Schools to purge outdated books

SANFORD - Perhaps in an archeology class some of the books might prove interesting or useful, but for the general purposes of Seminole County students those books are of little use.

A 1922 book of Modern European Civilization, a 1947 Modern Medicine text and a 1929 Life in China Today are among the titles on the district shelves.

"Some of these books are very outdated," said Pat Lavergne, coordinator of the district media services division. "And the problem we are running into is that students don't always read the copyright date and what they read in the books they assume is true."

County trims cents off tax rate, adopts budget

By J. MARK BARFIELD Herald Senior Staff Writer

SANFORD - Seminole County commissioners trimmed a few more pennies off the lax rate last night before adopting their final $443 million spending plan for the year beginning Saturday.

The beleagured county tree farm. begun at the recommendation of the late commissioner Bob Sturm to cut costs, was demoted.

Facing pressure from area tree farmers, commissioners Dick Van Der Weide, Carlton Henley and Pat Warren, voted to cease operations of the $68,293 a year operation and to use the money to buy full-grown trees from farmers, instead of buying smaller, less-expensive trees and raising them to the needed

Although commissioner Larry Furlong argued many of the needed trees would have to be shipped from out of state because local farmers can't provide them, he won the support of only commissioner Darryi McLain.

By reducing the amount of money available for county divisions to buy supplies and equipment, commissioners shaved about a penny from the tax rate.

The countywide rate was reduced from $5.37 per $1,000 of taxable property to $5.36. The unin-corporated tax rate was whittled Bee Budget, Page SA

Sanford OKs water for boulevard project

By MICK PPEIFAUF Herald Staff Writer

SANFORD - Lake Mary City Manager John Litton faced Sanford commissioners Monday to request reclaimed water service for the irrigation of the Lake Mary Boulevard Phase II widening project.

After discussion on the amount of water expected to be used in the irrigation, the commission agreed, but with stipulations.

Litton had suggested Sanford supply the reclaimed water service.

as part of Sanford's involvement in what was to originally have been a tri-party agreement between the two cities and Seminole County.

The roadway presently being widened covers land in all three jurisdictions.

Litton had originally suggested that with an expected Lake Mary consumption of approximately 320,000 gallons per day, the cost, at 10 cents per gallon, be levted against Lake Mary of approximately $1,600 per year. Litton however, had requested Sanford supply the water at no charge.

Sanford City Manager Bill Simmons pointed out how the city traditionally charges for the use of all reclaimed water, with the exception of the city owned Mayfair Country Civb golf course, and Site 10 near Geneva, used as a water reclamation area.

Commissioner A.A. McClanahan proposed the settlement. "If Lake Mary will guarantee us that they will use 320,000 gallons a day, let's agree to the request. But if they use less than that amount, we would charge them for it.

in response to a question from Sanford Commissioner Whitey Eckstein. Litton reported that the area within the Lake Mary city limits which would utilize the reclaimed water is 3,300 feet.

"I would be in favor of this," said Mayor Bettye Smith, "but only if we can have some type of guarantee that Lake Mary will use that much water.

Casino amendment violates home rule

TALLAHASSEE - Orange County would get a casino if voters approve the Limited Casino measure, but the mayor of Orlando said no one saked local officials if they wanted one.

"And nobody asked the people of Orange County if they wanted to be designated as a site for casino gambling." Glenda Hood said at a Tuesday news conference. "Evidently, Las Vegas casino operators thought Orlando would be a good place for them to operate a casino.

Hood and other casino critics argued that the proposed constitutional amendment violates the concept of home rule The measure, which Floridians will face in the voting booth

Election Day, would allow up to 47 casinos across the state. Under the proposal, nine counties are guaranteed at least one casino. Thirty horse-tracks, dog tracks and jet alei frontone across the state are allowed to open casinos. Lewmakers are given the authority to authorize five riverboat casinos in counties that don't have a casino from either of the first two Orange County voters haven't even approved low-stakes gambling like horse racing, dog racing or jat alai. Hood said. But it is one of the seven counties designated for a casino.

