The way we were: Remember the zoo

Do you remember the Sanford Municipal Zoo, which was located in the block that now is occupied by the city hall? Have you ever wondered how it got started?

I recently came across an article in the August 7, 1977, edition of the Sanford Heroid that gave some of its history, and then I did some further research at

In 1923, By Smith, custodian of the Elks Club, was given a rhesus monkey by a friend who was traveling with a circus. At first Sy kept the monkey at the Elka Club, but that did not work out, so he gave the monkey to the Sanford Fire Department. Soon aftewards. fireman J.C. Chamblee brought the little fellow a female playmate.

The townspeople enjoyed watching the antics of these two, but the monkeys kept wandering off, so the fireman built a pen and pool in the firehouse parking lot. The firehouse at this time was located in the 100 block of south Palmetto Ave. Barbara Farrell recently has renovated this building and lives upstairs. The jail also was located in that block.

Before long, people began donating animals such as raccoons, ducks, forces. skunks, alligators and porcu-pines. And, of course, they became quite an attraction for the people of Sanford.

News came from the Sanford city commission in 1924 that the animals could no longer be kept at the firehouse. Police chief Roy Williams suggested that the city provide a place for the animals and the jail in-mates be allowed to care for

The city commission then designed the vacant lot across from the courthouse as a home for a municipal soo after a request from Floyd Palmer, president of the Senford Jaycess.

Cages were bought and the police and fire departments worked jointly to transfer the animals to their new home.

There's a little of the soo file at the fandred Museum that gives the costs of all the acquired, and the total cost was listed as 03433.91. Here coots: Plerida beer, $100; skunk, $6; Plerida cegie, $25; bur darks four dachs, 86; 53 receons, 9150; 13 feet alligator, 8500. Monheye averaged 850 each. In 1950, a female Mandrill

Monkey cost $100 and an otter, $20.

Eventually better facilities were built and more animals were acquired; there was soon a reel soo which attracted ple from all over the area.

At first, the animals were fed and cared for by the juil inmates who eccupied the new juil built meerby. This was not a good solution, though, as most of them had no real interest in seeing that they were properly cared for. Their scrape from the jul and nearby

In 1870, he bought a virgin tract of 12,547 acres along the St. John's River, established a slaughterhouse, sawmill, country store and hotel and founded the town that bears his name. Sanford was first established in 1836 as a small log fort known as Camp Monroe. It's name was changed the next year, establishing it as the town of Ft. Mellon, the birthday of the City of Sanford.

The value of recognition

A plaque doesn't really cost much. Neither does a trophy, even with engraved lettering on it. Just visit one of the trophy stores in our area and you may be amazed at how inexpensive they are.

But the cost isn't the real value. It's the spirit in which a trophy or plaque is given. Many people have at least a trophy or other memorabilia on a bookshelf or mantle. It has their name on it, and it really means something. It may be of little significance to one's offspring in the future, but right now, it is a point of pride. It is in honor of.... this or that.

Most are plaques or trophies given often as a surprise, to call attention to a particular accomplishment or valuable service.

Each month, the City of Sanford gives out an Employee of the Month plaque. With it goes a bond and a choice parking place. The actual monetary value isn't much, but the employees who receive these awards are proud, and have reason to be proud.

We believe this is an excellent move, and commend all those responsible.

But the benefit doesn't just go to the employee. It goes to the supervisor or boss as well. An employee honored for doing an excellent job will continue to do so. It gives the person a feeling of being wanted, being needed, and being recognized.

We suspect too many businesses ignore this. On numerous occasions, the boss only speaks to the employee when there is a complaint, a gripe, or an order to be given. Words of appreciation are never spoken. It generally doesn't take long for the employee to lose confidence in his or her ability. As a result, the work-output sets lower and h "They don't care about me, so why should I care about them?" is often directly related to being ignored on the job.

We urge our business and professional community managerial personnel to take a look at this award concept. Generally, it produces much more in value than it costs to

On Feb. 4, 1997, a jury concluded that O.J. Simpson was a batterer whose abuse escalated to homicide. The jury found the physical evidence persuasive, Simpson's contradictions troubling, and the link between domestic violence and domestic homicide to be strong. They shoot messengers, don't they?

How many times have you taken out your frustrations on others when confronted with bad news?

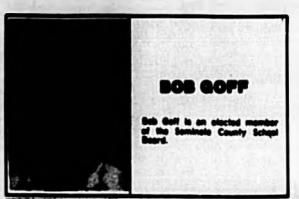

How many times did you bark at the child. mate or business associate who brought the bad news, even though they have nothing to do with the message? Sub-consciously, none of us wents to receive bad news.

We each go through our own ritual when confronted with had news. A few had words maybe, or a slammed door, most of us rele se form of steam when faced with thin would rather not hear. Most of us then roll up our sleeves and begin to tackle the new problems that come with bad news.

Occasionally, you will find someone who The conversation usually begins with the plea don't kill the messenger... and ends with a hasty retreat and a vow to try and dump duty on someone else next time.

Politicians and administrators dread having to give a bad message. More than anything clae, they want their constituency to believe that all is good. In order to avoid bad news. sometimes P & A's will hide or ignore bad news because their job security to more important than telling the truth to the public. Frequently, the tactic used to divert the public from bad news is to somehow blame the messenger. This sidetracks the public reaction toward the official by showing the blame anywhere else.

Recent elections in Seminole County have brought a new crop of young (both in age and in community experience) elected officials who already are being maligned by some. These young Pe are looking at things with fresh eyes and are not satisfied with the status quo. In many places, the cry from staff is that they are destroying the system they are elected to govern. I would offer this advice to both sides:

To the young (in age or community experience) politicians:
Never give bad news/negative comment/poor evaluation without likewise offering a solution to solve the problem. Be a problem solver-not a problem. Recognize the bad news for what it is-merely the public statement of the necessity to effect change in the ways or methods of the organization you belong to.

Whether you are a school board member, a city councilman or a county cummissioner, remember that bad news is nothing but an opportunity waiting to solution.

To the administrators: It to never the messenger who is important ..

it to the message! Do not miss the message! Remember that every city MACAGE!

superintendent or county manager is hired with an adaptability clause implied in their contract. It says that the hiring agency is elected because the makeup of the governing body might change every few years.

A personality type C administrator may not last long with three new type A commissioners—if the administrator cannot hear the message in their election and adapt. The important thing to keep in mind is the necessity for administrators to adapt to a changing board. It is not in the job description for politicians to change their personality because of the administrator.

