WIN AT BRIDGE

By Phillip Alder

Where does the word "cybernetics" come from? Some bridge experts play like robots, grinding out one percentage play after another. Others use table presence to help them find the winning line even if it isn't the "correct" play according to the cybernauts.

After West led the spade king, how should South have planned the play in four hearts?

The South with table presence won with dummy's spade ace, drew trumps, cashed dummy's diamond king, played a diamond to his queen and then finessed dummy's diamond 10. When it held, he nodded knowingly and cashed the diamond ace, discarding his spade loser. A club to the nine lost to West's 10, so the contract made exactly.

The cybernaut shook his head disappointingly. He had seen the right line of play. After winning with the spade ace and drawing trumps, South should cash the three top diamonds. If the jack appears, the contract is safe. But when the jack doesn't drop, South ruffs dummy's last diamond before exiting with his remaining spade. Whichever opponent wins the trick must either concede a ruff-and-discard or open up the clubs. In both cases, South has only two club losers and wins 10 tricks.

Norman Wiener, the American mathematical logician who was the founder of cybernetics, said, "We have decided to call the entire field of control and communication theory, whether in the machine or in the animal, by the name of Cybernetics, which we form from the Greek $\frac{1}{2}$ for $\frac{1}{2}$ steersman."

Young explorers celebrate Columbus

Students at St. Peter's Episcopal Church kindergarten spent Columbus Day doing some exploring of their own. Rather than sailing the ocean blue in the Nina, the Pinta and the Santa Maria, the youngsters boarded a boat operated by the St. John's River Cruises and explored the natural beauty of our area. At top, Capt. Robert Hopkins led the youngsters on the expedition. Center, Spenser Moreland was among the youngsters who took to the water in the boat. As they sailed off into the midday sun, the kids knew that, if nothing else, they'd find fun as they explored the region.

New lease on life of land

By NICK PFEIFAU

SANFORD — Sanford commissioners have finalized two lakefront leases, ending years of tenuous business dealings that included past due rent and bankruptcy.

Investors and/or corporations may own the buildings on Monroe Harbour Marina, but the city of Sanford owns the land. The building owners therefore, pay a certain amount of rent to the city.

That is the general intent. Regarding the property on which the Marina Hotel is located (former Holiday Inn), however, the city has had difficulties collecting.

After several years of attempting to collect past-due payments, then litigation, and considerable discussion, the city almost lost ownership of the property. Finally, a new lease has been arranged.

SANFORD — The summer-like weather will continue to drench Seminole County for at least a few more days, according to officials at the National Weather Service in Orlando.

"Don't put your umbrella and your galoshes away until at least the end of the week," a spokesman for the weather service said this morning. "The weather pattern will stay as is for at least a couple more days."

While today's rain chance remains high at about 70 percent, the chance drops to 30 percent tonight and only rises to about 40 percent tomorrow.

Weather prognosticators believe the rains, the heat and the high humidity will continue to torture us through about Friday when the skies will begin to clear. Temperatures are not expected to drop much over the next few weeks though they will start creeping down a bit as Halloween approaches, Weather Service officials predict.

SANFORD — The Sanford City Commission officially approved an Economic Development Incentive Program last night. An ordinance was adopted on second reading by a unanimous vote.

After the adoption, the city agreed to its first assistance.

The aim of the program, according to the wording of the ordinance, is "...to encourage the development of strong, healthy, commercial/industrial activity for the city of Sanford." It is also designed to help increase the tax base.

The program will provide financial assistance to businesses or industries which may need capital for development, aimed primarily at providing jobs for local citizens.

To be eligible for such financial help, the ordinance requires that the business must be located within the immediate city, especially areas of need, or with the prospect that the businesses will create at least 10 full time equivalent jobs for every $20,000 of city assistance.

The jobs would have to have a salary of at least $15,000 per year, and be expected to last at least five years.

City Manager Bill Simmons said the money will come from reserve funds.

After approval of the Economic Development Incentive Program last night, the city also

NAACP to elect president

EUSTIS — The Florida branch of the NAACP will elect a new president this weekend in Bradenton, replacing Tom Poole of Eustis who has headed the civil rights group for 10 years.

But Poole's handpicked successor, Leon Russell, has run into opposition from some members who say the 20,000-member Florida chapter of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People needs a new direction.

"Now that Poole is stepping down, it is time to put a new twist on the NAACP," said Charlie Matthews, who is also running for Poole's post.

Under Poole, the civil-rights group ignored smaller branches in favor of those in large cities, said Matthews, 50, who's president of the St. Lucie County NAACP branch and works at a Fort Pierce bank.

Russell, who has served as a vice president of the state NAACP for 15 years, and Poole have also failed to involve young people in leadership, Matthews said.

But Russell said Poole led the organization from being a voice of protest to a respected statewide political force.

"I want to stay the course in terms of our fight for access to the world of politics," said Russell, 45, who is human relations director for Pinellas County.

Poole, 66, a retired Lake County science teacher, is leaving because of age and the demands of the job.

Kerr faces dishonorable discharge

PATRICK AIR FORCE BASE — Fostering a subordinate's wife and driving drunk will cost Air Force Lt. Col. Raymond Kerr six months in prison and a dishonorable discharge.

Kerr, the former head of security at this Atlantic seaboard base, which often hosts America's astronauts, will serve his sentence at Leavenworth federal penitentiary in Kansas. He was convicted Saturday and sentenced Sunday after a weeklong court martial.

Kerr, who faced up to 6 1/2 years in prison, will lose all military and veterans benefits accrued during 23 years of service, officials said.

Kerr was convicted of two counts of indecent assault and driving under the influence of alcohol for his actions May 5 at the home of an airman under his command.

Kerr had been drinking before driving to the house and accosting the woman, whose husband was working. Kerr was arrested that night and later relieved of his duties.

The court martial panel, composed of seven colonels, acquitted Kerr of two other sexual misconduct complaints in connection with separate incidents April 21 at the enlisted men's club.

Opal causes catastrophic damages

TALLAHASSEE — Damage estimates from Hurricane Opal continued to mount, leading an insurance group to predict Florida's hurricane catastrophe fund would be dipped into.

The Florida Windstorm Underwriting Association is an industry-backed windstorm pool providing coverage along the state's coast. It estimated its loss at $250 million to $300 million, said the Florida Insurance Council.

Such a loss would allow the association to draw up to $74.7 million from the state's two-year-old catastrophe fund, the council said.

By year's end, the tax-exempt trust fund is expected to have a balance of $660 million. The money comes from premiums paid by insurance companies and could be leveraged to raise an estimated $5.2 billion, if needed.

But any withdrawal from the fund reduces the money available for future storms, and today forecasters were watching Hurricane Roxanne churn up the western Caribbean much as Opal did before attacking the Florida Panhandle and moving inland.

However, an insurance council officer said a withdrawal may not make much difference.

"If they take $75 million out of $5 billion and that's all they take — no, it's not significant," said vice president Sam Miller.

"If this trickle turns into a flood — and I honestly don't think it is — that would be significant."

Opal's insured losses have been estimated at $1.8 billion, but the count continued Monday. Another more detailed estimate is expected by early next week.

