First-Class Rate Of Postage Applies To Invitations

Everybody knows that "April showers bring May flowers." And everybody knows that May flowers are brought June brides. But not everybody knows that invitations and announcements bring congratulations to the postal service.

Postmaster Joel B. Field says that this is not because the postal service declines weddings, or showers, or receptions, or any of the other functions which have to do with getting married. As a matter of fact, postal workers everywhere are anxious to contribute whatever they can to the success of these fine occasions. But sometimes these most interested in getting people happily married in life make helping very difficult for the postal service.

Take shower invitations for instance. When the date, the hour, the place the shower is to be held, the name of the prospective bride, and other pertinent information is given in handwriting, handprinting, or typewriting, the postal rate of postage must be applied, regardless of whether the invitations are in sealed or unsealed envelopes. If shower invitations are wholly printed, mimeographed, duplicated, or otherwise widely reproduced by machine process, they may be mailed in unsealed envelopes at the third-class rate of 3c each. Printed announcements which are of odd size or shape, or which are exceptionally large or unusually small, must bear the minimum first-class rate of postage regardless of whether they are done by machine or by hand.

The postal service is anxious to carry the glad tidings of marriage and its many associated functions quickly and accurately to all who are concerned wherever they may be. "If you have questions about how to make up this important mail, please help us to help you by calling FA 2-3000."

How Do You Spend Your Waste Time?

By DOC QUIGG
United Press Staff Correspondent
NEW YORK (UP)—How do you spend your waste time—the time you are forced to waste while doing your regular job? Maybe we could all take a lesson from David Delman.

Delman is a salesman. He sells ladies' panties. He works for a panty house in Philadelphia, and for eight years he's been on the road selling to lingerie buyers, big and little stores, in the East.

Something about the job made him think of the old saying among G.I.'s—he was one in World War II: "In the army, it's hurry up and wait."

Wrote Everywhere
"I wrote on the backs of order blanks, longhand—in trains, planes, hotel and motel rooms, and waiting outside buyers' offices. When I wasn't composing, I would copy from the order blanks into a notebook I carried with me."

Then he decided to write about something he really knew about, from the bottom up to the elastic. His novel, "The Hard Sell," about a panty salesman, his wares, woes and wiles, has just been published by Julian Messner, Inc. New York.

Delman figures about half of this book was set down while waiting in, or traveling between, Philadelphia, Baltimore, Washington, Pittsburgh, Harrisburg, Scranton, and Southern New Jersey during 10 months.

Now that he's been published, Delman the author is getting some help from Delman the salesman.

Railroad Financial Plight Grows

By HENRY J. BUCHTOLD
United Press Staff Correspondent
NEW YORK (UP)—Famous railroad runs are falling by the wayside as the financial plight of the railroads grows.

The B&O did away with its Royal Blue Line Baltimore to New York citing a 48 per cent drop in passenger revenues since 1946.

When the New York Central, while not doing away with a run, consolidated its crack Commodore Vanderbilt and Twentieth Century Limited trains between New York and Chicago.

of passengers and the anticipated further decline in the summer months.

The Pennsylvania Railroad also has cut some of the trains on its Washington to New York run.

Eastern railroads are more affected by declining passenger volume since 50 per cent of their business is accounted for by passengers. Western roads depend on passengers for only 10 per cent of their volume.

Competition from other means of travel—automobile, bus and plane—has been a big thorn in the side of the railroads.

The decline in the nation's economy has dropped railroad freight revenues sharply, making the huge passenger deficit, particularly among eastern railroads, a much heavier burden.

Some railroads are cutting the dining cars from their trains to meet costs, while others are offering buffet style meals or increased vending service.

Drop Commuter Runs
Many commuter runs are being dropped, with proposals for additional cutbacks up before regulatory agencies.

Mergers have been suggested as a way to meet the railroad plight. The Pennsylvania and New York Central, the nation's two largest railroads, are actively considering a consolidation, as are the Erie, Delaware, Lackawanna & Western and Delaware & Hudson.

Both these proposed mergers are aimed at cutting costs sharply through the discontinuance of many stations, trains and thousands of miles of duplicate track-ages.

The financial plight of the railroads is pointed up by executive salary cuts by a number of eastern roads. Pennsy executives made $10,000 or more per year received a 10 per cent cut, while Central executives earning $15,000 or more annually took a similar cut.

Couple Missionaries In Amazon 27 Years

By LOUIS CASSELL
United Press Staff Correspondent
The background music is the soft lapping of water against the side of a boat. There is a steady drone of alligator grunts, punctuated occasionally by the scream of a prowling jaguar or the raucous cry of a tropical bird.

These are the sounds of the Amazon jungle at night—sounds that lulled Leo Halliwell to sleep for 27 years.

Halliwell and his wife, Jessie, are Seventh Day Adventist missionaries. From 1931 until they retired a few weeks ago, they plied the Amazon River aboard a 30-foot boat, bringing medical care and the Christian gospel to people who had never heard of either before they came.

For nearly three decades, the Halliwells operated the Lusairo as a floating clinic, traveling an average of 10,000 miles a year up and down the vast Amazon and its hundreds of tributaries.

They learned that their "parish" included the whole Amazon basin, a roadless tangle of tropical rain forest almost as big as the continent of Europe, inhabited by alligators, poisonous snakes, mosquitoes, and 2 million of the most primitive people on earth.

They also learned that those people were desperately in need of medical care—and there was not a single licensed doctor to serve them.

Halliwell returned to America and took a six-month course in tropical medicine at an Adventist hospital. It was all the time he felt he could spare. Then he hurried back to Belim, and built a shallow-bottomed motor launch, which he named the Lusairo—Portuguese for "light bearer."

Today the Lusairo is still plying the Amazon, staffed by another team of Adventist medical missionaries. But it is no longer unique. There are 12 carbon copies of it, doing the same work.

