Revitalization plans Waterfront to hear Main Street strategy

SANFORD - Marketing plans for the re-vitalization of downtown Sanford and the lakefront area will be discussed Wednesday. The next step in the project is to compile a recruitment package. The discussion is scheduled as part of the regularly scheduled Waterfront Master Plan Steering Committee meeting at Sanford City Hall.

Committee leaders agree that it will take cooperation from both the Waterfront committee and Sanford Main Street. (SMS), to bring plans to fruition.

During Wednesday's meeting, the SMS plans are to be presented by Helen Stairs. She not only serves as chairperson for the Sanford Main Street Economic Restructing Committee, but is also a member of the Waterfront Committee. "We all know that the only way we are going to really make some progress is if everyone works together on this." Stairs said. "And in order to do this, we will be forming two subcommittees. One will work on recruitment, and the other on retention.

She said the recruitment group will be setting up a package aimed at drawing developers and business persons into the area for new business expansion.

The retention committee," she explained. "will be to help businesses which are already operating in the downtown area. We want to help them with all of their needs, whether it's in expansion, beautification, or some other work."

Stairs said some help will be forthcoming from Melvin Simon and Associates, developers of the Seminole Towned Center mail. "We will be meeting with a representative from the mall." Stairs said. "who plans to give us input on commercial downtown development and im-provements, and we believe it will go a long way loward helping businesses which are already in the downtown area.

Stairs' plan, entitled "Focus on the Future," covers much of the area which is also included in planning by the Waterfront committee. According to the mission statement in the SMS plan. "Downtown Sanford will become a multi-purpose, commercial district offering a variety of shopping opportunities, culture, and entertainment within the historic waterfront district for the benefit of residents, govern-ment/other downtown employees, and the greater Sanford community.

By the year 1999, the SMS plan predicts the largest portion of square footage of downtown stores, 32.961 square feet, will be devoted to D Bee Waterfront, Page SA

By VICKI DeBORM Herald Staff Writer

SANFORD - They say a picture is worth a thousand words.

If that's true, then the students in Diane Cuozzo's classes at Idyliwilde Elementary School must have sent millions of "words" across the country during the first session of school.

The fourth grade students, now on intersession, were part of Cuozzo's Photo Pals Cuozzo is the school's art teacher and wanted to teach the students something about photography as a form of artistic expression.

After the students had learned the basics of taking pictures, she found a way they could share their art with other youngsters across the country and learn something about different places as well.

All four fourth grade art classes wrote letters. drew pictures and, of course, took photographs.

They then mailed the letters and art to their peers at schools in Oradell., New Jersey: Northford, Connecticut: Cypress, California and Las Vegas, Nevada.

From all across the country: north, south, east and west, the students are making friends and learning all about the people and places with whom they are corresponding.

Radio operator tunes in space

LAKE MARY - James Visintin doesn't like to be confined.

Unlike most teens, however, he's setting his goals beyond local boundaries.

Visintin is a licensed amateur (ham) radio operator who has been working on a project with AMSAT that will build a telecommunications satellite to be deployed in space during a shuttle mission in a few years.

The 15-year-old Lake Mary High School sophomore has been selected to work on the project through the Lake Monroe Amateur Radio Society (LMARS). In the Tradeport Center at Orlando International Airport, the Phase 3D statellite is beginning to take shape.

It is hoped that it will be ready for deployment in two years.

Right now, I'm doing some menial jobs like cleaning up, but I hope to move on to some more technical things later on," he said. "It will be very interesting, either way.'

Visintin said he became interested in ham radio communications after his citizen's band Bee Radio, Page 5A

NEWS FROM THE REGION AND ACROSS THE STATE Contributors 'betting' $207 a minute Money name of the game in casino campaign

By JACKIE HALLIPAX Associated Press Writer

TALLAHASSEE - The casino industry is betting millions of dollars, despite history and recent surveys, that Floridians will vote next month to roll out the welcome mat.

Supporters gave nearly 86.7 million in 19 days inst month. That's some $298,000 a day. Almost $12,446 as hour. More than $207 a minute.

