HOOVER BEGINS TRIP WEST TO GIVE ADDRESS

Special Train Leaves With President Who Will Deliver Talk In Ohio City Tonight

WASHINGTON, Oct. 15.—(A.P.)—A special train bearing President Hoover and party to Cleveland, where the chief executive will speak tonight, left Washington at 7:00 o'clock today. President and Mrs. Hoover arose early for the second tour of his campaign for re-election.

The capital's streets were virtually deserted as the President hurried to the station. The President's hand was still bandaged to protect the bruise and cuts received at the White House judicial reception Thursday night. It is believed this will prevent any handshaking on the trip.

Between dawn and dusk the President plans to make 10 rear platform appearances in swift succession while traveling across four states. He is expected to arrive in Cleveland a few minutes before time for his speech at 8:30 P. M. (Eastern Standard Time) and intends to start on his return trip almost immediately after concluding.

White House aides told newspapermen they were not at liberty to disclose the subjects upon which the Chief Executive will speak.

They said he was deep in work upon it, and probably would not complete the address until today.

Postmaster General Brown, who had arranged for the President's address in Ohio, said several White House aides probably would be on the train.

Senator Hiram W. Johnson, Pennsylvania, after a conference at the White House at which he said the speech was discussed, described it as a "bumbling." But he declined to discuss it further.

Twice during the day, the Chief Executive had his injured hand treated by Dr. Joe T. Boone, the White House physician.

It was bruised and cut Thursday night during a White House reception at which he shook hands with more than 10,000 people. More than 1,000 additional guests waited to be greeted when finally he asked to be excused, and retired.

During yesterday morning Dr. Boone issued the following statement:

"The President is in his normal good condition today. He followed his ordinary routine, commencing with exercise early this morning. He has been his custom since his inauguration. He is in excellent health and today is again in good condition and spirits.

"His hand is bruised and has several small cuts in the palm and between the fingers. The pain is black and blue. But the injury while painful was not serious."

GERMANY BALKS AT DISARMAMENT PLAN SUGGESTED

France, Britain, Italy Are In Accord With Four-Power Parley

LONDON, Oct. 15.—(A.P.)—Two days of negotiations between Premier Herriot and Prime Minister MacDonald resulted yesterday in a Franco-British agreement to hold a four-power emergency disarmament conference at Geneva to deal with Germany's demand for armistice equality.

But the Germans balked at this arrangement, and last night the crisis over word disarmament centered again in Berlin. Persons in touch with the negotiations here said American influence probably would be needed to smooth out this latest difficulty.

Italy immediately expressed her approval of the four power parley plan, Germany which previously had agreed to such a conference in London, with certain reservations, objected to a change of venue to Geneva on the ground that her statesmen would be re-entering an arms parley under League auspices without having been granted their claim to equality in armaments. It was this question of equality that caused Germany recently to withdraw from the world disarmament conference at Geneva.

Interment will be made at Evergreen Cemetery where members of the Seminoles Chapter Number Two Order of the Eastern Star, of which Mrs. Allen was a member, will conduct their services.

Home Loan Board Opens Twelve Banks

WASHINGTON, Oct. 15.—(A.P.)—The federal home loan board opened its 12 regional banks for business today with the announcement that "foreclosure of sound home mortgages should cease." "With an initial capitalization of $134,000,000," the board said, "12 banks spread over the entire country will tap the reservoir of more than $1,800,000,000 of potential home financing credit." The board added that operations of the new system were "designed to liquidate millions of dollars of frozen home mortgages and bring relief to harassed home owners."

STOCKS SURGE UP IN BUOYANT PRICE UPSWING

Extreme Gains In Numerous Leading Issues Range From 2 To Eight Dollars

NEW YORK, Oct. 15.—(A.P.)—The stock market surged up in one of the most buoyant recoveries of the year yesterday as bears appeared to have sold themselves into a trap, and struggled to extricate themselves.

Extreme gains in many leading issues ranged from 2 to more than 8 a share, and although there was some recession in leading issues generally closed with net gains of 1 to more than 7. The upward swing brought average price levels back to the neighborhood of last year's closing.

The strength of stocks spread to other security and commodity markets. The bond market registered substantial gains and several principal staples, including cotton, wheat, hides and rubber closed moderately higher.

Cotton, helped by a more favorable than expected domestic consumption report for September, pushed up about 1 1/2 a cent, but its gains were reduced to only 30 to 50 cents a bale later. The December delivery finishing at 6.47 cents a pound, after touching 6.63.

The census bureau reported domestic consumption for last month at 491,665 bales, an increase of 27,320 bales over September of 1931.

Wheat futures at Chicago pushed up about two cents a bushel at one time, but at the close of the market, these advances had been reduced to 3/4 to 1 1/2 cents. Corn moved narrowly, closing virtually unchanged.

The vigor of the advance in shares was surprising to Wall Street and business explained it as an evidently reflecting completion of a recent phase of liquidation which left shorts in a precarious position. The turnover in the stock exchange amounted to only 2,050,710 shares.