NEWS FROM THE REGION AND ACROSS THE STATE

Graham's future
Senator doesn't rule out a run for governor

By BRENT KALLESTAD
Associated Press Writer

TALLAHASSEE — U.S. Sen. Bob Graham, who had hoped Georgia Sen. Sam Nunn would stay in Washington, did not rule out a run for governor as he said Monday he was uncertain whether he will stay in the Senate.

"I'm not going to make any decision about my future for another year and a half or so," Graham said.

Graham, Florida's most popular Democratic officeholder, didn't say if he would retire from politics if he chose not to seek re-election.

Nunn's announcement Monday not to seek a fifth term was another blow to Democratic Party hopes to regain control of the Senate in 1990.

Graham, 58, was elected to the Senate in 1986 after serving eight years as Florida's governor. He has never ruled out another bid for governor to help Democrats shore up their weakening position in state politics.

The Miami Lakes lawmaker is up for re-election for a third term to the Senate in 1988, which coincides with the Florida governor's race. Incumbent Gov. Lawton Chiles is constitutionally prohibited from seeking a third consecutive term.

Republican Jeb Bush, who narrowly lost to Chiles in the 1994 governor's race, is considered a shoo-in to recapture his party's nomination, while Lt. Gov. Buddy MacKay was certain to have the governor's backing if Graham were not in the picture.

"It's a little early for all the what-ifs?" MacKay said Monday, adding that Graham's plans wouldn't have an effect on his decision. "He's got to make those decisions for himself."

Graham admitted the Senate can be exasperating at times.

"Both parties have moved away from each other," he said. "Life is filled with frustrations and this is not an exception."

But Graham left little doubt he likes being among the action.

"Being governor is like being the quarterback," Graham said. "The ball is in your hands and you can call a play."

"This job is like being the athletic director in an air-conditioned office," he continued. "You're removed from the actual combat and it takes several years to determine if you're right or wrong. And you can also fudge responsibility a little bit."

Graham said Florida would be a battleground state for the presidency next year, particularly if Bob Dole has the Republican nomination.

"(President) Clinton is going to lose some states he carried in '92," said Graham. "He needs to have replacement electoral votes."

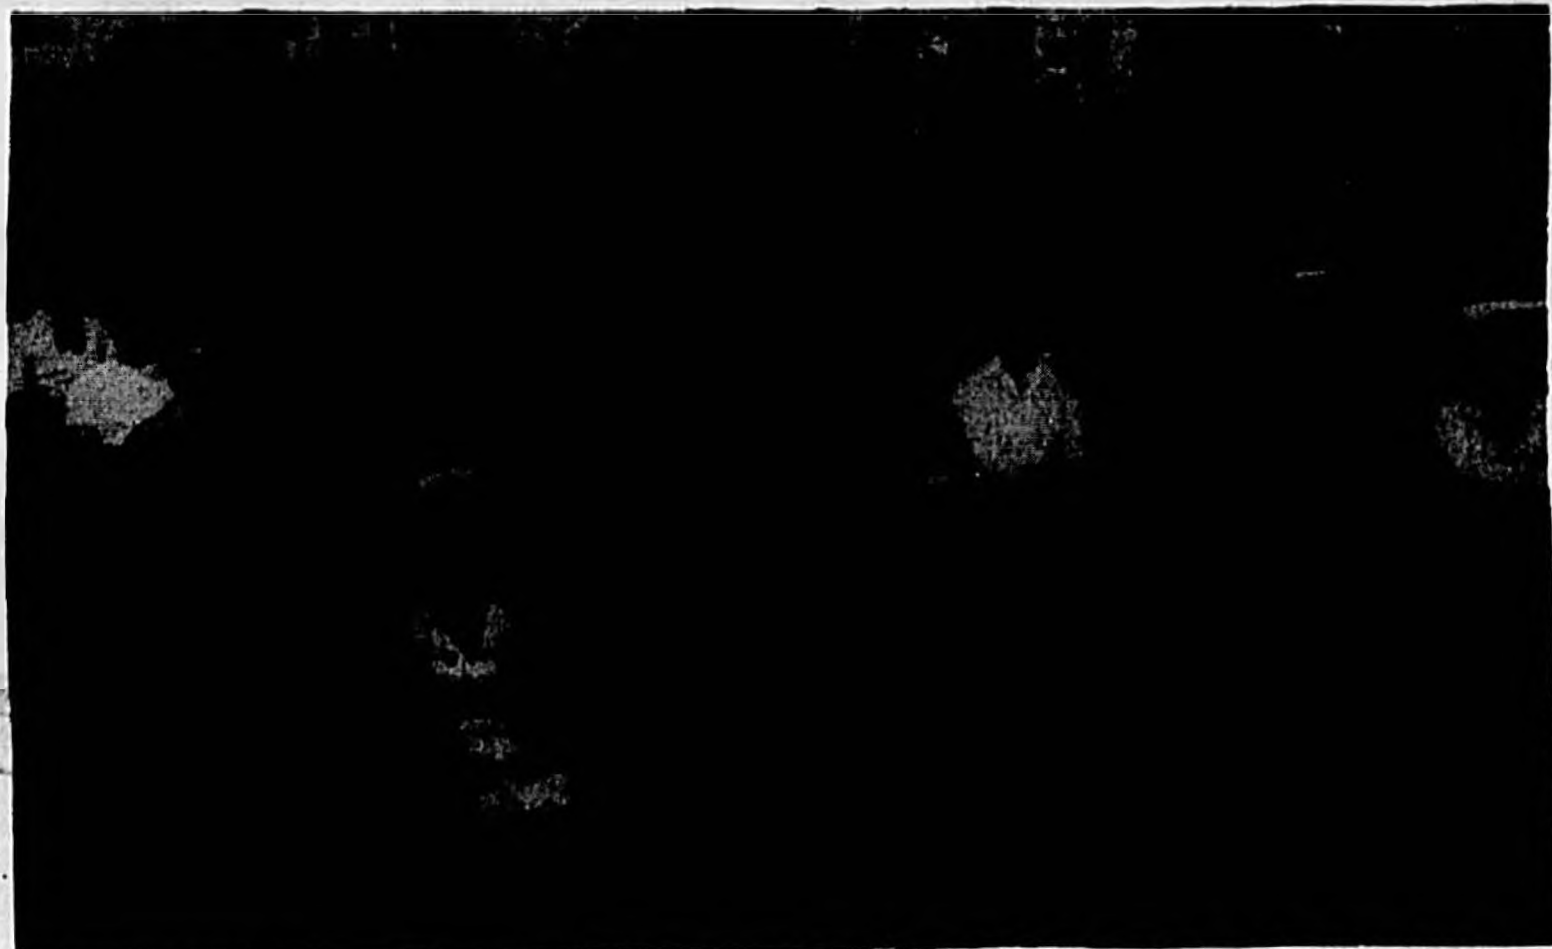

Clinton managed 39 percent of the vote in Florida in his 1992 victory, to trail former President Bush by just two percentage points. Ross Perot had almost 20 percent.

But Graham said Clinton may be the most moderate candidate in the race, particularly if the GOP selects a nominee viewed as more extreme.

"The presidential election will be a referendum whether people want to have major changes," Graham said. "If so, they'll elect a president who'll give these changes to them."

Graham has spent a 10-day Senate recess trying to build support against Republican efforts to slash federal entitlement programs like Medicare. He returns Tuesday to Washington.