Three names to remember are: Carol Ahi-strand, Sanford Middle School: Estelle Guy, Midway: and Euvanah Duncan, Winter Springs Elementary. They do not set policy. They do not kill the measenger -- they do not often see their names in the paper and on TV at night.

Making some tough decisions

There have been a number of tesues presented through the media this past week. Unfortunately little is known about the history behind some of these tesues. I do. because I have been involved for many years. think that it is important to give background!

To his credit, Seminale County Commission Chairman Randy Morris has Commission Chairman Randy Morris has been involved with the issue for years. Morris has been a great advocate regarding the appearance of our county. That cannot be denied. Large unattractive, numerous biliboards are not his favorite thing. He proved that in Lake Mary and elsewhere. The truth is that the proposale made are a good solution, but they would have been better if Marris had his way. The time delay, the non-commission over many years to the

A big congratulations to Information Technologies Manager Chris Grasso for presenting the concept of privatising the computer services; also to Mr. Kaiser and the County Commission.

Morris needs to move forward while other unfortunate probleme regarding the Road and Public Works Department will be ongoing. This is a very difficult balancing problem for all concerned. Both Morris' and Commissioner Win Adams' terms are up next, so it is not easy to make some of the decisions that must be made by them. Adams also was a big advecage in out sourcing the computer services.

This commission can rise to the challenge despite the appearance that it cannot. There is a lot of talent on the board. It is a question of compromise and listening.

Next week be sure to tune in or buy the newspaper because you are in for education: an education on government.

Semething 's gone a...meek!

Well, who knowe? There has been an ongoing battle between Seminole County and Cone Contractors. It all started with the awarding of a bid to widen and align Howell Branch Road. The bid was awarded to Cone for $7.4 million in 1904.

During the process, Cone discovered there was more muck than they felt was indicated by the county and therefore they feel they are entitled to an additional 84.6 million.

The county decen't believe that cone is entitled to any farther compensation or at least not in the amount mentioned.

In it pecable that this could have been avoided in the preparation of the contract.

For instance, if the contract stated that muck was present and those bidding should take whatever steps necessary, including barters their care decicates, engineers and any take whatever steps necessary, including hiring their own geologist, engineers and any other experts necessary, in order to assure that the hid being presented has taken into account all assects of the project and therefore the hid submitted assects the therefore the bid submitted represents the total cost of the project and any further costs or overruns will be absorbed by the contractor.

Does that make sense? Does the contract contain similar language? If not, would similar, appropriate language have prevented a lawauit or the payment of additional money? I really don't know.

Goodbye, Cable Guy As my wife and I begin a new life in a new home, we are in no big hurry to have our television hooked up. The Cable Guy hasn't come, and this pleases me. Didn't get to see the president deliver his

State of the Union address the other night nor watch the O.J. Simpson verdict. No big deal. These things are covered sufficiently in this newspaper.

Much to my delight, an evening listening to Dworak and reading a lovely piece by Eudora Welty is much more enchanting than anything that might be on TV. The Cable Guy can stay away.

I've got plans to read Steinbock and O. Henry and a biography of Jackie Robinson that I pulled off the shelf this morning. When I'm through with these, I want to buy Kay Graham's new book about The Washington Post. 1 believe I can read a couple hundred books if only the Cable Guy stays away.

There are CDs and tapes waiting to be played - sweet music for the ears rather than a blaring TV set that delivers mostly grim news and idiotic gunk. Sorry, Cable Guy. You'll have to find another client.

There's nothing I can do about the hours I wasted on TV in the past. I used to think Letterman was the thing, At 11, it was SportsCenter on ESPN. Then, Letterman. Not any more. Cable Guy hasn't come, and I don't care.

How long do I intend to go without TV? As long as I can. Cable Guy. To eternity and beyond. Going to make something of my life. Going to read my books and maybe even write one. Hope you understand that, Cable Guy. Got along before I met you and I'm going to get along without you now.

This means so long to you, also, Geraldo. And to you, Oprah. Ges, Ellen, I'll never know if you came out or not. No more prime - or in it slime - time for this dude. Find somebody else, Cable Guy. This is GOOD-

Solicitors in Lake Mary better get a permit, watch the clock

By MICK PPEIFAM Herald Staff Writer

LAKE MARY - City Commissioners recently voiced their concern over reports of solicitors knocking on doors in various neighborhoods, especially during the hours of darkness.

Although research may prove otherwise, it is not believed the city has ever enacted specific hours during which persons, with proper permits, are allowed to conduct their solicitations.

While police Chief Richard Beary explained that most of the solicitors had obtained proper licenses, there was one recent case when no permit was given.

Lake Mary police were called to the Country Downs residential neighborhood Wednesday. regarding a person knocking on doors after dark.
One reported a man pounding on a front door at-

Police responded and located a man identified as Robert G. Welch, 21, of Houston, Texas. When the officer asked Welch for his permit, he reportedly admitted he did not have one.

The arrest report said the officer told Welch at least three times to leave the area immediately.

Yet, a short time later, police were called once again to the same neighborhood, and once again. Welch was located.

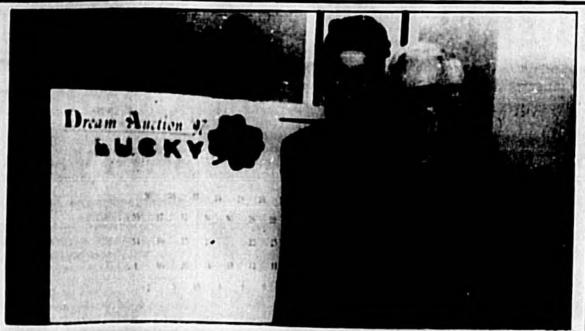

The arrest report said Welch told the officer that he intended to leave but his employer told him to continue his solicitation.

Welch had reportedly identified himself as attempting to earn points for some type of schooling by meeting people in the area.

While he was just given a warning the first time, the second call produced an arrest. Welch was charged with solicitation in violation of a city ordinance.

During discussion of the situation at Thursday night's Lake Mary City Commission meeting, it was determined that the city codes would be investigated to determine if there may have been restrictions when first established. If not, the city may bring the matter up for autinomal consideration, and set specific time periods during which solicitation, even with a city permit, would Now I'm certainly not supporting teen-age pregnancy. But I have my own example to share. Sure, some people advantage of the system and treat pregnancies as little more than trophies. But there are also girls - and boys - who make mistakes and understand the consequences and are able to make the best of things.

