

YOUNG NEGRO IS LYNCHED IN TENNESSEE

Grand Jury Refused To Indict Him For Alleged Attack On 11-Year Old Girl

COLUMBIA, Tenn., Dec. 15.—(A.P.)—The body of Oord, Cheek, 20-year-old negro whom the grand jury had refused to indict following his arrest for an attempted attack on an 11-year-old girl, was found hanging from the limb of a cedar tree near here last night.

Sheriff Claude Godwin said the lynching was "hastened in a very quiet manner" and that "no one knew anything about it."

The sheriff said he received an anonymous telephone call that he could find a "dead negro at the forks of the road," in the Glendale section of the county and to "come and get him."

When Sheriff Godwin arrived, the negro apparently had been dead only a short time, the officer said, but there was no trace of those responsible for his death.

The alleged attempted attack on the child occurred in the Glendale section about a month ago. Cheek was arrested and taken first to Pulaski and then to Nashville for safekeeping.

But the Maury grand jury Wednesday refused to return an indictment. Sheriff Godwin said, and orders were sent to Nashville to release Cheek.

The first that officers knew that the negro had returned was from his body was found hanging from the limb of a tree.

Sheriff Godwin said he had been unable to trace the telephone call that notified him of the lynching.

Parents Urged To Have Children Immunized

Treatment against diphtheria is now being administered in Florida with a new preparation known as Aclon. Precipitated Toxoid, said Dorothy Lamb, county school nurse, today as she urged all parents to arrange for this treatment for their children without delay.

Mrs. Lamb stated that it is possible that the District Health Officer for the State Board of Health may be in this county shortly after Christmas to give the treatment without charge.

"The most important thing to remember," she said, "is that parents should get their little ones to the family physician for the toxoid treatment without delay."

About 65 percent of all children who die of diphtheria are under five years of age, she said, adding that this fact emphasizes the importance of immunizing children before they are old enough to attend school. Parents are warned against taking their children into places where others are ill from the disease, serious illness often results from this direct exposure.

Local physicians who secure a supply of the vaccine from the State Board of Health Laboratory at Jacksonville, she concluded.

U. S. CHALLENGED BY RUM-RUNNER ON WEST COAST

Ship Owner Offers To Quit Smuggling If Cargo Can Be Landed

WASHINGTON, Dec. 15.—(A.P.)—President Roosevelt, the treasury department and the navy launched upon a post-reefer attack against rumrunners. This campaign was precipitated by what treasury officials called a challenge to the government, coming indirectly from the British freighter Mogul, lying off the California coast with about 40,000 cases of liquor in her hold.

News of the "challenge" from the freighter Mogul came to the government through Dr. James M. Moran, director of the distilled spirits institute and former head of the bureau of industrial alcohol.

Moran turned over to the U. S. attorney general a telegram signed by "the Stigfried Olsen Shipping company," of San Francisco which said the company represented the freighter's owners.

"We desire to enter this vessel into the harbor of Los Angeles and place merchandise in bonded warehouse subject to sale in accordance with any import quotas that may be set up," the message said.

The schooner was abandoned by its crew last night when she burned to the water's edge. The crew escaped the flames in dories, and eight of the men later were picked up by a passing ship, one getting ashore on Seal Island after a dory overturned, drowning his companions in the boat.

FIAT MONEY IS FALSE BOGEY, SAYS BANKER

Law Sees Little Ground To Fear Any Kind Of Monetary Policy Nation Might Evolve

NEW YORK, Dec. 15.—Fiat money is a bogey which need alarm no one, Francis Marion Law, president of the American Bankers Association, told the New York chapter of the American Institute of Banking last night at the Biltmore. Mr. Law had a strong measure of praise for President Roosevelt, and saw little ground for fearing any monetary policy the Administration might evolve.

Many thoughtful men have been much concerned about the currency program Mr. Law said. "But I firmly believe," he added, "that Mr. Roosevelt, with his conservative background and record, and with his knowledge of history and economics and fear with regard to the issue of fiat money that the most ardent member of the sound money group would have. He has repeatedly declared for the creation and maintenance of a sound and adequate currency."

As a matter of fact, Mr. Law thought that the sound money and inflationary groups were not hopelessly far apart in their views. "If the entire monetary question is considered on its merits," he declared, "the points of disagreement, while real and far-reaching, are not numerous, or in my judgment, necessarily irreconcilable. The dire prediction which parts each side are making will not come true."

The monetary camps which seemed to be in opposition, he maintained, were really in absolute agreement on a number of points including the ultimate restoration of the dollar to gold, a rise in commodity prices, the preservation of the national credit, the balancing of the current budget and the stabilization of the dollar.

