Eat More Calories To Increase Weight

DEAR DR. LAMB — So frequently I read about reducing. What I want to know is how can I put on weight? I'm 85 and I weigh 110 pounds. When I was 45 years old I weighed more than 140. My doctor had me in a hospital for a week to check on my weight loss. At the end of testing, he found nothing wrong with me. What do I have to do to put on weight?

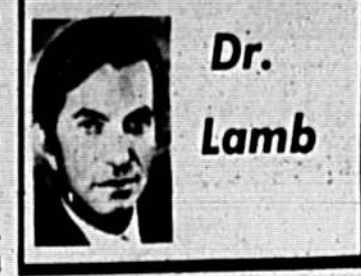

DEAR READER — The same laws apply to putting on weight as apply to losing weight. Simply stated, you probably need to consume more calories than you're getting in your diet.

Once calorie-containing food is swallowed, there are only certain things that can happen to it. One is that it may not be absorbed. You see this with people who have diseases that interfere with absorption and cause diarrhea-type illnesses. That can be one explanation for a person eating a normal diet and not gaining weight.

The second is that absorption may be normal and you get all of the calories into the body but you lose the calories through the urine. This occurs in a diabetic who's losing sugar in the urine. That's why an advanced diabetic may lose weight whereas an early diabetic may be overweight.

But if you absorb all the calories in your food and you are not losing them through the urine, then the body has to process them. It can use the calories to maintain your body tissues such as your muscle mass and to form new enzymes and hormones if they're needed for the body. If you consume enough calories and proteins for this purpose, then you should not lose weight. If you eat more calories than you need for this purpose, these calories will be stored as fat and you will start to develop fat deposits on the body.

GETTING FATS AND sweets out of food make it easier to control weight. Readers who want information on controlling calories this way can send 75 cents with a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope for The Health Letter number 9, 12, Kitchen Power for Weight Control. Send your request to Dr. Lamb, in care of this newspaper, P.O. Box 1551, Radio City Station, New York, N.Y. 10019.

Dr. Lamb

My recommendation to you would be to significantly increase your calorie intake. This might give you more strength and enable you to feel better. To do this you might need to eat more frequent meals than you're accustomed to eating.

Now there are certain disease conditions which increase the amount of calories the body uses and people with these can eat a lot of food and not gain weight. The classic one of these is an overactive thyroid, but I'm certain your doctor has tested this and found your thyroid to be normal.

You'd be surprised how many people who are very thin and want to gain weight really aren't consuming many calories. Sometimes it's because they don't like the kind of foods that contain a lot of calories, specifically those that contain fat as you might get in a good steak. Or they don't like margarine or butter and they don't care for sweets. While I advise people who need to lose weight to get the fats and sweets out of their diet, a person who needs to gain weight, as in your case, might profit by adding some of these items.

County To Examine 6 'Disadvantaged Communities'

By DIANE PETRYK Herald Staff Writer

The Seminole County Commission today unanimously approved plans for sending a state grant to upgrade information about six neighborhoods in the county which have been defined as disadvantaged communities.

The Department of County Development is recommending that the grant be used to hire two graduate students in planning who will gather information on the target areas and who will identify resources available to the target communities, according to County Planner Woody Price.

The resources, Price said, are in the form of grants, loans and foundation gifts that the county may not have used in the past.

The target communities have been designated as Neighborhood Strategy Areas in the county's Community Development Block Grant Program. They are: Bokertown, a small rural community consisting of approximately 118 dwelling units; Lockhart's a small unincorporated community just west of Sanford consisting of approximately 226 dwelling units; Midway, a community east of Sanford consisting of approximately 630 dwelling units; Winwood, a community of approximately 350 dwelling units which is in the vicinity of State Road 436 and County 427 and which is contiguous to the City of Altamonte Springs; Jamestown, a community southeast of Oviedo on State Road 426 consisting of approximately 69 dwelling units, and Johnson Hill, a community on the eastern side of Oviedo, part of which is in the city and part in the unincorporated area to the east consisting of approximately 287 dwelling units. These areas are populated predominantly by low income blacks.

Price said less than $6,000 will be spent on the project. The funds, he said, have already been granted from the Local Government Comprehensive Planning Act Financial Assistance Fund of the state of Florida.

"The benefit of the program," Price said, "is that it will be the first time we will be able to thoroughly assess communities' needs and capabilities in those areas."

"And as situations arise, we'll have a better idea how we can best take care of it."

Price said the graduate students will be gathering data on such things as water and sewer service, roads and pavement, drainage conditions, street lighting, school facilities, solid waste disposal, police and fire protection and housing problems among other things.

"He said information gathered will not be of a personal nature."

He emphasized that the program will involve "a high level of local citizen participation."

"The program will allow us to take a more anticipatory posture," he added, "and less of a reactionary one."

County Elbows Cable TV Firm

In a surprise move this morning, County Commissioner Richard Williams suggested the county take steps to revoke the cable TV franchise of Orange Seminole Cablevision.

With Commissioners Sandra Glenn, Bob French and Bob Street concurring, the commission directed County Administrator Tom Netzel to call County Attorney William Clayton to find out what procedures need to be taken for revocation.

"The intent," Williams said, "is to get good service for those who have it and prevent them (Orange Seminole Cablevision) from screwing up the rest of the county."

Williams said he has received a flood of complaints against the firm.

Netzel said he has received a flood of complaints, which concerned the management of the firm and lack of service.

"I think we should do something to get their attention," he said.

2 Downtown Issues On Agenda

Two issues concerning the revitalization of the downtown Sanford area are to be considered by the Sanford City Commission at its 7 p.m. meeting today.

The issues are:

- Whether a declaratory decree should be sought from the Circuit Court determining that the city's participation in the revitalization of the downtown area is legal and proper.
- Whether the city commission wishes to lease a lot for a five-year period from the Sanford family or to consider 10 other properties which could be used for the same purpose.

Official Presents Bleak Outlook On Road Construction

By DONNA ESTES Herald Staff Writer

The future of road construction in Florida looked bleak today as state Department of Transportation District Engineer Bill Benedict doubted that construction costs are running double anticipated revenues.

Gov. Bob Graham believes he has a solution to the problem — increased taxes. Neither the taxes nor the method of allocating the resulting revenues may sit well with Seminole County citizens and officials.

Benedict displayed graphs and charts showing the anticipated decline in gas tax revenues because of conservation and the increase in road construction costs from inflation at a meeting of the Greater Sanford Chamber of Commerce.

measured roads and bridges committee. He showed that road construction which cost $100 in 1967 will cost $557 in 1982. Because of declining revenues and increased costs, Benedict said some road projects have been delayed several years.

