Health Check

Community Health Nurse Pat Holland checks the blood pressure of Fern Park resident Mildred Reed at a Seminole County Public Health Unit free health screening day Monday at Zayre's Plaza, Fern Park. Nurses were also on hand to give blood sugar and hemoglobin tests, immunizations and information on infectious diseases. The next screening will be held 9 a.m. to 4 p.m. Friday at the Kmart shopping center, Sanford. Health screenings will also be offered at the Geneva Community Center, First Street, Geneva, Sept. 20.

Keogh Resigns Lake Mary Post

Lake Mary City Commissioner Colin Keogh has resigned his commission post, effective Monday.

Keogh recommended that his seat be filled by his uncle, commissioner-elect Charles Webster, until the new commission takes office October 7.

Mayor Dick Fess said he appreciates Keogh's service on the commission and sees no problem with his seat remaining unfilled for the approximate one-month until, as he said, "the new commissioners come on board." Because his vacancy will leave four members on the commission, Fess said as mayor he may vote to break any ties.

Webster was elected to fill Keogh's seat 1 while Kenneth King and Arthur "Buzz" Petros were elected to fill seats 4 and 5 respectively.

Monday Keogh, in a letter addressed to the mayor and city commissioners, said:

Sanford OKs Budget With 27.5% Tax Hike

By Deane Jordan
Herald Staff Writer

First-year funds for mosquito control were included as Sanford city commissioners Monday tentatively approved a $13.5 million budget for 1985-86 following the first of two public hearings.

The budget calls for a 94-cent increase in the tax rate from the current $3.44 per $1,000 assessed valuation to $4.38.

The increase, 27.5 percent, is the first proposed property tax rate increase for Sanford residents since 1970.

The 1985-86 budget is a $3.5 million increase over the $9.9 million 1984-85 budget. The $4.38 tax rate will generate $1,648,772 based on the current tax base.

The budget is expected to be adopted after a second public hearing Sept. 23. No one from the audience spoke for against the proposed budget at Monday's public hearing, which lasted about two minutes.

Mosquito control was included in the budget just days before the city began spraying for the pests, the first time the city has chosen to fight the insects in several years. The $26,832 budgeted for that purpose next year includes $21,000 for insecticide and larvacide, and $3,000 for 26 weeks of part-time labor.

In a third item of business the commission agreed to hire a Tallahassee firm to draft an ordinance approving a bond issue to finance improvements in the city's sewage treatment plant and waste disposal methods. Getting the nod was Bryant, Miller and Olive, bond counselors involved in more than $1 billion worth of bond issues last year, according to Commissioner John Mercer. The firm is expected to charge less than $50,000 for its service.

The money raised by the bond issue will be used to upgrade the existing sewer plant and pay to begin additional waste disposal methods including land spreading. The bonds may be sold as early as December, Mercer said.

In other action, the commission:

- Approved the closing of three Sanford streets temporarily for the running of an 8,000 meter race sponsored by the Sanford Kiwanis Club Sept. 21. The streets, Seminole Boulevard from Sanford Avenue to Mellonville Avenue, Mellonville Avenue from First Street to Seminole Boulevard and San Juan from First Street to Seminole Boulevard, will be closed from 6 a.m. to 9:30 a.m. that day.

- Approved the installation of a traffic light at the intersection of State Road 46 and Mellonville Avenue. The state Department of Transportation is paying for the traffic light. Date of installation is not known.

- Approved by a vote of 4-1, Mercer voting nay, to allow a chain-link fence

Hazardous Waste Site To Get Public Hearing

By Janie Gnat
Herald Staff Writer

At least three Seminole County commissioners are waiting to hear both sides' arguments before deciding whether to allow a hazardous waste firm to temporarily continue operating a transfer station on land zoned for agriculture.

Commissioners will hold a public hearing to consider a request for a special exception for Hazardous Waste Consultants Inc., that would allow operation of a hazardous waste transfer station on property owned by Cobia Boats on Silver Lake Road.

"There is a need in the county for that type of facility," said Jim Bible, director of the county's Department of Environmental Regulation. "It's a question of whether that is the best site."

Nearby homeowners are opposed to the transfer station, fearing it could result in contamination of their soil and water.

The hearing is scheduled to begin at 7 p.m. at the County Services Building, 1101 E. First St., Sanford.

Pat Vindett, vice president and manager of the waste consulting firm, would not make any comments Monday concerning how her company will attempt to defend its request or how she expects the commissioners to vote.

Commission Chairman Bob Sturm wouldn't reveal his inclinations, either.

"Until I hear both sides of the story I'm not going to guess how I'll vote," Sturm said. Both Sturm and Ms. Vindett said they expect a very long meeting.

Commissioner Bill Kirchhoff said he is keeping an open mind and he wouldn't make a decision until the public hearing. Commissioner Fred Streetman said he has "walked all over that property" but would not give any indication as to how he would vote at the hearing.

At a July 15 meeting the city's Board of Adjustment denied the special request by a 3-1 vote because they felt the site's grassy surface was inadequate. That site is on the north side of west State Road 46 near Miranda Lake.

Bible said the firm is considering alternative sites, one near S.R. 46 and Interstate-4 and the other in Winter Springs, but only one of those is zoned industrial which permits hazardous waste facilities.

Property and home owners around the site, expressed fears of contamination harmful to livestock and groundwater. County staff advised the Board of Adjustment hazardous waste facilities are not allowed in any zone except industrial. Ms. Vindett told the board that the Silver Lake Road site would be temporary and her

Rescue workers extricate victims of crash

3 Hurt As Pickup Overturns On SR 46

Three persons were hurt, one seriously, when the pickup truck in which they were riding went out of control and struck a utility pole.

The accident occurred shortly after 5 p.m. on State Road 46, west of Sanford near Rand Yard Road.

It took rescuers a while to get the victims out of the vehicle, which had overturned trapping the occupants. A front end loader, borrowed from a nearby business, was used to steady the truck, which had a wrecker boom in its bed, while rescuers worked to get the victims out. The driver, Claude Herbert Roberts, 25, of 236 Grenada Vista, DeBary, was admitted to Central Florida Regional Hospital, Sanford, with head injuries and was in serious condition today.

Holly Ley, 28, of West First Street, Sanford, was admitted to CFRH with a broken leg. She was in satisfactory condition today. A second passenger, Arron Muse, of Sanford, was treated and released.

Roberts' vehicle was towing a trailer used to haul cars and was westbound on SR 46 when the trailer began to fishtail, causing the pickup to go out of control, the Florida Highway Patrol said.

Cocaine Smuggling Try Nets Sanford Woman $2,500 Fine, Probation

A former Seminole County school district employee was fined $2,500 and sentenced Friday in federal court to 5 years probation for trying to smuggle six pounds of cocaine into the country.

If the woman had been arrested by deputies or police rather than federal agents she would have had to serve a mandatory three year sentence and pay a mandatory $50,000 fine.

Leslie Renee Cauthen, 28, of 1111 Celery Ave., Sanford, was also ordered by Federal Judge Alcee Hastings in Miami to complete 150 hours of community service. Hastings gave her the option of working off the hours by helping children or attending drug counseling. Hastings' court clerk said.

According to court records, Miss Cauthen was arrested in Miami April 26 by Drug Enforcement Agency officials. She was taken into custody while getting off a ship following a three-day cruise to the Bahamas. DEA agents were tipped off to the woman's smuggling before the ship berthed and caught Miss Cauthen with six pounds of cocaine worth about $1 million, said Roy Kahan, federal prosecutor on the case. She was carrying the drug in her purse, a shopping bag and a suitcase, Kahan said.

While awaiting sentencing Miss Cauthen resigned from her job as a high-level clerk at Lake Howell High School. She began working at the high school as an aide in 1978 and was a Florida Teaching Equivalence clerk at the time of her arrest. Her job was to monitor attendance at the school which would generate data used to determine how much funding the school would get from the state.

She was free on $25,000 bond while awaiting sentencing.

Volcker Tells Southern Governors:

U.S. Consuming More Than Producing

MIAMI (UPI) — Federal Reserve Chairman Paul Volcker told Southern governors that a central problem with the U.S. economy is that the country is consuming about three percent more than it is producing.

Volcker spoke Monday to the governors of 15 states plus the Virgin Islands and Puerto Rico, who are in Miami for their annual meeting. The theme of this year's conference is the Internationalization of the South.

"We are spending more increasingly than we are producing... To balance that we have to produce three percent more — which is roughly one year's growth," Volcker said.

Despite a sluggish manufacturing sector, the United States' growth rate still outstrips Europe, he said.

"We certainly have one of the fastest rates of growth. Things could be a lot worse," he said.

But the chairman of the board of governors of the Federal Reserve said United States' huge budget deficit is driving its trade deficits and hurting the country in the overseas market. He has called for Congress to try harder to reduce government spending.

Because the U.S. government is falling deeper into debt, Volcker said, the government and the private sector are competing for a limited amount of money — which drives up interest rates. Higher interest rates, in turn, are attracting foreign capital, which hurt U.S. exports and make the dollar overvalued.

"We ought to be taking moves to put our house together," Volcker said. "We could help unlock the key by growing more steadily, and by taking pressure off interest rates, which would lower the dollar."

Volcker said he strongly opposes any move to set up trade barriers to provide even temporary relief for textiles, cars and other industries suffering because of intense foreign competition.

His comments drew mixed reactions from the governors.

