Possibly 3,000 Seminole County Children Have Drinking Or Drug Problem

By Donna Bates
Herald Staff Writer

As many as 3,000 youth to 12th grade students in the public schools of Seminole County may be addicted to alcohol or drugs if national statistics are to be believed. Some 85 percent of the 285 middle school students and 535 high school students in the county who participated in a survey conducted by the Seminole Youth Planning Council in September 1981 admitted to using drugs or alcohol.

The National Council on Alcoholism says 10 percent of the drinking population become alcoholics.

When can students be considered dependent on either drug?

Charles Frith, who heads the Rehabilitation Center for young people, says the test for alcoholism holds true for all drugs, adding that alcohol is a drug.

"The test is whether the youngsters' life has become unmanageable because of alcohol," Frith said.

"And when the young person feels he cannot live a happy, well-adjusted life if he doesn't drink or take drugs."

Nothing that drinking or drug taking may be a socialized gesture, Frith says, unless it is involved with alcohol or drugs generally have low or no morals.

Frith's belief that the drug of choice of those involved with either, however, is not a myriad of drugs, ranging from the gamut from marijuana to cocaine.

"Marijuana is the easiest to carry, the easiest to conceal, but youths and the young kids are using drugs most and there is more variation in drugs," he says.

While a 28-day treatment program is prescribed for adult alcoholics, the program at the Grove calls for a six-month treatment period for youngsters dependent on alcohol or drugs.

"It takes 28 days to get the drugs out of the brain," he said, adding the recovery rate is about 50 percent among those who finish the program at the Grove.

The center is housed in the former Seminole Youth Ranch, north of State Road 418 and between U.S. Highway 17-92 and SR-434.

The young people do not stay at the facility over night. Their treatment is carried out on a duty basis from 8 a.m. to 6 p.m. Monday through Friday, and evening Longshore is often scheduled as well. Some teens each day for their own homes and others go to foster homes. There is room for only 20 young people at a time in treatment.

Sometimes a parent comes in to the street seeking help for his offspring and other times the court orders treatment for either a teenager has gotten into trouble.

Currently, there are eight to 10 on the waiting list. In choosing those who will be admitted to the program, Frith says the family commitment and the legal situation are looked at.

"It is appropriate to take a boy who is more disruptive, if sometimes depends on whether the young person is in a foster home," says Frith.

"Last year 64 teens went through the program, but not all of them completed it. Sometimes their parents took them out," Frith says.

Most of them use alcohol and drugs together, he noted.

The 17 youngsters currently in the program range from 13 to 18 years old. They look much like any other group of teens, except they appear to be a little more down to earth, a little more caring of each other. They each know the center's life story and experiences. All have shared their stories in greatest confidence. And they want to be sure each's anonymity is protected.

The young people appear very forthright in their answers to questions and seem anxious to talk.

While all 17 admit to drinking, few say alcohol is their drug of choice. Thirteen say they have taken beer or a bottle to school for use during the school day. They say they took the alcohol out to the school grounds at times in a gym bag or concealed in some other fashion, but successfully getting the bottles back of campus is another story. Eight members of the group took alcohol with them to middle school. Ten noted that in Catholic schools there is more alcohol used by students than drugs.

Frith, present at the meeting with the young people, said one reason alcohol is more accepted by the parents is because society has been "brain-washed" by commercials. "Parents buy into alcohol," he said.

The reasons the teens who used alcohol said it was their preference are: it is easier to get, they like the taste.

Almost all say they got their first drink of alcohol at home. Some say they or friends had bottle parties at homes when parents left to get the kids privacy.

Several said that parents "would rather have us drink alcohol than take drugs. Alcohol is more acceptable."

Others say money for future parties is often raised at parties by charging $1 or so a drink.

Investigation

of St. Johns Board Called

By Donna Bates
Herald Staff Writer

A special three-member Florida Senate subcommittee, whose members include Sen. Richard Langley, R-Clermont, will be looking into the management of the St. Johns River Water Management District.

