Sun may effect cable

SANFORD - Cablevision of Central Florida. (CV), expects cable customers will experience brief on air signal interruptions between March 3 and 12. The problems are expected to effect other systems as well.

"If there are any interruptions," said CV's Jim Rozier, "they will be due to the alignment of the sun and satellites during this ten day period."

Cablevision of Central Florida serves 465,000 subscribers throughout the state including those in the Sanford area, a portion of Longwood, and many parts of Seminole County.

"The signal interruptions called "sun outages." are a common, twice annual occurrence that intermittently and temporarily interrupts some cable signals received in subscribers homes." Rozier said. "The brief interruptions normally occur for specific periods of six to 13 minutes at a time."

The sun outages happen twice annually involving all ground station receiving units throughout the world, although not at the same

"The phenomenon occurs when certain satellites and the sun come into alignment with receiving ground stations," he said. "The stronger radio waves of the sun overpower the satellite signals for very short periods, causing a temporary programming interruption.

This problem may involve other cable operations." Rozier commented, "but we want to let the people know in advance what the cause may be. We strive to keep our subscribers informed of all that is happening within the cable system."

Sparks may fly at meeting

LONGWOOD - Sparks may fly tonight at the Longwood City Commission meeting. A petition was circulated over the weekend in Longwood stating that a personnel resolution and ordinance, if passed by the city commissioners will result in higher taxes, as early as next year.

"It's a damn lie." said city administrator Jun-McFellin this morning, looking over a copy of the petition. "I'm very upset with this attempt by certain people in the community to distribute false information. It is totally incorrect."

The commissioners are scheduled to consider a resolution on terms and conditions for employment for personnel within collective hargaining unit represented by the International Union of Operating Engineers. The personnel ordinance deals with job posting and sick leave.

No Lotto winner

TALLAHASSEE - No one bought a ticket with all of last week's numbers, so this week's Florida Lotto jackpot is worth an estimated $20. million, lottery officials said.

County prime target for relocating facility

By J. MARK BARFIELD Herald Staff Writer

LAKE MARY - North Semmole County could he the big winner of the AT&T prize for a large office facility the size of a small mall.

North Point, Primera and the Heathrow International Business Center, all located near Lake Mary, are cited by local commercial real estate professionals as leading candidates for the massive office center sought by AT&T to house

Last week. AT&T announced it would be seeking proposals from developers and property managers to lease or purchase 600,000 square feet of consolidated office space for 1,100 workers along the Interstate 4 corridor between Lee Road and State Road 46. The space would occupy about half the size of the 1.2 million square foot Semmole Towne Center mall.

"That's a tremendous project," said Becky Courson, president of Courson Co., a commercial real estate broker, "That's an exciting prospect."

Regional AT&T corporate spokesman Randy Berridge said the employees are currently working in about 450,000 square feet of offices scattered throughout Maitland Center in Orange County. Berridge said the company wants to consolidate the employees in one location, either in a single building or a campus style setting of a cluster of buildings adjacent to each other.

"They're scattered all over the center now and we want to bring them together." said Berridge.

The employees work in the company's Information Management Services division, the same division now moving about 600 employees into the former 152,000-square-foot NCR building in Lake Mary. Berridge said Friday the move will not affect occupancy of the NCR facility. While working for the same division, they perform different functions, he said.

SANFORD - A new art exhibit opens tomorrow at First Street Gallery. Work of a new Sanford artist will be featured.

The exhibit is by artist Warren Wolf, a resident of Sanford. Although reared in the West, he has painted and taught in New York, Pennsyvania. Ohio, Nebraska, Missouri and Oregon.

Called "Looking Back." the display is an exhibit of bold colored tactile abstracts projecting a 20-year span in the life of the artist.

Gallery director Kay Bartholomew explained. "Having emerged from a tradition of landscape painting. Wolf's present work deals with the timeless orders of the past and reveals a clue to man's nature in future civilizations."

"The technical aspect, the process of Wolf's work," she said, "is centered around the structural application of many layers of textural base, marble dust and poly-vinyl acetate/acrylic on masonite panel."

"His work has a teel that is both physical and spiritual," Bartholomew said. "We are delighted to introduce and welcome him to the communi-

Speak up about adult entertainment

Seminole County commissioners will once again take up the subject of adult entertainment next month.

In case you've been hibernating all winter and have just emerged with the groundhogs, a furor has been bubbling during the past several months over several businesses, primarily along U.S. Highway 17-92 south of State Road 436. Inside these businesses, young women will appear in various states of undress for a fee.

There are three such licensed establishments in the unincorporated sections of the county and three in Casselberry. County Attorney Bob McMillan notes there were only three establishments in the unincorporated areas in 1961 when the county first adopted its zoning law to address these places. That's the same number they have now. Just three.

Much of the furor was generated by a proposed new establishment at the previous location of Freddie's Steak House, a local landmark. But McMillan notes the current county ordinance would have prohibited the proposed strip joint there. Faced with those obstacles and the ensuing public outcry, the proposer backed out of the deal.

But since 1981, a new form of grown-up fun has evolved where a woman will appear clad only in lingerie for individual customers. This m not envisioned in 1891 of each 1896 when the ordinance was substantially changed or 1989 when it was changed again. This type activity clearly falls under the purview of the ordinance and shouldy be

But McMman makes an important point. The actual number of permitted adult entertainment businesses has not changed in 12 years. Businesses have come and gone and been replaced by others. Some have come close to the regulatory threshhold but have alipped through a loophole. But the ordinance has, for the most part, worked to limit the number of these businesses which police say tend to attract undesirable activities.

The new ordinance would serve to reduce the potential number of sites for these types of businesses, which are protected by the United States Constitution. We may not like them, but we cannot force them to go away.

The arrests this week at two lingeric modeling stores speak strongly to the need for county regulation over these businesses. And should those regulations come to be violated, we look to our law enforcers to respond appropriately.

County commissioners want to know what you think about these proposals. They will hold two public hearings on March 9 and March 23 at 7 p.m. each night in the County Services Building. Attend and participate, regardless of what you think about the subject.

In any case, her punishment by the masters of baseball indicates again that there is little enthusiasm anywhere in the country for the recommendation — made by Holmes and other believers in the free marketplace of ideas — that the most effective way to deal with loathsome speech is to openly and repeatedly refute it.

