Appeal to be heard Monday

SANFORD - A hearing is scheduled for Monday morning to consider the appeal of former state attorney's investigator Roger Webb which will include testimony from two local tavern employees. Webb is appealing State Attorney Norm Wolfinger's refusal to pay unemployment compensation following Webb's October firing for drinking while on duty.

Chief prosecutor Wayne Holmes said two bar employees along with several state attorney's employees will be called to testify in the hearing at the state unemployment compensation office. Holmes said at least three witnesses will be called to testify they saw Webb drinking on Webb denies he was drinking on duty and said his firing was politically-motivated. "I have not violated any procedures whatsoever," said Webb. If he loses the administrative appeal. Webb said he is prepared to take his appeal to the judicial appeal process. Webb is represented by Bob Fisher, a former Wolfinger prosecutor who left in 1990 to form a private practice with two fellow Wolfinger prosecutors. Jeff Deen and Steve Laurence.

Humane Bodiety benefits

ALTAMONTE SPRINGS - Something good did come out of a radio station's Groundling Day stunt that created an uproar among listeners a Humane Society shelter got a $1,000 check and promise of more donations.

Two announcers at WXXL-FM provoked hundreds of angry calls with their joke about setting an opossum loose to see if it could cross a busy, high-speed road without getting hit by a

If the animal did so, they said, it would mean that spring was on the way to Central Florida. There was never any intent to get an opossum out on the highway, said deejays Doc Holliday and Johnny Magie - but only after the furor had died down.

Callers clogged the lines at the station and at the Humane Society of Seminole County after Holliday and Magic realistically described what they were doing. Other employees and managers at the radio station were aghast. Holliday and Magic, amazed that their elaborate joke had been taken so seriously, begged forgiveness from their listeners Thursday and presented a $1,000 check from the station to

Barry Black, director of the Humane Society. A newscaster, Deborah Roberts, was so incensed over the broadcast she cursed at her colleagues over an open microphone and walked out without delivering the news. The station's program manager, Adam Cook, yanked the deejays off the air and finished their program. Even the sheriff's department sent a deputy to the scene to see whether an animal had been turned loose on the road.

"I thought they fully intended to do it," said sheriff's spokesman Ed McDonough. "It sounded real to me."

But the situation was back to normal Thursday and Friday.

Two-clerk law: Less crime in convenience stores

By SANDRA ELLIOTT Herald Staff Writer

SANFORD - Late night robberies of convenience stores have declined significantly in the years since laws were enacted requiring at least two clerks on late night and early morning shifts or other safety measures.

Sanford was considering a two-clerk ordinance in 1989 when Herbert Malcomb Allen, 48, was stabbed to death at the Circle K store at 1806 W. First Street on Nov. 11. The city ordinance was scheduled for first reading Nov. 27.

Representatives of convenience store trade changed the time to 11 p.m. until 5 a.m. organizations and chains lobbled against the ordinance which was patterned after a three-year old Gainesville ordinance. Sanford adopted its ordinance in December, 1989.

The Sanford ordinance and similar ones adopted by the county and other cities were superceded by a Florida law aimed at establishing a statewide uniform standard. The city ordinance required two clerks on duty from 8 p.m. until 4 a.m., while the county required the double staffing from 9 p.m. until 5 a.m. The state law

According to city police statistics, there were nine armed robberies of convenience stores in 1989; 10 in 1990; three in 1991; eight in 1992 and three in 1993. Sanford Police Commander Dennis Whitmire noted the state statute was in place in 1992 which required two clerks on duty between 11 p.m. and 5 a.m. Only two of the robberies in 1992 occurred after 11 p.m. and a third occurred just two minutes before 11 p.m. Disce Robbery, Page 5A

Take a trip back to turn of the century

"The ratiroad butlders such as Henry Flagler and Henry Plant were extending their tracks to the south and west coasts of Florida. They built luxury hotels to attract northern visitors to our warm winter climate and sandy beaches. This rapid growth was in the 1880s. 1890s and early 1900s. The ratiroads caused a boom in Florida's phosphate industry both for domestic and export trade. Other industries were moving into the new frontier. Out of the Carolinas and Georgia came men of experience in timber, saw mills and turpentine. Florida had vast forests of virgin pine and cypress. Also, free land for homesteading, 160-acre plats. So urgent was the need for experienced workmen in timber and turpentine, recruiters were sent to Georgia and the Carolinas to encourage men to move to Florida and work in these industries."

Proposed gun ordinance irks some JACKSONVILLE - A proposed city ordinance that would regulate sales at gun shows at the Civic Auditorium in Jacksonville has drawn protests from a gun show promoter who says it is illegal.

The city counters that it can regulate what happens on its

The proposed ordinance, which would ban sales of handguns on city property by unlicensed sellers, is intended to make purchases more difficult for felons, those under 21 and others wanting to avoid background checks and a three-day waiting

Bob Smith, who has scheduled four gun shows at the auditorium over the next seven months, said the proposal violates a 1987 Florida statute that prohibits cities and counties from writing gun laws.

"It's crystal clear," Smith said. "I've got half a dozen attorneys ready to jump on this thing."

City Assistant Counsel Stephen Durden said the state statute clearly prevents the city from passing a city-wide law or amending zoning in an effort to regulate guns, but it does not necessarily prohibit the city from placing restrictions on city-owned property it rents.

"My view is that it's city property and we don't have to rent it to anybody if we don't want to," said Durden, adding the court would be the ultimate authority. "I've told the City Council members that I don't know if we're preempted by state law or

A similar restriction at the Tampa Fairgrounds has gone unchallenged. Durden said he knows of no such restriction having been challenged in court, so there is no legal precedent.

Problem grounds Titan 4 rocket

CAPE CANAVERAL - The launch of a Titan 4 rocket with a military communications satellite was delayed at the last minute Saturday because of questionable pressure readings in a navigation unit.

The Air Force rescheduled liftoff for 4:46 p.m. EST Monday.

Launch officials held the countdown at the one-minute mark while assessing the problem and eventually called off all efforts for the day. Engineers were analyzing the computer link to the on-board guidance unit. A software problem could be easily fixed, while trouble with the unit itself would be much more

There have been no launches of the Titan 4, the nation's most powerful unmanned rocket, from Cape Canaveral since 1990. This would have been the eighth launch of a Titan 4 and the first launch of a $1 billion Milstar satellite.

The last launch of a Titan 4, from Vandenberg Air Force Base in California last summer, ended in an explosion. The accident was blamed on a faulty booster repair.

Oil companies target of price probe

WEST PALM BEACH - South Florida's high gasoline prices may be no fluke but a result of illegal practices by major oil companies. Attorney General Bob Butterworth says.

After hearing statements from three gasoline retailers at a conference on Friday with Palm Beach County officials, Butterworth announced he has subpoenaed oil company records in response to price-fixing allegations and complaints by independent dealers.

The complaints center on oil companies using predatory pricing to drive independents out of business, reduce competition and inflate prices.

Butterworth said his office subpoena more records soon. He would not say which companies are being investigated. One major retailer denied the allegations.

Lake Mary OKs special commission election

By NICK PPEIFAUF Herald Staff Writer

LAKE MARY - A special election has been formally approved for Lake Mary. It is to fill the seat 4 commission seat formerly occupied by A.R.

Jore, who passed away January 27, leaves an unexpired term of office through 1995. A successor will assume the remainder of the current term.

City Manager John Litton and City Clerk Carol Foster studied the city charter and obtained approval from the city attorney before presenting an emergency ordinance to the commission Thursday evening.

The ordinance passed as presented, with a unanimous vote.

In Lake Mary, a candidate is not required to live in a specific district.

A qualifying period has been set up beginning at noon, Monday, Feb. 21, and concluding at noon, Friday, Feb. 25. The qualifying fee is $25 for a commission seat, plus 1.5 percent election assessment which goes to the state. With the $72 assessment, the total cost is $97.

In the event only one candidate qualifies, there would be no election, and that person would automatically become city commissioner. The swearing in would take place at the March 3 commission meeting.

If more than one person qualifies, the election date has been set for Tuesday. March 29. In the event no candidate receives a majority vote at that election, the city charter calls for a run-off election, which would be held April 19th.

In either case, the city charter requires a swearing in within seven days of the certification of the election results.

Campaign treasurers' reports would have to be filed for candidates by 5 p.m. March 11 and Friday, March 25.

As part of his service on the Lake Mary City Commission. Jore served as the city's representative to CALNO, the Council of Local Governments.

During Thursday night's Lake Mary meeting.

Commissioner Gary Brender volunteered and was unantmously elected to represent the city on CALNO. He will also assume Jore's position as secretary for CALNO. In an unrelated matter, commissioners set up their annual strategic planning session. It was originally scheduled for this past week, but was cancelled following Jore's death. It has now been set for 3 p.m., Thursday, Feb.

10, at AAA headquarters in Heathrow. Mayor Lowry Rocket told the audience at the commission meeting, and those watching on cable TV, that any person who intends to qualify to run for election to the city commission is not only welcome, but urged to attend the planning

Lawmaker urges castration for repeat rapists

By The Associated Press

TALLAHASSEE - Saying nothing else has worked to stem the tide of sexual attacks, a state lawmaker is proposing castration for repeat rapists.

Sen. Robert Wexler, D-Boca Raton, admits the bill he has filed will likely be dubbed "the Lorena Bobbitt bill," after the Virginia woman who severed her husband's penis. But he insists the idea is no joke.

'Rape is increasing more drastically than other violent offenses, and there are estimates that as many as two-thirds of the rapes in this country go un-reported," he said. "Nothing seems to be working. Rapists just continue to rape. We have to have a shock value."