American telephone, in which there was understood to have been a large short interest, was a buoyant feature, rising $6.02 to $108. Union Pacific was at $108. Union Pacific was at $108. Union Pacific was at $108.

REPUBLICAN CALLS HOWEY INGRATE AND SCHEMER IN SPEECH

ORLANDO, Oct. 15.—(A.P.)—A bombshell was tossed into the camp of the Orange county Republicans last night when Malcolm B. Street, chairman of the Orange County Republican executive committee in a radio address over station WDBO charged that W. J. Howey, Republican candidate for governor, had "double crossed the party and that he was taking under himself campaign funds under false pretenses." He called Howey "no Republican" and withdrew his support of him.

Mr. Street charged that Howey "had twice betrayed the Republican party that had twice honored him; that he was no way fitted for the office that he sought; and said that "he almost shuddered to think that in these days when people are more than ever demanding men of high purpose in public office, of the responsibility of our government being dominated by the tactics of a high pressure salesman, a schemer and an ingrate."

The speaker charged that "Howey's cheap politics and intervention into the media legislation that both Bryan Owen was handling in Washington disgusted Washington officials and made a mess of the whole affair."

He said that contrary to Howey's boast that he was not caught in the collapse of the Florida Trust and Light Co. in its Miami boom and his contention that business was still successfully doing business in Florida, that "the only thing that was successful was the collection of campaign funds, and that he was doing it with the same high pressure methods that characterized his sales of groves."

Race Between 2 Engines Of Civil War Fame Being Planned By Two Mayors

ATLANTA, Oct. 15.—(A.P.)—The mayor of Chattanooga said to the mayor of Atlanta that it's time for another race between the South's hallowed locomotives—the shiny, proud "General" and the somber "Texas" which outran the "General" and saved Georgia for the Confederacy.

And the mayor of Atlanta has agreed to re-construction of a railroad drama which began on a blustery rainy day at Big Shanty, Ga., in 1862, and which still is running in song and story.

The General, a chunky 4-6-0 engine that was stolen by Union spies, is at Chattanooga and Mayor Ed Bass, of that city, challenged Mayor James L. Key, of Atlanta, where the Texas is resting to death in the darkens of a basement, to another race between the old wood burners.

Key accepted yesterday and suggested the show be a replica of the actual race. Approval of the Georgia Public Service Commission will be asked and the race will be run over the state owned W. and A. railroad—the line that Sherman followed when he marched through Georgia. The tracks have been leased to the Nashville, Chattanooga and St. Louis railroad which owns the General and keeps it fit. The Texas is not in training for a race, but Key says the show will enable them to recondition the engine.

Key's idea is that the whole drama be reenacted. It would call for a lot of preparation, but he thinks the result would be worth the trouble. The General, under management of Conductor Fuller would pull into Big Shanty where the crew would leave it on a sidetrack. (Continued on Page Three)

HIRAM JOHNSON WONT SUPPORT HERBERT HOOVER

Criticizes President For Being Too Conservative In Office

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 15.—(A.P.)—A statement saying "I cannot and will not support Mr. Hoover," was issued yesterday by Senator Hiram W. Johnson, California Progressive Republican in reply to representatives of 70 southern California newspapers who had asked him for a public declaration in favor of the national and state Republican tickets.

Johnson, whose criticism of the administration—recently brought words of praise from Franklin D. Roosevelt, Democratic presidential nominee, asserted the President had "justly earned the title of ultra-conservative" which he (Johnson) was a Progressive Republican "elected by men and women of all shades of political opinion."

The California senator asserted the difference between the two parties of the array in a hundred years of the existing national administration. He described the Progressive as believing the government belongs to all the people "not to a favored or privileged few."

"The standard," said Johnson, "paying lip service to common humanity makes a mock of his words, by his court of special interests and his subservience to special interests, and his inactivity, as in the instances of the power trust and the sale of foreign securities to trusting American investors by international bankers, to the ruthless exploitation of our people."

"I would not taint my record nor stultify myself now by abandoning the principles for which I have battled unceasingly during my career. . . . The Republican Party is not at stake in this campaign. It is only the ambition of one man who but a little more than a decade ago did not know which was his party, and who before that had no American party at all."

GREECE IS ASKED BY U. S. LEGATION TO DETAIN INSULL

ATHENS, Oct. 15.—(A.P.)—The United States legation today requested the Greek government to detain Samuel Insull and seize his passport. This afternoon, however, the Greek authorities had no reply to his request.

Retreating his refusal to detain Insull, the Greek minister in Washington, in a letter to the American consul yesterday, that he would not be forced "into a camp which he would rather stay anywhere out of."

He said he was "very much surprised" at the American state department's attempt to take up the Insull case, an action he interpreted as a violation of his citizenship.

The former power magnate had received a notice at his hotel, the Petit Palace, in his name, Samuel Insull, who is expected today to return to the United States.