The free marketplace was in vigorous session on the matter of Marge Schott before she was institutionally bastinadoed. From sea to sea shining sea, in print, on television, on the

Marge Schott will grimly attend these sessions, and what she will learn is the usefulness of that old show-business adage: "The most important thing is to be sincere, and once you've learned how to fake that, you've got it made."

The one person in all this casting of stones who deserves special respect is Cincinnati relief pitcher Ron Dibble. I hope Jesse Jackson - who keeps spreading himself too thin - paid attention to the intrepid Dibble when he said:

"We've got a lot more problems in society worse than words. We've got kids killing each other in high school. We've got people starving. It's a sick enough world without making such a

All this furor about Marge Schott's words will do nothing to stop kids from killing each other in high school. And the official punishment - rather than letting a national exchange of opinions decide the matter - can lead to more people experiencing the fate that befell Al Campanis.

It's what Bill Clinton didn't say

Bill Clinton didn't exactly break the mold with his economic revitalization proposals last week, but he met the basic test imposed by the current economic situation. He talked specifics and offered a vision of change and growth based on what appear to be real numbers and honest projections. Now it's up to Congress either to accept what has been offered or provide a workable alternative.

What the president didn't do was as important as what he did do. He didn't offer pie-in-the-sky. He didn't try to soft-soap reality. He didn't promise anyone a free ride as the nation begins the hard job of climbing out of the deep economic hole that we have dug for

For the most part, he talked common sense to the American people. The estimated economic growth rate underlying his figures was realistic, if not downright conservative. He came as close to offering the public the unvarnished truth as any president in recent memory. And, a few rhetorical flights of demagoguery notwithstanding, the basic message was not markedly self-serving. He dwelled too long on the sins of the past 12 years without examining the mistakes of the decade that preceded Ronald Reagan, though partisan politics is hardly a cardinal fault in a democracy. Occasionally, he seemed to suggest falsely that he was in the dark last year when promising no-pain solutions that were patently abourd when offered, such as the middle-class tax cut. But in the main, his was a aerious presentation of a serious program that deserves a fair hearing.

As the debate proceeds, we need to keep two points in mind. First, if you want to find a scapegoat, look in the mirror. Second, if the intricate balance of pain and gain in the president's package is lost, you can kiss real reform goodbye. Sacred cows are out.

As to the point, it is time to give up the familiar game of pass-the-buck. Together, we built the 84 trillion debt with our credit-card approach to the national budget. Together, we looked the other way while the public schools deteriorated and the economy's need for well-trained workers intensified. Together, we decided to treat international leadership and economic supremacy as entitlements instead of as hard-won products of the sweat and vision of earlier generations.

And just about every one of us at one time or another was tempted to act as though "I've got mine" was on the national seal instead of "E Pluribus Unum.'

But the other point is equally important. Just as we share responsibility for our current national condition, we must share the cost of fixing it, and the shares must be proportionate. Those who benefited most in the recent past should properly give back more than those who benefited least. Those who benefited not at all should not be penalized anew.

The point is not to demand sacrifice for the sake of sacrifice, or taxes for the sake of taxes. The point is to revitalize the economy. restructure the government and slay the twin monsters of deficit and debt. If there were a painless way to do all that, it would have been done long ago. But there isn't — and it we all know it. Pretending that you can get something for nothing put us where we are today.

The president's plan includes provisions that are certain to enrage just about everyone. The public has said re-peatedly it doesn't like an energy tax. even one that protects the interests of poorer Americans. Corporations thought they had been pro-

What the mised that the tax code would not be reopened after the 1986 reforms. So did most wealthier individuals. The original theory behind Social Security was that it was an insurance program, not a graduated welfare system. Some of the proposed new regulations appear to come straight out of the playbook of the "Old Democrats," rather than from the "New Democrats" who were so visible in Clinton's campaign. As a result, most of the noise in the coming weeks is going to be made by spokesmen for groups seeking exemption from the president's proposals. Let's hope they fail. His program is an integrated whole. It will live or die on the basis of shared costs for

Some observers claim to be appalled by Clinton's approach. I'm not. What we have today is a sinking ship, and the president is summoning all hands to the pumps. His approach may fail. But the old approach most assuredly has already failed, and no one cise has a different answer or the will to impose one. If you doubt that, look at the last 20 years.

Hillary: Power, public service?

BOSTON - It was a miserable, gray, icy winter morning in a city suffering from three major epidemics: The February blahs, the flu, and another rash of no-school days. Indeed, the Boston that greeted the head of the Task Force on Health Care Reform was a coldbed of Seasonal Affect Disorder.

But Hillary Rodham Clinton came here on her appointed rounds for one of a series of trips billed as "pulse-taking" sessions. She is out taking the pulse of the public and clearly, the public is taking the pulse of this new sort of first lady.

Here and everyels, there seems to be a mutual checkup. and an ongoing, about what makes hor tick. Hillary. analyzing threatens to become a chronic condition.

It's over a month the first lady since the Little Rock gets more lawyer moved to the power, the vice White House. Seven president has months since the candidate's partner was locked in a chocolate chip cookie bake-off with Barbara Bush! A year since Bill Clinton'w wife was introduced to the American public as a woman who was "not Tammy Wynette."

Those who administer

But the dissection of Hillary's character and motives remains something of a full-time specialty, particularly among those who write character prescriptions for a living. Even in the medical mecca of Massachusetts, Hillary Clinton — her name, her job, her hair — can produce more free association than a Rorschach blot.

I am not surprised by the intensity of the interest in the first lady who has now been on more magazine covers than Cheryl Tiegs in a good year. Hillary belongs to a generation of women whose changing lives have been under constant examination and self-examination for over 20 years.

The roles that most women her age are struggling to bridge in their everyday lives balancing work and home, juggling children and jobs, success and acceptance - are now being played out against the most rarefled and public backdrop of the White House. We are witnessing the high profile of the first full-fledged professional woman to serve as first lady and the first first lady to take such an open part in public policy-making.

The newspapers and television bring us daily portraits of Hillary the hostess, Hillary the mother, Hillary the health honcho. We see Hillary setting a table, and Hillary setting an agenda. It's as if the long dormant and much debated superwoman had finally broken through the glass ceiling.

But what bothers me is the way the talk about this woman so often seems to turn into a hunt for the seven early warning signs of power-grabbing. Remember when she became head of the health-care panel? One magazine warned: "She risks being accused of using her marriage as a route to advancement." Another woman sleeping her way to the top.