When Halliwell prepared to leave Brazil after 27 years of practicing medicine without a license, he was summoned to the capital at Rio de Janeiro. The government presented him with its highest civilian decoration, the Brazilian Cross. And it notified him that it will henceforth appropriate $80,000 annually to support the growing fleet of floating clinics.

"This is wonderful news," said Halliwell softly. "With that money, we can have 15 or 20 more boats."

The Halliwells are natives of Kearney, Neb. They were in Washington, D. C. this week reporting to Seventh Day Adventist world headquarters. Soon they will go to visit a married daughter, Mrs. Marian Ermshar, who lives in Tyler, Tex. Then they will head for California to "hunt a place to retire."

Halliwell, who is "only 68," explained that he did not retire because of age. He has cataracts on both eyes and was no longer able to navigate the Lusairo on the Amazon's tricky currents.

Flurries Of Thought

By DON QUIGG
United Press Staff Correspondent

NEW YORK—(AP)—Sudden flurries of springtime thought:

Can it be that New York's testy temperament is mellowing? A friend of mine who had not been here for 12 years got into town the other day for the publishers convention and after sampling our wares for a few days departed as follows:

"Maybe it's the recession, or something, but this place has changed markedly in one respect. People say 'thank you' now when you tip them. This goes for waiters, bellboys, bartenders, and even taxi drivers. The place is much less frantic and more polite."

"I was riding in a cab when the driver became annoyed at a policeman for what the driver thought was discriminatory traffic direction, but instead of yelling about it, as in the old days, the cabbie said they get older they don't do things like that."

Someone told Wilbur, our office grouch, that a former New Hampshire disk jockey had more-or-less eloped with Grace Metalious, author of the well known "Peyton Place," a novel somewhat loaded with gemy levey-dovey.

"You mean," queried Wilbur, "that The Disk ran away with the Spoon?"

Two self-taught artists have opened one-man shows here. One is a former prisoner at San Quentin, who was paroled last month. The other is a cobbler. The one taught himself to paint in prison. The other was inspired in mid-Cobbler.

The moral here seems to be: keep pounding away, whether at stones or soles; art is long and prison time is fleeting.

Begging was so rampant in Paris in the 1830s that its streets were "worked" daily by some forty thousand professional beggars.

HEALTH HINTS

By Dr. Harley D. Scanlon, President
National Chiropractic Association

Advice For The Sneezes, Cough, And Ache Season

The number of our ailments is seemingly increased in cold weather. This is especially true of the respiratory life. The common cold, influenza, and bronchitis will attack all whose resistance is low. The most widespread of these is the "common cold." It is impossible to calculate the time lost from work on the national level because of colds. When neglected, they lead to serious diseases. In many cases, a neglected cold may develop into pneumonia, which can be fatal.

Prevention of the common cold, influenza, or bronchitis depends, among other things, on a correct diet, fresh air, enough clothing to protect the body, and avoidance of drafts. Warm or tepid baths, instead of hot, prevention of fatigue, and a hygienic way of life which strengthens the tone of the body are all factors to consider. The best way to treat a cold is to prevent it, with a healthy body which is resistant to disease. Plenty of sleep and a well-balanced diet which provides the essential vitamins, minerals, proteins and starches are vital.

Brisk walks and good ventilation are important to the respiratory organs. Warm clothes, but not excessive in weight, help protect the body without a weakening effect. Avoid exhaustion and get plenty of sleep. Worry, mental strain, and tension lower vitality. This is an invitation to colds, influenza, bronchitis, and other wintertime diseases. Your doctor or chiropractic can teach you how to avoid colds or to relieve them in short order through his soothing, effective ministrations.

Battle of the Virus Still Far From Won

By NORMAN M. DUNDON, M. D.

WHAT is medicine's greatest challenge? Well, we have to solve the secret of heart disease and, of course, we must find a preventive and a cure for cancer.

But there also are many other problems facing our doctors and researchers. One of the biggest is the challenge of the virus. Among all our infectious processes, virus diseases present the greatest unsolved problem.

Different Diseases
Viruses can cause at least 50 different diseases. While they seldom bring death, they do cause enormous physical and financial burdens to everyone. Each year about 5,000,000,000 (yes, that's five billion) man-days are lost in this country because of virus diseases.

The average American can expect to be stricken by some sort of virus disease from four to six times this year.

Tremendous Problem
Most of you can expect to be affected by virus diseases for 10 per cent of your lives. If you live to the age of 60—and statistics say most of you will—you probably will spend 6 1/2 years of your lifetime suffering from virus diseases. See why it's such a tremendous problem.

Virus diseases can be mild or serious. We generally accept such ailments as chickenpox, measles, mumps, colds, influenza and various forms of pneumonia almost as inevitable. The more severe forms include paralytic polio and even rabies, which, if not treated in time, is always fatal.

Little Protection
Despite all our medical advances, we can provide effective protection against only five or six of the 50 virus diseases. With the wonderful Bolk vaccine we could just about wipe out paralytic polio. With other inactivated virus vaccines we can prevent influenza and rabies.

Vaccines made of active virus can prevent yellow fever and smallpox. And we can give temporary protection against hepatitis and measles by using gamma globulin.

But we can't prevent the common cold and the long list of other virus diseases.

Some Encouragement
However, a recent issue of "Public Health Reports" gives some encouragement. Dr. Frank L. Horsfall, Jr., physician-in-chief of the Rockefeller Institute for Medical Research in New York City, reports development of new synthetic chemical compounds which are "highly effective" against various viruses, as in experiments with animals.

Perhaps it won't be so long before we can prevent, treat and even cure virus diseases.

QUESTION AND ANSWER

A. T.: One doctor told me that I had diverticulosis. Another said I had diverticulitis.

What is the difference? Answer: Diverticulosis is a disease in which there are small out-pocketings of the large intestine at various places. A person may have as many as one hundred of these. Usually, there are no symptoms from this disease.