The checks were written by just 28 contributors: hotels in Las Vegas, Reno and Atlantic City. as well as Florida developers and parimutuel businesses guaranteed a piece of the action if voters approve Amendment 8 on Nov. 8.

The Proposition for Limited Casinos would allow 47 casinos in hetel resorts, home tracks, dog tracks, jai alai frontona and riverboats across the state.

All but five of the casinos are designated for specific counties. One is promised for a specific Miami Beach neighborhood.

hopes to get the license for that casino, kicked in 01.3 million in the reporting period between Sept. 10 through Sept. 20. The Mirage, the Las Vegas company that has a deal with Kramer, donated $1 million. In contrast, the biggest check received by No Casinos, a group opposing the amend-ment, was $250,000 from Walt Danry World. The next largest check came from Watkins Motor Lines in Labeland, which gave 975,000. The Florids Enptist Convention and BellSouth Telecon each gave $25.000.

All told, the Proposition for Limited Caninos is just shy of Florida's campaign finance record of $10.7 million, raised by former Gov. Bob Martines four years ago. Mac Stipanovich, who managed Martinez's compaigns, says he has never heard of 05.7 million being raised in 19 days in a Florida election.

"It's almost frightening," he says.

Most expensive rooms found in Keys

KEY WEST - Looking for the country's most expensive hotel rooms? Think palm trees and sunsets, not bright lights and Broadway: The costliest accommodations in the nation are in the Florida Keys. a survey says.

At an average of $147 a night, the Keys lead the list of pricey lodgings, according to PKF Consulting, a firm that studies the hospitality industry.

New York was second with an average of $143, and another Florida area, Naples - which used to be top the list - was third. at $140.

"The combination of high-end resorts and peak seasonal pricing allows hoteliers in the Florida Keys to achieve such a high average room rate," said Derek Pinto, a vice president in PKF's Miami office.

Since hotels in the Keys depend on seasonal influxes, "it is incumbent upon the managers at these hotels to make money when the sun shines," he said.

The rankings are based on monthly surveys of 3,500 hotels with 750.000 occupied hotel rooms in 58 cities throughout the United States, said Robert Mandelbaum, director of research at PKF's San Francisco headquarters.

Revenue agency sends 500,000 notices in error

By Accorlated Press

TALLAHASSEE - Nine years after Daniel Wells' death. his family got a letter from the state advising them he had to pay child support. Wells is not the only dead person whose name has turned up on notices from the Department of Revenue, which in July took over child-support enforcement from the Department of Health and Rehabilitative Services.

The revenue agency has mailed about 700,000 notices to families to bring them up to date on their accounts.

Most - as many as half a million - were mistakenly addressed to people who were not supposed to get them, said agency spokeswoman Donna O'Neal.

"Until we can iron out all the bugs in the system, there will continue to be inaccuracies." the said.

Abby James, an agency employee in Pinellas County. said she has spoken with at least two people in Wells' predica-ment. The Wells family lives in dorth Pinellas.

HRS Secretary Jim Towey said he warned revenue officials they would wind up with a lot of unnecessary letters because many of the open cases should have been closed.

We were a lot more anxious about doing collections than about tidying up our files,' Towey said.

The revenue department in-sisted on sending out the letters anyway, he said.

FORT LAUDERDALE - A

udicial nominating committee

That has angered the Florida Association for Women Lawyers, who has asked Gov. Lawton Chiles to urge the Judicial Nominating Commission to re-consider its decision to nominate three men for the post vacated when Judge Harry Lee Anstead was named to the Florida Supreme Court.

The controversy stems from some of the questions posed by the commission to the seven women interviewed last month in Fort Lauderdale. There were 20 male candidates.

"It's insulting to ask a highpowered woman attorney how she will handle her child care if she's appointed to the appellate bench." said Anne Carrion Pinson, chapter president of the Florida Association for Women Lawyers. "Any woman practicing law has already proven she can take care of her family.

"Besides, a judge's hours are set," she added. "Being a judge is probably one of the most child-friendly professions."