All of Seminole County is in the water management district.

Langley is a member of the Seminole County Legislative Delegation, join Sen. Joe Carlbert, R-Schoville, and Sen. George Kirkpatrick, D-Gainesville, in the panel.

The subcommittee was created by Sen. Pat Neal, D-Dade, chairman of the Senate Natural Resources Committee, this past week.

Langley said the panel 30 days to report its findings to the full committee. Earlier the committee passed a bill to take portions of Alachua and Marion counties out of the 19-county St. Johns district and place them in the Suwannee River Water Management District. Also adopted was an amendment requiring the maximum property tax rate which such districts can levy at 2 1/2% cents per $1,000 assessed valuation to 20 cents. The current tax rate here is 20 cents per $1,000. Much of the resulting money is used for use in paying water bills for the river for water storage to maintain levels and reduce pollution in the St. Johns River.

Langley said the bill basically is about an unneeded tax with taxing power whose expenses are "out of sight."

"It don't give great favor to an unneeded board with taxing power," he said, pointing to the district's high expenses. Langley said while the district brings in less tax rate, it should also be noted that it has a high value on which to base that tax rate.

Langley suggested the management district's budget has grown by leaps and bounds. "We want to see what they are doing with the money," he said.

Noting the district has control over the use of water, and dredge and fill operations, Langley said from constituent complaints it appears the district is growing too rapidly. "We want to look and see what they are doing," he said.

The senator said the Senate Committee on Natural Resources staff will help uncover the makeup of the district and back up the committee will actually do whatever is necessary.

"I'm certain the bigger an agency gets, the more abuses occur with bureaucracy," he said.

Langley is specifically bothered by the district's hiring of a $100-an-hour lobbyist to lobby the Legislature and about the airplane chartered by staff to personally lobby the Legislature Wednesday.

"If I come in Tallahassee it takes four hours to drive or if my plane is operable and I fly it's at my expense," he said. Langley noted that the district's executive director and several staff members chartered a plane to travel to Tallahassee Wednesday. "I can't afford to have a private jet at the rate of $500 per hour. Why did they need an agency I support to have a lobbyist?"

Langley said a great mistake is over allow anyone not elected by the people to have the power to levy taxes. "I want checks and balances when a body, not answerable to the people, has the power to tax."

"That's why the English had the Magna Carta and the American

Kicking up their heels in protest after donning mini-skirts, a group of Lyman High School makes male their point of protest against a school board policy forbidding shorts but

Lyman Boys Aren't Skirting Shorts' Issue

By Diane Petry
Herald Staff Writer

A small band of males at Longwood's Lyman High School feel they should be allowed to wear shorts to school.

"It's Florida. It's hot. We should be able to wear shorts," said Scott Engerline, a junior.

And because mini-skirts aren't banned by school dress codes, the Longwood boys feel it gives a girls' group a "big advantage."

"They dressed up in mini-skirts Friday to illustrate their point. The bus has shorts in part of a recently revised Seminole County school dress code. Previously, shorts had been allowed.

"I think they stepped in because girls walked around in tight shorts and it was distracting," Engerline said.

"But what about girls heading over in mini-skirts?" asked sophomore John Burkert.

Lyman Principal Carlton Henry said the boys can wear mini-skirts all they like as long as they are not disruptive and they don't show cleavage.

Engerline, however, made the mistake of wearing what was deemed as a "culotte" or shorts. He got sent home.

Shorts are more decent than mini-skirts, the youth said.

Wekiva River Day Set

Residents of Orange, Seminole and Lake counties are invited to spend a day on the Wekiva River May 7. It is the second annual Wekiva River Day, sponsored by Friends of the Wekiva, a non-profit organization dedicated to the study and protection of the Wekiva River basin.

"Friends of the Wekiva will again conduct a guided canoe trip for officials of the county and state to deliver the county and members," said Russell Flater, president of the group. This year the trip will start at the Landing on Rock Springs Run, picnic at Indian Mound Camp and complete the day's trip at the Wekiva Marina.

