It's Still Hot, But Mother Nature Easing Off

Breezes blowing in off the Atlantic Ocean have knocked a few degrees off south Florida temperatures, but most of the state is still sweating under a heat wave creeping into its fifth day. Temperatures were expected to be in the high 90s today in Seminole County with a heat index between 105 and 115.

But there is some relief in sight, forecasters say, and things should cool off a bit by the weekend.

Switching changes being made Wednesday morning on main power lines in Sanford to better handle heavy demand for electricity caused by the excessive heat resulted in problems at the Seminole County Courthouse and the Evening Herald.

Computers were down, elevators had to be shut down and rotating files would not function at the courthouse during the brownout.

With the county air-conditioning maintenance crew attending a once-a-year seminar in Orlando, county workers in the County Services Building have been suffering all week as air-conditioners broke down in the various departments. Only a skeletal crew was left to deal with the crunch during the record-breaking heat wave.

The tax collector's and property appraiser's offices share a computer system. The air-conditioner in their computer room is independent from the rest of the building, but should something happen to their computers duplicates of the important county records are kept elsewhere, according to Property Appraiser Bill Suber.

Florida Power & Light district manager Bruce Berger said a breaker tripped during Wednesday's switching operation, causing a brownout at the Herald which delayed production on Wednesday's edition for 1½ hours. He said businesses and offices using computers are much more

The Big E stood for excessive, heat that is, on Wednesday afternoon. Although the official National Weather Service high was 95 yesterday their temperature sign in Sanford displayed 108 degrees.

Brazil Police Say Body May Be Mengele's

SAO PAULO, Brazil (UPI) — Brazilian federal police said today there is a "90 percent chance" that a body buried in a small-town cemetery outside Sao Paulo is that of fugitive Nazi Josef Mengele, Auschwitz death camp's "Angel of Death."

Romeu Tuma, head of federal police in Sao Paulo, said he and West German officials had examined documents, including a diary kept by the man believed to be Mengele. The man died in a swimming accident in 1979.

"There is a 90 percent chance we have found him," Tuma said.

Tuma asked judges for an emergency order to allow exhumation of the body, buried in the small town of Embu, 20 miles outside Sao Paulo.

The West German Embassy in Brasilia earlier said it knew nothing of the reports about Mengele's body and in Paris French Nazi hunter Serge Klarsfeld questioned the report.

"I don't believe it any more than the German judicial system believes it," Klarsfeld said. "I am skeptical of this report. If he had in fact died, his surviving family in Germany would be the first to announce it."

Klarsfeld said there have been numerous recent reports that indicate Mengele is alive.

Klarsfeld's wife, Beate, just returned from Paraguay, where she tried to put advertisements on television seeking information on Mengele.

A West German Embassy spokesman in Brasilia said the Embassy knew nothing of the reported discovery of Mengele — responsible for the deaths of 400,000 people and the maiming of thousands in his bizarre genetic experiments aimed at creating Adolf

Hidden Lake Homeowners Protest Barbed Wire Fence

By Rick Brunson
Herald Staff Writer

Homeowners in the Hidden Lake subdivision in Sanford and the owner of a private school are at odds over a barbed wire fence that divides their properties. After a year of squabbling, the prickly issue is about to come before the city commission.

The homeowners say the 400-foot stretch of wire, adjacent to their recreation complex on Loch Lowe Drive, is hazardous to children who play in the area. The owner of the fence says it keeps people from trespassing on her property, the home of the Loch Lowe Preparatory School.

Mary Tumlin, of 306 Loch Lowe Drive, who heads the Hidden Lake Homeowners Association, asked the city commission Monday to create an ordinance banning barbed wire fences in residential areas.

"I'm tired of having children hurt on this barbed wire," she said of the fence. Three children injured themselves in recent weeks by riding their bikes into the fence or by falling into it, Mrs. Tumlin said.

"I can't imagine someone putting barbed wire around someone's recreational area. They don't have any around their recreational area," she said of the school. "What purpose is it serving except to hurt people? They don't have any animals over there."

Mrs. Tumlin said she would prefer a chain link or chicken wire fence, "or anything that is safer."

But Sherrill Hershone, the owner of the property, said "We had other fences but the kids cut through them to swim in my lake."

Ms. Hershone said the fence is on her property, which is zoned agricultural. If children are hurt by the fence, "then why are they on my property?" she asked.

She said doesn't want the children swimming in the lake because if they got hurt she could get sued.

Altamonte To Gain Gas Tax Divvy Cuts Revenue For 5 Cities

By Donna Estes
Herald Staff Writer

Altamonte Springs stands to get nearly a third of Seminole County cities' share of the county-imposed 4 cents-per-gallon gas tax, if the six other cities agree. Five of them, however, stand to lose money in the deal.

And Oviedo City Councilman Gary Gotwalt told Wednesday night's meeting of the Council of Local Governments in Seminole County that he won't sit still for it.

Under a state required formula, based on the amount of money each city spends in the previous five years for road improvements, the cities are to share 35 percent of the more than $3 million in proceeds from the gas tax annually, with the county getting 65 percent. The cities' first shares were based on road expenditures for 1977 through 1982.

Under that formula Sanford over each of the past two years has received 10.06 percent ($372,076); Altamonte Springs, 7.46 percent ($275,913); Casselberry, 6.86 percent ($253,722); Longwood, 5.41 percent ($200,092); Winter Springs, 2.74 percent ($101,340); Oviedo, 1.54 percent ($56,958); Lake Mary 1.04 percent ($38,465). There was no change between 1983 and 1984 because the county neglected to make a new computation by a deadline (dropping 1977 figures and adding 1983).

But County Director of Management and Budget Eleanor Anderson told the city representatives that a computation of money spent by the cities for road improvements for the five years from 1979 through 1984 shows that Altamonte Springs' share of the gas tax proceeds should now be 10.72 percent, $396,486, up by more than $120,000, while the shares of Sanford, Casselberry, Lake Mary, Longwood and

Oviedo would drop

Winter Springs is the only other city which would receive more. Its revenues would go up from $101,340 to $107,998, an increase of $6,658.

Meanwhile, Sanford's share would go down $50,671 to $321,405; Casselberry's down $33,657 to $220,065; Longwood down by $22,931 to $177,161; Oviedo, down by $12,575 to $44,383; and Lake Mary, down by $7,397 to $31,068.

Mrs. Anderson and County Attorney Nikki Clayton said for the new computation to go into effect, all seven cities must agree via interlocal agreements by August 15. If interlocal agreements are not adopted by then, last year's allocations will apply.

While Sanford Mayor Bettye Smith said the formula seemed "eminently fair," Gotwalt said, "You (speaking to the other members) are going to be hard put to get one member of this council — me — to agree. The bottom line is that Oviedo will receive less dollars and that will dictate our response."

With a touch of bitterness, Gotwalt said, "Our (Oviedo's) approach will have to be to look out for ourselves as best we can. There is certainly no help from outside our borders."

Lake Mary's Mayor Richard Fess said he could see some discrepancies in the way some cities computed their road improvement expenses, adding "Lake Mary is going to have to change our accounting procedures. Some of the cities apparently have better accountants than others."

Constantine said the new formula is fair. "If (a city) spends more money, it is going to get more money (from the gas tax proceeds)," he said.

Gotwalt said some cities do not have more money to spend.

Lake Mary To Vote On Street Sales

An ordinance that would prohibit city residents from selling cars and other equipment on city streets will be up for a vote of the Lake Mary City Commission at their meeting beginning at 7 p.m. today.

Also proposed in the ordinance is the establishment of a $10.00 permit for the sale of vehicles in residential areas of the city.

City Manager Kathy Rice said that because of the wording of the ordinance, she does not think it will be voted into law. The problem stems from the fact that it may be too hard to enforce.

Commissioners could not agree at a May 16 meeting on how much the city should charge residents for the permit and how many permits a city resident could get per year.

The purpose of the ordinance is discourage people from putting their cars, boats, trailers and other equipment out on city streets and right of ways with for sale signs on them.

The sandy paths by Florida's Big Tree, the "Senator," are packed by sightseers walking over the roots of the tree and could cause the tree's deterioration, says County Forester Mike Martin.

County Told Boardwalk Needed

'Senator' In Danger

The 3,500-year-old "Senator," a bald cypress tree that attracted President Calvin Coolidge to the Big Tree Park near Five Points in 1929, is in danger because sightseers are trampling on its root system, compacting the soil and cutting its oxygen supply.

While county commissioners indicated their concern for the ancient tree they took no action Tuesday on county Parks and Recreation chief, Leonard Carwell's recommendation that between $3,000 and $8,000 be allocated to build a boardwalk for the visitors to keep them off the ground near the Senator and a companion cypress, nearly as old.

Commissioner Barbara Christensen suggested instead that the public might want to donate money to buy boards for the walk.

Carwell said he was warned by County Forester Mike Martin that the compacted soil would cause the tree to deteriorate. He told commissioners he would take the matter to the county parks and recreation board, an advisory group, for study.

He said the root system of the "Senator" spreads out 100 feet in all directions and walking sightseers have compacted the earth there to the point where the roots can't breathe. The trees are fenced in but the root systems spread beyond the fences.

With a boardwalk, built up 18 inches from the ground, the soil over a period of time would loosen up, he said. The soil could be aerated as a temporary measure if the problems becomes a critical one, he said.

The Senator, one of the oldest and largest trees in the United States, is 47 feet in circumference and 138 feet tall. It was 165 feet tall before being damaged by a hurricane in 1925.

Records from the mid 1800s say that a Mr. Lord, an early resident of the Sanford area, transported visitors to what was to become Big Tree Park via horse-drawn rig. With much of the land around the trees under water, the reports say it was difficult to get near the trees and visitors leaped from log to log to get close.

In the 1930s the WPA built a path to the tree.

Sanford Plagued By Car Thefts

Four cars have been stolen in Sanford since Monday, according to Assistant Police Chief Herb Shea.

Warren Carter, of 813 W. 12th St., Sanford, reported to police that his 1980 Chevy Citation was stolen Monday after he left it at the Barnett Bank at French Avenue and Airport Boulevard. Carter left the car, which was being repossessed by the bank, in the bank parking lot with the keys under the front seat, Shea said. He called bank officials the next day and told them the car was in the parking lot, but when they looked the $4,000 car was gone, Shea said.

Carrle Ann May, of 1817 Summerlin Ave., Sanford, reported that her 1979 Ford Mustang Ghia was stolen from her home between Tuesday and Wednesday. She had left the keys in the $3,500 vehicle, Shea said.

Someone stole Terry Gallimore's 1979 Datsun 280Z from in front of her house at 139 Sand Pine Court, Sanford. The theft of the $5,200 car occurred between Tuesday and Wednesday.