Chiles says federal budget decreases will cost states millions

By BILL BERSTROM
Associated Press Writer

TALLAHASSEE — Even as Florida cleans up after Hurricane Opal, the state needs to brace for another kind of blow, this from Congress, Gov. Lawton Chiles warned social services and community leaders from around the state.

"The map ... as we know it in Florida is going to be changed just like Opal changed the beach lines out on the coast," Chiles told several hundred people Monday at a conference on potential federal budget changes.

Budget bills being debated for the Oct. 1 federal fiscal year could cost Florida communities $335 million in Medicaid money, $69 million for highways, $56 million in education grants, $50 million in housing money and $42 million for youth summer job training, conference participants learned.

Congressional leaders say they'll give local officials more decision-making power, said Chiles, a Democrat.

"What you don't see is that they are taking some overall very wide cuts, pushing the problem back on the state and local governments and saying it's yours to solve," he said.

"They're going to get credit for balancing the federal budget; we're going to get the heavy end of the stick. That's the way the world is looking right now."

The Republican-majority Congress is nearing decision time on GOP budget-reduction proposals that Democrats say would hurt the poor, the elderly and the young.

About $32 billion separates House and Senate proposals. Two House members from Florida — Republican Clay Shaw and Democrat Sam Gibbons — are among those named to a conference committee to try to settle the differences.

The Senate is expected to Prison work hazardous to health

By The Associated Press

TALLAHASSEE — Working at a Florida prison can be hazardous to your health.

Prison inmates attacked guards and other employees 622 times in the first six months of 1995, the state says. If that level of violence continues, being a prison employee will be nearly twice as dangerous as it was five years ago.

The rate of attacks on staff will be 20 per 1,000 inmates if the second half of 1995 is as violent as the first, state figures show. In 1990, there were 10.5 attacks for every 1,000 inmates.

Last year, there were 933 assaults on guards and other staff members for a rate of 17 attacks for every 1,000 inmates.

The turnover rate is 25 to 30 percent among the state's 13,000 correctional officers because of low wages and tough surroundings, said Harry Singletary, secretary of the state Department of Corrections.

"We have more violent inmates today, and they're serving longer sentences," Singletary said. "We're going to need additional staffing, or we're going to be in deep trouble."

But state Sen. Charlie Crist, R-St. Petersburg, disagrees that the problems stem from a paucity of resources.

This year's budget gives the prison system up to 3,000 new corrections officers and an additional $75 million, said Crist, who chairs the Senate Ways and Means Subcommittee on Criminal Justice.

The Corrections Department's budget is $1.48 billion to handle 63,000 inmates; a 5.4 percent increase from last year.

Despite the healthy budget, most state prisons still have the least number of employees allowed by law.

For example, at the Zephyrhills Correctional Institution, 20 to 25 correctional officers are on duty at any one time. They must handle as many as 734 inmates, many of whom have been transferred there because of their violent behavior at other prisons.

Another problem, said Joe Weeks, assistant superintendent of the Avon Park Correctional Institution, is that almost 75 percent of Florida's prisoners are held in dormitories, which are cheaper to construct than individual cells.

"You've got a more volatile situation in an open-bay dorm," Weeks said.

name committee members by Tuesday.

Wholesale spending curbs may be shortsighted, said Kenneth Koch, 88, of Fort Myers, a volunteer for Senior Volunteer Companions.

Federal money helps Koch and other volunteers care for Alzheimer's patients who want to stay home, saving the government the cost of housing them in institutions. "If we don't get our funds it won't happen," he said.

Worse for Florida, said state Elderly Affairs Secretary Bentley Lipcomb, would be proposed Medicaid benefit curbs — 10,000 to 24,000 Floridians now in nursing homes will be ejected.

"Those of you from cities and counties might want to think about where your police and sheriffs are going to take these people," said Lipcomb.

Communities may care for some patients, said Ramona Sheddoff of Boca Raton, a volunteer and legislative director for the Council of Senior Citizens.

"Others have families," she added. "Those families better understand that the structure of their lives will be changed because that's where whose elderly parents and grandparents will go."

Someone will have to pick up whatever costs the federal government sheds, Democratic U.S. Sen. Bob Graham said.

"This is essentially what I would describe as a bait-and-switch operation," Graham said. "They are shifting substantial responsibility, but substantially fewer resources to the states to carry out that responsibility."

Report: Mothers to get AIDS test data

By The Associated Press

NEW YORK — The results of AIDS tests given to all newborn babies in the state will soon be available to their mothers. The New York Times reported today.

The agreement, which state officials were expected to announce today, came as part of the settlement of a lawsuit and ends a long debate over the anonymity of AIDS test results.

New York state tests all infants for the AIDS virus, but the results are used only for statistical analysis and aren't disclosed to parents.

A positive HIV test in a newborn means the mother carries the virus. The state has kept results anonymous to preserve women's right to choose whether they want to know their HIV status.

Because of the policy, state officials believe that dozens and perhaps hundreds of parents leave hospitals each year without knowing that their babies are infected with HIV.

Under the planned policy, which the Pataki administration believes is a first in the nation, doctors will be required to advise new mothers that the test results are available to them.

The issue has angered civil libertarians who have raised questions about how the government might use the test results.

Gov. George Pataki and Attorney General Dennis Vacco have endorsed the settlement, the newspaper said.

Bright future

Sanford's lakefront took on a new lease on life last night. In fact, two leases, approved by the city commission for two of the major facilities at the Monroe Harbour Marina property.

Venture Thirty-Two, Inc., an Arizona corporation, now has control over the northwestern area, including the Marina Hotel. H.A. "Buddy" Duncan and Stephen F. Foreman have control over One Harbour Place, the building located on the northeastern part of the peninsula.

What is to become of these two areas has been the subject of discussions by city officials for several years, mostly involving the lack of payments to the city for land rentals on the motel/hotel property.

According to what has taken place in recent times, these problems have ended. While Duncan said he plans to continue allowing the One Harbour Place facility to be used for offices, he told the commission he would remain open minded for the future, with the possibility of making some changes when the island area is developed toward the west.

Duncan has already re-roofed the building and is now working on some of the structural walls and making other improvements. We see this as a good step forward in progress.

Regarding the hotel area, the Waterfront Steering Committee is seriously involved in working with the property owners with the intent of expanding the hotel to twice its present number of rooms, adding more facilities, and expanding the entire area. This is also seen as an excellent move.

In government discussions, public speeches, and written documents, we are constantly having people say that Sanford's best asset is the lakefront. Yes, few other cities have such a beautiful northern exposure.

Now, we see improvements going forward, and we hope they will continue to do so without any problems.

At this point in time, we commend Venture Thirty-Two, Inc., Harbour Place Partnership, the Waterfront Master Plan Steering Committee, Architectural planner Bruce Andersen, Sanford officials, and everyone who is working on improvements in this area of the city.

The people will be watching your progress.

The development of this lakefront area has been a point of talks, dreams and plans practically ever since Sanford became a city. Previous action has provided the sea wall and the marina complex with some already fine facilities. Now we see an even brighter future ahead. We hope we are not disappointed.

