inside the club and completed in the parking lot on a regular basis, said Brevard County sheriff's spokeswoman Stacy Hall.

The trafficking involved cocaine, Valium, LSD, marijuana and Rohypnol.

Hall said deputies were searching for at least 10 more suspects in the case.

Living in a district

There has been some discussion in the press recently concerning whether or not a candidate for a seet on the county commission may qualify for a specific district seet and not reside in that Information I have obtained from the papervisor of registration, Sandy Court, to as takens. A person may qualify to run for a seat to the county commission and not, report not, be required at that time to be a resident of that

However, should that person be elected to perve on the county commission representing that district, he or she must immediately move into and live in that district.

Bringing back the best of our past

People who would like to go back to the "good old days" may not realize what they are wishing for. In the "good old days" a young couple couldn't strett through the park hotding hands without creating a seasiful of serie.

Today we wouldn't understand what

While the "good old days" may take us back farther than we want to go in some ways (we don't want to be reported to the paties for holding hands in the park), in other ways, it would be good to be able to turn back the calender.

But Dule's description of himself as a "bridge to the past" appealed to many people.

President Chaton missed the point when he answered Dule by saying he doesn't want to be a bridge to the past but a bridge to the future. The point Climton missed is this: Nestalgia for a past we love can be the best atimulus for creating a future that will resemble such a past.

Richard Goodwin got the point in his book "Remembering America." He recellects "what we were in the past in the hope that this can get us to see what we can be in the future."

The inte Bert Clemetti, the Yele schelar and commissioner of baseball, get the point. "Let us look back to the beginning of things," he said, "and there maybe find our proper ending" -- that is, our brightest and restest future.

Nostalgia, in other words, is more than a romantic longing for the big-band sounds of the '40s. It is a searching to recover a time that actually existed in our country.

Not to get needlessly graphic, but partial-birth abortion-which the congress seamed and which ban President Clinton vetect-describes the process by which the head of the fetus is cut or punctured and its contents drawn out so that the head will colleges enough to be pulled through the corvit. The question is why even pro-choice advocates couldn't bring themselves to say that such a procedure ought to be received for life-threatening altuations, not for elective abortions.

The answer is the alippery slope. Admit aquesmishness over partial-birth abortion, and the right-to-life growd will show you same pictures of earlier abortions in which the "bital tissue" looks unaettlingly habytike. If you acknowledge that 20 weeks is too late, how can you defend abortion at 19 weeks or 14 or nine or one?

Computer simulations help train surgeons, save lives

By PAUL RECER AP Science Writer

WASHINGTON - The night before a complex operation, a surgeon sits at a computer and "practices" the surgery time after time using high-fidelity pictures of the patient's actual diseased organ.

At a medical school, a student studies detailed images of muscles, bones and tiesue in a computer-driven simulation of a real cadaver. The student can dissect the body dosens of times and never leave a mark on the specimen.

Patients being screened for colon cancer are put through a CT scan instead of undergoing an uncomfortable invasive procedure. Images from the scan are processed through a computer. giving the doctor an inch-by-inch view of the colon without ever touching the patient.

All of these are examples of how medical science is now using the "computerized cadavers" created by the National Library of Medicine from the bodies of an executed murderer and of a Maryland woman who died of a heart attack.

The program, called the "Visible Human" project, enables medical workers sitting at ordinary computer screens to pull up detailed, high resolution images of any part of the human body. Using computer simulation, doctors and students can strip away the skin and electronically look at any body part.

The images can be can be turned, giving a 3D-like appearance. Cavities, such as the stomach, the colon or even the heart, can be taken apart, layer by layer, examined in precise detail and turned at any angle.

For students, it is a way to learn basic anatomy. For surgeons, it is a way to practice very difficult operations before they take up the scalpel and do it for real.

Dr. Steven Philips, a heart surgeon at the University of Iowa, said the computerized cadavers are "an exciting new medical tool that is limited only by human imagination in how it will be used."

