The FBI says Miami's one confirmed and four suspected acts of terrorism in 1988 has earned the city that unenviable ranking.

LAKE MARY -- For Lake Mary High School swimmer Helen Paget-Wilkes. Tuesday morning began like any other -- a 5:15 a.m. swing through The Springs housing devel-opment in Longwood to pick up teammate Mark Frazier.

But events suddenly turned dramatic. Helen's mother heard the gateheeper call-ing paramedics. A woman needed help for her husband. She said he was suffering a heart attach.

"My mother told him we knew CPR (cardio-pulminery resuscitation) and he told us where the house was." the high school homore said later.

very good quality wine," said Dominique Defrance, co-director of France's wine producers association.

Wine producers benefitted from a summer drought that resulted in severe agricultural losses and prompted major forest fires in southern France.

"The generally dry and sunny weather produced very healthy grapes." Defrance said. There are no impuritles, no rot. The grapes are naturally rich in sugar."

In the Burgundy, Touraine, Jura, Beaujolais and Bordeaux regions, wine producers are comparing 1989 to 1976 and 1959, two exceptional years in the recent history of French wine making.

Unless there is opposition voiced by members of the community, the board is expected to pass the budget in its original form at their regular meeting which will follow immedately after the budget hearing.

No one commented on the school board's proposed budget at the first hearing Aug. 2. Board chairman Ann Neiswender predicted tonight's hearing will bring out the same sort of numbers.

The proposed $246.2 million budget carries with it a 2.3 percent inillage rate increase for the coming year. ## Lake Mary leads the way in trading trash for cash

By SANDRA BOUCHAHINE Herald staff writer

LAKE MARY - By 1995. Florida will require all counties and citles to recycle 30 percent of all their solid waste. Lake Mary has caught on to the program quickly and has even got a jump on the county.

Lake Mary has been trading its trash for cash since last December when a recycling center was placed at the Shoppes At Lake Mary off Lake Mary Boulevard. Residents use the center to drop off used newspaper, aluminum cans, plastic, and glass bottles.

The recycling center was the joint effort of the city, Lake Mary-Chamber of Commerce and Western Waste Industries Inc. of Florida, the city's garbage disposal company. Western Waste provided the garbage hins. Buy-back centers like Kokomo Tool Co. in Sanford and Southeast Recycling of Orlando paid the city for the materials.

By July, the recycling center produced 100,000 pounds of recyclable material and earned the city about $1,300. The money went into a special Lake Mary Chamber of Commerce fund to be used for local charities.

Soon, Lake Mary will be the first in the county to initiate curbside recycling, adopting a program even before the county has one.

The commission last week approved an ordinance and if adopted in the final form, the city will enter into a live-year franchise agreement with Western Waste Industries Inc. to be the exclusive collector of solid waste within the city. Curbside recycling will begin in the city Oct. 1.

Bright, green containers bearing a white city logo will be provided to every citizen one week before the solid waste pickup begins. Residents will use the 14-gallon hin to deposit their recyclables and will place the container on the curb where it

Wekiva commercial venture draws county

BY J. HARK BARFIELD Heraid staff writer

SANFORD — Seminole County's planning director argued Tuesday that a commer-cial facility on one acre of land on the site, which is 200 feet could have no more impact on the environment than a single home, and thus meet state requirements to maintain a rural community near the Wekiva River.

If a landowner wants to build a convenience store. Tony Van-Derworp said it is up to the owner - not the county - to design the store so it would have no more impact than a home. "Commercial covers a wide range of uses." VanDerworp said.

VanDerworp's comments came during the first day of testimony before state hearing officer Bob Meale to consider the state Department of Community Affairs request to "down plan" the uses allowed on five acres of land on either side of Longwood Markham Road south of State suid adaride. TALLAHASSEE - The idea of giving condemned inmates the option of execution by lethal injection instead of electrocution resurfaced Tuesday, this time as a way to encourage organ donations by death row inmates.

