SANFORD - Navy Petty Officer 3rd class Paul Van Dusen has returned to the United States from service in Operation Desert Storm. His parents, Harvy and Nancy Van Dusen, 115 Grove Lane. Sanford, have received word that their son is now back at his regular duty station in Long Beach, California.

Van Dusen was stationed oh board the USS Princeton, a guided missile cruiser. During the time the ship was operating in the Persian Gulf. it struck two mines and was severely damaged. Although it was scheduled to return to the United States earlier, the ship only recently was repaired sufficiently to make the trip. Van Dusen's father said he was told, "the ship will now go into drydock for further repairs at Long Beach for at least six months."

Van Dusen, who was born and raised in Sanford, and graduated from Seminole High School, presently lives with his wife in California. It is not known when he will be able to make his first return visit to the Sanford area since his deployment in the Gulf.

Lady picks flowers, faces trial

MARIETTA, Ga. - A woman who said she picked flowers at an office park for her grandmother's grave was ordered to stand trial next month on a theft charge.

Rebecca T. Anding. 29, of Cobb County was ordered to stand trial Aug. 19 for snipping a dozen tulips at New Market Business Park last Easter Sunday.

Anding said at her arraignment Friday that she took the flowers. But she pleaded innocent and asked for a jury trial.

U.S. 17-92 would include a core near City Hall which Fred Halback of Herbert Halback Inc. promised would maintain "traditional values" and an industrial and commercial center near the 1-4 corridor at its outer limit.

The 11-question survey showed that only 17.1 percent of the respondents favored paying for development with property taxes, though the opponents were not visibly present at the meeting. The survey showed that the vast majority of respondents (72.86 percent) prefered that the new downtown be financed by state and federal grants and private donations.

Your questions answered here

This week let's have a Q & A session. You folks always seem to like them.

Question: Did you ever get the information you wanted on the Morse family?

Answer: Yes and no. First, we learned the name was "Morse" and not "Moarse." Secondly, we had callers tell us Mrs. Morse worked for the school board as a truant officer. Yet, we also had callers tell us she worked for the county as a public health nurse. Next, we told you she had three children — Mary Helen. Bill and Lish. But now we know she had four children - another son named "Ted." Bill was killed in an auto accident one night in "Death Valley." (That's the name of a stretch of U.S. 17-92 that, going south, begins as you leave Five Points and ends at Shepard Road. It got that tag because of the number of people killed in accidents that occurred before the route was made a four-lane divided highway).

Also killed with Morse in that accident was Roscoe Wallace. No one who called us seemed to remember Mrs. Morse's first name. Nobody remembered anything abut her husband.

2: Do you recall the name of the black druggist who once worked in the prescription department of Eckerds' drugstore when it was situated in Sanford Plaza?

A: We believe his name was Carol Stapleton. He left Eckerds to go to work for Winn-Dixie. Unfortunately. we understand he is ill and not working at this time.

9: When Orange County was carved out of Mosqauito County. Enterprise was the seat of the latter county. How long did Enterprise remain the seat of Mosquito County?

A: Until well after Volusia Conty was also carved out of Mosquito County. It was in 1888, well after Volusia came into existence, that the county seat was moved from Enterprise to DeLand.

Q: When was Sanford incorporated? A: In 1877.

Q: When did Count Frederick DeBary build the DeBary mansion? ☐See Stenstrom, Page 2A

SANFORD - Ah. remember the good old days when the Fourth of July was a day to prommenade down the main street of town, chat with your friends, picnic in the park and wrap up the festivities by watching a spectacular fireworks display after dark.

Well, those days have not gone the way of the steam locmotive and the horse-drawn carriage.

At least not in Sanford. Thanks to the efforts of Steve Alford, the Second Annual People's Fireworks Extravaganza will bring the spirt of an old-fashioned celebration to life in downtown Sanford.

"The community has supported this program from the beginning." said Alford who has directed an ambitious fund-raising campaingn while making the arrangements for the day-long celebration.

To date, he has raised $4,630 toward the $5,200 he will need to pay for the pyrotechnics and the carnival games, including a Moon Walk for the youngsters.

Alford is confident that the people of Sanford will come through with the rest of the money.

If the money is not raised, however. Alford said the fireworks display will have to be shortened in length.

The events planned for the day will begin at noon. Most will take place at Ft. Mellon Park, though there will be a few functions at the Holiday Inn on Lake Monroe. Live musical acts will be performing in the park throughout the day. At noon Jim Spencer will perform, followed by Tuff Act and the James Peterson Blues Band.

Attack begins on first food irradiation plant 'And worse, it's experimenting with

By JAMES MARTINEZ Associated Press Writer

TAMPA - Fear is driving a consumer group's media blitz against the nation's first commercial food irradiation plant, and state officials warn it has the potential to cause a major public health scare.

Radio spots begin airing Monday on 57 radio stations throughout Florida with an alarming message:

"What if you found out that those fresh fruits and vegetables everyone keeps telling you to eat more of. might ... kill you?"

The 60-second spot, sponsored by the New York-based Food & Water Inc., goes on to say, "Ingesting radiation-exposed foods causes genetic damage, which can lead to cancer and birth defects.'

Florida Agriculture Commissioner Bob Crawford called the ad "alarmist propaganda" and tried to head off a panic by distributing federal government assurances that exposing foods to small amounts of radiation is a safe way to extend its

"This ad relies on the worst kind of scare tactic." Crawford said. "It encourages the public to be afraid of something they don't know much about. It provides no facts, only sensational lies and threats."

He emphasized no irradiated meats, fruits or vegetables are currently being produced or sold in Florida, and if such food does become available, it must be clearly marked to give consumers a choice.

Food & Water is leading an international coalition of consumer groups hoping that day never

Their target is Tampa businessman Sam Whitney and his company Vindicator of Florida, which plans to open the nation's first commercial food irradiation plant in rural Mulberry in mid-August.

If the radio-ad campaign doesn't scare consumers into urging supermarkets to boycott irradiated food - thus ruining Whitney's business prospects - the media campaign will go nationwide in August.

And if the plant does indeed go on line. Food & Water threatens its biggest salvo - organizing a global boycott of Florida's $6-billion-a-year produce exports.

"Vindicator is gambling with Florida's economy." said Walter Burnstein, head of Food & Water.

the nation's health.'

Not only does food irradiation cause cancer. Burnstein argues, but it can cause kidney damage and chromosomal abnormalities and deplete the nutritional value of food by changing its molecular structure.

Whitney calls the whole campaign an "act of desperation" and said it will not stand in the way of his $6.8 million plant.

'When people realize it's nothing more than scare tactics. I think it will backfire," he said. "I'm not a doctor. I'm not a scientist. All I know is if it could kill you, why would the U.S. Food and Drug Administration approve it?"

The FDA. Agriculture Department. World Health Organization and the governments of more than 30 nations have approved irradiation for use on such foods as poultry, pork, fruit and vegetables.