Cadis Sosa parked a 1976 Toyota he borrowed from a friend in front of his house at 2812 Park Ave., Sanford, on Monday night. When he got up the next morning the car was gone, Shea said. The $2,000 car belongs to George DeJesus, of 959 N. Jerico Ave., Casselberry. Shea said investigators have not determined if the incidents are related.

BIKE THEFT

A bicycle was stolen from Sanford City Hall, 300 N. Park Ave., last Friday, according to a police report. The bike, securely chained, was taken after someone used bolt cutters to cut the chain, the report said. The bike belongs to Gary Hace of 2520 Oak Ave., Sanford.

LIFTER BAGGED

An accused shoplifter being held for Longwood police allegedly fought with his captors and with police when they arrived at Albertsons, U.S. Highway 17-92, Longwood.

Police reported the man, who was sitting on the floor of an office when they arrived at about 9:50 p.m. Tuesday, lunged at them with his fists clenched when he stood up after being asked to identify himself. He began swinging and attempted to hit one of the policemen, the report said.

He was physically restrained and handcuffed before being booked into jail the man was treated at South Seminole Community Hospital, Longwood, for injuries he reportedly received in a scuffle before police arrived at the store, the report said.

Jerry Wright, 46, of Orlando, was charged with grand theft, resisting arrest with violence and battery on a police officer. He was being held in lieu of $5,000 bond.

CALIFORNIA, HERE HE COMES

A Sorrento man wanted for jumping probation in California was nabbed Tuesday after being stopped for a traffic violation.

Sanford police officer Rick Poovey stopped the man at First Street and Oak Avenue at about 1 p.m. after committing a traffic infraction, according to Assistant Chief Herb Shea.

A computer check of the man's drivers license revealed he was wanted in California for jumping probation in connection with an armed robbery charge in January 1984, Shea said.

John Russell Fowler, 26, of #82 Wekiva Falls, is being held without bond in the Seminole County jail awaiting extradition to Sacramento.

FIRE CALLS

The Sanford Fire Department responded to the following calls.

Tuesday

-1:09 p.m., 519 E. Second St., rescue. A 74-year-old man who was nauseous was taken to the hospital.

-4:44 p.m., 1100 W. 13th St., rescue. A 64-year-old man had stomach pains. No action taken.

-5:31 p.m., 2439 French Ave., false alarm.

-7:07 p.m., 24th Street and Bay Avenue, fire. A trash fire was put out.

-9:12 p.m., 810 Celery Ave., rescue. A 74-year-old man who had a seizure was taken to the hospital.

Wednesday

-1:31 a.m., state Road 46 and Persimmon Avenue, rescue. A 42-year-old man who complained of dizziness was taken to the hospital.

-2:08 a.m., 1201 Cornwall Ave., false alarm.

-10:51 a.m., 4300 Orlando Drive, rescue. A 21-year-old woman at the Seminole County jail had abdominal cramps. She was taken to the hospital.

-11:10 a.m., 1506 W. 13th St., rescue. A man of unknown age had pain caused by hemorrhoids. No action taken.

AUTO THEFT ARREST

A Rochester, N.Y. man was being held in lieu of $5,000 charged with auto theft after sheriff's deputies spotted the 1985 Chevrolet truck he was driving with freight packing on its bumpers traveling 40 mph in a 55 mph zone.

The deputies ran a computer check on the truck, valued at $12,000, and determined it had been reported stolen in New York. They stopped the vehicle at about 2:15 a.m. Thursday on U.S. Highway 17-92, Longwood, and arrested the driver. He was also charged with possession of drug paraphernalia after a pipe believed used for smoking marijuana was reportedly found in his possession, a sheriff's report said.

Theodore Harris, 27, has been charged in the case.

NOISE BRINGS BUST

A 32-year-old Orlando man stopped by Altamonte Springs police because his car had a noisy, smoky muffler and a malfunctioning taillight has been charged with possession of less than 20 grams of marijuana in addition to having been cited for the defects of his car.

Police are also trying to determine the source of several items of jewelry found wrapped in plastic and in a woman's eyeglasses case in a canvas bag on the rear floorboard of the man's car. A small plastic bag of marijuana was found in the glove box of the car, a police report said.

James Edward Clemons was arrested on Ballard Street, Altamonte Springs, at about 7:50 p.m. Tuesday. He was later released on $500 bond.

Seminole High Seniors 'An Exceptional Group'

Seminole High School's 330 seniors will receive their diplomas at an 8:30 a.m. Commencement ceremony on Saturday in the school stadium. Two of the top 10 members of the class are scheduled to address their peers.

The baccalaureate service will be at 7 p.m. on Friday in the school auditorium with the Rev. William J. Boyer of Grace United Methodist Church, Sanford, as speaker.

Senior class officers include Rod Alexander, president; Deborah Boston, vice president; Dana Ray, secretary; Jerry Walsh, chaplain.

The last month has been a blur of pre-graduation activities. The Junior-Senior Powder Puff Game was held May 24 followed by a dance. The next evening the annual senior banquet was held with a Hawaiian theme. Seniors also received their awards and as a grand finale yearbooks were handed out.

The prom was put on by the junior class for the seniors and was held at the Holiday Inn Surfside in Daytona Beach on March 28. The seniors went to Walt Disney World for Grad Night on May 4.

SHS principal Wayne Epps called the senior class "an exceptional group of people who have brought honor to themselves and their school. Their scholastic achievements, community service and athletic honors will not soon be forgotten. But perhaps their greatest contribution is the example of dedication, loyalty and hard work they have set for the younger students to follow."

Nearly two dozen SHS seniors have received scholarships. Florida Academic Scholars winners were Gerald Walsh and Rebecca Baker. Recipient of an appointment to the U.S. Naval Academy was Charles Burgess.

Winners of academic scholarships include Barbara Nelson and Rodriguez Alexander. Winners of athletic scholarships were Michael DeBose, Franklin Barnett, and Cliff Campbell. Other scholarship recipients include Sybil Baker, Yolanda Dorman, Sylvia Wade, Eric Urena, Rebecca Baker, Elizabeth Thorpe, Eric Urena, Judy White, Jeffrey O'Neal, Pamela Williams, Gerald Walsh, Elizabeth Boyd, Mark Outlaw, Rita Hemsath, Mellanie Boyd, Janet Hauck, and Armita Walker.

Keri Albright participated in the Future Business Leaders of America Clerk Typist II competition, winning first in county and district competition and going on to compete at the state event. Three senior soloists were rated superior at district competition on the state level as did the Seminole Concert Chorus, which was rated superior at the district contest.

Seminole's award winning scholastic team was captained by Jerry Walsh and Steve Borey. Becky Baker was a member of the Seminole County All-Star Brain Bowl Team which was first in the state.

Lake Mary Graduation A First

This Saturday will be something of a milestone for Lake Mary High School. Not just because 469 seniors will be graduated. But because this is the first senior class to have attended all four years at the school.

The graduation ceremony is scheduled for 8 a.m. in the school's sports complex.

Baccalaureate ceremonies are to be held at 8:30 p.m. Friday in the gym. Father Patrick J. Caverly of the Church of the Annunciation in Altamonte Springs is scheduled to be the guest speaker. The school administration is scheduled to hold a reception in the cafeteria for the senior class prior to baccalaureate services.

"This is the best senior class I have ever been associated with," Principal Don Reynolds said. He said the senior class is also one of the best in the state.

"We had a presidential scholar this year, 12 National Merit students; SAT and ACT test scores were very high. They're just a super bunch of kids," Reynolds said.

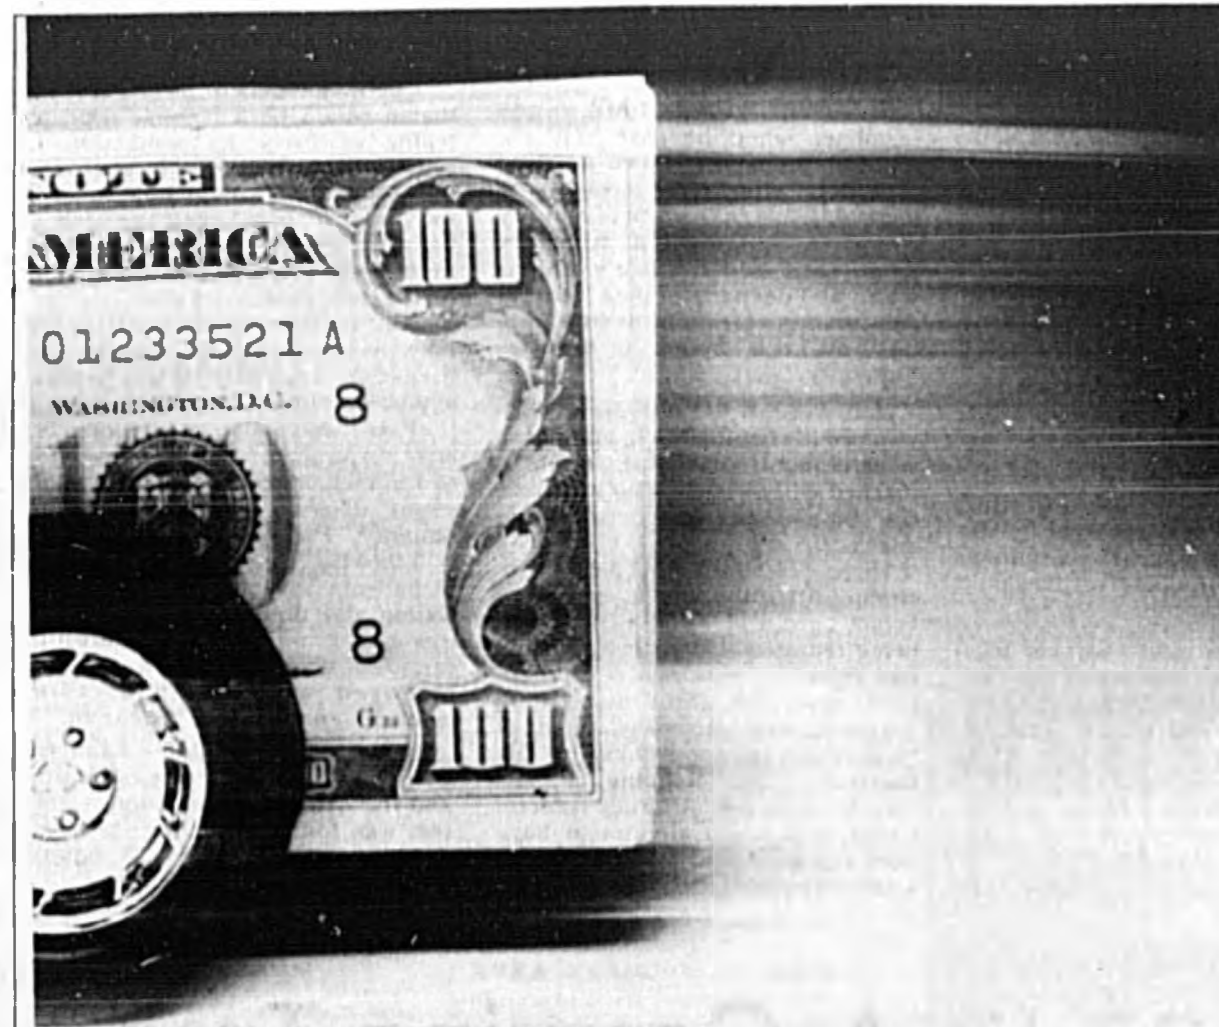

Robbie Greenstein, an 18-year-old from Longwood, achieved the highest possible honor for a high school student; he won the Presidential Scholar award. Only one student in each state can win.

