A Fire In The Doctor's Office

PLANTATION (AP)- Fire in a doctor's office at a large hospital in this Fort Lauderdale suburb early today forced the evaculation of 30 patients, including 11 newborn babies who slept through it all. The patients were hustled into the parking lot on stretchers and in wheel chairs. Bables were held in the arms of their mothers, nurses and aides. Ambulances formed a circle around the patients much like a wagon train

No patients were injured, but four firemen were treated for smoke inhalation, hospital spokesman Dan Linvill

The fire started at 3:20 a.m. in an unoccupied doctor's office in the X-ray department on the first floor in the south wing of the 264-bed hospital. Firemen managed to put it out quickly and keep it contained in the single office, Linvill said. But smoke spread to the other two floors of the hospital and nurses pushed many beds into the hallway at the opposite end of the building to keep patients out of the smoke. The hospital was almost full with 243 patients. The doctor's office was gutted, but there was no imme diate estimate of damages. The evacuated patients from the first floor's maternity and gynocological unit stayed in the parking lot for about 21/2 hours while fans were used to blow smoke out the windows, Linvill said. All but the bables were returned to

First, the bad news: In the last week in October you'll be getting your annual county tax bill in the mail from Troy Ray, Seminole County's tax collector.

Now, the good news: if you pay your tax bill by Nov. 1, you'll get a four per cent discount. The discount if you pay during November or December is three per cent; if you pay in January, the discount is two per cent; if you pay in February, your discont is one per cent. Tax payments are delinquent after April 1.

Ray's office collects taxes for every public body in the county, including the school board, the cities, lighting districts, Seminole County port and fire protection district (which covers the county's unincorporated areas.)

JOHN SPOLSKI REVIEWS POLK LETTER

A letter citing television program for being "instrumental in the saving of perhaps three or four lives" has been mailed to TV star Ed Asner by Sheriff John Polk.

The letter was prompted by an incident early Wednesday morning when a Chuluota man barricaded himself in his home

Deputy John Spolski has credited the TV program "Lou Grant" with aiding him in telephone negotiations which ended with the man's surrender.

oms before sunrise "We wanted to take the precaution of keeping the babies as far away from the smoke as possible," Linvill said. "Instead of putting them in the nursery, we put them at the opposite end of the floor."

Linvill said the evacuation was surprisingly orderly with a minimum night staff. Extra personel came in later to help in the emergency.

"Personnel and patients alike were calm and cool," he said. "Patients didn't have a long time to think about it because they were awakened in the middle of the night. We intend to feel that if you have to have something like this it might be better during the night shift because there wasn't enough time for people to really panic."

"We'll send out 73,000 tax bills in the next month," Ray

This will be the first year the tax bills will be entirely prepared by the courthouse's "mini-computer," used by the tax collector and Terry Goembel, the tax assessor. "We've had the computer for two-and-a-half years, and we've gradually been phasing it in. We'll also use a computer in Tampa to double-check our mini-computer. Before we had the mini-computer, it took about nine weeks to prepare the tax bills by hand and with a bookkeeping machine. This year, the mini-computer can do the job in 48 hours," Ray said.

The mini-computer will also distribute the tax money paid by county residents to the various units of government on whose behalf Ray's office collects taxes. The first tax bills Ray's office will mail - about 26,000 of them - will go to mortgage companies (including banks) which pay homeowners' property tax bills out of escrow funds. This will enable the county to "get some revenues in before November," said Ray. "Mortgage companies must set up escrow funds to pay property taxes, according to state law. It's also a procedure that protects the mortgage company's investment in the homes for which it holds mortgages because it makes certain taxes will be paid on time," Ray said

"If any county resident has questions about his tax bill, we're happy to answer his questions," said the tax collector.

