Post office investigated

TAMPA — U.S. Postal Service investigators have extended a two-day investigation into harassment and discrimination charges at the city's main post office because more postal employees than expected signed up to be interviewed.

The interviews were conducted at the airport post office and a nearby hotel. But when time ran out Friday, investigators agreed to return next week to hear from postal workers they were forced to turn away. The Tampa Tribune reported Saturday.

This day is for you, dad

WASHINGTON — President Bush, marking the tradition of Father's Day, officially designated Sunday as the day to pay tribute to dads and urged all Americans to fly the flag on the occasion.

Issuing an annual proclamation to honor fathers, Bush also called on federal employees to commemorate the day by hoisting the flag on all federal government buildings and for all American citizens to hang the flag at their homes and other suitable places.

Each year, on the third Sunday in June, we pause to honor our fathers and to express our gratitude for their generosity and devotion. Bush proclaimed, "Father's Day is more than a day rich in family love and tradition — it is also a day when we are deeply mindful of the many ways fathers strengthen our communities and nation."

Drugs found in traffic stop

LAKE MARY — A routine traffic stop led Lake Mary police to discover a loaded handgun and marijuana Saturday evening.

Lake Mary Detective Jim McConnell said police stopped the older model pickup truck for speeding on Lake Mary Boulevard at about 6:40 p.m. A search of the truck revealed a .357 magnum handgun loaded with hollow nose bullets within reach of the driver. They also found an open can of beer in the truck. A search of the vehicle revealed three bags of marijuana and paraphernalia.

The man's identity and the charges filed against him were not available at press time.

County gets good news, bad news in appropriations package

By J. MARK BARFIELD
Herald staff writer

SANFORD — In all, Seminole County won't fare too poorly if Gov. Bob Martinez approves the $27.4 billion appropriations package approved by Florida legislators two weeks ago.

In addition to $182.4 million for the Seminole County Expressway Seminole County could net an additional $1.4 million for speech projects. Those projects include building renovations at Seminole Community College and a new health department facility in Casselberry.

But Seminole County also lost some notable projects that weren't financed by legislators. More than $200,000 sought by the Seminole County Community Mental Health Center to establish a 15-bed group home for the chronically mentally ill apparently was deleted from the bill due to a committee staff error.

Also, $200,000 was left out of the budget for the Wekiva Resources Council at University of Central Florida, which may force deep cuts in their program next year.

Martinez has not received the budget package containing the Seminole County projects. When he does, he has 15 days to either sign or veto it.

Although many Florida counties, notably the south Florida counties of Dade, Broward and Palm Beach, received larger spending packages, a Seminole County lawmaker said.

Report paints a bleak picture of county's needy youngsters

By J. MARK BARFIELD

SANFORD — A committee will recommend to Seminole County commissioners later this month that they spend more than $1 million next year on children's programs and increase that amount by about $500,000 during each of the next two years.

The Citizens' Commission on

Children, formed a year ago to study needs of children in Seminole County, will issue their report to county commissioners June 26. County commissioners will decide whether to appropriate taxes for the commission's 25-item priority list for grants.

In many cases, services and programs are in place to serve those of Seminole County's 70,000 children in need of emotional,

'Walk for Children' set for Thursday

All parents and their children in the county are invited to attend the one-mile walk beginning at 10:30 a.m. at the First Federal of Seminole Bank, 312 W. First St. The walk will continue to the County Services Building on the corner of Mellonville Avenue.

Lake Mary: Welcome to 'Gridlock 2010'

By NICK PFEIFAU
Herald staff writer

LAKE MARY — If all the automobiles in Florida were placed end to end, the line might resemble Lake Mary Boulevard during peak traffic periods.

Even with six lanes and an improved Interstate 4 interchange, things probably won't change through the year 2000, said Lake Mary Associate City Planner Mark Reggieri.

One solution, Reggieri said, is to let parcel connectors, which would allow motorists to drive from one business area or shopping center to another without having to access Lake Mary Boulevard. Another possibility is the creation of frontage roads, running parallel to the boulevard, which would be similar to the connectors.

GOP faithful meet in Orlando to plot war on Democrats

By RENE STUTZMAN
United Press International

ORLANDO — Gov. Bob Martinez and other GOP leaders called Sunday on delegates to the Florida Republican convention to reverse more than 100 years of Democratic control in state government.

"We as a party are going to sweep the elections in November," said U.S. Sen. Connie Mack. "We will in fact, to elect Bob Martinez. We will take control of the state house and the state senate."

If four more state senate districts go Republican, the GOP would control the state senate. Democrats now control 23 of 40 seats in the Senate and 72 of 120 seats in the Florida House.

"Dads and gentlemen, in the next four months we will be able to accomplish what no one has ever been able to accomplish in 128 years, not just in Florida but throughout the South. In November we will elect a Republican Senate," said state Sen. Jim Scott.

"We are on the cusp of becoming the majority party. The moment is now, and we must seize it," said Allison DeLeon, the former Monroe County sheriff and judge who was chosen by Martinez as his running mate.

Eleven out of 19 of Florida's delegation to Congress are Republican.

Party Chairman Van Poole predicted this would be the year the Florida GOP becomes the majority party. In the past 10 years, the portion of Florida voters registering as Republican has jumped from 30 to 40 percent.

"We've come a long way in Florida in the 1980s, from being almost wiped out in '82 because of bad appointments," Martinez said. "It took us a long time to come back, and we sure don't want to see that happen again."

Sanford's U.S. Representative, who says he will support Martinez, said the state and federal governments are changing and voters are to be blamed.

Martinez, a two-term governor in 1985, said he would like to see a new state constitution by 1995. "I don't know if we can do it, but we should try," he said.

"We're going to elect the Attorney General, the state comptroller, and the judge of these courts," Martinez said. "I don't know if we can do it, but we should try."

Martinez's running mate, who was chosen by Martinez as his running mate, said he would like to see a new state constitution by 1995. "I don't know if we can do it, but we should try."

He was held without bond on the parole charges and $1,000 on the marijuana charges.

Lake Mary recreation program gets underway Monday morning

By NICK PFEIFAU
Herald staff writer

LAKE MARY — The city's summer recreation program gets underway Monday morning in Lake Mary.

Sixty-five children ranging in age from 4 to 11 have been enrolled in the program, which runs through August 10, according to Susan Thorne, administrative assistant to city manager John Litton.

Marge Collier, an Oviedo High employee, will serve as program director for the activities for her second year. She will be assisted by two helpers and three high school students who have been hired by the city as part of the youth employment program.

The program will consist of activities such as arts and crafts and organized games. Guest speakers ranging from magicians to police officers will meet with the children on Fridays. Most of the activities will be held indoors.

Children will be gathering at 8 a.m. tomorrow at the Lake Mary Community Improvement Association building, 260 N. Country Club Road, with the program running until noon, Monday through Friday, for eight weeks.

More boat races set for Lake Monroe

By J. BRADLEY DILLING
Herald Staff Writer

SANFORD — Holiday Inn officials have announced that Lake Monroe will be host to a series of boat races, July 1, but they aren't expected to be quite the big deal that the hydroplane races were last month.

That's the word from an official of Sunset Sports Associates, the organization that promotes waterfront activities.

The organization that is sponsoring the races is the Citrus Drag Boat Association of Ormond Beach.

Pat O'Neill, a member of SSA, said that the Holiday Inn is hosting the races more to keep in practice for hosting these types of events than to make money and that there will probably be no more than 1,000 spectators.

"We are told that there will be several hundred to 1,000 people here, so it really shouldn't be much of a problem," O'Neill said. "Citrus Drag Boat Association" doesn't have the money for a big advertising campaign. SSA will get a small promoters commission. We're doing this as another way to gain experience in administering waterfront activities."

O'Neill said that permits for the race are being acquired from the Coast Guard and that it would not be necessary to close off any of Sanford's streets for the one-day event, because there won't be the crowds that the hydroplane races garnered.

The races will be held from about 11 a.m. to 5 p.m., Sunday, July 1.

Admission to prime viewing areas on the Marina Isle beachfront will be $5 for adults and $2 or $3 for children. O'Neill said.

Investigators undercover pot 'farm'

From staff reports

OVIEDO — Seminole County investigative agents found a large-scale marijuana-cultivation operation following a search of a greenhouse on Howard Street here Friday afternoon.

The resident of the home was arrested.

A total of 75 marijuana plants, ranging in height from four to six feet, were found growing in containers in the greenhouse behind 510 Howard St. by agents of the City-County Investigative Bureau.

The greenhouse had clear plastic for a roof and was equipped with fans, agents found. A search of the home revealed a paper bag filled with dried marijuana, numerous pipes and other paraphernalia. They also found several plastic "baggies" containing marijuana residue.

Arrested was the tenant of the home, Morgan Denton Kerr, 24.

Chamber's, Farr named to state board

From staff reports

SANFORD — Dave Farr, executive director of the Greater Sanford Chamber of Commerce, has been appointed to the board of directors of the Florida Chamber of Commerce Executives Association.

"I'm very pleased," Farr said. As one of a dozen directors from throughout the state, Farr will help create programs and direct the association into providing better programs for other chamber officials.

Farr was appointed by incoming association president Robert Bartz, executive director of the Manatee County Chamber of Commerce.

"Dave is not a shy individual," Bartz said. "He has always spoken his mind and I felt we needed someone like that on the board."

Farr will serve for one year beginning in July.

A bloated budget

If you have not completed your vacation plans, give some thought to Bedford, Indiana. You can see a 10-story replica of the Great Pyramid of Cheops — constructed with the help of $500,000 of your hard-earned tax dollars. Then you can examine an 800-foot replica of the Great Wall of China — built with the aid of $200,000 of your hard-earned tax dollars.

With a few more tax dollars, Bedford could become a monument to government waste second only to Washington, D.C., itself. And while the thought of the Great Wall of Bedford might draw a laugh, there is nothing funny about the waste of tax dollars by Congress — especially at a time when more and more of the lawmakers sent to Washington by voters to guard the financial henhouse are talking about the "need" for a tax increase.

Who needs this tax increase? Certainly not the taxpayers. As Scott Hodge, a fellow in federal budgetary affairs at The Heritage Foundation in Washington pointed out, "Americans are paying a higher percentage of their income to the federal government than ever before."

Liberal Democrats who love to spend somebody else's money are even trying to rope President Bush ("read my lips, no new taxes") into supporting a tax hike. We would hope that the president will look into a mirror and read his own lips and strengthen his resolve against a tax hike.

If the president should be tempted to fall for the Democratic line that a tax hike is needed, he might spend some time reading a report prepared by Mr. Hodge.

Read the lips of Mr. Hodge: "American taxpayers should no longer have to pinch pennies so that Congress can go on another spending spree."

In addition to the Bedford boondoggle, other examples of waste cited by Mr. Hodge included:

- A $221,000 expenditure of tax dollars to send 21 congressmen and other "officials" to the Paris Air Show.

- A $46,000 study of how long it took to cook breakfast eggs.

- A $150,000 allocation for Broom Snakeweed research in New Mexico.

- A $68,000 bill to send officials of the Urban Mass Transit Administration to Disney World to study the secrets of the Disney transportation system.

- A $107,000 grant to study the sexual preferences of the Japanese quail. Researchers concluded that male quails prefer female quails over male quails.

If these examples of waste seem outrageous, remember they are only small potatoes, so to speak, when it comes to waste in government.