Senate Corrections Chairman Larry Plummer, D-South Miami, said he plans to file legislation for the regular session next spring that would permit execution by lethal injection for prisoners who agree to donate their used in Florida, but 15 other organs to medicine.

"It would be whether they want to donate their organs to do something for society," Plummer told reporters.

Such donations are not possible with electrocution, which essentially burns the internal organs, said Plummer, a mortician who recently reviewed resuits from autopsies performed on executed inmates.

Death in the electric chair is the only method of execution

The lethal injection option surfaced last year but got nowhere. State leaders including Gov. Bob Martinez have tended to oppose any tinkering with the death statutes, rather than risk giving inmates new grounds for appeal.

EDITORIALS Doing right thing about health care

Congress has returned from its summer recess with stern instructions from many irste senior citizens to repeal the Medicare Catastrophic Coverage Act of 1988. Rep. Dan Rostenkowski can testify to the depth of their anger. The Illinois Democrat, chairman of the House Ways and Means Committee, was accusted in Chicago by more than 50 seniors who surrounded his automobile, pounded on the window and demanded that he do something about the controversial law expanbding health benefits for older Americans. benefits for older Americans.

That something will be done is inevitable. No fewer than 30 bills already have been introduced either to acrap the catastrophic act, acale back its benefits, or modify the way it is financed. Additional proposals are expected from jittery lawmakers who have heard an earful while in their districts.

In its scramble to contain the political repercussions, however, Congress should not abandon the catastrophic program altogether.

When Dr. Otis Bowen, former secretary of Health and Human Services, proposed the plan, he envisioned a basic program to protect senior citizens from being bankrupted by lengthy hospital stays. But by the time Congress finished revising

Unlike previous Medicare add-ons, beneficiaries rather than workers pay for catastrophic coverage. This is as it should be. But the program is financed by a steeply progressive surtax levied on 40 percent of the seniors, many of whom already are covered by less sympative private insurements. covered by less expensive private insurance. Consequently, fewer than half of the recipients are paying more than half of the costs.

A restructuring to spread the burden more equitably is in order — provided the beneficiaries continue to pay for the program.

Steps also can be taken to reduce the program's bets. One obvious economy would be to eliminate overlife for prescription drugs, which is sched-uled to begin next year. One formula to ease the burden for the top 40 percent of beneficiaries already is being considered on Capitol Hill. This proposal would haive the pending 25 percent surfax that these retires will pending 25 percent surtax that these retirees will pay next year and require recipients with incomes of less than $25,000 to pay more for their coverage.

U.S. 'drug war' lacks clear leader

ASHINGTON - In the w WASHINGTON — in the wake of White House briefings on President Bush's anti-drug plas, a question that was asked repeatedly during the Reagan years is being asked again: Who exactly is in charge of the war on drugs? During the Reagan years the question was usually asked by members of Congress frustrated by their inability to get anyone to take the responsibility for what was clearly a failing effort. Often the question was saked of then Attorney General Edwin Messe, who was the head of the National Drug Policy Board, which was charged with managing the war on drugs. Messe often explained that the board was a collegial effort of the heads of all the agencies in charge of different aspects of the war on drugs. "The president is in ultimate command," Messe would

The single purpose of the policy board was to bring these kinds of territorial squabbles to an end. But in the face of a potential Reagan veto it backed down, leaving it up to future presidents to determine the exact status and role of the position. Not surprisingly. Bush has chosen to downpley that role of his drug cast. He has not made William Bennett a member of his Cabinet. ON THE VOLGA RIVER. U.S.S.R. -Freighters plying this river spew a rainbow of chemicals into the water. Rusting pipes on the shoreline dump raw human sewage into the rolling concoction. Legend once had it that a dip in the "Mother Volga" could add 10 years to one's life.

