Truancy sweep nets 38 students

SANFORD—A week-long crack down on Seminole County students who skip class netted a total of 38 students a trip to the Seminole County Juvenile Detention Center this week.

School district officials teamed up with the Seminole County Sheriff's office this week to draw attention to the problem and create a heightened sense of awareness. Students who were picked up during school hours were taken to the juvenile detention center and had to remain there during normal school hours unless their parents came and picked them up after being notified by authorities.

The word of the crack down apparently contributed in a steady decline as the week went on. Monday 17 students were picked up while another 14 were nabbed on Tuesday.

Numbers for the remainder of the week dwindled as two were apprehended Wednesday, three more students were picked up Thursday, and two were taken into custody Friday.

Irene soaks Central Florida

Forecasters worried more about rain, flooding than winds

By Joe DeSantis
Staff Writer

SANFORD — Seminole County's Emergency Operations center remains at Status Level 1 entering the weekend, but officials are keeping an eye on Hurricane Irene as it makes its way across the state.

By Saturday morning Irene was predicted to be off the coast of Ft. Myers and then take an unpredictable track. The ninth hurricane of the season is relatively weak and loosely organized.

Rainfall predictions range from 6 to 12 inches for the Central Florida area with wind gusts that may approach 25 to 40 miles per hour. As opposed to Hurricane Floyd last month, public safety officials are more concerned about storm water and possible localized flooding than significant wind damage.

"We'll continue to monitor Irene over the weekend, and if the need arises will pull in additional staff," said Public Safety public information officer Paula Ritchey. "We've spoken with our storm-water people and the Public Works department will be staffed throughout the weekend in the See Irene, Page 6A

Visibility on State Road 417 across Lake Jessup was extremely low as rains from Hurricane Irene drenched the Central Florida region Friday.

Earning His Stars

Gen. Ronald O. Harrison, left, pins a star on David Godwin during a ceremony promoting Godwin to Brigadier General. Godwin's wife, Frankie, assisted with the pinning ceremony.

SANFORD — The general had stood on the same dark hardwood floor of the National Guard Armory in Sanford many times before. In fact, his son Jay remembered skate-boarding on the floor.

That was more than 20 years ago, David Godwin said, before he dared to dream he'd rise to the rank of Brigadier General.

"It didn't seem all that likely to happen to a young captain who commanded the Guard in this very building," Godwin said.

On Friday afternoon, the unexpected happened. Jay Godwin, 33, came in from Kentucky to join his mom and sister, as Maj. General Ronald O. Harrison gave Godwin his general's pins. Jay wasn't on skateboards this time, just walking tall.

The pinning ceremony lasted a half hour. Godwin had to leave his wife Frankie, and his children immediately following the ceremony to assume command in Army National Guard hurricane support in Tampa.

"This isn't unusual," 28-year-old Lucinda Godwin said. "Dad missed my first 10 birthdays. We're very proud of his achievements. Proud to be with him today."

Upon getting pinned, Godwin thanked his family.

"Each of you had to put up with a lot and do without," he said. "I'm very grateful for your love and support. This would not be happening today if not for you."

Gen. Godwin, 51, is a native Floridian. He was born in Orlando and played tackle for Boone High School's football team. He graduated from Florida Southern College and was See General, Page 6A

Police look for bank robber

Suspect also attempted to rob liquor store

By Joe DeSantis
Staff Writer

SANFORD — Sanford police are investigating a Friday afternoon robbery at the Central Florida Educator's Credit Union on 25th and Park Avenue.

A white male entered the credit union at approximately 3:30 p.m. while the facility was filled with customers. He approached one teller and implied he had a weapon before obtaining approximately $700 and leaving. Witnesses said he drove away in a large gray vehicle of undetermined model. The suspect is described as 5 feet 7 inches tall and weighing about 165-175 pounds. Authorities indicate he has some type of scar or mark above his left eye.

Sanford detective Kris Ziegler said the credit union robber is also being sought for an attempted robbery at a nearby liquor store on Calery and Sanford Avenue just moments before the credit union heist.

"It was a pretty cut and dried case," said Ziegler. "The credit union was packed at the time and there was no disturbance. The video tape makes it appear as if nothing out of the ordinary happened."

British company eyes return to Sanford airport

By Bill Kerns
Staff Writer

SANFORD — One of the British tour operators that Sanford's airport lost earlier this year to the Orlando International Airport may return to Sanford.