The Greek minister said he would be doing the best he could, and so he had to know what he would be doing the next few days.

"Sir," the minister wrote to the American consul, "I was very much surprised at your letter of Thursday informing me that the state department had instructed you to take up my passport."

"It seems they do not know in Washington that my passport is valid until February, 1934, and that by its own city laws stay out of American and city country I choose."

"Since the passport is issued by the country of which I am a citizen, its withdrawal is impossible especially while I am traveling through foreign countries."

WINTH FERRY, Fla.—Miss Nellie Moore moved to new quarters at 116 New England Avenue.

Pink Boll Worm Found In Florida Cotton By Government Inspectors

ATLANTA, Oct. 15.—(A.P.)—The Georgia Department of Agriculture said today that the pink boll worm has been found in Florida and asked the Federal Department of Agriculture to call a meeting "to determine the advisability of taking steps to prevent infestation in Georgia from the invaded pest."

The request was made by Eugene Talmadge, commissioner of agriculture, in a letter to Arthur M. Hyde, federal commissioner. Talmadge said on Oct. 1 federal inspectors found one pupa in gin trash at High Springs and a week later one larva was found in gin trash at Lake City. "Only three or four days ago," said Talmadge "federal authorities found a cotton field 10 miles north of High Springs in Columbia county, which adjoins Georgia, infested by approximately 10 larvae and four pupae."

GAINESVILLE, Oct. 15.—(A.P.)—Dr. William Newell, head of the state plant board, said the board is aware that the federal inspectors found a pink boll worm infestation but no announcement was made because the matter is entirely in the hands of the federal government. He said the federal authorities would evaluate the pest and the state board will cooperate.

Newell said the method of eradication used by federal authorities caused no "inconvenience" to farmers and no business losses would occur. He said they could go on raising cotton as usual except for local measures to eradicate the pest. He said he will oppose any quarantine if suggested. Florida raises less cotton than any southern state, 10 West Florida counties producing almost the entire crop.

GARNER RAPS HANDLING OF U. S. IN CRISIS

Declares Need Of Nation Is Balancing Of Budget By Careful Use Of Economy

NEW YORK, Oct. 15.—(A.P.)—Replying to Republican attacks, Speaker John N. Garner last night charged the Hoover administration with concealing the true financial condition of the country during the crisis and declared the greatest need of the United States is a "budget balanced by careful economy and scientific revenue."

"We have at this moment every element to permit prosperity except one," the Democratic speaker declared in a national radio address from New York.

"That one thing is a balance in our credit structure. To pay mind the most needful thing is to put our financial house in order. I want to see our budget balanced by careful economy and scientific revenue."

"I say the amount that is done money will flow here from all the world and from all domestic sources, seeking safety and employment."

The speaker said that during the recent budget balancing efforts, the record shows that the administration was either hopelessly at sea as to the actual treasury situation for two years or else deliberately concealing the true state of affairs.

"The aspect most disturbing to American credit was that the government had set in concealment and inaction for two years and had allowed the world to believe that its finances were sound."

Declaring that in his opinion it is "the administration's mistake, not the continued uncertain condition of the veteran Texas congressman said:

"Now I submit that the record shows a Democratic Congress determined and willing to go the limit for a balanced budget. It shows that the purpose has been frustrated by the same methods that this administration has practiced for three consecutive years."

"The budget is not balanced. The whole job must be done over."

The speaker's address was sponsored by Democratic leaders as his first major political statement of the campaign.

It was devoted almost entirely to the activities of the Congress.

The speaker set out the Congress' emergency program in three parts: the balancing of the budget, the "purely financial measures to relieve unemployment and assure against business misery."

"The cold print of the record," Speaker Garner said, "shows that on the very heart of the whole program—the balanced budget the Democratic Congress did all that it was possible to do, and that the Republican administration is trying their action by supplying misleading statements."

In the fight for the balanced budget, Garner added, the Republican administration did not raise a finger to help.

LANDIS WILL ADDRESS DEMOCRATS TONIGHT

Recent efforts of the Seminoles County League of Young Democrats led to the belief that there will be a large audience in the Court House tonight at 8:00 o'clock when Attorney General Cary D. Landis, of Tallahassee and Deland delivers an address in behalf of the entire Democratic ticket.

Mr. Landis came to Sanford from Miami and other South Florida points where he has been speaking in the interests of the ticket for several days. He is en route to Deland and will be met here by several residents of that city who are interested in his address. The meeting is sponsored by the Seminoles County League of Young Democrats.

It was also announced by the League that P. D. Gold, former mayor of Deland, will speak in the Altamonte Springs Community House next Tuesday night at 8:00 o'clock in the interests of the entire ticket.

Maillefert Death Likened To Acts Of Spanish Inquisition

Picture Of Horror Is Painted By Prosecution In Asking For Penalty For Guards

JACKSONVILLE, Oct. 15.—(A.P.)—Describing the punishment meted out to Arthur Maillefert as more cruel than the Spanish Inquisition, Charles M. Durance state's attorney, today painted a picture of horror to the jury trying two former Sunbeam guards for the murder.