The DUI law, which was sparked by a tragic Orange County car crash, requires that drunk-en-driving suspects stay in jail for eight hours or until their blood-sicohol level reaches 0.05 percent. A person is considered drunk with a blood-alcohol content of 0.10 percent.

Chris Mueller, 19, died in the 1990 collision in Orange County that happened a few minutes after the other driver had been released following a DUI arrest. Police tests indicated the other driver was still drunk.

Another aspect of the law will permit previous DUI convictions to apply in a Florida case, which could lead to tougher penalties. And people driving drunk with minors could pay higher lines or serve longer jail terms.

ohn Theoston's importal travel style continues to one inordinate costs on tempoyers and provoke diese emborrossesses for President Duck.

Dy now it is patently clear the White House chief of staff is stubbornly impervious to common sense and the spirit of the special travel directive issued in May by the president himself. Unless Mr. Bush is eager to endure the well-justified scorn being heaped on the White House for Sumunu's flagrant abuses, he must act promptly to get control of his subordinate.

Mr. Bush was obliged on May 9 to hand down new rules governing Sununu's travel after it was disclosed he had been using a fleet of Air Porce C-20 jets for personal and political trips, including akt vacations and visits to his New Hampshire dentist. Based on 77 junkets he made on military aircraft, at a cost to taxpayers of $3,945 an hour, Summu ran up a tab of $500,000 in flight expenses alone before being reined in by the

Under the new travel policy. Summu is required to clear his use of military planes with White House counsel C. Boyden Gray. The presidential aide is supposed to authorize such use only for official business when commercial air service is not readily available.

Sununu appears determined, though, not to let the president's directive get in the way of his high-flying adventures, as soon as the new travel policy/went-into effect, he began finding ways to circumvent it.

When he wanted to attend a rare-stamp auction in Manhattan, Sununu commandeered a government limousine to drive him to New York. For the return trip, he hopped aboard a corporate jet while the limo and chauffeur were sent home without a Sununu's curt reply when questioned about this preposterous waste of tax dollars: "I don't have to check in advance for my automobile travel."

Even more troubling, the chief of staff has been soliciting various companies to provide him free travel on corporate aircraft. For example, for his return to Washington from the trip to New York. Sununti fiew abbard a Jer chartered by Beneficial Accompanying Sununu on the flight to Washington was Beneficial's chief lobbyist. The firm, which supplies consumer credit, has been lobbying aggressively against the Bush administration's proposed reforms of the banking industry. Even if the chief of staff's judgment is not swayed by free air travel supplied by corporations such as Beneficial, the apparent conflict of interest it presents is intolerable.

The White House has declined to release a list of other corporations that have provided free flights for Sununu. But it is likely most if not all of them had an interest in decisions made by Sununu or other administration officials. Consequently, Sununu is compromising the White Huse by making himself beholden to corporate interests.

Presidential spokesman Marlin Fitzwater defended Sununu's use of corporate jets by stressing there is no law against it. "It's all fine according to the law, according to the rules and regulations." said Fitzwater. That line might impress a Philadelphia lawyer, but it won't fool many other

She is supposed to represent 475 people who signed a petition to change the Lake Mary Charter. Well, there are over 5,000 residents in Lake Mary and a great many of us that she does not represent. We feel fortunate to have commissioners who are all well educated, prufessional people, not politicians. They have worked hard to keep Lake Mary's small town atmosphere while guiding our growth. They challenged Florida Power Company to try to make our city safer and more pleasant to drive through; we lost, but they had the guts to try. You don't find any of them on the police blotters. They are raising their families here and have shown they have Lake Mary's best interests at heart. You should read the "Positively Lake Mary" section of the June 23rd Sunday Sanford Herald for some positive unbiased reporting on Lake Mary.

What dirty deed have our commissioners done to draw such accusations and mistrust from Mrs. Sawyer's group. Should we accept this group's recommendations on what we spend our money on rather than the recommendations of our elected officials. We can hold them responsible if they goof. but can we hold Mrs. Sawyer and her group responsible for anything.

Our commissioners and mayor were elected fairly by the majority of votes cast. Now we should let them do their job. They are all accessible to hear our ophikins and concerns and have asked for them. If you don't like what they do, vote them out. If they do something criminal, kick them out. But let them represent us who voted for them in the first place. If you think you can do a better job. more than just heckle, threaten and second guess. then run for office. If the citizens of Lake Mary are ready for a completely negative person, they will elect you. But don't bet on it.

THE REAL PROPERTY OF THE PARTY OF THE PARTY

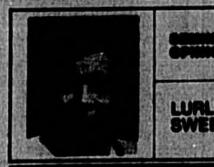

Sandy Oakley, children's librarian, indicated that the theme for Summer 1991 is "Read Your Way Through a Safari Summer." The spotlight is upon books and other entertainment about jungles, animals and rain forests. As one enters the library and directs attention to the bulletin board on the right, the theme is clearly delineated; a large gorilla adorns the board.

Multiple activities are planned throughout June and July. Pre-school story telling time is acheduled through July 22, 1991 at 10:30 a.m. No prior registration is required. Children must be accompanied by an adult.

Toridler time (ages 24-34) is Tuesdays, 10:15

Toddler time (ages 24-34) is Tuesdays, 10:15 a.m., through July 23, 1991. Toddler time will be followed by pre-school story time at 11 a.m.

Thursdays are Special Features Day with the exception of July 4. The activity that normally would have taken place then will be held Wednesday, July 3, 1991, 10:30 a.m. The Mashed Potato Piayers will present "Stop, Look and Safari." The theatrical troupe travels throughout the state presenting the play.

Abortion and the cry 'Wolf!'

BOSTON - By now there is a numbing sameness to these stories. A news bulletin comes out of the Supreme Court or a state legislature. Another restriction, like a twine of bittersweet, has been wrapped around the right to choose abortion.

In the newspaper and on television, adver-saries appear in their usual postures. Pro-lifers talk about "protecting the unborn." Pro-choicers talk about "back-alley abortions." It all might have come from file footage.

Abortion-rights leaders, on the defensive these days, update sound bites saying how "women will die." They recycle fund-raising letters bearing three-alarm messages. Ominous warnings are issued about the overturning of Roe v. Wade. Coat hangers are printed on buttons as grim reminders of the bad old days.

Yet the week after the court decision is handed down or the legislation passes, the same number of women are getting abortions. It all begins to seem like a ritual. How do you know when there really is a wolf out there and what that wolf looks like?

This time, the scare comes from the bogs of Louisiana. The Legislature — a body consisting of 140 men and four women — has passed the most stringent ban against abortion in the country. It makes exceptions only to save the life of a woman, or for rape and incest under severely restricted conditions. If the Supreme Court takes up this case, there will be no way to avoid a head-on confrontation with Roc.

But some times the attention given to bans. the focus on whether or not the court wil overturn the 1973 decision, blind another reality. There isn't one wolf readying for the final kill. There is an entire pack, and they're already nibbling.

If Roe were overturned next year or the next. it wouldn't automatically outlaw abortion in the United States. A woman's rights would be. rather, what they were in 1972. A matter of geography. And of money.

