Teachers, School Board Reach Impasse

By Jim Searls
Herald Staff Writer

Attempts to renegotiate the rejected Seminole County teachers' contract failed Wednesday night and the Seminole County School board has declared bargaining at an impasse.

The state Public Employees Relations Commission will next take a crack at breaking the stalemate, according to school board chief negotiator Ernest Cowley. The commission will select a "special master" from a list of available hearing officers to negotiate a settlement. The settlement will not be binding, however, because by Florida law binding arbitration is not imposed on public employees. Nor are the employees allowed to strike.

The futile bargaining session took place at Lake Mary High School and was attended by SEA members. Cowley's negotiating team and the SEA team led by Marshall Ogletree.

No date has been set for the Special Master's hearing. However SEA members plan a rally to trumpet their cause. It will be held, according to Ogletree, two hours before the scheduled Seminole County School Board meeting 7:30 p.m. Sept. 11.

The rally is expected to be held at the baseball field next to school board offices at 1211 Mellonville Ave. in Sanford.

"We are negotiating to use the ballfield, but if we can't get it we will use the parking lot outside the school board building. I expect several hundred to a thousand people to attend."

Ogletree said, "Until this matter is resolved, we will use any and all legal means to effect a favorable settlement."

While it is illegal for teachers to strike in Florida, some SEA members said there probably would be "educational picketing" at various locations in the county.

Teachers most displeased with the earlier negotiated contract, which was defeated 786 to 728 last week, are those with 15 years or more

School Board To Offer Park For Rezoning

The Seminole County School Board will offer part of its 11-acre parcel across from Sanford Middle School as a park in exchange for Sanford's rezoning of the property.

The school board plans to sell the property and needs a commercial zoning designation to get a top price.

Superintendent of Schools Robert Hughes suggested, and the board agreed, to draft a letter to the city asking for the rezoning in return for part of the property for use as a city park. The board did not say how much of the land they would offer for the park.

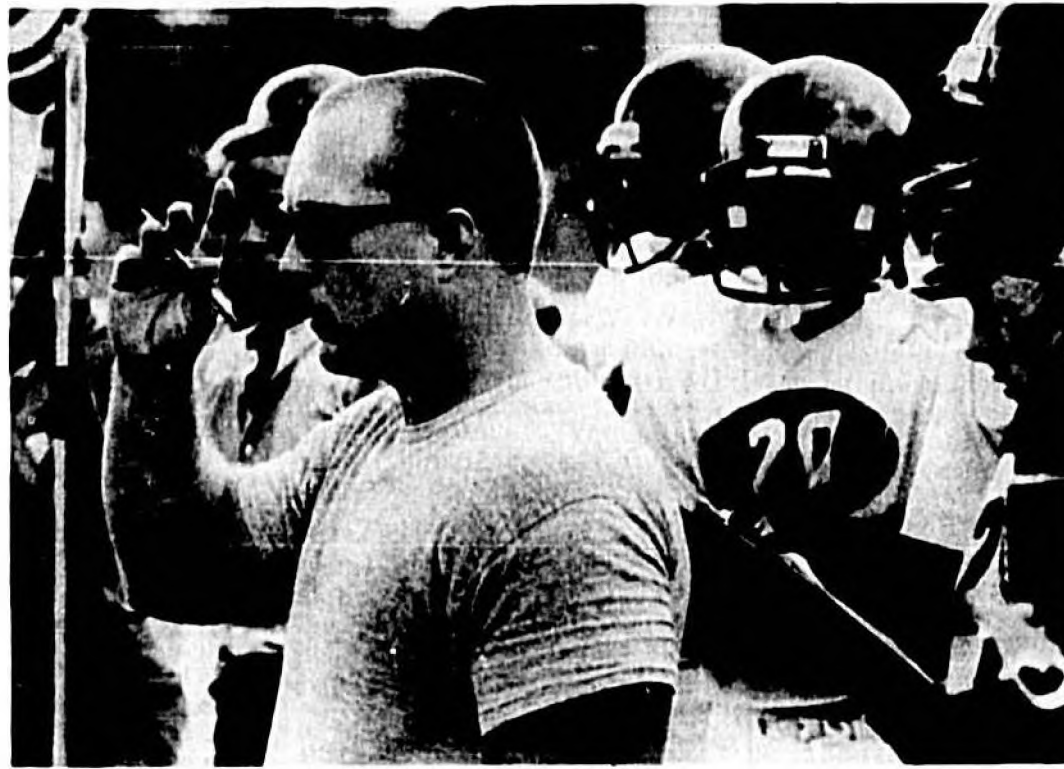

Donating part of the parcel for a park was the idea of board member William Kroll. At a school board meeting Wednesday he pointed out that residents near the property have vehemently protested efforts to rezone it for commercial development and suggested the park would make the rezoning more palatable. Hughes agreed.

"I don't want anyone to accuse us of ramming anything down anyone's throat," he said.

The land, termed by a city of Sanford Planning and Zoning commissioner "a hot potato," is used for a "sandlot" baseball field and as a neighborhood recreational facility. Residents in the vicinity expressed their displeasure this summer over proposals to build a shopping center and some residences on the property.

P&Z Disapproves Of Land Plan Change, But Door Left Open

By Janie Gnat
Herald Staff Writer

Participants at a public hearing of the Seminole County Planning and Zoning Commission applauded a motion by Commissioner Jim Weinberg for outright denial of a change in the county land use plan from low intensity urban to low intensity commercial for a parcel of land on Markham Woods Road.

But Weinberg's motion was defeated in favor of a denial "without prejudice," leaving the door open for the developer to resubmit his request immediately.

Commissioners met before a packed house Wednesday night and for 90 minutes heard arguments for and against rezoning from agriculture to an office park district five acres of land on the east side of Markham Woods Road near I-4.

Motions to deny the land use plan change and an accompanying rezoning request "without prejudice" passed the commission 3-2, with Sue Lewis, chairman, and Weinberg dissenting. Had the motions passed with prejudice the developer would have had to wait a year before again asking the P&Z to approve of their request.

Weinberg contended there are other uses for the land much more compatible with the residential area such as churches or day care centers.

"It would be a terrible mistake for this board to change the zoning at this time," Weinberg said. "This is one of the last pieces of property to be developed on Markham Road."

Ms. Lewis said she is in favor of the rezoning and that is why she voted against the motion. Weinberg asked the record to show he voted against the motion because he is in favor of total denial, not denial without prejudice.

"If this is allowed we're starting a domino effect up and down Markham Road," said Commissioner Harry Hagle. Hagle and several property owners in the area said they were afraid

Attorney Gen.: Judges Too Soft On Hardened Criminals

By Deane Jordan
Herald Staff Writer

A letter from Attorney General Jim Smith to Florida circuit judges stating they thwart Florida's sentencing guidelines by going easier on repeat offenders than they do on first-timers was labeled "unjust and unfair" today by a Seminole County circuit judge. And another Seminole County judge said he was "pleased" with Smith's observations.

Smith wrote to judges throughout Florida warning the entire guideline system could be undermined unless they adhere more strictly to recommended sentences.

"I think (the letter) was an unjust criticism of the entire judiciary," said Circuit Judge S. Joseph Davis Jr.

"The judges are being placed in the position of acquiescence," he said. "If they don't want to give the judge any discretion they should tell the judge what sentence to give," Davis said. Under the guideline system, judges are required to sentence a person within a set sentencing range. If the judge can show cause, however, he can lessen the sentence or increase the sentence.

"I have mitigated a few sentences and aggravated a few," Davis said. "I think the (Seminole-Brevard) circuit judges are complying with the guidelines and use their discretion appropriately."

Smith said in the letter that, "leniency stems not from the recommended ranges (per offense) in the guidelines, but from the decisions of the courts in moving dispositions below the ranges."

"I supported implementation of sentencing guidelines and abolition of parole because I believed after lengthy study that those changes would bring consistency and credibility to Florida's criminal justice system," he added. "If in practice the guidelines are not doing their job, then we should waste no time in finding out why."

Circuit Judge Dominick J. Salfi said today he was pleased Smith was collecting data that could be used to improve the sentencing guideline system. He said he had heard people say the guideline sentences were "soft" on defendants, though he was not aware of any such cases.

He said he would like to see the county by county breakdown of the data to see if certain counties are strongly influencing the results, such as Dade or Hillsborough counties with their large metropolitan areas.

Salfi said he was not offended by the letter and assumed Smith's data were accurate; and if not, that Smith would "apologize."

Smith said a recent study indicated that:

- 38 percent of repeat sexual offenders received more lenient sentences than the guidelines suggest, compared to 24.6 percent for first offenders.
- 20.7 percent of the offenders with histories of violent personal assault

Shorter Stays Cut Hospital Revenues

Hospitals are losing money because patients don't stay as long as they used to, says Jim Tesar, chief administrator at Central Florida Regional Hospital.

Like many hospitals in the state and nation, CFRH's occupancy rate is declining, Tesar said.

Florida Hospital-Orlando and Florida Hospital-Altamonte Springs also report a small decline in patient occupancy, but CFRH's sister facility in Longwood, South Seminole Medical Center, is experiencing an increase due to population growth in the area and physicians moving in.

CFRH is about 62 to 64 percent full, which is down from a year ago, Tesar said. South Seminole, which opened in 1984, has an occupancy rate of 39 to 40 percent, but it's still growing.

CFRH and South Seminole are owned by International Hospital Corporation of America, based in Nashville. HCA is a for-profit corporation.

Not-for-profit Florida Hospital is run by the Seventh Day Adventists.

Tesar attributed the industry-wide decline to shorter hospital stays caused by advances in medical technology and insurance requirements. The same number of patients as last year are checking in, but they're not staying as long, he said.