Limited Casinos spokesman Randy Lewis said Orange County was selected because it's one of the state's major metropolitan areas.

Accused murderer says he was fishing

Healthy holiday season predicted Consumer confidence index remains high

Court: Beach driving can be banned

DAYTONA BEACH - People could be barred from driving on beaches in state parks and nature preserves if their vehicles harm the environment, a state appellate court has ruled.

The 5th District Court of Appeal ruling came Tuesday in a St. Johns County case.

The state Department of Environmental Protection can prohibit beach driving on a 13-mile aquatic preserve in that county because vehicles damage dune vegetation, disrupt sen turtle nesting and destroy the habitat of shore birds, the court ruled. The ruling could allow the state to ban beach driving on all the agency and ruled it had state parks, attorneys in the case County attorneys argued that people have exercised their 'lawful and traditional" right of driving on the beach for years. They also contended that the ban would restrict beach access for the elderly and handicapped.

The state agency argued such driving harms the environment.

WASHINGTON - Senior Democrats say modest tax in-creases, cuts in benefits and an increase in the retirement age will keep flocial flocurity affort well into the 21st century.

But under their plans, future generations of Americans re-tirees would have to pay the price of keeping Social Security solvent, even though the benefits that current retirees

Reps. Dan. Rostenhowski, D.

At a hearing Tuesday by the House Ways and Means sub-committee on Social Security. Pickle and Restenkowski said Congress can make modest changes in the system now that will preserve and protect it well into the 21st century.

"I find reform today preferable to nevere benefit cuts, staggering the future," Rostenkowski said.

Both his plan and Pickle's would raise the retirement age for full benefits. Under current law, starting in the year 2003. full benefits will be available at 65 years and two months.

By the year 2027, when people born in 1980 will be retiring, the age will be 67. Rostenkowski's proposal accelerates the increase in the retirement age, while Pickle's would gradually lift it to

"Given the generosity of the current program – where nearly every current beneficiary gets back much more than he or she put to — I dun't think that's an unreasonable burden,"

Rostenkowski said.

Pickie's proposal would reduce benefits to the spouses of working Americans and award cost-of-living increases every other year, rather than annually, except in years of high inflation.

These provisions would be phased in beginning in 2000 and would not be fully effective until after 2022. None would significantly affect retirees and cantly affect retirees and workers nearing retirement. Pickle said.

Rep. Timothy J. Penny, D. Minn., said Rostenkowski's proposed sacrifices fall disproportionately on future generations. "I can't support a solution ... that gains nearly half of its savings from increasing the payroll tax on future genera-

Get fired up about project

People are constantly being asked to donate to this or that. There is always a hand being held out or a need to be fulfilled.

Here is another one. This however, is not a drive to help the poor or administer to the ailing. It's strictly to help preserve local history. Time is of the essence however. The drive must be accomplished as soon as possible.

The object is to obtain mough money to buy back one of Sanford's historical fire trucks. The vehicle was originally purchased by Sanford in 1921. It is presently owned by a collector in Tennessee, who has offered to sell it to the city for $8,500. With the cost of shipping it down here, the final charge could be as high as $10,000.

When Fire Chief Tom Hickson found out about the unit, he said the firefighters were elated over it, and several have already volunteered to refurbish the truck in their spare time. No doubt if the work is done by firefighters, it will be done out of pride of corps, and be a much more loving project.

Hickson has projected that the fire truck could become one of the symbols of historic Sanford. We agree, especially with the present drive to restore so many homes and businesses which have lost some of their glamor with the passing of years.

For those who couldn't care less about the project, it is refreshing to know that the city does not plan to use any taxpayer money to obtain this truck. It is strictly being approached on a voluntary donation basis.

We urge organizations, especially those involved in preserving the history of Sanford and Central Florida, to contact Chief Hickson at the Sanford Fire Department, 322-4952, and join in this fund-raising campaign.

puring the St. Lucia parade, July celebration, and other events, seeing a shiny 1921 fire truck winding its way down First Street will be a thrilling site.

