Baker: Sell Israel 150 Jets To Assure Peace

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Senate Republican leader Howard Baker today urged President Carter to sell Israel twice the number of F-16 fighter jets than currently is contemplated in the controversial Middle East arms package. The Tennessee lawmaker said Israel should get 150 instead of 75 F-16s, and urged the $6 billion weapons sale to Saudi Arabia, Israel and Egypt be approved.

Tank Car Fires Controlled

NACOGDOCHES, Texas (UPI) — Fires spread by the explosions of three derailed tank cars were brought under control early today, and thousands of residents began returning to their homes.

The three tank cars were among eight that jumped the track Sunday just outside this East Texas town as a 127-car Southern Pacific train crossing a small wooden trestle over a stream flooded into Lake Sam Rayburn.

Teddy: Less Government

OXFORD, Miss. (UPI) — Sen. Edward Kennedy, appearing on the campus where his late brother once sent federal troops to enforce integration, called Sunday for a lesser role by the federal government in the lives of Americans.

Kennedy, wearing a Mississippi Rebel lapel button, told University of Mississippi graduates that we must find ways to regulate society and control our lives. "The way to have good and safe government is not to trust it all to one, but to divide it among the many," Kennedy said, quoting Thomas Jefferson.

Cuba Has Shark Rights

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Relations between the United States and Cuba may not be warming up on most issues, but Cuba is the only country permitted to fish within the U.S. 200-mile fishing limit — for sharks. The State Department announced last week that Cuba has been given permission to take up to 1,000 tons of sharks a year in the Gulf of Mexico and off the Atlantic Coast.

Jetman Lear Dies At 75

RENO, Nev. (UPI) — William P. Lear, 75, was an industrial genius whose inventions became part of the American automotive and aviation scene.

He was indefatigable — it was nothing for him to put in a 12-hour day even at his age, but a long bout with leukemia forced him into a hospital last week, and he died Sunday.

Pact Let To Pull Out Jet

MOBILE, Ala. (UPI) — A Mobile marine salvage firm has been awarded the contract to pull the downed National Airlines jetliner out of Escambia Bay.

A spokesman for the firm, Offshore Inc., said Sunday crews will meet at the site of last week's crash near Pensacola, Fla., and haul the airliner out of the water with nylon rope.

An Important Step

Psychologists point out that the funeral services are an important step in the family's return to a normal life pattern. Since what we do plays this important role, we believe that our most dedicated efforts are required.

Armed Robbers Net $1,500 At Morrison's Cafeteria

By DENNIS FEOLA
Herald Staff Writer

Two men, said to be in their early 20s, robbed Morrison's Cafeteria in Altamonte Springs Sunday night of about $1,500, according to police.

Police said the men, carrying blue steel revolvers, entered the store just before closing at 9 p.m. and ordered a female cashier to give them the money in the cash register.

The woman gave them the money and the pair ran out of the back door of the restaurant, police said. There were customers in the restaurant at the time, according to detectives. However, none reported seeing the robbery take place. Morrison's Cafeteria is located at 430 E. Altamonte Springs Drive on State Road 436.

was asleep and made off with $2,927 in cash and merchandise. Robert H. Walker, 36, of 620 Sweet Bay Drive, told deputies the burglars took his pants with wallet and a jewelry box from the bedroom while he was asleep. The burglary occurred Saturday sometime after midnight and among the items stolen were a one-carat diamond ring with a yellow gold band valued at $1,150.

Also reported stolen were an antique gold chain and watch valued at $250 and diamond earrings valued at $750.

RAPE REPORTED

A 16-year-old Seminole High School student told police she was raped Saturday afternoon.

According to Sanford police records, the girl said she was sitting on the front porch of her home at 3 p.m. Saturday when a man approached her. She said the man forced her into the house and forced her to have sex with him according to records. Police said they are still investigating the incident.

WORD STOLEN

A Fern Park man told sheriff's deputies his home was robbed of a single line reflex camera valued at $500, binoculars valued at $175 and a combination stopwatch and wristwatch valued at $200.

Also reported stolen were a blue sapphire ring with two diamonds valued at $750, a single line reflex camera valued at $500, binoculars valued at $175 and a combination stopwatch and wristwatch valued at $200.

JEWELRY STOLEN

A resident of The Springs, a community west of Longwood, told sheriff's deputies burglars entered his bedroom while he was asleep.