However, if inflammation occurs, the diverticulitis (the out-pocketings) become inflamed and infected and may cause bloody diarrhea, with severe pain. There may be chills and fever along with these symptoms.

Time Running Out For Industry Vital To Country's Welfare

The Senate Subcommittee on Surface Transportation started its hearings into the critical railroad situation on January 18 and closed on April 3. In that interim it heard scores upon scores of witnesses, representing the railroads, the other carriers, labor, shippers and users organizations, regulatory bodies, and so on.

At the close of the inquiry the Subcommittee chairman, Senator George Smathers, said that there was a wide divergence of opinion regarding a solution to the problem, and that it will not be simple or easy. The Subcommittee, he added, must give a great deal of study to the mass of testimony taken before it can offer comprehensive recommendations.

This is all very true. At the same time, it is evident that delay in taking constructive steps must be held to the minimum if economic deterioration of the railroads is to be prevented from progressing to the point of catastrophe. It also is evident that certain of those needed steps are as clear as a clear can be.

One, for instance, lies in repeal of the World War II emergency excise taxes on the commercial transportation of freight and passengers. Another lies in changed law and policies to allow the railroads to possibly abandon passenger train services and related facilities, such as stations, which are now carried on at heavy out-of-pocket loss, and for which there is no longer any demand.

Still another — and this is the most important by far — is a relaxation of regulatory principles so that the railroads may make the most of their inherent advantages in competing for traffic. Existing law, in many instances, treats the rails as if they still held a monopoly, and as if we were still living in the past century.

Better Business Here Indicated

There is every indication that business is continuing to become better and better in Sanford and Seminole County.

There is no economic arrow in our community pointing to recession or a decline in business.

For instance, the last report from the Sanford State Farmers' Market indicated that May will be the best month of the entire season. The report said "if our crystal ball doesn't fog up on us, the month of May will show the largest volume for any month during the season."

That is a good economic signal toward increasing bank deposits, more employment, and healthier agricultural conditions.

Home building in Seminole County is also keeping pace with increasing business. Reports from the office of the Seminole County Zoning Board say that construction is reaching $1 million a month and in most instances exceeding that figure. Home building spreads into many facets of business with purchases of material and a continued bright labor picture.

According to most commercial businessmen, sales are equal to or exceeding previous months as well as measuring ahead of comparable months a year ago.

New industry is continuing to expand with additional space requirements being met.

Petite G. Wood Has Big Vocal Talent

By HAZEL E. JOHNSON
United Press Hollywood Reporter
HOLLYWOOD — Gloria Wood stands a petite five feet. But she's got a big vocal talent that makes hers the most heard-of little known-voice in the world.
Gloria bases her broad claim on the fact she's done more than 1,000 commercials during the past year, was the voice on best-seller record "Hey, Bellboy" a few years back, and as vocalist with Kay Kyser recorded several discs which sold more than a million copies each.
One of the Kyser records, "Woody Woodpecker," sold more than 4 million.
While Gloria probably has made a better living by concentrating on commercial work than she might have done if she'd been plugging away to become a bit recording star, the blonde with the four-octave voice admits she's tired of the anonymity.
Most recently the "American Yuma Sumac" was called on to do special effects high, excited, slugging as background to Elvis Presley when he sang in his latest

"Don't misunderstand," she cautioned with a wink. "I'm not knocking my residuals. And I have as much commercial work as I can use. But I would like to record a song which sells a million — and has my name on it."
"Hey, Bellboy," came close to it — but it wasn't the same, according to Gloria. "I sang along with the instruments, mostly the trumpets, and the only lyrics were an occasional 'Hey, Bellboy.' And wouldn't you know it, they later got around to banning it, claiming the way I said it was too suggestive," Gloria said.
Gloria subsequently decided to cut four records of her own — rock 'n' roll and ballads — on a speculation basis. When Columbia records' Mitch Miller heard one of them, "Mr. Sorrow," he signed her and let her select her own records for an album to be released in June — "Wood for the Fire."
The singer has plugged practically every beer sold in the West and railroad fans will remember her as the voice of the little In-

Foreign News Commentary

By CHARLES M. McCANN
United Press Staff Correspondent
Soviet Russia is using its ruble as a weapon in the cold war while it stocks nuclear weapons for a possible hot war.
By means of a carefully-calculated foreign aid program, the Soviet government is courting the favor of "uncommitted" countries all over the world.
These uncommitted countries are those which are not aligned either with Russia or with the Western allies. Some of them are "neutralists" like India and Indonesia. Some are openly anti-Communist.
Russia is offering them vast amounts in aid. Its own grants are supplemented by grants from other countries of the Soviet bloc.
The aid program serves two purposes which fit in with the long-range Communist goal of world domination.
One is penetration and subversion. The other is the fomentation of trouble for the United States and its allies.
The most recent example of the Russian economic offensive is that in the Middle East.

Russia has given Egypt hundreds of millions of dollars in military aid. It has provided Syria, now merged with Egypt in the United Arab Republic, with military aid far in excess of that country's needs. It has now started to arm Yemen, one of the key strategic points in the Middle East, which has federated itself with Egypt and Syria.