We can all be proud if we manage to bring this truck back home. Contact Chief Hickson soon. The purchase is only being offered through October.

LETTER

Limit net fishing

Article 1. Section 1 of the Florida Constitution reads. "All political power is inherent in the people." Consututional petition procedures guarantee that the will of the people can ultimately prevail over the special interests that have a stranglehold on our political system.

Amendment 3 to Limit Marine Net fishing is the best example yet of how the people will rise up when politicians refuse to act. Never in Florida's history has an amendment drive been so successful and garnered so much support. This grassroots effort made history by gaining enough valid petitions for ballot placement without paying for one single signature (a common practice by petition gatherers.)

Amendment 3 is not recreational fishermen against net fishermen, it's not that simple. Amendment 3 is "We, the People" against government that will not act. For many years conservationists have asked for tighter net fishing rules in an effort to conserve our marine resources. Those requests went unfulfilled because of powerful lobbying by the net fishing industry. Some of our state officials themselves have roots in net

So now it has come to his. The ballot question will ask if we want to get the big invisible nets out of our waters or continue to allow our marine resources to decline. I hope for an abundant future for those resources, and I hope for a passing vote to bun the nets. We should all vote yes on Amendment 3 to Limit Marine Net Fishing.

These were the decidedly optimistic remarks of William Faulkner, upon his acceptance of the 1950 Nobel Prize for Literature. There was a time when I was inclined to agree with the acclaimed author, but I am not so sure now.

Faulkner seems to me to have been responding to frare, quite prevalent 45 years ago, that humanity would destroy itself through nuclear war. While that prospect has greatly receded. what with the decline and fall of the Soviet empire, there is a threat - to Western Civilization at least - that the Nobel laurente did not anticipate.

If Faulkner were alive today, he would look upon an America that faces no clear and present danger from without, but is destroying itself from within. Our anciety has become overly permissive and morally relativist. Our culture has become grossly indulgent.

Everywhere one turns, there are aigns of this social and cultural decay

And that is where we are in this country. We have a minority of people who have abused the freedoms that we Americans consider our birthright, and the result in that we all suffer.

For instance, the right to keep and bear arms is abused every year by the 11,000 or so folks who shoot people to death. Similarly, the right to free expression is corrupted by pursographers and gangater rappers and "artists" like Servano.

In the 45 years that have passed since Faulkner a Nobel Price speech. America has gone too far in indulging individual librities.

Relationships in changing times

Anyone who tunes in politics even for background music can tell you how the sound has changed. Two years ago, they heard only a shouting match over something called Family Values. This year they can hear a choir.

Politicians on the right, left and center may not be hitting exactly the same notes, but like sopranos, tenors and barttones, they're pretty much in harmony. The tune we hear again and again is a dirge about increasing numbers of children coming into the world and growing up without two parents. Especially without fa-

Even Dan Quayle and Bill Clinton have done a duet on this subject. Earlier this month, the former vice president went back to the stage where he first took on Murphy Brown. Rewriting history and his original lyrics. Quayle said, "What I was talking about then and what I am relterating today is the importance of fathers. Too often fathers walk away from their children or worse yet, they don't even know who their fathers are."

Days later, the president added a verse or two at a convention of black Baptists. "Somebody has to say again it's not right. You shouldn't have a baby before you're ready and you shuldn't have a baby when you're not married. ... We've got to turn it around."

The refrain running through political speeches and ads is about the man who got away: the absent father, the dad in DNA only.

Much of this is music to the ears of the family-policy folk. We finally have what David Blankenhorn of the Institute for American Values calls "an emerging consensus across political lines that the fragmenting of the family is the principal cause of declining child well-being." Fathers are no longer peripheral to this discussion. They are central.

