Former Top U.S. Official

Against Arming Pakistan

WASHINGTON (UPI) - Supplying arms to Afghan guerrillas fighting the Russian invaders could lead to Soviet intervention into Pakistan, a former State Department official writes.

Christopher Van Hollen, former deputy assistant Secretary of State for Near Eastern and South Asian Affairs, said providing weapons to the insurgents might "be the policy least likely to drive the Soviet Union out of Afghanistan."

Now a senior associate at the Carnegie Endowment for International Peace, Van Hollen said if the United States arms the Afghan guerrillas, "It is safe to assume that the Soviets would take retaliatory measures, first deploying forces along Afghanistan's eastern border, then possibly making countermoves across the border into Pakistan - 'hot pursuit' missions or bombing raids on refugee camps on the pretext that they were rebel sanctuaries."

Colombia Rules Out Force

BOGOTA, Colombia (UPI) - Colombia has ruled out the use of force to free 20 foreign diplomats, including the U.S. ambassador, despite an impasse in negotiations with leftist guerrillas holding the captives at the Dominican Embassy.

As the siege wore on, a new round of talks to break the 13-day stalemate were expected to begin by midafternoon today. Three negotiating sessions between the government and the leftists have been fruitless.

"The Colombian government has given its word of honor that there will not be the slightest provocation against the embassy as long as there is no attempt against the lives of the hostages," Interior Minister

German Zea said Sunday.

Philippines Attack: 30 Dead

MANILA, Philippines (UPI) - Suspected Moslem separatists staged terrorist grenade attacks on movie theaters and a crowded public square in two southern cities, killing at least 30 people and injuring hundreds of others.

The attacks Sunday in the rebellion-torn Mindanao region, 500 miles south of Manila, were the worst in seven years of martial law.

One suspected bomber was in custody today, but police refused to give any details. Authorities said they believed the bombings were the work of the Moro National Liberation Front, which has been waging a war for Moslem self-rule that has claimed more than 60,000 lives since 1972.

HURLES EADING 1 Mugabe To Form Government

SALISBURY, Rhodesia (UPI) - Prime Ministerdesignate Robert Mugabe says his work on forming a government including black rivals and representatives of the white minority should be complete today. The guerrilla leader also told Rhodesia's Sunday

Mail newspaper that he has decided to reserve the defense portfolio for himself. On Saturday, Mugabe's ZANU-PF Party canceled news conference at which he had been expected to announce what posts would go to the party of rival guerrilla chief Joshua Nkomo. The cancellation sparked speculation that Mugabe and Nkomo had had a falling out. "We are still considering everything," Mugabe said.

"There is nothing that has been refused as such."

Firms Show No Interest In Cemetery

Sanford officials have been unable to find a lawn-care firm interested in servicing the city cemetery on 25th Street. City Manager Warren Knowles will tell the city commission at its 7 p.m. meeting today that although requests for proposals were sent to 15 private firms, none responded. City commissioners instructed Knowles several weeks ago to seek the proposals, noting contracting the work with a private firm might cut down on the expense. Knowles, in a report to the commission, said ground maintenance operating costs total $41,961 annually. Total estimated cost of operating the cemetery is $51,130 annually with $11,631 in revenues, "leaving a $39,494 subsidy by the city, Knowles said. The city manager has recommended the city commission

Maine Voters To Decide Future Of Nuclear Plant

AUGUSTA, Maine (UPI) - Anti-nuclear forces have obtained enough signatures to make Maine the first state where voters will decide whether to shut down a nuclear plant with a proposal to ban nuclear power. Secretary of State Rodney S. Quinn said Sunday 5,383 signatures collected by the anti-nuclear Nuclear Referendum Committee on petitions calling for such a referendum had been validated. Only 27,026 signatures were needed.

A decision to "prohibit the generation of nuclear power in Maine" would force the state's only nuclear power plant - the 600-megawatt Maine Yankee plant in Wiscasset - to shut down.

Hijackings Incense Castro

MIAMI (UPI) - Cuban President Fidel Castro, ncensed by a series of ship hijackings to Florida, has threatened to begin welcoming hijackers of U.S. planes to Cuba.