Remember when she set up shop in the west wing of the White House? Her move was universally described as a power trip. Remember when she took her briefcase to Congress? The newspaper headlines hung on one word: clout.

After her very first "pulse-taking" trip, the Sunday morning pundits hinted darkly abut a Hillary run amok because she has no "accountability." And even now those who administer weekly political potency tests assert that as the first lady gets more power, the vice president has less.

The fixation on female uppityness is common enough to rank as a cultural disease. Women who atruggle long hours at low wages may be praised as virtuous or self-sacrificing.

Pliot killed in skilng accident

PARK CITY, Utah - American Airlines' chief pilot was killed in a skiing accident, authorities said.

William A. James, 54, suffered massive head injuries at the Deer Valley ski resort southeast of Park City, said a nursing supervisor at University Medical Center.

Chuck English, director of mountain operations at Deer Valley, said witnesses saw James skiing fast just before the accident Saturday, and it was believed he either tangled his skis or lost control and veered into trees.

A vice president and the chief pilot for American Airlines, James was based at the company's headquarters in Dallas-Fort Worth. He had worked for the airline for nearly 28 years, said American spokeswoman Karen Cook.

Accused murderer found dead

CARBONADO. Wash. - A man under investigation in the death of his second wife and the disappearance of his first has died, apparently a suicide, officials said.

The body of James Endorf, 48, was found in his pickup truck, a hose running from the tailpipe to a window, Pierce County sheriff's deputy Curt Benson said. The truck was on a logging road about 25 miles southeast of Tacoma.

Deputies were called Saturday afternoon by two girls who found the truck. Authorities found a suicide note in the truck. but it contained no confession, Benson said.

Endorf was a manager at Boeing Co. His second wife, Debra Ann Endorf, 40, also a Boeing employee, was found dead in the trunk of her car in January, a day after Endorf told authorities she had failed to return from a shopping trip. She had been strangled and hit in the head.

Student killed in random attack

HOUSTON - A college graduate student driving in southwest Houston was shot in the chest and killed, in an apparently random attack, police said.

Heron Courtney Waddy, 23, was driving home with a friend early Sunday when shots were fired at the car. The friend told police he thought Waddy was kidding when he slumped over. but then the vehicle crashed into a tree. Waddy, who was working on a master's degree in biology at Texas Southern University, died shortly after his arrival at Ben "We don't have anything to indicate that something happened to cause the shooting." said homicide Sgt. Sharon Durham. "This one appears to be random."

Durham said the friend didn't see anyone shooting.

Nuclear complex begins test runs

AIKEN, S.C. — The Savannah River nuclear complex is to begin test runs this month on a treatment plant for high-level radioactive waste.

The General Accounting Office, the investigative arm of Congress, said the plant already is five years behind schedule. The treatment plant is designed to replace 51 underground waste tanks. Nine of the tanks have leaked, and a few gallons of waste penetrated the soil. The Savannah River Site is the nation's only source of radioactive tritium gas, which is used to boost the power of

The plant at the Defense Waste Processing Facility will take the most radioactive waste from the tanks and mix it with glass particles. That mixture then will be poured into steel canisters and temporarily stored on-site until a federal repository is

The first phase of the test, expected to begin in a week and last two months, involves using chemicals that simulate waste.

Assault weapon ban unconstitutional

DENVER - A judge ruled the city's ordinance banning semiautomatic assault weapons is unconstitutional and vague. Denver District Judge Michael Mullins said the 1989 ordinance did not clearly define what weapons are outlawed and left citizens guessing.

A section of the ordinance also was in direct conflict with the Colorado constitution because it made it illegal for a person who had a permit for such a weapon to use it in defense of his person, property or home, Mullins ruled Priday.

"It precludes constitutionally protected conduct," he said. Denver lawyer Ralph Rhodes, who represents four gun owners who challenged the ordinance, said he believes it is the first time in the United States that a local gun ordinance has been declared unconstitutional. The Colorado Attorney General's Office also challenged the measure.

The city attorney's office will review the ruling before deciding whether to appeal Mullins' decision, Assistant City Attorney John Stoffel said.

Death row inmate to be released soon

MONROEVILLE, Ala. - The release of an Alabama prison inmate who spend six years on death row could come within days, attorneys said.

Last week, the Alabama Court of Criminal Appeals reversed the capital murder conviction for Walter Johnny McMillian, 52. Monroe County District Attorney Tommy Chapman said Saturday that McMillian won't be retried and he could be freed very soon.

Chapman, who did not conduct McMillian's trial, said new evidence surfaced in connection with the murder case, and "I think it's clear that the real killer is out there somewhere."

The key witness against McMillian was Ralph Myers, who later recanted his story that he saw McMillian at the murder

Money spent secretly on law suits

MARTINEZ, Calif. - A San Francisco Bay area county secretly spent more than $3.1 million in taxpayer money to settle lawsuits despite a court ruling barring such concealment, a newspaper reported Sunday.

Since 1990, Contra Costa County officials have secretly settled eight cases, including lawsuits alleging job discrimination, medical malpractice and sexual harassment, according to documents obtained by the Contra Costa Times.

County officials defended their actions, saying they approved the settlements on advice from attorneys and with the approval of Superior Court judges. They also said they were protecting the county from possible future lawsuits.

Armed cult continues stand off

By TERRI LANGFORD Associated Press Writer

WACO, Texas (AP) - A wounded cult leader and his followers maintained a tense standoff with law officers this morning following flerce gun battles that left four federal agents and two cult members dead.

The violence crupted Sunday morning when 100 federal agents stormed the fortified compound of the Branch Davidian sect to search for guns and arrest David Koresh. the cult's 33-year-old leader, authorities said.

After the 45-minute exchange, the two sides negotiated a cease-fire that lasted into the evening.

But about 6 p.m., three cult members emerged from the compound and began shooting, said Les Stanford of the Bureau of Alcohol, Tobacco and Firearms in Washington.

The second shootout lasted only minutes, and no shots have been fired since then as negotiators continued talking by telephone with Koresh and another cult member.

Koresh, who changed his name from Vernon Howell and says he is Jesus Christ, reported that his 2-year-old daughter was among those killed and that he was gravely wounded.

"I've been shot. I'm bleeding he told Dallas radio station KRLD early today as a baby was heard crying in the background. "I'm going home. I'm going back to my father."

Koresh began releasing children held inside about 9 p.m. Sunday, letting them go in pairs. Eight of what are believed to be dozens had been released by early today, said a McLennan County sheriff's deputy.