The points of disagreement, said Mr. Law, were the question when stabilization should be effected and whether the dollar should have a fixed amount of gold or should have a variable gold content but with a fixed purchasing power. Mr. Law was for conducting the debate on money in sportsmanlike fashion and with petty fault-finding and selfishness ruled out.

In a closing tribute to Mr. Roosevelt, the speaker said: "The President has shown qualities of courage and leadership of which history will be proud. He has shown himself ready to listen, but he always has the courage to act. He has done him for what has been done in the last few months. His feet will not be found in the path of false gods, and our prayer and belief should be that he will continue to provide the leadership which America and the world must have in their struggle toward recovery."

TOKEN PAYMENTS ON WAR DEBTS DO NOT ALTER VIEW

U. S. Attitude Is That All Accounts Must Be Paid In Entirety

WASHINGTON, Dec. 15.—(A.P.)—Despite the collection of only $895,123 of the $152,000,000 due yesterday on war debt payments, the United States was said authoritatively not to have changed its attitude that full repayment of the loans should be made.

If a country's highest quarters think the payment of the debt is in its interest, and if it is able to do so, it should pay in full, the U. S. Treasury department said today.

This explanation was given at a press conference at the U. S. State department, where it was stated that the United States is not in any way bound by the Locarno agreement, which European nations agreed to reduce in German reparations payments on a sliding scale of American debt payments.

The United States did not sign that agreement. Belgium, another debt-paying country, as well as France, which had signed the Locarno agreement, had indicated they were making no payment on their debts.

The Locarno agreement, which provided for a 20 percent reduction in German reparations payments on a sliding scale of American debt payments, was not signed by the United States.

PROBERS FIND 16 KINDS OF CODE EVASIONS

Fair Practise Pact's Need Strengthening By Closing Off Loopholes, Report Shows

NEW YORK, Dec. 15.—The codes of fair practice written for American industry in the last few months will have to be strengthened by closing numerous loopholes, it is said, if employers are to be kept from destroying them. Mrs. Eleanor M. Herrick, vice-chairman of the Regional Labor Board, said yesterday at the Second National Conference on Labor Standards, at Alhambra House.

Sixteen methods whereby some employers are violating the code agreements, as compiled from a questionnaire sent through branches of the National Consumers League, were listed by Lucy M. Mason, its general secretary, who also called for improvement of the codes.

Amongst of evasion she said, in falsifying books by recording wages higher than those actually paid; paying employees in checks compelling them to cash the checks on the premises and copy some of the money, making wage reductions for spoiled work.

Other methods mentioned were: setting the price too high to permit an employer to employ the minimum number of workers; making a "dummy" period at the end of the normal working period; paying wages after the normal working period; paying wages in advance of the normal working period; paying wages in advance of the normal working period.

There were approximately 110,000 automobiles sold in the United States during the month of November. This is almost 150 percent more than during the same month of 1932. That's something.

Germany under the Hitler government, faced with the alternative of inflating currency or of forcing living costs down through reduced salaries and wages, chooses the latter. Having been through an orgy of inflation, that country has no desire to repeat the experience. Over here we know nothing about inflation, except what we read in books.

Business is a funny thing. We have the NEA which raises industrial costs so that the farmer has to pay more for the things he buys. And we have the AAA which collects from the workers of industry a processing tax on wheat, cotton, and so forth and turns it over to the farmers. It looks like one takes from the farmer and gives it to the workers, and the other takes from the workers and gives it to the farmers.

The latest proposal of how to handle the liquor problem in Florida while the selling and transportation of liquor is still illegal consists of nothing more complicated or creative than merely slipping it to be sold by the druggists. That is probably as good a way as any of getting around the law. It seems that some old states provide that druggists may sell alcohol for medicinal purposes. And if there anybody who is thirsty is brought, ain't there days.

Know Your Bus Driver

It is a distressing thing for parents to become unduly alarmed over the safety of their children while travelling on school buses to and from their schools, but if there is the slightest danger of the repetition of the Crestview or Crescent City accidents, parents ought to be alarmed. They ought to be alarmed at least to the point where they take a very active interest in knowing just who their bus driver is and just how much care and common sense he exercises.

It is a rather significant fact, it seems to us, that the driver of the Crescent City bus was 65 years of age. It is also rather significant that he did not have to cross the railroad track at all, another turning place had been arranged, and he did not stop to make sure no train was coming before he did cross the track. And in the Crestview accident it was rather significant that the bus driver was a boy only eighteen years of age!

