Mystery surrounds newborn abandoned

RUSKIN - Minerva Martinez was babysitting and watching soap operas when she heard the bleating cry of a newborn

She knew the walls weren't coming from the infant Martinez was watching Friday afternoon, so she cautiously opened the front door of her sister-in-law's home and looked out on the front lawn.

Bus drivers want gloves

FORT LAUDERDALE — Broward County bus drivers will be given latex gloves if they fear catching the AIDS virus or other diseases when collecting transfers from passengers.

As of Friday, the disposable gloves were available at no cost to any of the 400 county bus drivers. The gloves were provided after some drivers, expressing fear of AIDS, hepatitis B and other diseases, refused to handle passengers' transfer slips.

"It's the '90s." said Mike Gurge, a 10-year veteran driver. "These diseases are there. A lot of these guys ar terrified. I don't think the idea is for people to wear them at all time, just to have them in the event of an emergency. We feel we want to be protected as best we can."

The Way We Were Sanford's first skyscraper has interesting past

By CRACE IS. STYRE Hersid Correspondent

SANFORD - William T. Deans started a furniture store in 1893 at 101 East First St.; he sold it to T.J. Miller in 1899. The 1913 city directory lists T.J. Miller and Sons as Furniture Store, Undertakers, and Talking Machines. Mr. Miller Machines. Mr. Miller was a ninent citizen serving as vice ident of the First National Bank and also on the city council. He was a member of the 1912 city council that authorized the construction of the first builthead from Sanford Avenue to Myrtle Avenue. During a special ceremony on Dec. 2, 1926, he presented to the city a large flag that he had cherished for 30 years: It had 36 tars on it. He died Oct. 15, 1929, having been a Sanford resident since 1879.

On April 21, 1922, the First National Bank bought Mr. Mill-er's Furniture Store and announced that they would build a six-story $100,000 skyscraper in its place. A newspaper article stated later that the bank demoished an old shed, so evidently Miller's store wasn't much of a building.

The First National Bank building was built on this site 1922-23 and opened Oct. 4. 1923. The architect was Mowbray and Uffinger and builder was George A. By J. CARR DARFIELD Horald Sprior Staff Writer

SANFORD — Seminole County recycling edged a smidge during the past 12 months compared to the previous 12 months.

A total of 87.2 million lbs. were diverted for recycling dur-ing the Oct. 1, 1993 to Sept. 30, 1994 period, the county's fiscal year. A total of 86.8 million lbs. of garbage was offered for re-cycling during the same 12 months the year before. That sents an increase of four-tenths of a percent.

During September, folks apparently finally gave up on mowing their yards. Curbaide yard waste collections dropped from 4.5 million lbs. to 3.1 million ibs. The drop contributed to an overall recycling collection decrease of 8.6 million ibs. to 8.1 million ibs. Curbaide garbage collections dropped slightly from 2.2 million ibs. to 2 million ibs.

Use of the county's SMRF -Small Materials Recycling Facility - increased from 479,710 lbs. materials processed at the facility come from Oviedo municipal overall recycling collections for the month dropped from 2.9 million lbs. to 2.3 million lbs. Curbaide recycling colections dropped from 1.6 million lbs. to 1.3 million lbs. Yard waste collections dropped from 1.3 million lbs. to 1 million lbs.

In Sanford, recycling collec-tions plummeted from 1.1 million lbs. to 627,900 lbs. Garbage recycling collections edged down alightly from 154,620 lbs. to 152,920 lbs. Yard waste collections accounted for much of the overall decline by dropping from 985, 150 lbs. to 459,520 lbs.

Steve Miller for Longwood

Turning incumbent city commissioners out of office in becoming almost as commonplace in Longwood as the short employment span of its city administrators.

It is a trend the Sanford Herald urges voters to stop by re-electing Steve Miller to a second term as city commissioner. The endorsement comes with some qualifications...primary among them is opinions or suggestions from "political advisors" be given no more weight than those of any citizen.

Since taking over as mayor, Miller has been accused of micromanagement by political opponents. Investigating citizen complaints and developing a working knowledge of city projects, falls under the category of educating and informing oneself, not interference.

Miller is being challenged by political newcomer Jim Carrico for the district 3 commission seat. Carrico is president of Hidden Oakes Homeowners Association. The men are vying for a three-year term on the Carrico, an airline employee who also operates a small business, wants to improve the image, living and working conditions of Longwood.

With a little more seasoning, we feel Carrico someday will be a fine leader for Longwood. First, we'd like to see him volunteer to work on city boards or commissions or attend commission meetings and work sessions when the commissioners wrestle with the budget and tackle the business of the city.