But our minds are changing much more than the reality. As Blankenhorn puts it. "We're going through a period of handwringing about social decline, that we're on the wrong track, but on the ground everything is staying the same." Every year more children are born out of wedlock - nearly 30 percent in 1991 - while 60 percent of children will spend some part of their childhood in a single-parent

The truth is that prosecuting deadbead dads makes good potities and policy, talking about reconnecting fathers and children makes good sense, but it doesn't get to the heart of the matter: relationships between men and women. We can't talk sensibly about the frayed connections between fathers and children without talking about the frayed connections between fathers and mothers. men and women.

Today there are essentially two fathers' movements in America. There is the fathers' rights movement, a collection of divorced, often angry men who embrace a model of post-divorce father. There is the Promise Keepers, a burgeoning new grass-roots movement with a welcome message about male responsibility but with a dubious subtext suggesting that men go back to the family as its patriarch. In some ways, they both skirt the age mother on welfare and the unwed professional mother are examples of the same thing at either end of the economic scale: the failure of relationships. A teen-ager who geta pregnant may be full of fantastes about relationships. An older woman who chooses to have children alone may be all too fantasyfree. They have something in common with the larger population of divorced parents experience with the difficulty and in constancy of relationships. Blankenhorn, who has researched and written much about fatherhood in America, says, 'A major weakness of the current way of talking about fatherhood is that we are not having a serious conversation about how men and women find a common life." How they find it and keep it.

Americans believe that people should only marry for love and only stay married as long as there is love. We also believe that most children are better off with their two parents. When the two beliefs conflict, we still fall into confused or polite silence.

In his recent speech. Quayle trod carefully over that treacherous turf of divorce. His grandmother was divorced, he said, so were half her grandchildren. Clinton has also distinguished between the never wed and the once wed. The distinctions may not be so great

Finally, we have a chorus loudly and publicly worrying about children. We are all singing the blues about absent fathers and unwed mothers. But the next question is whether we can turn to the subject of men and women, relationships and marriage in a changing time.

What girls miss out on in school

Author Peggy Orenstein recounts that when she first read the American Association of University Women report "Shortchanging Girls. Shortchanging America," she felt her stomach sink.

I know exactly what she mrans. I felt the same way when I read it almost four years ago. The report, the result of an AAUW survey of high-school girls, found that girls self-esteem and self-image plummets dramat ically as they round that dangerous curve from elementary school to high school. Here are a few highlights of that study, released in Staty percent of el. gmentary school girls reported they were basically pretty happy with cent less than the 69 percent of boys the same age w'm responded that they were "pretty happy the way I am," but still a good majority. But the number of girls in high school who chose that re-self-esteem and self-image plummets dramatically as they round that dangerous curve from elementary school to high school.

sponse dropped to only 29 percent, as opposed to 43 percent of the boys.

Boys surveyed - twice as many as the girls surveyed - said that what they like most about themselves is one of their talents. Twice as many girls as boys my that what they like most about themselves is a physical characteristic. (Given the sharp rise in onling disorders among young women and the fact that the two junior-high-age girls in my family are obsessed with the attainment of a "size 1" classification in the "5-7-9 Shop." this is especially troubling to me. An ordinary shopping trip with them is one long recitation of what's wrong with their various body parts, the hair on their head and even the hair on their arma.)

There's a high correlation between kids who like math and science, and self-esteem, high career aspirations and drams. Almost as many girls as boys in elementary school report a high affinity for math, but by high school, the girls' interest in muth has dropped to 11 points behind boys' interest. Orenstein turned her sick stomach into research, spending time among girls in a two racially and economically diverse California high schools and chronicling her experiences in this year's "Schoolgiris: Young Women. Self-Esteem and the Confidence Gap."

I turned my own sick stomach into a lot of self-examination. Among the many striking findings of the AAUW study was that for girls. their good feelings about academic performance correlated atrongly with good relationships with their teachers, I wondered about my relationships with the junior-highgirls I taught from 1974-78.

When I first read the research that indicated teachers tend to give more positive attention to boys in American classrooms, I was defensive. Why, I loved those girls and was dedicated to their success How could I possibly shortchange them?