He cited as an example the planned six-lane State Road 436 from Boston Avenue to Douglas Road and the modifications to the 436-Interstate 4 interchange, originally scheduled for the 1980-81 year. Construction costs from the delay will accelerate from $2.7 million to $4.3 million, Benedict said.

Governor Graham is recommending that the Legislature, during its current session ending June 6, implement the following program to increase revenues for the state Department of Transportation:

- Allocate $25 million from general revenue to strengthen the economy of the state and conserve energy.
- Of the $25 million, $8.5 million would be used for transportation system efficiency measures, such as turning lanes, synchronized signal systems, high occupancy vehicle lanes (HOV), one-way street pairs and park and ride lots.
- Direct new revenues to preserve the highway system through maintenance, repair and reconstruction programs.

—Increase revenues by doubling the motor vehicle license fees on heavy truck-trailers and tying these taxes to future increases in road construction prices. Revenue from this source — an estimated $17.2 million — would be placed in the state transportation trust fund in 1980-81.

Benedict said a recent state study shows that large trucks are not paying their proportionate share of the cost. He said in the 12 southeastern states the average license fee is $715 while Florida truckers are paying $400.

—Levy a motor fuel use tax on certain privately owned vehicles, primarily trucks and buses which operate on Florida's highways yet do not purchase taxable fuel within the state equal to the amount of fuel consumed while using local highways.

Benedict said currently 44 states have this kind of tax. He cited the method used to allocate to Seminole County: $112,234 would be allocated to the seven cities of Seminole County and $48,935 would be allocated to the Metropolitan Planning Organization (MPO) for Seminole County.

The MPO is an organization whose members are appointed by the governor from locally elected officials. The composition of the MPO is according to population. Orlando-Orange County currently dominates the MPO.

In answer to a question, Benedict said it is possible for funds allocated to the MPO for Seminole County could be diverted by MPO to Orange County or other out-of-Seminole County projects.

Iran Assembly To Ask Ransom?

TEHRAN, Iran (UPI) — On the eve of the opening of Iran's new parliament, the newspaper of the leading Islamic Republic Party hinted today the assembly would vote to demand compensation from the United States for the release of the 53 American hostages.

Ayatollah Ruhollah Khomeini has charged the parliament, or Majlis, with deciding the fate of the hostages and the Islamic Republic newspaper also said, "But, would the Majlis be prepared to free these spies (hostages) without putting them on trial?"

Arriving in Athens, Greece, from a fact-finding mission to Iran, Austrian Chancellor Bruno Kreisky today warned the United States additional international pressure against Iran only would prolong the 205-day crisis.

The Islamic Republic, official newspaper of the Islamic Republic Party, which holds a majority of the seats in the parliament, said the Majlis would demand compensation for 25 years of American domination and all-round destruction of Iran.

"Of course, the amount of such compensation and other conditions must be set by the Majlis," the newspaper said.

South Korean Commandos Recapture Rebellious City

KWANGJU, South Korea (UPI) — Elite commandos backed by tanks and armored vehicles recaptured the provincial capital of Kwangju today in fierce fighting that ended South Korea's most violent insurrection since the Korean War. Official sources said 13 rebels and four troops were killed.

Officials had earlier said only one soldier was killed in the operation. It was believed that the three other dead were of the fighting.

The latest death toll reported by official sources brings to 144 the number of people confirmed killed in the uprising during which militant students and citizens controlled the city of 800,000 people for nine days.

More than 1,000 people were injured in the insurrection, in which rebel students fought pitched battles with troops to demand an end to martial law. It was the most violent uprising in 27 years — since the Korean War of 1950-1953.