We do not mean by this that some boys of eighteen are not as expert in bus driving as their older brothers, but as a general rule men still in their teens are not noted for their caution and sense of responsibility. And while men of sixty-five are often fully competent to drive their own cars, we doubt if the public interest is being best served when the lives of forty children are entrusted to a driver who certainly is not as active and alert as a younger man would be.

There is no excuse for taking the slightest chance on anything of this sort. There is no excuse for hiring any bus driver who is not the very best bus driver obtainable. There is no excuse which any bus driver can offer when his bus is struck by a train. There is no excuse for driving a bus loaded with children on to any track until the driver is absolutely sure that no train is coming. To say that there was a fog, or to say anything else, doesn't help the situation a bit. If there was a fog, all the more reason for caution.

We wonder how many parents are acquainted with the driver of the bus who takes their children to school. What kind of a man is he anyway? How old is he? Does he drink? Has he ever had an accident? Has he had several? Is he blind in one eye? Is he deaf? Is he afflicted with nervous twitching or any other symptoms of physical impairment? Does he know the rules of the road? And above of all, has he got a sense of responsibility?

Get acquainted with your children's bus driver! Know the kind of a fellow he is! Follow his bus to school some day and see whether he stops at "stop streets!" See whether he crosses railroad tracks without knowing whether trains are coming! And if you find that he is a careful driver and that he is exercising the proper caution in protecting the lives of your children, let him know that you appreciate it. Give him a box of cigars for Christmas.

Better Business in South Bend

Word comes from South Bend, Indiana, that business is picking up. What is true in South Bend is probably true of many other places. Not all of them have taken the trouble to find out accurately just what is going on in the business world of their communities, but here is the result of the South Bend Tribune's labors in that direction. The Tribune conducted a survey of every business and industry in its territory and this is what it found:

- 1. Retail collections have increased 33 per cent in the last 90 days.
2. The utilities output is 17 per cent greater than for November of 1932.
3. Jewelry, definitely a luxury, is being sold in quantities 30 per cent greater than six months ago.
4. Home occupancies are 40 per cent greater than they were nine months ago.
5. The poor relief dole line has shrunk from 9,400 families as listed in the committee for the nation report, to 1,000 families, or 89 per cent. The cost has dropped from $150,000 a month to about $20,000.
6. Theater business has picked up 10 per cent in recent weeks and two amusement houses, closed by hard times, are being reopened.
7. Grocers and meat dealers report trade volume increases ranging from 10 to 57 per cent, with an average of 15 per cent.
8. Variety stores reported 30 per cent improvement, both in increased business and pay rolls.
9. The fall payment of taxes is expected to show a total delinquency of between 15 and 17 per cent as compared with 28 per cent delinquency last spring and 33 per cent a year ago.
10. Department stores business has increased 17 per cent, and pay rolls have increased from 20 to 40 per cent.
11. Retail sales of radios have swung about 50 per cent since last spring.
12. New and used car sales for the first 16 days of November were three times greater than for the entire month of November, 1932, and 50 per cent over November, 1931.

ROOSEVELT AND SOUND MONEY

CHRISTIAN SCIENCE MONITOR

Controversy over American monetary policy has taken a highly encouraging turn in the last few days. The hurrying of epithets has largely ceased. Much of the talk about an "honest dollar" is still dishonest, because it implies that only a deflated dollar has any integrity. And there are still too many demagogic attempts to scare all the little pigs in the Corn Belt with a fearsome picture of the big bad wolf of Wall Street. But for the most part the debate has been lifted into the realms of reason.

Principally, the improvement has come from the sound money people, because they had been most excited. Temperate statements like the resolution of the National Manufacturers' Association merely stabilizing the dollar on a gold basis just as soon as he thinks it safe are far better than distributive "inflation." The informative and judicious articles written by Professor Sprague since his resignation as Treasury adviser will help to find the right course much quicker than will all the baloney about a "holoney dollar."

Not only has there been a better tone to discussion, there has been better understanding. Critics of the Administration have learned at least four important things: 1. That they have no alternative program on which half a dozen schools of sound-money advocates can unite. The plan which has drawn most attention, the program offered by Mr. James P. Warburg in answer to Senator Borah's challenge, while opposing a commodity dollar, yet offers no figure for revaluation and no claims against a return to the gold standard as we have known it.

2. That the President is not only a sound money man himself, but that his much criticized adviser, Professor Warren, is a gold man. And now it is disclosed that the Administration has twice made tentative advances to Great Britain for currency stabilization. The fact that London has held back partly because it is uneasy about American policy for control of the dollar does not greatly lessen the amount of wind that the information takes out of the sails of Mr. Roosevelt's critics. For the whole story tends to show that he is striving to solve the dollar problem when to stabilize.