Hundreds of classroom memories later gave me the proof I'd tried to refute: Yes, I had to admit. I could think of instances in which I'd favored the boys. Sins of omission, perhaps. but sins the same: I had always been proud of my ability to "control" disruptive children by standing near them physically and trying to involve them in whatever the class was doing. Since almost all my attention-needing disruptive students were boys, I spent a lot of time "involving" them to the exclusion of the non-disruptive students, which tended to be all of the girls.

I suspect stories like mine dot the landscape in schools throughout the country. unconscious behavior we pattern after our own classroom experiences.

A collector has had it stored in a barn in Tenneance.

It is still in running condition, and remains marked SFD for the Sanford Fire Department. The owner of the vehicle has contacted Sanford Fire Chief Tom Hickson, and offered to sell the unit back to the city. Hickaon reported to the city commissioners on the find at this week's commission work session. "He has offered to sell it to us for $8,500," Hickson said. "If we could get it, the people of the department have already said they would love to work on restoring it." Hickson proposed the unit could be used to represent Sanford in various parades, be taken to schools, and otherwise serve to represent the history of the city. 1994. He was a computer The question proposed by Hickson to the commission was not for city funds to obtain the vehicle, but to mak for direction on the commission's desires in this endeavor. "With all of the drainage problems and other needs we have in the city these days," observed

Commissioner Whitey Eckstein, "I don't see using city money for this purchase, but perhaps it can be obtained through private donations."

City Manager Bill Simmona agreed. "We could contact the Sanford and Seminole County Historical Societies, churches and other organizations, and see if they would be willing to contribute to this project." Simmons estimated that the total cost, including shipping the vehicle to Sanford from Tennessee, would be between $9,500 and $10,000. The refurbishing, to be done partially by firefighter volunteers, would be a minimal cost. "The unit not only runs," Hickson said, "but it contains most of the original equipment. The rest of it was loaned to the firefighters' museum in Orlando, and perhaps we can get some of that back as well. Until some formal contact point is established, Hickson said he would act as the contact for anyone wanting to donate to the return of this fire There is a need for immediacy however. The present owner of the truck has told Hickson that he needs to sell it by the first of November, in order to have money for another antique vehicle he plans to obtain.

Time is of the essence," Hickson said, "so we'll be going all out in a fund drive, and we hope we can obtain enough to get this unit back to its home here in Sanford."

In the old days, this would probably have been a story about how alleged trade barriers were blocking Jeeps from being sold

Thanks to aggressive pricing, better quality and the high ven, sales of Ford and Chrysler vehicles are expected to double or even triple this year over 1993.

Overall, foreign vehicles achieved a 10 percent share in August for the first time ever in Japan, though only about one in 10 imports comes from the Big Three.

fronically, the success comes just as Washington and Tokyo are locked in trade negotiations, in which autos are a key etumbling block.

The Clinton administration is threatening trade annetions unless Tokyo agrees by Friday to set benchmarks for sales of some American products in Japan.

The late summer masses seem to be evidence that tourism. Croatia's prime industry before war broke out in 1991, has returned to stay. But it's a picture accurate only for the northern and middle sections of Croatia's 1,100-mile coastline.

Tourists remain scarce on the extremely narrow southern strip of Croatia that hugs the Dalmatian coast, which is within range of Serb cannons on the Posnian border. Tensions between the Croatian government and rebel Serbs occasionally still flare into fighting.

White House dinner glittery

WASHINGTON - What in the world would Lenin think? The glittery White House dinner to honor Russia's president began with a carefully choreographed entrance and a stiffly posed photograph that soon gave way to a warm celebration of the first-name friendship of Bill and Hillary and Boris and

By the time it was over, the foursome strolled out the front door of the White House arm-in-arm like longtime pals who had just taken in dinner and a movie. (In tuxedos and gowns, of

Senior officers may be punished

WASHINGTON - CIA Director R. James Woolsey has decided, after an internal investigation of the Aldrich Ames spy case, that senior officers who failed to recognize Ames' betrayals will be punished, officials familiar with his intentions

Those to be disciplined include retired CIA officers, according to officials who agreed to discuss the secretive matter on condition they not be identified.