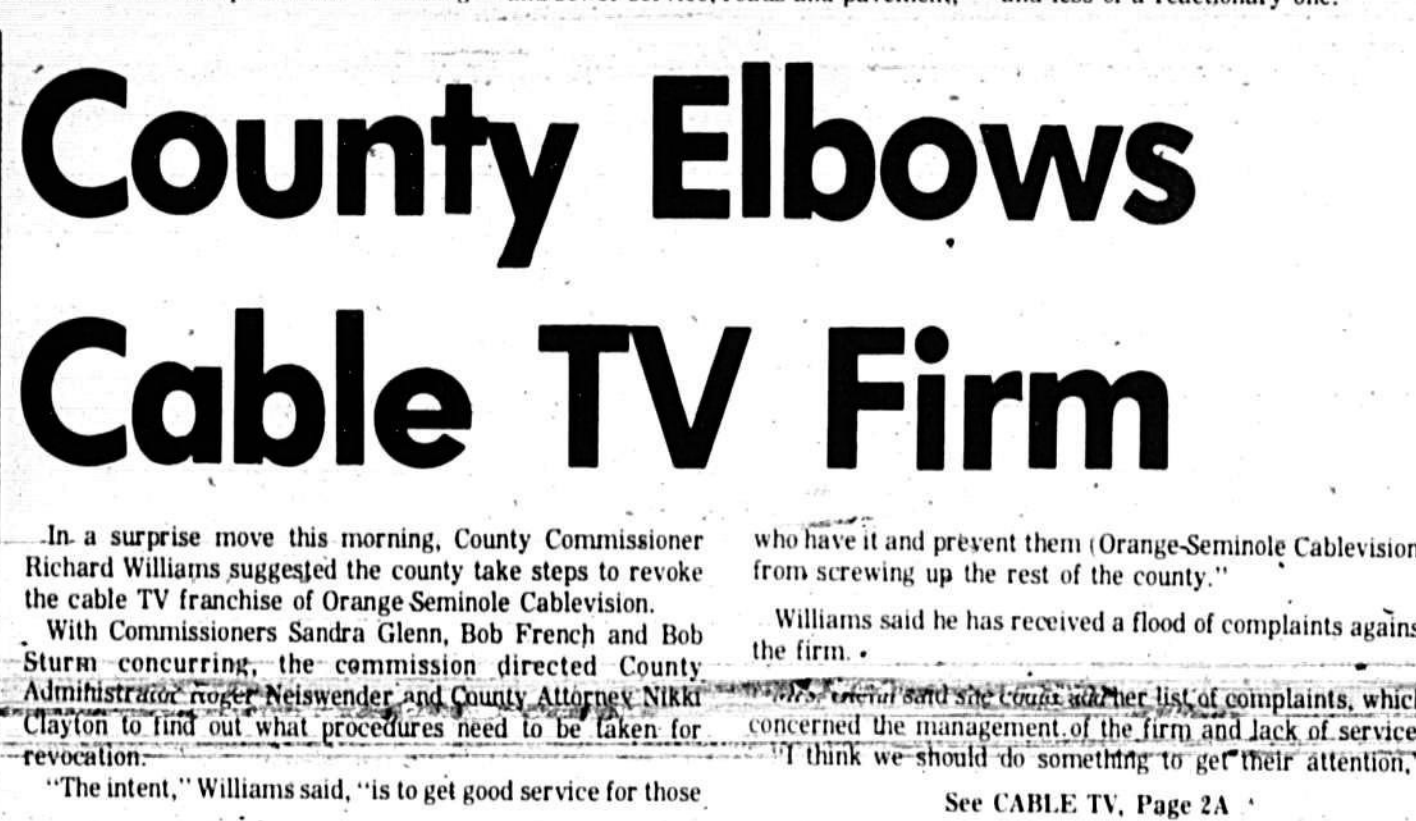

Army Maj. Gen. So Junyoung, the martial law commander in the Kwangju district, who flew to the battle zone by helicopter, said: "The armed operation was necessary to resume the general order and insure the safety of our people."

The assault by 17,000 troops began at 3:30 a.m., half an hour before the army's latest deadline for the students to surrender was to expire. At 5:10 a.m. it was over.

HITCHING A RIDE

Lena Burden, 716 Meadow St., hitches a ride across the pool with her pet goose, Baby. The 3-year-old goose has been swimming with the family for only a few weeks but seems to enjoy the company. "He'll pull you across the pool," said Mrs. Burden. "You don't have to swim." The Burdens also have chickens and Baby helps with the egg gathering, said Mrs. Burden. He follows her into the hen house and brings out any eggs she happens to miss.

Afghan Rebels Claim 160 Russians Killed

NEW DELHI, India (UPI) — Afghan villagers formed into a local militia killed 160 Soviet soldiers in three days of fighting and photographed the corpses before putting them on display for visitors, an Afghan rebel report said.

A traveler arriving in India from Afghanistan said Monday anti-Soviet demonstrations continued in the capital of Kabul and troops used electric cattle prods, dubbed "magic wands," to disperse the student protesters.

5-Year Low For Dollar

LONDON (UPI) — The dollar plunged to its lowest point in more than five years at the start of trading in London today, reflecting a one-week loss of more than seven cents to the pound attributed to lowering U.S. interest rates.

Opening a delayed week's trading due to bank holidays in Britain and on the continent, the American currency was also down on all European exchanges except Milan. It also closed higher in Tokyo.

Gold opened at $113 in both London and Zurich, compared to $114 and $111, respectively, at Friday's close.

53 South Africans Freed

JOHANNESBURG, South Africa (UPI) — A magistrate freed without bail today 51 church leaders jailed on charges of public violence for demanding the release of a clergyman who supported a month-old boycott of mixed-race schools.

The magistrate set a new hearing date of July 1 for the 51 men and two women arrested during a protest march Monday.

The brief hearing took place as hundreds of the leaders' supporters sang hymns and prayed in the corridors and streets after being ejected from the courtroom by police.

The churchmen were arrested and charged with unlawful assembly Monday morning by heavily armed riot police, who halted their downtown march to demand the release of Rev. John Thorne, who was arrested Saturday.

Thorne was released later Monday.

Swain said. "It's interesting to try to call that number they have too, French added.

Orange Seminole regional manager Steve McMahon said this morning he has not been contacted on the matter of revocation by any of the commissioners.

"I find it hard to believe something like that is really going to happen," he said. He said there have been no unusual complaints, but declined to comment further until he has talked to the commissioners.

In January, the commission granted a second non-exclusive Cable TV franchise to Sanlando-Storer Cablevision, a firm that was already installing cable TV service in Altamonte Springs.

At public hearings concerning Sanlando-Storer's franchise, members of the public complained that Orange-Seminole was not serving areas it promised to serve when it applied for a franchise. But McMahon explained that granting the second franchise would mean "overbuilding."

"Competition has its value," said Tom Alexander, vice president of Sanlando-Storer at that January meeting. "The entire county was supposed to have been served by Orange Seminole by the first of last year. We're offering what the other company agreed to do five years ago and still hasn't done."

In voting for the second franchise, Commission Chairman Bill Kirchhoff said he did not want to see overbuilding in high density areas, but wanted cable service for those in more remote areas of the county, such as Geneva or Chulohota.

Thieves Take $300 From Legion Post

By DAVID M. RAZLER Herald Staff Writer

Memorial Day weekend thieves burglarized Sanford American Legion Post No. 53, making off with change from machines plus more than $300 in a bank bag, police report.

The thieves used a jack handle and a knife to force open a door at the Legion building, 3506 Orlando Drive, Sanford, between 3 p.m. Sunday and 10:30 a.m. Monday, police said.

The burglars broke into a cigarette machine, juke box and pool table, then forced open a locked cabinet containing the bank bag, filled with between $300 and $400, police say.

PSC, County Going To Court Over Fees

By DAVID M. RAZLER Herald Staff Writer

Three years after the fight began, the Florida Public Service Commission and Seminole County are getting ready to go back to court to settle the matter of county franchise fees.

But the man who helped start the fight against the county fee now says he doesn't care whether the fight is resolved in favor of Seminole County or the PSC, only that it is resolved.

County Attorney Nikki Clayton says the county and the PSC are currently in the discovery phase of the suit, which has the other in the courts since late 1977.

The suit, brought by the state, challenges a county law charging sewer and water utilities operating in unincorporated areas a flat fee of 3% percent of their gross receipts.

While cities have been charging fees to cover expenses incurred maintaining rights of way used for sewer and water lines, the PSC maintains the county has no right to do the same.

"The county is upping city and county home rule rights were passed at different times, and contain different language," Clayton said.

In 1975, the county gave up its right to govern private sewer and water companies to the PSC. It also gave up the 3 percent fee it had been charging for regulation and right of way expenses.

The PSC imposed a 1 1/2 percent regulation fee, Clayton said, while the county utilized a 3 1/2 percent tax, to cover costs of utilities it was still responsible for.

The tax was never collected. In 1977 the "tax" became a "fee" in the county's laws. But the PSC deemed it an "illegal tax" and filed a circuit court action to block it, Clayton said.