"Tremendous progress has been made toward safeguarding this unique natural resource. The Florida Water Management Board has recently approved and sponsored the first Wekiva wilderness day a year ago. Flater said.

Flater commented that Florida State Cabinet of Natural Resources decision in March to purchase the 8,900 acre Consolidated Plantation, bordering the north side of the Wekiva River in Orange County.

Rental canoes are available at four launch points on the river system: King's Landing on Rock Springs Run, Wekiva Springs State Park, the Wekiva Marina and Kalm's Landing on the Wekiva north of State Road 42.

Free Attorney Advice Included

Law Week Activities To Be Many

By Michael Beha

Free private discussions with attorneys are scheduled as part of the Seminole County Bar Association's observance of Law Week.

"Don't get a judge," is the theme of Law Week, which begins Sunday and runs through May 6.

Layovers will be available in Sanford, Casselberry, Orlando and Altamonte Springs for private discussions and will be available through a radio talk show on WJMO radio in Orlando.

Assistant Seminole State Attorney Ralph Erickson, chairman of the law week activities, said the attorneys want to bring the law closer to the people.

"We're trying to take away any mysticism that we're different than businessmen or anyone who delivers any other service," he said.

He said people know little about the law and attorneys, he said, creating a gap between lawyers and the community.

"As of a people, they're not going to ask an arm and a leg to talk to an attorney. We'll try to show that that's not the case."

Free private consultations will be held in Sanford at the Chamber of Commerce building on South Sandford Avenue from 12-4 p.m. Wednesday and from 9 a.m. to 1 p.m. April 30.

Florida's High School Vocational Education Needed

During this session of the Florida State Legislature the future of Vocational Education in Florida's high schools will be decided. The controversy about Vocational Education began with the Governor's Commission on Secondary Education's "Brown Report." The report states that Vocational Education has been unimproved and should be removed from Florida's high schools.

The Brown Report measures the success of Vocational Education by the number of students who have become gainfully employed after graduation in the area in which they have received vocational training. Students who use their vocational skills in other ways or in related fields are not numbered as successes. For example, a drafting student who goes on to college and becomes a mechanical engineer is considered to be a failure of the Vocational Education System.

The purpose of Vocational Education is not only to prepare students for employment but also to help students have some basic technical knowledge and skills to help them compete in and enjoy the technical environment in which they will live.

Vocational programs are successful every time because students, whether they acquired skills on the job or in personal savings of employment. A mechanics student who saves thousands of dollars throughout a lifetime repairing and maintaining his own car is a successful vocational student. The Brown Report would have us believe that this student is a failure because the Vocational Education System and that teacher time spent in a Vocational Program was wasted because he/she is not employed as a mechanic.

Vocational education in all areas are learning skills which can be used in many ways to employment. For example, construction students learn skills which can be used around the home for a lifetime. Business students learn typing and budgeting skills which can be used for their personal affairs. Agriculture students learn about lawn and garden care, drafting students learn about plan preparation and run a household. These students are not failures of the Vocational Education system because they do not use their skills for employment.

The Brown Report would have us believe that success is obtained when acquired skills are used for general employment. If this is to be then our high schools are full of successful students. If not, very successful. Here are many high school chemistry students become chemists. Are chemistry classes failures because students do not use their scientific knowledge in their careers? Are literature classes failures because students do not become writers or are they successes because students learn to enjoy good literary works? What about art, foreign language, higher mathematics, music, physical education, and social studies. Are these classes failures because students will not use their knowledge and skills taught in those classes on a daily basis throughout their lifetimes? Definitely not, these students are receiving a well-rounded education which sets the foundation for future employment and/or enjoyment. Vocational Education does the same. It adds to the student's educational foundation which both career and personal experience can be built.

Students should be encouraged to acquire skills which will give them a basis for competing in and enjoying life in a technically advanced society. Vocational Programs offer students the opportunity to acquire these skills and should continue to be part of the overall education offered Florida high school students.