Armored véhicles from nearby Fort Hood and a special police weapons team arrived after dark, joining 250 federal agents and dozens of state police.

The ATF said four agents and one sect member were killed in the first gun battle. Two helicopters were hit by gunfire, and a TV news van and a newspaper photographer's car were also hit.

"It sounded like a war zone, people were being hit, you could hear people screaming with the agony, the pain of it." said John McLemore, a KWTX-TV reporter who witnessed the initial shootout.

One sect member was killed and one captured in the second shootout, Stanford said. A third man apparently was wounded but retreated back to the compound, about 10 miles cast of Waco.

At least 16 other ATF agents and three cult members, including Koresh, were injured. the ATF said.

The assault came one day after the Waco Tribune-Herald began publishing a series on the cult. quoting former members as saying the Koresh may have abused children of group members and claimed to have at least 15 wives.

Authorities said about 75 people were at the compound. but Koresh said there were many more, including children of all ages.

"There are a lot of children here," he told CNN. "I've had a lot of babies these past two years. It's true that I do have a lot of children and I do have a lot of wives." In past interviews. Koresh has denied he had more than one wife or two children.

Time for high school already?!

Lake Mary high school parents go to orientation

By SARABECCA ROSIER Herald Columnist

LAKE MARY — Orientation for parents of students planning to attend Lake Mary High School was held at the cafeteria in Greenwood Lakes Middle School on Monday evening, Feb. 21.

The first speaker was Lake Mary High School Guldance Counselor Connic Hyland. Hyland explained that "conferences are held for middle school students and parents to meet with their respective counselors prior to the final registration step." "Conferences will be held on Tuesday and Wednesday, Fcb. 23 and 24. Parents are encouraged to call the middle school guidance offices for setting up appointments during those school days." Counselors were available at both Greenwood Lakes Middle School and Rock Lake Middle Schools. Three guidance counselors from Lake Mary High School were scheduled to be in attendance at each of the two middle schools. Hyland explained "that department heads from Lake Mary High School met with teachers at Greenwood Lakes Middle School to recommend courses and various levels in the academic ladder." "Four years of English, math and sciences are required for college bound stu-dents. Everyone in the 9th grade damental earth science; 2) takes science, either earth space science or biology." "Many students if they are collegebound, will also begin taking a foreign language." Because of the different forms of social studies taken in middle school, there is no social studies re- honors and gifted. Above 80 quirement for 9th graders. How- DRP goes to honors or gifted. ever, in 10th grade, they will have world history, in 11th grade, American history and in 12th grade, American government. A total of six credits must be taken in each grade level from 9th through 12th. There are a variety of electives depending on the plan being followed. There are four basic plans or courses of study: General Plan, College Bound Plan, Business Career Plan and Job Entry Plan. There is also an Academic Scholar area. For the four basic plans, a minimum of 24 credits are required to graduate. However, for the academic scholar, 26 credits are required.

The second department head to speak was Mark Schiffer from Science. Schiffer spoke of the four choices in science: 1) funstandard earth space science; 3) honors biology and 4) gifted biology. The third speaker was from the English Department, Donna Whelchel. It is very basic for English - there is standard.

and below 80 DRP goes to standard.

The fourth speaker was from the Math Department, Sandy Brown. DRP does not apply to math. "There are several choices offered to 9th graders, prealgebra, algebra 1, geometry or general math. Grades are usually the deciding factor and basically this is dependent on the student's teacher recommendation. Usually for college-bound students, Algebra I or Geometry is taken in grade 9, then either geometry or algebra 2 in 10th grade followed by either algebra 2 or pre-calculus in 11th grade and trigonometry or calculus in 12th grade.'

The next speaker was from the Foreign Language Department. Carol Teaken. Teaken stated that it is "not necessary to take a foreign language to graduate from high school, however, you need to have three years of a foreign language to be accepted in most four-year colleges, or to be an academic scholar." "If you have to nag your students to do not ready for a foreign language. If their English grade is poor, a foreign language will also be less successful. You need to talk to your child's English teacher.

Carol Hyland returned to the microphone to tell parents that "a reading and writing improvement course is being offered for the first time and is an elective, but will be strongly recommended to help children stay in school and graduate." However, this is only for children with real problems. Also, "Reading techniqu; class for above-average ability children who do not read as well as you would expect for their ability."

"In high school, students need to be responsible and do homework." "Students should take levels of courses commensurate with their abilities in order to be successful. At Lake Mary High School they try to encourage students to be the best they can be," said Hyland.

Questions were answered throughout the evening from homework, they are probably parents.

Middle school classmates 'adopt' crossing guard

At Greenwood Lakes Middle School, teacher Margie Dilmore's classes CARE. In conjunction with Arbor Day, Dilmore's CARE classes decided to "adopt" the crossing guard, Dawn Litwenak, at the corner of Greenway Blvd. and Lake Park Ave., because her position was in such an open area as to provide no relief from the sun. Paul Klinger, father of student Barrett Klinger donated a 10 ft. sycamore tree to give shade in the hot spring and summer time. Hopefully, the tree will sprout enough leaves by then to shield the crossing guard as she carries out her duties. In addition to this good deed for the crossing guard, it has a dual purpose noted by the CARE classes, and that it's "a good investment for our environment." To thank Klinger for his kind donation, Ashley Ballance obtained a plaque donated from Triple A Trophy Shop.

A dedication ceremony was held on Thursday, Feb. 18 officially donating the tree and a pizza party was held afterwards in Dilmore's room for the class. Mr. Terry, a custodian from Greenwood Lakes, planted the

Kids make snow

Lake Mary Elementary students are doing some mighty interesting projects. Kindergarteners have made snow and more snow using Epsom salts, Ivory Snow, shaving cream and regular white paper and eventually built a Florida snowman. First graders have been dis-cussing the theme "Helping Out" with suggestions from parents and teachers as to earing for a neighbor's pet, running an errand, or helping a friend draw a picture. Counting money and solving problems with money is their math topic.

Second grade started the new calendar year with resolutions. Ask you child about some of them. They are also enjoying working with new math manipulatives.

and will present the production of "United We Stand." Drama, humor and song will be incorporated in the celebration of patriotism. Science class has moved to studying the reptile world and each student is writing a report on a particular reptile. Language arts classes are deep into the theme of "Understanding Self and Others."

