Qualifying change

LAKE MARY — The City of Lake Mary is attempting to fine-tune the process for qualifying to seek election. Presently, the time to qualify for a city commission seat includes a total of 19 working days.

During Thursday night's commission meeting, the city passed, on first reading, an ordinance that reduces the total qualifying time to nine business days. City Clerk Carol Foster says by reducing the qualifying period, it will allow more time to order, receive and mail out absentee ballots.

Cities are allowed to make changes to their election dates by ordinance, through a new state law which went into effect on Jan. 1, 1996.

The City of Sanford, which presently has 40 days for political qualifying, is also looking into changing that to 10 working days.

Regarding other cities qualifying time, Longwood has six days, Casselberry has five, and Altamonte Springs, Winter Springs and Oviedo have 11 working days.

Volunteers needed

A board that represents and protects HRS client interests needs new members. The Human Rights Advocacy Committee (HRAC) for District 7, which includes Seminole, Orange, Brevard and Orange counties, is seeking medical and legal experts.

Members of this 15-seat panel serve four year terms and meet monthly. Governor Lawton Chiles formally appoints members, following a local application and review process.

The HRAC acts as a third party in investigating and resolving complaints about HRS services and programs.

For specific information on membership requirements, committee responsibilities and the appointment process, phone 245-0400.

Park closing

Lake Jesup Park will be temporarily closed beginning April 15. The Seminole County Parks and Recreation Department is closing the park in order to conduct improvements to the park and boat ramp.

Officials say the park is expected to be reopened in August.

Time to move clock ahead

WASHINGTON — Folks planning to celebrate Easter Sunday with a trip to church need to be sure to set their clocks ahead.

Daylight-saving time arrives at 2 a.m. Sunday, meaning that people who forget to change their clocks will be an hour late.

The spring change means moving the clock ahead one hour. You remember, "spring forward."

Standard time returns Oct. 27.

Originally instituted to save energy during World War I, the time change means later sunsets. Today, that permits people to enjoy working on gardens or outdoor projects, playing sports, having barbecues or just idly relaxing outside.

And safety officials are reminding Americans that changing the clocks is also a good reminder to change the batteries in smoke detectors, making sure that these safety devices are always working.

Teens fine-tune their basketball skills at Sanford's Southside Park court. Nearby residents want the court torn down, calling it undesirable.

Residents say basketball court must go

SANFORD — A group of residents wants the city of Sanford to remove the basketball court at Southside Park, 201 E. 13th Street. A petition, containing 70 signatures, was submitted to the city calling for the area to be cleared.

The petition gives as a reason: "The undesirable activities directly associated with the basketball court, that is, littering." See Court, Page 5A

Meeting about flood problems surprises Lake Mary officials

By NICK PFEIFAUPE
Herald Staff Writer

LAKE MARY — Members of the St. Johns River Water Management District (SJRWD) were scheduled this morning to discuss flooding problems in Lake Mary in a meeting that came as a surprise to city officials because of the short notice.

During citizen participation at the Lake Mary City Commission last night, Doug Forner, who has repeatedly called for action to alleviate the high water problems in the city, informed the commission about the meeting.

He explained that the district's Executive Director Henry Dean, and governing board Chairman Bill Segal would be on hand to look into flooding problems in the basin.

Forner, who heads the 72 member Crystal Ridge Homeowners Association, said, "We'll be at the meeting and we've invited the Chamber of Commerce and city commission to send representatives."

The commission however, could not attend the meeting en masse, without first publicizing the fact in advance, as required by Florida's See Flooding, Page 5A

Study: Bad kids Youths tried as adults commit new crimes at higher rates

By The Associated Press

GAINESVILLE, Fla. — Young people tried as adults commit new crimes at a higher rate than their counterparts whose cases are handled in juvenile court, according to a University of Florida study.

The study found 2,738 Florida youths transferred to adult criminal court got into trouble more quickly and committed more serious crimes than did a matched sample of youths sentenced in the juvenile system.

"These results are probably pretty bad news for advocates of the 'get tough' policy," said Charles

Frazier, a UF sociologist and co-author of the study. "One basis in the underlying logic behind sending juveniles to adult courts is that, as a harsher, more punitive response, it is expected that juvenile crime will be reduced."

Harsher punishment can send the message that "society has given up on you and you're a lost cause — it's too late to reform" instead of the message that it is time to grow up and stop misbehaving, he said.

Researchers found that 30 percent of youths tried as adults were arrested again during the year after their release compared to 19 percent. See Study, Page 5A

And Jesus uttered a loud cry and breathed His last

The Owens family at 1903 Magnolia Avenue in Sanford is preparing for Easter today, Good Friday. Christians believe that Jesus Christ was crucified on Good Friday and that he rose from the grave three days later on Easter. On the cross, a purple cloth represents that in which Christ was wrapped and the crown of thorns are like that which was placed mockingly on his head by those who crucified him.

A birthday in style

Lisa Jones, recreation supervisor with the Sanford Parks and Recreation Department, second from left, was surprised when a limousine arrived at City Hall to escort her to a birthday lunch this week. The limo was rented by her sister as a gift. Lisa and her co-workers rode in the limo to Appleby's Restaurant in Orange City, where a festive party highlighted the day.

Gas prices continue to rise

By VICKI DeBORNIER

HEATHROW — That commute to and from work is beginning to really dig deeply into your pockets, as the price of gasoline continues to climb.

According to officials at the American Automobile Association (AAA) headquartered in Heathrow, the price of a gallon of gas has increased dramatically over the last few months. The increases are expected to continue until summer, they said.

"The supply of gas has been very low," said Rena Callahan, public relations specialist with AAA. "The supplies have been low and demand is not up very much."

According to Callahan, the national inventory of oil is currently at 203 million barrels of oil. A year ago, there were 214 million barrels in the inventory.

An unscientific survey of gas stations in Seminole County shows that the average price of a gallon of regular unleaded gas at the self-service pump is $1.22 per gallon. Prices as low as $1.12 per gallon and as high as $1.45 per gallon were seen around the county.

Thoughts on Easter

Even though Christmas may receive more publicity, because of Santa Claus and the shopping spree, Easter is considered the most prominent holiday for the Christian world.

Add to that, the week long observance of Passover presently underway, and we find ourselves in the midst of one of the most worshipful time periods of the entire year.

While we occasionally hear of outbreaks of hatred and violence involving Jews, Hebrews, Arabs, and Christians, we can take pride in the fact that, here in America, we appear to be approaching a much less violent era than we have had in past centuries.

One thing this joint religious holiday can produce, is allowing the people of the United States to show the rest of the world that people with different beliefs are capable of not only sharing the same nation, state, and neighborhood, but are likewise capable of helping each other, especially in time of need.

It is unfortunate we still have people from the "old school" who continue to insist, as have their forefathers, that there is no place in this nation or even on this earth, for those who do not have similar beliefs.

Each side, through the years, has caused grief for the other.

As people kneel to pray, or otherwise observe their religious beliefs in this most holy season, we suggest we unite in prayer for a more unified people, a nation which may be filled with various races and colors, but working together toward everyone's benefit.

Observing the arrival of the Easter Bunny (or Santa Claus) may be what some people think is the main object of our major holidays. We believe however, that neither the bunny nor Santa can do for the people, what the people can do for themselves if we all work together.

Life eternal

A happy Easter to you. We all live forever. The symbolism of this holiday can represent the eternal truth of reincarnation.

After we pass on, we rise to various astral planes which are higher frequency dimensions. As if to imagine the earth to be a radio station frequency, the astral planes would be the next higher frequency station. Depending on how good we were will determine if we get a nicer astral plane to live in. After a time, we can return to earth.

We gain knowledge from each life. Our past life experiences can help our present life with feelings and ideas of what to do, if you search and question in your mind.

Accumulate knowledge in this life, and you'll be wiser your next life. So our time here is precious. Or we return to learn something we could have learned before.

Live a sober life, and the wisdom of your past will shine through to your present.
Life eternal.

Chronologically challenged

I don't agree that Bob Dole is unpopular because of Bob Dole's age, as if Bob Dole were an innocent victim of the passage of time. Bob Dole's got other problems.

Bob Dole's not smart like Newt Gingrich. Bob Dole's as boring as Al Gore. Like George Bush, Bob Dole doesn't have the "Vision Thing." Bob Dole's not witty like Ross Perot. Bob Dole's not charismatic like Pat Buchanan. And Bob Dole's mean like Richard Nixon.

