ANOTHER GREAT MARGUERITE CLARK FILM COMING

Famous Players Star Triumphant in "Mice and Men"

Following her marvelous performance in the dual title role of the adaptation of "The Prince and the Pauper," the first of the inimitable Mark Twain's works to be transferred to the screen as a feature, Marguerite Clark appears as the star in the Famous Players Film Company's presentation of the popular theatrical success "Mice and Men," which will be the Paramount Picture at the Star tonight.

"Mice and Men," which was written by Madeleine Lucette Ryley was first presented at the Royal Academy in Manchester, England, in 1901. The tremendous success of the initial production led to its appearance in London, at the Lyric, where Sir Johnston and Lady Gertrude Forbes-Robertson scored a great hit. In this happy combination of comedy and pathos, the play enjoying the unique distinction of a twelve months' run. Annie Russell, the distinguished actress, starred in "Mice and Men" at the Garrick Theatre, in New York, in the season of 1904, which marked the first presentation of the play in the United States.

Miss Clark's exquisite daintiness in the role of Peggy is a fortunate thing to follow immediately upon her appearance as the sturdy Irish girl in "The Prince and the Pauper." The play is a masterpiece of dramatic art, and the opportunity for the star who changes from the staid and dignified to the happy and carefree, which human ingenuity is capable of. The remarkable display of versatility on the part of Miss Clark that has made her a tremendously popular everywhere that motion pictures are exhibited.

In "Mice and Men," Miss Clark has an unusual opportunity to do a double duty, not only because during the course of this play, she not only every stage in the development of an orphan girl from her unfortunate and unhappy childhood to her ultimate destiny as a charming and graceful society lady. Then having reached maturity, she proceeds to break hearts as only a Marguerite Clark could. Her guardian, a philosopher, falls desperately in love with this delicate flower that has blossomed beneath the sun and soil of the same time to appear as a strong, sturdy, and self-reliant girl. The beauty and charm of the girl compare with the good-looking appeal to him in contrast to the studied wiles of another woman with whom he has come in contact.

The other woman's efforts result in a far more tragic end, which involves the death of a young man, the son of the girl's father. The situation resolves itself into a battle of wits between the clever and mature student and the impetuous young hero who comes back from the war covered with glory. The question is, will hero worship and youthful impressionability conquer over the strong sense of gratitude which Peggy feels for the man whose unselfish devotion has lifted her from the obscurity of a number in the Foundling Home to her present enviable position in the social world.

The talented little star has among her supporting cast such distinguished players as Marshal Neilan, Clarence Handyside, Charles Waldron and Robert Conville.

"The Yellow Streak"

Lionel Barrymore, the popular stage and screen star, and Irene Hawley, the gifted dramatic actress, will be seen on the screen at the Star Theatre on Tuesday, Jan. 25, in "The Yellow Streak," a five act feature produced by the Rolfe Photo Plays Inc., for release on the Metro program. Many of the interesting scenes of this production are being shown in New York City, and the remainder in a picturesque quiet town of the far west. An excellent cast of stage and screen artists are seen in the support of the stars. Admission 5 and 15c.

"The Golden Chance" at the Star Monday

To Wallace Reid, who is costarred with Cleo Ridgely in "The Golden Chance," life is just one fight after another. Practically every picture Reid has been in for the past season has had to appear in fight scenes. In the Garibaldi Entertainment production of "The Golden Chance," he is to fight with axes with Winthrop Ames, a well known actor. The picture is a thrilling and exciting one. In "The Golden Chance," Reid is to play a man who is being the target of a woman's wrath. The picture is a very exciting one. Reid is to play a man who is being the target of a woman's wrath. Wednesday, January 26th, A Fox Feature in five reels "From the Village of the Missing." Also two reels of "The Bird from the Sky" with Fred Astaire.

Thursday, January 27th, Another Fox Feature presenting William Fox in a "Gilded Fool," one of the latest Broadway successes.

Friday, January 28th, A scenic production of Pinocchio, 45 people in cast, under the auspices of the Sanford Parish House Club.

Saturday, January 29th, Tenth

Episode of "The Broken Coin," featuring Francis Ford and Grace Gunnard. Two reel feature. Falsta Comedy.

A. G. ALLEN

Will Lecture at Allen's Theatre Monday night, Jan. 24th at eight o'clock Peter Collins of Boston, Mass., will deliver a free lecture and question box on "What's Wrong with the World?"

Mr. Collins lecture is one of a series of lectures in the nationwide educational program of the Supreme Council of the Knights of Columbus and the message of the lecturer is in the cause of God and Country, of civic righteousness and the general welfare. It is a clear and logical treatment of great problems confronting not only the people of America but vital to civilization and its advancement.

It is entirely free from bitterness and makes for a better understanding and a kindly feeling between all.

The lecture is given under the auspices of the Sanford Council, Knights of Columbus.

Optimistic Thought. The world hath need.

Why We Work.
Young friends, in whatever pursuit you may engage, you must not forget that the lawful objects of human efforts are but means to higher results and nobler ends. Start not forward in life with the idea of becoming mere seekers of pleasure--sportive butterflies searching for gaudy flowers. Consider and act with reference to the true ends of existence--E. H. Chaplin.

Glycerin for the Feet.
Doctor Henians, a well known French physician recommends the use of glycerin in cases of too profuse perspiration of the feet producing disagreeable odor. He says this is due to a production of poisonous substances by bacteria. One has only to apply glycerin to the soles of the feet every morning and the distressing trouble will disappear.

Laugh and Grow Well.
Gloom is not a virtue, any more than the code of sanctity does not necessarily involve a long face and a long black frock coat and infrequent baths. Laughter is good medicine, both for the body and the mind. The man who laughs is likely to be a healthy man, and a happy man, and he is rarely a villain.

Man's Achievement.
Reflect upon the disproportion between the achievements of man and the use he puts them to. He invents wireless telegraphs and the telephone, one another day and night he invents the name of the latest winner. He invents the flying machine and he will use it to advertise pills and drop bombs.

Por County Commissioner

Although it has been reported in the city that Hon. I. A. Brumley, county commissioner, Precinct No. 1, would not be a candidate to succeed himself for that office, Mr. Brumley states that he is not responsible for such report, and at the urgent request of a number of friends, announces that he will be a candidate and has his announcement appearing in the "Political Column" of today's Herald.

Two years ago Mr. Brumley was nominated to the office that he now holds and for the past thirteen months has given the people of Sanford (precinct) and the whole of Seminole county one of the very best administrations that was possible under the circumstances. Seminole county at that time undergoing a process of organization.

Being one of the first commissioners to be elected by the people, and though a "new hand at the business" Mr. Brumley fitted right in his place in the organization, and has made the county an able commissioner.

POTATOES WILL BRING GOOD PRICE

Department of Agriculture Warns Houswives of Price

The Department of Agriculture predicts top prices for southern grown potatoes in the coming spring.

The prudent housewife is warned by the Department of Agriculture to expect a rise in the price of potatoes and a large advance over last year's spring prices. The department says:

"Unusually small stocks of potatoes were held on January 1 in the important potato producing states. This is the reverse of conditions a year ago. Then stocks were unusually large and southern potato growers who compete in the spring months with stocks carried over in the northern states were warned to expect the low prices which prevailed last spring.

"Supplies on hand January 1, 1916, for markets are estimated to be about 18 per cent smaller than a year ago, 15 per cent smaller than two years ago, 30 per cent smaller than three years ago, but 16 per cent larger than four years ago.

"If for the purpose of comparison the estimates in percentage of marketable stocks of potatoes on January 1 be applied to the estimates of total production, it shows a total of 105,350,000 bushels on January 1, 1916, compared with 169,544,000 a year ago, 123,292,000 two years ago, 149,845,000 three years ago and 90,788,000 four years ago. These figures indicate that southern growers need not fear a burdensome competition with northern stocks of potatoes this spring.

"The United States," concludes the report, "eldom imports or exports relatively a large quantity of potatoes. Therefore, the European war has no material direct influence upon the potato market of the United States."

Chairman Raney Thinks Action Was Warranted

introduced from Europe after the horses native to America had become extinct. In the somewhat older formations are found earlier, smaller and more primitive horses which were evidently the associates of the early mastodons, being embedded in the same deposits.

Dr. Sellards says the value to science of the fossil remains found imbedded in the earth is sometimes not fully appreciated. To the geologist fossils are not curios or objects of temporary interest, but are working tools since it is by them that the age of the deposits in which they occur is determined. Each formation and geologic time division is characterized more or less definitely by the animals and plants that were then living. In passing from one formation to another a change is observed in the animal and plant life, which among other things determines the limits of the formation.