Of course teen-agers are

Miss She Said seems to think that a pregnant girl in school is setting a bad example for the "good" "good"

She's saying that she can

As a matter of fact (I'm putting on my almost wornout Liberal hat now), I think schools should fund on-campus child care for students who have a child. Bure, this is an unpopular

Davis said that AIDS patient

As part of his ruling, the judge iso invited the Florida State lature to enact laws that eal with "the individual's netitutional right to determine te or her course of medical p hasten his or her death."

Florence Rivas, law partner ith her husband, Robert Rivas Boca Raton said she could not elp but be impressed - indeed erwhelmed - at the enormity the decision made by Davis

"When this century is over, oth Judge Davis and the decision he made in the Charles Hall ease will be well remembered. He has given us a reminder that courageous judge can be all that stands between an individual and a powerful, overreaching government.

"Bob Butterworth (Florida Attorney General) has no bustness being at Charles Hall's deathbed nor mine nor yours. Judge Davis had the guts to say

Because his landmark decision is being challenged in the Florida Supreme Court, Judge Davis said he could not discuss the ruling he rendered at the Palm Beach County Courthouse. And although he grants few in-terviews, he agreed last week to share some stories shout his life and law career with the Sanford

Davis said he would not have had the opportunity to study law and get a license to practice if not for the love and understanding of his wife, Betty Jane (Woodcock), who passed away in 1998. They married in 1947 while he was still in military service.

'Betty was very strong, a real Trojan," he said. "She always encouraged me. There were no easy times."

Davis said his first job after dusting from Stateon was a $300 job - $300 a month, not a week. He had not yet taken his

He applied for an FRI tob and served three years. He was stationed in Oklahoma City and in Detroit. He met J. Edgar Hoover and respected the man and the FBI. "I was proud of my work and of the FBI," he said.

Davis became partners with Ken McIntosh, his Stetson law school chum, and Doug Stenstrom in June 1957. The firm was located in the old Edwards Building on Park Avenue in Sanford. "The three of us comprised the biggest law firm in Central Florida at that time," he said.

It was an exciting time - a time to become acquainted with all aspects of the law. Attorneys and judges treated one another in a respectful manner in those days and were held in highest esteem by the public. Davis became the city attorney for Altamonte Springs and for Longwood and Oviedo. He also served in the State Legislature for two years (1962-66) and introduced the bill that created Seminole Community College. "I moved this bill through the House and Ken McIntosh moved it through the Senate," said Davis, who became a member of the college's Board of Trustees.

In 1979 Davis was appointed a Circuit Court judge in Seminole County and served for 12 years until retiring on Dec. 31, 1991. He was nearing 70, but he was far from through with his law

In "retirement" Davis frequently to called to serve as a senior judge in cases such as the one in West Palm Beach. "I don't have any hobbies, my health is good. I'm not senile and I want to stay busy." Davis 'And law is what keeps me busy. I love the law even more than I did before - and I believe I am a better judge today than I ever was before.

It would be easy to picture the distinguished and dedicated S. Joseph Davis serving on the Supreme Court. He samits how grand that would be but dismisses it immediately, saying. "I'm not that intellectual. I'm just a foot soldier."

A foot soldier who at 74 remains in the thick of the action.

Sertoma donates scholarship funds to SCC program

By JENNIFER EDWARDS Herald Staff Writer

Don Conti, president of South Seminole Sertoma Club, presented a check for 8700 in scholarship funds to student editors of The Scribe at a recent breakfast meeting at Sabal Point County Club, Longwood

The money will be used deposited in a Seminole Community College Foundation account for second-term journalism students. Course tuttion costs will be reimbursed to students at the end of the term.

Sertoma is an acronym for SERvice TO MANkind. The purpose of the club is to support deserving community projects. Conti said assisting the fledgling journalists was a worthy cause: "We would like to see all journalism scrupulously honest and unbiased. It is not the media's job to slant the news, but to report the facts."

With the debut of a tabloidsize publication last term, printing costs were funded through this school year by the college administration. This reporter and Kuhn each addressed the club on behalf of the five recipient editors, expressing appreciation for the seed money in support of responsible journalism.

Kulin said. "Today is the first step on a long path toward a full-blown journalism program. Until the SCC budget can be expanded to underwrite all newspaper publishing costs. It is gratifying to have community support to pick up the slack."

This Yankee doesn't get auto racing

SANFORD — I have a confession to make. I'm a northerner.

I don't like to admit it: I love it in the south, I know how to eat grits and I've become a linedancin' country music fan.

This time last year, I was shoveling, or should I pronounce it, shovelin' about 100 feet of snow out of my driveway.

But I'll tell ya what. The phones have been ringin' all week in the Sanford Herald's sports cave with people wonderin' when we'll address auto racing.

it's Speed Week and all that, and all the Rustys. Dales and Dick Trickles are comin' to town, and I guess that merits some attention. I'd give it if I understood it.

Southerners talk about the thrill of bumperto-bumper NASCAR action, with racers "tradin" paint" and trying to avoid having their cam gaskets or whatever knocking them out in the 38th lap of 200 times of driving around in circles.

Question: Does Day-uhl Earnhart or Flash or any of the other NASCAR superstars even know how to turn to the right?

If they can't go right, at least they must not be

I love watchin' TNN or whatever station is covering the event of the week from such scenic tracks as Back Fork, Tenn., or Dead Snake, Als. or wherever, as a breathless commentator acreams. "Here they come! There they go!"

Then they talk about lubes and valves for two minutes until the racers come, then go.

Anyway, I dang well swear I've tried to stand the infatuation of it all. Surely, eventually, by act of God, I should be able to figure out what makes 450,000 people drive with big of number 3 decals on their windows next to the sticker of the little boy taking a, uh, whiz on the rest of the NASCAR field.

But, dadgumit, I can't. With all those bumper stichers all over the car.

they look like a funeral procession of Partridge Family buses driving in a circle.

As the procession goes around the track, all 480,000 fans sit down for a few minutes, then wait until the cars go by and, with all the flourish of a Springsteen concert crowd, scream in unison. Whooooo," they yell, followed by GO (fill in the blank).