Lake Mary seniors were awarded over $1.5 million in scholarship money. This computes to about $3,500 per senior. And five students received military academy appointments worth $136,000 each.

In sports, Lake Mary won the All Sports Trophy of the Five Star Conference for the second straight year. The football team won the district championship as did the boys cross country track team, the girls basketball team and wrestling team.

The marching band was one of only 12 selected from throughout the country to march in the Macy's Thanksgiving Day Parade in New York City. The band, flag corps and dance team received superior ratings at every competition they entered.

Alcoholism Spreads Sorrow

Neither communism nor capitalism has found the answer for alcoholism. Governments in the Soviet Union and the United States are increasingly worried about drinking in their societies.

A recent crackdown on alcohol in the Soviet Union parallels American efforts to discourage alcohol abuse. Soviet leader Mikhail Gorbachev has ordered the Soviet drinking age raised from 18 to 21, cut back production of vodka and made homemade liquor illegal.

In the United States, some states, under pressure from the federal government, have raised the drinking age and toughened drunken-driving laws.

According to Vladimir Tremil, author of the book, "Alcohol in the USSR," the Soviet people consume a per capita average of 15 liters of alcohol a year, compared to 11 liters for Americans. Especially significant is the fact that the Soviets drink about 9 liters of hard liquor annually, compared with 4.5 liters for Americans. Vodka is the favorite Russian drink, although millions of gallons of moonshine, called "samogon," are made by home distillers.

About 51,000 Soviet citizens die each year from acute alcohol poisoning. The toll is about 400 in the United States. The economic, personal and social cost of alcohol is considerable in both countries.

The tougher attitude toward alcohol in the two countries suggests that liquor is no respecter of political systems. Alcoholism was a problem in Russia long before the communists, but V.I. Lenin said that alcoholism was a by-product of capitalism and would disappear after the revolution. The fact that it hasn't confounds official Soviet ideology.

The United States also has a long history of frustration over alcohol. Prohibition didn't work, and appeals for voluntary temperance have often gone unheeded.

Some Americans may see excessive use of alcohol as an understandable escape from the drabness and oppression of Russian society. But does that also imply that there is something about life in America that encourages alcohol abuse? Or is it more likely that human nature is similar worldwide and some individuals are prone to alcohol problems?

Because of differing views of politics and economics, hostility often runs high between the United States and the Soviet Union. But alcoholism makes no national distinctions. Amid the worries about nuclear war, the United States and the Soviet Union have a common enemy in the bottle.

The Real Thing

The new Coca-Cola has been chilled, swirled, sniffed and sipped like the finest imported claret. Experts have described it as "smoother," "sweeter," and "fruity."

Some enjoy the new taste. Others may go hunting for cases of the original Coke to hoard them — for special occasions. Offers to buy the "real thing" may appear in the classifieds.

For years to come, steadfast Coca-Cola drinkers will rail against the "taste of a new generation." The Pepsi drinkers will gloat that their drink made the Great One change.

And the debate will fizz on.

You Can Make Hay When The Sun Shines

Consider for a moment how a machine we no longer pay much attention to has dramatically changed and improved our way of life.

It's about that time of year again: summer officially starts on June 21. In "Porgy and Bess" the song says "Summertime, and the living is easy."

Well, maybe. But when I was growing up in New York City in the 1940s, I don't recall the living being so easy when the heat waves hit. The temperatures soared into the 90s, the bricks absorbed the heat, the crowded subways became mobile sweat baths, and people slept outside on their fire escapes to try to keep cool.

Of course, in the South in the warm months, such heat was quite normal. Some of us sometimes forget that much of America has a semitropical climate. Look it up in the Statistical Abstract. The normal daily temperature in August in New Orleans goes up to 91 degrees. In Dallas, the normal temperature in August goes up to 96 degrees. In Phoenix, in July, it normally goes to 105 degrees. Normal! What about when it gets hot?

When you think about it, it's no wonder that until recently the southern tier of America was always much poorer than the rest of the country. It's hard to produce when your body and brain are baked by searing heat.

As recently as 1959, the poverty rate in the South was more than twice the national average. Then something happened. There was an economic explosion in the Sun Belt in recent years. And the poverty rates from the different U.S. regions have moved much closer to even.

Why did the Sun Belt suddenly prosper? One answer is air conditioning. In my judgment, it is one of the great humanitarian inventions of the modern world.

As recently as 1960 — and that is recently, some of us were already adults then — only 12 percent of American homes were air-conditioned. Today it's close to 60 percent. In some of the hottest areas of the South, the rate is over 80 percent.

Air conditioning, of course, is not only in homes these days. It's in schools, offices, cars, tractors, factories, theaters and sporting arenas. When it's present, it means that productive and creative life can proceed almost normally, even as the mercury soars. You can make hay when the sun shines. Poverty goes down. People live better lives.

The implications of this remarkable machine may prove to be international as well as monumental. There has been much speculation about how to help the less-developed nations of the world. There are many fancy theories about why poor countries are poor. But when you look at a map, it usually works out that hot places are poor places. It's just too hot to work.

JEFFREY HART

Centrist Solution Worthy

The inept visit to Moscow by Nicaraguan junta leader Daniel Ortega is creating movement within the Democratic Party in the U.S. Congress. Combined with reports that Ortega had offered the Soviets missile installations in his country — which Moscow refused — Ortega has produced a situation for which many Democrats want to distance themselves from him. Tija has created a political dynamic which could lead to a bi-partisan centrist solution of the Nicaraguan crisis.

When the Reagan administration came to power in 1981, the Salvadoran government was on the ropes, and Democrats in Congress were moving toward a cutoff of all aid. The Reagan administration initially backed a rightwing military solution, which, because of its rampant terrorism, had no chance of bi-partisan support.

But President Jose Napoleon Duarte, a Christian Democrat, has now won two reasonably fair elections, death-squad activity is nil, and the guerrillas are on the defense.

The junta leadership has been nothing if not frank. As Daniel Ortega's brother Humberto has put it: "We are guided by the scientific doctrine of revolution, by Marxism-Leninism." The Sandinista junta consists of serious totalitarians and they are not going to be bribed out of their core convictions.

But they would be vulnerable to the pressure of a bi-partisan U.S. policy, if that could be successfully formulated.

The Reagan administration has already endorsed the March 2 San Jose proposal of the Nicaraguan democratic opposition. It calls for a cease-fire and negotiations, these to be mediated by the Nicaraguan Conference of Catholic Bishops. This would lead to free elections, to be supervised by the governments of Central America. Until the elections, Daniel Ortega would remain head of the "executive branch." The San Jose proposal, in short, espouses the original democratic goals for which the revolution was fought.

Some left-wing Democrats are actually fans of the Sandinista totalitarians, just as some of them worked closely with the totalitarians on Grenada. But the San Jose proposals provide a centrist approach which will help secure heavy majorities in both houses of Congress. Most Democrats, even liberal ones, do not want to go on the record as opposing elections and democracy, and it is extremely unlikely that the Ortega brothers and their friends could long hold out against a bi-partisan front directed against them.

Law Loses Top Judges

WASHINGTON (NEA) — The federal court system is losing two of its brightest lights — and both announced their retirement plans on the same day.

In Washington, 75-year-old David L. Bazelon announced that he would retire after 36 years on the U.S. Court of Appeals for the District of Columbia; he was chief judge for the past 16 years. In Minneapolis, in a wholly unrelated announcement, Chief U.S. District Judge Miles W. Lord, 85, announced that he also would retire.

Bazelon was a power on the nation's second most powerful court for more than two decades. He was appointed to the court in 1949, when he was 40 — which, at the time, made him the youngest man ever named to the appeals court.

Bazelon was at the heart of the court's liberal majority, whose rulings broadened the rights of criminal defendants, the mentally ill, consumers and environmentalists. The court was continually upheld by Chief Justice Earl Warren's Supreme Court.

Bazelon's most famous ruling came in 1954, when he changed the prevailing test for criminal insanity. Prior to his ruling, the test for insanity was whether a defendant was unable to distinguish between right and wrong. Bazelon established what became known as the Durham rule: A defendant was not criminally responsible if his crime resulted from a mental disease or defect.

This standard continued until 1972, when it was reversed by the more conservative Burger Supreme Court, as were many of Bazelon's recent decisions.

Bazelon has said that his legal opinions were "influenced by concern for people who were getting the short end of the stick.... The important thing is to let the world know that some things oughtn't to be.... Sometimes things are so outrageous that any person in his right mind would act."

Much the same thinking has motivated Lord, who probably has been the most controversial and outspoken federal district judge.

Lord served as U.S. attorney and Minnesota state attorney general; then, 19 years ago, he was appointed to the federal bench on the recommendation of his close friend, then-Vice President Hubert Humphrey. Humphrey often said that if he were president, he would have made Lord chief justice of the Supreme Court.

Over the years, Lord presided over some of the region's most important legal battles — such as the six-year fight in which the government, environmentalists and Reserve Mining tangled over the pollution of Lake Superior.

Lord may be the last of the great populist judges, who see their role as that of protecting the "little guy." He's either hated or revered by those who have appeared before him; there seems to be no middle ground.

In recent years, Lord made headlines when he gave only six months' probation to two anti-war protesters who were accused of damaging $34,000 worth of military computer equipment at a Sperry plant. Lord said the pair's actions were a "desperate plea to the American government to stop military madness before it destroys humanity."

More recently, Lord drew criticism for his comments in approving a settlement that A.H. Robbins reached with women who had used the Dalkon Shield contraceptive device.