Mayor's appreciation

Sept. 21, 1995 culminated eight years of visioning, planning and just plain hard work in bringing about the opening of Seminole Towne Center, which at least doubles the total retail/commercial square footage in Sanford, adds about 25 percent (25%) to the total city tax base, and provides approximately 2,000 additional job opportunities. Surrounding developments owned by Seminole Towne Center developers and others will further significantly increase these statistics in the coming months. While this project clearly would not have happened without the developer, I firmly believe it could not have happened without the solid commitment of local government, including staff members who addressed the myriad of details supporting the broad policy in support of the project, volunteer members of appointed boards, especially Planning and Zoning, and city residents who voiced their support to their elected representatives. The opening of Seminole Towne Center is an unprecedented event in Sanford's history in which each resident of the city can feel a great sense of accomplishment.

This project has involved every department in the city. Activities included annexation, rezoning, Development of Regional Impact (DRI) approval, Community Redevelopment Agency (CRA) creation and bond sales, platting, site planning and development permitting, CRA infrastructure construction and landscaping, building permits and inspections, public safety planning, coordination with a full spectrum of other agencies and offices, and offering maximum new job opportunities to Sanford residents. Very significantly, this massive project has been completed on time and essentially within budget.

I cannot express adequately the extent of my admiration and appreciation for the commitment and personal dedication of each individual who was in any way involved in the success of this project. The achievement of city staff members is especially significant because all during this period of added workload, they continued to maintain other elements of service at the high levels which our residents have come to expect. I am very proud of them all.

China: A country of fear and horror

With the World Conference on Women over, the press pays a little attention to the Chinese government's terrorism against its people as it did before. And when will Hillary Clinton, Bella Abzug and the other influential women of the world speak of women in China doing forced labor for acts of political conscience?

Or, as Amnesty International noted in its June 1995 report on Women in China, who will try to help women "raped and sexually abused in custody, hideously tortured with a range of specially designed implements?"

How many Americans, for that matter, know or care that thousands of Chinese are executed every year, many for political "crimes." And -- as in the time of Robespierre -- death sentences in China, says Amnesty International, "are often decided in advance of the trial or by 'adjudication committees' whose decision is seldom challenged by the courts."

The prosecutors don't like any loose ends -- as in Stalin's courts -- confessions are frequent, even if they have to be extracted by torture.

During the huge concentration of reporters and cameras for the Fourth World Conference on Women, very little of the horrors of daily life for millions of Chinese were reported. The emphasis was on the inconveniences -- including surveillance -- inflicted on the visiting women by the government.

Nor did these paladins of women's rights spend much time on the subjugation of women in China while they were there. About a half million female infants are thrown out of their homes each year -- abandoned, placed in orphanages or killed. This is a country where females can be discarded with impunity.

There is a New York-based organization called Human Rights in China -- composed of Chinese scholars and scientists -- that gathers information from families there on what actually happens to its members.

How many Americans, for that matter, know or care that thousands of Chinese are executed every year, many for political crimes.

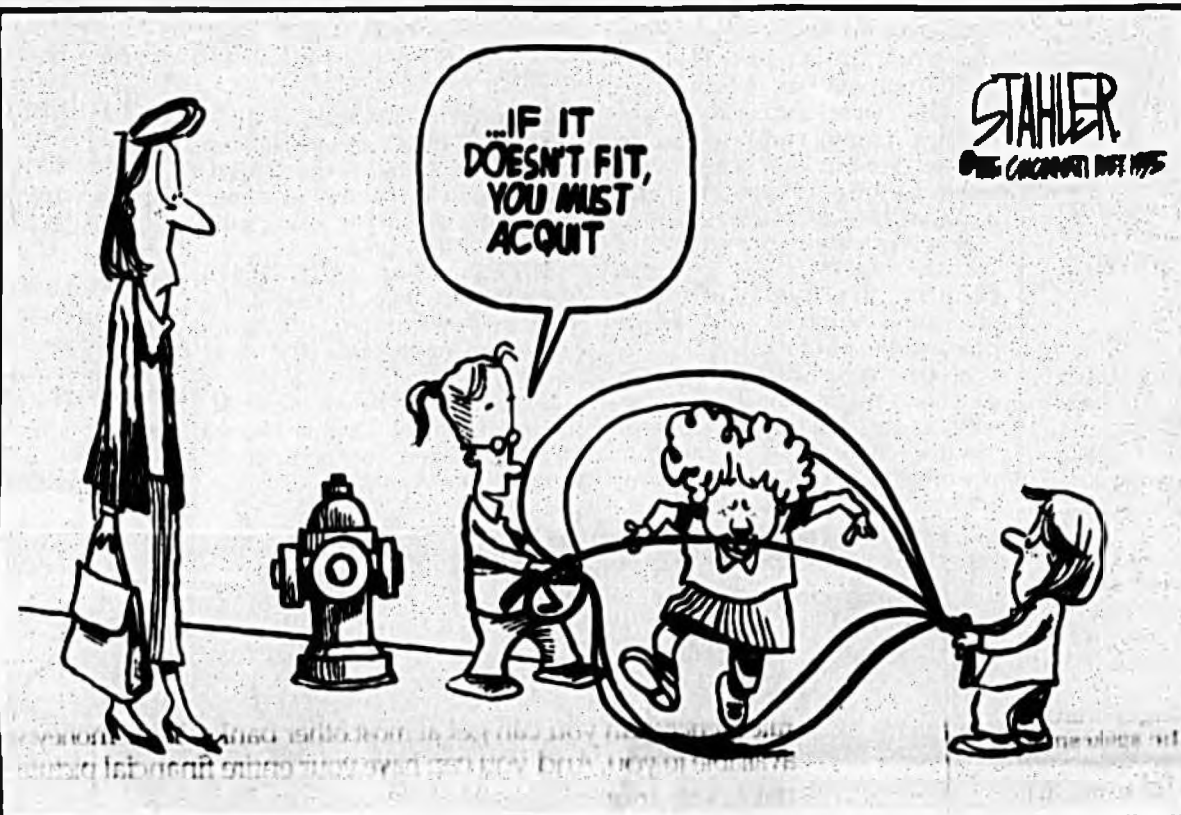

One of these witnesses tells of how the state -- implementing its policy that there can be only one child per family -- invaded her body when she was more than eight months pregnant:

"I was held down on the operating table. One doctor injected through my belly into my uterus formaldehyde liquid... Forty-eight hours later... I gave birth to a live boy. He had heartbeats, there was noise in his throat. He had a big head and lovely legs and arms... But the doctors immediately killed him while I watched helplessly. They then took him out to be thrown away."

But the Clinton administration, despite the horrifying state of human rights in China, is trying hard to "normalize" relations with that state. After all, profitable, increased trade is at stake.

But, it is said, as China becomes more of a consumer society, a demand for individual rights will not be far behind. Or is it more likely that consumer rights will be asked for and given -- while prisons and graves remain full of dissenters and female infants.

As we do more and more business with China, the screams of the imprisoned will not be heard beyond the gulf. It would be interesting to know what Colin Powell thinks of this way of dealing with China.

MORTON KONDRACKE

Cuts will worsen nursing homes

BALTIMORE -- Before they continue with plans to savage Medicaid, congressional Republicans should read the nursing home horror stories that come in to the federal government's "situation room" here.

The Republicans need to face up to the fact that if they go through with their planned "reforms" in poor people's health care, instances of abuse, neglect, broken bones, urine-soaked beds and filthy surroundings will multiply in the years to come.

Both the House Ways and Means Committee and the Senate Finance Committee have voted to repeal federal standards for nursing homes put into effect under legislation signed by President Ronald Reagan in 1987.