Under his bill, filed for the legislative session that begins Tuesday, rapists would be castrated after their second conviction.

"It's ludicrous." said Siobhan McLaughlin, president of the Florida chapter of the National Organization for Women. "Rape is a crime of violence, not a sex crime. The weapon is sex. Castrating rapists will not cut down on the incidence of rape."

The American Civil Liberties Union is equally outraged by the Castration as a punishment for rape is not a new idea. Sen. Helen Gordon Davis, a Tampa Democrat, falled to get lawmakers to adopt a similar measure a decade ago. Thomas Jefferson authored a similar bill for the Virginia Legislature in the late 1700s and the U.S. Supreme Court has thrown out an Oklahoma law that required castration of rapists to avoid the proliferation of "bad genes."

Wexler believes his proposed punishment is not only justifiable but constitutional.

"No Florida court has ever spoken to it," he said. "A court may weigh the social and psychological ramifications, and the recurrence rate of the perpetrators, and say it's not cruel and unusual punishment."

Wexler admits his proposal is "an extreme punishment." He expects controversy. But it would not be his only fight. He is bracing for a battle over his proposals to limit busing for public school children and to teach morals in school.

Wexler believes he has the support to pass the castration bill. It is scheduled to be heard by the Senate Criminal Justice Committee in the second week of the legislative session.

Elementary school girl accuses her dad of giving her cocaine

By The Associated Press

LAKE WORTH, Fla. - An elementary school student praised for turning in cocaine supposedly found on her way to school now says she brought it from home and accused her father of being a drug dealer.

Palm Beach County Sheriff's deputies, responding to the claim of the 10-year-old student at Palm Springs Elementary, found five cocaine rocks on a window sill outside her home, Sheriff's Capt. John McGuire said Friday. But the deputies, armed with a search warrant.

found no drugs inside her Lake Worth area home. Her parents denied any ties to the cocaine, McGuire said. The girl's father said the cocaine rocks the girl found belonged to a dealer who stashes his was unsuccessful at it. He bought $80 worth of cocaine rocks and gave them to someone else to sell but never got any money back, he said.

His daughter turned him in out of concern, the man said.

After the search on Thursday, the Florida Department of Health and Rehabilitative Services took custody of the girl and her 5-year-old sister.

McGuire said. The girl's father said he will not hurt his daughter and he and his wife, a nurse's aide, want their daughters back.

No charges have been filed in the case.

Unfortunately, Robocop is not a member of the Sanford Police Department. Neither Superman nor Batman are Seminole County sheriff's deputies.

If we had such crime-solvers, criminal investigations would certainly be easier. But even though our local law enforcement officers are well trained in the mechanics of their trade, they cannot be expected to solve everything by themselves.

Recently, sheriff's deputies staged a pamphlet hand-out on Lake Mary Boulevard near the Bayhead Racquet Club. They were seeking passing motorists' help in solving the shooting death two weeks ago of 19-year-old Samuel David Huffstutler.

Although no immediate response was received. Sheriff's spokesman Ed McDonough reported receiving four phoned-in tips that same evening. "We feel certain the pamphlets helped." he said. "because we didn't get any tips until we handed them out."

Sanferd police meanwhile, are investigating a number of cases, including the armed robbery of the Holiday Inn Monday night, and the armed robbery of a convenience store on W. 13th Street, that same evening.

Someone may have seen the events in progress, or noticed something suspicious going on at those locations. Yet the public remains silent. If anyone saw something which may be valuable in solving either of these crimes, nothing is being said.

Robocop and Superman are fictitious characters. Our local law enforcement officers are real. They can't do everything. They need Telling the police about something you may have seen or suspected doesn't make you a stoolle or a snoop. It makes you a vital part of what must be a combined effort to help combat crime.

Taxes, taxes, taxes

Seminole County is reviewing impact fees (taxes). History demonstrates that when government reviews taxes it is generally for the purpose of raising them.

History shows also that developers have often been carpetbaggers who come into an area, build. and move on with their profit. Too often they have left behind problems such as drainage, traffic, and overloaded classrooms. These problems are then paid for with an additional tax burden.

With the above in mind, impact fees (taxes) may well have been the most fair way to pay for growth

But wait: Since the "appraisal for tax purposes" now includes an inflated value...the buyer must now pay a higher price and higher taxes!

But wait: Since "appraisals for tax purposes" are based on area home values...the taxes have now been raised on "all" the homes in the area!

The government has now extracted more taxes not just from the new home buyer, but also from all those around him!

We voters, to decide how deep we wish government to intercede into our lives, deserve to be informed on the "full impact" of that intercession!

Leash law

In my neighborhood a 5-year-old child was bitten in the side by a dog. A 9-year-old was hurt and could have easily been drowned by a dog. Many elderly and young have been chased, barked at. and snapped at while they walk or bicycle. A woman at her mail box was charged at by a barking dog while the dog owners watched and didnothing to stop it. A dog jumped through a screen door and the owner didn't even offer to fix it. One dog, weighing over 100 pounds, almost knocked down a woman while the owner explained how "harmless" the dog was. We have all cleaned up turned over garbage cans and droppings. Some of the dogs do not wear tags or have current licenses or shots, but they run loose. On the other hand, we have dogs that spend their days in the street and sooner or later a vehicle is not going to see them in

The Seminole County leash law does not pertain solely to "bad" dogs, it pertains to all dogs. It was supposedly a "nice" dog that almost drowned the 9-year-old child. The Jaw was written to protect the dogs as well as the people.

The inevitable is going to happen here. Someone is going to be injured and a perfectly good dog is going to be put to sleep all because of the irresponsbility of the dog owner. I cannot believe that anyone wants to see that happen.

Please be a responsible dog owner. If you are unfamiliar with the leash law, call the Seminole County Animal Control and if you don't know how to take care of your dog, call the Humane Society. They will be glad to help you.

Thoughts on Black History Month

The entire month of February is Black/African-American History Month. History is that branch of knowledge that "records and explains past events as steps in the sequence of human activities." History is important to people because it is their connection with past events and their progenitors. Comprehension of the present, contemplation of the future is dependent upon understanding of the past.

History is written by individuals and differs in consonance with the experiences of the recorder. Certainly an account of a particular period in history written by a slave owner would differ from one written by a slave. Dates and places would be constant but the interpretation of events occurring on those dates and in theoe places would reflect the recorder's perspective. Carter G. Woodson, an eminent black historian, devoted his life to raising the awareness of African Americans and other Americans to black history. He is credited with having initiated African-American History Week, which has now expanded to a month.

During Woodson's lifetime there was a dearth of information about Africa and the presence of African-Americans in the history books of this land. Woodson noted that the education provided encouraged blacks to admire Hebrew, Greek and Latin but excluded Africa. This failure to include African culture relegated it to an unimportant status. Hence, persons of African descent suffered the same fate. They were not afforded a "place of dignity and purpose in America."

Woodson research relative to Negroes was extensive. Among the topics studied were: Negro slave owners. Negro wage earners and Negro thought during the Civil War. He criticized educated Negroes for separating themselves from other Negroes and mimicing white culture.

Woodson was convinced that education was a paramount necessity for blacks. The true measure of education was employment. This observation of education leading to employment is as pertinent today as it was when Woodson made it. The diminishing job market and the technological revolution demand and educated population. Yet at the same time there is a pervasive disinterest in education displayed by many youth. In addition, there seems to be a devaluing of life, a purposelessness of life and a lack of connection with society evidenced by many youth. Is this a phenomenon of poverty race or age? If the chief contributor to societal ills is poverty, then how much does race determine a person's poverty level? According to Woodson, if a black face is viewed as a curse and the possibility of change as hopeless, "It kills one's asptrations and dooms him to vagabondage and

The celebration of African-American History Month calls for a rededication of our efforts to ensure that education provides each child with an employable skill. There are very, very few people who cannot learn some skill.

A black face is not a curse, unless one believes It is. The reality is that prejudice continues to exist in America. However, God knew what he was doing when he made humanity different shapes sizes and colors and I accept the fact that He is in charge of the universe and our destinies.

Don't like it? Change things

WASHINGTON - The fact that Karen Nussbaum began her career at Harvard is not exactly unique. There are enough Harvard people in the high ranks of any administration to form their own Crimson think tank.

What is different about the new director of the Women's Bureau of the Departmentof Labor is that her Harvard days were spent as a secretary majoring in the lot of clerical workers. She "graduated" to found 9 to 5, the national organization for office workers that was immortalized in the namesake movie.

So if the 42-year-old director is still a bit surprised to find herself ensconced in a corner office of the Labor Department this lcy winter day, it's because, she says, "I never had career goals. And being in government wasn't even among the career goals that I didn't have."

Nevertheless, for those who are looking for symbols of the changing of the guard in Washington try these:

The secretary of labor, Robert Reich, is a man whose consciousness was raised through the roof by his own wife's experiences and her successful settlement of a sex discrimination claim. His choice to head the Women's Bureau was a former grass-root organizer for the rights of working women.

The bureau was founded back in 1920 "to promote the welfare of wage-earning women" during an era when people associated the words women and labor with one thing:

Today women are very much a part of the work force. But the bureau which was marginalized during th Reagan-Bush years is being mobilized again as a special advocate for women. Under Nussbaum's leadership it is concentrating on the mainstream earning women" in its original mandate.

Since she took over last summer, she has been listening to working women. She's talked with garment workers and reservation clerks. with day care workers in Kansas City and casino workers in Las Vegas. She has heard them all express similar concerns and fears. Fears about family burnout, about inequity and about insecurity.

The working women of America have been. In Nusabaum's words, "the shock absorbers" of the changing economy. Their second paychecks have kept the American family alloat in years of diminishing wages. Their struggle to care for families has allowed dependent care to be cast as a problem of individuals, not of society.