Three top Robbins officers, including A.H. Robbins Jr., appeared before Lord and wouldn't admit to being remorseful that their product had injured thousands of women. Lord gave the three a scathing tongue-lashing, accusing them of "corporate irresponsibility at its meanest." The Robbins officials then hired former Attorney General Griffin Bell in an attempt to have Lord censured and disciplined, but a judicial council declined to do so.

Spotting Arthritis Risk

By Lidia Wasowicz

STANFORD, Calif. (UPI) — Stanford University scientists have developed a blood test that may help identify people who are at high risk of developing one type of rheumatoid arthritis.

In addition, researchers said, the test may allow earlier diagnosis for those suffering from the disease, making early treatment possible.

Rheumatoid arthritis, marked by flareups of such symptoms as fever, fatigue and hot, swollen and painful joints, afflicts some 7 million Americans.

In preliminary studies, the new test identified 100 percent of patients diagnosed as suffering from a type of rheumatoid arthritis called seropositive arthritis, Stanford researchers said.

Further studies with greater numbers of people are needed, however, to verify the test before it can be offered commercially, said Dr. Gary Fathman, associate professor of medicine at Stanford University Medical School.

The Stanford team found a way to use white blood cells to identify certain genes located in a region of genetic material known as the major histocompatibility complex, or HLA. These genes are present in people who are highly susceptible to developing rheumatoid arthritis, scientists found.

"Using the same principles on which the arthritis test is based, it might also be possible to develop diagnostic tests capable of identifying individuals genetically susceptible to developing juvenile diabetes and multiple sclerosis," Fathman said.

"The major benefit of this test is that it would be a possible way of telling as early as prenatally if someone is susceptible to developing seropositive rheumatoid arthritis. Later, if they began experiencing symptoms, it would be possible to initiate treatment immediately for the best possible results."

With current methods, it may take as long as six months to diagnose arthritis after initial symptoms appear, he said.

"There are some populations of arthritis patients who don't respond to the conventional therapy which yields disease remission in the majority," Fathman said.

"Likewise, there are populations of patients who have a very mild course and don't need any major therapeutic intervention. Knowing early to which group a patient belonged would help doctors tailor-design the proper treatment."

In preliminary studies — financed by the National Institutes of Health and the Arthritis Foundation — the test was found to be 100 percent accurate in diagnosing 23 adults with classical arthritis symptoms.

Spying For Profit A Growing Trend

By Jack Anderson and Joseph Spear

WASHINGTON — The case of accused Soviet spy John Anthony Walker Jr., together with his son and brother, is sure to set off some intense internal security investigations at Navy bases, on ships at sea and in defense plants.

If the Walkers are guilty, it will confirm a trend we reported on recently: A disturbing number of presumably loyal Americans are willing to sell out their country for a few rubles, Kruggerands, shekels or whatever.

A recently completed Defense Intelligence Agency study illuminates this trend with thumbnail profiles of 18 Americans who were either accused or convicted of espionage within the past 10 years.

The study, reviewed by our associate Tony Capaccio, makes it depressingly clear that there's no fail-safe security method against greed. Future traitors will probably continue to deal with the Soviets as long as the Kremlin pays well for the classified information.

Here are some of the accused Americans whose lust for the "good life" lured them into espionage, as probed by the DIA.

— David Henry Barnett. Perhaps the case that most resembles the Walkers' is that of Barnett, a CIA employee from 1958 to 1970. In 1976, he began selling the Russians names of CIA agents and other highly sensitive information; then in 1979 he rejoined the CIA as a Soviet mole. He was uncovered the following year.

Barnett had been paid a grand total of $25,000. "This case," the DIA study observes, "demonstrates that serious financial problems can cause an individual to take extreme measures with apparently little or no forethought as to the consequences of the action to national security."

— Lee Eugene Madsen, a 24-year-old Navy yeoman assigned to the Pentagon's Strategic Warning Staff, fortunately was caught before he could do any harm. The FBI learned that he had offered to sell information on drug traffic to an acquaintance, and the G-men nailed him when he showed up for the rendezvous with a bundle of documents. They were astounded at what they found.

"Unable to locate the documents on drug trafficking," the study explained, "(Madsen) carried out from his work site seven top-secret documents dealing with intelligence assessments of the Near East and South Asia and interpretations of secret photographs."

Madsen pleaded guilty to espionage and drew eight years in prison. Why had he betrayed his country? "His roommate stated that (Madsen) needed money and intended to sell the documents to buy a new automobile," the DIA report said.

— Christopher M. Cooke was an Air Force shavetail who was deputy commander of a nuclear missile crew in Kansas. He was observed making several visits to the Soviet Embassy in Washington, where he allegedly turned over classified nuclear information. Cooke gave a full confession in return for immunity, so he was never prosecuted.

— If the money-motivated traitors have a saving grace, it's that they're usually rank amateurs compared to dedicated Marxist professionals. Our sentimental favorite in this category is the klutz who tossed a package of CIA secrets over the fence of a Soviet diplomatic residence with a request for $200,000, only to be foiled by a guard who thought the bundle was a bomb and called police.

Bellhops Charged In Kennedy Death Appear Headed For Trial

WEST PALM BEACH (UPI) — Two ex-bellhops charged with selling cocaine that led to the death of David Kennedy will probably be put on trial, now that a plea bargain arrangement has fallen through, attorneys say.

David Dorr, 31, and Peter Marchant, 25, had planned to enter pleas of no contest to a charge of conspiracy to sell cocaine to the son of the late Sen. Robert F. Kennedy.

The defense lawyers and prosecutor Pablo Perhaca refused to specify why Wednesday's circuit court hearing, at which the pair were expected to enter their pleas, was canceled.

Michael Salnick, Marchant's lawyer, said he is "getting ready for trial." He said a tentative date has been set for Dec. 2, pending court approval.

David Kennedy, 28, was found dead of a drug overdose April 25, 1984 in his room at the Brazilian Court Hotel in Palm Beach, where Dorr and Marchant worked. An autopsy showed he had taken a lethal combination of cocaine, Demerol and the tranquilizer Mellaril.

Wells Fargo Driver Foils Heist

MIAMI (UPI) — A Wells Fargo guard ignored a fake bomb stuck on his armored truck by five masked men trying to break into the vehicle and fired three shots at one man, scaring off the bandits before they could get a dime.

"No one was hurt by gunfire in the robbery outside the Sizzler steakhouse in Miami. Police spread out over the neighborhood to search for the bandits.

The truck had pulled up to the restaurant around 11 a.m. Wednesday. One guard waited in the truck while the other carried a money bag toward the eatery.

Five men wearing black, jumpsuit-style outfits and nylon stocking masks approached him at gunpoint and took away his firearm, Dade County Police Detective Al Carballosa said.

One of the bandits hooked what he said was a bomb on the passenger side window. The driver, however, didn't open the truck. As the robber walked around the vehicle, the driver opened fire.

The bandits did not bother with the money bag, but hurried over a five-foot wall and jumped into a getaway car. The guard inside the truck fired twice at the men but missed, investigators said.

The robbery failed to bother the restaurant's lunch customers. They ate as the police investigation went on.

Air Station Reunion Set

The 17th annual Sanford Naval Air Station reunion will be held June 28-30.

Activities will begin Friday with a dinner-dance at 6 p.m. at the Fleet Reserve Association clubhouse on West State Road 46. Music will be by Russ and Rick, who will also appear at the club the following evening.

On Saturday, the gates of Lake Golden recreation area will open at 10 a.m. to military-oriented personnel and their guests as well as the Fleet Reservists of Seminole County.

Hamburgers, hot dogs, tacos and sweet corn will be available. From noon to 6 p.m. cold beer, soda, and mixed drinks will be served. There is no admission charge to the reunion.

On Sunday, breakfast will be served from 9 a.m. to 1 p.m. at the Fleet Reserve.

Ms. Hershovne was also perturbed that she was not notified that the city commission would be hearing Mrs. Tumin's request.

Commissioner David Farr said Wednesday a proposed ordinance would come up for discussion at the commission's July 1 meeting.

"We do need a justifiable barbed wire ordinance," Farr said.

He said the fences should only be allowed in agricultural areas not abutting residential areas. As for the fence on Loch Lowe Drive, Farr said it is "not justified." He said a chain link or other type of fence is more appropriate.

WEATHER

NATIONAL REPORT: Floods fed by more than a half foot of rain washed streets and homes in Texas and Oklahoma today, chasing families from their homes, closing highways and killing three people whose van became trapped in swirling water. Lightning Wednesday killed a man on Kentucky golf course and set a North Carolina house ablaze. A tornado ripped a roof off a building in Maryland and another twister smashed a trailer in North Carolina, injuring three people. Meanwhile, a Southern heat wave blamed for three deaths began a fifth day today after setting 21 records Wednesday. Residents coped by consuming record amounts of power, emptying stores of fans and drinking ice tea by the gallon.

AREA FORECAST: — Excessive heat to continue today. Daytime heat index 105-115. Today mostly sunny and hot. High 98 to 102. East wind 5 to 10 mph. Tonight fair with the low in the low to mid 70s. Light wind. Friday mostly sunny and not quite as hot with the high in the mid 90s. A 20 percent chance of afternoon thunderstorms. Southeast wind 5 to 10 mph.

BOATING FORECAST: St. Augustine to Jupiter Inlet out 50 miles — Wind northeast 5 to 10 knots becoming east 10 to 15 knots this afternoon. East wind 5 to 10 knots tonight becoming southeast 10 to 15 knots Friday. Sea 2 to 4 feet.

EXTENDED FORECAST: Saturday through Monday slight chance of afternoon and evening thunderstorms, otherwise mostly fair south and partly cloudy north with hot afternoons. Highs near 90 to mid 90s except upper 90s hottest interior areas. Lows near 70 north to near 80 extreme south.

AREA READINGS (9 a.m.): temperature: 79; overnight low: 72; Wednesday's high: 95; barometric pressure: 30.04; relative humidity: 79 percent; winds: southeast at 6 mph; sunrise: 6:27 a.m., sunset 8:21 p.m.

FRIDAY TIDES: Daytona Beach: high, 12:30 a.m., — p.m.; low, 6:15 a.m., 5:17 p.m.; Port Canaveral: high, 12:22 a.m., — p.m.; low, 6:06 a.m., 5:08 p.m.; Bayport: high, 5:41 a.m., 4:02 p.m.; low, 10:22 a.m., 12:06 p.m.

sensitive to power outages.

Berger said the switching normally is unnoticed by the customer.

A 20-year-old Sanford man, who after working outside became overheated Wednesday, was treated in the Central Florida Regional Hospital emergency room this morning for heat cramps and kidney problems and released. He did not have a sufficient intake of fluids and salt to replace that lost in the near 100-degree heat, a hospital spokeswoman said.