Although a formal contract has not yet been signed, Caledonian Airways has agreed to return its service to Sanford, bringing an additional 60,000 to 70,000 passengers per year to the Orlando Sanford Airport.

Larry Gouldthorpe, President of the airport's terminal operator Orlando Sanford International (OSI), said that Caledonian Airways has agreed in principle to return at full service to Sanford in April, 2000.

"We are working on a long-term agreement with Caledonian," Gouldthorpe said.

SCC hosts career fair Oct. 19

By Joe DeSantis
Staff Writer

SANFORD — Understanding how the world of work works in a rapidly changing technological environment has led to the need for a better understanding of the requirements and credentials necessary for both entry level hiring, and continued advancement.

Seminole Community College addresses those issues Tuesday, Oct. 19, during its Annual Career Exploration Fair. The college is giving students and the public an opportunity to do some one-stop shopping from 10 a.m. until 2 p.m. in the main library concourse.

More than 200 area business are expected to be on hand to discuss with students and others seeking career information the educational requirements, skills, and training necessary to be successful now and in the future. SCC officials will likewise have representatives on hand during the expo to discuss program and course offerings designed to fill those needs.

"It's an event that has grown each year," said SCC spokesman Robert Lyles. "We have a good turnout from businesses and a good turnout from students."

Lyles said he wanted to emphasize that the focus of the expo is about education requirements and training and educational programs available to meet those requirements.

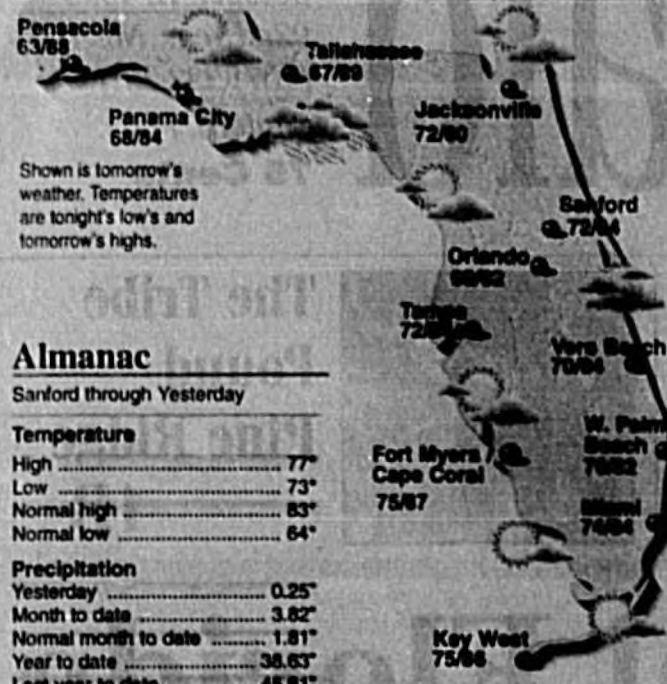

"This isn't necessarily a job-hiring fair although some of that may happen," he explained.

"It's designed more as a free resource for people to understand what kind of education and See SCC, Page 6A

Why Bush called Tony Tizzio

Tony Tizzio was born in Brooklyn, too late to ever see the Dodgers play baseball. He played baseball awhile, but it was difficult. Tizzio has cerebral palsy. From childhood, he has concentrated on doing verbally what he couldn't do physically.

He doesn't dwell on the fact that he was never able to ride a bike, roller skate or drive a car, choosing instead to extend the energies he has to help others like himself.

Russ White

"There are some very brave people," he says, "men and women far more disabled than I am."

It helps, he says, to have a sense of humor. "We have to guard against getting down on ourselves. Everyone can laugh off some of the small stuff. Even a pretzel like me can laugh. And it almost always helps."

Frequently, when he gets frustrated or angered, Tizzio relies on a quick quip. "It's not so much being angry about the way we are but the anger of having to rely on others," he said. "Some disabled people can't get over the anger, and it makes them miserable. Why be disabled and miserable, too?"

Tizzio, a resident of Casselberry, is the chairman of the Disability Advisory Council of Seminole County. This week, he was appointed to serve on the State of Florida Commission for the Transportation Disadvantaged.

"I have some war stories about transportation," Tizzio said. "Every time a disabled person has to go somewhere it's a war. Very few of us can drive. A-Lynx provides a service, but it takes time and a lot of patience."