Also reported stolen were a blue sapphire ring with two diamonds valued at $750, a single line reflex camera valued at $500, binoculars valued at $175 and a combination stopwatch and wristwatch valued at $200.

PBA Vs. Sanford Airing

The Orange County Police Benevolent Association's (OCPBA) unfair labor case against the city of Sanford will be aired at a Wednesday hearing before the Public Employees Relations Commission (PERC) in Tallahassee.

The unfair labor case centers on the OCPBA belief that the city commission had denied police personnel raises if they joined the union. In March PERC's attorney ruled that there is enough evidence to justify the union's charge and as a result the hearing was scheduled, according to PERC clerk Charles McLamma.

OCPBA is contesting the validity of the April 25 election in which Sanford police voted 26 to 13 against union representation.

A spokesman for the OCPBA said it bases its opposition to that election on the same grounds it filed the unfair labor practices suit.

The city, on the other hand, filed an answer claiming the OCPBA opposition to the election is invalid because the group does not list specific charges as required by state law.

Responses Awaited From Merchants

What's With Sanford Development Plan?

By LEONARD KRANSDORF
Herald Staff Writer

The nails are being bitten this week at the Greater Sanford Development Corporation (GSDC).

This prevailing wall-and-end mood is being exhibited as GSDC members await the answers to letters sent to owners of 18 buildings in the downtown area. The letters ask the owners if they are interested in participating in the restoration program planned for the area.

The buildings, primarily located on Oak Avenue between First Street and Palmetto Avenue have been targeted for restoration. Depending on the need and the response the buildings will be pressure cleaned, painted, old signs restored, or awnings added.

"We are aiming to get the buildings back like they originally did in the early 20s or before," according to Glenn McCall, chairman of the GSDC.

McCall noted the property owners will have the opportunity, if they want, to use the $20,000 in leftover grant money. The money is remaining from the $80,000 GSDC received from the state and federal governments. The majority of the money was spent or will be spent refurbishing the Welaka building at 107 N. Oak Ave.

The Battle Of The Supermarket

Our sympathy to Robert Strauss. Freshly appointed as the president's anti-inflation specialist, he's seeing things go from bad to worse: a jump of 1.3 percent in the wholesale price index in April.

If such price increases would prevail for a 12-month period, the inflation rate would be disappearing over the hill at 15.6 percent.

But Mr. Strauss is savvy enough to know that "annualizing" one month's price behavior is risky business.

In those rare months when prices don't move much at all, we don't kiss inflation goodbye. Neither should we panic when a monthly price index breaks loose on the up side.

April was a cruel month for Mr. Strauss mainly because of a steep jump in food prices — an occurrence so vivid at the supermarkets that it hardly needed confirmation by the official price index. Those price increases, in turn, are being blamed primarily on bad weather and its effect on crops.

Relief may already be on the way. The April shower of sharply higher produce prices is being followed by a May flowering of prices sharply lower.

California lettuce, for instance, advanced to $22 a carton wholesale last month, but had dropped back to $15 the other day.

Removing food prices from the April index produces a less frightening picture, but it is sobering enough. Even goods with no great sensitivity to weather or supply and demand were continuing to rise in price. That guarantees that Mr. Strauss will have enough to do in his new assignment.

Yet the April price performance can be instructive to the White House anti-inflation team. It has demonstrated the weakness of using monthly economic indices as a sign of failure or success of a strategy, and the danger of letting popular reaction to a passing phenomenon become the basis for shifts in economic policy.

We can expect pressure on the administration to "do something" about high food prices — to provide "relief" for the consumer.

There was a time when bad weather afflicting crops was attributed to an "act of God."

Farmers and their customers accepted it, along with the resulting behavior of another power that works in mysterious ways, the marketplace.

Food becomes cheaper when harvests are good, and more dear when harvests are bad, or so it was before government began trying to perform the miracle of protecting both farmers and consumers from the vagaries of life.

Mr. Strauss can best help Mr. Carter fight inflation by trying to get a budget and tax program out of Congress that gives due respect to the inflationary impact of the federal deficit.

The congressional battlefield where political blood is shed in forming economic policy may seem far removed from supermarket checkout counters, where indignation at high prices currently is running high. But that is where the issues of inflation, the integrity of the dollar and the stabilizing of our economy will be decided.

Whistle Blowers: Beware!

WASHINGTON — During a campaign visit to suburban Alexandria, Va. two weeks before the 1978 presidential election, Democratic candidate Jimmy Carter pledged his support on behalf of government "whistle-blowers."