Space Group Uncovers Controversy

By JAMES BARR
United Press Staff Correspondent
WASHINGTON — The House Space Committee has uncovered a basic controversy that scientists contend could mean life or death for America.
It can be summed up in two overall facts that have emerged from the committee's lengthy hearings:
—Scientists and military leaders are generally convinced that man's conquest of space is a sure bet within 20 years.
—Each group thinks the job can best be done if it has the whip hand.
The space travel forecast is a Buck Rogers vision come to life. Nuclear-powered rocket ships would travel to such nearby planets as Mars — 40 million miles away. Bases would be established on the moon — possibly on other planets.
Meteorologists would provide accurate weather forecasts or perhaps even control the weather itself. Vast new sources of wealth might be found on the moon and planets.
And — possibly most important — scientists may wrest new knowledge from the far reaches of space that could yield to new benefits yet undreamed.
Proposed Two Agencies
President Eisenhower has proposed that the U. S. program for conquest of space be directed by two agencies:
1. The Defense Department's at- tached-established Advanced Research Projects Agency ARPA. It would run all primarily military space projects.
2. A civilian space agency built around the National Advisory Committee for Aeronautics NACA. The new agency — the National Aeronautics and Space Agency NASA — would run all primarily civilian-oriented projects.
The House Space Committee has been considering the proposal at hearings for more than two weeks. The Senate Space Committee is beginning its hearings this week.
All Pentagon officials — military and civilian — have praised the civilian agency plan in testimony before the House Committee. But they also have stressed that the Defense Department should maintain priority in space exploration.
And there is the rub.
Argue Over Money
Top space scientists have argued that the bulk of the millions spent on space exploration should be given to the civilian agency.
They contend that if the civilian agency becomes merely an adjunct of the Pentagon, limited military goals will dominate the entire national program.
They say, in that event, pure research will be neglected, the nation will lose countless benefits for peace and defense and Russia will wind up dominating the solar system.
At present, the administration has tentatively proposed to pump 100 million dollars into the civilian space program during its first year. The spending would rise to about 300 million dollars by 1962.

Many top space scientists contend much more must be given the agency. Their proposals range from 500 million to 1 billion dollars a year.
Civilian Minimum
NACA director Hugh L. Dryden, who drew up the proposed civilian program, said that the administration had tentatively proposed about a minimum figure.
Space committee counsel George J. Feldman said "a lot of people in the government don't appreciate that the United States is in a life-and-death struggle with Russia for space."
He said testimony before the committee shows the nation needs a strong, well-financed civilian agency under a strong high-ranking administrator.
Space scientists generally agree that the civilian agency must vigorously pursue a broad comprehensive program — not a series of sporadic crash projects.
For this reason, many scientists have shied away from rushing into some of the hundreds of proposed projects until a broad long-range program is laid down.

Sack Is Failure In Irish Fashions

United Press Women's Editor DUBLIN, Ireland (U.P.)—The sack dress is a failure in this land where the women listen to their men. "The men hate the sack, the chemise or whatever you want to call it," said Irene Gilbert, one of Ireland's three famous couturiers. "And the women, well, the chemise looks too much like a maternity dress, and we have enough of that here anyway." Miss Gilbert explained that about the only concession the chic Irish women have made are in the shorter skirts and a little less full in dresses and suits. Her clothes show off the figure, but without restriction. "I didn't see a chemise on the street, in restaurant or cafe, in my visit to this city of 400,000, capital of Ireland's 26 independent counties."

Spring Frolic Not Until Friday

A grave error was committed when the society editor of the Sanford Herald yesterday reported that the Spring Frolic at the Sanford Junior High School would be held Tuesday night.

Broadway Production On Tap For Darlington Race Fans Saturday

WASHINGTON, D. C. (Special) — This show would be a sellout at 50 on Broadway, quoted Darlington Raceway director Bobby Griffin, a stock broker and former state VFW commander, Griffin's specialty at the huge race track that runs only twice a year, is the pre-race ceremonies, for which he secures acts and talent during the entire year.

Griffin leans to marching bands and he, annually, fills his programs with the best in the nation. And I don't have to go far, either," beams the specialist, "do you realize that South Carolina, each year, not only has the best away with the national title. In my opinion," he continued, "there's fifteen high school bands in the toughest competition that not a half-note separates in judging."

Griffin referred to the Washington Cherry Festival parade this spring where the Georgetown, S. C. Winyah and Manning High Schools bands finished first in each major category. "South Carolina state that show," beamed Griffin, "and the president came to his feet twice — when each band passed his reviewing stand. The director who was once a page boy in the U. S. Senate continued, "what is good enough to move like is good enough for us!"

Which is Griffin's way of saying both bands will play a major role in his two-hour pre-race show before the Rebel 300 convertible classic at Darlington Raceway next Saturday. "I've also selected the famed Charleston High Schools Rebel Band, for the show, and at the conclusion these three crack outfits will play the national anthem in unison. Think of that!" he continued "massed bands? More than 450 musicians in one single act!"

But bands are only a part of his two hour program. Seventeen majorette outfits will perform and the Darlington float, which captured third place in the Cherry Festival (and features midwest race cars actually running) will display Miss Southern 500. Clowns will be in action and surprise windup to the show is Griffin's secret. He won't even talk about it to himself but he advises contestants to bone up on the song "Dixie". The show starts at noon, Saturday. "Some day I'll have bands clear around the track," promises Griffin, "but this one would go to SRO at ten bucks on Broadway!"

Gators, Auburn Tigers To Clash For SEC Crown

GAINESVILLE—The Southeastern Conference eastern division basketball championship goes squarely on the line when Florida's leading Gators visit the second-place Auburn Tigers in a pair of games here this Friday and Saturday.

Coches Dave Fuller's red-hot Gators captured a pair of victories over Georgia Tech this past weekend and will go into the series with a 11-1 SEC mark and needing only one victory in the pair of games to sew up the title. Auburn, meanwhile, split with Georgia and has a 10-1 record, making it necessary for the Tigers to trip the Gators both times in order to claim the championship by a half game.

Whoever team wins the east division must then meet the west division winner in three games the following week for the Conference championship and a shot at the NCAA District playoffs in North Carolina in June.

Coches Fuller said early this week that he plans to start his ace, Ray Oestricher (5-0) on the mound in the important first game, and if necessary will call on either Sid Smith (4-1) or Tim Twomey (1-1) for relief.