But in the 1990s, the voices of these women tell her that they simply can't absorb any more shock. "The workforce requires essentially every available adult in the family to work." says Nussbaum, herself the mother of three school-aged children. "No one's home to cook dinner, no one's home to do the homework with the kids. You can't even get your car fixed. There's no one to pick up the slack. There's been almost a 20-year-lag between economic changes and the public's recognition of what's happening."

"What's happening" is not just the work-family crunch, it's also the massive deemployment known as downstring, and the growth of a part-time temporary work force. "What's happening" is also a growing gap between the wages of the CEOs and of the everyday workers. All of this leads Nussbaum to believe that "There has to be a public debate" about the economy. "What do we care about? What are our social values?"

What she deeply hopes is that the shock absorbers will become the change agents. Indeed, for all the stress in women's lives. Nussbaum is convinced that "Women are somewhat better armed right now.

The voices of these women tell her that they simply can't absorb any more shock.

psychologically, to take on this debate and the work involved in changing things."

So, with limited resources and a small budget the Women's Bureau wants to help this transformation. They want to inform women about their rights - from family medical leave to sexual harassment. They also want to connect women with grass-roots organizations that are taking on the day-to-day issues of

But the overarching goal is both more subtle and more ambitious. "When I talk to women they often know what's wrong about their jobs...but they either don't think it's possible to change things or they don't know how to change things. Or they blame themselves. What I am most concerned about is finding what allows women to solve their own

This is the concern that Nussbaum has carried throughout her career. Maybe it was an unplanned, an unplotted career but looking back, she says. "The most important thing about me is that I was 18 in 1968. I came of age when everything in society said, if you don't like it, change things."

Change things. You might say that she learned her lessons at Harvard.

We're going for the big purge es, there is a wa for reasonable Republicans and Demo crats to be respectable again. Let me quote a person in the news and see if you can pick it up.

On Jan. 13, antiabortion activist Randall Terry urged the religious right to renounce the Republican Party on the grounds it had abdicated its leadership on "family values" issues. Said Terry, who founded Operation Rescue but is no longer formally associated with it: "We've believed their foolish rhetoric long enough. is there a level-headed Republican anywhere who is not thrilled to the marrow by this turn of events? Randall Terry is an apostle of hate. "I want you to let a wave of hatred wash over you." he reportedly told an audience in Fort Wayne, Ind., last August-"Hate is good," he said. What rational Republican would not gladly escort this man to the door and hand him a one-way ticket to Talikistan or someplace.

The Democrats have had a similar stroke of good luck. The New York Post reported in November that Jesse Jackson and Ralph Nader are considering the creation of a new party. I don't know whether the rumor is true, but I do know that Jackson and Nader have been hinting strongly they might be tired of bunking with the Democrats. Listen to what they had to say after President Clinton successfully lobbled Congress to approve NAFTA.

Jackson: "President Clinton leads the Reagan Bush Limbaugh lacoc ca-Kissinger-Rostenkowski-major publishers-Wall Street-Republicans victory team."

Nader: "Clinton turned on the Americans who elected him - the bedrock Democratic constituencies of working American families - and threw his lot in with (Rep. Newt) Gingrich Republicanism and the big business lobbies of General Motors."

True, Jesse and Ralph have their strong points, but what sensible Democrat would not be delighted to see them peel off and form their own party? It would be a blessing.

Are you getting the idea now? We should form third parties, lots of them, to draw off the oddballs. Of course, I know that political alliances are always in a state of flux, mixing and merging. Why not speed up the process, build a whole bunch of fields of dreams and hope they will go?

I don't think it would take much to entice Patrick Buchanan, grand sachem of the far right, to abandon Republican ranks. An ideological soulmate, columnist William Rusher, says that if Buchanan is denied the GOP nomination in '96, he is likely to "leave the party altogether and take his followers with him." Pat Robertson would seem a natural ally, as would Randall Terry. Form a Troglodyte Party and watch them go.

The state investigation was launched after Sylvan Lake residents complained to state and federal park authorities the county may have violated conditions of two federal grants use to buy the 120 acres for the west Seminole County park and later develop it for recreation.

The complaint attracted the attention of Gov. Lawion Chiles. U.S. Sen. Bob Graham and Congressman John Mica.

The state found the county had "converted" about 1.4 acres of public-access park to restricted uses by building the training center. After first ordering the county to cancel its prized 10-year contract with the U.S. Soccer Federation to use the facility, the state ordered the county to replace the property.

The county has proposed replacing the 1.4 acres with nearly nine acres adjacent to Red Bug Lake Park in the southeastern section of the county. The county has a multi-year Red Bug park expansion project and is asking in effect, to allow that project to "count" towards the Lake Sylvan Park replacement.

Florida Park Service officials have submitted the county's proposal to the National Park Service regional office in Atlanta for review, Gerteisen said Friday he expects a reponse from NPS on the land replacement proposal sometime this month.

U.S. Supreme Court. In 1976, McGregor was trial judge in the first degree premeditated murder case against Joseph R. Spaziano, 48, who was sentenced to die for the 1973 mutilation slaying of a woman near Altamonte Springs.

The latest issue Spaziano put forth on appeal was that because he was an abused child, he had been deprived of things and he should not be held to the same high standard that everyone else is held to, McGregor said.

Spaziano, dubbed "Crazy Joe," by some, was sentenced

July 16, 1976 and was received on death row three days later. McGregor said it was not clear during the trial whether the victim was alive or dead when the mutilation began.

Some of the 63-year-old jurist's work has helped make case law. McGregor's decision in a civil case dealing with water rights in the Wekiya area was upheld by the appellate court. McGregor said a property owner could collect damages when flooding occurred after the natural flow of the water was changed by someone upstream. The decision has been cited in similar court cases.

The judge has also appeared on CBS 60 Minutes program and outlined the specifics of a robbery case to the late correspondent Harry Reasoner.

When he leaves his sunny office in the Seminole County Courthouse at the end of February, the judge said he is looking forward to retirement. McGregor is assigned about 1,300 civil cases, which is three times the number a judge ought to have, he said. Although he does not have a specific count. In a more detailed look at the 1992 robbery statistics, Whitintre said the robbertes occurred at 10:58 p.m., 3:47 p.m., 11:35 p.m., 9 12 p.m., 1 01 a.m., 7 02 p.m., 10:04 p.m. and 10:10 p.m.

"There is no question it helped reduce the number of robberies," Seminole County Sheriff Don Eslinger said of the county ordinance governing convendence stores. The county ordinance was in effect from May 1990 until it was repealed in 1993 after statewide standards took effect. Along with the two clerk minimum, the county ordinance provided for installation of security cameras, visibility into store windows, limiting the amount of money kept in regisiters, time locked safes employees could not open. warning signs and employee

The state law, passed in 1989 and amended in 1991, says stores must have two clerks on duty from 11 p.m. to 5 a.m., or provide a bulletproof glass enclosure for employees, or provide a security guard, or close the business at 11 p.m. It does not apply to family businesses and stores that haven't been robbed since 1989. Judy States, public relations director for Circle K. said there has been a reduction in robberies which the company attributes to initiatives put in place almost three years ago. "Overall for the last two and a half years the company has seen a 70 percent reduction in the occurrence of robbery in our stores and we attribute that to a lot of different initiatives and programs we put in place," she explained. Although the company does not keep statistics by county, States said there has been about a 22 percent reduction in robberies in its Seminole County

"We've done a lot of things like create training programs for our employees which include textbook study sessions, instructive videos, role playing and ongoing reviews for all employees," she added. The store measures are store robbery deterrent sessions, she continued. "Proper lighting for the interior and exterior of the store, a proper view from the parking lot, keeping a minimum amount of cash in the cash drawer, no more than $50 and posting signs that the employees can't access the safe."

"When a store has the appearance of cleanliness and pride in its look, it sends a message to people and one of the messages is, it is a good place to shop. One of the best deterrents (to crime) is a busy store. If there is a lot of activity going on in a store 24-hours a day, chances are suspects or criminals in that line of business will stay away."

States also noted that during a bankruptcy, Circle K closed 2.000 stores around the country which reduced the company's robbery statistics as well-

The Gainesville ordinance became the basis for state laws in Florida and Virginia and 260 communities around the country have asked for copies of the ordinance for study. Police in the north Florida city claim an 80 percent drop in convenience store crime over the last six

From a high of 61 reported convenience store robberies in 1986, the number fell to 23 in 1987, the year the ordinance went into effect. There were 18 reported in 1988, 16 in 1989, seven in 1990, 12 in 1991 and 11 in 1992, the most recent year for which figures were available.

In studying holdups that took place before the ordinance. "we found that 92 percent of the time there was a single clerk on duty during the robberies." said Pat-Callahan, planning and research coordinator for the Gainsville Police Department.

Both Gainesville and the state of Florida met stiff opposition from the convenience store industry when they tried to impose the laws. Business owners went to court to try to block the city's proposal as costly and unnecessary.

"The robbers are not going to go away because you have a convenience store law," said Victor Jackson, executive vice president of Jacksonville-based Lil' Champ Stores, which owns 530 stores in Florida and Georgia.

It costs Lil' Champ about $400 a week to add an extra clerk on a night shift, he said. Lil' Champ is instead closing some stores at night, he said.

Before adopting the ordinance, Gainesville hired a psychology professor to survey inmates.

'He asked convenience store robbers how to rob a store what was attractive to them and what was unattractive." Callahan said. "If there was a second person on the scene, It was a highly undestrable place to be.'