If Congress really wanted to cut spending and reduce the deficit, it could:

- Repeal the $220 million congressional pay raise, at least until the federal budget is balanced.

- Eliminate the $50 million free mailing privilege that all congressmen have.

- Order federal agencies to contract with private firms for many functions for an estimated savings of $5 billion.

- Close the Department of Energy and move its functions to the department of Interior, Commerce and Defense for a $2 billion savings.

Bookaneers program is an adventure

Reading is great fun and the Seminole County Library system has charted a course that will make reading a marvelous adventure for participants.

The theme for summer reading at all of the branches is "Sign On With Captain Book." The idea is to become a Summer Bookaneer and sign up for your summer plunder of the books you discovered in 1990. All books read are to be recorded in a booklet that has a space for crew identification and a thumbprint. The Bookaneers are to be rewarded not only by meeting all the characters in the books they read, but also by receiving a silver-colored doubloon. The doubloon has a map of Florida 1990 on one side and Summer Bookaneer and a treasure chest on the other side.

There are five branch libraries in Seminole County. The Central branch, the main branch, is located in Casselberry. The other branches are: East, Oviedo; North, Sanford; Northeast, Lake Mary; and West, Longwood-Wekiva.

The staff members at the North branch are eagerly awaiting the summer bookaneers to board the big ship library. Joan Crisp, circulation librarian, estimates that an average of 750-800 books are checked out daily. Children account for approximately one third of that number.

Branch librarian Richard Gardiner, reference

SEMINOLE OPINION

librarian Carol Kerns, librarian Cyndi Kneet and children's librarian Sandy Oakley are also eager to begin the program.

Oakley spoke enthusiastically about the summer library program. The program provides activities for children from 2-3½ years old through high school. Pre-school storytime is featured for toddlers and pre-schoolers Tuesdays and Wednesdays. Schedules are readily available at neighborhood branch libraries detailing summer programs.

Thursdays are particularly special days at the North branch. An interesting Disney movie, "The Rescuers" was presented at 2:00 p.m. and 7:00 p.m. June 14. The movie was adapted from a book, "The Rescuers-A Fantasy" by Margery Sharp. July 12, 10:30 a.m., the eagle lady, Doris Mager, will appear at the library with live eagles. Tickets are required for some of the specials. Other coming attractions include plays, puppet shows with library staff members from other branches participating. Professional actors will also perform in parrot talk.

All branches have a film day targeted for school-age children from 2 to 2:45 p.m. The days vary among the branches. Fridays are film days at the North branch from June 8 through August 10. Mondays are film days at the Central and West branches June 11 through August 13. Wednesdays are film days at the East branch from June 13 through July 25. Thursdays are the designated film days at the Northeast branch June 14 through July 26.

Reading is great fun. Reading is fundamental to learning. Research reveals that there is a direct correlation between reading to and conversing with children prior to their entry into school and school achievement. Therefore, all children are encouraged to board the Good Ship Library and become a Bookaneer.

Gender, politics and stereotypes

BOSTON — In the rooms where political consultants and pollsters let down their hair and roll out their numbers, there is a perennial question about women and politics. How can a campaign get over the invisible hurdle that women face on the way to the governor's mansion or the White House?

How, even in this age, can a candidate reconcile the lingering conflict between the voters' image of a Chief Executive and their image of a Woman? How can a campaign create a whole out of these two parts and produce a female winner?

This year, the people who wrestle with such questions are going to be watching California. There, Dianne Feinstein is in the process of creating what may well become a prototype campaign for women in the 1990s.

On June 5, Feinstein won the Democratic nomination for governor in that huge state and did it handily. She won with men's votes, she won with women's. And most intriguingly, she won by directly confronting the public images both for and against women politicians.

The campaign of this self-described "different candidate" was created as meticulously as if her political advisers were biogeneticists. The former mayor of San Francisco fused the images of two genders into one description as omnipresent as the tagline to her ads: Dianne Feinstein: Tough and Caring. The emphasis is on the word "and."

Any pollster can tell you that a woman in politics has a jump start in the public mind that fairly or not associates her gender with honesty, with empathy, with caretaking values. The most seasoned female pol is seen as an outsider, an agent of change. This is one reason why there are more women holding office these days: it's one reason why ten women are in the running for governor.

A woman also begins with a wide margin of credibility on women's rights issues. In a year when the abortion issue looms large, Feinstein convinced voters that she was more trustworthy on the issue of choice, even though her opponent was also pro-choice. The "different candidate" was forthright in appealing to women voters.

But the pollsters will also tell you that certain code words signify trouble for women candidates. Words like leadership, strength, decisiveness. Female candidates for the higher offices, even incumbents in those jobs, almost invariably face charges about their "leadership ability" when they are running against a man.

There comes a moment in a campaign for the top spot when, subliminally or directly, a woman candidate is called upon to show how "strong" she is. To measure up to the boys. For Geraldine Ferraro, it was the moment in the 1984 vice presidential debate with George Bush when the candidate was asked if she could push the nuclear button. She said yes.

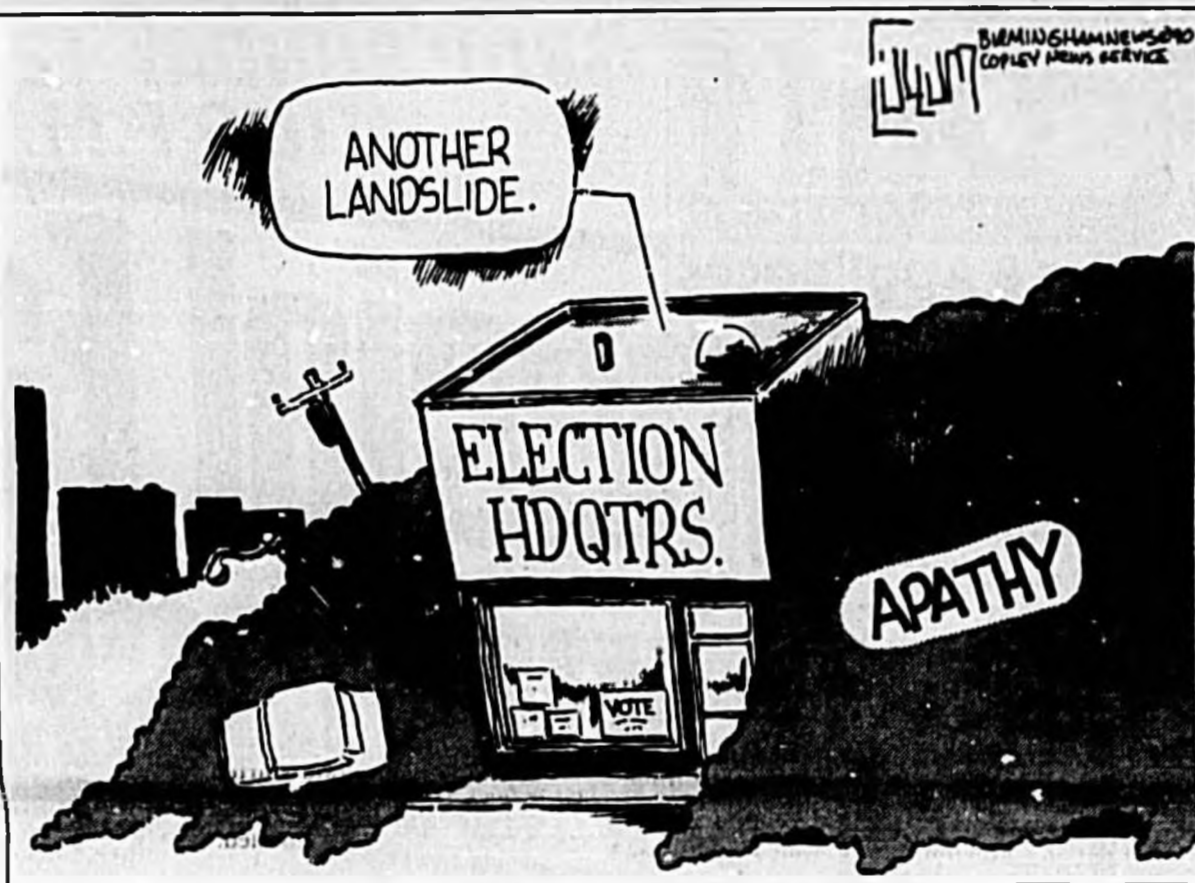

For Ann Richards, it was the moment in the bloody Texas primary when the candidate for governor let loose her own attack ads. The content of the ads may have been less important to her victory than the demonstration that Richards had the guts to kick back.

For Dianne Feinstein, the pivotal moment was when she came out in favor of capital punishment. This more than anything else became the proof of Feinstein's toughness in California. Tough and caring — tough on criminals, caring of families — she won the pro-choice and the capital punishment vote.

Not every female candidate can create a comfortable hybrid of the old stereotypes.

The most seasoned female pol is seen as an outsider, an agent of change.

LETTERS

Court decision supported

As reported in your June 11, 1990 paper under National Briefs and titled "Supreme Court Strikes Down Flag Law," Justice Brennan was quoted to say "if there is a bedrock principle underlying the First Amendment, it is that the government may not prohibit the expression of an idea simply because society finds the idea itself offensive or disagreeable."

While I do not condone the burning of our nation's flag, I am pleased that our Supreme Court Justices have reassessed that our Bill of Rights are inalienable, no matter what State's Attorney John Tanner and Sheriff Nick Navarro might think.

Semantics war continues

The Monday, June 11 editorial by Ellen Goodman, "Abortion battle a war of words," rises to new heights of hypocrisy. How dare she complain that the pro-life movement has revealed that abortion is used as a means of birth control! A war of "words?" Today, as every day, more than 4,000 unborn babies will die at the hands of the abortionists, and she has the nerve to call it a war of "words." Give me a break!

Goodman attempts to put "words" into the mouth of the pro-life movement by quoting Frances Kissling, a pro-choicer. "It's also a way of saying, 'We're not opposed to all abortions, only these irresponsible abortions.'" She then gets side tracked about responsible and irresponsible women. Her point and logic escapes me. More words of war apparently.

The pro-abortionists try to rape our minds by an avalanche of euphemisms about "choice," "fetal material," "a set of specialized cells" and on and on. A murder weapon becomes a "vacuum aspirator" poison is a "saline solution." We have been so brainwashed by the media and the pro-choice propaganda that we hardly recognize when we have been euphemized.

Goodman issues an unsupported claim that "... half the women seeking abortions had used contraceptives during sex." Lets see now... Jane Doe takes her birth control pill that's 98 percent effective and becomes one of the 50 percent that gets pregnant. Now Jane goes to the abortionists who "vacuum aspirates" (tears her arms and legs off and decapitates her) the baby Jane and husband are now delighted and spread the good news to their family and friends.

Goodman concludes her lengthy semantics with the classic abortionist question, "who is going to decide?" Decide what? To have sex? To have a boy? To have a girl? To kill (terminate the pregnancy) the baby? Come now, should a woman really have the "choice" to kill her unborn baby? Why not also her newborn baby? There are those that suggest just that (I read that in my daughter's high school text book). Can't afford a child? Abort it they say. Can't afford your child sometime later? Abort it will they say? Where will it lead? Someone might even invent a suicide machine someday.