Medicare and private health insurance companies have lowered the number of days they will pay for their cus-

Survey Shows Top Needs Of Area Elderly Low-Rent Housing, Jobs, Transportation

By Jane Casselberry
Herald Staff Writer

Affordable low-rent housing, part-time employment to supplement retirement income, and transportation are the greatest needs of the elderly in Seminole County, according to a recent survey. In the Sanford area a top priority was a senior center to serve north Seminole.

That data was revealed at a recent public forum on the needs of the elderly conducted by the Area Agency on Aging, a branch of the East Central Florida Regional Planning Council.

Although only 20 persons attended the forum, held at Casselberry City Hall Friday, it was a good turnout considering the bad weather and the fact that it was a holiday weekend, said Pauline Stevens, Lake Mary, a Seminole County representative on the AAA advisory committee.

"It also wasn't bad compared to last year when there were only three attending, and to Orange County, which is much larger but only had 40 at their public forum and Osceola County, which had 15," she added. "We were required to hold the forum on that day even if we had a hurricane and even if no people showed up."

Mrs. Stevens said there was a good response from Seminole seniors who filled out the survey forms listing the most pressing needs for the county's elderly. Seminole County has a recorded 33,887 persons age 60 or older.

The only senior center in the county is one located in Casselberry, which offers a variety of activities and services, including congregate meals and adult day care, health, employment, legal and financial advice services and activities such as bingo, bridge, dancing, sewing and crafts.

The cities of Sanford and Longwood have filed letters of intent to secure federal funds for a senior center should funds become available. Mrs. Stevens said, Sanford is considered by some to have a better chance demographically because it has a higher poverty level and three senior retirement residential centers.

There are creative ways Sanford could establish a senior center without having to construct a new building, Mrs. Stevens said, such as making use of existing facilities.

At the forum, Vicky Remus, AAA principal planner, and Judith G. Hilchuk, AAA director, told of the group's plans for 1986.

Ms. Remus said priority project services recommended district-wide by AAA for include, in order of importance: home delivered meals, homemaker services, respite care, adult day

More Arrests Expected

Two Men Jailed In Arson Of Black Family's Home

By Susan Loden
Herald Staff Writer

Two men arrested in connection with what has been called a racially motivated arson of a black family's home were being held in the Seminole County jail today in lieu of $10,000 bond each. Two more suspects are expected to be arrested.

Eugene Elmore, 22, of 101 N. Devon St., Winter Springs, was charged with arson, burglary and conspiracy to commit arson at 6:24 p.m. Wednesday at his home. Also charged with arson and conspiracy to commit arson was James William Morgan, 29, of Lot 7, 7th Street, Casselberry, who was arrested at 2:41 p.m. Wednesday at 95 Lake Triplet Drive, Casselberry, a police report said.

The two are accused of torching the home of Fred Hamilton of 1121 Landmark Lane, Casselberry, shortly after 10 p.m. Monday.

Hamilton is black. Elmore and Morgan are white.

Hamilton said he and his family had had problems with the Morgans, who live about three blocks away, since the first week they moved in. He could give no reason for the trouble, except for racial tension.

Hamilton's $60,000 home was destroyed in the blaze, which Casselberry Fire Inspector John Tillman said was deliberately set. Tillman said he has asked for warrants to charge two other men, whom he would not identify, in connection with the case.

Assistant Casselberry Police Chief Win Gates said the arson appears to have been racially motivated. The Hamiltons have reported several incidents of abuse by their neighbors in the low-income, "redneck" neighborhood over the past several years, Gates said.

Hamilton claims other black families in the neighborhood have been threatened.

Although suspects accused of harassing the Hamiltons have been arrested in the past, Gates said police have not directly linked Wednesday's arrests with any previous cases involving them.

Tillman said other black families live in the neighborhood, but don't have the racial problems the Hamilton family apparently attracts.

That led Seminole County Fire Inspector Ray Pippin to doubt that the fire was a racial matter. "It's more a matter of one family not liking another. It's a feud between families."

Initially, Tillman said the suspects were believed to have bought a gallon of gasoline at the Handy Way convenience store on State Road 434 and used it to start the fire at the rear of the home.

IN BRIEF

Soviets Threatening To Test Their Own Anti-Satellite Weapon

WASHINGTON (UPI) — A counting mixup forced a postponement of the first U.S. test of an anti-satellite weapon in space but the Pentagon has rescheduled the exercise for later this month and the Soviets are threatening to follow suit.

Putting U.S.-Soviet relations on a collision course over the issue, the Pentagon said Wednesday it will go ahead with the test, in which a weapon will be fired from the underbelly of an F-15 fighter at a dead satellite now orbiting Earth.

The test will be conducted at least six weeks before the Nov. 19-20 summit between President Reagan and Soviet leader Mikhail Gorbachev and likely will be an issue in their talks.

The terse Pentagon announcement about the test, which did not give a specific date, came only hours after the Soviet Union said it will deploy and test its own anti-satellite missile in space if the United States goes ahead.

In a warning carried on the official Tass news agency, the Soviets said: "If the United States holds tests of anti-satellite weapons against a target in outer space, the Soviet Union will consider itself free of its unilateral commitment not to place anti-satellite weapons in space."

Valium Copycats Approved

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Valium, the fourth most widely prescribed drug in the nation, will soon be available under the original brand name in three newly approved copycat versions, Health Secretary Margaret Heckler said.

Heckler said Wednesday three drug companies received approval to market less-expensive generic versions of diazepam, originally patented in 1963 by Hoffmann-LaRoche Inc. The patent on the anti-anxiety drug expired in February.

"This generic drug approval means competition in the marketplace," Heckler told a news conference. "And competition leads to lower drug prices."

Heckler said those approved were Mylan Pharmaceuticals of Morgantown, W.Va., the Parke Davis division of Warner Lambert Co. of Morris Plains, N.J., and Zenith Laboratories of Northvale, N.J.

Mylan and Zenith said their diazepam would be available to consumers "in a few days" while Parke-Davis estimated its own would reach pharmacies "by early next week."

2 Boys Held In Passaic Blaze

PASSAIC, N.J. (UPI) — The two young boys who confessed to setting the devastating Labor Day blaze that killed one firefighter, caused millions of dollars in damage and left hundreds homeless could be tried as adults.

The boys, aged 12 and 13, are being held pending a court hearing Friday at which officials will determine whether they will be prosecuted as adults or juveniles.

The two, who lived in the working class neighborhood where the fire occurred, were not identified because of their ages. They were charged Wednesday with arson, criminal mischief and causing widespread damage.

Two other youths, aged 13 and 15, were held briefly as "material witnesses," police said, but were released on the condition they remained in the area.

Mayor Joseph Lipari said the two young arson suspects "admitted to setting the fire" when they were arrested Tuesday night. "They said they were playing with matches," he said.

Suit Demands Action On POWs

FAYETTEVILLE, N.C. (UPI) — Two retired Green Berets, accusing the military of intentional or negligent inaction, filed a class action suit to force President Reagan to demand the release of American POWs in Southeast Asia.

Maj. Mark Smith and Sgt. Melvin McIntire claimed in the suit filed Wednesday in U.S. District Court that there is credible evidence proving American POWs are still being held in Vietnam, Cambodia and Laos.

The suit charges military officials "intentionally or negligently" failed to tell Reagan about the POWs and "carried out a continuous course of intelligence gathering methods designed and intended to disprove, discredit or ignore factual information substantiating the existence of the plaintiffs' class (POWs)."

Presidential attorney Fred Fielding and a Pentagon spokesman both refused to comment on the suit.

The most recent proposal, that of Altamonte Springs developer Robert Hattaway, fell through when the city of Sanford delayed decision on a request for commercial zoning. Hattaway had an option to purchase the property for $600,000, but without the rezoning in hand by Aug. 21, the deadline specified in his contract with the school board for picking up the option, and no extension offered, Hattaway bowed out. The land is currently zoned mostly for residential development.

Sanford Attorney Kenneth McIntosh, filling in for absent School Board Attorney Ned Julian, Jr., said without a closing on the Hattaway contract the property would once again be listed as surplus and advertised for public sale. The money from the sale is to be used for "refurbishing" Sanford Middle School and the remainder invested for future use by the school board. McIntosh said by law the property shall be advertised for sale and sealed bids taken for its purchase. Also, he said, three sealed appraisals will be sought to determine the fair-market-value of the property.

If another six months passes without a sale, by law the sale could be handled privately, he said. He also said that the school board retains the authority to reject bids for any reason.

When asked by school board member William Kroll about the property's market value, Assistant Superintendent Benny Arnold replied, "Broken down by current zoning, the 11-acre parcel is valued at $500,000 based upon previous high and low bids from appraisers."

School Board Member Joe Williams, Jr. asked McIntosh what the chances are of getting Sanford to rezone the property, "realistically." McIntosh said he didn't know, but hinted they would be better if the school board went in "like a bull-in-a-china shop."

No Top Execs Implicated In Check-Kiting Scandal

Hutton Report To Name Names

WASHINGTON (UPI) — At least a dozen mid-level managers of E.F. Hutton & Co. are implicated in the firm's multimillion-dollar check-kiting scandal and will be punished, an internal investigation to be released today says.

Results of the months-long probe of Hutton, conducted by former Attorney General Griffin Bell, were to be announced at a news conference today.

A Hutton official in New York said Wednesday the company employees involved, described as mid-level managers and branch office managers — not top company officials — will be named in the report.

The official said Hutton will impose penalties on them ranging from censure or fines to suspension or dismissal.

A Justice Department official said there was no indication any of those named by the company could be prosecuted, but federal investigators would examine the report and decide for themselves.

Hutton, which hired Bell to conduct the inquiry, still is the subject of several government investigations into whether high-level company officials should be held responsible for the massive overdrafting scheme.

The scheme allowed the company to have the interest-free use of hundreds of millions of dollars on certain days by drawing down bank accounts in excess of expected deposits.

In May, Hutton pleaded guilty to 2,000 counts of mail and wire fraud involving overdrafts between July 1980 and February 1982 at many of the 400 banks where it had accounts.