At the same time, they plan to reduce Medicaid funding growth by $182 billion over the next seven years -- or 20 percent -- meaning that states will have less to spend on, among other things, nursing home care for the aged poor or nursing home inspections.

The result is certain to be more cases like these, culled from reports submitted since July 1 to the Department of Health and Human Services' Health Care Finance Agency here:

-- In one Michigan nursing home, inspectors found eight residents who had suffered recent hip and arm fractures due to falls. One resident was found limping on what turned out to be an undiagnosed fractured hip. Another, just back from the hospital, was found lying unattended on a bathroom floor. A third was discovered on a dining room floor with head cuts requiring multiple stitches.

-- In Texas, a survey-taker encountered a staff member holding a mentally retarded resident in a headlock and forcing food into his mouth. When the resident began coughing on the food, the aide persisted in forcing it down, causing the resident to choke and collapse. Oxygen tanks at the nursing home did not work, and the patient had to be rushed to the hospital.

-- At another Texas facility, surveyors discovered several patients who had lost up to 32 pounds because they were refused appropriate food or "punished" for allegedly stealing food.

-- In an Indiana nursing home, a resident was hospitalized because of maggots and larvae found in a foot wound. Staff members said the home didn't have enough personnel to bathe patients regularly.

-- In a Michigan home, a patient suffering from infected sores was left untreated until the odor from the infected wound required use of a room deodorizer.

-- In separate Ohio, Maryland and Indiana homes, patients died -- in two cases because they were strangled after being placed improperly in restraints, and in the third because the unattended patient fell down a flight of stairs in a wheelchair.

Thanks partly to federal standards in effect since 1990, only about 2 percent of nursing home inspections turn up the worst categories of mistreatment or neglect, involving immediate jeopardy to residents' health or safety, but fully 76 percent of homes are judged "substandard" and are required to make improvements or face penalties.

"Substandard" care includes allowing patients to lie in unchanged adult diapers, failing to shave and wash them or allow them to exercise, permitting staff to be callous or disrespectful to residents, and offering inadequate training to staff in cleanliness and patient care.

The care given to nursing home residents is bound to deteriorate if the Republican plans to cut and block grant Medicaid go through. States will be allowed to set their own Medicaid funding levels, police nursing homes as they see fit, and will have less federal money to help finance the program.

Proposed reductions in spending increases for Medicare are the main focus of political combat in Washington, but the reductions in Medicaid are much deeper. The GOP wants to hold per capita Medicaid funding increases down to 1.4 percent, when medical inflation in the country is running at 5.3 percent.

Two-thirds of the nation's 1.5 million nursing home residents rely on Medicaid to pay for their care, which costs an average $38,000 a year. Most residents are elderly women who have exhausted their savings.

During last week's Senate Finance deliberations, when Sens. John Breaux, D-La., Bill Bradley, D-N.J., and John Chafee, R-R.I., appealed for federal standards to be maintained, Chairman William Roth, R-Del., repeatedly stated that governors could be trusted more than federal bureaucrats to do what's best for the poor.

But federal standards were established in the first place because some states routinely neglected services to the poor. Nursing home operators are powerful lobbies in many states and are often well represented among legislators.

In general, the GOP case for block grants and unfettered state authority is undermined by the examples of child welfare and education, which are currently almost entirely state areas of responsibility.

The care given to nursing home residents is bound to deteriorate if the Republican plans to cut and block grant Medicaid go through.

Campaign skirmish a joke

WASHINGTON -- Stung by a series of setbacks, the presidential campaign of Sen. Robert Dole, R-Kan., sought to recapture momentum last week among New Hampshire voters by shifting the debate with Sen. Phil Gramm from taxes to his Texas twang.

It might have worked had Dole's chief hatchet-man in New Hampshire, Rep. Bill Zelliff, R-N.H., not spoken with a forked tongue. The resulting flap is a poor parody of a political debate, but it may be only a preview of a long, silly campaign season.

Gramm has long made a self-deprecating remarks about his southern accent -- a fact that few knew better than Zelliff. Yet Zelliff feigned "the moral outrage of someone who had just witnessed a swastika spray-painted on the side of a New Hampshire church when Gramm repeated his joke during a recent appearance on CNN's "Inside Politics."

"We did a focus group in New Hampshire to begin to focus on issues and see what people thought when they heard my accent," Gramm quipped. "People in New Hampshire talk funny and therefore they think I talk funny." The Dole campaign fired off a press release with this screaming headline:

"ZELLIFF SLAMS GRAMM ON INSULT TO NH CITIZENS...Demands 'Immediate Texas-Size Apology' for Comment about NH Accents. Zelliff Reaction Available Via Radio Actuality System."

Dole's press release quotes Zelliff, who is New Hampshire state chairman of his presidential campaign, as branding Gramm's remark as "an insult to every citizen of the Granite State....It's been clear for a long time that Phil Gramm doesn't understand New Hampshire.... Just in case he still doesn't understand, let me spell it out in plain English: In New Hampshire we're proud of our roots and our traditions."

Just in case Zelliff has a bad memory, let us spell out in plain English how he once felt about Gramm and his accent jokes, based on a handwritten letter Zelliff sent him on Oct. 28, 1991. Zelliff gave Gramm rave reviews for his appearance at a New Hampshire event at which Gramm told an identical joke. Zelliff not only failed to take umbrage but he sent along a gift, almost offered to throw a parade in Gramm's honor and groveled for his help at a fund-raiser. We obtained a copy of the letter, which reads:

"I very much enjoyed being with you and (Sen.) Bob Smith (R-N.H.), on Columbus Day and I really look forward to getting to know you better. Although you may not talk like a Yankee, you share our values and you were well-received across the board. Bob has been a big help to me and I would be delighted to have your future support at an upcoming Wash. PAC event.... I am sending along a small jug of NH maple syrup -- great over ice cream as well as the traditional uses."

That goey letter was penned by the same politician who last week attacked Gramm under Dole's name because, in New Hampshire, "we respect candidates of proven character, demonstrated leadership and real conservative convictions. That's why New Hampshire is backing Bob Dole. We may sound funny to Phil Gramm, but here in New Hampshire our traditions are no laughing matter."

Zelliff refused to comment, but a spokeswoman said he has no recollection of the letter to Gramm.

The resulting flap is a poor parody of a political debate.

Lease

Arizona was the successful bidder in the sealed bid initiative for the property, which was standard procedure used by Resolution Trust Corporation when it acquired a property in bankruptcy. Terra thus obtained ownership of the buildings from RTC effective in May. Recently, Terra transferred the lease to Venture Thirty-Two, Inc., which was effective October 1st. Last night, the Sanford City Commission approved the transfer of the lease.

Venture, also an Arizona company, holds various Terra loan properties.

Under the new leases, Venture Thirty-Two will pay the city $20,000 per year for lease of the land. The new owners of One Harbour Place will pay $3,353 per year to the city.

In addition to paying the city for using the land on which the buildings are located, City Manager Bill Simmons explained that the owners also agree to pay all ad valorem taxes on the properties.

H.A. "Buddy" Duncan, one of the owners of One Harbour Place, appeared before the City Commission work session during discussion of the lease arrangement yesterday. He told the commissioners he has already started making improvements on the building. "We finished re-roofing the building last week, and now we're working on some of the wall structures and part of the interior," he said.