Smith received credit for both victories over Tech last weekend. He relieved in the tenth inning of the first game when the score was tied up 3-3 and pitched eight batters to retire the side and claim the victory when Florida scored in the bottom of the tenth.

Then on Saturday he hurled eight innings of hitless ball before being relieved by Twomey after a stretch of wildness.

Second baseman Bernie Parrish, who added a double and a pair of singles in seven trips to the plate last week, is hitting .429 for the third straight week to lead Gator batmen. He is followed by left fielder Charlie Smith, who has .388. Center fielder Bobby Geisinger, .301, is the only other Gator regular hitting over .300.

Steady slick work on the part of the team, averaging .284, has been a team contributing factor to Florida's success this season. Florida has not been shutout in a game this season and is averaging 4.6 runs per game, giving the pitching staff a comfortable cushion to work with.

The Tigers, too, have proved tough at the plate and have four regulars hitting over .300. To last week Catcher Pat Duke paced the squad with a .350 average.

Dodgers, Giants Set To Prosoped Rule

NEW YORK — The major league two newest ball parks in California will live up to the "anti-sleep-home-run" rule proposed by Commissioner Fred W. Fitz, the Dodgers and Giants have promised.

Fitz, who insists he isn't inspired by the criticism heaped on the Dodgers' 50-foot fence in the Los Angeles Coliseum, says he is looking for a rule that will force in forty built ball parks must be at least 300 feet long and the center field fence must be at least 400 feet from home plate.

"There is merit in Mr. Fitz's proposal," said Walter O'Malley, president of the Dodgers in Los Angeles.

"A good idea," commented Charles Club Feiner, vice president of the Giants in San Francisco.

The reaction of the two California team officials was vital, since these clubs undoubtedly will be building the next new parks in the majors—the Dodgers in Chavez Ravine at Los Angeles, if the plan is approved in referendum vote, and the Giants at Candlestick Point, where construction already is underway.

"The proposed Dodger stadium in Chavez Ravine, which was planned long before this announcement," will exceed these minimums," said O'Malley.

Feiner said, "Our new park plans call for 385 feet at the foul lines, 400 feet in deep center."

Fitz's proposed rule, would apply only to new stadiums.

Bosser Hockey League's 'Most Valuable Player'

NEW YORK — Johnny Bosser, Cleveland Barons goalie, has been named the American Hockey League's "most valuable player" for the third straight time, becoming the first professional star to win an M. V. P. award in the sport three consecutive seasons.

Bosser, who twice refused offers to return to the National Hockey League during the 1957-58 campaign, received 26 of a possible 30 points in voting by sports writers and broadcasters in the six AHL cities. Bosser once played for the New York Rangers. Both the Boston Bruins and Toronto Maple Leafs tried to get him to return to the NHL last season.

Bosser, 28, a native of Prince Albert, Saskatchewan, produced his finest season during 1957-58. He allowed only 140 goals for an average of 2.10 per game. It was the lowest average compiled in the AHL in 15 years.

Willie Marshall and Dunc Fisher of the Bears, who finished 1-2 in the AHL scoring race last season, wound up second and third in the voting.

RIVALRY RENewed

LOS ANGELES — Parry O'Brien, the shot put king, and Bill Nieder will renew their rivalry in the Coliseum Relays May 14. Nieder handed O'Brien a rare defeat by setting a new meet record for the event in the recent Kansas Relays.

VOORHEES WINS

ROME — Wayne Van Voorhees of Palm Beach, Fla., won his opening match in the Italian international tennis championships but Louis Snow of Bakarafield, Calif., and Isabel Troccoli of New York bowed out in the first round.

Sports Parade

NEW YORK — It was a medical consultation in a coronary. This was the room, still decorated with mementoes of the past, from which the destinies of the Brooklyn Dodgers were guided for so many years. Only now two column doctors sat behind the desk once occupied by a pair of beaming baseball barons named Branch Rickey and Walter O'Malley.

And neither of them gave Ray Campanella much chance of ever walking again.

"Total recovery would be very unusual," said one as they announced that the former Dodger catcher, paralyzed in a Jan. 28 auto accident, had been transferred from a suburban hospital to a New York rehabilitation center.

Lois of Ghent.

"Three months is a long time," he added. "If he regains no more function than he has now, he could never walk again even with braces."

It was a somber setting. Rickey beat a dull drum against the wall above of the mirror on Brooklyn's Montague Street. The large, glass-topped desk was barren of the little personal items he bore in the days when the loquacious Rickey and the smiling O'Malley held forth from behind it.

"There were a lot of ghosts in the room as the doctors told softly how Campanella, three months after his injury, still can move only his shoulders, elbows and wrists.

"This was the room where ray-poly Roy's voice squeaked high and merry every time he held court at contract-signing time. This was the room where he cried when Rickey told him, both in the long ago, that he was being returned to the minors to break the color line in the American Association.

"There is no way to tell how far back he can come," the doctors admitted.

Roy came back when Rickey sent him out. Came back to play a major part in five Brooklyn pennants and its only world championship.

The gold-embossed certificates which proclaim those triumphs of the past still hang behind the big walnut desk, even though the Dodgers are 4,000 miles away in Los Angeles and Campy lies motionless in a hospital bed just across the East River in Manhattan.

Cubs gathered around a "sample" for a graduation ceremony for Bobby Schumacher and Earl Gault, who have reached 100 days ago. The Cubmaster called on Scoutmaster Ralph Neely for a few words of welcome. Afterward Bill Schumacher was recognized and thanked for serving as chairman of the Cub Scout committee for three years.

Schumacher, and E. L. Bellhorn. Contestants were Larry Shull, Bobby Schumacher, Ted Bellhorn, and Billy Hein, who portrayed a highway patrolman, Smokey the Bear, a forest ranger, and a tree surgeon. Goals were presented "Don't be a Litterbug" bags. Also reminding those in attendance of the "Keep America Beautiful" theme were original posters made by the Cubs.

