

Nixon's Political Stock Gets Big Shot In Arm

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Vice President Richard M. Nixon's political stock seemed today as a result of his backstage role in settling the steel dispute. But some Democrats charged it was a phony build-up.

Many other Democrats conceded privately that Nixon's dramatic efforts to bring about a steel agreement made him a more formidable opponent in the 1960 presidential race.

The settlement also brightened the political future of Labor Secretary James P. Mitchell, Nixon's partner in the behind-the-scenes negotiations. Mitchell often has been mentioned as a vice presidential running mate for Nixon.

Republicans from President Eisenhower down heaped praise on Nixon for ending the eight-month-old steel controversy. Mitchell declared, "without the vice president we would not have had a settlement."

Nixon and Mitchell worked as a team in a series of secret meetings with management and union leaders. Some eight or 10 of the meetings were held at Nixon's home here.

White House Press Secretary James C. Hagerty said Nixon acted throughout in accordance with Eisenhower's wishes.

It was learned from other sources that Nixon initiated the delicate backstage discussion last July. Both sides approached him as an intermediary when he attended the All-Star baseball game in Pittsburgh.

Rep. Roman C. Pucinski (D-Ind.) charged that the steel settlement was arranged to give political advantage to Nixon, who apparently will get the GOP presidential nomination.

Rep. Ray J. Madden (D-Ind.) said, "Nixon personally had as much to do with settling the strike as I had."

Madden, whose district includes the steel center of Gary, said an error that Nixon arranged the steel agreement was "just political camouflage to build him up" for the Republican presidential nomination.

Mitchell flatly denied that campaign politics had anything to do with the agreement.

Three Killed In Fiery Car, Truck Collision

ONECHOBEE (UPI) — Three persons were killed late Monday night when a car and trailer truck collided at high speed and burst into flames.

The accident occurred about 25 miles north of Lake Okechobee on U. S. Highway 44.

Dead were Dorothy Cumar of St. Cloud, driver of the car, and her companion, Ray Lee Peasley, 21, of Rockwood, Tenn. The driver of the truck was tentatively identified as Irvin Baker, 45, of Lake City, S.C.

The bodies of the men were burned beyond recognition. Both the woman's arms were severed.

Highway Patrol Cpl. Register Windham, who handled the collision near here Saturday which took nine lives, described the accident as "one of the worst I have ever seen."

He said the late model sedan was squashed like an accordion to about half its normal size. The truck was also a total loss.

Windham said the accident occurred shortly before midnight when the automobile apparently swerved suddenly across the center line and hit the semi-trailer head-on.

The truck pushed the car about 75 feet down the highway before coming to a stop and bursting into flames.

'Angry' TV Fan

CANTERBURY, England (UPI) — John L. McNally, 38, had had enough.

For two years his television set acted up. The screen would go dark when his wife tried to watch the afternoon housemakers program.

It would break down during the westerns, causing the children to burst into tears.

He kept losing his favorite program right in the middle.

McNally brooded about this and the shop where he had purchased the faulty device. His anger over-

Train Plunges Off Bridge; 25 Believed Dead

MILAN, Italy (UPI) — A six-coach train jammed with commuters plunged at high speed off a fog-shrouded temporary bridge today and crashed into a factory yard 25 feet below.

The Transport Ministry in Rome said 25 were known dead and 100 injured in one of Italy's worst postwar disasters. The news agency Italia estimated 30 persons were killed.

The train, made up of a locomotive, a baggage car and six coaches, was carrying commuters from Sondrio and another town to work in Milan. It jumped the tracks on the temporary bridge on the outskirts of suburban Monza.

Railroad officials said heavy fog prevented the engineer from seeing signals which ordered speed reduced to six miles an hour the temporary steel bridge.

Lawyer Advises Lynch Witnesses Not To Answer Grand Jury Questions

BILOXI, Miss. (UPI) — A lawyer said today he has advised eight prospective witnesses to refuse to answer questions of a federal grand jury investigating the lynch-murder of a young Negro.

The lawyer, who asked that his name not be used, told a UPI reporter he advised eight of his clients to plead the Fifth Amendment when questioned by U. S. attorneys about the abduction and murder last April 25 of Mack Charles Parker, 20. At least one witness questioned by the grand jury Monday said he followed the lawyer's advice.

The 23-man grand jury, which includes one Negro, began its investigation two months after a county grand jury at Poplarville, Miss., refused to take any action in the case.

Parker, a Negro truck driver accused of raping a young white woman, was dragged from his jail cell at Poplarville by a mob of masked men. He was shot to death and his body dumped in the Pearl River near Bogalusa, La.

Four witnesses, including the husband of the woman Parker was accused of raping, went before the grand jury Monday. The hearing was recessed while Jeff Lee, a young mechanic, was in the room, and Lee was the first witness today.

Lee said the FBI, which investigated the lynching for a month last summer, accused him of being in Hattiesburg, Miss., the day before Parker was abducted, "looking for somebody to join the gang." Lee said he had gone to Hattiesburg only to look for a job.

The witnesses heard Monday, all from the Hattiesburg area, were reported to have rejected invitations to attend a meeting at which the lynching allegedly was planned.

Federal Judge Sidney Mize told the grand jurors they may indict on civil rights and conspiracy charges only if it is shown that law enforcement officers conspired with the lynch mob.

County Announces Giant Road Program In '60

34 Killed As Airliner Crashes Into Swamp

BOLIVIA, N. C. (UPI)—A National Air Lines plane carrying 34 persons on a vacation flight from New York to Miami crashed with explosive force in a swampy area early today and all aboard were killed.

The North Carolina highway patrol said there were no survivors. The passengers had planned a jet flight but last-minute technical difficulties forced them to transfer to the ill-fated DC8B. The plane crashed in a light rain a few miles from where it was to cross the coastline on the over-water portion of its flight.

The jet had been taken out of service when a crack was noticed in its windshield shortly before the takeoff time. The 105 passengers were divided among two smaller planes.

Altamonte Gets Phone Center

The Winter Park Telephone Company has purchased property at Sanford Ave. between First and Second St. in Altamonte Springs and will start construction of a new central office building this week, J. K. Galloway, president of the company disclosed today.

"The contractor for the new building," Galloway said, "will be Allen Trevillion, well-known Winter Park builder, who submitted the lowest bid in the amount of $104,950."

"The new central office, which has been designed by James Gumble Rogers, III, will be known as the 'Terrace' office and will consist initially of some 6,000 square feet and is designed for future expansion to 18,770 square feet."

"Two thousand lines of motor switch equipment presently being designed and manufactured will be installed at an approximate cost of $300,000," Galloway announced.

"Ultimately, the Terrace office will house 30,000 lines of central office equipment."

The Terrace office will replace the present Valley and Temple central offices in providing service to the rapidly growing northern area of the territory served by the company, which includes Altamonte Springs, Casselberry, Longwood, Fern Park, Forest City and surrounding areas.

Present plans provide for completion of the building by April 15, and central office equipment will be installed with a service date planned for November of this year.

Dickinson Enters Governor's Race

TALLAHASSEE (UPI)—Sen. Fred O. Dickinson of West Palm Beach jumped into the governor's race today and announced he will make development of roads and waterways his principal aim.

The 37-year-old Dickinson, who has never lost a political campaign, said he will wage the "hard-fought, aggressive" race waged by a candidate for office.

"I am out to win and I'm going to win," he told a group of newsmen and Tallahassee supporters in an hour and one-half long press conference.

He said H. Eimo Robinson, West Palm Beach attorney, who managed the South Florida campaigns of Sen. George Smathers and all campaigns for Congressman Paul Rogers, will be his state campaign manager.

He said he will propose a system of inter-connecting lakes that will permit a man to travel to every section of the state without taking his boat from the water.

He predicted such a program would greatly increase Florida's tax revenue.

He also proposed a 25-year road building program, written into law so that each new governor would have to follow it. It would be partially financed, he said, by earmarking some 70 to 80 million dollars per biennium from auto license (tag) revenues in addition to the present gasoline tax funds which go to roads.

Jaycee Week Starts Jan. 17

Higginbotham Named Mayor By Commission

Earl Higginbotham was unanimously elected mayor of Sanford by his fellow city commissioners last night. Commissioner Joe Baker nominated Higginbotham for the post.

Higginbotham acknowledged the responsibility of the mayor's office and said he would do his best at it.

"I can assure you of one thing—everything I do won't please everyone, but I'll try to please them," he said.

Higginbotham is starting his third term on the city commission, which he won unopposed in last November's election. He served as mayor in 1954.

New commissioner J. H. Crapps also was sworn in at last night's special meeting. Crapps, who said he would do his best on the job, took over the seat occupied by Merle Warner.

Outgoing mayor A. L. Wilson replaced his "Mayor Wilson" nameplate with a "Commissioner Wilson" plaque. He complimented the commissioner with whom he had served as mayor and said Sanford has "a fine bunch of city employees."