An adult woman with money in her pocket would still be able to get an abortion...somewhere. She could do what a young Louisiana woman did when her clinic was briefly closed down: She got into her car and drove 200 miles to Dallas

The distance would be greater if she lived in Utah or Guam. She might need a wad of cash or a credit card. But there are at least 14 "safe states" with pro-choice governments to which a woman could escape if she was pregnant at the wrong time in the wrong place.

On the other hand, under today's increasingly shaky shelter of Roc. wolves abound in different forms. In North Dakota, for example, the governor vetoed a ban much like Louisiana's. There were hurrahs all around. But there is only one clinic in his entire state. Just how much better off is a woman in North Dakota under Roe than she would be in Louisiana after Roe?

This is what we've seen in the last few years. A right doesn't have to be overturned. It can also be eroded. In some ways, we have already entered the post-Roe world.

Harassment more than the law has made access to medical care more difficult, particularly in rural areas. Picketing, violence, bomb threats have eaten away at rights. So has the careful targeting of doctors. Targeting by the government gagged the doctors of the poor. The Supreme Court tied that gag in place. Targeting by legislatures like Louisiana — which would penalize doctors with 10-year prison sentences has scared more than a few out of clinics. There are other wolves, gnawing so discreetly that we don't always see their teeth. One law could - if upheld make a woman notify her husband. Eighteen laws already make teenagers get the consent of their parent

BPicketing.

violence,

bomb threats

have eaten away at rights.

If Roe were overturned, women would surely need a traveler's advisory and traveler's checks to find their way through the state laws. They would need an agent to tell them which state allows abortions for which reasons. A medical passport of sorts.

Nevertheless, in that unappealing future, women with money would have choices. So would their daughters, sisters, friends. Those who could least afford children could least afford abortions.

But even in the more palatable present, the young and those with empty purses are finding il harder to exercise what is still their constitutional right. Who was it who said the rich get richer and the poor have children? Was that just an old saying? Or is it the newest public policy?

Wilder and Robb: Damage is done

WASHINGTON — In spite of last week's patch-up of the childish feud between Sen. Charles Robb, D-Va., and Virginia Gov. Douglas Wilder, Democratic political operatives say the damage to both men is permanent. No one believes they really kissed and made up, and their credibility is allot.

The squabble gave nationwide publicity to liegations that Robb, when he was governor of Virginia, had a fling with a former Miss Virginia. He denies the affair, and says all he got from the woman was a back rub, but the friendly massage explanation has a gamy ring to it.

Robb also has to overcome the fact that his office had possession for two and a half years of a copy of a tape, which illegally, of Wilder chatting about his nemesis Robb on a cellular phone. The copy has belatedly been destroyed.

The things Wilder said on the tape about Robb were not outrageous, given the animosity between the two big Demo-cratic fish living in a small pond. The gov-ernor probably could survive that mini-scandal. But Wilder has not totally cleaned himself of suspicions that he was behind an abortive state police investigation of those who spread tales about the beauty queen episode. Robb's friends say Wilder was just trying to humiliate their man to advance his own political agenda.

Robb's political career has bumped up against a ceiling in Virginia. The son-in-law of Lyndon Johnson with the Boy Scout Image will not be suitable as presidential, or even vice-presidential material, as long as Americane remember the massage, and they will remember it long enough. It is questionable whether Robb will be any good to his party at all, even in state elections.

One veteran Democrat, with ties to both the liberal and conservative leadership of the party, speculated that Robb would soon drop out of his job as chairman of the Democratic Senatorial Campaign Committee, it is a position that is heavy on fund raising and stumping for the party and its candidates.

Robb's appearances on behalf of candidates will inevitably lead to questions about the beauty queen and the feud with Wilder hardly the best setting for hitting up party fat cate for campaign money.

If Robb still harbors any illusions of one day living in or near the White House, he should talk to Gary Hart. The comparison between Hart and Robb is inevitable. "Can you imagine Gary Hart ever running for president again?" the Democratic Insider told us.

What ruined him was not the monkey business with the girl (Donna Rice), even though he was married. It was his lack of judgment in doing it right in the middle of his presidential campaign. Whatever Robb did with Miss Virginia may not have been criminal, but it was surely stupid. At every campaign stop for the rest of his life, it will be in the voters' minds."

It seems that the American voters will forgive almost everything except stupid judgment. And in the Virginia flasco, there is plenty of that to go around. Wilder's name has now been linked with dirty tricks. It is hard enough for a black candidate to get on the presidential ticket, much less one who is accused of trying to derail a member of his own party. If Wilder is to recover from this episode, he will have to paint himself as the injured party who was fighting back in self-defense.

edition that United will announce plans to double its Orlando departures to 45 by sill.

United Airlines spokesman Joe Hopkins confirmed that United corporate chairman Stephen Wolf and Gov. Lawton Chiles would hold a news conference Monday, but he declined to discuss any announcement.

United employs 100 people in Orlando and operates 18 flights a day to Chicago, Denver, Los Angeles, San Francisco and Washington-Dulles, as well as some in-state flights.

Disney cruice line restructures

ORLANDO - The official cruise line of Walt Disney World is restructuring its management, which is expected to prompt an undisclosed number of layoffs in the next 90 days, the company said in a recent internal memorandum.

Premier Cruise Lines Inc., based in Port Canaveral. acknowledged in the memo obtained by The Orlando Sentinel that it has been hurt by this year's slump in tourism and by increased competition for cruise passengers. It said the year has been "both difficult and unsettling for our organization."

Premier, in the memo dated June 21, said that as part of a corporate "refocusing," it "is clear that we may also have to reduce the number of positions in our current organization and the number of passile we employ.

the number of people we employ.
"We will, of course, attempt to accomplish this through natural attrition and voluntary measures; however, it is quite possible that involuntary separations may also be necessary."

Florida Power bide for Sebring

SEBRING — Florida Power Corp. submitted a bid of $52.8 million for the purchase of Sebring Utilities Commission, the company announced.

Florida Power said Friday that if the deal was accepted, it would reduce every customer's average monthly bill to as little as $13 and no more than $30.

The company said the purchase would eliminate the commission's long-term debt and significantly increase property tax revenues for both the city and county.
"We feel our proposal is competitive and clearly demonstrates our sincere desire to serve this community's electrical needs," said Florida Power Vice President Pete Dagostino. Any agreement reached between the two utilities is subject to approval by the Florida Public Service Commission.

Survey: Just over half drivers use seat belts

TALLAHASSEE - Nearly half of all drivers and passengers on Plorida roads still don't use seat belts four years after the state made it a law to wear them.

About 51.3 percent of motorists statewide are using seat belts, according to a survey by the state Department of Transportation.

The highest seat belt use ever was 61 percent, reached in January 1967 when police first began enforcing the law amid heavy publicity. It has fluctuated since then but has never been above 65 percent according to bove 55 percent, according to

DOT surveys.

The results disappoint safety advocates, who hoped the second mandatory seat belt law would persuade the great majority of drivers and passengers to buckle up. They want police to issue more $32 tickets for people not wearing seat belts.