Woolsey was headed to Capitol Hill today for a closed-door meeting with the House Intelligence Committee to discuss the internal probe and spell out the disciplinary actions he is taking in response to the worst spy scandal in CIA history.

Congress has been pressing Woolsey to take bold reform steps. Last week a House-Senate conference committee approved legislation that, among other things, establishes a 17-member presidential commission to study the roles and missions of the U.S. intelligence agencies in light of post-Cold War security needs.

Bobbitt convicted of battery, again

LAS VEGAS - John Hobbitt has been convicted of beating his former flancee. Again.

"One thing is apparent and that is that you are a bully." Judge Ron D. Parragutrre told Bobbitt Tuesday. "I don't know how we're going to get this across to you that this is unacceptable behavior. Parraguirre found Bobbitt guilty of domestic battery and sentenced him to 30 days in jail, then released him pending appeal.

Bobbitt headed to Los Angeles for a pair of public appearances, including Thursday's premiere of his hard-core pornographic movie, "John Wayne Bobbitt ... Uncut." He plays Bobbitt planned to go on stage tonight during a taping of "Evening at the improv" and have knives thrown at him, said his agent. Aaron Gordon.

Kristina Elliott testified that her former flance twisted her arm behind her back and threw her against an apartment wall on May 6.

College tuition rises

BOSTON - College tuition is rising at double the inflation rate as less of it is being spent on teaching. Average tuition at four-year colleges and universities rose 6 percent this year, according to figures released today by the College Board, an association of 2,800 higher-education institutions. Government statistics, meanwhile, say the proportion of money used for instruction, libraries and maintenance is shrinking slightly while funding for public relations, marketing, fundraising and other administrative costs has increased dramatically.

We're paying more and getting less than we got 10 years ago," said Stephanie Arelonio, president of the U.S. Student Association. "We're learning from videotapes in some instances. Class sizes have grown. And (teaching assistants) are great, but it would be nice to see the professor sometime."

ck accused of withholding vaccine

WASHINGTON - The world's largest drug company is denying an accusation by the health and human services secretary that it is withholding vaccines from a childhood immunization program.

In a letter obtained Tuesday by The Associated Press. HHS Secretary Donna Shalala rebuked Merck & Co. as the sole holdout on contracts to sell the government vaccines at special prices for needy children.

The dispute won't hold up Saturday's start of the Vaccines for Children program because the government has about three months' worth of previously bought Merck vaccines.

But it needs Merck's cooperation because it is the sole maker of the measles, mumps and rubella vaccine and a special high-risk Haemophilus influenza vaccine.

Consumers: Power to fix erroneous credit reports

By DAVE SKIDMORE Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON - Legislation arming Americans with new power to correct inaccurate credit reports won House passage Tuesday.

The bill shifts the burden of proof from consumers to credit reporting companies in fighting a system in which lawmakers said erroneous information seems never to be deleted from computerized credit files.

Under the bill, consumers must be notified when action is taken against them because of information in their credit reports. Disputed information must be removed from credit files unless it can be verified within 30 days.

"If these reports are not accurate ... then our whole society suffers," said Rep. Joseph P. Kennedy II, D-Mass., chairman of the House Banking consumer subcommittee.

"The promise of the information highway has given way to an Orwellian nightmare of erroneous and unknowingly dis-seminated credit reports," he said.

The measure, adopted by voice vote, is a compromise between the House and Senate. The Senate must approve the compromise before it can be sent to President Clinton for his signature. Under the measure, credit bureaus will be required to provide a free copy of a consumer's credit report within 60 days of an adverse action such as a loan denial and at the conclusion of an investigation into disputed information.

Consumers also will be able to get one copy a year of their reports for $3 and additional copies for $8.