Many leaders like Nelson Mandela and Ronald Reagan weren't hurt by how old they were. I don't think it helps our chronologically challenged Americans for Bob Dole to use Bob Dole's age as an excuse.

Farrakhan and the African dictators

After the triumph of the Million Man March, it looked as if Minister Louis Farrakhan had finally confounded his critics. He had gained legitimacy as a leader who had begun to transcend his previous reputation as a bitter anti-Semite and a dangerous demagogue surrounded by the menacing soldiers of the Fruit of Islam. Farrakhan, however, cannot stand legitimacy. Recently embarking on what he bizarrely called a World Friendship Tour, he stopped in Nigeria, whose brutal dictator, Gen. Sani Abacha, had, not long before Farrakhan came, executed Ken Saro-Wiwa, an internationally respected human rights activist and environmentalist.

Casually and callously dismissing the protests against the execution, Farrakhan supported Gen. Abacha without reservation. In response, Randall Robinson of TransAfrica Forum -- who was pivotal in raising the consciousness of many Americans against apartheid in South Africa -- said that Farrakhan sounded like "an apologist for an authoritarian, corrupt and repressive regime."

This criticism of Farrakhan by Robinson, who has great prestige among many black American leaders, may be a sign that Farrakhan's desire to be in -- and lead -- the mainstream of black America has been undermined.

In Sudan, ruled by the even more brutal Gen.

Omar Hassan Ahmad Al-Bashir and the National Islamic Front, Farrakhan praised the general's government lavishly, and showed no distress at the pervasive state of terrorism in that land of slavery. As columnist Clarence Page has reported, a classified State Department document cites "a string of rapes, mass killings, village burnings and the mass capture (and enslavement) of south Sudanese black ethnic groups" by heavily armed Arabic soldiers from the north.

On black radio and in several black newspapers -- but not yet in any sustained way in the white press -- the news is beginning to spread that Farrakhan, who claims to be the savior of black Americans, is condoning the slavery of blacks in Sudan.

Celebrating his meetings with some of the world's most oppressive rulers -- he also smiled ingratiatingly in audiences with the sultans of Iran and Iraq -- Farrakhan spoke in Chicago before the faithful. It was Savior's Day, a vital holiday for the Nation of Islam; and this international potentate, Minister Farrakhan, could not restrain himself from returning to his domestic obsession:

"The Jews don't like me, the Jews put the Romans on Jesus. In the Senate in Washington, the Jews are pulling strings to get Farrakhan. You Jews are wicked deceivers of the American people. You have sucked their blood. You are not real Jews. You are the Synagogue of Satan. You have wrapped your tentacles around the United States government. You are sending this nation to hell!"

I once asked one of Farrakhan's lieutenants: "What would you folks do if suddenly every Jew in the world disappeared -- forever?"

He thought for a long time, trying to figure out who could then be blamed for everything.

Meanwhile, more attention is going to be paid to Farrakhan's unwillingness to condemn rampant slavery in Sudan.

Remember: It's not about Ross

If you are a member of the Reform Party, please, get some petitions circulating right now and urge Old Ross to run.

If you don't get the ball rolling, Old Ross isn't going to do it. He has said it a thousand times: This is not about him.

He said it last fall, when he went on "Larry King Live" to announce that he would be launching a new political party. He had no intention of running for the presidency himself, he said.

Indeed, Old Ross told the talk-show host that he wouldn't even have much influence in the selection of the third party's nominee. "Now bear in mind," Old Ross said, "I am one vote in this whole thing." He would, if pushed, consider running himself, but he would serve such a "hitch in hell" only if he were convinced it would be for the "good of my country."

When Old Ross said those words, with that endearing Texas twang in his voice, I could've cried. You just don't see such abject displays of selflessness in politicians anymore.

In the ensuing months, he tried over and over to make his position clear. "This is not about me," he said. He had half-a-dozen "world-class people" in mind for his party's ticket, he said. He was looking for "another George Washington," he said.

Well, Big George did not turn up, so we're going to have to turn to Lil' Ross. As reluctant as he is to run, he seems to be preparing himself mentally to take on the task if called upon. "Let's assume the dust clears and that's what the members of this party want," he told a San Antonio radio station in mid-March. "then, certainly, I would give it everything I have."

And then Old Ross took time from his busy schedule to go on television, and then he launched a speaking tour that will eventually take him to all corners of the country. Everywhere he goes, he is repeating his message: This is not about him.

The Reform Party is going to have a cyberconvention around Labor Day, and members will be asked to participate by computer, by phone and by facsimile machine. But Old Ross does not want the nomination. Yes, as the media are ever so fond of reporting, he has let himself be listed as a "stand-in" candidate on various forms. But that is only for the purpose of getting the party on the ballot in all the states.

What he actually said was ... wait a minute, I've got a quote right here in my notes ... what he actually said was:

"It's easy to do stunts and throw eggs at an albino monkey who's picked up a wrench and is looking under the hood, but I'll cut the grass and put out the trash if they don't disrupt my daughter's wedding and the tooth fairy gives me free candy."

No, wait a minute. My notes are a little mixed up here.

What he actually said was, it is a big risk to have most of our shoes made in China. "God help us if we have to go to war again," he said. "We could be fighting barefooted."

No, wait a minute, that was on a different point.

Oh, well, I'm sure you get the message: Old Ross would prefer not to be on the Reform Party ticket.

However, if drafted he will serve. I'm telling you, this is a magnanimous man. He knows what's going to happen, of course. They are going to be making fun of him. So do it. Draft Old Ross. He won't like it, but he'll run.

After all, this is not about him.

MORTON KONDRACKE

Perot and Social Security reform

Not much good can be expected from another presidential bid by Ross Perot, but there's one service the peaky Texan can perform: make President Clinton and Sen. Bob Dole, R-Kan., face up to the need to reform Social Security.

Despite mounting awareness that the retirement system is fiscally unsustainable and grossly unfair in the way it redistributes income, both major-party candidates will want to avoid touching the legendary "third rail" of American politics.

Indeed, the tendency of both parties is to demagogue any effort to bring entitlement spending under control. Democrats are especially prone to wave the bloody shirt, as they did over Medicare reform last year, but the GOP also attacked Clinton for proposing modest Medicare cuts in 1994.

Perot, despite his personal flaws (paranoia and authoritarianism leap to mind), has been adept at focusing attention on issues that the two parties want to duck, such as a balanced budget in 1992 and campaign finance reform last year.

Social Security needs the same treatment this year. By harping on the flaws in the system, Perot could force Clinton and Dole to acknowledge that there's a problem and create the political climate for reform in 1997.

The case for reform has been laid out in compelling form by two Democrats -- Robert Shapiro of the Progressive Policy Institute, writing last fall in the Democratic Leadership Council publication, the New Democrat, and Matthew Miller, a former Clinton budget official, in the current issue of the New Republic.

Ammunition for change will be furnished in more official form sometime this spring with the report of the Advisory Council on Social Security, which is appointed every four years to assess the system.

As both Shapiro and Miller point out, Social Security was described by Nobel Prize-winning economist Paul Samuelson in 1967 as based on "the greatest Ponzi scheme ever contrived" -- a growing work force and economy.

The scheme has worked for 50 years but is demographically destined to collapse over the next 30 years.

Though most people think that Social Security is an insurance plan financed by their own and their employers' pay-ins, benefits to current retirees actually are financed by current workers. The collapse will come in a few years when the burden on workers becomes unbearable.

Thanks to the power of lobbies representing the retired, Social Security benefits have skyrocketed over the past 30 years, to the point where the per capita disposable income of Americans over 65 is 40 percent greater than that of younger citizens.

Most retirees think they are only getting out of Social Security what they paid in, but actually a medium-income couple that retired in 1980 will get $208,000 in benefits, on average, after paying lifetime payroll taxes of just $75,000. A couple retiring today will collect $228,000 after paying taxes of $148,000.

To pay for the elderly, payroll taxes on younger workers have been pushed higher and higher. As the Baby Boom generation retires, fewer and fewer younger workers will have to support more and more older people, meaning either that benefits will have to drop or taxes will have to rise, or both.

If the Baby Boom generation receives the same benefits that current retirees do, the taxes required to pay for them will amount to as much as 40 percent of payroll in 2030, compared with 15 percent today. The younger generation will have to support the elderly rather than save for its own retirement.