In most of the European countries the value of fossils to science is much more fully recognized than in America, and it is required by law that fossils when found be preserved. It is very much to be hoped that in this country the true value of fossils may be more fully appreciated and that all that are found may be cared for. This is especially to be desired in Florida where the rapid developments that are taking place result in excavations not only in connection with mining operations, but also in connection with the drainage of swamps and river dredging and other general improvements.

These operations are bringing to light much animal remains that have been imbedded in the earth for ages, and it certainly would be exceedingly unfortunate if these were allowed to be destroyed. Tallahassee Record.

Big River Travel

The great steamer City of Jacksonville of the Clyde St. Johns river line, left here yesterday afternoon for Sanford with every berth taken and ten other persons, who would have been passengers, left behind until the next boat because of insufficient accommodations. Every boat of this line going down the river during the past two weeks has been crowded almost to capacity with tourists, according to Herman G. Wenzel, Florida passenger agent for the Clyde Steamship Company.

"Such a condition is unusual for this season of the year, and is proof of the growing popularity of the Clyde river trips with the winter visitors," he said. "During the summer months when the Clyde line was offering $35 round trip rates from New York to Jacksonville and up the river, nearly every boat was crowded to capacity every time it left here, but the heavy demand for passage from winter tourists at this time of the year is unusual. Times-Union.

There will be no reconvening of the State Democratic Executive Committee to reconsider the famous resolution describing the qualifications of a Democratic elector in the approaching primary election, according to an announcement which has just been mailed to all members of the state committee by Chairman George P. Raney from Tampa. Chairman Raney declares that he cannot call together another meeting of the committee upon the strength of seven requests from the committee men of whom there are fifty-one in the state.

In a lengthy article on the subject Chairman Raney attempts to explain that there is no just reason for much of the discussion that has resulted from the adoption of the resolution setting forth that if the entire resolution is considered, and not only parts of it, there can be no serious objections in the minds of fair minded and loyal Democrats.

In this connection he says: "Fairly and reasonably construed this resolution in my opinion correctly sets forth the qualifications of a Democrat. In some instances which have come under my observation it has been attacked by persons who were misinformed with respect to the true and correct wording of the resolution, in some instances by persons who have in good faith misinterpreted its true intent, and in some instances the resolution has been attacked for purposes misquoting, with the evident intention to mislead and prejudice, and in other instances by persons who are opposed to the construction placed upon the resolution by those who would seal themselves in opportunity to make political capital by appeals to prejudice and intolerance rather than to reason.

The resolution, in order to ascertain its true intent and meaning, must be considered as a whole and not as isolated parts.

A Rollins College Boy of the Olden Time Who Has Made Good

One of the most pleasant and enjoyable occurrences of my recent visit to Honolulu was the meeting of Mr. J. Word Caldwell and his estimable wife, residents of that city and of having delightful association with them during my stay in the place.

Mr. Caldwell was a student of Rollins College in its early days, registering from Sanford where his family resided, he being the only son of the late Dr. Frank Caldwell, former Chief Surgeon of the Atlantic Coast Line-Railway Company. His mother is a member of the faculty of Queens College of Charlotte, North Carolina.

He attended Rollins for two years, leaving us at the close of the school year of 95-96. I had seen him a year later, but not again until our recent meeting. He was one of our smaller boys, good natured, playful, fond of fun, and an intimate friend of Rex Beach who was a student here at the same time. In Honolulu I found the boy grown into a man, and the Hon. J. Word Caldwell, Ex-Superintendent of Public Works, a position ranking next to that of the Governor of the territory—a wide awake, most energetic man, and one of the city's foremost citizens. He is now associated with the leading construction company of Honolulu as constructing engineer.

The family of Mr. Caldwell moved to Tampa in the late nineties, where his mother still has a home, and where in 1908 he was married to Miss Sadie Waldron of Savannah, Ga. He and his wife became residents of Honolulu in 1908 and have a beautiful home of Calhoun Manna Valley. Both Mr. and Mrs. Caldwell are prominent in the city's social circles, and in various civic interests, city admittance receiving a large share of Mrs. Caldwell's attention.

I greatly appreciated the kindness and thoughtful attention shown me by these friends during my stay in Honolulu. Their interest in making my visit pleasant and profitable, and their generous hospitality will always be delightful memories of my trip. Thos. R. Baker.

Florida Health Conditions

(State Board of Health)

No state or section in the Union has better conditions, "natural" or artificial, favoring health, low sick and death rates and longevity than Florida.

No place on earth is ideal, and not even the most ardent lovers of this great southern peninsula will admit that it has no drawbacks--for perfection is not really to be expected this side the Pearly Gates, but in Florida the expectancy of good, healthy working efficiency is at least equal to the expectancy of bright, sunny days and invigorating, breathable air.

A big asset of Florida is climate, so much advertised that neighbors have seriously declared that it is really her only resource. But it is a condition of clean air, saturated with the salt of the surrounding ocean, with a temperature...

BRIDGE IS A WONDER

QUEBEC STRUCTURE SURPASSES ANY EVER ERECTED.

Only the Famous Firth of Forth Bridge in Scotland, Constructed in the Same Manner, Approaches It in Magnitude.

In its general dimensions as well as in the enormous size and weight of the structural members composing it, the Quebec bridge, now in an advanced stage of construction, surpasses any other structure of the kind ever erected, says Popular Mechanics.

The one bridge structure in the world that approaches it in magnitude is the famous Firth of Forth bridge in Scotland, the main channel span of which is nearly one hundred feet shorter than that of the Quebec bridge. Both structures are of the cantilever type. The channel span of the Quebec bridge, measured between centers of towers, is 1,800 feet. The design and fabrication of the steel for the structure therefore presented engineering problems for which no precedents existed, and the first attempt to build the bridge made by a private company, resulted in a collapse of the structure in which many lives were lost. Following that catastrophe, the Dominion government took over the work, and a year later undertook the construction of the bridge. The present bridge is on the same site as the original structure, but owing to an increase of twenty-one feet in the width between towers, and to a corresponding increase in the height of the towers, the new bridge is a more magnificent structure than the old one. The cost of the bridge is $12,000,000. It is expected that the bridge will be completed by the end of the year 1916.

heavy bridge members two traveling cranes, one working on each side of the river, are used. Each traveler weighs about one thousand tons, and is equipped with two hoisting machines each capable of lifting one hundred tons. The principal feature of the travelers is a tower that stands 200 feet above the floor of the bridge. Supported on top of the tower are cranes through which the lifting lines are worked. All the machinery on the travelers is electrically operated. To avoid bringing uneven stresses on the partly completed structure, similar members on the two sides of the bridge are lifted by the cranes and erected simultaneously. The total length of the bridge between abutments is 3,339 feet. As now planned, it should be possible for trains to cross the bridge by the end of the year 1916.

MANAGER DUGDALE IS LUCKY

Walter McCredie Discovers Former Bat Boy Is Star Pitcher for Northwestern League Team.

Manager Walter McCredie of the Portland Coast league team went to Seattle to look over some of the Northwestern league prospects. He sat talking with Owner Dugdale of Seattle, and complimented him on some of the players on Dug's team, bemoaning his own lack of talent meanwhile.

"How do you get 'em, Dug?" asked McCredie.

"Well," answered Dugdale, "I'm lucky, I guess. Some of the best ones just come to me begging for jobs."

"I never had that luck," said McCredie. "We always have to pay pretty high for what we get. Wish I could pick up a few like you do."

As they talked a tall young pitcher warmed up in front of the stand.

"Who's that pitcher?" asked McCredie.

"Why that's Malle," answered Dugdale. "He's the fellow I've sold to Brooklyn. He's one of my pickups."

"You're a lucky guy," said McCredie. "I'll bet you'll get some more like that."

"You can't get any more like that," answered Dugdale. "I've got to be your hot hand after a careful scrutiny."

HERBERT ON PREPAREDNESS

Ex-Secretary of Navy Gives Real Reasons for the Step.

Herbert Hoover, ex-Secretary of the Navy, has given a series of lectures on preparedness. He has pointed out the reasons for the step and has shown the necessity of it. He has also shown the danger of not being prepared. He has shown that the only way to avoid war is to be prepared for it. He has shown that the only way to win a war is to be prepared for it. He has shown that the only way to survive a war is to be prepared for it.

Mr. Hoover says that the only way to avoid war is to be prepared for it. He has shown that the only way to win a war is to be prepared for it. He has shown that the only way to survive a war is to be prepared for it. He has shown that the only way to avoid war is to be prepared for it. He has shown that the only way to win a war is to be prepared for it. He has shown that the only way to survive a war is to be prepared for it.