Mrs. White's 5th grade language arts students are involved in a new and innovative project entitled GAMES (Gaining Addi-tional Materials for Essential Skills). White recently received a grant from FACTS to purchase materials for this project. Students will be making games to help develop basic skills in their class and in other classes throughout the school.

The spring walk-a-thon is scheduled for March. If you would like to help, give Marie Braddock a call at 323-2932 or Lois Mahoney at 321-5343.

Field trip fun
On Feb. 16, Lake Mary Elementary fourth graders enjoyed a field trip to Bowl America in Sanford. Coach Flance was on hand to help organize the groups of children and all 32 bowling lanes were filled to capacity. In addition to learning the skills of bowling it was also educational as students took turns keeping score. As these were not automatic scorekeeping machines, the students had to add and subtract the pins and carry over with "strikes" and "spures."

Longwood acts on 2 public hearings at meeting tonight

By SANDRA ELLIOTT Herald Staff Writer

LONGWOOD-Longwood city commissioners will conduct two public hearings during their meeting tonight, one on amendments to personnel other which will help clear the way for construction of a transmittal tower for cellular telephones. The amendments to the personnel policies is scheduled for second reading at the commission meeting. The changes deal with job posting require-ments and sick leave usage.

The commission will also hold a hearing on a conditional use request which, if okayed, would allow Bell South Mobility, Inc. to build a tower off SR 434. Bell South Mobility officials say another tower is needed due to heavy traffic in the area and the number of people using cellular phones.

The three-sided lattice tower with a one story unmanned maintenance shed would be located in a field behind the Citgo Car Wash across from South Seminole Hospital.

Earlier this month, the city's board of adjustment approved a variance for the tower involving the "fall zone" requirement ofthe city building code. Attorney policies and procedures and the Francis Thomas told board members most jurisdictions no longer trapose the "fall zone" requirement due to modern engineering and constuction techniques. The chance of a tower falling and hitting any surrounding structure is slight. Bell officials said the two towers that fell in South Florida during Hurricane Andrew had sustained 200 mph winds but were really taken down by flying debris. In some instances, towers were left standing when everything around them was demolished, they said.

> In other business, representatives of the St. Johns' River Management District will make a presentation. They are seeking public input for the district water management plan which Is due in 1994.

Tallahassee braces for Lozano trial

By Associated Press

TALLAHASSEE - Mindful of a similar trial happening on the other side of the country, people here wait to find out if they'll host a former Miami policeman's racially-charged retrial.

Colombian born William Lozano returns to court to defend himself against manslaughter charges stemming from the 1989 deaths of two black men. Clement Lloyd and Anthony Blanchard, Lozano shot Lloyd to death as a speeding motorcycle ridden by the two approached: Blanchard died as a result of the ensuing crash.

Three days of burning and looting followed.

Later that year. Lozano was found guilty of manslaughter by a multiracial Mauni jury, despite his claim of self-defense.

An anneals court overturned the verdict in 1991, ruling the jurors had been influenced by a fear of more rioting.

Given last spring's violence in the Los Angeles area following the acquittal of four white police officers on state charges in the beating of black motorist Rodney King, Lozano defense lawyer Roy Black has suggested most cities with large black populations may fear uprisings if his client goes free.

"Everyone is well aware of the King trial and what occurred afterward." Black said. "I think it makes it much more difficult for a police officer to get a fair trial.

The defense plans to try again in hearings this week to move the March 8 retrial out of Tallahassee, where one in five residents is black.

The case was moved from Miami to Orlando and eventually to Florida's capital in a war of words over which city had the higher potential for violence in the event of an acquittal.

In a 69-page change of venue motion, the defense cited a poll it commissioned showing 52 percent of Tallahassee-area residents fear racial violence if Lozano is acquitted.

The tension will be heightened. Black said, because the trial of the four Los Angeles officers on civil rights charges in the King beating is going on at the same time.

There is fear of rioting in Tallahassee, said the Rev. R.N. Gooden, member of a ministers' group that fought to keep the trial away.

"The black community here has followed the Lozano case closely, and it goes to the heart of the problems we have with police here," he said.

While many city officials have objected to hosting the trial, not everyone is convinced it would cause trouble.

"If it has to be held here, this is a well-educated, well-reasoned community and I'm sure they can render a fair verdict," says outgoing Mayor Bob Hightower.

"I know it's good to prepare for the worst, but there won't be a worst," said Isaac Greene, student body vice president at historically black Florida A&M. University

Even so, Police Chief Mel Tucker wants to be ready. He already has made sure every one of his 300 officers is equipped with riot gear, including collapsible batons, pepper gas and gas mask shields.

Black claims county's only wrestling state title

From Staff Reports

LAKELAND - Oviedo High School's Brian Black kept Seminole County from being shut out at the Class 4A state wrestling tournament this weekend at the Lakeland Civic Center, claiming the state title in the 220-pound weight class.

Black, who pinned defending state champion James Burgess of Homestead at 5:54 of the championship match, was the only county wrestler to win a state championship but was one of seven county wrestlers to place in the top four of their respective weight class.

The only other local to make the finals was Lyman's Dallas Simpson, who lost for the first time since coming back from a prolonged filness in the finals at 189 pounds, dropping an 11-8 decision to Lakeland-Kathleen's Ray Lewis.

Working their way back through the wrestlebacks to finish third were Lyman's Vinnie Samero (140 pounds) and Lake Brantley heavyweight Chris Schlachter. Samero and Schlachter both won their consolation final matches with 7-4 decisions.

Finishing fourth in their respective weight classes were Craig Martin from Oviedo (125 pounds). Lake Mary's Jean Pierre (171 pounds). and Nelson Diaz of Lyman (220 pounds).

Simpson, Samero, and Diaz led the Lyman Greyhounds to a flfth-place team finish. No other Seminole County school finished in the top 10.

Lyman compiled a team score of 56 points. nearly half the total of state champion Brandon (109 points). The Greyhounds were less than seven points behind second-place Lakeland-Lake Gibson (621/2 points). Miami-Southridge (58 points) and Coral Park (57 points) were third and fourth, respectively.

Meanwhile, Seminole High School's representatives had a short stay the Class 3A statemeet, which also was being contested at the Lakeland Civic Center.

"They had great seasons," said first-year Seminole coach Bill Caughell. "Just getting to the state meet is an accomplishment, to be one of the top 16 wrestlers in the state in your weight! class. And Peterson's only been wrestling for 21/2 months.'