Lawmakers have been trying to enact credit reporting reform since 1989. The last effort, in 1992, fell apart over the issue of whether the new federal law should pre-empt tougher state laws. In a compromise, the bill passed Monday pre-empts state laws for eight years.

Rep. Esteban Torres, D-Calif., who preceded Kennedy as chairman of the consumer subcommittee, said credit reports are the No. 1 topic of complaints before the Federal Trade Commission and surveys show one in four to have some inaccuracy.

"The human consequences of these abuses can be devastating. Virtually every adult in America is at risk of falling victim to an industry that is out of control." he said.

Under another provision of the bill, furnishers of credit information such as merchants and banks will be given a chance to correct wrong information they provided to credit bureaus. After that, they will be subject to civil suits by state and federal agen-

Human embryo research irks some

The committee, in a report released Tuesday, concluded that it was in the public interest for the National Institutes of for the National Institutes of Health to fund experiments with fertilized human eggs during the very early stages of develop-ment. The report is the first step in a government process that could end a 15-year ban on federal funding for human embryo research.

In the report, the committee said such research should have severe restrictions because a human embryo "possesses qualities requiring moral re-

But it also said that a human embryo "does not have the same moral status as infants and children" and could be used in research that promises "great potential benefit" in developing therapies for a variety of diseases and conditions.

Outraged opponents, in arguments reminiscent of those against abortion, said that fertilized human eggs, even if they are in laboratory test tubes, should be treated as human individuals and not as specimens for research.

Judie Brown, president of the American Life League, said her organization will demand that Congress determine, as a part of government policy, when human life begins, a definition could limit both research and

We will ask Congress to defend this human life so that no tax dollars will be used to kill little girls and boys," said Mrs. Brown

"The important social debate on this issue is just beginning." Richard Doerflinger of the Unit-ed States Catholic Conference said in a statement. Doerflinger added: "It is not right to manipulate and destroy unconsenting human subjects at any stage. Nor is it right to create human beings simply in order to use and discard them" as in laboratory experiments.

Rams ride 21-point run to win over Silver Hawks

LAKE MARY - Still feeeling the effects of their Saturday marathon, the Lake Mary Rams still had enough to sweep the young Lake Howell Silver Hawks 15-5, 15-11 in a Seminole Athletic Conference girls' volleyball match Tuesday night at Lake Mary High School.

Lake Mary, which played six matches Saturday on the way to finishing fourth in the West Orange Times Tournament, improves to 5 6 overall and 21 in the SAc Lake. Howell, which lost in the quarterfinals of that same tournament, is now 5.6. 1.2 in the SAC.

We were dragging tonight. especially in the second game. said Lake Mary coach Cindy Henry The girls were still tired and sore from the tournament at practice yesterday, so maybe that has something to do with it."

The Rams also may have been fulled by a stretch where they scored 21 consecutive points over the two games.

After falling behind 5-2 in the first game, the Nams rallied for the final 13 points. Traci Tombros starting the streak by serving nine consecu-tive points. Lake Howell coach Jo-Luciano tried everything to break Tombros' run including calling both of her timeouts and substituting three times.

Joyla Capo contributed a fivepoint service run during the Rams' 8-O charge to open the second game. The Silver Hawka battled back. eventually tying the score at 9-9 on Dare Rapanotti's four service points and trailing just 11-10. But Lake Mary scored four of the match's last five points to close out the win.

We're still looking at some peo-ple, said Henry. 'It bothers me that we played a slow-pace game tonight. That's not my style and I don't want it to be our style.

"At least it was a win and some people got a chance to play a little bit tonight, so that may pay off for us in the long run."

Eight different players contributed kills to the Lake Mary attack. Capo finished with a match-high five kills while Joelle Townsend and Tract Citarella each had three. Longstaff collected eight assists and Townsend handed out five.

Rapanetti and Allison Duncan each had a pair of kills for the Silver Hawks.