But anyone unwise enough to make that dip today will emerge covered with oil and gasoline. And thousands of caviar-bearing sturgeon go belly-up in the Volga every year.

What happened to the river whose name means "holy"? The same thing that happened to the city water supply in Leningrad and the air in the Urals -seven decades of the Communist Party of rule, where industrialisation was sacrosanct and the environment was expendable.

That callous disregard for Mother Nature has cost the Soviets their clean water and air, and maybe their lives. The Soviet Union has more doctors per capita than any other nation. but statistics

To make up the difference, the remaining 60 percent of the beneficiaries would see their basic monthly premium increase from $4.90 to $8.40.

Another alternative could be to increase the deductible for routine medical expenses. For example, if middle- and upper-income seniors were required to pay $200 for physician services instead of the current $75, much of a catastrophic surtax could be eliminated.

The Congessional Budget Office estimates that such an increase in deductibles would lower Medicare outlays by $16.4 billion during the next five years. And replacing the annual deductible of $560 for hospital care with a 20 to 30 percent co-payment during the first week of hospitalization would produce still more savings that could eliminate the surtax altogether.

After Congress fine-tunes the current law, it should also address the catastrophic coverage that senior citizens urgently need - long-term nursing senior cluzens urgently need — long-term nursing home care. One possibility is that the same tax incentives that apply to life insurance could be extended to nursing-home insurance. Americans could be permitted to use their pension funds, such as Individual Retirement Accounts and 401(K) plans, to make tax-free purchases of such insurance. Similarly, life insurance companies could be encouraged to offer policies that convert to long-term health insurance upon the policyholder's retirement.

Congress can produce a catastrophic health care plan that protects the nation's elderly without imposing undue financial burdens on seniors of moderate means. Given the vocal reaction against the plan as it is now structured, changes are needed if this worthwhile program is to survivie at

U.S. a paper tiger once again

WASHINGTON - in a generally serene and hopeful world picture, one trony stands out like a sore thumb. The Soviet Union displays its forbearance by tolerating experiements in democracy in Poland and Hungary, while the United States shows its self-restraint by allowing democracy to be throttled in Panama. President Bush says "there's a high frustration level" he feels at the inability, after two years of trying, to rid the hemisphere of Manuel Antonio Noriega, the drug-running Panamanian strongman. He's right to feel frustrated, but he and this country also ought to feel angry and embarrassed about what's happened. It's the absence of such feelings, both in this capital and among the voters, that disturbs me.

A few weeks ago, after the U.S. government had passively watched the Organization of American States (OAS) duck another deadline for dealing with Noriega, I started asking knowledgeable people why the United States, with all its power, has been so ineffectual in dealing with this tinpot dictator.

The answers I heard from members of Congress of both parties and officials of the Carter, Reagan and Bush administrations who have dealt or are dealing with the Panamanian problem, were, in composite, a shameful story of ineptitude. And then, by chance, last weekend I came across an essay by Margaret E. Scranton of the University of Arkansas at Little Rock, which laid out the picture in clear terms.

In the paper she prepared for the American Political Science Asan. meeting in Atlanta, she said, "U.S. attempts to oust Gen. Noriega failed because ... policy makers operated under a mistakenly overconfident assessment of U.S. influence ... and underestimated (Noriega's) power position and capacity to resist U.S. pressure.'

Almost everything I heard from my interviews tended to bear out her conclusion. Elliott Abrams, the assistant secretary of state for Latin-American affairs in the Reagan administration, said: "The Reagan administration made a fundamental mistake in taking on Noriega without being ready to win. We decided on confrontation before we agreed on what we would do to take him out ... and when he called our bluff, we had to back down.

Rep. Sam Gejdenson (D-Conn.), who comes at the question from a much different perspective, said that his congressional subcommittee learned that when the Reagan administration ordered economic sanctions against Noriega in 1987, "they had never sat down...and done a bottom-line accounting of what it would cost hime. The examptions they granted were enough for Noriega to live on. They didn't come down hard enough to dislodge him."