The Florida Coalition of Auto Safety plans to lobby the Legislature next year to eliminate a section of the law that prohibits police from stopping motorists solely for not using seat belts.

"We still haven't reached the high-risk drivers, the people who are involved in the crashes," said Kathleen Teague, executive director of the group. "After five years, we've worked pretty continuously and we're not going up despite all of the efforts going on."

The goal for Florida and the nation is to reach 70 percent the average nationwide for seat belt use by September belt use is 50 percent — despite the fact that 40 states and the advocates say, even the least responsible drivers who cause more than their share of acci- 1984.

dents would be buckling up. "There's more of a payoff at the top above 50 percent than at the bottom." said James Nichols, a safety administrator at the National Highway Traffic Safety Administration.

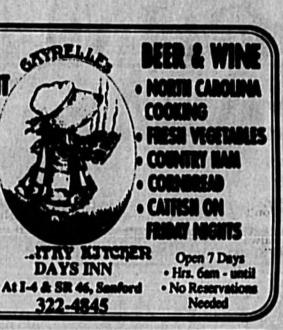

The federal agency estimates 3,650 lives would be saved nationally if 70 percent of motorists buckled up. Last year, 44,529 died in traffic accidents in the 50 states and the District of Columbia.

In Florida, using the federal formula, 70 percent seat belt use would save almost 700 lives a year. In 1990, 2.951 died on Florida roads.

thing that mattered."
In 1983, Colline rushed for 1,040 yards and 10 touchdowns and was selected to represent the APC in the Pro Bowl.

During Collins' seven seasons with the Patriots, he continued to develop into one of the NFL's most talented running backs.

He rushed for a total of 4,647 yards and 32 touchdowns and led the Patriots to the AFC title in 1985 before losing to the Chicago Bears in Super Bowl

I first got involved in drugs lightly during my rookie season. At first it was just at parties and stuff like that," said Collins. "But a couple of years down the line it got to the point that it was no longer just at parties. I was doing it at home all the time and I reached a point where I lost everything."

In 1988, Collins tested positive for cocaine and was suspended from the NFL. "I knew then that I had to make a change in my life." said

After a stint in a rehabilitation center in Houston, TX. Collins returned to Sanford and started to turn his life around.

He lived at home for a full year and reacquainted binnelf with and reacquatested binness with his family and with God.

"My time at the reliab center really didn't do that much for me as coming back to Sanford and being dround my family and letting them show me how much they love me was my key to the way out." said Collins. "I believe that is how I was delivered. Through God, through my family, and through the people at the New Life Word Center Church and Pastor Ronald Merthie, is how I got to where I am today and where I want to stay.

Collins was reinstated by the NPL in 1990 and was acquired by the Miami Dolphins.

"That was a great schievement for me. Being banned from the NFL was like having a black cloud hanging over my head," said Collins. "I didn't want to leave a black mark at the end of my career. Being reinstated lifted that cloud from over my head and Coach Don Shula gave me a chance to play again. Even though I didn't get to play much and was released at the end of the season, it was great to be back in the NFL."

After the completion of the 1990 season, Collins teamed up with his cousin Leon Bright. from Merritt Island and formerly of the New York Glants and Tampa Bay Buccaneers, to start a football instructional camp for children.

Collins received some unexpected help from the expansion Orlando Predators of the Arena Football League. At first Collins laughed at the idea of playing Arena Football but he soon changed his way of thinking.

"Coach Perry Moss gave me a call and saked me if I wanted to play. At first I didn't know who to think," and Collins, "Buthen'I though that this could be then I though that this could be good for me as for so the Orlando area. I said that I'd being willing to play if they would become one of the sponsors for my instructional camp. They agreed and it has worked out well for both of

The Predators agreed to

The Predators agreed to sponsor many inner-city children that otherwise wouldn't have a chaice to participate in an activity of this nature.

"That's what it's all about. If I can get something done for the kids then I've gained something positive from Arena Football," and Collins. "The kids are what is important. Showing the kids that using drugs is not the way and that education is the way. Having a positive stitude, doing what's right and and making yourself the best that you can possibly be is what its all about. Helping the kids to not make the same mistakes I've made is the most important message we try most important message we try

Collins, 31, is hopeful of re-turning to the NFL before his playing days are over, but is much more concerned with helping Central Florida's youth to avoid the mistakes he has

"I don't want the kids to go through what I've gone through to be where I'm at now. Day by day I have to watch everything I do, everything I say, everywhere I go and who I talk to," said Collins. "It's a tough way to go the infield. He has a good arm and is a good athlete with lots of potential. And with that good arm he may get a chance to be the ninth inning closer once Calapa will get first shot at third base as the Raiders look to get more punch in the lineup.

"We have already planned on moving Joey Golinski to pitcher," said Pantelias of last year's starting third sacker. "He did well defensively last year but didn't hit well, and he has been pitching this summer and doing a great job. B.J. and a couple of others will be given a shot at third. Whichever one is hitting best will play there."

Another reason for signing Calapa was not directly related to baseball.

"He came well recommended by his coach (ex-SCC star Mike Ferrell)," said Pantelias. "Mike said he is a leader type, is an excellent student and has a good work ethic. Those are things we look for in players we bring to SCC. Our first goal is to help these young men mature and get a good education."

Calapa said getting a chance to play immediately and being close to home were the major factors in his decision.

"I chose SCC because of the good opportunity to play and it was close to home," said Calapa. "Being here I don't have to leave home. I still want to be around my family for a few more years."

Calapa's father Dan was just as enthusiastic about the prospect of getting to see his son play college baseball. "I couldn't be happier", said the elder Calapa. Pantelias applauded Calapa's decision to remain close to

"He did a great job for us." said Ferrell. "After having him for all three years I've been at Oviedo it's going to seem strange not having him there. He had to make a lot of sacrifices for us this year. The first two years he was on the varsity we didn't pitch him much because we wanted him to concentrate on his batting and defense. But this year he was our ace pitcher and had to worry about pitching

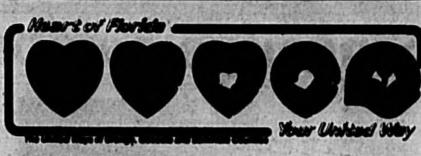

"It probably affected his hitting. That happens in high school a lot where you have to use a player to benefit the team more than the individual. But B.J. vas the consumate team player, always willing to do what was needed for the team.

Pantelias said he is excited about the upcoming season. "We're really looking forward to this season," said Pantelias.

"We have 16 kids coming back from last year and with signees like Calapa we should do very well. I've been a little lax in my coaching the last couple of years. It's time to get down to business and work hard again. This looks like it could be the team I've been waiting on for 16 years."

The signing of Calapa shows the change in recruiting philosophy SCC has adopted.

'In the past when we could play unlimited games in the fail we invited everyone out and signed some kids who might become diamonds in the rough," said Pantelias. "Everyone who came out got to play a lot of games and got a fair chance to make the team. But now we can only play 80 games total (both fall and spring combined) so we went after boys we knew could play and would make the team."