Great Britain, the United Kingdom alone, without counting in her colonies, with France and Russia, had twice as many men available for military service as had Germany and Austria combined, but Great Britain, counting on her navy for defense, had only some 695,000 soldiers scattered all over the world, had no compulsory conscription law, and was woefully lacking in munitions of war, and all this Germany knew. France, too, was lacking in munitions of war. Preachers of economy there as in England had been declaring against extravagant military expenditures, against the makers of munitions of war, who were claimed to be manufacturing war scares when there was to be no war, and so France was unprepared and all of this Germany knew. Russia was insufficiently supplied with munitions of war, her three single track railroads traversing her vast territory were wholly insufficient for the transportation of her great armies and their supplies, and she was entirely without any system of transverse railways that would enable her to converge her forces on pivotal points.

All these things the War Lord of Europe knew on the second day of August when he penned the declaration of war that has brought about the most frightful calamity that has afflicted mankind since the waters of the flood left only Noah and Ark to tell the story of the past.

The whole world now knows these facts just as the Kaiser knew them on August 2, 1914.

It was undoubtedly the unpreparedness of the Allies that caused Germany and Austria to make war against nations that had twice their fighting strength; but in the face of all this evidence, our pacifist of today thinks that it was the competition in preparedness that bred this terrible war. The way to prevent war, he insists, is for a nation not to prepare for war at all, but to be good and set an example, like an individual of fair dealing and justice to all.

Accenting Vogue of Rich Materials

Although one may choose almost any shape in hats, the progress of the season has given precedence to certain types. Hats inspired by the Puritan model are many and smart. Small high-crowned shapes, with narrow curving brims followed naturally in the wake of the Puritan, and have been developed into brilliant millinery, combining rich brocades or velvets, in covering the shape, with fur in narrow bands outlining the brim edge and crown. The small turban has blossomed out in wintry materials (velvet and fur and other rich stuffs) in styles more varied than ever, and is the acme of dash and grace.

Trimming remains simple, either for these chic small hats or in the wider brimmed shapes. And it seems that every one strives for novelty in it. Either the flower or feather must be something new and strange--and beautiful--or it must be oddly placed. An example of this is shown in two views of a dress hat which are given in the photographs reproduced here.

This model is made of velvet shirred in one circular piece, to cover the upper brim and side crown. The top crown is a small scowl puff of the velvet, and the underbrim has a plain velvet facing. The shape lifts to a point at the front and flares upward at the back, where the brim widens. The width across the back is greatly accentuated by a drapery of velvet lined with soft satin, which has the appearance of a high bow.

Very odd satin and silver poppies are set over the drapery at the back, and one single blossom brightens the brim at the front.

times sooner. Here is what he said, and it is high praise without extravagant expression, from an upright northern man that will be warmly appreciated in the south.

"I am glad to be a part of this program. I am glad that I live in this day, when we have but passed the will of the war and in which the north and south can combine together as patriots with their only rivalry that of advancing the welfare of their common country.

Through my father who was a Virginian, I early learned the attachment of southern people for their land and for their people. The south is a section of the country in which the ideal is strong and they become attached to those who speak and act for them.

"The south is fortunate in having the character of Robert E. Lee because he was an American in whom the nation feels pride. The war rose over differences not confined to sectional lines. The question of secession was discussed in the north as well as in the south. He had courage and loyalty for his own country as part of his national heritage. He was one of the greatest soldiers of the world. Even when the soldier will no more be called upon the people shall not forget those who gave the highest evidences of their willingness to give lives for a principle. He was of the highest type of soldier since he first took up arms when he saw it was his duty to bear arms and he laid them down also as a duty. He represents Christian citizenship and true Americanism.

"He is a representative of the highest patriotism since he was willing to give his life for what he believed to be right. He showed that nothing is worth living for that is not worth dying for. The time will never come when there is no demand for such men. We must stand ready to give the supreme test of our devotion as Lee gave it. I am glad to join in a tribute of respect to this man and to the satisfactory change in conditions that has made this possible and through which we can join as friends in making this country better for the succeeding generations. Lee open spending a few more dollars on the accessible property in the state, to secure and to preserve it.

It is a fact that no state is better equipped today, as a result of this wise decision back in the 80's to combat disease directly and through the education of the people to a knowledge how to obtain this advantage for themselves by better sanitation and better living. It is quite within the remembrance of young men that the announcement of yellow fever within any Florida city brought a shudder through all the state, and its nearer approach to any given locality crowded the trains with refugees to the north. Now, such an alarm would be answered with a reference to the State Board of Health. But such alarms don't come any more, for this disease and others have banished and their coming made as impossible as human knowledge and foresight can make anything impossible.

Experts alert and in closest touch with the constant advances of medical science are in charge of health situation. They are backed by the authority of the state, with supreme authority in emergencies, they are equipped with laboratories in widely scattered parts of the state for the study of disease in the individual and in epidemic it is a condition of preparedness that has for years prevented the necessity of war.

The education of the people of Florida to a better knowledge of their physical selves of the laws of health and sanitation has been one of the efficient weapons in the fight against disease invasion and epidemic. And the most recent addition to this educational equipment is the Health train, now on its initial journey through the state. The three remodeled Pullmans, with their panels and models and stereo-motographs and literature in charge of thoroughly competent representatives of the Board of Health, have been thronged with people earnestly eager to learn. These people have returned to learn more, they have brought the school children and their live interest shows the educational value of this traveling school.

ment of its members and friends to once again a general attendance is urged on Wednesday afternoon at three o'clock.

In Honor of Mrs. Stryker
Society has rather expelled itself in the beauty of its entertainments this season, but on no occasion has there been anything lovelier than the charming bridge party given by Mrs. Geo. Davis Hart, at her beautiful home on Sanford Heights, Friday afternoon in honor of Mrs. J. B. Stryker of Pennsylvania.

A unique charm prevailed in the decorations that was novel and original in conception and artistic in design. The rooms which show a distinctive individuality in their arrangement at all times were unusually pretty for this party. The stairway from the upper floor to the reception hall was entwined with southern smilax above which clusters of golden hued oranges were suspended, and nestled among the foliage. Vases and bowls of yellow ovals and agurturns in bowls and vases placed on cabinets and tables and in the windows further carried out the color motif of yellow.

Gracious palms and ferns gave a relaxing touch of green while the windows were decorated with palm leaves, softening the light that was filtered through them. From a prettily adorned table in the parlor, Miss Olga Schultz dispensed punch throughout the party.

Priscillas
The Priscillas were delightfully entertained by Mrs. Easterby on Thursday afternoon. The hours were spent informally with social talk and fancy work. Dainty refreshments were served during the afternoon. Enjoying the charming hospitality of their hostess were Mesdames Tom Davis, J. E. Phoe, A. E. Hill, H. H. Hill, W. W. Long, N. H. Garner, D. A. Cillidwell, Alfred Purdon, Pattin, Eldridge, Overman and Miss Johnson.

Births
Mr. and Mrs. Ed Peters are rejoicing on the birth of a little daughter, Saturday, January 22.

Personal Mention
Mr. and Mrs. Eugene Roumillat left yesterday for a visit to Tampa. They will return Thursday.

Miss Cornelia Pickard of Tifton, Ga., who has been visiting Mrs. C. A. Betts will be the guest of Mrs. C. A. Betts from Wednesday until Friday.

Miss Bessie Wheeler has returned from a visit to friends in Jacksonville.

Mrs. J. H. Overman has returned to Tampa after a pleasant visit to Mrs. J. E. Pace.

Mrs. Henry McLaulin was among those attending the play, "A Tale of the Christ" in Orlando last Thursday night returning to Sanford on Friday morning.

Mr. and Mrs. Deane Turner, Deane Jr., Miss Martha Fox and Mr. and Mrs. Roy Symes and children and Mrs. Maty Symes motored over to Daytona to spend Sunday.

Mrs. Thomas A. Neal has returned from a pleasant visit with friends in Orlando.

Friends of Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Peters will regret to hear of the serious illness of his mother which called him to Mills River, Mass., on Friday. Mrs. Peters accompanied him to Jacksonville.

Among the Sanford people who are going over to Orlando tomorrow to attend the reception of Mrs. J. S. McEwan will be Mrs. J. C. Higgins, Mrs. Margaret Barnes, Mrs. S. Puleston, Mrs. D. L. Thasher and

There are many women in Sanford who possess talent for drawing, basket weaving, china painting and a variety of other talents or the ability to do things worth while so one thoughtful woman called a meeting of this kind of workers for the purpose of organizing the aforesaid club. Enthusiasm prevailed that promises well for the future of the new club.

