Dempsey Reveals His Idea Of How Promoters Should Stage Fistic Engagements

Recent Maneuvers Of Manassa Mauler Look To Be Work Of Smart Business Man; Schmeling To Fight For Jack

NEW YORK, Mar. 26.—(INS)—If he thinks a fight is worth no more than one million dollars, he will bid one million and no more. If Madison Square Garden thinks the same fight is worth one million, two dollars and fifty cents, Madison Square Garden can have this fight and also his very best wishes.

Undoubtedly there are one or two gentlemen in this boxing racket who are slightly off their rockers, as it were, but neither of them is Jack Dempsey, the boy producer, and John proved it today when he quoted the general idea expressed above, as his notion of how any promoter, with the sense of a reliable strand boy, should and must promote. Of course, he quoted the idea as presented only a free translation of the thought he expressed. What he actually said was that no promoter would give a million dollars for one million dollars' worth of fight and thirty dollars for any fight that might be worth more than thirty one.

"Too many promoters overplay their hands," said he, and no smarter word has passed his lips since that far off night in San Francisco when he looked Jack Kearns in the eye across a battered, discolored table and used a terse three-lettered word, meaning yes. This fellow Dempsey is nobody's chump.

He is, as a matter of fact, a smarter man as a promoter than he was as a fighter. He says that he didn't obligate himself to Ray Miller for the Mandell fight, except in the event that Ray beat McLarin last week, which Ray didn't. That was what you might call an un-dumb business, since Mandell-Miller probably wouldn't draw its own breath after what happened here in the McLarin fight. Dempsey was smart enough yesterday, too, to cover up by signing Max Schmeling for a June fight through the German's dismissed but still manager, Arthur Bulow. All Dempsey was doing here was giving himself a break, in case one was coming to him. It was for a fight such as this that he made his name.

They say that Dempsey has made a mistake in trying with Humbert J. Fugazy, but, if a mistake has been made, it was made by one of the cleverest attorneys in New York City and he made it strictly in Dempsey's interests. There is more to that deal than appears on the surface. They must have shown Dempsey and his lawyer something more convincing than the other side of a two cent stamp.

Anyhow, John feels that he has been seen in among the right people and a feeling that he has made the battle. He also approves of the use of horse sense in the matter of competitive bidding and that is the other half.

Chautauqua Will Return In 1930; Will Close Tonight

The warrant was sworn out, alleging that the Chautauqua management had failed to obtain a county and state license to operate here. A city license of $125 had been procured. The state license fee on road shows is $75 a year.

County Tax Collector John D. Jenkins announced the time that he was in possession of an opinion from the state attorney general, who had declared that chautauqs did not come within his definition of a road attraction and was not, therefore, subject to the license tax. Mr. Jenkins gave this opinion as his authority for not collecting the license fee.

The Chautauqua will come to a close tonight with a revue presented by John Ross Reed. An entertaining program with many scenic changes and colorful lighting effects, together with numerous changes in costumes, is promised by the management.

or another cry of fire, hundreds of the more sensible spectators, realizing the danger of the situation, gradually settled into their seats as a dozen officials yelled assurance from the ring that "everything is all right."

Meanwhile a riot call and fire alarms were sent in. The injured were taken out side doors as cautiously as possible so as not to further arouse the panicky throng.

James C. Mullen, who promoted the ill-fated match, was too depressed to discuss the affair. It was his fifth big indoor show of the season, all of which had been near "sell-outs."

Mullen took occasion to compliment his "lieutenants," whose coolness and prompt action wholly prevented what threatened to be one of the worst disasters in the city's history.

The negro fighter, young Jack Thompson, was perhaps the worst frightened person in the coliseum. ROOMINESS OF HUDSON COACH

Coach interiors are now built for beauty and comfort as well as utility. Hudson and Essex are featuring large fully padded seats. The right hand seat slides forward, even with a passenger seated, so as to allow free passage through the wide door to the rear seat.

Hudson And Essex Coaches Are New Styles In Bodies

DETROIT, Mich. Mar. 26.—In 1929 the year in which the coach type of body will come into its own as a comfortable and finely finished car model? There are important indications pointing that way.