County residents may call or visit any of the tax collector's three offices. The main office is in room 103 at the courthouse in Sanford. The phone number is 323-4330, extension 220. The number of the branch offices in Seminole Plaza, Casselberry, is 830-5363. The number of the branch office in Interstate Mall, Altamonte Springs, is 339-5363.

Sheriff Polk: 'Dear Lou...'

"I submit that there are occasions wherein the effects of some TV programs do adversely affect some of the viewers. But by the same token, it would be inappropriate to use a "wide brush" and indict TV generally for all of society's ills," wrote Polk.

"In our own situation, I feel compelled to challenge those TV critics and conversely take the position that because of TV, some lives were spared in Seminole County:"

Two Walk Off TV Program

HOLLYWOOD (UPI) — What's happening on the set of the television series "What's ppening!" is a quarrel between producer Bud Yorkin and actors Ernest Thomas, who plays "Raj," and Fred Berry, "Rerun." Thomas and Berry walked off the set Tuesday, complaining Yorkin ignored con-tinued complaints their dressing rooms are dirty, cockroach-infested and furnished with 'unsheeted, stained smelly mattresses." They said when they returned Thursday, they were told they could not resume work until they signed promissory notes for $25,000 each — Yorkin's estimate of what the walkout cost the production - which Yorkin could ." collect if they ever did it again.

They refused, saying in a joint statement that just because they grew up in poverty, "that's no reason the company should offer if to us now."

Senate's Man Of Steel

WASHINGTON (UPI) - Sen. James Abourezk waited until his Senate colleagues had a night's sleep before he wore his new tie. The South Dakota Democrat, an architect of the filibuster-by-amendment that has blocked Senate action on deregulation of natural gas prices, wore a tie Thursday dotted with figures of Superman.

The Senate the night before had ended a session that lasted more than 36 hours with only two brief breaks.

Jury Awards $33.5 Million

In Massive Class Law Suit

MIAMI (AP) - A circuit court jury has awarded $35.5 million in punitive damages to 23 people injured and estates of eight killed when a federal government building collapsed in 1974 in downtown Miami. "Let your verdict ring out across the country like a bell of truth," attorney Duane Anderson told jurors. "You have got to tell engineers, builders and renovators of old buildings that when they work they do it knowing the lives of good Americans will be at stake.'

The jury made the award Thursday as a result of the collapse of the Drug Enforcement Administration office.

Won't Quit; He'll Fire Her

JACKSONVILLE (AP)- Mayor Hans Tanzler says he will attempt to use his new power of firing people he has appointed to city regulatory boards in the case of Anne Grimes. She has criticized city plans for a Dame Point Bridge across the St. Johns River. Mrs. Grimes, a member of the planning board, refused to resign Thursday after announcing her candidacy for the Legislature. Tanzler said any board member should resign if running for public office. Since Mrs. Grimes refused, the mayor said he wil initiate proceedings to fire her.

Voucher Probe Near End

TALLAHASSEE (AP) - A state senate aide says he hopes to complete in two weeks a report on allegatioons that Public Counsel Larry Levy and a female aide may have filed improper travel vouchers.

Howard Walton, an aide to Senate President Lew Brantley, said Thursday he has been investigating allegations against Levy for about three weeks.

Undesirable Task For Senate

TALLAHASSEE (AP) - There are growing indications that, despite leadership. hopes to the contrary, the Florida Senate will be faced soon with the question of possible removal of five of its most powerful members. The five have refused to meet financial disclosure requirements of the Sunshine Amendment and are challenging the amendment in federal court.

Sunshine Doesn't Apply Here

TALLAHASSEE (AP) - Public college administrators don't have to meet in the sunshine with their advisory committees. the Florida Supreme Court has said in a ruling against open-meeting advocates.

The court voted 6-1 Thursday not to rule in the case of a union organizer who sued St. Petersburg Junior College President Michael M. Bennett for holding secret meetings with a worker's committee.