Outgoing Commissioner Warner, who also served a year as mayor, said the city fathers had been a very cooperative group and he believed they had worked in the best interests of Sanford.

City Manager Warren Knowles gave a report to the City Commission last night showing that the valuation of building in Sanford for 1959 was $2,775,923 as compared to $1,933,227 in 1958.

Fees collected for building, electric and plumbing permits were $9,957.75 against $6,563.65 for 1958. The greatest increase in permits issued was in the building division where 641 permits brought in $7,431 in fees against 552 permits and $4,765.50 in fees for 1958.

The 342 plumbing permits issued brought the city $810.75 in 1959 against $446 for 274 permits in 1958.

Park Drive

Sanford's Orlando Dr. will be called Park Dr., city commissioners decided last night. The commissioners told Attorney William Hutchison to draw up an ordinance changing the name of the continuation of Park Ave. from 25th St. to Hwy. 17-92. J. T. Baggerly wrote the commissioners that Park Drive "would have more acceptability to our present residents and be most logical as the southern extension of Park Avenue."

Biggest In County's History, Krider Says

Work is expected to start "as soon as possible" on a giant $5 million road improvement program with all the projects expected to be completed by mid-1961, County Commission Chairman John Krider announced today.

The money for the projects will come out of primary road money from the State Road Department, secondary gasoline tax money and this year's road and bridge fund.

"It will be the biggest job ever undertaken to improve county roads," Krider emphasized.

He added that work is expected to start within the next few days on county roads and work by contract in early February.

Among the major road improvement projects that will start will be Sanford Ave. from Glanderville to Geneva; SR 427 from Allamonte Springs to the Orange County line, West First St. from French Ave. to Interstate 600, SR 438 from Allamonte Springs to the turkey farm, SR 415 connecting a link from Geneva from Mellenville to French, Bear Lake Road to the Orange County line and SR 427 from Longwood to Allamonte Springs.

Out of this year's road and bridge fund money the county will take $133,000 for new roads which will include Sanford Ave., Park Ave., Wiley and Rose Drive, Myrtle Road and Geneva Lake Road in District 1.

In District 2 the county will work with the city in widening Sanford Ave.

In District 3 road improvements will include Humphrey, Conasa Ave., Jewel Drive, South Street and Lyman School road while District 4 road improvements will include Prairie Lake Drive.

District 5 will see improvements in Banana Lakes Road, Seminole Fish Camp Road and Loch Arbor.

Krider stressed that these improvements do not include resurfacing projects now underway. The board of commissioners yesterday also ordered the purchase of $75,000 in equipment for the engineering department including mowers, tamper, pickup, loader, four trucks and a dragline.

Raging Snow Storm Whips Across Dixie

By United Press International
A Yankee-style snow storm marched through Dixie today, spreading winter misery from Texas to Virginia.

Schools and highways were closed in the storm area. Some communities were crippled when power lines snapped under the weight of ice and snow.

At least three persons were known dead in the storm's wake. Three others were missing in a private plane.

The fierce storm, second of the new year, roared out of New Mexico, leaving that battered state covered with up to five more inches of snow.

It swirled into Oklahoma, knifed into the Texas Panhandle and then hit hard at Arkansas. Crossing the Mississippi River, the snow headed eastward, blanketing Tennessee and Kentucky.

The storm roamed through parts of Mississippi, Alabama, West Virginia, Virginia and North Carolina. It was expected to push northward into parts of Illinois, Indiana and Ohio later today.

The Weather Bureau warned up to seven inches would accumulate in Tennessee and Kentucky. During a six-hour period Tuesday night, five inches fell in Bristol, on the Tennessee-Virginia border.

The big Memphis-Arkansas bridge spanning the Mississippi River at Memphis was closed to all but emergency traffic, stranding hundreds of West Memphis residents on the wrong side of the river. The bridge was reopened at dusk, and the snow stopped Memphis after falling for 36 hours.

Schools in several West Tennessee towns were closed by the snow. The snow piled up to 12 inches in eastern Oklahoma. All roads in the state were reported hazardous. U. S. 89, "the main street of America," was blocked for 60 miles from El Paso to Clinton, Okla.

Courthouse Sets New Office Hours

The courthouse will keep its offices open during the noon hours starting Monday.

Commissioners yesterday approved a request by Commissioner Lawrence Swotford to keep all the offices open because of the heavy volume of business now done.

Tax Assessor Richard McCanna told the board that his office already has put the plan into effect and Clerk of the Circuit Court David Gatchel said he plans to start the new office hours Monday.

The courthouse has been jammed this week with residents filing homestead exemption, picking up their 1960 auto tags and paying their taxes.

Furniture Stores Continue Closing

The Sanford Retail Furniture Dealers will continue their regular Wednesday afternoon closing, according to Chester Muse of Mather's, chairman of the furniture group.

The furniture stores also will remain open today night for shopping convenience before the holidays, Muse said.

Ocala Woman Faces Charges In Girl's Death

OCALA (UPI)—The wife of a prominent Indiana businessman faces manslaughter and hit-run charges today in the death of a 17-year-old school girl struck and killed while walking home from class here Tuesday.

"I thought I hit a post," Mrs. Margaret G. Stewart told police.

Mrs. Stewart, mother of two, was on route to the South Ocala Elementary School Tuesday afternoon when her car allegedly veered off the road and hit two girls.

Deborah Update, 7, daughter of a local doctor, was killed instantly on the scene. Kayla Lowery, 17, escaped with only minor injuries.

Police said Mrs. Stewart kept going, picked up one of her own children at the school, and returned to her comfortable ranch home where she and her family recently moved. Friends said her husband was Deborah F. Stewart, owner of the Ideal Manufacturing Co., Indianapolis.

Police drove her through a heavy snow which had accumulated about 10:30 a.m. They said she seemed surprised to see officers when they arrived.

She was booked on hit-run and manslaughter charges and released under $50,000 bond.

The two children were walking from school in a 10-minute walk when the accident occurred. Police estimated the car was doing about 60 miles an hour.

Ike Looks Over State Of Union Talk

WASHINGTON (UPI)—President Eisenhower takes a final look at his State of the Union Message today with members of the cabinet looking over his shoulder.

Eisenhower, just back from a golfing holiday in Augusta, Ga., called the cabinet to the White House for a run-through of the message which will set the tone of his administration's legislative program for the new session of Congress.

The message has been a long time in preparation and has gone through more than a dozen preliminary drafts. Because of the steel strike and Eisenhower's recent 11-nation tour that took him into critical areas of Asia and the Middle East, seldom has a State of the Union Message been revised so constantly.

Before setting down in the cabinet room to review the message, the Chief Executive had an early morning date at his church, the National Presbyterian, for prayers and Communion services with other government leaders. This is an annual service held in conjunction with the convening of Congress.

At this stage, there was little prospect of a major overhaul in the State of the Union Message, although settlement of the steel strike required late reworking of sections dealing with the overall labor situation.

Eisenhower was expected to pay more than customary attention to foreign affairs in the message which he delivers in person to a joint session of the House and Senate Thursday. There will be particular emphasis on the requests for foreign aid, however, they were not expected until a later, special message.

Cannon To AFL, Boss Predicts

DALLAS, Tex. (UPI)—The boss of the American Football League predicts the AFL will win the fight for the services of All-American halfback Billy Cannon and his running mate Johnny Robinson.

Joe Pasa, AFL commissioner, said two Texas teams have frustrated claims to both Louisiana State University athletes. He said the AFL's legal grip on Cannon and Robinson can't be broken by any teams in the rival National Football League.

Pasa said both Cannon and Robinson signed AFL contracts "under the south gate post of the Sugar Bowl immediately after the New Year's Day game."

Cannon, who was drafted last month by the Los Angeles Rams of the NFL, signed with the Houston Oilers, Pasa said, and Robinson signed up with the Dallas Texans.

Cannon admits he signed some "papers" with the Los Angeles Rams before putting his name on the Houston contract. Robinson denied comment on the contract claim that he signed with them.

The wedding of Miss Ruby Pauline Stenstrom, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. N. J. Stenstrom and James Edward Alderman, son of Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Alderman, Plant City, was solemnized Jan. 3 at 2:30 p.m. at the First Baptist Church, Sanford.

Dr. W. P. Brooks Jr. officiated at the double-ring, candlelight ceremony.

Helen Alderman, Plant City, sister of the groom, was maid of honor and Elaine Alderman, another sister of the groom, served as bridesmaid.

Donald Alderman was his brother's best man. Ushers were Robert Stenstrom, Grandfork, N. D., a brother of the bride; Leo Rock, Bob Hasty and Floyd Krahenbill, all of Sanford.

The bride was given in marriage by her father, Mrs. Marvin Millam, organist, presented a program of wedding music and accompanied Mrs. Dalton Cates, soloist, who sang "I Love You Truly," "Because" and "The Lord's Prayer."

The church was decorated with baskets of white chrysanthemums, palms, fern and candelabra. Family pews were marked with white satin ribbon and small arrangements of flowers.