Hudson-Exs has opened the trend with what its designers regard as marked improvements. Both Essex and Hudson coaches are much larger and roomier than ever before. Outside lines are pleasing and the interior atmosphere is one of beauty as well as utility. Upholstery and finish is of a standard comparable with that of the best cars in the line.

The divided front seats—a distinctive coach feature—are fully shaped and deeply padded all over. The rear, examining the cars finds them fine, comfortable individual chairs. An adjustment permits the driver to move his seat back or forth to the position most comfortable for him. So simple and easy is the mechanism that he can make this change as he sits in his seat.

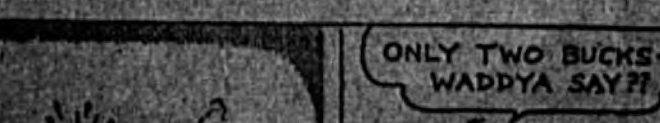

The right hand forward seat has a construction which permits the passenger to shift it forward several inches—thus he need not arise to permit other passengers to leave or reach the rear seat.

SEAT IN SENATE FOR COOLIDGE IS BEING RUMORED

Movement Is Already Under Way To Make Ex-Chief A Senator

By George R. Holmes
Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON, Mar. 26.—Senator Calvin Coolidge of Massachusetts, political Washington heard with unforgiving interest today that the former President is making no unkindly upon movement begun by some of his Massachusetts friends to send him to the United States Senate next year.

Should such a thing eventuate, Mr. Coolidge would be following the example set by another distinguished Bay State president, John Adams, who 100 years ago retired from the presidency and then returned to Washington as a member of Congress.

The political groundwork in Mr. Coolidge's case is a ready hand prepared, according to word reaching political circles here. It is in the hands of ex-Senator Win M. Butler, who managed the Coolidge campaign in 1924, and Frank W. Stearns, who throughout Mr. Coolidge's occupancy of the White House was his political shadow coming and going almost as a member of the family. Presently, this groundwork is being prepared with Mr. Coolidge's tacit consent, for if he did not regard the project with favor he could stop it with a word. Thus far there has been no such word.

The Senate seat in question is now occupied by Senator Frederick H. Gillet, who is approaching his 78th year, and who by the 1930 campaign would be getting close to 80. Senator Gillet is not expected to be a candidate to succeed himself.

However, there is another candidate in the picture in the person of the militant ex-Governor of Massachusetts, Alvin T. Fuller, who has just laid down the governorship at the age of 51. He is independently wealthy, and desirous to engage in further public service. He was a lieutenant of President Hoover's last week-end, and told friends here that he was inclined to run for the Senate next year.

Fuller is highly regarded by those anxious pre-convention days when ex-Senator Butler and Stearns were endeavoring to keep Massachusetts delegates from committing to any candidate in the hope that Mr. Coolidge might ultimately be elected—it was Fuller who is credited with swinging the state into the Hoover camp. The psychological effect of that was of very great benefit to the Hoover cause.

The ex-Governor is, in consequence, not so popular with those

TO THE TRUCKERS AND GROWERS OF SANFORD AND SEMINOLE COUNTY

I am systematically, from an engineering standpoint draining my tract of land which is west of and adjacent to Sanford, thus making available for development the last large tract of land in the Flowing Well District around Sanford. This will be the only scientifically and systematically, from an engineering standpoint, drained piece of land around Sanford.

It seems to be common knowledge among the farmers that due to the many years during which the lands in the old section have been used continuously in celery crops, disease is creeping in in the way of Pink Rot, Black Heart, Tyre Worm, etc., and it would seem that it is desirable to bring into cultivation new lands giving the old lands a rest for maybe one, two or three years, during which time other crops such as the various kind of bulbs may be grown to the advantage of the farmers as well as to the benefit of the land.

I am offering my lands at reasonable prices and on very reasonable terms to anyone who wishes to do so for development.

The Care Of Leathers

The grooming of leathers requires only a few minutes occasionally. Success lies in knowing what to do and how to do it.