An anti-hijacking agreement between the United States and Cuba lapsed in 1976, but the Cubans have continued to honor it.

However, Castro said Saturday that if the United States fails to halt what he called illegal trips by Cuban political refugees to Florida, no punitive action would be taken against hijackers of U.S. planes.

Since October large groups of Cubans have hijacked at least three Cuban vessels and a Liberian freighter visiting Cuban ports and forced them to sail to Florida. The U.S. government has allowed the Cuban vessels and their crews to return to Cuba but has taken no criminal action against the refuge Prosecutors Aiding Lance?

ATLANTA (UPI) - Government lawyers are shrugging off comments that witnesses they presented in Bert Lance's bank fraud trial last week actually helped swing sympathy from the jury to the defense. Detense lawyers leaned hard on government witnesses sympathetic to the former federal budget director. Despite this, prosecutor Edwin Tomko dismissed any implications that the defense is getting more points with the six-man, six-woman jury hearing the case in U.S. District Court.

Tomko said the early witnesses were all part of his strategy for prosecuting Lance, a strategy he will continue today as the trial enters its ninth week.

campaign and Rep. John Anderson is an unknown factor. That narrowed the contest for the Sunshine State's 51 GOP national convention delegates to Reagan and Bush, and both were courting support from the Connally and Baker camps. Carter heads into the Florida primary the hands-down favorite and the only unanswered question appears to be how many of the state's 100 Democratic delegates he will pocket Tuesday

"It's not a question of whether President Carter will win, but how much he'll win by," said Hazel Evans, the veteran Democratic chief of Florida's 6th congressional district. Connally's withdrawl came as no surprise following his 54-30 percent finish behind Reagan in South Carolina's Saturday primary.

Reagan, who spent the weekend campaigning in Florida, said he was confident of getting some help from Connally's camp because "we're appealing to the same group of voters." And the former California governor said "there has to be some spinoff" from his weekend win in South Carolina.

Newspaper polls released over the weekend reaffirmed Florida is "Carter Country." A poll released Saturday showed the president with a 73-15 percent lead over Edward M. Kennedy, and a poll released Sunday had Carter leading the Massachusetts Senator by 66 percent to 13 percent.

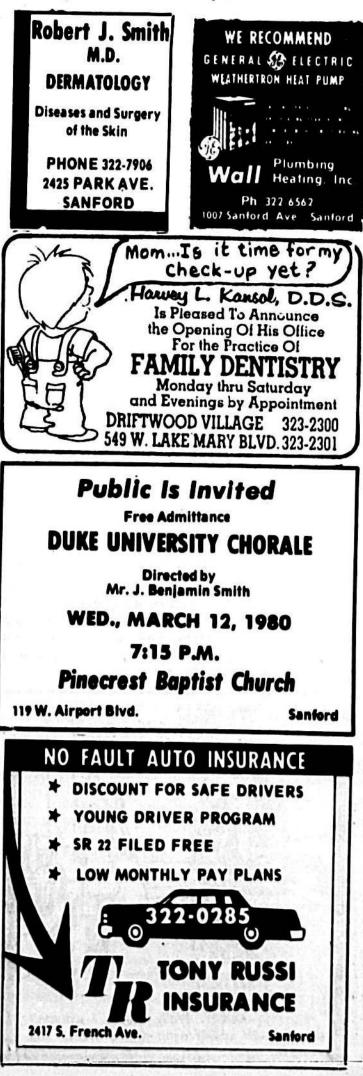

The Saturday poll had Reagan leading Bush 38 to 36 percent, but the Sunday poll showed Reagan with a 42-26 percent margin over the former CIA chief.

Florida's major newspapers gave Carter luke-warm endorsements that generally emphasized the wisdom of the party supporting an incumbent president.

Former President Gerald Ford, meanwhile, got more editorial support from Florida's newspapers than the nine Republican candidates who are listed on Tuesday's ballot None of the major newspapers who had made recom mendations by Sunday had endorsed Reagan.

State election chief Dorothy Glisson predicted 52 percent of Florida's 3.9 million registered Republicans and Democrats would go to the polls Tuesday.

