U. S. Missile Launching Puts New Backbone In NATO Alliance

By JOSEPH W. GRIGG
United Press Staff Correspondent
PALM BEACH (UP)—The thunderous roar of the first successful U.S. intercontinental ballistic missile put new backbone into the ailing NATO alliance today and strengthened the West for any future talks with the Kremlin.

The successful firing of an Atlas ICBM in Florida also gave added authority to the U. S. proposal to establish European bases for intermediate range ballistic missiles to defend against possible Russian aggression—the chief purpose of NATO.

Secretary of State John Foster Dulles and Defense Secretary Neil McElroy met Allied enthusiasm bordering on exuberance when they sat down today with other defense chiefs and foreign ministers to discuss the U.S. missile proposal.

The main problem facing them was to work out a delicately worded formula for the American supply of 1,500-mile range IRBMs to the Allies. The United States would control the nuclear warheads, and the decision to launch them would be shared with the country where they are based.

Their findings around the huge round table in the Palais de Chaillot were to be transmitted later today to a meeting of the heads of government. It was expected to be the next to last summit conference.

The NATO delegations also were heartened by the continued good health of President Eisenhower who was reported meeting the conclusion of the meeting with sustained energy and interest.

On top of Tuesday's full schedule which included attendance at a state dinner given at night by President Rene Coty of France, the President was seeing a number of NATO leaders today, lunching with Coty and attending the afternoon "summit" meeting.

Communique in Works
While the defense experts met today four of the NATO foreign ministers were working on a communique expected to sum up the NATO missile position and the growing drive for some sort of talks with the Soviet leaders in hopes of reaching a lasting peace.

An "indirect" reply was expected to be written to Soviet Premier Nikolai Bulganin's rush of letters to NATO members just before the summit conference started. The West will stand by its last-out disarmament proposal and insist on a free, re-united Germany.

Escaped Convict Taken By Lawmen Here Today

A 24-YEAR OLD ESCAPED CONVICT from Volusia County was captured this morning less than two hours following his fantastic break from the DeLand Road Camp and the armed robbery of a passing car's occupants. Willie Weeks (center) was stopped by Deputy Sheriff A. E. Evans (left) and Lt. Jack Hickson as the escaped convict came into Sanford onto French Ave. from Seminole Blvd. (Staff Photo)

'Mail Early' Says Local Postmaster

"The mounting volume of Christmas mail makes it more important than ever for everyone to 'Mail Early for Christmas,'" Postmaster Field said today. He said further, "Last year we handled a total of 247,977 pieces of mail between December 1 and the 16. So far this year, the Post Office has already received and sent 241,017 Christmas cards, letters and packages, and the real heavy rush is just getting underway."

The Postmaster says that every effort is being made to deliver all mail on time and in good condition before Christmas Eve, as has been done during the past three years. Every facility of the Post Office is being pressed into maximum service, extra trucks and personnel have been added, and with the help of the mailing public, postal employees can look forward to spending Christmas Eve and Christmas Day with their families.

The Postmaster suggests that all gift parcels to most distant points be sent by Air Parcel Post from now on.

He also emphasized the importance of wrapping all gifts with heavy paper and securely tying with strong cord, after they have been packed in sturdy corrugated cartons. It's especially important to write legibly, or better yet, print the recipients full name, street address, zone number, city and state, on all mailing labels, making sure to include an extra (Continued on Page 3)

Christmas Lighting Contest Judges Named

Judges have been named for the Sanford - Seminole County Junior Chamber of Commerce Christmas Lighting competition, David Thrasher, chairman of the Jaycee Christmas Lighting contest announced this morning.

Those who will be judging the entries this year are Mrs. Fred Ganas, president of the Sanford Garden Club, Mrs. Frank Donahue, of the Sanford Flower Shop, and Mrs. Mildred Babcock, Seminole County School, art teacher.

Deadline for entries in the local Jaycee Christmas Lighting contest has been set at midnight, Saturday, Dec. 21.

There will be four divisions in the residential lighting with contestants choosing one of three categories to enter and all entries entered in the overall competition.

Airline Service Boosts Community Progress Says Smith

Because of the recent interest accelerated in the possibility of an airport to serve Sanford and Central Florida, the latest action taken by the Florida Development Commission regarding the location of airline service in Florida will, perhaps, reactivate commercial airport interest here.

The program started by the Florida Development Commission is designed to help small and medium-sized communities obtain airline service in cases where their recent growth justifies it.

Both the Board of Sanford City Commissioners and Board of Seminole County Commissioners have looked into the possibility of a local airport to serve both private planes and airline service.

Charles F. (Pete) Smith, recently named manager of the Commission's expanded aviation department, believes that a number of Florida towns have grown so rapidly in recent years that airline (Continued on Page 3)

Lions Christmas Party For Children Saturday Afternoon

CASSELBERRY—The annual Lions Club Christmas party for children up to 12 years of age will be held Saturday from 2 to 3:30 p. m. in front of the Casselberry Pizzeria Building.

Committee chairman Otto Hennig and Ben Evans, assisted by club secretary Fred A. Yeager, have completed arrangements for the party which includes gifts and entertainment.

Punch Allen, well-known puppet showman from Orla Vista, will be on hand with his Punch and Judy show and Santa will preside over the Christmas frolic to help entertain the Lions guests.

Santa will present gifts of candy and soft drinks from the Pop-Cola wagon and ice cream will be distributed by the Lions.

The club's sound-equipped trailer will be on the ground with recordings of Christmas music which will be played during the affair.

Atlas Said Sent Up Minus Nose Cone

By DAYTON MOORE
United Press Staff Correspondent
WASHINGTON (UP)—Testimony before a Senate hearing on the U. S. missile-satellite lag indicated today that the Atlas continent-spanning missile fire successfully Tuesday was sent up without its nose cone.

Maj. Gen. Bernard A. Schriever, Air Force ballistic missile chief, told the Senate Preparedness Subcommittee a complete Atlas was not used in Tuesday's test firing or in either of the two earlier successful tries.

His statements further indicated that the major problem connected with the cone is to prevent it from burning up when it reenters the earth's atmosphere.

"Except for a full-scale, all-the-way test—which is proof of the pudding—we are fully confident (Continued on Page 3)

Club Reports Food Project Receiving Excellent Support

CASSELBERRY—The fifth annual Lions Club Christmas food basket project, headed by Miller Evans, Ben Evans, and Wilson Alexander is receiving excellent support according to the committee.

Food depositories have been set up at Dolly's Market, Wright's Market, the Super-Value Super Market and John Hollis' Market.

Each year of the project, on an average of eighteen hundred baskets of foodstuffs, including a chicken or ham, canned goods, cakes, candy and fruit. Names of recipients are supplied by county welfare agencies, and Lyman School principal E. S. Douglas.

On some of the rounds made by the Lions they distributed a supply of clothes and articles of food supplied by Women's Society of Christian Service of the Community Methodist Church.

Senate Democratic Leader Lyndon B. Johnson called upon Americans today to unite and work as they did after Pearl Harbor to put the U. S. ahead of Russia in the missile race.

"We have to spend our days and nights trying to get ahead," Texas Democrat said.

The second round of Johnson's subcommittee hearings wound up in a spate of four warnings, bright forecasts and more frenzied activity at the Cape Canaveral, Fla., missile test range.

NATO Allies Accept U. S. Nuclear Stockpile, Missile Base Offer

Residents Urged To Make Christmas 'Phone Calls Early'

Planning to call long distance this Christmas?

"If you are," says Bob Shelden, local manager for Southern Bell Telephone Company, "place your calls early!" Past experience indicates that there will be delays (and in some cases failure to complete the call) on long distance calls placed between 6 p. m. Christmas Eve and 10 p. m. Christmas night.

Since most long distance calls are business calls between cities, most long distance lines go directly to each center of communication. But on Christmas Day, most long distance calls go to smaller towns and suburbs. This means that additional long distance operators and long distance telephone lines are needed to complete the calls.

Even though every long distance operator will be on the job during the holiday, Shelden said, there are several calling tips which, if followed, will speed the flow of calls:

- 1—call by number. The operator will not have to contact "information" the distant city.
- 2—call station to station. It saves you money also.
- 3—If your call is delayed, replace your call later on. (If the operator gives you the route on a delayed call, try to remember the route and give it to the operator when you replace the call.)
- 4—If at all possible, complete your call before 6 p. m. Christmas Eve. Last year, 2,106 calls were handled by Sanford telephone operators on Christmas Day and this year the total is expected to exceed 2,500, Shelden said.

3 Injured Wreck Victims Reported To Be Improving

BROOKSVILLE (UP)—The condition of three persons critically injured in an auto-truck collision that claimed the lives of four teenage girls Tuesday appeared to be improving today.

Shirley Prather, 16, Toledo, Ohio, showed some improvement but was still in critical condition. Joan Philpott, 14, Avon Park, and Edward Olson, 11, a chaperone for the girls, were listed in fair condition at a Tampa hospital.

The four dead girls were identified as Linda Hardy, 14, Eau Gallie; Carolyn Blanchard, 14, Cocoa; Claire True, 17, Fort Lauderdale; and Donna Reese, 16, of Avondale Estate, Ga. All the girls were students at the Forest Lake Academy, a Seventh Day Adventist high school north of Orlando.

Clarence Rogers, 26, of Tampa, the truck driver, told police he saw the car, driven by Miss True, go out of control. He said he had slowed his trailer-truck to almost a standstill on U. S. highway 47 when the auto struck him.

The back of the car wedged under the trailer portion of the truck, crumpling into a twisted wreck. It took a wrecking crew several hours to pull the sedan out from under the undercarriage of the truck.

The girls were enroute to St. Petersburg in the school's annual "in-gathering field day" in which they were to collect funds for charitable purposes. Several other carloads of girls from the school also left for this area.

PARIS (UP)—America's NATO allies have accepted the U.S. offer of nuclear stockpiles and medium range missiles for the defense of West Europe, authoritative conference sources disclosed today.