Then, it's back to the Budweiser until the next time around. And it's impossible not to like auto racing because either you like it or don't understand it. How can yo hate auto racing? Now, soccer, there's a sport you can hate. At least in auto racing, there's a clear purpose at all times: try to have more gas and a deeper pedal that anyone else. Soccer makes no sense at all. It is a sport consisting of a field of human pinball bumpers hoping that somebody eventually can score a goal so everyone can go home and not have

But that's another column for another rainy day. Anyway, that's what NASCAR looks like to a northerner. Then again, you're readin' about a southern tradition from a guy who drives a Ford Festiva with well over 100,000 miles and a muffler that used to work.

I can't change a tire. I couldn't tell you which is the rack and which is

I don't understand cars and racin' and what makes Speed Week so dang great but if everyone's happy, y'all open a Bud for me and holler for Dale or Rusty or Dick Trickle.

The only way y'all'll ever get me to a NASCAR race is if soccer is the alternative.

Rams stand alone

By TONY (Description)
Herald Correspondent

LAKE MARY - If you were to say that the Lake Mary High School girls' soccer team played defense with its offense, you wouldn't be far off.

It's not that the Rams score an exceptional amount of goals — last Tuesday's 11-1 blowout of Ocala-Forest not withstanding — but the fact that Lake Mary does an excellent job of controiling the ball and, as a result, the clock and game on offense. As a result, most other teams don't get many decent touches on the ball.

But the Pensacola Tigers did in Friday night's Clase 6A-North Il Regional semifinals at Lake Mary's Don T. Reynolds Stadtum. Or, to be more specific, Pensacola's Joey Yenne did.

Fortunately for the Rams, so did goalle Jordan Early in the first half of Lake Mary's 8-3 win-over the Tigers, when the outcome was still very much in doubt. Yenne very nearly pulled Pensacola out of a 2-0 hole. After Desirve Small cut the deficit in half by pinballing a shot through the Ram defense at 6:17. Yenne began to slice up the Lake Mary defense.

Just 15 minutes-inte the same. Yenne was taken down in the penalty area and awareiedparried the ball away and covered the rebound. A few minutes later, Yenne ripped a shot that ricocheted off the left post and Kellgren. Not too long after that. Yenne raced in on a breakaway, only to be robbed by Kellgren.

'Jordan made an excellent play on that penalty kick," aaid Lake Mary coach Bill Eissele.

'And she came up big on several other plays, too. We could have just as easily been down a goal or two of Jordan doesn't make those plays. And if they (the Tigers) had gotten ahead, they would have bunkered and played defense the rest of the night." The Rams finally took the pressure off their keeper when Ryan Shaw and Elisabeth orrisscored goals five minutes apart to give Lake Mary a 4-1 advantage at halftime.

World Series off to a flying start

Special to the Herald

SAMSULA - The 31st Annual World Series of Asphalt Stock Car Racing kicked off Friday night at New Smyrna Speedway and the night belonged to "Tiger" Tom Baldwin, winning the NASCAR Tour Type Modified main, and Richard Duecker winning the Late

Baldwin, of East Patchouk, New York, started on the pole for the 25 Lap tour-type modified feature and went wire-to-wire to capture the win never being seriously challenged during the course of the event for the point position.

We had a little trouble in the heat race because we ran tires that we had been practicing on all day," said Baldwin. "But the car was good. I mean real good."

The event was not without controversy as Indy Racing League regular Tony Stewart of Rushville, Indiana found himself in the precarious position of getting involved in two accidents with World Series favorite Jamie Tomaino. Both incidents occured while Stewart was chasing Tomaino for the second postion.

Stewart, who crossed the stripe second in his first appearance at New Smyrna, was not phased after the event by the jeers and catcalls from the grandstands after the main event.

"It's a tight race track with tight corners and everybody told me that there was going to be tight quarters and that everybody was going to beat and being and I didn't want to be weak on it, said Stewart." Tomaino was not available for comment after the

"Jackie Stewart or whatever his name is thought he was the king out here but he has a lot to learn before he's the king here," Baldwin added about the event. Rounding out the top five were Dave Berube of Bristol, Connecticut, Eric Beers of North Hampton. Pennsylvania, and Mike Christopher of Wilcot, Connecticut. Ducker of Chippewa Lake, Ohio took the lead in the SPEEDWEEKS MIGHT #1

"I was really happy with the car," said Duccker. "We started out real bad but we've been working on it all week and it all paid off."

David Russell of Apopka challenged Duecker on several occasions on the inside but was never able to ake the pass for the lead.

"It's nice racing with socone as clean as David," Duecker added. "I never had to worry about who was behind e and be afraid of what was going to happen." "We just didn't have enough to get around him," Russell said. "It we had just a couple of more laps the finish might have been different, but we'll never know." Chasing Duccker and Russell across the stripe were Dennis Demers of Loudon, New Hampshire, Lowell Bennett of Green Bay, Wisconsin, and Randy Fox of Ft.

Kevin DiMeco took the Mini-Stock feature event on the final lap when Mike Calloway and Vic Vanlacker got together while battling for the lead and spun and DiMeco anuck through to take the checkers.

Wildlife watchers on the Net

Game and Fresh Water Fish Commission (GFC) has a new Wildlife Viewing Page in its web site. It offers information about the best spots for nature lovers to see Florida's wild critters.

To visit the page, computer users first should call up the agency's homepage at http://www.state.fl.us/gic/gichome.html on their keyboards, and click on the "Wildlife Viewing button. By clicking on the various icona and "go-to" phrases, they can explore the whole state to see what wildlife occurs in each area. Internet browsers can find wildlife viewing opportunities by searching by city, region, species and by land cover.

The web site also contains information about wildlife habitats and the types of amenities and activities available at wildlife viewing areas.

Florida State University's Askew School Web Development Group of the Reubin O. School of Public Administration and Policy developed the Wildlife Viewing Homepage for the GFC as a .class project

The GFC's web site information is about the agency, including its publications and hunting and fishing regulations.

SHUPE'S SCOOP

In my younger days, catching fish or harvesting game was my primary objective when fishing or hunting. Now that I am older and hopefully a little wiser, I savor the total experience of being surrounded by nature. Success is no longer gauged in terms of what has been harvested, but in the sights, sounds and experiences that have been etched in my memory forever.

FISHING FORECAST

Expect great bass action in the river from Puzzle Lake south to Lake Winder. Fish deep bends and the sloughs in Puzzic Lake and weed beds in Lakes Poinsett and Winder. Large shiners are tops for bass over eight pounds. Many specks have finished spawning and can be found by drifting in open water.