Cherry Grant. an assistant public defender in West Palm Beach, said she attended 18 of the commission's 27 interviews and heard personal questions asked of women candidates that were not asked of their male counterparts.

"I can tell you what all of the women candidates' husbands do for a living, but I can't say the same about the wives of the male candidates," she said.

All the women were asked their age during the interviews she witnessed, Grant said. Three women were asked whether they thought they were too young for the position, she said. Only one male candidate was asked about his age, she said, and the question was whether he felt his age was an asset or a liability.

None of the female candidates complained to the commission about the tone of the questions. Grant said. But she said that could be because the candidates don't want to taint future interviews.

Three of the commission's nine members are women. Most of the controversial questions were asked by a woman who is not an attorney. Attorney R. Michael Easley of West Palm Beach, a member of the commission, said the criticism was unfair. He said the questions by commission member Mariene Uchin could be deemed sexist, but also appropriate.

Does 14th Amendment protect all?

In 1974, a student, Marco DeFumis Jr., claimed that his 14th Amendment rights had been violated because he had been denied entrance to the University of Washington Law School. The university of Washington Law cy. he claimed, had discriminated against him because of his color, which was white.

William O. Douglas, arguably the most liberal justice in the history of the Supreme Court, had very strong feelings about the case, as he told me one day. "The Equal Protection Clause," he wrote. "Commands the elimination of racial barriers. not their creation in order to antialy our theory as not their creation in order to satisfy our theory as to how society ought to be organized... A segregated admissions process creates sugges-tions of stigms and caste no less than a segregated classroom.... One other assumption-must be clearly disproved: that blacks or browns cannot make it on their individual merit. That is a stamp of inferiority that a state is not permitted to place on any lawyer." Except among some conservatives, little at-tention has been paid to Justice Douglas' clear reading of the 14th Amendment (equal protec-tion of the laws). A reckless illustration of what happens these days when universities have discarded the 14th Amendment has been reported by Scott Jaschik in a recent Chronicle

Powell added: "Preferring members of any one group for no reason other than race or ethnic origin is discrimination for its own sake. This the Constitution forbids."

Yet the U.S. Attorney General. Janet Reno, has approved the decision of her civil rights chief, Deval Patrick, to change course and support a New Jersey School Board's firing of a white teacher solely to keep a black teacher on staff. (Both are equally qualified.)

Yet, as Malcolm Gladwell has reported in The Yet, as Malcoim Gladwell has reported in The Washington Post, "No one has ever claimed that the Piscataway school district discriminated against blacks in hiring or promoting teachers. These are the conditions under which the Supreme Court has consistently ruled that reverse discrimination is justifiable."

Furthermore, the Piscataway district has long hired a higher percentage of blacks than "the percentage of qualified blacks in the labor pool."

Hip hip hurray! We have some great people and organizations in the Sanford area joining in the drive to buy back the old 1921 Sanford fire truck.

Time is running out however. The absolute deadline to confirm the purchase is October 31. If not, Fire Chief Tom Hickson says someone else will be allowed to buy the truck.

By thie weekend, only $2,000 has been placed in the fund, with an additional $100 donation from the membership of Sanford Historic Downtown Waterfront Association, but waiting for approval by its board of directors.

That's slightly less than one quarter of the total $8,500 needed, with half of the month already gone. Hickson has only two weeks in which to complete this drive.

Some people may be waiting until the last minute, to see if it appears as though the fund raising will be successful. They may be concerned that money placed in an account which didn't reach its goal would be lost. To the contrary. Hickson said if the total amount isn't raised, all money will be returned to the donors.

Discussions with fire department personnel and city officials of other areas indicate they are somewhat envious. They see Sanford as having an opportunity to re-obtain a portion of its history, and at what can be considered a relatively low cost because the truck is in good condition.

Hickson had hoped, with the short timespan between the contact from present owner LIJE in icnn

Even the Police Explorers, who work extremely hard for every dime they get, have now joined in the drive.