Don Mothers for the month of April are Mrs. C. E. Minter, Mrs. John Evans, Mrs. W. B. Hein Jr., and Mrs. Andrew Miller. The meeting was closed with the singing of "She'll Be Coming Home" (the Mountain) and "God Bless America", with boys of Den 3 being led by Miss DeCosta. The Cubmaster gave the benediction.

Ann DeShazo Will Take Eight Week Course At Staton

By Marjorie Jones

OVIDO—Ovidians are proud of Ann DeShazo, 17-year-old daughter of our own school principal, W. H. DeShazo and wife, Nell, who, by the way is a teacher in the school, too.

Professor DeShazo has told us of the high honor she received recently. Staton University is trying for the first time this program. They selected 80 students from the junior classes of the High Schools of the State of Florida to participate.

The participants had to have a high academic record and also had to take college entrance examination boards.

Ann has been chosen as one of the 80 students from these two requirements. She will enter Staton University on June 15 for an eight week course, ending August 9. If she makes the grade then, her high school days may be over. She can enter Staton University or any other college as a freshman in the fall. Of course, as her father plainly points out, she can return and complete her senior year—receiving English and math credits for the eight weeks of work—but it is hardly possible our Ann will do the latter.

Ann came to Ovidio two years ago with her parents from Hamilton, Tenn. when he was appointed principal of the local school. She has become popular with the students. She was one of our good basketball players for the past two years and a cheerleader, in addition to her many other activities.

Her good fortune is our misfortune. We will miss you, Ann, on the team, as a cheerleader and no telling what the senior year may have brought forth.

Mrs. Crittenden Resigns As Head Of JayCee Wives

Mrs. Earl Crittenden resigned Monday night as president of the Sanford-Seminole County JayCee Wives Club. Mrs. Crittenden has been transferred back to Jacksonville after only ten months in Sanford. He is employed by the Southern Bell Telephone Company.

Mrs. Wade Tye, vice-president, will head the organization until elections are held.

The announcement came during a meeting Monday night at the Home Demonstration Center. Mrs. Crittenden conducted the business meeting. Members voted to have the annual dues for new members, since the fiscal year will end in July.

The club will assist the JayCees on their scrapbook for the state convention in Tampa May 15-18. Members were thanked for their work on the benefit fashion show presented last Saturday night at the Civic Center.

Hostesses for the evening were Mrs. Tye and Mrs. John O. Keeling. Wedding cake was served from the fashion show. The cake was baked by Robb's Bakery. It was thought at the time that only the first two layers were real cake. When members attempted

Mrs. E. C. Williams, a member of the Story Book League, who is familiar to the local club members by this time, will be the guest speaker for the occasion. Of course, she hails from Sanford.

Mrs. James C. Michael is chairman of the luncheon committee. She, with the members of the committee, will serve a delicious luncheon promptly at noon at the local club house. Her committee consists of Mrs. J. H. Staley, Mrs. W. R. Meek, Mrs. W. V. Swenson, Mrs. W. W. Dietrich and Mrs. J. B. Jones Jr.

Any who cannot attend please notify any of the said committee.

Williams Piped Over After 20 Years With Navy

Heavy Attack Squadron Five (VAH-5) held muster to present Everett Malcolm Williams, Aviation Ordnanceman First Class, the honor which comes when a man completes 20 years of faithful service.

Cdr. Joseph M. Tully Jr., Commanding Officer of Heavy Attack Squadron Five, presented Williams with a watch as a gift from the officers and men of the squadron, also a retirement certificate and a few hopes for his future. He was then piped over the side with full side boys and the band's pipe playing him out.

Williams will reside at 2106 North Park Ave. in Winter Park with his wife Arden and their three boys Charles, Steven, and Tom and their daughter Linda, two years old.

to remove the icing from the two bottom layers, they found that they were not made of cardboard, as assumed.

Mrs. Elmer Boerner gave a program on hat making. Some of her creations were modeled by Mrs. Gordon Frederick. Mrs. Boerner not only makes hats to order, but also conducts a class for those who wish to make their own.

The Jaycee Wives Club will meet during the summer. Members are reminded that the meeting time has been changed from the second Tuesday to the first Monday of the month at the Center on 25th St., at 8:00 p.m.

Motels Get Into Swim Of Things

By FRED DANZIG
United Press Staff Correspondent
NEW YORK—Motels and their transient guests are getting into the swim of things.

Each year, more motels are adding swimming pools, hoping to entice guests to linger a while. Some of the more common motel innovations for their three-and-a-half million daily visitors include circulating ice water, large screen T.V. dining rooms and supper clubs, recreation programs and cabana areas.

But the trend is to swimming pools. Guests stay longer. The magazine, "Swimming Pool Age," has noted the rise in motel swimming pool construction in reporting that about 4,500 motel pools were built last year. This number accounted for 4.6 per cent of all non-residential pools in the country.

Why this emphasis on swimming pools by motel owners? According to John G. Lacoek, president of Quality Courts United, Inc., an association of about 500 independent motels in the United States and Canada, "even motels which cater to transients are finding that a pool tends to keep the guest longer."

"Though the guest may have planned to stay only for the night, he might extend his stay a few days to take advantage of the pool, as well as to catch up on his rest and relaxation," Lacoek said.

Of course, motels aren't dependent entirely on swimming pools. Florida Motels Lead. In Chipley, Ga., a motel has installed a half-mile sand beach.

Poetry Of Beat

By PETER J. MAYER
 United Press Staff Correspondent
SAN FRANCISCO — Much of the poetry of rebellion that is produced by the Beat Generation is known variously as "The San Francisco Renaissance" and "The Poetry of New Violence."