Heavy winter flounder top the action at Sebastian Inlet. Finger mullet bounced slowly across the rocky bottom is a great tactic for catching these tasty fish. Also expect bluefish from 1-3 pounds to be present in good ----

Captain Jack at Port Canaveral reports the best offshore action is taking piace around shrimpboots anchored in 180 to 240 feet of water by the 20 miles weather buoy. Plenty of bonito and a few blackfin tuna hang out under these boats to dart out and eat the bycatch of small baitfish that are tossed overboard by the ahrimpers. Inside the Port, expect good action with sheepshend and flounder.

Sheepshead are not only stealing the show at Ponce Inlet, they also are getting away with many live shrimp as well. The tip of the north jettles is the hotspot for sheepshead in the 6-10 pound range. Plenty of small bluefish also are roaming in and out of the inlet. A few flounder are hitting finger mullet on the south side of the south jetties. Trout and redfish are in the second half, scoring goals at 45:19, 48-53, and 62:26. Lauren Debelas recorded the Rams' final goal of the evening at 74:57.

After being furstrated in the tirst half. Yenne found the net twice in the second half, scoring just nine seconds after Benitez's first goal and again at 78:24.

"Their No. 10 is the best one-on-one player I've seen all year," said Eissele. "That's been one of our problems all season long, getting a lead and then staying on top. Fortunately, we had a second chance tonight to get back on top and we did."

When the game started, it looked like the Rams ight have another 10-goal mercy victim on their hands as Morris scored 27 seconds into the game and Christina Cooley made it 2-0 on an assist from Morris with 1:21 expired. Lake ary continued to storm the Pensacola net and had some excellent chances, but coudn't come up with the goal to put the Tigers away.

Suddenly, Pensacota countered and Yenne was fouled outside of the Lake Mary goal mouth. The free kick found its way to Small, whose shot bounced off a couple of shins on it's way from her foot past Kellgren.

"We've tended to be a second half team all season," said Pensacola coach Guy Beard. "We just didn't come back enough tonight. "Generally, we like to get up early and maintain offensive pressure, but Lake Mary is just too well-balanced a team. There were no weak areas for us to expioit."

Pensacola ends its sesson at 14-3-1.

KEEPERS: A column for sports collectors

Red Barber visited Winter Park on March 10, 1985 to give a speech to some young and old admirers at Rollins College.

I remember the day well, and what he said.

Red spoke about the early days of baseball on radio, about Jackie Robinson, Branch Rickey and the Brooklyn Dodgers. And he spoke about Sanford, Fla. Oh, how Red Barber loved Sanford.

'Sanford is where I grew up." Barber said. "where the things were set in motion that really shaped my life. I was always either kicking or throwing a football or throwing or hitting a baseball....

"The baseball was precious. If we lost it in the tall grass the game stopped and everybody fell to until we found it. We couldn't afford to lose it. We had to find it, and we always did find it.

"I had a cigar box in which we kept a ball of bees wax and some heavy thread that we had gotten from the shoe repair store and a big needle. Wheneve we broke the threads on the ball from intring of 100 fillett. We stipped and newed it back into shape. We newed it up because we needed it; that was the ball in the neigh-

The other day I came across a couple of marvelous books Barber wrote . Walk in the Spirit and Rhubarb in the Cathird Seat. Barber personal y autographed these books, and they are among my most prized sports collectibles.

Keepers Sports Collecting

One of the stories in Walk the Spirit is about an afternoon Barber remembered spending with his father in Sanford. He was 16, the year was 1924. Barber recalled sitting with his dad in old-fashioned rocking chairs on the front porch. His dad was a railroad man who had the day off.

"Son, look over there," Barber's father said, pointing across the street. Pointing west across the flat land of Central Florida. Only pine trees etching the view on a clear day with a bright blue

Barber did get it. He became one of America's most popular and widely admired sports commentators. He wrote several books and was heard on the National Public Radio until he passed away a couple of

When Walk in the Spirit was published by the Dial Pres. it's cost was $4.50. I picked up my edition for $2 in a used-and-rare book store. Rhubard in the Cathord Seat cost $4.95, but I also purchased it for $2.

A book dealer told me that my autographed books from Red Barber are worth $20 or $25 apiece - maybe even more.

They're worth far more to me, having been a press box colleague of Red Barber some 37 years ago. 'fou don't put a price on keepers like this ... You find a special place on your book shelf, and call on them every so often as you would dear.

Heathrow tennis team on verge of local history

Tennis in the area is really improving, thanks to members of the Heathrow Racquet Club.

The Heathrow tennis facility has been home to the Central Florida Doubles Tennis League Champions in the Men's Gold Division for the past four years and now, the team has a chance to make local tennis history.

Wally Roberts, the Captain of the team is mostly responsible for the team's formation.

Four years ago, Roberts realized that members of the club were playing in the tournaments. However, they were playing for other cluba because a team had not yet been formed at Heathrow. He approached his friend, Ron Fogarty, and asked him if he thought they could get a team together.

"He came to me and said. 'How about putting a Gold team together?" Fogarty recalled. 'I thought it would be too hard to put a team together at this level. I also thought that there were too many guys to try and get gether and that it was never title this season, which began Tuesday night, would give Heathrow the opportunity to tie the league record for most consecutive league championships with five. "We are recruiting as we speak." Fogarty joked. "And our Captain to doing everything he can to ensure that we don't just tie."

Just as important as the wins to the Heathrow team is the fact that they have a strong core of players.

Each team in the league has 16 players with five doubles teams playing on a given night. Usually, members on the team come and go with the changing seasons. This team, however, pretty much sticks together.

"Our group in getting larger," Roberts said. "It used to be that after their matches. everyone would take off. Now. we all get together and go out. We used to go to Chill's, but now we might have to move to the Thirsty Whale because we need such a big table."

"That's what I like about this team." Fogarty added. "All of us work, but we manage to find time to stick around and wo've all become friends. We Love and Racquets. Tennis this week

"And we want people to know that we are not snobs. We would like everyone who wants to play tennis with us, but nobody ever leaves our team. We hope that they can stick around until there's an opening but we know that they can't wait forever. We're just lucky that we all attck together."

Fogarty knows first hand about the pressures of winning teams that we can count on winning. Three out of five have to win in order for our team to have a winning night." Roberts explained. But one of our other teams lost and it was up to our three team (Fogarty and Sigourney). They absolutely had to win and they pulled it out for us."