The bride wore a ballerina length gown of Chantilly lace and tulle, featuring a scalloped bateau neckline and three-quarter length sleeves. The very bouffant skirt had a cascade of lace and tulle ruffles in the back.

illusion was attached to a crown of lace embroidered with pearls and sequins. She carried a bridal bouquet with a white orchid on a satin covered Bible, showered with stephanotis and satin streamers. The Bible was a gift from the groom.

The bride's mother chose a dress of wedgewood blue silk shantung trimmed with Chantilly lace and a matching blue flower-trimmed hat with a nose veil and white carnations.

The groom's mother wore a blue satin back fallie dress with black accessories and a pink carnation corsage.

Following the ceremony a reception was held in the educational building of the church. The refreshment table was overlaid with an embroidered outwork cloth and centered with a five tiered wedding cake, Mrs. A. J. Peterson and

Mrs. Mack Cleveland Sr. greeted guests at the door. Miss Bobby Morton kept the bride's book and Mrs. Robert Stenstrom presided at the punch bowl. Others assisting with the serving were Mrs. J. W. ## 1960 Census Will Be Mostly A Woman's Job

The Census will be coming around in a couple of months — early April, to be exact — and guess who they expect to have all the answers? The homemaker, because she's the one likely to be at home when the census taker comes. Not only will women do most of the answering; they'll do most of the asking too, the Institute of Life Insurance reports. The Census Bureau figures that two out of three of its enumerators will be women. What kind of questions should you expect to be asked? Actually, there will be plenty of advance notice. Toward the end of March, every household in the United States will receive an "advance census report" by mail, and householders will be requested to fill out the form and have the information ready when the census taker rings the bell. Census takers will want to know the name, address, sex, race or color, birth date and marital status of every soul in the nation, man, woman and child. And they'll also have several questions about the house you live in.

Don't hesitate to answer freely and accurately. Census takers are generally assigned to houses where they do not know the people; moreover, they are forbidden by law to reveal information to anyone but a sworn employee of the Census Bureau. Besides, the law states that everyone over 18 years of age must answer official Census questions. The Census Bureau uses its information only in a general way. It cannot tell government agencies or anyone else what it has learned about individual persons. Says the law: The Census report cannot be used for purposes of taxation, investigation or regulation. When the census taker calls, he will leave a "household questionnaire" at every fourth house he visits, to be filled out by the family and mailed back within three days. This form asks for more detailed information about the house itself, and about household members. For example, everyone over the age of 16 will be asked if he (or she) is now working, and where he works; how he gets to work; how long he worked in 1959; and what his income was for the year. The Census Bureau expects that when all the figures are in, they will confirm this flourishing picture of family life in the United States: 1. Our population has increased more in the last 10 years than in any 10-year period in history. The reason: a sharp rise in the birth rate, and continuing low death rate. 2. A higher proportion of younger people and older people than ever before. The reason: improvement in health at both ends of the scale. 3. An unprecedented increase in the number of married couples. The reason: couples are marrying younger, living together longer. 4. Fewer persons in the average household, even though the number of children in a family has increased. The reason: more

Eating For Health

MYRTLE WILSON

Home Demonstration Agent Do you coast along eating anything and everything without a thought of what your body needs really are and what those caloric snacks and drinks are doing to your system? You hear that you should make sure to get this or that for health, but you don't listen.

Suddenly things begin to happen, and you're sick. Some of us take heed and notice that this follow-up of our eating habits is a natural consequence. If we don't feed our body parts the foods they need, they just don't function properly.

"Most of you know that iron-rich foods are needed to make healthy blood. What many need to learn is that protein-rich foods and vitamins 'C-rich foods' are needed along with the iron to make that good blood. Some of the foods that will give us what we need are meat, eggs, milk, poultry, fish and cheese for the protein and the iron," says Miss Bonnie McDonald, Economist in Food Conservation.

For the vitamin C we need to eat citrus fruits and their juices, vegetables, such as broccoli, spinach, raw cabbage, green peppers and turnips, to mention a few. Potatoes, boiled or baked in their jackets and eaten right away, will give the vitamins also. For the health of our eyes and skin and for growth, we need vitamin A-rich foods such as milk, eggs, liver, carrots, broccoli, spinach and sweet potatoes. You see some of our vegetables are double-barreled. To steady our nerves and to help keep us regular, we need those B vitamins — thiamine, riboflavin and niacin, to mention a few — which are found in "enriched," "restored" or "unrefined" flours and cereals.

Some call them whole grain. This doesn't refer to the size of the kernel but rather to the fact that all the nutrients of the original grain are in the cereal or flour. A vital mineral which helps us to have good strong bones is calcium. It also helps to keep our blood at a sweet level and our heart beat regular. Milk is the best source of calcium.

Keep good nutrition in mind when you plan meals, when you shop, when you eat out, and especially when you snack. Root out the "empty" foods in your diet and give your body a chance to do its best.

Dead Heat Mixup Causing Headache

MIAMI (UPI)—That dead-heat mixup of last week is giving Tropical Park officials a $100,000 headache.

It was inevitable, ever since Track President Saul Silberman offered to pay off claims of people who had been misled into discarding their tickets on a horse named Teacher because placing judges misread a photo finish.

An hour after the judges had originally declared Deemster the winner of last Wednesday's sixth race, they took another look at the photo and decided that Deemster and Teacher actually had shared the dead heat.

The judges maintained the photo was wet when they read it the first time.

In the interim, many bettors had discarded or torn up $2.50 win tickets on Teacher, Silberman's announcement that the track would pay out on those tickets sent fans sleeping in the grandstand and rummaging in waste baskets.

Now, it seems, a lot of race followers have taken advantage of Silberman's offer and have returned their tickets.

Harrassed Silberman estimated today that the claims of people who say they discarded win tickets on Teacher now total about eight times the actual amount still outstanding.

For example, four $10 tickets were said on Teacher, but there still are 15 claims for $100 tickets that allegedly were discarded.

"People don't realize that we keep a precise account of how many tickets are sold at each window," Silberman said. "These figures are checked by the Florida Racing Commission."

A total of about $20,000 already has been paid out on Teacher to win. Legitimate claims would amount to nearly $4,000 more.

But outstanding claims already totaled $1,322.50 and are still pouring in, Silberman said.

Chimp Hearing Resumes Today

MIAMI (UPI)—The troubles of Robert Tomarchin and his chimpanzee pal Mr. Moko resume today at an identity hearing.

The 27-year-old animal trainer was indicted Tuesday in St. Louis for swiping Mr. Moko from the St. Louis Zoo last Dec. 21.

The hearing late today before Peace Justice Francis Christie will be to determine if Tomarchin is the man who sold Mr. Moko to the zoo last fall.

Tomarchin, who was once shipwrecked for 60 days on a deserted atoll 125 miles from Florida Island in the South Seas with only Mr. Moko for company, admitted he took the chimp from his cage in St. Louis because he thought the animal was lonely. He left a check for $1,000 and a note promising $2,000 more.

In 1958 the State Board of Conservation licensed nearly 2,000 commercial fishing boats including those used in taking oysters, shrimp, snapper, sporges and menhaden.

German Jews Still Find Going Rough

By PHIL NEWSON
UPI Foreign Editor

About a half hour out of Munich, in rolling farm country which eventually gives way to the Alps, lies the pleasant little Bavarian town of Dachau.

Houses of yellow stucco nestle close together in the manner of German villages, and there is no hint of the horror that went on there 20 years ago. Some of the villagers claim that even at the time, they had no knowledge of the fact that thousands upon thousands of Jews were dying in the gas ovens of Dachau.

The gas chambers still stand as a horrible memento to Germans of the sins of Adolf Hitler, whose Nazi swastika emblem once more is appearing on synagogue walls, on Jewish shrines and on the homes of some of the 30,000 Jews remaining in West Germany.

Some six million Jews died at the hands of the Hitlerites before the Nazis finally were crushed by the World War II Allies in 1945, and today in West Germany there are laws to insure that never again can anti-semitism run rampant as it did under Hitler.

Anti-semitism is a subject from which most Germans recoil, for of all the excesses of Hitlerism, that left perhaps the greatest stain.

But there has remained a hard core of anti-semitism. German officials insist it does not represent by any means the majority feelings of West Germans, and in fact, probably no worse than in other nations which do not have a history of Nazism.

On a visit to West Germany last spring, this correspondent was told of anti-semitic incidents, and of the severity with which German Courts deal with such.

But, perhaps because of its recent history, there is a difference of opinion in German officialdom and among Jews themselves as to how these incidents should be treated.

A Jewish acquaintance illustrated one side of the argument when he told a Jewish restaurant owner who returned to Germany after several years in Israel and attempted to resume in his old business. It prospered until his religion became known, and then a boycott finally bankrupted him. The case was not one that could be taken to the courts, and the acquaintance who told the story was grateful that it could not be. "It just starts something else," he said.

But there are others who believe the action of the courts should be even more severe.

Chancellor Konrad Adenauer's regime has been accused of turning its back on rising anti-semitism, but rejects the charge.