Insanity Guidelines Sought

SARASOTA AP) - Attorneys for Wilfred "Rusty" Bannister, accused of kidnaping a girl from a Girl Scout camp, want the case to be sent directly to the Florida Supreme Court to establish guidelines for the new law on insanity pleas.

Sarasota State Atty. Jim Gardner agrees to an "overpowering need for clarification" on the law, which takes effect this week. Bannister has pleaded innocent due to insanity for his circuit-court trial, set to begin Oct. 17.

Osteopath Gives Laetrille

TALLAHASSEE (AP) - A state of ficial says a St. Petersburg osteopath who has administered laetrile to patients for the past six months apparently has broken no law.

Dr. Lucille Coffey told The St. Petersburg Times earlier this week she had treated up to a dozen patients with laetrile, although the state law allowing doctors to administer the controversial substance does not go into effect until Saturday.

No Court Data, Killer Wins New Trial Bid

TALLAHASSEE (AP Because a court reporter couldn't get a complete record of a first-degree murder trial together, the Florida Supreme Court has thrown out a condmened man's sentence and or dered his case retried.

The court unanimously dered the new trial Thursday because it couldn't get com plete records of the first trial o David Ross Delap. Delap, 30, was sentenced t death by Circuit Judge C. Pfeiffer Trowbridge of Stuart early last year. In other action Thursday, the court upheld stiff life sentences for two other convicted killers. Florida law requires the high court to review all death sentences and either approve them or reduce them to life. But in the Delap case, it could not review the record because court eporter Cecil Ennett, who was fired last December for inaccuracy, could not be found. Details of the murder were not vailable.

One of the grounds for Delap's appeal was that prospec-tive jurors were improperly dismissed from the case because of their views on the death pen-

That issue could have been considered only with the transcript of jury-selection proceedings, so the high court ordered a new trial.

In other cases, the court upheld the life sentences imposed on convicted killers Shirlev B. Ouick of Sarasota and Mack Simmons of Miami.

Both were convicted of firstdegree murder and sentenced to serve at least 25 years before being eligible for parole.

Mrs. Quick was convicted of the Feb. 5, 1975 shooting death of her husband, Richard, a construction laborer. She had found out that he was dating another woman and shot him one night after finding him entertaining his girlfriend at their trailer.

She challenged the minimum 25-year sentence as being unconstitutional. But the 2nd District Court of Appeal upheld the sentence, 2-1, even though the majority questioned the legislature's wisdom in allowing minimum sentences of that length.

The high court upheld the sentence because it ruled earlier this year that the 1975 law allowing those sentences was constitutional.

In the Simmons case, the defendant was convicted of murder in the death-by-drowning of a Dade County man who was first struck with a blunt instrument, then dumped into a waterway. On technical grounds, he had appealed the 3rd District Court of Appeal's decision to uphold the CODviction. The court ruled against him.

The court also ordered a new trial for William A. Dumas. He was sentenced to three consecutive life sentences in connection with the 1974 robbbery and rape of two Palm Beach County women. He was convicted of robbery.

The new trial was ordered because the original trial judge dismissed a witness who defense lawyers said could have given an alibi to Dumas.

A Nickel A Week For 66 Years

JACKSONVILLE, Fla. (AP) - Remember when there was such a thing as a nickel-a-week life insurance policy? Well, Jesse Jones, a national sales leader for a large insurance company, recently processed one that he says was one of the most unusual he's handled in his career. The policy was taken out by Julia Mills, the mother of a friend of his, some 85 years ago. Mrs. Mills paid five cents a week for 66 years until the policy was paid up in 1958. Her son, Lemar C., was the eneficiary

Mrs. Mills died not long ago and Jones had to figure out how much the policy paid. It paid $115.

Rocket Man: 'Pretty Sick'

. CAPE CANAVERAL (AP) - Space officials say they don't suspect sabotage in the explosion of an Atlas Centaur rocket carrying a Intelsat IV-A satellite into orbit to provide communications in the Indian Ocean area. It was the second such failure this month.