A number of Miller's suggestions including annexation of enclaves, development of ate with the equity should be beneficial for lists" are needed to ensure Longwood's future, which Miller seems ready to develop.

Miller backed pay increases for city employees this year in an attempt to stem the loss of trained employees which costs the city in overtime and retraining. He is proposing a written pay schedule so employees will not be dependent upon which way the political wind is blowing from one year to the next to know if they will get a raise.

As it stands, if Miller is re-elected, he will be the most senior member of the commission with only two years experience. His leadership is needed.

LETTER

Response to opinion

Reference Mr. Cassel's letter published Oct. 2, 1994 which was filled with misinformation and very subjective opinions.

I was somewhat suprised to learn that my husband, Mac McClanahan was such a bad guy for wanting to help families acquire decent housing.

I will have to admit that during the last 47 years we've been married, there have been times that his desire to help people has caused me concerns, like the time he gave my bicycle away to a 12-year-old whose bicycle had been stolen or when he brought home less fortunate individuals for Thankagiving or Christmas dinner with little or no warning. Also, the times he would suddenly stop the car and give his last $5 to some vagrant that was hungry. All in all, I wouldn't want him to change just to change the opinion of one misinformed individual. Oh, I forgot to mention the times he gets calls for help from elderly folks living in the housing projects needing money for food or medicine and he can't get there fast enough.

Now that I've addressed Mr. Cassel's opinions, let me straighten him out on his facts.

1. Mac McClanahan has never built one house in Sanford - for the exact reason that you (Mr. Cassel) or some other opinionated individual might see as a conflict. Of course, that has been Sanford's

2. Mac McClanahan was the driving force that enabled 141 families to build their homes (and I mean physically build their own homes) with the financing provided by the Farmers Home Administration. (141 homes are located in Oviedo).

3. These houses increase Oviedo and Seminole County tax base approximately $7,000,000.

4. These homes paid all impact fees to Oviedo and Seminole County in the approximate amount of $351,000 with no reduction of fees because they are affordable housing. 5. In addition to these fees and the increased tax base another $2,000,000 was put into the local economy to pave streets, provide central water and fire protection not only to the 141 homes, but also for existing homes that did not have paved streets

Hopefully, before Mr. Casael writes any more letters, he will check the facts and come out of his house and help those that are less fortunate than

I would like to add that Mr. Cassel's remarks regarding Mayor Bettye Smith were equally misguided. He should research the record on all the causes the mayor supports and works for.

Kids are bombarded by violence

In less than three weeks we will be electing our leaders for the next two, four and six years. There is probably not a candidate in America that has not presented the electorate with a prescription for curbing, violence. Violence is the daily fare of our lives, we are inundated by violence. There appears to be a downward spiral relative to the site of persons committing crimes. relative to the age of persons committing crimes. A case in point are the two youth in Chicago who allegedly decided to throw their youthful playmate out of the window because he refused to steal candy for them.

Today's youth are bombarded by violence in the home and in the community. In home violence encompasses: excessive violence on television and video games, parental violence, child abuse and home invasions. Community violence includes drive-by shootings, car hijacking and the seemingly routine robbery of fast food chain stores, banks and individuals. There appears to be a conscienceless attitude that if one wants something, take it.

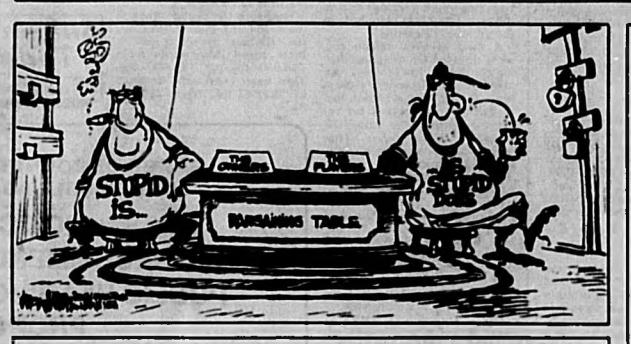

Health experts have affirmed that media violence is associated with "increased aggression and desensitization to violence among children." Annually three million children witness parental violence. Among children aged 5 to 14, homicide is the third leading cause of death. Between 1979 and 1991 almost 50,000 American children were Candidates' prescriptions for curbing violence generally consists of building more prisons and incarcerating individuals for longer periods of time. These approaches may have some merit but fail to address basic issues concerning the epigenesis of crime. Prevention of criminal behavior would be far less coatly than imprioning wast numbers of individuals for lengthy prison terms. It is more beneficial for society to otherate its citizens rather than tail them. It is educate its citizens rather than jail them. It is financially more feasible and socially more

