Lake Mary keeps property tax low For the 8th year in a row, city maintains

one of the lowest rates in Seminole

By Michelle Jerla Managing Editor

LAKE MARY -- For the eighth consocutive year, Lake Mary residents will have the second lowest levy in Seminole County.

During Thursday's meeting, City Commission approved on first reading a millage rate of 3.7648 mills, which is lower than every city within Seminole County except for Wister Springs' mill-age rate of 3.5495 mills.

A mill is 1/1,000 of a dollar, and is defined as the millage needed to raise the same total dollars of Ad Valorem taxes as in FY 2000. As property values increase, a mill is worth more.

"We are proposing no increase in any fees, but do anticipate some possible adjustments in our garbage/recycling rate, as well as some new fees to be added related to development review services for which we currently do not charge," Lake Mary City Manager John Litton said.

The total General Fund budget for FY

2001 is $11.3 million, Litton said. Personnel costs, including salaries, insurance and other benefits make up about 70 percent of the fund.

General Fund revenues are projected to increase 9.9 percent. "This is not based solely on anticipated new residential units or commercial construction, but a realistic evaluation of trends which we have observed over the past several months," Litton said.

Lake Mary High School provides artists for mural By Arthur Zielinski Staft Writer

LAKE MARY — Art students from Lake Mary High School are helping the folks at Fox 35 launch Fox's new morning pro-gram, " Good Day Orlando."

According to art teacher, Karen Darville, Fox 35 contacted the school and asked if the students would be interested in dents would be interested in painting a mural on the side of the building facing 1-1. The carnas for the painting is a row of reflective glass win-dows lining the buildings bot-tom floor. Darville said the art students are working in a water based tempera paint. Rain will eventually wash away the col-ora, making the mural a tempo-rary advertisement. The station, Darville said, is hoping the painting will stay intact for around two works. The design was created by Darville and Ginny Miller, who also teaches art at Law Mary The only requirement by Rox 35 was the placement of the "Good Day Orlando" logo the center of the design.

Scouts to receive United Way funding

From Staff Reports

SANFORD - On their honor to do their best to help the Boy Scouts, officials with the Heart of Florida United Way came up with a compromise agreement on Thursday that will allow the Scouts to keep receiving as much as $300,000 in annual funds.

Heart of Florids United Way also said it would not interfere with the Boy Scouls' decision on leaders and administrators - thus allowing the Scouts to exclude gay scoutmasters while receiving United Way money.

The Scouts, however, must agree to accept every boy who wants to join even he turns out to be gay. Area scout officials said they are eager to work with United Way. Meanwhile, the Rev. John Book of Apopka is leading an effort to help the Boy Scouts

ORLANDO - Forty-two Tiger Woods wannabes will converge at Walt Disney World Resort on Nov. 11 for The Golf Channel's Drive, Chip & Putt Junior Golf Skills Competition national finals.

Emerging victorious from events involving an estimated 7,000 young people across the United States and Canada through the cable network's award-winning outreach program, the finalists will be flown to Orlando to compete at Disney's Magnolia Disney's Course.

"Hosting the finals at Disney is an ideal way to cap off our second suc-cessful season of Drive, Chip & Putt, said Mark Oldham, The Golf Channel's vice president of tournament sales and or business developnew business development, noting the program's tremendous growth in just two years. This year, Drive, Putt will visit 60 cities, doubling the number of events in 1999. So far in 2000, the competition has played host to more than 40 events in 21 states, the District of Columbia and Canada,

Football squads leap into district games

By Dean Smith SPORTS EDITOR

SANFORD - Just a week into the season and high school football teams are in a do-or-die situation.

While it is not actually that dire of a situation, especially after what Oviedo pulled off last year, a district loss always makes you play catch-up the rest of the way. The Lions lost their first three district contests in 1999, but finished the season with rallied to win its final six regular season games, three against district foes, to earn an at-large bid, which they rode into the third rounds of the playoffs. But that is a rare event and would not have happened had the Florida High School Activities Association not added an extra round to the playoffs.