Details of the actual stockpiling or the setting up of missile bases are to be worked out later in bilateral negotiations between the United States and its European allies.

The agreements involving each individual country will be based on recommendations by American Gen. Lauris M. Norstad, the allied supreme commander, as to the best sites for nuclear stockpiles and missile bases.

The agreement in principle reached at a meeting of NATO foreign and defense ministers followed closely the announcement of the successful firing of the first U.S. intercontinental ballistic missile.

Land Co. Official Seeks Tentative OK Of Plat From Board

Frank Fasula, General Manager of the North Orlando Land Co. asked the Board of Seminole County Commissioners for tentative approval of a plat for a 320 acre, 1250 lot subdivision at Mobley's Corner on Highway 17-92.

Fasula said yesterday that his company expects to create a complete township in the area which will include more than 3,000 lots, a shopping center, five business sites and a school site.

"The township will extend to the south end of the Seminole Park Raceway," said the land company's general manager.

"We expect to start clearing and grading of roads as soon as possible," Fasula said yesterday at the county commission meeting.

Jaycees Selling Christmas Trees

The Jaycees are on the job from 9 a. m. to 9 p. m. selling Christmas Trees to raise funds for their new Jaycee Information Booth.

On the site where the new booth will be constructed, members of the Sanford-Seminole County Junior Chamber of Commerce have displayed Canadian balsams measuring from three feet high up.

M. E. Raborn Jr., president of the local young businessmen's organization, said this morning that "all of the Jaycees are on duty at one time or another" on French Ave. at the northeast corner of Fifth St.

"Our Christmas Trees," said Raborn, "are guaranteed fresh." The Christmas Tree project has been going on for some time with Jaycees selling the trees prior to arrival. Funds from the sale of the trees will go toward constructing the new Jaycee Tourist

Commission Opens Bids On 2 Projects

Bids on two projects were opened by the Board of Seminole County Commissioners yesterday.

A contract for 1800 feet of metal fence was awarded to the Cyclone Fence Co. to be erected at Pine Tree Park. The Cyclone Fence Co. bid was accepted at the low bid of $2,375. Reeves Fence Co. bid amounted to $2,632.

A contract to construct a double face stone-top counter for the Seminole County Clerk's office was awarded to Nibson Office Furniture Co. for $2,153. Bowen Supply Co.'s bid came to $2,454.

"We hope to get our new building under construction by the first of the year," said Raborn, as he urged local citizens to select their Christmas Tree as soon as possible.

"Those who have purchased credit cards," said the Jaycee President, "are urged to bring their cards by and select a Christmas Tree for their home or business."

"One good thing about our product," Raborn said this morning, "is that profits from the Christmas Tree sale will be turned right back into local investment and the construction of our modern new Jaycee Tourist Information Booth."

Eik's Club Will Have Spaghetti Supper Tomorrow

The Sanford Eik's Club will serve a spaghetti supper for members tomorrow night, according to Don Bales.

Supper will be served at 6:30 p. m., said Bales, and the cost to members will be a toy or $1. "Toys and money will go toward the underprivileged children's Christmas party on Dec. 24," he said.

A GROUP OF PUNDITS was asked to supply definitions of an "old-timer." Here are a few of the responses: "An old-timer is one who can remember when the stranger who accosted you on the street was a panhandler and not a recruiting agent for an engineering firm;" "an old-timer can remember when the dollar still was worth as much as 25 cents;" "an old-timer is a man who can't understand why women still take as long to dress as they did when they wore clothes;" "an old-timer is a man who remembers when the only problem about parking was to get the girl to agree to it."

"Johnny" screamed an anguished mother, "You've been fighting again—and this time you've lost all your teeth."
"No, I haven't, mom," protested Johnny. "I got 'em right here in my pocket."

Don Ameche Hates 'Phones

By VERNON SCOTT
United Press Staff Correspondent
HOLLYWOOD (UP)—If anyone has a right to hate telephones it's Don Ameche.

For the past 18 years his life has been one long party line with the joke on him.

Back in 1930 the mustachioed actor innocently accepted the title role in "The Story of Alexander Graham Bell," a characterization that changed his life. Since then his name has become synonymous with the telephone.

Strangely, though, Don holds no grudge against Mr. Bell's contraption.

Loretta, Fonda Forgotten
"I had no idea I would become so closely identified with the part," Ameche sighed. "But I'd have made the picture even if I had known. At least people remember me for it. They forget Loretta Young and Henry Fonda also were in the movie."

A restaurant telephone jangled nearby and Don recalled.

He explained that comedian Fred Allen started the long-standing joke (Formula: Ameche plus 'phone minus Alexander Graham Bell equals laughs) on his radio show.

"Fred clowned around with the gag for 19 straight weeks," Ameche grinned. "He had a new twist every week. I got a big kick out of it myself. I knew Fred well, and he wasn't unkind about it."

"Then other comedians picked up the Ameche-telephone jokes. They're still going strong."

"The jokes became a national institution when the story was printed about the school teacher asking a pupil, 'Who invented the telephone,' and the kid replied, 'Don Ameche.'"

His Keep Ball Rolling
"Service men kept the ball rolling during the war when they called 'phones 'Ameches.'"

Don, who stars in "Junior Miss" Friday night on CBS-TV's "Du Pont Show of the Month," hesitated when asked if he feels the telephone humor has hurt his career for a moment he looked as if he heard bells ringing.

"I don't think so," he said slowly. "But I could be wrong."

Now a resident of New York, the actor works spasmodically in television. He spends his free time walking Manhattan's streets searching for paintings in art shops.

"I walk as much as six miles a day," he said. "I'm often stopped by passersby or cab drivers who want to make jokes about how I invented the telephone. They're always good-na-

No Fixed Proof Cigarettes Cause Cancer Says TIRC

NEW YORK (UP)—The scientific director of the Tobacco Industry Research Committee says there is no established proof that cigarette smoke or anything known to be in it produces cancer in man.

Dr. Clarence Cook Little, in an annual report on the work of the committee, which he also serves as chairman of its advisory board, suggested that excessive smoking may be simply a symptom of "neuro-hormonal imbalance" which may be the cause of many illnesses including cancer.

"The more nervous, restless, frustrated and harassed people may be among the bad health risks," the report said. "There would probably be general agreement... that the nervous and restless people would be more likely to use cigarettes."

Little suggested a number of other factors that should be considered in the problem of lung cancer. They included evidence that both men and women who are divorced have a higher mortality from lung cancer, respiratory and other cardio-vascular diseases than married persons; the "possible significance" of increased lung X-rays in the increase in cancer in smokers and the overweight, in light of the fact that many persons who stop smoking gain weight.

"Smoking as a human custom has existed for a number of centuries," the report said, "and lung cancer as a disease has existed for an indefinite number of centuries—certainly many more than smoking."

"It is evident that much of the numerical increase in reported lung cancer cases represents an increase of people in the susceptible age groups and improvement in ability to recognize, diagnose and report the disease. No one has shown how much, if any, of this numerical increase is an actual increase in attack rate."

Airline

 service to them would now be economically feasible.
 "A necessary early step in this program will be to generate local interest in the communities involved in obtaining airline service," Smith explained. "At the same time, this department will begin exploring with the airlines the traffic volumes and other factors needed to establish service."
 Smith described obtaining airline service as "a milestone in the progress of any community."
 Simultaneously, the Aviation Department of the Commission's Improvement Division started a program aimed at bringing more sportsmen pilots to Florida as visitors. Smith noted that there are 375,000 licensed private pilots in the country and said he viewed every one of them as a potential Florida tourist.
 "When you add their families and close friends to that number, the opportunity for increasing our tourist business becomes enormous," he explained.
 Smith said he felt sure that the flow of private aircraft into Florida could be substantially increased by publicizing Florida's advantages for the flyer in aviation periodicals. These advantages include, he explained, the fact that Florida has more flying days than most states and that a relatively large number of airports reduces the hazard element. The state has 120 licensed commercial airports and 12 private fields.
 A second part of the program to encourage sportsmen flyers to visit the state, he declared, will be the establishment of more sports centers adjacent to airports. As an example of this, he cited the Airglades Air Park at Clewiston.
 "When that project is completed, hunting, fishing and a number of other sports will be available within a relatively short distance of the Air Park itself," he said.
 From his Florida flight experience dating back to 1929, Smith said the 12 licensed airports in the state are in excellent shape. But he added that there are more than 50 other unlicensed fields which have been abandoned and allowed to deteriorate.
 "This has happened because the general public doesn't always realize that a community's airport

Some Peacetime Disabled Vets Get More Money

Veterans disabled while performing extra-hazardous duty in service during peacetime may be eligible for the higher wartime rate of compensation for service-connected disabilities.
 Benjamin S. Beach, Officer in Charge of the Central Florida Veterans Administration Office, issued the statement today in answer to numerous inquiries.
 Otherwise, he said, compensation for a service-connected disability incurred during peacetime is 80 per cent of the rate paid for the same disability suffered during wartime.
 Under the law, the higher rate is payable for a peacetime disability incurred in "extra-hazardous service, including such service under conditions simulating war," Beach explained.
 He said no specific rule can be laid down as to what constitutes extra-hazardous service, adding that the VA adjudicates each case on its own merits.
 However, Beach said, the VA may consider service extra-hazardous if it is performed under conditions recognized as exceptionally dangerous, or if it involves risks beyond those ordinarily encountered in routine peacetime duties.
 He said typical duties which may be adjudicated extra-hazardous include war maneuvers, operation of aircraft or submarines, parachute jumps, demolition work, deep-sea diving, and testing of experimental weapons.

 "Send all Christmas cards by First Class mail, and include your name and address on the Christmas card envelopes, which is not only socially correct, but helps you and your friends to keep your mailing lists up-to-date," the postmaster emphasized.
 "If any Christmas card envelopes are larger than 9" x 12" or smaller than 2-3/4" x 4" they can be sent only by First Class mail because such cards require hand cancellation.
 "If you wish to enclose your Christmas card or letter in your gift package, merely add the appropriate letter postage to the postage for the package itself and indicate the presence of a letter or Christmas card inside the package," he said.
 In conclusion, the Postmaster said, "We can make it a much merrier Christmas for everybody if you will just follow these three simple rules: Wrap your Christmas gifts securely, Address your gifts and cards correctly, and Mail them now!"