Only one state leader, Tennessee Gov. Lamar Alexander, said he did not feel political pressure pushing him toward protectionist trade policies. He said if the U.S. persuaded Japan to open its markets to U.S. automobiles, "we probably wouldn't sell any anyway."

Gov. Arch Moore Jr. of West Virginia suggested that the government raise taxes to create a massive trust fund to pay off the federal deficit.

Volcker also said he strongly disagreed with a proposal by New York investment banker

Jet Engine Problems Cause Airline Mishaps

United Press International
A TWA 747 jumbo jet made an emergency landing at London's Heathrow airport because of an engine problem and an Alitalia 747 was forced to abort a takeoff in Milan, Italy, because of an unexplained rise in engine temperatures.

The engine that failed on the TWA jet was built by Pratt & Whitney. It was not immediately known what kind of engine was involved in the Alitalia case but a U.S. aviation industry source said most Alitalia planes have Pratt & Whitney engines.

On Sunday, a Jet America airliner aborted its takeoff from California's Oakland International Airport because of a breakdown in its Pratt & Whitney JT8D-217 engine. A Jet America airline spokesman said the engine had "blown part of the turbine section."

No one was injured in the three incidents. Officials at Pratt & Whitney headquarters in East Hartford, Conn., said Monday the British Department of Transportation would test parts of the Pratt & Whitney JT8D-15 engine that exploded Aug. 22, starting a fire that killed 55 people aboard a British jetliner. The engine exploded as the plane was taking off from Manchester International Airport.

And U.S. investigators Monday found a hole in a Pratt & Whitney JT8D-7 engine that stalled moments before a Midwest Express DC 9 crashed in Milwaukee Friday, killing all 31 people aboard.

'Night Stalker': I'm Innocent

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — Richard Ramirez, the young drifter accused of being the notorious "Night Stalker," insists he is not the killer police say left a trail of 20 bodies up and down California, a lawyer says.

Manuel Barraza, of Ramirez's hometown of El Paso, Texas, said Monday that Ramirez, 25, told him he is not the "Stalker."

"He's still insisting it's not him," Barraza said. "He's very depressed, very saddened, very down about this whole thing."

Barraza also said Ramirez's widely reported statement to police on the day he was captured — "It's me, it's me man" — was not an admission that he was the "Stalker."

Ramirez, described by friends as a cocaine addict who was fascinated with satanic rites, appeared in court Monday for the second time and again delayed entering pleas to charges of murder, rape and robbery.

The "Night Stalker" is blamed for 20 killings, a string of rapes and other assaults. In addition to one count of murder in Los Angeles, he is charged with the murder of a San Francisco accountant.

S. Africa's Botha Calls Sanctions Counter-Productive

JOHANNESBURG, South Africa (UPI) — President Pieter Botha, saying "cooperation should not be based on coercion," denounced President Reagan's imposition of limited economic sanctions against South Africa as negative and counter-productive.

Botha issued a statement Monday saying the sanctions would harm both black and white South Africans.

Reagan Monday ordered a curb on bank loans to South Africa and a ban on computer sales to South African agencies that enforce apartheid. He opened up the possibility of a ban on U.S. sales of South African kruggerand gold coins.

Botha said, "Such actions diminish the ability of the United States to influence events in southern Africa."

Botha's tough stance came on a day of fresh crackdowns by the South African authorities against political dissent.

Police said they arrested another 253 people in the past week under a 7-week-old state of emergency aimed at defusing racial unrest that has claimed about 700 lives in the past year.

Britain Rocked By Fiery Riots

BIRMINGHAM, England (UPI) — Firefighters today found three bodies in one of the more than 50 buildings gutted by fire in a night of rioting by youths in a predominantly black section of Britain's second-largest city.

The rampage of firebombing, street battles and looting was the worst urban disturbance in the country since rioting erupted in a number of cities in the summer of 1981.

Authorities said at least 30 people — including 23 police officers and two firefighters — were injured and 25 people were arrested in the rioting, which erupted when police ticketed a black motorist.

More than 50 buildings and dozens of cars were destroyed by fire in the rampage and authorities said damages would run into millions of dollars.

Police said up to 500 youths, mostly blacks, set cars and shops on fire, hurled bricks and firebombs, looted mostly Asian-owned stores and erected barricades at the height of the disturbance.

'Monster' Strikes Again

SAN CASCIANO, Italy (UPI) — It looked like the perfect romantic setting — a cypress grove nestled along a remote country road. The lovers parked their car, pitched their tent and settled in for the night.

A mushroom hunter found the French couple Monday afternoon — the latest victims of the "Monster of Florence," a killer who has stalked the Tuscan countryside for 17 years.

They were the eighth couple murdered by the "Monster."

Damage To Firm Estimated At $500,000

Bach Blaze 'Called Suspicious'

Fire investigators are listing as suspicious the pre-dawn fire at Bach Engineering Co., 973 Sunshine Lane, Altamonte Springs.

While the cause of the blaze has not yet been determined, Altamonte Springs fire investigator Steve Peavey said arson could not be ruled out.

"One out of every three fires is arson, so it's hard to rule that out," Peavey said. "We are considering the fire suspicious until we find out otherwise."

Peavey said the fire caused about $500,000 in damage. District Commander Garry Becker, also of the Altamonte Fire Department, said earlier most of the damage was confined to a storage area in the front of the building.

Peavey said late Monday investigators had completed their inspection of the scene and were concentrating on questioning witnesses. He said he expects the investigation to be concluded later in the week.

Firefighters were dispatched to the engineering firm at about 4:48 a.m. Monday, Becker said. He said some 25 firefighters fought the blaze for about two hours before bringing it under control. Help was received from Seminole and Orange County fire departments.

The engineering firm, according to Becker, employs about 100 and makes radio headsets and other components for commercial airlines.

Pair Of Suspected Plant Pilferers Jailed

Two Longwood men nabbed by Altamonte Springs police while allegedly pilfering plants from inside a building have been charged with burglary.

The pair were arrested at 201 Park Place at about 3:30 a.m. Sunday after police reportedly spotted them loading plants into a car at that building. One of the suspects reportedly told police he had a key to the building because his father had helped build it.

That man and his roommate reportedly decided on a whim to check out the building and when they went inside and found several potted plants they decided to take a few to decorate their home, a police report said.

Daniel Adam Chafee, 20, who reportedly had a key to the building, and Warren Paul Hodge, 20, both of 120 Meadowfield Lane, were released on $5,000 bond each and are scheduled to appear in court Sept. 23.

BATTERED WIFE

Sheriff's deputies reported charging a 22-year-old Sanford woman with battery after his wife complained she had been beaten and deputies noted she had an injured eye and lumps on her head.

Joel Kevin Bohannon, 22, of 3800 County Road 427, lot 2, Sanford, was arrested at his home at 8:19 p.m. Saturday. He was being held on $500 bond.

CAR THEFT ARREST
A 23-year-old Cape Canaveral man has been charged by Seminole County sheriff's deputies with auto theft.

The man was arrested after a deputy who found him sleeping in a car at a reststop on Interstate 4 at about 4:24 a.m. Monday ran a check on the car and determined it had been reported stolen in Cocoa Beach on Aug. 22, a sheriff's report said.

Jose Bello IV was being held in lieu of $5,000 bond in the case.

DISORDERLY WOMAN

A female sheriff's deputy charged a 40-year-old Sanford woman with disorderly conduct and battery to a police officer after the woman reportedly became disruptive when being escorted from a Sanford bar by the deputy.

The deputy had been called to the Islander Tavern, 3207 U.S. Highway 17-92, Sanford, at about 11:30 p.m. Sunday to assist in removing the woman from the bar, a sheriff's report said.

The suspect became rowdy on her way out and hit the deputy in the chest, knocking her into a pole, the report said. The deputy struggled with the woman when trying to handcuff her, the report said.

Sandra Kay Tindall, of 3807 S. Sanford Ave., was being held in lieu of $5,000 bond.

DUI ARRESTS

The following persons have been arrested in Seminole County on a charge of driving under the influence:

—Thomas L. Jones, 32, of 380 Imperial Lake Drive, Casselberry, was arrested at 11:32 p.m. Friday after his car failed to maintain a single lane on State Road 436, Altamonte Springs.

—John Robert Janak, 24, of 2750 Orangewood Ave., Sanford, at 7:10 a.m. Saturday on Longwood Lake Mary Road, Lake Mary, after he was found sleeping in his car. A pellet gun was also found in the vehicle and Janak was charged with possession of a concealed firearm, a Lake Mary police report said.

—Kevin Perry Osborn, 20, DeBary, at 11:25 a.m. Sunday after his car was clocked traveling 79 mph on Interstate 4.

—Steve Lee Warren, 18, of Orlando, at 12:40 a.m. Monday after his vehicle was involved in an accident on Interstate 4 east of Lake Mary.

BURGLARIES & THEFTS
Arthur McDaniels, 36, of 152 Hattaway Drive, Longwood, reported to deputies that his 1976 Ford van was stolen Friday or Saturday. He named a suspect.

Coins and two silver cups with a combined value of $375 were stolen along with a $375 microwave oven from the home of Margaret Seybold, 47, of 760 Francis St., Altamonte Springs, on Friday or Saturday, a sheriff's report said.

Gold earrings and a flashlight with a combined value of $265 were stolen from the vehicle of James Nole Cox, 42, of 404 E. Ridgewood St., Altamonte Springs, on Thursday or Friday.