We commend everyone who has donated thus far. We urge others to give this serious consideration as well. We ask that it be done as soon as possible. Waiting until the last minute, even with a large donation, may be too late.

Immunize kids

In reference to the Sept. 29 article regarding childrens' immunizations:

The article gave the impression that the state will be the only provider for these shots. Not so. It also stated "children under the age of two ... " true, but - the vaccines are eligible for children through the age of 18.

The vaccines are free for anyone Medicaid eligible, and native Americans and native Alaskans.

Those whose insurance will not cover these vaccines are eligible, as well as children with no insurance. The plan is to have all children vaccinated.

Our facility, as well as many others in town, are also offering free vaccine. We have had signs posted in our office for over two weeks.

Parents, I hope you will have all your children immunized. It has never been easier. The life you save will be theirs.

GUEST COLUMNIST

What's wrong with this picture?

Sanford's building, fire and police inspectors and a deputy sheriff should be commended for putting their lives in danger when they were physically confronted in a code violation incident recently. Ian't it interesting that since the city has buckled down on code violations. the violators are both surprised and incensed because they are used to Sanford's lax code enforcement and used to getting their own way by having:

1. building and fire violations

2. trash in yard

3. litter in yard 4. junk cars in yard

These are violations that they should have been cited for all along. Residents of Goldsboro have complained before about high crime and lax code enforcement only to have city officials pay little more than lip acrvice to them.

Why are the mayor, city manager and commissioners finally cracking down on code enforcement in Goldsboro?

Why the sudden change of heart?

One simple reason: it's re-election time so our city officials want to appear to be concerned with our needs so that they can get our vote, get re-elected only to then again totally forget all about our needs (in this case. code enforcement). Remember both Commissioners McClanahan and Eckstein are up for re-election this December.

Didn't our city officials play this same game with us back in 1992 when Mayor Smith and commissioners Howell and Thomas were up for re-election? Let's now look back to 1992 and see how they appeared to be very concerned with our problems prior to being re-elected but not afterward by:

1. hiring an extra code enforcement officer before their election only to ax this position 60 days after all three had been re-elected.

One of Mayor Smith's and Commissioner Howell's campaign promises was to clamp down on illegal weekly rentals. But both Smith and Howell reneged on their promises only five weeks after being re-elected by voting not to support the state coming to Sanford to inspect iliegal weekly rentals.

3. In 1992 just prior to elections our mayor and city commissioners voted unanimously to pay $500,000 Sanford tax dollars to purchase the park bordered by French Avenue, Fifteenth Street, Laurel Avenue and Twentieth Street. The neighboring residents protested (rightfully no) because the city had zoned all areas bordering their neighborhood as multi-family apartments. Only 10 months after being re-elected the mayor and commissioners said that the city could not afford and had no use for this land. The same land that they themselves had voted to purchase 10 months earlier.

Well then why did they vote to purchase it by wasting our tax dollars in the first place?

ROBERT SEMINOLE OPIONION CASSELS

You know they never gave one single reason for this "change of heart."

Well, one theory has it, and it is merely theory, that our city officials accidentally approved zoning this section of land as multi-family apartments when it was supposed to be zoned single family. So to quell the very vocal single family neighbors and get Betty Smith. Lon Howell and Bob Thomas re-elected, they covered this very expensive half million dollar error by voting to purchase the property.

I find this theory very interesting. Because there is no other logical reason (if there is, I'd like to hear it directly from them) as to why the mayor and commissioners would, two months before the 1992 election, vote to spend $500,000 of our tax dollars to buy this property. Then 10 months after the election, these same five officials said Sanford can't afford this property and we need to sell it. Go figurel

How can our city leaders pretend to endorse stricter Duany codes when they aren't even capable of enforcing basic codes?

As for Mayor Smith's own personal 1992

re-election campaign platform, it included: 1. promise of a first class waterfront entertainment center. But, volla, after being reflected she has made no mention and done nothing to bring a first class waterfront entertainment center to Sanford.

2. promise of a western transportation hub connecting interstate roads, railroad and airport. Well, since being re-elected, Mayor Smith has made no mention of this campaign promise.