Southern Race Relations

Southern year-end—segregation
EDITOR'S NOTE: This is one of a number of year-end dispatches on news and feature developments in the South in 1957, written by United Press Staff Correspondents.
 By AL KUETTNER
United Press Staff Correspondent
ATLANTA — Some rather shocking events in the tortuous evolution of race relations have transpired in the South this year and an end to the trouble seems to be nowhere in sight.
 Put 1957 down as the year that people in distant corners of the earth learned there was a city called Little Rock, Ark. and in a school known as Central High... the year a Negro was picked at random and horribly mutilated as a lesson to integrationists.
 You couldn't call it a year in which race relations in the South were bettered. But Negroes still could find some signs of progress in their efforts to remove racial barriers.
 The outlook for the immediate future seems to be: Less pressure and less violence.
 Trouble will be most likely to develop next with the September 1958 school opening.
Cooling off Period
 Atty. Gen. William P. Rogers has appealed for a "cooling off" period in race relations and with it has promised there will be no administration efforts to strengthen the civil rights law in 1958. Without administration support, any such move would have hard sailing.
 At the year drew to a close, Southern Education Reporting Service, an agency that compiles statistics on the race picture in schools, reported that 762 of the 3,008 school districts in the so-called segregation states had started an integration policy. All but 15 of these districts, however, were in states bordering the old South.
 These figures show there are now more than twice the number of de-segregated school districts than in September of 1955, the first school opening month after the Supreme Court "deliberate speed" degree was handed down.
 The South—and the Eisenhower administration—still are assessing the effects of the Little Rock crisis on race relations in Dixie.

It's pretty generally agreed that in states like Georgia, South Carolina, Alabama, Louisiana and Mississippi resistance to any form of integration grew much stronger as Army troops moved into the Arkansas confusion.
Resistance Tightening Up
 As state legislatures convene next year, look for even more pro-segregation laws as a result of President Eisenhower's action in sending troops to Little Rock to enforce the admission of nine Negroes to Central High School.
 Texas and Florida already have rushed through new laws that would permit closing of any public school that is integrated by force of federal arms.
 In Georgia, two new laws have been proposed for the January session. One would approve setting up a state agency for accreditation of schools—a retaliation against the Southern Association of Colleges and Secondary Schools which recently admitted a number of Negro education institutions for the first time.
 Another Georgia proposal would require that the lieutenant governor must be nominated by a majority rather than a plurality of unit votes. Only the governor and U. S. senators now must have the majority vote. Rep. Alpha Fowler, an originator this year of the America Resettlement Foundation, also thought of the new voting restriction. He said integrationists may try to get into the governor's office "by the back door" unless the law is changed.
Nashville Hot Spot
 Aside from Little Rock, the main hot spot in the integration picture in 1957 was at Nashville, Tenn., where race mixing began on a small scale in the first grades of some schools. One building was dynamited—on one hurt—but the plan of the school board to begin gradual integration remained in force and by year's end it was going fairly well with nine Negroes in previously all-white schools.
 Nashville has offered an extension of the integration plan for other grades but it includes three possible school systems—one for white pupils, another for Negroes and a third for both. In theory, if a single child asked to be put into an "integrate" school, one would have to be provided under the plan. It has not been approved as yet by the courts.

News Briefs

ROYALTY TO WED
LUXEMBOURG (UP) — The Grand Ducal Court has formally announced the engagement of Princess Marie-Adelaide, daughter of the Grand Duchess of Luxembourg, to Silesian Prince Charles Joseph Henckel of Donnersmarck. The announcement Tuesday did not specify a date for the wedding, but court sources said it probably would take place in the spring of 1958 in Luxembourg Cathedral. Princess Marie-Adelaide, 33, is the second of the grand duchess's four daughters and the last to marry.
MAYFLOWER IN FLORIDA
MIAMI (UP) — The Mayflower II, replica of the ship that brought the Pilgrims to this country, caused a traffic jam here Tuesday. Surprised motorists stopped their cars to watch the three-masted sailing ship as she entered Miami harbor for a three-month visit. A group of Seminole Indians was on hand to greet the vessel.
NEW AERIAL VENTURE
SOUTHPORT, N.C. (UP) — Helicopters were to try a new kind of job today—hoisting a 1,740-pound lantern to the top of a new 150-foot coast guard lighthouse on nearby Oak Island.

Oviedo 5 Beats Bunnell; Fourth Win Of Season

The Oviedo Lions won their fourth game of the season last night from Bunnell at Bunnell.
 After getting off to a slow start the Lions came ahead in the last half to completely swamp the Bunnell Five by a score of 56-32.
 Carl Fabry, 6 foot 4 center and captain of the team, paced the Lions with 25 points, followed by Mike Duda with 14.
 The Oviedo girls fought a fast and furious game with the Bunnell girls, spectacular to the last minute in that it was so close. The game was finally called a tie at 49-49. Both teams were too tired today has become as essential as its highways and streets," he declared. "It generates and produces business. It also gives employment to many citizens directly and to many others indirectly. In other words, a community without an adequate airport lacks a basic tool for getting and doing business."

Shuffleboard Club Opens Season With Yule Party

The Sanford Tourist and Shuffleboard Club opened its winter social season with a Christmas party at the Fort Mellon Park Club house last night.
 The committee in charge of arrangements provided an evening of entertainment which included group singing of Christmas Carols, games, dancing, and finally exchange of gifts.
 A lunch was served by a committee in charge of refreshments. Donald Brooks, president of the local club, was "extremely gratified" with the attendance and, he says, plans to have similar parties throughout the year.
 "Our shuffling strength is increasing daily," said Brooks and Tournament Director Murray stated that "there is a full schedule of events lined up for good competition."
 Foamed aluminum, one-tenth as heavy as the solid metal, can be sawed, nailed or cemented. It is used in place of lumber in house construction and for aircraft parts.

TODAY'S THOUGHT
 "Let me not away from thy presence; and take not thy holy spirit from me."

Christmas Is Time For Giving; Celebrating The Birth Of Christ

Some things are worth repeating! So—perhaps in the spirit of old Scrooge, many of us are inclined to "bah, humbug" the Christmas holiday and complain that it's all too commercial!

But yet, "too commercial" may be an overstatement. Is it wrong, once a year, to make the dominant theme one of giving, rather than of receiving?

Each year, as the lights of Christmas twinkle on a clear December night, do we stop to think of the millions who have gained employment through the Christmas shopping industry?

Economically, no other holiday or festive season contributes so much to the welfare of the world. Christmas has hardly passed into the new year before thousands are working on toys and myriads of other Christmas specialties for the next year.

Christmas, and the spirit of Christmas, has endured wars and great chaos through centuries as a time of joyousness and happiness, and giving has always been an important part of the festivities.

The picture of the family united, with presents opened, and children wrapped in the joyousness of childhood's greatest emotions is still, and will remain, the Christmas story.

But as we ponder the thought of commercialism there is a reminder of what Christmas and the Christmas season brings about. For instance, there was the gigantic

Christmas Parade, which had as its predominant theme, according to the Sanford-Seminole County Chamber of Commerce "Christmas through the eyes of children."

As bands played rhythmic melodies for marching, children sang out with cheers and laughter, with parents joining in on the fun and merriment. They will remember deep in their hearts the "real Christmas story" depicted by the floats.

And then there is the Manger Scene erected each year by the City of Sanford on the City Hall lawn—reminding those who drive by, young and old alike of the real Christmas story. Commercialism?

Or the Jaycee Christmas Lighting project in which homeowners compete with one another in the beautifying of their lawns and homes for Christmas. Children passing by exclaim "Look, mama— isn't that beautiful!" or "Daddy, look—Santa Claus will surely visit us now won't he?"

Each person is reminded of the doctrines of his or her faith—and the inner self compels us to look and search deeper for the message found in Luke 2 of the Holy Bible.

There may be commercialism—but each bit of it brings another reminder of the "Christmas Story" with greater meaning, greater faith, and a stronger determination to live better at Christmastime.

We buy at Christmas—for others—and in the spirit of true giving. Celebrating, of course, the birth of a savior.

He Might Change His Tune!

Everybody talks about taxes. And, in doing so, practically everybody talks about direct, visible taxes, such as those on income and property. That's natural enough, for we can actually see and feel the inroads those taxes make. They come out of pocket, or are withheld from our paychecks, or are a specified part of mortgage installments.

But the tax problem and the tax burden don't end with those taxes—not by a long shot. Hidden or indirect taxes, which enter in the cost of everything, are a huge item of expense to the American people. As a matter of fact, at many income levels they are a much larger item than direct taxes.

A feature writer came up with an interesting account of what is involved. As examples, he takes a cheap commodity and an expensive one—a loaf of bread and an automobile. Actually, he says, "Nobody has ever managed to count the taxes included in the final price of either." It's an impossible job—"for in the case of bread alone you would have to trace back to the taxes on the machines that made the machines that made that planted and harvested the tax-supported wheat, grown on tax-paid land by an income tax-paying farmer."

The same problem arises in the case of the car. However, there are certain taxes that can be accurately totaled up. The writer takes a car carrying a Michigan price of $2,000. The figureable tax is $59.83, of which $488.81 is hidden so far as the purchaser is concerned. Included are estimated taxes on materials, and parts, estimated income and other taxes paid by the manufacturer, similar taxes paid by the dealer, and so on. If the car is bought at a distant point instead of Michigan, the hidden transportation tax adds further to the cost.

Going back to bread, the feature writer quotes the Tax Foundation as counting 151 identifiable taxes which are passed along to the consumer. An authoritative estimate holds that taxes take about $1 for every $5 spent on food. Searchers have run down 116 taxes on a man's suit, 600 on a house and 150 on a woman's hat.