3. That in the present political situation the President stands as the surest bulwark against wild inflation. Only his strategy in obtaining power over the currency from Congress last spring halted the silver and greenbacks movements that were then rampant. And the Congress which is almost upon us is of a definitely greenish-silver cast.

4. That captions, criticism and emotion stirring propaganda are

HUGE LOGS FOUND SUBSTITUTED FOR STORM SEWERS

St. Petersburg CWA Uncovers Evidence Of Boom Day Fraud

ST. PETERSBURG, Dec. 16.—(AP)—Excavations being made by CWA workmen for the drainage and beautification improvements on Fourth Street north yesterday afternoon led to the discovery that huge logs had been substituted for regular storm sewer pipes for a distance of several hundred feet in the construction of a former drainage project during the real estate boom days.

Photographic evidence taken to supplement that of witnesses to the discovery likely will be turned over to the county authorities, it was said, for the probable attention of the grand jury in making an investigation.

According to information obtainable this morning, it is supposed that the "work" was done under a private contract made between the owner or option-holder of property abutting the street with a private storm sewer contractor. Names of none of the principals connected with the jobs have yet been verified.

It is presumed that the property owner entered into the contract in good faith and was the innocent purchaser of logs instead of sewer pipe. Others, working with the contractor, to whom the substitution was known are believed to have been paid to keep their mouths shut.

The "logs" were discovered on the east side of Fourth Street north when an old ditch was uncovered north of the Turner creek bridge. A report shows that the workmen on the present state road project No. 119 as the new CWA job under the direction of W. H. McLeod, project engineer for the state road department is known, "uncovered 24-inch terra cotta tile" and also "approximately 200 feet of false drainage."

Workmen on the Fourth Street north job under Asst. Supt. Fred Wells made the discovery. As the old ditch was laid open, it became apparent immediately that the drainage material was some thing else than regulation pipe. Although the usual wooden retaining walls had been constructed, those who examined the "job" expressed the belief that logs had been substituted for pipe at night, when they could have been rolled in and covered up without anyone being any wiser. The substitution might have gone undetected for many years longer if the cooperation of the state and the federal government had not been obtained by the city in the improvement of the whole drainage system in the Fourth Street north area.

The bus was taking the children home from school and was on a clay road. McLaughlin said he understood King was substituting for the regular driver. Every doctor here was called to the hospital to administer to the injured. McLaughlin said all of the children were X-rayed to determine the full extent of their injuries.

It was the second school bus accident in Florida in two days. Thursday 10 children were killed and nearly 30 injured when a school bus was hit by a freight train near Crescent City.

The treasury officials coupled this statement with the additional one that the owners of the cargo would sign affidavits to cease all sales in future to smugglers if your approval to entry is received in deciding that the telegram constituted a challenge.

The government replied to the telegram with a presidential order to the navy to cooperate with the coast guard in stamping out Pacific coast liquor running. The navy plans to order three or four planes to the scene to be used as aerial spotters for any speedboats attempting to reach shore from mother smuggling ships. At present, no naval ships will be used to augment those of the coast guard.

Weirton Steel Firm Defies NRA, Johnson

PITTSBURGH, Dec. 16 (AP)—The 11,500 employees of the Weirton Steel Company quietly selected 49 committeemen yesterday to represent them in collective bargaining negotiations with the company, while their "boss," Ernest T. Weir, exchanged verbal blows with Gen. Hugh S. Johnson, NRA administrator.

The election was held in defiance of the national labor board and in the face of threats by Johnson to prosecute company officials, and to withdraw the firm's NRA blue eagle Weir shot an agreement with the board by which it was to have supervised the bargaining, charging the board violated terms which he interpreted as giving the "company union" the right to make the rules.

Thus the entire controversy seemed certain to observers to wind up in the courts with a definite test of the NRA labor board's power.

Barrymore, Dressler In Milane Film Sunday

"Tugboat Annie" and "Ita-putin" form the latest cinema team. Marie Dressler and Lionel Barrymore, together, come Sunday to the Milane Theatre in "Christopher Bean," which marks their first appearance as co-stars.

The new picture, a vivid drama based on the famous New York stage hit, presents both stars in characters unlike any they have ever played. Miss Dressler enacts Abby, the faithful old servant. Barrymore is seen as the kindly country physician who under the lash of avarice turns to a scheming, grasping scoundrel seeking to rob her only to have the woman's faith turn him back again to his lifelong path of honor.

The unique dramatic twist in the gripping drama of New England made the play, with Patricia Lord on the stage, one of the most-talked-of offerings of the decade. It is the current stage sensation of Paris and London.