"I intend to seek strong legislation to protect our federal employees from harassment and dismissal if they find out and report waste and dishonesty by their superior or others," Carter promised on that autumn day.

"The Fitzgerald case, where a dedicated civil servant was fired from the Defense Department for reporting cost overruns, must never be repeated," he added.

A Ernest Fitzgerald is perhaps the government's best known whistle-blower. He was fired from his job as an Air Force cost management expert in 1969, after revealing to a congressional committee that cost overruns on the C-5A cargo plane would cost the taxpayers $2 billion.

Harold Brown, Secretary of the Air Force at the time of the embarrassing disclosures, asked his staff to prepare a memo outlining ways to dispose of Fitzgerald, then president of the hearing. When Carter was elected president, he brought Brown back into government as Secretary of Defense.

Fitzgerald also has returned to the Pentagon, but he took a different route. After a four-year legal battle that cost an estimated $600,000 to $800,000, he won reinstatement to the federal payroll in 1973 and was given a new title, Air Force Deputy for Productivity Management.

But today Fitzgerald works from the small office in the Pentagon's attic and has been prohibited by his superiors from scrutinizing any major weapons systems in search of waste, dishonesty or inefficiency. The president has not used the "Fitzgerald case."

When Carter recently was asked about Frank Sepp, the former Central Intelligence Agency analyst whose book revealed CIA bungling on a massive scale in the closing days of the Vietnam war, he offered a chilly response and has been criticized by his supporters for scrutinizing any major weapons systems in search of waste, dishonesty or inefficiency. The president has not used the "Fitzgerald case."

The president has not used the "Fitzgerald case."

Criticizing those who "write a book revealing our nation's most secrets," the president said "I don't look on Frank Sepp as one of the greatest whistle-blowers of all times."

Nevertheless, Carter continues to profess concern for the plight of what he calls "legitimate whistle-blowers."

When he recently unveiled his plan for civil service reorganization, the president noted that it included the "Office of Special Counsel... to protect those who expose gross management errors and abuses."

But the White House proposal includes previous little to encourage and even less to protect government employees who disclose wrongdoing.

Carter's plan authorizes the Special Counsel to intervene in instances where a whistle-blower is demoted, suspended or transferred — but in cases of dismissal. Thus, the proposal encourages firing the most extreme sanction against most workers.

Labor Racketeers Infesting Unions

WASHINGTON — Two decades ago, the late Sen. John McClellan, D-Ark. the embodiment of righteous wrath, held hearings that shook the labor movement. He exposed links between labor bosses and crime lords. His investigation led to the conviction of Teamsters President Jimmy Hoffa.

The flamboyant Hoffa has been liquidated, according to underworld informants, by the mobsters he befriended, and McClellan has succumbed to old age. But little else has changed. The labor racketeers still infest the unions.

We have sought to bring the story of labor racketeering up to date. The Teamsters, for example, brought in the former All-American football player, Daniel Shannon, to clean up its Central States Pension Fund, which allegedly has made illegal loans to gangsters.

Last year, he testified before the Senate Investigations Committee about the mobsters he had discovered in the shadows. He blasted Alan Dorfman, a convicted racketeer, by name. Intelligence documents in our possession describe Dorfman as "the man to see to get a loan."

Shannon was forced to resign as a pension fund trustee, say our sources, because he dared to stand up to the mob. Now we have learned that Shannon has received death threats. In view of Hoffa's experience, those cannot be dismissed lightly.

The Justice Department and Senate

Pete Milliot, erstwhile sheriff of Seminole County, visited the Herald office this week seeking some information from the files. A visitor from the past, he brought back many memories of those days in the late 1960s when he was appointed sheriff to replace Luther Hobby.

Milliot was from the south end of the county and was not greeted with overwhelming friendliness. Hobby had been a popular sheriff and many thought he had been misled by then Gov. Claude Kirk.

Hobby resigned after being summoned to Kirk's Tallahassee office.

Many stories alleging wrongdoing by Hobby had been leaked to the press. But when Hobby was brought to trial, the verdict on all items was not guilty.

As a result, Milliot was considered an usurper and his fights and verbal exchanges with the county commission became legend.

The county commission led by its chairman John Alexander was a united group. Pay for commissioners wasn't much, but the five men enjoyed their work. And look their responsibilities seriously.

When Milliot took his budget to the county commissioners, they, as usual, went through the document item by item and liberally shaved away what they considered to be fat.