No individuals were prosecuted in the fraud scheme, which government officials said netted millions in illegal profits for the company.

A congressional subcommittee and the Securities and Exchange Commission have been investigating the Justice Department's controversial decision to accept Hutton's guilty pleas rather than to prosecute individuals.

Although Hutton officials have said they halted illegal overdrafting when the practice came to their attention in 1982, The Washington Post reported Wednesday the company included $405 million in liabilities in 1984, which the company comptroller told a congressional subcommittee consisted largely of overdrafts.

Court Rejects 'Comparable Worth'

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — A federal appeals court rejected "comparable worth" pay standards in a Washington state sex discrimination case Wednesday in a precedent-setting ruling that could set standards for similar disputes across the nation.

"We are delighted with the result, because we put an incredible amount of work into this case and staked a lot of our reputations here in this office on the case," said Washington state Attorney General Ken Eikenberry.

Representatives of the American Federation of State, County and Municipal Employees, which brought the $400 million suit, had no immediate comment.

The three-judge panel of the 9th U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals overturned U.S. District Judge Jack Tanner's 1983 decision awarding back pay to 15,000 female Washington state workers paid less for jobs with similar skill requirements as male-dominated jobs.

The state stood to lose an estimated $400 million in back pay and increased pay requirements.

The appeals court, in overturning Tanner's decision, said the case failed to show any violation of Title VII of the Civil Rights Act and ruled federal courts have no power to interfere in the market system used to compensate state employees.

Gov. Booth Gardner of Washington said, "Regardless of the decision, which may be appealed, the legislature has directed the state to adopt a system of pay equity by 1995. We have every intention of proceeding with putting in place a program of pay equity as directed by the legislature."

In April, Civil Rights Commission Chairman Clarence Pendleton dubbed comparable worth the "looniest idea since looney tunes."

The Reagan administration entered the comparable worth legal struggle for the first time last month, filing a court brief opposing comparable pay for a group of nurses.

The concept of comparable worth has been pressed as a means of resolving pay inequities between men and women in a number of cases nationwide. The concept holds that female-dominated jobs that require similar skills and education to male-dominated jobs should receive equal pay.

The court upheld Washington's practice of using prevailing market rates to set salaries. The AFSCME had claimed the state intentionally discriminated against women by historically directing them into lower paying jobs such as nurse or secretary.

AFSCME failed "to establish the requisite element of intent by either circumstantial or direct evidence," the court said.

Even though Tanner was overturned, the issue of comparable worth will not die in the state because of a budget proviso allocating up to $42 million from the state if a settlement with employees can be reached before Jan. 1.

The court stated, "While the Washington legislature may have the discretion to enact a comparable worth plan if it chooses to do so, Title VII does not obligate it to eliminate an economic inequality which it did not create."

The ruling can now be cited in other actions around the country.

AFSCME has filed a similar suit in California on behalf of about 100,000 former and current workers in what is presently the largest comparable worth case in terms of numbers of employees in the nation.

Other actions are pending in New York, Illinois and Hawaii although the legal issues in the separate actions are not identical to those in Washington.

'Mistaken Escapist' Sentenced To 30 Days

A Sanford man who escaped from the Seminole County jail after being arrested and didn't know he escaped was sentenced to 30 days in the jail for grand theft.

Anthony Edwards, 22, of Route 2, Box 193, Hughey Avenue, was ordered by Circuit Judge Kenneth M. Lefler to serve 5 years of probation after the jail time. Edwards was given credit for two days already served.

The sentence was handed down in connection with the theft of a truckload of asphalt from his employer. The asphalt was recovered, according to court records.

Edwards escaped from the Seminole County jail shortly after his arrest March 27 but did not know it, according to sheriff's records.

It seems that after his arrest, Edwards made his first appearance the next day in the courtroom at the county jail. Following the hearing, an official asked if "Mr. Edwards" was ready to go home. Edwards stepped up, signed out and was free, records show.

Edwards, who was dressed in civilian clothes for his court appearance, walked away from the jail and flagged down a sheriff's deputy, telling him he had just been released from jail and needed a ride home.

The deputy complied. About the same time, jail officials began to look for Edwards, said Seminole County Sheriff John Polk.

It seems there were two "Mr. Edwards" before the judge and the wrong one responded when "Mr. Edwards" was asked if he was ready to be released.

"It was all very innocent," Polk said of Edward's actions. "He really thought he was being released. He signed out under his own name and just walked out the door."

Edwards was not charged with escape.

In other court action: —Michael Behnke, 19, of Sanford, was sentenced by Lefler to one year in the county jail after pleading guilty to vehicular homicide. Behnke was originally charged with DUI manslaughter in the Sept. 23 auto accident death of Kimberley Lynne Crotty, 15, of 125 Mable St., DeBary. However, the investigating Florida Highway Patrol trooper failed to show up for trial and Behnke pleaded to the lesser charge. Contempt of court charges are being prosecuted against the trooper who was on vacation deep-sea diving at the time of the trial, court records show. —Deane Jordan

Woman Says She Was Raped By Husband's Friend

A 31-year-old Deltona woman who was roaming Bookertown near Lake Monroe looking for a man who owes money to her husband told Seminole County sheriff's deputies she was raped by a friend of her husband who was helping her in her search.

According to a sheriff's report, the woman said the rapist got in her car on Main Street at about 9:30 a.m. Tuesday. She told deputies she knows the man casually and that he is a friend of her husband. They drove around Bookertown together for about 20 minutes looking for the man the victim said she wanted to collect money from, the report said.

The suspect ordered the woman to park in a secluded area. He claimed to have a gun, which the woman never saw, and said he would shoot her if she didn't submit to his sexual demands, the report said.

He ordered the woman into the backseat where he took off her jeans, threatened her again and raped her. She did not struggle with the suspect, the report said.

After the assault the woman went to Central Florida Regional Hospital, Sanford, where she met with sheriff's deputies. No arrest has been made.

BOGUS PRESCRIPTION

A 21-year-old Silver Springs

woman has been charged with obtaining a controlled substance by forged prescription after she allegedly presented a bogus prescription at a Sanford pharmacy.

The pharmacist at Super X, 2438 S. French Ave., was suspicious of the woman who had filled prescriptions at that store before, a police report said. He called Dr. Francis M. Deture, whose name was on the prescription, but Deture said he hadn't prescribed for the woman, the report said. The pharmacist then called police.

Denna Marie Glaeser was charged and is being held in lieu of $5,000 bond.

FLED, NO LICENSE

A 20-year-old Sanford man who led sheriff's deputies on a high-speed chase reportedly told them he fled because he was driving without a license and was afraid he would get in trouble if he stopped. He did. He was charged with driving without a license, fleeing and attempting to elude police and reckless driving.

A sheriff's deputy began the chase when the suspect spun his vehicle on U.S. Highway 17-92 at State Road 419 near Longwood. The officer chased the suspect at speeds of 80 to 90 mph and other patrol cars joined the pursuit where the suspect

Women Asking $20 Million

Government Sued Over UFO Radiation

HOUSTON (UPI) — A judge will review written arguments before deciding whether to dismiss a $20 million lawsuit filed by two women who claim the government failed to warn them about a UFO they claim emitted dangerous radiation.

U.S. District Judge Ross Sterling said Wednesday he would consider arguments filed by Betty Cash and Vickie Landrum in response to a government motion to dismiss their suit.

The women and Landrum's son, Colby, say they encountered the large diamond-shaped object Dec. 29, 1980, floating in the sky in front of their car on a farm road near Huffman, northeast of Houston.

The three left the car for a better look, but Landrum and her son say they retreated to the vehicle, where they huddled listening to beeping noises coming from the craft. Cash remained outside, and the object flew off accompanied by about 23 military-type helicopters, the three claim.

Landrum says the alleged experimental craft emitted radiation, causing all three to suffer a series of illnesses following the encounter — including blisters, hair loss, dizziness, headaches and sensitivity to sunlight.

"I've waited four years and suffered no end," said Landrum, who now lives in Dayton, about 35 miles northeast of Houston.

Cash has been hospitalized with cancer and may not be able to travel to Houston from Birmingham, Ala., if the case goes to trial.

Sterling did not indicate when he would rule. The government claims it cannot be proved the government had control of the UFO.

"They didn't say this UFO was owned or controlled by the United States," said Assistant U.S. Attorney Frank Conforti. "You can't hold the government liable for actions it doesn't control." The suit claims the government was negligent for letting the craft fly over a public road.

Rodger's project was painting 106 house numbers over five blocks in Sunland and involved 19 boys for a total of 250 hours.

Auto Accident Victim Dies

A 75-year-old Oviedo man suffering from an injury since a June 22 auto accident in Apopka has died.

Henry Duwe, of 1501 Chipmunk Lane, Oviedo, died Monday at Winter Park Memorial Hospital where he was receiving treatment for a cervical spine injury, according to the Orange County Medical Examiner's office.

While the spine injury may have influenced Duwe's health, the cause of death may have been natural, a spokesman said. He said tests are being conducted to determine the exact cause of death.

Duwe was a passenger in a car driven by his wife, Pauline Duwe, 79. Their vehicle ran into the rear of a car driven by Morra Larson, 66, of 1589 Belfast Court, Apopka, according to Apopka Police Chief Tom Collins.

According to a police report, Mrs. Larson's car failed to yield the right of way at Unity Drive and State Road 500 in Apopka and was struck by the Duwes' vehicle. Mrs. Larson was charged with violation of the right-of-way, and further charges are pending an investigation, Collins said.

Cocaine At The Ballpark

"I didn't care about the game. The majority of the time we were in a hurry to get the game over with and do it (cocaine) all over again."

— Lonnie Smith
Kansas City Royals outfielder

The latest report on the widespread use of cocaine by major-league baseball players is a vivid reminder of how serious the abuse of this insidious drug has become, not just in baseball clubhouses, but throughout America.