There's another interesting piece produced on hidden taxes. It says that about 20 per cent of all you spend is absorbed by taxes, and in the case of many items the proportion is much higher—nearly nine-tenths of the price of one commodity, for instance. And another Tax Foundation report is quoted, concerning a man earning $4,500 a year. This man pays a total federal, state and local tax bill of $1,398. The visible part of that is only $387. The invisible part is $1,006.

The moral is found in this statement: "The man who wrote that song about the best things in life being free had better have another look. He might change his tune."

Scot, Frenchman Draw Odd Duty

JAMESTOWN Va. (UP)—A Frenchman and a Scotman in the U. S. Army have the assignment to protect they are 17th century Englishmen.

They are part of the Army's Third Infantry Regiment temporarily on duty within the reconstructed James Fort at Jamestown Festival Park here, the center of the celebration commemorating the founding of the Jamestown colony in 1607.

Pfc. William B. Noble, 34, hails from Motherwell, Scotland; and Pfc. Wallace Chardain, 18, from Nice, France. Both emigrated to the United States and are serving a tour of duty in the Army before applying for citizenship.

Both spend the day dressed in the billowing knee pants, breast-plate and plumed helmet of a 17th century halberdier. Tourists flock around them and through the reconstructed fort taking pictures.

Both seem to like it. "It's a great duty," said Chardain. "Why just yesterday I got a letter from a girl in Louisiana I met when she visited the festival last month."

Prince Phillip and Noble added in a clipped Scottish brogue: "Here I am, a Scotman, in the American Army representing an Englishman. Nevertheless, it's an honor to be here."

During Queen Elizabeth's recent visit to the festival, Noble had the opportunity to meet Prince Phillip. The prince, seeing Noble flanked by two costumed women, asked if he had two wives.

"I was so disturbed," relates Noble, "and I didn't know what to say."

Phillip relieved the soldier's embarrassment by adding, "Oh, I see, one is your wife and one is your mother."

Noble also tells of meeting a family from his home town in Scotland. They were admiring his costume and talking to him, when he told them, "I went to school with your son."

"They couldn't get over it," he said.

TOO HANDY CANDLE SNUFFER

Too Late To Classify

By RUSSELL KAY

Billy Graham is concerned with the fact that we seem to have forgotten the real meaning of Christmas. Too many of us, he contends, leave Christ entirely out of the picture.

I concur with Billy and for the past 30 years or more I have made it a point to write my own Christmas cards and have tried to express in them my idea of the true meaning of Christmas.

I am not one of those who would shoot Santa Claus. He has his place and the thrill and happiness he gives the youngsters is worth while, but it seems to me we have gotten out-of-balance as far as the spiritual significance of the day is concerned.

Commercialism has run rampant and our communities are so anxious to gather Christmas dollars that some of them could not wait until Thanksgiving Day before putting up their street lighting and dressing their store windows. Cathedral chimes that used to be reserved for our churches, now start ringing from loud speakers of commercial organizations far in advance of the birth date.

Business organizations are busy with plans for their Christmas parties. Many of them wind up as drunken orgies that reflect no credit on either the firm that sponsors them or the people who participate.

While as a nation we profess our trust in God and call ourselves Christians who go along with His teachings, we fall far short when it comes to putting those teachings into practice.

We harbor intolerance and hate and disregard His admonition to "love one another" if such love calls for the acceptance of those of different faith, creed or color.

While our favorite Christmas carols herald "Peace on Earth" we have no faith in their message and frantically exhaust our effort and resources in the construction of destructive devices which we know in our hearts cannot possibly save us from ourselves.

If we really believe in a Supreme Being, and I believe most of us do, would it not be better to accept His promise and try exercising the "love" of fellow men, all men, as the only true path to the peace we seek.

Compared to the universe our little world is small indeed, so trivial in fact that it could dissipate with all its inhabitants and no one in the cosmic scheme would be the wiser.

Our greatest danger today lies in the fact that we have devoted our lives and our energies to the development of physical and material resources and allowed our spiritual development to lag so far behind that we are entirely out of balance.

If we would devote as much effort and money to bringing about a meeting of men's minds and a

Atmosphere Changed In Little Rock

EDITOR'S NOTE:
 The writer of this story flew into Little Rock from Washington last September to cover a story that was making world headlines. He has revisited the city and its Central High School to contrast the situation then and now. This is the first of three dispatches.

By LOUIS CASSELL

LITTLE ROCK, Ark. (U)—You can tell, as soon as you step off the plane, that things have changed in Little Rock.

A car parked at the airport entrance displays a jostling sign on its front bumper: "Refugees from occupied Arkansas." The last time you arrived at this airport, on Sept. 24, no one was making jokes about military occupation.

That was the night when a long convoy of Army trucks rolled across the Arkansas River bridge, bringing 1,000 paratroopers to take up battle stations around Central High School.

Little Rock was a frightened city that warm September evening. It had witnessed the animal fury of a mob in its streets. And it half expected a race riot to break out at any moment.

The cafes and pool halls on West 9th Street, in the Negro district, were deserted. Shades were drawn in living room windows. The handful of people abroad in the downtown business section took care to stay on brightly-lighted streets. They walked rapidly, as if they were in a hurry to get indoors.

Now the old river port wears a festive air. The Harlem Grill and the 9th Street Burger Bar are doing brisk business. Christmas wreaths decorate the living room windows. Shoppers throng the downtown streets, and loudspeakers outside the department stores proclaim "peace on earth, good-will toward men."

The contrast is even more striking in the morning, when the children start to school.

On another Wednesday morning, 13 weeks ago, Central High School looked like a fortress under siege. A solid cordon of paratroopers surrounded the building. They stood at parade rest, five yards apart, with bare bayonets glistening on their rifles.

The 181st Airborne Division had snatched barricades at the street intersections. Sullen, resentful crowds gathered on the sidewalks beyond these roadblocks. Blood was to be shed this day—not much, as it turned out, but enough to make an indelible stain on the pages of American history.

The side Negro children who were enrolled in Central High by order of a federal court arrived at school that September morning—and for many mornings thereafter—in a green Army station wagon, convoyed fore and aft by jeep loads of troops. They were escorted into the building under heavy guard, through a crowd of white students who stood on the front steps, shouting and jeering.

Today the Negro children arrive, by twos and threes, in family cars driven by their parents. They get out at the curb and walk up the entrance, attracting no special attention from the white boys and girls who are drifting in.

Strolling along the sidewalks are two soldiers in fatigue uniforms. Their shoulder patches identify them as members of the Arkansas National Guard, now under federal command. One carries a rifle, without bayonet. The other has a walkie-talkie radio. Around the corner is another two-man walking patrol, and on the far side of the building, another—six men in all. A cruising jeep with two guardsmen in it completes the deployment of military force outside the building.

Newspapermen are not allowed inside Central High, but "book salesmen" are. You commit a small fraud on the authorities to get a first-hand look.

Central High is one of the largest public school buildings in the United States. It is five stories high and two blocks long. The corridors seem endless—and not easily pedicled.

Yet count one officer—a captain—and eight non-coms on corridor duty. They wear dress uniforms, and are not armed.

Down in the basement, in a locker room which has been converted into a temporary barracks, there are about 30 other guardsmen who are off duty at the moment—but who are in easy calling distance. The rest of the 432 guardsmen who are still mobilized are a good half hour away, across the river at Camp Robinson.

Central High has 2,000 students, and you have to peer into a good many classrooms before you find one that is "integrated." Finally you see a Negro boy sitting at a desk near the back of the room.

Conning The News

By VIRGINIA COVIN, Society Editor

It's only a week away and panic is descending. This writer has not yet done her Christmas shopping or card sending. This is the moment when Bart Peterson and I would both like to take off for New York City, and the cheery, cold, noisy bustle of the streets at Christmas time. For a fact, I know that this is the ONLY time that Bart misses New York. I get homesick a few other times of the year.

It gives one a certain amount of comfort to realize how many of those New Yorkers would give their eye teeth to be living in Florida now or any other time during the winter.

Harriet Williams and children, Gwynn, Jack, Jeff and Beth, left this afternoon for Columbus, Ohio, where they will spend the holidays with Harriet's parents, Dr. and Mrs. Sage. John will fly up to join them this week-end.

Mosey and Paul Johnson left today too, for Norfolk, Va. Their daughter, Jane Ellen and her family have bought a house there. Since the Johnsons only recently retired from the Navy they will see many of their friends—including John and Mary Williams of Sanford.

Jeanne and Bill Fouk leave Thursday for leave in Miami.

Jeanne will have an opportunity to see if she has only mastered the Mayfair Country Club course or all of them.

Passed Martha Vihlen and Arla Jane Lunquist on the street laden with packages. It's for sure Santa Claus will appear at their homes.

Ruth and Forrest Norvell left today for Patuxent River, Md.—or at least that is their eventual destination. There will be several stops along the way. The first, of course, will be Charleston, to see Ruth's many relatives.

The Sanford Junior Chamber of Commerce is composed of the most energetic young men in the city. One day they are organizing a parade and running up and down the street selling balloons for orphans—ringing the bell for the Salvation Army; promoting a giant fish fry for Navy Appreciation Day—the good things they do are endless. Now they are raising money to construct the new Jaycee information booth on French Ave.

The booth used to operate by the zoo, but with the change in highway motorist's go right by and sometimes never see Sanford at all. The information booth is an excellent way to make them tarry awhile.

So—the Jaycees are selling Christmas trees on the lot at Fifth and French Ave. The trees are all from Canada, and as a bonus, you will be waited on by a courteous member of the Junior Chamber of Commerce. Better get there soon, before the trees are picked over—although judging from the quantities, this looks almost impossible.

Mrs. Carter Elected President Of E.M. Wives Club Monday

Officers were elected Monday night at a meeting of the Enlisted Men's Wives Club. Installation will take place January 6 at 8:00 p. m. in the U.S.O. building.