Sam Wood directed the new picture, with an elaborate cast which features Helen Mack, Beulah Bondi, Russell Hardie, Jenn Fawcett, H. B. Warner, Helen Shipman, George Coulouris, and Ellen Lowe.

Mrs. W. E. Kirchoff entertained with several readings after which the lights were turned down low and the group sang "Up on the Housetops" as "Santa Claus" entered the room and distributed the gifts.

At a late hour refreshments were served to the following: Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Childers, the Rev. and Mrs. W. L. Cooper, Mr. and Mrs. R. M. Mason, Jr., Mr. and Mrs. Kyle Shoemaker, Mr. and Mrs. O. K. Attractive Display Is Seen At Gatchel Store

An original and attractive window display has been arranged by John Smith in Forrest Gatchel's Grocery Store on Sanford Avenue. It is a Christmas scene depicting a miniature of Gatchel's store with its front windows filled with holiday wares.

Even the traditional turkey with all its accessories is there. Outside, snow gleams on the rooftops in the light of tiny street lamps, a train that really moves goes by to give life to the picture, and its cars loaded with Gatchel's specialties.

Small Christmas trees in scale with the rest of the scene grow beside the walk. A decorative paper with jolly red Santa Claus forms a beautiful background. And the whole window seems to have captured the gay feeling of Christmas time.

REGULS SWAP 45 PLAYERS DURING ANNUAL SESSION

Wildest Trading Orgy in Years Sends Many Men To New Fields

CHICAGO, Dec. 14.—(AP)—As the hum and roar of the baseball mart died down and the club owners scattered back to their ball parks, a re-check yesterday disclosed that 45 major league players had been shuffled about to new scenery in the wild trading and selling spree that closed the 1933 season.

Traded by the important five-club deal of Connie Mack, the American league clubs, once noted for their reluctance to swap players among each other, gained a new edge over their national league rivals in the big exchange. A total of 80 players were shifted by the American league clubs to 15 by the National league teams.

Franchising rookies broke into both major leagues in large numbers, forcing some of the old stars to the big show back to the minors.

Carnera-Loughran To Stage Bout In Miami
NEW YORK, Dec. 14.—(AP)—Primo Carnera and Tommy Loughran have been matched to fight in Miami, Feb. 22 for the heavyweight championship. First title bout in that class in Florida since Jim Corbett knocked out Charlie Mitchell at Jacksonville 39 years ago.

Loughran has agreed to the bout and yesterday Carnera roared approval of Madison Square Garden's arrangements before he sailed back to Italy after a stay of less than two days, spent chiefly in bankruptcy court. All that is needed now is the approval of Louis Sorel, co-manager of the champion, in Italy.

That, Carnera said, will be easy to get inasmuch as he wants the fight and Bill Duffy, his American manager, approves.

DRINKING LIQUOR CANNOT BE MADE OR SOLD IN STATE

Landis Ruling Comes On Heels Of Action At West Palm Beach

TALLAHASSEE, Dec. 14.—(AP)—Only alcohol—not liquor as it is commonly known—can be manufactured, distributed and sold in Florida for medicinal purposes, and science. This was the ruling of the Florida state court yesterday in a request for a definition of "alcohol" from the Florida statutes.

Attorneys Crumson and Cain of West Palm Beach were advised "no one can legally and lawfully manufacture, sell, barter or exchange alcohol or intoxicating liquors and beverages in Florida." Alcohol for medicinal, scientific or mechanical purposes and wines for sacramental purposes is regulated law.

Unintentional use of the word "liquor" in reporting the recent opinion by the attorney general caused a flurry of telegrams and excitement. Landis ruled that the manufacture, sale and distribution of alcohol for medicinal, scientific and industrial purposes was legal.

Then Joe Kilgore, managing editor of the Tallahassee Democrat, asked Landis, "what is the definition of the word alcohol in the Florida statute?"

Landis replied that laws had to be considered in view of the organic provisions of the state constitution and held that "alcohol for medicinal, scientific purposes" as used in Florida statutes meant "the manufacture, sale, barter or exchange of alcohol for medicinal purposes is restricted by law to alcohol such as has heretofore and is now used in medicines as necessary in the compounding of medicines or the treatment of their patients."

Alcoholic or intoxicating liquors or beverages in any form cannot be sold legally in the state.

Additional licensing is not required for licensed druggists to sell medicinal, scientific or industrial alcohol within the limits of the state.

The contest was the semi-final game of the year for both schools. The Spartans will meet the Haskell Indians at Tampa on Christmas Day and the Hurricanes will engage Duquesne University of Pittsburgh here New Year's Day.