With its cool climate and Mediterranean-influenced culture, San Francisco has attracted many of the avant garde poets. But periodically, in a city that prides itself on being cosmopolitan and tolerant, it was a generally held that projected national attention on the Beat Generation.

Lawrence Ferlinghetti, owner of a bookstore, publisher of poetry and a poet and painter himself, was arrested and brought to trial on charges of publishing and selling obscene and indecent writings. The poem, "Howl" by Allen Ginsberg.

The poem is a rant, at times incoherent, but it is a masterpiece of American literature. It begins, "I saw the best minds of my generation destroyed by madness, starving, hysterical, naked."

Ferlinghetti was acquitted and the audience of boisterous, scandalous Bohemians danced in the courtroom. "Howl" has since sold more than 15,000 copies.

Books Paperbacks
 Ferlinghetti's city lights pocket book shop stocks nothing but paperbacks, an important factor in North Beach—an area where most of the customers are Bohemians and are not noted for their affluence.

In his late 20s and with a Ph.D. from the University of Paris, Ferlinghetti insists, "I'm not Beat." He said he has the "anarchistic and libertarian point of view" and writes in opposition to a state of affairs "where it's impossible for a man to live a good life."

He said, "Thoreau is the ancestor of today's poetry. He suggested civil disobedience if conditions warrant."

Ferlinghetti and Kenneth Rexroth pioneered in reading poetry accompanied by jazz. In a nightclub called, "The Cellar," they read their works while a jazz combo led by tenor saxophonist Bruce Lippincott improvised a background.

While Ferlinghetti denies he is Beat, Michael McClure, 26, says, "I accept the Beat Generation."

McClure was born in the Midwest, raised in Seattle and has lived in Tucson, Ariz., Wichita, Kan., and New York. He served

Try and Stop Me

By BENNETT CERR

A SWEET YOUNG THING layed with the notion of climbing up for a short-hand success. "When we get finished with penmanship and math," "What about speed?" persisted the applicant. "Our last nine graduates," said the enrollment clerk calmly, "married their homes inside of five months."

"How come a beautiful young girl like you was fired by that old wad at the Third National?" the applicant for a job was asked. She explained demurely, "It was because of a mistake I wouldn't make."

Love in the second grade: Write Judy to the kid in front of her. "I love you. Do you love me?" The kid replied, "I do." "That's exactly what I didn't want to say," he explained to his dad that evening. "but I can't spell 'don't'."

Thomas.
 How really important is Beat Generation poetry?

Mrs. Ruth Witt-Diamant, director of the influential San Francisco State College Poetry Center, believes that some of it isn't as important as the authors might think, but "American culture would be impoverished without it."

"They are the spokesmen for the dispossessed, of the rejected, such as the Negroes. It is the language of agony," she said.

DC3 Refuses To Retire

By ROBERT A. STEWART
 United Press Staff Correspondent
WASHINGTON—The world's most famous airliner refuses to retire.

That would be the DC3.

The 16-year-old transport plane is known as the C47 to the Air Force, the Dakota to the British, E4D to the Navy — and "the best plane ever built" to thousands of pilots.

Recently the International Air Transport Assn. found that 604 DC3's are still being used in scheduled passenger service throughout the world, more than any other single type. For a plane designed a quarter century ago, that is the most remarkable record in aviation history.

The Douglas Aircraft Co. began building the DC3 in 1933. It turned out nearly 12,000 and half of them are still flying. About 250 are used by 22 scheduled airlines in the United States.

Carries Many Passengers
 Douglas estimates that the DC3 has carried nearly 500 million passengers in the past 25 years.

The DC3 always has been a "pilot's plane." Easy to handle, unimpeachable, responsive as a baby carriage and almost completely forgiving of mistakes made in the cockpit. Its one fault: Leaks in the cockpit windshields during rain, which led one pilot to radio "light rain outside, heavy rain inside."

It is one of the strongest planes ever built.

A year ago, a frontier airline DC3 ripped 12 feet from its left wing when it hit a mountain. The pilot turned around and flew 40 miles back to an airport.

The DC3 was designed to carry 21 passengers and a crew of three. Later models carried 28 passengers.

Used In WWII
 In World War II, a DC3, operated by a Chinese airline, took off with 74 passengers aboard.

Other DC3's have been known to carry 60 persons.

Domestic airlines limit the DC3 to a gross take-off weight of a little more than 25,000 pounds. During the war, the Air Transport Command regularly flew its DC3's with a gross weight of 31,000 pounds and they have been known to fly safely with 43,000.

The DC3 was a godsend to the nation's struggling airlines in the early 30's. One airline president called it "the first plane that could make money just hauling passengers."

Five years after it was introduced by American Airlines and TWA, the DC3 comprised 90 per cent of America's commercial air.

No pilot was surprised when the plane also became an aerial workhorse in World War II. DC3's flew millions of tons of wartime cargo, served as airborne ambulances, flew paratroopers into combat and became a welcome sight at allied airfields all over the world.

Drive Out Today Representative On Premises

Student Demonstrators Hurl Rocks At Nixon

LIMA, Peru (UP)—Vice President Richard M. Nixon today walked into a crowd of yelling, rock-throwing students and challenged them to "hear the truth".

Earlier, the vice president himself had cancelled his plans to visit San Marcos because the students might provoke a violent riot.

Paruvian security officials were with Nixon in the noisy crowd, as well as his translator, U. S. Army Lt. Col. Vernon Walters.

When Nixon announced cancellation of the university tour, about 1,000 students were gathered in university park waving large banners that bore the legends, "Get out, Nixon," and "Down with imperialism."