The current Social Security system also is unfair because the basic Social Security tax is regressive -- incomes above $65,000 are exempt, and so are dividend and capital gains income -- while benefits are based on past income and go disproportionately to the well-off.

The situation is ripe for intervention by Perot because the facts are so stark, because the major parties are so reluctant to talk about them, and because there's political hay to be made by representing the interests of the young.

Already, Perot scores better among younger voters than he does among older ones -- 20 percent of 18- to 29-year-olds support him, but only 11 percent of those over 65, according to Gallup.

Young voters, however, still prefer Clinton by the widest margin of any group -- 56 percent, compared with 45 percent for those over 65. Dole gets 23 percent of the 18- to 29-year-old voters and 41 percent of those older than 65.

So far this year, only Republicans have shown the courage to discuss Social Security reform.

Indeed, the tendency of both parties is to demagogue any effort to bring entitlement spending under control.

Study

cent of the youths retained in the juvenile system.

Ninety-three percent of the rearrests involving the youths tried as adults were for one felony offense, compared to 85 percent of their counterparts handled as juveniles, according to the study.

Circuit Judge Thomas Peteracn, a Dade County juvenile judge, said Thursday he's been seeing more and more youths being tried as adults because prosecutors, who make the decisions, are bowing to public pressure.

"The idea of sending kids downtown is what the public wants in terms of kids that commit violent crimes or who have long records ... but more and more what happens is kids who are not charged with violent crimes are being sent downtown, too. What happens to those kids ... is they become much more hardened and much more bitter," he said.

"So it doesn't surprise me at all that they are committing more crimes than kids who go into a decent rehabilitation program in the juvenile system," he said.

But Jay Plotkin, director of the Juvenile Justice Division in the Fourth Judicial Circuit, said that in many cases juveniles going to adult court may receive lighter punishment than those who stay in juvenile court. As a result, they may commit other crimes since they don't feel they will be severely punished.

In Duval County, juveniles who commit serious crimes are placed in the county jail where they serve a term but also receive schooling and seminars on such subjects as anger control, Plotkin said. When they are released, they are placed on probation and given mentors.

From Jan. 1, 1993, through Dec. 31, 1995, 547 juveniles were sentenced to up to one year in the county jail.

"I believe that incarceration of juveniles as adults is a crucial deterrent to juveniles not to break the law," State Attorney Harry Shorstein wrote in a study earlier this year.

From 1993 to 1994, while juvenile crime increased nationwide and statewide, Shorstein said Jacksonville had a 30 percent decrease in all juvenile arrests.

The University of Florida study used 1987 records from the Florida Department of Health and Rehabilitative Services, the researchers matched pairs of youths for age, gender, race, present offense and prior record, with the primary difference between groups being that one was treated in the adult courts and the other in the juvenile justice system.

Using older data allowed researchers to do long-term studies of the youths after finishing the short-term follow-up study.

The study appears in the April 1996 issue of the journal Crime and Delinquency. The paper is jointly authored by University of Central Florida criminologist Donna Bishop, UF sociologist Lonni Lanza-Kaduce and UF statistician Lawrence Winner.

City's Easter Eggstravaganza

From staff reports

SANFORD — The Sanford Recreation Department is once again holding its annual Easter Eggstravaganza. The egg hunt will be held Saturday morning beginning at 9:30 a.m. at Lee P. Moore Park, 108 Sweet Bay Drive, in the Hidden Lakes subdivision.

According to recreation supervisor Lisa Jones, this year's event will be bigger and better than ever before. She estimated the turnout last year at 300 youngsters, and says there will probably be many more this year.

In response to an increase in participation, the recreation department has increased the number of eggs for the hunt from 2,000 last year to 3,000 for this year.

Youngsters from new-borns through age 12 are encouraged to attend. Special gift baskets will be awarded to children who find the special golden eggs for each age group.

Jones said for new-borns, ages 0 to 2, she didn't expect them to go running around (by themselves), looking for the eggs. "Generally the mamas carry the little ones around," she commented.

Youngsters are urged to bring baskets in which to carry found-eggs and surprises. Punch and cookies will also be available.

Jones said there will be ample parking space.

Participants are urged to be on hand by 9:30 to welcome the Easter Bunny, who has announced intentions to pay a personal visit to the egg hunt during a very busy weekend schedule.

There is no charge for the event, and everyone is invited to attend.

For additional information, phone 330-5897.

Gas

gas prices in the central Florida area was released on March 20. At that time the average cost of a gallon of regular unleaded gas was $1.14.6 at the self-serve pump.

That cost was 3.4 cents per gallon higher than the month before.

"That is the largest February to March increase we've seen in a very long time," said Callahan.

Nationally, a March 26 survey showed that the average price of a gallon of unleaded gas was $1.18 at the self-serve pump. That was an increase of 5.1 cents per gallon.

Callahan noted the price of a barrel of crude oil has increased slightly over the last month as well, causing another slight swelling in the prices being charged at the local pumps.

She said the price increases are not unusual in the springtime, but the rate at which the prices are going up is rare. Traditionally when demand increases in the summer, the price will begin to fall.

"I think the prices will begin to come down in July or August like they always do," she noted.

In addition, if Iraq begins to export oil again later this year as they are expected to do, the increased supplies will also drive the cost of gas down.

"It's very complicated," Callahan said.

Government in the Sunshine law. It would require at least 24 hours or more after notification in order to meet the law's requirements.

City Attorney Donna McIntosh agreed that it would be too late to fulfill the legal requirements for more than one commissioner to attend such a meeting considering the short time span.

When the meeting had been set up, Fobner told the commission, to his knowledge, it had been arranged on Wednesday of this week. "I believe only two of the SJRWMD commissioners will be on hand for the meeting," he said, "but at least they are showing an interest in our problems."

Forner said the meeting, scheduled to begin at 10:30 this morning, would also include a tour of the Crystal Lake Basin and Liberty Park, both areas where heavy rainfall has produced flooding for many months.

City Manager John Litton said the first indication that any such meeting may be scheduled was a phone call received late Wednesday by Parks and Recreation Director John Holland, asking that Liberty Park gates be opened so a tour could be made.

"What upsets me," said commissioner Sheila Sawyer, "is that they call for this very important meeting, which we should certainly attend, then do it in such a way as to prevent us from attending because there is insufficient time for advertising the meeting."

Sawyer had previously complained about the lack of not only communications but cooperation in resolving flooding problems from the Water Management District.

At the March 21 meeting, Sawyer questioned why agencies (such as SJRWMD), "...do not have to pay for problems when we (the city) are required to follow their guidelines."

Commissioner Gary Brender volunteered to represent the commission at the meeting. Brender is a resident of the Timacuan area.

It was later determined however, that Mayor Lowry Rockett should be the person to attend the meeting.

The high water problems were brought up again later in last night's meeting, when Litton referred to a graph he had obtained showing the rainfall through the first three months of this year.

Without including the several inches of rainfall last weekend, March 30 and 31, the Central Florida Research and Education Center, which compiled the statistics, showed 10.19 inches of rain had fallen in March of this year. The average March rainfall in the Lake Mary area is listed as 5.53 inches.

The chart indicated only 1.3 inches of rain in February, but 5.75 in January.

Area Easter egg hunts

SANFORD — The City of Sanford's annual Easter Egg Hunt will be held this Saturday beginning at 9:30 a.m., at Lee P. Moore Park, 108 Sweet Bay Drive, in the Hidden Lakes subdivision. The event is open to youngsters age 0 to 12. Over 3,000 eggs will be distributed with prizes awarded in four age groups, and the Easter Bunny scheduled to make a personal appearance.

For additional information, phone 330-5897.

SANFORD — The Central Florida Zoological Park will hold its annual Easter Egg Hunt on Saturday beginning at 10 a.m. An estimated 8,000 eggs have been colored during the past week by docent volunteers. The hunt for toddlers up to age 4 will begin at 10 a.m. For children 4 to 6 years of age, the event starts at 10:30 a.m. Age group 7 to 10 will begin their search through the zoo grounds at 11 a.m.

Special guests will be on hand and prizes will be awarded for the finders of special eggs.

Admission to the zoo and egg hunt is $7 for adults, $3 for children ages 3 to 12, $4 for seniors over 60, and free for youngsters age 2 and under.

Proceeds will go to benefit the wildlife and conservation programs at the zoo.

profanity, fighting, drugs, destruction of park equipment, using neighboring properties as an outdoor bathroom, etc., are intimidating enough to prevent us from using the park."