Duncan told the commission that for the time being, he did not expect any changes in the use of the building, which will remain for office and commercial business use.

City Manager Bill Simmons however, asked Duncan, in consideration of plans to improve and expand the hotel area on the marina, if he may change the building use in the future.

"Right now it's office rental space," Duncan responded, "but I assure you I will be open minded for future uses. I want to be a good neighbor and do the best I can for the area."

One of the items which had previously caused difficulties in some of the lease agreements on the waterfront area was an original demand for a non-competes clause. These clauses have now been eliminated.

Regarding the marina hotel, improvements are presently being made to some of the facility. In recent months, the hotel rooms have been refurbished, and additional work is either underway or being planned for the immediate future.

In presenting both of the lease agreements to the city commission for approval last night during the regular commission meeting, votes were unanimously in favor of their acceptance.

Incentive

approved its first incentive involvement in connection with the program.

Conveyor Systems, presently located on Benson Junction Road in DeBary, has announced plans to move to Sanford. Presently operating in a 19,000 square foot building, Conveyor plans to move to a 75,000 square foot building at the corner of SR-48 and Airport Blvd.

According to a statement originally issued to Seminole County, Conveyor Systems General Manager Bill Butt said the current sales of $6 million by the company, could increase to $12 million within five years, because of the expansion in space and the expected hiring of new employees.

Butt addressed the commission during a work session yesterday afternoon. He commented that by 1997, he expects to be spending at least $1 million in obtaining additional machinery for the company.

In addition to serving many U.S. companies' needs, Conveyor has also shipped to such diverse locations as Turkey, South Africa, China, Europe and Viet Nam.

Responding to a question about transportation of his products, Butt also assured Simmons that he would look into the possibility of handling some of the shipping from the Orlando Sanford Airport.

The request from Conveyor Systems Inc. was for a one-time economic incentive package of $150,000. The amount has subsequently been trimmed to $100,000, with the City of Sanford now having agreed to contribute $50,000, and Seminole County paying the additional $50,000.

Each of the two governments approved the amounts based on the other's approval.

Conveyor presently has 75 employees in the DeBary facility. The number is expected to increase to 100 within a year of moving to Sanford, with projections of 150 to 200 employees within five years.

SANFORD — The scheduled appearance of Sanford police chief Ralph Russell at an NAACP general meeting tonight has been cancelled. Thomas H. Poole Jr., president of the Seminole County Branch NAACP withdrew the invitation for Russell to speak following a Sunday story in the Sanford Herald.

The story stated Poole and the executive board had met with Russell. However, only Poole and Henry Sweet, first vice president had met with the chief, not all six NAACP officers.

"Consequently, board members felt that they had missed an important meeting and were confused about what had happened and therefore apprehensive about continuing with the upcoming meeting," Poole wrote Russell. A meeting with Russell may be requested at some undetermined later date.

In addition to Poole and Sweet, the NAACP officers are: Rev. Ben Adams, second vice president; Kenneth Bentley, third vice president; Victoria B. Smith, secretary and Rev. Robert Whitaker, treasurer.

Rain

More than 3 inches of rain fell in Sanford yesterday.

The rains in Seminole County have produced a bit of isolated flooding at various locations around the county. Steady rains have saturated the ground and helped maintain the higher humidity levels.

Rains are expected to taper off by the weekend, however and meteorologists are predicting a nice weekend for beaching, boating and outdoor concert-going.

In the meantime, the roads will be slick and most outdoor activities will likely be cancelled or postponed.

"We're just looking forward to a nice weekend," the spokesman said.

Records indicate that this fall has been unusually warm and damp, but no records have been broken.

Aid to children born on welfare divides lawmakers

By JENNIFER DIXON
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON — It's one of the most emotional questions facing lawmakers: Should government refuse to support children born while their families are on welfare?

Supporters say yes, arguing that it's time society sent a message that it is wrong for single mothers to have more babies when they cannot afford the children they already have.

But some opponents worry that women on welfare will have abortions if their children's benefits are taken away, and others say children should not be punished for the sins of their parents.

A symbol in the fight against out-of-wedlock births, the question of a national "family cap" divides House and Senate negotiators who will soon begin compromising on a final welfare bill.

"The major issue is going to come down to illegitimacy," says Rep. Jim Talent, R-Mo., a member of the House-Senate conference committee.

"It is eroding American families and communities around the country, and the people want it addressed," Talent said. "The conference will come down to whether we're going to address the issue in a real way in this bill, or whether we're going to take a pass on it, and I don't want to take a pass on it."

Talent and other conservatives pushed a family cap and a ban on cash assistance to unwed teen-age mothers through the House, which passed a sweeping welfare bill in March.

But an alliance of moderate Republicans and Democrats kept both provisions out of the Senate's overhaul of the nation's anti-poverty programs in September.

Now, Senate conservatives are promising to vote against the final compromise legislation if it fails to include a family cap, while President Clinton is warning that bowing to such "extremist pressure" could kill welfare reform.

Few issues in this year's long battle to repeal the welfare programs and social policies of the New Deal and Great Society have stirred passions and split Republicans and their allies in the pro-family and anti-abortion movement like the family cap.

And unlike technical discussions about formulas for dividing welfare dollars and spending requirements for the states, it resonates with the American people.

Evidence of the family cap's widening popularity can be found around the country. Starting with New Jersey in 1992, 13 states now have federal approval to experiment with a version of it, and four others have applications pending with the Department of Health and Human Services.

"We work on all those issues, and the only one people want to talk about is the family cap. It has symbolic value," said John Carr, director of the department of social development and world peace for the U.S. Catholic Bishops Conference. "People are desperate for simple answers, quick fixes, the magic bullet. And this sounds like one of those."

The country's Roman Catholic bishops, Carr said, oppose a family cap. They believe it will encourage abortion, punish children for the mistakes and circumstances of their parents, and do nothing to reduce out-of-wedlock births.

"It pretends to do something about the problem, but doesn't," he said. "It's not just the down and out (who are having babies out of wedlock); it's a problem with the rich and famous and the rest of us. Stopping people from having children is not about money, but about how they feel about themselves, their futures, and $80 doesn't do it."

Today, most mothers who give birth while on welfare receive an automatic increase in their monthly cash benefits; the median amount they get when the number of children in a family rises from two to three is $72, according to HHS.

Gerald Whitburn, secretary of health and human services in Massachusetts, believes the government should end these increases as a way of telling welfare recipients it is no longer acceptable to have more children when they cannot support the ones they already have.

"It's not about punishment. It's about stopping a subsidy for behavior that's not responsible,"

Whitburn said. "Family size is part of the economics of most every American family, and we need to have more of that thinking across our welfare population."

The Christian Coalition, with its 1.7 million members, agrees.

And Heidi Stirrup, director of government relations, says the group's grassroots network is revving up to lobby Congress hard as lawmakers get down to the wire on welfare.

Some opponents say it is wrong for Congress to impose a national policy on the states — that conservative strings are just as bad as liberal strings. But supporters say states could still get around the family cap by spending their own money — just not federal dollars — on these children.

Sabotage, anti-government note clues in derailment

By LUMA L. BRYN
Associated Press Writer

HYDER, Ariz. — Sabotaged tracks and a note from "Sons of Gestapo" brought a swarm of federal agents to an isolated patch of desert where a train derailed off a 30-foot high bridge, killing one person and injuring at least 78.