Sinusitus can be a pain

Sinus disease is one of the most common complaints presented by patients to primary care physicians throughout the United States. Statistical data has shown that nusitie and arthritis are the two most common diseases present within the population of the United States. The span of patients who have sinusitis deals from early infancy through all age groups.

Patients frequently present with complaints of sinus disease relating to headaches in the mid-facial region, nasal obstruction and nasal drainage.

The character of the head-

Nasal obstruction can be iden-

The nasal drainage likewise can vary in character from a whitish post nasal drainage to a foul tasting and smelling post nasal drainage. The patients frequently note

As well as frank structural abnormalities, chronic swelling can cause blockage of these sinus openings and lead to recurrent or persistent sinusitis. The swelling alone can lead to the sinusitis which in turn can lead to a chronic muscosal condition which does not allow for adequate sinus ventilation.

With complaints of sinusitis. the patient needs thorough evaluation which would include a thorough history, physical evaluation, possibly sinus x-rays and possibly blood studies or other diagnostic studies.

Frequently with the longstanding history of these pro-blems a specialist would advise evaluation of the anterior and posterior aspects of the nasal cavity using a specialized fiberoptic scope to evaluate the opening of the sinuses into the nose. Other studies may entail advanced x-rays including a CT scan of the sinuses.

In addition, many patients with chronic sinus disease have underlying allergies which warrant evaluation and therapy, as indicated depending upon their severity, to obtain relief from nasal obstruction and recurrent infections. Some patients benefit from specialized sinus or nasal

Diapers: cloth or disposable?

ORLANDO - More mothers are beginning to prefer cotton cloth diapers to disposables, according to officials at the Arnold Palmer Hospital for Children and Women in Orlando.

Four months ago, the hospital launched a pilot program using reusable cotton cloth diapers for newborn babies.

"The use of cloth diapers by the Arnold Palmer Hospital can help prevent further destruction of the evironment," said Lois Yingling. Nurse Manager of the mother/baby unit at the hospital.

Since the program began at the hospital, many parents are choseing to use the cotton diapers over disposables. Less than 20 percent of the parents have requested disposable diapers.

The hospital reports that the cost of buying and washing cotton diapers is comparable to buying disposables.

Robin, a perky redhead with a spray of freekles across her nose, smiles prettily as she speaks in a slightly raspy voice, the only vestige of the damage done to her in a car accident February

Robin was riding in the back seat with some friends, returning from church early that bright afternoon, her father, Al Bowlin, says, when in a split second, the car careened onto the shoulder. plunged into a concrete culvert and rolled end over end.

Robin's brain twisted and bounced in her skull. damaging the stem. She lay in a coma for 12 days, and comatose for four more days, hovering between life and death, with only scrapes and abrasions to her face as evidence of her ordeal. She had no broken bones, Bowlin says.

Robin was airlifted to Orlando Regional Medical Center.

"We got the call and were told she was at Halifax (in Daytona) but that was where they took the other girl who was with her. We were frantic not knowing. When we finally got information. they said she wasn't breathing in the helicopter. With a closed head injury there was no way for them to tell how bad her injuries were, but we thought we lost her." Bowlin says.

When she awoke. Robin couldn't move. Doctors weren't sure if she would ever walk again.

"Soon she could move, scratch her head for instance, but only if she commanded her own brain. If a nurse told her to move her arm, she couldn't respond," Bowlin says. "For awhile. there was a noticable weakness in her right side, even her face drooped on the right side," Bowlin

But Robin was determined to dance again with the Seminole High School award winning team "Dazzlers," of which she's been a member for three consecutive years.

"When I first woke up, I didn't know where I was. I thought I was somewhere else and it took awhile to get back to this year," Robin says. She says she became more determined to dance when they told her she probably couldn't. "Personally, I felt they were all full of crap telling me that I might not walk again. I intended to walk." a felsty Robin relates. Bowlin says the doctors were impressed with Robin's determination and strong will. "They use the words determined and strongwilled. I say she's stubborn and hard-headed and the forgetfulness she was experiencing comes naturally to her," Bowlin tease

When she was receiving therapy at the Brain Injury Rehabilitation Center, Bowlin says the nurses were shocked one day to enter Robin's room and find the wobbly patient practicing her stretches and dance steps.

"She was trying to warm up." Bowlin says about the daughter who has been dancing for eight years.

"I thought I needed to practice," Robin admits. Robin, who once sang in the church choir in her clear crisp voice, and with Pizzzz, the Seminole High School chorus and dence team, says she is determined to perfect her singing voice, still demaged from the accident. She may need surgery, and doctor's any there is a possibility she may never sing again. "Oh yes I will," she says.

"I might not be the oldest member but I think I've been a member the longest," Witte, an active 78, chuckled.

Recently designated a Melvin Jones Fellow, Witte was recognized for his commitment to serving the world community. The fellowship is considered Lions Club's highest honor internationally and has been con-ferred on 33,500 recipients spanning nearly 80 countries worldwide.

Witte spoke modestly about his award.

"Oh. I think they just gave it to me for my longevity with the club," he jokingly said. "Well. maybe my devotion had a little to do with it."

But Sanford Lions Club President Norm Hart said he sees Witte as the consummate gentleman and club member.

"He's pure gentleman, 100 percent. The thing that impresses me about Henry is he's so willing to bring his background and experience to everything with no limitations. It's not only knowledge he adds, but er's market in Ft. Meyers. Fla.

Plans final for festival of arts

The committees are in place, JoAnne Lucas reports, and plans are finalized for the Fifth Annual Lake Mary-Heathrow Festival of the Arts, to be held October 5 and 6 at L&L Acres Ranch. across from Heathrow.

The show will again be an outstanding incorporation of the best of the fine and performing arts. JoAnne said the concept was the first of its kind for Seminole County, and in 1987. the festival was recognized as the largest event ever held in the county's history. In 1990, over $15,000 was donated to area scholarships.

A premier art jury will be selecting more than 300 artist from around the country to exhibit in this event. The artists will display their works outdoors while programs in the performing arts ranging from formal symphonic music to modern jazz entertain guests.

Over 80,000 people are expected to attend this year.

Children have not been forgotten at this big event, for they are the very ones whose creativity grows and fosters festivale such as this one. Included in the children's festival will be Crealde School of Art with complimentary workshope in wire and wood sculpture wearable art, mural painting and other demonstrations.

A Seminole County Studen Art Exhibit, coordinated by John Blair, director of fine arts for the county, will be on display with over 800 entries.

Face painting and balloon ar will be provided by popular are

And the Kidzshoppe will b back. Artists participating in th festival will provide original as work that can be sold for $1 and under. Only school age children will be permitted inside the special tent to select and purchase the art.

Inacomp Computers, one of the new corporate sponsors of the event, will provide the childrens' area with Apple and IBM computers for the children to experience and work with computer graphics.

Other corporate sponsors are Stromberg Carlson, Southern Bell and Courtesy Pontiac.