The regime feels itself caught between two fires. If it outlaws neo-Nazi or nationalist parties, it drives them underground. If it curbs freedom of speech, it is accused of being anti-democratic.

Two Wandering Daughters Grieve Their Parents

United Press International
The letters home told of high adventures in foreign places for two girls traveling alone, each separately seeking to fulfill her wanderlust.

But for both, the road ended in sorrow. The cards and letters their parents waited without word for week after week, hoping for word of their daughters.

A trussed, mutilated body found in a sack in Tangier posed a shocking question. Was it one of them?

Today, Mr. and Mrs. Henry Muller of Oakland, N. J., grieve for their daughter, Barbara Helen, 19. The body was identified as hers, ending an adventure which cost her life.

But it raised the hopes of Mr. and Mrs. Edward P. Benton, of Cambridge, N. Y. Their daughter, Harriet Elizabeth, 22, was last heard from in Casablanca.

"It's sure a relief to know it wasn't Harriet," Benton said. Mrs. Benton thought of the Mullers. "I'm terribly sorry for them," she said.

"My wife is about to cry all the time," Muller said. The waiting, worry and hoping had ended for the Mullers. But for the Bentons there still was the gnawing fear coupled with powerful hope.

Harriet Benton quit her job in a Boston advertising agency last summer and left for Europe with $1,000. In October she was at Gibraltar and wrote she was joining the yacht "Balder" as a "stewardess."

Her last card from Casablanca told her next address would be the Canary Island Yacht Club where she had to leave the "Balder." She wrote she would "just try to hitchhike another ride." She has not been heard from for 3 1/2 months.

GAINESVILLE, Fla. (UPI)—Florida halfbacks Bobby Joe Green and Jack Westbrook have signed professional football contracts with the Montreal Alouettes of the Canadian Football League. ### Kennedy Coup Fails To Jolt Symington

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Sen. John F. Kennedy's (D-Mass.) political coup in Ohio failed today to jolt Sen. Stuart Symington (D-Mo.) into any primary battles for the Democratic presidential nomination.

A third major Democratic contender, Sen. Hubert H. Humphrey (D-Minn.), said he would stay in the fight for his party's presidential nomination even if he lost the key Wisconsin primary in April. But he said he had no intention of losing there or elsewhere.

Ohio Gov. Michael V. DiSalle Tuesday in effect gave his state's 64 convention votes to Kennedy by unexpectedly announcing he would campaign in the May 8 primary as a favorite son candidate pledged to the Massachusetts senator.

DiSalle, a Roman Catholic like Kennedy, said he did not think any major candidate would challenge him in the Ohio primary. This meant Kennedy would skip that race and concentrate on campaigning for convention delegates in other state primaries.

Kennedy and Humphrey have declared they are formal candidates for the Democratic nomination. Symington, Senate Democratic leader Lyndon B. Johnson (Tex.) and Adlai E. Stevenson, unsuccessful 1952 and 1956 candidates, are considered possibilities but have not formally entered the race.

"I'm not an avowed candidate and I'm not entering any primaries," Symington told a news conference Tuesday.

Other political developments: —Vice President Richard M. Nixon, expected GOP nominee, received a full report on Nixon-for-president campaign machinery in New Hampshire. But he would not tell his backers whether he would let his name remain in the state's March 6 primary.

—Sen. Stephen J. Young (D-Ohio) joined DiSalle's endorsement of Kennedy. But the state's other Democratic senator, Frank J. Lausche, refused to go along.

New Science Teacher Slated

Seminole High Principal Andrew Bracken said yesterday that he hopes to hire a physics teacher this week to replace former physics teacher Edwin Williams who was suspended by the county school board.

Jim McCoy is teaching the ninth grade science classes which were in Williams' charge before his suspension.

Win Final Tuneup

MOSCOW (UPI) — Russia's No. 1 ice hockey team, which will leave later this month for the United States to play several exhibition games before competing in the winter Olympics at Squaw Valley, Calif., won its final tuneup game Tuesday by beating the U.S.S.R.'s No. 2 team, 10-1.

Sanford Nips Oviedo, 61-59

'I'VE GOT IT,' shouts Charles Oravatz (34) of the Seminoles as he grabs the basketball from the outstretched hands of teammate Ray Lundquist (20) during last night's cage game. (Staff Photo)

The red hot Sanford Seminoles battled back from a six point margin in the final two minutes here last night to overtake a scrappy ball club from neighboring Oviedo. Sanford won 61-59.

The Seminoles found themselves trailing by six points with less than three minutes showing on the scoreboard clock but, the fine rebounding of Cowboy Oravatz was also the timely shooting of Jim Gracey closed the gap and gave the Seminoles the thrilling victory.

The difference in the ball game last night was the great rebounding job by big Oravatz. At the first of the season he failed to show much aggressiveness under the basket but last night it was a different story. The tall youngster was in all of the action under the basket and was usually up above everybody. It was also his first time to hit in double figures as he dropped in three field goals and eight free throws for a total of 14 points.

High scoring Jim Gracey continued his fine shooting by dropping in 13 field goals for a total of 24 points. Gracey now has an average of 22 points in his first four games and his shooting takes a turn for the better with every contest.

Ray Lundquist was held to 12 points in the scoring department but his youngster earned his many times over in the ball handling department. The Lions put on a full court press all the way and Lundquist did a tremendous job in bringing the ball down the court.

Although the Seminoles came out in the thriller the Oviedo squad was very impressive and it could have just as well been their ball game. Senior Mike Duda was by far the outstanding player for the Lions as he dropped in eight field goals and eight free throws for a total of 24 points. Johnny Testinsky was second in the scoring department with 16 points.

In the JV contest the Seminoles pulled away in the final quarter and rolled past the Lions by a score of 31-15. Coach Glenn Allen called on his reserves to handle most of the play and they did a fine job. Ray Middleton was outstanding on the boards and he also dropped in 13 points. Butch Riser paced the Seminoles with 12 points.

Tommy Bates fouled out in the final quarter after scoring 15 points for Oviedo and Jimmy Jones netted 14 and Mickey Testinsky scored nine for the losers.

New Gator Coach By Jan. 15, Board Chairman Says

JACKSONVILLE (UPI)—State Board of Control Chairman J. J. Daniel says his group will okay a new head football coach and athletic director for the University of Florida by Jan. 15.

Daniel told UPI reporter Jim Watters here Tuesday that Bob Woodruff's successor probably would be named at the board's next meeting in Tampa at that time.

Daniel said he hadn't heard anything from the University of Florida on the matter since Northwestern Coach Ara Paragarian removed himself from contention last week.

But he said University President J. Wayne Reitz and the university athletic committee were hard at work on finding a man "and they're not just spinning their wheels down there."

There is much speculation on who will be the new head coach. Delaware Coach Dave Nelson, another possible choice, indicated last week he wanted to remain in his present job.

Marines Pace Navy Bowlers

Intramural bowling got underway again Monday night after a three week lay-off for the holidays.

The Marines continued to pace the second half as they took all the week's team honors, and moved into undisputed first place with a grand slam win over NAS Communications.

The Fashion 51 Chiefs took over second place with a three point victory over the Fashion 51 Whitehats. Ashby rolled a triple for the winners. First ball winner NAS Operations continued to falter as they dropped three points to Hatron Seven A.M. Big John Uge back in action for the winners fired an outstanding 600 series and a 223 game to take all the week's individual honors and replace Don Stetler of the losers in the season's high individual series category.

Mather Holds First Place Lead

In the "match of the week" of the Sanford City Bowling League, Mather of Sanford turned back the challenge of the New York Life Insurance team as they took two games of the three game set to remain solidly entrenched in first place.

Doc Ring led the Insurors in a losing cause with his 509, while Al DePalma was high for the Furnituremen with a big 517-589 night.

In other league action, second place Harry's Liquors took two of the three games from Celery City Printing Company, and Burnett Painters took two of three from Gen's Seminoles Cleaners and Laundry. Ted Burnett of the Painters took team honors with a 537 total, while Bob Borsdorf tallied for the losers and got a total of 549 plus.

TV more than yours truly and I had forgotten just what having a live baseball game to watch every other night was like until we returned to the league last season. It's true that it's mighty easy to take the way that most of us take and just rely on the channels for all of our baseball but this summer we hope to be filling the stadium every night.

Baseball is our national pastime and the best way to get in the real spirit of it is to see it in its natural setting—in a comfortable seat with a bag of peanuts and a bottle of pop. Let's begin thinking baseball and be ready to give our new team the support that it deserves. These youngsters are all out there giving it everything in hopes that they will sometime make the bigtime and they need you to help them to produce. I firmly believe that our ball club last year was much better than the record indicated, but we let them down so severely after they had lost several ball games that they went stale.

Covington Covers Sports

By JERRY COVINGTON

This springtime weather makes a sports fan think of only one thing—baseball. It's hard to realize that soon the Giants will have their farm hands filling into Sanford and the crack of the bat will be heard once again.