Sincerely,
Bob Wagner

In a time when we are demanding more skilled labor and our labor has been left in the dust. Our students deserve more than just a diploma. Half a day in the classroom with a situation in a Cross Vocational school offers a more qualified and diversified education.

We must also consider the state bonding as does a regular student. I realize this may not pay for all the expenses, but similar programs have succeeded in other states. I think a poll of the students at Seminole and other county schools would support my position. Sincerely, ments on behalf of the employees. The Office in organized labor's compulsory dues agreement based on a defensible measure of employees' compulsory dues for political activities.

In the case of Ellis/Fuller v. Brotherhood of Railway, Airline and Steamship Clerks, some 200 dues paying members were opposing a U.S. Court of Appeals decision that they can be forced, as a condition of employment, to finance union organizing efforts, union conventions, social events and many other activities that other courts have found to be unrelated to collective bargaining.

Crooms Solution

Since I could not attend the School Board meeting Tuesday night, I would like to offer a solution to the issue to be unaccepted by the Board. Hopefully this view was presented.

We must face the fact that Seminole High School has a limited vocational education program and has no room for further expansion. Why not move or as a first step, move to other facilities? Courses could be included that are lacking at Seminole such as electrical, cosmetology, plumbing, welding, carpentry, machine, mechanics, and industrial electronics.

Union Dues

The U.S. Supreme Court today agreed to hear and decide the First Amendment issue of whether defensible measure of employees' compulsory dues for political activities.

In the case of Ellis/Fuller v. Brotherhood of Railway, Airline and Steamship Clerks, some 200 dues paying members were opposing a U.S. Court of Appeals decision that they can be forced, as a condition of employment, to finance union organizing efforts, union conventions, social events and many other activities that other courts have found to be unrelated to collective bargaining.

Also at issue in the appeal is the lower court's approval of an internal union rebate scheme, supposedly designed to provide employees with a refund of their compulsory dues spent for political activities. However, a rebate allows union officials and their friends to sit as judge and jury in their own case, and does not require them to open their books to the union.

What a Nursing Home Provides for Life Care

G. My mother is 71 years old. She has numerous health problems, including severe arthritis and diabetes. Her physician comments that we place her in a nursing home as she cannot care for herself in her own home anymore.

On looking into nursing homes, my husband encountered a church affiliated corporation that would provide my mother with a cottage in its community plus nursing care for the rest of her life in exchange for a lump sum payment of $30,000 and the proceeds from the sale of her home - which was recently appraised at $42,000. This is all the money she has to her name. Have you heard of such life care contracts? How do we find out if this arrangement is a sound one?

A "life" contract such as you described usually stipulates that in exchange for a single lump sum payment, as well as a smaller monthly maintenance fee, the person will receive lifetime care. This care could include everything from good nursing care to living needs to complex skilled nursing, depending on the person's needs.

In a number of cases, several years ago, one church affiliated corporation was accused of abuse by various forms of abuse. Several years ago, one church affiliated corporation was accused of bankruptcy leaving several thousands of dollars in debt, and without the care they had paid for.

Before your mother signs the contract for "life care," she should consult with an attorney and carefully examine the terms of the facility and the experience of

Many of them lost hundreds of thousands of dollars.

In addition to the potential for fraud, there are serious risks connected with the financial stability of life care institutions and the expertise of their managements. For example, all or part of the initial payment may be used to build the facility when the resident dies. So the financial stability of the facility depends upon residents dying or permanently entering the nursing facility.

When a resident enters the nursing section permanently his residence is available for a new resident who will pay a lump sum entrance fee. At death, the entrance fee is the "assured" portion of the deceased resident's fee is available for the care of the beneficiary. Poor estimates can lead to financial hardship and loss of residents' investments.

Before your mother signs the contract for "life care," she should consult with an attorney and carefully examine the terms of the facility and the experience of

That the process took so long should not reflect badly on Adelman's qualifications, but on the shambles of willingness of President Kennedy's critics in Congress to interrupt his progress to inject partisanship into matters of national security.