A furious Milliot, already smarting from a light slap on the wrist from commissioners for sending a girl deputy dressed in a mini-skirt to the commission meetings when the law said the sheriff was to attend, responded with an attack on the county commissioners. He called them "Little Caesar and his Four Footnotes."

Milliot appealed his budget to the governor. Of course, it was believed that Gov. Kirk, who appointed Milliot would uphold the Milliot budget. The county commission decided to fight anyway. They retained the services of Mack Cleveland to present their case. Milliot had Sandy Bassett, who was to become a state representative, to defend his position.

The hearing board in Tallahassee was composed of a representative of the governor and representatives of two other cabinet officers.

Milliot's appeal was denied and the county commissioners' cuts in the budget were upheld.

It was an exciting time to observe politics in Seminole County.

A resolution has been introduced in the U.S. Senate setting aside a weekend for annual remembrance of the millions of victims of the Holocaust.

Florida's own Sen. Lawton Chiles as well as Sen. John Danforth, R-Mo., and Sen. Charles Percy, R-Ill., are introducing the proposal.

The resolution calls for the weekend of, or just preceding, April 29 to be proclaimed each year. April 29, 1945, was the day on which the 7th U.S. Army liberated the infamous Dachau concentration camp.

The senators wrote that by keying on the date of the liberation of Dachau they were symbolizing "the ability of people to overcome cruelty and prejudice through vigilance and resistance."

Good news from State Rep. Vince Fectel, R-Leesburg, chairman of the Seminole County Legislative Delegation. "You can expect no new taxes this year. Historically the Legislature does not pass new taxes in an election year," said Fectel. "Maybe we should go to annual elections," he said.

Sports Parade Thompson's Has Denver Still Hoping

By MILTON RICHMAN

DENVER (UPI) — David Thompson proved the offense and his teammates dominating the boards, the Nuggets rolled to leads of up to 19 points.

The 6-foot-4 guard scored 35 points and led the Denver Nuggets to a 123-114 victory over the Sonics, in the fifth game of their best-of-seven NBA Western Conference championship playoff series.

Denver, which had to win, trailed Seattle three games to two in its bid to play Washington in the NBA finals. The sixth contest in the match-up will take place Wednesday in Seattle.

High-point man for the SuperSonics was Gus Williams, who scored 31 points before fouling out with 4:54 remaining in the game. Rookie forward Jack Sikma also left the game with six fouls with 7:01 left to play.

"It felt good to have the touch back," said Thompson, who hit 16-of-27 field goal attempts in 41 minutes of play. "I haven't been playing up to par, up to my normal standards."

With Thompson providing the offense and his teammates dominating the boards, the Nuggets rolled to leads of up to 19 points. The SuperSonics rallied to within five points to start the fourth quarter and late in the game, but it was as close as they could come.

Center Dan Issel added 27 points and 10 rebounds for Denver, while Anthony Roberts, Bobby Jones and Bobby Wilkerson each had 13 points for the Nuggets. Veteran guard Ralph Simpson had 12.

"I don't like him because he belittles people all the time. He belittles me, too. He calls me 'a cheap imitation of Muhammad Ali' and says, 'Who did you ever fight?' Every chance he gets he calls me 'boy.' He has a habit of walking away from you as if you're nobody."

Before his last victory, a one-sided 19-round decision over Eddie Shavers in Las Vegas two months ago, Holmes actually didn't have too much stature despite his 36 wins in a row.

But after the way he handled Shavers, supposedly one of the deadliest punchers among the heavyweights, there were natural comparisons with Ali and how much tougher a time he had against Shavers.

"You saw the besting I gave Shavers," Holmes said. "Norton is gonna take a bigger beating. I'm gonna knock him out somewhere along the 12th round, and when I do, I will be the champion of the whole world. Norton can't be tougher than Shavers. He doesn't have Shavers' boxing ability, his punching power or his defense. I know I can take Norton. I'm positive I can."

Holmes wasn't making much progress in his career until he hooked up with Richie Giachetti of Cleveland five years ago. Giachetti, who trains and manages Holmes, arranged to have two of boxing's best known handlers, Ray Arcel and Freddie Brown, in Holmes' corner for the Shavers fight but neither is being engaged for the Norton bout.

"What did they do for me? Nothing," Holmes said, answering his own question. "When I came back in my corner after the first round and he saw what I was doing to Shavers, Ray Arcel said to me, 'You're gonna be champion... you're gonna be champion.' I said, 'I know it.'"