Phillips said he is using the system to develop new surgical procedures that once he could perfect only through experiments with animals. Now, he said, the experiments are being per-

"It will become like a flight simulator for surgery." he said. "It will eliminate many surgical room mistakes and complications."

In one application of the digital bodies, a delicate machine that duplicates the "feel" of surgery is attached to a scalpel or to a needle and then linked to the computer program. A doctor can manipulate the instrument through the skin of a plastic-like body. The computer, using the anatomical facts from the "Visible Human" project, sends impulses through the instrument when it cuts through tissue, touches a beating blood vessel or encounters a bone.

"It feit like the real thing," said Phillips, "I could feel it pass through the muscle, and when it touched the spine I jumped."

At the Mayo Clinic, doctors have adapted the "Visible Mayor" date to Visible Williams."

"Visible Human" data to X-ray and CT scan data from actual patients. Images from the patients are incorporated into the basic data base so that the appearance of the individual's diseased organ is reproduced on the computer screen.

"They are learning the surgical landscape before they even perform the surgery," said the clinic's Richard A. Robb.

He said the experimental technique has been used successfully on 12 patients undergoing prostate cancer surgery, a procedure that is difficult and fraught with risks because of potential damage to nerves and blood vessels.

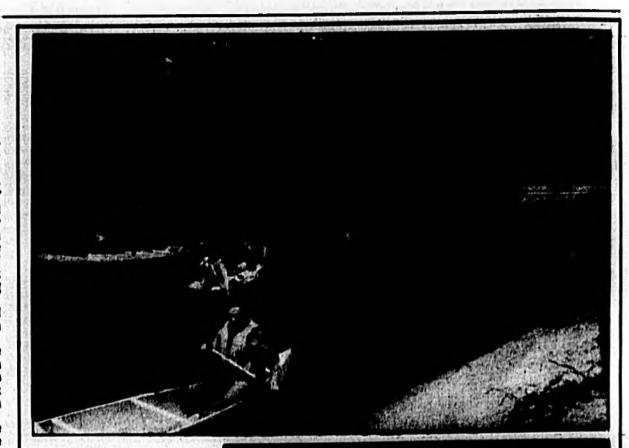

By studying computer-enhanced scans, said Robb, the surgeons could learn exactly where the cancer was in the prostate and how best to approach it surgically.

'It helps because the surgeons are confident of the anatomy they will encounter in surgery," he said. In other words: No surprises.

One river's trash

Depending on your point of view, the river clean-up along the Econlockhatchee Saturday, inside the Little Big Econ State Forest, was a big success. Volunteers from Boy Scout unit Order of the Arrow, shown here reaching the take-out point, apparently had no trouble finding plenty of debris to pull from the river during their four-hour cance trip. The garbage, collected along the way was not only of the typical can-and-bottle type, but also included a tire and wheel and a pair of shoes. State representative Tom Feeney, R-Oviedo, right, was on hand to help with the sorting and disposal of the garbage.

Parents not satisfied after school board changes harassment policy

Associated Press Writer

LEXINGTON, N.C. — The parents of a 6-year-old boy punished for kissing a girl were unimpressed, with the school board's vote to revise its sexual sent policy and threatened to sue. irate Jackie Prevette, mother of Johnathan Prevette, after the nine-member Lexington school board without discussion voted unanimously Monday night to give school officials more leeway in implementing the policy.

Her next move? "Legal action," she replied.

Johnathan, a first-grader, was separated from his class at Southwest Elementary School for a day and banned from an ice cream party after kissing a classmate last month.

"You need to change this policy so that it is age sppropriate and so that the punishment fits the crime," Mrs. Prevette told board members

"I do not think to this day that a kies on the cheek, whether the girl wanted it or not, had anything to do with sex. I think it was a friendly kies," Mrs.

Prevette said.
"I've asked Johnsthan several times why he did it, and his answer was, 'She is my friend.' I think to this day that they are friends.

The board approved a new subsection, titled "Appropriate Behavior in the Elementary Grades," in the student hand-

Student-to-student sexual herasement policy shall not be applied in the case of young students unless it clearly appears that there is an intent on the part of the students to engage in harassment of a sexual nature.