There is no little satisfaction in the wearing of beautiful leather shoes with matching bags or belts which afford an opportunity to reveal one's exquisite taste in material and color.

Now that economy has become the smart byword in dressing with impeccable taste, judgment and fashion wisdom, care is requisite in keeping garments and accessories up to the mark of pristine freshness ever, and always.

Soft, luxurious shoes of suede, nearly all of which are made of calfskin, are one too familiar in the service of almost every woman BUT their fine nap sometimes mats down and develops spots with that distressing gray look where friction is given, as by an overbrush.

Many a fastidious creature has endeavored to remedy these temporary blemishes either by the vigorous use of a stiff wire brush—than which there is nothing more harmful to the nap—or by the application of a quick-and-easy colored powder.

Alas! The one is so disastrous and the other effects an equally disconcerting calamity by smearing one's light colored hose.

Wire brushes are of little avail, the fine wire cutting off the nap after a few treatments.

A bristle brush used with a rotary motion—not too vigorously—loosens the dirt particles.

Next an application, ever so gently, of a liquid suede dressing containing a little aniline dye of a shade within a tone or two of the leather color will touch up the shoe which should be dried in room temperature only, NEVER by quick heat!

The soft lustre of the nap may then be restored by stroking it carefully in one direction with a dry brush free from dust.

And there you are—your shoes a thing of joy to behold! Is this method not wiser than to leave suede shoes to the infrequent care of a dry cleaner who finds their condition often past restoration?

Miss Harriet Sherman, superintendent of the Florida State Board of Health was the luncheon guest of Mrs. Walter L. Morgan, 519 Sumner Avenue, on Tuesday.

Four Banks Carry $1,500,000 Deficit Of Campaign Fund

WASHINGTON, Mar. 27. (INS)—The Democratic national committee's loan deficit of $1,500,000 is distributed among four New York banks, it was disclosed today in a financial report of national treasurer James W. Gerard, made to the clerk of the house.

The committee owes: Bankers Trust Company, $800,000; Brooklyn Trust Company, $300,000; International Germanic Trust Company, $200,000; County Trust Company, $200,000.

In all previous reports the loans have been carried as made "through" the County Trust Company. National Chairman John J. Raskob announced last fall that the loans were negotiated with the County Trust but actually were made with other banks. He did not name the other institutions.

The total deficit of the Democratic national committee as given in the financial statement as of Feb. 29, is $1,525,672.32. In addition to the loans, the committee owed an estimated accrued interest of $15,000; $5,654.11 to the Bookwalter-Hall Greenhouse Printing Company of Indianapolis; $4,104.26 to the Postal Telegraph Company, $111.83 for mimeographing work and is liable for $12,000 for printing Governor Alfred E. Smith's campaign speeches, and $1,317.16 indebtedness of the New York Democratic Committee.

MILANE TODAY AND THURSDAY

SCENES: TORRENCE, JOHN OLDFIELD and MARY MOLAN "DESERT NIGHTS"

Probes Into Brawl At Boxing Show Are Started In Chicago

CHICAGO, Mar. 27. (INS)—With one victim dead, two others dying and 11 still in a serious condition, three major investigations into the riot and panic during the Dempsey-Thompson boxing show at the Coliseum Monday night, got under full swing today.

The investigations are being conducted by the Illinois Boxing Commission, the city council and James Mullin, promoter of the bout. The first to die of his injuries was Herman Lawfield, 38, who suffered a skull fracture and internal injuries when he was knocked to the concrete floor and trampled in the stampede for seats.

Albora Stroud, 24, a negro and John Mahoney, 34, are reported near death. Both suffered compound fractures of each leg and other injuries. Many of the other victims will be incapacitated for weeks. Mullin has offered a reward of $500 for information leading to the identity of the man who started the brawl in the balcony. Some of the principals was arrested.

The trouble was an incipient race riot, started by a fight between white and negro spectators in the balcony.

Training For Home

Beauty is no longer "its own excuse for being." Beauty will be wedded to the last word in comfort and utility when the New York State Federation of Women's Clubs opens its Home Making Centre in Grand Central Palace on March 7.