But these are, in a way, the casy answers. As Scranton points out, long before the Reagan administration turned on Noriega, the United States helped create him. We aided him to set up a private army and a private supply line to Central America when he was helping us sustain the contras - another folly. When he started moving drugs and laundering money with the same network, we first looked the other way. Later, when we indicted him for drug trafficking and tried to force him out of power, some of our Latin friends and allies could not see anything but another example of American imperialism. Even now, the fact that this guy is throttling democracy by the throat doesn't cut as much ice with them as the fact that he's standing up to the big brother of the north.

We decided

tion before we agreed on . what we

The Carter administration's Robert Pastor and Sol Linowitz argue that the big mistake was turning it into a fight between Uncle Sam and Noriega, instead of letting the Panamanian opposition call the signals. "We should never have undertaken on our own to declare war on Noriega." Linowitz says — a significantly different analysis than Abrams' contention that our mistake was declaring war without a clear commitment to victory.

Republicans like Sen. Dick Lugar (R-Ind.) and Rep. Robert Lagomarsino (R-Calif.) argue that Bush's policy of international pressure eventually will pay off, if only we're patient. But it's hard not to suspect that Abrams is right when he says that Noriega "views the OAS with contempt."

Unhappily we have also given him reason to view the United States with contempt. He has negated our military power by implied threats to sabotage the Panama Canal and has shown he can easily survivie our ineffectual economic sanctions and diplomatic protests.

Back in May, Bush said. "It we tail to send a clear signal when democracy is imperiled, the enemies of constitutional government will become more dangerous. And that's why events in Panama place an enormous respon-sibility on all nations in the democratic community.'

Nice words, but so far unsupported by action. Does no one give a damn?

show an alarming decrease in the general health of the people.

The average Soviet man can expect to live 60 years. That's six years less than the life expectancy of the '60s. A startling one-third of the men will get cancer, according to secret Soviet estimates.

Soviet babies are paying the highest price. Infant mortality in the Soviet Union is three times worse than in the United States. The Soviet Union is the only industrialized nation whose infant death rate is showing a steady increase

One of the Soviet leaders raising hell behind the scenes is biologist and ecologist Alexei Yablokov. He reckons that one-fifth of the Soviet people live in ecological "disaster" zones, while another 35 to 40 percent live in ecologically "unfavorable" areas

The horror stories are reported in the Soviet press or passed by word of mouth:

· Children in Smolensk began losing their eyesight, and their hands shook uncontrollably before officials cracked down on a factory that was dumping mercury into the Dnieper River.

 Ash blown from steel mills in the Urals killed birds, but no one reacted until the faces of children were burned by the fallout.

Shoddy construction of an earthen dam for a fertilizer plant in the Ukraine caused a break in the dam that flooded 300 miles of the Dniestr River with concentrated salts.

 Leningrad's water is undrinkable for visitors and unhealthy for residents because nearby Lake Ladoga was polluted by dump-ing from a cellulose works.

• The Aral Sea. once the world's fourth largest lake, has shrunk by two thirds in the last decade. Farmers have pulled so much irrigation water from it that by the year 2010 it will be a desert if nothing is done.

• Lake Baikal holds an incredible 20 percent of the Earth's fresh water supply, yet for decades pulp and paper factories spewed their untreated waste into it.

The Chernobyl nuclear plant disaster may have slapped Soviets to their senses. Environmental groups are springing up. They form political committees and field candidates. Greenpeace will soon open a Moscow office. Mikhail Gorbachev has formed an "Environmental Committee" to survey the problem.

But perestroika may have come too late to save much of what the Soviets have care-lessly destroyed. The Communist Party, in a relatively short span of time. created an industrialized nation with a military superpower status to stand up to any and all enemies from without.

Commercial service will experience a 15 percent increase. Residential service will become mandatory and residents will be billed monthly on their utility bills by the city. Those who do not receive utility bills will be getting one, said City Manager John Litton.