Three home construction sites on Winsome Court, Lake Mary, have been hit by thieves who stole five major appliances and building materials with a combined value of $2,572. A sheriff's report said the thefts occurred Wednesday or Thursday and the items belong to General Homes, Inc., of Orlando.

A thief took $700 worth of tools and a tool box from the truck of Charles C. Bulch, 60, of 979 Seminole Ave., Altamonte Springs, on Saturday or Sunday, a sheriff's report said.

AREA FORECAST: Today partly cloudy, 30 percent chance of afternoon thunderstorms. High in lower 90s. Light wind. Tonight and Wednesday partly cloudy. Scattered mainly afternoon and evening thunderstorms. Low in low to mid 70s. High in lower 90s. Light wind. Rain chance 20 percent tonight, 30 percent Wednesday.

NATIONAL REPORT: Rainshowers early today doused central and eastern parts of the nation after thunderstorms packing winds of up to 57 mph swept across central Indiana and heavy rains drenched parts of Michigan, Texas and the South. Strong winds from thunderstorms downed trees at Indianapolis and west of Portland, Ind., and large tree limbs were on the ground at Noblesville. Winds were clocked at 57 mph in the Indianapolis area. Northern Indiana also was hit with high winds. In South Bend, Ind., a house was damaged and several cars were overturned by what was believed to be a tornado. Police in South Bend said a funnel cloud had been sighted, but the National Weather Service said no tornadoes were reported in the state. Heavy rains caused street flooding in Sparta, Mich., north of Grand Rapids. Rainfall totaled nearly 2.33 inches and left 1 to 2 feet of water in low-lying areas across Sparta. Near Flint, Mich., a dam threatened by rising flood waters from torrential rains held firm Monday, but officials said 66 residents evacuated from a nearby nursing home would not be allowed to return until Tuesday in case of more rain. Heavy thunderstorms also hit east Texas. A tornado at Galveston State Park overturned two camp trailers and caused four injuries late Monday night. Winds gusted to 43 mph at Waco. Heavy rains drenched portions of the lower Mississippi valley Monday. Nearly 3 inches of rain fell at Cross Lake near Shreveport, La. The Shreveport area was deluged with nearly 2 inches in 90 minutes. Rainshowers extended from central California across the Pacific Northwest and from the Great Basin to the northern Rockies. Heavy rain was reported along the front range of the Blue Mountains in northeastern Oregon. Early today, rainshowers were scattered from the lower Ohio valley to Michigan, across New England and the eastern Dakotas. A few thundershowers were reported over the Plains. Temperatures Monday were chilly over the northern and central intermountain region. The high of 55 degrees in Boise, Idaho, was the coldest high temperature on record for Sept. 9. On the other hand, highs reached into the 90s from the southern Plains to the mid-Atlantic coast. The nation's capital baked under a September heat wave for a seventh straight day Monday, tying a 101-year-old record for the longest stretch of 90-degree weather. The day's high of 95 degrees and the high humidity again forced schools in the Maryland and Virginia suburbs to close early.

Highs in the 80s.

Floridians To Recoup Baldwin Losses

TALLAHASSEE (UPI) — Two years ago, the collapse of the Baldwin-United Corporation looked like disaster for the 33,000 Floridians holding $418 million in annuities with the firm's subsidiaries.

The forecast has improved remarkably. Monday, Insurance Commissioner Bill Gunter announced an agreement under which each Florida investor will recover his or her investment — plus at least 7.5 percent interest.

"This is a spectacular feat when you consider that we stated with a bankrupt company two years ago," Gunter said. "At the beginning, we couldn't even guarantee annuity-holders they'd get their principal back. Under this plan, they'll get that plus the minimum interest they were promised when they bought these annuities."

Gunter said that in some cases annuity-holders will score 8 percent. The checks will arrive in November, 1987.

Baldwin-United — formerly the Baldwin Piano and Organ Company — had become a major banking and insurance firm by April 1982 when it purchased the Mortgage Guaranty Insurance Corporation for $1.1 billion. Within 1 1/2 years, however, the corporation filed for protection under Chapter 11 of the bankruptcy code.

In June 1984, Gunter — then head of the National Association of Insurance Commissioners — formed a task force to negotiate a plan to help the company pay its debts. Gunter also held public hearings on the company's fate in several Florida cities last summer.

As negotiations closed last week, 22 brokerage houses had committed more than $152 million to the plan, Gunter said. The insurance industry kicked in another $100 million.

Gunter said the brokerage houses will also pay about $6.5 million to settle alleged violations of state insurance regulations.

Rohatyn, who is credited with saving New York City from bankruptcy, said he believes the "whole country is going bankrupt" and the "only choice" is to temporarily ban imports to give domestic industries time to regain their footing.

Remington Products Chairman Victor Kiam is scheduled to speak today about leadership in an international business setting.

All Should Pay Fair Share

Maybe we're suffering from a terminal case of idealism, but isn't it wrong for big corporations to avoid paying taxes when small businesses have to pay through the nose? Isn't it wrong that big defense contractors, which depend on billions of dollars in government contracts, don't pay taxes to support defense?

These thoughts are provoked by the report from a tax monitoring group that 40 big corporations didn't pay a cent in taxes in 1984. The corporations earned $10.4 billion in profits. The 40 got a tax rebate totaling $657 million.

Their accountants should get a gold medal. The government got another kind of reward: the biggest peacetime budget deficit in U.S. history.

The rising economy was supposed to lift all boats. Greater profits were supposed to generate higher tax revenues at lower tax rates.

Well, the tide rose and the government is sinking.

Can you blame corporate accountants for using loop-holes? Of course not.

Can you blame Congress and the White House for creating the tax code? Of course.

But it's up to us, the people, to tax ourselves fairly to pay our bills. The truth is we all hate to pay taxes, so we privately cheer those who avoid it.

The avoiders aren't robbing anybody but the rest of the people. And the big companies that can afford fancy tax lawyers are robbing the smaller companies that can only afford to make money — not hide it.

The tax system is discredited. It worked for a long time but now it is failing to call upon the essential decency of the American people, failing to motivate them to take their fair share of the burden, failing to pay the bills.

The basis of a free society is the ability to accept the burden of self-taxation in return for the freedom of self-government.

But now we don't want to tax ourselves; we want to tax the other guy. As if the other guy was responsible for running up the bill.

The companies running up the defense bill — the biggest postwar in history — ought to feel responsible for paying their fair share of it. After all, isn't government solvency a part of national security?

The companies benefiting from the free economy, benefiting from America's national security, benefiting from our system of public highways ought to help shoulder the burden of freedom, of defense, of transportation.

Corporations are supposed to pay 46 percent of their profits over $100,000 in taxes. Most of them pay about 15 percent. Many pay zero.

If 275 major corporations had paid the 46 percent tax in 1984, that would have raised $185 billion — enough to balance the budget.

The solution to America's problems won't come from soaking the big corporations. And a case can be made that corporate dividends should not be taxed twice, first at the corporate level, then as individual income.

But it is not too much to ask that all corporations, large and small, shoulder an equitable share of the burden of maintaining our government. If any profitable firm's write-offs reduce the tax to zero, a minimum corporate tax on profits should be imposed. A free government doesn't mean a free ride.

Protectionism Against Consumer Interest

In the auditorium of the old National Republican Club on West 40th Street in New York City, there used to be a wonderful high-backed chair, no doubt used by the presiding officer on suitably momentous occasions around the turn of the century. It was made of solid mahogany, elaborately carved with all sorts of scrolls and curlicues and upholstered in a durable green baize. Centered at the top of the chair's high back, where it could easily be seen by all, was an inscription in gilt letters: "PROTECTION — THE NATION'S HOPE."

I used to call that inscription to the attention of visitors, and we would chuckle at its antique charm. It never occurred to anyone that we might live to see a day when protectionism would again become a respectable cause, politically speaking. And if it had, it would never have crossed our minds that its most zealous advocates would turn out to be, not today's equivalents of the old moguls of the National Republican Club, but modish young members of the Democratic Party.

The Democrats are casting about desperately these days for viable issues and the conviction is growing in many quarters that "trade" (which is simply the modern tag for the whole subject) is just what the doctor ordered. Protectionism appeals to the deepest instinct — self-preservation — of every businessman threatened by foreign competition, and these days that's a heck of a lot of businessmen. Better yet from the Democratic standpoint, it appeals just as much to those businessmen's employees and the unions that represent them. Rhetorically speaking, it can be put forward as a statesmanlike response to the country's huge and growing balance-of-trade deficit. Last but not always least, it can be garnished with a little discreet xenophobia: Congressmen, after all, aren't afraid of the Tokyo vote, and some of them aren't above stirring up a bit of nationalistic animosity toward America's overseas competitors.

Viewed strictly as a political issue, in fact, protectionism has only one major flaw: It runs squarely counter to the interests of every American consumer. Every time Congress or the president acts to bar a foreign product, Americans who want to buy a product of that particular kind — whether it be a car or a pair of shoes — must dig deeper in their pockets to pay for it. For that, at bottom, is what protectionism is: simply a subsidy paid by American consumers to American producers.

Politically speaking, the distribution of forces favors the protectionists, because the threat to the businessmen and union workers in the endangered industries is mortal and they are understandably vocal on the subject, whereas the consumers, though far more numerous, are only nicked a little at a time — 20 or 30 percent, say, on a pair of shoes, a few hundred dollars on a car, etc.