The National Research Council has analyzed youth violence. Their results confirmed a direct correlation between economic hardship and criminal activity among American youth. My previous column detailed poverty in America noting that our children were our poorest citizens. Consequently, it would behavior the mumber one priority. Intervention in the lives of mber one priority. Intervention in the lives of number one priority. Intervention in the lives of children to prevent criminal behavior and help mold character begins in infancy. Children must be trained, nurtured and disciplined. Children living in poverty and left unsupervised for many hours require help. Our entire approach to helping families need to be radically changed; just sending a check to impoverished families is not the answer.

A comprehensive social services program with trained providers should be instituted to assess a family's strengths and weaknesses and helping our citizens helping themselves. The focus should be the total family constellation, and employment for everyone capable of working should be the objective. Decent housing is also a factor needing addressing. Habitat for Humanity is a good model to emulate. A decent home to live and and a job to go to, not only provides a person with income but enhances a sense of dignity, self-worth and community membership.

Surviving today's work world

As all my loyal readers (both of you) may remember from last week in this week's offering. I sort of promised to solve the economic problems of the country land within 750 words to boot!). Well if you believed that one, I've got this land over in. ... Seriously though I do have a few thoughts on the subject of turning this country around, and hopefully, some of them will make sense before I'm done.

First off, contrary to Mr. Perot's opinion and others. I do not believe the fault lies with our opening up the world to the ever-increasing trend of tartif free trade. As is beginning to be proven in the auto industry, unlimited competition can be a good thing. For years Detroit had a lock on the American public's automotive buying dollar. The companies there embedded grew fat and sloppy knowing they would have increases in sales each and every year, and the unions knew they could demand more and more, because of that guaranteed profitability. And then the Japanese broke into the U.S. market.

The cries from Detroit could be heard across the land. "Oh piececease Mr. Congressman, save us from those efficiently produced and cheaper imports" and "Mr. and Mrs. America; how can you formake us for something which is made better and cheaper than anything we might choose to come up with?" Well, it took them some time to figure out that perhaps they might have to modernize a bit, and it was awhile before they realized that the question of quality was a right rather than something dreamed of; but eventually, the big three got back into the automobile business. and competitively. Today, the U.S. auto industry is holding its own in this country, and it all came about because they had to. If they would just learn that some people want their steering wheels on the right hand side, we might actually nomeday be able to compete internationally as weil. Okay, so staying competitive is one of the first keys to my plan. Training one's own work force to remain competitive is the next. One of the biggest problems in the employment sector is the decided hesitation of employers to spend the time for resources to train people to do their jobs. The argument seems to be that once trained, those now skilled employees will pack up and move to greener pastures, and to a certain degree, they have a valid point. Such policy has caused the increased hiring of temporary and part-time skilled people, but it is only akin to that little kid putting his finger in the dike; it is unfortunately just a short term solution to a much larger problem. There is only a limited pool of skilled employees that exists out there and only a limited number of companies that can continue to downsize, thereby adding to that pool. Eventually, employers will wake up someday to find that the people they need to fill certain vacancies simply no longer exist And then what? Shall we lose yet more ground to our wiser foreign competitions? The American consuming public will have what they want when they want it. and if our captains of industry aren't willing to spend the money or resources to train a work force to provide it, the consuming public will go elsewhere. The companies that succeed in this country have learned this fact, the others either will or will shortly be out of business.

Now the next part of the puzzle falls hard upon the heads of the American working man and woman. Put simply, "you probably can't have it all." When my generation was growing up. America was the economic powerhouse of the world. Heck, we had so much we were giving it away to those less fortunate than we. most notably Japan and Western Europe. Mr. Levitt made the dream of home ownership a reality to our returning servicemen; having an unlimited industrial and scientific capacity we spewed out consumer products and new inventions like a broken fire hydrant; and everyone around the world came to us for quality. Well, times they do change.

In today's world, it's a plain fact that we don't necessarily make the best, or at the cheapest price. Our industrial power was allowed to go fallow for the sake of profits and employee income for years, resulting in some circumstances (like the steel industry) where it ts no longer economically feasible to try and compete in the world market place. And worst of all, we have now raised two generations (my own included) where our expectations exceed the reality of the situation. Because of our economic blind spots, we (these two genera-tions) mistakenly believe that we are guaranteed a better life than our parents or grandparents. While in some respects technology has and will make parts of that statement true, for the main, we just might have to accept that life is not necessarily governed by our unrealistic wishes.