Curbaide recycling will be scheduled in conjunction with the regular garbage collection. Residential garbage will be picked up Monday, Tuesday, Thursday and Friday with the Wednesday and Saturday pickups being climinated.

Litton has further negotiated with Western Waste so that the recycling will bring a guaranteed franchise fee to the city of about $50,000, or 15 percent of the revenues collected, estimated at $29,618 a month for residential and commercial pickups. The Forest Club, an adult community on Lake Mary Boulevard, pays alightly less for garbage collection but will pay the $1.75 recycle fee. The city will have the advantage of having control of its own recycle program, but intends to cooperate with the county as it works to establish a uniform county-wide curbaide recycling program. The county is now issuing proposals to select haulers for three or four areas including the unincorporated areas. If the county adopts a curbside recycling rate of $1.60, for example, the Lake Mary rate will be reduced 15 cents. However, the city rate will not go above $1.75 regardless of what the county charges.

Litton said he was "excited" about the recycling program and called the city "the pioneers for Seminole County."

"I think the rest of the cities will be looking very closely at it. Seminole County, in total, will end up with the best (recycling) In the state," Litton said. Litton said education is an important factor in making recycling successful and he has already involved Lake Mary Elementary School in a contest to come up with a recycling slogan. The winner will be announced during the grand opening ceremony of the new public works and safety complex on Rinehart Road Sept. 23.

El Salvador peace talks begin

MEXICO CITY - Representatives of El Balvador's leftist rebels and the conservative government arrived to rejuvenate stalled peace talks today amid skepticism about a breakthrough that would end their decade-old civil war.

The talks are the first between the 3-month-old government of President Alfredo Cristiani and his extreme-right Nationalist Republican Alliance party, known as ARENA, and the leftist Farabundo Marti National Liberation Front, or FMLN.

Representatives of both sides arrived Tuesday in Mexico City but neither disclosed the time and venue of the talks. The Mexican Foreign Ministry vowed to keep the meeting place secret for security reasons.

West Germany nevertheless braced for the arrival of thousands more East Germans escaping a hard-line communist system that some said had drained them of hope. More than 10,000 had arrived in West

Miami wishes to change 'bad boys of football' tag

United Press International

MIAMI - The Miami Hurricanes reacted with dismay Tuesday to a newspaper column that said they were still the bad boys of college football.

The column in the Chicago Tribune called the No. 2 Hurricanes a "nasty, swaggering, tonguetrashing bunch" in the wake of a 51-3 victory at Wisconsin Saturday. It said Miami has players "you wouldn't want your local motorcycle gang to be associated with." "I don't know where all this is coming from." said defensive end Greg Mark. "We're enthusiastic when we make a big play. We celebrate.

"I guess the past is still haunting us, but even then, I think we got a bad rap," Mark said. "We're just having fun. We don't taunt."

The NCAA has an anti-taunting rule this year that carries a 15-yard penalty. Criticism of the Hurricanes was a factor in its enactment.

The Hurricanes also have had some off-the field problems under Coach Jimmy Johnson, who left for the Dallas Cowboys in March. But except for a few isolated incidents. those problems ended more than ### two years ago.

Still, the reputation for taunting. especially defensive taunting. persists. Coach Dennis Erickson, asked if he had anything to say about it, had a lot to say.

"I think it's a bad rap. So-called taunting is a 15-yard penalty. We didn't get penalized. Our players play with a great deal of enthusiasm. When we make a play, we get together and celebrate, they hit each other. When we score a touchdown they celebrate." Erickson said.

"When people do that, all over the country, it's called celebrating. When we do it, it's called taunting.

"It's completely unfair. We've got great young men on our football team who enjoy playing the game of football. During that game Saturday they weren't talking to them. There wasn't anything like that going on." said Erickson, who moved from Washington State to replace Johnson in March.