Policy banning race-based scholarships to be reversed

By The Associated Press

BOSTON - There is nothing illegal about awarding college scholarships based on a student's race, the U.S. Department of Education has concluded, according to a report in today's Boston Globe.

The department will soon tell schools they can earmark money for students of specific races without fear of violating the law, reversing the government policy suggested by the Bush Administration, the newspaper said.

The decision came after Education Secretary Richard W. Riley, who has long supported minority scholarships, reviewed a report by Congress' Government Accounting Office, unidentified administration sources told the Globe.

The report found that academic scholarships awarded on the basis of race amount to no more than 4 percent of all undergraduate scholarship dollars.

The GAO study, released last month, said financial need and academic merit are requirements for obtaining most race-based scholarships, and that most are paid for through private endowments, tuition and fees, not tax dollars.

In 1990, then Education Secretary Lamar Alexander, a former president of the University of Tennessee, said the schools could not restrict the pool of applicants for scholarships by race.

The decision angered many education officials who argued that such scholarships are effective tools for recruiting and educating minorities. Congress and higher education groups pressured the Bush administration to back off the policy, and Alexander agreed to wait for the GAO study before imposing the ban. David Merkowitz, spokesman for the American Council on Education, the umbrella association for the nation's colleges and universities, said he welcomes Riley's action. "We have maintained all along that minority scholarships are legal and advisable as part of the effort of colleges and universities to increase access to education and promote diversity on campus," Merkowitz said.

many fish houses for cleaning. icing and shipping fish. At the middle of the intersection of Park Avenue and First Street there was a flowing well and watering trough for horses. The town had gas street lights. About dark each evening a man with long pole and a torch would turn the valve and light the gas... There were no telephones, no cars, no automatic refrigerators and very few ice-boxes.

"Most folks cooked on woodfired stoves. More than half the families made a garden and kept a milk cow. The cattle were herded up in the morning and driven out of town to graze. In the late afternoon they were returned to their owner's place for milking.

Priveys (outdoor tollets) were built on the alleys behind the homes with a clean-out door from which waste was removed. and hauled away for disposal. The doctor would make home calls by riding a bicycle with his little black medical bag fastened in a rack byer the rear wheel.

will started school to Sanford at Seventh and Myrtle. My father warned me not to play op-the-whip" at school, but I did and came home with a broken collarbone. "About 1905-06 I saw my first automobile. Seeing the car was exciting. We small boys would follow at a safe distance. The exhaust made lots of noise. If the car met a horse and buggy. sometimes the occupants wire spilled out and the horse ran away with the buggy.

"At one time we lived near what railroad people called the north "Y", All trains stopped here. Frequently hobos would get off the trains and head for their "hobo jungle" situated on a nearby small creek. Here they had a small clearing of sandy beach with oaks and palmettos to protect them from the weather and public gaze. The mystery of the "Hobo Jungle" was a challenge to boys to see what was there but usually we found only old campfire ashes and empty cans. "My mother died in 1906. In 1907 my father, his brothers Thomas and Gus, each homesteaded 160 acres of timbered land in Lake County, seven miles west of Crow's Bluff on the St. John's River. This was wild country! With an abundance of fish and wild game such as black bear, panther, wild cats, wild hogs and deer. Also there were semi-wild cattle, many smaller animals, and the now almost extinct whooping crane, a large and beautiful bird to sec.

"In the apring of 1907 my father and his brother, Tom. formed a partnership. They built a complete plant for distilling pine tar, a cooper shop for making barrels, a commissary for food, clothing and other supplies needed for this operation, also a lot and barn for horses plus homes for the workmen.

"The finished product of rosin and spirits of turpentine were shipped from Crow's Bluff by riverboat to Jacksonville. All incoming supplies were received the same way. "Among my duties as an 11-year old boy were to draw and carry water for the house. get in wood, feed the horses and chickens, collect outgoing mail and distribute incoming mail from a rural box one mile distance. For the mail work and distant errands I had a faithful little horse named "Buck." On his back I felt very secure because Buck could really run. Once I passed near a herd of cattle. A large, enraged bull was bellowing and pawing the ground. Then he suddenly started running toward me. But with my signal Buck quickly took off and left 'Mr. Bull' in our

"Another job of mine was helping Dad and Uncle Tom survey leased timber lines. I handled the rear end of the surveyor's chain. To follow the land line we had to go through dense growth, palmettos and wade in water often waist deep in ponds. Here is where I was most afraid, expecting an alligator or moccasin to get my feet any minute!

"One dark night when Uncle Tom and a companion were returning home in a buggy, they passed through a herd of cattle that appeared to be disturbed and nervous. Shortly a bloodcurdling panther's scream split the air to their rear. Fearing an attack, Uncle Tom reached back and raised the buggy top. He was afraid to drive faster for fear of wrecking the buggy. About this time came another scream, much closer! His companion (a black man) said. "Mr. Tom. if you will let me out I can run faster than we are traveling." Uncle Tom persuaded the man not to leave him. They moved on and heard nothing more from the panther.

"Once I was in the woods barefooted. My attention was suddenly drawn to the rustling and thrashing of dry leaves about 26 feet distance. To my surprise a large coach-whip snake was making this disturbance with his fall. Suddenly, with his head about a foot off the ground, he was coming directly at me. I dashed to a nearby wagon. The snake passed the wagon and disappeared in the

"Dad, Uncle Tom, a crew of men and I went into the woods to work. As usual, we carried one or two jugs filled with drinking water. On this occasion we ran out of water, and Dad. with a jug and dip paddle, went into a nearby swamp looking for water. Dad heard heavy footsteps and realized he was being followed. He came into a small clearing and stopped. Dad in his fright called, 'Tom, come here, there is a bear following me!' Uncle Tom: 'I'm not coming in there.' Dad, more urgent this time, 'Tom, come and help mel' Uncle Tom said, You come out of there, Virge, I am not going in that swamp to fight a bear! The bear turned and walked away. Dad came out a very angry man because his brother would not come to his rescue. Again, 1 sought the safety of the wagon hoping the bear would not attack

"Dad moved the family to Crow's Bluff. He had remarried. We children attended for a short time a one-room school with an enrollment of 10 to 12 pupils.

"Mr. and Mrs. John Crow reared and educated a large family at the bluff. It was a privilege to have known this lovely old ploneer family. They owned and operated everything - a large two-story home, general store, post office, boat dock, ferry service, repair shop, farm and orange grove. For ferry service Mr. Crow had a cow bell to ring if a traveler wished to cross the river from the Volusia side. I liked to row a boat, so was delighted in taking foot travelers across the river. For horses or vehicles Mr. Crow would row the ferry boat across. "During the summer months there was a steamboat every other day, the 'City of Jacksonville' traveling to Sanford and returning. The winter schedule was a boat every day. The steamer, 'Frederick DeBary' ran on alternate days. They were both side-wheelers, hauling passengers and freight. A popular way to central Florida from the eastern seaboard was coastal steamers to Jacksonville, then the river boats to inland towns. I once had an overnight trip on the 'City of Jacksonville' from Jacksonville to St. Francis, the from Discovery's cargo bay. next boat landing north of Crow's Bluff. The coming of a overboard on the end of the start running to the dock to see the extremely contaminationher tie up. The captain from his bridge would shout orders to the crew on docking. Then the men crew on docking. Then the men with hand trucks would make UN probes haste to load, or unload, the freight. With more orders from the captain she was cast off and

"There was a star mail route from Paisley, in Lake County, to St. Francis, to Crow's Bluff. Here the carrier crossed the St. Johns River and proceeded to Beresford. A round trip was 32 miles: The carrier usually rode a horse to Crow's Bluff and walked from there to Beresford. If his horse was lame or needed for other work, the carrier occasionally would walk the 32 miles, over sandy roads, carrying his mail bag.

"Lake County cattlemen would drive their stock to the rathroad where they were loaded and shipped to market. I witnessed the swimming of 50 to 75 head of cattle across the St. Johns River at Crow's Bluff. Such excitement! Six or eight cowboys with six or eight big cur dogs trying to frighten these semi-wild cattle into swimming the river! Some would break away and head for the open range, the dogs and cowboys in full pursuit. Other cattle wuld swim out part way and turn back. The dogs would catch the most stubborn cows by the lip or ear and walking backwards literally pull the cow into the water. Often the dog held on and after ducking the cow two or three times, the cow would decide to awim the river. After about a half day of this excitement all of the cattle had safely crossed the river.

"Auto travel wasn't easy. There was always the danger of getting stuck in the sand. It was not uncommon to have one or more flat tires on a short trip. Most people carried tire boots. quick patches, and an air pump for making on-the-road repairs. Much of Florida's early paving between towns was paving brick loosely laid on the sand. These roads were nine feet wide. When meeting another vehicle one had to put two wheels off the pavement, go into low gear, usually, and then look for a smooth place to get back on the pavement.

This story is presented in the fervent hope that we do not lose sight of the way of life of those who have gone before us."

Last-minute problems force NASA to nix satellite release

By MARCIA DUNN AP Aerospace Writer

CAPE CANAVERAL - NASA scrapped plans to release an experimental science satellite from Discovery on Saturday after struggling for hours to overcome problems caused by radio interference and glare from

After advising commander Charles Bolden Jr. to get a pencil to write down instructions -'you may also need some aspirin" - Mission Control informed him that flight directors were giving up for the day.

Officials said they would try again Sunday to release the satelilte.

"I think that's an excellent plan," Bolden said. The satellite, a 12-foot stainless steel disk called the Wake Shield Facility, was supposed to fly free of the shuttle for two days. Researchers wanted to see if superior semiconductor films would grow in its ultra-pure wake.

Flight director Gary Coen said other experiments would be curtailed or eliminated because of the delay in releasing the satellite and that the craft, once deployed, would remain out for two days as planned.