Seminole County school officials said classrooms are all air-conditioned and although some minor repairs to the cooling equipment were necessary they were done immediately.

Forecasters said a slight movement of a Gulf of Mexico high pressure system, which is blamed for the heat wave, and a low pressure system north of the Bahamas cooled south Florida's Atlantic coast slightly Wednesday.

"We're not going to break any records today, and it looks like it'll be cooler from right now on into the weekend," said forecaster Bert Sylvern, of the National Hurricane Center.

It was 89 in Miami Wednesday, following Tuesday's 98. Fort Lauderdale had 90, compared to 95 Tuesday.

For other parts of Florida, temperatures clung around the 100-degree mark, but forecasters said it can't get worse and they see some relief on the way.

"I imagine it's close to its physical limit for this time of year," said Alan Cummings of the National Weather Service office in Miami. "Presumably it can't get much hotter because it never has."

He said the heat wave will last through today in north Florida, then will abate Friday because of increasing cloud cover. He predicted blistering heat will continue through Friday in central Florida, which has suffered the worst of the extra hot weather that began Sunday.

It was 102 in Ocala Wednesday, four degrees cooler than Tuesday's 106. Tallahassee had 103, the hottest June 5 since 1927. Crestview had 100, as did Lakeland. It was 101 in Gainesville.

Tampa posted an all-time high in 95 years of record-keeping when the mercury climbed to 99 degrees at 2:40 p.m. Pensacola's 96 broke a record for the day set in 1891. And Fort Myers had a record 98.

Key West, the southernmost city in the Sunshine State, posted a record 93, breaking a 35-year-old record.

One heat-related death has been reported in the state this week in Jacksonville — which recorded 90 degrees Wednesday after three days of 100 — Elaine Trauger, 42, collapsed at the back door of her home after walking in the late afternoon heat Monday. The woman, who weighed over 300 pounds, died an hour later.

Another report of fatal heat stroke in that north Florida city was made, but the Duval County Medical Examiner's office said it was a heart attack not related to the heat.

FP&L, the state's largest utility, nearly reached its all-time summer output of 10,673 megawatts Tuesday when customers used 10,652 megawatts.

People tried to find ways to stay cool.

Tom Dornfeld, manager of the air conditioned Tampa Bay Center Shopping Mall, says it had 10 to 15 percent more people than normal.

"We've had more people here, plus they're staying at the tables (outside the stores) longer," he said.

Consumers are snatching up air conditioners, fans, anything to blow away the heat and bring on the cold.

"People are scooping them up, even oscillating table fans," said Nikki Hodges, a saleswoman in the ceiling fan department of Home Depot in Dade County. "Any kind of fan, they're buying."

The Florida Crop and Livestock Reporting Service said conditions were endangering citrus groves and cattle in north and central Florida and speeding the end of the spring harvest in south Florida.

"Citrus groves are in serious need of rain," the service said. "Hot, windy weather over the ridge area has drawn moisture out of the sandy soils. All available irrigation equipment is being used to help prevent wilt and leaf curl."

Officials said poultry interests were hit the hardest, and 6,000 chickens were reported dead in the Tampa Bay area alone.

Dr. Carroll Douglas of the Department of Poultry science at the University of Florida, said egg production will be down 2-3 percent and the poultry mortality rate probably will be up 10-20 percent.

"We do not know anything about the whereabouts of Josef Mengele, not even if he is dead or alive," said Embassy spokesman Gunter Schutze.

"We have no information that he was ever in Brazil," he said. "The West German government is searching for Mengele but, sadly, we do not know anything about his whereabouts."

Vogt, Langley Get Legislative Awards

Two of Seminole County's state senators have received special recognition from their legislative colleagues.

The Senate voted Sen. John Vogt, D-Cocoa Beach, the Allen Morris award for most effective senator, while Sen. Richard Langley, R-Clermont, was named most effective in debate.

Both are members of the Seminole County legislative delegation.

The most effective award is named for Allen Morris, longtime clerk of the Florida House of Representatives.

Although members of opposing political parties, Vogt and Langley have been friends since Richard Langley and John Vogt high school when they both lived in Lakeland. While students at the University of Florida, they were members of rival fraternities.

Livernois Signs With Red Sox

By Sam Cook
Herald Sports Editor
LONGWOOD — Derek Livernois, the backbone of Lyman High School's pitching staff the past three years, fulfilled every high school baseball player's dream Wednesday when he signed a professional contract with the Boston Red Sox.

Livernois, who pitched the Greyhounds to the District 4A-9 championship, was selected in the 15th round by the Red Sox in the regular phase of Tuesday's Summer Baseball Draft.

The 18-year-old right-hander had expected to be chosen sooner, somewhere between the third and seventh rounds and the 10th at the latest. The late selection, however, didn't hamper his bargaining power.

Livernois, who said he could not disclose the signing bonus because it had not been formally okayed by the Red Sox, did say it was for five figures and included a college education. "I got what I wanted," he said Wednesday night. "Mr. (George) Digby came over at 9:30 p.m. and I signed at 10:15 p.m. I knew what I wanted."

The curve-balling senior posted a 9-2 record with a 2.61 earned run average.

He struck out a county-high 111 batters in 67 innings. He also batted 369 with 28 runs batted in and a county leading 11 doubles.

Livernois will leave Sunday for Elmira, N.Y. Elmira is one of three Class A farmclubs of the Red Sox. Digby said 75 percent of the signees begin their careers at Elmira, a member of the New York-Penn League. "That's where Boggs played," said Digby. "Pete Rose and Tony Perez also played there. It's a real good league."

Digby said Livernois' 15th-round selection didn't mean a lot to the negotiations. "That really doesn't matter," said the Red Sox Southern Supervisor. "All the scouts submit a list of players. Everybody has got somebody to please. Boggs was drafted low but now he's making a lot of money."

The Wednesday evening negotiations at the Livernois house were somewhat of a reunion for Digby. Livernois asked his Lyman pitching coach, Ed Nuss, to be present for the negotiations. Digby signed Nuss, a former Lyman and Valencia Community College hurler, in 1975 after he was selected in the third round of the January Draft. Nuss played AA ball for the Bosox before he was sidelined with arm problems.

"Derek is going to Elmira just like I did," said Nuss. "The late selection didn't hurt him because George really wanted him. Derek has a lot of ability. I think he's got an excellent chance to make it."

Digby, who watched Livernois' district performance, said he was most impressed with his curveball. "I really like the kid's hook," said Digby about Livernois' breaker. "He's got one helluva curveball. It's a major league. It's the best I've seen in a young kid in a long time."

Livernois will play at Elmira until Sept. 1, then return home for two weeks before going to Sarasota for the instructional league. That workout period runs from Sept. 15 to Nov. 8. He said he plans to enroll in school, probably Central Florida, before going to spring training next March.

"Derek will get some real good instruction at Elmira, Sarasota and spring training," said Digby. "He'll just keep getting better and better.

He'll become a lot more polished. You won't even know him the next time you see him.

"In one year, he will get better instruction than in three years at any college."

Derek's mother, Sue, was happy with her son's decision but surprised by his early departure date. "Sunday, he's leaving Sunday, I can't believe it," said Sue. "I wanted him to do what he wants to do. We've talked about it a long time and that's what he wants to do. I just wish he didn't have to leave Sunday."

Livernois said it wasn't that tough of a decision between college and signing a pro contract since the "money was right." He said he thought he had a better chance of making the majors by signing now. "Seventy-five percent of the players on the Red Sox roster signed between the ages of 17 and 19," said Livernois. "I think I have a pretty good chance of making it."

Livernois will earn $750 per month as a minor leaguer.

Another Livernois — 12-year-old Jeff — was pretty excited with the signing of his big brother, too. "I'm pretty ecstatic," Jeff, who became the first pitcher to hurl a perfect game in

Kurt Thomas Gives As Much As He Receives

ORLANDO — Gymnastics has been very good to Kurt Thomas. As a competitor, he was a three-time world champion. Now, Thomas can be seen daily at Sea World in the Gymnastics America Show, which he originated. He can also be seen chopping up bad guys in the gymnastics-karate motion picture entitled, "Gymkata."

Even though his tremendous ability in the sport and matinee-idol looks have made him a success and a lot of money, Thomas has not forgotten his roots. Whenever he can, he likes to give back as much as he can to gymnastics.

"Gymnastics has given me an avenue to make a very good living," Thomas said. "I feel I owe gymnastics and do everything I can for the sport."

Thomas and his Gymnastics America Show have been performing three, sometimes four, times a day at Sea World since December. Tuesday night, Thomas and the talented gymnasts put on another electrifying show and, at the same time, gave something back to the sport that made them famous.

The Kurt Thomas Benefit for the Sanford Gymnastics Association (SGA) was an overwhelming success Tuesday night at Sea World's Nautilus Theater.

Tuesday night's benefit raised over $42,000 in pledges for the SGA's drive for a new training facility. The SGA goal is $85,000.

"We're very excited about what we've accomplished tonight," Bill Siegrist, who initially got the idea for the show said. "And we couldn't have done it without the support of Kurt Thomas and Sea World."

The sponsors of the evening's event got to see just how spectacular world class gymnasts can be and also got to take a look at some of the gymnasts they are supporting. The Sanford gymnasts performed as a preliminary for the Gymnastics America Show and, although there were some butterflies, they put on and excellent display of what they have learned.

Featured gymnasts from the SGA Tuesday night included Karen Grainger, Tracey Kaeel, Kimatha Kelly, Jenifer Kopp, Shari Siegrist, Shannon Wilcoxson and Cherie Van Camp.

"The butterflies went away quickly," SGA coach Eugene Petty said. "The girls practiced over here for a week and the people in the show told them not to worry about anything. They were very supportive."

Thomas himself did some amazing routines and displayed the famous, "Thomas Flare," a move on the pommel horse and floor exercise that is used by many gymnasts today, but not many can master the move like its namesake.

"This was so close to what we do every day it was easy for us," Thomas said of the show. "It was for a great cause, and the kids loved it."

After the show was over, Thomas signed autographs, took pictures with some of his fans and, although exhausted from the evening's events, he even spared some time to do an interview with this reporter.

Thomas said he will continue the Gymnastics America Show at Sea World through September and he will make another movie in January. "Gymkata" was very successful at the box office and, at one time, was one of the top 10 moneymakers in motion pictures this year.

"I did very well," Thomas said of the film. "The reviews weren't terrific but the critics always seem to jump on something that's new. It didn't cost the studio a lot of money, and it took little time to put together. And they made a lot of money on it. I think it was a terrific action picture."