Whether he ever gets to be or not, Holmes never will forget the days he had to show shoes and wash cars to make a few dollars. "I used to walk from Easton to Phillipsburg, N.J., showing shoes," he said. "I was 15, 16, 17, 18, 19, 20, 21, 22, 23, 24, 25, 26, 27, 28, 29, 30, 31, 32, 33, 34, 35, 36, 37, 38, 39, 40, 41, 42, 43, 44, 45, 46, 47, 48, 49, 50, 51, 52, 53, 54, 55, 56, 57, 58, 59, 60, 61, 62, 63, 64, 65, 66, 67, 68, 69, 70, 71, 72, 73, 74, 75, 76, 77, 78, 79, 80, 81, 82, 83, 84, 85, 86, 87, 88, 89, 90, 91, 92, 93, 94, 95, 96, 97, 98, 99, 100, 101, 102, 103, 104, 105, 106, 107, 108, 109, 110, 111, 112, 113, 114, 115, 116, 117, 118, 119, 120, 121, 122, 123, 124, 125, 126, 127, 128, 129, 130, 131, 132, 133, 134, 135, 136, 137, 138, 139, 140, 141, 142, 143, 144, 145, 146, 147, 148, 149, 150, 151, 152, 153, 154, 155, 156, 157, 158, 159, 160, 161, 162, 163, 164, 165, 166, 167, 168, 169, 170, 171, 172, 173, 174, 175, 176, 177, 178, 179, 180, 181, 182, 183, 184, 185, 186, 187, 188, 189, 190, 191, 192, 193, 194, 195, 196, 197, 198, 199, 200, 201, 202, 203, 204, 205, 206, 207, 208, 209, 210, 211, 212, 213, 214, 215, 216, 217, 218, 219, 220, 221, 222, 223, 224, 225, 226, 227, 228, 229, 230, 231, 232, 233, 234, 235, 236, 237, 238, 239, 240, 241, 242, 243, 244, 245, 246, 247, 248, 249, 250, 251, 252, 253, 254, 255, 256, 257, 258, 259, 260, 261, 262, 263, 264, 265, 266, 267, 268, 269, 270, 271, 272, 273, 274, 275, 276, 277, 278, 279, 280, 281, 282, 283, 284, 285, 286, 287, 288, 289, 290, 291, 292, 293, 294, 295, 296, 297, 298, 299, 300, 301, 302, 303, 304, 305, 306, 307, 308, 309, 310, 311, 312, 313, 314, 315, 316, 317, 318, 319, 320, 321, 322, 323, 324, 325, 326, 327, 328, 329, 330, 331, 332, 333, 334, 335, 336, 337, 338, 339, 340, 341, 342, 343, 344, 345, 346, 347, 348, 349, 350, 351, 352, 353, 354, 355, 356, 357, 358, 359, 360, 361, 362, 363, 364, 365, 366, 367, 368, 369, 370, 371, 372, 373, 374, 375, 376, 377, 378, 379, 380, 381, 382, 383, 384, 385, 386, 387, 388, 389, 390, 391, 392, 393, 394, 395, 396, 397, 398, 399, 400, 401, 402, 403, 404, 405, 406, 407, 408, 409, 410, 411, 412, 413, 414, 415, 416, 417, 418, 419, 420, 421, 422, 423, 424, 425, 426, 427, 428, 429, 430, 431, 432, 433, 434, 435, 436, 437, 438, 439, 440, 441, 442, 443, 444, 445, 446, 447, 448, 449, 450, 451, 452, 453, 454, 455, 456, 457, 458, 459, 460, 461, 462, 463, 464, 465, 4

Schneider Sets Two Marks In State Swimming Meet

STAR LAUDERDALE — Lake Brantley swimmer Kevin Schneider set a pair of state records Saturday in the Class AAAA state meet in winning his specialty events, the 200 and 500-yard freestyle.

Schneider posted a meet record time of 1:40.34 in the 200 free then came back with another record time in the 500, splashing his way to a super clocking of 4:30.81.

Brantley finished fifth in team standings, while in girls competition, Lyman was sixth.

Farmers Win 4th in Row

The Oviedo Farmers posted their fourth straight victory of the Oviedo Little League second half with a 9-0 minor league victory over Giants Saturday. Carmelus Ivey was 3-for-3, including a bases loaded triple in the third inning for the winners.