In the summer of 1978, Circuit Judge Kenneth Laffler granted the state commission a summary judgment, ordering the county to drop its collection plans. But the county went to the Fourth District Court of Appeals, which threw out Laffler's judgment without trial, and ordered a full trial on the matter.

Since that time, only one offered utility company, Sanlando, has been paying its fee. But the county has not been using that money, Clayton said.

Sanlando, one of 15 private sewer-water companies in Seminole County, does about 40 percent of the business which would be covered by the fee, if the fee is held to be legal. The company has been paying its share into a "segregated area of the general fund," in effect, a county escrow account.

Several of the other companies have been maintaining their own escrow accounts, Clayton said, although she added she has no idea whether companies could be forced to pay back fees if the county finally wins its case.

If the county wins its case, the fee will generate about $90,000 to $95,000 in revenue, not enough to pay the $150,000 annual right of way maintenance costs, Clayton said.

But the man whose complaint started the battle, retired real-estate dealer Fred Harris, says he does not care whether the PSC or the county wins the case.

"They're going to have to find some way to tax us," he said, noting no matter what, money has to be raised to pay for the cost of government.

Harris says he only wants to see the issue resolved, either in favor of the county's fee, which people would have to start paying immediately, or in favor of the state, in which case another way of generating about $90,000 a year would have to be found.

"My biggest gripe is in listening to the Americans and to the British about our internal problems ... Looking back (the wrong advice) was freeing all the terrorists from jail and letting them loose, giving them the possibility of leading the band of arsonists and terrorists."

Pahlavi said he has gained about 10 pounds in the past 10 days as the effects of chemotherapy have started to fade.

pressure of the local grand arsonists, that is, permitting the government to follow a policy of surrender to these bandits," said the exile.

He said U.S. advice in part persuaded him "to find a solution in bringing the terrorists from jail and letting them loose, giving them the possibility of leading the band of arsonists and terrorists."

Thirty-three demonstrators were arrested during the three-day assault that ended Monday. Twenty-five others were arrested when they occupied the headquarters of the Public Service Co., the major owner of the plant, 30 miles away in Manchester.

No serious injuries were reported. The protest was the second attempt in six months by anti-nuclear forces to storm the plant, which is due to begin operation in 1987. Two thousand protesters also failed to get inside the plant gates last October.

More than 1,900 demonstrators have been arrested in four years of demonstrations at Seabrook, which has become the focus of the anti-nuclear movement in the United States.

Police Stop 250 Seabrook Protesters

SEABROOK, N.H. (UPI) — About 250 demonstrators tried unsuccessfully today to prevent construction workers from entering Seabrook Station to continue work on the $3.1 billion nuclear power plant.

Small groups of demonstrators sat down on Route 1 in an effort to prevent traffic from entering the plant by two gates, but were quickly cleared away by police using night sticks and, in one case, chemical Mace.

At least one person was arrested trying to halt the flow of 2,300 construction workers onto the 140-acre site. The protesters, remnants of a band of 1,300 who over the weekend had sporadic and sometimes violent clashes with authorities, were kept confined to the side of the road.

State Police and National Guardsmen, using fire hoses, attack dogs, pepper gas and clubs, kept the demonstrators from occupying the 140-acre construction site, which protest leaders had made their chief goal.

3 SISTERS ARE ROLLINS FIRST

The three Tabor sisters of Altamonte Springs — twins, Paula (left) and Pamela (right), and Tracy — made history at Rollins College Sunday as the most members of one family to receive diplomas at one time.

Paula, a physics major who plans to earn her Ph.D. from the University of Rochester Institute of Optics, and Pamela, a history major who has applied for a Senate internship, won outstanding achievement awards. Several of the other companies have been maintaining their own escrow accounts, Clayton said, although she added she has no idea whether companies could be forced to pay back fees if the county finally wins its case.

If the county wins its case, the fee will generate about $90,000 to $95,000 in revenue, not enough to pay the $150,000 annual right of way maintenance costs, Clayton said.

But the man whose complaint started the battle, retired real-estate dealer Fred Harris, says he does not care whether the PSC or the county wins the case.

"They're going to have to find some way to tax us," he said, noting no matter what, money has to be raised to pay for the cost of government.

Harris says he only wants to see the issue resolved, either in favor of the county's fee, which people would have to start paying immediately, or in favor of the state, in which case another way of generating about $90,000 a year would have to be found.

Thirty-three demonstrators were arrested during the three-day assault that ended Monday. Twenty-five others were arrested when they occupied the headquarters of the Public Service Co., the major owner of the plant, 30 miles away in Manchester.

No serious injuries were reported. The protest was the second attempt in six months by anti-nuclear forces to storm the plant, which is due to begin operation in 1987. Two thousand protesters also failed to get inside the plant gates last October.

More than 1,900 demonstrators have been arrested in four years of demonstrations at Seabrook, which has become the focus of the anti-nuclear movement in the United States.

Carter Promises Benefits Boost In Nimitz Speech

NORFOLK, Va. (UPI) — President Carter led the way in providing a hero's welcome to the crew of the USS Nimitz, praising them for protecting the lives of the American hostages and promising servicemen a big boost in pay benefits.

On a sunny Memorial Day afternoon filled with martial pomp, Carter spoke on the flight deck of the Nimitz and thanked the crew of 5,000 for its nine-month cruise, including the last six months of continuous sea duty. Then his choppy-circled big ship and he flew to Pier 12 to speak to thousands of welcoming wives, parents, children and friends.

"Your sense of service and dedication in this particular time in the history of our country is particularly appreciated and known, not only by the people of our country, but of the entire world," Carter said.

"This is a time of searching for me and our country as we look back on that tremendous act of heroism. All of you shared in that humanitarian commitment and mission."

Carter said he would record 144 days at sea without a port call was "service beyond the call of duty."

The Nimitz and guided missile cruisers Texas and California left Norfolk Sept. 10 for a routine deployment in the Mediterranean. But they were diverted to the Indian Ocean in January and were the launching base for the aborted Iranian rescue mission in April.

The mood on the Nimitz was mixed — ecstasy at getting home but disappointment the rescue mission failed.

"I used to be a fire friend," said Airman Jamie Morris of Topeka, Kan., laughing a bit ruefully. "But I stopped getting letters in January."

Petty Officer 2nd Class Rick Vian, of Marion, Ind., said his wife gave birth to a son two months ago.

"She had a hard time. It was really bad," Vian said, adding that his request for a leave was denied because of the rescue mission attempt.