Thomas got to not only show off his gymnastics ability in the film but also his martial arts training. "I took karate for a while when I was in high school," he said. "It was nothing serious like gymnastics, though."

Performing in front of a camera and in competition are different in many respects but in some ways the same. For instance, one tiny mistake in a routine can be the difference between first place and lower in competition. But, a mistake in front of the camera is not as serious. "They can always do another take."

Thomas said doing the motion picture was not as difficult as it first seemed. "It came naturally," he said. "I felt comfortable in front of the camera."

While Thomas will continue his career in gymnastics, he will not forget how he started out and will continue to help young gymnasts in their quests to become future world class competitors.

"I really appreciate what they're (SGA) doing," Thomas said. "When I was young, we didn't have the kind of facility they are striving for. And I couldn't afford a private school. To build this kind of facility is tremendous for gymnastics."

Johnson Beats Buzzer, Lakers

NBA Playoffs

INGLEWOOD, Calif. (UPI) — With seven minutes left in the third quarter and the Lakers seemingly in control of Game 4 of the NBA championship series, the Los Angeles fans broke into a roaring chant. "We're not going back. We're not going back."

The reference, of course, was to Boston Garden, where the Lakers have been treated with the same love and respect you'd give to a six-pound rat that tried to crawl up your pants leg.

But the Lakers are indeed going back to that house of horrors. And Dennis Johnson is their travel agent.

The veteran guard banged in an 21-foot jumper at the buzzer Wednesday night to give the Celtics a 107-105 victory over Los Angeles and knot the best-of-7 series at 2-2.

Game 5 is Friday night at the Forum before the teams head back East for Sunday's sixth game and a possible seventh game Tuesday night.

Johnson was one of three Boston heroes. Before he hit the game-winner that silenced the frenzied Los Angeles crowd, he canned a pair of pressure jumpers in the final 7:30, each one pushing the Celtics to a one-point lead.

In the final seconds, after Magic Johnson had tied the game for Los Angeles with a five-foot follow shot of a Kareem Abdul-Jabbar miss with 19 seconds left, Dennis passed off to Larry Bird. When Bird was double-teamed, he shot the ball back out to Dennis and the freckle-faced guard drilled the game-winner.

Boston's Johnson finished with 27 points, 12 rebounds and seven assists. Bird, who single-handedly carried the Celtics down the stretch with 12 fourth-quarter points, including eight straight, finished with 26 points, 11 rebounds and five assists.

And Kevin McHale, who played all 48 minutes for Boston, had 28 points and 12 rebounds.

Los Angeles, which had recovered from a 34-point blowout in Game 1 to post victories in the second and third games, was led by Abdul-Jabbar with 21 points while Magic Johnson added 20 points, 12 assists and 11 rebounds. James Worthy and Byron Scott each chipped in with 16 points.

But in the end, with Boston facing either overtime or a 3-1 series deficit, the Celtics' outside shooters took over.

Danny Ainge, who had only eight points in the game, nailed a 20-footer with 1:40 left to give Boston a 102-101 lead. Fifty seconds later, Ainge dropped another 20-footer to put the Celtics ahead 105-103. Then, after Magic tied it, DJ hit his jumper. And there was no OT.

"When I got the ball back from Larry, I had to arch it a little higher because Kareem and Byron were coming at me. Let it go and the buzzer went off."

"I figured it had a 50-50 chance of going in," the Celtics hero said.

For the Lakers, who also lost Game 4 last year and were then beaten by the Celtics in the seventh game of the finals, the loss was a tough one to accept.

"It feels like a dagger in the heart," Los Angeles coach Pat Riley said. "It was a definite nail-biter. Now we have to come back strong on Friday and take care of business. We have to shake off this loss. We can't wallow in it."

We have a chance Friday to put the series back in our favor, and then we have to go to Boston Garden and win the championship."

Boston trailed 32-28 after one period but took a 59-58 halftime lead. The Celtics built the lead to 65-58 with a six-point burst in the opening two minutes of the second half, but Los Angeles then reeled off a 10-2 spurt and led 68-67 with 7:22 remaining in the third quarter.

First Federal, Sun Bank Close In On Perfect Seasons

By Chris Fister
Herald Sports Writer
It's tune up time for First Federal and Sun Bank as they prepare to meet for the Sanford Little Major League City Championship Series.

Wednesday night, First Federal moved to within one win of a perfect season with a 12-2 victory over Cardinal Industries in Little National League action at Bay Avenue Field.

Joe Wiggins and Alton Dixon combined on a one-hitter as First Federal improved to 15-0 for the season with one game remaining. Wiggins pitched the first two innings and gave up no hits or runs. Dixon went the last two, allowing one hit and two runs.

First Federal took a 1-0 lead in the bottom of the first when Shawnee Riggins scored on Wiggins' groundout.

The Feds made it 2-0 in the second when Dixon walked, stole second, took third on a wild pitch and scored on Richard Anderson's groundout.

Dixon came on in relief of Wiggins in the top of the third and struck out the side and First Federal pulled away in the bottom of the frame with seven runs. Key hits in the frame included two-run doubles by Andrea Williams and Mike Dillon.

Cardinal picked up its two runs in the top of the fourth when Shawn Washington led off with a walk and Anthony Roberts followed with a two-run homer.

First Federal ended the game by the slaughter rule with three runs in the bottom of the fourth. Alonzo Brundidge, Joe Sykes and Reggie Smith contributed RBI singles in the inning.

ELKS DOWNS KNIGHTS, 16-12

Ball Motor Line didn't play Wednesday night but still clinched at least a tie for the second half, title as Elks stunned second-place Knights of Columbus, 16-12, in Sanford Junior League action at Chase Park.

The Knights, who had 12 hits in the game, took a 4-0 lead in the top of the first with Dwight Brinson's RBI single leading the way.

Elks responded with five runs in the bottom of the inning with all five scoring on bases loaded walks.

Winning pitcher Willie McCloud held the Knights scoreless in the top of the second and Elks went on to take a 13-4 lead with eight runs in the bottom of the frame. Elks had just two hits in the inning, leadoff double by Karl Carter and a two-run double off the bat of Jerf Smith.

McCloud held the Knights in check until the top of the fifth when they rallied for seven runs on six hits to pull within 14-12. Consecutive doubles by Angel Galarza and Doug Peterson brought in the first three runs while Ray Williams, Ron Colfield and Bobby Colfield followed with consecutive singles the cut the margin to 14-11.

Elks scored a pair of insurance runs in the bottom of the fifth and McCloud pitched out of a jam in the top of the sixth to preserve the win and put the Knights on the verge of elimination.

MOOSE DUO NO-HIT ROTARY
In Wednesday's first game at Chase

Park, Jimmy Murphy and Mike Merthie combined on a no-hitter as Moose handed Rotary its 17th straight defeat, 10-2.

Murphy pitched the first five innings for Moose, giving up one run on no hits, striking out nine and walking five. Merthie came on in relief in the sixth, allowed one run, no hits, and struck out five.

Moose got all the runs it needed in the top of the first with a five-run rally. Scooter Leonard's two-run double started off the rally and Murphy added a two-run single.

Moose had six hits in the game including two by Harry Chibberton and one each by Merthie, Leonard, Murphy and Arthur Bradford. Jeff Derr walked four times and stole seven bases.

Bob Welch fires away. LA right-hander beat Mets.

Mickey Mahler 1-Hits Giants

Welch Returns From Disabled List To Decision Mets, 2-1

United Press International
 Mahler finally won another start. Not Rick Mahler, though. He's been in a slump since winning his first seven decisions this year. Rick's older brother Mickey did the winning Wednesday, making his first major league start in six years, a memorable one. He pitched a one-hitter and led the Montreal Expos to a 6-0 triumph over the San Francisco Giants.

"Today I had no curveball at all," said Mickey. "But I was able to spot the fastball. They hit a lot of balls on the money — but right at somebody."

Mahler, 1-0, had not started a game in the majors since 1979 when he was with the Braves. Since then he had appeared in only 15 big league games — all in relief.

The only hit off him Wednesday was an infield single by Dan Gladden to shortstop U.L. Washington in the third inning.

Braves 4, Cubs 2

At Chicago, Rafael Ramirez drove in four runs, including a two-run homer that snapped a 2-2 tie in the 11th inning to carry Atlanta. Ramirez lined an O-2 pitch off reliever Lee Smith, 3-1, over the left field wall with one out in the 11th for his second homer of the year. Ron Cey hit a two-run homer for Chicago.

Reds 11, Pirates 9

At Cincinnati, Alan Kluwey hit a three-run homer, his fourth since joining the Reds on May

N.L. Baseball

15, to break an 8-8 tie in the sixth inning and lead the Reds to their fourth straight victory. Frank Pastore, 1-0, was the winner. John Franco went three innings for his first save. Don Robinson, 2-1, took the loss.

Astros 6, Cardinals 3

At St. Louis, Mark Bailey clubbed a two-run homer and Frank DiPino earned his fifth save to lead the Astros. DiPino pitched the final 3-1/3 innings to preserve the victory for Bob Knepper, 6-1. Danny Cox, 6-2, lasted five-plus innings in taking the loss.

Padres 3, Phillies 1

At San Diego, right-hander Lamarr Hoyt pitched a four-hitter for his fourth straight victory to lift the Padres. Hoyt, 6-4, turned in his fourth complete game and second in a row in 12 starts. Charles Hudson, 1-6, worked seven innings, yielding five hits, walking five and striking out seven.

Dodgers 2, Mets 1

At Los Angeles, Bob Welch, coming off the disabled list and appearing in his second game of the season, led the Dodgers to victory. In pitching five innings, Welch allowed two hits and struck out five to gain his first win of the year. Ex-Dodger Sid Fernandez fell to 1-2.

Sobered-Up Martinez Treats Orioles To 100th Win

A.L. Baseball

United Press International
 For a man who once said he'd die the day he took another drink, Dennis Martinez is feeling pretty good about himself these days.

Martinez allowed one hit — a third-inning single to Jerry Narron — Wednesday night to record his 100th career victory in lifting the Baltimore Orioles to a 4-0 triumph over the California Angels.

"I've had a lot of good games, but this one meant a lot to me," Martinez said about his first shutout since June 21, 1982, and his first career one-hitter. "Becoming the seventh Orioles pitcher to win 100 games makes me feel like I'm one of their all-time best."

One of the more promising pitchers in the American League just a couple of years ago, Martinez found himself in a jail cell on a drunk-driving charge one winter night in 1983. He admitted he was an alcoholic and sought treatment.

His first season back was less than overwhelming; he posted a 6-9 record for Orioles in 1984.