The defendants are George W. Courson and Solomon Higginbotham. The prosecutor told the jury he would never become part of the "defense of this penal institution of despotism. Because he wouldn't tell where some back saws were he was unmercifully beaten and because he wouldn't take a pint of castor oil they put him in that barrel and then a sweat box, the only legal place for corporal punishment at that camp, and God knows that's had enough."

Pointing outside the window to the downpour of rain Durance declared "Gentlemen, it must have been on just such a day as this that Arthur Maillefert died in that barrel weighing 80 pounds on his naked body."

Several old ladies in the courtroom including Maillefert's mother wept visibly as Durance waved a chain before the jury and described how "they must have choked to death after Higginbotham went to the sweat box and tightened it up another link. They played with the boy like a cat with a mouse, like wolves around sheep until at the end of that chain he dangled in death. This boy was killed as the indictment charges at the hands of Courson and Higginbotham, hanged by a chain. You gentlemen can say the State of Florida will not be a party to such carnage, such depravity as this."

ROOSEVELT WILL REVEAL POSITION ON BONUS ISSUE

Plans Quiet Week-End In Preparation For Tour Of Southland

ALBANY, N. Y., Oct. 15.—(A.P.)—Franklin D. Roosevelt turned last night toward his beach home for a quiet week-end and in preparation for a tour of the Mid-West, border and Southern states.

Thus far the Democratic presidential candidate has not touched upon the bonus in any of his campaign speeches and has declined to discuss it in his press conferences, but friends of the governor believe he will make up his mind to speak on it before the campaign is over.

A letter to Thomas H. Delker, editor of a Tammington, N. J., paper, from the governor, made public yesterday, said he would announce his position in the near future.

In response to the editor's question on Governor Roosevelt's stand on the bonus question, the letter quote:

"I expect to make known my views on the question of veterans' compensation in the near future. I believe no one could have greater admiration and affection for our ex-service men than I have, and I deeply appreciate their service to their country. Coming in close contact with them as I did in my duties as assistant secretary of the navy, I developed an interest in them which has never dimmed. You may be sure that I was deeply distressed by the unfortunate situation relative to the veterans at Washington."

The letter predicts among the governor's promises that he is only awaiting the time and place to expound his views and the forth coming trip may provide the opportunity. It will take him through Indianapolis, headquarters of the American Legion.

Governor Roosevelt learned without express that Senator Hiram Johnson of California, would not support the G. D. P. in the campaign. On his recent western tour the Democratic nominee paid high praise to Johnson when he visited the California's native city of Sacramento.

Two Injured Men In Auto Collision Progressing Well

The condition of C. S. Bexley, of Jacksonville, who received a fractured skull during a collision between two automobiles at Eleventh Street and Magnolia Avenue late yesterday afternoon was reported as "satisfactory" at the Fernand-Loughton Memorial Hospital this morning.

P. Bayard Smith, local restorer, who was driving one of the wrecked automobiles, is at his home suffering with a broken collar bone and several cuts and bruises.

Mr. Bexley, who was being shown about the city yesterday by Mr. Smith, was riding in the front seat of the Smith Dodge sedan in the middle of the street intersection a Bank owned by Dr. Hamilton Hull, president of Rollins College, at Winter Park and driven by Miss Clara Adolf, struck the Dodge broadside, turning it on its side and throwing it against a telephone pole.

The Dodge was demolished as both Mr. Smith and Mr. Bexley were pulled from the wreckage and taken to the hospital. The Buick's front was caved in and slight damage done to its motor. Except for a small cut on Dr. Hull's left leg, none of the other occupants of the Buick, enroute to the Rollins-Seminole high school football game, was injured.

Acting Chief of Police C. H. Shaffer this morning said that the case will probably be tried in Police Court if and when Mr. Bexley and Mr. Smith are able to appear. There are no charges lodged against either driver, he added.

River Association Stages Meeting At Flagler Beach

Florida as the oldest settled point in all North America was pictured by Dr. E. C. Matin, of Panama during his address on "The Historical and Archaeological Aspects of Florida," delivered before members of the St. Johns River Improvement Association meeting at the Flagler Beach Hotel yesterday.

Dr. Matin, who has assisted in many investigations into the historical data surrounding Florida, said that recent excavations in the Florida keys had resulted in the unearthing of several ancient buildings and evidences of a forgotten race of people. He declared that an announcement as to the significance of the discoveries will be made within the near future, and he said that in his opinion there was ample proof to indicate that Florida was settled before any other North American city or state.

Harty Jackson, of St. Augustine, spoke in the interests of the Association's plan of asking the Legislature to divert two cents of the gasoline tax toward the maintenance of river and harbor improvement in Florida. The plan is to use two cents of all moneys collected for gasoline and oil sold to boat owners.