Nevertheless, the Democratic Party and its allies in the media, who virtually invented "consumerism" as a new political football in the 1970s, have to be a little careful about deserting that celebrated cause too openly. I was amused to note that Andrea Mitchell, patrolling the Western White House for NBC News recently, managed to do a whole segment on President Reagan's decision not to reduce Italian shoe imports without once mentioning the word "consumer."

Morale Europe's Problem

Sympathetic American observers of the European scene, mindful of civilizational ties, are very concerned about what they regard as growing Euro-paralysis. They see this manifested in the European economy which is failing to meet the needs and aspirations of the old nations of Europe, including Great Britain.

One American commentator, columnist Georgia Anne Geyer, has referred to "a paucity of aggressive decision-making" on the part of "beautiful and aged Europe."

This is a disturbing prospect for thoughtful Americans who understand the U.S. stake in a strong and healthy Europe. The American commitment in blood and treasure to the freedom and security of Europeans in this century is too great to permit either disengagement or disinterest.

West Europeans are wrestling with many of the same problems that afflict the United States, problems such as deindustrialization, the impact of foreign trade offensives, and technological change which produces unemployment.

The United States hasn't done well in dealing with these problems in the past dozen years. Now, however, there is a clearer recognition of them and a determination to overcome them.

The U.S. has advantages in dealing with these problems, including vast natural resources and a huge domestic market.

Europeans, however, seem trapped. They suffer from slow economic growth, high unemployment, and limited technological development. Moreover, the continent is divided into often antagonistic nation-states. The hopes expressed in the 1950s for a true European Community have not materialized. As Dr. J.B. Donges of the University of Kiel said recently, "The European community is a mess."

What's wrong with Europe? At root, the problem may be one of morale rather than economics. John Biggs-Davison, writing in The Salisbury Review, points out that "The population of the European Community, countries heir to a matchless civilization carried across the globe, is expected to grow by less than three percent by the end of this century."

New Eye Surgery Worth Millions

By Jack Anderson and Joseph Spear

WASHINGTON — For an elderly person whose vision is failing because of cataracts, the restoration of sight is a jewel beyond price. But that doesn't excuse eye doctors who have become "Medicare millionaires" by getting fat off their patients and the federal government performing cataract operations.

These greedy few have taken advantage of archaic Medicare reimbursement methods to submit unconscionable overcharges for the surgical implantation of intra-ocular lenses that correct cataracts. And because of current reimbursement practices, the Department of Health and Human Services has no choice but to pay.

In a recent review of 38 ophthalmologists in six states — California, Texas, Florida, New York, Pennsylvania and Washington — the HHS inspector general found that 10 had become millionaires through the cataract operations.

Nationwide, the lens-implant operation is the most common major surgical procedure reimbursed by Medicare. It is estimated that at least a 1 million Americans will undergo the procedure this year alone, at a cost to Medicare of about $3 billion.

In fact, the internal inspector general report, obtained by our associate Tony Capaccio, predicts: "Unchecked, cataract surgeries will increase to 2 million procedures and cost the taxpayer nearly $6 billion (in) 1990."

The wild card that allows eye surgeons to rake in the big bucks is the recent technological improvements that have made the implant operation as simple as it is effective. It is now a 30-minute outpatient procedure; when it was first developed in the late 1970s, it required three to six days in the hospital.

But the Medicare reimbursement rates were set when the operation was still experimental and could be performed by only a handful of surgeons. And as long as the rates are still in effect, some ophthalmologists will continue to charge the legal limit and become what the inspector general report calls "Medicare millionaires."

"A surgeon may now perform as many as 10 to 15 operations in a day," the inspector general notes. "Neither the medical profession nor Medicare has acknowledged these technological advances and efficiencies by reducing the charges or payments associated with cataract surgery."

That's not all. "Medicare is paying over $500 million each year in unnecessary costs, including discounts such as rebates and

Labor Day Is Changing

The American people observed Labor Day recently, an occasion that, like so much else in the United States, is undergoing a transformation.

Only a few years ago, Labor Day was a celebration of the might of labor unions. They took to the streets in parades, proud of their heritage and their brotherhood, which was a status distinctly different from that of what used to be called "the working class" by the Marxists. The big American unions, especially in manufacturing, became a unified, aggressive, and powerful economic and political force.

How things have changed. Though they still marched on Labor Day 1985, the only noticeable sign of the old militance is a smoldering strike by 8,200 members of the United Steelworkers against Wheeling-Pittsburgh Steel Corporation, a company in the middle of a bankruptcy reorganization. The union objects to wage-and-benefit cuts from $21.40 per hour to $17.50, an 18 percent reduction in an industry whose plant workers are compensated on an average, 90 percent above all other American plant workers. Although there are 200,000 fewer American steel workers today than in 1979, the USW are insulted at an offer of $17.50.

The Wheeling-Pittsburgh strike is the swan song of an obsolescent union, which prefers to kill a small company and the jobs of 8,000 of its members in order to set an example for the rest of the industry, rather than surrender its he-man image.

Future Labor Days will be noted wistfully by unions like the United Auto Workers, who recently reached an agreement with General Motors Corp. to give up forever its militant posturing in return for a second chance at GM's much-touted Saturn project. The union agreed to subdue its old pretense of solidarity to GM's insistence that workers be divided into two classes of "members" and "associate members" who would have different levels of job security. The union also agreed last year to a $220 million cut in General Motors' annual $2 billion health care bill.

The UAW had one unnoticed victory in that GM was willing even to deal with the union on representation in a plant in Tennessee, a state which does not require union membership within 30 days of employment. The GM-UAW agreement has been challenged by the National Right to Work Founda-

Female Football Players

There is something a bit noble, if also a bit wacky, about Elizabeth Balsley, the 15-year-old New Jersey girl who wants to play high-school football. Banned from trying out, she took the matter to the courts in a suit claiming sex discrimination, and won. The appealing thing about her is that she does not appear to be a feminist fanatic making some abstract point about her "rights." Rather, she just seems enthusiastic about playing football.

Tradition is against it, of course. And if you look on football as a distinctively male rite, then an argument can be made for letting the males retain exclusive possession of their rite. But, on balance, I would say let the females make the team if in fact they have the talent and the physical strength to do so.

Miss Balsley, however, does have some problems. At five-five and 127 pounds, she is about 50 pounds lighter than the 70 boys who are also out for the team.

Maybe she could get away with that weight handicap if she had blinding speed. Zola Budd, I suppose, could streak down the sideline and catch a pass. If the big guys can't catch you, it doesn't matter how much heavier they are. Mercury Morris and Buddy Young showed that, not to mention the great Albie Boothe of Yale. But Miss Balsley is not especially fast. In fact, on her first day of football practice she came in last in the sprints.

Still, I wish her well. The school authorities are treating her respectfully, as is the football coach, who hopes that she might make the junior varsity squad. And, after all, why should all of this be a matter of law suits? The New Jersey court ruling overturned a Board of Education rule that barred women from contact sports. (The late Vince Lombardi once said that dancing is a contact sport. Football is a collision sport.) But if a rare woman has the physical equipment to make the team, and wants to, why not let the thing be settled on its merits? If Susie Jones is a better running back than Sam Smith, why not let her run with the ball?

I would judge that Martina Navratilova could make it as a wide receiver for that high school team, though certainly not at Princeton, let alone Ohio State or Alabama. Still, I see no reason not to let anyone at all put on a helmet, the shoulder pads and the cleats and try out for the team.

Indeed, a woman might well make any team as a place kicker, even the Pittsburgh Steelers. Rolf Bernischke, who kicks the point after touchdown for the San Diego Chargers, is rather slight and not in especially good health. He runs on to the field, kicks the point, and then goes back and sits down.

Recently Martina Navratilova and Pam Shriver, perhaps the best women's doubles team ever, defeated Bobby Riggs and Vitas Gerulaitis in a hokum match in Atlantic City. The match proved nothing at all. Riggs is 68 years old. But Navratilova said some intelligent and realistic things after the match. She said that she would lose to the good men players because she would lack the strength and speed that they are endowed with.

kickbacks (from lens manufacturers) that are not being passed on to the government," the report points out. It concludes that "overcharging for the lenses and inflating the costs of surgery... are almost universal."

One of the 10 millionaires reviewed by the inspector general was a Florida eye surgeon whose clinic performed more than 5,000 implant operations last year, for which he was reimbursed $6.4 million by Medicare.

A Texas surgeon got $1.3 million from Medicare for implants last year, according to the inspector general's office. He received 1,600 free lenses from a manufacturer in exchange for the use of his name in its advertisements. He then submitted claims for reimbursement of $80,000 for the lenses. Medicare paid $64,000 of this, and the surgeon's patients were billed for the rest.

Rose Goes For Ty-Breaker Tonight

CINCINNATI (UPI) — You wonder what Ty Cobb would think. The man who hated to lose at anything is about to drop one base hit behind a 44-year-old whippersnapper named Pete Rose.

About 52,000 people, including Commissioner Peter Ueberroth, will visit Riverfront Stadium tonight with a chance to witness history.

Rose will be there trying to create it. "I think I'm gonna get a hit," he said. "I think I'll get two hits. I hope I get a hit every time up."

Last week, Hall of Famer Lou Brock described Rose as a kid on Christmas Eve. "Just trying to decide who Santa Claus will be."

Santa may appear in the form of San Diego righty LaMarr Hoyt, a former Cy Young Award winner. He was traded to the Padres last winter when his physique began to resemble that of Mr. Claus.

The man doesn't like to lose, though. "I sat next to him at the All-Star Game," Rose said. "He's a gamer."

