Recall Petitions Misdated?

Winter Springs City Councilman Laurent Pellerin today challenged the sufficiency and legality of a petition sent to Seminole Supervisor of Elections Camilla Bruce for certification seeking his ouster from office.

Higher Hook-Up Rates For Water, Sewer Eyed For Sanford Properties

Presently there is a $600 fee for both sewer and water connections.

For the first time in more than 20 years the city of Sanford is considering an ordinance raising city water and sewer connection fees.

The increases are for connection fees only and will affect monthly water and sewer rates.

22% Turnout For Seminole? Seminole Supervisor of Elections Camilla Bruce today predicted 22 percent, or 4,442 of Seminole County's 20,201 registered Democrats, will turn out Thursday to cast ballots in 67 precincts of the county in the Democratic runoff.

I think my constitutional rights and my civil rights are both being violated'

Polletta said the nation under question total 28. If they are strict, he said, the petition will have an insufficient number of voters' signatures and have to be discarded.

Polletta also said he will be watching the city today, calling on some of the signers who wish to have their names removed from the petition.

Proposition: $7.25 County Tax Cap To Voters Nov. 7

By DONNA ESTES Herald Staff Writer

Seminole County Commissioners were sharply divided Tuesday night on the majority of the board of the commission of a public hearing and after more than three hours' debate adopted an ordinance on whether the commission should be limited to 15 percent by voters to be placed on the Nov. 7 general election ballot.

Senate Nixes Bid To Let States Change ERA 'Yes' Votes To 'Nos'

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Senate today narrowly rejected a proposal to let states that have approved the Equal Rights Amendment change their vote, clearing the way for certain states to rescind their approval of the amendment.

Three months more — until June 28, 1982 — now appears sure to pass Friday. The House approved an identical extension earlier this year, and President Carter is a strong supporter.

Stone Yea, Chiles Nay Florida's two Democratic senators, Lester B. Stone and Dan Claitor, voted on opposite sides of the ERA vote today.

Thanks To You... Time

It's $35,935 down and only $184,065 to go. Not a bad start for the 1978 United Way fund drive in Seminole County.

That was the good news at Tuesday's kick-off breakfast for the campaign. It made campaign chairman Robert Deahn beam with optimism.

So the momentum is there. Now it's up to the community to answer the call and inject new, fresh meaning into the United Way slogan.

Yes, "Thanks to you, it's working." The important element in that slogan, of course is "you."

So you know the job that has to be done. You did it last year, translating the abstract campaign goal of $200,000 into that plus more.

This year's $220,000 goal also can become a reality.

The 18 agencies in this year's United Way campaign then can do what they have been created to do - help you or your neighbors in need or distress.

It is a commendable - and reachable - objective. It is, after all, what life is or should be all about.

If we can't help each other, then whom can we help and upon whom can we depend for help?

It's easy to accept the notion that crisis and catastrophe hit only that legendary "other guy." Yes, it's easy; but not realistic.

Life is too tenuous to dismiss the possibility that you or your loved ones could some day conceivably need some of the services offered by the agencies of the United Way.

Hundreds of volunteers already are hitting the pavement and knocking on those doors to help the 1978 United Way drive become a meaningful success.

We commend them all for their energies and enterprise.

And we suggest you catch the spirit of community caring. It is your community and the people in it are your neighbors and friends.

So dig in. Help the 1978 United Way drive get off to a clicking start.

You'll be all the better for it. We all will.

"Thanks to you. . ."

Striking A Balance

Congress, tuned in to the public mood after Watergate, began nibbling away at presidential powers exploited to the limit by President Nixon.

But, according to former House Speaker Carl Albert, who should know as well as anybody, Congress had "overreacted" itself by assumption of those powers on its own behalf.

By yielding, the Oklahoma Democrat said, the White House has jeopardized the presidential response in case of a national emergency. Albert's remarks before a forum at San Diego State University contended that the House speaker today has "twice as much power as he's ever had before."

And, he said, the people don't want an "all-powerful Congress" any more than they wanted an "imperial president."