Many signers of the petition are residents living within a few blocks of the park. Two signatures however, are from persons listing their addresses as Lake Mary, and Orlando.

In response to the petition, Mike Kirby, director of the Recreation and Parks Department for the city, says the neighbors in the park area may have some valid concerns. He pointed out however, there are several questions which should be addressed:

Will removing the basketball court eliminate these problems? The basketball court has been in existence for over 25 years and we have had very few complaints.

Why are these problems occurring and how can we best deal with them? We feel that this park needs stricter enforcement of parks usage from the police department.

We need to consider the cost involved to remove the basketball court and restore the site.

Has anyone considered where the neighborhood kids will play basketball if the court is removed? Are we doing a disservice to those who use the facilities properly?

Police Chief Ralph Russell has also responded. He says, so far in 1996, the police department has received only four complaints and they were in reference to code violations.

Russell admitted the police have received information about drug transactions occurring within the park area. "However," he said, "surveillance has not substantiated this information."

Russell says he has directed the Uniform Division to closely monitor the park, and if any violations are noted, to take whatever action may be needed to correct the problem.

Of the four complaints Russell acknowledges receiving, only one person identified himself by name. He was also included in the list of signatures on the petition submitted to the city.

The commission is scheduled to discuss the request for removal of the basketball court during the work session meeting beginning at 5 p.m. Monday, April 8, in the city manager's conference room.

The regular commission meeting will begin at 7 p.m. in the commission chambers, but at the time the agenda was made, there was no indication that the matter would come up for any formal vote at this time.

Men seek $10 million

By JEFF WONG
Associated Press Writer

LOS ANGELES — Two Mexicans beaten by two sheriff's deputies after a high-speed chase have filed a claim for more than $10 million against Riverside County, saying the officers broke anti-torture laws.

Peter Schey, of the Center for Human Rights and Constitutional Law, said Thursday that he filed the claim seeking $10 million for Enrique Funes Flores and $10,000 for Santiago Garcia Pedrosa.

The claim, the first step to a lawsuit, said the deputies "recklessly, intentionally and wantonly" beat Funes with batons and threw Garcia to the ground. Garcia had not previously been identified as a victim in Monday's attack.

Deputies Tracy Watson and Kurtis Franklin were suspended with pay pending investigations.

Funes and Garcia were among at least 19 illegal immigrants who fled sheriff's deputies in a pickup truck during an 80-mile chase that ended when the pickup pulled over on the highway. The group was suspected of sneaking over the border.

As the Mexicans scrambled from the truck, TV news helicopters videotaped a deputy striking Funes six times. The tape, broadcast repeatedly in the United States and Mexico, also shows deputies beating Alicia Sotero Vasquez. Both remained hospitalized in Los Angeles, their lawyers said.

It was not immediately clear whether Sotero would file a claim against the county.

PRENATAL EDUCATION CLASSES TO BEGIN APRIL 11

WHAT DOES MY BABY LOOK LIKE AT THREE MONTHS OLD? WHEN DO I PRE-REGISTER AT THE HOSPITAL? WHEN WILL I FEEL MY BABY MOVE? IS THERE ANYTHING I CAN DO FOR MORNING SICKNESS? WHAT DO I DO WHEN MY WATER BREAKS? HOW CAN MY PARTNER HELP ME RELAX? WHAT HAPPENS DURING A C-SECTION? HOW CLOSE SHOULD MY CONTRACTIONS BE BEFORE I CALL MY DOCTOR? IS IT 1, 2, 3, BLOW OR 1, 2, BLOW, BLOW?

Congratulations, you're pregnant! And, whether this is your first baby or your fourth, you have lots of questions.

We have the answers.

In our prenatal education classes you'll learn about how your baby develops from month to month, what to expect during labor, how to care for your infant once you're home and much more.

About the only question we can't answer is what color you should paint the nursery? That one we'll leave up to you.

Case against Unabomber suspect

HELENA, Mont. — Working with meticulous care and wary of possible booby traps, FBI agents combing a remote mountain cabin are trying to build a case that a former Berkeley math professor is the elusive Unabomber.

Federal agents expect to spend several days searching Theodore John Kaczynski's cabin, which they said has yielded a partially assembled pipe bomb, bomb-making materials and literature, and a typewriter that may have been used to type the Unabomber's manifesto, published last year.

Kaczynski, 53, was charged Thursday with possessing the bomb components and was held without bail. The charge made no mention of attacks by the Unabomber, who has killed three people and injured 23 in 18 years.

The charge was designed to hold Kaczynski while agents build a case, officials said. He was being held today at the Lewis and Clark County Jail and officials refused to say whether he was under a suicide watch or if any other special security measures had been taken.

Calling 911

WASHINGTON — Each year millions of people call 911 from cellular phones but, unlike the same calls made from regular phones, the caller's location is not automatically sent to emergency dispatchers.

Knowing who the caller is and where he or she is calling from are vital to providing a prompt response, 911 dispatchers and public safety groups say.

In a commuter train wreck in New Jersey, several people on the train called 911 from cellular phones but because dispatchers couldn't pinpoint the callers' location and the callers didn't know precisely where the train was, the communications were of little help to rescuers, public safety officials say.

When people call 911 from regular phones, 911 dispatchers automatically get the number of the caller because it travels with the call over the telephone wire. The phone numbers are instantly matched with addresses on a data base. With cellular phones, the numbers are not linked to a location.

WORLD BRIEFS

Bodies delivered to makeshift morgue

DUBROVNIK, Croatia — Helicopters delivered the bodies of Commerce Secretary Ron Brown and business executives to a makeshift morgue today, as more American experts flew to Croatia to investigate what caused their plane to crash.

Croatia observed a day of mourning for Brown and 34 others killed when their plane clipped a barren hill in a raging storm Wednesday and crashed about two miles short of Dubrovnik's Cilli Airport.

U.S. Defense Secretary William Perry said initial speculation was that faulty instrumentation was to blame.

By 8 a.m. this morning, with the weather improving, the remains of 16 victims had been brought off the mountain in black body bags. They were taken to a cavernous warehouse at Dubrovnik airport that was hastily converted into a temporary morgue.

Heightened state of alert

SEOUL, South Korea — South Korea put its military on a heightened state of alert today following North Korea's apparent dismissal of an armistice agreement.

The Defense Ministry said it was taking the action immediately in conjunction with the U.S. military, but a spokesman for the American command said he knew nothing about it.

"I can neither confirm nor deny that," said the U.S. spokesman, Jim Coles. "To my knowledge, a decision has not been taken."

South Korean air, naval and ground patrols will be stepped up, the Defense Ministry said, and the number of troops on standby for an emergency will be increased. No major troop movements are involved, it said.

Permanent presence in Baghdad

BAGHDAD, Iraq — They've fished missile-guidance gyroscopes out of the muddy waters of the Tigris River. They've uncovered box loads of weapons documents hidden at a chicken farm.

And last month, U.N. weapons inspectors spent a chilly night shivering outside the Irrigation Ministry in yet another standoff with recalcitrant Iraqi officials who sought to prevent their search of the building.

After five fitful years marked by repeated confrontations, the U.N. monitoring program has become a permanent presence in Baghdad, with 50 staffers based in the Iraqi capital and a mission expected to carry on for years.

However, if Iraq reaches an oil-for-food deal with the United Nations, there are concerns that it will be less willing to cooperate with monitors piecing together Iraq's massive and secretive programs to build nuclear, chemical and biological weapons.

Growing respect for state sovereignty

By RICHARD CARELLI
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON — Returning political clout to the states has a lot of friends in this federal city these days, perhaps none as dependable as the Supreme Court.

Although Congress does most of the talking about "devolution," the nation's highest court seems even more intent on shifting federal power to the 50 states.

Re-election concerns may make members of Congress waver, but across the street on Capitol Hill the court's nine justices have life tenure. And a five-justice majority is reviving the long-neglected notion of state autonomy.

"What we're seeing is a throwback to the 1930s court that gave the New Deal fits," says American University law professor Herman Schwartz.

Franklin D. Roosevelt responded then with an unsuccessful attempt to expand the court's membership so he could pack it with more sympathetic justices. President Clinton so far has remained silent about the court's recent trend.

Ruling last week in a dispute over gambling on Indian reservations, the court restricted Congress' power to make states and their officials the targets of lawsuits filed by people who allege a violation of federally protected rights.