JoAnne said the art committee has sent out 10,700 applications to potential exhibitors. Three hundred will be chosen.

If you have not been contacted, the festival board invites any interested artist to submit an original painting to be featured on the poster for the Fifth Annual Art Festival. Send a slide of your artwork to Lake Mary-Heathrow Festival of the Arts, Attention: Poster Committee. 120 International Parkway. Suite 220, Heathrow, 32746. Deadline for application is Monday, July 29. Prize money will be awarded at the festival, including two $1.500 purses for best of show. 10 awards of distinction, each $500 and eight awards of merit at $250 each.

Depression can overwhelm elderly after spouse's death

DEAR MARY: My father, age 83, really has me concerned. My mother and dad were married for 56 years, and since my mom died, dad just wants to stay in his house. drinking beer and watching TV. He never wants to go anywhere or do anything. He doesn't even want to take a shower, change his clothes, or come to our house for dinner. He often seems confused and disoriented when I talk to him. and he seems to have just pulled into his shell as far as being in contact with other people.

My husband says I should just leave him alone and let him live out his last days however he wants to: but I know it's not good for him to just sit in the house alone day after day, drinking beer and watching TV. I just want him to have the best quality life he can with the time he has left. Do you think I should leave him alone?

LOVING DAUGHTER

DEAR DAUGHTER: Ask yourself this question: If you found your father lying on the floor with a broken leg, but he just wanted to be left there because it would be too painful to have it set, would you consider leaving him there to live out his last days?

In my opinion, leaving an older person alone in isolation and depression with alcohol and TV as their only "pleasures" is the same as leaving their physical needs

Many older people medicate their feelings rather than experience the grief of the loss of loved ones and friends, job, or home. They often operate on a set of values that have stressed self-reliance and don't talk easily about their problems, or depression and isolation and make them susceptible to late-onset chemical dependency of alcohol as well as prescription and over-thecounter drugs. Chemical de-pendency leads to greater physical and emotional deterioration, depriving them of the chance to enjoy their last years. One-to-one counseling can ask for help. This can lead to be more effective for older people than group treatment because they are often not comfortable expressing their feelings in a group. If your father won't allow you to help him, call his physician or the Informtion and Referral Service (Orange County, 894-1441: Seminole County, 629-1289) for suggestions.

Recording your family past is best done in the present

DEAR ABSY: I have a sugges-tion for your readers. Tell them to urge their parents to identify the photon of their ancestors. When our parents died, my stater and I had no idea who was in the photographs we were left.

Fortunately, my sister traveled to Denmark and was able to get in touch with relatives who could identify the people.

DEAR MARILYN: I couldn't agree more. A few years ago, I received this letter that dealt with the problem:

DEAR ABST: You suggested that "older people" should mark the backs of family pictures while they can still remember who's who, when the pictures were taken and the approximate dates. Why only "older people"? That's something everybody should do as soon as a snapshot is developed.

For years, I was too busy (or too lazy) to do it, and now that I'm retired and have plenty of time, I can't remember who half the people are.

My parents can't help me because my father has been dead for 25 years, and my mother is in a rest home, unable to remember much of anything.

So here I sit, with a big box of family pictures — beating my brains out trying to recall names, dates and places. What a messi

Abby, please remind your readers often to label their pictures. Then their grandchildren won't have to go through what I'm going through

RICKING MYSELF IN ASBURY PARK DEAR EXCEING: Not only should family pictures be labeled but accounts of historical events and newspaper clippings of births, graduations, marriages and deaths in the family should be preserved in a sturdy scrap-

Fascinating family histories could be preserved if younger members interviewed older relatives at family gatherings. A tape recorder would be ideal for this purpose.

Succeeding generations will

DEAR ABBY: My husband and I disagree on how our children should address their elders. My husband and his family feel that children should always address adults as "Mr. or Mrs. So and So," regardless of the adult's preference otherwise the child will not learn to respect adults.

What is yur opinion? Should my children address you as 'Miss Van Buren' even though you ask them to call you "Dear Abby"?

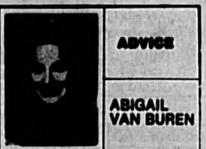

PREFERS FIRST NAME DEAR PREFERS: To show respect to an adult, one addresses that person as he/she asks to be addressed.

If a man named "Rudolph" says, "Please call me Rudy." to ignore his request and call him 'Rudolph' would be rude.

DEAR ABBY: I have a friend who insists he is not addicted to tobacco because he doesn't smoke cigarettes — he smokes a pipe! He says, "I don't inhale, so a pipe can't hurt me.'

Meanwhile, his wife inhales his secondhand smoke all day, and it must hurt because she has a respiratory problem and a chronic cough. This man claims he doesn't have a habit, yet he is never seen without some kind of pipe — which he constantly is lighting, packing with tobacco, tapping into an ashtray or fiddling with in some manner.

He has a very impressive collection of pipes as well as a variety of fancy blends of tobacco, so it's apparent that he is not just a casual smoker. He brags that he could quit his pipe tomorrow and never miss it because he really doesn't have a

SANFORD — Jimi Brooks is in SARPORD—Jimi Brooks is in Sanford by mistake.

Brooks, 37, grins expansively as he tells the tale of how he and his wife, Meta, 30, boarded the Auto Train in Washington. D.C., with the intention of exploring Miami as a possible place to relocate from the hectic northeast. They headed accept hereasing that They headed south knowing that they wanted to continue working with children and that Brooks' cousins in Miami were expecting

"I got on thinking the Auto Train was going to Miami. I looked at my ticket and said 'Wow, they made a mistake. This ticket says Sanford. We're going to Miami. What's Sanford?" Brooks says he recalls saying to the ticket-taker.

But the train didn't go to Miami. Sanford is the end of the line. Brooks

Brooks holds a bachelor's degree in political science and a master's degree in public administration. Over the years he worked for the government, living in many places, and managed his sister's education-oriented preschool. He says he didn't know a lot about child care, but somehow knew it would become his life's work. He and Meta took courses at Harvard University and Cambridge College in Boston, becoming more fascinated with the concept of positively shaping children's lives.

"We decided to check Central Plorida licensing for dayesre centers after our day at Epost. We wanted a multi-cultural multi-thnic facility where we could care for infants, toddlers, pre-kindergarten students and have a summer camp. They told us they had one in Winter Park and three for sale in Sanford. We looked at each other and said, 'We know Senford from our Auto Train ride!"

Brooks explains.

Brooks thinks Sanford is the perfect town in which to settle down:

"We need to speak positively about it. It's a melting pot and we all grow from a cultural melting pot. in ghetios and barrios of many cities, when a poor person makes it, they move out. Here, you have such interesting intermixing where a sixth grade educated man lives next door to the principal." Brooks says. "Nobody can be around one class of people all their lives," Meta adds.

Brooks' philosophy is rooted in his belief that children are our future and they must be encouraged to have self-worth and to ask many questions about the world around them. His civic activism has included fighting for a better drainage system in the Goldboro neighborhood in which First Impressions Early Childhood Development Center, the Brooks' business, is located.