Perhaps Goodman is right. Words are killing our innocent babies, by the thousands. Phantom words in the constitution that were legislated into law by the Justices of the Supreme Court are now killing our babies. Our elected legislators would not enact laws authorizing abortion so the court illegally created law where none existed with "words," words that kill.

I pray that we will come to our senses and realize what we are allowing to happen in this great nation, now growing weaker with each death. And be willing to do whatever it takes to put an end to this massacre.

"Words" of protest that were never spoken also kill.

Tougher dog law needed

As I sit here at my desk, I am shaking with such anger, frustration, and rage! You see, my friends, a life was taken today: a little dog's life.

This little dog I'll call him "Blackie," has only been dead for a few hours. He was in my yard just about three hours ago and I gave him some food and a milk bone from my own dog's supply. Then, a few minutes ago, I see this poor little dog lying alongside the road on 17-92 just south of Sunland.

For the last several days this little black, short-haired male has been running around the Fairmont Drive area of Sunland Estates. He wore no collar or identification.

Who and where is the dog's owner? Where is the master he loved and adored, but was too damn cheap to run an ad in the "Lost and Found?" How can a pet owner be so senseless as to let their beloved pet run loose? Haven't they got the good sense to know that letting these dogs run loose puts their life at risk? Or, do they even care?

I would so much like to see the laws and penalties for allowing dogs to run loose made much stricter! Further, the enforcement of these laws is a must for everyone.

In the long run, this poor little dog is probably better off dead than having an owner who did not care enough to even run an ad. I just hope and pray that the little fellow died a fast and painless death, and that he did not suffer. I called animal control to come pick him up. Good by "Blackie."

update of the city's comprehensive plan, no fewer than nine of the area's major arteries will require upgrading to four or six lanes by the year 2010 in order to maintain acceptable levels of service.

The city has hired the firm of Henigar & Ray to serve as comprehensive planning consultants, with technical work being done by Tampa Bay Engineering. Results of their studies show that additional roadway capacity will be necessary when considering the high growth projections for both Lake Mary and Seminole County.

Level of service is graded from 'A,' which indicates free-flowing traffic with good maneuverability and little delay, to 'F,' which represents a breakdown in the traffic flow, unstable conditions and gridlock.
An analysis of conditions in 1989 indicates that most of Lake Mary Boulevard, U.S. 17-92, I-4 north and south of the Lake Mary interchange and the southern segment of Rinehart Road are already operating at the E and F levels, especially during rush hours.
The comprehensive plan estimates that by 2010 most of

Asked if the transfer to command of a bigger post was a promotion, Sam Flanigan balked at the question.
"I tell people that there is no promotion from Sanford," he said. "When people die, we say that they have been promoted to local constituents are O.K.

"I think considering the number of requests we got from the district, we did alright," said Sen. W.W. "Bud" Gardner, responsible for many of the appropriations that were passed. "We did not receive a significant number of requests for appropriations and I think that speaks well for the folks there. Compared to the number of requests we got from Brevard County and the number that got approved, I think Seminole County did pretty well."
Seminole County's biggest prize will be a 12-mile, four-lane expressway from State Road 426 to U.S. Highway 17-92 in Sanford, several issues including a statewide tax increase held the $5.7 billion state transportation package "on hold" until 3 a.m. Saturday morning when the package was finally passed by lawmakers. Martinez has expressed no major objections to the spending plan.
When expressway construction will actually begin is still uncertain. Seminole County Expressway Authority members were preparing to issue their own bonds and begin construction by this fall. But with the expressway now one of several that will be financed through the bond package, the start of the expressway construction may be set back several months, said Gerald Brinton, expressway director.
SCC officials were pleased with their building renovation package that was approved through the efforts of Sen. Dick Langley, R-Clermont, and Gardner. The old student center will be renovated to expand the book store and to relocate the career center from the library to the old student center.
Another big winner was a $350,000 appropriation for the Central Florida Commuter Rail Authority to study the mass transit needs of central Florida. Authority Chairman Dudley Bates, mayor of Altamonte Springs, said the appropriation will be used towards the $600,000 study to determine not only the need for a commuter rail system in central Florida, but where the rails should be located.
Dudley said the additional money will be sought from the federal government and the counties, including Seminole County, that will be served by the system. Seminole County commissioners have already provided $25,000 in start-up money for the organization.
But with the good news, came some bad to local officials and the demand of the growing county population, the committee found.

The commission also found some needed programs available in neighboring counties aren't offered in Seminole County at all, which deters many local low-income mothers from seeking those services.
"The bottom line is we were really struck with the dedication of all these people offering the services that are available and what they can do with the limited budgets they have," said Pamela Poole, a member of the nine-member commission.
Seminole County commissioner Fred Streetman, who called for the formation of the commission, said he has not seen the study and cannot determine if the commission's recommendations are reasonable.
The commission's report states that children's problems often are overlooked by society until they appear as "horror stories" on the evening television news or in the newspaper. Dropouts, teen pregnancies, and drug and alcohol abuse are often symptoms of the quality of care and treatment children receive when they are younger, the commission found.

glory."
Both of the couple's parents were leaders in the Salvation Army Church. Sam Flanigan said, so each grew up in the army, which is where they met.
"I'm from Indiana and he's from Texas and we both just love central Florida, especially Sanford," Pam said. "So you know it's really special to us."
Sam said that they were each inspired by their parents' work and answered "the call" early in life.
"We felt as though we were called by God — there's just no other way to put it — to be a part of the Salvation Army," Sam said.
The pastors of the post will end their Sanford command this weekend. A farewell service for the couple, married 18 years, will be held for them at the agencies seeking slices of the state spending pie. An apparent early-morning oversight by a House appropriations committee staffer may have been responsible for $271,431 being left out of the appropriations package for a 15-bed group home in Seminole County.

Skip Martin, a legislative analyst for the Senate Appropriations subcommittee on Health and Rehabilitative Services, flatly denied the proposal was accidentally left out of the final draft.
"It was left out of the first draft, but it was in the final draft," Martin said. "The (joint House-Senate conference) committee took it out."
"I don't recall seeing it in there," said Rep. Mike Abrams, D-North Miami Beach, chairman of the HRS conference subcommittee. "But I can't imagine the staff would leave it out. Frankly, I would be shocked to find they left it out."
"I'm inclined to believe staff left it out," said Gardner, sponsor of the appropriation. "The staff is working on typing those things into the computer works 18 to 20 hours a day for the last week of the session. They bring meals into them and everything. Things like this happen. It's unfortunate but it does."
Gardner admits weary lawmakers in the conference committee, eager to end differences and leave Tallahassee with work completed, can easily miss a staff oversight.
The explanation does not make SCCMHC director James Berko any happier.
"Seminole County gets the shaft every time," Berko said. "It's scary that this kind of last-minute action could happen."
Berko said he would continue to seek the money needed to start the group home from HRS officials.
Because $200,000 was left out of the spending package for the Wekiva Resources Council, authority Chairman Dudley Bates, mayor of Altamonte Springs, said the appropriation will be used towards the $600,000 study to determine not only the need for a commuter rail system in central Florida, but where the rails should be located.
Dudley said the additional money will be sought from the federal government and the counties, including Seminole County, that will be served by the system. Seminole County commissioners have already provided $25,000 in start-up money for the organization.

Children

In Seminole County, where residents earn an average per capita income that places them in the top third of all counties in the state, the picture of children in need is not pretty:
• 2,374 children were reported as abused or neglected in the county in 1988, 32 were placed in foster homes and one child died as a result of abuse;
• 4,001 arrests of children occurred between July 1988 and June 1989, with 1,587 children accounting for those arrests;
• 6,400 (estimated) children need some type of mental health care.
• 250 children are born to teen-age mothers each year;
• 468 children are on a waiting list for daycare services;
• 118 children are waiting for an opening in the Headstart program.
"As a community we cannot ignore these problems or the effects they have on our society," the report states. "The costs of preventing these problems is much less than dealing with them after the fact. Well focused and cost effective programs with appropriate review and monitoring are needed to begin a process which will address these problems and change these statistics in a positive manner."
The lack of prenatal care received by many low-income residents shocked Poole and commission vice-chairman Joseph Rosier. Poole said about a quarter of one percent of the county's births occur in the home, with no medical care or supervision at all.
Rosier said many pregnant women can't afford the estimated $2,000 needed for a private physician's supervision for prenatal care and birth assistance, yet those same mothers earn too much money to qualify for Medicaid. For those who do qualify for the state medical program, most don't get adequate ongoing pediatric care for their children.
The committee also found the new Arnold Palmer Hospital for Children and Women in Orlando turns away low-income patients from Seminole County.
Another finding that shocked the two committee members was the high number of teen-age mothers in the county. The Teen Parent program at Crooms School of Choice began 4 1/2 years ago with 11 students and has since served 264. The program started last school year with eight students and by the end of the school year, 60 had enrolled. The average age of the mothers is 15. Last year, three mothers were in the sixth grade — about 12 years old.
The Teen Parent program not only teaches courses in history, mathematics and English, but also gives expectant mothers training in Lamaze, nutrition and clothing. There is a campus nursery and daycare center. It's success can be measured in that there have been only 12 repeat pregnancies of women in the program since the program began.
The committee recommended spending $74,272 at the Seminole County Public Health Unit to provide care for 800 newborn children. They recommended spending another $100,000 for specialized children's care at the Central Florida Community Clinic. In the future, they recommended establishing a "halfway house" residency program for teen mothers at Crooms.

The commission also addressed other children's problems, including mental health, crime and abuse. They found the Seminole County Community Mental Health Center currently treats about 2,000 children, when statistics suggest another 6,400 children in the county need mental counseling or treatment.
With growing numbers of crimes being committed by children, about 18 percent per

IN BRIEF

AMERICAN LEAGUE

Quintana powers Bosox

BALTIMORE — Carlos Quintana drove in three runs, including two on a single during a four-run third inning Saturday to help Mike Boddicker gain his seventh straight win and lift the Boston Red Sox to a 6-3 victory over the Baltimore Orioles.

Boddicker, 8-3, scattered seven hits over eight innings for his seventh victory in a row — a career best. He struck out seven and did not yield a walk. Rob Murphy worked the ninth.

Quintana, who also scored a run, capped Boston's third win with a two-run single.

In the only other AL game played Saturday afternoon, Detroit topped California 6-2. Saturday night's schedule had Milwaukee at Cleveland, Oakland at Chicago, Toronto at New York, Minnesota at Kansas City and Texas at Seattle.

TENNIS

Lendl, Becker to meet in final

LONDON — Defending champion Ivan Lendl and Boris Becker Saturday advanced to the final of the $500,000 Stella Artois Grass Court championship, a tuneup for Wimbledon, with straight sets semifinal victories.

Lendl needed just an hour and 20 minutes to down John McEnroe 6-2, 6-4 in the second grass-court meeting in their 35 encounters, and third seed Becker was equally quick in ousting Stefan Edberg 6-4, 6-4.

The last time the two met on grass, McEnroe won in straight sets to advance to the 1983 Wimbledon final. Lendl said he still had vivid memories of that meeting but insisted Saturday's match was "just good practice" for his own upcoming Wimbledon challenge.

WORLD CUP

English, Dutch behave in draw

ROME — The Battle of Cagliari between the English and the Dutch failed to materialize Saturday, both on the field and in the stands.

England and Holland played to a scoreless tie, and the World Cup match people feared might provoke riots ended peacefully with Sant'Elia Stadium standing and the Sardinian city intact.