On Thursday night, after the Disability Advisory Council had met, a driver brought a van to pick up Tizzio and two other council members. The van arrived at 8:30 p.m. Tizzio got home at 10:30 p.m. "We dropped off the other two members first, and the driver got lost," Tizzio said.

At 43, Tizzio lives with his parents — Fred and Louise. Fred Tizzio is a retired printer. Tony has a younger brother who is a police detective. Tony was 18 when he came to Central Florida. He had been enrolled in special schools in New York. He got his high school degree in classes at Seminole Community College. He then went to UCF.

"It was a challenge being outside for the first time — out of the cocoon," Tizzio said. "It was good for me to find out what was real."

Tizzio has spent half his life as an advocate for the disabled. He produced and was host for a public access TV show called Special People. He also wrote a column of that name for the Herald.

Special is a good way to describe Tony Tizzio. Jeb Bush thinks so.

Russ White's column appears Tuesday through Saturday in the Seminole Herald.

Editorial & Opinion

Check the Tape II Controversy continues regarding pay raises in Longwood Strong opinions can stir controversy and that, no doubt, is what our editorial did last week ("Check the Tape," Oct. 17). In that editorial, we accused the mayor of Longwood, Paul Lovestrand, of playing politics regarding a $500 pay raise for city employees. Specifically, the editorial argued that the mayor was wrong to say the vote approving the pay raise made it effective Oct. 1.

In the editorial, we wrote: "At no time, at any point in the discussion or vote was any consideration given to making the raises retroactive to Oct. 1 of this year. Nada, not word one." We then asked the mayor and the public to "check the tape" of the meeting as proof of the Herald's assertion.

Upon further review of the tape, the Herald has discovered a clarification needs to be made. While we stand behind the editorial, we need to point out that our claim of "Nada, not word one," is wrong. We made a mistake in making such a blanket statement because, in fact, a single mention of an Oct. 1 start date was made during the meeting.

It occurred four hours into the Longwood City Commission meeting, at approximately 11 p.m., when Lovestrand made a motion to amend the proposed budget.

"I'm suggesting we add another $63,000 and assure that all the workers in our city get a $500 raise, at least, going back to last December and make it effective this October. And, so, I would like to offer that by way of an amendment," Lovestrand said.

While we will concede our mistake, we do not back away from the editorial's premise — the measure ultimately approved by the commission makes the pay raise effective on the employee's anniversary.

Listen to the tape and you will notice that none of the four commissioners second the mayor's motion. Furthermore, no one on the commission, including the mayor, mentions October as a start date for the raises during the discussion that follows. Instead, most of the discussion centers on whether the city has enough money to pay for the raises, and where that money will come from in the budget.

At 11:26 p.m., 26 minutes after the mayor's original motion which never received a second, Lovestrand again makes a motion:

"Hearing no more discussion, I'm going to offer a motion to include a $500 raise to everyone in the city on top of what we have given — is there a second?"

This time, Commissioner Steve Miller seconds the motion. No word of a start date is mentioned in the motion. The motion is simply "to include a $500 raise to everyone" on top of the raises already in the proposed budget. Neither Lovestrand nor Miller, mentions anything about an effective date of Oct. 1.

After six minutes of more discussion about how the city will pay for the raises, Lovestrand, City Administrator John Drago and Commissioner Dan Anderson clarify the mayor's motion:

Lovestrand: "This is a motion on the amendment to add $90,000 in raises."

Anderson: "Didn't we say $91,000?"

Drago: "Let's just say a $500 pay raise. The $500 pay raise is to be given to them after the calculation of the cost of living and the merit increase."

Lovestrand: "Right."

Drago: "When that figure is calculated, the $500 goes on top of that figure."

Lovestrand: "Right. And it does not include the overhead — uh, excuse me, the benefit package and the social security."