Elected president was Mrs. Gladys Carter, 1824 Rosalia Drive; vice-president, Mrs. Joanne Fleischman, 223 Rosalia; treasurer, Mrs. Millie Meyers, P. O. Box 136, Sanford; secretary, Mrs. Drucilla Moore, 187 Pinecrest Drive.

The E. M. Wives Club meets the first and third Monday of every month at the U. S. O. building at 8:00 p. m. The club welcomes members whose husbands are in the paygrades of E-1 to E-8. For further information, call Mrs. Carter at FA 2-4383.

BAPTIST CIRCLES GOLDEN CIRCLE

The home of Mrs. Harvey Bloodworth on 25th Street was the scene Tuesday evening of the monthly meeting of the Golden Circle of the First Baptist Church.

The meeting was opened with prayer by Mrs. M. N. Cleveland. Mrs. Tom Mero, president, conducted the business session. The class decided to adopt a buddy system. Mrs. Harold Hall gave the devotionals.

Games were played. Prizes were won by Bobbys Morton, Mrs. Tom Mero and Mrs. M. N. Cleveland.

A white elephant gift exchange was enjoyed by all. Mrs. Cleveland was presented a lovely candy dish by the class. Making the presentation was Mrs. Eugene Pennington, who expressed appreciation for Mrs. Cleveland's work as class teacher.

Guests were served ambrosia, fruitcake and coffee by the hostesses. Those present were Mrs. B.

Garden Circles

ROSE CIRCLE
Rose Circle of the Sanford Garden Club met Friday, Dec. 13 at the home of Mrs. B. B. Crumley. Co-hostesses were Mrs. Donald Atwood and Mrs. John Eick. The house was gay with Christmas decorations, augmented by arrangements brought by the members. Coffee and Christmas cookies were served, followed by an exchange of gifts.

Mrs. J. D. Woodruff gave a short talk on what to do for ornaments that were damaged by cold weather. The highlight of the meeting was the lovely program given by Mrs. Charles Wilke, who told the blessed Christmas Story, the story of the Fourth Wise Man, and the "thoughts of The Innkeeper". She also outlined Christmas customs of other countries and explained the origin of the poinsettia, our Christmas flower.

DRIFTWOOD CIRCLE
The Driftwood Circle met last week at the home of Mrs. Lewis Millspaugh. Coffee and doughnuts were served to the few who braved the weather.

Mrs. Carl Tegfeldt, circle chairman, announced that a workshop would be held January 13 at 9:30 A. M. at the Civic Building in Fort Meillon Park. Mrs. George Harden of the Dist Gardeners Circle will be the instructor. Members are asked to bring fresh flowers, a pin holder and container.

The program for the recent meeting was "Something that a child can make for Christmas". Each member demonstrated a simple, but lovely ornament, easily made by young children.

Attending were Mrs. D. L. Jarrell, Mrs. Herschel Pahl, Mrs. Tegfeldt, Mrs. John Barlow, Mrs. E. J. Mills and Mrs. Robert Conn.

Fellowship Meets In New Building

The Christian Women's Fellowship of the First Christian Church met recently in the Educational Building. Mrs. O. T. Pearson presided. The Reverend E. L. Stone gave a prayer, followed by reports from group officers: Mrs. John Bair, Jr., Mrs. R. W. Casabe, and Mrs. A. B. Huntly; Committee memorandum and discussion of projects.

The program, a skit entitled "The Consequences of a Dollar", was produced by Mrs. O. D. Landress (stage properties painted by Mr. Landress, of Odee's paint shop).

Mrs. C. R. Grieme played "Dr. Christian", and Mrs. L. Tharp, The "Dollar", featuring the help dollars give to the association supports, sixteen Christian Homes for children and old people established in the United States.

V. H. Grantham and Mrs. P. L. Stone gave the Devotional closing with the song "Bless This House" in honor of the first C.W.F. assembly in the new building, sung by Mrs. O. D. Landress without accompaniment, since there is no piano as yet.

Mrs. Bair and Mrs. Grieme were hostesses for the social hour. They served fruitcake and coffee. Others present were: Mrs. G. W. Roland, Mrs. A. R. Stroup, Mrs. W. D. Thornton, Mrs. Chandler Vail, and Mrs. W. P. Yesley.

First Half Of Mixed League Season Will End Thursday

Baseball Unpredictable

By FRED HANEY
 Writes For The United Press
 LOS ANGELES (U. P.)—Baseball is an unpredictable game and while I'm still flying high since Milwaukee won the world championship I can't help worrying about some of the bad luck that can strike a team.

Last year we had both good and bad luck. It's bad luck when a player like Joe Adcock gets hurt in the middle of the season. And it's good luck when you have a rookie like Bob Hartz come along to lead the hitting support you need.

I guess I let my enthusiasm get away with me when I pointed off that the troubles we made at Colorado Springs ought to give us another world championship.

I'm still happy we were able to get Bob Hartz and Don Kaiser for our pitching staff as well as Ed Hays for the outfield. But now that I'm home I've started worrying. Being a major league manager makes a man worry about things that haven't happened and that shouldn't happen. But sometimes they do happen.

We expect to field the nucleus of the same team that won the pennant and World Series in 1937, with the addition of the men we acquired. Right now I don't look forward to any trades.

It's not giving away any secret to say we expect to have powerful pitching again this coming year. The addition of Rush to a staff that includes such great pitchers as Warren Spahn, Lew Burdette, Bob Buhl, Gene Conley, and Ernie Johnson should take care of the pitching.

Adcock's injury would have hurt us more if Frank Torre hadn't come through so well. But I hope Adcock is able to play like he did before he was hurt. He gives us the hitting coupled with that of Hank Aaron, Eddie Mathews and some of the others to pull games out of the fire at any time.

You would say we're at least two deep anywhere in the infield. Red Schoendienst and Felix Mantilla at second make a great team and the same should go for Johnny Logan and Casey Wise whom we got from the Cubs. Of course Ed Mathews has the edge at third but Wise or Mantilla can back him up if necessary.

I don't have to say much about the outfield when I have guys like Aaron, Wes Covington, Bill Bruton (if he's okay physically like I think he will be), Hartz, Hays and some of the others.

I've got my eye set on the pennant and another World Series but I also know there are going to be lots of unpredictable bounces between now and then.

Sport Parade

NEW YORK (U. P.)—The college basketball season is barely underway but you can just about fill out your All-America ballot today for five exceptional athletes who figure to rule the roundball roost come winter 'all or spring high water.

Collegiate they represent every section of the nation. Yet, if you'll observe their home towns, you'll notice that the East still is turning out the finest crop of basketball players.

The team which figures is composed of:
 Forward—Elgin Baylor, Seattle, 6-4, 235 pounds, 23, Washington, D. C.
 Forward—Frank Howard, Ohio State, 6-6, 219 pounds, 20, Columbus, Ohio.
 Center—Wilt The Stilt Chamberlain, 7 feet, 214 pounds, 20, Philadelphia.

Guard—Tom Kearns, North Carolina, 5-11, 191 pounds, 20, Bergenfield, N. J.
 Guard—Guy Rodgers, Temple, 6 feet, 180 pounds, 21, Philadelphia.

The man with the best chance to crack into this lineup would appear to be 6-foot, 7-inch Barney Cable of Bradley, if you listen real closely to the basketball aficionados. And there also are glowing words for such as 6-4 Johnny Cox of Kentucky; 6-4 Archie Doss of Indiana; 6-4, Arlen Beckhorn of Dayton, and 6-2 Gene Brown of San Francisco.

Other threats are Cory Freeman of Xavier, Ohio; Orby Arnold, Memphis State; Alex Ellis Niagara; Tom Hawkins, Notre Dame; Johnny Green, Michigan State; Bailey Howell, Mississippi State; Johnny Lee, Yale; Temple Tucker, Rice; Dave Gambee, Oregon State; Earl Robinson, California; Milt Kane, Utah; Tony Windis, Wyoming, and Ron Lonski, Kansas.

But the big five, barring injuries will be Baylor, Howard, Chamberlain, Kearns and Rodgers.

One thing you can say for such a quintet is that any coach in the country would take it without making a substitution because it forms such a well-balanced team. Each is in his natural position.

Kearns and Rodgers both are extremely fine backcourt men who are labeled as "take charge" guys. While "only" six feet tall, Rodgers is known as the "collegiate Bob Cousy" because of his all-around ability. Kearns gives away ordinarily vital inches yet has the speed and talent to make

Buckeyes Ready For Rose Bowl

EDITOR'S NOTE: This is the second of 10 dispatches on the teams which will play in the major bowl football games New Year's Day.

United Press Sports Writer
 COLUMBUS, Ohio (U. P.)—Coach Woody Hayes, disturbed over a growing casualty list, today prescribed plenty of work and sweat for his national champion Ohio State Buckeyes before meeting Oregon in the Rose Bowl New Year's Day.

Hayes pinned his hopes on the Southern California sunshine working its healing powers on the squad, which numbered eight injured players prior to Ohio State's departure for Pasadena.

The Buckeyes' No. 1 patient was halfback Don Clark, their top scorer and ground rainer, who suffered a groin injury against Purdue.

Clark was the only doubtful starter for the Rose Bowl, however, barring further and more serious injuries.

Not Indispensable
 Before Oregon supporters begin raising their hopes for an upset, it must be pointed out that the Buckeyes rolled over their two toughest opponents, Iowa and Michigan, without Clark.

He personally guaranteed the Bucks trip in the final minutes. In one of the most spectacular individual displays ever seen in Ohio Stadium, Witte carried the ball seven times in an eight-play march for the winning touchdown. He gained 66 of the 68 yards covered in the drive.

The trip to the Rose Bowl will be the second in four years for Hayes. His 1934 unbeaten power-house crushed Southern California, 20-7, in the rain and mud.

Eight Straight Victories
 Hayes believes this Buckeye team has fewer stars but works better as a unit than the 1934 squad. Its record speaks for itself, eight straight victories after an opening loss to Texas Christian.

The main ingredients for the Ohio State success were the development of sophomore-like White in the backfield, and Jim Houston and tackle Jim Marshall on the line and a slightly greater emphasis on passing with quarterback Fran? Kremblas.