The 5-4 vote reflected the split among the justices when the court last year said Congress lacked the authority to make it a federal crime to have a gun within 1,000 feet of a school.

Each decision focused on Congress' power to regulate commerce, and each was controlled by a coalition of conservatives: Chief Justice William H. Rehnquist and Justices Sandra Day O'Connor, Antonin Scalia, Anthony M. Kennedy and Clarence Thomas. O'Connor, one-time leader of the Arizona Senate and the only former state legislator among the justices, is the court's states-rights champion.

"O'Connor is an intellectual leader in this area," says Vanderbilt University law professor Barry Friedman.

"She would have written these decisions 15 years ago if she could have," adds William Banks, a law professor at Syracuse University.

O'Connor wrote the opinion for the court in 1992 when it struck down a key provision of a federal law aimed at forcing states to dispose of low-level radioactive waste generated within their borders.

Congress "may not conscript state governments as its agents," she said then.

What's next? Justice John Paul Stevens suggested in a dissenting opinion last week that private citizens will have no remedy when states violate federal antitrust, bankruptcy, copyright and patent laws.

Many expect that states stung by lawsuits over the environment will invoke their sovereignty in seeking immunity.

"Can a private citizen sue the state when a plant it operates violates the Clean Air Act?" Banks asks before suggesting the answer awaits future litigation.

Can someone still sue a state under the Americans with Disabilities Act because a new government office building has no access ramp? Can a state be sued by one of its employees who alleges age bias?

Maybe not, some experts say. It depends on the source of Congress' authority to enact those laws.

While the court has cut back congressional power under the Constitution's Commerce Clause, civil rights activists are happy the court still upholds Congress' right to assure that states provide equal protection and due process. That authority comes from the Constitution's post-Civil War 14th Amendment.

As for the disabilities and age-bias laws — and perhaps other laws as well — the key question could be whether the law is tied to the Commerce Clause or to the 14th Amendment.

There are limits. States are not, after all, receiving a judicial blank check.

Vanderbilt's Friedman says it's important to remember that the federal government has not lost its power to sue states directly.

And he adds, "I haven't seen any serious suggestion that the court is going to let states trample individual rights."

Noting the ample speculation that Rehnquist is putting off retirement until after this year's presidential election, American University's Schwartz says the recent trend probably would end if there is a second Clinton administration.

"The presidential election," he says, "will have everything to say about the court's future direction on states' rights."

IN BRIEF

LOCALLY

Big Blue all-tourney picks

ALTAMONTE SPRINGS — Seminole County athletes dominated the special awards at the Big Blue Bonanza baseball tournament as Lake Brantley's Robert Sitz was named the tournament Most Valuable Player and David Etzkin was tabbed the Most Valuable Pitcher.

Also making the All-Tournament team from Lake Brantley were Jeff Hall, Shawn Child and Matt Krot. Other county players picked were Nick Sosa (Lake Mary), Ben Knapp and Troy Boutwell (Oviedo) and Mike Meadows, Phillip Eubanks and Jim Rabun (Seminole).

Rams, Hawks in JV finale

LAKE MARY — Lake Mary blanked Oviedo 4-0 and Lake Howell whitewashed Lake Brantley 2-0 Wednesday to advance to tonight's 7:30 p.m. championship game of the Lake Mary Springbreak J.V. Baseball Tournament.

Players, sponsors needed

SANFORD — The Sanford Recreation Department Babe Ruth Senior Baseball League is looking for players and sponsors.

The league, which has four teams from Sanford and one each from Longwood and Altamonte Springs, is for players between 16 and 18 years old.

Sponsors are needed for both the Babe Ruth (13-15 year olds) and Seniors (16-18). For more information call 330-5697.

Starless Magic lose

ORLANDO — David Wesley's jumper with less than a second remaining Thursday night gave Boston a 100-98 victory over Orlando, which blew a 19-point second-half lead without Shaquille O'Neal and Anfernee Hardaway.

O'Neal missed his second straight game because of the death of his grandmother, and Hardaway was ejected late in the half after taunting Boston's Pervis Ellison and picking up a second technical foul for arguing the call.

Wesley scored 17 of his 22 points in the third quarter and his 16-foot game-winner was his only basket of the fourth period. Rick Fox had 16 and Dee Brown 15 for the Celtics.

Horace Grant, who led Orlando with 24 points, made a jumper to tie the game with 12.1 seconds left. Nick Anderson added 23.

Marlins win first game

MIAMI — Gary Sheffield and Greg Colbrunn homered Thursday, joining Florida's sluggish offense as the Marlins claimed their first victory, beating the Pittsburgh Pirates 6-2.

Al Leiter (1-0), making his National League debut allowed just four hits and one run in seven innings. Marlins starters have allowed two earned runs in 22 innings.

Dolphins sign three

MIAMI — The Miami Dolphins signed defensive ends Aaron Jones of the New England Patriots and Daniel Stubbs, of the Philadelphia Eagles, to one-year contracts.

The Dolphins also signed free agent wide receiver Henry Neal to an undisclosed contract. Jones, a 6-5, 267-pound native of Apopka, played in nine games last year for New England, finishing with seven tackles and one sack.

The 6-4, 273-pound Stubbs played in 16 games with six starts last season for the Eagles, amassing 29 tackles, five sacks, one forced fumble and one fumble recovery.

Neal, who has never played collegiate or professional football, competed in track for Texas Southern University.

BLACKBOARD

Bulls melt Heat

CHICAGO — Michael Jordan scored 40 points and Toni Kukoc had a career-high 34 Thursday night as the Chicago Bulls clinched the best record in the Eastern Conference with a 100-92 victory over the Miami Heat.

Dennis Rodman pulled down 12 rebounds in his first home game after serving a six-game suspension for head-butting referee Ted Bernhardt — one of Thursday's officials.

The Bulls (64-8) need to win six of their final 10 games to reach an NBA-record 70 victories. They are 37-0 at home this year, with 44 consecutive regular-season home wins total.

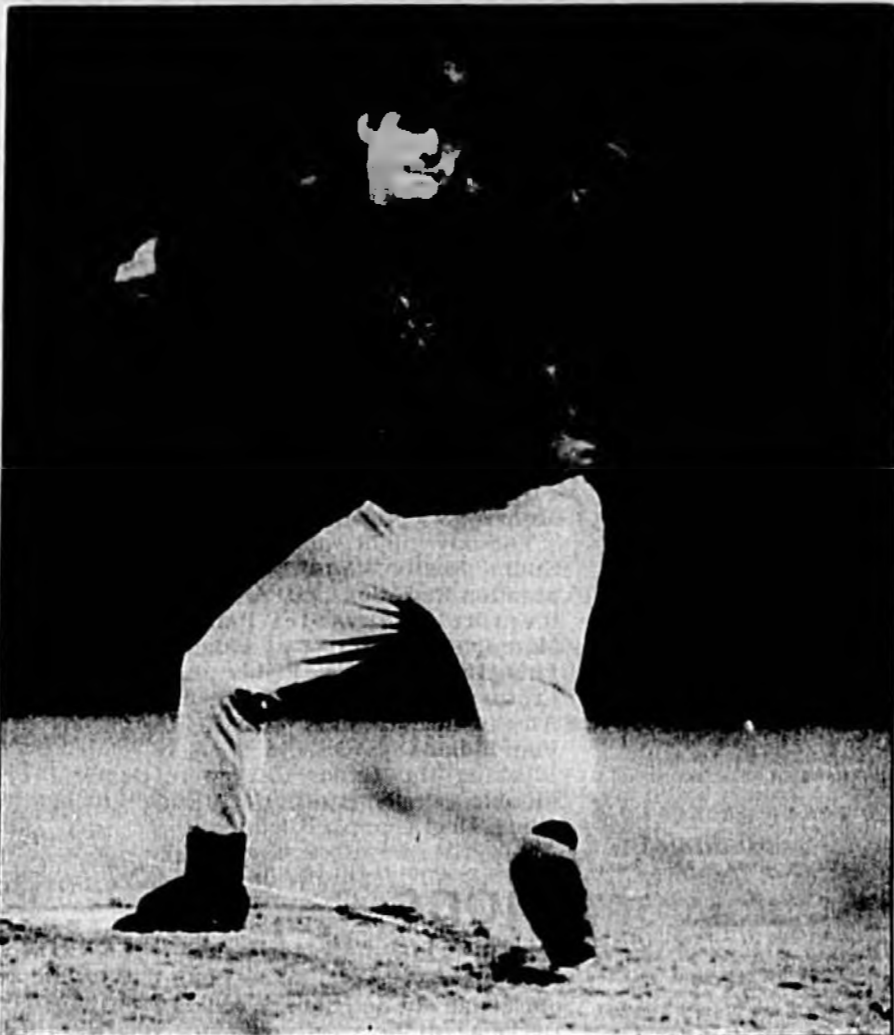

Tim Hardaway and Walt Williams scored 20 points apiece for Miami, which fell into a tie with Charlotte for the conference's final playoff spot. The Bulls can help the Heat by winning Friday in Charlotte. Both the Heat and Hornets have nine games remaining.