Hoyt, 13-8, is making his first start in three weeks after some shoulder trouble. Two batters into the game, he could move from the injured list to a trivia roster.

"It wouldn't bother me, but I'm not looking forward to it," Hoyt said.

By allowing the hit, Hoyt would join a club that is neither small nor exclusive. Rose collected his first victim more than 20 years ago, when he tripled off Pittsburgh's Bob Friend.

Since then, Rose has slashed and slid and quipped his way into baseball history.

He probably clinched the Hall of Fame years ago when he passed 3,000

N.L. Baseball

hits. He has spiked Ernie Banks, barreled into Ray Fosse, fought with Bud Harrelson. When Carlton Fisk's homer beat his Cincinnati Reds in Game 6 of the 1975 World Series, Rose rejoiced to have even been part of the game.

Of all Rose has accomplished, however, perhaps nothing compares with his having disturbed the awesome solitude of Tyrus Raymond Cobb.

In the first three decades of this century, it was Cobb who slashed and slid his way into baseball history.

When his career was through, Cobb owned a .367 batting average and 4,191 hits.

The .367 is safe, but 57 years after Cobb last sneered at a pitcher, Rose owns part of the 4,191. He hopes to relinquish his share quickly.

"Hopefully, I'll get a hit my first at-bat," he said.

Rose tied the record Sunday in Chicago's Wrigley Field, with Reds owner Marge Schott listening in frustration on the radio.

After coming dramatically close to breaking the record away from his hometown of Cincinnati, Rose returned Monday.

He found himself unable to accommodate the 29,289 fans who watched the Reds beat San Diego 2-1.

Knowing left-hander Dave Dravecky would keep Rose out of the starting lineup, they nevertheless hoped to see Cincinnati's player-manager assign himself to pinch-hit.

No one will ever know how close they came.

With one out in the ninth and Dave Parker on second, Dave Concepcion singled home the tying run. If Parker had held at third, Rose might have batted for catcher Bo Diaz.

"I was really debating that," Rose said.

Instead, Rose and Cobb remain tied at least until tonight. And with all of baseball — including Schott's pet dog — watching, Rose will try to send a line drive past LaMarr Hoyt's ear.

Rose could go 0-for-his next 30. But he probably won't. It could all end tonight, and Tyrus Raymond Cobb will regain his solitude. But he will be alone where he never wanted to be — in second place.

Preps Get Ready To Toe The Mark

The 1985 Seminole County prep sports season officially gets underway today with a dual cross country meet and a couple of freshman football games.

In cross country, Lyman High hosts a dual meet with DeLand with the girls meet starting at 4 p.m. and the boys at 4:30.

With a usually strong boys team, led by returnees Mike Mohler and Robin Rogers and freshman Nick Radkewich and a significantly improved girls squad, led by the dynamic duo of Tracy Fisher and Julie Greenberg along with transfers Gretchen O'Grady and Lynn Gomezperalta, Lyman could come away with a sweep of DeLand.

In freshman football, Lyman is at Bishop Moore tonight at 7 and Lake Howell travels to St. Cloud (also at 7).

Seminole High's cross country teams open the season Thursday at the Astronaut Invitational in Titusville at 5 p.m. Both teams have a number of returning veterans but depth has been a problem. Billy Penick is the top boys harrier.

Junior varsity football starts Thursday with Lake Mary at Lake Brantley. Also, Lyman is at Leesburg and Lake Howell hosts St. Cloud. All are 7 p.m. kickoffs.

The first ever varsity Seminole Athletic Conference event will take place Friday night when the varsity football season starts with Lake Brantley hosting Oviedo. Seminole High entertains Titusville Astronaut. Lake Mary travels to Apopka, Lyman is at Boone and Lake Howell at Orlando Edgewater. All are 8 p.m. starts.

Last week, a pair of jamborees kicked off the football season. At Lake Howell High, Lake Mary pulled out a 7-0 victory over the Silver Hawks and DeLand took care of Lake Brantley, 12-0, Friday.

The Patriots lost the services of defensive end Bucky Chambers indefinitely. Chambers suffered a broken leg during the first quarter against DeLand. "He was doing a heckuva job, too, until that happened," said Lake Brantley coach Fred Almon.

Quarterback Shane Letterio ran for the only score for Lake Mary when he scrambled around end for 11 yards and the TD. It came with a little over four minutes to play.

Thursday night at Lyman High, Seminole and Lyman each lost a quarter to Wildwood and Haines City. Seminole coach Dave Moutre cited defensive back Dexter Franklin for an outstanding job. Lyman coach Bill Scott said he was pleased with the play of running back Robert Thomas and slotback Ralph Philpot.

It will be off to the races Saturday for the county's cross country runners. The Lake Mary Opener will officially open the prep season at Lake Mary High. The Rams are ranked seventh in the state while Lake Howell's girls are ranked fourth.

In other beginnings, the first big Seminole County cross country meet of the season will be the Lake Mary Opener Saturday at Lake Mary High.

The county teams that will be on hand are host Lake Mary's boys and girls, Lake Howell's boys and girls, Oviedo's boys and girls and Lyman's boys. Lake Mary's boys are ranked seventh in the 4A preseason poll while Lake Howell's girls are fourth. — Chris Fister

Bucs: Young To Sign

TAMPA (UPI) — The USFL is about to wave goodbye to another star. A very expensive star.

Tampa Bay Coach Leeman Bennett said Monday millionaire quarterback Steve Young has been placed on USFL waivers, and the Buccaneers anticipate the imminent signing of the Los Angeles Express star.

Young and attorney Leigh Steinberg flew into Tampa Monday night with both sides optimistic a quick settlement can finally be reached in the lengthy negotiations. The NFL has used caution in pursuing Young because of an antitrust suit filed by the USFL.

"I understand Steve was put on waivers today and if he clears, it shouldn't be long before we get something done," said Bennett. "We're not anticipating him playing for us much this year, however. If he clears waivers he's free to come to the NFL, and the only thing left is finalizing a contract. We're in the neighborhood as far as money is concerned."

The Buccaneers own the NFL rights to the former Brigham Young standout, and Young had a physical exam and a workout Aug. 2 in front of Tampa Bay Coach Leeman Bennett.

Young struggled through the 1985 season with the Express as injuries and a porous offensive line kept his production limited to 1,741 yards and just six touchdowns. After Steinberg negotiated a record-setting contract for Young at Los Angeles worth an estimated $40 million, Young guided the Express to a 10-8 mark in 1984, passing for 2,361 yards and 10 TDs.

"I'm very hopeful the situation will be resolved in the next several days," said Steinberg from Los Angeles before boarding a plane for Florida. "Steve and I are flying to Tampa tonight for one last set of discussions with the Bucs."

"The issues have narrowed quite a bit in terms of the USFL, but these negotiations are as complicated as anyone has ever held. Here's the highest-paid player and we're talking to two leagues."

Bennett had other concerns beside the Young negotiations. The Buccaneers blew a 28-17 halftime lead Sunday in dropping a 38-28 decision at Chicago and mistakes made the difference. Steve DeBerg had a tipped pass intercepted by Leslie Frazier, who ran it back 29 yards for a touchdown, and the Bears blocked a Frank Garcia punt to set up another score.

"We had them in a position to win the game but we didn't ... primarily because of errors," said Bennett. "We never really recovered from that interception, and we went downhill in the third quarter. Our defense didn't play good, either. They kept the ball much too long and our corners at times played without confidence."

The Buccaneers play their first regular-season home game under Bennett Sunday against Minnesota. The Vikings come off a 28-21 upset of champion San Francisco in which they forced seven turnovers.

"Obviously, they played an outstanding game against the 49ers," said Bennett. "It should do a great deal for their attitude and give them a lot of impetus."

Clark Is Confident Lyman Can Repeat

By Chuck Burgess
Special to the Herald

Speed, strength, agility, desire. These are common characteristics of a greyhound. Don Clark, head coach of the Lyman High School swim team, feels his team has these qualities. "We feel like we're winners," Clark said.

Clark, in his 16th year of coaching competitive swimming, has been smiling about this season already. "The kids are working their butts off. We have a great attitude and are practicing twice a day," Clark, a former Evans graduate, said.

The "Hounds, who are the conference favorites this year, are determined to keep their heads on straight. "I like the pressure and so do the kids," Clark said. "We set our goal the first day. Our goal is to win conference."

If Lyman is to fulfill its goal, it will depend on key veterans. They include: for girls — senior Jane Hall (breaststroke, I.M.), junior Shannon Parker (sprint free), and sophomore Karen Long (backstroke). For boys — senior Ken Barnett (butterfly), and juniors Tom Mooney (back) and Charlie Rose (back, I.M.).

Swimming

Clark, impressed with his returnees, gave Rose a tremendous compliment. "He (Rose) is Mr. Everything. He placed fourth in the 200 I.M. and third in the 100 back at state last year."

Although Clark's veterans will provide most of the scoring, he is impressed with a couple of freshmen. Millette Webber, who swims distance free, will be a big plus for the Greyhounds. "She's one heck of a hard worker", Clark said.

Even though Clark heavily praises Webber, he has even more respect for another freshman, Nich Radkewich, who is the Florida State Triathlon Champion in his age group, will be swimming distance freestyle.

"He (Radkewich) is probably the best athlete in Florida in his age group," Radkewich is also going to run cross country and is Lyman's number one runner. "He's just unbelievable," Clark said.