This season is different. Martinez is playing a key role in Baltimore's second-place standing in the AL East. The 30-year-old Nicaraguan right-hander has compiled a 5-3 record, helping fill the void in the rotation caused by a pre-season injury to Mike Flanagan.

Blue Jays 5, Twins 0
 At Toronto, Jesse Barfield drove in three runs with a pair of homers to lead the Blue Jays to the 12th victory in their last 14 games. The Twins dropped their 11th game in their last 12. Doyle Alexander improved to 7-2, while Mike Smithson fell to 4-5. Barfield has 12 homers.

Chief's Crown Is The Favorite

BELMONT, N.Y. (UPI) — It's a good thing for Chief's Crown that the horse does not know what is at stake in Saturday's $350,000-added Belmont Stakes, the arduous, 1 1/2-mile final leg of thoroughbred racing's Triple Crown.

But Roger Laurin, trainer of Chief's Crown, understands quite well that the colt will be chasing a lot more than prestige and a six-figure purse.

Because the colt is expected to be installed as the morning-line favorite after today's draw for post positions, the difference between a Belmont victory and Belmont defeat also is the difference between a reputation as one of the best horses of the 1985 class of 3-year-olds and as one of the great failures of American racing.

A loss would make Chief's Crown, who was third in the Kentucky Derby and second by a head in the Preakness, just the third horse in Triple Crown history to be favored in and lose all three races. The other two were Correlation in 1954 and My Dad George in 1970.

But Laurin acts as if there is no real pressure on him, the horse and his new jockey Angel Cordero Jr. For a number of reasons, the soft-spoken horseman feels quite confident that Chief's Crown will run up to expectations Saturday.

Cordero will be riding Chief's Crown for the first time Saturday. He replaces Don MacBeth, who was removed by owner Andrew Rosen after the Preakness defeat.

$3 Perfecta Pays $1,111.20; Strong Kennel Leads In Wins

Hap Ison
Special to the Herald

After the first month of racing at Seminole Greyhound Park a few changes have made their mark upon the track's racing records.

The attendance record has been broken several times; the highest price ever for a $3 perfecta happened on last Friday night, paying the 7-6 combination $1,111.20; and after the first month of racing the handle is over $1 million.

Ted Snell, general manager for Seminole, feels that even with the hot months ahead the park will continue to show gains over last year.

Garry Duell, Director for Seminole, said he feels racing has improved as it isn't a walk away for wins as it was last year. The first month of racing in 1984, Charter had a lead of 22 races over the second kennel in standings. Compare Charter's last year's record and you find that 64-40-25 of firsts, seconds, and thirds differs to 44-46-40 in 1985.

At the moment Wayne Strong has his kennel rolling and he is in first place with 47 wins, 23 seconds, and 23 shows. Last year, Strong Kennel was in sixth place with 30 wins, 21 seconds, and 23 shows. Last year, Strong Kennel was in sixth place with 30 wins, 21 seconds, and 23 shows at the end of the season. Strong kennels leads the Jordan Kennel by two wins going into last Saturday.

The biggest disappointment at present is the off-pace record of Andrews Kennel who had 37 wins, 46 seconds, and 44 thirds in '84, but this year can't seem to find the winner's circle as often.

But, Martha Hayter, trainer of Andrews Kennel, said she isn't discouraged. "The season is still young and don't give up on us yet," said Hayter.

The lure was given a new name June 1 — goodbye Harvey, hello CATCHUM.

Dube, Lucas Lift Astros, 8-3

KESSIMMEE — Greg Dube hurled no-hit baseball for 5 2/3 innings and the Osceola Astors used a five-run third inning to beat Fort Lauderdale, 8-3, in Florida State League action at Osceola County Stadium Wednesday.

Dube gave up three hits in the sixth and was relieved by Aubrey Lucas who shut down the Fort Lauderdale Yankees on two singles with four strikeouts the rest of the way.

Bob Parker, promoted to second in the batting order, was 0 for 5 but scored a run and stole a base. The Astros, who lead Winter Haven by 2 1/2 games in the FSL's Central Division, host the Yankees again tonight at 7:30.

Bucs Sign 4th-Round Selection

TAMPA (UPI) — The Tampa Bay Buccaneers signed fourth-round draft pick Mike Heaven, a defensive back, to a multi-year contract Wednesday. Terms were not disclosed. Heaven, 5-11 and 185 pounds, played his collegiate ball at the University of Illinois.

Anglers Make 'Case' For Fleeting Fame

Fame is fleeting in the Osteen Bridge Fish Camp's Buddy Bass Tournament. Just ask Don Arnett and Larry Presley.

Just a month ago, the two Sanford anglers came away with $839 for a grand slam in the Dell Abernethy's monthly tournament. They won first place with a total weight of 22 pounds and 3 ounces for three fish. One of the three won the big bass at 10 pounds and 5 1/2 ounces. It's no wonder that Arnett and Presley were setting up the bar with free drinks.

A month later, they can still set up the bar...but not too many times. Arnett and Presley came away with the tournament's booby prize Sunday. They caught a 2-pound, 6-ounce mudfish. Their reward: a case of beer.

"They dropped from $800 to a case of beer," laughed Dell. "But at least they won something."

Abernethy said he added the mudfish prize to the tournament to rid the river of its parasites. "It adds a little incentive to get the mudfish out of the river and get a few laughs at the weigh-in," said Dell. "We had one over 10 pounds last month."

While Arnett and Presley were working on their case of beer, Bob Hague was taking home away with the big bass. Hague's catch was 7 pounds and 1 ounce. It won him $365. Bob and Rich Hague also finished third for total weight with 16 pounds and 15 ounces.

First place went to Roy Hines and Brett Holcomb with a total weight of 31 pounds and 8 1/2 ounces. They won $294 for their eight fish. Second place went to Dumas Wierloch and Bill Long. They caught 18 pounds and 9 ounces to win $220.50.

John Sobik and Jeff Kremer were fourth

Larry Williams

HUNTING WRITER

with 15 pounds and 14 ounces. They won $73.50.

Dell said 36 boats competed and caught 93 fish, of which all of the live ones were released.

Although the hot weather hasn't helped the fishing, Dell said Orlandoan Hank Richer has done very well near the 7-marker. Richer caught 25 specks last Saturday by jugging in the lillpads.

"You have to go out early in the morning or late at night," said Dell. "It's just been too hot for any real good fishing."

The Red Man Tournament Trail snakes through Sanford Saturday. Over 100 boats will launch from Monroe Harbour Saturday morning.

The Governor and Cabinet have voted unanimously to accept management proposals recommended by the Marine Fisheries Commission for cobia, bay scallops, queen conch, and spearfishing.

The new rules for bay scallops, which go into effect June 12, establish a state wide closed season from April 1 through June 30, set a recreational daily bag and possession limit per person of five gallons of whole scallops, or 1/2 gallon of shucked bay scallop meat, prohibit commercial scalloping in St. Joseph's Bay from July 1 through August 15 and on each weekend from August 16 through Labor Day, and apply certain mechanical gear restrictions.

For cobia, a minimum size limit of 37 inches total length (33 inch fork length), will be established. This size limit is already in effect in federal waters, and the new state regulations are expected to aid enforcement.

The spearfishing rule will prohibit spearfishing within 100 yards of beaches, piers, and fishing bridges, and within 100 feet of fishing jetties. The rule will also prohibit spearfishing in state parks, retain the existing area closures in Monroe and Collier counties, prohibit the taking of certain ornamental reef fishes, and allow spearfishing along the last 500 yards on jetties extending more than 1,500 yards from the shoreline.

The queen conch rule will prohibit the harvest in state waters of this once abundant snail that has been severely over-harvested. This action to protect queen conch will enable the species to replenish itself so that harvest can eventually again be allowed.

The new regulations for cobia, spearfishing, and queen conch will take effect between June 13 and July 1.

Recommended proposals for grouper, snapper, and black sea bass, which would set recreational bag limits, prohibit commercial longline gear, and establish size limits, were considered by the Governor and Cabinet, also. After much discussion, the cabinet voted to withdraw the rule from consideration at this time pending further commission workshops on the subject.

Martina Navratilova returns a backhand. She faces Claudia Kohde-Kilsch today.

Martina, Chris Face Young Stars

PARIS (UPI) — Martina Navratilova and Chris Evert Lloyd, the undisputed top women's tennis players, today enter the French Open semifinals against two young stars who may one day replace them.

Navratilova, 28, is to play 21-year-old West German Claudia Kohde-Kilsch, and Evert Lloyd, 30, takes on 15-year-old Argentine Gabriela Sabatini on the red clay center court at Roland Garros Stadium.

The men's semifinals, with top seed John McEnroe against fourth seed Mats Wilander and second seed and defending champion Ivan Lendl playing third seed Jimmy Connors, are to be played Friday.

The men's final four also met in the semifinals last year, but the pairings are reversed. Lendl went on to beat McEnroe in five sets in the 1984 final.

Tennis

Evert Lloyd, seeded second behind defending champion Navratilova, eliminated another 15-year-old potential star, West German Steffi Graf, in the fourth round but says she worries Sabatini "can beat me with that big topspin shot."

Navratilova, who beat Evert Lloyd in last year's final at Roland Garros, has an 11-1 career record against Kohde-Kilsch with the only loss in 1981 at an indoor tournament in Oakland, Calif.

Lendl took nearly three hours

Wednesday to defeat 21-year-old Argentine Martin Jaitte 6-4, 6-2, 6-4 while Connors came back from a 55-minute third set rain delay to finish off Sweden's 19-year-old Stefan Edberg 6-4, 6-3, 7-6 in quarterfinal play.

"That's what keeps me going is that I still love to play tennis and I can still grind it out with the young guys."

Playing young opponents "is entertaining for me, especially on these clay courts where your legs are supposed to be your biggest weapon," Connors said.

He has had long, tough matches against Frenchman Tarik Benhabiles and Italian Francesco Cancellotti en route to the semifinals, while Lendl has won in straight sets through the first five rounds.

Rhoda Richardson shows certificate and medal outstanding students were awarded in the Dreamers and Doers Program.

Disney Honors Dreamers And Doers In Area

The late Walt Disney recognized youth as one of the greatest resources in any community's future.

In keeping with Disney's futuristic views, Walt Disney World Co. developed the "Dreamer and Doer" Program in 1984 to recognize the potential in youth and to encourage students to become responsible contributors to their communities.

Disney is quoted as saying, "Somehow, I can't believe there are any heights that can't be scaled by a man who knows the secret of making dreams come true. This special criteria, it seems to me, can be summarized in four "C's". They are curiosity, confidence, courage and constancy...and the greatest of these is confidence. When you believe a thing, believe it all the way implicitly and unquestionably."