"Obviously it goes back a few years. People seem to think that's how we are, regardless of what we do. "When I was at Washington State, as a football coach watching Bee Miami, Page 2B

Clayton ends holdout

United Press Internatio

MIAMI - Pro-Bowl wide receiver Mark Clayton ended a 47-day holdout Tuesday, arriving at the Miami Dolphins' training facilities hoping the club would still renegotiate his contract before his option year runs out at the end of the season.

Clayton was the second holdout to report this week. Rookie running back Sammie Smith, a first-round draft choice, came to terms Monday.

Still holding out are starting inside linebackers John Offerdahl and Mark Brown. Offerdahl, like Clayton is in the option year of his contract, but Brown is unsigned.

The Dolphins said they take the position that if a player is in his option year, he is signed and in that case they will not negotiate if he refuses to come to camp. Miami Player Personnel Director Charley Winner said the Dolphins had been sticking to that policy. Clayton said he had been assured that if he reports to camp, the Dolphins will bargain with him honestly.

"I spoke with my attorney and he told me they would work with us in good faith." Clayton said. "They said they thought I was among the best receivers in the league, so I decided to come in and see if they would go with their good faith."

Clayton, known for being temperamental in the past, said he would remain in camp whatever the circumstances.

"I'm here to play. If I thought I might leave. I would not have come in." Clayton said.

Clayton's decision to report was expected to provide an immediate boost for the Miami offense.

Quarterback Dan Marino passed for 255 yards in a 27-24 loss to Buffalo Sunday, but only 99 yards worth were caught by wide receivers Mark Duper. Freddie Banks and Andre Brown.

Marino has acknowledged this year that Clayton was his favorite receiver and that on occasion last year he forced passes to him that perhaps should gone to another receiver.

Clayton, 5-9 with a 36-inch vertical jump, is a 7-year veteran out of Louisville. He has been invited to the Pro Bowl four times including last January.

He said he did not see any taunting "in the last couple, three years."

Miami has also been accused in the past of running up the score. That reached its peak in 1985 when Miami beat Notre Dame 58-7 in Coach Jerry Faust's last game with the Irish. There was a hint of it Saturday when ABC play-by-play announcer Keith Jackson asked analyst Bob Griese why starting quarterback Craig Erickson was still in the game midway through the third quarter.

Griese explained that Erickson was making his first start and needed the game experience. Erickson came out soon after that.

"We only played the first group for two and a half quarters." Dennis Erickson said. I would have liked to have seen Craig play more, but I don't believe in that."

Would the coach like to see a closer encounter so he could get a better look at his starters? Coach Erickson is not a foolish man

"If I had my choice I wouldn't like to have one tight game in 11." he said with a grin.

At DeLand it was Lake Mary putting together a well balanced attack to rip the Buildogs 15-4, 15-7 as every Lake Mary player played in both games.

The Rams, 7-2 overall and 2-0 in the SAC. will return to action Monday against Merritt bland at Lake Brantley.

"Tammy Scott and Tara Calvin really hit well today," Lake Mary coach Cindy Henry said. "Everyone played well, the whole team was attacking so DeLand couldn't concentrate on stopping one player. We had three tough hitters at the net all day."

Calvin also served well for Lake Mary as she kept the Bulldog defense on edge and collected points for her team.

"I told her (Calvin) to go after it," Henry said. "It's nice to see both her and Tammy playing well. Neither of them had a real good tournament this weekend."

The Rama, 3-0 overall and 2-0 in the conference, will have to pick up their level of play this week as they face Dr. Phillips today and Oviedo Thursday in a big SAC battle.

"We didn't play well in the first game." Lake Mary coach Bill Whalen said. "We were down 5-0 and we called timeout. We then scored 11 straight points and played well in the second game."

Oviedo and Lake Mary have been labled as the two best county boys team and both are anxiously awaiting their meeting.