Many of our mothers never had to work for a living, and if they did, it was to ease life's passage rather than to survive. The baby boomers who were fortunate enough to go to college knew that the mere possession of a degree, any degree, would guarantee a certain economic status and future. It hasn't proved out for a lot of boomers, and definitely not for the so called "X" generation. The norm today is two incomes, advancement requires continuing education, and financial security requires fiscal responsibility. Maybe we will have to drive a car for more years than our parents, and perhaps there isn't a house in our children's future, but to a large degree it does somewhat depend on how much one is willing to sacrifice or perhaps simply put forth in order to obtain the life one wants.

So what are the answers? For the employers out there, be competitive, and do what you have to in order to remain competitive. And for the employees, work hard, keep improving your skills, and maybe lower your expectations a little. That's not to say that you can't have it all, but just keep in mind, that you might not. And besides, you might surprise yourselves; life can exist without the Lexus-es and a VCR, and sometimes, it might even be more fun.

North "didn't serve the president well" and his trading with terrorists "runs against everything we stand for in America."

When Virginia Republicans anointed North. Dole refused to endorse him. The nomination "makes it very difficult for some in the Republican party," Dole said in June. After a period of silence. Dole said he would meet with North. The following day, he said he would support North. The day after that, he received North in his Senate office and gave him a check for $5,000.

Weeks later, Dole stumped for North across Virginia. "I'm very proud of Oliver North and very proud to be here," said the senator who, like North, was wounded in combat. To address the question of traffic congestion, Miller recently petitioned the governor for an interchange at E.E. Williamson Road and Interstate-4 but received a negative response. Miller plans to readdress the issue.

Students say that for the most part, they and their friends don't bring the beepers on campus, where they have been banned by district policy. They don't want to risk losing them.

"They're not too expensive," said one girl. "But what a pain in the behind if you gotta replace the thing."

George Kramp said his mother made him get rid of his beeper. "It kept going off during dinner and at church and times she said weren't good for it to be going off," he said. And, he explained, his mother was afraid the beeper meant he was involved in illegal drug activity.

"Sure the drug dealers got them," said in his own defense. "But some of us just like to stay in touch with friends." in touch with friend

It was that reputation as being a tool for drug dealers that got the beepers banned from schools to begin with.

It's exam time

By Little Y HODGE Special to the Herald

With Seminole High School's nine weeks exams beginning on Monday, students are becoming just a touch tense. For the newcomers to SHS, they have no familiarity to the procedures of the exams. For most, they have never experienced the great de-light of taking high school exams

To begin with, a few studying tips to help with those pre-test jitters: Begin studying now. These tests count 20 percent, that's a fifth of your grade. Study in spurts. If you alt down and study for two hours, all you're going to accomplish is a head-ache. Study with half an hour or so, then "reward" yourself with something fun like a quick basketball game, a call to a friend or anything you enjoy. But don't stay away from the books too long. Start back study-ing in about 15 minutes. Good luck on your exams.

Now. go study!

The school board believes that the beepers are distracting in the classroom and that they are used often by dealers keeping in touch with their buyers.

"I guess that one person can spoil cool stuff for the rest of us." said Jessie Little. "Some of us just like being able to keep up with the latest technologies. If they find out people i rs to talk about drugs turned 40. Your blood pressure is up and your stansies is down. You don't have the energy you used, nor the figure. You are beginning to think that it might be time to think about changing your lifestyle: and you wish you were a kid again...

Students at Seminole Community Callege have the upper-tunity, while they are young, to learn the foundation of proper lifestyle management, and forestall reaching a mid-life crisis. They can enroll in a college credit class called "Wellness Appraisal and Improvement" and learn the ways of clean living and exercise. living and exercise.

"I would like to make this course mandatory," said Larry Castle, SCC athletic director and chair of the physical education department. Castle said that SCC does not have the space to accomodate this program as mandatory for all college students, but enrollment in this course would eliminate the need for most other P.E. courses.

The course will intro students to the need and benefits of regular physical exercise by exploring healthful lifestyle alternatives, attitudes and dif-ferent types of exercise," said instructor Ken Patrick. "Stu-

Castle said the wellness program takes a "three-pronged approach" covering, an exercise component, a weight management/nutrition component and stress/relaxation component.