Pat's best a third ranked team to win Big Blue

Lake Brantley sophomore Robert Sitz scattered five hits and shutout the state's third ranked team, Dr. Phillips, 3-0 to earn Most Valuable Player honors at the Big Blue Bonanza baseball tournament Thursday night.

ALTAMONTE SPRINGS — Host Lake Brantley, given up for dead early in the season, continued an amazing come back to win the Eighth Annual Big Blue Bonanza baseball tournament with a 3-0 win over Class 6A No. 3 state ranked Dr. Phillips Thursday night.

The Panthers (20-3) were the third state ranked team the Patriots beat on their way to claiming the first Big Blue title for a Seminole County team. Lake Brantley also defeated 6A No. 6 Deltona and Class 5A No. 10 Jacksonville-First Coast.

The victory could be a very good omen for the Patriots as the winner of each of the first seven Big Blue's (Sarasota four times, Key West twice and Dr. Phillips) has advanced to the state championship game.

Lake Brantley (9-8), which started the season 0-6 after serving a suspension for misconduct, won for the ninth time in 11 games and got over 500 for the first time.

While head coach Mike Smith was pleased with the triumph, he realizes there is more to accomplish.

"This is great, but I want to win the district tournament," Smith said. "We had a tremendous tournament, and our team is showing a lot of character. There is a rhythm to playing baseball, and getting in trouble in Tampa took us out of that rhythm. We are finally getting back to where we need to be, and you get a lot of confidence when you beat three ranked teams."

Aaron Russell was hit by a pitch with one out in the second inning, took second on a wild pitch, and reached third on a passed ball. Tommy Anderson walked and stole second base, and scored behind Russell when Wheatley ripped a singled up the into center field.

It proved to be all the offense Lake Brantley would need as pitcher Robble Sitz shut down the Dr. Phillips batting order with a performance that won him the tournament's most valuable player award. The sophomore right-hander improved to 3-1 on the season by scattering five hits and two walks over seven innings while striking out seven Panthers batters.

Matt Krot was 2-for-3 at the plate to lead the Lake Brantley offense, while Wheatley and Chris Harney each collected a hit.

The Patriots will return to action Wednesday, as they travel to Lake Howell for a 7 p.m. Seminole Athletic Conference contest.

Oviedo finishes tournament 3-1

ALTAMONTE SPRINGS — Troy Boutwell and Ben Knapp combined on a four-hitter and Knapp drove in two runs as Oviedo edged the sixth-ranked team in Class 6A, Deltona, 3-2 in the Big Blue Bonanza baseball tournament at Lake Brantley High School Thursday morning.

Boutwell gave up three hits, including a home run to Jason Oglesby, struck out four and walked five before leaving with two out in the sixth inning. The sophomore is now 4-2 on the season.

Knapp, also a sophomore, gave up one hit and one un-earned run while getting the final four outs to earn his fifth save of the season. He also

JACKSONVILLE — Heather Hutchinson hurled a four-hitter and the Raiders plated seven runs in the sixth inning as Seminole Community College defeated the Stars 9-4 to split a Mid-Florida Conference softball doubleheader as Florida Community College at Jacksonville Thursday afternoon.

Hutchinson, a sophomore from Boone, struck out three, walked only one and gave up no runs as she improved her record to 9-7 in the opening game.

The Raiders scored single runs in the second and fifth innings to build a 2-0 lead. But FCC-J scored four unearned runs in the bottom of the fifth inning to take a 4-2 advantage, setting the stage for the seven-run sixth for SCC.

Have a festive, healthy Easter

Easter, like other holidays, has its own festive foods. Children are thrilled with decorative eggs and other goodies in their Easter baskets. Growups prefer the savory ham dinner with tasty trimmings. These foods, like those served year-round, require safe handling to prevent food poisoning. The rules are simple — keep cold food cold, hot food hot, and all food clean.

During this time of year I frequently get calls asking questions on the preparation and handling of hard-cooked eggs and ham. Here are some of the most frequently asked questions:

Q. Are hard-cooked eggs used for an Easter egg hunt safe to eat?

A. Yes, but they must be handled properly because hard-cooked eggs are perishable. First, cool hard-cooked eggs in cold water immediately after cooking, and then refrigerate them so they cool all the way through. If any eggs crack while cooking, do not use them for the hunt since bacteria can easily get through the openings and contaminate the eggs. In addition, hard-cooked eggs should not be out of the refrigerator for more than two hours — a time span to keep in mind when you plan the hiding and hunting of Easter eggs.

CONSUMER FOCUS

Q. How long will hard-cooked eggs keep in the refrigerator?

A. Hard-cooked eggs in the shell should be used within one week. Those with cracked shells or eggs with the shell removed should be used within one day.

Q. Is there any danger of trichinosis in hams?

A. There is no danger of trichinosis in fully cooked hams. They are specially processed in accordance with the U.S. Department of Agriculture's guidelines to kill trichinae organisms. These hams are ready to eat without further cooking. Fresh hams, however, need extra care in preparation. Thorough cooking of fresh ham — until the center reaches a temperature of 170 degrees Fahrenheit — will kill trichinae parasites — the cause of trichinosis. To make sure this temperature is reached, insert a meat thermometer in the thickest part of the cut, not touching the bone or fat. Trichinosis, while rare in the United States, can be serious.

Q. How long can ham be safely refrigerated?

A. Uncured ham or fresh pork will keep in the refrigerator from 3 to 5 days. It will keep in the freezer from 4 to 8 months. Cured ham will keep in the refrigerator for one week. Leftover cooked ham that is tightly wrapped and refrigerated 1 to 2 hours after cooking will keep 4 to 5 days. Both uncooked and leftover ham can be kept in the freezer up to two months before losing flavor and texture.

For answers to your questions on hard-cooked eggs, ham and other meat and poultry products, contact USDA's Meat and Poultry Hotline, 1-800-835-4555. The hotline hours are from 9 a.m. until 5 p.m., Monday through Friday.

Wife of 25 years needs to 'find herself'

DEAR MARY: I'm about to be evicted back into bachelorhood after 25 years of marriage because my wife says she needs to be free to "find herself." It hasn't been a perfect marriage, but on the whole, I think it's been pretty good.

When our last kid graduated from high school in 1989, my wife decided to go back to college and finish her education. I was all for it at the time and encouraged her. Then about three years ago she began acting different and a little distant. She was taking a women's studies class at the time and she said it opened her eyes to a lot of things.

I'm not blaming that class, but she has been talking about needing more space ever since then. When I ask her what that means, she can't give me any real ideas — she says she just feels locked in a dead-end life. Now she wants me to move out. I've asked her to go to counseling with me, but she says she doesn't need counseling, she needs her freedom. How can I make her see that she's throwing away a quarter of a century and destroying our family for "space?"

FAMILY COUNSELOR
MARY BALK

EVICTED HUSBAND
DEAR EVICTED: Let's deal with the "eviction" first. You do not have to go anywhere because your wife needs space. If she needs her freedom, she can start by finding a new place to live. Secondly, you can't make her "see" anything she's not willing to look at.

Since she's not willing to go for counseling, you go alone. Regardless of the outcome of this situation, you'll benefit from having taken some time to look at what's happening, and exploring your options with a counselor you trust.

Finally, don't make the mistake of thinking that if you do do whatever she wants you to do and act like a doormat for her wishes, she'll see the error of her ways and come back to you. Begin now to deal with her in a business-like manner. Crying, begging, threatening, and all other attempts at manipulating her decisions will only weaken your position.

Do not allow yourself to be forced into any action that is not in your best interest. Personally, I bet there's more to this story than that she's not sharing with you, but if she's determined to follow this path, you will be terribly hurt and then you will recover and go on with your life.