Scott Holton drove in what proved to be the winning run and John Philpot was the winning pitcher. The Giants are 3-2.

Greider Third In Shot

WINTER PARK — Doug Greider grabbed a third place finish in the Class AAAA state track meet Saturday at Showalter Field, tossing the shot 162 feet, six inches for Lake Howell.

Another strong showing by a Seminole County entrant was the sixth place turn in by Seminole sophomore Tim Hardy in the half mile with a time of 1:57.4.

Oak Ridge won the team championship while Hines City swept Class AAA honors.

Miss Beasley Bride Of R.C. Merchant Jr.

Donna Shireen Beasley and Robert Charles Merchant Jr. were married April 29, at 6 p.m., at the First United Methodist Church of Oviedo. Rev. Jennings A. Neid Jr. performed the candlelight, double ring ceremony.

MRS. MERCHANT

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ray Beasley of Oviedo. The bridegroom's parents are Mr. and Mrs. Robert C. Merchant of Chula Vista.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride chose a traditional gown of white silk fabled satin. Remodeled almond lace accented with crystals and seed pearls, formed the high necked empire bodice and long tapered sleeves.

She carried a small cascade of daisy pompons in white and shades of pink with deep pink mini carnations, cascading pink ribbons and ivy, all laced with baby's breath.

The bridesmaids were Mrs. Linda Chubb and Miss Anita Beasley, cousins of the bride; Miss Sharyn Ward, Miss Janie Cook, Miss Kim Kman, Miss Maria LaBallo and Mrs. Cindy Lopez.

They wore full skirted gowns of white tulle with a wide lace trimmed ruffle. Each wore a white straw hat tied with a pink ribbon that trailed from a low to the back hemline of her dress. They carried white wicker baskets brimming over with daisy pompons, mini carnations in white shades of pink, white daisies, flowing ivy and a white baby's breath.

Lisa and Louise Hooker, Clayton Beasley, brother of the bride, Marty Ward, Steven Ragdale, Mark Chubb, Louis Tulp and Don Wood were best man, Bill Merchant, brother of the bridegroom, Clayton Beasley, brother of the bride, Marty Ward, Steven Ragdale, Mark Chubb, Louis Tulp and Don Wood were Immediately following the wedding vows, the newlyweds participated in their first communion as man and wife. As the chapel bell rang six times, they departed from the church.

A wedding reception was held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. John Conley. The home was decorated with the white wicker baskets of flowers the bridesmaids carried.

Following their wedding trip to the East Coast, the couple will make their home in Woodbridge, Va., where the bridegroom is a Presidential Security guard in the U.S. Marine Corps.

Mom Wants Out Of Kitchen

DEAR ABBY: It's that time of year again. The day after Mother's Day, and I'm writing to behalf of "overworked mothers."

Even though we never fail to remember our husbands, sons and daughters with gifts on Father's Day and birthdays, we do not see mothers get on "our" day.

We get to prepare a big dinner for all our children and their children. Then we have the mess to clean up alone after they have enjoyed themselves and said, "Goodbye, and Happy Mother's Day."

We're lucky if someone sends us a plant. Why don't someone realize that a nice Mother's Day gift would be a chance to get out of the kitchen and be taken to a nice restaurant for a change?

Maybe a word from you on the subject would help, Abby. I am thinking of taking a trip out of town on Mother's Day next year. What's your opinion?

DISAPPOINTED AGAIN DEAR DISAPPOINTED: If you let your children trap you

The Genetic Connection

Technology Advance Causes New Problems

(Excerpted from "The Genetic Connection," copyright 1978 by David Helms and Joan Marks. Published by William Morrow & Co., Inc. Reprinted by permission.)

The striking advances in human genetics during recent years have raised ethical and moral problems never before encountered either by health professionals or their patients.

New technologies in all health care fields have provided us with increasing control over life, death and birth. Some well-styled moralists today would carefully warn each of us that we "must not play God," that only He has the right and the ability to make such decisions.

How quickly they have forgotten. We have been "playing God" with regard to our lives and our health for years.

Our medicines and machines have kept alive those who, if Nature had her way, would have died long ago. There are, to name a few, the diabetics, to whom we provide insulin; the hemophiliacs, to whom we provide the clotting factor; the millions of victims of one-fatal-to-six, to whom we provide a hearing aid.

So, these life-and-death decisions are nothing new in fact. As the technologies improve, however, we are faced with increasingly difficult choices, and we must make them far more often.