Recently, Carey Ferrell purchased an old leather Seminole County Fire Department helmet,

"I paid a fellow $250 for it at a flea market," he said Wednesday. "We've got it in our window and several old firemen are asking about it. I tell them this one isn't for sale.

"That's a problem I have with Sanford items. I want to keep them for myself." he said. Inside the helmet is the name M.C. James, Engine 221, A Shift.

"I figure M.C. James was a lieutenant. There's one bugle on this one a nozzle - indicating he was a lieutenant," Ferrell said.

"You don't see items like this," Ferreil said. "When a fireman retires, he takes his helmet with him. The helmet is retired, also. Somehow, this one turned up in Lake County. Maybe the guy's wife left it."

Ferrell said he wanted to be sure the heimet was from Seminole County, Fla. and not from Seminole County in Oklahoma or in Georgia.

"One day, a fellow came in and said he knew or M.C. James. The helmet was from Seminole County, Fla.," Ferrell said.

Another recent purchase, Ferrell said, was a book that came out in 1970 and cost $4.50. Entrapped in a bidding war with a woman who lived nearby, Ferrell bought "Sanford As I knew It" for $183,

"Of course I paid too much, but I wanted the book," he said.

The author, Peter Schaal, used a number of old Sanford Herald newspapers to write about what was happening in Sanford from 1912 to 1935.

"I saw it advertised on eBay, Ferrell said. "It turns out the fellow selling has a shop right near us. Lemuel DeBose who owns the Junk Exchange." Ferrell said he was still searching for a book titled "Small Town South" that was written about Sanford residents of the 1940's. Ferrell said it was supposedly a fiction book but was about real people in Soutout,

"It caused quite a stir," Ferrell said. "Someone I know has the book and has written the real names next to the fictional ones

Among the finer works of art for sale at Arts and Ends are eight different paintings by the "Highwaymen," a recent dis-covery of Black landscape artists. Originally priced at $10 to $25, these paintings are now worth $1,500 and more. Ferrell said that the artists painted by night and took to the road by day up and down' Florida's east coast from Jacksonville to Miami. Sometimes they would set up their easels along roads or street corners to paint, drawing crowds who would watch them paint and buy at bargain prices. They were taught by A.E. "Beanie" Backus, a Ft. Pierce man who offered lessons to promising students at his Lincoln Park Academy. On Wednesday, Libby Ferrell also had something of sentimental value. She received a note from Steve Ratliff, a suc-cessful school board official, who recognized her name. She had been his teacher in grade and high school in Palatka. : "Some of the children 1

MATER NASCAR officials consider revamping points

system to add more competition

By Rea McLeroy LapbyLap

ear after year, NASCAR faces questions about Its points system. The driver with the most meewins doesn't win the points championship. A driver on a hot strock fails to make up much ground. Why aren't drivers rewarded more for winning races? For next senson, NASCAR officials are considering changing the system -- at least for the Winston Cup. But Kirk Triplett, NASCAR's director of operations, said the altered system might not be used in the isuson urand National and Craitsman Truck series. The Cup points system hasn't produced close, late-season championship races. This year, Bobby Labonte led the points race since April. His consis-tent performances — three wins, 13 top-five and 17 top-10 finishes — put Labonte in control early. Last year, Dale Jarrett grabled the lead in May and heid the contenders at bay. Technically, champion-ships haven't been clinched until the closing races, hut drivers have taken consortable leads into the final works of the season.

final weeks of the season. Buyer Wallies has you four races this season, a race posted 14 top-10 runs and led 1,439 laps, more than twice that of any other driver. But he is 397 points behind Labonte. The reason? Wallace has three finlahes of 30th or worse.

Wallace has won and lost under the current system. In 1993, he won 10 races but did not win a champi-onship. He won six races in 1989 and came away with the title.

"Just about the time I say it's not what I like, then I wish it was the way I like," Wallace said. "I've got a consistent year going with nu wins or not great runs like a couple of years ago, but now this year we've got a bunch of poles and wins and we're kind of wishing they had some more homus points for stuff like that. Bet, All in all, it's worked for many, many years, and i think it's fine the way it is."