"I feel pretty goddamned sick," said George Page, director of expendable vehicles at the Kennedy Space The rocket began malfunctioning 55 seconds into the flight and all information flow from it stopped seven seconds later "We had indications of trouble in the engine area within seconds after liftoff," said Andrew Stofan, director of launch vehicles for the Lewis Research Center. "At 55 seconds the Atlas lost control and broke up. It flipped, broke apart, and then the Atlas blew up." The remainder of the Centaur stage was then destroyed by a U.S. Air Force range safety officer ending the $49.4 million mission four miles high and four miles down range.

Republicans And Social Security

One intriguing feature of the Republican plan for overhauling Social Security is, after the year 2001. it would require Americans to work until they're 68 years old before they could qualify for full benefits now available at 65. This is only one element in a complex reform package, but Secretary Joseph A. Califano of the Health, Education and Welfare Department has jumped on it with both feet.

Pushing back the retirement age by three years, and opening the prospect of slightly lower benefits under the GOP plan, would "break faith" with the American people, says Mr. Califano.

He misses the point. Social Security is already threatening a much greater breach of faith. We suspect most people would be willing to postpone a Social Security check for three years if the alternative were a check too meager to be of much use.

The promises of Social Security are going to have to be broken - scaled back would be a more accurate term because they were made by a suc-cession of Congresses unwilling to face the kind of actuarial arithmetic that can no longer be avoided. President Carter came out with his plan for saving the system last May, House Republicans have now offered an alternative, and Congress must come up with something workable.

The Republican plan stands a good chance, if only because the administration plan stands such a slight chance. Too many Democrats are shying away from Mr. Carter's proposals to bail out Social Security with a transfer of $14.1 billion from eneral fund revenues and with a transfer of $14.1 billion from general fund revenues and to remove the ceiling on the amount of Social Security taxes paid by employers. Both in their philosophy and their potential impact on jobs and the economy, the Carter proposals have received anything but an eager welcome on Rep. Al Uliman's Ways and Means Committee.

Mr. Ullman and his Democratic colleagues on the committee can afford to put partisanship aside for a close look at the Republican plan. The GOP proposal for loans from federal sources as an Iternative to outright appropriations from the general fund is surely a more palatable way to stave off the immediate problem in Social Security financing. The GOP proposal for a phased increase in both employe and employer Social Security taxes beginning in 1982 is demonstrably more fair and less of a threat to economic growth than loading all new payroll taxes on employers.

Further, the Republicans would address the problem of discrimination against women in the present system by introducing a new "working spouses's benefit." And bringing 2.7 million federal employes into the system would both broaden and strengthen its future base while attacking a practice of doubledipping that can make the government responsible for paying both a full federal pension and full Social Security benefits to he same person.

The politics of Social Security reform are dif-ficult, Count up the people now drawing benefits and those who expect to later and you include almost everyone. But it is the refusal of Congresses in the past to face those difficulties and keep the scope of eligibility and the size of benefits in line with what the Social Security trust funds can sustain that brought the system to the threshold of a crisis. Let's pay the piper and get it over with.

Around

The Clock JANE CASSELBERRY It was a rough night for Longwood-Fire Chief Charlie Chapman. First the city council balked at eimbursing him for the $15 he had spent for a late night purchase of film for a police investigation for ot including a receipt with his request. Then Chapman told council that the fire department's old pumper needed repairs which would cost $1,700 and the truck was torn down and scattered all over the floor at a local car dealers. The councilmen were not anxious to pay that much when they had a $450 estimate elsewhere, so they told Chapman to gather up the pleces and retrieve his truck.

What with members of the audience, the council, the mayor and other city officials at odds over just bout every item on the agenda that's pretty much the way the whole meeting went . . . as the mayor vetoed the budget, the council split over redistricting and the land use map was sent back to the Land Planning Agency.