Announcement was made that C. E. G. Billings, New York multimillionaire, who cruised down the St. Johns this week in his ornate $600,000 houseboat "Old River," had listened with interest to plans to construct a St. Johns-Indian River canal, and that he had not only joined the Association, but promised his assistance in any plans to build the canal.

Seminole County entered its first women members of the Association when it was announced that Mrs. J. H. Pappworth, Mrs. W. J. Thigpen and Mrs. Margaret Barnes had taken membership.

Those present from Seminole County included Mr. and Mrs. M. M. Pappworth, Mr. and Mrs. Karl Lehmann, Mr. and Mrs. W. J. Thigpen, Mrs. Margaret Barnes, Mr. and Mrs. S. P. Haines, and Mr. and Mrs. L. D. Haines, of Altamonte Springs.

CHILDHOOD

A slow and fiery bird, the sun flew upward, and the dark was done. A bronze-winged lincet stretched his throat. Into a long and tightened note, and morning shook with myriad sound: A silver cricket; three crows bound. Toward upper woods; wild bees in clover; And flinging a swift-winged shadow over. The grass, a meadow-lark who fell. Into her hidden nest. The spell of sun lay wide upon the hill; I fan beneath the light until laughter rose within my heart. And pushed its fragile walls apart!

Summer, like a furious tide, Broke upon the mountainside, And, lifted in a blossoming tree, Swept upward from the scumy loam; Stancing with glad and stretched hands, I cried to all the golden lands, Beholding beauty with such faith As will outlast the touch of death, Beholding without doubt or tears The burning summers of my years, Knowing such happiness and truth As will not come to me again. By Frances Frost

An enemy is a person who used to be your friend before you lent him money. If insult remains in Greece so that the charges against him cannot be served, a friend is said to be carefully insulated!

It's a pretty sorry mall these days which doesn't include some practical suggestion on how to make your business profitable.

This is the time to advertise and let people know that you have survived the depression and are ready to do business whenever they are.

And then there was the fellow who wanted to know if "The Forgotten Man" in the Sanford Herald's honor roll was Mayor Jimmy Walker.

At Smith, the reports indicate, will make six speeches for Franklin Roosevelt, but so far as we have been able to learn none of these speeches will be made in the South.

Those who have heard Gov. Russell and Senator George on their Florida tour, say both of them are convincing speakers, but talking to Floridians about Franklin Roosevelt is almost like arguing with yourself.

And when the convict guard was put on the stand to testify in the Mallefert case, he shed bitter tears, declaring "I didn't do anything to him I wouldn't have anyone do to me." And it begins to look as if he might have that done to him yet.

The Home Loan Bank of the fourth district, comprising the states of Maryland, Virginia, North Carolina, South Carolina, Georgia, Florida and Alabama, was expected to open today. But don't rush right down Monday morning and try to discount your mortgage. It may take several days to get the red tape unwound.

The Literary Digest poll, famed for its accuracy in forecasting elections, gives Hoover 115,000, Roosevelt 110,549. It would be all right as a revolution for Pennsylvania to go Democratic, or Mississippi to go Republican. And yet there are the figures and the Digest never errs by more than ten percent.

Fake Salesmen

With the advent of fall and the winter season just around the corner, the lines have not only arrived for tourists and the hobo army of hitch-hikers, to whom we referred a few days ago, but also for an even far more dangerous and undesirable class of people who may be best classified under such heads as itinerant peddlers, gold brick artists, wire tappers, racetrack touts, confidence men, and schemers of all kinds. It is unfortunate that the tourists who are always so welcome in this state and who provide the basis for so large a part of its business enterprises, should unwillingly be accompanied by so many crooks and near-crooks who prey upon them as well as the citizens of Florida.

Nevertheless, it is a fact. Some of them are already beginning to arrive. Before the winter is over every large city in the United States will have sent its full quota of underworld characters to some section of Florida to investigate the "pickings". A secret service man of national reputation stated last winter that he had seen on the streets of one of our cities at one time or another every prominent crook in the country. Unfortunately it takes a secret service man, or a detective to spot one of these fellows. To the average citizen he looks very much like anyone else. He is well dressed; has good manners, and might easily be mistaken for a tourist anywhere. And yet in the next instant he may be rifling your pockets.

Those of us in Sanford are more concerned with the class which comes in the category of near-crooks. Ordinarily the big-shots, the bandits, the racketeers, play only the larger cities where the wealthier tourists congregate and the stakes are higher. But many of the smaller towns of Florida are frequently over-run during the winter months by itinerant peddlers, "expert" promoters, fake salesmen, and schemers of all kinds. They usually have something in the nature of a gold brick to sell, although gold bricks themselves have long since gone out of style. But under whatever guise it may be presented, nine times out of ten the agent gets it all and the local citizen gets nothing.