Discovery doesn't have enough fuel to extend its flight. The eight-day mission is due to end Friday. The trouble began soon after Jan Davis lifted the Wake Shield

As for the transmission trouble, on board radio interference was the likely culprit, ignaticy said. The crew should be able to climinate it by simply readjuston the end of the arm, he said.

If the satellite isn't released at all. Discovery's cosmonaut. Sergei Krikalev, will lose his big chance to pluck the satellite from orbit. Krikalev, the first Russian to fly on a U.S. shuttle, spent much of the past year practicing with the shuttle robot arm to accomplish that task.

The $13.5 million satellite, built and managed by the University of Houston and Space Industries Inc. of Houston, is flying in space for the first time. Even before the mission, researchers involved in the project cautioned that something might go wrong because such an experiment has never been tried before. One of the investigators is Discovery astronaut Ronald Sega, a physicist and engineer who's also flying in space for the

Sarajevo bombing

By NANCY BENAC Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON - Presidents Clinton called Saturday for an urgent United Nations investigation of the latest bloodplanes to help evacuate victims of a mortar attack that left at least 66 dead.

We rule nothing out." Clinton said in a statement, as top aides raised the possibility of NATO air strikes once responsibility for the attack in the Sarajevo marketplace had been determined.

It was the bloodiest single attack on Sarajevo's civilians since the war started 22 months

Clinton directed the Defense Department to offer immediate assistance in evacuating, hospitalizing and treating the injured. Aldes said the military would use C-130 aircraft to transport injured to a MASH unit the United States operates outside Zagreb, Croatia, and a U.S. airbase outside Frankfurt, Germany.

Defense Department spokesman Dennis Klauer said Saturday night that the first plane was being dispatched from Rhein Main Air Base in Germany in time to reach Sarajevo at first

It carried an eight-member medical team that will assess evacuation needs of the wounded and arrange for other C-130 flights as warranted.

Secretary of State Warren Christopher met with Clinton and other top advisers Saturday morning and consulted by telephone with British Foreign Secretary Douglas Hurd and other Western ailies, including French and NATO officials, aides said.

The discussions focused on the possibility of air strikes and longer-term prospects for a "more vigorous" U.S. role in working with European allies toward a negotiated settlement of the war, according to one official who spoke on condition of anonymity.

AP class is a hit at SHS

you out of the duldrums of American Government has arrived at Seminole High School this year.

AP American Government is a new course offered this sememster to seniors who want to try for college credit (the regular course is required by law for graduation) and the class has been well recieved. With over 30 students in Tony Ackerson's fifth period he was pleased by the turn out.

"Last year I stayed after school with four students who studied on their own for the test and they all passed so I think the school looked at that success rate and decided to attempt a full-fledged semester course."

AP is short for advanced placement, a term used for classes that give students the chance to recieve credit for college even before they get there. In the middle of the fourth tested on the knowledge they passing grades. And then recommended for early college

Ackerson was very interested in getting an A.P. government course into the curriculum. And with a few weeks gone by he's not sorry he got the opportunity. "I thoroughly enjoy it. I have an outstanding group of students. We've been able to have some interesting dialogue, and I think they'll do well on the test in

One unique perspective Ackerson has taken with his class is Point/Counterpoint assignments. Two students per week are given a controversial topic to research, report, and debate on in the front on the nine-weeks the students are then class the following Monday. They are graded on their presabsorbed from class. They are entation and facts presented in graded on a scale of one to five their report. Whether or not you with three to five being the agree with your position doesn't A P t e s t s

Ackerson says this "promotes healthy debate and discussion on an array of government related topics. It's also invaluable in developing and refining the ability to think critically."

This fresh approach to teaching has gone over quite well with Ackerson's pupils. "I think it's about time we had a class that allows us to expand our knowledge of the American government and express our multiple views about how it runs and what impact the people have upon it. We're also blessed with one of the most qualified and enthusiastic teachers possible." said Omar Bermudez.

In the future Ackerson hopes to teach more AP classes and is greatly anticipating the results of his labor in May.

Seminole yearbook selected as sample

By VICKI DeSORMIER Herald Staff Writer

SANFORD - The Salmagundi. Seminole High School's yearbook has been selected for a high honor by the company which publishes the annual.

The 1994 edition of the Salmagundi has been selected as a 1994-95 Walsworth National Marketing Sample book. The yearbook, still under production for this year, has been selected as an example of a quality yearbook as a result of a lengthy, intensive, national selection process involving sales representatives and other qualifled personnel.

As a national marketing sample, the Salmagundi will be used by the publisher's sales force at state and national conventions throughout the 1994-95 school year to effectively illustrate top yearbooks throughout the world. According to the announcement letter sent to Art Woodruff, the yearbook advisor, the company is pleased with the dedication and talent of the staff of Seminole's staff. "Creating an award-winning yearbook takes a tremendous amount of dedication, as well as talent from the entire yearbook staff," the letter said. "You and your staff deserve a great deal of credit for working together toward the common goal of creating an exceptional yearbook.

For many years has set records by winning national competitions, school spokesman John Cullum said.

This is the first time, however, that the publication has won a national publisher's award while it was still in the process of being published.

'Discovering Normal'

LONGWOOD - South Seminol Hospital Psychiatric Services is pleased to offer "Discovering Normal: A Parenting Program for Adult Children of Alcohlics and their Partners." The free workshop will be presented Saturday from 9 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. at Psychiatric Services (formerly West Lake Hospital), Many parents, especially those who have been affected by family alcoholism, do not feel they know enough about typical or normal teenage or child behavior. The program, developed by the Children of Alcoholics Foundation, is designed to help such people become more effective and confident parents and to work toward realistic goals for themselves and their children.

The workshop will be led by Fr. Tom Ireland, a pastoral counselor at South Seminole Hospital Psychiatric Services and executive director of the Christian Family Insitute.

For more information on the workshop or to register, call

It's a 'Hop-N-Ing' thing

Children from over 100 day care centers, preschools, public and private schools throughout Central Florida will be getting an early start learning about and helping people with disabilities. Slated for Feb. 7-18, the children will be participating in a disability awareness program called "The Hop-N-Ing." The two-part project is organized by The Florida Easter Seal Society.

During the first part of the event, teachers will familiarize children with disabilities and various causes of disabilities.

Part two is a special event to support kids and adults with disabilities in two Central Florida programs: Early Intervention and Camp Challenge. The children will hop for a three minute period and collect pledges as donations to Easter Seals. For more information, call 896-7881.

Aerobic training events

Feb. 12 features exercise science, injury prevention, basic nutrition, low impact and high intensity aerobics.

Feb. 13 features postural alignment and high risk exercises relates to step aerobics, step guidelines and choreography.

Both workshops include: .6 American Council on Exercise continuing education credits, a review, a written exam, a comprehensive manual, certificate and more. Space is limited. For registration information, call 800-AEROBIC.

Hearing often changes with age

NEW YORK - As we age, it sometimes takes a while to become aware that our hearing is not as good as it once was.

As noted in a new Consumer Reports book. "The Hearing Loss Handbook," many people, in fact, deny any change in hearing because, unfortunately, hearing loss not only is often associated with aging, but with scriffity, loss of control and even a lack of intelligence.

Among the warning signs of hearing loss: Asking people to repeat themselves.

Missing large parts of conversations in noisy areas.

Difficulty hearing while on the telephone. Finding it hard to understand dialogue while at the movies

Olfficulty distinguishing other people's words when conversing in restaurants or while riding in a car.

 Not understanding someone who is speaking loudly from another room. You can hear the person yelling, but can't make out the words. Having family members or friends often suggest that you should get your hearing checked. The book also offers some valuable guidelines in the purchase of a hearing aid. It warns, for example, that many consumers who buy hearing aids derive no benefit from their purchase because they never really needed a hearing aid in the

Detection of rectal bleeding

Most rectal bleeding is com-monly attributed to hemorrholds, which are enlarged bulging veins located in and around the anus. There are both internal and external hemorrhoids and they are associated with bright red bleeding, and may or may not be associated with pain. Another less commonly known cause of bright red bleeding is anal fissures (cracks in the skin) of the anal canal which is most often associated with pain (usually towards the back).

Although hemorrhoids and fissures are relatively benign although bothersome conditions, bleeding may be secondary to more serious conditions. These conditions include diverticulosis, which is outpouching of the colon common in patients over 50 years old that is usually associated with large amounts of bright red bleeding: arteriovenous malformations. which are abnormal tufts of blood vessels which intermittently bleed dark or bright red blood: colitis which is an infection or inflammation of the colon associated with diarrhea and bleeding. Federal agencies wrangle over exercise

By IRA DREYFUSS ssociated Press Writer

WASHINGTON - The federal government s making a plan to encourage more Americans to exercise. In fact, it's making ots of them.

What saves sedentary Americans from a concerted assault on their couch-dwelling lifestyles is a lack of unifying leadership and shortage of money.

Several agencies are developing strategies and jockeying for position. Among the key players: the Centers for Disease Control and Prevention, the National Heart, Lung and Blood Institute and the President's Council on Physical Fitness and Sports.

In addition, nongovernmental agencies ire gearing up. Among these: the American Heart Association and the American College of Sports Medicine.

There's general agreement on targets to meet. The Department of Health and Human Services' Healthy People 2000 guidelines call for 30 percent of Americans to engage in light to moderate physical activity for at least 30 minutes, five times or more a week. There's agreement on the scope of the problem. Inactivity is a risk factor for heart disease and can worsen such diseases as diabetes. But surveys indicate roughly half of American adults are only sporadically ctive, and 30 percent get no exercise at all.