The four-part series on cocaine and baseball that appeared in The New York Times recently and was syndicated throughout the country, told of stadium drug deals, players using cocaine during games, and, in one case, players giving the drug to a teenage batboy.

For Lonnie Smith and other players, baseball sometimes became less important than cocaine. Drug-abuse experts say this is not uncommon, that cocaine abusers often reach the point where the drug is the most powerful influence in their lives. Likewise, cocaine use has become so common in this country that no one should be surprised to learn that some baseball players use and abuse it.

After all, the National Institute of Drug Abuse estimates that 22 million Americans have used cocaine. The research director of a national cocaine hot line says between 5 million and 6 million Americans use the drug at least once a month and between 2 million and 3 million are seriously dependent upon it. Thus, it may be too much to expect any segment of our society to be totally free of the pervasive influence of cocaine and other drugs.

Still, it should not be too much to expect major-league baseball officials and the players' union to adopt strong measures to combat the widespread use of drugs by players. Unfortunately, this has not happened.

Indeed, with a few exceptions, such as San Diego Padres' owner Joan Kroc, most baseball officials try to pretend the problem doesn't exist or, when confronted with proof that it does, insist that it is diminishing. Don Fehr, acting executive director of the Major League Players Association, says "the use of cocaine is way down." In the past, of course, Mr. Fehr always insisted that there was no problem at all.

The most notable exception to this head-in-the-sand approach is Commissioner Peter Ueberroth. The commissioner believes drugs are the No. 1 problem facing baseball. Unfortunately, its No. 2 and 3 problems appear to be the intransigence of the players' union on this issue and the lack of courage on the part of most owners.

In May, Mr. Ueberroth implemented a drug-testing program for professional baseball — minor and major leagues — including almost everyone from owners to clubhouse attendants. Everyone, that is, except major-league players and umpires, whose union contracts prohibited such tests. The umpires agreed to participate in the drug-testing program. Only the players' union refused.

This was not the first time the union had demonstrated its unwillingness to confront baseball's drug problem. Earlier this year, the Los Angeles Dodgers included drug-test clauses in the contracts of seven players. The players did not object, but the union did.

Drug abuse in America is not a sports problem. It is a societal problem, one of the most serious facing the nation today. Thus, it must be attacked on all fronts. In schools, the workplace and on the athletic field.

But it is particularly important that every effort be made to eliminate or at least reduce drug use among professional athletes, who are role models and heroes to the nation's youth. That's something team owners and players alike should remember when they consider what to do about the problem of drugs in sports.

Education Dollars Are Going To Waste

WASHINGTON — More than two years have passed since the government exposed the scandalous state of American education in its blockbuster report, "A Nation At Risk." Yet the Department of Education's research arm continues to squander millions of dollars on wasteful studies while higher educational priorities go begging.

The agency in question is the National Institute of Education, and as one critic in the department bluntly put it, "What we do at NIE doesn't do anything to improve American education."

NIE has thrown away more than $800 million in its 13-year history, including $52 million this year, on research grants of dubious merit and effectiveness.

With the help of my assistant, Tracy Fletcher, I've examined hundreds of NIE research grants that have been awarded over the past two years. Here's just a tiny sampling of some of the worst examples we've pulled from NIE's files:

— A study of whether graduates of cooperative education programs "feel more powerful" in their jobs than do graduates of typical bachelor degree programs. Cost: $25,961.

— A study of the social interaction of preschoolers, ages 3 to 5, to show that using computers does not have to be a solitary activity. Cost: $168,000.

— A study of what influence secondary schools and social relationships have on how students adapt to the workplace. Cost: $278,011.

— An analysis of teacher pensions from 1967 to 1977 to determine the causes and consequences of pension "underfunding." Cost: $40,033.

— A study to determine the role that sex differences play among California third- to sixth-graders when solving math problems. Cost: $69,226.

— An analysis of the purposes and consequences of requiring high-school students to do homework. Cost: $13,647.

— A three-year study of why and how students seek help in schools when they need it, focusing on how students learn to evaluate their own abilities and how that evaluation differs between white and black students. Cost: $752,096.

— A study of letterwriting in a bilingual school in Los Angeles. Researchers believe that much classroom writing instruction is done in "artificial situations" in which student writing "is not a true indication of what they are capable of doing when motivated by real and personal needs to communicate." The kids were asked to write letters, in English or Spanish, to anyone they wanted, but the letters were not read or graded by teachers. Cost: $31,420.

Does any of this in any way help to improve the education of our kids? The answer is a resounding no. In fact, many of these esoteric studies may very well have contributed to the decline in educational standards.

According to Department of Education statistics, one-fifth of the nation's adults are functionally illiterate. The 18-to-29 age group, which was educated after NIE came into existence in 1972, has an illiteracy rate of 16 percent, which is 5 percent higher than the 30-to-39 age group educated before NIE began studying how to improve education.

A Senate oversight official who deals extensively with NIE says, "We know a lot more about math than in Euclid's time, but we don't know how to teach math any better. We know more about reading, but we don't know how to teach that better, either."

Remember Henry Grady

In the grim days after the Civil War, when the South was a prostrate region, Georgia editor Henry Grady delivered a famous speech to the New England Society of New York on the theme of the "New South."

Actually, the speech was about the economic dependency of the South on other parts of the country. In a now famous description of a Southern funeral, he said that the only things the South contributed to the burial was the corpse and the hole in the ground. The casket, the tools with which the grave was dug, the suit, hat, shirt, and shoes in which the dead man was clothed — all were made outside the South.

With this speech, Henry Grady became the South's first and most important industrial leader. He sparked industrial development in his region.

The United States as a whole needs an industrial leader with the same persuasiveness that Henry Grady demonstrated a century ago. I was reminded of this in looking at an amusing but tragic newspaper cartoon captioned "Portrait Of An American Consumer." Everything he possessed came from abroad.

Henry Grady would have an interesting time with the present condition of American consumers.

Consider the typical American family. The family automobile is made in Japan. The television set is manufactured in Mexico. If the husband flies Eastern Airlines on business, he may fly aboard an Airbus produced by a European consortium. If he takes a commuter plane, it most probably is a Brazilian aircraft.

The camera belonging to the oldest son is made in Japan and the stereo is manufactured in Taiwan. The children's running shoes are made in South Korea, as are the husband's shirts. The pocket calculator the husband uses in his work is fabricated in Singapore. Next year, the family's new telephone will be made in that country.

The wife's blouses and summer dresses are produced in the People's Republic of China. The new luggage bought for the daughter who is going away to college comes from Italy. The inexpensive wine consumed at a recent party given by the parents was produced in Hungary.

The husband's hat is made in Spain. The copying machines in the wife's office are Japanese. The steel that went into the new office building was made in a nationalized British steel mill.

Is there anything American in this typical family's household? Yes, the people.

Hutton Tries Best Face On Scam

By Jack Anderson
And Joseph Spear

WASHINGTON — E.F. Hutton's long-awaited internal report on the check overdraft scam that led to a $2 million criminal fine is supposed to be released today. Prepared by former Attorney General Griffin Bell, the report is expected to identify just who in the firm was responsible for the elaborate scheme that bilked banks out of several million dollars in interest over a 20-month period.

At a time when interest rates were fluctuating around 20 percent, Hutton branch personnel manipulated deposits through temporary overdrafts, obtaining the use of an estimated $1 billion in interest-free funds. On May 2, the company pleaded guilty to 2,000 counts of fraud.

Though Hutton drew the biggest fine ever handed out in a white-

We're White S. Africans

I don't suppose that you want to read any more about South Africa, Bishop Tutu, Nelson Mandela, P.W. Botha, and all the rest of it. Certainly I have had enough of it. But I have also had, eureka, an original thought in the matter.

The white South Africans, less than 20 percent of the population there, own more than 80 percent of the land and control both the economy and all political power. We are asking them in effect to cede both their economic and political power to the non-white 80 percent.

Now it occurs to me that the United States stands in relation to the rest of the world more or less as the white South Africans stand in relation to the non-white majority there.

The population of the Third World is much larger than the population of the United States, Europe, and Japan. And yet, in global terms, that minority is dominant economically and militarily, absorbs a vastly disproportionate percentage of global resources, and is rich.

Now I do not for a moment regret all of that. It is a product of history, of the evolution of superior political institutions, and of a unique religious and intellectual tradition that gave birth to modern science and to capitalism.

But the point is that this white global minority, rich and powerful, would not for one minute permit their affairs to be determined by global one-man-one-vote. The powerful nations at the end of World War II insisted upon an absolute veto power in the Security Council of the United Nations. We and the other powerful nations have no intention of submitting anything that really matters to the General Assembly for final decision.

Now how about a global one-man-one-vote on, say, the redistribution of the world's resources? Under which a vote from Chad or the Amazon basin would count just as much as a vote from Los Angeles or Atlanta. Are you kidding?

Or consider Israel. Just about every "global" vote in the General Assembly goes against Israel. The state of Israel would probably lose a global election on the simple question of its right to exist. Israel is not losing much sleep in reflecting on that proposition. Anyone who proves excessively annoying will find himself hit with a dozen rockets.

And yet we seem to be asking the Afrikaners to do what we under no circumstances would consider doing on a global basis, that is, turn their future over to a vote that would certainly be won by someone like Nelson Mandela. Prime Minister Botha's defiant speech, which caused such "disappointment" in the White House, was no more than we deserved.

The other night over dinner I asked one of the top officials in the White House what the administration thought the near-term future held for South Africa.

"Algeria," he said. He went on to explain that in Algeria the radicals had first slaughtered the moderates among the native population, anyone who had cooperated with the French, or was thought to have cooperated. Then the radicals began a war of attrition against the French.

SCIENCE WORLD

Problems May Mask Allergies

By Gayle Young
UPI Science Writer

NEW YORK (UPI) — Children accused of being ill-behaved brats may be suffering from a newly identified allergy syndrome that affects as many as 10 percent of children nationwide, say doctors at the American College of Allergists.