"You not only served to provide stability in the Persian Gulf," Carter said, "but I am absolutely convinced that your presence there along with other U.S. ships and the fighting men on them has been the major factor in protecting the lives of the 53 American hostages."

The president got the loudest applause when he told the crew of his support for these increases in military pay benefits.

—25 percent in flight pay. —15 percent in sea pay. —10 percent in food allowance. —An undetermined amount for housing allowances in high-cost areas. —From $50 a day to $75 a day for temporary duty.

Carter also said he supported increased reenlistment bonuses from the current ceiling of $15,000 up to $20,000. He also said he favored coverage of dental costs for servicemen and their dependents.

Sealift Claims Victim As Fumes Overcome Man On Crowded Ship

KEY WEST, Fla. (UPI) — Four crewmen of a Cuban government tugboat won a shouting argument with three of their captors aboard the craft and today joined more than 41,000 other sealift refugees that have landed at this island city in the past 36 days to seek political asylum.

The sealift claimed its 25th known casualty Monday, a 21-year-old unidentified man.

"He died of carbon monoxide poisoning," said Juan Torres, assistant coordinator of the Cuban Aid Committee.

"There were 48 people jammed on a 30-foot boat."

Two other people were airlifted from the same boat, the St. Christopher, and were reported in critical condition at Florida Keys Hospital. The Coast Guard spokesman Mike Kelly, said Coast Guard spokesman Mike Kelly.

"The operator became disoriented and the tugboat ran low on fuel. That's when they put out a distress call," Kelly said.

A Coast Guard helicopter spotted the Second of December drift Monday, its engines silent, and taking on water in the choppy seas. The cutter Cape Starr was sent to the rescue. It found a bearded argument in progress aboard the tugboat.

"The master and the crew indicated they were in a distress situation," said Cmdr. Samuel Dennis, Key West Coast Guard commandant. "The engineer would not run the engines unless the captain turned around and went back to Cuba."

"There was a lot of shouting and yelling at one another when we went aboard," Dennis said.

The Cape Starr towed the tugboat into Key West. Its seven crewmembers underwent lengthy questioning by intelligence officers. Then the tugboat captain and three crewmembers were turned over to the refugee center to be processed for admission to the United States.

Meanwhile, officials at the Air Force's tent city housing sealift Cubans at Fort Walton Beach, Fla., reported that all the refugees who jumped the fence after Saturday night's violent outbreak and again Sunday night had been rounded up.

There were conflicting reports of the number who escaped the tent city Saturday night, ranging from 3 to 50, but an even dozen scaled the fence Sunday night. All had been rounded up by Air Force security police and local law enforcement officers by Monday morning, including those who had returned voluntarily, officials said.

Thick Clouds Slow Volcano Rescues

VANCOUVER, Wash. (UPI) — Rain temporarily cleared the air of volcanic ash from Mount St. Helens, but thick clouds are thwarting search-and-rescue missions and scientific observations of the simmering peak for the third straight day.

Despite the wet weather, visibility in eastern Washington was normal for the first time since the mountain's May 18 eruption had turned the region into an "ash bowl." Circular winds were still blowing traces of ash around in southwestern Washington, the target of the volcano's latest eruption.

The National Weather Service warned, however, the fine, porous ash would dry out quickly once the rain stopped and its blinding effects would be felt for several days.

Emergency Management officials said they had exhausted their supply of face masks from the military with the arrival of 265,000 Monday and an anticipated 35,000 more today.

Five people missing since they were cited Saturday for being within a 20-mile "Red Zone" around the mountain were found and airlifted to safety Monday.

The men included 42-year-old Otto Steber, a Seattle film maker who was one of three men who climbed to the top of the mountain April 13, not long after it first began spewing ash and steam. The three filmed potential beer commercials at the crater's edge, later appearing on television to discuss the adventure.

Publicity of the stunt, however, prompted authorities to issue warnings of prosecution for anyone contemplating a similar climb. Steber himself said he wouldn't return to the summit even for $100,000 because it was too "dangerous."

The five were removed from the official list of missing and feared dead, which stands at 76. Because of the weather, no new casualty sites were located by the Army helicopter rescue mission being staged out of Toule.

The volcano has quieted down but still rumbles with aftershocks and sends periodic plumes of steam thousands of feet into the air, confounding geologists who conceded Monday they are "woefully lacking" in the ability to predict whether the majestic peak is on the verge of another mighty eruption.

"What we were looking for was a gradual decline in eruptive activity, but we were getting a real gradual decline — then bam," said Tim Hait of the U.S. Geological Service regarding the May 18 eruption.

Traffic Crunch

By United Press International

The homeward rush of campers, picnickers, parade-watchers and other travelers pushed the Memorial Day weekend death toll steadily upward in the holiday's closing hours.

The late flurry of accidents pushed the death count toward the lower range of the National Safety Council's preholiday projection.

The council had estimated 450 to 550 people could die in traffic between 6 p.m. local time Friday and midnight Monday. Last year, 486 people died in Memorial Day weekend traffic.

As the long weekend drew to a close, a United Press International count showed 396 people had been killed on the nation's highways since 6 p.m. local time Friday. Later reports could push the figure higher.

California reported 67 traffic deaths, Michigan and Illinois 20, Wisconsin and Florida 17, and North Carolina 15.

17 Dead On State Highways

By United Press International

The Florida Highway Patrol reported early today at least 17 people had been killed on the state's highways during the 76-hour Memorial Day weekend which ended at midnight Monday.

Delayed reports reaching patrol headquarters in Tallahassee today are expected to boost the total. Before the holiday weekend began at 6 p.m. Friday, the patrol had predicted at least 21 highway deaths.

The preliminary tabulation, strangely, listed no pedestrians killed as they have been during previous holiday periods. But there were a couple of truck fatalities.

Joseph Harber, 56, of Harbor Heights drowned Sunday when his car rolled off a boat ramp at Fort Charlotte Beach.

and early Monday, Judith Aurora Dubose, 55, of Brookville injured fatally when she fell from a pickup truck being driven by her husband four miles south of Homosassa Springs in U.S. 19. Authorities said Mrs. Dubose fell out of the truck when the passenger door flew open.

The road toll also included a bicyclist hit by a car near Escambia Saturday and a Leesburg man who crashed his motorcycle on a Lake County road Sunday.

On The Perils Of Isolationism

Among the most debilitating effects of this country's Vietnam nightmare was the drift toward a quasi-isolationist foreign policy.