A recent poll for the President's Council and the National Sporting Goods Manufacturers Association found that 41 percent of edentary Americans questioned were unikely to change their lifestyles soon.

Government efforts have had success in changing public health behavior. The national cholesterol and high blood pressure education programs of the National Heart. Lung and Blood Institute are credited with helping to teach Americans how to lower both heart risks.

These efforts are having results. For instance, from 1976-80, 11 percent of Americans with high blood pressure had it controlled, but 21 percent did in 1988-91, according to a heart association report.

But nothing similar seems to be happening in exercise, according to Russell R. Pate, president of the American College of Sports Medicine. Surveys show virtually no change in getting Americans to exercise. "The federal health bureaucracy seems to be pretty much hamstrung right now by efforts to reinvent government, trim budgets and eliminate positions." Pate said. He would like one agency to become the focal point for exercise.

The President's Council is making the most visible effort to do so, with a strategy-setting forum last November. Its executive director, Sandra Perimutter, argues strongly that her agency has the federal mandate for exercise promotion.

However, while Perimutter claims the council has President Clinton's ear, the administration has yet to fill 16 seats on the 20-member board. The council has an administrative staff of 16, and its position in the Public Health Service is advisory. The council runs school-based exercise testing programs, but some experts doubt it has the bureaucratic clout to run a large program.

The Centers for Disease Control and Prevention has been running test programs. said Dr. Michael Pratt of the CDC's Division of Chronic Disease Control and Community Intervention.

One program, based on the premise that sedentary patients will listen to their doctors, would encourage caregivers to counsel exercise.

The CDC also has been working with a private contractor to plan a sales campaign for exercise. Pratt said. But it has no budget for an actual campaign, he said.

The American Heart Association is developing its own strategy and ad campaign. focusing on inactivity as a heart risk, but has not figured the cost, said Terry L. Bazzarre at AHA headquarters in Dallas. The group is also working up a strategic plan to target health care workers, policymakers and members of the public with a special emphasis on cardiac and stroke patients, Bazzarre said.

At the National Heart, Lung and Blood Institute, exercise is getting folded into existing programs against high cholesterol. high blood pressure and obesity, said Karen Donato, coordinator of the Obesity Education initiative. There is no decision yet to give exercise a separate standing with its own education program, Donato said.

However, despite the program overlaps and interagency turf issues, there is a basis for a unified approach to exercise. Many of the key officials serve on committees of each others' organizations.

"We are all learning comparable ways to get at the problem." Donato said. Once everyone comes up with a unified plan. responsibility for segments will be parceled out, and "we can all get pieces," she said.

Clinton's budget

WASHINGTÓN - President Clinton's 1995 budget will trim the Pentagon's military and civilian workforce by 181,000 saving $4 billion - and hold the line on the government's AIDS prevention efforts, administration officials and decuments

His spending plan, which he will ship to Congress on Monday, will also cut a program that helps prepare low-income youths for the workforce, while boosting aid to elementary and secondary schools.

As new details of the $1.5 trillion spending plan emerged. administration officials continued their effort to portray themselves as tough budget-cutters.

Administration officials said Clinton will propose killing 115 programs for a savings for $3.25 billion. Terminated programs would include the Air Force's F-16 fighter, public library construction and a shark research center.

Army plan backed by scientists

WASHINGTON - Scientists are backing an Army plan to burn thousands of tons of chemical agents and munitions in specially built incinerators, saying it's better than keeping the deadly materiel stored for years to come.

A committee of the National Academy of Sciences' said in a report Friday that the Army should go ahead with burning the stockpite of more than 30,000 tons of chemical material, some dating to World War I.

It said an alternative method that would chemically decompose the material might be suitable at two sites and, therefore, should not be abandoned. But overall, the panel concluded that delaying the destruction until potentially safer methods than burning are developed "will result in a higher overall risk.

The report by members of the academy's National Research Council represented a major victory for the Army's $8.6 billion program to build eight plants around the country to burn the chemical stockpile. After the job is completed the plants would be torn down.

But when he ordered a 19-year-old woman into his car, he acted like what he really was - a sex offender, police said,

The man forced the woman to perform oral sex on him before letting her go, she told police. The next day, Maxie Tindal, a 30-year-oftl letter carrier, was arrested and charged with sodomy, criminal possession of a weapon and impersonating a police officer.

His arrest highlighted a persistent problem in a city that employs more than 30,000 police officers. Last year, the Police Department handled about 1,300 complaints involving police impostors, including 400 robberies.

The trail of crime and deception threatens to further crode a reputation damaged by recent accusations of corruption against real officers, police said.

The impersonators "are really making it bad for cops," said Lt. Robert DiVagno, commander of a newly-formed unit charged with combating the problem.

Formed last month, the 18-member investigative unit is looking for patterns in a recent robberies and other crimes committed by suspects who gain trust and access by posing as police officers. Divagno said.

Grand Jury to consider Jackson case

LOS ANGELES - A Santa Barbara County Grand Jury will convene next week to hear accusations that Michael Jackson sexually molested a 13-year-old boy, the Los Angeles Times reported today.

Subpoenas have been delivered to witnesses, according to unidentified sources familiar with the case, the paper said. The jury will investigate whether there is sufficient evidence for an indictment against Jackson.

The Times' sources said neither Jackson nor his accuser, now 14, has been asked to testify.

Jackson, 35, has not been charged with any crime and has denied any wrongdoing.

Child-neglect case not that unusual

By SARAH NORDQREN Associated Press Writer

CHICAGO - It was home for too many people with too many problems.

Nineteen children lived in the filthy, roach-inlested four-room apartment, some sleeping on a cold floor in their underwear, others cating from a dog's bowl.

The scene shocked even the hardened city cops who found the children late Tuesday during a drug raid. Yet another shock

Social workers had knocked on the apartment door three separate limes since August, each time leaving without demanding to enter. One caseworker was suspended as a Six adults - four mothers, a father and an uncle - were charged with misdemeanor child neglect. One woman, Denise Turner, 20, was charged with felony child endangerment because her 4-year-old, who has cerebral palsy, was allegedly found to be mainourished, bitten and burned.

"There weren't any families here," said Cook County Public Guardian Patrick Murphy, "You have 19 kids and drugged-up parents. But that doesn't make a

"It was a real family neighborhood," said Debra Wright, who lives upstairs from where the children were found.

"Then the drugs came in." she said. "It happened slowly, but it happened. First it was around the corner. Then it was down the street. And the next thing it's on the porch."

The adult relatives of the 19 children have been touched by drugs, too.

Two had previous felony drug convictions and the mother of two children gave birth a day after the children were found by police. The infant had drugs in her system and was taken into custody by the state Department of Children and Family Services.

Family members said police and the media badly distorted the children's situation. Two women and their children moved into the apartment only recently after being burned out of their homes, they said.

Maxine Melton, mother of five of the children, took in her sisters and their children one-by-one when their luck soured, relatives and friends said.

"It's all a bunch of lies." MayFay Melton, one of the women charged, told the Chicago Sun-Times as she entered court on Thursday.

The residents lived "in abject squalor" while collecting up to $4,000 a month in public aid and food stamps. Murphy said. He blamed DCFS, which he claims is reluctant to aggressively seek out neglected children who might swell its massive caseload.

About 36,000 children are in the agency's custody, a figure that has nearly doubled in just five years.

DCFS Director Mac Ryder

works hard to care for the exploding numbers of neglected and abused children.

Nevertheless, as DCFS struggles to meet terms of a federal consent decree mandating massive reforms, the agency has stumbled badly on several cases in recent months.

Prosecutors plan to press a criminal case against the parents, but Jack O'Malley, the Cook County state's attorney. sald the 19 children likely will end up with their parents.

"It's not a felony to live in a flatly that, saying the agency filthy apartment," he said.

Danya Harris doubled the Greyhound lead less than a minute later with an unassisted shot to the back right corner of the net with 36:46 left in the first half. Harris then played a corner kick to Garrett, who headed home the cross with 36:00 left in the first half.

LAKE MARY - While the Lake Mary High Rams won the 5A-District 4 boys' soccer championship like most observers thought they would, the Lake Brantley Patriots didn't bow out the way some might have expected.

Playing with gritty determination, the
No.7-seeded Patriots battled the top-seeded Rams for 80 minutes before succumbing 3-1 Friday night at Lake Mary's Don T. Reynolds Stadium.

Lake Mary (25-2-3) will host Jacksonville Beach-Fletcher in the 5A-Region II title game on Tuesday, Feb. 8. Fletcher advanced by beating Tallahassee-Lincoln 3-2 on penalty kicks for the 5A-District 3 crown Friday.

Lyman on penalty kicks Tuesday and scored two goals in the final six minutes to overtake No. 6-seed Lake Howell on Wednesday, ends its season at 14-12-4.

Coming in as substantial underdogs, the Patriots gave the Rams no quarter Friday night. attempting to slow down Lake Mary's prolific offense with close marking and physical play. And it almost worked as Lake Mary didn't put the game away until Tony Bazile headed home a Jodí de Bruin corner kick at 70:29.

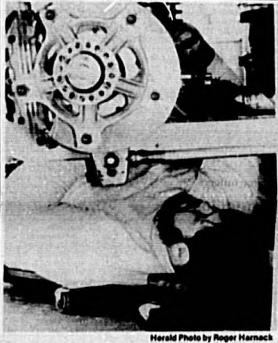

"The tone for the game was set early." said Lake Mary coach Larry McCorkle, referring to a hard, clean tackle that unfortunately resulted in an injury to Ram defender Brandon Woods in the first 10 minutes of the game.

"I told the guys early that Lake Brantley was going to try to slow the game down and that could result in a lot of fouls being called."