Even the matter of the 49 missing ordinances ame up again. Former Councilman John Reams xplained that back with the council gathered around the pot-bellied stove in the old city hall and former school house, city papers were just tossed in the pantry. Could they have gone up in smoke on some cold morning?

It is ironic that during the holidays when there is so much happiness and galety, many people find themselves very depressed and in the need for someone to talk to. WASHINGTON - This is another report of the private world of Anastasio Somoza, the vainglorious dictator who runs Nicaragua like a private estate. We have dubbed him the Idi Amin of Latin America.

VIEWPOINT Ill Britain Sitting Up In Bed

Britain, the sick man of Europe, if not exactly chasing the nurses through the corridors is at least sitting up in bed and feeling much better,

Consider these symptoms of returning conomic health: -A record balance of trade surplus in August of $550 million. This was the difference between what Britain sold to foreigners and what it

Shavers: 'Why Didn't Someone Tell Me?'

Leave On Top? Right Now?

Muhammad Ali listens to two voices - the two voices of Ali, in addition to that of Allah - and the paramount question in boxing today is:

Which voice will he heed? Tune an ear to the two voices of Ali, as he repeated them himself Thursday night from the dais of Madison Square Garden's Felt Forum after a punishing 15-round decision over Earnie

Ali No. 1: "My hands hurt. My knees hurt. My bones ache all over. They had to rub me down for an hour before I could get here. Soon I gotta bow out. I gotta leave this thing while I am on top." Ali No. 2: "When I am shook, when I am in trouble, when I am getting pounded and booed, when I got money in the bank, I have a whole lot of heart. I get hit by blows that would knock out other men. I don't fall. I am the greatest."

Ali No. 1: "He hurt me four or five times. I am older now, 35 years old. I got hit with shots a younger Ali would never get hit with. This guy was great. People sure get in shape for me. I'm saying good-bye to this, man." Ali No. 2: "It was Allah who brought me through. I was tired. I burned up a lot of energy.. I walked the streets talking to poor people. But Allah led me the right way. I prayed to Allah, 'Please don't let me disgrace myself before these infidels.' I gotta give credit to Allah - he brought me through."

All No. 1: "Joe Frazier has retired. George Foreman has retired. They hadn't even started when I took the title from Sonny Liston. Now maybe it's time for me to retire. I have done everything. This was a good fight to quit on." All No. 2: "Now that I've won, I will wait maybe 12 months, make a lot of money on commercials and endorsements. Then I will decide whether to fight again or not. I must wait and see." Poor Ali. Ali No. 1 is whispering sound advice in his un-cauliflowered ear. Allah is sending down signals from heaven. But Ali hears only one voice. That is the voice of Ali No. 2. That is his ego. The date that Ali should have hung up his gloves was Oct. 1, 1975 — two years ago almost to the day — after his tremendous 14th round knockout of Joe Frazier in Manila in the third and rubber match of their magnificent series. It was All's finest hour. It was the Everest in a career of valleys of despair and peaks of grandeur. By crushing a heavily favored George Foreman in Zaire, he had won back the championship wrested from him by edict, not by another's fists. He had redeemed an earlier defeat at Ken Norton's hands. He had beaten every contender and was sitting on a mountain of millions.

Triumph and success do not accelerate the blood gushing through this man's veins. Neither does money. He counts his fortune in the millions. What motivates him is the adulation of his

"Ali! Ali! Ali!" That's the only music he hears. It's the only tune he will dance to. And he will dance to it until some young buck with a thunderclap punch comes along and sends him sprawling to the canvas for the full count - an embarrassment he has never ex-perienced, a calamity his agile mind cannot visualize.

Dodgers, Phils Open 'Tossup' Playoffs Tuesday

LOS ANGELES (AP) - Both teams hit with power, both have strong pitching, and both can beat you with a bunt or steal. Noting those characteristics, the National League Champion ship series between the Philadelphia Phillies and the Los Angeles Dodgers shapes up as impossible to figure.