In no field do such decisions arise as frequently as they do in human genetics. In spite of what people say, the answers to these questions must not be left solely to the health care professionals, the clergymen, or the legislators, since it is our lives, and the lives of our families, that are directly affected.

It is obvious, therefore, that prenatal diagnosis of genetic disease, and genetic counseling, are legitimate and widespread medical needs. There is little doubt that, as in the case of other similar needs, the federal government is end up paying a good part of the bill for research, development, and actual practice.

It has been calculated, for example, that it costs a quarter of a million dollars to provide a lifetime of institutionalized care to a profoundly defective individual—that's a lifetime of maintenance-level care. Couple this with the fact that there are between 3,000 and 5,000 new babies with Down's syndrome born in the United States every year. Quick calculations show that the national money committed for merely maintaining these human beings in institutions is about $1 billion—and this figure represents only a single disease.

In the case of a sex-linked disease—hemophilia, for example—the detection of the sex of the fetus is crucial to the decision the parents may make. Since only males have such disease (except in extremely rare instances), parents who would possibly pass this disease to their offspring may choose to abort all male fetuses. Since there is no prenatal test at this time to detect most of the sex-linked diseases, there is always a 50-percent chance of aborting a healthy male fetus. In spite of this, the choice of aborting a possibly affected male fetus is seen by most genetic health professionals as a legitimate choice.

On the other hand, with the same prenatal diagnostic techniques it is possible for parents to ask for the abortion of an unaffected fetus simply because it is not of the desired sex.

And a mother who has no major chance of bearing a genetically diseased child, and simply wishes to know the sex of the fetus she carries, is planning both harmful and her child at unnecessary risk because of the medical procedures that need to be carried out.

Port Boss: We're In Money Trouble...

The cash flow is not adequate to carry us through the fiscal year

...Port Boss: Let's Raise Two Salaries

By MAX FRUKLETIAN
Herald Staff Writer

"The day may come before the end of this fiscal year when we would not have funds for operating money. I don't mean we would have to close down the port, but we might not be able to pay salaries," Jim Ryan, director of the Seminole County Port Authority (SCOPA) told his board of directors Monday.

Ryan contended the only way the port can operate through the remainder of this fiscal year is by obtaining $52,500 from the county.

"It's not a comfortable position to be in to tell you gentlemen this," Ryan said. "It's just the cash flow is not adequate to carry us through the rest of the fiscal year."

The port will be short $52,500 it had anticipated this year due to lost rent and misinterpretation of a contract with the county, according to Ryan.

Ryan will appear before the county commission next week to ask for the funds in the form of a budget amendment. He had been scheduled to appear today. However, Commissioner Robert French, liaison commissioner to the port, said he wants the commission to review the port's financial position in a work session prior to taking formal action.

"I think we need a work session to deal with some of the major questions," said French. "I just want to be sure everyone understands the situation."

Ryan revealed he has discussed terms of a 30-year $1.1 million loan with the Farmers Home Administration to consolidate the Port's $875,951.43 in debts.

JIM RYAN

Under terms of the FHA loan, the port would have to pay five percent interest.

Shortly after the Seminole County Port Authority (SCOPA) reviewed the possibility Monday of turning to the county for $52,500 to help it through the remainder of the fiscal year, SCOPA Director Jim Ryan proposed salary increases for two employees.

The pay raises were tabled due to strong opposition from several board members.

Ryan proposed the raises to keep in step with county raises approved last week by the county commission.

The excess funds in the loan would be used to ex-been from $183 to $192.30 a week for the port's secretary and $150 to $153.75 a week for a maintenance worker, according to Ryan. The secretary pay hike would be retroactive to January and the other raise would be retroactive to October.

Ryan explained that was when the county had paid for those positions.

"Personally, I feel it is a bad move to upgrade our pay scale at this point," commented Wendell Agee.

"When you're on your knees begging for more money, because you skipped up bad, you can't very well ask for more to give raises."

"I know if we had sought the absolutely worst day possible to bring this to your attention this is it," said Ryan. He said the raise issue came up because it is part of the port's personnel policy to maintain salaries at a level equal to the county's.

The port is asking the county for $52,500 to cover anticipated revenues that did not materialize this fiscal year.

Dallabrida Jury Sworn; Opening Arguments Begin

By DENNIS FROLA
Herald Staff Writer

Jury selection began this morning in the manslaughter trial of Albert E. Dallabrida Sr., charged in the deaths of his wife and three of his children following a van-truck collision Oct. 26, 1977.