Kiwanis Club Schedule Told At Noon Meeting

Future plans for the Sanford Kiwanis Club include luncheon at the Sanford Air Station next Wednesday; an official club picture to be made on Saturday morning, May 17, at the Sanford Civic Center; participation in the Armed Forces Day Parade on the same Saturday; a "go to church Kiwanis meeting" on Sunday May 19 with members of the Kiwanis Club attending the First Baptist Church in a body; and the possible move into the new Sanford Civic Center for luncheon meetings around June 1.

All of the announcements were made at the noon luncheon meeting yesterday of the local Kiwanis Club.

The luncheon next Wednesday at 12 noon is an annual affair preceding Armed Forces Day. Kiwanians turn out on mass to see the local Navy Station in operation and to get a full view picture of the station's activities.

A. L. Wilson, past president of the Kiwanis Club, announced that the club had not had an official club picture made in several years. Saturday morning, May 17, 9:30 a. m., was designated as the day and time. The Sanford Civic Center, the place.

Dr. R. E. Rutland, chairman of the Kiwanis Club's "Support of Churches" Committee, announced the coming "Go to Church Kiwanis Meeting" with members attending the 11 a. m. service of the First Baptist Church in a body.

Mock Alert Shows Area Would Be Handicapped In Actual Evacuation

The Seminole County Civil Defense staff took part in a national "alert" exercise simulating a widespread offense by an aggressor.

This was identified as OPAL 28 and was held on Monday and Tuesday. The local action was under the supervision of Director A. B. Peterson Sr., and according to staff officers, showed that this area would be under many handicaps in the event an actual evacuation was demanded.

The exercise presumed an "alert" at approximately 9 a. m. Monday with the actual "strikes" occurring at 1 p. m. In the past this area has been considered an evacuation center for counties to the south, but because of the naval air base in Sanford it was deemed a secondary target comparable to Cape Canaveral.

Working in conjunction with Naval personnel at the Air Base here, CD staff got weather forecasts; determined the fall-out hazards; planned the commandering of equipment and the pattern of movement from the "stricken" area.

The problem presumed a one kiloton atomic bomb surface strike as the exercise progressed, and it developed that there was but four hours from the "alert" to the "strike".

Police and sheriff personnel prepared to direct traffic as it moved west toward Tavares on state highway 40, and rolling stock of the Atlantic Coast Line railroad was "commanded" to make up greater numbers than individual cars and trucks would permit.

In determining the traffic count that might be expected, staff officers felt that congestion in several vital areas would seriously retard the evacuation. The hospital presented special problems. Since ambulances for complete evacuation of patients are not available, it would mean that many station wagons—and perhaps some trucks—would be required. In the four hours set up in the problem, it was likely that complete transfer would not be possible.

The waterways presented obstacles since it might be presumed that at least some of the bridges would be put out of operation in such an attack. In as much as the displacement would be to the west, the water-bound condition of the area would slow down the speed of movement of evacuees.

It was pointed out in the staff planning, however, that with the large number of boats available an important percentage of evacuees might be moved out of the immediate zone of danger by the waterways.

Communication facilities were better than at any previous exercise because of the addition of the CD radio hookup of the sheriff's and city police departments. This equipment was recently made available through an allocation of funds by Civil Defense.

Director Peterson said that solving some of the problems that were presented in the OPAL 28 exercise impressed on his staff the magnitude of the work that would be required in making a mass evacuation of this area. He expressed appreciation to everyone who had given assistance in the local effort in the nation-wide exercise.

Youth Identified As One Who Jumped Into Teacher's Car

A 16-year-old juvenile, involved yesterday in the theft of an automobile, license tag, and tank of gasoline in order to make his way to Kentucky, was identified as the youth who jumped into the automobile of Mrs. W. G. Fleming last week.

Constable J. Q. "Slim" Galloway said this morning that "the gun and the piece of residence tied right in with the other case and I began investigating from that angle."

The high-school age youth admitted last night that he jumped into the automobile and attempted to rob Mrs. Fleming. "I wanted her car and money to leave Sanford but my nerves failed me again," he told Constable Galloway.

Sanford's 45-year-old Municipal Zoo attracts from 13 to 18 thousand out-of-town visitors very year. Mrs. Arnold Hood, the municipal zookeeper, told members of the Sanford Kiwanis Club at their noon luncheon meeting yesterday.

Mrs. Hood gave the Kiwanis Club an overall picture of the local zoo, pointing out especially that the animals were valued at approximately $11,000. "Jiggs alone is worth $700," she said.

"I hope someday the zoo will be enlarged to the west," Mrs. Arnold Hood said, "to give the animals more room to move around."

Funds Available Through Loan Assn. For County Growers

Rufus G. Clarke, president of the Federal Land Bank, was the principal speaker yesterday at a meeting of the Orlando National Farm Loan Association held at the Orlando Gun Club.

Clarke told directors of the organization, a two-year-old consolidation of the former Seminole County and Orlando associations, that "I am surprised at the wonderful conditions here."

The Federal Land Bank President said "I was expecting miserable conditions because of bad weather and the many reports circulated out of Florida."

"You have the cream of the crop here," he said as he commended the directors for their work and the sound condition of the organization.

The only criticism I might have is that you are not lending money which is available," Clarke told the directors.

Other visitors at the meeting included Harry C. Merritt, Regional Manager of the Federal Land Bank; Fred Dyeon and Homer Little, Seminole County Commissioners; Charles Lee, Oviedo; and Curtis Green of the Farm Home Administration office in Sanford.

Leo Butner of Sanford, president of the Orlando National Farm Loan Association, pointed out to directors that interest rates had been reduced from 8 to 8 1/2 per cent and that loans of up to $25,000 are available.

Butner said this morning "In an effort to make more money available to Seminole County growers and to assist in building up the volume of business for the Sanford State Farmers Market, I attended this meeting."

The annual election of directors by Farm of Sanford, W. B. McBride, Seville and G. B. Pinback of Oviedo were selected to serve three-year terms on the board.