Eight Hundred
The members of the congenial little neighborhood sewing club, the Eight Hundred spent a happy afternoon informally with Mrs. Frank Adams Wednesday afternoon of last week. At the refreshment hour a dainty salad course was served. Present were Mesdames Roy Symes, Anna Walker, T. D. Hayes, Sam Bradford, James Brown, Miss Evelyn Berner. Guests of the club were Mrs. F. E. Steinmeyer, Mrs. Mary Symes and Miss Laura Chittenden.

BRICK AND ASPHALT ROADS

As Seen By Harry Brown of The St. Augustine Record

The St. Augustine delegation over here last week to inspect brick roads and the said asphalt roads make a report that is interesting and we take a few extracts from the article written by Harry Brown, editor of the St. Augustine Record.

During the brief stay in Eustis, opportunity was taken to examine specimens of the famous asphalt roads, especially a sample section that was put down some three or four years ago in front of the Oklawaha Hotel. This shows no signs of wear. Assurance was given that no repairs have ever been made, and that the stretch of roadway has simply been sanded from time to time. Later in the day the party proceeded on the way to Mt. Dora, which highway is being surfaced with this modified asphalt.

The operation was in progress and proved most interesting. The sand bed is thoroughly rolled and the asphalt applied to a thickness of between two and three inches. This is then rolled and dusted with fine cement to fill the pores. The Contracting Company of New York has the contract. Lake county is spending something like $200,000 for road improvements. A mile by how where the paving work was in progress.

problem. Lake county has several miles of this asphalt highway and it affords decidedly pleasant traveling for the automobilist, and is proving a boon to the farmers and growers of that county in enabling them to get to the local markets with their produce.

The asphalt way was followed into Mt. Dora. From Mt. Dora southward toward Apopka the road is in very good condition, being paved with a sort of clay and fine crushed rock. However, it has been determined here as in other places along the route that materials other than brick and asphalt are all makeshifts and are not permanent. After crossing the Orange county line above Plymouth, a road building concern was found at work putting down more brick for Orange county. This concern constructed the main nine foot brick road from Orlando which is now finished to Apopka. This brick highway is a model piece of work and traverses a beautiful section of Florida. The hills and the lakes afford a charming picture and the orange groves at this season of the year are simply laden with golden fruit. Certain sections of this brick highway were found to contain imperfect bricks. It was learned that the same kind of imperfect bricks

The Gradiron Banquet to be held in Tampa during Gasparilla Week for the newspaper men will be the affair. Sorry we cannot be there to hear Willis Powell and Rube Allen.

Harry Brown is a diplomat. He does not state whether he prefers the asphalt or the brick and after visiting Eustis too. Clarence Woods will rise up and smite him on the nostril.

The Auburndale News states that a company is in that city to erect a contract for passing with asphalt. This is a new one on us and will probably meet our approval. We can now look for Editor Hanna to start an opposition to Clarence Woods' asphalt.

were available were placed at such a high rental that they could not be considered. Then Rev. Arthur Peck, rector of the Holy Cross Episcopal church gave the use of the Parish House to the association and the directors accepted his offer and will add several additions to the building making it one of the most complete gymnasiums and reading rooms that could be secured. The Y. M. C. A. features could not be embodied in the plans of the association in their entirety as it is not possible at this time for a smaller city to have an official Y. M. C. A. The Parish House Club, or whatever the directors choose to call the association will fill a long felt want in Sanford. The directors are going forward with it despite all difficulties and in ten or twelve winter seasons to have it complete. They cannot do this without the cooperation and assistance of every citizen of Sanford. Leesburg was up against the same proposition and the city council of that city has helped them out as the following item from Leesburg would indicate.

"At a meeting of the town council Monday evening Rev. O. G. Klinger, pastor of the Presbyterian church made a proposition whereby an athletic association could be organized for the benefit of young men and boys of the town. It was proposed that the council donate a lot for this purpose, that the organization be incorporated and a two-story building be erected. A reading room will be a part of the special features of the organization and a gymnasium, fully equipped, is to be one of the chief attractions. The council favorably considered the plan and the matter was referred to the street committee with power to act."

And the city council of Sanford ought to be just as progressive as the city council of Leesburg. We do not want a creek bridge. We want a city and the Parish House is the necessary adjunct to all that we need. But the city council of Sanford and the good people of Sanford are assisting this movement in many ways and the directors of the club expect them to do their duty. It is a call for humanity's sake.

Sixty Elks Coming
The Allentown, Pa. Lodge of Elks will invade Jacksonville February 21 for a half day according to an announcement made yesterday afternoon by Herman G. Wenzel Florida passenger agent. The Steamship Company cover which time the visitors are to come. The party is to number about sixty members, who are to make the St. Johns river trip and then go for a journey along the East Coast. They will return here for a part of Feb. 25th, when they are scheduled to depart for their home city.

According to Mr. Wenzel the party is to leave New York on the steamship Mohawk on February 18, arriving here the following Monday morning. This afternoon they will depart for Sanford on the river steamer Osceola and return here the next day for the East Coast trip. The announcement shows that they are to be accompanied by Florida Elks from Jacksonville, Orlando, and Tampa. The trip is to be made as a sort of annual outing for the Allentown Elks and it is probable that the Jacksonville members will have a reception committee at the dock to meet and show them about the city when they reach here on the dock trip. The party will include some of the most prominent men in Allentown. Times-Union.

The KITCHEN CUPBOARD

BEEFY DISHES.
MEXICAN BEEF LOAF. - Chop two pounds round of beef, one half pound of lean, fresh pork, one peeled onion and one green pepper freed from seeds. Add one cupful of dry breadcrumbs, one tablespoonful of parsley, one tablespoonful of tomato ketchup and one teaspoonful of salt. Shape in a loaf, place in a buttered pan, pour in one quart of stewed and strained tomatoes, put four slices of bacon on top and bake one hour, basting frequently with the sauce.

Beef Roll. - Chop fine one and one half pounds bottom of round steak. Mix well with one-half cupful of breadcrumbs one well beaten egg, a few drops of onion juice and salt and pepper to season. Add milk to moisten if necessary. Shape into loaf or roll and bake thirty minutes, basting frequently with a little melted butter in hot water. Remove from the pan and make a brown gravy to pour over it. Serve with a border of well cooked macaroni.

Beef Bird. - Cut slices a half inch thick from the rump or round of beef, divide them into pieces about four inches square; spread with sausage meat or forcemeat; roll up tightly and fasten with cord or wooden toothpicks. Brown in butter; cover with broth, stew until tender and nearly dry, thicken the gravy with flour, add one-quarter of a cupful of tomato or mushroom ketchup, bring to a boil and serve.

Roast Beef in Rameniks. - Chop the remains of cold roast beef fine season to taste, add minced onion, cook slowly, adding a little water or milk, until the mixture thickens. Have ready baked individual pastry shapes. Fill these with hash and dot with butter. Stand in oven until browned. Serve hot.

Pressed Flank of Beef. - Wipe, remove superfluous fat and roll a half inch thick. Put in a little cover with a little water and cook slowly. Add a little salt and one teaspoonful of pepper, a lot of bay leaf and a tablespoon of wine may be added. There should be but little liquor in the pan when the meat is done. Arrange the slices on a platter, pour over the liquor and garnish with a little parsley. Serve cold, then heated.

CHERRY PUFFS. Wash a half pint of large round cranberries and drop them in a thick strip, boiling them till they become firm and candied. You can use candied cherries if you like, but they are more expensive. Mix the cherries with a half pint of chopped nut meats and then shape the mixture into little balls between fingers well greased with butter. Then dip them in melted sweet chocolate, roll in powdered sugar and set away for a few hours in a cold place.

Maple Puffs. - One half pound maple sugar, one-half pound brown sugar, walnuts, one-half cupful chopped figs, one-half cupful chopped citron, one-half cupful raisins, one-half cupful water. Beat the sugar and water till they spin a heavy thread. Beat the whites of the eggs very stiff, add gradually the hot syrup to them, beating all the time. When the mixture begins to stiffen add the other ingredients and beat until it will hold its shape. Place by tablespoonfuls on greased paper and let stand till stiff.

Coffee Fudge. - Boil together two cupfuls of granulated sugar and one cupful of strong coffee with one tablespoonful of butter or of rich cream and a speck of salt. Boil till it forms a thread. Remove from the fire and beat till it is smooth and creamy. Pour into a buttered pan and mark into squares when partly cool.