The resulting threat to the West's oil lifeline in the Persian Gulf has, however belatedly, awakened growing numbers of Americans to the folly of ignoring U.S. interests abroad.

Southern Africa is a case in point. The United States relies on imports to supply 98 percent of its manganese, 97 percent of its cobalt and 91 percent of its chromium.

The Carter administration behaves as though none of this mattered, despite abundant evidence that Soviet strategy in the Third World is specifically designed to gain control of resources essential to the industrialized West.

The Soviets know what they are doing. For they have diagnosed not only the Achilles heel of the United States, but that of its most important allies as well.

Japan and Western Europe both import nearly all of the manganese, cobalt, bauxite, chromium, asbestos, nickel, zinc, iron ore, silver, copper, lead and phosphate consumed by their industries.

In striking contrast, the 16-member Comecon bloc organized and dominated by the Soviet Union has achieved virtual self-sufficiency in every major strategic resource save cobalt.

Meanwhile, American stockpiles of the 93 minerals deemed essential for national defense average only 48 percent of the minimum levels established in U.S. policy as insurance against any prolonged disruption of imports.

At current world prices, it would cost about $6 billion to restore U.S. stockpiles to prudent levels. This should be accomplished as a matter of urgent national policy.

For the long haul, a foreign resource strategy requires two things: a proven and defense policy capable of protecting American access to vital resources abroad, and a vigorous effort to exploit every possible domestic source of strategic materials.

Pope Vs. Political Priests?

WASHINGTON — The Rev. Robert Drinan made news recently when he announced he would not run for a sixth term in the House of Representatives.

While the Massachusetts Jesuit may be the country's most visible priest-politician, he is far from the only one.

He, for one, thinks not. "I have not heard anything from my superiors," he reports. "I guess that appointive office is different from elective office."

Other priests who hold major administration posts include the Rev. Joseph Sanchez, who heads the Justice Department's Office of Equal Employment Opportunity;

Thursday night's prep football Spring Jam-boree promises a few new wrinkles from a pair of Seminole County teams.

Lyman's Greyhounds, noted in the past for their running offense, look a little more pass-oriented with Mike Andriano calling the plays from the quarterback spot.

That's not to say Lake Brantley can't go to the air. Last year's back up man Greg Fry and junior varsity graduate Jay Poag both turned in pretty fair performances and still have ability.

Tullis does have several offensive linemen returning with huge size which only lends itself to putting the ball on the ground.

Still a mystery, that will be somewhat solved come Thursday night, is Sammy Wier's Lake Howell Silver Hawks.

The Spring Jamboree Thursday night at Seminole High will at least give area gridiron fans a glimpse of what to expect come September.

New head coach Dave Tullis, who formerly served as the Patriots offensive line coach, put the pigskin on the gridiron about 65 percent of the time Saturday in the Patriots' intraquad game.

For coach Joe Montgomery at Oviedo it's a case of how do you follow last year's act? The 1979 version of the Lions will indeed be a hard act to follow, but don't count Monty out before the season begins.

The Lions looked pretty good in their Friday night intraquad game held at Lyman and although they won't have the likes of Troy Kensingner, Marvin McClenon and Marty Nese in the lineup, they aren't planning on rolling over and playing dead either.

Time Out To Regroup

If you're looking for one word to wrap up world political trends these days, try instability.

There is Afghanistan, of course, and revolutionary Iran is... well, continuing to behave like revolutionary Iran.

An economy-wide strike-lockout has knocked two generations of national complacency out of Sweden.

South Korean students have taken to the streets in violent demonstrations reminiscent of those that ousted Syngman Rhee in 1960, and in Japan...

Yes, Japan. That rock of Asian stability has just lost a government in a political upheaval highly revealing of the stresses, strains and strengths that underlie the nation's dynamic world image.

Prime Minister Masayoshi Ohira's Liberal Democratic Party government was brought down on a no-confidence motion introduced by the Socialists. It was not, however, the Diet opposition that did Ohira in but the defection of a large bloc of his own LDP deputies.

While a setback for Ohira, this is by no means necessarily the disaster for the LDP that it could be in a more ideologically oriented Western party.

The Liberal Democratic Party, Japan's dominant political presence since the American occupation, bears its name in all respects. It is a coalition of conservative interest groups, most with close business and industry links, in which policy and leadership are determined by alliances and advantage trading among its blocs.

It's time to regain our self-respect, our prestige, our leadership in the world. We, too, want Peace... and a secure and prosperous America for tomorrow.

But these do not come by wishful thinking. Or from the whimpering of an emasculated military.

Or from political squabbling which further erodes our Nation's strength. Peace can only be assured when it is reinforced by strength!

IT'S TIME TO SPEAK WITH COURAGE AND BOLD VOICE!

— TIME TO MAKE OUR NATION STRONG ENOUGH TO DETER ANY AGGRESSOR, to enforce the peace.

— Time to make our foreign policy one of firmness, commanding respect by friend and foe alike.

— Time to make our Nation's reputation such as to discourage aggression, give hope to the oppressed, and establish an environment for peace and justice to develop throughout our world.

Our best tribute to the memory of our heroes, martyrs, and the best hope for a world living in peace and security.

Is to assure the American Nation, will reclaim its priority in power, in peace, and in prestige. For the "also rans" are the losers, and there will be no second race in a nuclear contest.

Finaco in the Iranian desert? Sandstorm. Equipment failure. Mission aborted. Flying explosion.

Eight young men in Air Force blue join countless others whose names become but memories on the lists of fallen martyrs who have died in the military service of the American nation.

Courage and valor were their methods. Respect and honor are our tribute. In memory of those who died in freedom's name.

On Memorial Day we became patriotic... briefly!

We wave the flag. We listen to a few speeches. We spring to attention as rifle shots salute the dead.

We bow reverently as the bugle whistles "taps." We have "done our thing!" We have honored our hero-dead.

Do we believe in America? Do we want to see her survive? In Afghanistan, in the Persian Gulf, in Latin America, in Cuba —

We have been out-negotiated, out-foxed, out-manuevered. Our nuclear superiority has vanished. Our military capability has diminished. Our prestige has plummeted.

We have "lost face" with both the weak and mighty of the earth.

We weep. We whimper. We appease. We speak too softly. And nobody listens!

JACK ANDERSON

No One Up There Ever Liked Him

WASHINGTON — Three refugees from the Watergate era — G. Gordon Liddy, John Ehrlichman and Spiro Agnew — have been promoting their latest books on TV talk shows at my discomfort.