So here it is election time again. The Goldsboro neighborhood residents have complained of high crime and lack of code enforcement. Just like the last election, the mayor, city manager and commissioners are suddenly appearing progressive and concerned with our needs.

How long will their concern last? Well, until the election is over, then their concern with our needs will totally disappear - just like before. Sanford's voters should be enraged and insulted that the city officials assume that we are actually dumb enough to fall for their same old tricks again.

Webster's Dictionary defines "public servant" as a holder of public office rendering a service in the public interest conducted for the benefit of the community as a whole.

isn't it and and unfortunate for Sanford that our mayor and commissioners chose to act as "public servants" for the benefit of the community only immediately before election been at ground zero. Andrews and Snowe are still sparring over Andrews' support of the closing of Loring Air Force Base in his congressional district. Snowe sued the De-fense Department over the closing, even though the independent base closure commission declared that Loring should be shut down.

Nevertheless, Andrews has flunked the test that could prove pivotal in this election: A "report card" being distributed by Ross Perot's United We Stand America. A sterling example of political gimmickry, the report card has become an effective weapon for Snowe in a state where Perot finished second in his 1992 presidential bid. Andrews re-ceived an "F," while Snowe drew a "B," along with an fervent endorsement from the jug-cared billionaire.

Perot claims that UWSA members will side with candidates of either party who are fiscally responsible. As Andrews has learned, Perot's report card includes no bonus points for taking on the tough issues with the independence that voters claim to want.

Eight dubious votes make up Perot's report card. President Clinton's budget, which slashed the deficit by $500 billion, is one of the votes. Andrews supported it: Snowe and UWSA didn't. Then there's NAFTA and term limits as well as the balanced-budget amendment - a gimmick that allows politicians to talk tough but duck the tough decision-making - which Snowe supports and Andrews opposes.

"Campaign consultants will tell you 'Look. can't you just stand up and say you support the balanced-budget amendment?" Andrews told us. "'It's an easy, painless thing to do. You don't have to make any (budget) cuta.""

"The strong presence of UWSA is a reflection of Maine's culture." says a Snowe campaign spokeswoman. "It's a state of independent thinkers and it's a fiscally responsible state in a tough economy. Her message of the balanced-budget amendment. line-item veto and getting the deficit under control has been ... Perot's too."

A closer look at the record suggests Perot may be shading the facts in his endorsement of Snowe. A recent state-by-state scorecard mailed across the country by UWSA er-roneously claims that "Representative Andrews is not working for the voters. He gave $1.2 billion for defense to the Pentagon. when the Pentagon did not even request the money.'

Andrews actually led the fight against spending that money in July 1993.

Giving the devil his due Judge: Satanic rites OK in jail

By BOLLY MALL Associated Press Writer

DENVER - Saying it was time to "give the devil his due," a federal judge has ruled that a convicted kidnapper can perform satanic rituals in his prison cell.

Robert James Howard, serving a 10-year sentence at a federal prison, can practice satanism under the First Amendment. said U.S. District Judge Edward Nottingham.

The judge said a federal prison rule barring devil worship is unconstitutional.

"We ought to give the devil his due." he wrote in the 23-page decision, quoting a ruling from another case Prison officials had argued that some of the materials that

Howard wants - which include candles, candleholders, incense, a gong. a black robe, a chalice and a short wooden staff - could be used as weapons.

Howard hopes to perform his first ritual on Halloween and then once a month, ideally between 2 a.m. and 5 a.m., according to his lawyers. He said the rituals will help him cope with such things as his father's death last year.

"It's like going to a shrink," he said. "Through a compassion ritual and through a funeral ritual. I would deal with his death in a basic sense that would start the healing process." Howard also plans to practice what he calls a "destruction ritual," which he described as a way to visualize people's deaths. purging anger toward them without killing them. But Dr. Carl Raschke, who they were surprised to find themselves studying the trial of Simpson, who is charged with murdering his ex-wife Nicole Brown Simpson and her friend Ronald Goldman.

