Casselberry Mayor Polling Cities

A Lawsuit Over The Plan?

Herald Staff Writer

Casselberry Mayor Gerald Christensen has ordered a poll of Seminole County city officials to determine whether the officials wish to join in a class-action suit against the county commission on its adopted comprehensive land use plan guidelines.

Christensen said he instructed City Planner Dale MacMahan Wednesday to contact all of the other six cities in the county. Casselberry Council Chairman Nathan Van Meter added today that "hopefully a class action suit can be filed. Moneywise it will cost a lot less," he said.

Van Meter said the basis for the suit would be that the county denied the cities and private citizens the right of "due process" by coming up with last-minute revisions to their plan, leaving insufficient time to digest the "revisions to the revisions to revisions" and make comments prior to adoption.

"We (city representatives) and some citizens asked the county respond to the revisions. They refused. 'I feel that the county did not comply with at least the intent of the law regarding notice. I realize they (the county commission) had been working on the plan for four years, but another week could not have made any difference. There are many things we find tremendously objectionable about the plan," Van Meter said. He said in a cursory examination of the revisions he found a dozen items in the guidelines that "at least on the surface looked

"We are in a position where we are going to have to seek relief in the courts. We have no other choice. The county commission wouldn't listen to us," said Van Meter.

Askew The

TALLAHASSEE (AP) - Gov. Reubin Askew isn't just fooling around while the legislature haggles over taxes. In fact, lawmakers say the governor has mapped out a plan to denounce the legislature if the tax squabble isn't settled soon. "The governor's twisting a lot of arms," one legislator said as the special tax-writing session opened Wednesday. "He said he's been gentle up to now, but that he'd start giving us some bad press if we didn't settle this." That lawmaker said the threat occurred during a two-hour huddle late Tuesday in the Governor's Mansion. Askew tried to persuade leaders of the House's urban coalition to go along with a $160-million tax plan based on the Senate's package of levies aimed at special interests. Other lawmakers alluded to the threat during a Wednesday meeting of the Dade County delegation, a major component of the urban coalition. South Florida lawmakers and other coalition members were Askew's top allies in his now-abandoned quest for a one-cent sales tax hike. "I understand there's some indication that he will start speaking out against the House and the Senate for wasting the taxpayers' money," said House Majority Leader John Hill, D-Miami. "If we've got to fight the governor and the Senate, how can the House come out anyway other than wearing the black

Askew's press secretary, Paul Schnitt, would neither confirm nor deny that the governor made the threats. Current law allocates $25,000 a day for special legislative sessions, but officials say that staff and other expenses drive the total up con-

The governor's lobbying wasn't all heavy-handed.

Rep. Curtis Kiser, R-Dunedin and a key coalition member, said Askew summoned him to his office late Wednesday - and teasingly suggested that Kiser bring along a bandage for the arm that was about to be twisted. "He just tried to impress on me that he felt certain that the Senate wouldn't pass the sales tax," Kiser said. "And he didn't want anybody to think that he sold us out. "He just told me to do what you have to do.

Currently, he said persons are taxed one cent for purchases of up to 25 cents; two cents from 26 cents to 50 cents; three cents from 51 cents to 75 cents and four cents from 76 cents to $1.

Under the Hattaway plan, the fourth cent would be levied on purchases of 60 cents to $1 and this redistribution method would raise $120 million additional revenue for the Tris In Your Car? No, But Just In Case ...

As a precaution, however, they're dropping its use and hope to eliminate it entirely by next year.

South Drought Perils Farmers

ATLANTA (AP) - The twomonth drought that has hit much of the South is threatening farmers with crop losses in the millions of dollars. Cotton losses in Georgia were estimated at $8 million and tobacco losses more than $8.5 million. Georgia's corn crop has suffered an estimated $94 million in damages. Pastures in Alabama, Mississippi and Tennessee are dry and cattlemen are being forced to send cattle to market early. Soybean crops in Alabama, Georgia and Virginia were all below normal, and experts in Mississippi said it would take a full month of normal rainfall to restore the hay supply.

Next Step: The Smoothing Out Process

Preparation of a detailed land use map, drafting ordinances, redrafting the policies portion of Seminole County's comprehensive plan and preparing a short-range development plan are the next items county planners will address in preparation for final adoption of a comprehensive plan in

The policies portion of the plan was approved by the county commissioners Tuesday night. "We are now working on a final draft of" the policies portion, said County Planner Bill Kercher.

The policies portion, known as the development framework, was revised three times before the final draft might include rephrasing sentences to produce a more readable document. His office is also beginning work on a detailed land use map, which will be adopted by the commissioners in September. The map will be a legally binding guide for the commissioners when they consider specific rezoning requests, Kercher said.

Legislator Says Arthritic Drug The Same As Laetrille

TALLAHASSEE (AP) - The House has voted to legalize a drug that sponsors say will provide new relief to arthritis sufferers and help Florida's timber industry.