Some of these children are mistakenly labeled hyperactive or emotionally disturbed when their behavior is really caused by allergies to mold, pollen and dust, which make them feel irritable, according to Dr. Gerald L. Klein, an allergist who wrote a report released by the association.

"It's important to understand that neither hyperactivity nor severe behavior problems are being attributed to allergy," said Klein. "Rather, some allergic children are being inappropriately diagnosed as having these disorders when they are really suffering from the allergic irritability syndrome."

The syndrome also affects adults, said Klein. But they are better able to identify the cause of their irritability and to cope with it.

Klein said he became aware of the syndrome several years ago while treating a 6-year-old boy who was disruptive at home and school. The child was also suffering from "frequent colds and a runny nose" and was diagnosed as having a number of allergies.

When doctors treated the allergies, the child's behavior was completely reversed, said Klein.

"The boy's mother said his mood swings and tantrums had disappeared and his teacher reported that his behavior in school was markedly improved," said Klein. "But when he was taken off his medication by his parents, his symptoms returned."

Other children with allergic irritability syndrome can also be treated after the substances, or allergens, that are causing the child's allergic reactions are identified, he said.

Treatment may consist of medication or a program called immunotherapy, which desensitizes the child to the problem allergens, said Klein. At that point the child can be taken off medication without returning to his or her former behavior.

Klein said children with the syndrome usually have allergic symptoms such as a runny nose, darkened circles under the eyes and blocked air passages. They also suffer from bouts of irritability, temper tantrums and a decreased ability to concentrate, he said.

collar crime case, there was widespread criticism that no company executive spent so much as a night in jail.

Since the settlement, Hutton has mounted a sustained damage-control operation in various forums, including testimony before Rep. William Hughes, D-N.J. The congressman wrote to Attorney General Edwin Meese that "defendant Hutton seems to be presenting a substantially different version of events surrounding the settlement discussions and agreement" than the Justice Department's.

Our associate Tony Capaccio has compared statements made by Hutton executives before Rep. Hughes and the Connecticut Banking Commission with statements and actions by the Justice Department. To say that Hutton put the best face possible on its embarrassment would be charitable. Here are some examples:

— Hutton executives told Hughes: "It is our feeling that many banks became aware of what Hutton was doing and agreed to it."

Prosecutors told federal judge William J. Nealon in a private conference before the settlement: "The banks did not knowingly participate in the (overdraft) activity."

— Hutton has stated: "The Justice Department never charged that there was anything wrong with the company's basic approved cash-concentration system, but only the deviations" that led to the massive overdrafts.

It's true that the department never brought criminal charges against the "concentration" system, but it did obtain an injunction forbidding Hutton from "engaging in two additional practices not charged in the criminal information."

In addition, the prosecutors told

Judge Nealon, "Hutton made it clear to us its intent to continue its draw-down practice without disclosure to its banks." It was because of this that the prosecutors "viewed it as absolutely essential to obtain an injunction that barred the full range of Hutton's overdraft practices."

— Hutton told Hughes that the abuses were committed by branch-office personnel who deviated from corporate policy. "Some of our (branch) people became aggressive and you are familiar with the results," a Hutton executive told Hughes. Another Hutton executive said he knew of "no reason to believe anybody in senior management devised" the breakdown which led to the illegal conduct.

But the Justice Department concluded that "branch office personnel did not create the scheme and, except for a few instances, did not comprehend its illegality."

Jamborees Provide Fresh Foes

Mosure, Scott Take First Looks Tonight

By Sam Cook
Herald Sports Editor

Football

The time has come to fall football practice when every Seminole County player has grown tired of inflicting pain on his teammate. It might have been fun at first, but now beating up on the same familiar face has become tiresome.

Even the bully grows weary of smashing around the same runt day after day. County gridders are bored with the routine. They need someone else to pick on. Like gladiators antcipating fresh foes, they bellow, "Bring on the fresh meat."

Well, the fresh meat has arrived:

● Tonight at Longwood's Lyman High School, Seminole High and the host Greyhounds get to sink their forearms and shoulders into a couple of out-of-county invaders.

Seminole will open the Lyman Fall Jamboree against Haines City at 7 p.m. Lyman takes on Wildwood in the second quarter. Seminole comes back to play Wildwood in the third quarter and Lyman battles Haines City in the fourth quarter. Admission is $3.

● Friday at Lake Howell High School, Lake Mary High and the host Silver Hawks join DeLand High and Lake Brantley High for two halves of football. Lake Brantley and DeLand square off at 7:30 p.m. The Rams play Lake Howell immediately following. Admission is $2.

Tonight's clash at Lyman will be the first fall jamboree for Seminole in four years. Head coach Dave Mosure, who served as Jerry Posey's defensive coordinator for four years, said the ranks had been too thin to risk injury in the past few years. Posey concurred. "We didn't bother to go out of our way to look for one," said Posey. "One year, the jamboree didn't materialize. We just didn't think it was that necessary to play in a fall jamboree. And as it turned out we were pretty lucky on injuries those years."

This year, however, Mosure said he feels the chance of injury is outweighed by his team's lack of experience and playing in a jamboree is a must. "We need all the game experience we can get with this bunch," he said. "We're tired of beating up on each other. Regardless of experience, this bunch loves to hit."

A couple of them won't hit tonight, however. Both tackles — senior Jack Jackson and junior Wen Springfield — are listed as doubtful due to injuries by Mosure. Senior cornerback Dennis Lawrence has a bruised shoulder and will probably not play.

Senior guard Alan Kendall will move to one tackle spot and sophomore Wilton Hooks assumes his guard position. Senior linebacker Bryan Brinson is the likely choice for the other tackle. Mike Mingo will take Lawrence's place in the secondary.

Mosure said the jamboree will be a valuable experience. "We're looking for execution from our basic offense and defense," he said. "I'm not worried about revealing anything. If I thought we could function at 100 percent, we'd run all of our sets."

"In jamborees, some coaches either show as little as they can or show all that they can. For the latter, the other team has to prepare and work that much harder. We'll be half and half."

Mosure said he did regret the absence of Lawrence since Wildwood has one of the top passing teams in the state with gifted QB Lorenzo Fields and wideout Bruce LaSane.

Mosure, nevertheless, said preparations are already in the works for Titusville Astronaut, Seminole's first opponent on Friday, Sept. 13 at home. "We're not taking days out to prepare for Haines City or Wildwood," he continued. "We just going to line up, read our keys and react."

And the former South Miami High coach said he expects his squad to react pretty well. Mosure said the varied defensive and offense formations Seminole has used in practice will be a plus.

"I don't think the kids will be

Graf Shocks Shriver

NEW YORK (UPI) — The blossoming of yet another West German sensation and one more John McEnroe outburst yesterday replaced "the match of the year" at the U.S. Open.

Before Monday's elimination of Boris Becker by Joakim Nystrom, Day Nine promised to feature the much-anticipated showdown between the 17-year-old Wimbledon champion and John McEnroe, the world's top-rated player. Instead, McEnroe advanced to the semifinals by eliminating Nystrom, and sixteen-year-old baseline slugger Steffi Graf served notice she has arrived.

Graf scored a three-tie-breaker upset of fourth seed Pam Shriver to win the closest women's match in the history of Open tennis. The West German advanced to meet defending champion Martina Navratilova for the first time, in a semifinal meeting.

Despite a blowup that disrupted his rhythm, McEnroe gunned down Nystrom in straight sets, setting up a semifinal match against third seed Mats Wilander. Playing what he termed "my best tennis of the tournament," he led Nystrom, 6-1, 6-0, 2-0 when his problems began.

A late linesman's call angered McEnroe, who thought he had won the third game of the third set. An argument ensued, after which he lost the game.

An courtside microphone technician drew McEnroe's wrath. Then applause at the top seed's errors, plus deliberately distracting noise while he was serving helped to shake his concentration, and his play became erratic.

Nystrom, the 10th seed, held a set point at 5-3, but could not convert, and McEnroe stormed back to take the final four games and the match.

"Do they want to see great tennis or 7-5 in the fifth set?" McEnroe asked rhetorically afterward. "That's what really threw me off. The crowd wanted something more, and to egg me

Lady Rams Rely On Defense

Henry Wants Defensive Prowess To Offset Lack Of Size

By Chris Fister
Herald Sports Writer

Where are Laura and Peggy Glass when you really need them? Like around the net. That's what Lake Mary volleyball coach Cindy Henry must be thinking as she surveys her smallest band of netters this fall.

There are no Glass twins, who measured 6-1 each while playing for Lake Mary. Lake Mary's netters are definitely short on height. Coincidentally, they lack power hitters, too.

Due to shortcomings in those two areas, Henry has placed a premium on defense. Henry hopes that a scrambling defense will be the key for the Lady Rams as they enter the 1985 prep volleyball season.

"We're going to be real small and inexperienced," coach Cindy Henry said. "Hopefully, we'll be quick and scrappy."

Currently, Lake Mary has no player over 5-9 and Henry said the average height of the team is around 5-5. The Lady Rams also lost three players to graduation that formed the nucleus of the team a year ago.

Those graduates include Lisa Simkins, one of the top setters and servers in Seminole County last season; Robin Christensen, a four-year player; and Sloan Stewart, the top hitter on the squad a year ago. Stewart is playing at Valencica Community College this season.

Returning starters from last season include seniors Anquetette Whack and Kathy Hodak. "Anquetette (Whack) has been looking good," Henry said. "And Kathy (Hodak) has been playing for four years and has some experience."

Another player who Henry says has looked good is junior Angie Capps, a transfer from North Carolina. "She's very good technically," Henry said.

"We're especially going to be inexperienced in setting," added Henry. "And we could really use some height."

Senior Betsy Perry is the top setter on the team and a good server and freshman Marcie Lazar is improving as a setter, according to Henry.