Reader corrects junk mail calculations

DEAR ABBY: You printed a letter from Judie Songer of Rogersville, Mo., about junk mail. Her letter prompts me to write.

Ms. Songer stated that "Americans receive almost 2 million tons of junk mail daily." This information apparently was obtained through Ms. Songer's research for a class speech. Abby, 2 million tons equal 4 billion pounds. If we assume the population of the United States to be 250 million, that equates to 16 pounds of junk mail for each man, woman and child in the country. I doubt that even you receive that much mail.

Ms. Songer's point is well-taken. The volume of junk mail is annoying and represents unreasonable waste. This letter is not a criticism of Ms. Songer, but when one refers to information sources, too frequently our discernment is in the "off" position.

Does this really matter? Yes, I think so. As Americans, we are called upon daily to make decisions that affect every aspect of our lives. For example: Please note that this is a presidential election year. I submit that we will hear numerous preposterous claims from individuals running for office. If we accept all these candidates' claims as stated, without some level of discernment, we will deserve what we get.

Now that I have that off my chest, I must admit that I, too, use some of the methods Ms. Songer suggested to discourage junk mail.

DEAR ROGER: The person whose "discernment" was switched off was me, for failing to question the figures. I heard from many readers who pointed out the numbers were incorrect. When I contacted Ms. Songer, she replied as follows:

DEAR ABBY: After you printed my letter about how to get rid of junk mail, I was amazed at the positive letters and phone calls I received; and from that feedback, I learned that this subject is important to others as well. However, one caller questioned the accuracy of my numbers, so to satisfy my curiosity, I rechecked my sources. I did misquote them. Two million tons of junk mail are sent per year, not per day. My apologies to your readers.

ADVICE
ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

JUDIE SONGER, ROGERSVILLE, MO.

DEAR JUDIE: I appreciate the correction.

On Good Friday, April 5, at 7 p.m., "The Seven Last Words" by candlelight:

- First Word — Rev. Preston Adams, St. James AME Church
- Second Word — Rev. Amos Jones, St. Paul Baptist Church
- Third Word — Rev. Elijah June, Faith Ministry Baptist Church
- Fourth Word — Rev. William Lewis, New Bethel Baptist Church
- Fifth Word — Rev. Wilbur Johnson, Union Bethel AME Church, Crescent City
- Sixth Word — Rev. Monroe Boyd, St. John Missionary Baptist Church
- Seventh Word — Rev. Robert Doctor, St. John Missionary Baptist Church

For a pre-Easter fellowship join the pastor and members of St. John's in this two-night celebration of the crucifixion of our Lord.

Local mens rally scheduled

'Rise Up' Sanford' to join races, denominations

BY SUSAN WENNER
Herald Staff Writer

SANFORD — The "Rise Up! Sanford" Mens Rally and "Nothin but Net" basketball tournament will be held at the Sanford Civic Center and Fort Mellon Park on Saturday, 13 beginning at 7 a.m.

The event will feature a free "hungry mans" breakfast, multi-church special music, special speakers, a three on three basketball tournament and a family picnic at the park.

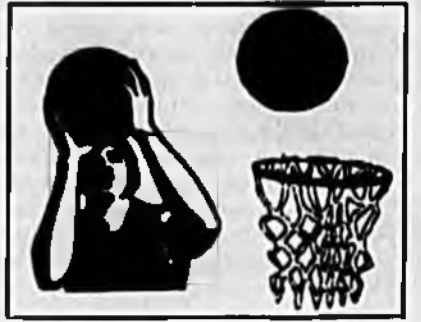

This years theme will be "Breaking Down the Walls." Listen to the "Rise Up! Sanford" program every Saturday morning at 10 a.m. on WTRR 1400 AM.

Endorsing churches are Shower Down of Blessing Church, Faith Bible Ministry, Pinecrest Baptist, Restoration Community Church, Healing Water Worship Center, Centro Cristiana de Dios, Family Worship Center, First Baptist Sanford, Victory Temple, First Baptist Lake Monroe, Outreach Deliverance Center, First Presbyterian Church, Allen Chapel, Congregational Christian Church, Cornerstone Christian Fellowship, Upsala Community Church, Sanford Teen Challenge, Lake Mary Christian Center and El Bethel House of Refuge.

According to Jeffrey Krall, one of the organizers of the event, "it is noteworthy to mention that these basketball courts are located on the very spot where the city community pool used to be, a place where racial tension was very high. Tom Cason didn't know it at the time, but when walking around the lake front it all came back to him. He now sees what God had in mind when He showed him the basketball tournament as being a significant part of day."

He continued, "Tom Cason wanted an event focused on men becoming better husbands, fathers and church leaders. The specific focus of Saturday's rally is to begin, perhaps for the first time, a racial and denominational healing in our city."

For more information write to P.O. Box 702, Sanford, Florida 32772 or call Tom Cason at 330-2082.

Colonel Eldar to speak at Beth Am

SPECIAL TO THE HERALD

LONGWOOD — Beth Am "First Sunday" Club plans to host a Israeli Commando Leader, Colonel Mike Eldar on Sunday, April 21.

Colonel Mike Eldar, author of the Israeli best-seller "Commando Unit of the Israeli Navy" will be the featured guest speaker at Beth Am's "First Sunday" Club's free breakfast beginning at 11:30 a.m. in the congregation's sanctuary on Sand Lake Road in Longwood, three miles west of Brantley High School. Colonel Eldar's presentation is being underwritten by the local office of Israel Bonds. There will be no solicitation of funds at this event.

Eldar is a twenty year veteran of the Israel Defense Forces and served mainly in naval battle units. During the Six Day War, Eldar was posted in the Sea of Galilee, and served off the Sinai coast during the War of Attrition and the Yom Kippur War. Eldar also commanded an amphibious assault flotilla during the major landing operations during the 1982 incursion into Lebanon.

Eldar currently is a journalist who, in addition to his current best-seller, has written five other books. He is also a script writer for educational television.

The "First Sunday" Club of Congregation Beth Am was founded by Mr. Izzy Dorfman in order to provide a forum for the personalities associated with the major problems, topics and issues facing the Central Florida community today. Recent guests have included United States Congressman Bill McCollum, Florida State Senators, Buddy Dyer and Lee Constantine, Seminole County Chairman Randy Morris, Seminole School Superintendent Dr. Paul Hagerty and the members of the Seminole School Board, Director of the Seminole County Teacher's Association Nancy Wheeler, Seminole County Sheriff Don Ealinger and Florida House of Representatives candidate Louise Ray.

The breakfast meetings are held each month and there is never a charge to those who wish to join in the discussions. All are welcome to attend.

For more information call 862-3806.

Pastor shares meaning of relationship, resurrection

SANFORD — "The best way to send an idea," said J. Robert Oppenheimer, "is to wrap it up in a person." If you heard Dr. Paul Eckel these past eight weeks in our video Bible Studies on the Book of Acts you can see how the man and scripture were so intertwined the result was more than the sum of its parts.

Easter brings us once more to the incarnational miracle, God's sending of an idea "wrapped up in a person." God might have sent a book, or scrolls or golden plates. Or he might have sent a committee or a task force. I suppose the possibilities are endless. But he sent his Son. The Man and the Idea came as a package. God's ultimate gift is always himself. "I will never leave you nor forsake you." "Lo, I am with you always, to the close of the age."

We preachers and teachers of the faith often talk of "having a personal relationship with Jesus Christ." Such language is difficult for some, embarrassing even to others.

Whereas the words as such do not appear in the New Testament, the idea is clearly implied. To "know" Jesus in a personal way, and to have added your personal commitment to the corporate commitment of the church you have joined, means to accept the incarnational miracle intimately.

A "personal relationship" with the Lord is the act of accepting not only the Idea of Christianity, but the Person it is wrapped up in. As a matter of fact, Jesus said very little that was utterly original.

The Golden Rule is found in many religious traditions, and many of the themes found in the parables and miracles have corollaries in other Mideastern cultures.

What is unique about Christianity is Christ. Jesus was what he proclaimed. Many have spoken of love, Jesus is love; many have preached forgiveness, Jesus is forgiveness, and so he is reconciliation, hope, the way and the truth and the life.

So it is that I believe in the Resurrection. I believe in it because of my personal faith and relationship in and with Christ. It is not the Resurrection therefore that validates Jesus, but Jesus that validates the Resurrection.