"In the absence of such intent, rules which forbid other forms of personal contact or interference should be considered and applied if appropriate."

Scientists discovering U.S. AIDS more diverse than thought

By LAURAN NEERGAARG Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON - When France first sounded the alarm in 1994 that an exotic, hardto-diagnose strain of AIDS was spreading, doctors here were not too worried — until they found the first U.S. case in July.

Just three months later, scientists now say the AIDS epidemic is far more diverse than they had realized.

Researchers have uncovered a second U.S. resident infected with this rare type of HIV named Group O, as well some New Yorkers with signs of still different AIDS strains never before seen in this country.

The findings sent federal doctors accouring the globe for viral strains to ensure that U.S. AIDS tests are good enough to catch every type. "We will now treat these problems as a global village: A case anywhere is a case here. and we will move more quickly" to battle them, said Dr. Jay Epstein, the Food and Drug Administration's blood chief.

AIDS symptoms appear simi-lar worldwide even though the HIV virus is genetically different from country to country. Tests to detect HIV are designed to recognize a region's most recognize a region's most common strains. The concern is whether they'll also catch any rare foreign strains.

Take the HIV type named Group O, thought to lurk only in West Africa until a French woman was diagnosed in 1994. Doctors did not find the first U.S. case until July — a Los Angeles woman whose infection had gone undiagnosed by routine AIDS tests, which miss Group O once in every five cases. Late last month, Abbott Laboratories filed an FDA ap-plication to sell the nation's first upgraded AIDS test designed to better catch Group O infections - just as federal health officials discovered a second Group O case, this one in Maryland. Both Group O patients apparently were infected in their native West Africa, said Dr. Patrick Sullivan of the Centers for Disease Control and Prevention, who is testing dozens of high-risk patients to determine how prevalent the etrain is. More disturbing, the CDC is country - not before immigrating here or while traveling

The CDC genetically tested 43 newly diagnosed AIDS patients from Bronx-Lebanon Hospital Center last spring. Eight pa-tients, an unexpectedly high 18 percent of those tested, had strains different from the sub-type B that is responsible for North America's AIDS spidemic. Preliminary test results in-dicate six patients have HIV dicate six patients have HIV subtypes A or C normally found in Africa, CDC epidemiologist Dr. Kathleen Irwin said in an interview last week. One has a Thailand version of subtype B never before found in a U.S. resident, and the eighth patient has a strain so unique the CDC's tests have not yet recognised it, said Irwin, who is finishing more sophisticated research to confirm the results.

At least one of the patients, who was born in the United States and has never traveled abroad, had to have caught the foreign strain here, she said.

Sheriff denies knowledge of CIA involvement in drug ring

Dy Diffee LAMBROPOUS Associated Press Writer

LOS ANGELES - Sheriff Sherman Block said Monday that his department had no knowledge of purported CIA involvement in a cocaine distribution operation his dep-uties raided in 1986.

Block acknowledged that investigators suspected the ring was selling large quantities of cocaine in the Los Angeles area and funneling the proceeds to Nicaraguan rebels.

"Never at any time did we try to conceal that fact, and nothing we've obtained then or now would indicate any knowledge of invelvement by the CIA." the sheriff said.

Rep. Maxine Waters, D-Los Angeles, suggested Monday that the Sheriff's Department may have been aware of a CIA link. She said the alleged ringleader, Oscar Danilo Blandon, and another man were targeted in a drug raid in 1986, when Blan-don was a civilian leader of the CIA-run Contras.

Waters cited a search warrant affidavit in which an informant told deputies that Blandon had "up to 20 kilos of cocaine per week delivered" to a distributor. "who in turn sells mainly to blacks living in the South Central Los Angeles area."

A second warrant was served at the home of Rosald Lester, who told the deputies: "You can't arrest me, I work with the CIA." Waters said, citing sheriff's documents.

Block said his department never confirmed that Lester worked for the CIA.

"People claim all sorts of things, but that's irrelevant," he said.