For the faithful fans who stuck with the Greyhounds last year to the bitter end, it is getting to be a time of great anticipation. Several folks in Sanford proved that they were real baseball fans last year and they would have been to the park every night even if the Greyhounds had failed to win a single game. But this year we are hoping that the Kansas City farm club will give us a club that will bring in the part-time fan and make a regular out of him.

Many of us can well remember the time when it was a battle to get a seat in the old stadium for a FSL battle, especially between Orlando and Sanford. No one enjoys seeing a major league tilt on

Robertson Named Sanford Manager

William (Robbie) Robertson, a catcher who hit 331 in 102 games while managing Olean of the class D New York-Pennsylvania League last season, will pilot the Sanford Greyhounds in the Florida State League this summer.

This announcement was made this morning by W. K. McRoberts, principal sponsor of the local entry following word from Henry J. Peters, farm club director of the Kansas City Athletics, with whom Sanford has a full working agreement.

Robertson, a 10-year veteran of baseball play, is no newcomer to the Florida State League. He caught in 136 games and hit .266 for Jacksonville Beach in 1950, and that year had the unique distinction of having caught two no-hitters.

A native of Suffolk, Va., Robertson is married and has two daughters. He is 29, and first entered the game with Suffolk of the Virginia League in 1950 when he hit .266 in 136 games.

Unusual also is the fact that in ten actual years of play, he was chosen to the league's official All-Star team in five of seven years. He was the Virginia League's all-star catcher in 1951, the Carolina League (Class B) all-star receiver in 1952, and the South Atlantic League (Class A) catcher on the 1954 and 1955 teams with Savannah and 1956 with Columbus.

The Olean assignment was his first as manager and his youthful club was a sixth place in the eight club circuit.

Peters said McRoberts "we will closely handle as a play-manager at this time although how much he will play will depend upon what catches are available for Sanford."

Worry Clinic

Crystal's "Worry Clinic" is a "musical detective" as played with such success at Mitch Miller's arrangement of "Little Sandy Sleighfoot".

Crystal's "Worry Clinic" is a "musical detective" as played with such success at Mitch Miller's arrangement of "Little Sandy Sleighfoot".

"CONDYTIONED" MUSIC

Music is like speech or code book in that children must be taught to like it.

Youngsters show no innate fondness for any musical composition the first time they encounter it.

And Crystal is correct in saying they don't even know how to listen to music in kindergarten or first grade.

The simple repeated beat in music must be taught youngsters. In fact, a lot of recruits of Army age still have trouble keeping time.

So don't get the wrong notion that some youngsters just naturally inherit their fondness for music. They don't.

Good mothers and devoted teachers must "teach" a liking for music to toddlers.

This can be done by linking the new musical piece to other age-appropriate experiences already known to the child.

You can start by such a simple device as playing "musical chairs" where the youngsters are to grab a stool as soon as the piano playing stops.

Then, they begin to associate music with the hilarity of a game, though their attention hasn't even been focused on rhythm or melodic harmony.

NARRATIVE MUSIC

Then, as Crystal has shown, it is well to link narration and dramatic stories with a musical backdrop.

Rossini's "Overture to William Tell" can be used for letting them see how the composer portrays the lightning and thunder via musical tones.

Or they can try to pick out the bird calls in Beethoven's "Pastoral Symphony".

Religious music, too means nothing till it has been repeatedly linked in the child's mind with touching tales of unselfishness.

Recently, many teachers have tried to stress the fun of becoming "musical detectives" as they use Mitch Miller's arrangement of "Little Sandy Sleighfoot".

This inspiring Christmas song is accompanied with simple, narrative verses that carry the dramatic plot and also tie-in with the child's religious nature of Christmas.

But Mitch Miller has very deftly included eight types of instrumental and vocal backdrop for the tune.

On first rendition, most of you adults may hardly pay attention to this backdrop.

So encourage your children to listen with you and see how many different instruments you can pick out.

Even now I still can't identify but 1 or 2, though Mitch Miller told me in person that he had used eight.

As we repeatedly weave narration and fun and religious inspiration and unselfishness into the many repetitions of new music, we finally "condition" the child to liking it.

In later life, these early emotional moods will be revived when he then hears these childhood pieces again.

Former Chief Of Army Lashes Out At Massive Retaliation Plan

NEW YORK (UPI)—Gen. Maxwell D. Taylor, former chief of staff of the Army, believes that the present United States policy of massive retaliation with nuclear weapons is "unsound" and is endangering our national security.

He contends, however, that if the United States will quickly revise its military program it can overtake the Russians in two years.

The retired general's newly-published book, "The Uncertain Future," is one of the most controversial efforts on the current session of Congress in matters relating to military policy and the budget.

Taylor urged the government to immediately put into effect four "basic" items to remedy the military situation. He called for:

- Improved planning and training for limited war.
- Exploitation of the mobile intermediate range ballistic missile (IRBM).

—Better protection for the Strategic Air Command.

—A limited fall-out shelter program.

Taylor contends it will take the free world too long to close the missile gap. He says we have spent too much time and too much money on weapons for massive retaliation and have neglected conventional weapons.

The fixed size of the defense budget, according to the general, has become "the prime cause" of the rivalry between the armed services which, he insists, "is undermining national confidence in our military programs."

Deaf Puppy Gets Hearing Aid

PITTSBURGH (UPI)—A person who is deaf finds it quite easy to sympathize with someone in a similar plight.

L. M. Meyers is deaf. So is Bill.

Bill's case is sadder than most. Bill is a puppy. And no one wants a pup that can't hear.

Bill was found on the streets of Pittsburgh — homeless and neglected. He was taken in by the Animal Friends refuge. They soon discovered that Bill couldn't hear.

So did all prospective masters. They were touched by the pathetic looks of this short-haired, fawn-colored pup. But a dog that couldn't hear? Too many problems.

Meyers, the president of Radio-car Corp., which manufactures hearing aids, read about Bill in a Pittsburgh newspaper.

"Being deaf myself, I can sympathize with the puppy's plight," he explained.

Meyers offered his firm's laboratory to test the dog's hearing and last week Bill went to the laboratory in nearby Cranberry for the tests.

Attendants attached a hearing aid to the ear and a battery to his collar.

Various tones were fed into his ear. Then a high frequency note. The dog reared up, tossed his head.

There was hope. Meyers kept his promise — the dog was fitted with a hearing aid.

And now Bill is leading a dog's life — which with a hearing aid isn't so bad after all.

But Bill still needs one thing to make that dog's life complete — a master. His new friends feel he'll have one soon.

Actress Judith - Anderson - Honored By Queen Elizabeth

By VERNON SCOTT
HOLLYWOOD (UPI) — As the "big girl" there is nothing like a dame — at least not so far as Dame Judith Anderson is concerned.

Actress Anderson was bestowed the honor this week by Queen Elizabeth when she became a dame commander of the Order of the British Empire in the Queen's new year's honors list.

The title places the outstanding performer on equal footing with such brights as Sir Laurence Olivier, Sir Alec Guinness and other dames including Edith Sitwell, Rebecca West and Sybil Thorndike.

The first such title to be conferred on a permanent member of the Hollywood colony might have far-reaching consequences.

Most unmentioned actresses of the peroxide and Bronx-accented set consider the word "dame" slightly tinged with disrespect, somewhat beneath the term "actress" and a cut above Frank Sinatra's favorite appellation for the weaker sex, "broad."

Despite this formidable situation Miss Anderson will carry on, being a British subject (Australian by birth and still a citizen of that country) by preferring her name with her newly-gained title — Dame Judith Anderson.

"It is the greatest honor my Queen and country could give me," she said sobriety.

"Of course, I will use the title, wouldn't you?"

I hastened to assure her that I would not, it being of the wrong gender.

"Well, what I mean is, I don't think it is in the least undemocratic," she pointed out. "I could not be happier nor more proud."

Dame Judith never has been present to the Oscars, but hopes such an event will take place at her investiture within the next few months. She added, however, that she had been presented to the Queen Mother on three different occasions.

Miss Anderson, 48, is a native of San Francisco, Calif., near Santa Barbara. She raised horses and avocados on the ranch.

Though she has lived and worked in this country since 1919, Dame Judith, whose rank in British social precedence is below that of the wives of the Knight Grand Cross of the Order of the British Empire but above that of wives of Knight Commanders of Bath, has never become a citizen of the United States.

"I see no reason why anyone would change their citizenship if they are proud of their country," she said. "I am proud of being a British subject and see no reason for divorcing myself from my native country."

"I do want to say how grateful I am to America for the warmth and kindness it has shown me. I love this country dearly."

"As of this moment, I feel there is nothing like a dame," she concluded, "and I am thrilled with the great honor."

France mourns Nobel winner

PARIS (UPI) — France mourned today for Nobel-prize writer Albert Camus, killed Monday in a highway accident at the age of 40. Relatives have not yet dared tell ailing, 83-year-old Yvonne Camus of the death of her son.

His mother, who lives in Algiers, is recovering from a serious illness.