"The children were showing up muddy and wet. Some areas were knee deep in stagnant water after knee deep in stagnant water after a rain. There were pan-sized catfish and tadpoles in the ditches, along with broken glass, and these kids were playing in there." Brooks says. "They were coming to school sick with colds and rashes." He and Meta collected over 600 residents' signatures to help make the city aware of the problem. City crews are now working on the Syd Levy, owner of Flea World, at the time Fun World was being built.

Here's Syd Levy's world: family fun and bargains

By VICKI Desonation Herald Staff Writer

SANFORD - Syd Levy has fun at work.

It's a good thing he does, because the owner and operator of Fun World and Flea World on U.S. Highway 17-92 in Sanford works seven days a week making sure that his family-oriented bargain complex is run according to his high standards.

"It's not really like I'm a kid in a big play-ground," he said, walking between the two miniature golf courses at Fun World toward the newly-opened bumper car facility. "It really is Levy, a Central Florida resident since 1968, also owns United Trophy and Sign World in downtown Orlando.

"I'd been in the trophy business for more than 20 years when I got bored," he said. "I found this land here across from where Art Grindle used to have his car place and I bought it."

Within a year Flea World was born.

"I wanted to create a family fun and bargain center," he said. "I with a family fun cent wanted to create a place See Levy, Page 18 that had something for every member of the family.

After a few years the Flea World Zoo opened. Levy said that the Central Florida Zoo had announced plans that they might possibly be leaving the area.

"It wasn't designed to be competition for the zoo." he said, "as a matter of fact, we worked with them."

However, there were problems and last year. after two and a half years in operation. Levy decided to replace the zoo with a family fun center.

Umpire influences kids for years

El've been accused of trying to coach and umpire at the same time. I know most of the boys. I used to coach. If I can be an influence for them, why shouldn't I take a shot?

-Henry 'Pree' Debese

But not Henry Debose. When he sees little leaguer standing too close to the late, he tells him to back up. Or after pitcher balks, he explains how not to consult the offense a second time.

For 15 years, Debose has called alls, strikes, and outs in city little lague and adult baseball and softball passes. And wherever he travels, he also his positive attitude and desire to sip others with him, making the lane for for all.

Even though Debose's attempts to solve little league players sometimen is riticised by parents or coaches, he'll sever stop giving advice to baseball's objects.

"I've been accused of trying to coach and umptre (at the same time)." said lebose. "I know most of the boys. I ohot?"

Otis Raines, a little league coach sisce 1982, enjoys the aid Debose gives hime and his squads.

"Up until 16-year-olds, it's a learning stage," commented Raines. "It's good to have an umpire also explain things to the kids. Coaches can't see everything. I think it helps the kids."

Duane LaFollete, who runs the umptre association which employs Debose, agrees with Raines.

"He (Debose) knows how to deal with the kids," said LaFollete. "When you umptre, you're a role model, an instructor. You go to a new level, He can associate with the kids and make them foot interest. He can make them them feel relaxed. He can make them enjoy the game."

According to Debose, called Press by his friends, that's the idea.

"People are there to have fun," said Debose. "The game is for the players." It should be no surprise that Debose can so easily umpire little league contest, often a ulcer-causing event for the men in blue. After all, he works with kide all day at Sanford's Hamilton Elementary, where he runs the after school program following his duties as a janitor during the day.

"It's a good job," stated Debose about the position he has held since September. "The people there are

And Debose's exposure to children, as well as his large-family background (he has 12 brother and sisters), has given him a great deal of knowledge concerning tomorrow's hopeful lead-

Now don't think Debose doesn't know his stuff. He's seen the youth of Sanford grow up for 46 years. Debose attended Crooms Academy before □See Umpire, Page 12

RING AID MODE

Beltone - A free offer of special interest to those who hear but do not understand words has been announced by Beltone. A non-operating model of the smallest hearing aid Bettone has ever developed will be given absolutely free to anyone requesting it.

It's yours for the asking, so send for it now. It is not a real hearing aid, but it will show you how tiny hearing help can be. The actual aid weighs less than an eighth of an ounce, and it fits completely into the ear canal.

These models are free, so we suggest you write for yours now. Again, there is no cost, and certainly no obligation. Although a hearing aid may not help everyone, more and more people with hearing losses are being helped.

"I've really seen things change over the years." commented Debose, "I was in Sanford when the projects were open fields."

Debose has seen the celery fields of yesterday yield to the industrial market which currently thrives with all types of businesses.

He has seen the housing improve, with himself relocating to Lincoln Heights subdivision in 1968, where he still lives.

And he has viewed Sanford from all walks of life, from a farmer to a construction to a parent. He likes what he sees.

"Now, Sanford is industrial. It has taken a lot of us (the people of Sanford) from mediocore to better jobs," said Debose. "It has helped us earn more money.

"Sanford is a good place to live. What better place can you raise a family than Sanford?"

So Debose has been one of the center pieces of Sanford, a constant in a city that has made the transformation from a southern farming town to today's ever-growing urban hotbed. And all the while, he has been trying to improve himself, and, in turn, give joy to those around him.

"He's a positive influence on the community as a whole," said Raines. "He has a very positive attitude toward the kids."

"I'm a people person," Debose explained. "I love people. I treat people like I want to be treated.

"You let the Lord control you, and then you can treat people right. My life has been great."

And so have the lives of those who have been helped by the friendly man behind home plate.

Seminole High cites service

SANFORD — Top honors for outstanding community service were recently awarded to David Guy and Tom Stevenson, of the Central Florida Division of Arvida, by Seminole High School Principal Wayne Epps.

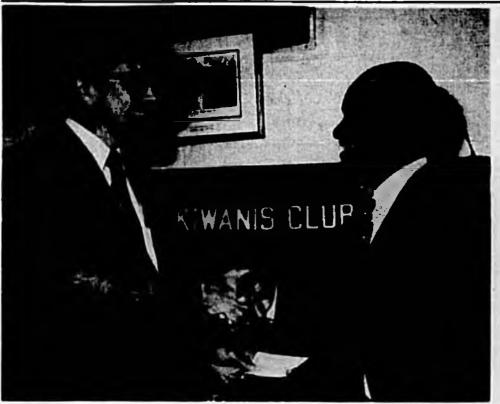

The Principal's Award, an annual tradition of Seminole High School, is awarded to an individual or corporation in the community that has demonstrated outstanding support for the school and students.

President David Guy said in a press release.

"Arvida Company is proud to have been a part of the tremendous strides that have taken place at Seminole High, and we plan to continue our support of the students, faculty and administration in all areas of education."

In addition to a $10,000 re-landscaping program provided last year. Arvida recently awarded Seminole High School Sentor Steven Wilbur with a $2,500 scholarship and William Boyd a $250 scholarship through the Sanford Chamber of Commerce.

On a more personal note, nine Arvida employees, including David Guy, spend one morning a week working one-on-one with students in the Seminole High School Mentor Program. And Tom Stevenson. Director of Governmental Allairs for Arvida, is a standing member of COMSAC (Community and Student Action Committee), an organization charged with the responsibility of generating more corporate support and scholarships for Seminole High School.