The Buckeyes' secret of winning comes from the absence of damaging fumbles and pass interceptions. Kremblas had only one serial intercepted all season.

County Basketball Tourney Opens Here Thursday Night

By JERRY COVINGTON
 The Seminole basketball tournament gets underway here tomorrow night with the undefeated Seminoles facing the Orlando Lions in the first tilt. It is to be a one game elimination tourney and the winner of the first game will face the Lyman Greyhounds for the championship. There will be a preliminary contest with the Sanford Jr. High facing the Ft. High from Orlando. On Friday night the girls from Orlando will face the feminine entry from Lyman. The winner of the Friday night contest will be presented with a trophy given by the Herald and will rule as champions for the entire county.

The Seminoles will go against coach Paul Mickler's high-scoring group with five victories under their belts and will be trying to keep the string going but the Duda lads might have different ideas. The Orlando squad has long ruled as class C state champs and they have shown already in the early season that they possess the same ability that has brought the little community so much glory. With boys such as Fabry, Andy Duda, Mike Duda and several others, this should prove to be one of the best contests to be seen here in Sanford with these two top teams coming together fighting it out for the championship. The first game is scheduled to begin at 7:00 with the Junior High squads vying and the Varsity game will follow immediately. Plan to come up and see the smooth working Seminoles as they will be trying to upset this top-notch neighboring school.

Movies Are More Prosperous Than Ever Say Moguls

By VERNON SCOTT
 United Press Hollywood Writer
HOLLYWOOD—Movie moguls, beset by rumors that they are going broke and soon will be out of business, blasted back at critics today saying flickers are more prosperous than ever.

Last week Chicago theater owner Ed Wins Silverman touched a match to the fuse by predicting "all major studios will be closed within six months."

Silverman, president of Essaness Theaters Corp., indicated movies, like radio, are being buried by the TV avalanche.

"If Mr. Silverman wants to commit suicide, let him jump off the bridge by himself," said 20th Century-Fox producer Jerry Wald.

"This is the first hot air out of Chicago this winter. If Silverman thinks the studios are dead let him try to buy one. There aren't any for sale."

Goldwyn Answers Silverman
 Sam Goldwyn, a pioneer filmmaker, said, "If Mr. Silverman will take good care of his theaters and see that they are modern and up to date, I am sure he will not go out of business. He should keep in mind how good the pictures are, rather than how cheaply he can get them."

The bigwigs aren't playing dead for the video tube. Some of them, like Jack Warner, are busily making films for theaters and TV.

"The future of motion pictures is brighter than ever before," says Warner. "By that I mean for pictures of outstanding quality. The run-of-the-mill film of the past has been supplanted by TV, a very fine medium with a great future. The public, however, will go to the theater to see something different—the important, distinctive picture of quality."

DeMille Unperturbed
 Cecil B. DeMille, a giant in the industry, shook his gray head and grinned. "At 76 pessimistic expressions disturb me very little. I've heard too many."

"First, when I was a boy, there was the expected end of the world then the end of the legitimate theater with the advent of pictures. Next the exit of all paid entertainment and daily newspapers with radio free in every home. Now it is said TV looms as a threat to all of these—especially to motion pictures."

"But TV was here in 1933, and that is the year that saw released two of the three largest grossing pictures in history—'The Robe' and 'The Greatest Show on Earth.' Today in less than 1000 theaters in this country and Canada 'The Ten Commandments' has passed a gross of $32 million, indicating this film will break every record established in the past."

"This does not indicate a disastrous end for films—on the studios which make them. I am planning to go on making pictures for theaters."

Assessed Valuation Of All Property In Nation Reported

WASHINGTON (UP)—The assessed valuation of all property in the nation subject to local general property taxes in 1956 was $280,432,000,000, the Census Bureau reports.

The report, first of its kind issued by the bureau, emphasized that assessed valuation is much less than current market value in many communities. A spokesman said the bureau will issue another report soon estimating property market values.

The report said more than one-half—or about 113 billion dollars—of the recorded value of locally assessed real estate is non-farm residential property.

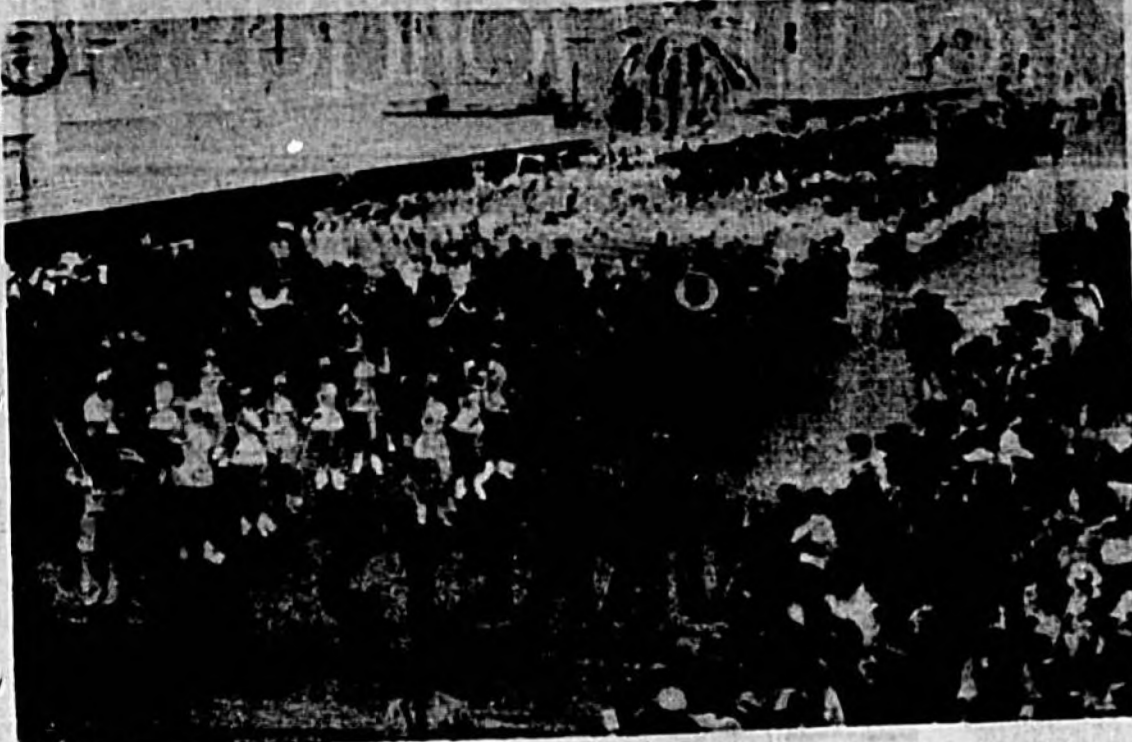

About a fourth, or 58 billion dollars, represents local assessments on commercial and industrial property "Acreage and farm properties" account for a seventh of the taxed properties.

Deducting certain legal exemptions from the 280-billion-dollar total leaves a net figure of about 272 billion dollars of taxable assessed valuation, the report said. About 75 per cent of this, or 203 billion dollars, is real estate. Another 67 billion dollars consists of securities and other personal property subject to local property taxes.

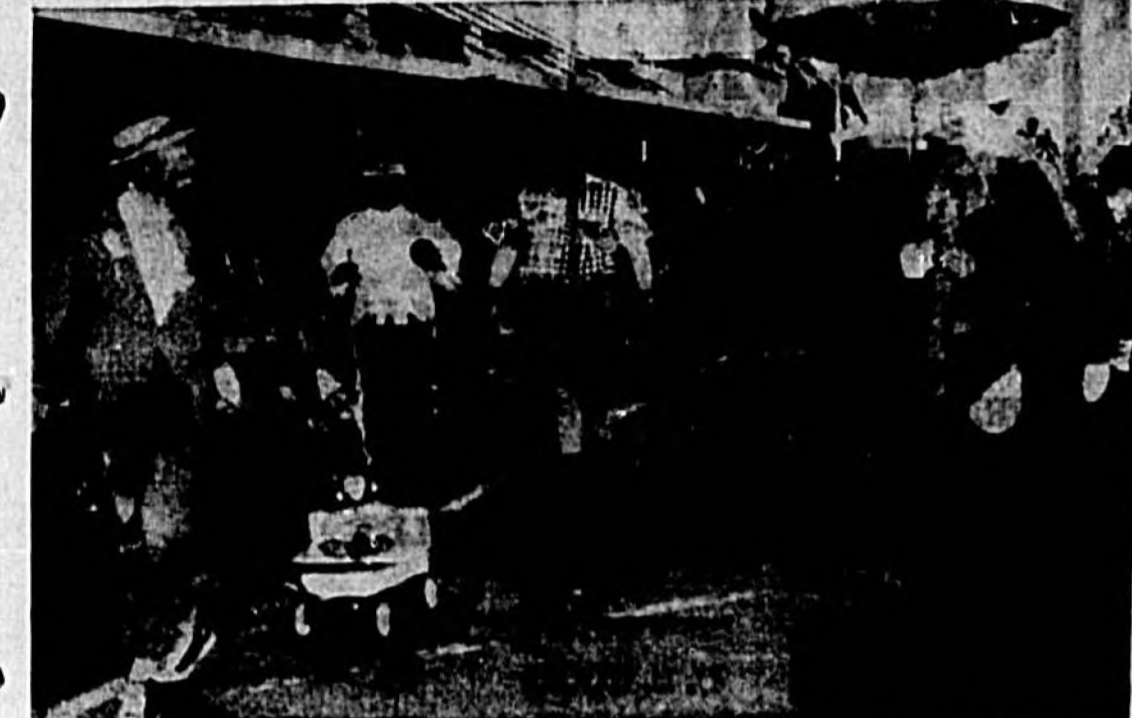

In addition, 22 billion dollars represents property assessed by state agencies and mainly belonging to railroads and public utilities.

The report said property taxes paid nearly 40 per cent of all local tax revenues. Most property taxes are a percentage of assessed valuation.