Rem Becker, the Heathrow tennie director, and Barry Myers, the head tennie pro, have also had a lot to do with the team's success. Roberts said, "Rem, Barry, and the whole staff have been so supportive of us. And not to mention Mike Baumhower, the President of the league. He runs the best league in the state of Florida and gives us his all."

exclusionary part of the league ie that you do have to be 21-years of age to play on a team. The season actually lasts 20 weeks and works on a point system. Every Tuesday night at 7:00 p.m. there are five matches played at each of the tennie clube in the area. The top four teams at the end of the season go to the playoffs with the top team from the previous 20 weeks having home court advantage.

"We've never played away from home for the playoffs or finals." Fogarty said. "We have one of the best facilities I've ever played at and it's great to play at home and on courts that you are a little familiar Roberts added. "I always let the same team play on the name court so they get used to

H and that only helps them."

The other members of the team that have gotten to know the courts so well are: Johnny Holt (played at Mississippi State University): Kerry Kiapper (ranked 6th last year in the state 35's and has only in the state 35's and has only lost two matches in two seasonsk Stove Cahall (ranked Sth. in the 35'sh Stan Lagrande (the #1 seed when the state); Lee Kermode (a teaching pro in former Jacksonville, Fla); Don Brown (the oldest member of the team and one of the best players they have); Scott Snyder (former head teaching pro at West Orange Country Club): Tray Seibold (teaching pro at Heathrow): Franz Fazold (teaching pro from Germany): and Bill Beckman (a capable backup whenever needed).

The team has not only been a success on the courts of Heathrow, but they have also been an inspiration for women's teams to enter the tournament.

It will be interesting to see if this team can tie and possibly even surpass the winning streak for most consecutive wins. If they don't, at least they'll have something to keep working toward.

As well as a good reason to get together after work.

Starting next week, we will be featuring a weekly tennis column. This column will encompass club notes, special events, and passible, even a tip of the week Armen, parties the handers thread at (407) 322-

Mayfair Country Club offers once a month night golf

Once a month, long after most ""golfers have put away their putters for the night, the action is just beginning at Mayfair.

The club introduced night golf several months ago and the concept, the only one in Central Florida, has become a huge auccess.

Using illuminated golf balls. Maylair has its golfers teeing off after the sun goes down and the players - both members and non-members.

Club professional Rich Cleary is responsible for bringing night golf to Mayfair after seeing it in New York where they were even able to play in the winter.

There really ten't much of a difference between night golf and regular day golf and the few differences that exist are compensated for.

distance than a regulation golf ball but the players tee off from the ladies tees and avoid water holes.

One advantage is that, since the ball slows in the darks, even the highest handicapper can't lose his ball.

"You can't lose it." Cleary said. Twe hit the ball in the weeds before and I know you can't lose it." Maybe that's because the players are keeping in the fairway. Even though the members originally had no idea what night golf was all about, they didn't fare too

"They couldn't believe it at first," Cleary said. "We had a lot of people who had never heard about it but they found that you can concentrate more because of the dark."

The format to a four-man scramble followed by dinner and maybe a little "antifreeze." There is a draw at 6:30 p.m. with tee-off at 6:45.

After playing their nine holes (numbers one, nine, 10, 11 and 14 through 16) prises are awarded over dinner.
One thing to be aware of:

Duke and Donna Adamson on one lea of their travels explore the harbour at Sydney, Australia.

Adamsons visit 'Down Under,' England

During the past weeks, Donna and W.E. "Duke" Adamson have traveled half-way around the world. They have recently returned from their home in the Bahamas where they spend every January.

In October, the Adamsons ventured to Australia and New Zcaland for the time of their lives. They rented a car and drove 4,500 kilometers from the northern tip of New Zealand to the southern tip and are highly impressed with the picturesque countryside. She talked about a beach with perfectly round rocks and a whale watch where the snowcapped mauntains appeared "to come right right down into the ocean." One of the things Donna missed from home was her favorite snack, pretzels. She said."I love pretzels, but no pretzels in New Zealand. There were chips of all flavors, but no pretzels.

The Adamsons went on a night cruise of the harbour at Sydney, Australia which was "real pretty." according to Donna. They also toured the world-famous opera house on the harbor and attended colorful street festivals and arts and crafts displays on the streets. Donna said they felt "very safe" during the entire trip. She added that guns are not allowed and not even police officers carry

DEAR ABBY: It gave me great encouragement to observe your readers' response to the Rod Carew family's pleas for marrow donors last spring. I was saddened that a match was not found for Michelle. but one never knows how many other lives were saved because of your informative columns.

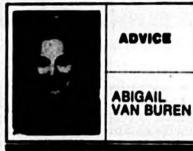

Cancer is the No. 1 disease killing our children. Some cases — like that of Michelle Carew — resist all of our best efforts. However, the National Childhood Cancer Foundation is helping to raise the cure rate every day. Forty years ago, leukemia was an always-fatal disease. Today, 73 percent of children diagnosed with leukemia are alive and well five years later, and hopefully will go on to lead productive lives. The National Childhood Cancer

Foundation is a non-profit organization. Our goal is to achieve a world in which there are no children with cancer, and the only way to do that is through medical research. We support research projects at more than 100 of the most prestigious pediatric medical centers in the world. The improvements in the response and cure rates of children with leukemia (and a great variety of tumors) have been the most gratifying in the entire history of cancer therapy. However, the work is far from finished. Research on the cures of tomorrow must be done today or we will remain where we are. After more than 20 years of marriage, my parents were divorced. A few years later, Mother announced that she was going to marry her much younger boyfriend. (He is young enough to be her son.) All of us siblings were skeptical, but we trusted Mother's judgment and accepted her decision. That was more than 20 years ago. Since that time our young stepfather has in some respects been more of a father to us than Dad was. He has always been kind, respectful, supportive

Now with the onslaught of years, Mother has been subject to many illnesses and hospital stays. She requires care almost 24 hours a day and her ability to walk is minimal. My stepfather has always been

Ex-eop collects juke boxes, hats,

Herald Staff Writer

SANFORD - Juke boxes, beer signs and baseball hats fill the home of Tom Dale. This blast from the past leaves one feeling as if the 50s and 60s have returned and as the juke box plays songs, the back room is transformed into a bar-type atmosphere with Dale himself posing as bartender and faithful listener and shrink.