It sometimes takes a lifetime

Rev. Bruce Scott

to understand that reality. But that's all right. God is patient. In the meantime, let's keep saying it: He is risen! Halleluia! Happy Easter!

Remembering the reason for the season

Many Christians remember this time of the year, Easter, as a celebration of Christ's resurrection. It's a time of joy.

While department stores capitalize on Easter eggs, bunnies, chicks and baskets, fortunately at least many otherwise non-church attendees show up at services.

Much like Christmas, the Bible does not clearly state the date of Jesus' birth, death or resurrection but my husband and I have taken the position that if the world turns even a little closer to God and His Son isn't it foolish to not take this opportunity to share the Gospel with others.

Although we invite church family and friends yearly to our home for a covered dish dinner and egg hunt we cherish the time spent earlier in services remembering His suffering by partaking of the Lord's Supper.

As we break the bread we remember His body sacrificed for our sins. Drinking the fruit of the vine we envision His blood cleansing us and making us clean in the sight of God.

This year we rejoice even more because our son was recently baptized into Christ by my husband. What a joy to see the two of them embracing and united in the Lord by observing Jesus' death, burial and resurrection in baptism through becoming dead to sin, being buried with Christ and rising from that watery grave a new creature in Him and putting on

SUSAN WENNER

Christ. This year as you share the commercial aspect of Easter with others remember Jesus and all you have been blessed with. Take time to count those blessings in your life and don't forget God's gift of His Son.

"The Christ will suffer and rise from the dead on the third day, and repentance and forgiveness of sins will be preached in his name to all nations . . ."

Luke 24:46

Easter service set

SANFORD — There will be an Easter Sunrise service with New Bethel Missionary Baptist Church joining St. John Baptist Church, 10th Street and Cypress Avenue, at 8 a.m. The message will be delivered by the Rev. William Lewis of New Bethel.

At 11 a.m., St. John's young people will present their Easter play. The community is invited to all of these services.

Easter service announced

LONGWOOD — Longwood Hills Congregational Church, 1255 E.E. Williamson, will have two Easter services at 8:30 a.m. and 10:30 a.m. The early service will be casual and family-oriented.

Following both services an Easter egg hunt for the children will be held. Refreshments will be served.

For directions or additional information call 332-8263.

Eggstravaganza set

SANFORD — First Baptist Church, 519 Park Ave., will hold its Easter Eggstravaganza on Saturday, April 6 from 10 a.m. to 2 p.m.

All children through the 5th grade are welcome. The group will enjoy clowns, face painting, puppets, games and an egg hunt.

The day will include free hot dogs, chips and drinks. For more information call the church office at 322-8041.

Lung disorder can follow pneumonia

DEAR DR. GOTT: Please comment on bronchiolitis obliterans. My wife died of the condition last spring, and the information I received was quite vague.

DEAR READER: This term refers to swelling and scarring of the tiniest bronchial tubes, which supply air to the lungs. Formerly considered to be an infectious disease of childhood, bronchiolitis obliterans has recently been diagnosed more frequently in adults.

This dangerous lung disorder can follow viral pneumonia and the inhalation of toxic gases, such as nitrogen dioxide. In fact, a common form of bronchiolitis obliterans, called "silicosis," affects people in that occupation, when they inadvertently inhale — even for just a few minutes — the nitrogen gas that collects in high concentrations above fresh silage.

Bronchiolitis obliterans is also a complication of rheumatoid arthritis, bone marrow transplantation (for leukemia), and an allergy to the drug penicillamine. Some cases of bronchiolitis obliterans occur without any recognizable cause.

In acute cases, such patients experience marked difficulty breathing, due to fluid accumulation in the lungs. After initial improvement, these patients relapse; they develop fever, cough and breathlessness. Unless treated aggressively — usually with cortisone drugs — the bronchial swelling and scarring may lead to suffocation.

The diagnosis is made according to the pattern by which the disease progresses, usually over a period of months. Biopsy may be necessary. Unfortunately, the effects of therapy are inconsistent. Those patients who don't die are often left with disabling pulmonary symptoms, requiring supplemental oxygen.

To give you more information, I am sending you a copy of my Health Report "Living With Chronic Lung Disease."

DEAR DR. GOTT: Is leukoplakia a form of cancer? What are the symptoms and/or side effects?

DEAR READER: Leukoplakia, an opaque, pearly, flat, non-tender irregular discoloration within the mouth, is considered to be pre-malignant; that is, it is a lesion that may become malignant over a period or years, although it is itself not cancer. Leukoplakia is more common in smokers and should be biopsied for diagnosis.

If general measures, such as stopping smoking, don't eliminate or reduce the size of the leukoplakia, excisional surgery should be considered.

Ordinarily, this pre-malignant disorder, which commonly affects the lin-

MEDICINE

PETER GOTT, M.D.

affected. Can this condition impair other organs?

DEAR READER: Peritonitis is an infection of the abdominal cavity. It can be caused by penetrating wounds, ruptured abscesses or — obviously — by perforation of the bowel, as can occur in diverticulitis.

In the pre-antibiotic era, peritonitis was generally fatal. Now, however, thanks to the miracle of antibiotics, the disorder is fairly easy to cure.

Peritonitis can affect any organ in the abdomen: liver, spleen, uterus, ovaries, you name it. It doesn't much matter which organs are involved, because antibiotic therapy is so uniformly successful.

WIN AT BRIDGE

Find out first

By Phillip Alder

What is the critical period in matrimony? One person's opinion is given at the end.

In today's deal, the declarer reached the critical moment and went wrong. But as is often the case, if he had taken the correct preliminary steps, he wouldn't have had to guess.

After opening with a strong two-bid and receiving a positive response from his wife and partner, South wasn't going to stay out of a slam.

It was difficult for West to find the killing spade lead. Instead, he started with the diamond jack. After covering with dummy's queen and ruffing away East's ace, declarer ruffed a low heart in the dummy and cashed the diamond king for a spade discard. But how should South continue? Should he draw trumps, hoping for a 4-3 heart split? Or should he organize a second heart ruff in the dummy, which requires finding clubs 3-2?

Knowing that a 3-2 heart break is 31 percent whereas a 4-1 club split is only 28 percent, South entered hand with a trump and ruffed another heart in the dummy. However, when East showed up with four clubs, South had lost trump control and finished three down.

South pointed out that he had followed the percentages, but his wife wasn't impressed.

"Why not cash the ace and king of hearts first, before taking a ruff? That way you learn how the suit is breaking. When it is 4-3, you can draw trumps and claim."

A. P. Herbert, the former British author and politician, claimed that breakfast time is the critical period in matrimony. Make of that what you will.

HOROSCOPE

Saturday, April 6, 1996

If you strive to improve your job performance in the year ahead, you may discover new avenues that will provide you with advantages you never thought were possible.

ARIES (March 21-April 19) Today, you might have to choose between doing something for the sake of appearance and doing something that offers you personal benefits. Trying to patch up a broken romance? The Astro-Graph Matchmaker can help you understand what to do to make the relationship work. Mail $2.75 to Matchmaker, c/o this newspaper, P.O. Box 1758, Murray Hill Station, New York, NY 10155.

Taurus (April 20-May 20) In important career developments today, do not make hasty judgments. Your initial impressions might be biased, driving you off course. GEMINI (May 21-June 20) Your financial situation could be fragile and uncertain today. Take time to deliberate and don't be afraid to ask questions.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) Instead of concerning yourself with problems you think might arise in the future, handle what is necessary for today. Let the future take care of itself.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) Try to be frank and forthright today with persons who depend on you to convey constructive criticism. Do not pretend to have knowledge you don't possess.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) A misunderstanding with a friend that has caused you mental anguish won't be resolved until you let yourself forgive and forget. Try not to mope.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22) Today, avoid associating with people whose goals are not in harmony with yours. Rewards may not materialize if you waste time with the wrong people.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23-Nov. 22) Make it a point to double-check all of the facts and figures in your commercial dealings today. Indifference or carelessness could decrease your profits.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) Today, it could prove unwise to reveal business secrets to anyone not directly involved with your company. This information may reach your competitors.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) Even though you can't do anything about it at the moment, take time to ponder an appropriate way to mend a relationship that is on its last legs.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18) Think before you speak today because if you put your foot in your mouth, you might have trouble getting it out, and the situation will only get worse.

PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20) You will be happier today if you de-emphasize material desires and shift your focus to the priceless intangibles that involvement with friends can provide.