Honey Popcorn Balls. - Take a cupful of strained honey, put it into a saucepan and heat until it will form a soft ball when dropped into cold water. Have ready a good sized bowl of freshly popped corn. Pour the honey over it, mixing all the time. When it cools a little grease the hands, mold the corn into balls and stand them on greased paper. If it is not convenient to get honey use a half cupful of water and a cupful of sugar for the syrup.

GREATEST FREE PORT

DISTINCTION GIVEN TO THE CITY OF HAMBURG.
Has Historic Background of the Highest Interest, Going Back for Centuries—Prof. Kennedy Tells Origin of Scheme.

The most impressive example of what a free port can be and what it is apt to promote in Hamburg, Germany. It is conspicuously foremost, and this despite the fact that Bremen is also a free port. These are the fatherland's biggest shipping centers and Germany is a high tariff country. The free port has a historical background dating to the days when cities stood apart from each other and their independence held their gates open to the traffic of the world. Thus as members of the German Empire Bremen and Hamburg flourished commercially more than two centuries ago. They maintained in this fashion to stimulate trade otherwise endangered by the import taxes levied by petty nobles.

When Hamburg entered the German Customs union in 1888 she inaugurated the administration of her free port, which for five years previous had been in process of construction. The free port is situated on the River Elbe directly abutting the city, which is 65 miles from the sea, and takes in the entire river for a stretch of five miles from Altona to Elbe bridge. The land area comprised within this zone was in 1883 occupied by 16,000 inhabitants who were expelled when the land was embanked by the state. There is in the free port a land area of 1,225 acres in addition to 1,120 acres of water area, all of which is shut off from the inland by means of a canal of the city side of the harbor and by means of floating piers on the other side. The entrances to the city and to the upper and lower Elbe are guarded by customs stations.

It is therefore manifest that the free port of Hamburg is an isolated area capable of separate administration, and the existence of floating piers and guarded entrances to the city makes it clear that the free port is purposely isolated so that dutiable goods cannot be smuggled into the municipality, while yet admitting every facility of access, ease of handling and preparation for reshipment abroad with minimum of red tape. In other words a free port is primarily a halting place in transit and is an elaborated development of the bonded warehouse as we understand it here.—New York Sun

FOR THE BOYS
Several times in the past few months the editor of The Herald has made a public appeal to the people of Sanford in reference to a place where the boys and young men could get a good education and a good time on the streets. There has been a half hearted response from the business men but a whole hearted response from the ministers of the city. The first offer came from the Baptist church in the shape of the old church building that was to be donated to the cause but on account of certain restrictions this offer could not be accepted. Then an effort was made to rent a suitable room in the city but the rooms that

AMONG THE METHODISTS

Daughters of Wesley Entertained

On last Thursday evening, Jan. 20th Mrs. Claude Herndon delightfully entertained the Daughters of Wesley at her home on Magnolia Avenue. This was the regular meeting and election of officers. The election resulted as follows: Mrs. T. D. Hayes, president, Miss Bessie Zachary, vice president, Miss Elizabeth Musson, Secy., and Treas.

A rising vote of thanks was tendered Miss Zachary for her faithful services as president of the class the past two years.

Ways and means were then discussed for helping our little orphan at Enterprise and work given out. By way of explanation, this class had clean upon themselves to do a little more for one of the little inmates of the Enterprise Orphanage.

Mrs. Claude Herndon was appointed chairman of the committee to prepare for a musical, the date of which will be given later.

of the people in the north, the greater accumulation of cash by the saving and industrious has placed thousands of persons in position to gratify their desires to own homes in the south, and also has placed millions of people in position to purchase at their northern homes the products of the farms, the gardens, the orchards and the groves of the south.

Citrus fruits, other fruits and vegetables produced in the south brought very low prices last year, and this was very largely owing to the depression in business throughout the north, and the fact that so many millions of persons were unemployed. It was lack of demand from those who would have purchased if their incomes had permitted.

Now, with so many mills, factories, garment shops and mines keeping steady employment to the millions of last year's unemployed, the demand for these products is being met, and the prices are being raised.

Truck Growers to Have Crop Reports

The United States Bureau of Crop Estimates will issue crop reports on the principal truck crops, beginning this year. This good news comes from C. C. Hare, state agent for the Bureau who is stationed at the University of Florida. Reports will be issued bi-monthly and will cover the average conditions of the crops from time to time, and estimate of yield.

The estimates will be made by the Bureau from figures collected by the voluntary crop reporters in various parts of the states. This is the same way in which estimates for the principal farm crops are made. Reports on some truck crops have been made heretofore but the accuracy will be improved by the use of the new method.

Laura Jean Libbey's TALKS ON HEART TOPICS

IF SONS ARE LEFT AT HOME.

The flying rumors gathered as they rolled. Scarce any tale was sooner heard than told. And all who told it gathered something new. And all who heard it made enlargements too. In every ear it spread, on every tongue it grew.

"Pack up your trunks, mother! You and father can go right along and enjoy a good summer outing. You needn't worry about me. A fellow of twenty is certainly no baby, I can take care of myself. There are plenty of good restaurants I can get my meals at, and I can sleep at home, to keep an eye on the house."

A mother may be a little doubtful as to whether her young sons can carry out these resolutions and not the worry in her heart to rest. Youth and age she knows to be different. If his father had concluded to remain home, all responsibility on her part would have ended there. She had heard the old saw "Old heads cannot be put on young shoulders." But her sons seemed to be somewhat sturdier than others of the same age and a relief to her that she had such sons. They were not only good looking but they were also good natured. They were not only good looking but they were also good natured. They were not only good looking but they were also good natured.

Hardly were their backs turned to the door when they were standing at the door. They were not only good looking but they were also good natured. They were not only good looking but they were also good natured. They were not only good looking but they were also good natured. They were not only good looking but they were also good natured. They were not only good looking but they were also good natured.

folk leaving him to wander wherever fancy willed. "By Jove! A responsive chord has been struck, old chap, in our hearts! Come on home with me and we'll make the welkin ring," he insisted. Nothing both, they strolled across lots and were about to run up the steps of the shut up home when a whistle, almost at their elbow, arrested their attention. A couple of amateur musicians, strolling in search of pastime, formed a link of four. Lively comrades, each well-known to the other. "Boys," broke in the young host "I see you have brought your violin and cornet; with those together with our Victrola, and a dandy bass drum we have, let's put in the time and forget how thundering hot the place is."

From the time they rushed pell-mell into the lonely house until long past midnight there rose pandemonium, brought out by the screeching violin, the shrill Victrola, and the deep bellow of the bass drum. This caused the peaceful neighbors to wake from their slumbers, with a shriek of terror, as they rushed to the window, awaiting new developments. At the outer door they were confronted by a dark figure within the shadows. The young men rushed toward him, convinced that he was a prowling intruder. It was the elder brother, who had returned from seeing his best girl home quite awhile ago and who had sought quiet rest and companionship with his lonely brother at home. All these innocent pranks enter often the hearts of young fellows who are stay-at-homes. When they sing out "Everyone should have a good time off awhile!" they are speaking one word for their parents and two for themselves.

WHY HE TURNS FROM HER.

We should not trouble borrow; Joy is never sure; Time stops at no man's lure; Love grows faint and trifled; With lips but half revealed; So sweet and half revealed; Weeps in the night and sighs.

When the men out of the propose marriage, they are not only good looking but they are also good natured. They are not only good looking but they are also good natured. They are not only good looking but they are also good natured. They are not only good looking but they are also good natured. They are not only good looking but they are also good natured.

The bride foregoes her moonlight walks when the honeymoon is at its zenith to sew buttons on his shirts and darn his socks. When he drives up to the door in his buggy, to take her for an hour's outing, she denies herself the pleasure of going to make a fine cake for his dinner. The maid of all work doesn't launder his shirts to suit him. So she does them up herself. In fact, she turns herself into the woman of all work for the privilege of wearing his ring and his name.

The woman who slaves hard all day soon forgets the art of smiling and the charming art of coquetry which fascinated him. While the home is spick and span, all that could be desired, nine men out of ten do not relish the change in the woman. She who does her own housework should snatch half an hour from the busy day life to doll herself up before her husband's homecoming. Don't scrub and wash or look unlovely before him if it can be avoided. That is one of the prime reasons why many a man who is fastidious falls out of love as quickly as he fell into it.

MARRIAGE.

Oh, in this mocking world too fast The doubting Benedo overtakes our youth! Better be cheated to the last Than lose the blessed hope of truth.

There is nothing of more importance in a woman's life than whether she is to marry or remain single. One writer holds that "Young women, especially those who have to work for their daily bread, should not waste time thinking of the subject, but buckle down to their tasks, putting all their thoughts and vital energy upon the scheme of perfecting themselves for advancing in their chosen line of employment."