In the opening minutes of a second special session Wednesday, the House voted 95-11 for a bill (HB1B) by Rep. Wayne Hollingsworth, D-Lake City, that orders hospitals not to interfere with doctors who administer dimethyl sulfoxide to arthritic patients.

"This is just like the laetrile bill." Hollingsworth said. "It just says that the doctor can use it."

Circuit Judge Virginia Q. Beverly imposed the death penalty Wednesday on Timothy C. Palmes saying, "The defendant has demonstrated that he cannot live in a civilized society in a trustworthy fashion."

The judge also revoked Palmers' probation on a previous manslaughter conviction, sentencing him to 15 years in that slaying.

Poor Allowed To Defer Taxes

TALLAHASSEE (AP) - A bill allowing poor Floridians to defer part of their property taxes until after they die has become law, without Gov. Reubin Askew's signature. Askew withheld his signature because he doubted the effectiveness of the bill. Press Secretary Paul Schnitt said Wednesday. "He really questions to what extent Floridians are going to participate in that program," Schnitt said

To Seek Aid To Farmers

MARIANNA (AP) - Agriculture Commissioner Dovle Conner says he'll ask Gov. Reubin Askew to seek disaster aid for Panhandle farmers whose crops have been devastated by lack of rain. Conner toured the drought-stricken area

Wednesday and was told by North Florida farmers that they will lose their crops unless heavy rains break the drought soon. They said the corn crop has been devastated; peanuts and soybeans are damaged, and there is insufficient hay to feed

Church Roof Collapses, 10 Hurt

TALLAHASSEE (AP) — Officials say they don't know what caused the roof beams of a church addition to collapse, injuring eight workers and a woman and a baby who had just arrived at the construction site.

Witnesses said the framework for the 30foot-high roof of an addition to the Forest Heights Baptist Church gave way and tumbled sideways shortly at mid-morning Wed-

Florida's Growth Rate Fluke

TALLHASSEE - (AP) - A 1.3 per cent population growth rate last year - the lowest recorded in the state since World War II was a fluke, according to the Florida Chamber of Commerce.

The chamber predicted Wednesday that the growth rate, stunted last year by the recession and a decline in national migration, will reach a normal level of about 3 per cent by the end of the decade.

Lovers' Quarrel Ends In Death

JACKSONVILLE (AP) - A bulletpunctuated automobile chase that police say stemmed from a lovers' quarrel has resulted in the death of one bystander and injuries to five others, four of them children.

The cars involved in the Wednesday chase through a residential area ran across a lawn and through a group of women and children drawn outside by the noises of bullets and squealing tires.

Extravagant Waste Payday Approaching

White House reaction to the proposal by the House Commerce Committee to deregulate the price of "new" natural gas reflected more emotion than reason.

Press Secretary Jody Powell, presumably speaking for President Carter, called the committee action a "ripoff" of consumers.

But the comment was more an expression of presidential chagrin than of economic reality

The President is understandably displeased with the reception his energy program has received in House committees. His recommendation for a progressively increasing federal tax on gasoline was rejected. A proposed tax penalty on gasguzzling autos was diluted. An incentive rebate for the purchase of highly efficient cars was shot down.

Mr. Carter's plan has been treated no more severely than were ambitious programs advanced in the Nixon and Ford administrations. Congress is reluctant to impose higher prices on the public either through taxes or higher fuel prices - and any successful conservation effort must rely on the pocketbook impact of continuing profligacy.

Oeregulation - not only of natural gas, but oil, too - could be the most productive method of encouraging both less consumption and increased production.

Regulation of natural gas prices has been no favor to the consumer, certainly. While householders have been lured to increased dependence on natural gas for heating and cooking by artificially restrained prices, domestic supplies have been depleted. As a consequence, the nation is turning to a costly alternative, liquefied natural gas imports from Indonesia - at about double the average world market price for energy.

Deregulation is not the ripoff. We're skeptical, however, about the congressional commitment to deregulation. The White House accusations will not be helpful.

Somehow, if America is to come to grips with the energy crisis, there must be a unified executive-approach that acknowledges there is no ness way, whether through higher taxes or higher prices, the nation must pay now for its years of extravagant waste.

Enlistment Pacts

The Supreme Court has upheld a "contract" under which some 36,000 sailors will receive, after all, the reenlistment bonuses that Congress declined to fund.

The court held that the payments of up to $4,000 given to certain Navy specialists to encourage reenlistment could not be withheld from personnel who had signed up for an additional two years but had not yet received the bonus when Congress scrapped the program in 1974.

The decision will be encouraging to those military people still on active duty who have been watching nervously as critics take aim at retirement benefits such as pensions, commissary privileges and medical care.