Wedding blues attack Dad after ceremony

DEAR ABBIT: A year and a half ago, my daughter (I'll call her Betty) was married in a beautiful church wedding Although her mother and I have been divorced for seven years and we have both remarried. I paid for half of everything. My present wife urged me to make sure Betty had a first-class wedding, and I did.

wanted me to all with her mom during the ceremony. I thought it would look strange if her mom and stepfather and I. plus the groom's parents, all sat together, while my wife out alone: so I sat

Since then. Betty has been very cool to me. She hasn't ciled or come by - nothing... Abby, I love my daughter very much I sent her to a fine girls' college and saw to it that she had the best clothes and a car of her own. I apologized to her and told her I didn't realize it meant so much to her to have me with her mother. Was I wrong to sit with my wife?

BAD DAD, MEMPHIS, TENN. DEAR SAD DAD: Don't let your daughter lay a guilt trip on you. You acted appropriately when you chose to sit with your wife rather than have her sit

DEAR ABBY: Occasionally one hears someone described as a "good Christian" - or someone did the "Christian" thing. I think what is meant by this is that the person is of good character.

Abby, this type of person can be found among all faiths:

VAN BUREN

Muslim, Buddhist, Hindu, Jewish. B'nai, and even atheists.

The use of the word "Christian" to mean "of impeccable character" to hurtful to those who are not Christian. If we all want to live together on this planet with respect and acceplance, we need to find a better way to describe good character.

I happen to be a good person. but I am not a Christian. If you use my letter, please sign me...

GOOD, BUT NOT A CHRISTIAN.

IN LA MONDA, CALIF. DEAR GOOD: You are right -Christians do not have a monopoly on good character. Better to say, "So-and-so is a good person," or "So-and-so did a good (or kind) thing." One can find people of good character and bad - in every religion (and

DEAR DR. GOTT: Are there vitamins or minerals that are able to boost the immune sys-tem? I've read that one physician is using co-enzyme Q10 and B12 to treat patients. Is this doctor on the right track?

DEAR READER: All vitamins

affect the immune system, either directly or indirectly. Therefore, a balanced diet is necessary for good health. Every person should make sure that he or she receives the recommended daily allowance of vitamine and minerals, either through a nutritious diet or by supplements. There is no single vitamin (or vitamin combination) that "boosts" the immune system, because any vitamin excess is ordinarily excreted by the body.

Co-enzyme Q10 is claimed to aid patients with heart disorders. although there are meager case reports in the medical literature to support this allegation.

Vitamin B12 is necessary for proper blood-formation and nerve-functioning. A B12 deficiency leads to a serious blood disorder called pernicious anemia. The vitamin is prevalent in meats and dairy products.

I do not know whether the I do not know whether the doctor you mention is on "the right track." If he uses Q10 and B12 as part of a larger therapeu-tic program. OK. If Q10 and B12 are his only methods, no way.

H.L. Mencken defined faith as "an illogical belief in the occurrence of the improbable." In some cases, I would change improbable to impossible. But in bridge, if you have faith in the percentages, you have a logical belief in the occurrence of the probable.

in today's deal, looking only at the North-South hands, how would you plan the play in six spades after West has led the diamond jack?

North's four clubs is an advance cue-bid, showing a good raise to four spades with the club

Maybe you planned to cash the club ace before taking two club finesses. As long as one of them works - which will happen three-quarters of the time - you will have a discard for your heart queen. Or. after taking a losing finesse of the club jack, if East switches to a heart, you will guess which finesse to take next.

All quite reasonable, but there is a better line available. After winning trick one and drawing trumps (keeping a spade honor in the dummy), you should cash dummy's A-K of clubs. If the 10 or queen appears, you are sale. If not, you take two more diamond tricks, finishing in hand. Now lead your last club toward dummy's J-9. If West has the queen or if the suit breaks 3-3, you are home. If neither happens, you still have the heart finesse to fall back on.

Note finally that many pairs would reach six spades by North. following a transfer bid from South. This contract dies with the given distribution if East leads a heart. Even though I have faith in transfer bids, I