The same good writer also holds that it is almost a sin for them to indulge in day dreams or vague hopes, and last, but by no means least, if a man of wealth crosses a working girl's path, and he casts an admiring gaze in her direction, she should look upon him as an ogre with evil intent, spurning him from her.

first position that offers itself. Her duties may not be to her liking, but she must remain because no other door of making her livelihood has been opened to her. For instance, she may have all the instincts of a creative milliner or a designer of gowns but year after year bends over a factory loom, fearing to look elsewhere for a congenial position lest she lose the one she is holding and be out of work altogether. To such a girl day dreams are like the visits of angels for they bear messages of hope to her of a brighter future. It is not much to look forward to, but it is something, a plank which keeps her afloat on the dread sea of despondency.

As for not thinking or speculating on matrimony. How can a girl help giving a stray thought, now and then, to such a vital subject? It is nature that she should heed the voice that whispers in her heart, just as it is nature for the flowers to yearn for the sun and the dew, the bird for its mate on the green bough, and all creatures that live to realize the need of another life to make their own complete. They day dream in their own way.

The subject of the poor working girl and the rich young man is quite another story. While it may be true that there are men of wealth who would make love to a working girl without the least intention of making her a wife, there are thousands of noble rich men who fully believe that wealth cuts no figure where love is concerned. They do fall in love with poor girls and marry them, and will continue to wed them through all time. I know personally of hundreds of cases where the greatest and wealthiest of statesmen, lawyers and business men have loved and married the modest stenographers in their offices, whose wealth lay in their virtue and womanly goodness. physicians have married penniless nurses for the same reason. Owners of mills have been drawn to women in their employ, recognizing the silver cord of love which drew them to each other and to the holy marriage altar. Thus down all the list of wealth and greatness men have bowed to God's great law of attraction, singling out the women to wed whom they loved, passing by the heiress in silks and diamonds for the true-hearted girl, poor as a church mouse and who hadn't a second dress to her back.

Building Great Warship. The new dreadnaught California, to be completed in February, will measure 642 feet in length and for a few months will be the largest craft in the world. England is building one 800 feet long, which will probably be launched next summer.

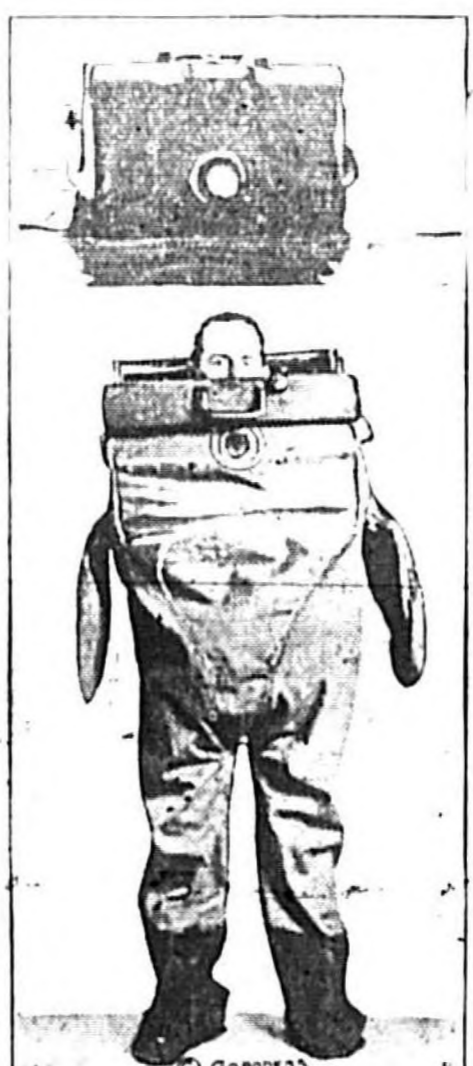

The California is the first American naval vessel to be built with its bow curved aft below the water. The bows of the older boats curved forward below the water, so that they formed ramps, which were formidable weapons. They are obsolete now because the high power of the modern naval guns makes it impossible for war vessels to come close enough together to ram each other.

The armature of the California is thicker than that of any other boat in the world. She will have a speed of 21 knots an hour and can carry 1,056 men. The cost of the boat alone is $7,000,000, but her equipment of guns and ammunition will increase the value to $15,000,000.

LIFE PRESERVER IS NOVEL

Looks Like a Traveling Bag and Can Be Used as an Emergency Hotel.

John L. Edmund, a young Norwegian, has just invented a novel life preserver. From all outward appearances it is a traveling bag, which, like all other valises, carries shirts, towels, etc., but which, like no other valise, can in case of emergency be expanded into a life-like man suit of waterproof material and stout canvas, one that owner through the most perilous seas. The bag, the inventor claims, can be made to suit the passenger as to shape, size and material. A brown waterproof cloth covers the top and the sides, and the bottom of the bag is made of the same material. The bag is compactly into the corner of the suitcase, leaving ample room for anything one wishes to carry. The body of the case is equipped with a window and two air valves, which may be locked from the inside. The side flappers or arm holes may or may not be used, for they do not add or detract from the buoyancy. The arms may, however, be used as a propeller. The bag when in the water need not be closed, for it will not sink. This has been proved by a series of rigid tests. The position of the occupant is one of perfect comfort, for he may stand upright, lean on the arms, or rest on the back or sides without danger of tipping. Food enough to last a number of days can be taken into the compartment. In short, it is an emergency hotel.

In case of accident to the outer covering, there is an emergency air bag which may be blown up from the inside. In the bag one may remain in the water for from four to five days without danger of sinking or death by exposure.

The upper photograph shows the bag floating on the surface of the water. In the lower picture the owner is seen in the bag taking a final look before jumping overboard.

Mere Trifle. "War anecdotes seem to be popular just now," remarked the public man. "So they are," answered his secretary. "Hum. Couldn't you credit a few anecdotes of that sort to me?" "It would be rather difficult, as you haven't been in Europe since the war started." "What difference does that make? I've never been in Rome, but that doesn't prevent me from quoting Cicero in my political speeches."

The Spray That Sticks "ADHESO"

Celery is injured by gritty spray materials that wash off and run down into the heart of the celery. "ADHESO" is absolutely free from grit—as smooth as butter. It sticks to the leaves, protecting the celery against rust, mildew, and after rain, the time when the rust spreads. It destroys the Celery Caterpillar, stimulates the crop. Big celery growers in Florida with as high as 400 acres of celery grower, are using it on their entire acreage in preference to any thing else. "ADHESO" has often increased profits 50 per cent and more on POTATOES, TOMATOES, EGGPLANT, PEPPERS, BEANS, CUCUMBERS, MELONS, ETC. It is not THE COST PER POUND, but THE COST PER SPRAY TANK and INCREASE IN YIELD that counts. Write for further information.

A GREAT SUCCESS

The Opera Pinafore Receives Favorable Press Notices in DeLand

The opera Pinafore that will appear at Allen's Theatre in this city next Friday night has achieved remarkable success wherever it has been presented and the DeLand Record has the following account of the presentation in that city:

On last Friday evening in the University Auditorium there was presented by local talent the nautical comic opera H. M. S. Pinafore, under the auspices of the Phi Kappa Delta Fraternity. To Miss Olive B. Lord, musical director and Mr. Ned Stewart, stage manager, was due the remarkable success of the evening. The appreciative audience attested to the fact that DeLand has a music loving people, and the enthusiasm with which they listened to the opera showed that Her Majesty's Ship Pinafore still has a prominent place in the realm of music, this being the best musical production offered to the DeLand public for many years.

Miss Olive B. Lord is the role of Josephine, the Captain's daughter took the leading part and sustained it throughout with artistic charm. Her exquisite rendition of her part will always insure for her the interest of DeLand public.

Miss Hazel Fish, as Little Buttercup, won the hearts of all. In her quaint costume she made a fascinating picture and her clear soprano voice was well suited to her songs.

Mr. J. T. Carter as Ralph Fink, struck soon for himself the hearts of a friendly audience.

Mr. J. T. Carter, DeLand's popular comedian, received a great deal of applause for his part and his excellent impersonation of the character of Ralph Fink.

Mr. D. L. Brown as the Captain, the part of the father, was played with authority and to the satisfaction of all.

the Paramount Picture at the Star Theatre Friday, January 25 will be a revelation. As Mell Carroll in this thrilling comedy drama, Miss Dawn does the best work of her motion picture career, far eclipsing anything that she has ever done.