But despite the sensationalism and, to some degree, because Harvard, of course, has had its of it - the Simpson case is ideal for the lawyering class, according to the professors.

Few cases involve so many issues: racism, police misconduct. search and seizure rules, DNA evidence and media access. among others.

And few cases offer as much public access to information. Not only can students watch the proceedings live on television. but transcripts and motions are available in computer data banks

Not so high-tech is another offering on the course's reading list: "Juice: The O.J. Simpson Tragedy." a book published by the supermarket tabloid Globe.

"It's interesting that it's not; only quick and easy to read. butmore it shows how legends. actually do develop out of nothing, how information is generated and disseminated." Murray said.

WHITE BEAR LAKE, Minn. it's been 17 years since Jamie Butcher — a high school track star and straight-A student drove the family station wagon. skidded on some wet leaves and crashed into a tree.

He has not regained consciousness since. He lies on a bed screened from the rest of his parents' living room, his body covered by a quilt sewn by his grandparents. A dingy pair of high-tops scribbled with wishes of old friends hangs nearby.

He is kept alive by machines.

'God called him a long time ago. Science wouldn't let him said Pattie Butcher. his mother. On this year's anniversary of the Oct. 8, 1977 accident.

Jamie's parents planned to disconnect his feeding tube. They did not want him to remain in a vegetative state any longer.

But an advocacy group representing disabled people filed a last-minute motion stopping them. The group was scheduled to argue its case in probate court today.

"People with disabilities deserve their day in court," said Jane Hoyt of the Nursing Home Action group, a state nonprofit organization. "Court decisions that affect their varied lives should not be made unless they are represented there."

The group would like a registered nurse appointed as Jamie's legal guardian. The nume, Mary Krumholz of St. Paul, opposes removal of life-support systems for vegetative patients and does not know the Butchers.

Minnesota law does not recognize the Butchers as legal guardians in this case. They have to apply for guardianship. The Butchers, protesting the law, refuse.

"We know Jamie." Mrs. Butcher said. "We know how he'd hate this."

Jamie is now twice as old as he was when the accident happened. For years, his parents hoped he would emerge from his coma. They brought in chiropractors, physical therapists, even considered sending him to Japan for special treatment. "I didn't like the term vegetative state, so I didn't use Mrs. Butcher said. "I didn't like to group Jamie in with broccoli. But we realized that's how he was going to be.'

About three years ago, when Jamie was still in a nursing home, the Butchers decided they did not want their son to live in a vegetative state longer than he had lived a normal life.

They enlisted the help of Dr. Ronald Cranford, a neurologist who gave expert testimony in case In that case, the U.S. Supreme Court ruled that the state of Missouri could require "clear and convincing evidence" that Cruzan, who was comatose. would not want to be kept alive. Her parents provided the evidence and her feeding tube was removed.

In February, the Ramsey County Attorney's office asked the Butchers to go to probate court and be appointed their son's guardians. The Butchers argued that since they had cared. for Jamie all along, they didn't need to be named his guardians. The court agreed.

But as the preparations for Jaime's death were being made. the Nursing Home Action group filed its opposition.

"Suppose Mr. Butcher were a person with mental retardation and his family decided it was in his best interests to harvest his organs?" asked Tom Marzen. general counsel of the National Legal Center for the Medically Dependent and Disabled in Indianapolis, which is advising the nursing group. "Everyone would agree that he should have had a lawyer to say. 'Hey, wait a minute. He should have rights and interests.""

While lawyers argue the case in court, the Butchers wait, hoping they can put an end te their son's limbo.

Mikkola's little corn plant has high hopes. The little feller planted himself on the roof of her house on Elm and 20th Street in Sanford and has taken root up there. Mikkola reports that the plant is about three feet tall including the soft tassel. She was not sure where the plant came from or how it came to be on her roof, but she did say that it would stay there. Nourished by the rains that have besieged the area for months and grounded in the leaves that have gathered on the roof, the plant is strong and healthy. It's not likely that the decorative, flowering plant will produce much worth eating, however. With the Hallowe'en season fast

Parmalee unheralded no more

MIAMI - Bernie Parmalee, who barley made the regular season roster, became the first player conched by Don Shula to earn two game balls as Miami moved into sole possession of the AFC East lead with a 20-17 overtime victory over the Los Angeles Raiders.