Lyman, bounded by a wall of strengths, does have a few weaknesses. "We don't have a lot of depth in the boys. We have a lot of young kids and not a lot of leadership or experience," Clark said.

Defending conference champions, the Greyhounds look for the middle man to come through with the big swims this year. "If Shannon Parker and Frank Barnett come through, we'll be tough," Clark said. "It's not the top guy who always wins for you. You have to count on the whole line up."

After winning conference last year in both boys and girls, placing third and fifth at districts, and ninth at boys' state, one would wonder what is next for this county swimming dynasty?

Clark, though, is somewhat confident that there is more for his team. "Last year we won the girls' (conference title) without even winning one single event," Clark said. "We were in third place with two events to go and we pulled it out."

County teams will definitely learn one thing this year: Greyhounds don't only run — they swim too.

Clay Parnell and his Lake Brantley Patriots will have a rebuilding year as they lost state champion Henrik Jangvall to graduation. Other county teams to look for are Lake Brantley, Lake Howell, and Oviedo.

Dwayne Picous's "Silver Ducks" of Lake Howell will be up around the top of the pack. Lake Howell, usually a consistent squad, will hope to regain the conference championship which it lost to Lyman last year.

Jeannie Michaud's Oviedo Lions are definitely in a rebuilding year. After losing the nation's top backstroke, Andy Gill, Oviedo will have to start from scratch.

Cowboys Hammer Washington, 44-14

IRVING, Texas (UPI) — Although the Dallas Cowboys missed the playoffs in 1984 for the first time in 10 years, they obviously have not forgotten what playoff football is all about.

Against the Washington Redskins Monday night, they created turnovers, sustained a 98-yard drive, converted key third-down situations, enjoyed an excellent kicking game, and buried their biggest rival, 44-14.

"It was hot out there tonight," said Dallas Coach Tom Landry. "And we were hot, too."

In the opening Monday night game of the season, the Cowboys crushed the Redskins, silencing critics who contended they are has-beens.

Dallas won its season opener for the 20th time in 21 years and produced the largest victory margin in the Cowboys-Redskins series since 1970.

"It was just a day where Dallas deserves all the credit," said Washington Coach Joe Gibbs. "We made every mistake you can make. The good thing is that it was the first game of the year and we've got to find a way to bounce back."

Washington turned over the ball seven times — five coming on interceptions thrown by Joe Theismann, a 12-year career high. It was Theismann's 36th birthday, one he would just as soon forget.

"This was a bad experience," said Theismann. "When you make six or seven mistakes like we did you don't deserve to win."

Dallas' first-half points came on a 53-yard field goal by Rafael Septien, equaling the longest of Ed Sweeney and Doug Dowdy each drove in a run and Sessions Well Drilling survived a shaky seventh inning in the field to come away with a 2-1 victory over McKee Development Monday night in a key early season game in the Sanford Men's Softball Fall League at Pinehurst Field.

The win enabled Sessions Well Drilling to keep pace with the Tim Raines Connection. Both teams stand at 3-0 and will go head to head for the first time Wednesday night at 6:30.

In other games Monday night, Geyser Systems routed Brown Boveri Electric, 18-5 and Sunniland ripped Cardinal Industries, 13-5.

Sessions Well Drilling took a 1-0 lead in the bottom of the first when Dowdy singled with two outs, Ray Bowling drew a walk and Sweeney drove in Dowdy with a base hit.

Session Well Drilling made it 2-0 in the third when, with one out, Tom Gracey doubled, took third on Albert Key's fly out and scored on Dowdy's single.

McKee Development pulled within 2-1 in the top of the fourth when Randy Forrest reached on a fielder's choice and scored on an error after Tracy Walker's single.

In Geyser Systems' win over Brown Boveri, Mark Cheeseman led the offensive attack with a 4 for 5 performance that included a pair of solo home runs, a double and a single. Mike Timmons drove in four runs with three hits, Ray Mack had four hits and two RBIs and Cliff Reynolds drove in two runs.

Sunniland fanned 16 hits in its win over Cardinal Industries including four by Wayne Kelso and three each by Nick Mergo, Felix Smith and Rick Tubbs.

Tact Just Does Not Work With Overbearing People

DEAR ABBY: Reading your column daily has taught me a lot about the brashness of some people, but nothing I had read prepared me for the following: A woman I'm not well acquainted with (we chat when we see each other at the grocery store, which is seldom) appeared at my door last May.

I had buried my mother the previous day and was feeling very tired, so I was still in bed at noon. When I went to the door, this woman chimed me for still being in my bathrobe. I explained the situation, thinking she would apologize for intruding and leave. Instead, she went on to tell me in great detail about her own mother's death, which had occurred years ago. Then she thrust an invitation to her daughter's high school graduation in my hand and left. (I didn't even know this woman had a daughter.)

It's now September. Yesterday my phone rang and the caller identified herself as so-and-so's daughter. I had no idea who she was talking about until she explained that her mother had given me an invitation to her graduation. She said that since she had not received a graduation gift from me, she figured I had probably put money in an envelope and had forgotten to mail it.

I told her as tactfully as I could that I had done neither. Then she said, "That's all right, just put some money in an envelope and I'll come right over and get it because I'm going shopping today and wanted to buy a few things."

I was so angry I told her I was in no position to give her any money, then I hung up.

Abby, is there a classification for people like this? If so, what is it? Also, how would you have handled the situation?

FLABBERGASTED: Such people can be classified as ignorant, nerdy, grasping and totally lacking in judgment and sensitivity. But before you judge, please consider that both the girl and her mother could be mentally deficient. And I would have handled the situation just as you did.

DEAR ABBY: I have a very perplexing problem. How should in-laws be addressed? I've been married to their daughter for four months, and so far I have avoided calling them anything.

During the two and a half years I courted "Barbara," I've called her parents Mr. and Mrs. Jones (not their real names), but after the wedding, it didn't seem right, so I asked them what they wanted me to call them, and they said, "Call us anything you feel comfortable with." Well, to be honest, I feel comfortable calling them Mr. and Mrs. Jones because it shows respect, and I've never called them anything else.

Barbara has no trouble calling my parents "Mom and Dad," which is what she calls her parents, but I'd feel awkward calling anyone except my own parents by those names. Using their first names seems disrespectful.

What do other newweds do? I am open to suggestions.

TONGUE-TIED: Some in-laws are called "Mother Betty" and "Father Paul," or Mom and Dad Jones. Or just plain Mama and Papa, or whatever one's spouse calls them. It may be a bit awkward at first, but it gets easier with time. Most in-laws don't care what their kids call them, as long as they call them.

Problems? Write to Abby. For a personal, unpublished reply, send a self-addressed, stamped envelope to Abby, P.O. Box 38923, Hollywood, Calif. 90038. All correspondence is confidential.

RSVP Volunteers Pinned

Shirley Mills, right, of Sanford, chairman of the Retired Senior Volunteer Program's Advisory Council, presents pins to Bertha Valentine, center, and Mildred Burton, both of Sanford, at a recent luncheon when RSVP volunteers serving 10 years or more were honored. Mrs. Valentine has served at the Information Desk at the Seminole County Courthouse since the inception of the program in 1973 and now serves on the Advisory Council. Mrs. Burton is the volunteer coordinator at the Seminole County Health Department and also coordinates volunteers at the county courthouse and county services building.

Horticulture Experts Set At Garden, Lawn Show

The Harry P. Leu Botanical Gardens in Orlando will be the setting for the third Annual Central Florida Lawn and Garden Show, one of the largest such shows in the Southeast.

Featured will be exhibits by local plant societies and lawn-and-garden-care businesses; plant sales; a plant clinic; a fern-featured flower show; a bromeliad show; and talks by local horticultural experts; America's "master gardener," television personality and writer Jerry Baker; and Mel Bartholomew, author of "Square Foot Gardening."

Visitors are encouraged to bring examples of ailing flowers, vegetables, turf, shrubs and trees for diagnosis at a free plant clinic that will be set up just inside the entrance to the show. Gardening experts will analyze plant samples, test garden soil, identify plants and answer questions about gardening in Central Florida.

For the best diagnosis, gather a good sample of the problem — a plant limb with good and bad portions present, a jar containing several examples of offending insects or a square foot of sod that includes both good and bad portions of the lawn. Soil tests can be performed with just a pint of soil brought in a jar, box or bag.

In addition to admiring indoor and outdoor plants being exhibited, gardening enthusiasts will be able to purchase specimens to take home and rear.

In conjunction with the Central Florida Lawn and Garden Show there will be a Horticulture Symposium on Friday, Oct. 18, beginning at 7 p.m. The symposium will feature prominent horticulturists who will make presentations and answer questions. The Horticulture Symposium is free and will be held at the Agriculture Center, 2350 East Michigan St., Orlando.

The historic Leu House Museum, which if furnished with turn-of-the-century antiques, has taken on a fern atmosphere for the show. "Echos From The Past" is the theme of the standard flower show being held in the Leu House by District VII of the Florida Federation of Garden Clubs. The house is open at no additional charge.

The Bromeliad Society of Central Florida will hold its annual show in conjunction with the lawn and garden show. There are more than 300 entries from around the southeast United States including Florida, Alabama, Georgia and Louisiana. Experts from the society will be available to answer questions about bromeliad culture.

The lawn and garden show is sponsored by the Harry P. Leu Gardens and the Orange County (Florida) Cooperative Extension Service.