Week No. 3 looks to be an interesting one on the Pop Warner' League front - as five games match as-yet unbeaten teams against each other.

In Pee Wee match-ups, there are a pair of biggies -Tuskawilla traveling south to do battle with Conway at Oak Ridge, and South Seminole playing host to Pinecastle at Lyman. All four teams are undefeated on the year. Tuskawilla is not only unbeaten, but unscored on, having edged Milwee 6-0 in the season opener, then bombing West Volusia 24-zip last week.

Likewise for defending champion Seminole - which has shown little offense, but loads of defense in stopping Teague 6-0 and DeLand 8-0. There is also a quartet of unbeatens putting their records on the line in Midget division play. Sanford will be hosting Milwee at Seminole High. Both are 2-0. Milwee is defending Midget champ - but San-ford's defense has yet to give up a point, winning 36-0 and 7-0 over Lakeview and South Seminole, respectively.

The other two unbeaten Midgets, Teague and DeLand, will go at it at Deland - which has showed the most otfensive muscle to date of the season with a 52-0 whomping of Tuskawilla last Saturday.

There are also four undefeated teams left in Junior Midgets - but only two play each other this week...Tuskawilla and Conway tangling at Oak Ridge. South Seminole, also 2-0, will host Pinecastle at Lyman. Taylor, will play at DeLand.

Following is Saturday's complete Pop Warner schedule, by class, telling who, where, and when:

'Oswald': Just A Morbid Show

LOS ANGELES (AP) - If you have kids and they see ABC's "Trial of Lee Harvey Oswald" tonight and Sunday, remind them it only is an en-tertainment show, a morbid one, but definitely not a news show. And frequently remind them, And frequently remind them, for each show only does it once, but definitely not a news show. night, four-hour trip. The assassination in Dallas, complete with crowd cries of "I think it (gunfire) came from the grassy knoll," is effectively, chillingly recreated, as is the killing of officer J. D. Tippitt and Oswald's capture.

But there's nothing real in the scenes of Ben Gazzara as an ambitious, ambiguous prose-cutor, or where Lorne Greene, one of His thoughts - she had been chosen to become the Mother of His Son in our world. He surprised her also by the way He chose to accomplish that, "The Holy Spirit will come upon you and the power of the Most High will overshadow you." In a totally surprising way Mary would conceive in her womb and bring forth in our world the life and the presence of Jesus. God still continues to surprise His people by the way He thinks gand by what He chooses to do in our world. Mary was not so caught by the surprise of the Angel's visit and message that she could not say "Yes" to God. But sometimes we are so set in our ways and so sure and smug in the way we think that we are caught off balance and do not say "yes" to the surprising thoughts and ways of God. Isn't it, for instance, a thought of God that we should refuse to abuse or destroy our brothers and sisters in other parts of the world by acts of war? Isn't it a thought of God that what He has provided for man by giving us our world with all its resources should be shared by all men, not just monopolized by a favored minority? Isn't it a thought of God that we should not ravage our acountry for our present comfort and convenience, but rather carefully tend the beauty and goodness we find in it - so that it might go on reminding us of His beauty and goodness?

It may be that we are surprised by these thoughts. We have not been thinking this way. It may be that we are afraid to let these thoughts and ways become ours, because we are afraid of their consequences. The angel's message to Mary should be an encouragement to us too: "Do not fear." If we can conquer our fears of being surprised by God and what He might want to do in our lives, we too, like Mary, shall "have found favor with God." We too, like Mary, shall bring the life and love and presence of Jesus nto our world and into the lives of others.

Episcopal Priesthood For Groppi?