FBI agents, special evidence teams and Justice Department investigators joined safety agencies at the scene within hours of Monday's wreck, which left four cars from Amtrak's Sunset Limited lying in a dry stream bed 55 miles southwest of Phoenix.

Saboteurs removed a 3-foot, 18-pound steel bar that holds sections of rail together, and bridged the gap with a wire to disable an electronic system designed to warn train crews of breaks in the track, Amtrak President Thomas M. Downs said.

Twenty-nine of the spies that hold the rail to the wooden crossties on a 19-foot section of track had been removed, according to a source familiar with the investigation who spoke on condition of anonymity.

"Saboteurs obviously intended to drop the train off the tracks into the ravine," Downs told a Washington news conference.

The sabotage would have taken about 10 minutes for someone with a basic knowledge of railways, he said.

A note or notes found outside the train referred to the federal siege at Waco, Texas, and Ruby Ridge, Idaho — rallying points for anti-government extremists — Maricopa County Sheriff Joe Arpaio said. He refused to detail the contents of the note, but said it was signed "Sons of Gestapo."

The FBI refused any comment on the note, and Arpaio, a former agent of the U.S. Bureau of Alcohol, Tobacco and Firearms, stopped talking to reporters about it after a private briefing with FBI and other federal officials.

"Only cowards would set something like this up to inflict the maximum damage, to kill as many people as possible," said Gov. Fife Symington, who toured the site.

A train employee said he passed on to deputies an anti-government note that a passenger gave him, but it was unclear if that was the same note Arpaio described.

An electronic database search of U.S. newspapers found no mention of "Sons of Gestapo," nor did a search of about six months' worth of internet discussion groups and World Wide Web pages.

Klanwatch, an organization that tracks hate groups as part of the Southern Poverty Law Center in Montgomery, Ala., has never heard of "Sons of Gestapo," said Joe Roy, Klanwatch director.

He said it could be some kind of local group, or "this could be Fred the farmer who's mad at Amtrak for cutting across his land."

"It very well could be some disgruntled individual who's trying to blame it on the militia," Roy said.

A sheriff's spokesman said the total number of injured at 100; Amtrak said it was 78.

Killed was Mitchell Bates, 41, an Amtrak sleeping-car attendant from Los Angeles. At least 67 people were treated at local hospitals, and others were treated at the scene. Twelve people were seriously injured.

Among the hospitalized were a 3-month-old boy and a 31-year-old woman on her honeymoon.

"I stood up on the train, looked at the horizon and saw all the people, sick, hurt, elderly, crying. What I saw was a sick mind," said Henry Ford, an Amtrak car attendant.

A veteran federal investigator who demanded anonymity told The Associated Press in Washington that agents would not jump to conclusions about possible suspects. The investigator noted that a disgruntled or dissatisfied Amtrak employee or someone else bent on mischief might concoct a note to deflect attention.

SENATORS GRAHAM, MACK & THE FLORIDA CONGRESSIONAL DELEGATION:

What are you going to vote for in the 1995 Farm Bill?

CORPORATE WELFARE FOR THE WEALTHY SUGAR BARONS
"Sugar subsidies] put some $65 million a year into the Fajul's bulging coffers and supports a lavish Palm Beach lifestyle that has been well-chronicled in society publications." - Forbes Magazine, March 13, 1995

OR

"The program...costs [consumers] an average of $1.4 billion annually."
- U.S. General Accounting Office (GAO), Sugar Program, April, 1993

TAXPAYERS

"Governor Chiles estimates the cleanup would cost $685 million."
- Associated Press, May 4, 1994

JOBS

Not counting the rest of Florida, in Monroe and the Okeechobee Lake Counties alone, 61,589 jobs are dependant on the health of the environment.- Congressional Research Service, The Florida Bay Economy and Changing Environmental Conditions, 1994

THE EVERGLADES AND FLORIDA BAY

"The sugar subsidy is condemning America's second largest national park to a slow death."
- Ron Jones, Ph.D, Florida International University

IF YOU BELIEVE THAT FLORIDA'S CONSUMERS, TAXPAYERS, ECONOMY AND ENVIRONMENT ARE MORE IMPORTANT THAN A CORPORATE WELFARE PROGRAM FOR THE WEALTHY SUGAR BARONS, TELL YOUR ELECTED REPRESENTATIVES!

Send a message to the Florida Congressional Delegation. Tell them to work to repeal the U.S. sugar program and support an amendment making the Sugar Barons pay to clean up their own pollution by imposing a two cent per pound assessment. This will save Florida hundreds of millions of dollars in taxes, hundreds of thousands of jobs and one of America's priceless environmental treasures.

1 Call your Representative and Senators.

2 Clip out the message at right, attach it to a sheet of paper and fax or mail it to your Congressman.

AROUND THE STATE

Marino has surgery

DAVIE — One day after breaking the NFL record for completions, Dan Marino had knee surgery and the Miami Dolphins quarterback will miss at least one game and possibly more.

Marino underwent arthroscopic surgery to repair torn cartilage in his right knee and had blood drained from his severely bruised left hip.

The injuries occurred during Sunday's 27-24 overtime loss to Indianapolis. Marino finished the game and broke Fran Tarkenton's NFL career record for completions.

Marlins reinstate injured

MIAMI — The Florida Marlins reinstated four players who were on the disabled list: relievers Bryan Harvey, John Johnstone and Vic Darenabourg and outfielder Darrell Whitmore.

Harvey, who appeared in one game before being placed on the list May 1, underwent ligament replacement surgery in his right elbow.

Johnstone was put on the list one week later after having surgery to repair nerve damage in his right elbow. Darenabourg was on the list all season after surgery on his left elbow.

Whitmore hit .190 in 27 games before undergoing surgery to repair a partial left rotator cuff and left labrum. He's been on the list since June 4.

ELSEWHERE

Webber signs with Bullets

LANDOVER, Md. — Chris Webber signed a six-year contract with the Washington Bullets.

Webber, the top pick in 1993 by Golden State, spent one year with the Warriors before being traded to Washington last November.

The 6-foot-10 forward will receive about $59 million over the next six years. He led the Bullets in scoring (20.1 points per game) and rebounding (9.6).

Lasorda back with Dodgers

LOS ANGELES — Three days after finishing what he called his toughest playoff experience ever, Tom Lasorda agreed to manage the Los Angeles Dodgers for a 20th season.

Lasorda, who turned 68 last month, concluded his 46th year in the team's organization Friday night in Cincinnati when the Reds beat the Dodgers 10-1 to complete a sweep of the best-of-5 NL playoff series.

Lasorda's 1,558 lifetime wins place him 14th on baseball's career list. Dick Williams is 13th with 1,571 wins. Lasorda is also 13th in games managed at 2,964, just behind Williams' 3,023.

Lasorda was hired as the Dodgers manager on Sept. 29, 1976, succeeding Walter Alton.

Rams claim SAC crown, three alive for second

From Staff Reports

SANFORD — Lake Mary claimed its seventh Seminole Athletic Conference boys' volleyball title in eight years, but the standings are up for grabs from there as Lake Howell, Seminole and Lake Brantley all still have a shot at second place as the conference race nears an end.