A pre-assessment to done at the beginning of the course, and a post-assessment to done at the end: Castle said they have found over the course of the several years that the program has been taught, that 50 percent of the taught, that 80 percent of the students found improvement in some or all of the nine areas evaluated. These include blood pressure, weight, body fat ratio, lung capacity and endurance.

The two-credit course lasts for one term, which is approximately these months. During

High blood pressure: Its causes, effects explained

By RESIDE KETTY Herald Correspondent

LAKE MARY - Judith (Judy) Long is all too familiar with the many different stresses that can. and do contribute to hypertension, commonly re-"As a bookkeeper and tax con-sultant. I get an awar ber of added stress during my peak season which begins in Decem-ber of every year," said Long.

What is blood pressure? According to Marc L. Rivo.

M.D., director, Division of Medicine, U.S. Department of Health and Human Services, blood pressure is the force produced by the heart as it pushes blood arough arteries and capillaries a the body. It normally goes up d down throughout the day in sponse to stress and exertion. snormally high blood pressure, hypertension, occurs when walls of the small arteries neeze tight, leaving a reduced ening for the blood. To mainin the flow of the blood rough the body, the heart et pump harder. Why the arteries constrict in nome people and not in others is not fully understood. In 10 percent of people with high blood pressure, the condition is a symptom of some underlying. often correctable problem, such as a kidney or adrenal gland disorder. In the other 90 percent. however, the cause is unknown. although there are a number of factors that increase a person's risk. These factors are age (blood pressure increases as you grow older); heredity (hypertension tends to run in families; sex (men are more likely to get it): race (blacks have a 30 percent higher risk than whites); and obesity (up to half of obese people with high blood pressure can end it simply by losing excess weight). Smoking, heavy drinking and stress may also be risk factors.

Blood pressure is measured with a device called a sphygmomanometer which consists of an inflatable rubber cuff attached to a pressure gauge. Because blood pressure fluctuates with each heartbeat. the reading is given in two parts: the peak, or systolic pressure which is attained when the heart contracts: and the low, or diastolic pressure, attained when the heart relaxes between contractions. Both are measured in millimeters of mercury (mmHg).

Hypertension is usually defined as a consistent systolic pressure of at least 140 mmHg and a consistent diastolic of at least 90 mmHg. The key word. however, is consistent. The diagnosis is made only after the blood pressure is found to be elevated on three occasions at least several days apart.

Judy Long's job as a tax consultant is full of stress.

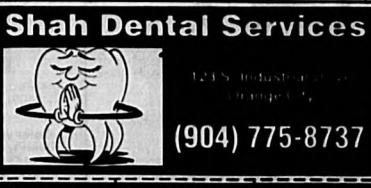

hypertension: The extra strain on both the heart and arteries, of someone with high blood pressure, can lead to heart failure, heart attck, stroke, and atherosclerosis, or hardening of the arteries. Chronic hypertension can enlarge the heart, limiting its ability to function adequately. The brain, kidneys, and eyes can also be damaged by uncontrolled high blood pressure, which reduces the flow of blood to these vital organs. If the damage becomes severe enough, it can cause death.

Overall, about one million

Americans die each year as a result of the effects of high blood pressure. It has also been called the silent killer as oftentimes the symptoms go unnoticed.

In the case of Long. the prescription medication Zestoretic is necessary to keep her blood pressure under control, however, this is not always the first avenue traveled. Dr. Rivo says that stopping smok-ing, losing excess weight, limit-ing salt and alcohol intake, reducing stress, and getting regular aerobic exercise are the changes generally recommended for controlling hypertension.

Florida State (5-1, 5-0 ACC) sputtered much of the day on offense, but its defense dominated to shut out Clemann for the straight season and give coach Bobby Bowden a 19-0 mark in homecoming games.

ALTAMONTE SPRINGS - T.T. Toliver's nickname should be "Heartbreaker." Mainland's junior quarterback acemed to have the answer every time Lake Brantley threatened to take control of the game, sending an overflow crowd of Patriot supporters home disappointed. 35-26, in the 6A-District 4 battle of unbestens at Tom Storey Field Friday night.

"That quarterback (Toliver) in one of the best athletes I've ever seen," said Lake Brantley head coach Fred Aimon. "Their offense lashs like look the they really set anything up. The quarterback just runs around back there until someone geta open.

Buccaneers turned a pair of first-half fumbles into 14 points and were able to stay one step shead of the Patriota the rest of the night. Mainland deals Pats first loss

'He (Toliver) gets my vote for Central Florida athleto of the year."