In addition to the far famed Dawn smile and the personality that has enchanted her audiences, Hazel Dawn displays a snap and dash in her portrayal of the girl detective that is captivating and delightful. Nell Carroll is a southern girl of good birth and fine breeding, who suddenly discovers that her old home is mortgaged to the limit and will be lost if she cannot raise the money to meet the obligations. She has never been trained for any specific work, but finally obtains employment in a detective agency.

Several big robberies have been committed on the huge summer estates in one of the fashionable summer colonies and the agency is requested to handle the case. It is evident that it is an "inside" job, that is, that some one in the household, either a servant or a guest, is doing the stealing. There is only one way to assess against such people and that is to fight them from the inside. Accordingly, Nell Carroll is sent to the town where she is heralded in the papers as the Baroness Du Vassey. Mrs. DeVeaux, whose home seems the logical place for the next big haul calls upon the "baroness" and invites her to her house, little suspecting that she is the thief.

The foregoing briefly gives some idea of the interesting and exciting qualities of this story.

Mortmain
J. Stuart Blackton and Albert E. Smith present Mr. Robert Edeson in Mortmain, a five part Vitagraph Blue Ribbon Feature at the Star Theatre Thursday, Jan. 27th.

Bella..... Miss Muriel Ostriche
Miss Fickles..... Miss Karian Norman

With Robert Edeson as the principal lead, the story of "Mortmain" is unique, sensational and weird. It deals with advanced surgical methods, particularly the problem of limb grafting.

Dr. Crisp, an instructor in one of the large medical institutions, announces that he has solved the problem. Mortmain, a gentleman of leisure and a friend of Crisp's is deeply interested. He is heavily in debt to his friend, Gordon Russell, who is also his rival for the hand of Bell Forsythe, a prominent debutante. Mortmain, in the heat of an argument threatens to kill his creditor and this threat is overheard. A strange fatality guides Mortmain's troubled steps to Russell's house, where he overhears Russell and some other in rancorous discussion. Later Russell is found murdered. Mortmain returns and finds the note he had given Russell outside his own door. He is about to burn these notes, which would give him monetary freedom, when the phone rings and he is told that Russell has been murdered. He faints and falls to the floor injuring his hand.

Flagg is arrested on suspicion but released on bail, he calls during Mortmain's absence and discovers the notes which adds to the circumstantial evidence surrounding Mortmain.

Mortmain learns that his hand must be amputated and the alter native of getting another man's hand to graft on the stump is suggested by Dr. Crisp. He finally consents to the operation and discovers that his grafted hand is the hand of Tom Forsythe (the real murderer). From that place things work up rapidly to his arrest. The plot takes a remarkable turn and weaves a convincing web around Mortmain. How he vindicated himself and proves his innocence is one of the most startling incidents of this picture.

The ending is as sensational and weird as what has gone before.

MAKES HOME IN JAIL

ECCENTRIC CHARACTER IN WICHITA, KANSAS

In Return for His Board and Lodging He Keeps the City Hall and Its Environments Clean as a Whistle.

Pat is an Irishman. Even Watson the dull-witted friend of the great Sherlock would know that without being told. Also he is short wearing chain smokers and stepping lively. He is a very clean and industrious. And he keeps the city hall and its neighbor hood in a state of clean as a whistle without having any stipulated salary. He is the New York Sun. All Pat does is a chance to sleep inside the jail and to take out a lot of smoke tobacco.

From early morn until down eye with stars, Pat and his crew are up creates upon the pavements. The all over the neighboring buildings are always up and span. Nobody told Pat to do the job and nobody can prevent him from doing it. He just does it for the reason.

Pat lives in a small boat on the Arkansas river. It was the only home he had. But someone thought it his duty to object to Pat's presence there and soon he was out of a domicile. He looked about and then his Irish wit came to the rescue. He hit upon a scheme that worked out all right. He simply walked into the city hall and took up his residence in the jail adjoining.

He was not put under arrest. He merely began to stay nights at the jail and days he worked about the building and the streets and alley ways in the vicinity. The work he does voluntarily for the city more than pays for the food he consumes and the bed under shelter which he seems glad to get. His hobby is keeping things clean. No one has more pride in a shining brass rail than Pat. If he were a shoe artist he would give so much time to a single pair that he would prevent customers from catching trains. "Why, he's more conscientious by far than the chaps who spend the money the citizens pay in in taxes," say observers who have watched Pat. At first they made jokes about the hobby, now they rather admire him.

One day the rain was coming down in sheets. Pat grabbed a shovel and hunted for the door.

"Here," someone yelled, "you don't want to get into that tornado. You'll catch your death."

"I'm going to let the water out of that alley," Pat called back, and out he went.

He came back soaked but there wasn't any overflow bothering merchants whose back doors opened on the alley after that storm was over.

After some weeks Pat has become a sort of exhibit A in the city's collection of curiosities.

GOT IDEA FROM SUBMARINE

Inventor of the Microphone Tells How He Came to Think About the Scheme.

In the Popular Science Monthly and World's Advance, William Dubilier, the American electrical engineer who was called to Europe by one of the allied governments to devise a system of harbor defense against hostile submarines, described the experiments which led to the adoption of a remarkable microphone submarine detector.

Although it is impossible to see a deeply submerged submarine, Mr. Dubilier believed that there was a method of detecting its exact location in the water. In describing his experiments, he says:

"Suppose that a submarine gave forth a sound of some kind, would it not be possible to devise some form of apparatus by which it could be heard? That was the starting idea of the experiments that I conducted for the allied government.

"At once the beating of the propellers of a submarine suggests itself. It is not characteristic enough. Motor boats, steamships and other power-driven vessels have propellers, and although their period of vibration is different from that of any other engine-driven craft, some other sound must be sought—something as distinctive as the call of a robin or the neighing of a horse, something that by no possible chance can be mistaken for another sound.

"I found what I sought in the weird, shrill hum of a submarine. Others had heard the hum long before I began my experiments. It was taken for engine vibration. But it is much too high in pitch for that, as I found by actual tests.

"I soon convinced myself that the fine, shrill, almost singing note that can be heard when the Diesel engines are cut off and the submarine is traveling under power derived from her storage batteries is due entirely to her electric motors. The sound is unmistakable. Step into any central station where electric power is generated to light a city and you will hear the hum of a submarine. There is no difference to the ear. To devise a means of detecting this sound at great distances was the object of my experiments.

The microphone at once suggested itself as a suitable instrument, and with its use a submarine could be heard at a distance of fifty miles.

At the Telephone.

The printed injunction, "Don't jiggle the hook" is seen in conspicuous places all over New York city, having been placed by the telephone company in order that its patrons may secure the way to get the best telephone service out of the system is to hang and gently with the apparatus. There are people who do not know that if central lines are not responded promptly and properly the way to attract her attention is to move the receiver hook up and down slowly, very slowly. If such is the hurried one's conduct a tiny electric lamp is flashed before the face of the operator. If the hook is jiggled rapidly there is no lamp lighted at all and the operator goes about her work serene and indifferent to the perturbed state of the person at the other end of the wire. By seeing a woman at a telephone when she is in a hurry and at other times, too—one can easily gain an insight into her character. The querulous, cranky woman flying to pieces at the phone is frequently seen. She should have "Don't jiggle the hook" framed over the telephone stand.

Hats as Peace Tokens.

Here is a beautiful hospital story recorded by Rev. William Sellers in his new book, "With Our Fighting Men." A colonel's wife was making the round of a military ward when she noticed a wounded soldier toying with a German helmet.

"Well," she said to the soldier, "I suppose that means that you killed your man?"

"Well, naw," quietly responded the soldier. "You see it was like this. Ho lay on the field pretty near me with an awful bad wound and bleedin' away somethin' terrible. I was losin' a lot of blood, too, fra my leg, but I managed to crawl up to him and bound him up as well as I could, and he did the same for me. Nawthin' of course was said between us. I knew no German and the other man not a word of English, so when he'd done, not seemin' hoo else Ie thank him, I just smiled, and by way of token handed him my Glengarry, and he snatched back and give me his helmet."—Youth's Companion.

Bees Get Busy on Train.

Returning from the Oregon hills, after spending several days in the mountains hunting, Mr. and Mrs. Edwin Bender brought, in addition, to considerable game, a pasteboard box with a swarm of bees they captured in the woods, a Williamsport (Pa.) dispatch to the Philadelphia Inquirer states.

On account of the cold the bees were easily handled, but when they were taken into the steam-heated passenger coach of a Northern Central train at Trout Run they began to get busy and in a few minutes emerged from numerous punctures that had been made to give them air.

In less time than it takes to tell, the passengers had all fled to the next coach, and the bees held the fort for some time. Finally the conductor put on a pair of gloves, made a dash into the car and, raising the window, tossed the box of bees out into the night, but not before he had been caressed on the nose by a hot-footed one.