Perhaps because of the depression, the number of this class of visitors has been constantly increasing. There will undoubtedly be more than ever this winter. Also because more people are going into this kind of work, and competition is getting keener, it is becoming increasingly difficult to put your finger on the "catch" in the scheme. Usually it is presented in such a way that it looks perfectly good, and analyze it as thoroughly as you can, you are pretty apt to overlook the weak spot. But you can rest assured there is one.

Before investing in stocks or bonds, before buying anything from strange salesmen, before going into any kind of promotion scheme, it is a mighty good idea to investigate thoroughly. And if still in doubt, communicate with the Chamber of Commerce, the bank, or this newspaper.

Railroad Credit

The recent report of the Reconstruction Finance Corporation revealing that of the $3,800,000,000 fund set up by Congress for loans to revive business, some $1,182,734,958 has already been lent to 513,231 borrowers, and $150,890,897 has already been repaid. Most of the loans, or over $760,000,000 went to banks, but nearly $250,000,000 has been lent to some forty-nine railroads, giving rise to question of railroad credit and of whether these loans will ever be repaid. E. G. Buckland, president of the Railroad Credit Corporation recently declared the credit of the railroads as a whole to be unimpaired and cited the following illustrations showing them to be among the country's safest investments:

"During the period when the government operated the railroads, from January 1, 1918, to March 1, 1920, and in the years succeeding government operation, the United States loaned to the railroads almost $1,116,000,000. Of this amount, the railroads have already repaid to the government almost $1,077,000,000, leaving a balance outstanding of a little over $39,000,000. In addition, they paid 6 per cent interest upon the principal sums or nearly $181,000,000. The money which the government loaned the railroads cost it about 4 per cent during this period and as it received 6 per cent from the railroads, one-third of the interest received was profit amounting to a little more than $60,000,000 so that even if the government should not receive any further payments on the $39,000,000 still owed, it has made already a cash profit of nearly $21,000,000, added to which will be so much of the $39,000,000 as yet may be repaid.

"Can the government report or predict similar profits from any like dealings with, or loans made to, reclamation projects, agriculture, ship building, or even the Panama Canal? The integrity of purpose which has characterized the discharge of these obligations to the government may safely be relied upon to discharge the loans which are being currently made by the Reconstruction Finance Corporation in behalf of the government, to say nothing of the loans made by the Railroad Credit Corporation from a fund to which the railroads themselves have contributed.

"The relations of the railroads to the investors in their securities bear similar witness to their integrity and to the soundness of the investments. The total bonds issued by all of the railroads represent less than half the value of the railroads as fixed by the Interstate Commerce Commission in 1920, plus the actual cash invested in them since. In fact, the total par value of railroad indebtedness, plus the total par value of railroad stocks, is only 78 per cent of the value found by the commission. This should put an end to the claims from time to time that the securities of the railroads represent inflated value of their property and that the stock of the railroads is largely watered.

"In the development of the United States the builders and operators of the railroads have had so great a part that they may be regarded as the chief contributing cause. It is not too much to say that the social and economic solidarity of this country and its military impregnability are due in an important degree to its railroads. In an even more important degree are they present necessities to its industrial progress. If the railroads should go out of business the United States would go out of business with them. While the railroads could carry the entire commerce of the country, all other transportation agencies combined could carry only a small part of the reduced traffic now moving over the railroads."

SANFORD FORUM

Editor The Sanford Herald:

In The Sanford Herald there appeared recently a communication relative to the new railroad men's association recently organized at Tampa with a goal for securing legislation to curtail the activities of motor trucks. Their conceptions are good from their own standpoint, because if they succeed the railroad would be active in gaining more freight traffic temporarily and, therefore, a job will be created or the railroad employee. Also the railroad officials, having disposed of their competitors, naturally will ask for an increase in the freight rates.

It is well to understand that the railroad men's association took form—not by their own initiative, but by the railroad officials who instigated it as part of their propaganda in getting back their lost freight. There are two causes given by the said association. First, they frankly admit—to promote the railroad's activities, creating more traffic. Second, they are feinting protection of the taxpayer's interests by keeping the trucks from ruining the public highways.

Here we may rightfully question the railroad workers how much in taxes they are paying to the state, county and city treasury—because a very small percentage own property; therefore, the taxes they pay amount to no more than a drop of water in the ocean in comparison with that from the farms and other businesses, including trucks. They are assuming the protection of the public highways but the real truth lies under the mask, for they are creating highly paying jobs for themselves, regardless of the welfare of the public interests. The railroad employees are the highest paid laborers doing less work in comparison with the farm laborers who have longer hours and whose work is harder.

In regard to trucks, they are at the present time the only salvation for the farmers; and in the second place, for the business of the public at large—otherwise, the railroad men in their selfishness would so increase the freight rates that the producers would have to curtail their shipments, which in turn would increase the present depression. So far we have nothing to say except to heartily congratulate them for their highly developed inspiration. Also, I may question the businessmen who own trucks—what will they do? They are paying taxes on the real estate they own; also paying taxes in their business and the trucks they have bought to use in connection with same.