They said he was too young. Then they claimed he was inexperienced and ignorant of arms-control issues - this despite a superior academic and diplomatic background and a long list of hard publications on those very subjects.

Finally, Adelman's supporters dropped all pretense and admitted that his real sin, in their eyes, was that he was not a Western general view of arms control and he was thought of as an anti-communist.

It has been most successful, however, in serving the purpose for its creation. It has stopped the flow of Communists working for the Soviet-style Communism. Yet they did manage and some have become young and ingenious Ken Germans. They had an accomplice in West Berlin. They strung a cable over the wall from the building to building, attached a hand-wheel to it and pulled to freedom. It was dangerous, life-threatening, but the two fell risk worth the greater freedom.

Can the Communists still be so unscrupulous that they need this wall? Is it time for it to come down? It seems to us that this is one referendum which we should vote on.

So they lick the rehabilitation bonfire for months in an effort to score cheap political points. In addition, at least one Democratic senator sought to further his political career by having his name attached to the bill.

Not that they have had their heads in the sand to ask of Sen. Cranston, Tammgo et al., that they who up for another? There is serious work to be done on arms control - and it is not a Communist's job.

Many have argued that the negative notions we have about aging and the aging process are due in large part to attitudes made in the 1840s and 1900s. These studies, which focused on aging, were conducted with samples of elderly individuals who were in ill health and/or institutionalized. The healthy aged, living either on their own or with their families, were not studied. Although the studies do have value, they should not be relied upon for generalizations about aging.

Old age should not and need not be associated with an inability to produce, create and lead an active life. The list of contributions made by persons over 60 is endless. There is a profound recognition of what we million in recent years - a change from our growing recognition of the unique talents and special needs of older persons. One of the most profound recognitions of what we have our passage of legislation to raise the retirement age from 65 to 70 - a first step toward ending all "age" related stereotypes based on age.

Cars Are Getting Safer

There's some good news out of the government's latest auto crash tests. Some cars are becoming safer and the additional protection is not necessarily very costly.

The tests are part of a series being conducted by the National Highway Traffic Safety Administration. The most recent tests involved crumple zones into a barrier at 30 mph. The idea was to see how well front-end occupants wearing safety belts would be protected in a head-on collision.

While 35 miles per hour may not sound very fast, a crash at that speed is actually very severe. Such a crash is the equivalent of two cars crashing into each other at 35 mph. Most real life crashes occur at less than that speed!

Consumers' Reports magazine analyzed the test results and found that the improvement was clearly apparent when Head Injury Criteria, or HIC, numbers were compared. HIC numbers were compared on the magnitude of the crash forces on the head combined with the length of time the head is subjected to those forces. An HIC number of 1,000 is generally considered the level at which a healthy adult male would either be killed or suffer irreversible brain damage.

Overall, the tests showed that the passenger compartment of almost all of the cars tested remained largely intact even in an severe crash at that of 30 mph.

Not that they have had their heads in the sand to ask of Sen. Cranston, Tammgo et al., that they who up for another? There is serious work to be done on arms control - and it is not a Communist's job.

The wall erected by the Communists to separate their section of Berlin from the West. Western control has been in place for 22 years. It is ugly, it is an architect-

Speaking of the weather, which everybody does, this past year shows every sign of gross mismanagement. It's time to balance man's dream of peace with his dread of nuclear war and recurrent fear of the atomic bomb human survival. For that, they deserve our respect.

It has been time-tested truth in America that you want something better, you want the government to do it.

Another fact - the only business which should be government's business is business that cannot be done by private enterprise. For these reasons, we are delighted to hear of the passage of the bill authorizing its use by National Weather Service and its weather satellites.

This business would be actually be better off if it were in private hands rather than the all-powerful and inefficient hands of government and perhaps we could look forward to better weather ahead!