The incomprehensible Liddy has cordially confessed that he had plotted my liquidation. He called this "justifiable homicide" because my reporting supposedly had resulted in the Soviet detection and torture of a CIA undercover man.

Ehrlichman allowed that he would not have been a party to anything so base as putting out my lights forever. But he confirmed gravely that my reporting had exposed not a CIA agent in Russia but a CIA informant in India.

Agnew merely implied that my elimination would have been a desideratum that would add to the sum of human happiness. But when he was asked why he had allowed the Food Fair supermarket chain to stock his pantry with free food while he was vice president, he explained it on the grounds that I, too, had received free groceries from Food Fair.

May I be permitted a brief response? Ehrlichman allowed to my India-Pakistan stories, detailing the administration's tilt toward Pakistan, which were published before the Christmas of 1971. Yet Nixon waited until the following February to unleash his watchdogs on me. This coincided with my investigation of the ITT scandal, which badly embarrassed Nixon. I published an incriminating memo written by ITT lobbyist Dick Beard. I also reported that Nixon had received two secret cash contributions of $50,000 each from industrialist Howard Hughes.

It was embarrassments such as these, not the exposing of some unnamed CIA informant, that infuriated Nixon. Ex-White House aide Charles Colson has testified that he was asked "many times" by President Nixon to take action "to discredit" Jack Anderson.

To this end, the CIA assigned 18 radio cars to keep my operation under surveillance. The Pentagon, according to its former security chief W. Donald Stewart, conducted at least 11 separate investigations of me, spending expense. The FBI secretly grabbed my telephone records, and the Internal Revenue Service conducted a penetrating, year-long audit of my finances.

This should have been intimation enough that someone in the White House didn't like me, but I never dreamed my popularity had fallen so low that Liddy would seek to do me in. He got his motivation, whether by omens or otherwise, from Richard Nixon, who was concerned about his own fate, not some CIA informant's.

As for Spiro Agnew, I have a sporting proposition. If he can prove that I received free food deliveries from Food Fair as he did, I'll keep him supplied with food for a year. But if he can't prove it, then he should pay my grocery bills for a year. Fair enough, Spiro?

MEMO TO THE PENTAGON — Most Americans are willing to spend whatever it takes to keep the United States strong enough to safeguard the national security. They don't begrudge the Pentagon its growing share of the tax dollar — as long as the money is spent efficiently.

But there are too many generals and admirals who act like small boys let loose in a toy store with a rich uncle's credit card. These prodigal brass hats lavish the taxpayers' money on fancy gadgets that actually subtract from a weapon's efficiency as they add to its cost.

A typical example is the Army's XM-1 tank. The super-expensive, super-expensive battle wagon is equipped with a "robo-gimmick" the designers could dream up. Unconscionably, such forgotten basics as the turbine engine, hydraulic system and fuel lines keep breaking down.

Recent tests at Fort Knox, for example, showed that the XM-1 could go only 140 to 160 miles on a tank of gas instead of the 275 to 375 miles required. Air filters, necessary to keep dust from clogging the finicky turbine engines, had to be changed every 75 to 100 miles.

The Pentagon has boob-poo-bled these tanks and has authorized the Chrysler Corp. to increase its production this year from 110 to 353 tanks, at about $1 million per copy. And there are no rebates for the taxpayers.

Rangers 'Bean' Angels

By United Press International — The Rangers' 15-hit attack shamed the game had to be like that, Texas third baseman Buddy Bell said Monday night.

"Absolutely not," he said. "I was trying to work him before he could get going."

Grubb, looking back on the game, realized Kison probably wasn't throwing at him, but he admitted he wasn't thinking of that at the time.

He said, "I think I got caught up in the way the game was going and when I hit I began long before that."

Bell was ejected in the sixth when he charged the mound after flying out because he thought pitcher Bruce Kison had thrown at him on the previous pitch.

In other games, Detroit hit hampered New York, Milwaukee ripped Seattle, 11-1, Oakland downed Kansas City, 4-1, Baltimore rapped Cleveland, 7-3, Toronto beat Boston, 2-1, and Chicago defeated Minnesota, 6-3.

Spring Jamboree Thursday Night

Grid Picking Hazardous To Reputation

From The Sidelines

By JOE DeSANTIS Herald Sports Editor

If the recent Seminole County intraquad football games are indications of things to come in the fall, prep teams and coaches will do a good job of embarrassing local sports writers once again.

One short season ago, picking Friday night's winners became journalistic suicide. Can it happen again? You can bet your forward pass it can, and count on it.

With the exception of the Lake Howell Silver Hawks, all county grid squads squared off in intraquad games in preparation for Thursday night's annual Spring Jamboree to be held at Seminole High.

The Oviedo Lions play Friday night at St. Cloud in the 3A get together.

A visit to the Lyman, Seminole and Lake Brantley games immediately conjured up images of 0-for-five Friday night prognostications.

Remember, Seminole won the Five Star Conference with a 5-5 slate a year ago, and a .500 record or 6-4 might well do the trick this season.

It is of course early, and a little more will be known about strengths and weaknesses following the Thursday night action, but all indications thus far point to balance around the entire county come September.

Jerry Posey's Seminoles went through a surprisingly smooth intraquad game last week that saw the Orange team edged out by the White 16-14. Few fumbles, few penalties and some pretty fair running and tackling were keynotes.

Posey wants a look at his defensive secondary and a spot or two on the offensive line, two areas he thinks the Seminoles need to improve upon due to graduation.

For the Tribe, running backs Wayne Pace and Jim Voltoline turned in some of the better performances of the night while Cap Brown sparked on defense from his midline linebacker position.

Last November Lyman's Mike Andriano stepped into the Rotary Bowl for an injured Jeff Myers late in the ball game and came close to passing the Greyhounds past the Edgewater Eagles.

Andriano looks like he'll pick up right where he left off. The slightly-built quarterback passed for over 260 yards in Lyman's Blue-Gold game.

Greyhound boss Bill Scott faces some of the same problems Posey at Seminole does. The Greyhounds must rebuild the defensive secondary and find someone to fill the blocking shoes of A.J. Brooks.

Lyman offers a new wrinkle this season with more pro sets on offense, utilizing Andriano's quickness in the backfield and passing prowess. Don't forget cat-quick Audie Cleveland is still lurking in the backfield too.

Depth is the major concern for coach Sammy Wier at Lake Howell as it was in his first year as head coach. But the Silver Hawks got a taste of winning a year ago on their way to a 4-6 record, best in the school's 4A history, and look hungrier in '80.