A total of five yellow cards were awarded in the match, four to Lake Brantley, which also lost Jim Monica to a red card (ejection) with 6:25 left in

While the Patriots' strategy may not have been particularly attractive, it was very effective, holding Lake Mary scorcless in the first half. The Rams did take a 1-0 lead when a Nate Garcia throw-in went off the head of a Patriot defender and into the net for an own goal at 27:53 of the first half.

"We survived the first half," said Lake Brantley coach Jim Brody. "We gave up the own goal, but we fought right back. We hung in there with them. I felt good about where we were See Soccer, Page 3B

LONGWOOD - Anyone bring a videocamera? Eric Roberts hit an amazing three-pointer with one second left in overtime to give Seminole a 64-62 Seminole Athletic Conference championship clinching road-victory over Lyman Friday

"I was supposed to set a screen for the big man (Andre Hall) to take a lob," said Roberts. "But the lob wasn't there, so I got the ball and shot it. What I was thinking as I shot it was that I've gotta do this for the homeboys so we can win the conference.'

Seminole, 20-6 overall and 8-0 in the conference, has now won nine in a row and 11 of its last 12. Lyman slips to 14-7 and 4-4 in the conference with its third straight loss.

The game was up for grabs from start to finish. It looked like Arrow Force II might take control early in the fourth quarter with a 6-0 spurt and a 54-47 edge. Lyman scrapped back and the lead the bounced back-and-forth after Tavaron Raymon's layup with 2:10 left staked the Greyhounds to a 57-56 advantage.

LONGWOOD - After playing impressively two days before to beat Spruce Creek, the Seminole girls basketball team fell flat on the road Friday night, getting blasted 58-40 by Lyman in the regular season finale for both teams.

"I don't know how we could play so well and then so awful," said Seminole head coach John McNamara. "I suppose it's youth. We're a young team. We didn't have any spunk, we were disorganized. and we made too many mistakes."

Lyman outscored Seminole 15-2 in the second quarter for a decisive 32-18 halftime lead, and Seminole never threatened to come back. The Greyhound defense created fast breaks from turnovers and used its size advantage to force Seminole into ill advised jump-shots all night "We work real hard on defense," said Lyman head coach Steve Carmichael. "We scored a lot of points off it, and that picks our spirits up. When you have a size advantage you want to take advantage of it. It's always best to play to our strengths and avoid our weaknesses.

Kate Brown played a fantastic game for Lyman, breaking down Seminole's defense for 18 points and six assists while grabbing 10 ☐See Lyman, Page 3B had," said Lyman head coach Norm Ready. "I think this was a momentum builder for us. We had lossed our last two games playing poorly, but onight we played good solid basketball. The kids stuck in there, and that should carry through into the coming games."

DeWayne Bell made a slashing basket after stealing the ball with six seconds left as Lyman took a 61-60 lead. But. Brad Traina hit 1-of-2 free-throws for Seminole with one tick left on the clock to send the game into overtime. "I was confident with Brad at the line in that situation," said Seminole head coach Bob Traina. "He's our best free throw shooter, and he's been there before. I'm surprised he missed the first of his two shots." Lyman dominated the overtime, not allowing Seminole to even touch the ball until Bell nailed a free throw for a 62-21 lead with just 14 seconds remaining. When he missed his second shot Lyman and Seminole were tied-up for the rebound, and the posession arrow went to Seminole.

Lyman's B.J. Kibler made a good defensive play to tip the ball out of bounds with two seconds left, setting up the in-bounds pass that wound up in the magic hands of Roberts.

"Our plan worked," said Lyman head coach Norm Ready. "But, not well enough or long enough. Our defense rose to the occassion again, but came up a little bit short. Seminole's the highest scoring team in the conference, so you've got to play good defense to hold them down.

Otherwise, it wouldn't have been close." Also, Seminole was at times its own worst enemy, shooting only 9-for-20 from the charity stripe and slipping into occassional defensive Paradie 311 RS2 Vita 22

"We were very lucky," said Trains. "We weren't playing good, defense, and we were horrendous from the free-throw line. We were lucky to get the ball back with the posession arrow. Lyman deserved to win just as much as we did, if not more.'

Roberts had a game high 22 points for Seminole, while Ronnie McCarrell scored 11 and Ray Perkins added 10. Bell and Shawn Ready both tossed in 19 points for Lyman.

Seminole played St. Cloud in a 4A-District 6 contest Saturday night, and will take on Kissimmee-Gateway in another district game Monday. The junior varsity game starts at 6 p.m. followed by the varsity contest at 7:30. At 3-0 in the district and vying for the No. 1 seed, Seminole is blessed by having all remaining games at Lyman played 5A-district 4 opponent Spruce Creek Saturday night. The Greyhounds will face district foe Lake Howell at Lake Howell Wednesday night, with the junior varsity game starting at 6 p.m. followed by the varsity game at 7:30. Lyman is 8-3 in the district, and is trying to stay close to the No. 1 seeding.

Spring perfect time to fish

Although Spring is my favorite time of year. The itsh are easy to time of year to fish, this time of spot, as they "push" a consideryear can be awfully frustrating. Air temperatures and water temperatures are perfect, but the wind often spoils the best weekend of plans.

Cold fronts have an uncanny knack for hitting on Fridays, just in time to ruin weekend fishing. Rare is the weekend that falls in between approaching fronts.

This is the best time of year to catch a lunker bass. Many bass over 10 pounds will be caught around full moon periods in the months of February and March. Speckled perch will also peak during this same time. On the saltwater scene, trout and redfish will be roaming the flats of Mosquito Lagoon and of the Banana and Indian rivers of Cocoa Beach. The heaviest trout of the year are caught from now until the second week in June. Once the waters reach the magic 68 degree mark, the action begins to pick up dramaticaly until summer heat drives fish from the shallows.

Redfish will frequently school in masses of over 100 fish this spot, as they "push" a considerable amount of water. This time of year, guides such as Troy Perez set world records on two and four pound test line. Offshore, grouper and snapper fishing will be as good as it gets. Wrecks and inshore reefs host large numbers of tasty bottomfish at this time. High seas are the primary obstacle to overcome in reaching these prize

Around Port Canaveral, May is THE month for dolphin. Fantastic catches of fish in the 25 to 40 pound class are commonplace during this time. It is actually had to go out and catch a dolphin during May.

Now is the time to spool your reels with fresh line and to get ready to do combat with the biggest fish of the year.

Big winter flounder are still biting finger mullet at Bebastian Inlet. Mixed in with the big flatfish are bluefish and redfish.

Captain Jack at Port Canaveral has little to report in the way of offshore action due to high seas. Guide Troy Perez has been catching plenty of redfish in the flats in the south end of. Mosquito Lagoon. Trout action should be good this weekend on the flate with the warming

Ponce Inlet will be a good bet this weekend with plenty of fish for the entire family. Swarms of bluefish and sheepshead will keep even the mist impatient of anglers smiling. Some big drum and redfish are also moving in and out of the inlet. Savvy anglers have one rod out with a live baitfish for the big stuff, and fish another rod with live or dead shrimp for fast action.

"The last time we played this well, I think, would probably have been in the finals of the Burger King tournament, and I think we topped that tonight."

Jessica Fraser scored the lone goal for the Raiders on a crossing shot to the far left corner of the net with 33:58 left in the first half. The Lyman defense took control of the Raiders offense after that while the Greyhound offense went to work.

Following the Orange Park score, Harris and Sara Kane each added goals late in the first half, giving the Greyhounds a 5-1 lead at the Intermission.

Michelle St. Louis led the Lyman onslaught in the second half with a trio of goals. Harris completed her hat trick by connecting on her third goal of the game with 23:20 left to play. Kane also added a goal in the second half.

Lyman out shot Orange Park 23-12 and had five corner kicks while holding the Raiders to none. Greyhound 'keeper Cheryl Roberts recorded 10 saves and Raider 'keeper Becki Poff had seven.

A trade agreement that works

By SHARI BRODIE Herald Correspondent

"Trading makes sense," says Scott Whitmer, president of the EXchange. "Anytime you can pay for products and services with your service, as opposed to hard earned cash, it is very profitable."

In October of last year, the Exchange, a professional bustness barter service, celebrated its 11th year of business by saluting the 40 Central Florida businesses which made these years of growth possible.

With headquarters at 5072 Edgewater Drive in Orlando, the EXchange presently has over 60 businesses in Sanford, Lake Mary and Longwood area. ranging from professionals, such as doctors and lawyers, to retail and service businesses.

The Eyes Have It Optical is one of two optical stores in the Sanford/Lake Mary area which are members of the EXchange.

Owner John Emmanuel says that through bartering, he is able to turn his surplus inventory into trade dollars that can be spent on advertising, printing, business machine maintenance, employee benefits, and many other uses.

"To me, barter is the most basic form of trade." Emanuel said. "It empowers the buyer and the seller to receive exactly what they want or need, at each other's wholesale cost.

'That is the basic principal of trading," Whitmer said. "The benefit realized by trading is directly related to the amount of profit built into the retail cost of the product or service the client

He continued, "Although products or services are offered for trade at retail value, the actual cost to the client is their time or the wholesale price paid. Obviously the bigger the client's profit margin, the more beneficial the trade.

Restaurants are among the popular and successful businesses in the EXchange.

Relsey's Pizzeria in Lake Mary is one of them. Kelsey's owner. Martin Bernard commented, "We gain customers we wouldn't normally have, and they bring their friends."

Bernard spends his trade dollars on such necessities as restaurant equipment, repair. and carpet cleaning.

Violations by grocery stores of U.S. Department of Agriculture (USDA) foud stamp programs climbed during this past year. Violations grew both in Florida and across the nation.