With the win, Mainland (7-0, 6-0 in 6A-4) has all but assured itself of the district championship and a home game in the first round of the playoffs. Lake Brantley (6-1, 5-1 in 6A-4) is in the driver's seat for the second playoff spot, but Oviedo and Lake Howell only have two losses

The Patriots play a non-district game against Seminole at home next Thursday while the Buccaneers will visit Lake Mary on Thursday.

Lake Brantley struck first Friday, taking the opening kickoff right down the field and acoring extra point try, which would come back to haunt the Patriota, was wide left. Gee Patriots, Page 38

Cypress Creek eliminates Tribe

ORLANDO — Slowly but undentably, the Seminole Pighting Seminoles have buried themselves under a pile of their own mistakes

It happened again Friday night, when the Tribe saw a trip to the Class SA football state playoffs disappear in an error-laden 16-14 loss to the Cypress Creek Bears.

eminole falls to 4-3 and 0-2 in 5A-District 6 while Cypress Creek (4-3) clinches the SA-6 runner up's playoff position with a 2-1 district

"We made too many mistakes," said Seminole coach Ernie McPherson. "We were our own worst enemy with such poor execution. We had a great defensive effort in the first half and we still went into halftime down 9-0.

"Now that we're eliminated from the playoffs, we have to concentrate all our efforts on Lake Brantley next Thursday. That's our bowl game. Our goal now is to win the (Seminole Athletic) conference championship."

Seminole had a substantial statistical advantage over the Bears, accumulating 260 yards of offense (187 passing, 73 rushing) to just 60 (62) passing, 18 rushing for Cypress Creek.

In effect, three plays best the Seminoiss.
The first came when the Bears blocked a punt by Jason Cyrus on Seminole's first posses setting up a first-and-goal situation from the Table 2-yard line.

Seminole's defense diminished the immedi impact of the play by pushing the Bears backwards on three straight plays, forcing Cypress Creek to settle for a 26-yard field goal by Freddy Waczewski with 8:33 left in the quarter.

The Tribe defense continued to manhandle the Bears all through the half. On 10 rushing plays in the first half, Cyphem Creek lost a total of 20 yards while quarterback Scott Moriey was 2-for-? with an interception throwing the ball.

Unfortunately, one completion was a 44-yard strike to Letreil Brown that exploited a Semino biltz. followed two plays later by an 8-yard Morley completion to Brown for Cypress Creek's first touchdown. The extra point faile

Cypress Creek made it 16-0 when Andre Corbin took a pitch on a sweep right and found a 63-yard alley to the end sone less then six minutes into the third quarter. Warneweld's blek was true on the point after.

LONGWOOD - DeLand grounded Lyman's homecoming Friday night. using a 29-point second quarter and 397 rushing yards to smother the Greyhounda 49-21 in a 6A-District 4 contest at Lyman Field.

"They've got some mighty big folks up front." said Lyman head coach Larry Baker. "I don't care what they've done in other weeks. Tonight, they executed and performed extremely well."

Lyman (2-5, 1-4 6A-4) jumped out to a 14-6 first quarter lead as Tommy Dixon tossed a 9-yard touchdown pass to DeWayne Bell and Alvin Cummings ran for a 40-vard touchdown But DeLand (4-3, 3-3 6A-4) ran roughshod over Lyman in the second quarter. Fred Edwards scored two touchdowns, Tracey Andrews scored one, and Travia Robinson added another. Edwards finished the game with 144 yards, while Robinson had 112 yards and two touchdowns.

WINTER PARK - Defensive coordinators spend countless hours with their teams practicing goal-line stands in case they find themselves in a situation where the ball is on the goal line and the outcome of the game le at stake.

That practice paid off for the Lake Howell Silver Hawks Friday night as the Silver Hawk defense thwarted the Deltona Wolves on eight plays from the goal line in the fourth quarter of what would turn out to be a 13-6 Lake Howell victory in a 6A-District 4 contest at Richard Evans Field.

"I think that the whole defense was able to get into so many different places that they were able to stop everything Deltona tried," Lake Howell coach Mike Biaceglia said. "I just can't say enough about the defense. They really came through for us tonight."

After a scoreless first quarter. Deltona took the lead early in the second quarter on a 1-yard quarterback option up the middle by Jason Beck. Jason Roble added the extra point, and the Wolves led 7-0 with 8:47 left in the first half.

Lake Howell came back and tied □See Silver Hawks, Page 2B

A 40-yard touchdown run by Alvin Cummings (No. 5) helped the Lyman Greyhounds take a 14-7 lead over DeLand Friday. But the Buildogs came back to score 29 points in the second quarter on their way to a 49-21 romp.