In a pair of Group C matches Saturday, Brazil defeated Costa Rica 1-0 in Turin to qualify for the second round, and Scotland topped Sweden 2-1 in Genoa.

The English and Dutch fans, the bad boys of European soccer, behaved like choir boys with more than 1,500 police and security officials patrolling Sant'Elia. Only a pre-match clash between a group of English fans and police escorting the supporters to the stadium marked an otherwise peaceful day.

HOCKEY

Quebec takes Nolan No. 1

VANCOUVER, British Columbia — Owen Nolan, a rugged right winger, Saturday was chosen first overall by the Quebec Nordiques at the annual NHL amateur entry draft.

Nolan, 18, is given a chance to step right into the lineup for Quebec, the NHL's last-place team the past two seasons. In 58 games with the Cornwall Royals of the major junior Ontario Hockey League last year, Nolan scored 51 goals and 59 points along with 240 penalty minutes.

Often compared with Boston Bruins All-Star Cam Neely, Nolan is expected to bring speed and toughness to the rebuilding Nordiques, who earned the first choice for the second consecutive year with the NHL's worst overall record. Last year's top selection, Swedish winger Mats Sundin, has yet to come to terms with Quebec.

NATIONAL LEAGUE

Giants continue June tear

SAN FRANCISCO — After you've won 14 of 15 games, even three-hitters seem routine.

The San Francisco Giants, who own a 14-1 record in June, received a stellar performance from pitcher Scott Garretts Saturday in a 7-0 triumph over the Atlanta Braves.

Garretts, 4-6, allowed just three hits in posting his first complete game and shutout of the year.

"I was moving the fastball around and it felt good being able to throw my slider for strikes," said Garretts. "I knew I was on when I could get it over when I was behind in the count."

In the only other NL game played Saturday afternoon, Los Angeles beat San Diego 5-2. Under the lights in the NL on Saturday were Chicago at Philadelphia, New York at Pittsburgh, Montreal at St. Louis and Houston at Cincinnati.

Reds run streak to five games

By ROBBIE STOCK

SANFORD — Like fine wine, the Sanford Reds seem to be getting better with age. And on Friday night, the team that could try out for the series "Thirtysomething" beat yet another young team in the Buddy Lake League, knocking off the East Coast All Stars 14-4.

The Reds used all their talent, from 18-year-old Seminole High School graduate Mike Senechek to 40-year old Lloyd Wall in winning their fifth straight game after an opening-day loss. East Coast fell to 2-3.

"We're old but we can still play ball. In the majors, it's not uncommon to have guys on the roster that are 35," said Reds manager Tom Robare. "All of us have stayed active and we're all in good shape."

The Reds had to be in good shape as they kept running the bases, slapping out 10 hits and drawing six runs in their most productive game of the season. All of team's starters contributed to the score, some crossing home and others driving in runs.

Robert Smith led the barrage with a walk and three singles, good for two RBI and four runs scored. Nick Brady provided two singles and Tim Sarner tagged a two-run double and scored twice.

Four runs in the first inning got the scoring underway quick for the Reds. After Smith and Robare walked and advanced a base on a passed ball, Kevin Simms grounded out to the shortstop, driving in Smith. Senechek followed with a single. Wall reached on an error and Brady followed with a two-run single.

East Coast battled back for two runs in the bottom of the first, but after that, managed just two hits off Senechek, who used his curveball to set up the hitters for fastballs later in the count. He struck out the side in the third inning. Darren Bruehl hurled the last inning for the Reds.

Raiders Hester, Shaw net hoop scholarships

By DEAN SMITH
Herald sports writer

SANFORD — Two Seminole Community College graduates will be continuing their athletic and academic endeavors next year after signing scholarships this past week.

Sean Hester and Patrick Shaw have accepted scholarships to attend Embury Riddle Aeronautical University in Daytona Beach and Fort Lewis College in Durango, Colorado, respectively.

Hester, 6-7, 200 pounds, averaged 10 points and six rebounds a game as a back-up on the Raider team that went 19-14 this season.

Hester lives in Altamonte Springs and graduated from Lyman High School where he played for Coach Tom Lawrence. Hester will have three years of eligibility after only playing one year for SCC. Hester concentrated on his studies and improving his game as a freshman.

Hester played on the three-man intramural basketball team that finished second in Florida and played at halftime of a Miami Heat-San Antonio Spurs game.

His shooting and rebounding ability should be a definite asset to the ERAU program, which will be starting its third year of intercollegiate basketball.

Shaw also played only one year at SCC after attending Gulf Coast Community College in Panama City as a freshman. He is a 6-5, 195-pounder who can play both guard and forward.

He decided to attend SCC after his family moved to the Orlando area. He is a graduate of Panama City Christian School, where he played for Coach Bob Murr and averaged 22 points and 12 rebounds per game as a senior. He averaged 12 points and five rebounds per game this past season for the Raiders.

Shaw earned all-tournament honors this past year at the Gulf Coast Thanksgiving Tournament.

He is an excellent student who has been teaching dyslexic students the past five years during the summer at a school in Louisville, Kentucky.

Fort Lewis Coach Jim Cross is pleased with the signing of Shaw.

"He will have an immediate impact on Raider basketball," said Cross. "Patrick can run, rebound and shoot the three-pointer. He's an outstanding addition."

Shaw is the eighth player who has signed a letter of intent to attend Fort Lewis and play basketball next season.

Deltona eliminates Altamonte Braves

From staff reports

CASSELBERRY — The Altamonte Springs National Braves' hopes of a championship came to a halt Friday night when Deltona eliminated the Braves with a 13-12, seven-inning triumph in the Top Team Tournament at Casselberry.

Altamonte Springs jumped out to a 6-0 lead, only to have Deltona score six in the bottom of the second inning to tie the score. Altamonte Springs came right back with three in the third and two in the fourth to take an 11-6 advantage.

But Deltona refused to wilt and scored one run in the fourth and two runs in each of the fifth, sixth and seventh to claim the victory and earn the right to play Eustis for the championship in the Area 3 bracket of the Top Team tourney.

Deltona must defeat Eustis twice to claim the Area 3 title and advance to the Top Team final round.

"It was a case of one team pounding the ball, then letting the other team back in," said Altamonte Springs coach Dan Bogeajis. "We hammered the ball for four innings but we could not put them away. We left the bases loaded in the first and second innings and ended up leaving 13 men on base for the game."

Altamonte Springs came up with 18 hits in the game but could not get Deltona pitcher Oglesby out of the game. Oglesby worked all seven innings and struck out 14 while walking six.

"You have to give them (Deltona) credit," said Bogeajis. "They had a lefty (Oglesby) who was pretty good and they hung in there. During the last three innings, Oglesby held us to only one run and our pitching fell apart."

Strange in position to make run at third Open title

United Press International

MEDINAH, Ill. — The agonizing pressure of U.S. Open Sunday will bear down on one of the largest collection of players in the history of the tournament and in the middle of that crowd will be a man who for the past year has lived on pressure.

That's why the smart money in America's most important golf event will be riding on Curtis Strange.

All but forgotten after he finished the first round in 61st place, Strange now has a very real chance to become the second man in history to win the U.S. Open three straight years.

He worked his way into challenging position with a 4-under-par 68 Saturday and then stepped to the sidelines while the stirring of the wind and growing Open pressure began to tell on the third-round leaders.

Strange eventually found himself just two shots out of the lead shared by Billy Ray Brown and Mike Donald — who between them have just one pro victory and virtually no experience facing the kind of pressure they must endure Sunday.

Strange knows full well what that pressure is like, having conquered it at the Open two years ago in a playoff with Nick Faldo and last year in coming from behind to win the event for the second straight time. That pressure has followed him in recent months when he has been asked time and again about his chances of a third straight victory.

"I'm back in the thick of things," Strange said. "If I shoot a good low round tomorrow I might get there. Or it might be good enough only to give somebody a scare. Or it might be good enough just to get a handshake."

But I'm going to be trying the best I can, just like I have all week." See Open, Page 3B

Doctors: PMS victims, don't despair

By DONNA DAVIS
Herald correspondent

If, for two weeks every month, you feel bloated, clumsy, jittery and depressed, you may have premenstrual syndrome (PMS). And, you are not alone.

Local doctors say there is help for the estimated 85 to 90 percent of women who suffer from the physical pain and emotional anguish caused by PMS at some time during their menstruating years.

PMS is a "disorder that affects women out of a normal physiological response from the ovaries," Dr. Willie B. Newman, Sanford, said. Women who suffer from PMS have an exaggeration of the normal symptoms all women have, he said, as well as a definite pattern to their symptoms. The symptoms will occur the two weeks before the beginning of menses, and will end when menstruation begins.

Alice McMahon, director of the Women's Medicine Center at Florida Hospital and author of "Women and Hormones," said there are 150 documented symptoms of PMS, including anxiety, hostility, depression, headache, weight gain, irritability, confusion, food cravings, breast tenderness and fluid retention.

The severity of the symptoms ranges from just "an awareness one is not in one's top physical and mental state" to incapacitation, Dr. Uditia Jahagirdar, Lake Mary, said. Some women reach "almost insanity in some cases," Newman said.

There are about 25 causes of PMS, but researchers are not sure exactly what causes the condition, Jahagirdar said. Some of the suspected causes are an imbalance of progesterone and estrogen following ovulation, an imbalance of prostaglandin and deficiencies of vitamins — particularly vitamin B6, McMahon said.

Often mothers who work outside the home and women who have extra demands placed upon them suffer the most from PMS, Newman said.

The more children a woman has, Jahagirdar said, the more extreme a problem PMS becomes.

PMS affects over 50 percent of American women, McMahon said. However, 15 to 20 percent of women have difficulties coping with the symptoms of PMS and these women should seek treatment for their symptoms through self-help or through a physician, Newman said.

Jahagirdar stresses that before beginning any self-help measures, women need to be certain they are suffering from PMS. She suggests keeping a diary of symptoms for several months, pinpointing the symptoms, their severity, and when the symptoms occur. This is important because many times PMS is a "wastebasket diagnosis" for anytime a woman doesn't feel well — whether or not she actually suffers from PMS.

Symptoms such as bloating and lower abdominal heaviness could indicate other problems, including cysts, thyroid problems or endometriosis, Jahagirdar said.

Some of the self-help techniques aimed at alleviating PMS discomfort are diet and exercise.

"Lifestyle changes that are most beneficial are diet, exercise and stress management," McMahon said.

Dietary changes recommended for PMS treatment are also important to a healthy lifestyle, Jahagirdar said. These are some of the changes she recommends:

• Avoid caffeine, alcohol, nicotine, salt and refined sugar and starch.

• Eat a well-balanced, high-fiber diet with plenty of fresh fruits and vegetables, and drink plenty of water.

• Don't skip meals, in order to avoid a wide fluctuation in blood-sugar levels.

• Take a good multi-vitamin supplement, one that includes both vitamins B6 and E. These vitamins help alleviate breast tenderness, Newman said, but Jahagirdar cautions against "mega-doses" of the vitamins, which may cause side effects.

Exercise of any kind is important because it helps "diminish cramps and bloating" and "induces certain enzymes in the brain that give the feeling of well-being," Jahagirdar said.

"Stress management is important for anybody, whether you have PMS or not. If you know you have a problem with it, don't schedule extra things during those days," McMahon said. She also said the two-week period is "not the time for major decisions."