The Gardens are at 1730 N. Forest Avenue, Orlando. Show hours are 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. on Friday, Oct. 18; Saturday, Oct. 19 and Sunday, Oct. 20. Complimentary shuttle service will be running on Saturday and Sunday between Koger Office Complex (behind Oger Fashion Square) and Leu Gardens. Gate admission to the show is $2 adults; children under 12 free.

"Mommy, do I have to go to school today?" "Yes," replies mother. "Great!" responds Johnny.

As parents, wouldn't this reaction get your day off to a splendid start? If your answer is "yes," you need to know about A Child's World. The warm homelike wholesome center could be your child's "home away from home."

Good centers must have an open-door policy for parents. Insist that parents come into the center each day, and be apprised of all aspects of the child's daily routine through day-to-day contacts and comprehensive newsletters outlining the entire program of activities.

They do just that at A Child's World, which provides care for children 18 months to 12 years, 6 a.m. to 6 p.m. Transportation is provided from local schools.

The center's own educational program entitled STRONG FOUNDATIONS Developmental Series is a striking early childhood curriculum that involves the use of a program for two-year-olds entitled Just for Twos, Bridge to Reading, MacMillan Early Skills and Sullivan Language for preschoolers.

Here are some of the reasons that your family should start celebrating childhood and enroll your child at A Child's World:

Education — The management's educational backgrounds include a master of science degree in Early Childhood, a BS in Psychology, Child Development associate degree and special training in Early Childhood Education. All staff members must have formal training in Early Childhood. Staff members are certified in Child Health and Emergency Care.

Basic Computer Skills — Computers are an important part of our children's daily use. Each software program has been especially designed for each child's developmental level from ages 4-12.

Meals — Education regarding food, proper table setting and manners are stressed. Home-cooked, new different and foreign foods are routinely introduced. Breakfast is served at no extra charge.

Evaluations — Each preschool child enrolled is screened twice annually in fine and gross motor, cognitive and self-help basic skills. The Denver Developmental test is used for children under two years.

Field Trips — Each age groups takes field trips to places such as Sea World, Disney World, Circus World, Blue Springs, Central Florida Zoo, the airport, post office, and library and for activities such as train ride to Winter Park, skating, swimming and bowling.

Foreign Language — Spanish is taught to 4- and 5-year-olds through a formal weekly lesson.

Gold Seal Of Excellence — A Child's World, one of only 11 centers in a three-county area to receive this award for excellence from Community Coordinated Child Care, has won it for several consecutive years.

If you would like your child to be involved in this type of first class environment, call 323-8424, or visit the facility at 2854 S. Sanford Ave., Sanford, today. A Child's World will help by not charging tuition for the first week.

Hydroponic Crops Yield Is 20 Times Conventional Way

By Sarah Fisher Lowe
 COLORADO SPRINGS, Colo. (UPI) — The greenhouse is crammed with young lettuce plants — rows of them in long, narrow trays of greenish water.

Howard Sweeney lifts one of the plants from its tray, displaying the thick mass of delicate roots. They sprout from a two-inch square of rockwool.

This is one experimental greenhouse at Hydro-Gardens Inc. In another, vine-ripening tomatoes and European cucumbers are rooted in buckets of gray glop, which looks suspiciously like rockwool insulation.

The plants are being grown hydroponically, nourished by a mixture of nutrients poured into their tray, like a high-potency vitamin drink. A farmer using conventional technology would need 20 times as much space to grow the same amount of produce.

"We can grow an 8-ounce head of lettuce in four weeks. It'll take about eight weeks for full-grown cucumbers, and we can get two tomato harvests a year," said Sweeney, marketing manager for the 20-year-old firm.

"When you grow a plant in soil, it has to seek out the nutrients," Sweeney explained. "Under this system, the custom-blended nutrients are brought to the plant."

Hydroponics — growing plants in solutions or moist inert material containing the necessary minerals instead of soil — has been around for a long time, Sweeney said. It does not threaten to eclipse conventional farming technology because it still is more costly.

Hydro-Gardens sells its tomatoes, for example, for $1.29 a pound, compared with 59 cents a pound for field grown tomatoes.

However, in places where conventional farming is impossible, these greenhouses can produce tasty vegetables free of insect infestation and protected from the vagaries of the weather.

Hydro-Gardens, which had $5 million in gross sales last year, derives 95 percent of its revenues from the sale of technology. The company just completed a $4.5 million sale to one of Saudi Arabia's largest water-well drilling companies, Ibrahim Abunayyan Organization. Hydro-Gardens erected greenhouses on 18 acres of desert in Riyadh, Saudi Arabia.

Feds Nix NYC Ban On Nuclear Waste

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The federal government said Monday New York City cannot ban the shipment of spent nuclear fuel through its busy highways despite arguments an accident could pose a serious health hazard to nearby residents.

In a petition to the Transportation Department, New York City proposed the nuclear material be transported by barge instead of trucks from Long Island to Connecticut.

City officials argued trucking nuclear fuel in the most densely populated area in the nation is risky because of potential highway accidents.

The Transportation Department Monday denied the city's request for a waiver of federal regulations, saying New York was unable to demonstrate that these regulations fail to provide it adequate protection.

New York wanted the waiver to prevent shipments of spent nuclear fuel from Brookhaven National Laboratory on Long Island through New York City.

"If DOT were to grant the waiver, the effect would be to reroute to Connecticut shipments that now move through New York City," the department said in a statement.

New York City has the option of asking New York State and Connecticut to get together and designate alternate routes.

Earlier, New York City enacted a law that bans such shipments throughout the city, but federal regulations have preempted the prohibition.

Rep. James Scheuer, D-N.Y., a longtime opponent of shipping the nuclear fuel by trucks, said the city should appeal the "unfortunate" decision.

"The ruling defies common sense when one considers that New York City offers a safer and more cost effective alternative route which avoided the city entirely," Scheuer said.

The congressman said he will ask federal officials to travel the truck route to see the daily "carnage" on New York's highways.

But in Hartford, Conn., an elated state Attorney General Joseph Lieberman said, "I'm happy to announce we've taken a little bite out of the Big Apple."

At a news conference, Lieberman said: "We said all along that what New York is trying to do in sending its radioactive waste was unfair and the federal DOT this morning agreed with us."

Lieberman said regulations required nuclear waste be shipped in the "most direct and quickest path. It is clear the quickest path from Long Island to Idaho is not through Connecticut," he said.

New York City has 30 days to appeal the DOT decision and then may turn to the federal courts.

Vaseline To Raise The Titanic?

LONDON (UPI) — Vaseline — about 180,000 tons of it — is just the stuff to raise the Titanic from the bottom of the North Atlantic, says one salvage expert. But another suggests using liquid nitrogen to make a giant iceberg of the 73-year-old wreck.

The 46,000-ton Titanic was found by an American-French expedition last week about 2 1/2 miles deep in the North Atlantic some 375 miles south of Newfoundland. Many salvagers have ruled out raising the vessel.

But The Sunday Mirror newspaper reported a British underwater salvage expert is proposing raising the liner with 180,000 tons of Vaseline.

Tony Wakefield, a salvage engineer with a company in Stamford, has proposed pumping Vaseline petroleum jelly into polyester bags placed in the hull of the wreck, the Mirror said.

He told the newspaper the Vaseline would harden, making the vessel buoyant.

Under Wakefield's plan, the liner would be towed underwater — at a depth of 200 feet — to prevent corrosion.

The Sunday Times, giving a rundown on "Jules Verne schemes" to raise the ship, said another proposal would use liquid nitrogen to freeze the Titanic into a "giant iceberg" to buoy it to the surface.

Under that plan, wire mesh would be placed around the ship and liquid nitrogen pumped through.

But British salvager John Pierce, who helped recover artifacts three years ago from the wreck of the Lusitania in 340 feet of water off the Irish coast, said a system of inflatable hydrogen-filled bags could raise the Titanic, which hit an iceberg and sank 73 years ago. "This operation will represent a big step forward for the prestige of British science," he said. "I don't intend to get egg on my face."

The team that discovered the Titanic wants it preserved where it is as a maritime memorial to the 1,513 people who died when the vessel sank on its maiden voyage July 15, 1912.

Captain Andrew Marshall, an official of the British Salvage Association, said any salvage operation beyond a depth of 250 feet — the operating threshold for divers — "is fraught with extreme technical difficulties."

He said the deepest salvage operation ever attempted was a 1974 project sponsored by the CIA and millionaire Howard Hughes to raise a Soviet submarine from a depth of 16,600 feet in the Pacific. The attempt failed.

Despite Female Prime Minister

British Women Deprived

By Tim Robinson

Editor's Note: Robinson, a British free-lance writer, covers social issues in Britain.

LONDON — A favorite joke about Prime Minister Margaret Thatcher is that she is the only "man" in the British government. But the fact that the line is used without irony tells much about the condition of women's liberation here.

Thatcher apart, women still have a long way to go in Britain before they attain equality like parity with men in such fields as politics, business and education. And this even though they outnumber men in the population by 52 percent to 48 percent.

Oddly enough, Thatcher is not exactly a strong supporter of her sex. She suggests, in her old-fashioned way, that perhaps women ought to return to the kitchen and leave professional work to men.

Only one-third of Britain's 29 million women do have jobs. Nearly half of them work part-time, usually in low-paid menial service positions, like maids and waitresses. Many try to raise families at the same time.

The pressure is growing, moreover, to deprive them of whatever gains they have made, such as job security during pregnancy. They will probably retain that benefit, but only by fighting for it.