The home, in its three-fold aspect—physical, mental and spiritual—will be portrayed in lectures. The Centre of the New York State Federation of Women's Clubs will be a college, an exposition, a museum, a club, a lecture hall and a clinic and a professional all in one. It will occupy the entire tenth floor, and will be a permanent institution.

This new centre for the study of home making in all its aspects marks the realization of years of study and experience on the part of leaders of the State Federation. The plan has been evolved in order to help the girls and women whose education along these lines has not been adequately provided for in our school systems, as well as for the housewives themselves.

The visitor will not only find much of real interest to look at and study, but will have an opportunity to discuss with experts any problems having to do with home building. There will be no selling. Nothing will be permitted to come into the exhibit that has not passed a rigid test, supervised by an advisory board of experts.

The President of the State Federation, Mrs. Charles J. Reeder, and three past Presidents of the federation are among those included on the advisory board. Mrs. Charles E. Gregory will be educational director.

Mrs. S. C. Steinhart, who is managing director of the floor, has been Chairman of the division of household management of the federation for almost three years and is widely known throughout the State.

The morning hours will be given over to school and college classes, the afternoons to housewives, and the evenings to business and professional women. There will be a definite part in the program for men.

If you do not like the wild taste in rabbit stew, remove the ribs before stewing the rabbit.

Beating is the secret of good mashed potatoes. Beat with a wire whisk, then add the butter, salt and hot milk and beat with wooden spoon or silver fork until mixture is creamy; then keep it lightly in the dish. Never put or smooth it.

Unreported.

Once there was a Morgan who sailed the sunny seas of the West Indies and captured much booty from golden argosies. But surely he never won such fair booty as this Marilyn Morgan (no relationship), only 17 years old and fresh from the island of Trinidad: Marilyn's personality is such that without stage or screen experience she got a contract with Pathe, and is now a member of the Junior Stock Company, and studying hard to be a star.

Aroused Citizenry Demands Thorough Probe Of Dry Raid

Carbary declared he would back up the raiding officers, including Deputy Sheriff Roy Smith, who did the killing. In a later and less emotional statement, however, the prosecutor said he would present all the evidence to the grand jury and let that body come to its own decision.

Meanwhile, said Carbary, there will be no suits, neither of Smith, in connection with the killing, nor of De King, for resisting the raiders. The most vital question, is whether De King was acting within his rights when, with a pistol in each hand, he undertook to drive the raiders from his premises. They had a search warrant, but whether they displayed it is in dispute. Also two questions have arisen as to the warrant itself.

It was a John Doe warrant, issued by Magistrate J. Weber on the strength of an affidavit by Boyd Fairchild, a state's attorney's investigator. Fairchild described the purchase of one pint of liquor, Mar. 16.

Waiting for Daddy

Malcolm P. Hanson Jr., three-months-old son of the chief operator of the Byrd Antarctic Expedition, examining a portrait of his dad, whom he has not met as yet. Malcolm lives in Washington, D. C. His father was at Wellington, New Zealand, on Nov. 22, 1928. Malcolm the younger made his bow, and when he imparted his gladness to his hosts it was immediately decided to name a New Zealand town after him.

A "Stern" Likeness

Seeking a proper frame for his portrait, this ship worker found it in the shaft hole of one of the gigantic propellers of a new German liner. Four of these great seven-ton Turbinon bronze propellers will churn the waters to drive this latest monster of the seas, the Europa.

President Hoover wants a body in Paris who has the prestige and background of a judge to deal with them, ideally. Hoover will be frequently heard in Washington for this post. It has ways been regarded as an automatic plum and usually has to pay political obligation. The ambassadorship to Britain is regarded as the post in the American diplomatic service. The two names frequently heard in Washington for this post are Edwin Tenet Charles G. Dawes and Cary M. Robinson, the California banker, who is not only Mr. Hoover's closest adviser but also an economist of wide reputation.

INVESTIGATOR

NEWARK, N. J., Mar. 26 (INS)—The plane crash in which took 11 lives was caused by the failure of one engine in a report made today by Richard Aldworth, manager Newark airport.