MILWAUKEE (AP) - James E. Groppi, a former Roman Catholic priest who gained national attention in the 1960s as a leader of civil rights demonstrations, now is trying to become an Episcopal priest. Groppi said he and his wife, Margaret, have been attending St. Andrew's Episcopal Church for a year. He goes before a church commission Oct. 4 for interviews that could lead to his being accepted as a priest. He said he doesn't feel he is leaving the Catholic church because "the essential teachings are the same." Groppi was excommunicated by the Roman Catholic Church several years ago when he married, despite warnings from superiors that priests were not permitted to do so.

TIPS. It stands for "To Improve Service."

It is supposed to indicate the extra money given someone who has assisted you in some way-perhaps by waiting on your table, carrying your bags, or cleaning your motel room. But in Sanford it can mean anything from a box of candy to a printed paper saying "The Lord will provide," according to local waitresses Helen Bland, a waitress for more than 20 years, works at the Sanford Inn. She says she sees a lot of the little tracts filled with Bible verses and things like "The Lord will provide." "Those things just do not pay the rent," says Mrs. Bland. Like many waitresses she gains much of her income from tips rather than

"I've also been invited out for a drink and a night on the town, but if someone can afford that, he can afford to leave a tip," she frowns

Flowers and boxes of candy also have been given to her as tips, Mrs. Bland says. "I've received carnations several times, and once there was a man who left her one red rose.

"Then there are the people who want to hold your hand instead of giving you a tip," says the Sanford resident.

Barbara Moulton also works at the Sanford Inn, and has been a waitress more than four years.

She, too, has had some tips that "just don't pay the rent." "One couple came in and left me a nice shiny shell and said it was so I could 'forever hear the ocean'," she remembers. "And there are a lot of those little tracts with messages from the Bible. The best tip I ever got was from a table of seven Sanford essmen who left me $14," Miss Moulton recalls. "I have received candy as a gift from customers, but not as a tip," Miss Moulton reports, "and then there are the people who leave no tip at all, because they figure it just is not their obligation. to pay someone who works for someone else," she says with a distinctily frustrated tone in her voice.

Dorien Armentrout works now at Favata's Bella Cucina, in south Sanford. She used to work in Lake Buena Vista, the Walt Disney World shopping area.

"One man offered to fly me home to South America," she recalls. "I didn't go, but I still have his business card." Unforunately, she doesn't know what the card says. It, along with the name and address the man added to it, is in Spanish.

To vield or not? The intensity surrounding the Panama Canal Treaty debate grows with each passing day. To aid in clarifying the issues. The Herald devotes the major portion of today's Opinion page, 9A, to a debate on the treaty. Sol Linowitz, a chief negotiator of the treaty, offers a supporting view of the pact, while Sen. Paul Laxalt, one of Congress' more outspoken treaty critics, argues against ratification. And our readers offer opinions of their own.

Vicky Robb is not a waitress. She is a bartender at the Club Sabia, south of Sanford, but feels many of her problems - and tips - are similar to those of waitresses.

She once received a dollar bill, placed neatly on the bar, with a quarter on each corner of it, and a necklace in the middle. "It was given to me after I beat the guy four games of pool," she laughs. "Then there is one guy who comes in and never drinks anything but wine. He buys it one glass at a time, and each glass costs about 75 cents," says Miss Robb. "He pays for each glass separately, always with a two dollar bill - and I get to keep the

The quarters fall through the slotted floor, Miss Robb says, "so I make them pick it up and move it so I can get the change." The floor is heavy, she explains, and people seldom throw their tip: across the bar more than once.

I get some who take all the tobacco out of a cigarette, roll the bill up tight and stuff it in the cigarette paper," she said. "And there are also some people who tie a dollar bill up in knots. It is difficult to untie the darned things," she laughs.

Miss Woodard and her co-worker, Jackie Ainsley, both called attention to the fact that there are also customers who leave a tip in change - and at the bottom of a water glass. But neither one has received any of the little paper tracts.

Miss Ainsley says that there have also some time when she was told she would get no tip until she told some jokes. She made the swap - a story for a tip, and she and the customer were both