If any of the symptoms continue beyond a woman's menstrual period, or are so severe that they "affect you more than you can cope with," Newman said it is time to see a doctor.

CHIROPRACTIC FOR BETTER HEALTH

DR. A.W. WOODALL — CHIROPRACTOR —

TREATING NEURITIS

If you're suffering from pain of unknown origin in any part of your body, it may be caused by irritation along one or more nerve pathways. Sometimes there are burning and tingling sensations along with the pain. The condition is known as neuritis.

Neuritis means "inflammation of a nerve." It often begins with inflammation of the sheath that covers the affected nerve. When it penetrates to the trunk of the nerve, the condition may become chronic and continue to deteriorate, causing serious problems accompanied by pain.

If the inflammation has been caused by a misaligned vertebra in the spinal column, treatment is needed to relieve the pressure. The greater or more complex this misalignment, the more serious the condition can become.

You don't have to suffer the pain of neuritis when treatment is available to relieve this condition. It should not be ignored. It won't go away unless you get the help you need.

THESE DADS ARE KINGS TODAY

Young dad feels a good family life requires team effort

By JOAN KING
Herald correspondent

SANFORD — A big congratulations to Jeff Sanders of Sanford who has been selected as one of our Dads of the Year.

Sanders was stunned and silent for a moment when he heard the news of our selection.

The honored dad said, I don't deserve it. I'm absolutely surprised."

Sanders was nominated by his wife Sheila who is the mother of their children, Kimberly, 5 and Thomas, 21 months.

Sanders exemplifies the image of a modern dad in today's society. He and his wife sit on the floor with their children. With everyone at eye level, parents are no longer bigger than life, they become playmates who still maintain the dignity of parenthood while playing and communicating with the children. This dad is in touch with his youngsters as he exchanges items with Thomas, gently advises Kimberly and listens to them both intently. They have his attention and he has theirs.

Sanders is an engineer with Stromberg Carlson in Lake Mary. Although Sanders is a busy man he always finds time for his family. One night a week is set aside for "Family Night" when all members of the family may voice their opinions by praising each other. They may also bring to light any family problems that may exist. They work on solutions as a family.

During one "Family Night" session, Sanders told his son that the pacifier would have to go.

"No more pacifier," Sanders sternly said.

Thomas protested loudly and burst into tears. The pacifier stayed.

Sanders' role model for fatherhood is his own father, Billy L. Sanders of Titusville.

"He's the best dad a guy could have," Sanders says. "He always found time for me."

Sheila wrote in her nominating letter that

Father instilled set of values, pride in two homeless boys

By LACY DOMAN
Herald People Editor

SANFORD — Bob Shull was only eight years older than the two homeless teenaged boys he and his wife Linda took into their home 23 years ago.

Earl Stanley, now 39, said he didn't recognize the selflessness the then 24-year old Shull displayed until he became a dad himself.

"He sacrificed the mid-20's of his life to help two homeless boys. Even though we weren't his, you could never tell," Stanley said.

Shull said being close to Stanley's age made his job easier.

"I wasn't so old I had forgotten what being a teenager was about," Shull said. "A lot of it is juvenile stupidity, which I had myself. I always figured I passed a little of it on from father to son," he explained.

The two men have always been buddies.

"He teased me about girls," Stanley said.

"He called my girlfriends 'Soo-wee,'" Stanley said, referring to a farmer's pig call.

Stanley's wife Bobbie shook her head yes and quickly added, "I've seen a couple of your old girlfriends!"

Stanley said Shull often loaned him the car for dates.

"Even after I pulled the key out once and left it running all night," Stanley remembered.

"You never paid me for that tank of gas," Shull jokingly reminded Stanley.

Stanley said Shull was a fair disciplinarian.

"He corrected me when I did wrong in a way that was stern but guiding," Stanley said.

"He did get in trouble for yelling 'Soo-wee' at some girls at 3 a.m.," Shull said.

Stanley served in the Marine Corps during the Viet Nam era.

"Without his (Shull's) teaching and guidance, I wouldn't have made boot camp. He

Charles Sitz and his daughter Darla

Quiet man says his family made his job as good dad easy

By JOAN KING
Herald correspondent

LAKE MARY — When Charles D. Sitz of Lake Mary received his congratulations for being one of our Dads of the Year, he said, "It's easy to be a good father when you have a great daughter like Darla. She was easy to raise as she was never in trouble and was a good kid growing up."

Sitz was nominated by his only child who is now married and expecting her first child in the fall.

As a child she received her father's love and caring in ways that are taken for granted by most children but Darla didn't forget.

She remembers when the family's pet dog tore her favorite stuffed toy, Eig Bird, to shreds. She was devastated as Big Bird was her favorite thing in the whole world. To a 3-year-old, money doesn't mean much but at that time the budget was tight. However, her dad managed to get her a new Big Bird several days after the disaster as he couldn't stand to see her upset.

Darla states in her letter, "Needless to say, his small gesture meant the world to me."

There are other times that Darla remembers her father's selfless acts. One in particular was when Sitz had a work-induced heart attack when Darla was in the 8th grade. Sitz was hospitalized for a long time. Darla had raised money that year for a Girl Scout trip to North Carolina. As her dad was still hospitalized, she didn't want to leave him but he insisted that she go and have a good time. He wouldn't take "no" for an answer.

"My dad didn't want me to miss out on the trip that I had raised money for and looked forward to all year," Darla says.

Sitz is a quiet, soft-spoken man who lets the women do the talking. He smiles as his wife Mary Jo and his daughter relate one incident

Cruisin' into retirement

After 35 years of teaching, Mrs. Bernice H. Muller cruised into retirement Saturday, June 9.

It was a grand surprise affair executed in the fine tradition of first-class affairs on board the Rivership Romance. Mrs. Muller was feted, in what was called a "Bon Voyage Into Retirement" by 95 well wishers. Included among the group were her children and grandchildren who sponsored the event; sisters, cousins, sisters-in-law, nieces and nephews from Bartow, Jacksonville, Lake Wales, Miami, Orlando, Tampa, and of course, Oviedo, Sanford, and Snowhill! Notables on the cruise included Mr. Lefty Hampton, principal at Midway Elementary where Mrs. Muller has been a primary teacher for the past 27 years and Mr. Bob Leidner with the County Office. The group of well wishers would not have been complete without the many fellow Church members and co-workers who also came.

The cruise itself was tremendous from start to finish. The crowd was a most congenial gathering of really nice folk...it would be hard to try to really put into the words the feeling that was pervasive among the group. Balloons stood atop each table heralding the fact of the celebration and adding marvelously to the festive mood of the day with the words "Bernice H. Muller, Retirement Celebration, June 9, 1990". Each person attending felt like an honored guest and doubly so when greeted by the honoree. Mrs. Muller was even taken on a whirl around the dance floor by David Burks, a member of the cruise party.

After a delicious lunch, family members took to the instruments and stage to serenade the retiree in fine form. All 95 guests gathered on all decks for one last group photograph as the Romance headed for home. If everyone could have stayed on board the boat, they would have.

All in all, it was a blessing to have such a beautiful day to celebrate and commemorate a teacher whose contributions have been a blessing to the lives of countless numbers of families.

Mrs. Bernice H. Muller.

YOUR BIRTHDAY
June 17, 1990

An enterprising friend could be instrumental in helping you further a personal ambition in the year ahead. These methods might be rather brusque, but this person will know how to get things done in a hurry.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) Someone with whom you might have a business involvement today may not be all he or she is representing to be. The special deal you're offered because you're a buddy may not be a bargain.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) Objectives you select for yourself today will be worthy ones, yet they could be subjected to outside influences. Avoid arrangements with persons whose aims aren't in harmony with yours.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) Generosity is an admirable virtue, but it should be steered by wisdom today. Be extremely careful you do not overindulge the undeserving.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) Taking risks on something that proved to be fortunate for a friend is no guarantee you'll repeat the results. You must find a more valid measuring rod.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) Today you might have to deal with some individuals who will be rather difficult to please. Disappointments will be minimized by realizing that you can't be all things to all people.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) Usually you're a rather decisive person, but today you might uncharacteristically be indecisive and let people who shouldn't make decisions for you.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) It's bad enough, if you lack the ability to properly manage your own resources today, but don't make matters worse by muddying up another's affairs as well.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) You could be reasonably good at things today that can be achieved with minimum effort. However, you might not score as well in developments that require a second try.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) In your conversations with friends today, some of your pals may be tempted to chop up a buddy who isn't present. You won't like yourself later if you are a contributor.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) Your financial trends could be rather wavy today and you might be both adept at acquisition and equally adroit at squandering. Focus on the former, not the latter.

ARIES (March 21-April 19) It might be a trifle difficult for you to stay the course today. Your good intentions could be completely swept aside if you become disenchanted with your rate of progress.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) A lack of imagination won't be the root cause of your ineffectiveness today. The problem could stem from being oversold on some of your more illogical schemes.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) Do not make promises to your mate today if you don't truly intend to keep them. Something you will say for expeditious purposes will be taken seriously.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) Be careful today not to lose patience with co-workers who cannot grasp things as quickly as you do. Take time to instruct them properly instead of getting angry.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) A smooth salesperson with a something-for-nothing scheme might induce you to participate today. He/she will get the something and you're likely to get the nothing.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) Don't get angry at others today for not taking care of things you should be taking care of yourself. If you don't do it, no one else is like to.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) Usually you are a rather disciplined and prudent person, but today you may be either overindulgent or unduly extravagant, or perhaps both.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) Today you might have exaggerated feelings of apprehension regarding your abilities to cope with a testy matter. It won't be a snap, but you'll be able to manage it competently enough.

ARIES (March 21-April 19) No one will benefit today including you, if you try to get too cozy in your business dealings. Trying to outsmart others will encourage them to outsmart you.

By James Jacoby

Last, he expected that many others would reach six spades in the tournament pair competition. So he doubled, expecting that plus 200 would defeat all those pairs who were so cowardly as to go only plus 100. Declarer knew all about percentages, but he knew a little something about human nature too. What if 95 percent of the time East could not hold J-10-9-5 of spades? It was 100 percent sure that he would never double unless he held that trump stack. Declarer ruffed the second diamond, played a heart to dummy's queen and led a low spade. When East played the five, declarer put in the seven-spot. So greedy East had a score of minus 1660, not doing nearly as well as those cowards who passed and wound up plus 100.

Sitz

After listening to the two women in his life he chuckles and says, "I must deserve it if they say."

Sitz is the eldest son in a family of five sisters and three brothers where he gained experience in parenting by caring for his siblings.

being a father is my father-in-law. He has been like a father to me. He will always have a home here if he wants to move in."

When Sitz's father-in-law was very ill several years ago, Sitz sent Mary Jo to be near her dad. She was in Ohio for six weeks while Sitz never complaining, looked after Darla at home.

Mary Jo says that "Chuck is a good son-in-law. My father has a 25-year memory lapse. To help my father, Chuck would take him to places where he went fishing and to familiar places that he used to know trying to jog his memory."

In March of this year Sitz was honored as Employee of the Month by Motors & Compressors Inc. in Lockhart.

The next event that Sitz is looking forward to is the birth of his first grandchild in October. It can hardly wait to be Granddad of the Year!