Parmalee ran 30 times for a career high 150 yards, including a 26-yard jount that led to Pele Stoyanovich's 29-yard field goal 5:46 into overtime. He also recovered a fumbled punt that set up the tying TD in the fourth quarter, and made a hard hit that gave Rocket Ismail a slight concussion on a kickoff return.

The Dolphine won despite Dan Marino completing only 17 of 37 passes. The Raiders also had problems as Jeff Hostetler (B-of-23) was benched after arguing with coach Art Shell on the sidelines.

The victory, coupled with Buffalo's 27-17 loss to Indianapolis left Miami alone atop the APC East standings. The Raiders, expected to contend for the APC title when the season began, slipped to 2-4.

Softball League at Chase Park.

Vicki Humphrey and Lani Cabral each had three hits Saturday to support the complete-game effort of winning pitcher Stephanie Reed as the Sanford Ice opened the inaugural Women's Baseball League season with a 12-3 win over the Apopka Diamonda.

The Ice, who were rained out Sunday, will play their home opener next Saturday against the Diamonds in a 2:30 p.m. game at Sanford Memorial Stadium.

This could get interesting.

I've often wondered how long it would take before the gender barrier was broken in baseball. Unlike football, where bulk and strength are necessary, or basketball, which demands the ability to defy gravity. baseball is just as easily played well by women as men (hitting home runs being the exception).

"These women can play," says ice president and general manager Mike Powers, who also coaches the Seminole High School varsity baseball team. "This is not a joke. The quality of baseball is quite good. People who come out to watch them will be surprised."

I don't know why ... in baseball, quickness and agility are as valued as brute strength and raw speed. The one prerequisite is excellent hand-eye coordination. Without it, hitting is impossible and defense an adventure. And as far as I know. hand-eye coordination is not gender specific.

Why can't women play baseball as well as men? Rhetorically, there's no reason why not. Sociologically, they're not supposed to (a male point of view, I admit). Actually, the only reason that most women don't is because they haven't grown up is it inconceivable to believe that if Jackie Joyner-Kersee, Pam Shriver, or Nancy Lieberman (who's listed as being a member of the WBL's Board of Advisors) had applied themselves to basebuli instead of track, tennis, or basketball that they might now have been (male) professional quality baseball players today?

It might be stretching it a bit to suggest that the WBL will be in the vanguard of getting women into professional baseball. My guess is that any woman who wants to play professional baseball will have to do it the Jackie Robinson way, singularly, proving herself every step of the way.

The WBL could help accomplish what the Negro baseball leagues did and help break down some of the already crumbling preconceived notions about what sports are supposed to be played by which athletes.

By lessening the stigma of a woman playing baseball, the WBL might make it easier for some young lady to be willing to try to play professional baseball.

But what may stand in the WBL's way of claiming a viable position in the sports community is over-

ESPN that the station (sic) has taken the policy of no more baseball this season, so they will not be televising the opening game of the Women's Baseball League. "The Women's Baseball League is the WBL announced that it was "notified 5 p.m. Wednesday by very disappointed that because of Major League Baseball, ESPN chooses to pass on the best thing to happen to baseball in the last 25 ycars."

Hopefully, the grandiose achemes of the league administration won't rob the players of the time the league needs to develop a solid base. A reasonable primary goal would be establishing the stability enjoyed by the Central Florida Baseball League.

You won't get any civic-minded "It's your duty to go out and support the home team" pitch from this corner. On the other hand, there are few ways better to spend an afternoon than at the ballpark. regardless of who's playing. And I will say that I'm looking forward to taking my daughter. Enough is enough to mom BUY IT. SELL IT. who has 30 grandchildren FIND IT.