Easy Does It

Carol Carli, right, a member of the Greater Sanford Chamber of Commerce, is being pulled to pull a bad tooth out of Sanford Commissioner Ed Yancy after Yancy made the mistake of trying out an antique dentist's chair. The vintage items are but a part of the wide range of interesting merchandise carried in the new Florida Victorian, which recently opened at 901 W. First St. in Sanford. The man holding Yancy's head down to make it easier for "dentist" Carli to work is Mark Shullworth, co-owner with John Williams of the new business.

BUSINESS IN BRIEF

Atlantic Income Is Up By 27% For First Quarter

Atlantic Reinsurance has announced income before securities transactions of $7,212,000, or $1.37 per share, for the first quarter of 1983. This represents a 27 percent increase over 1982 first-quarter results of $5,714,000, or $1.09 per share.

B.J. Walker, president and chief executive officer, attributed the improved level of earnings to a 10 percent increase in net interest income, derived largely from a 15 percent increase in average earning assets achieved during the first quarter.

Other factors leading to the rise in earnings included a slight decrease in the provision for loan losses and a 20 percent increase in other income; a large portion relating to other services. Despite the decline in the provision, the allowance for loan losses increased to 1.59 percent of total loans outstanding at March 31, as compared to 1.42 percent at year end 1982 and 1.40 percent at March 31, 1982.

Scotty's Earnings Down

Dean W. Stulla, executive vice president of Scotty's reported net earnings of $3,773,000 for the third quarter ended April 2 or 17 percent under earnings of $4,420,000 for the same quarter last year.

Earnings per share were 28 cents for the third quarter this year, a decrease from the earnings per share of 38 cents in the corresponding quarter last year.

Stulla added the net earnings for the nine months ended April 2, were $17,410,000, a decrease of 6 percent from the period of $18,722,000 for last year's first nine months. Earnings per share for the first nine months this year are 64 cents for a decrease from the corresponding period last year of 72 cents.

Bosses Tell Skills Workers Should Have

Anybody who says they can succeed in business without really trying hasn't taken a good look at the job market for recent college graduates.

Faced with a shaky economy and a slowdown in hiring, many of today's graduates do not share the luxury of those who came before, whose degrees often were an open sesame to the marketplace.

By and large, however, the job hunters can find the going less traumatic if they take with them a bag full of work-related skills that employers feel are necessary for success.

In order to get a handle on how recent graduates rate with their bosses, sociologists at the University of Central Florida polled more than 150 top-level employers to determine skills that need to be developed or strengthened.

The results, though not particularly surprising, did point to a definite need for more emphasis on preparing students for careers.

Early attention to student career planning ranked high on the employers' wish list, said Dr. Bill Brown, chairman of sociology at UCF, who directed the aptitude study.

"What we set out to do was to make our own graduates more employable by going to the source," said Brown. The UCF survey has 50 job-related skills which in total were ranked in order of importance by those surveyed. The query did not touch on professional or technical areas, such as law, medicine or engineering, he pointed out.

To nobody's surprise, the three skills considered most important by employers, in order of ranking, are effective writing, listening and speaking. "This finding has been born-out by numerous other studies," Brown indicated.

Other traits given high marks by the area employers were self-motivation, time management, an ability to analyze and solve problems, a willingness to adapt to the needs of the organization, the ability to solve human relations problems, and to contend with starting at the bottom and working up.

Employers also have always tried to meet the wants and needs of customers. This decision to open our stores on Sundays is responding to that commitment.

Cardinal Adds To First Modular Home

For one Central Florida homeowner, the opportunity was too good to pass up — a new master bedroom suite addition that partially cost nothing to build.

This resulted because of declining interest rates and a unique modular building system.

The results, though not particularly surprising, did point to a definite need for more emphasis on preparing students for careers.

Early attention to student career planning ranked high on the employers' wish list, said Dr. Bill Brown, chairman of sociology at UCF, who directed the aptitude study.

"What we set out to do was to make our own graduates more employable by going to the source," said Brown. The UCF survey has 50 job-related skills which in total were ranked in order of importance by those surveyed.