Beat-Up Violin May Be Stradivarius

MIAMI (UP)—An old woman who couldn't afford to buy her 10-year-old grandson a Christmas gift presented him Monday with a dusty, battered old violin that may be a priceless Stradivarius.

The old fiddle, cracked in spots and with several broken strings, has all the markings of being the genuine handwork of the celebrated Italian violin maker, Antonio Stradivarius. The label inside contains the master craftsman's name and the date 1721.

The violin, which had lain with junk in an attic, was uncovered when the youngster, Michael Bender, opened his grandmother's Christmas package where his parents had hidden it.

"I really gave my boy heck for opening the package before Christmas," the lad's father, Robert Bender, said. "When I saw the thing I asked myself why his grandmother would send an old piece of junk like that."

Bender said Michael found the violin in his grandmother's attic while visiting her home in Missouri about a month ago. He said the lad played with it often and was fascinated by the old fiddle.

Bender said he would take the instrument to an expert to try to determine if it is a genuine Stradivarius.

ROVIGO, Italy (UP)

—Pounding waves from the Adriatic Sea and the mounting Po River posed a double threat today to the Palenque lowlands in the river's delta. Sea waters rolling inland through a 100-foot breach in a dike flooded the community of Bonelli Levante, and 40 miles upstream at Polese, the Po was almost four feet above normal.

Couple Reunited After Four Months

LOS ANGELES (UP)—Harry Gallon, 31-year-old insurance man who says he "blacked out" in San Francisco in August and woke up months later in New Orleans, was reunited with his pretty wife, Betty, today.

The couple met at International Airport after fog had forced Gallon's plane to set down at nearby Burbank, delaying their reunion while he took a bus across town.

"Hi Baby," Gallon called as he spotted his wife. Mrs. Gallon ran into his arms and sobbed. They kissed repeatedly and Gallon said, "Don't worry, everything will be all right."

Showing from the pocket of Gallon's gray tweed sports coat was a handkerchief with the initials "L.D." Gallon said they stood for Larry Desmond, the identity he assumed when he lost his memory.

Gallon said his immediate plans were to go home to Burlingame near San Francisco, get some rest and go back to work.

"I want to see my two youngsters," he said. "I would like to see them right now."

Gallon praised the "wonderful and absolutely fantastic job" newspapers and the Red Cross had done for him since a "blinding flash" had restored his memory in New Orleans.

Dead Four Months Gallon described his experience as "like being dead for nearly four months." He said he blacked out Aug. 15 on his way to see a client and woke up Nov. 23, working on a construction job in New Orleans.

He identified himself when a New Orleans newspaper published an appeal from his wife "to please come home for Christmas." Mrs. Gallon said she had received a letter from Gallon Dec. 5 in which he told her of regaining his memory but she said he failed to tell her how to get in touch with him.

AUTHOR TO MARRY CAHORS, France (UP)—Author Francoise Sagan, 21, will marry Guy Schoeller, 45-year-old divorcee who is a director of a Paris publishing firm. Banns for the marriage were posted Sunday in Miss Sagan's birthplace of Cahors near here, where her industrialist father has a summer home. The announcement was made under her real name of Francoise Quirez.

IRAQ STILL WITH WEST BAGHDAD (UP)—Abdul Wahab Mirjan formally took over as Iraq's new premier Sunday and declared his government will continue cooperation with the Western Baghdad Pact. He also said he would follow an "Arab national policy." Mirjan formed a new government under King Faisal after Premier Ali Jawdat Abubi resigned early last week.

MEDICS CALL QUITTS SANTIAGO, Chile (UP)—The 3,500 physicians, dentists and pharmacists working for the national health department under Chile's socialized medicine plan, said they would hand in their resignations to Health Minister Jorge Torrealba today because the government has turned down their demand for an 80 per cent salary increase. The government explained it had no money to grant the increase.

News Of Men In Service

FORT JACKSON, S. C.—Private Jack Sewell, son of Mr. and Mrs. N. Sewell of Sanford has been assigned to Co. B 4th Battalion 1st Regt at Fort Jackson for his basic infantry training.

Upon his arrival at Fort Jackson, he was initially assigned to the U. S. Army Personnel Center where he was issued his clothing, given a complete physical examination and a comprehensive battery of aptitude tests to determine the Army duty assignment for which he will be best fitted.

During his basic training, he will learn the fundamentals of being an infantry soldier, including classroom lectures in such subjects as military courtesy, first aid, map reading, and personal hygiene. He will also learn to fire the M-1 rifle on several ranges.

Upon completion of his basic training, he will receive further advance infantry training or will be assigned to an Army school. Fort Jackson offers schooling in several specialties associated with the provisions of the Reserve Forces Act of 1935.

Fort Jackson is one of the country's largest Infantry Training Centers and also conducts a program of training for men under the provisions of the Reserve Forces Act of 1935.

Dictionary Men Having Trouble With 'Sputnik'

By DOC QUIGG
United Press Staff Correspondent
NEW YORK — You think you've got troubles? Consider the plight of the poor fellows who have to decide what new words are to go into our dictionaries every year. This has been a nasty year. "Sputnik" alone is enough to give a dictionary editor the fidgets.

Add to it the whole new range of gab coincident with getting out of this world and then try to decide how many of this batch of words are going to be with us for some time. It's enough to make a man say foiny to philology and a pox on lexicography.

David Guralnik, chief lexicographer and editor of Webster's New World dictionary, has solved the Sputnik problem by putting it off.

"We're waiting for it to stabilize itself. Of course, it's the Russian word for satellite," he said. "The base of the word is the Russian word 'put' meaning road. This is prefixed by the 'ss' sound which means with or along with. The 'nik' is the Russian suffix equivalent to the English 'er' or 'ist' as in farmer or journalist."

A Fellow Traveler
"So, it breaks down to 'one who goes along the road with, a fellow traveler' hence a satellite. When the word was first introduced in American newspapers, it was the American proper name for the first satellite. Then came Sputnik II. At the moment, in English, it is the word for two specific things. But when the first American one gets up, what will it be called?"

The new defense items also give dictionary men problems.

"We did get Nike and Texas towers into the dictionary," he said. "After all, a lot of cities were surrounded by Nike bases and the towers were well known. But then we began to be flooded by redstones and Vanguard and ICBM's and Thors and Jupiters. We're following a policy of wait and see."

I asked Guralnik what would happen if I made up a word like "Sputniked" as in "we was, Sputniked" — meaning, naturally, "beaten in a contest in which you were never engaged in the first place."

Usage Determines Entry
"You start a word like that, and we'll record it," he said. "But the entry into the dictionary depends on usage. We'd have to see it in print a number of times and over a period of time. And then, of course, the media in which it appears will be a factor."

There is one word in Guralnik's dictionary which he figures will take a bit of definition-fixing before long. "Spaceship — a hypothetical rocket — propelled airship for interplanetary travel."

Here are some new entries scheduled for the next printing, early next year:

"Ham," a verb, as in "to ham it up." "Defect," an intransitive verb, as in "the soldier defected." "Gain," as used in h-f, meaning signal strength. "Outgoing," in the psychological sense, as in "an outgoing personality." "Offbeat," one word, no hyphen. "Trigger," a verb, "his remarks trigger a fight."

But "crash" in the sense of "crash program" is still in the files. They're waiting to see. There are a lot of other people.

TV In Review

By WILLIAM EWALD

United Press Staff Correspondent
NEW YORK (UP)— On Thursday night's "Playhouse 90," James Mason, playing a Broadway director, says to his playwright: "When it's all over, has it been worth it?"

To which the playwright, Jack Klugman replies: "That's a very good question. Let me answer it this way—yes and no."

Well, yes and no. That's the way I've felt about most "Playhouse 90" productions this season. None of them is ever really bad — although "The Death Of Manolete" came perilously close. On the other hand, none has really set TV on fire either.

Thursday night's Robert Alan Aurthur, a writer who was wanted on the old "Philco Playhouse," turned out a 30-minute (minus unspoken commercial breaks) called "The Thundering Wave."

It was a play about a play and the efforts of a director, a playwright and some actors to snark it alive before it opens in Manhattan.

But it was also a play about counter-pulls — about the perennial problems that each of the participants brings to his work. Problems that threaten to stifle the life of the play.

The cast, besides Mason and Klugman, included Joan Bennett and Franchot Tone.

The performances were good as they are in most "Playhouse 90" offerings, with James Mason turning in an exceptionally polished performance. It's a pleasure to watch the man work.

And there was a good smell about the show, too—an authentic aroma of backstage talk, of steam-pipey rehearsals complete with coffee containers, good costuming and some excellent camera groupings.

The channel swim:
Thursday night's "Climax" melodramas on CBS-TV threw a group of hurriedly re-buffed strangers together in a creaky hotel. It threw them together in a creaky plot, too.

When CBS-TV's "Harbormaster" moves to ABC-TV on Jan. 5, it'll be retitled "Adventure of Scott Island." "Lamp Unto My Feet" and "Look Up And Live."

The high spot of Thursday night's "Groucho Marx Show" on NBC-TV was "Miss Ohio" whose bathing suit shoulder straps slipped off twice. That NBC-TV "Eddie Gobel-George Fisher" show or whatever it is they call it has picked up two new producers — Gil Rodin and Harry Tugend.

Emcee Jay Jackson of NBC-TV's "The Tas Douth" pulled a new kind of consolation line Thursday night. Said Jackson to a contestant who lost $11,300 and was left with a $30,000 pile: "Well, that's not so bad. You would have lost most of it to Uncle Sam any way."

Nice work if you can get it: Frank Sinatra will sing "Mistaken and Holly" on his Dec. 20 ABC-TV show — Frank Sinatra co-authored it.

REJOIN STEELERS
PITTSBURGH — Halfback Richie McCabe and linebacker Bill Pratkanis have rejoined the Pittsburgh Steelers after completing hitchhikes in the armed forces. To make room for the service returnees, the Steelers placed guard Bill Michael and fullback Bill Bowman on the disabled list.