As far as height goes, senior Laura Hollegaard, at 5-9, will be counted on to supply the power for the Lady Rams. Others who will be counted on include sophomore Lora Splatt, junior Marcie Dalziel and senior Kelly Skeens.

The Lady Rams could solve a great deal of the height problem if Henry can get basketball player Terri Whyte to play volleyball. Whyte is a 6-3 sophomore.

"It's just a matter of convincing her (Whyte) to get out there," Henry said. "She'd be a great addition to the front row. She can get her hands over the net without even jumping."

Until the Lady Rams do get some height, though, they will continue to rely on quickness and defense.

"We're not going to be real strong at the net," Henry said. "We have to rely on some defense until I can get these big girls out."

Henry does have time to recruit some big people because the season has been pushed back about two weeks because the district tournament is being played two weeks later than first

Cross Country Coaches Have Good Credentials

Seminole County has a few new coaches in cross country this season with Sid Blackwell taking over the boys and girls teams at Seminole High and former Mount Dora coach Fred Finke handling the Lyman boys.

And, a pair of coaches new to the area with some pretty impressive credentials have landed at the same school. They are coach Mary Littlebrant and assistant Julie Lantis of the Lake Brantley High girls team.

Littlebrant, who assists her husband in the health club business along with coaching, was an outstanding track athlete before going on to a successful coaching career in Michigan.

Between the years of 1968 and 1975, Littlebrant won five Michigan TAC State Championships in the 220 and 440 yard dashes. She also ran on the Junior National team in 1970, competing in the 220 dash for the Michigan Track Club out of Ann Arbor.

"I had to compete in TAC meets for a track club because, at the time, we didn't have high school women's sports," Littlebrant said.

Littlebrant went on to graduate from Jackson (Mich.) Community College and Moore Park (Calif.) College. She coached high school cross country and track at Jackson High and Grass Lake (Mich.) High. She then went on to Lake Michigan College where she coached a national champion in the long jump and the cross country team to a third place finish in the state.

After she got the coaching job at Lake Brantley, Littlebrant said she was surprised that Florida girls cross country teams ran two miles instead of three as many other states do and that, in track, Florida still runs in yards instead of meters.

Littlebrant said she was fortunate to get an assistant like Lantis. A former All-America distance runner at then University of Illinois, Lantis competed in the Olympic Trials last year in the 1,500 meters.

The fall road racing calendar continues to fill up with a number of races scheduled for the next two months throughout the Central Florida area.

DeLand. Entry fee is $7 before Sept. 9 and $8 the day of the race.

Also, there will be a one mile fun run for individual and team competition. Fee for the fun run is $3 before Sept. 9 ($5 with shirt) and $4 the day of the race ($6 with shirt).

● On Saturday, Sept. 21 at 7 a.m., the Sanford Kiwanis Club and the Sanford Recreation Department will host the 8 Kilometers of Sanford Road Race with proceeds going to the Arnold Palmer Children's Hospital and Perinatal Center.

For more information, contact the Sanford Recreation Department.

The event will begin with a two mile fun run followed by the 8K road race and a quarter mile kiddy run. Entry fee is $6 prior to race day and $8 the day of the race. There is no fee for the quarter mile kiddy run.

● The following Saturday, Aug. 28, the University of Central Florida will host the seventh annual "Run for the Kids" to benefit Threshold, Inc., the local treatment program for dysfunctional children.

The Saturday morning event will feature five runs plus early bird cross country races pitting UCF's men's and women's teams against those from Rollins.

The UCF cross country squads feature a number of Seminole County runners including Oviedo graduate Marty Phillips and Lake Mary grads Matt Palumbo and Harold Pitts on the men's team and Lake Mary graduate Jill Buddenhagen and Lyman grad Cindy Gaskell for the women. Another Oviedo graduate, Ed Wirth, is running for Rollins.

The men's 5,000 meter race starts at 8 a.m. with the women following at 8:45. There will be a one-mile fun run at 9:30 and a one-mile team race for fraternities, sororities and clubs 15 minutes later. A quarter mile kiddy run at 10 will wrap it up.

Yankees Inch Closer; George Hurls Confetti

United Press International
What's this? George Steinbrenner in a playful mood?

Now the Toronto Blue Jays better really start worrying. For Steinbrenner to play the cut-up means his New York Yankees are priming for the kill.

Although his Yankees are still 2 1/2 games behind the Blue Jays in the American League East, Steinbrenner brought out the confetti Wednesday night — and threw it at manager Billy Martin.

Following the Yankees' 4-3 triumph over the Seattle Mariners — the club's fifth victory in a row — Steinbrenner came into the clubhouse, walked into Martin's office carrying a bucket and said, "I'm tired of your yelling all the time. Take this!"

He then proceeded to throw a pall of confetti at Martin, some of which got into the manager's drink on his desk.

"He's gone a month, and the first thing he does is spoil my drink," said Martin.

It was an obvious attempt by Steinbrenner to narrow the gap that has emerged between himself and his manager in recent weeks. The two, who have had personality clashes in the past, have been engaged in a cold war of late. Steinbrenner has been at his home in Tampa, tending to his other businesses and has made virtually no contact with Martin in recent weeks. Martin, however, has blasted the owner several times in the press, complaining about a lack of communication.

A.L. Baseball

The team, however, continues to perform superbly, especially Don Mattingly, whose two-run homer sparked the club to victory Wednesday night.

Mattingly's blast, a two-run shot in the fourth inning, backed the combined 10-hit pitching of spot starter Rich Bordi and two relievers, Bob Shirley got the last two outs for his first save in four years.

"We're playing very well," Mattingly said. "We have to. We're coming from a long way back and we're whittling (the Toronto lead) down. Now we'll see what kind of club we have. We have to stay consistent in order not to fall back."

Elsewhere in the AL, Milwaukee outslugged Minnesota 11-10. Kansas City defeated Chicago 6-5 in 10 innings. California took Detroit 5-2 and Baltimore downed Oakland 6-1.

In National League games, New York beat San Diego 9-2. St. Louis topped Cincinnati 4-3. Houston outslugged Chicago 11-6. San Francisco nipped Philadelphia 4-3. Pittsburgh blanked

Atlanta 2-0 and Los Angeles defeated Montreal 9-2.

Indians 4, Blue Jays 3

At Cleveland, Otis Nixon belted a two-run homer with one out in the top of the ninth to lift the Indians. Bryan Clark, 2-3, worked 2-3 inning, and Jamie Easterly and Rich Thompson pitched out of a ninth-inning jam to preserve the triumph. Lloyd Moseby and Jesse Barfield homered for Toronto and Benny Ayala and Brook Jacoby connected for Cleveland.

Brewers 11, Twins 10

At Minneapolis, Cecil Cooper belted a two-run homer and Rick Manning added a three-run shot to power the Brewers. Rick Waits, 3-2, pitched 3 1-3 innings of relief, and Rollie Fingers pitched one inning for his 17th save. Dennis Burt, 0-1, took the loss.

Royals 6, White Sox 5

At Kansas City, Mo., left fielder Luis Salazar misjudged Pat Sheridan's fly ball down the left field line with two out in the 10th, allowing Darryl Motley to score from third. The victory gave Kansas City a three-game sweep and kept the Royals 1 1/2 games behind first-place California in the AL West.

Angels 5, Tigers 2

At Detroit, Brian Downing's two-run homer in the sixth and Bob Boone's seventh-inning sacrifice fly led the Angels. John Candelaria won his fourth game in five AL decisions. Donnie Moore finished for his 25th save despite yielding Larry Herndon's 11th homer leading off the seventh.

Orioles 6, A's 1

At Baltimore, Storm Davis pitched a five-hitter and Floyd Rayford, Cal Ripken and Mike Young hit solo homers to lead the Orioles. Davis, 9-7, recorded his fourth straight victory and pitched his eighth complete game. Don Sutton, 13-8, took the loss.

Paklin Breaks High-Jump Mark

KOBE, Japan (UPI) — Having broken the world record for the high jump, Igor Paklin of the Soviet Union is still looking up.

"I can't say how high I'll get, but I'm certainly trying for higher than what I did today," said Paklin, a 22-year-old engineering student whose jump of seven feet, 10 3/4 inches highlighted the final day of the World University Games.

"Say, maybe 2.42 or 2.43 meters (7-11 1/4 or 7-11 3/4)," Paklin first cleared a Games record 7-8 1/2 on his first leap, then attempted the world record, which he achieved on his third jump. The previous record of 7-10 1/2 was set by countryman Rudolf Povarnitsyn at Moscow Aug. 11.

A near-capacity crowd of 56,000 gave Paklin a standing ovation after he cleared the bar for the world record.

Carter's Hot Streak Thrives, 2 More Homers Pound Padres

United Press International

Gary Carter, nicknamed "The Kid" for his boyish approach to the game of baseball, has become the biggest man in the Mets' lineup.

After belting three homers Tuesday, Carter looked like he might stage an unprecedented encore performance last night, but the muscular catcher settled for two home runs and another victory.

"I've always been a streaky home-run hitter, and this is pretty streaky," said Carter after the 9-2 victory over San Diego, which capped New York's three-game sweep of the Padres.

"It's a wonderful feeling knowing you're going to go up there and hit the ball hard somewhere. Again, the most important thing was the win tonight. Without a doubt, this is the finest West Coast trip I have ever had."

The victory left the Mets one game behind St. Louis, which beat Cincinnati, in the National League East.

Ron Darling, 14-5, pitched eight innings for the victory.

Cards 4, Reds 3

At St. Louis, Mike Jorgensen lined an RBI single to cap a two-run ninth and rally the Cards. Andy Van Slyke started the comeback with a leadoff double off loser Ron Robinson, 5-4. He scored when Dave Concepcion booted Terry Pendleton's grounder. Pendleton scored from second on Jorgensen's hit. Pete Rose collected one hit and needs five to break Ty Cobb's record of 4,191.