Rams hang on for district win over Spruce Creek

From Staff Reports

PORT ORANGE - Lake Mary High School football coach Doug Peters said that winning, like losing, can be contagious. "What we need to do is put a couple wins back to back," said Peters after beating Lyman on Oct. 14. "We need to build on this win and get something going." This past Friday night, the Rams did just that, hanging on for a heart-stopping 25-22 win over the host Spruce Creek Hawks in a 6A District 4 contest at Spruce Creek High School. The win gives Lake Mary (3-4 overall, 3-3 in the district) a little momentum going into next Thursday night's contest with the undefeated and state-ranked Mainland Buccaneers. Ranked 10th in last week's Florida Sports Writers Association's Class 6A state poll, the Buccaneers handed Lake Brantley its first loss of the season, 35-26, last Friday in a showdown of undefeated teams.

Spruce Creek, which fell to 0-7 overall and 0-6 in the district, hosts Deltona in another 6A-District 4 contest next week. Staistically, the Rama were beaten everywhere but the scoreboard by Spruce Creek Friday night. Senior quarterback Tracy Holmes completed 11 of 19 passes for 191 yards and all three Spruce Creek touchdowns. John Thomas rushed 16 times for a game-high 72 yards to spearhead a ground attack that accumulated 152 yards.

It wasn't enough to beat Lake Mary, which got 119 yards passing from quarterback Tyson Hinshaw and collected 107 yards rushing. David Henkel gave the Rams the first lead of the night when he kicked a 38-yard field goal midway through the second period.

Spruce Creek came right back with a five-play. 80-yard drive capped by a 33-yard scoring strike from Holmes to Jaren Braun. Thomas rushed for the two-point coversion and an 8-3 Hawk lead.

Lake Mary managed to seize the lead back before haiftime as Recolon Jumpp scored on an 8-yard run with just under two minutes left in the second quarter. The pass for the two-point conversion was incomplete, sending the Rams into halftime up by one point, 9-8.

That advantage swelled to nine points in the third quarter as the Rama took the opening kickoff and mounted a 67-yard scoring drive that took over six minutes off the clock. Donnie Casey did the honors, rushing in from one yard. Hinshaw ran for the two-point conversion.

Spruce Creek got a break when B.J. Perez snared one of the teams' three interceptions early in the fourth quarter. Holmes quickly turned it into points, hitting Ryan Totka with a 21-yard scoring pass. The point after failed, leaving the - See Rems, Page 3D

Fishing is good . . . if you can find the fish

There is good and bad news for local freshwater anglers.

The good news is that fall is a great time to get in some of the year's best fishing. Bass. stripers, sunshine bass, speckled perch, catfish, and bream will all be very active. There will also be a lot less boat traffic as many anglers take to the woods for hunting season.

The down side is that the river is exceptionally high for this time of year, and all of these species are roaming hundreds of acres of previously dry land. With no clearly defined borders, these fish are free to raom wherever they choose, and there is no way to "pattern" them.

Usually, river fish will concentrate in deep bends, near sandbars and runoffs, and in sloughs. These are distinct holding areas, and are dependable for good fishing action. These patterns are now unreliable because these spots are submerged under several feet of borders which are fairly defined. and fish are contained somewhat to certain areas. Grassy points and submerged weed beds would be sure bets for some good bass fishing.

"new" water. Best bets in the river would be lakes such as Monroe, Poinsett, FISHING

Another option for local anglers is to fish the many lakes that dot this area. The lakes may be higher than normal, but the fish are are still limited in their movement to banks. Grassy vegetation and submerged weed beds are good lake structures that will always hold fish.

Huge shellcrackers and good bass are fairly abundant around the State Road 46 bridge. A little further upstream is a deep stretch of water that used to be the site of a railroad trestle. This spot has some giant catfish, nice bass, and a few stripers. Freelining live shiners is a deadly tactic in this spot.

You can have some great freshwater action this year if you plan your trip around the high water levels.

But the Patriots had the play covered, so Walton threw the ball to Alvester Sermon, who ran untouched down the sideline for 76 yards and a 21-12 lead.

Lake Brantley scored early in the fourth quarter, Ritenour capping a 12-play, 80 yard drive with a one-yard plunge. John Berardi's kick made the score

The group. Spiritual Re-massance Singers, was founded by Annetta Monroe and Patricia Trice in the summer of 1960 out of a concern that the rich legacy of African-American music in the choral genre was being neglected.