Kids get a chance

By J. MARK BARFIELD Herald Staff Writer

SANFORD - Offering kids a chance is the goal of the Boys and Girls operated at Midway Ele-Club in Sanford.

'We want to turn out disadvantaged kids to be a driving force to tomorrow," said Don Miller, director of Seminole clubs, based in Sanford. "We're trying to offer change rather than hanging in the streets. With me, education is number one.'

For two years, the Boys and Girls Club of Sanford has offered a variety of programs and activities for kids aged 6 to 15 years of age. Miller said 350 boys and girls are registered in the Sanford program and about 125 children attend daily.

The clubs offer summer programs from 10 a.m. until 5 p.m. each weekday and include a free lunch. During school months, the clubs operate from 3:30 p.m. help. There are also until 6 p.m. The cost is $1 per year for each child.

Since February, a satellite club has been mentary School, Miller said. The day it opened, 115 children registered. As many as 193 children attend programs there daily. Miller said the Midway club has created a lot of excitement.

'They were very excited about out club." Miller said. "There wasn't nothing to do."

There is also a satellite club at the New Bethel A.M.E. Church in the crime-ridden Winwood neighborhood, which is run by Miller.

Miller said the Sanford club features a softball field that doubles for volleyball or other outdoor sports. There is a full-sized enclosed basketball court. The clubs offer sports, arts and crafts and tutorial social clubs, open to both boys and girls, that perform civic activities as well encourages interaction among members.

In addition to the tutorial classes for kids. the club offers highschool equivalency classes for adults seeking to better themselves. To Miller, education is the most important aspect of the clubs.

"These other things are important, but I tell the kids not to let their school work slip. That's real important to me."

Miller also stresses respect to the children.

"They'll come in here sometimes using #fid language and just not getting along." After a while, they start saying 'Mister' and 'Missus' and acting more properly and dressing a little neater. I teach them to respect themselves and to respect the property of

The first nonmilitary colonization of what is now Sanford began in 1942 when a group of 160 people arrived at Fort Mellon from St. Augustine to settle the rich lands north of Lake Jesup, itself discovered by an army expedition from Fort Mellon in 1937, Francke wrote.

Those first settlers called their settlement "Camp Defiance." All but a few soon left when the government changed its land poli-

As Camp Defiance wasending. Mellonville was emerging near Completion. From 1945 to 1856, Mellonville served as the accord county seat of what was by then known as "Orange County." Mellonville served as the post office for much of Orange County and resmined an independent community until 1883 when it was merged with Senford.

Sanford itself was formed in 1870 by Gen. Henry B. Sanford, a minister to Belgium for eight years. Sanford is also believed to have reported on Confederate troop activity to the U.S. Army during the Civil War.

Sanford began a land company to sell a 19-aquare-mile area of land that was originally a Spanish land grant. The grant was incorporated into the Florida Land and Colonization Co. Lid. by Sanford, and commonly became known as the "Sanford Grant. In 1884, Sanford advertised lots for easy long-pay terms.

in 1875, Sanford built an elegant 200room hotel. Senford House, facing a horticultural park between Commercial and First Streets. The hotel served Presidents Ulysses S. Grant, Chester A. Arthur and Grover Cleveland, Sanford also built a 800-foot pier into the lake to serve river trade and travel. He also established a telegraph service.

Sanford also brought 150 Swedish immigrants to work his lands, requiring them to work for him for a year to pay for their travel. They remained, farming the community Upania on the city's west side.

Sanford continued to develop and prosper in the following decades as a commercial and agricultural center. Its importance was preserved as the county seat in 1913 when Seminole County was created out of Orange County.

He is also a board member of the Greater Sanford Chamber of Commerce.

The Brooks both volunteer as coaches for children's Plag Football.

Most of all, they spend their time expounding on the wonderful, unique city they have chosen as their home.

"Sanford is a rainbow coalition full of men, women, young, old, white, black, fat and skinny people who have the potential to learn from each other and make this an even better place. Sanford is a town full of friendly neighborhoods. Do you know how cold people in Boston are? People there don't wave at anybody. Here they wave and smile," Brooks grins.

He said he's glad the train stopped where it did.

While not a professional sport Sanford has had several track athletes, including hurdler Clifton Campbell, who have gone on to become recognized worldwide.

And these are just the one's I know of since coming to Sanford in the late 1980's, I know there are many, many more out there who have reached the pinacle of sports. It gives me a lot of pride to be able to get in a conversation with other sports nuts and tell them of the great sports tradition of the small town of Sanford, Florida.

With what Levy calls the largest game room in Sanford, possibly the largest in Central Florida. a restaurant and birthday party room, two miniature golf courses, a bumper boat course, a go-cart course, bumper cars and nine midway rides, Fun World is beginning to take the shape that Levy had envisioned.

'We're going to add another go-cart course and some more midway rides," Levy said.

'And over there," he noted, motioning to the wooded area behind the existing parking area. "is where we'll put our Festival Pavillion."

The pavillion will be an X-shaped building which will host trade shows and conventions. The building, still nothing more than a scrawled outline on a Post-It pad on Levy's cluttered desk, is an estimated two years from opening.

SANFORD — The Seminole High School alumni-student association has helped graduates take steps toward continuing with their post-secondary education.

COMSAC (COMmunity and Student Action Committee) presented a dozen scholarships to graduating seniors this year.

"Our alumni and citizens have contributed over $25,000 in the past two years, most of which is used in the scholarship funds," said Billy Higgins, a SHS alumnus and chairman of the group.

He said that this year, COMSAC presented four scholarships more this year than they did in 1990.

"We don't know of any other high school except Seminole High School where the alumni have chosen to give so much back to their school in this way," Higgins said. "Sanford's small town family atmosphere and pride are the reasons our alumni participate."

ggins secretary Nancy Julian and scholarship nice winners Steve Wilbur, Melody Brorup, Wills, Melody Roberts, Barry Burnette.

Eight of the 12 scholarships were awarded at the school's award night on May 7.

There, $1,000 in scholarships cane from the alumni and citizens of Sanford: $2,500 was donated by the Arvida Corporation and another $2,500 scholarship was financed by Betty Glenn. in memory of her husband Norman Glenn.

Four additional scholarships were given by the COMSAC education committee. These scholarships were awarded based on academic perfomance, financial need and community and family involvement.

The COMSAC and community scholarship w i n ners were: Demaris Bachir, Rebecca Bolton, Melody Brorup, Barry Burnette, Carolyn Davis, Jennifer Jones, Michael Smith, Melody Roberts and Steve Wilbur.

The Norman Glenn Scholarship was awarded to Shawn Wyman, who was a member of the Work Study Program.

The Arvida Scholarship and a $1,000 COMSAC scholarship was awarded to Steve Wilbur, who will be attending Georgia Tech in the fall.

"We are very gratified to see these deserving kids get help starting their college education." Higgins said.