The body of the famed novelist, playwright and newspaperman lay in a darkened room in the town hall at Villeneuve-Guyard, a few miles from where he died in the wreck of a French-made sports car.

Government Buys Trucks And Cars

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The government has purchased $10,722,000 worth of autos and trucks, including its first fleet of new compact cars.

The General Services Administration (GSA), the government's "housekeeping" agency, said Tuesday contracts for the 6,201 vehicles were mailed last week to General Motors, Chrysler, American Motor and Packard-Cadillac.

Included in the purchase was a contract for 340 Rambler American sedans, the first government-owned cars in the 100-inch wheelbase class.

County Building Up To Record Values

Estimated construction value in the county during 1960 is expected to soar over the $30 million mark, Zoning Director Robert Brown told the County Commission yesterday. Brown said 1959 construction was valued at $20,585,000, with 2,408 building permits issued.

"It was the highest value on record and 1960 should surpass that," Brown told the commission. Brown noted a $6 million increase in construction values over 1958.

Building is not the only indication that the county is experiencing considerable growth.

Monday morning after the Christmas and New Year holidays, Sanford streets were crowded with autos and people doing business at the banks and stores. The courthouse was full of residents transacting business, including paying taxes.

The tax collector said his office had received $212,000 in three days of payments after the tax bills were sent out to property owners.

The county commission announced yesterday that it will go ahead with road improvements, will select an architect for a new jail plan and will discuss improvements at the county home.

Efforts to get Orange County to enter a joint drainage plan for the southwest end of the county have been met with cordial response and something may be worked out there.

Hold tight your hats in 1960—activity around here may make it pretty gusty.

Inez Robb Says

By INEZ ROBB
 There is nothing I wish more devoutly in 1960 than that the "life engineers," social workers and politicians would stop worrying about my leisure.

It was impossible in 1959 to tune in the radio or teevee or pick up any kind of periodical, including "The Hobo News," without being assailed by one leisurer or another. It is certain that leisure is going to be the ruination of us all.

In the British election last autumn, the leaders of both the Conservative and Labor parties wrung their hands over man's inability to cope with leisure. Both parties urged large annual expenditures to assure "the creative use of leisure" in the British Isles.

The chorus in this election year at home is just as attentional. At which point I ask, "What leisure is the shooting all about?" Well, sir, it's leisure none of us has yet. And that, in one woman's opinion, comes under the head of "Borrowed Trouble."

All this leisure that is going to be the ruination of you and me, because we are just too dumb to handle it, is in the beautiful future when automation will have taken over and man will only labor from 10 to 20 hours a week (depending on coffee breaks and which optimist you read).

The social prophets are only certain of two things: (1) the machine will limit man's merit and let it to from two to four days out of seven and (2) man, under the staggering burden of so much time off, will degenerate into a leech. That is, unless the social planners, God help us, are given a free hand with our hypothetical free time.

I should live so long as to work

ORPHAN OF THE STORM

Washington See Saw

By WIN PENDLETON
 Last year, we traveled something like 80,000 miles around the United States. We visited and spoke in such widely scattered places as Boston, Mass., and Inlay City, Mich., and St. Louis and Welch, W. Va. Everywhere we went, in the big cities or the small towns, people wanted to talk about Florida.

Whenever we make a speech, there are a few folks who gather around afterward and make polite remarks. This is the usual thing. They tell you how much they enjoyed the speech (sometimes for sleeping, although they never admit it). Speakers like this part of the evening. It blows up their ego. It also gives them a chance to talk some more and to fill in that part of their speech they had forgotten. An important part of this "after-the-speech" club is the opportunity it gives the speaker to find out which parts of the speech were most interesting. You can tell by the questions.

And that's the point. For the past year, nearly all of these folks want to talk about Florida. As soon as they find out that we were born and raised in the land of sunshine, they forget about your speech and begin to ask how it is down there. Most folks have either been there or are planning to make it on their next vacation. They either have kin folks there or some near or distant friend.

And the questions. "How much does it cost to live down there? Which is the best spot to live in—East Coast or West Coast? (Never heard of Central Florida). What about work? Can a man find a job?"

Strangely enough, nobody has ever asked me about hurricanes. But, they all seem to worry about one thing: "What about the summers? It sure must get mighty hot doesn't it?"

They'll listen to anything you tell them. We like to talk about it. Being one of those rare persons—a Florida cracker living "up north"—we "really" like to talk about it. And, with all due modesty we do tell a pretty good story, too. Truth is, the colder it gets the better the story gets. The more snow we see in upper New York State, the warmer we make that Florida sunshine sound.

And like any teller of adventure tales or romantic sagas, we eventually succumb to our own eloquence—and sooner or later begin to believe what we have been saying. That's what happened a month ago. A cold snap. We packed the car—Glady's in the front seat—and headed South. And by George, it was just like we'd been saying—perfect.

Just the way we had remembered it—except the people. Where did they come from? We never saw so many. What used to be woods is a motel or subdivision. As near as we can figure it, soon-

By ED KOTERBA
 (Tenth of a series)
SOMEWHERE IN CZECHOSLOVAKIA—It was in Pilsen that the Communist minister of transportation began explaining Red religious psychology to me.

The topic came up when I looked out of the train window at the church steeple which seemed to rise from almost every hilltop. I had recalled how American G.I.s found the city in 1945 after liberation from the Nazis. Those were gay, bold days, with a circus playing in town, and the victorious Americans begging to keep going across Czechoslovakia to "clean up the Russians."

Pilsen is the west Czechoslovakian city that thousands of G.I.s remember as a manifestation of what liberation means to a people—a people who would now have their democratic way of life returned to them. (That's what everybody thought.)

Long before I arrived in Pilsen I was told by ex-soldiers back home how on Sundays the Czechs would flock to their churches to give thanks for the American "liberation." Every church was jammed for each mass or service. Those churches are still standing today. In fact, there's at least one church in almost every hamlet across Czechoslovakia's landscape. I don't recall seeing so many churches in any other country over the world.

And it is ironic, for atheism is taking over here. The Red official, in our train compartment, was boasting how the Communists are making great strides in "educating" the people. Atheism, he said, is now far ahead of Catholicism, which once was the leading religion.

"Then how can you accept the presence of all these Catholic and Protestant churches?" I asked.

He smiled tolerantly. "After all," he said, "many of them are beautiful pieces of architecture. Many people who don't believe in God walk into the churches just out of curiosity, like a museum."

From other sources I learned how the Red's anti-religion campaign works. It's most always subtle. Like the schoolteacher who asked a little girl whether her parents pray at home. The girl said they do.

"And do you say prayers, too?"

"Yes, teacher." Whereupon the teacher smirked and announced to the class: "Imagine! She prays!"

And the class jeers.

To teach a lesson about prayers, one instructor had the entire class pray "to God." "Our father... give us this day our daily bread..." And then the teacher said: "We shall wait for God to answer our prayers."

Nothing happens, of course, and the teacher makes a gloating note of it: "to God." "Our father... give us this day our daily bread..." And then the teacher said: "We shall wait for God to answer our prayers."

The state pays the clergy. And the pay is a pittance. It is unwise for members of the congregation to slip extra money to the minister, except on the occasions of weddings and funerals. Now, in some areas, the Reds are shifting priests every few months. This is upsetting to the people who sometimes suspect the new clergyman may be a tool of the Communists.

On Sunday morning I traveled 160 miles into east Czechoslovakia. All along the highway, men and women made their way to churches, some walking 10 miles. Rarely were young people.

The Communists' anti-religion campaign—slow, subtle but deliberate—appears to be making progress. On the surface, at least. (NEXT: A pilgrimage to Lodi.)

Koreans Call U.S. Soldiers Shaving Action A 'Disastrous Incident'

SEOUL, Korea (UPI)—South Korea said today the action of two American soldiers in shaving the heads of two Korean women was a "disastrous incident" but the U. S. Army replied the victims were licensed prostitutes who entered an Army camp illegally.

The incident was expected to bring repercussions approaching that of the 1958 case of the crashed boat when two American officers and an enlisted man shaved and tarred an 18-year-old boy thief, East Coast.—West Coast.—Central Florida.—West Florida? One more heavy snow and it won't matter—we'll decide when we get there.

South Koreans were particularly incensed because shaving a woman's head is regarded as most degrading, in a land where long hair is treasured, an act almost as serious as rape. Ancient Koreans shaved the heads of unfaithful wives but even that practice has almost died out.

An Army statement issued at U. S. 7th Division headquarters said the two women victims entered a 7th Division tank unit Saturday afternoon, awakened two sleeping soldiers of Company C and solicited their patronage.

Two days before the incident the company commander, where the incident took place, had ordered that any prostitute caught in the area should have her hair cut off, the Army said. Frontline units in Korea for years have been troubled by prostitutes infiltrating the area.