JUST AFTER THE MAYFAIR Inn's $15,000 PGA Open was decided, three of the stars got together for a chat. (Left to right) are: Jay Hebert who tied with Ed "Pink" Oliver for second place, Fred Ganss, the San Francisco Giant's Boy's Camp director, and Mario Carugno, Mayfair Inn Country Club Pro.

Addie Popular Entertainer

By DOC QUIGG

United Press Staff Correspondent
NEW YORK (UP)— My favorite entertainer—and one of America's favorites—right now is a kinky-top, gleaming-grin little fellow named Theophilus Adepoju Aderonmu, commonly known as Addie.

His papa is Adeyemi Alowolodu, the crowned-head Alafin of Oyo, chief of 2,500,000 nature-worshipping Yorubas in Nigeria, Africa. His uncle, the Rev. N. O. Salako, a Methodist preacher, is now superintendent of the church's Ibadan circuit, same country, same continent.

The uncle drove Addie to read the Bible straight through at age 12 and then told him: "Make yourself useful in the world."

As almost a direct result, plus the fact that he went through grammar and high schools operated by the American Southern Baptist Missions in Nigeria, Addie now has won $94,000 on TV answering Bible questions. Next week he'll go for $128,000 on "The $64,000 Question."

Memorize 66 Books
Besides a great deal of studying and memorizing of the Bible, Addie, who is 30 years old, has read it straight through four times — the first two in his native Yoruba language, then in a Revised English Version, then in the King James Version.

He figures he has memorized some part of 60 of the 66 books of the Old and New Testaments, and the way he studies now is to take a Bible dictionary, pick out names and read everything in the Bible about those names.

The Yorubas of Nigeria, says Addie, elevating his left index finger in a typical gesture, are "a big ethnic group of perhaps eight million" who historically have had five important chiefs. Since the people now may vote and have an assembly government, the chiefs "are sort of figureheads."

Sub-Group Chief
His father is chief of a sub-group, the Oyos. His domain includes Ibadan, third largest city in all Africa. Near Ibadan is Addie's home town, Oyo, same level degrees above the Equator. It was there, in the second grade, that as an attendance prize he won a perback Bible, written in Yoruba.

He wanted to study medicine at the University of Chicago, and he figured he might finance himself on the TV quiz show. He has—and then some—although he says, "I do not call myself a Bible authority."

When he gets his M. D. degree, which he says he can do in three years, he intends to head back to Nigeria and establish a hospital, and, as his uncle said, "make myself useful."

Paris Fashions
Pierce Poland's
Iron Curtain

By COLETTE BLACKMOORE
United Press Staff Correspondent
WARSAW — (UP)— Look to Paris for what the well dressed Polish woman will wear.

Believe it or not, the death of fashion's high priest, Christian Dior, has saddened people in Warsaw almost as much as it has those in the West.

"Dior's passing is a terrible thing for fashion. I don't see who can replace him," said Mme. G. Grabowska, a woman who wields even more power over the feminine ideal styles in this eastern European capital than Dior ever did in France.

Madame Grabowska is Poland's personal link with that mysterious, unpredictable taste in hips and hemlines which emanates every year from the big fashion houses of the Gallic capital.

Whatever the taste currently happens to be, it eventually sifts through her into the very sewing machines of Warsaw's fashion salon where she is the chief and, indeed, the only designer.

This winter the favored styles dresses and cloche hats, lapped on Ordynaska street are "baggy" skirts and full backs—just as on Fifth Avenue, Piccadilly, and the Champs Elysees.

Translating Dior
Is this a surprising discovery for the western visitor to Warsaw? Not really. Not if one knows something about Polish history in pre-Communist Poland.

"We have always been influenced by Paris, and before the war our women were well dressed; that is part of our tradition," fashion-conscious Poles will tell you.

The tradition was briefly broken by the war and its aftermath. But last March for the first time since 1917, Madame Grabowska journeyed to Paris to view the "collections."

She brought back with her a head and several suitcases filled with ideas of how the daring lines of Dior could be translated into the limited means of the Polish fashion industry.

And how they could be made to please the less daring tastes of Warsaw's wealthy women.

The House of Fashion is a craftsman's workshop with a structure like a pyramid. Its peak is Madame Grabowska and its base consists of 40 highly skilled seamstresses who personally cut, stitch and fit every article of clothing which bears the house's name.

Reasonable prices
Between the peaks and the base are seven lovely mannequins of varying heights and figures who travel all over Poland and occasionally even go abroad to model the styles of the season.

Clients are mostly the wives of top government officials, of Communist and other party members, actresses, singers and writers and women from the diplomatic colony.

But here in Poland where society is less highly stratified than, for example, in the Soviet Union, a young woman who does not belong to one of the privileged groups has just as good a chance of getting her clothes made in this exclusive atelier.

provided she has the money. Surprisingly enough however, the prices are reasonable even by Polish standards when one considers how difficult it is to obtain good fabric here.

The smartest winter coat cost only 3,000 zlotys ($125). A woolen dress of the latest model can be had for 2,000 zlotys or less (about $83).

The House of Fashion makes all the accessories to go with its outfits. The shoes there have that pointed look, the winter hats are furry and coosack-like.

Dulles Visit To Spain May Be Big Evolution In Defense Plan

By CHARLES M. McCANN
United Press Staff Correspondent
The visit of Secretary of State John Foster Dulles to Spain may be a big development in the new plans for European defense.

It could turn out to be secondary in importance only to the Paris meeting itself. Spain is not a member of the NATO alliance. But it is closely, if indirectly, tied in with NATO. That is because of the seldom mentioned fact that under an agreement with Franco, the United States is building a network of air, naval and supply bases all over the country.

Dulles, France "Consult" The official announcement of Dulles' visit, first issued in Madrid, said that the visit was being made at Franco's invitation. Dulles will "consult" with Franco, Foreign Minister Fernando Maria Castiella and other officials, it was said. Dulles naturally will give Franco a full report of the NATO meeting which ends today, including the agreement in principle of Western European countries to the establishment of nuclear missile bases on their territory. It is an agreement in principle, rather than of fact, because the question of equipping the bases with missiles is still to be negotiated between the United States and the individual countries concerned. As has been made plain in Paris, some of these countries do not want the missiles. Dulles may sound out Franco on the possibility of setting up missile bases in Spain. If he does, it is not only possible but probable that Franco would agree to consider the suggestion favorably. France called "Totalitarian" Spain never has been invited to join NATO because some European allies, still mindful of the Spanish Civil War, object to Franco's regime as "totalitarian." That may be. But Franco also is a bitter enemy of Communism. And his country, protected by the grim Pyrenees Mountains, would be the last bulwark of defense if Russia's Red army swept over Western Europe. Franco has intimated that he would join NATO if all of its present 15 members asked him to. The fear of Russian Communist aggression is pretty nearly as serious now as it was when NATO was formed in 1949. Russia's successes with its Sputnik earth satellite and its intercontinental ballistic missile have radically changed the European defense picture.

It seems quite possible that those Allied countries which have objected to Franco's regime and have called him a dictator might have some second thoughts about him now. That Spain would strengthen NATO is unquestionable. It would be the first step toward bringing Spain into the

NATO Allies To Attempt New Talks With Russia

PARIS (UP)—President Eisenhower and the 11 other NATO chiefs concluded today their historic summit conference with an agreement to seek missile-age peace through fresh disarmament talks with Russia and to insure by arming Western Europe with nuclear missiles.

President Eisenhower said he thought the decisions reached here made "war less likely, peace more sure." The President said he also felt that the four-day meeting had made for a "stronger North Atlantic alliance."

In the closing phases of the final NATO council meeting in the Palais de Chaillot, Eisenhower said he recognized there were certain differences of detail among the 15 member states that could not be "summoned completely."

four-day conference included an American offer to share with its allies the technical know-how of 1,500-mile intermediate range ballistic missile production. The decision to strengthen the western nations against the threat of aggression through IRBM's and nuclear warheads was blamed on Russia which "persisted" in arming itself with "the most modern and destructive weapons, including missiles of all kinds."

Heart Attack Fatal To Rep. Cooper, 64

WASHINGTON (UP)—Rep. Cooper, one of the shrewdest and also one of the most powerful men in Congress, died Wednesday night of a heart attack. He was 64.

Death of the Tennessee Democrat put Rep. Wilbur D. Mills (D-Ark.), outspoken foe of tax cuts, in Cooper's post as chairman of the House Ways & Means Committee which initiates all tax legislation.

Cooper, sometimes referred to as "the loneliest man in Washington," died as he had lived for years alone. His death at the Bethesda, Md., Naval Hospital came so swiftly that he was unattended by friends or relatives at the time.

Cooper entered the hospital Dec. 3 following a mild heart attack. He was reported only Wednesday afternoon by his secretary as recovering "beautifully."

Lighting Contest Entries Pouring In

Entries for the Jaycee Christmas Lighting Contest are beginning to pour into the local Jaycee Information Booth, according to Committee Chairman Dave Thrasher.

Deadline for the contest has been moved up until noon Monday in order to give local contestants time to prepare their decorative schemes and get them ready for the judges to inspect.

Thrasher said today "We are hoping to have the biggest Jaycee Christmas Lighting Contest in the history of the project."

"We are urging every homeowner to enter their Christmas Lighting decorations in the contest," said the committee chairman. "It just stands to reason that the more Christmas lighting we see around our community, the greater the Christmas spirit will be," he said, "and we want to encourage such a feeling in our community."

The Christmas Lighting Contest is divided into four divisions for residential lighting. Each contestant chooses one of the categories from the three available and then the entry is automatically in the fourth division.

First place winner in each division receives a $25 U. S. Savings bond. The bonds have been contributed by the Florida State Bank, Sanford Atlantic National Bank, Florida Power and Light Company and The Sanford Herald.

Commercial entries in the Jaycee Christmas Lighting Contest compete for the Florida Power and Light Company's Traveling Trophy.

An entry blank will be found elsewhere in today's issue of The Sanford Herald.