Recent congressional conflicts with President Carter in the areas of government spending, arms authorization and use of military troops confirm the widening gap between the executive and legislative branches and the potential for stalemate in resolving congressional demands.

Albert, who retired in 1977, has defined a problem with no easy answers. The effort on Capitol Hill and in the White House must be to strike a workable balance in jurisdiction and power.

BERRY'S WORLD

"No! I'm not a doctor, or a lawyer - even better, I'm with GSA!"

Around

The Clock

By MAX EKKLESTIAN

Ever so often I get to feeling a little too good about myself and I make it my practice at such times to submit to some form of humiliation just to keep myself on an even keel.

Recently, I rounded up a group of friends with an unrealistic view of their athletic abilities that equalled my own and organized a game of touch football.

It all began innocently enough. We ran with reckless abandon through open fields in pursuit of football throws like flying ducks.

However, after two such runs and time in the hot sun, we all began to realize how out of shape we were. Those bygone days of glory on high school grids seemed far away as we began to see our strength fade.

At one point I broke into the clear on a zig zag pattern that found me springing toward the goal in anticipation of long passes.

For a brief moment I felt myself transported back to my youth. I remembered the bright lights, streaming perspiration, the desire to win nothing within me. I seemed for one glorious moment to be able once again to smell the popcorn in the stands and hear the roar of the crowd.

There for one timeless instant I thought I could even hear the sound of my parents' voices singing in unison: "run, sucker, run!"

I was rudely awakened and brought crashing back to earth when at the peak of my speed, I was passed by a turtle.

Though not the athlete we once were, my comrades and I still felt a sense of exhilaration at having played hard and lived to tell about it.

Ensuring one's self after a long period of inactivity has an odd effect on people. I personally felt the relief one feels after being hit on the head with a hammer. As the pain wears off, there is a unique sense of pleasure. Still others turned to religion, feeling that their survival was a sign that God is merciful.

In the end we all returned to a prone position from which our play got better and better with the re-telling of the game.

ANGLE-WALTERS

Another Hat In GOP Ring?

WASHINGTON (NEA) - The list of prospective Republican presidential candidates for 1980, already a baker's dozen, could grow still longer by the end of this year.

Sen. Charles McC. Mathias Jr. of Maryland, one of the Senate's most liberal Republicans, is weighing an early 1979 entry into the crowded field.

He is receiving active encouragement from a sizeable group of businessmen, including several affiliated with Fortune 500 companies, who were sent his way by fellow GOP Sen. Jacob K. Javits, R-N.Y.

Mathias, 54, toyed with the idea of seeking the presidency in 1976 but decided against it. At the time, he said he did not want to drain off moderate votes from President Gerald Ford in the early primaries for fear of contributing to a Ronald Reagan nomination.

Now that the Democrats control the White House, Mathias feels no such inhibition. But there is another factor in the equation this time which could dissuade him - his Senate term expires in 1980, and Mathias would have to give up the seat he has held for two terms in order to make an obviously longshot bid for the presidency.

He has no guarantee that he can retain the seat even if he wants to, however. In general elections, Mathias is the most popular politician in Maryland, winning every time with heavy support from Democrats and independents. But within the small GOP, he is regarded as too liberal by many and he is likely to face a stiff primary challenge two years from now by arch-conservative Rep. Robert E. Bauman of the Eastern Shore.

If Mathias does jump into the presidential fray, he will be competing primarily against conservatives and moderates. The most formidable liberal in the picture is Illinois Gov. Jim Thompson, and he may not survive this year's re-election fight back home.

The so-called "gun lobby," having scored one major victory in the current Congress when it helped defeat Carter administration efforts to tighten existing gun control regulations, is out to insure that its clout will be maintained next year.

Three pro-gun groups, led by the muscular National Rifle Association, had raised more than $1.1 million by the end of June for use in political campaigns this season, making them the best-financed single-issue lobby involved in the election process.

Although two of the groups, the Committee for the Right to Keep and Bear Arms and Gun Owners of America Campaign Committee, had spent much of the money they collected on fund-raising and overhead, the NRA Victory Fund still had over $640,000 available for distribution to candidates.