Gas Rationing Plan Is Needed

Tough talk about cutting the use of gasoline by American drivers and boaters is stirring up the predictable resistance. We would make two points.

First, all the talk is only talk. None of the measures being discussed will be put into effect immediately. And none of them can be put into effect unless a serious oil shortage develops. By law, it would take a 20 percent shortfall, and that is twice the 10 percent shortage that caused panic at the pumps last year.

Second, such an oil emergency is a real possibility. We are dependent upon foreign oil. The cost of that oil is damaging the dollar, causing record levels of inflation and threatening our economy. We may be forced to reduce our imports of oil or the supply may be cut off by the producers. The wells are far away and the supply line is vulnerable. We must be prepared for the worst.

A law enacted last year requires the president to prepare a standby gasoline rationing plan. The plan prepared by the Department of Energy progress, the most fascinating is the FBI's would give coupons worth about 45 gallons of gasoline a month to owners of personal vehicles. Citizens who either do not need or do not desire to drive a lot or whose vehicles are able to get good gasoline mileage could sell their surplus coupons to other individuals whose need or desire for gasoline consumption is higher than the ration. It is estimated that the coupons would sell authentic Arab scams apparently have struck for about $1.60 a gallon.

That would be more burdensome on the poor than on the rich, more burdensome in some states Given the special difficulties of detecting than in others. There is nothing that can be done the gossamerlike crimes of politicians and the e inevitable privileges of wealth, but advantages they have over ordinary there would be a differential in the ration between avoiding prosecution, the FBI filmed the Eastern states, where distances are relatively short and public transportation systems are good, and Western states, where distances are relatively long and no convenient public transportation is available.

from those Americans who believe the unlimited burning of gasoline is their birthright. Such protests caused the House of Representatives to kill a similar gas rationing proposal last May. This time we hope the Congress will take the heat and let the president's proposals stand.

A Vain Effort

The idea of modernizing the federal criminal code goes back at least to 1966, when President Lyndon Johnson appointed a commission to go to work on the project. A massive bill rewriting the entire code first surfaced in Congress in 1973.

That bill floundered in controversy, and a redrafted version got through the Senate in 1978 schemes that could embarrass the Carter but failed to pass the House. Now the Judiciary administration. JEFFREY HART New Books Time Most newspaper columns seem to be devoted to lament, but this one isn't going to be. We seem to be living in the midst of an atleast modest literary renaissance. I've often wondered whether most people at various periods have been aware of what was going on around them in their culture. Were people during the period 1924-1926 aware that with the publication of Hemingway's "In Our Time" and "The Sun Also Rises," Fitzgerald's "Great Gatsby," Dreiser s"American Tragedy" and poems by T.S. Eliot, Edna Millay and E.E. Cummings - that they, daily, were living in the midst of an extraordinary period?

The present year or so does not quite come up to that, but it's pretty surprising neverheless. I cite a few books sure to be read 25 years from now, perhaps with increasing

In "The Right Stuff," we have the masterpiece to date of Tom Wolfe, always one of our best prose stylists, and a withering observer of the social comedy. Wolfe, however, has always operated as a satirist, and on the small scale. His amusing bugs were preserved in small beads of amber.

Beforehand, I had always shrunk a bit from his subject, the moon landing project. It had all seemed so, well, canned and dehumanized. But not in Wolfe. Here are the heroes, and they are heroes, close up. Here is the meaning of the entire enterprise, in Wolfe's evolving view, the great enterprise. He moves you, and he makes you believe it.

In "The Executioner's Song," Norman Mailer has come off the ropes and done what most observers of his career thought was now beyond him: written a major work.

Mailer is also a great, though highly uneven, stylist. As the critic Hugh Kenner has pointed out in a recent review. Mailer has adopted a series of major literary styles. In "The Naked and the Dead," he wrote as a '30s realist. In "Deer Park" and "An American Dream." he impersonated Scott Fitzgerald. In his 1960s "new journalism," he adapted the third person narrative style of Henry Adams' "Education;" the hero was "he" or "the reporter." In "The Executioner's Song," he plays a variation on the flat declarative style of Sherwood Anderson.