Inspired by such choral ensembles as the Fisk Jubilee Singers, the Hall Johnson Singers, the Hail Johnson Singers, and the Leonard de Paur Infantry Chorus, Monroe and Trice decided to form a choral ensemble that would perpetuate through performance the fine arrangements of African-American spirituals by Burleigh, Dawson, Work and others. They have been joined by a group of Tampa area musicians who are likewise dedicated to the research and dicated to the research and performance of these spirituals. Spoon collection grows to 148 over the years

By SUSAN WENNER Herald Correspondent

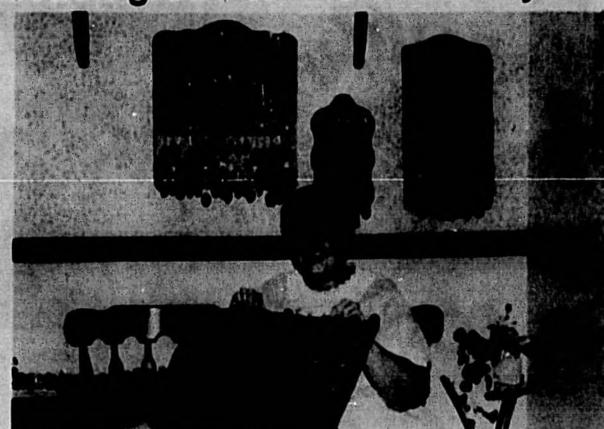

SANFORD - She was born with a silver spoon in her mouth may be the way some people refer to rich children but Jane West would love to add that one

West would love to add that one to her collection of spaces.

West actually began collecting china animals that her husband, Ralph or "Jack," as many loved ones call him, brought her back from the Navy. Her collection kept dwindling down to only a few after many moves. That was when her collection of spoons took root. "In 1972 my sons, Lenny, Jack and Riff thought I needed a new hobby," she said. needed a new hobby," she said.
"while two of my sons were on tour with their band. White Witch, they went to a pawn shop looking for band equipment. Riff told Jack he had found exactly what Mom needed to start her new collection, a spoon. That led to 148 more over the years." West displayed her many spoons from as far away as Ireland, a gift from her sister, to many finds from local yard sales. One spoon she was quite proud of was her Campbell's soup spoon. "I went to a yard sale one day and saw the Campbell's soup spoon," she said. "I asked the lady how much she wanted for the spoon and she said ten cents. She told me that it was her son's and he didn't want it any more and didn't care what she did with it. He was almost 50 years old now.

Four shelves of spoons line the walls in the West's home and every state in the union is represented. Another special spoon that West mentioned is one from the Bethesda Naval Hospital. "My husband got me the spoon from Bethesda," she said. "The thing that makes it so dear to me is he got it for me when I was having serious surgery and wasn't even expected to live. That spoon is dearest to my heart. For him to think of getting me that spoon, that was precious to me."

On a more humorous note. West laughed as she spoke of a spoon in her collection from Intercourse, Pa. "My nephew got were also considered a part of me one apoon from the the collection. me one spoon from the Pennsylvania Dutch area called Intercourse," she said. "He sent the spoon from there. It's a Mennonite place in Litatio it convenient to shop at your garage cale! Be sure there is actiquate parting space. Post signs with directions to parting areas. Make arrangements with neighbors.

arrangements with neighbors.

3. Make it easy to pay! Have plenty of change and a system for handing. Make sure one person is on duty at all times at a centralized location preferably with a calculator or existing mechine.

i. Provide prices. Do not make every person ask, "How much is this? Prices make for quick, effective sales or a good place for customers to start bargaining. I. Get an early start. Set up displays the evening before, if pocable.

6. Departmentation. Separate the inexpensive items from the more coefly areas. Group furniture, clothing, toys, lawn equipment and other items with similar merchandes.

7. Speciation. Establish one area for "Under $5", another for "Under $1". Consider having a batch of items that are "FREE with purchase of $3". Flomember the youngsters, tee. Encourage this with small, low-priced items that are appropriate for this purpose.

8. Time your cale carefully! Here it at a time when most people are at home and unconcerned with special events.

9. Combine your effecte! Incorporate your sale with a religible of the more veriety and greater impact.

10. Be appealifie! When advertising your sale in the newspaper, list individual items. Don't simply say, "severa things available." Each time you list an item, you are troodening the list of potential customers.

11. Be generous! If you have items left over, give them to a charitable organization. If you see that some items are not moving well during the sale, mark them down claring the last items. Flomember, the prime reason for holding the sale is to turn your unwanted items into cash!