The NRA committee played an active role in the primary support victory Sept. 13 of Minnesota businessman Robert Short over Rep. Donald Fraser's gun control advocate, for the Senate seat of the late Hubert H. Humphrey.

WASHINGTON WORLD
Some Short Term Gains

By ARNOLD HANWELAK
WASHINGTON (UPI) - The familiar demand: "Don't just stand there, do something!" obviously has its uses in politics.

The Camp David summit meeting is a prime example of how movement alone can help a politician.

Jimmy Carter already has had big increases in national opinion poll approval ratings as a result of the long meeting in the Maryland mountains with Egyptian president Sadat and Israeli prime minister Begin.

The president also seems to be making some long delayed progress on energy, which may or may not stem in part from his Camp David momentum and has had his way on the big civil service reform measure.

But Camp David has to be the centerpiece of any Carter political rebound. The president did the best he could in the Maryland retreat. The two leaders signed documents outlining a peace treaty between their countries and a host of settlements of the Palestinian Arab problem in Gaza and the West Bank of the Jordan.

But the Sadat-Begin agreement did not bring or even guarantee peace. The Egyptian-Israeli peace treaty depended on withdrawal of Jewish settlements in the Sinai - which Begin had to submit to his parliament. The other "framework" depended on a number of fifty elements, not the least of which was some measure of cooperation from the kings of Jordan and Saudi Arabia.

There was some evidence from the start that "the fix was in" on the Sinai settlements issue. But there never was any indication that the Camp David conference could count on the first word of encouragement from Jordan or Saudi Arabia.

The fact that Secretary of State Cyrus Vance got a public hearing when he traveled to the

RONALD REAGAN
Cloudy Issue Of Nicaragua

Between them, the Somoza - Anastasio, his brother, and before that their father - have headed the government of Nicaragua for more than 40 years.

Until the last few days when Nicaraguan troops cleaned out the remaining rebel strongholds, and were treated to daily pronouncements by headline writers and television news readers about the impending demise of the Somoza government.

Everyone was against it they said. It was tyrannical and intolerant no opposition. We must cease all aid to Nicaragua until the "dictator" Somoza had stepped down, to be replaced by a new government, presumably sent from heaven. Then, democracy would flourish.

The U.S. Senate even got into the act by voting to cut off development aid, much of it agricultural. This gave Sen. Frank Church (D-Idaho), who is expected to become chairman of the Foreign Relations Committee next year, a chance to enjoy some pontificating.

The question is not whether Somoza falls, but when, he said. "The longer Somoza resists the will of his people and uses his armed guard to quell resistance, the more likely it is that another Castro-type revolutionary government will eventually emerge."

How's that? Somoza is the elected president of the country and "his armed guard" happens to be the National Guard, the country's army. One thing armies do is put down rebellions.

As for Sen. Church's notion that Somoza's resignation would forestall a "Castro-type revolutionary government" the hardware of the late rebellion was formed by Sandinistas, armed Marxist revolutionaries widely believed to be supplied by Castro's Cuba. Bands of restless youths joined in, giving the rebellion an air of widespread popularity.

One is reminded of the New York Times headline that ran just before the fall of Cambodia: "Indochina Without Americans: Life Will be Better for Most."

One thing about folks who want to remake the rest of the world in their own image: they can't resist meddling in other people's affairs. Sen. Church said the U.S. should join with other nations in the area to seek a "moderate government" in Nicaragua. Over at the White House Mr. Carter and his national security adviser, Zbigniew Brzezinski said the U.S. was attempting to "mediate" the dispute through contacts with Nicaragua's "friends and neighbors."

Apparently none of them has read the charter of the Organization of American States (of which we are a member) which says, "No state or group of states has the right to intervene, directly or indirectly, for any reason whatever, in the internal or external affairs of any other state."

POLITICS IN BRIEF

Filing Period Running Till Nov. 3 in Casselberry

The qualifying period for candidates seeking election to the three open seats on the Casselberry City Council in the Dec. 5 municipal election opened at noon Tuesday and will close on Nov. 3, according to City Clerk Mary Hawthorne.

The seats up for election are those held by Frank Schutte, Donald Willson and Carl Robertson Jr.