The information Waters presented first was presented six years ago in a motion filed by attorney Heriand W. Braun in an apparently unrelated case. At that time, Braun was defending one of several shortff's deputies accused of akimming drug money and filing false tax returns.

Johnson sacks safety

DAVIE - Gene Atkins' sometimes tumultuous stay with Miami ended Monday when he was released by Jimmy Johnson after allowing Seattle to score two touchdowns.

Johnson tried to downplay Atkins' diamiseal, saying he wanted to promote rookie Shawn Wooden and that Sunday's 22-15 lose to the Seahawka was not the fault of one player. Nevertheless, Johnson sent a signal to his players he expects better or else.

Atkina' release was the second surprise move in a week. He waived fullback-turned-tight end Keith Byars, another player who didn't fit in with Johnson's vision for the Dolphins.

The 5-11, 201-pound Atkins had been praised during the presenson, but his trouble in communicating plays and blowing key coverages continued from a poor 1995 season.

Last year, Atkins argued with Don Shula during a game against New England, threatened to sit out if a teammate didn't start, and purposely plowed over a reporter at practice because he disliked an article.

Tribe boys overcome shaky start for SAC win

From Staff Reports

SANFORD - The Seminole High School boys volleyball team continued its mid-season surge and picked up a first in school history in the process Monday night at Bill Fleming Memorial Gymnasium.

The Fighting Seminoles gave away the first game, then got their act together and turned on the jets to casily dispose of the Lake Howell Silver Hawks 14-16, 15-8, 15-7 in a Seminole Athletic Conference matchup. The victory was the first ever in history for Seminole over Lake Howell in boys' volleybáll.

The Tribe has now won five of six matches to raise their record to 8-6.

'In the first game we led Lake Howell 14-12, but did not take care of business and they came back to beat us." said Seminole head coach Bill Whalen, who is in his first year at Seminole after an ultra successful career at Lake Mary. "In the second and third game, however, we jumped on them early and pretty much dominated the match from that point on.

'We had them down 13-3 in the second game before they scored five straight points to close to within 13-8. In the third game we led from the start and controlled the final game."

Leading the way statistically for the Fighting Seminoles were Greg Pegram (12 kills, six blocks). Sean Whitman (12 kills, three blocks). Tory Carli (eight kills, one block), David Fritts (seven kills, three blocks). David Campbell (six kills, one block) and Erick Ho (six kills).

"The last few last few matches we have done a very good job of spreading it (the attack) out among the front line," said Whalen. "We're getting good performances out of all six hitters and that makes us a better balanced team and hopefully, a harder team to defend."

Monday's match was the first of four this week for Seminole. On Wednesday night, the Fighting Seminoles will travel to Lake Mary High School for an important SAC matchup with the Rams, which easily defeated Oviedo in two games Monday night to avenge an early season loss and moved into a tie for first place in the SAC with the Lions. The junior varsity match starts at 6 p.m. with the varsity set to begin at 7 p.m.

Seminole then returns home to Bill Fleming Memorial Gymnasium on Thursday to take on Jean Vanier from Toronto, Canada. The varsity only match starts at 6 p.m.

The Fighting Seminoles will then finish the week by competing in the Patriot Power Tour-nament on Saturday at Lake Brantley High

"It was a good night for us," said Whalen, "We were a little shaky to begin with, then played strong. I was very pleased with our performance.

"Now we get to take on Lake Mary and it's a challenge we are looking forward to."

We is and Crunchers atop AAA standings

From Staff Reports

LAKE MARY - Neither wind. nor rain, nor gloom of night no wait that's the post office.

Despite a day of beavy rain, the AAA Fall Co-Ed Slowpitch Softball League was able to get in all three games at the Lake Mary Sports Complex last Thursday night.

We Is knocked the Crunchers out of the ranks of the unbeaten and threw the standings into a virtually three-way tie for first place.

We is used four hits, a walk and three Crunchers errors to score six second inning runs to break a 1-1 tle and went on to an easy 14-5

The Crunchers then looked like it might suffer a doubleheader loss in the second game when Map Attack took a 6-2 lead in the top of the second inning.