Rams earn berth in semifinals

From Staff Reports

LAKE MARY - Anna Van Landingham knew it all along.

Before the season started, Van Landingham thought her Lake Mary High School girls' basketball team had the potential to advance to the Class 4A state tournament.

At the beginning of the season, such a pronouncement would have been dismissed as the typical optimistic build up every coach tries to give his or her team.

It just so happens that Van Landingham was right.

On Saturday night, the Rams registered a 65-50 decision over the Palm Bay Pirates in the 4A-Section III championship game at Lake Mary High School, earning the Rams a trip to Tallahassee, site of this year's girls' basketball state tournament.

Lake Mary (27.5) will play Miami-Norland (the unanimous No. 1 selection in the final Florida Sports Willers Association's Class 4A state poll) in Thursday's 3:30 p.m. semifinal at the Tallahasse-Leon County Civic-Center. Pensacola-Washington and Clearwater-Countryside will meet in the other semifinal.

This will be Lake Mary's first appearance in the state semifinals.

"At the beginning of the season, I felt that I had a team that had the tools to go to final four," said Van Landingham, who notched her 100th win at Lake Mary with the victory over Palm Bay. "I knew that If everyone did her part and played their roles, if we came out focused and played our game, we would come out the victor.

"There were some games we didn't do that and it didn't turn out well for us. But going into the district tournament. I felt we were See Semifinalists, Page 2B

COCOA - If there's anything worse than losing, it's not getting

On Saturday night, the Lyman High School boys' soccer team didn't win the Class 4A state championship at the Cocoa Sports Expo. But the Greyhounds didn't get beat either, as the Valrico-Bloomingdale Bulls claimed the state title on penalty kicks, 2-1.

However you wish to describe it, it was a heartbreaking ending to a superb run through the 1992-93 campaign by the Greyhounds (a school-record

Arrow Force, Lions cap sweep

From Staff Reports

SANFORD - Seminole County got out the brooms Saturday night.

The underdog Seminole and Ovtedo high school boys basketball teams won their respective district titles, joining the Seminole and Lake Mary girls', teams as district champions, giving the county a sweep of all four titles available to local basketball teams. Seminole's Arrow Force One, seeded fifth, pulled off its third upset in as many nights, edging second-seeded

Daytona Beach-Seabreeze, 72-68, to win the Class 3A-District 5 tournament at New Smyrna Beach High School. Seminole will now host District 6 champion Satellite

(16-12) in the Region III title game Tuesday night at 7:30 p.m. at Bill Fleming Memorial Gymnasium.

The fourth-seeded Lions, the defending Class 4A state champions, bested their second straight higher-seeded Volusia County opponent in the 4A-District 9 tournament at Mainland High School, holding off DeLand,

Oviedo will also play at home at 7:30 p.m. Tuesday night, hosting Boone, which defeated Apopka 48-33 in the District 10 title game. 3A-DISTRICT 5

To borrow from the Bard, the play's the thing. It's not always easy to remember that, especially at this time of year when the high school winter sports seasons are playing their way out to the their respective state championships.

District tournaments or meets, regionals, sectionals, semifinals . . every school in the state ends its season with a loss except for the state champion.

And when the end comes, generally, it's not easy to take. On Saturday night, the Lyman High School boys' soccer team and Seminole High School girls' basketball team ended their 1992-93 seasons in starkly different but no less definitive ways.

Playing at the Cocoa Sports Expo Center, the Lyman Greyhounds fell in the Class 4A state championship game on sudden death penalty kicks to Valrico-Bloomingdale.

Meanwhile, in Osceola County, the Seminole girls suffered through a 35-point thrashing at the hands of the St. Cloud Bulldogs.

We can debate all week as to what's worse when it comes to losing, just missing or getting ripped. On one hand, there's the frustration of having come so close compared to the embarrassment of being outclassed. Unfortunately, what the negative ending to the season of all but the select few has a tendency to do is eclipse the accomplishments that a team may have made during the course of the regular season.

For example, the Greyhounds set a school record for wins in the season while losing just two games. They won the Seminole Athletic Conference, district, regional, and sectional titles as well as finishing first in the Rotary Cup and Pizza Hut Invitational tournaments.

Regardless of what happened in Cocoa Saturday, it's Impossible to consider Lyman's season anything but a phenomenal success, perhaps being the best campaign every enjoyed by a Seminole County boys' soccer team.

While the Seminoles didn't enjoy quite the success that the Greyhounds did, the Seminole cagers did win more than 20 games this season. Not too bad for a team that was perceived as Niki Washington. Tennishia Eason, and others.

Actually, it was Washington, Eason, and Kay Kay Mullins at the beginning of the season as Coach John McNamara tried to work a bunch of new faces into the mix. It took a while, but when Mullins went down with a season-ending knee injury, those new faces were able to sten in and do the lob.

Even though the Tribe's five-year run as SAC champions ended this season, the Seminoles bested a strong field in their season-opening tournament and took fifth in the Polk Holiday Classic, beating Cape Coral-Mariner. That's the same Cape Coral-Mariner squad that won the 3A-Section III title Saturday.

Does what happened in St. Cloud Saturday diminish what the Tribe did just to get there, playing out of the bottom half of the bracket in the district tournament and defeating fifth-ranked Cocoa in the regional contest last Tuesday? Certainly not.

It may sound like rationalization or attempt to be patronizing, but any veteran of high-level athletic competition (and participating in the Seminole Athletic Conference is nothing if not that) will tell you that a lot goes into being champions.

only a portion of which is ability. To finish with a quote from Casey Stengel, another muster wordsmith. sometimes you win, sometimes you lose, and sometimes, it rains.

In an almost perfect illustration of what Van Landingham means, the Rams employed a well-balanced attack against the Pirates as each of the seven Lake Mary players who scored had at least five points each.

On top of that, Jennifer Greissing came off the bench to lead the Rams in scoring with 14 points. Karen Morris added 13 and Diane Duber had 10. LaShawn Merrick chipped in with nine while Laura Ragucci netted eight. Lake Mary all but put the game away early, storming out to a 20-4 lead after one quarter and a 34-12 halftime advantage.

"One of the main things is that we came out with more intensity than we have in the past," Van Landingham said. "Everyone really played their role. At one point, the whole starting lineup had four fouls. Things could have gotten pretty tight, but everyone did their part.