USDA statistics released in Tallahassee this past week showed 104 Florida grocers were penalized during 1993, compared to 68 during 1992.

Nationally, 413 were penalized last year, and 301 during the prior year.

Investigations revealed that some grocers allowed the purchase of non-food items with food stamps, and some exchanged cash for food stamps. Food stamps can be used

Eunice was honored last Sunday at her small frame home on Country Club Road, near the Upsala community, where she has lived for 67 years. The bubbly birthday honoree is a descendant of early Swedish settlers brought to the Upsala section of Sanford in 1871 by Gen. Henry Shelton Sanford.

Before the appointed open house hours began at 1:30, the yard was overflowing with family cars and campers belonging to about 75 relatives arriving from far and near to honor "Aunt Eunice" who never had children of her own. There were nieces, nephews, cousins and other relatives to help set the mood for a party before local guests began arriving.

Although it was a drab, rainy Sunday, warmth and cheer filled the Martin home as the family was scattered everywhere munching lunch from from a bountiful buffet prepared by Eunice's nieces, the hostesses. A large floral arrangement centered the dining room table with a beautifully decorated sheet-cake gracing a nearby sideboard. Adding to the party decor were dozens and dozens of family photographs, an extensive plate collection and other nostalgic memorabilia that Eunice has latched onto during her lifetime.

Among the local friends at-tending the event were Camilla Meyers, Barbara Brorup, Helen Stapler and Rita Sheehan. Eunice's hairdresser who regularly picks her up for her scheduled hair appointments. Eunice received a con-

Girl Scout proposal clarified

During the 46th session of the National Council of Oirl Scouts of the U.S.A. in October, several proposals were reviewed and voted on. One of these proposals, #3, concerned the flexibility in wording for spiritual beliefs in the Girl Scout Promise. Some of the news media, especially TV. immediately announced that the Girl Scouts voted to take God out of the promise. This is not true. Proposal #3 was brought about by the need to recognize the diversity of religions in Girl Scouts. Proposal #3, which was approved by almost 4 to 1. affirms the spirituality of Girl Scouting by allowing girls of Bee Lake Mary, Page 6B different religions to substitute words in keeping with their fatth. For instance, Native Americans substitute "Great Spirit"; Moslems, "Allah."

The Girl Scout Constitution states that the motivating force in Girl Scouting is a spiritual one but this spirituality is not tied to any denomination, sect or religion. Girls are encouraged and helped through the Girl Scout program to become better members of their own religious husband, Don, have been in sunny Sanford since 1958, her love of these cold-natured friends has not faded. Only one of her four children are still at home. Don Jr., Mikas and Ross have gone out on their own but they never forget Mom on holidays.

"That's when the kids come up with new penguin ideas,;" she said. "In fact, my son, Ross, got me a picture for Christmas with a penguin sitting on a plano. It hangs over my plano." They see these special occasions as an opportunity to add to her collec-

Whitney, Stone's youngest daughter, has many of her beloved birds to enjoy at the day care center she attends. She commented, "My stuffed penguins are now living at my daughter's day care center, being loved." Stone is a toy librarian for Community Coordinated Care for Children with the 4C program. "My daughter-in-law got me a candle holder with six penguins surrounding it," she said. "It sits on my desk at work. Stone admits that over the years she's had to weed out a few. "After a while I only collect the ones that are really interesting." She now has anything from puppets to shirts and carrings, and not to forget her wind chimes, cookie jara, and shower curtains. One of her most memorable finds was her lead crystal penguin. She admitted it may also be her most expensive treasure. "My husband, Don. had won a bingo prize on a cruise we went on." she said. "I took the money and went straight to the gift shop on the boat to buy that penguin. I had been eyeing it the whole cruise but didn't think we could afford it. Then he won so I bought it."

A pretty ceramic penguin with a baby between its feet was cited as another favorite of Stone. National Geographic was named as one of her preferred choices of reading. "I used to get books from National Geographic just for their articles on penguins," said Stone. Information from other sources have proved enlightening to her as well.

"In Calypso Cousteau Spelety I get magazines and write-ups of general underwater explorations," she said. "Of course I mainly read the ones on penguins. The articles also are interesting about seals and whales in the Arctic."

This "penguin lady" as friends call her, loves these animals of the shivery north, but her charming personality was the real ice-breaker. Stone's adoration of penguins may send chills down the spines of some, but a more appropriate impression of her may be described as cold hands but a warm heart.

Rotary donates $$ to dancers

The Rotary Club of Sanford Breakfast recently presented donations to Seminole High School's award-winning dance team, Dazziers, and Destiny, an award-winning chorus and dance ensemble. Eunice's grandparents, Elias and Christine Bengston, were on the first boatland of Swedes brought to Upsala by Gen. Sanford who gave the couple five acres of land and at the end of the year, they paid him $1 for their home and land. Her grandparents had seven children, including her mother who married Thomas Olin Tyner and Eunice Christine was born Jan. 27, 1901.

Eunice talks a blue streak about her heritage of which she is very proud. Her grandmother. a seamstress, wove bedspreads for the king and queen of Sweden and on the ship coming to America, she hand-made suits for all the bachelors aboard so that they could make a lasting impression when hey landed in America.

At 17. Eunice went to work for Chaec and Co. as an orange packer and, at 26, she married Emil Manguson, a bookkeeper for Chase and Co. for 50 years. In 1951 she married Mr. Martin. She never had any children, only her sisters and nieces and nephews who "are all very good to me," according to Eunice.

She has been driving an automibile for 76 years and still does. This spry 93-year-old lady still does all her work and cooking. She has been a member of the First Baptist Church of Sanford for about 75 years.

Eunice has had a good life. About the party, she said, "Oh. I just loved it. It was the best birthday I ever had.

Now for historians, in the near future, Herald scribe Julian Stenstrom will feature Eunice with all the facts about the life of this interesting Swedish descendant in one of his famous "Way Back When" columns.

Woman's club studies nutrition

A study of good nutrition was presented to the Woman's Club of Sanford Inc. at the February meeting Wednesday. Helen Kaminsky, chairman of the home life department. introduced the guest speaker. Sheryl Moser, R.D., Director of Nutritional Services at HCA Central Florida Regional Hospital. Sanford.

The other food groups are fruits, vegetables, milk, meat and fats, oils and sweets, which she explained should be used sparingly.

Moser stressed that moderation is the key to healthy eating along with cating a variety of foods from each of the above groups daily. President Jean Metts conducted the business meeting. It was announced that two club members were the recipients of prestigious awards presented by the Greater Sanford Chamber of Commerce at the Monday nights awards-dinner. They are Winifred "Bill" Glelow, Toppeer award, and Irene Brown, the Dr. Luis Perez Humanitarian Award.

Liz Helfrich made a proposal for a fund-raising drive to raise money primarily to keep the historic club building in repair. Her brother, Jeno Paulucci, has already made a sizeable donation to this project, which will be considered at the March board

Awesome evening

The evening of Saturday, Jan. 29, was awesome when you get to spend an evening listening to the famous Dr. Maya Angelou, America's premier renowned poet of the 20th century.

The evening began with local executive producer and director of Tajiri Arts International, Inc., Patricia Merritt Whatley, who was the mistress of ceremonies for this dynamic evening with Dr. Angelou. The Negro national anthem "Life Ev'ry Voice and Sing" was sung by Harry Burney, singer/actor, accompanied by Charley Bateman at the plano.

A conversation on Zora Neale Hurston, Women, Life and Love took place with Dr. Angelou and Z. Smith Reynolds, professor of American Studies at Wake-Forest University and Dr. Eleanor Traylor, chair, Department of Literature, Howard University. Dr. Traylor's accomplishments reflect Zora Hurston's commitment to excellence and are displayed in her career as a professor, writer, editor, critic and historian.

Because of the choir's sincere dedication to lifting up the name of Christ through song, the choir of 35 beautiful voices from various churches in the Sanford, Seminole County area, will be leaving on Wednesday, Feb. 9 and returning on Sunday, Feb. 13. The bus will leave from New Mt. Calvary Missionary Baptist Church at 10 p.m.

The choir lives under the scripture. "Be not weary in well doing, for in due season, we shall reap if we faint not." Truly this is the motto of the choir for they are giving of their talents, time and hearts to taste and see for the Lord they do know is good and whose mercy endureth forever. For they bless the Lord at all times and His praises shall continually be in their mouths. .

MIN AT BRIDGE

By Phillip Alder
Back in 1981, a Californian golfer, David Heagy, hit a shot into a drainage pipe only just wider than his ball. Even though it wasn't a straight shot, he was still a trifle unlucky. However, why didn't he have to take a drop and a one-stroke penalty?

Many bridge players think they are unlucky. But more often than not it is bad play. What do you think about South's performance on today's Perhaps North should have taken the auction more slowly, starting with a two-diamond cue-bid. Three no-trump by North (or by South on a nonspade lead) is laydown.

Declarer won West's diamond lead with his king, cashed the club ace, played a diamond to dummy's ace and led a heart. After East played low, South finessed his nine. However, West won with the 10 and switched to a spade: two down. "I made the right play in hearts," said South. "I win whenever East has the K-10 or Q-10 and lose only when East has the K-Q." Do you agree? No, of course not. From the bidding, it is clear that East has the spade ace. To avoid three losers, South needs to find hearts 3.3 (to establish a discard for a spade loser) and West must be kept off the lead. Given this lie of the land, the percentage table must be ignored. South must lead a heart to his jack. When it wins, two more rounds of hearts bring home the contract. Why didn't Heagy have to take a drop and a one-stroke penalty? Because as he arrived at the pipe, the ball popped out, followed closely by a toad!