The report covers 70 pages and includes considerable expert testimony. Lou Foote, the pilot of the ill-fated plane and the sole survivor in a critical condition, is in a hospital.

TRYING TASK FACE STIMULANT AT BEGINNING

(Continued From Page One) incident to changes at the end of France, and two were selected soon for Great Britain. New ambassadors to the diplomatic posts in the American service, Ambassador to London B. Houghton at St. James and Ambassador Myron T. Herrick at Paris, have both admitted their resignations, and it is the understanding that they are to be accepted.

Richard G. Gilson, now a counselor to Belgium, probably will be sent to Paris when the resignation of Herrick is accepted. He is familiar with the situation and background of the French government, and is a member of the American diplomatic service. The two names frequently heard in Washington for this post are Edwin Tenet Charles G. Dawes and Cary M. Robinson, the California banker, who is not only Mr. Hoover's closest adviser but also an economist of wide reputation.

Smart World Sails by the Mediterranean Route for the Italian Riviera and Lido

A colorful sight for the visitor to Rome. Parades of the famous Swiss Guards, the Pope's own body-guard, in the Vatican grounds. Their costumes were designed by Michel Angelo, the sculptor. Cuirass and helmet are of spotted, shining metal. Trousers and gaiters have tan, yellow and blue stripes.

Famous N.G.I. Liners Make Southern Route To The Continent Popular. This same friendly spirit is manifest on the magnificent liners of the Navigazione Generale Italiana. They are a bit of that artistic and sunny kind sailing like a silver thread to find America in the country that gave it Christopher Columbus.

Italy has become the new mecca for the pleasure seeker. Naturally, it always has been considered the treasure house for art in Europe. No one goes there without absorbing the beauty of Rome and Florence. Had the Italian Riviera and Venice Lido are now the fashionable meeting places of people well known in the artistic, social and political life on the Continent and America.

In the lagoons of Venice, the lovely island ruins of Lido offers everything in the way of amusement. There, 232 bathing cabins and starlingly striped sun umbrellas—along with the unforgettable customer—make an unforgettable world of color. It is here that the newest fads in bathing costumes are shown. The world watches—and then imitates at other beaches throughout the world.

The Colos at night, when the moon rises low over the rippling water, is a veritable fairyland where every mood and dance. The lights in the magnificent villas on the hill sparkle like stars—blue, white in the night there are tennis courts, paddles and water sports. With the new, progressive spirit

A Gorgeously Arrayed Seven-Year-Old Bride

Despite everything that the British Government is and has been doing for a century to discourage the custom of child marriages in India, the age-old custom is still alive, and in the remote places of the country the marriage of girls under the age of ten is still a commonplace. This photograph shows the marriage of a seven-year-old maid.

David Harum was no great hand at bragging, but he did concede he was a nag connoisseur. He also gave himself credit for being adept at barter and exchange. His only regret was that he was unborn when Richard III offered his kingdom for horse. Days would have made him throw in Canada and Australia to make it an even deal.

Zeppelin Heads Back

LONDON, Mar. 27. (INS)—Soaring homeward after having visited the Holy Land, the Graf Zeppelin passed over Athens, Greece, at 7:00 A. M. today according to an Kachanga Telegraph dispatch from that city.

When the zeppelin passed over Athens she had been in the air about 56 hours and had covered almost 3,000 miles without a landing.

Harum went back to horse trading in one leap and swapped a flat-footed nag for a draft horse that very afternoon. Proving that horses are a safe bet compared with second-hand cars.

Well, David Harum charged the used car episode to profit and experience. He was a game guy, but no three-flasher. In a statement to the press and his creditors, Dave said he was glad to see the hand motor fancies he made Simple Simon look like a Rhodes scholar.

Don't think we're knocking that engine. It could knock for itself. And the rest of the outfit was in good shape if the motor had the tires alone. That is a short biography of Harum's used car. More could be said in praise of its parts, but the best part of it all was that there when he got back. It was the could leave it and know it would be world's first and only burglar-proof car.