BOOK REVIEWS

Stern returns to bear 'Burden'

The Burden of Proof By Scott Turow (Farrar Straus Giroux, $15 pp., $22.95)

Alejandro "Sandy" Stern. You remember him. He's the leading defense attorney in his Midwestern county of Kindle. He masterminded the defense of Rusty Sabich in Scott Turow's "Presumed Innocent."

Turow, himself a lawyer, writes novels about lawyers in the mornings and practices law in the afternoons. His lawyers are full-blown characters with human problems and real feelings and are full of human flaws.

In "The Burden of Proof," Sandy comes home from a business trip and finds that his wife of 30 years has committed suicide and that $850,000 is missing from her estate. His marriage, family and career come under scrutiny.

It's a foreful yarn, well told. You'll be awake all night finishing it.

Often it is a sad change, although not without optimism.

Ford's stories are remarkable, not so much for their language, but for the effects the words have on the reader. He is one of those uncommon writers with the brilliant ability to evoke sympathy for his characters with a few spare words.

The central figure in "Wildlife" is 16-year-old Joe Brinson, who has moved with his parents to Great Falls, Mont. Joe's father, a small-town golf pro, loses his job and goes to fight a horrendous forest fire that has nearly surrounded the city.

Most of the book takes place over just three days. Once Joe's father leaves to fight the forest fire, his mother has an affair with another man. Joe's father returns, but life has changed for all three and never will be the same.

"Wildlife" feels like a short story. It is over quickly - partly because Ford sends the reader and won't let go until the end. But it is not a short story that has been stretched beyond capacity.

Ford's last two books (the earlier was the short story collection "Rock Springs") have concerned the West, the peripatetic author's most recent home. He has since moved to New Orleans, so his growing audience likely will be treated to insightful tales of the South in the future.

Wildlife

By Richard Ford (Atlantic Monthly Press, 177 pp., $18.95)

Richard Ford writes of fairly ordinary people, but of people whose lives are changing forever.

Sanders

"Jeff values family life. We moved back to my hometown of Sanford last year just to be with family. Just so our children would know their Grandmother/Granddaddy Sanders, their Grandmother Johnson, and would be able to enjoy their cousins, aunts and uncles. Should we ever have to move away we will always be grateful for this time spent together."

Sanders says that he "has an overwhelming sense of not deservng the Dad of the Year award. Sheila has a knack for paying tribute to people."

Sheila is sure her husband deserves the honor.

"When I saw the ad in the Herald and knowing the kind of dad that Jeff is, well, I said why not," Sheila says. Jeff is a kind and gentle person. He's caring. Sometimes he does get angry but he handles it in a positive way, he's consistent. We always have fun things to do because Jeff made a chart to schedule fun events, and then I organize them. Our "Family Night" was Jeff's idea," she adds.

Sanders explains, "We had a similar session at my frat house once a week to clear the air and I thought it would be a good thing to initiate at home so we can think of ways to avoid arguments and solve problems before they become big ones."

The Sanders live in a quiet neighborhood in a country setting ideally situated for child-rearing with a yard and space to grow.

"Sanford is a wonderful, peaceful place to raise children," Sanders says.

The lakefront is an especially inviting attraction for Sanders and his son. They often go to watch the boats and scheduled events.

Sanders has taken Kimberly camping on father-child retreats when they lived in Texas.

In addition to Kimberly and Thomas there is another member of the family who gets a lot of attention but is quite uncomplained by it all. Her name is Katrina, the family cat. Jeff adopted her from the Alligator City Pound in Texas after he lost his previous cat. When they moved back to Sanford, Katrina came with them and has adjusted very well to her surroundings.

Although Sanders voices some concern for the fate of the quiet lifestyle Sanford offers after the new mall opens, he has many nice things to say about the city. This dad feels at home here.

Creation of Seminole County opens region

Seminole County was created in 1913 when it was split from Orange County, which used to be Mosquito County in the past century.

The county's western boundary is the Wekiva River; the northern is Lake Monroe, and the eastern is the St. John's River.

The St. John's River historically has been the major highway into Central Florida from the east coast. Thus, its highest navigable point, Lake Monroe, became an early focal point for civilization, according to a history prepared by the Seminole County League of Women Voters.

In 1836, Camp Monroe, the first settlement by white men along the upper St. John's River, was established on the lake's southern shores. The camp was soon renamed Fort Mellon, after a captain who died following the fort's first Indian attack. It is now called Sanford and is the county seat.

In early 1837, General Thomas Sidney Jesup held a peace conference with Osceola and various Seminole chiefs supported by an estimated 3,000 other Seminole men, women and children.

The objective of the American Government was to end the last Indian resistance east of the Mississippi by shipping the Seminoles to Oklahoma, where President Jackson had already shipped the Creeks of Alabama and Georgia, according to the League history.

Osceola, observing what the proposed peace was leading to led his people to temporary safety.

Later that year, Jesup was replaced by General Zachary Taylor, later President of the United States, who laid out a road from Lake Monroe to Tampa along with were Fort Mellon, Fort Reid, Fort Maitland and Fort Meade.

Contemporary markers in Sanford point out two of these sites: Fort Mellon at the corner of 2nd Street and Mellonville, and the Fort Reid Blockhouse at 24th Street and Mellonville.

The second Seminole war ended in the Spring of 1842, and the Indians were shipped West. The town of Mellonville, around Fort Mellon, became a busy distribution point for a growing agricultural area.

Symbolic of the changing times was the name change in 1845, of the east-central part of the state, from Mosquito County to Orange County. By that year also, two small steamboats were operating on the St. John's River out of Fort Mellon.

By 1870, a well-equipped steamship was making weekly trips between Mellonville and Jacksonville, and the export of citrus and produce was brisk.

During the early part of the 20th century, the northern portion of the county developed an economy based on truck farming, while the remainder depended on rebuilt citrus groves. On April 25, 1913 the State Legislature divided Orange County, creating Seminole County with the county seat in Sanford. It was the 50th county in the state.

Through the boom years of the 1920's and the depression of the 1930's, the county continued as an agricultural community. The arrival in Orange County of Martin Marietta Corp.'s aerospace factory in the 1950s, and Disney World in the 1970s, started a rapid growth of industry and tourism, which spilled over into Seminole County.

Seminole County's population nearly doubled in the 1970s. University of Florida estimates are that the county passed the 200,000 mark in 1983. The current population is estimated to be around 292,424.

The county now finds itself divided in character between light-industrial, and commuter/local residential and some agricultural, use of its land. It has left in the past its image as solely an agricultural community.

From staff reports

SANFORD — In 1870, General Henry Shelton Sanford bought about 23 square miles of land in the vicinity of the south shore of Lake Monroe and in 1877, the area was incorporated under the name of Sanford.

During the Civil War, the general had been Supervisor of the Union Secret Service and, afterward, diplomat to St. Petersburg, Russia, Paris and Belgium.

In 1880, then ex-U.S. President Ulysses S. Grant, broke ground for a railroad from Sanford to Orlando. Lake Mary, Longwood and Altamonte Springs were on the line known as the South Florida Railroad.

The railroad's ultimate extension from Jacksonville to Tampa lessened the importance of Sanford as a water "gateway" city via the St. Johns River by opening Central Florida to travel by land, according to a history prepared by the Seminole County League of Women Voters.

Ensuing employment by the railroad and related local industries such as repair shops and an ice plant, affected Sanford's economy.

The area became the largest shipper of oranges in the world and thousands of groves brought prosperity, according to the league's history.

Then came the "Big Freeze of 1895" wiping out the citrus groves and many people left the area.

After the freeze, the farmers began to plant different vegetable crops, finding celery to be the best money crop.

Lake Mary continues its 'boom town' reputation

From staff reports

L A K E M A R Y — Located between Sanford and Orlando, Lake Mary is the center for two of Seminole County's largest employers and some of the area's highest-priced homes.

It is the second fastest-growing community in Seminole County after Oviedo, attracting residential growth because of its country charm, commercial growth and central location.

Statistics from the University of Florida Bureau of Economic and Business Research (BEBR) show that this small city in northwest Seminole County grew at about 70 percent in eight years between April 1, 1980 to April 1, 1988.

Continued rapid growth is expected, according to authorities. In fact, some Lake Mary officials have referred to Lake Mary as a "boom town" because of its projected commercial and industrial growth.

Originally, the community was called Bent's Station. A man named John Bent had planted several orange groves along a new railroad providing service between Sanford and Orlando in the late 1800s.

It was later believed to have been named after

Mary Sundell, the wife of a minister who settled on the northern shore of Lake Mary in the 1800s, according to the Lake Mary Chamber of Commerce.

As the community began to grow over the next several decades, the chamber of commerce played an important role. Formed in 1923, the chamber is one of the oldest in the state. In the 1950s, it helped form a volunteer fire department.

According to the chamber, during the 1960s when the state was planning for Interstate 4 between Finally, he nailed up doors and windows to keep her out. In desperation, feeling she'd be dead within a year unless she got control of herself, Angie turned to CareUnit.

Fashionable Longwood holds true through changing times

From staff reports

Longwood is one of the older communities in Seminole County. It was recognized as an official settlement back in 1876 with the establishment of its first post office. The community was incorporated as a "town" on December 5, 1883, then as a city in 1923. Edward Henck of Boston, Mass., is credited with being the city's founder.

The city was named after a fashionable suburb of Boston, now part of Brookline, Mass., and has been known as the "Friendly Crossroads," according to a history prepared by the city staff.

Henck and two of his friends formed the South Florida Railroad Company which was the first railroad built in Florida after the Civil War.

Regular passenger service began between Sanford and Orlando in 1880, and the train stopped in Longwood, which at that time was also called "Town of Opportunity."

A lumber company was formed in 1881, which helped supply the demand created by the Central Florida boom lasting from the 1880s to the big freeze in 1895.

The contemporary community boasts of its New and its Old, according to the city-prepared history.

Encouraging private parties to preserve its history has been one of the city's top priorities. Longwood is home to the Central Florida Society for Historic Preservation and the city has pointed to review and comment on proposed new buildings and modifications of existing buildings in the Historical District.

Longwood's Episcopal Church, built in 1881, is one of the City's historic landmarks. Beautifully built, it still retains the dark hardwood inside, old-fashioned pews and stained glass. It is located in the Historical District on Church Avenue.

The Bradlee-McIntyre House, was moved by the Central Florida Society from Altamonte Springs to the Longwood Historical District in 1973. It is now on the National Register for Historic Places.

An event that has become a tradition at the Episcopal Church and the Bradlee-McIntyre House is "Christmas in Old Longwood."

The Inside-Outside House is another landmark of Longwood.

One of the most significant features of the Inside-Outside House is its architectural design which is where its name comes from. It is a pre-fabricated structure - probably one of the first - and was built in 1870 in Boston. The studs are on the outside of the exterior walls.

It was dismantled and moved from Boston by ship down the Atlantic Ocean to Jacksonville in 1873. From there it was moved by river barge to Sanford and then 20 miles farther by mule cart to Altamonte Springs where it was once again assembled.

In 1973, it was moved again to its permanent home in Longwood by

School: meeting the needs of present, future students

From staff reports

SANFORD — More students, new facilities, and additions to many existing facilities are evidence of a thriving Seminole County Public School System.

It's a system that totals more than 47,000 students in its classrooms, transports in excess of 25,000 on its buses, and serves meals to over 27,500 in its cafeterias.

It's a system that is growing rapidly, but still maintaining educational excellence.