But the Crunchers righted themselves in the bottom of the second inning, scoring eight runs and going on to a 16-6 victory. In the late game, Sweat Sox moved into title contention, scoring 14 runs in the second inning and going on to a 21-2 beating of Triple The Crunchers and We Is are both

Revenge is sweet for Rams

From Staff Reports

LAKE MARY - There have been few, if any, times over the years that you could mention revenge or second place and the Lake Mary boys volleyball team in the same sentence.

But that was just the case Monday night as the Rams were looking to extract a little revenge and also get back into a tie for the Seminole Athletic Conference lead when they welcomed the Oviedo Lions to Lake Mary High School.

And the Rams got that measure of revenge as they handly disposed of the Lions in two straight games, 15-7, 15-9, to move into a shaore of the SAC leadership with Oviedo.

"We lost to Oviedo earlier in the season," said first-year Lake Mary head coach Jeannie Fisher. "And it was our only loss of the season, so we did get some revenge. Overall, we got very good team play tonight."

The junior varsity preliminary match also went to the Rams, but the younger Lake Mary players struggled a

Spencer plans to be himself, not Shaquille

By PRED GOODALL AP Sports Writer

ORLANDO - Felton Spencer figures the best way he can help the Orlando Magic is by not trying to be Shaquille O'Neal. A seven-point career scorer in six NBA sessons. Spencer doesn't have any illusions about being able to replace the 27 points and 13 rebounds per game that Shaq averaged before defecting to the Los Angeles Lakers. Instead, the 7-foot center is interested in rebounding and playing solid defense while staying out on the way on offense, where Anfernee Hardaway, Dennis Scott and Nick Anderson are confident they can pick up the scoring slack.

"He already has the right at-titude," said Scott. "He's not going to try to come in here and be something he's not. That means he's a smart player upstairs."

With the exception of a 22-game, stretch at the beginning of last season, O'Neal was the focal point of Orlando's offense for four years. And even though the team went 17-5 with its leading scorer sidelined with a broken thumb, it will be difficult to sustain that kind of success over an 82-game schedule.

That's unless Spencer, who averaged five points and four rebounds for Utah last season, and an experienced backup (yet to be found) can deliver exactly what the Magic need from the center spot.

There are a lot of doom and gloomers out there who think: 'Oh. the Magic. There's no way they can do anything this year. They're not going to be successful. We've got an opportunity to show to them and ourselves that we're a lot more talented than that," Spencer said. "I see my role a lot like it was in Utah. They want me to come in and play defense, do a good job rebounding, try to take up space in the middle ... just play hard, night in and night out.'

O'Neal's decision to sign a $120 million contract with the Lakers was only the start of Orlando's frontcourt problems.

Jon Koncak suffered a seasonending knee injury last month and Spencer, obtained in a trade in August, suffered an eye injury on the opening day of training camp that will sideline him two weeks.

Among the free agent centers general manager John Gabriel has considered signing to come off the bench are Danny Schayes and Oliver Miller, who has been offered the $550,000 injury exception slot the Magic received because of the loss of Koncak.

"I just think it's important that we try to bring somebody in that has some experience, that can give us 10 to 12 quality minutes," coach Brian Hill said. "If we can do that, we have a chance of being much more successful.

Spencer isn't making any predictions about how well he or the Magic will play this winter. But he does know he won't be able to escape comparisons to O'Neal.

"People are always going to try to analyze and say: Well, Shaquille did that, Felton does this. Shaquille does this, Felton did that.' It doesn't bother me because I'm comfortable with who I am and what I can do on the floor," the 28-year-old center esid.

"I know what my abilities are. I'm not Shaquille and I'm not trying to be Shaquille. I'm going to go out there and play hard, do what the coaches ask of me and try to help this team be successful."

LONGWOOD — Cathy Lodding shared that her goal and desires in life stem from her love of helping others. This affection is exhibited frequently through her numerous volunteer outreach efforts.