Through Dreamers and Doers, Disney World hopes to recognize students who best display this special spirit Walt Disney described in their everyday lives and in their goals for the future.

Each school selects the most outstanding student for the award. Students are judged on scholarship, leadership, citizenship and in-school and community involvement.

In May, WDW hosted an awards ceremony for 179 local students and their parents at the Contemporary Resort Hotel's Ballroom. Each student was awarded a Dreamers and Doers certificate and a medal for outstanding scholastic ability, good citizenship, cheerfulness, kindness to others and beat all around student in their particular school with an ability to make their dreams a reality.

Speaker for the event was U.S. Congressman Bill Nelson (D-Melbourne). Among the recipients of the award is Rhoda Richardson, a sixth-grader representing All Souls School, Sanford, who attended the Disney event with her parents, Phyllis and James Richardson of Sanford. According to Cheryl Hubbard, Director of Development at All Souls, Rhoda "is a student who definitely exemplifies the four C's. She is a model student."

Hamilton Elementary School in Sanford elected fifth-grader Dmitra Edwards, 11, as its dreamer and doer. Dmitra attended the Disney World celebration with her parents, Jackle and Don Edwards. She is the maternal granddaughter of Wilna Wunnenberg, Deltona.

Melony Walker was chosen as Idyllwilde Elementary School's dreamer and doer to receive the Disney honor. A fifth grader, Melony is the daughter of Ola and Rosell Walker of Sanford. Melony serves her school as secretary for the student council, is a member of the school patrol and sings in the school chorus.

Every school in Seminole County selected a Disney "Dreamer and Doer."

Miss Driskell, Timothy Love Repeat Vows

Pamela Yvonne Driskell and Timothy Allan Love were married April 6 in Sanford Christian Church, Sanford.

The Rev. Joe Johnson performed the 7:30 p.m. ceremony.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Gerald Dennis Driskell of Geneva. She is the granddaughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Karraker of Sanford. The bridegroom is the son of Mrs. Doris Love, Casselberry, and the late Mr. Billy R. Love.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride chose for her vows a bridal satin gown fashioned along the empire silhouette with a Queen Anne neckline, leg-o-mutton sleeves and flowing chapel train that cascaded from the high waistline. Her headpiece was a lace hat trimmed with net and lace flowers sprinkled with pearls. She carried a bouquet of white roses and lilac roses with ivy.

Doris Donetz of Rochester, N.Y., attended the bride as maid of honor. She wore a silver gray dress designed with a lace top and sleeves and polyester bodice that extended to a tulip cut skirt. She carried a bouquet of violets, morning glories and roses in shades of amethyst.

Bridesmaids were Andi Morgan, Gina Stenstrom and Rhonda Shull. Their gowns and flowers were identical to the honor attendant's.

Steven Driskell, the bride's brother, served the bridegroom as best man. Ushers were Jeff Fogg, Robert Coll and Kenneth Jacobs.

Following the ceremony, the bride, bridegroom, best man and maid of honor, departed for the reception at the Sanora Clubhouse in a horse-drawn carriage.

Assisting at the reception were Mrs. Mary Pressley and Mrs. Lois Morgan, cake; Cindy Morgan, bride's book; Barbara and Diana Karraker, food hostesses; and Jan Corns, gift table.

Mr. and Mrs. Timothy Allen Love

The newlyweds are making their home in Winter Springs. The bride is employed by Seminole County Tag and Title office, Casselberry, and the bridegroom is employed by Gary Benton Construction Co., Sanford.

Allergic To A Drug? There's An Alternative

DEAR DR. GOTT — I am allergic to penicillin and cannot take it by mouth — only intravenously. What medicines can I take in place of penicillin that will be safe and effective?

DEAR READER — If you were allergic to any drug — including penicillin — you would not be able to take it either orally or intravenously. Many people tend to confuse an allergy with side effects. Penicillin, for example, may produce diarrhea and vaginal infection, but these conditions are non-allergic consequences of taking the drug.

A drug allergy means you cannot tolerate the medicine in any form without ridding a reaction that may be life threatening.

For almost all medications, there is an alternative. In the case of penicillin, an antibiotic called erythromycin is a good substitute. Allergists have devised skin tests that, in most cases, can determine if a person is overly sensitive to a drug. You might consider having these tests performed to confirm or reject your assumption of penicillin allergy.

DEAR DR. GOTT — Years ago, three score and 10 years was considered a normal life span. Is it true that because of good doctors and modern medicines, individuals can (with proper rest, moderate exercise and a nutritious diet) expect to live to be 100 or more?

DEAR READER — Yes — if people take care of themselves, future medical advances probably will enable the elderly to live even longer. However, the other side of the coin is important. Society hasn't yet caught up with this ability to live longer. As a culture, we do not really know what to do with the burgeoning legions of retired elderly. In addition, medical science is making painfully slow headway in understanding and treating diseases of the oldtimers. Senility, a major cause of disability in the elderly, has become almost a public health problem. In this century, living longer is not equated with living better, so I am not surprised when older patients tell me they don't want to live to 100.

DEAR DR. GOTT — Is it safe for a diabetic to go to the beach in the summertime and stay out in the sun without fear of having an insulin reaction? (I take 45 units of NPH 100 insulin every morning at 8:30.)

DEAR READER — Sunbathing is not detrimental to diabetics. Insulin allows our bodies to use sugar for metabolism. Therefore, insulin-and-sugar imbalances reflect an inner equilibrium rather than an effect of sunshine. If you become more or less active in summer — or tend to vary your diet according to season — you will have to modify your insulin dose. If you are a real sun worshipper, ask your doctor for specific recommendations regarding your chosen summer activities.

Send your questions to Dr. Gott at P.O. Box 91428, Cleveland, Ohio 44101.

WIN AT BRIDGE

By James Jacoby

Declarers who win money at bridge follow a simple rule. They try very hard to make their contracts. They despise overtricks and search out ways to give up tricks, if by doing so they can guarantee their contracts.

Greed got the best of the declarer in the diagramed deal. He won the opening lead with the club ace and played the king and ace of spades. The 4-1 trump split wrecked the hand.

Of course a reasonable spade division would have netted 11 tricks. But it's not that rare for a suit to split badly.

The winning line surrenders the possible overtrick. At trick two, declarer should play a low spade from both hands. Now the defenders can take a club and a heart in addition to their trump trick, but no more. When declarer regains the lead, he can successfully draw trumps and claim the rest.

There is a circumstance that would overrule this approach. If the club played by East on the opening lead suggests that clubs might be divided 5-2 for the defenders, then South cannot risk ducking a spade.

The third round of clubs might promote a trump as the setting trick when East holds a doubleton club.

HOROSCOPE

What The Day Will Bring...

YOUR BIRTHDAY
JUNE 7, 1985

If you begin to make preparations and plans now, some distant place you've long desired to travel to can be visited in the year ahead. The ways and means to do so will be found.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) Bits and pieces that didn't mesh together yesterday will fall into place today. Good things could be coming to you from all directions. Be watchful. Major changes are ahead for Gemini in the coming year. Send for your Astro-Graph predictions today. Mail #1 to Astro-Graph, Box 489, Radio City Station, New York, NY 10019.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) Assert your native shrewdness in joint ventures today. You are the one who can ethically arrive at a solution that will have advantages for all.

LEO (July 23-Aug 22) Do everything within your power to keep your valued alliances intact today. Partners can now play helpful roles in your affairs.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) More opportunities than usual exist today in your chosen field. Try to grasp what's happening because these circumstances have long-range benefits.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) Keep your channels open today for faraway friends. Good news will be trying to break through to you from an unexpected, distant source.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) Negative financial trends will do an about-face today. If you have suffered any losses recently, you'll now have a chance to recoup.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) Your warm sense of humor and broad, generous outlook are your tickets to success today. The kindness you show others will be reflected back to you.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) Nominal opportunities, skillfully managed, will yield substantial returns in your capable hands today. Much can be made from little.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) Ventures or enterprises that you originate or personally control have excellent chances for success today. Get out front and stay there.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) Friends tend to share things with you today that they wouldn't divide with others. The worth of their gestures may startle you.

ARIES (March 21-April 19) There are things just over the horizon that are about to bring you joy. Have a hopeful attitude today and focus on the new, instead of the old.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) Financial and career conditions are especially favorable for you today. The tide is running with you and so is Lady Luck.

Computer Apt To Catch Up With IRS Tax Dodgers

DEAR ABBY: My sister and her husband owed a lot of money to the IRS, so to help out they "invented" two children for deductions. Next year, the imaginary children will vanish unless needed for more deductions.

My question: Will my sister and her husband get caught on this, or is there a good chance of it slipping through all the paperwork?

My husband and I could use the reward money for turning them in, but we don't want to cause them any more trouble than they got themselves into. If told her not to do it before she sent it in. This may sound like a cold thing to do to family, but we could use the money.

I'm not about to sign this, so you'll have to answer me in the paper.

Dear Abby

DEAR ABBY: We, the residents of Rock Table Health Care Center, have a "Dear Abby Conversation Hour," when we discuss the various letters in your column.

Recently, the subject of gratuities came up, and we want to know how you feel about tipping for a buffet-style meal where the diners help themselves cafeteria-style and are served only the beverages.

WAITING TO HEAR

DEAR WAITING: The usual 15 percent tip for the waiter or waitress would not be expected in this case. But do leave some kind of gratuity for the person serving you. And if you receive more than just routine service, be generous.

When he rolls down the car window to let me hear the beautiful song of the meadowlark, that is a gift! When he takes me out of town, that is a gift because he is a longhaul trucker. When he takes me to a movie he knows I want to see when he'd rather stay home and watch a football game on TV, that is a gift!

I could go on and on, but I think you get the picture. Now, after 24 years, I don't need cards or flowers or "things" because I have precious memories that are with me always. Only a very insecure person like I once was needs tangible reminders. I am thankful that I am secure in his love. That's the greatest gift of all.

LOVED IN MONTANA

DEAR LOVED: What a lovely letter. A woman with your sensitivity deserves to be loved. Congratulations to you and your truly generous man.

BABY SISTER

DEAR SISTER: I can't tell you whether your sister and her husband will get caught or not, but in case you haven't heard, the computer has already replaced the bloodhound. As for turning her in, I wouldn't, but that's your decision.

DEAR ABBY: I've been reading with great interest the letters from women who are upset because their husbands forget "special" occasions such as birthdays, anniversaries, Valentine's Day, etc.

I used to be that way until I realized that my husband gives me "gifts" more often by the little things he does for me than by the things he buys for me.

I nearly lost this wonderful man by my childish insistence that he give me cards and gifts on special occasions. A gift that's begged for is not really a gift, is it?