Astros 11, Cubs 6

At Chicago, Jerry Mumphrey drove in five runs with a three-run homer and a two-run double during a five-run sixth inning and Tim Tolman added a three-run shot, powering the Astros to their seventh triumph in eight games. It was the Astros' first three-game sweep at Wrigley Field since August 1973.

Giants 4, Phillies 3

At San Francisco, Rob Deer hit a three-run

SMITH: COCAINE ERODED SKILLS

PITTSBURGH (UPI) — Lonnie Smith of the Kansas City Royals, who says cocaine eroded his baseball skills, awaits a call to testify in the federal trial of the man alleged to have sold him drugs.

Smith, Keith Hernandez of the New York Mets and Lee Lacy of the Baltimore Orioles missed games Wednesday night because of protracted haggling by the prosecution and defense over selection of a jury to hear the case against Curtis Strong.

The Royals and Mets are involved in pennant races, and Hernandez and Smith are key players on their respective teams. Smith also missed a game Tuesday night.

After two days of written and oral questioning, nine women and three men finally were seated at 5:20 p.m. EDT Wednesday to judge the 16 counts of federal drug violations against Strong.

Pryor On Ropes With Drug Battle

MIAMI (UPI) — Undeclared junior welterweight champion Aaron Pryor, who has knocked out 34 of his 36 opponents, is on the ropes with a drug problem and his career may be finished, the Miami Herald reported.

The newspaper reported Wednesday that Pryor stumbles through the streets of Miami's Liberty City ghetto, handing out $50 and $100 bills to strangers and admits he has visited free-base houses in the area. Free-basing is a method of using cocaine.

Promoter Bob Arum said Pryor is headed for trouble unless he changes his lifestyle. "Whether he's broke now, or whether he's broke in six months, it's just a matter of time," he said.

tomers to stay in the hospital. About 60 percent of CFRH's patients are on Medicare, Tesar said. The hospital charges $175 a day for a semi-private room and the price may go up to $185 a day in January, said Dan Smith, the hospital's assistant comptroller.

In Longwood, the steadily increasing occupancy rate has prompted the hospital to lower its semi-private room rate from $185 to $160 a day, said Sandy Clark, hospital spokesman.

Tesar attributed the decline directly to health care payment cuts by Medicare and insurance companies.

"I think their idea is, 'The quicker we get the patient out, the more money we will save,'" he said.

Patients also go home earlier because of timesaving medical advances. Tesar pointed to kidney stone operations as an example. Because the operation is quicker and not as "traumatic" as it was a few years ago, patients can go home faster, he said.

But while that may be good for the patient, hospitals are losing money, he said. He could not say how much money CFRH has lost because of declining occupancy rates, nor confirm or deny reports that Hospital Corporation of America, CFRH's parent corporation, lost more than any other hospital group.

Debbie Meredith, spokesman for HCA in Nashville, declined to discuss the financial status of HCA but confirmed that the number of patients the corporation's hospitals is declining. But she said the decline is no more than that experienced by other hospital groups.

"Every hospital is involved, whether it is a for-profit hospital, a not-for-profit hospital or a clinic," she said.

Ms. Meredith also attributed the decline in patient population rates to government-mandated reductions in Medicare payments and subsequent reductions in health insurance coverage.

HCA operates hospitals in 48 states and 8 foreign countries, Ms. Meredith said.

Fred Lee, vice president of marketing for Florida Hospital, said that hospital occupancy in the Orlando area this year is down about 5 percent compared to a 10 percent decline nationwide.

The Orlando patient market is down only 5 percent because the area has experienced a 5 percent population growth during the past year, he said.

"We could be worse off if population were stagnant," he said.

Lee said there are three reasons why patient occupancy is declining nationwide.

He said advanced technology now let doctors complete medical procedures in a day that used to require a two- or three-day stay. Also shortening stays is the state-of-the-art notion that patients should be up and around as soon as possible following a treatment or operation.

Lee said insurance companies are putting a lot of pressure on doctors to have the patient leave the hospital as soon as possible.

If a doctor wants a patient to stay in the hospital longer than the usual period, the doctor now has to demonstrate why or the companies won't pay he said.

Lee said hospitals measure decline in their business by evaluating the number of admissions, the number of days a patient stays, and the type of stay.

If, for example, a hospital's admissions stayed the same over a two-year period but the number of patient days decrease the second year (they went home sooner) then the hospital would be losing business and has to make it up somewhere else, he said.

that rezoning of those five acres would open the door to rezoning more land in the area for office and commercial development.

"I wish that some type of meeting could be held to decide what would be best for the area," Commissioner Alda Rowe said. "I think you're missing out on a very good development."

Commissioner Dot Meadors was in favor of the motion to deny without prejudice, but made no comment.

Seminole Circuit Judge Dominick Saffi and William Ward, owners of the property, said they have placed numerous deed restrictions on it that would limit visual impact of the development. Saffi said the land is across from his home, which is up for sale. He said he has been fighting its rezoning since 1969, but he is "tired of fighting."

Saffi and Ward said they put the land up for sale and chose F.B. Bywater as the developer for the property because Bywater agreed to the deed restrictions.

Bywater has an opportunity to appeal the P&Z decision to the county commission on Sept. 24.

In other action the P&Z voted in favor of development of a shopping center in Lake Mary near the intersection of Lake Emma Road and Lake Mary Boulevard, east of I-4 and west of Rinehart Road. Lake Mary city manager Kathy Rice said the city is in favor of the shopping center in part because developers agreed to give the city $25,000 to offset the effects of additional traffic the shopping center will generate.

Rice said the funds would be used for a police squad car, including equipment for the car, computer equipment to tie in with county traffic system, another police officer, and training and equipment for a traffic officer.

Commissioners also recommended unanimously a request to rezone 3.5 acres north of Lake Drive and east of Jamie Lane from single family residential to country estates, and two lots on the southwest corner of S.R. 419 and Third Street from single family residential to one and two family residential.

The commission unanimously disapproved of a request to rezone 2.3 acres on the southeast corner of S.R. 46 and S.R. 13 from agriculture to general commercial.

Neighbors Complain Of Falling Property Values

County Snubs Mobile Homes

By Janie Gant
Herald Staff Writer

Seminole County commissioners turned down two efforts to allow mobile homes in residential areas because, according to local homeowners and in one case the commission staff, that type of housing is not compatible with the areas in which it was to be located.

At Tuesday's commission meeting, Susan Posliff was appealing a county board of adjustment ruling preventing her from putting a mobile home on the north side of Curryville Road, 1 1/4 miles east of Lake Mills Road.

Ms. Posliff's representative said the mobile home would not be visible from the road and that neighbors on each side of her 9.81 acres had signed a petition saying they had no objection to a mobile home on that site.

Jim Halscott, 2535 Curryville Road, produced a petition with signatures from 45 area homeowners, however, which said they did object to a mobile home in the area.

"We are asking your assistance to protect our property rights," Halscott told commissioners. Both Halscott and Eugene Bell, 2601 Curryville Road, said property and homes in the area have been selling for $150,000 and up. They maintained that allowing mobile homes in the neighborhood would depress property values.

Herb Hardin, the county's director of land management, sided with the board of adjustment and commissioners unanimously denied Ms. Posliff's request.

In an unrelated issue, the father of a county property owner pleaded with the board to allow his daughter to put a mobile home on her land.

"If we're turned down I don't know which way we'll go," said Douglas Bishop in an emotional plea. "We're hardly able to make the land payments now."

Bishop's son-in-law, Michael Read, recently died, and according to Bishop had planned to build a house on the property on the west side of Elm Street, 1/4 mile north of Howard Avenue. Bishop was requesting a temporary permit for the mobile home until his daughter could afford to build a house there.

Property owners in the area protested the request, saying they did not want their property to be devalued because of a mobile home nearby.

Hardin told commissioners that the staff would have no objections to a temporary permit allowing the mobile home on Canal Street, the other side of the property where other mobile homes have been located, but a motion to overturn the board of adjustment ruling and approve such a temporary permit failed for lack of a second.

The commission voted 4-1 to uphold the board of adjustment decision.

Commissioner Barbara Christensen voted against the motion, preferring Hardin's idea of a temporary permit.

In other action, the commission approved a request by James Greene to rezone his 1.3 acres of land from agriculture to commercial. The property is located on State Road 419 west of the Flying Seminole Ranch. Greene said the area is not flood prone and commercial zoning would be compatible to the area because abutting property is zoned for industrial use.

Although Hardin said he felt rezoning the area commercial would be premature, commissioners approved the change unanimously.

"I don't think this is premature because 419 is a major road and is not suitable for residential," Christensen said in approving the change.

The board denied a request to rezone 8 acres on the north side of Florida Avenue near Winter Springs from agriculture to industrial after property owners and Winter Springs city planner Pete Cowell spoke out against the request.

"The area was to be developed in phases with residential duplexes and eventually commercial development," Cowell said. Winter Springs surrounds the land on three sides.

"This is far too intense use of that land," Bob Sturm, commission chairman, said. The board voted 5-0 to deny the request.

received lower sentences, compared to 12.6 percent for first offenders.

— 12.4 percent of repeat burglars received lower sentences, compared to 2.2 percent for first offenders.

— 12 percent of repeat drug offenders received lighter sentences, compared to 4.9 percent for first offenders.

— 31 percent of offenders with multiple priors received lighter sentences than first offenders — "a practice directly contrary to the philosophy embodied in the guidelines" according to Smith.

The Legislature adopted the guidelines in 1983, intending to end regional disparities between sentences given for similar crimes. The guidelines were also intended to target scarce jail cells for the most hardened criminals.

Smith asked the judges to recommend ways to more strictly enforce the guidelines in time for an Oct. 9 meeting of the Governor's Advisory Committee on Corrections.

Smith's data, however, show Circuit Judges in Seminole, Orange and Osceola counties are complying with the recommendations and are not giving out as light a sentence under the guidelines as are most judges statewide.

care, information, referral and assessment, transportation, mostly for medical care purposes, companionship, counseling, congregate meals and housing.