The company commander who learned of the shaving later was Capt. John W. McHenry, 34, of Cheyenne, Wyo. The men who did the shaving were 1st Sgt. Oza Curran, 30, Chillicothe, Ohio, and Sgt. Harry K. Saunders, 37, Kansas City, Mo. The women were Ae Soon Kim, 30, and Joang Joa Kim, 22, who were turned over to Korean police.

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The steelworker's union is stuck with 600,000 buttons, each bearing the inscription "Vote No."

The buttons were distributed to locals in preparation for a government-conducted poll of the steelworkers on management's last offer.

The poll, scheduled for next week, was canceled after the steel workers' vote.

Reporter Finds Housework Need Not Be Bumpy

By DOUG QUINN
NEW YORK (UPI)—All right, men: Let's take this sitting down. Housework, I mean. You, too, can enjoy helping the little woman around the house — if you buy enough gadgets and know when to sit.
 Eileen Burke, a housecleaning authority, disclosed to a few of us who took a half-day cram course from her that there's no excuse anymore for getting housemaid's — or houseman's — knee. "I just plain sit down on the floor," she explained, "for spot work — removing stains from carpets — and for starting to wash a wall."
 Miss Burke just plain sat and demonstrated, using a detergent solution and a rag wrapped around a finger.
 "Get to work fast on a stain," she said, and added severely: "Never use nail polish remover on an acetate carpet, because you'll take up the carpet, too."
 All right, Miss Burke, I promise to use it only on my nails. But how about this wall washing business?
 "You always start from the bottom up," she said, "because if the water drips down the uncleaned portion of the wall it leaves a streak, on which you would have to do some more work. Sit down with a basin or bucket beside you. When you get higher, sit on a chair.
 "I like to work with a sponge in each hand. Use a circular motion."
 Each hand?
 "It's a little hard to get used to," she said, managing the wall with both hands, "but it's faster. When you wash a wall, do it all in one sitting; looks bad if you don't. Of course, you do have to stand eventually."
 Miss Burke frequently works with a vacuum cleaner in one hand and a cleaning cloth in the other — "but that's not for beginners." She gave a three-part course in housecleaning for men, before the first day of January, A. D. 1960; otherwise default will be taken a poll of 5,000 men in 75 cities and found that 75 per cent of the men helped their wives with house chores.
 In the kitchen, on a vinyl tile floor, Miss Burke puddled a little polish and began work with a lamb's wool buffer.
 "Just push it forward; don't stroke back again; it will streak if you do; don't overreach; stand straight and use short strokes," she said.
 On the living room parquet floor, she puddled more polish and began on an electric polisher. "You bring it back through the pool rather than going forward as you did with the buffer in the kitchen."

Kamerun Wins Independence

PARIS (UPI)—Kamerun won freedom as Africa's newest independent state today and changed off its old name of French Cameroons—but its joy was clouded by the fear of new and bloody civil strife.
 France's mandate over the country expired at midnight and the new nation of Kamerun was born. But French press reports said fear gripped the main part of Douala. Rebel African guerrillas staged one of their heaviest raids yet against the city two nights ago.
 All the joy was centered in Yaounde where diplomats and United Nations delegations from all over the world were gathered for independence celebrations today.

Sunday Showcase Shows Crippling Disease Effects

By FRED DANZIG
NEW YORK (UPI)—Stories about more mortals battling disease often provide TV with some gripping productions.
 I suppose the Armstrong Circle Theater series is the most expert in the medical-documentary approach because it so often scores direct hits on our nobler instincts. I mention this because I found myself feeling that the Circle Theater style would have helped NBC-TV's Sunday Showcase, which Sunday night offered, "The Margaret Bourke-White Story."
 The showcase yarn dealt with Miss Bourke-White's lengthy battle against the crippling effects of Parkinson's disease. Although a few effective scenes came along, the teleplay by Joseph Lina was overshadowed in detail, wordiness and superficialities.
 First, let me tick off the play's finer moments: Teresa Wright, portraying a weakened Miss Bourke-White, dropping a friend's new camera and dissolving in tears over her helplessness; Miss Wright and Eli Wallach, who played the part of photographer Alfred Eisenstadt, quarreling at her home; and the breathtaking, suspense-filled, graphic brain operation.
 Unfortunately, even this operating room scene was marred by the wordiness I mentioned earlier. It appeared as though the author was struggling hard to squeeze image-filled, life-sounding truisms into his words. He only succeeded in being repetitious and dragging us into some soap opera-bred scenes.
 The production also chilled some of its innate drama by focusing on the "entirety" aspect of Miss Bourke-White's affliction.

Too much time was devoted to talking about her career as a famous photographer, as though to justify the play. No excuse was needed, for Miss Bourke-White, as a stricken human being, filled with very human fears and failings and courage, was excuse enough.
 As Miss Bourke-White, Miss Wright was excellent. Wallach was excitable, earnest and generally effective, although at times he tended to overdo the intensity and the "character" aspect. But then, I guess I lean away from a role in which the man snaps pictures of a sick woman even before he says hello to her.
 Another newsgatherer, Nellie Bly, had her hour on NBC-TV immediately after the Bourke-White story.
 The story turned out to be an original musical comedy about the legendary Miss Bly's journey of 1890. Janet Blair was properly high-spirited and rambunctious as Nellie, and I thought she bore up beautifully while trying to dance in her heavy floor-length skirt. But a show of this sort needs a brisk, blinding pace. Since this approach was lacking except for a few brief moments, it was nothing more than a series of colorful, fairly entertaining dance numbers connected by confusion.
 A new series, FYI (for your information), appeared on CBS-TV Sunday morning. It consisted of revealing interviews with men and women who were the victims of criminals and served to remind us again how detached from reality are the lads who grind out most of our TV private eye and western shows.

Favorite Sons Haunt Kennedy Bid For Democrat Nomination

By LYLA C. WILSON
WASHINGTON (UPI)—Favorite sons, and especially, Missouri's Sen. Stuart Symington, are likely to haunt and to harass Sen. John F. Kennedy's campaign for the Democratic presidential nomination.
 Kennedy's weekend announcement of his candidacy will invigorate the considerable activity within the Democratic Party to kill him off. His announcement formalized his position as front-runner among a half dozen more or less legitimate contenders of the nomination.
 A front-runner has the advantage, of course, of being in front. The disadvantage is that all other aspirants, plus those who for one reason or another also oppose the candidacy to get up on the leadership of the man in front, to gang up on the leader to pull him down.
 Pull Kennedy down, the others must, or their own hopes are hollow. Kennedy's only avowed ally at this time is Sen. Hubert H. Humphrey. As long ago as last summer, he was complaining in public that favorite son candidacies in various states and abandonment of presidential primaries in others were stifling the people's voice in the choice of a Democratic nominee.
 Gov. Edmund G. (Pat) Brown of California is one favorite son who has put up against Kennedy no-troubling signs. He is finding something less than a welcome in Maryland's presidential primary and New Jersey prefers to several have delegation. There are others.
 All of this is harmful to Kennedy's candidacy. Specifically, all of this cuts into Kennedy's potential fire and early ballot conversion strength. The political pros are saying with much confidence.

that if Kennedy is unable to make it on an early ballot next July in Los Angeles, he will not make it at all, and that the Democratic nomination will go either to Adlai E. Stevenson or to Symington.
 The pros could be wrong and perhaps they are. But it is not only in Washington that predictions and bets are being made that the Democrats, finally, will choose between Stevenson and Symington. The Symington boom, as of now, probably is the stronger of the two, largely because Stevenson insists he wants to sit this one out.
 Symington's strength generally is rated like this: He is solid with the left wing of the party, well liked by labor and, as a border state man, the mere mention of his name does not infuriate the South. Also said of Symington is that he has not offended anybody or any bloc of voters.
 Kennedy is on pretty good terms with organized labor and his name certainly does not infuriate the South. Mrs. Eleanor Roosevelt occasionally has challenged his fitness for the presidency and she would not comment on his announcement that he would run. Normally, he normally has announced his intentions. Kennedy's job is, somehow, to unshackle what he regards as the people's voice.

 Sleeplessness may be caused by a number of different things. Frequently it is the congestion of blood around the brain, which makes it overactive. If you are troubled with this condition, it would be wise to find out what Chiropractic can do for you. ### Ike Maps Out Peace Program Before Congress

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Eisenhower solemnly pledged today to devote the "full energies" of his last year in the White House to promote peace in the world and unprecedented prosperity at home.

The President reportedly asked the Democratic-controlled Congress to stop "wrangling" with his administration and work together with him to achieve these goals.

He chartered the goals for his last 12 months in office in a State of the Union message to a joint session of the House and Senate. The message was largely a good news report, but laced with caution.

Eisenhower declared that Russia's recent behavior pointed to "the possible opening of a somewhat less strained period" of Soviet-free world relationships which would depend on Moscow's deeds.

In his 7,200-word message, the president:

—Declared that "1960 promises to be the most prosperous year in our history," with the government winding up this fiscal year next June with a 200 million dollar surplus despite lower revenues because of the steel strike.

—Promised a balanced budget for fiscal 1961 but said nothing about lowering taxes.