That growth is especially strong in the elementary grades where enrollments swell by more than 1,500 students each year, roughly the number needed to fill two schools.

It takes 26 of the school district's 42 schools to house these youngsters now, but that will not begin to handle the influx of students expected in the not-too-distant future.

A report by the district's business and finance office states 16,046 elementary-age students will impact the county within 10 years, and spark the need for 20 additional schools.

In the meantime, the county's newest school, Douglas Stenstrom Elementary, was built at a cost of nearly $6 million. It opened in Oviedo in January 1989. The school is 150 percent overcapacity.

Meeting the needs of these and future students is a major priority in Seminole education. It is hardly a new issue, but it is one that is intensifying for public schools. Since that early 1970s, the county's schools, and family-style neighborhoods have acted as magnets to prospective home buyers. New students have been accommodated in the school system.

The tough part is ahead, according to district projections, for the period just entered into promises greater numbers of school-age children than ever before.

New families are moving in are not the sole cause of the growth. A school district report elites annual increases in the birth rate of between 5.9 percent and 9.6 percent since 1980.

Superintendent Robert Hughes said growth should be viewed in a positive manner. He once told a group of parents that he preferred the difficulties associated with growth to that of dwindling enrollments, teacher layoffs and school closings that some school districts face.

Hughes was elected to his third term as superintendent in 1988, capturing 68 percent of the vote. His term ends in November 1991, as do the terms of board vice-chairman Nancy Warren and member Joe Williams. Board chairman Ann Neiswender and members Pat Telson and Larry Betsinger will not seek reelection in the fall as their terms expire.

During the past year, the board has developed a new five-year building program.

The last such program is in its final stages. It was financed via a $105 million voter-approved bond, and grew to $130 million due to interest earned and other revenue added.

As a result, the district has added an elementary school, completed additions and renovations at 13 schools, and is in the midst of such projects at 29 other schools.

The board has discussed and will continue to study impact fees

(though they have been the subject of some controversy in other districts), a new, smaller bond issue may be proposed.

Connections made easy

From staff reports

Here's a list of agencies or companies you might have to deal with sooner or later, if you move to central Florida.

● Florida Power & Light Co.: A $130 deposit is required. For a place with established service, there's a $12.82 service charge for a reconnection. If it's a new meter installation, there's an additional service charge which will be determined by FPL at the time the deposit is made. Deposits may be made in person or by mail and cash or personal checks are acceptable forms of payment. Usually service can be connected in one day. For more information, call 629-1010.

● School enrollment: A child entering kindergarten must reach his 6th birthday by Jan. 1, of the current school year. To find out what school your children will attend, call the county school system administrative offices at 322-1252, extension 205. School assignments are based on the custodial parent's legal address. Parents must show proof of residence, such as a deed or lease agreement.

Proof of age must be shown for children entering kindergarten or first grade for the first time in Florida. Some record of the birth is required; a birth certificate is preferred. Students of any age registering in Florida schools for the first time must show proof of immunization against polio, diphtheria, whooping cough, tetanus, measles — both rubella and rubola — and mumps. Proof may be a military shot record, a doctor's shot record, a doctor's letter, or a public health form, which most pediatricians have.

● Voter registration: You may register at either the supervisor of elections office at the courthouse in Sanford or at one of several annex offices around the county. You must be 18 to vote, though you may register before your 18th birthday if you will be 18 by the next election day.

There is no residency time requirement. No proof of residence is required. If the elections supervisor deems it's necessary, proof of age, such as a birth certificate or a driver's license, will be required. An oath is administered in which the person

Seminole County abundant with recreational opportunities

From staff reports

SANFORD — Athletic and recreational diversions for Seminole County residents are abundant.

Three national sporting events call Sanford home.

The Golden Age Games began 15 years ago as the first sports competition for adults age 55 and older. The event is sponsored by the Greater Sanford Chamber of Commerce. Post cereals and 30 local organizations.

About 3,000 seniors from across the country compete in 38 sporting events during one week in November. The games will be held this year Nov. 5 through Nov. 11 at various sites in Sanford, Lake Mary and Longwood.

The Red Lobster Citrus Cup, the largest inland regatta in the country, first sailed on Lake Monroe in 1975. Nearly 600 boats will compete in the amateur event Dec. 1 through Dec. 3.

The great Southern Air Race takes off from Sanford Regional Airport. This year 42 planes raced 1,000 nautical miles from Sanford to Freeport, the Bahamas. The pilots competed for more than $20,000 in the three-day event.

TENNIS

Public tennis courts are available at the following Sanford parks, sunrise to sunset or later if lighted: Fort Mellon Park, Chase Park, Pinehurst, 8th Street, Lee P. Moore Park, Sunland, 25th Street and Chase Avenue.

Other public courts located around Seminole County are: Eastmonte Recreation Center, South Longwood Avenue, Altamonte Springs; Red Bug Lake Park, State Road 426, east of Casselberry; and Sanlando Park, off Douglas Road in Altamonte Springs.

The private clubs in the Sanford and Lake Mary area include: the Bayhead Racquet Club in Lake Mary; Club at the Crossings, Sanford; and the Heathrow Country Club off Lake Mary Blvd. near I-4. Others in the county are: Sabal Point Country Club, Longwood; Tusawilla Country Club, Winter Springs; and the Sweetwater Country Club, west Seminole County.

GOLF

Public and semi-private golf courses include: Mayfair Country Club Golf Course, Sanford; Casselberry Golf and Country Club, Casselberry; Deer Run Country Club, Casselberry; Sabal Point Country Club, Longwood; Seminole Golf Club, Longwood; Sweetwater Country Club, Longwood; Winter Springs Golf Course, Winter Springs; Tusawilla Country Club Golf Course, Winter Springs; Ekana Country Club, Oviedo; Sanford Airport Golf Driving Range, Sanford; Glen Abbey Golf Course, DeBary, semi-private; and Deltona Hills Golf and Country Club, Deltona.

Private courses include: Alauqua Country Club, Longwood; the Country Club at Heathrow; Rolling Hills Golf Club, Longwood; Timacuan Golf and Country Club, Lake Mary; and Wekiva Golf Club, Longwood.

FOR CHILDREN

For the children, the Sanford Recreation Department offers leagues in baseball, softball and basketball.

The age groups for boys wishing to play baseball are: Pee Wee — 6 to 9; Little Major — 10 to 12, and Junior Major — 13-14. Girls ages 10 to 12 play in the Lassie softball league with the 13 to 16-year-olds playing in the Junior division. Boys basketball is divided into 10-12 and 13-15 age groups. Call 330-5697 for more information.

Four cities in Seminole County have Little League programs run through their recreation department. They are Altamonte Springs at 862-0092; Casselberry, 831-3551, ext. 260; Oviedo at 365-7425; and Longwood, at 260-0392.

Pony Baseball competition is also available at the Five Points Complex on State Road 419, just south of Sanford, and at the West Seminole Complex on Maple Street in Altamonte Springs.

During the summer, the Sanford Recreation Department sponsors activities for children ages 8-13 at the following locations: Lee P. Moore Park and Fort Mellon Park. During the school year, after-school programs are offered at the elementary schools.

OUTDOORS

Seminole is bounded by waterways on all but its southern border. The Wekiva and St. Johns rivers, and Lakes Jesup and Monroe form most of the boundaries and fishermen generally angle for bass and speckled perch. If the fisherman lives in the county and is using live bait and no reel, a fishing license is not needed.

Canoeing is popular along the Wekiva River. Canoes can be rented at Katties' Wekiva River Landing on State Road 46 by the hour or for the day. They also offer canoe runs of 6 to 19 miles.

Canoes are also available at Wekiva Springs State Park near Apopka. The 6,400-acre state park rents canoes by the hour or day. There are also nature trails, picnic sites and camp sites.

Another way to trek via river is by taking an excursion trip on the Romance, a river boat out of the Sanford Marina offering lunch, dinner and overnight cruises.

Those who like to camp out, but not too far from civilization, can pitch tents at Katties' Wekiva River Landing, Wekiva Falls, the Town and Country Recreation Park, Sanford, or Twelve Oaks Recreation Park on SR 46, west of Sanford.

"Primitive" camp sites are available at Seminole County's Mullet Lake Park, eight miles east of Sanford at SR 46. Improved sites are also available at Lake Mills Park on Third Street, Chuluota.

DOG RACING

There are three pari-mutuel establishments within five miles of each other. Both Longwood's Sanford-Orlando Kennel Club and Casselberry's Seminole Greyhounds Park along with Fern Park's Orlando-Seminole Jai-Alai Fronton operate their seasons at different times of the year.

Boom town

Tampa and Daytona Beach, there were no plans for a Lake Mary exit. It took the chamber four years to upgrade a sand road between U.S. 17-92 and the Interstate so that it could qualify as an exit.

The Lake Mary off-ramp exit was a prime factor in the subsequent growth of the area and the sand road is today called Lake Mary Boulevard. The heaviest-traveled, east-west corridor through the city. Plans are being made for its widening this year and will be the focus of an extensive beautification project including heavy landscaping.

During the 1960s and 1970s, Sanford and Longwood began to expand their boundaries and the Lake Mary chamber held meetings to incorporate the community. In August 1973, a referendum was passed by voters to form the city of Lake Mary.

Today, Lake Mary has an area of about 14 square miles and a population of about 5,686, the county's least-populated city.

Adjacent to the city is Heathrow, an affluent, self-contained community which has its own security system, shopping center and business complex.

Stromberg-Carlson and National Cash Register Corp., two of the largest employers in the county are located in Lake Mary.

Presently, city hall offices are located in The Shoppes At Lake Mary at the corner of Country Club Road and Lake Mary Boulevard. It is opened weekdays from 8 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. Services for residents include utilities and it is the location of the building zoning, finance department and all administrative offices.

The grand opening of a brand new $1.2 million city hall is planned for July 14 directly across Country Club Road from the present location. The new city hall is a 14,000 square foot colonial style building which features a 10 foot veranda across the front and park-type landscaping.

The idea for the new city hall building was brought up about three years ago when city commissioners discussed whether to relocate city hall offices from the old city hall building on Country Club Road into the Community Improvement Association Building along the same road instead of building a new city hall.

That idea was struck down and commissioners started looking for various sites in 1987. Commissioners struggled with the decision of the site being on Rinehart Road or in the downtown area. They selected the site on the northwest corner of Country Club Road and Crystal Lake Avenue, a total of 7.5 acres when combined with another piece of land.

The two-story city hall fronts Seminole Avenue on Lakeview Avenue between 4th Street and Country Club Road increasing the desirable exposure to Lake Mary Boulevard.

As for the old city hall building at 158 North Country Club Road, a $95,000 grant is being sought from the state Division of Historical Resources to turn the building into a historical museum and meeting place.

In September of last year, a new public works/public safety complex became operational. Located on Rinehart Road in the western side of the city, the building is the headquarters for approximately 30 city employees consisting of the police, fire and public works departments.

This $1 million project illustrates the affect burgeoning growth has had on Lake Mary. The more people there are, the more intensive must be the services to the community and this new complex will contribute to the efficiency of public services greatly needed in a rapidly growing city.

The site for the public safety/works complex was selected with this growth in mind, between 1st and Rinehart Road on the northwest side and Lake Emma Road on the southwest side.

City leaders say the new complex has greatly increased services to that end of town as well as increasing the efficiency of the police and public works departments which now have generous work areas.