MISS MARY DAZE CLARKE

Once a water color and miniature painter whose works have been shown at the academy, Miss Mary Daze Clarke, amid a remarkably fine setting of Japanese prints, satsuma, and lacquer, plan rugs and antique furnishings, her studio in New York is now doing a success of color photography. Miss Clarke specializes on photographing household pets and children.

Her pictures on glass are seen in small boxes so arranged that the scenes get their effect from the light at the back. There is every variety scene also, from landscapes to views of interiors. Most striking, naturally, are gardens with all sorts of "wild blooms." By the process no shadow flit escapes the camera, which peers in out of doors' scenes, and is served, even to the time of the day or to the mood of a day.

It is impossible to suggest the variety of effects obtained by photographing children with this color process, the most important event in the history of photography since the invention of the daguerretype, the rate of effect of golden curls, blue eyes and bright coloring, the whole general impression.

The lower cut depicts Miss Clarke standing in her garden. The color photograph vividly brings out the oriental tones of her manarlin and sea blue, burnt orange and gold with the glow of the foliage behind her, all the luminousness of sunlight and greenery in contrast with the body backs in the foreground.

For the Babies.

For a good all round rug in a room where children run about an army blanket is just the thing. It comes to the floor, and does not go through it. It sweeps easily and washes without any shrinking or wrinkling.

If you pin fresh ribbon strings to the baby's dainty embroidered silk caps with little gold pins the life of the cap will be greatly lengthened. If tiny gleams of white silk are sewed with small gitchies to the inside of the cap, where the ribbon strings are pinned.

To keep the front of a baby's frock dry during the teething period, make or pin with tiny safety pins a half a dress shield to the underside of a bib. The unfinished edge of the shield should be bound with tape.

The mattress on a child's cot may be kept from getting rusted by the wire springs by placing four or five down sticks or even shavings apart on top of the springs.

When feeding a small child bread spread with butter or jam cut the bread into thin slices and fold over into sandwiches. There will then be no butter side to fall on the carpet, nor will they get the butter or jam on their fingers or dresses.

To keep a little girl's hair ribbons from mussing roll them each night in a piece of carboard. This will save frequent pressing. The carboard may be covered with silk.

THE SACRIFICE FOR THE WAR HITS FLORIDA

TO CUT OUR RIVERS AND HARBORS MONEY IS TO BE CUT DOWN

Washington, Jan. 27.—The decision of the House Committee on Rivers and Harbors, of which Congressman Sparkman of Florida is chairman at today's session, to hold a hearing on the bill to hold appropriations to existing programs as a blow to the program always glares. For a long time it was believed that the bill would not be passed. It now appears that with millions about to be expended for the smallest bill in the history of Congress for river and harbor improvements will be passed. It was the statement of Mr. Sparkman today that it was believed the bill would be passed. It is extremely probable that it will be passed. Mr. Clark and Mr. Sparks expressed considerable concern. This is a hard blow to Mr. Clark and Mr. Sparks. The bill would save a great deal of money for the state. It would save a great deal of money for the state. It would save a great deal of money for the state.

Officers To Be Voted For

In spite of every effort of the state committee to make the ballot to be voted on in June primary as short as possible there will be a large number of officers to be voted on. The number of state officers will be large, every county having its full quota of officers and candidates and it is expected that the ballot will certainly be little if any shorter than the longest ever voted on in Florida.

The following resolutions show the officers to be voted for:

Each elector in the state qualified to vote in said primary election shall have the right to vote for:

- State Officers: One United States Senator, One representative in Congress, Two justices of the Supreme Court, The governor, One secretary of state, One attorney general, One comptroller, One state superintendent of education, One state superintendent of mines, One state superintendent of public lands, One state superintendent of public works, One state superintendent of public health, One state superintendent of public safety, One state superintendent of public morals, One state superintendent of public education, One state superintendent of public health, One state superintendent of public safety, One state superintendent of public morals, One state superintendent of public education.

County Officers

- One county clerk, One county sheriff, One county judge, One county assessor of taxes, One county auditor, One county treasurer, One county superintendent of education, One county superintendent of mines, One county superintendent of public lands, One county superintendent of public works, One county superintendent of public health, One county superintendent of public safety, One county superintendent of public morals, One county superintendent of public education.

Honorary Positions

Four delegates at large to the national Democratic convention and two delegates from the state of Florida to the national Democratic convention.

DEMOCRATS NOT BARRED BY THE ACTION OF THE EXECUTIVE COMMITTEE

THE RESOLUTION OF THE COMMITTEE CAN BE ACCEPTED ACCORDING TO THE OPINION OF HON. W. V. KNOTT

Tallahassee, Fla., Jan. 28.—Hon. W. V. Knott today issued the following signal statement, defining his position on the letter of Hon. George P. Ramey, and his attitude on the action of the state Democratic executive committee. Answering numerous requests for an expression of my views upon the resolution adopted by the Democratic executive committee, I have to say that I do not believe that the resolution is in the best interests of the party. I believe that the resolution is in the best interests of the party. I believe that the resolution is in the best interests of the party.

It is merely continues the rule that has been followed in the past, namely that those who participate in the primary pledge themselves to support the nominees of the primary at the general election. The executive committee is the constituted head of the party and as such all conceded that it has the right to prescribe the rules of the party. It is merely continues the rule that has been followed in the past, namely that those who participate in the primary pledge themselves to support the nominees of the primary at the general election.

The Suffering Jews

To those not familiar with the conditions in the Jewish ghettos of Europe, it is hard to realize that within the war area there are three million Jews who are suffering from the conditions of the war. The conditions are such that they are unable to work and they are unable to find food. The conditions are such that they are unable to work and they are unable to find food.

Oil at Longwood

Longwood, Jan. 25.—Wellington Caldwell, one of the Pennsylvania oil kings is here at Longwood preparing to drill for oil. He has secured the oil rights in 10,000 acres of land in and around Longwood. Prominent Editor Here

J. H. Edmonds, editor of the Manufacturer's Record of Baltimore and one of the most noted editors in the south was in the city a few hours on Saturday last and paid The Herald office a much appreciated visit. Mr. Edmonds has probably done more for the south in the past twenty years than any other writer and his great work for the south is greatly appreciated by all of us. He talked most entertainingly about the south, about his desires to spend the winters in the state of Florida and the great future of this state. He is spending the winter in Daytona but has his car with him and accompanied by Mrs. Edmonds and his private secretary intends to visit all the sections of the state if possible ere returning to the north. He was on his way to Tampa Saturday and expects to spend several weeks in that part of the state. Mr. Edmonds will stop over in Sanford on his return and endeavor to spend some time in the city.

THE SHIP BILL IS OUTLINED BY PRESIDENT

GOVERNMENT WOULD NOT OPERATE SHIPS FOR LEASE

Washington, D. C., Jan. 28.—President Wilson summoned to the White House today leaders of the senate and house to learn their attitude toward the shipping bill. No indication to them that in addition to the preparedness program and revenue bill these three measures would be the principal ones backed by the administration.

Most of the leaders with whom President Wilson talked today opposed the shipping bill in the last congress and he desired to know their position toward the new bill. He saw Majority leader Kitchin of the house, Chairman Fitzgerald of the appropriations committee, Chairman Clark of the senate commerce committee, Chairman Simmons of the senate finance committee, and the speaker of the house, Charles D. Smith.

A special presidential message to the senate on the new shipping bill became known for the first time. It does not call for the purchase of the ships but proposes for some time to lease ships to the government. Instead of providing that the government shall purchase or build ships, this new bill will lease ships to the government to operate.

Contemplates $30,000,000 Bond Issue

The president's message contemplates the issue of $30,000,000 in bonds for the purchase of ships. The bonds would be issued in $10,000,000 increments. The bonds would be issued in $10,000,000 increments.

Senator Simmons, who favors both a tariff commission and the new shipping bill, said the President was anxious to get action on both measures as soon as possible. He added that he would discuss the President's proposal for a tariff commission with the finance committee immediately.

It was indicated that the President will not push any suggestions for revenue legislation until after the appropriations bills and other measures he is advocating are disposed of.

Senator Simmons told the President that industrial and commercial changes certain to come after the war made the creation of a tariff commission necessary in his opinion. He declared that some changes in the present tariff law might be necessary but that it might be impossible to decide on them without further information.

Senators Hardwick, Hitchcock, O'Gorman and Vandeman, five of the seven Democrats who fought the shipping bill to death at the last session have told the President that the pending measure is objectionable because it leaves the way open for the government to operate merchant ships in case of war. It is believed that the bill will be passed.