RAMS WIN 14th STRAIGHT MATCH

OVIDO — Lake Mary used a balanced attack to knock off homestanding Oviedo 15-12, 15-5 to win its 14th straight match victory and secure the Seminole Athletic Conference crown for the seventh time in the eight year history of boys' volleyball Monday night.

The Rams are now 17-1 overall and 9-0 in the SAC, while the Lions fell to 0-8 in the conference. "We were extremely well balanced tonight," said Lake Mary head coach Bill Whalen. "Several players had their moments, but no one really stood out."

The junior varsity match went the way of Oviedo in two games by the scores of 15-13 and 15-4.

Pacing the Rams' varsity attack were Devin Hale (seven kills, four service points in first game, one service point in second game), Erik Larsen (five kills, two blocks, five service points in first game, four service points in second game) and Darrell Dilmore (three kills, four blocks, four service points in game one, three service points in game two).

Also contributing were Jason Hawkins (five kills, three blocks), Jeremy Dilmore (three kills), Sean Whitman (two kills, one block) and Adam Sewell (one service point in first game, five service points in second game).

SILVER HAWKS CLAW TRIBE

SANFORD — The Lake Howell Silver Hawks

moved into sole possession of second place in the Seminole Athletic Conference with a 15-9, 15-9 victory over Seminole at Bill Fleming Memorial Gymnasium Monday night.

Lake Howell improved to 11-3 overall and 6-3 in the conference, while the Fighting Seminoles fell to 9-4 overall and 4-3 in the SAC.

The junior varsity match also went to the Silver Hawks in three games.

"Our main problem was our passing," said Seminole head coach Beth Corso. "Our middle hitters did not have a good night, and if you are going to beat a good team like Lake Howell everyone has to play well."

"It's very disappointing, because we played a good tournament at Lake Brantley over weekend. It's also pretty bad when we average so many kills and digs to not play better than that. If David (Campbell) and Erick (Ho) are not covering

"Everyone played well tonight," said Lake Brantley head coach Omar Nieves.

Orlando - The Lake Brantley girls' volleyball team bounced back from a heart-breaking week with a 15-8, 15-13 non-conference victory over Bishop Moore Monday night in Orlando.
"The girls were really on tonight," said Lake Brantley head coach Stan Cutler.

touchdowns for the Dolphins on a 50-yard run and a six-yard run and Mike Pryor added an extra point.
Good defense and running by David Thomas set up the lone Jaguars score, which came on a seven-yard pass by John Wheeler.

STEELERS 6 RAIDERS 7 OVERTIME

A David Marshall to Willie Black pass and run covered 16 yards for the Steelers and the Raiders were unable to match that distance as the Steelers won the overtime tie-breaker.
Black's kickoff returning and running set up the Steelers' touchdown, which was a 23-yard pass from Marshall to Black.

Chest pain can be tough to diagnose

PETER GOTT, M.D.

DEAR DR. GOTT: I have recurring chest pains for which my doctor has tested me. My heart, lungs, gallbladder and stomach were OK, yet he couldn't diagnose my problem. I recently read an article about costochondritis. My doctor said that this could be my problem and he severely altered my physical activity. I'm not satisfied with this and would like a second opinion. Where should I go for one?

DEAR READER: The cause of chest pain can be elusive. Your physician has apparently investigated the common reasons for such a symptom and has concluded -- with your help! -- that a chronic inflammation of the rib cartilage (costochondritis) is to blame.

He may well be correct. However, the usual treatment for this painful but harmless condition is anti-inflammatory medicine, such as Indocin or Motrin -- not restriction of physical activity.

On the other hand, he may believe that you have strained your chest wall by overdoing your exercise. In this case, some restriction (at least temporarily) is appropriate.

I agree that a second opinion might solve your problem. Ask your family doctor to refer you to an internist, a physician specializing in diagnosis. I expect the specialist might order blood tests and additional X-rays, and I believe that he could find the answer you seek. Then, once a diagnosis has been made, the internist will refer you back to your own doctor for therapy and follow-up.

As an alternative, you might consider a self-referral to the diagnostic clinic in a teaching hospital. Once again, the specialists will involve your family doctor by sending him reports and recommendations.

Let me know how this turns out.

DEAR DR. GOTT: Is silica necessary for good health? Must we buy supplements if it is, or is it acquired in a normal daily diet? Despite a nutritious daily diet and extra calcium, my nails grow slowly and break easily and my hair is noticeably thinning. I've been told that a lack of silica is the problem.

DEAR READER: Silica is a trace element necessary for proper growth and health. Because the average diet contains more than enough for our needs, deficiencies are unheard of.

WIN AT BRIDGE

I liked this deal from Pete Kiehline's regular slot called The Traveling Score. Would you have handled the minor-suit spot-cards to best advantage?

South's sequence, a strong, artificial and forcing two clubs followed by a rebid of two no-trump, showed a balanced 23-24 points.

South made the most of the favorable lie of all the honors. After winning the first trick with the heart king, he played the diamond eight to dummy's king. Then he led a diamond to his jack. When the finesse won, South played the club eight to dummy's ace, followed by a club to the jack. When that finesse worked too, South could maneuver two spade finesses. He cashed the diamond ace, played the diamond four to dummy's seven and took the first spade finesse. Next came the club king, the club four to dummy's five and a second spade finesse. That gave South all 13 tricks: three spades, two hearts, four diamonds and four clubs.

Perhaps North and South discussed getting to a slam, but what happens if the East and West hands are switched? Then even three no-trump is potentially too high. Don't be overly influenced by the actual distribution. Finesses don't always win.

HOROSCOPE

By Bernice Bede Osol
YOUR BIRTHDAY
Oct. 10, 1995

In the year ahead, you could have more attractive financial prospects than you've had for a long, long time. Constantly look for ways to add to your resources.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) Nothing is likely to be too good for those you love today. You can find a way to help with their needs and wants, both emotionally and materially. Trying to patch up a broken romance? The Astro-Graph Matchmaker can help you understand what to do to make the relationship work. Mail $2.75 to Matchmaker, c/o this newspaper, P.O. Box 1758, Murray Hill Station, New York, NY 10150.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) You will be very charismatic today and persons will feel inclined to follow your lead. Even those already on a fixed course might switch to yours.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) Today you'll be humble and inoffensive in situations where assertiveness isn't necessary, but if someone suddenly switches the rules on you, they'd better watch out.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) An opportunity you've been overlooking might suddenly become obvious today. You can fulfill your expectations if your approach is pragmatic.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) Your objectives and goals have a better chance of being fulfilled today if you reveal your desires only to associates who understand your motives. Explain things to others later.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) A friend of yours who has been rather lucky lately is using methods and tactics that you can adapt to fit your needs. Study this person's procedures and imitate them.

ARIES (March 21-April 19) Working hard in someone else's interest today could eventually provide you with unexpected rewards. Do your best and let circumstances take care of themselves.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20)

Exercising tact and thoughtfulness won't dilute your strength today. In fact, it could actually increase it. Having power and talking softly will give you real clout.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) The very persons you try to serve today might turn around and lend you a much-needed hand to accomplish something significant.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) For the best results today, promote your ideas with a flair. Follow your instincts and be colorful, but not overly flamboyant.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) The sixth sense with which you're blessed can be successfully utilized today when dealing in money matters, especially when negotiating or bargaining are key elements.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) Temporarily set aside some of your serious matters and let your hair down a bit today. It will do you a world of good to get involved in fun activities.