But Charlie continued unperturbed, playing a spade to dummy's 10 and leading the 10 of hearts. When Charlie played low, West won the queen. What would you suggest that West now play? A heart return would allow declarer to win the nine in dummy, cash the ace of diamonds, overtake the queen of spades with the king and play two more spades, throwing the five and queen of diamonds away. If West discards a heart, declarer takes the A-J; if West throws the king of diamonds away, dummy's jack becomes a winner. If West instead leads a throwing away the eight and jack of hearts to squeeze West out of one of the red kings. And finally the strength of declarer's heart suit provides a solution if West plays another club. Declarer will discard a heart from dummy and ruff, then play ace of hearts and run the jack through. Whether West covers the heart or not, declarer will be able to get rid of dummy's diamond loser. Charlie had the right name after all.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) It may be wise to set a flexible schedule for yourself today. because you might want to take moment developments. This is the kind of day where unusual things could happen. SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec.

21) Something material you presently have going for you that is running rather well can be improved upon to produce even grander benefits. Don't be content with the status quo. CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan.

19) Your greatest pleasures to-day are likely to come from people, not things. In order to have a good time, all you need is to be around pals who enjoy life as much as you do.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) Minor changes you make today in working out your financial objectives could be extremely significant and help enhance your possibilities for success. Don't be afraid to innovate. PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20)

Kleptomaniac crying for help

BAR ABOT: If you're an Alcoholics, you can get help at Alcoholics Anonymous. If you're a drug addict, you can get help from any number of drug re-habilitation facilities. But if you're a kleptomaniac-and not rich-you are doomed. Psychiatrists charge outra-geous fees to help klep-

There is no quick "cure," but a therapist may be able to tell you why you take things, and once you understand the reason for your behavior, you will be well on your way to overcoming it. I admire you. The person who knows he or she has a problem and seeks a solution is halfway. cured.

DEAR ABBY: We have a problem that requires a quick solution. A wedding is coming up in our family soon, and there is a certain relative who takes her 6-year-old daughter every-where. Wendy (not her real name) has attended every wedding, shower, anniversary party. etc. in the family. Wendy is very cute and loves to show off. Her mother encourages her, so consequently Wendy is always the center of attention.

Bince Wendy's mother never tells her to all down and he quiet, other family members eventually do when they have had it up to here. Also, when pictures are taken at these family celebrations. Wendy runs to be in every picture, while her to be in every picture, while her mother just sits there beaming. Should we politely ask Wendy's mother to please leave Wendy at home with a aitter? This has been going on for years. and we are ....

DRAR SICK: Since you have tolerated Wendy's annoying behavior "for years." it's a little late to suggest that now she be left at home with a sitter. I DECK OF IT

You would be doing both Wendy and her mother a favor if you explained to this myopic mom that by encouraging Wendy to be the "center of attention," she will soon believe that she is the center of the universe. And self-centered

Mayor Bradley's finances could result in civil fines

United Press International

LOS ANGELES — Mayor Tom Bradley's controversial financial affairs will likely result in a civil suit but no criminal charges from an unprecedented investigation, officials say.

City Attorney James Hahn said he would release a report today on the results of his five-month probe into conflict-of-interest allegations and other financial irregularities.

Sources familiar with the inquiry have said investigators discovered more than 100 errors in the five-term mayor's financial reports from 1984 to 1988, but found no evidence of criminal violations that could result in

Mayor Tom Bradley

Bradley's removal from office.

For criminal charges to be filed under the state disclosure law, there must be evidence the mayor willfully and intentionally sought to hide his financial dealings from the public.

Instead. Hahn is expected to file a civil suit seeking to collect fines for Bradley's violations of the state Fair Political Practices Act.

If Bradley, 71, is penalized for each violation, he could face more than $200,000 in fines, which could be lowered by negotiations between the mayor's legal team and the City Attorney's Office.

Bradley made a dramatic public admission in City Hall May 10.