Being retired and a widow, Lodding, has found that by helping others she is also helping herself. "I try to do something to make comeane clas a little happier," she said. "I love working with children. I want to make comeane clar's life a little happier and a little caster. Volunteering to such a rewarding job."

Loading has been retired since 1978. She farmerly worked with a police department while living in New York. She moved to Deltena after retiring and then relocated to Longwood and has now been there for 25 years.

When she first relocated to

When she first released to Longwood, Lodding volunteered assisting in the office at the Longwood Police Department. "I worked once a week for a half day," she said. "I helped with filing and other clerical work."

A real love was cited as her work with the Longwood Elementary School. "I work very Thursday morning with the fifth grade class." she said. "I wouldn't give up this work for anything. The kide are great. Sometimes I work from 7:30 to 8 a.m. and stay until about 11:30 a.m. to 13 noon." a.m. to 12 noon.

As if this little lady isn't busy enough she also volunteers weekly at the South Seminole Christian Sharing Center. "I work every Thursday afternoon," she said. "I so in at about 1 p.m. and work until 4 p.m. I tag clothes and price Lodding is also active in the Norwegian Club. Although she is not Norwegian she said the

An added bonus to her fury of activity has been a tranquil park she created many years ago. She has kept the little hide-away as a sort of memorial for those who wish to decorate and admire it.

"The Longwood City Com-mission put a fence around it some time ago," she said. "In 1987 the Longwood mayor dedicated the park. It has a sycamore tree in it and assisse. The kide call it a 'leoking park.' I buy decorations and I let them put them up. At Easter time a girl scout troop decorated it with bunnies and other Easter things.

When Lodding ion't helping others she does enjoy some time to herself. "I like to do crafts at home," she said. "I experiment with paints. I decorate shells,

Lovebugs just love Florida

the publication ENY-313. Lovebuga in Florida, by L.C. Kuitert and E. Short.

Lovebugs are small black flies with red thoraxes. Males with red thoraxes. Males measure about 1/4 inch long while the females measure about 1/3 inch in length. They belong to a group of flies which are commonly known as March flies, several of which are native to Florida. Lovebugs are not native to Florida. Lovebugs are not native to Florida, they were first reported in the State in 1947 in Eacambia County. By 1984-88 they were reported in Alachum and Marion counties and by, 1974 they were found in Homostoad. Teday, they are found all over the State of Florids.

Life cycle: Female lovebugs lay as many as 350 eggs which are deposited beneath decaying vegetation. Larvae feed on decaying plant material and live on the soil surface just beneath the decaying organic matter.

Larvae perform a beneficial, function by converting the plant material into organic components which can be used by the plants. After larvae mature, they transform into pupes; which last from 7 to 10 days. Adult lovebugs are harmless and do not sting or bite. They feed

Biological control: Certain bird predators such as robins have been known to feed on lovebug larvae. Under laboratory conditions, earwigs, two species of beetle larvae and a centipede have also been found to feed on lovebug larvae. Armadillos are also betieved to feed on lovebugs but no definite proofs are but no definite proofs are available to date in this me Nuisance to motorists:

the insects spatter on the windshields and grills of moving trucks and automobiles. Windshields become covered with the fatty remains and vision is obscured. During flights, the flies clog radiator fine causing cars to overheat. The fatty tissue will cause pitting of the car's finish if it is not removed within finish if it is not removed within a few days. Spattered bugs should be washed off the car as soon as possible. Lovebugs are more easily removed, and the chance to demanded the car's better to be a few or to be the car's better to be a few or to be the car are to be a few or to be the finish will often be permanently demanded. Sustains for erveral missions with water and in their removal. When levebugs are numerous, some motories spread a light film of baby of over the front of the hood, above the windshield and on the grill the windshield and on the grill and bumper. This practice will make their removal a much simpler operator. A large screen placed in the front of the grill will keep the radiator fine from closing, and will protect the finish on the front of the car. Lovebuge are not active at night, motoriets can avoid them by traveling during the night.