Other traits given high marks by the area employers were self-motivation, time management, an ability to analyze and solve problems, a willingness to adapt to the needs of the organization, the ability to solve human relations problems, and to contend with starting at the bottom and working up.

The Petre Willard family of Deltona purchased their two-bedroom expandable modular home a year ago from Cardinal Industries knowing that they could add modules of living space at any time.

Recently, they took advantage of the opportunity and added 200 square feet to their home.

The Willards are the first Cardinal homeowners to take advantage of the modular home's flexibility, single family division. "In most instances, when a person sells a home it is because it is too small."

The family's space needs have increased and they need a larger home. So, they move to another home," says Green. "But that is not the case here. This is one of the many reasons for the popularity of Cardinal's modular homes."

Cardinal, a 29-year-old company with manufacturing plants in Sanford, Atlanta and Columbus, Ohio, has sold more than 100 homes since 1974. Family homes were first marketed two years ago. Primarily a manufacturer and developer of modular apartment communities, the company has built and now markets more than 600 such developments in Florida, Georgia and the Midwest.

Greater Marks Area Construction Boom

The Greater Construction Corp. led the way in its active first quarter for the 1983 housing market with the highest number of building permits filed and the highest number of closed sales.

The Greater Construction Corp. is involved in construction projects exclusively in the tri-county. For the month of February, Greater was the most active builder, taking out 49 permits valued at $1.7 million in Orange and Seminole counties.

"We are very proud to have Mrs. Sadler as our new Cadillac sales manager," Cremons said. "She brings about 20 years of comprehensive experience to her new position and is a proven asset for our dealership."

A native of Mount Dora, Mrs. Sadler worked part time at an auto dealership through her high school and college years at Rollins in Winter Park. She learned the ropes from the bottom up, always expanding the broad knowledge upon which she would eventually base her career.

Tribe Survives Ram Scorch To Win '1792' Series Title

By Chris Pister
Herald Sports Writer

Even though Lake Mary sports a well-hyped first five innings against Seminole Friday night, the Rams were in the game when it came down to the wire. In the bottom of the seventh, the Tribe pulled out a lead of two runs with a home run by Kevin Smith.

It was a surprising power an Hill faced Scott Underwood, who only four days earlier, had smashed a home run of the park. This time Underwood needed a victim lineup to fight that Seminole second baseman Kevin Smith enough to save a 5-0 victory for the Tribe in the deciding game of the "1792 Series" at Sanford Memorial Stadium. The Tribe took the series two games to one.

"We were fortunate to win tonight. Hill got a little catchers there in the seventh," Tribe coach Bobby Lombardo said. "We really needed this win and the enthusiasm for the district tournament." Seminole, 5-17, goes up against Lynas in the opening round of the 5-17 District Tournament Tuesday at 7 p.m. at Alford Stadium. Lake Mary, 10-16, will play either Bishop Moore or Ocala in the first round of district on Wednesday at Leesburg.

The turning point for Seminole came in the 13th of the first game in Friday's game, won by the Tribe, when Paul Grifflin reached on an error and Brian Rogers walked. Grifflin then scored on a sacrifice bunt by Rogers. "I was really excited on an error I made to lead the bases for the Tribe," Grifflin said. "I was sure that Underwood would not have been able to beat me."

Grifflin came from one out in the first inning. "Lake Mary scored on Ken Smith said. "We just want to learn their errors. It's hard to come back."

Grifflin's clutch come in the eighth inning, added an unearned run in the second in lake 4-0 lead. With two runs on base, Grifflin reached on an error and scored all the way from first. Rogers' single right off the bat.

The Tribe's offense was led by Kevin Smith, who hit a home run in the seventh and scored on a sacrifice bunt in the eighth. Smith's home run was the Tribe's only run in the seventh.

The Rams looked a threat in the bottom of the second of Seminole starter Ryan. Mike Strimblee blooped a strike to right just past the outstretched glove of Andy Grifflin and Kevin Smith and Mack Chassey drew a walk in just runners at first and second with nobody out. Kyle Brobauer mised on an opportunity to advance the runners as he popped up to Seminole catcher Steve Daniels. When then caught Keith Wallace and Ryan Hill into easy easy out the inning.