DEAR ABET: 1 am 68 years old. My husband is 70. We raised seven children and now have 30 grandchildren. Our problem is "Sonny," our 30-year-old son who got in trouble with the law and disappeared for two years. He returned this summer to clear up the trouble, and was sentenced to 18 months.

senior patrol leader at the Methodist Annual retreat at Leesburg. There were 10 boys

Before Sonny left to do his time, he brought his girlfriend. "Theima." and her 7-year-old daughter to my house and asked if they could stay until Theima found a job. (She has no skills.) Theima registered her daughter in school, but she has made no effort to find a place of her own. She found a job and works from 2 p.m. to 9 p.m., so I have to pick up her daughter from school, give her dinner, help her with her homework, give her a bath and put her to bed. (She is not Sonny's child.)

Abby, not only have my husband and I lost the retirement we earned at this time of our lives, we have become maids, cooks and baby sitters for someone we never even knew until four weeks ago.

How can we tell Thelma that she must set a date to move out and be on her own? Unfortuantely, she has no parents. "MOM" TO A STRANGER

DEAR "MOM": Your son asked if Theima and her daughter could stay with you until she found a job. She has found one: now tell her that ahe must be out of your home within a specified number of days - or weeks. Be firm, Mom, or Theima will

DEAR ABST: I care very much for an older gentleman a widower with a large family (I'll call him Howard).

I have frequently resented the tone and disrespectful manner used by his family when speaking to him. They are impatient to the point of being downright cruel.

After I criticized a family member for humiliating him in front of numerous people, it suddenly dawned on me that Howard has a hearing problem. He often responds inappropriately to comments made to him. and his inability to hear has resulted in misunderstandings. hurt feelings, difficulty in following verbal instructions, and feeling isolated in groups.

I talked to Howard about it and he told me he had tried various hearing aids, but none has worked for him. Being a very impatient man, he probably didn't give them a fair trial, but he refuses to listen to anyone who dares to suggest that he give yet another hearing aid a chance.

Abby, if you for your readers have any suggestions on how to help this dear man, please let me know. NOWARD'S FRIEND

DEAR FRIEND: Waste no in taking Howard to an audiologist to have his hearing tested. If he has the type of deafness for which there is no hearing aid, he and his family should be advised. However, in any case, his impatient and cruel family members should be made aware of his condition, and urged to exercise patience and respect.

DEAR DR. GOTT: I'm attempting to keep my elderly mother at home with me, but she suffers from Alaheimer's disease. Can you discuss this condition so I can determine what I'm in for? DEAR READER: I congratulate you on taking on such an enormous responsibility. How-ever, I suspect that sooner or ster you'll need help with the tuation. Alsheimer's disease, a brain disorder of unknown cause, is progressive. Initially, patients are minimally confused and forgetful. Within months or years, they gradually lose higher mental functioning and even-tually require 24-hour-a-day supervision and assistance with even the most fundamental daily activities, such as cating. bathing, dressing, and so forth. In my opinion, you should make plans to involve the visiting nurse association in your community. For one thing, you will need a break in your responsibilities; for another, you will someday require professional help, such as home health aides, in managing your mother's condition. Your family physician will help you coordinate the various. appropriate services. In addition, you will find a lergic to anything, even bird roppings. Also, the inhelation dried bird excrement can cause politiacosis, a form of infectious pneumonia, which is ed by a blood test. I suggest that if your husband has a thing about feeding the birds, he is the one who should clean up the mean afterward. Thus, if your symptoms disap-pear when you're away from the birds, you can conclude that an allergy is probable. Ask your allergy is probable. Ask your doctor about this. Copyright 1994 NEWSPAPER ENTERPRISE ASSN.

By Phillip Alder Despite having the greatest strength in depth. New York had never won the Grand National Teams. This year it reached the final with a team that included David Berkowitz and Larry Cohen, two New Jersey residents, such are the strange regulations governing the GNT. Their teammates were Jimmy Cayne and Alan Sontag. In the final, they played a team repre-senting Ohio and including Eric Rodwell (who lives outside Chicago). Jeff Meckstroth (who lives in Tampa).