Wier will be playing a couple of stalwarts both ways this season and will need to stay healthy to remain in the chase. Plan on the Silver Hawks being there.

First quarter action is scheduled to begin at 6:30 p.m. Advance tickets at the participating schools are $1.25 and $2.00 at the gate.

And what about Joe Montgomery's Lions, who took Central Florida by storm last season.

Well Monty has shifted a few folks around and although he won't have several of last season's outstanding players around, the Lions looked like a pretty fair football squad with loads of potential during their intraquad game.

Remember too, the Lions tasted victory, big time victory last year, which can only wet his young squad's appetite for more.

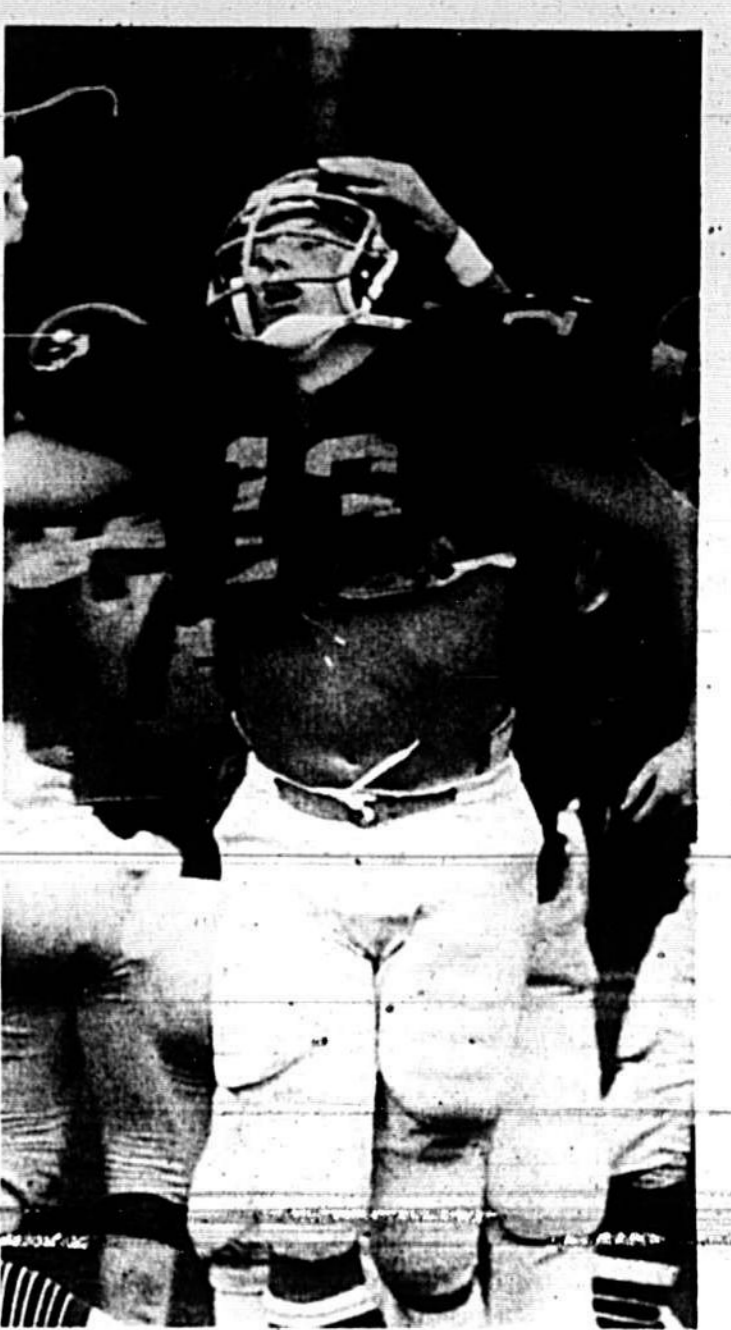

Outside of Seminole County the conference looks a little stronger than it did a year ago.

Deland's Bulldog's won their last four and have a lot of returners. Mainland has superior team speed and several veterans back. Spivey Creek is probably the hardest to graders who front line players while the Apopka Blue Darters proved they can be competitive since graduating from 3A to 4A ball a season ago.

There are rumors that a special clinic will be put on by Madam Showalter prior to the football start in September. This reporter has already made reservations after last year's patty 368 picking percentage.

Thursday night's jamboree action looks like this:

This Oviedo griddler will be one of many prep players getting fired up for Thursday and Friday's Spring Jamboree action slated for Seminole High and St. Cloud.

Trucking Business

EVERYTHING WAS WORKED OUT, but it didn't take him long to find out that everybody was worked up instead.

Children, chairman of the Senate Commerce Committee, called his panel to order Monday for what he figured would be final approval of the controversial trucking deregulation proposal.

Members had worked hard on the bill Friday and were ready with a compromise to phase out rules over the next 18 months and open up the tightly knit trucking business to competition.

But a sandstorm of protest hit and the legislation stalled. No bill came out of the committee and that meant no bill will go to the floor until the final days of the session.

Dental Treatments Can Harm Breath

DEAR DR. LAMB - My dentist and I have been having a bit of trouble with my breath. I've had a tube inserted into my nose and down my throat and it revealed that I didn't produce enough gastric acid to digest my food.

He prescribed a liquid eyedropper type medication. I put two or four drops in a glass of water and took it with meals. It helped immensely but gave me a burning sensation in my throat. I stopped taking it for awhile and since then my doctor has passed away. The drug would give it to me without a prescription.

I was wondering if you know the name of the medication and if I can find it in a tablet form, possibly in a health food store since it was some kind of acid. I'm 33 and have lived with this problem all my life. I just can't face all those tests and embarrassment again with another doctor.

DEAR READER - If you've read my previous columns on breath problems, you'll know that this is a symptom. It can be caused by dental problems that require dental treatment so you were wise to see a dentist. It can be caused by sinus infections and that's why people sometimes get relief from the problem with treatments from ear, nose and throat specialists.

Incidentally, it's seldom caused by bad tonsils, although in a very few cases in which there are severely infected tonsils present, it can certainly cause a person to have bad breath. The truth is an infection anywhere along the respiratory system can cause the bad odor.

Bad breath can come from a chemical imbalance in the body. A lot of people who have bad breath come out of nowhere. It can be caused by a number of digestive and metabolic disorders that can cause bad breath and all of them require medical treatment. Incidentally, if you do have achlorhydria, it can cause other difficulties. So you really shouldn't overlook the problem.