Other AAA priorities include: health and wellness programs, long term care, employment services, Alzheimer's disease victims support groups, housing alternatives, minority participation, and nutrition programs.

Increased employment, homemakers, personal care, housing, and protective counseling are priority items particularly recommended by AAA for Seminole County based on the survey.

The 18-member Advisory Committee serves in a dual advisory capacity to both the AAA and the planning council. The committee's purpose is to provide a means for the views of older consumers to be considered in area planning. The majority of committee members have to be 60 or older.

Results of the survey and the four district forums will be tabulated by AAA and forwarded to the state office from where information will be combined with other areas of Florida and then sent to the federal level.

Funds can be shifted to priority programs from older programs where they are not needed now. Because of its high population of senior citizens, Florida may also be eligible for federal funds apportioned to other states but not used, Mrs. Stevens said.

"For instance," she said, "the Respite Care Program was started to meet the needs of younger persons caring on a 24-hour basis for house-bound elderly patients. This program provides trained personnel to go into the home and stay with the patient so that other members can get away from the situation for a few hours. It was very much needed as these circumstances can be a drain on the family."

Base allocations by project for 1986 under the Title III funding defined by the Older American Act for Seminole County total $367,699 and include those administered by Federation of Senior Citizens Clubs of Seminole: social services, $158,880; congregate meals, $128,441; and home delivered meals, $62,478. Hospice receives $17,900 for health support for the terminally ill.

teaching experience. While first-year teachers were to get about a 13 percent pay hike under the proposal, long-time teachers were to net a 4 percent pay raise, which many of them called "a slap in the face."

Cowley and Ogletree clashed again Wednesday over beginning teachers base pay and the 15 year step-plan for veteran teachers. Ogletree said he was displeased that the school board didn't offer to appropriate more money for the teachers, but only suggested a redistribution of available funds.

At one point in the discussion Cowley countered that, "You can't blame the school board for the signature you (the SEA) originally placed on this contract. Don't blame the school board for the failure of your "end-run" on the superintendent."

There were only two new bargaining points to come from the long heated meeting. One was the school board's offer to create four new salary categories for 16-year teachers with differing levels of experience but with 10 years teaching experience in Florida. The second new bargaining point was the SEA's offer to give up one paid holiday for elimination of what they call the "artificial" salary base.

During one breaks for caucusing called by the school board an angry teacher said to SEA president Debby Whitmore, "Why don't they (school board) publish a list of all the salaries of school board employees including administrators and special employees. I would pay for it myself just to see where all the school board's money goes."

However, Tillman said today that despite the discovery of a plastic milk jug thought to have been the gasoline container near the back door of the home, little if any gasoline was used to start the blaze.

Tillman said the contents of a trash can inside the back of the home apparently was set afire with a cigarette lighter.

The rear of the home was engulfed in flames when police arrived on the scene at about 10:05 p.m. Monday and houses on both sides were evacuated.

Rodney Hamilton, 20, who has been staying in Altamonte Springs since the fire destroyed his home, said today that his brother Roderick, 20, was involved in an argument with Morgan's brother David at the Handy Way on SR 434 on Friday Sept. 27, at about 8:30 p.m.

During that fight Hamilton said David Morgan, who had not been arrested as of early today, allegedly threatened to burn the Hamilton's home.

Casselberry police who responded to the fight scene also reported hearing the alleged threats. And witnesses reported to police that one of the suspects bought gas at the Handy Way and put it into a milk jug about an hour before the fire was set. They also claimed they heard the two men who were arrested say they were going to "fry some nigger ass" and "beat some nigger ass," a police report said.

Hamilton said he lived at the home with his mother, a twin brother and two girls. His brother, Fred, who police listed as the owner of the home, did not live there, he said.

He said one of the girls was at home when the fire broke out and the other was at the nearby Handy Way, because, he said, she was afraid to go home.

Loser In Love Longs For Some Blissful Ignorance

DEAR ABBY: Who wrote, "Tis better to have loved and lost than never to have loved at all?"

Speaking for myself, I would rather not know what I'm missing. I would be interested in knowing how you feel about it.

THREE-TIME LOSER

DEAR T.T.L.: Alfred Lord Tennyson wrote those words, and I agree with him.

The opposing philosophy, "Where ignorance is bliss, 'tis folly to be wise," was expressed by Thomas Gray.

That is not to say that ignorance is always bliss, for in some cases, what you don't know can hurt you.

DEAR ABBY: Thank you for recently including in your column letters dealing with quiet people. It's time for as quiet ones to be heard.

I am one of those quiet types, but contrary to what you and others may think, I am not quiet because I am shy. I am quiet because I am secure; I don't have to sell myself or prove anything.

Abby, why do you assume that all quiet people are shy?

QUIET BUT NOT SHY

DEAR QUIET: I do not assume that all quiet people are shy; I believe that most quiet people are shy because my quiet tells me so. But then, all generalizations are dangerous, including this one.

DEAR ABBY: This is for "Embarrassed Mother," who took it upon herself to send written apologies plus thanks for all her daughter's wedding gifts because six months had passed and the gifts had not been acknowledged.

That mother had her nerve for

Dear Abby

DEAR ABBY: I have a beautiful, smart 19-year-old daughter who is a very poor judge of character. She could have her pick of boyfriends, but she always picks the losers.

Her current one is "Dick." He's employed, but had no place to live, so since I'd do anything to make my daughter happy, I let Dick move into our home. He is moody, domineering, is always picking on my daughter, and she either does as he says — or else. It upsets me to see her hurt every day. They are not engaged, and I can't understand why he has such a hold on her, or why she takes his abuse.

If I interfere, she takes his side. If I tell Dick to move, she will move, too, and then she'd really have a dog's life. She treats him like a god, and he treats her like dirt.

Do you think she needs help other than mine? How can I wake her up? I'm afraid she'll marry him.

NO NAME, NO TOWN

DEAR NO NAME: Your "help" thus far — as well-meaning as it may have been — has done more harm than good. Your "smart" daughter needs professional counseling to find out why she cares so little for herself and sets herself up to be treated like dirt. Dick shouldn't be living in your home. If your daughter wants to move out, you can't stop her, but let her know the door is always open to her — providing she returns without Dick.

Problems? Write to Abby. For a personal, unpublished reply, send a self-addressed, stamped envelope to Abby, P.O. Box 38923, Hollywood, Calif. 90038. All correspondence is confidential.

Arthritis, Pinched Nerve May Be Causing Leg Pain

Dr. Gott

DEAR DR. GOTT — I'm 68, and whenever I walk a little more than usual, I get pain in the pelvic area and down into my legs. I've been to two orthopedic doctors and both have prescribed Naprosyn. I have a weak back, for which I do special exercises. What else can be done?

though no one can predict how much longer you will have to suffer.

DEAR DR. GOTT — What is "thick tongue"? Is there any herb or medicine that can be taken for it?

DEAR READER — "Thick tongue" usually refers to a condition in which the tongue is dry, may become coated and sometimes swells. Excessively spicy foods, astringent mouthwashes, chewing gum, mouth infections and salivary-gland disorders can produce a dry, thick-feeling tongue. Ask your dentist for a thorough evaluation. He may be able to suggest a cure or change of habits that could help you.

Send your questions to Dr. Gott at P.O. Box 91428, Cleveland, Ohio, 44101

DEAR READER — The pain you describe could be due to arthritis. Naprosyn may be useful, but if it isn't working, ask your doctor about other, related medicines that may be more helpful.

Your reference to a weak back suggests the possibility that a slipped disc in your spine may be causing your pain. Before blaming arthritis for your problem, you must be certain that your symptoms are not the result of pinched nerves. Ask your doctor if he has investigated this possibility.

Finally, the relation of pain to exercise intrigues me. Some forms of arterial blockage can cause exercise-induced cramping in the buttocks, thighs and legs. This is called claudication and is due to reduced oxygen supply to the pelvic and leg muscles. Of course, this is totally unrelated to either arthritis or disc disease.

Ask your orthopedic surgeons for the name of a good internist — a medical diagnostician. Although you may have arthritis, I would feel more comfortable making sure that another, treatable disorder is not the cause of your pain.

DEAR DR. GOTT — Last year I had a bad case of shingles. Since then I have developed postherpetic neuralgia. I've tried six different painkillers to no avail. Will it ever end?

DEAR READER — The neuralgia that follows shingles is a dreadful complication of the infection. It goes away with time, but nobody knows why some shingles patients get it and most don't. There is no cure. Pain medication can help, but it doesn't take the pain away completely. Perhaps a neurologist could further advise you; however, I'm afraid you will have to put up with the discomfort until it has run its course. It will disappear eventually, al-

WIN AT BRIDGE

By James Jacoby

Last June, just one month before Barry Crane's tragic death, Crane and David Berkowitz placed first in the open pairs at the Cherry Hill, New Jersey, Regional Tournament. Here's one hand they played that shows what made Barry such a tough competitor.

After learning that West's four-club bid was Gerber, asking for aces, David (sitting North) made a lead-directing double. Barry ventured a five-club bid over West's four spades and was doubled.

Barry won the opening lead of the club jack with dummy's ace and led the diamond jack to West's king. West returned a spade to dummy's king, and Barry now ruffed a diamond in his hand. A low club to dummy's king pulled the last trump and a third diamond was played, ruffed by declarer. Now came the spade ace, spade ruff in dummy, and another diamond ruff in hand to establish the suit.

Dummy's club nine provided the entry to the two good diamonds, allowing declarer to throw two heart losers from his hand. That made 11 tricks, and Barry could now concede a heart trick.

Would North and South have found their club game without West's artificial club bid? Probably not. Could East-West have made four spades? Not against South's easy-to-find lead of the singleton diamond. Ironically, East-West might make four hearts unless North switches to the king of spades after the presumed lead of the club king.