This retired Lake Mary police officer has discovered his collections can be relaxing, time consuming and another way to share an interest with his wife. He enjoys looking for new and unusual deals as close as the flea markets and yard sales and searching far and near for new additions.

First in his many collections began when Dale retired in 1984 with hats. "My first hat was an Army baseball hat," he said. "I'm retired from the Army so that hat is special to me.

Another favorite was cited as a Glock hat. "I am in the Glocks Sports Shooting Organization and the two hats I have are my favorites," he said. "I have one black Glock hat with gold letters. It also has red letters with the word perfection under it. I have another hat that's red witha big gold patch with a U.S. flag and Austria flag. It also says perfection under the letters."

With over 100 baseball hats in the collection Dale adds that "if someone comes up with a strange hat, they pick it up for me. I'll be at the flea market and see a strange hat and buy it. People give me hats as gifts. My mother gave me one for Christmas. She had it custom made for me for my business. It has hammers and saws on it. That's the most expensive hat that I have. She paid about $22 for it."

Dale's most recent find was from a Budweiser promotion truck parked at a convenience store. "It even has the frogs on it." he mentioned.

In 1967 Dale began his juke box collection. "My dad had one," he said. "I told him I wanted one and he told me to find one and he'd buy it for me. When I finally found one I got six of them."

Dale shared that he looks for juke boxes to add to his present collection or for repair and resell in the newspaper. "If it strikes my fancy I try to get it," he said. "If I find a good deal I try to get

Tom Dale posse with his juke bexee, baseball hats and beer sign collection.

Tinkering with the treasures are a pastime that Dale makes an effort to strive for when he's not working in his handyman business. "I like to take them completely apart," he said. "I do the electronics, glass and everything. I get my wife involved in it. We spend up into the wee hours of the morning cleaning and fixing them up. Even the glass decals, if I can't find the original ones I'll custom design my own."

Wurlitzer and Seeburg's are most common in the Dale household. He shared that there are also Rockola and AMI but he has sold them.

"I have 7000 records," Dale cited. "I've got them from the big band era and some even into the early 90s. Most are from the 50s and 60s." He further adds,"It's really an expensive hobby. For the juke boxes that aren't working I might pay $250 to $300. I might get between $800 to $1500. The most expensive one that I've sold was $1500 and it went to Italy."

Dale mentioned that juke boxes were actually around in the 40s but didn't get popular until the 50s. "I'd like to have a Wurlitzer 1015 but they're too expensive. They cost into the tens of thousands of dollars."

Not only do the juke boxes cover the floors but beer signs cover the walls. Numbering into the 75 area Dale has "almost every major beer company represented in his back room.

Initially Dale just wanted something to decorate "his room" with, but later found his wife got into the act frequenting yard sales. Dale or his wife search for unusual finds and add their many treasures to the collection.

He mentioned one "animated" sign that's a favorite. "It's from the 1930s," he said. "It's a Pabet Blue Ribbon sign. It has a Model T on it and the wheels turn. It has a little man sitting in it." With the numerous collections

Dale has found that they are his way of relaxing. Time spent with his wife also holds a close first.

Dale and his wife, Connie, have been married for 34 years. They have two children, Tom Jr. and Kim, and one grandchild. They have been permanent Sanford residents since 1984. Dale lived here previously in the 50s when his father was stationed at Sanford NAVal Air

He has also been a mason in the masonic lodge since the age of 21. He's a member of the National Handyman Club and the Glocks Sports Shooting Organization as well as being retired from the Army.

DEAR ABBY: I am a divorced woman with three children, 11, 10 and 7. Through the Internet, I met a man who lives in Kentucky. (I live in California.) I'll call him Dan. He is a high school teacher and is by far the kindest, most considerate man I have ever known Dan invited me to his house for Thanksgiving, and he spent a week at my home at Christmas. He and my children got along great; in fact, they are still talking about him.

Dan treats me with respect and is a perfect gentleman. The only problem is his appearance. He is slightly overweight and somewhat out of shape. He also has an eye problem that requires him to wear extremely thick glasses. My friends tell me that I am "too pretty" to settle for him. My mom says looks are not that important, and I would have to look far to find a man who will treat me with such respect and consideration.

Dan told me he is considering moving to California at the end of the school year so we can be closer.

I hate to be so superficial that I would miss out on a fulfilling relationship because Dan is not better looking. I certainly love who he is on the inside, but I know some people will look at us and wonder what I saw in him.

Would I be wrong to let his appearance hold me back? I would hate to have him give up everything for me and move out here. What if things didn't work out? He says that is a chance he is willing to take.

He makes me very happy and is always on my mind. I want to call him and tell him to come to California, but I am not sure it is the right thing to do. What do you think, Abby?

An average-looking man who is kind and caring will become more attractive with time, just as a handsome man will become less appealing if his behavior does not match his appearance.

Let Dan know that you are very much interested in him, but moving to California must be his decision alone. And when you get to know him better, if he is everything you want in a lifelong partner, you will have made a very wise decision.

DEAR ABBY: I have never seen my problem in your column and must therefore believe others are not as affected as I am concerning this issue.

I am afraid of dead people.

I am a white, 60-year-old female, well-educated and a product of the Deep South.

I can go to a wake or funeral as long as others are around, but I will not go into a room alone where

My mother is elderly, and I live in terror of her death because I know I will be expected to kies her. This is something a lot of families in the Deep South do. As much as I love my mother, the thought of having to kies her deed lips is terrifying to me.

Herald Senior Staff Writer

ORLANDO - It isn't casy taking care of a person suffering the ravages of Alzheimer's

Most patients, however, are cared for by family members rather than in institutional settings.

Now there is help for those who some assistance in releiving some of the stresses of caring for their loved onea-------

Through a collaborative effort with the Orlando Regional Healthcare Foundation and the Alzheimer Resource Center, a new wellness service for the

and other dementia patients is now available.

Because of the overwhelming frustration that is often felt by caregivers it is important they receive respite relief.

A problem often occurs for caregivers when they are reluciant to accept help from others, believing the job is theirs and no one else should be burdened with the responsibility of taking care of their charge

It is important, however, that caregivers be given respite relief. The Alzheimer Resource. Center has made an effort to understand the needs and the concerns of the caregiver and is striving to teach them the im- full daycare facility for for the patient.

The resource center and ORHF are combining efforts to produce Wellness Days for caregivers.

The first of these wellness days will be held tomorrow, Feb.