At noon today Circuit Judge Robert McGregor formally had the six-member jury sworn and opening statements were being prepared by the prosecution and defense lawyer.

The jury will be sequestered for the night and the trial is expected to last two days, according to courtroom observers.

There are 13 witnesses scheduled to testify.

Pre-trial motions were heard Monday afternoon before Circuit Judge Robert McGregor at the Seminole County Courthouse.

At the hearing, Dallabrida's attorney made motions for dismissal to discharge and evidence to suppress a blood sample taken at the hospital following the accident.

All of the motions were denied, according to a spokesman for the judge.

Dallabrida's attorney, Donald Brooks, asked the judge to suppress the blood sample because it was done without Dallabrida being informed it would be used to determine the alcohol content of his blood at the hearing, Dallabrida's

SCA's Jones: We'll Keep 'Meals' Rolling As We Seek Funds

By DONNA ESTES
Herald Staff Writer

Seminole Community Action's (SCA) Executive Director Amos Jones today took a slap at the Area-wide Agency on Aging's (AAA) criticisms of SCA's Meals on Wheels program and promised to continue for at least 30 more days, the program to feed elderly poor in Sanford.

"The project director and the secretary of the Meals on Wheels program are willing to work without pay on an interim basis of 30 days while we search for funds," said Rev. Amos Jones.

"What the permanent arrangement will be as far as the staff is concerned has not been worked out," he said. "It would be ideal and desirable if the state Department of Health and Rehabilitative Services (HRS) would assume the responsibility for their salaries."

"A determination will be made within the next 30 days," he said.

The county commission last week refused in compliance with federal guidelines, to continue for a second year nearly $25,000 in salaries under the federally-funded Comprehensive Employment Training Act (CETA) for the Meals on Wheels project director Deborah Haines, Bookkeeper-Secretary Patricia Cowles and Fran Genovese, coordinator of volunteers, who manage the program and are its only employees. Meals, free of charge, are delivered mostly by volunteers, according to Rev. Jones.

Robert Ellis, the county's director of administrative services, said the county has no other choice but to deny funding for an additional one year, adding that funding for the salaries expires May 23.

With the imminent expiration of funding for the salaries, the program was in jeopardy of being halted on May 23.

Meanwhile, Dr. J.A. Mowbray of the (AAA) issued critical reports of the management by SCA of the program, directing a report to Sylvia Crawford, supervisor of Aging-Adult Services of the HRS.

The report outlined the AAA's monitoring of the program, its inspections of the SCA Headstart kitchens where the meals are prepared and bookkeeping shortcomings. The AAA provides $9,000 of the $23,000 used in the Meals on Wheels program, aside from the salaries.

Rev. Jones today struck back at the AAA saying that agency had been "bottle, not helpful" to the project.

"From day one, there was pressure to have catered meals even though the Meals on Wheels Project was ongoing at the time where meal preparation was done at Headstart centers. There was increased pressure for this to be done and that notion has never been relinquished," said Rev. Jones.

Sewer Credit Hassle Ended In Casselberry

It took just a $10 check to settle a dispute in Casselberry over one councilman's credit on his sewer bill to satisfy that city's governing body.

The dispute arose some months back when Casselberry's Mayor Bill Greer questioned the city finance director's authority to unilaterally grant the credit to Councilman Don Willson.

The credit was for $192 ($181.80 plus $10.10 interest) approved by Finance Director Milton Kast after Willson complained he did not receive proper service subsequent to a 1974 settlement of a lawsuit against the city because raw sewage backed into his home.

Kast's independent decision to grant the $192 credit was criticized by the city administration because no one at the council level was told about the credit.

However, the entire matter was apparently satisfactorily resolved Monday when city council agreed to let the credit stand, except for the $10 Willson had tacked on for interest.

Willson agreed to repay the interest portion of the credit, and also agreed not to sue the city or other city officials in the matter.

Casselberry councilmen Monday also heard a report from utility Operations Supervisor Bill Schrader that the city's water is safe to drink and there is no need for the water to be filtered at private homes before it is used.

Schrader's statement came in response to a report from the EPA that a chemical contained in the city's water supply, caused by a reaction of chlorine to organic material, is suspected of causing cancer.

In other action, Councilman Don Willson also heard a report from utility Operations Supervisor Bill Schrader that the city's water is safe to drink and there is no need for the water to be filtered at private homes before it is used.