Will the growers in general silently submit themselves to those railroad men who are non-taxpayers, or will they wait up in time to react before it is too late? Will they go on record as protesting against those who are responsible for partly aggravating the present depression? Will they tell them that there is an eight per cent and no more? That they have abused the poor golden goose and began his speech after he had seen his assistant arrested and taken to the police station. Henry F. Cochems seized the man and held him until the police came up. A mob surged around the prisoner who apparently is mentally upset on the subject of Roosevelt's running for another term as President. The man, who is of small stature, admitted firing the shot and said that "any man looking for a third term ought to be shot."

"Buy the advertised brand" seems to have become a national slogan. But after all the public—the great American public—has found through years of experience that an advertised product is the safest bet. Doesn't it stand to reason that the manufacturer would not spend thousands of dollars annually for advertising purposes if he were not trying to build "repeat" orders or sales? Of course he would not. Locally the most successful and progressive business people advertise. Some cannot afford to spend very much toward advertising, nevertheless they are doing their part to convince you that they want your trade. Patronize them.

Race Between Two Historical Engines Is Being Planned

That was the scene on that chilly dawn in 1862 when the race was run. A daring group of men known as Andrew's raiders were on the train. They were federal spies. When Fuller's crew and passengers dashed for the tavern they measured their chances to steal the train, race it from Lig Shanty to Chattanooga and ruin the line by burning bridges and twisting rails. They had told curious persons they were en route to Tennessee to join the Confederate army so no one paid them heed as they left the coaches except perhaps to wonder why they gambled with their health by strolling through the rain. They never realized the men were committing suicide.

One group casually uncoupled most of the cars. Confederate soldiers didn't notice them. Andrews jumped aboard the General's cab eased back the throttle and they were away before Big Shanty realized what had happened.

Fuller caught the grave import of the move. The General with his Union crew could wreck the W and A railroad and break the back of the Confederacy in the South-east. He jumped on a hand car and followed until a twisted rail upset him. Then he ran for miles until he found a freight engine on a siding. He tried to send word to the Confederates in Chattanooga, but the wires had been cut. He pulled the old freight in reverse and charged away after the fleeing General.

Many miles north he saw the Texas panting on a siding and leaped to her cab. A crowd gathered. He shouted the story and asked for volunteers. His engine was swarmed with men. The Texas was facing south and Fuller had to run in reverse.

He gave the Texas all the steam she would take and near Ringgold they caught sight of the General. The men screamed a reb yell that could be heard above the whirring of the Texas. It was a yell that started low in the throat and reached a crescendo of shrieks which made the blood churn. The cry was to sound when Porter cut his way through Blue lines in Tennessee. It was to echo across Pennsylvania when Pickett charged at Gettysburg. It was the famous cry of men who died of famine at Vicksburg. But never since has the battle cry of a nation been sounded from the cowcatcher of a swaying locomotive.

The spies abandoned their train near Ringgold. They had burned bridges but the Texas crossed through flames. They had set burning cars riding down grades to stop Fuller, but he made sidings in time to avert collision. They last gesture was to throw the General in reverse and send it back to smash the Texas. But even that failed because Fuller also reversed his train and took the blow of the coupling with ease. The Yankees fled into the woods. The Confederates captured them. Several were lined against a wall and died as spies. They expected it.

At Des Moines, it was said that Democrats controlled the policy of both House and Senate. Now on this statement of facts, I have only one appeal to make to the common sense of the country and that is a question.

"If the Democrats controlled the policy of both houses, how could the enacted legislation be the exclusive program of the Republican administration and the defeated bill, the exclusive program of the controlling Democratic Congress?"

At the outset of his address, Garner characterized himself in this fashion: "I know I have been represented in certain partisan argument as a danger to radical, either without the disposition to understand great public questions or with a satanic desire to turn things topsy turvy with some wild idea of destruction."

The speaker professed his disapproval of the budget by saying: "Let me take up perhaps the most alarming declaration that was ever made by a president of the United States. Let me give it to you in the President's own words, at Des Moines: 'The secretary of the treasury informed me, said Mr. Hoover that unless we could get into effect a remedy, we could not hold the gold standard for two weeks longer because of inability to meet the demands of foreign and our own citizens for gold.'"

"I can tell you without fear of contradiction that to my that we were within two weeks of the edge of the gold standard because of the result of the United States. 'Our country has been in a bad way for a very long time. American way has faith in our institutions. I believe that we are on the way to recovery and will come much sooner than it will take a double game of solitaire and deception. Because I my position in the government I know there was never a warrant for saying that we were on the edge of financial collapse, world crash and government failure. The whole thing is absurd. Another Justice For High Court Of State Being Urged

TALLAHASSEE, Oct. 15.—In adopting the resolution providing for a constitutional amendment to add another justice to the Florida Supreme Court bench, the Florida legislature had in view the best interests of the people whose litigation and those interested in litigation. It was pointed out in the legislature that in regard to the amendment of cases submitted and ultimately to greatly reduce the number of cases on the docket. Legislators advocating the measure felt that litigants were entitled to have their cases adjudicated with as little delay as possible. In the discussion when the resolution was pending it was clearly shown that this is not a lawyer's measure or a court measure, but strictly one for the best interests of the state and of those persons who have matters in litigation. Those who have studied the amendment are convinced that it is one of the most important measures for the benefit of the people of Florida that they have had under consideration in the last 20 years.