The day will get underway with a seminar titled "Why Can't I Get It Together?" The class will be taught by Betsy McMillan McCaghren, LMHC.

The seminar will be from 9:30 a.m. until 11:30 a.m. at the Beardall Center in Orlando.

The center will also provide a portance of caring for Alzheimer's patients and other themselves while they are caring a people with dementis. The daycare will be available from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. Lunch and snack will be included.

> Experienced, well qualified attendants will be working in the daycare center.

> After the seminar, caregivers will be encouraged to take the rest of the day and do whatever they would like and then pick up their family member as 5 print

Gene therapy breakthrough for Parkinson's

By PAUL NECER AP Science Writer

WASHINGTON - An experiment with laboratory rate may point the way for using transplanted genes to control Parkinson's disease, a severe brain disorder that afflicts more than 400,000 Americans.

Scientists at the University of Rochester used a modified cold virus to transfer genes into the brains of rate that had been given a disorder that mimics Parkinson's. The genes produced a protein that protected brain nerve cells from the disorder, the researchers said in a study published today.

"This is proof that if you put a gene into the brain and produce a protein at very low levels. there is a possibility of using this as a therapy to prevent a progression of disease," said Martha C. Bohn, senior author of a study In the journal Science.

'If this works in humans, it would mean that we could prevent dopamine neurons from Parkinson's brain and possibly allow the neurons to regrow. said Bohn.

In Parkinson's disease, nerve cells in a pea-size section of the brain called the substantia nigrastop producing dopamine, a neurotransmitter chemical important in controlling normal muscle movement. The departine-producing cells slowly degenerate, and the disease progressively worsens. Patients with Parkinson's develop uncontrollable hand trembling, a stooped posture, a shuffling walk and other symptoms, all of which steadily worsen. Parkinson's affects about 1 percent of those over age

The disease is often treated with the drug levodopa, which replaces the missing natural dopamine, but response to ievodopa declines over time. Experimental treatments have included the transplantation of brain tissue from aborted fetuses and therapy in which genes that continuing to die in the make dopamine are injected into the brain.

> Those treatments were designed to replace the missing dopamine and not to stop the disease, said Derek Choi-Lundberg, first author of the University of Rochester study.

> Choi-Lundberg's group is now starting to apply the technique experimentally to a group of African green monkeys. If the therapy proves it works with the primates, it could be ready for early human tests in five to 10 YEATS.

The Rochester researchers were able to halt the death of neuron cells, thus preventing progression of the rat disorder that mimics Parkinson's, said Chol-Lundberg.

To create in rata a disorder that mimics Parkinson's, researchers injected 18 rodents with a toxin that gradually kills neurons over several weeks.

They injected into six of the rate a cold virus modified to be safe and to contain the gene for glial cell-derived neurotrophic factor, or GDNP. Chol-Lundberg said earlier studies had indicated GDNF could block brain cell degeneration.

After six weeks, an examination of the rata' brains showed that animals treated with the GDNF gene suffered three to four times less brain cell death than did animals that didn't receive the gene.

"In each animal there was some cell death, but the average amount of cell death in the control groups was 69 percent. while the average cell death in the treated group was only about 20 percent," said Chol-Lund-

Docs reverse blood flow to circumvent strokes other patients, and if the results continue to look good, the experiment will probably be exded to other medical centers.

About 500,000 Americans suffer strokes annually, and about 150,000 die. Many survivors are disabled, often parathink as before.

About 80 percent of strokes occur when a blood clot lodges in one of the arteries that carry blood through the brain. Unless the clot quickly breaks up by itself, or doctors administer a clot-dissolving drug, brain cells are starved of oxygen and nutrients and begin to die.

Ordinarily, veins carry used blood from the brain back to the heart, where it's loaded with oxygen again and put back into the arteries. Frazee's idea was to reverse the flow, bypassing the blocked artery by using veins to carry oxygen-rich blood back up to the brain and feed the area cut off by the clot.

The front door to the brain is blocked by a clot." Frazee said. 'We decided to use the back blood from an artery in the grotn through a tube to large veins in the neck. From there, catheters are threaded through the veins to the back of the head. Finally, the catheters empty blood into the veins, which carry it

The veins give the entire brain a fresh blood supply. Frazee said, but blood is especially drawn to areas where there is not enough because of a clot.

Doctors begin the procedure up to seven hours after a stroke starts, and they keep the blood circulating backward this way for several hours, if necessary. By then, Frazee said, the clot usually dissolves by itself or is washed away by the pressure of the reverse-flowing blood.

"It's a radical idea," said Dr. Marc R. Mayberg. a neurosurgeon from the University of Washington. "Everybody's pretty excited to see if the promising animal work will hold up in humans."

For Bill Boyer, the results could hardly be more impressive. Boyer, 61, a carpet

> A few hours later, he ended up at the medical center at the University of California, Los Angeles, where Frazee explained the highly experimental procedure. Worried that he'd never play golf again. Boyer agreed to Within 15 minutes of starting the reverse flow of blood, the paralysis began to disappear. Soon it went away entirely.

"I walked out of the hospital five days later." Boyer said Wednesday, "Four days after that, I went out and played nine holes of golf in the rain."

One slim extra chance

By Phillip Alder

Alice Lupton is generally considered the best bridge player at the Jupiter Island Club in Hobe Sound. Fin. She is careful and thoughtful, as she showed on this tricky deal.

North's three hearts was a transfer bid promising five spades. After South rebid a cautious three spades, North continued with four diamonds. This persuaded South to use two doses of Blackwood before settling in six spades, (Really, four no trump ought to be natural here, showing no interest in spades or diamonds, but Lupton and her partner, Charlotte Richardson, were on the same wavelength.) After winning with her heart ace. Lupton drew trumps, played off her top clubs, and ruffed the club four in the dummy. She continued with a heart to her king and a low diamond toward the dummy.

When West followed low, declarer was about to call for dummy's queen when she realized the finesse could wait Instead, Lupton played low from the dummy. As she always had a dismond loser, this duck couldn't cost. And it gained when East had to win with a singleton. Whatever East returned, declarer ruffed in hand and discarded the remaining low diamond from the dummy. Then Lupton finessed dummy's diamond queen to land the slam.

Brilliantly done, but West had missed an even more difficult coup. He could have played the king on the first diamend trick. This swallows his partner's jeck and ensures two diamend tricks for the defense. This anti-ducking play is called the Crocodile