Whether this saga about the executed murderer Gary Gilmore is fact or fiction provides an interesting subject for theoretical debate. Since you never know where fact ends and fiction begins, I would call it fiction. But Mailer has created poetic saga of desolation, the flatness of life lived under conditions of emotional and metaphysical exhaustion, and he has done so in a perfectly adapted style. Another splendid book, and a major one.

And I would like to add a third, "The Rise of Theodore Roosevelt," the first volume of Edmund Morris' life of our Rough Rider president. This is an example of the biographer's art brought to a virtual ideal of achievement.

Seminoles Shuffle Off To Lakeland

By JOE DeSANTIS Herald Sports Editor

Seminole High's 68-58 victory over West Palm Beach Twin Lakes Saturday night proved to be pretty expensive for Tribe coach Bill Payne.

The win, for the Section 3 championship and a trip to Lakeland this week for a shot at the state 4A title, stands to cost the Seminole coach in the neighborhood of $400.

Lakeland I'd get them all new "Nike" basketball shoes," explained a happy coach in an equally happy Tribe dressing "I guess it's time to go shopping."

stretched their legs and stretched an early 10-2 first quarter lead into an almost comfortable full game control pattern. basketball championship.

The hot outside shooting of Glenn Stambaugh and the inside game of David Thomas staked the Seminoles to a 16-13 first quarter advantage, a spread they maintained at the half by a 27-24 margin.

McCray followed up a four point first quarter effort with 11 guard Tim Coney.

Following a little locker room tongue lashing at intermission, 6-6 senior center Reggie Butler came alive to score third quarter opening buckets to push Seminole in front by seven. McCray equalled his 15 point first half with another 15 i quarters three and four to neutralize Coney's clutch shooting, but Seminole's balance proved too much for the taller Rams. "They aren't what you would call real big, probably average team size," pointed out Twin Lakes coach Alvin Wright. "But they can jump, they took it to us on the boards."

And how far does the convinced Wright feel the high jumping Tribe can go? "If they continue to play like they did against us "I told them at the beginning of the season if they got me to they can go all the way, they can play with anybody." Payne will settle for a shorter outing to Lakeland, considering the distance his team has had to travel in beating both Ft. Pierce Central and West Palm Beach on the road. "I guess I won't need these," smiled Payne, holding tickets Payne's Seminoles did a little toe-shuffling of their own he had purchased for the state tournament weeks ago. "Now Saturday. Following a four hour bus ride the Seminoles my wife and some of the family can see the tournament." Thomas, who ripped a game high 14 rebounds to go along with Butler's 11 and 13 points nicely complemented a few well Quite a change from the Tribe's last minute antics that have placed Kieth Whitney jumpers to round out the Seminole carried it to the door step of Seminole High's first over state scoring. Whitney finished with 11 points while fellow guard Glenn Stambaugh chipped in six along with a few nifty assists. Coney paced the Rams with 17 to go along with forward Dwayne Turner's 17 and Doug Wallace's 13. "It feels good. We're right where we want to be," com-

When NBC projects the winners of the presidential preference primary in Florida shortly after the polls close at 7 p.m., the views of the voters of Seminole County's precinct 33 in Longwood will be part of that projection. Laurin Milton of Fern Park was stationed on the front porch at Longwood city hall this morning asking the voters as they came out of the polling place to answer a number of questions on an NBC

Milton said the voters were being very cooperative in filling out the lengthy polling sheet. Milton's responses to questions about the poll were the same: "I don't know." It was not known why the television network chose precinct 33; how the pollsters were chosen or how the questions were composed and selected. Carolyn Churchill, a researcher with election headquarters at NBC-Tampa said today the information and the process used in the poll are confidential." Eligible to cast ballots in precinct 33, which includes most of the old section of Longwood, were 1,451 people, including 856 Democrats, 472 Republicans and 123 from splinter parties.

Poll workers reported a steady flow of voters in that particular precinct. Only Democrats and Republicans could vote their preference in the respective contests. But all voters were considering two state constitutional amendments - limiting the jurisdiction of the Florida Supreme Court and raising the homestead exemption to $25,000.

Seminole Supervisor of Elections Camilla Bruce's office said the only problem reported from the presidency? the polls this morning came from Altamonte.