The incentives that lured recruits to enter and remain in the military service before the "nodraft" era of high pay and fringes cannot be wiped out retroactively by congressional

The talk is that among those eyeing various offices and thinking about possible runs are: - Sanford City Commissioner A.A. Some say that McClanahan and his supporters think it's time for a city-oriented person on the county board and that McClanahan may appeal to city voters which now comprise the majority of Seminole's

The Sanford City Commission this week agreed to retain the services of Margaret McCormick. A.S.I.D., interior design, to decorate the interior of the Sanford's new $1.8 million city hall, now under construction.

The selection of Miss McCormick had nothing to do with the fact that she is a woman and the rejection of the proposal of Dan Acito who did the work of the city's police complex had nothing to do with the fact he is a male.

The deciding factor was the amount of the proposal and the excellent presentation made by Miss McCormick to city commissioners Monday

Miss McCormick said her Tampa-based firm would provide interior design services necessary for the Sanford City Hall for a flat fee of $6,500 and reimbursable expenses of blueprinting and longdistance telephone calls.

Services are to include relocation of existing furniture, design presentations, new furnishing selections and specifications, color co-ordination throughout the building and final inspection. Acito wanted something like $11,000.

Test Ban? It's Absurd

Carter says But is it really? Seeking an answer to this

In Soweto Protest

JOHANNESBURG, South Africa (AP) Police shot and killed one black and wounded another in Soweto today and arrested about 130 others in central Johannesburg as black students protested the continued preventive detention of their leaders by South Africa's white government.

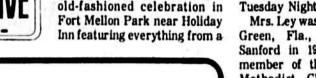

Police sources said large groups of students were massing all over Soweto, the segregated township of more than a million blacks 10 miles southwest of Johannesburg. The police were reported breaking up the groups with tear gas and "sneeze machines," which spray a combination of tear gas and talcum powder.

ADDIS ABABA, Ethiopia (AP) — Rebels fighting to unite Ethiopia's easternmost province with neighboring Somalia made an unsuccessful mortar and small arms attack last week on Harar, the provincial capital, and blew up a bridge on the Addis Ababa-Djibouti railway, diplomatic sources report. The railway line normally carries 60 per cent of more of Ethiopia's exports and imports. Four bridges are now reported knocked out, and railway officials said it might take two weeks to finish repairing them.

Let the rest of the world use "optic yellow" tennis balls, the balls remain white at Wimbledon and you don't see players running around with orange-striped shirts and turquoise shorts. Families pitch picnic baskets on the lawns and delicately per take of that Wimbledon ritual - strawberries and cream. And the old lady, ivy cloaking the dark green walls of the stadium, just sits there and smiles.

Street Fair Scheduled

The Altamonte Mall will introduce a touch of nostalgia into its ultra-modern environs Friday and Saturday, with an all-day old fashioned street fair featuring the crafts and curiosities of a bygone era.

MEALS

Among the exhibitors will be the Seminole Community Action Cannery from Sanford, under the direction of supervisor, Laura Clark. The Cannery will feature a variety of canned goods processed by Cannery customers in recen months.

Right alongside the Cannery stall will be a booth displaying the handiwork of a sometimes Cannery customer, Mrs. Jane Jones of Geneva. Her specialty is quilts.

Jody: His First 'Security Violation?'

WASHINGTON (AP) -If the State Department wanted to get hard-nosed about its diplomatic secrets, it could try to lay an espionage law violation at the doorstep of White House Press Secretary

Jody Powell. Nobody expects that to happen. However, Powell himself has acknowledged that one of his efforts to provide the public with nformation about a hassle with the Soviet Union may, in fact, have led him into an unwitting security

The whole affair had its comic opera aspects. At issue was the formal U.S. protest to Moscow last week concerning the interrogation there of Robert Toth, the Los Angeles Times correspondent who since has been permitted to return home.

Powell, at one of his daily news briefings, read aloud 127 words from the protest note, which is the type of document that diplomats delight in keeping 'secret. "Maybe I ought to make this thing available to you," Powell told repor-

At that point, associate Press Secretary Jerrold Schecter, the spokesman for the National Security Council, interrupted Powell for a whispered conference at the rostrum. "We can't?" Powell was heard to ask Schecter.

Ward, Interstate Mall.

When asked why he could not make the document available, or at least have Schecter provide an explanation, Powell took refuge in humor, joking, "It might tip the Russians to our strategy."

Becoming more serious, Powell sheepishly added. "This may be my first security violation here.' A newsman who had assumed he would be given Carter's chief spokesman a copy of the protest note will be willing to quote subsequently asked Powell to repeat the verbatim

The alcoholic beverage tax sailed through on a 73-37 vote. Then the House just as quicky defeated 62-51 a four-cent hike on cigarette taxes. But it didn't take long for the House to change its mind.

The cigarette hike would provide $42 million in new revenue, a key element in the push to find at least $110 million in new taxes to fund the $5.693-billion CITY CHANGE All of the taxes being consid ered by the House were part of the tax package on special in-