Lake Mary got its first two runners on again in the fourth as Bennett and Chassey drew back-to-back walks. Ryan then struck out Brobauer while Wallace and Hill were out on fly balls to the outfield.

The Rams loaded the bases in the fifth, but still couldn't push across a run. With two outs, Wyatt walked Donald Grayson, hit Rod Metz and walked Semore before striking out Chassey on a high fastball counting Lake Mary's left on base total in the first five innings.

"We played poorly the first five innings," Smith said. "We didn't get any timely hits or luck."

In And Around Lake Mary Woman's Club Members Plan Tallahassee Tour

Members of the Lake Mary Women's Club have for an exciting trip to Tallahassee Wednesday. According to club member Helen Glatt, who is coordinating the trip, a total of 15 members, guests and spouses have already signed up for the trip.

Helen, a resident of the Forest, has been at work making all the plans for the tour group to leave from the hall via bus at 7 a.m., upon arriving at the Capitol, a 2 p.m. guided tour of the Governor's Mansion; and at 3 p.m., a guided tour of the Capitol building.

After this tour, the members and guests will be free to wander on their own, have dinner, and turn in for a good night's sleep.

On Thursday morning, from 7:30 - 9, the group will have a special breakfast, hosted by State Rep. Art Gruttle in the capitol building. Following the breakfast a tour of the Museum of History is scheduled.

Then back on to the bus for the trip home. Helen says there is still time to make a reservation for this special trip.

The Lake Mary Community Improvement Association (CIAM) is sponsoring a special meeting on April 25, at 7:00 p.m., at city hall. According to Cindy Brown, CIAM secretary, some "super video film coverage" of the 1982 Grand Prix races that the CIAM sponsored last year will be previewed.

Two areas of importance will also be discussed. First, the members will receive some input from the contractors of the Lake Mary CIAM community center. Also, plans for the CIAM 4th anniversary celebration's 1000th anniversary celebration on May 14 will be finalized.

There will be further discussion plans for the CIAM July Fourth Celebration. So far, the CIAM has scheduled entertainer Mike Evans, baritone of the Dale & Evans Duo. Mike, a gifted guitar, banjo and harmonica player, has performed at restaurants, college campuses, parties and weddings. He will be singing and playing a variety of contemporary sounds, ballads, and knee-slapping country music.

If any one would like to take part in the planning of the July Fourth celebration, make suggestions, or volunteer in any way, try to attend this meeting. Area residents are invited and need not be a member of the CIAM.

"Barnday here we come!" was the theme for a show presented to area residents and students at Lake Mary High School on April 15.

In order to raise funds for the school's stadium building, dance class students, under direction of teacher Connie Moore, put on a splendid performance of Broadway hits.

The performance included dance numbers from Broadway shows such as "Cats," "Fiddler on the Roof," "South Pacific," "Westside Story," "Fiddler on the Roof," "Chorus Line," "My Poppin'," "Cats," and "Hairs."

According to Mrs. Kathy Pyle, whose daughter Deanna performed in one of the numbers, all the girls who took part in the dancing did a fantastic job.

If you are making plans to participate in the Chamber of Commerce's 60th Anniversary Parade Celebration.

Banker Vetoes TEFRA

Janice R. Springfield, executive vice president, First National Bank of Seminole, was guest speaker at the bi-monthly dinner meeting of Sanford Plus Club, held at the Greater Sanford Chamber of Commerce Building on April 19.

Mrs. Springfield spoke to the group on "TEFRA," the Tax Equity and Fiscal Responsibility Act of 1982.

This is the act that requires payors of taxable interest or dividends to withhold 10 percent of such payments to non-exempt individuals or utilities.

Mrs. Springfield gave the bankers reason for opposing the Act. Several Pinon Club members are making plans to attend the Pinon International Convention.