The present justices of the Supreme Court are doing all that is humanly possible in efforts to clear the docket, but new cases continue to pile in and it seems impossible to secure the desired results with a court of only six members, the even number acting as a handicap. It is claimed that with another justice added, the seven, working in two separate divisions, with the chief justice ment, said Speaker Garner, is that the President proposed drastic economy and the Democrats forestalled it. On February 11, last, the Speaker said, "Chairman Crisp of the House Ways and Means Committee quoted the secretary of the treasury as saying the very limit of further economy was only $80,000,000, or two percent. This was the time the President says the secretary told from the end of the gold standard was two weeks away."

The speaker said the Democratic leaders conferred with Secretary Mills over the economy measure and that in a few days we got a treasury revision downward of $100,000,000. From that moment, the whole subject went into a state of constant flux and uncertainty. The private expert authority after another went on record that the treasury figures were a billion dollars out even after this revision."

The speaker said his intention, concerning the nation's deficits, "is that the present administration has neither been efficient in its performance nor frank in its explanation."

Who is responsible for how did deficits? he asked, and how did it happen that we didn't hear about them until they were so dangerous? Let me quote from the President's budget message delivered in 1929, six weeks after the worst crash in history: an event mathematically certain to cut down federal revenue."

"Our finances are in sound condition, our estimated expenditures are well within our expected receipts."

By December, 1930, the Texas added, every source of federal revenue had diminished 25 percent. "Large deficits were inevitable, but this administration estimated a 1931 year deficit of only $150,000,000 and said 'not so! I look with great concern upon the moderate deficit.'"

"The deficit for 1931 has now been revealed as $300,000,000. The annual message admitted a deficit of over two billions for 1932. Within seven months, that proved to be nearly a billion dollars extra and the two year deficit originally estimated at $150,000,000 turned out to be nearly four billion dollars."

GARNER RAPS HANDLING OF U. S. IN CRISIS (Continued From Page One) said the financial measures were "coalition" enactments, passed through Congress with perfect accord and practical unanimity. For these things neither the President nor Congress is entitled to exclusive credit.

"For the humanitarian part of this program," the speaker declared, "the administration has no credit. The provision for hunger loans and self-liquidating construction were exclusively of Democratic origin and literally forced through over the administration's stubborn resistance."

"I say that if you balance the routine budget of ordinary expense and revenue, fairly and honestly and openly, and principally by the plan proposed in the Democratic platform of a 25 percent reduction in expense, then you will establish the credit of our emergency needs in this depression."

After his resume of the Congressional program, the speaker said: "The Republicans claim the exclusive credit for the emergency laws of the last session. They list a lot of defeated bills and call them the 'Democratic program.' At Des Moines, it was said that Democrats controlled the policy of both House and Senate. Now on this statement of facts, I have only one appeal to make to the common sense of the country and that is a question."

"If the Democrats controlled the policy of both houses, how could the enacted legislation be the exclusive program of the Republican administration and the defeated bill, the exclusive program of the controlling Democratic Congress?"

At the outset of his address, Garner characterized himself in this fashion: "I know I have been represented in certain partisan argument as a danger to radical, either without the disposition to understand great public questions or with a satanic desire to turn things topsy turvy with some wild idea of destruction."

The speaker professed his disapproval of the budget by saying: "Let me take up perhaps the most alarming declaration that was ever made by a president of the United States. Let me give it to you in the President's own words, at Des Moines: 'The secretary of the treasury informed me, said Mr. Hoover that unless we could get into effect a remedy, we could not hold the gold standard for two weeks longer because of inability to meet the demands of foreign and our own citizens for gold.'"

"I can tell you without fear of contradiction that to my that we were within two weeks of the edge of the gold standard because of the result of the United States. 'Our country has been in a bad way for a very long time. American way has faith in our institutions. I believe that we are on the way to recovery and will come much sooner than it will take a double game of solitaire and deception. Because I my position in the government I know there was never a warrant for saying that we were on the edge of financial collapse, world crash and government failure. The whole thing is absurd. The first administration must

WIFE'S VIGILANCE IRKED OKLAHOMA CITY, Oct. 15.—Dancing Master L. E. Buttick asked a divorce from his "spicy little" wife, alleging she ignored his business by walking backward in front of him to read lips as he instructed girl pupils, presiding over each division, would each have as much work to do as at present, but they could accomplish more and therefore better serve the people. Without the help of the proposed seventh sister, it is evident that congealing of the docket must increase.