The concept of women's liberation reached here during the 1960s from the United States. British women were so far behind, however, that they have not quite caught up with their American sisters.

It was only in 1928 that all women over the age of 21 won the right to vote. The struggle to get the franchise took years of struggle, in which many suffragettes were jailed and some died.

And not until the 1970s were the laws amended to grant them other rights, such as getting mortgages and other loans as well as credit cards. Only then, too, could they expect equal treatment in divorce suits.

An equal wage statute is supposed to give them the same salaries as men for the same work. But it is largely theoretical, since employers contend that women lack the stamina to hold masculine jobs.

They are banned entirely from areas like oil drilling and mining, which even discourages them from trying to become white collar engineers. In fact, fewer than 1 percent of British engineers are women.

It would be assumed that they are heavily represented in the less rigorous professions, like law, medicine, and education. Not true.

The statistics tell the story. Women represent only 11 percent British lawyers, 7 percent of architects, 3 percent of full university professors, and 1 percent of bank managers. Though 18 percent of doctors and dentists are women, only a tiny fraction are surgeons.

Longwood Incumbents To Run Again

The qualifying period for city commission candidates in Longwood's municipal election will run from Oct. 4 to Oct. 18. Candidates may pick up their filing papers from City Clerk Don Terry at city hall.

The three incumbents said Monday that they intend to run for re-election. They are Mayor/Commissioner Harvey Smerilson, District 1; Commissioner June Lormann, District 2; and Harold "Ed" Myers, District 4. Mrs. Lormann will be seeking her seventh two-year term on the commission. Smerilson will be running for his second term. This is the third bid for a commission seat for Myers — in 1983 and prior to that in the late 60s. He said he has already opened his campaign account and selected David Lewis as campaign manager and Walter Fleck as treasurer.

The election will be held on Dec. 3 from 7 a.m. to 7 p.m. in the city council chambers at 175 W. Warren Ave.

Students' Parents Protest AIDS Decision

NEW YORK (UPI) — Hundreds of parents chanting "boycott" jammed a school auditorium as community leaders and politicians spoke out against a city decision allowing children with AIDS to attend public schools.

Parents in districts 27 and 29 in Queens kept more than 18,000 children out of classes Monday on the first day of school to protest the city's decision to allow a second-grader with acquired immune deficiency syndrome to attend classes. About 49,237 students attend the 63 schools in the two districts.

Education officials said the Queens boycott did not significantly affect citywide attendance totals, estimating that 98 percent of the city's 946,000 students showed up at the city's 913 schools.

But emotions reached a fever pitch at P.S. 63 in Ozone Park Monday night as more than 500 parents crowded into a small auditorium and several hundred peered in through windows and milled about outside.

The hall was filled with chants of "boycott" and "Two, four, six, eight. No AIDS in any grade."

One parent held a sign that read, "Our Children Want Good Grades, Not AIDS."

The second-grader at the center of the controversy was described by city officials as outwardly healthy. He was the only one of four children with AIDS given permission Saturday to attend public school by a Board of Education panel that reviewed their cases.

The unidentified 7-year-old was born with AIDS, inheriting it from his mother, who contracted the disease from a contaminated hypodermic needle. The student attended kindergarten and first-grade without incident.

Officials would not say which one of the city's 623 elementary schools the student would attend but insisted the child would not endanger other students.

Mayor Edward Koch defended the panel's decision and he pleaded with parents not to frighten their children by keeping them out of school.

"What are you going to do, take a child that the doctors have said is no threat to any other children and just cast that child into the river?" he said. "That's not just. That's not fair."

A judge refused Monday to issue a temporary restraining order that would have barred the child from school.

State Supreme Court Judge Harold Hyman scheduled a hearing Thursday at which lawyers for the two Queens school boards will request a permanent injunction.

Parents have vowed to keep their children out of school until the city reverses its decision. They planned to meet again after Thursday's hearing.

AIDS Talk Open To Public

AIDS will be the subject of a community education program at South Seminole Community Hospital, Longwood, tonight from 7:30 to 9.

Elizabeth Whitworth and will cover the risk factors and symptoms associated with the disease as well as the latest information and how it can be transmitted.

The program will be presented by Infection Control Specialist

Lake Howell To Host Parents

Lake Howell High School will host a Parents' Back to School Night September 17 from 7:30 until 9:15. After a brief PTSA meeting, parents will be invited to follow their student's schedule, meet the teachers and learn about the student's curriculum and course requirements.

All parents of students attending Lake Howell High School this year are cordially invited and encouraged to attend Parents' Back to School Night. An interesting and informative evening is planned as parents learn about the school's curriculum, said school spokesman Karen Coleman.

Be Prudent In Using Artificial Sweeteners

Dr. Gott

DEAR DR. GOTT — I find I am buying more and more products containing Nutrasweet. Could you please comment on this artificial sweetener?

DEAR READER — As far as I know, Nutrasweet is not harmful. It has been approved by the FDA, which will, I understand, shortly be allowing cyclamate-containing products back on the shelves. As with any chemical additive, however, I urge moderation in its use.

DEAR DR. GOTT — Six months ago I was hurt at work and suffered what the doctor calls a lower-back sprain. I still have some pain around both hips and the end of the backbone. Also, my stool is hard and I only go about every three or four days. Will this injury ever get better? I was never one to sit on my mind when it came to doing my share of the work on the family farm.

DEAR READER — Your discomfort will improve with time, but it may take several more months. Unfortunately, even with modern farming methods, there is still a lot of standing in your line of work. Tractor driving and related activities may be difficult for now, but I am sure you will soon be back to normal. Your constipation, which is a common problem following injuries, is probably related to inactivity and minor dietary changes. Use a stool softener if needed for a short period of time.

DEAR DR. GOTT — I have a friend who is a 32-year-old woman. She is (conservatively) 30 pounds overweight, smokes one-and-a-half packs of cigarettes a day and gets almost no exercise whatsoever. Please tell me if I'm right or wrong to be concerned about the possibility of her having a heart attack or stroke. Obviously she doesn't care about her appearance anymore, but I'm sure she wouldn't want to end up in a wheelchair for the rest of her life.

DEAR READER — Your concerns are well founded. A sedentary lifestyle, coupled with obesity and cigarette smoking, gives your friend a higher-than-average statistical risk of eventual disease. If she has high blood pressure, too, she is a prime candidate for future difficulties. Although concerns expressed by friends in the form of gentle pressure to alter her behavior may give her the nudge she needs, she will not

WIN AT BRIDGE

By James Jacoby
How often have you been declarer at three no-trump and first attacked the suit that would give you one trick, saving the suit that could give you six or more tricks for later? Ralph Katz of Chicago found just that play in the Cavendish Pairs last May, and he was right.

Katz, South, bid his hand in a normal manner. He was a little nervous about the Q-J doubleton of hearts as a stopper in that suit, but did not feel that his cards lent themselves to delicate, scientific probing for the best contract. When the three of hearts was led, declarer played low from dummy and won the jack.

As soon as the opponents regained the lead, they would of course dislodge the heart ace. If declarer did not at that time have enough tricks established for his contract, down he would go. Maybe the club suit would behave, with the K-ace on side. It was more likely that the club layout would be unfavorable. If he gave up a low club immediately, he would have only eight tricks.

Finally, Katz led a low spade from his hand. If West rose with the ace and cleared hearts right away, declarer could play a low club from dummy. With the king appearing, all would be well. When West actually played low on the spade, declarer won the queen in dummy and played the jack of clubs. Up came the king, but this was allowed to hold the trick.

The defenders were helpless to prevent declarer from making two hearts, six clubs, and that lone spade trick for his three no-trump game.

HOROSCOPE

What The Day Will Bring...
YOUR BIRTHDAY
SEPTEMBER 11, 1985
 Interesting conditions will prevail in the year ahead. Just when it appears as though things are going against you, changes will occur to put you on top of the heap.
VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) Be fair and share with others gains garnered from a collective effort, but don't award one who has not been a contributor. Major changes are ahead for Virgos in the coming year. Send for your Astro-Graph predictions today. Mail $1 to Astro-Graph, c/o this newspaper, Box 1846, Cincinnati, OH 45201.
LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) Don't let yourself get caught up in petty politics today in your social involvements with friends. Be a pal to all, but don't be anyone's campaign manager.
SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) Financial objectives can be achieved today, but it might not be as easy as you first thought. Keep your thinking cap on where money is an issue.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) It's imperative that you assess situations realistically today. Complications will result if you gloss over existing problems.
CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) Keep your guard up today if you're in the company of one who has preyed upon your generous nature in the past. He may try to repeat his old tricks.
AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) It's good to be your own person, but don't carry it to extremes today. If team effort is required, work with the group, not against it.
PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) Something offered to you today could be beneficial to your career. But because of indifference, you may not take full advantage of it.
ARIES (March 21-April 19) If you're in need of a favor today, go to a reliable friend of long standing. Don't request anything from one who has let you down before.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) Lady Luck is a trifle fickle today, so don't leave anything up to chance. You can do a better job than she can if you use your ingenuity.
GEMINI (May 21-June 20) Shy away from promoters today who grossly exaggerate the quality of their offering. Their spiel is superior to their product.
CANCER (June 21-July 22) Your financial cycle continues to look reasonably promising, but prudence is required. Extravagant expenditures will throw your budget out of balance.
LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) In partnership situations today, your way of doing things will be more effective than methods suggested by your colleagues. Assume the leading role.