Environment, landscaping

New approach encourages management practices

ELM, a term most often associated with a large group of deciduous trees (Elms), is also an abbreviation for a new approach to landscaping that considers first and foremost our impact on the environment. (ELM) or Environmental Landscape Management is based on a set of principles that helps us better manage our landscapes — from an environmental point of view.

from an environmental point of view.

The goal of ELM is to create environmentally-sound landscapes through the use of appropriate landscape practices. Components of ELM include: Water conservation: we can use water efficiently by carefully choosing and placing plants in the landscape. Proper irrigation methods also help conserve water. Energy Conservation; landscape trees and shrubs can be used to modify the microclimate around buildings. We should also realize that most landscape practices consume energy directly or indirectly. Proper Fertilization and Pesticide Management and Recycling of Landscape Waste: These last two areas help prevent damage to the environment from improper use and disposal of fertilizers, pesticides, and yard wastes.

ELM seeks to create landscapes that are in harmony with the environment, and for this to take place we must first look at the "big picture" — all the factors that influence our landscapes. The sunshine, warm temperatures, and nearly year-round growing conditions that make this a garden paradise for us is also perfect for plant pests. Insects, diseases, weeds and nematodes enjoy this favorable climate as much as we do. This combination of climate, pests, and continuous growth results in nearly year-round inputs of fertilizer, water, and pesticides into our landscapes.

The ELM alternative to pest control, IPM - Integrated Pest Management seeks to keep pests at acceptable levels, not to eradicate them. IPM avoids cultural practices which aggravate pests, like overwatering and over fertilizing. The key practice of an IPM program is monitoring. During peak seasons, inspect the landscape once a week for any sign of pests. Weekly monitoring will identify key plants which are attacked by key pests. It is very important that you properly identify the pest so you don't mistake a "good guy" like lady beetles for "bad guys" like aphids. Once pests are identified, treat the pest only when damage is significant or the pest is likely to become a problem. Remember, "perfect is not always practical" for pest control in the landscape.

Over fertilization and overwatering are the two common problems that can have dire environmental consequences. Many people irrigate with the philosophy that "if a little is good, then more is better." Overwatering can lead to: weeds that love wet feet (dollar weed, root rot disease which only attack root systems weakened from stresses like too much water, leaching or the downward movement of fertilizers and pesticides below where roots can use them. Overwatering can cause run-off of pollutants into surface water. Irrigate by amount of water applied, not by time. Irrigation should wet the soil to a death of 12 inches, which means that in our sandy soils apply 34" to 1" of water should be applied each time you irrigate. You will need to adjust how often you irrigate according to environmental conditions and soil type. Place water-loving plants such as turf and annuals on separate irrigation zones from more drought-tolerant species, so that water will be used more efficiently. Over fertilization causes excessive growth which requires more pruning and encourages insect and disease pests. Excess fertilizer is also likely to leach easily through our sandy soils. Fertilizer should be broadcast over the entire landscape, deep root feeding of trees and shrubs is no longer recommended.

ELM lastly recognizes that yard waste must be dealt with properly to keep it out of the landfills. Grass clippings can be left on the lawn if mowing is done on a regular basis and no more than one-third of the blade is removed at each mowing. Grass clippings left to degrade on the lawn can add as much as one pound of nitrogen per year—that's one fertilization you won't have to buy. Grass clippings and other yard waste can also be composted for use as an organic soil amendment, potting soil, or mulch.

For more information about Environmental Landscape Management practices, call the Agriculture Center at 323-2500, ext.

Earline Crossley (right) of Crossley's Nursery, Orlando, tells Mary MacTavish, president of the Garden Club of Sanford Inc., a few pointers about "Gigglea," a miniature rose, which literally caused a few giggles. Crossely, guest speaker at the February meeting, spoke on miniature roses.

Medicine: Vet is pets' best bet

DEAR ABBY: I am a veterinarian who has worked at emergency clinics in five states. Some of the things I have seen are heartbreaking because they could have been prevented.

A schnauzer was brought in one night, in convulsions with improper heart contractions. It had a temperature of 106 degrees. The owner had been instructed by her veterinarian to give the dog Sudafed. She didn't ask how much, but went and bought 120-milligram extended-release capsules and gave her 10-pound dog one. This was a sufficient overdose to kill the dog without intensive veterinary treatment.

A cat hurt its leg, and the owner felt that it was in pain, so she gave it one aspirin on Saturday morning, another on Saturday evening, and one on Sunday morning. By Monday, the cat was dead. Aspirin is extremely toxic to cats. A single tablet can be fatal.

Another cat drank antifreeze, which is also toxic. The owner noticed it was "a little under the weather," and gave it a Tylenol tablet. The cat died. The antifreeze was one polson — the Tylenol another. A single Tylenol tablet is enough to kill most cats.

A horse owner gave his 150pound dog one of the "horse aspirins" his vet had prescribed for his 1,000-pound gelding. The dog came into the emergency clinic vomiting blood, and died from a perforating gastric ulcer and peritonitis. The dosage for a horse is 1,000 to 2,000 milligrams a day, while the maximum dosage for a dog is 800 milligrams a day.

Abby, if you can't pubish my entire letter, at least print this part: THREE IMPORTANT RULES

FOR PET OWNERS

1. Do not give your pet human medications or medications prescribed for another animal, unless directed by a veterinarian. Be sure to ask how much and how often to give the drug.

2. Il your pet gets into a human medication, treat it as a poisoning victim, until proven otherwise. This means contacting a veterinarian.

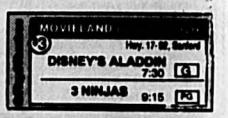

3. Veterinarians do not tell mothers how to treat their children, and human physicians should not tell owners how to treat their pets. Human and animal metabolisms vary widely.

If your pet is poisoned, or an exposure is of questionable toxicity, the veterinarian or the owner should contact a veterinary poison control center. The National Animal Poison Control Center located at the University of Illinois in Champaign/Urbana.