The Lake Mary Police, established in 1976 had been housed in a facility on East Wilbur Avenue, while the public works department had been located in a small metal building next to the city water plant on Rinehart Road. The Lake Mary Fire Department moved its headquarters to the complex and while the fire station at 195 N. First Street has been closed, thoughts have been advanced toward establishing an additional fire station on the eastern side of the city. As of January 6, the Fire Department hired nine full time paid firefighters to staff the new station.

Development of new parks is another project brought about by the growth of Lake Mary. The city has agreed to purchase 35 acres of land between Country Club Road and Timacuan for use as an "active park," with ball diamonds, tennis courts and other recreational facilities. On the opposite side of Country Club Road from that location, the city will create Liberty Park, a passive area with nature and jogging trails as well as picnic tables.

On West Lake Mary Boulevard, the new 22,492 square foot post office opened in September of 1989, a far cry in work space from the former 2,900 square foot building in the downtown area.

Lake Mary became the first city in Seminole County to begin a curbside recycling program. In October of last year, Western Waste began collecting recyclable materials outside each home, with the 14 gallon bins being picked up twice each week.

The city recently adopted new wastewater user rates lowering sewer fees to $3.50 per 1,000 gallons of water consumed from $3.90 per 1,000 gallons of water consumed. Except for Timacuan, a pocket of land off Lake Emma Road and The Forest, which is an all-adult community, most of the area uses a septic system. A maximum sewer bill would be $35 per month.

Water is provided by the city. Proposed water rates are $5.94 per month or a maximum of $19.80 per month.

Lake Mary is served by the Seminole County School District.

swears he is qualified to vote. If he's registered in another Florida county or another state, he will be asked to turn in his card or provide information so the prior registration can be cancelled. Call 321-1130 if you have specific questions.

●Homestead exemption: Florida homeowners are given a property tax exemption on the first $25,000 valuation of their home, if they claim it. The home must be occupied by the party claiming the exemption. No more than one exemption is permitted per family. Homeowners must register with the property appraiser's office between Jan. 1 and March 1. You will have to provide the appraiser's office with proof of residence (such as a driver's license) and a copy of your deed, which is returned after information is taken from it.

If you bought a new house after the homestead qualifying deadline, you would only be paying taxes on the vacant land for the remainder of that year and could qualify for the exemption the following year. If you bought a used house and the previous owner had claimed homestead, you would get the benefit of that exemption for the remainder of the year and could qualify for your own exemption the following year.

For more information call the county government offices at 321-1130 and ask for the property appraiser's office.

●Property taxes: Property tax bills are mailed the first week of November each year. A four percent discount is offered for bills paid by the end of November, three percent in December, two percent in January, one percent in February, no discount in March. Bills become delinquent after April 1. If your mortgage company is collecting taxes as part of your monthly payment and holding them in escrow the original bill will be sent to them and you will receive a copy.

●Telephone: There are two companies which service Seminole County, in some areas the service areas overlap.

United Telephone: No deposit is required on residential service if you have had a telephone anywhere in the county and a good credit history with that company. For those who have never had a telephone before or had a poor credit history with another telephone company, deposits start at $50. Installation charges are $46.25 for the first line. Additional lines are installed at the same location for a fee which varies depending on a number of factors.

If you have questions about specific services or options, call United Telephone at 339-1811.

Southern Bell: On residential service, if you have had a telephone before anywhere in the county and had a good credit history with that company, no deposit will be required. If you have never had a telephone or have a poor credit history, a deposit is required. The minimum deposit is $50.

If there have been telephones in the house or apartment before, the installation charge is $14.50. If there has never been a telephone in the unit before — as with a new house — there's a $79 connection fee. Installation is normally done within three days of placing the order. If you have questions about specific services or options, call Southern Bell at 780-2355.

●Drivers licenses: You must obtain a Florida Driver's License once you 1) take a job, 2) enroll your children in school, 3) register to vote, or 4) claim the homestead exemption. You have 30 days to obtain a license from whenever you take any of these four steps. Licenses are issued for four years and expire at midnight on your birthday. Even if you have a valid driver's license from another state, you will be required to take a written examination plus undergo a vision check at a cost of $19. If you have a valid Florida license and wish to update your address, there is a $1 charge. You will be charged $5 if you have lost your valid license. If you don't have a license or your out-of-state license has expired, you also will have to take a driving test. For the standard operator's license, the renewal fee is $15. For more information call 323-0161.

●Vehicle license plates: You must purchase a vehicle license plate immediately if you 1) become employed in the state, 2) enroll children in school, or 3) claim the homestead exemption. The cost of the automobile plates graduated upward according to the car's weight. Plates are good for one year. They expire at midnight on your birth date. Persons who are new to the state must bring proof of insurance, their drivers license and the vehicle so that the ID number can be verified. Those moving from other counties within the state need not get a new plate until their next birthday.

●Mail: Your post office on this end of your move will deliver mail to you if it's properly addressed to you. You'll have a problem if you didn't leave a forwarding address with the post office that last served you. If no forwarding address was left, your mail would be held for 10 days, then returned to the sender with the notation that no forwarding address was available. If you didn't leave a forwarding address, get a change of address card at any post office and mail it to your old post office.

The school district is a progressive one in which there is a strong emphasis on sex education, anti-drug information and AIDS education. In the classroom in addition to a curriculum that includes many advanced placement courses.

A recent study by an independent research

On college entrance exams, Seminole County students repeatedly exceed state, regional and national averages.

Four hospitals supply quality health care in county

Seminole County has four hospitals offering a variety of health care services. They are:

● Central Florida Regional Hospital, located on U.S. Highway 17-92, facing Lake Monroe, in Sanford.

The 226-bed hospital is owned by Hospital Corporation of America.

New construction is currently being planned to begin in January of 1991 on a two story structure to be added on the east side of CFRH. The new area will allow expansion of ambulatory surgery, and expansion of the labor and delivery area of the obstetrics unit. CFRH will also be able to enlarge its records unit and provide additional office spaces. A proposal for financing the $5 million project has been forwarded to the parent corporation for approval.

The hospital was opened in 1982 and has a medical staff of 115, representing all the major specialties, and a professional nursing staff of 300.

● South Seminole Community Hospital, State Road 434, Longwood, opened in 1984 and has since constructed two medical office buildings.

The hospital has recently applied for certification to establish a 15-bed skilled nursing unit. It has also instituted a pulmonary rehabilitation program, a mobile lithotripsy kidney stone treatment program and electro shock wave lithotripsy (ESWL).

Additional services include total joint replacements for knees and hips, physical therapy, business health services a computerized pharmacy and pharmacokinetic medication dosing service. Prostate seminars and 55 Alive driving seminar are held monthly.

The hospital employs 350 full- and part-time employees and sponsors numerous community education classes on topics ranging from smoking cessation to cardiopulmonary resuscitation (CPR).

● West Lake Hospital, 589 State Road 434, just west of South Seminole Community Hospital, Longwood, is an 80-bed psychiatric hospital owned by Hospital Corporation of America. The hospital opened in 1984.

A private hospital, it has separate units for children, adolescents, adults and seniors. Services include evaluations and programs, psychiatry, chemical dependency and abuse, geared to each age group.

● Florida Hospital Al- tamonte, 601 State Road 436, Altamonte Springs opened in 1973 as a 220-bed satellite of Florida Hospital Orlando, and has since added a new 74-bed patient wing.

The hospital offers outpatient and diagnostic services. Surgical specialties include microsurgery, limb replatation, cardiac catheterization, neurosurgery, plastic and reconstructive surgery, general surgery, urology and magnetic resonance imaging.

The hospital also includes a Level III Trauma and Emergency Care Center, cardiology services, ancillary support from laboratory services, physical and respiratory therapy and an 11-bed pediatrics unit.

A cancer treatment center opened in 1986 and the hospital's prenatal center offers a variety of services.

Sanford became known as the celery center of the world until the middle 1940s, when the growing of celery moved to the muck farms of Zellwood and South Florida.

During World War

II, the U.S. Navy established an air base at what is now the Central Florida Regional Airport. After the war, the base was closed and then reactivated in the early 1950s. It was a major installation until the mid-1960s, when the Navy relocated it in Albany, Ga.

The airport has renovated its terminal and expanded hangars and ramp space as the facility continues to grow. The Federal Aviation Administration certified the airport for passenger and carrier flights in 1989.

private citizens who restored it and maintained it until 1987 when the Central Florida Society became responsible for its maintenance.

The city currently has a population of approximately 15,060.

It has experienced rapid growth in recent years, more than tripling in population in the past 12.

Longwood has a blend of young families and senior citizens.

During the past few years the city has developed new Public Works and Water Department facilities, a new Central Fire Department, both on West Warren Avenue, and a new Police Center on Milwee Street.

The City of Longwood encourages clean, managed growth, and was the second city in Seminole County to establish complete solid waste recycling on April 21 of this year.

At the present time, an in-depth study, called "Visions", is underway to determine what Longwood will be by the year 2005, and public input is being sought to determine the "Best Case Scenario" for the city. This will be used as a guideline in planning for future growth and community needs.

Longwood has a City Administrator/Commission form of government, with five Commissioners representing the five districts. The elections for city office are held in November.

Citizens are invited to attend commission meetings which are held 7 p.m., the first and third Mondays of the month at 175 W. Warren Ave. in Longwood.

MEDICAL OFFICE OF JOHN F. SCHAEFFER M.D., P.A. ORTHOPEDIC SURGERY

WHAT IS ORTHOPAEDIC SURGERY? Orthopaedic surgery is the specialty of medicine which treats a wide variety of musculo-skeletal problems. Musculo-skeletal includes bones, joints, tendons, muscles and ligaments, all of which can be injured, worn out, or diseased. Fractures, joint arthritis, hand and foot problems, spine trouble as well as sports medicine all are included in the specialty of orthopaedic surgery. Beginning with infants up to senior citizens, orthopaedic surgery includes people of all ages with a wide variety of muscle, joint and bone problems. Orthopaedic surgeons use a wide variety of diagnostic and treatment options to help their patients. First a thorough history is taken from the patient and then a physical exam performed. Often times x-rays, sometimes specialized physical therapy, splints or casts or surgery. The main goal of the orthopaedic surgeon is to relieve pain and obtain the best possible function for that patient's problem. Usually, less than 10% of all patients require any surgery for their orthopaedic problem.

OUR PRACTICE! Our orthopaedic surgeons are exceptionally well educated and trained physicians in bone, joint and muscle problems. They have completed 4 years of college and 4 years of medical school. In addition to this they have spent between 5 to 7 years of extra training just in orthopaedic surgery. This is an intense training period in which time the physician becomes an expert in the treatment of all bone, joint, spine and extremity problems. Dr. Schaeffer and Dr. Smigielski specialize in the area of total joint replacement as well as a variety of general orthopaedics. Ranging from simple fractures requiring a splint, up through complex joint replacement surgery and spine surgery. This educational training is available to help you whether your problem is simple or quite complex. Dr. Smigielski's last year of training was spent instructing orthopaedic residents in the area of total joint replacement. Our surgeons participate in a wide variety of HMO and PPO plans offered today. The surgeons accept assignment on Medicare claims and the billing office assists in the filing of most supplemental insurances. If you suffer with persistent pain to a joint or extremity we advise you to see an orthopaedist early rather than later. The sooner you seek help, the sooner you will be pain free and back to your normal state of activity.