—Disclosed for the first time that this country's Atlas ballistic missile has been hitting within two miles of target in test after test, over distances of more than 5,000 miles.

—Proposed no new labor legislation, but said he intends as a consequence of the long steel dispute "to encourage regular discussions between management and labor outside the bargaining table" to protect the public interest.

—Urged "every possible effort" by steel unions and management to avoid a steel price increase.

—Said farm law is woefully out-of-date, ineffective, and expensive, and urged Congress to enact legislation that would curb costly surpluses and achieve higher net farm incomes.

—Urged civil rights legislation, including right to vote guarantees.

—Summoned the nation to an all-out battle against inflation—Called for congressional action on his request for school legislation "designed to stimulate classroom construction, not by substitution of federal dollars for state and local funds, but incentives to extend and encourage state and local efforts."

—Pleading that "wrangling" be put aside and pleading "close and constructive association with the congress," the President said: "My deep concern in the next 12 months, before my successor takes office, is with our joint congressional — executive — day to our own and other nations."

—Urging that "every effort" be devoted to full energies to the tasks at hand, whether these involve world understanding, negotiations to reduce international discord, or constant discussions and communications with the Congress and the American people on issues both domestic and foreign.

CAB Probes Air Disaster

BOLIVIA, N. C. (UPI) — Teams of investigators seeking the cause of a National Air Lines plane crash that took 34 lives have discovered that the four-engine craft's altimeters were stuck at 1,500 feet, it was learned today.

Investigators already have theorized that the DC-6B disintegrated or exploded before it hit the ground early Wednesday. The position of the altimeter dials may indicate that the plane fell apart at 1,500 feet, a spokesman told United Press International.

The theory that the plane disintegrated was strengthened by the fact that most of the victims apparently fell free from the plane and were buried in the soggy field where the plane hit.

The airline meanwhile was flying 14 relatives of victims to Wilmington, N. C., in a special plane to help identify the dead. The relatives were to be driven to the little fishing village of Southport where the bodies lay in the high school gymnasium.

A team of identification experts from the FBI in Washington had identified 11 of the bodies, including all five crew members, by late this morning but did not plan to release the names of passengers identified until the work is completed.

The search continued for two of the bodies.

The Civil Aeronautics Board investigation began today under the direction of Lanny Thompson of the CAB Washington office.

The Senate aviation subcommittee, still investigating the crash of a National Airline DC-7 over the Gulf of Mexico Nov. 18, announced it also will study this first commercial airline tragedy of 1960 — at a safety hearing Monday, The Nov. 8 wreck, strikingly similar to the one here Wednesday, killed 42 persons.

The FBI moved in to investigate the possibility of sabotage, but searchers said there was no evidence of an explosion in the baggage compartment, the mailbags were banged up but intact. Like all disasters, this one had its ironies.

Cristianì Circus Negotiating For Move To New Location Adjacent To Circusland

The world famous Cristianì circus family announced today that negotiations are nearly complete on an agreement to make the circus' winter quarters in Seminole County and to manage the show area of Circusland.

Business Manager Paul Cristianì said the move would not interfere with schedules of the traveling unit, billed as the "World's Largest Tent Circus."

"We are well acquainted with the plans of Circusland and believe that it is being planned in the tradition of clean entertainment on which we always have insisted," Cristianì said today.

"We think we are at the point where we can finalize an agreement to fit into its operation," he said.

Cristianì and show official David Budd recently visited the attraction site near Sanford and attended a series of meetings with officials of Entertainment Enterprises, developers of Circusland.

Circusland President Maurice Marshall confirmed negotiations that would make Sanford known nationally.

"We have held out for the best," Marshall said, "the best location, the best in design and engineering—and now the best people in show business, the Cristianìs. Paul Cristianì was elected to represent the Cristianì circus group on the board of directors of Entertainment Enterprises, Inc., and in this capacity he will funnel the family genius into Circusland's operational plans."

This first family of the circus has a background of more than 100 years in the entertainment business, as performers and in management as well. Today more than 70 members of the versatile clan are active circus performers, staging acts so difficult and dangerous that no one dares to imitate them.

Plans call for the circus quarters to be located adjacent to the Circusland site, far enough to be maintained as a staging area for the road unit but close enough to the attraction to facilitate a constant streamlined show.

The Circusland arena will be utilized to introduce new acts, which will later go on the road as "features from Circusland, Florida."

Personnel of Marco Engineering are expected to arrive within the next few weeks to supervise construction of Circusland. The firm, now directing the building of New York City's Freedomland, has estimated a construction period of 8½ months for Circusland.

Switch Plan Set Jan. 26

County school children and parents will be inconvenienced by double sessions for the last time during the spring term.

County Director of Education Stewart Gatchel said today that the last of the double sessions in the schools will start Jan. 26 when children attending school during the mornings will switch to the afternoon sessions.

Suplt. of Schools E. T. Milwee said that double sessions will be eliminated by the fall term.

Indications were that single sessions were to be put into operation by the spring but Milwee said today that plans to eliminate double sessions would wait until the fall so the schools could conduct an extensive pre-school roundup.

Milwee also said that by fall the nine school building projects undertaken by the board would be completed.

Among the projects is a new high school to be located near Lake Jennie.

After the board's meeting next Tuesday, members will inspect projects underway.

The board decided to hold its meeting Tuesday as Suplt. Milwee will be in Gainesville Thursday attending a meeting of the state's county school superintendents.

Milwee is chairman of the state committee.

Gatchel also announced that the county would match funds with the federal government for purchase of audio visual equipment for its science, math and social science departments.

"The county's share of the program will cost $22,500," Gatchel added.

Among equipment to be purchased will be science kits, models of biological specimens, science demonstration kits and tape recorders.

Turner Going Fishing After 53 Years Service As Phone Company Employee

By LARRY VERRILL

Earl Turner of Sanford, who has put in 53 of his years with the telephone company, was officially honored today by the men he served.

Turner, who retired from Southern Bell Dec. 31, was honored with a dinner at the Mayfair Inn and was feted by Bell Telephone officials including Claude Yates, vice president and general manager of the Southern Bell in the state.

Turner started working for the telephone company in 1906 when he was a lad of 12 in Carrollton, Ga. He tells it this way:

"I made up my mind to join the telephone company one snowy day in March. All telephone lines were down in the town and there was an urgent need for men, they told us."

"At that time, women were afraid to work for the company because of the late hours and so they hired me without asking any questions."

Turner recalled that he worked late into the night and placing a call to a neighboring town sometimes took as long as 20 minutes.

"Things sure are different now," he said.

After a few years in Carrollton, Turner moved to Lake Charles, La., as manager of the local company there.

In 1927 he moved to Florida and took over a similar post in Ft. Lauderdale.

It was there that the most exciting part of his job occurred "and the most trying too."

"A hurricane ripped across the city and we were left stranded with only one telephone in the whole town."

Turner recalled that there was only one thing to do then. "We just closed the office and went home for three days."

South's Worst Storm On Wane

United Press International

Light rains spattered the Southeast today, melting the ice-and-snow residue of the South's worst winter storm in a decade.

The storm marched out to sea, leaving behind at least 18 persons dead and temperatures below freezing as far south as Louisiana.

More than six inches of snow fell on Memphis, and roads were ice-slicked all across Dixie.

Highway accidents blamed on the storm killed 11 persons in Alabama, North Carolina, Virginia, Tennessee, Texas, Oklahoma and Missouri.

Cold weather fires claimed six lives in Oklahoma and North Carolina and an Arkansas pilot was killed when his plane crashed in fog.

The rains today stretched from the lower Mississippi Valley to the Carolinas. Athens, Ga., received 16 inch, the heaviest rainfall.

Snow flurries persisted in parts of the Tennessee Valley.

Turner came to Sanford in 1934 and has been with the local company ever since, serving as private manager.

Looking back over his 53 years of service, the improvements that stand out in his mind are the change in long distance operations and direct dialing.

"I can remember some 30 years ago when everything spoken over long distance had to be repeated even if you were calling from a town 100 miles away."

"Now, a person in Sanford can call Paris and it will be like talking to a friend in the same room."

Turner also said of direct dialing, "It eliminates the middleman, or operator, and you can reach New York in a matter of seconds."

Turner said he had no regrets about choosing his life's work and if he had it to do over again it would end up the same way.

Now, Turner plans to do some hunting and fishing and spend more time with his family.

"I caught me a bear yesterday, and hope to catch some more before the season ends," he said.

Resident city planner Gerald Drake will present his written report on Sanford's present status and future needs to the board. The board will consider off-street parking plans for a laundromat on S. Orlando Drive, the French Ave. Batt-Batt Baseball Range, the 26th St. and French Ave. Sinclair Service Station, The Wright Grocery Co. warehouse on 6th St. and Laurel Ave. and the Mitchell boat trailer manufacturing building on Third St. and Laurel Ave.

The company's records show that Helen made 466 long distance calls to Los Angeles. She made an average as 20 calls a day.