Candidates for the council do not run for specific seats but rather in a field with the three receiving the most votes elected. Schutte and Robertson are completing their first two-year terms in office. Willson served both on the council and as mayor prior to his current term on council.

Schutte: 'Come And Watch'
There will be a "come and watch the return party Thursday beginning at 7:30 p.m. at the Robert Shevin Seminole County headquarters located at 205 W. First St., Sanford, according to Mike Sweeney, co-chairman of the candidate's campaign in Seminole. The public is invited.

Eckerd: 'It's Gonna Happen'
Orange and Seminole Counties Eckerd-Hawkins Campaign Headquarters present a special performance of "It's Gonna Happen," today at Theatre on Park, 301 Park Ave. N. in Winter Park. The repeat performance of last year's sell-out production of the theater's trials and tribulations, told in song and dance, will include an original treatment by the repertory company on "How to Succeed in Politics Without Really Trying," a tongue-in-cheek "inside" on political campaigning.

As Eckerd Kept Low Profile Graham, Shevin Scratched For Issues

MIAMI (UPI) — The slick media campaign in which Democratic gubernatorial candidate Robert Graham worked at 18 "common man" jobs before the Florida primary has his runoff opponent worried. Robert Shevin, the frontrunner in the primary, was better known in Florida before the campaign, having served as the attorney general for the past eight years. Graham had limited exposure as a state senator from Miami.

After a lackluster primary campaign Shevin came out fighting, denouncing Graham as a free-spending liberal who was soft on crime.

In reality the two urban Miamians are so close on the issues they have had to scratch for issues.

In the last few weeks each side launched volleys of critical television and radio ads. Graham is characterized as the Harvard-educated millionaire who doesn't know the value of a dollar because he was born with a silver spoon in his mouth.

CLERKS VS. SCHOOL BOARD
After several weeks of dispute over what team represented the school system's clerical personnel, a new team led by spokesman Gene Grooms (center) was selected and squared off Tuesday with the school board. However, no agreement was reached and the two sides agreed to meet again next Tuesday, at Lyman High School.

'Fall For Art': Sanford Happening

About 150 artists will be displaying their wares in categories ranging from oil and watercolor to graphics and crafts at the "Fall For Art" Show in downtown Sanford Oct. 14 and 15, sponsored by the Sanford-Seminole Art Association and Sanford Business Association with cooperation of the city of Sanford. Showtimes: 10-5 Saturday; noon-4 Sunday.

Included in the event will be sidewalk concessions and live entertainment featuring clowns, magicians and other performers, according to Ginger Bennett, chairman of the program.

'Discover': Planning For Careers

The 14-year-old high school student Steven Lisovsky at the screen in front of him.

He surveys the questions on the screen, makes his decision, registers on the machine and then waits for a new set of questions to appear.

This procedure is repeated again by the student as well as hundreds of other Lyman High School students as they make daily use of the screen month old "Discover" system.

The computer terminals at Lyman are tied into a main computer system in Orange County. That main system also serves other systems in surrounding counties.

Under the last year are eight other areas ranging from information on local jobs and financial aid, to information on various type colleges and military information.

Students asked questions in a particular area, give their answers. The process continues causing a narrowing down effect until the final answer or solution is reached.

The system developed in Illinois was installed by the state at no cost to the school.

Lyman was chosen for the system because "we offered the space and were the first to hold orientations for our students and faculty," said Mrs. MacLeod.

For Mrs. MacLeod one of the most important benefits of the system is the long term effect on students.

'Olympics': A Big Response

This is probably going to be the year we are overwhelmed with present facilities may be used," members of the Golden Age Olympics Committee were told at a meeting today at the Greater Sanford Chamber of Commerce.

There have been so many calls from so many people inquiring about the Golden Age Olympics, said Jack Herzer, executive manager of the chamber. Entries have been received from out of state and Canada.

The annual working event for senior citizens, scheduled this year for Nov. 6-11, has been promoted at the Chicago Trade Mart by Greater Orlando Chamber of Commerce and Kove Estates estate, Herzer said.