NASCAR is concerned about the lack of drama in the points race. The potential for change is great, but finding the correct change is difficult.

Triplett said it's more than just a math puz-sie. While officials consider the options, they must account for how the drivers will react. He said the sanctioning body is not considering changing the way points are awarded for finish-ing each race or giving bonus points for winning poles.

"That's such a one-lap deal," Triplett said of ualifying. "We've run some numbers on qualithe state of the or seven poles in the outree of the season but sverages finishing 15th ... Qualifying is such a different case than the actual race."

NASCAR officials are looking at awarding bonus points during various segments of a race, such as the halfway point, Triplett said. Although officials have applied the proposed system to the past four or five scenons, the results might not mirror what actually would have happened. "The difficulty in that is you're applying bonuses to paper," Triplett said. "You don't know what the motivation to the driver would be. If a dri-When we say we're racing for points, we're racing to get the most points we can possibly get every POINTS BATTLES week," Jarrett said. "We're not raoing to lay back. We ver knows that he can get five bonus points for doing this, how do you know what he would do? You don't. So you're still taking a chance — a small one, but can't have the best car every week, so you get what The closest Winston Cup points battles since tinishes. you can out of it." While Triplett and his team of officials consider you're taking a chance. The one thing you'll never be you're taking a chince. The one thing you'n rever be able to re-create is the motivation factor." Would a driver stay on the track to get the points instead of pitting with the leaders? Would a driver be able to miss a race but lead the specified acgments and still be in the hunt for a championship? Triplett is concerned a driver could run less than a full schedule and still be in the title hunt. But is that-whet debugs areas? the options, he wonders about the factors he can't leads Bobby Allison by two points. Five races to go: 1985 — Bill Elliott leads Waltrip by 23 points. With six races to go: 1981 - Darrell Waltrip consider. Jarrett does, too. In the end, he doesn't believe it would make a dilference. in points. "It seems that everybody has a better idea, but Four races to go 1985 --- Waltrip lands Elliott by nobody has over tried any of these other things to 20 points: know what would happen," Jarrett said. "The best sound and the teams that are prepared and ready to go are still going to win no matter what point system you put in there." Three races to go: 1996 - Jeff Gordon leads what drivers want? Viagra for men, but what about us women? We're not dead yet! What can we do about vaginal dryness?

DEAR READER: Your question highlights two important issues

First, male impotence --- now called erectile dysfunction. thanks to Bob Dole. This condition, which is common in men over 60, results when blood is not contained in the erectile cylinders of the penis. Viagra alters this. Under the influence of the drug, blood is trapped in the penis, leading to erection. This beneficial consequence is usually welcome but, remember, men with heart problems or those taking nitroglycerine should avoid Viagra.

Second, female menopause. As women age, physiological changes occur. (I won't enumerate them all because you are more than familiar with them.) Two consequences of menopause are vaginal dryness

DEAR DR. GOTT: I often experience sharp pains behind my breastbone; they may spread into my left arm and jaw. I obtain some relief from antacids, and I avoid spicy foods. I am 43. Should I see a doctor? Is this an ulcer?

DEAR READER: It could be. Or you could simply be suffering from symptoms of stomach irritation (gastritis) or hiatal hernia with reflux. You should be examined by your family doctor who will probably order a GI X-ray series to check your upper alimentary tract. This test should show the cause of your discomfort. If the GI series is inconcluleads me to believe that your problem originates in the intestinal tract, rather than in the heart or lungs. As you probably know, however, angina (heart-muscle cramps) may masquerade as stomach pain. #### LOOKING FORWARD TO FREEDOM

DEAR LOOKING FOR-WARD: If your testimonial doesn't get the attention of parents, nothing will. I have been told that children in families of alcoholics can have a genetic predisposition to the disease themselves, and that many alcoholics report having that same feeling of "completion" that you described upon tasting their first drink - another reason why it's unwise to allow small children to develop a taste for alcohol.