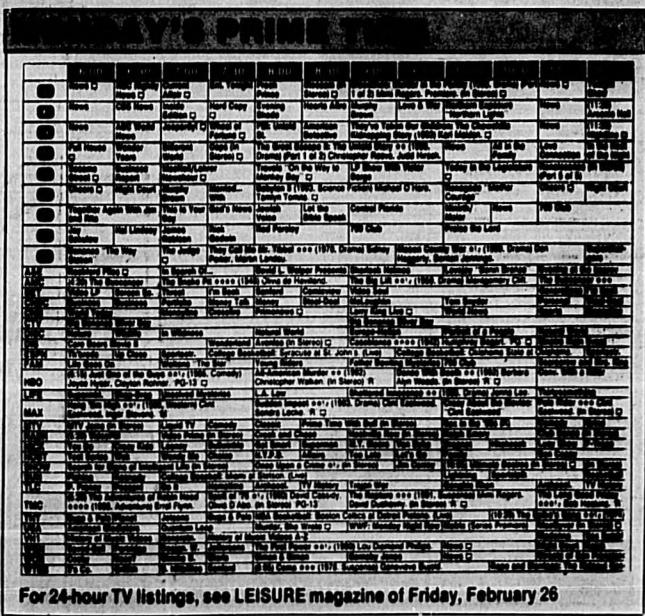

is the only one in the nation. Its phones are answered 24 hours a day, seven days a week, and each call is handled by a veterinarian with special training in toxicology. There is a charge of for the calls, but it is well worth the life of your pet. There are two numbers: (800) 548-2423 ($30 credit card charge per case) and (900) 680-0000 ($2.95) per minute).

DOROTHY MURRAY, D.V.M., HOUSTON

DEAR DR. MURRAY: On behalf of all God's creatures who will benefit from your valuable suggestions — a heartfelt thank you!

LUMBERJACK AND HIS INEXHAUSTIBLE

Bell's palsy needs an MRI follow-up diagnosed with Bell's palsy that my doctor says is temporary. Several months into this, my eye has not returned to normal, my face pulls up when I talk and I'm generally uncomfortable. A second doctor has suggested an MRI. At 70 years of age, what will the MRI accomplish?

DEAR READER: Bell's palsy is paralysis of the facial nerve, leading to a drooping of one side of the face; patients are usually unable to close one eye, smile or puffout one cheek.

Most cases are probably due to a transient viral infection of the nerve. As the infection improves (without treatment), the paralysis disappears -- usually within about three months.

Other causes include malignant tumors, mastoid infections, leukemia, meningitis, and Lyme disease. By obtaining a magnetic resonance imaging test, your doctor would be looking for a tumor or infection. You should also have a blood count and - by all means - a Lyme blood test.

Lyme disease is a treatable infection caused by the bite of a deer tick. This disease is becoming increasingly more common and often presents in bizarre and unusual ways. Bell's palsy is one such presentation. Therefore, make sure your doctor checks you for Lyme disease.

If you have had a nerve paralysis for several months, I'd also advise you to have the MRI. DEAR DR. GOTT: How long do hot flashes during menopause last? I've had them for a year and they seem to be getting worse with time.

DEAR READER: There's enormous variation in the duration of menopausal symptoms. such as hot flashes and emotional instability. Some women pass uneventfully through the change of life without so much as a by-your-leave. Other women seem to suffer the tortures of the damned for years. Fortunately,

DEAR DR. GOTT: I've been most women stop having symptoms after a year or so. Incidentally, hot flashes often worsen before they disappear, as the body attempts to adjust to decreasing hormone production.

I advise you to be patient. You will probably be symptom-free in a few months. If not, check with a gynecologist. Under appropriate medical supervision. you may be a candidate for

An interesting book, particularly for tournament players, has been written by Jeff Rubens. In "Swiss Match Challenge," published by Lawrence & Leong ($13.75, The Bridge World, 39 West 94th Street, New York, NY 10025-7124), you play through eight seven-board matches in bidding, opening leads, de-clarer-play and defense. After solving each problem, you find out how you did. After finishing each match, you find out how your teammates got on and you score up using the international matchpoint scale. Then you retire for a recuperative nap or drink.

from 1983 to 1985, but who can remember that far back? Today's deal is one of the easiest. Sitting West and defending against six no-trump, you lead the spade 10. As Rubens says, "While declarer looks things over, it would be wise for you to plan your defense."

If declarer has the K-Q of clubs, probably he will get home Swiss matches, as they are without a problem. When your called. You face tough problems partner has Q-x of clubs, your play on the second round of the suit should vary: sometimes the 10, sometimes not. The critical position occurs when your partner has the K-Q doubleton. On the first round, declarer will finesse dummy's nine. This will lose to, say, the queen. On the second round, you must play your 10, trying to look like someone who started with All these deals appeared in K-10-x. If you play low, declarer The Bridge World magazine will have no option but to rise with the ace. If East started with a singleton queen, South cannot run the whole suit.

By Bernice Bede Osel YOUR BIRTHDAY March 2, 1993

Enduring friendships could be established in the year ahead with several people you'll meet in your workaday world. They may become your pals, both socially and at work.

PIECES (Feb. 20-March 20) You're basically a generous. compassionate person who derives joy from giving, but if you don't get something even better in return today, you might regret your gesture. Know where to look for romance and you'll find It. The Astro-Graph Matchmaker instantly reveals which signs are romantically perfect for you. Mail $2 plus a long, selfaddressed, stamped envelope to Matchmaker, c/o this newspaper. P.O. Box 91428, Cleveland, OH 44101-3428.

ARIES (March 21-April 19) It's imperative today that you give proper acknowledgment to friends who have helped you recently. Better yet, try to figure out some way you can personally reciprocate.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20)

You might become aware of something today that has greater value than early appearances indicated. Its real worth will become obvious later.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) Your probabilities for success in your endeavors look good today, but there's a chance you might not follow through as thoroughly as you should, leaving some loose ends in your wake.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) Early in the day you'll be more motivated and more mentally alert when it comes to dealing with serious developments. Later on, though, your focus and drive could begin to wane.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) in your involvements with others today. you should be able to take in stride any large problems that arise. It will be the minor infractions that could trip you

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) Your greatest asset today is your ability to keep things in proper perspective. Instinctively, you'll know when to surge forward and when to fall back.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) You could do rather well today in endeavors that require a calculated risk. You won't be afraid to take a chance, yet you're not apt to do anything foolish.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) Try not to let your emotions influence you in situations today where logic should prevail. If your feelings dominate, they could distort the data.

BAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) An awkward arrangement can be adjusted to your advantage today, provided you don't press for extra perks to which you're not entitled.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) You might be a trifle difficult to please today, even though you're apt to achieve your objective. Once you get what you want, you may see only its flaws and overlook its values.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) This is not an especially good day for you to go bargain hunting. Instead of finding some good deals, you might buy a lot of junk you'll never use.