Hoople Picks Sooner To Topple Texas, 28-20

By Major Amos B. Hoople Grid Wizard
Egad, friends, it's out of the pressure cooker into the fire — heh-heh — for the collegiate powers week after week.
This week, for instance, the Texas Longhorns and Oklahoma Sooners will get together for their annual head-butt at Dallas. Meanwhile, at Lexington, the Kentucky Wildcats will host the rampaging Penn State Nittany Lions.

Major Hoople's Football Forecast

Dear Abby: I am a married woman who was never very close to my parents after my marriage. I was comfortable with the way things were, and so were they. My mother died recently, and I would feel another mother were I to suddenly realize my father with a lot of attention. I set with him and the rest of the family every day and evening for the duration of the official mourning period (one week), and now that it's over, I have resumed my life as before. My father is not helpless. He has always been very independent and he knows my phone number if he wants me.

Vitamin C: No Potassium Link
DEAR DR. LAMB - This is in response to an article that was written in our paper about the normal intake of vitamin C. The article said that the recommended daily allowance was 60 milligrams.

DEAR DR. LAMB - I would like to caution people who are taking large doses of vitamin C and want to stay fit. There is some evidence of rebound effect if you stop taking vitamin C suddenly by the amount that you could actually take in vitamin C.

SAUERBRATEN: GERMAN COOKING AT ITS BEST

Try Simple Tricks For Super Treats

Halloween may not be as exciting as it was to great-grandfather's day, when young rakers played such tricks as putting bogies on barn roofs. But the evening is still the time for an eerie—but safe—brand of fun. Then as now, popcorn was an All-American treat especially suited to Halloween merrymaking.

HALLOWEEN POPCORN LOGS
3 quarts popped popcorn
12 candy sticks (about 4 1/2 inches long)
2 cups sugar
1 1/2 cups water
1/4 cup light corn syrup
1 teaspoon vinegar
1/4 teaspoon salt
1 teaspoon vanilla
Cellophane ribbon

POPCORN KERNELS GO 'WOW'
popcorn kernels makes about 1 quart of popped corn.

GOLDEN POPCORN BALLS
1 cup white grape jelly
1 cup water
2 cups sugar
1 teaspoon vanilla
1 teaspoon vinegar
1/2 cup light corn syrup
6 quarts popped popcorn (about 2 1/2 cups unpopped)

GRAPE APPLES ARE GREAT
You may substitute mild-flavored apple jelly for grape jelly. If desired, add 1/4 teaspoon green food coloring after candy is cooked. Stir only to blend color.

Sauerbraten Makes Hearty Meal

Let your thoughts drift back to the kitchens of old Germany and visualize steaming towers of soup, a well-stocked larder of sausages hanging from the rafters, fruit-filled kitchen baking in the oven and traditional "sweet-sour" main dishes marinating to rise to full flavor.

The "sweet-sour" combination entree is very typical of German cookery with Sauerbraten being the best known. The word actually means "sour roast" with the beef marinated and cooked in a vinegar mixture.

A version of this German-inspired meal uses an oven cooking bag to ease preparation and save cleanup. Beef gravy, a sweet 'n sour mix, vinegar and ginger are combined in the bag and then beef cubes are added and coated well with the gravy mixture. This stays juicy and tender in the oven bag, and if desired, the recipe can be prepared ahead and refrigerated until dinner time.

Another plus—it can be cooked in either a conventional or microwave oven. How convenient to have a choice!

Accompany the sauerbraten with spaetle (German noodles), fresh warm slices of pumpernickle bread and a stein of cold, frothy beer. What a treat!

QUICK 'N EASY GERMAN

SAUERBRATEN
1 can (15 oz) beef gravy
1 package (2 oz.) sweet 'n sour sauce mix
1/4 cup vinegar
1/4 teaspoon ginger
2 pounds beef chuck, cut in 1-in. cubes

CONVENTIONAL OVEN: Preheat oven to 300 degrees. Combine beef gravy, sauce mix, vinegar and ginger in regular size (19" x 13") brown-in-bag; place in turning dish periodically.

MICROWAVE OVEN: Follow directions above except close bag with rubber band, string or twist tie; cut out from open end. Microwave 25 to 35 minutes.