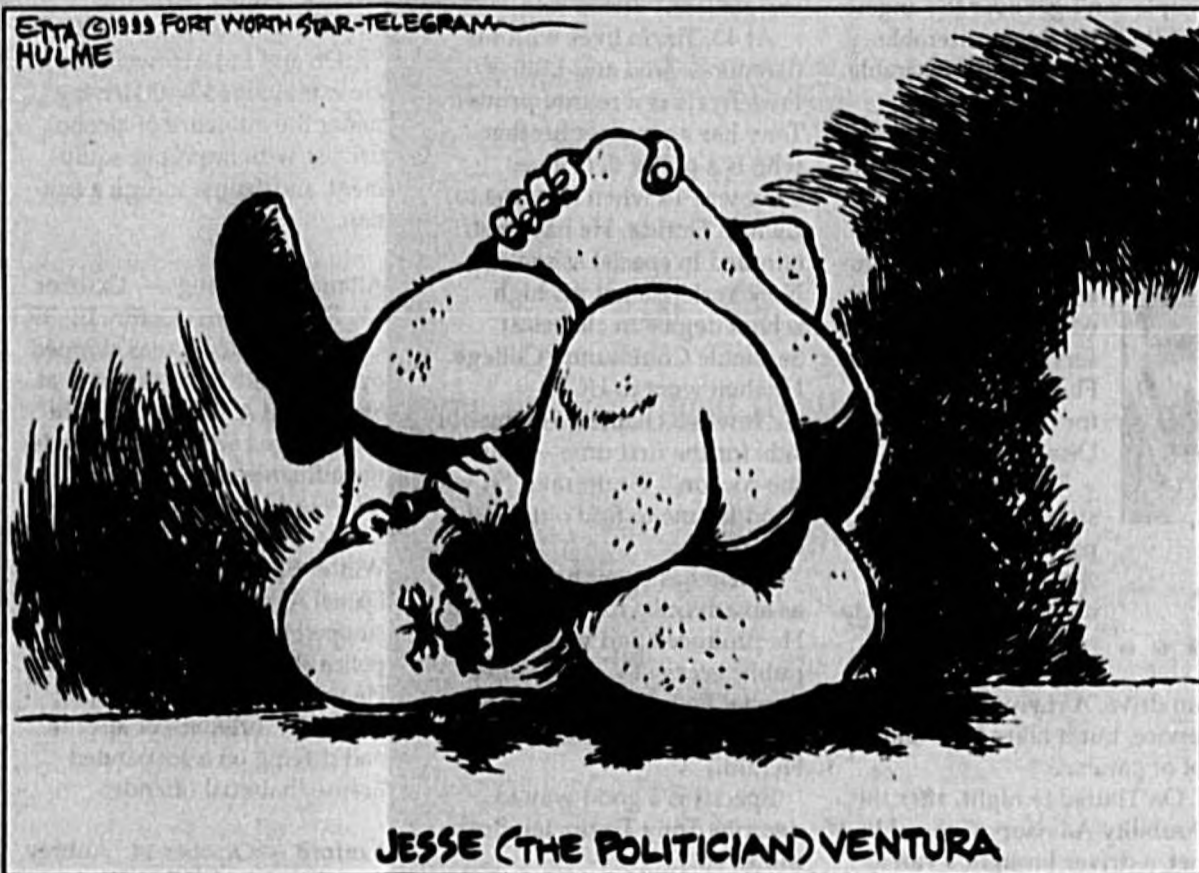

Drago: "I have to calculate that in there, but it's going to be predicated on after the fact, not before the fact."

This conversation, which occurs just moments before the vote is taken on the motion, is key for two reasons: One, no mention is made of an Oct. 1 start date for raises; and two, Drago, who as city administrator must actually implement the raise, states that his understanding is the raises are to be given after the cost-of-living and merit increases are calculated. Lovestrand agrees.

Under the contract the city of Longwood has with its employee union, cost-of-living adjustments are effective Oct. 1 and merit pay increases are calculated on the employee's job placement date. Therefore, if the $500 raise is given to employees after cost-of-living and merit increases, it would come on the employees' anniversary date, not Oct. 1.

The mayor, of course, disagrees with our review of the tape. He believes the Herald has some vendetta against him supporting the pay raise. We at the Herald actually favor the pay raise and are indifferent to when it is given to employees. The employees deserve the raise and it should come whenever the commission believes it is appropriate.

What is not appropriate is the mayor's attempt to use intimidation and petty politics to place blame on others when the blame squarely sits on his shoulders. His intention may have been to make the raises effective in October, but that simply is not the motion he made. The blame for failing to clearly communicate his intentions belongs to Lovestrand, not the city administrator, not some clerical error, and not the Seminole Herald.

Your View

Longwood mayor takes issue with Herald editorial

To the editor:

Your editorial of Oct. 10 entitled "Check the Tape" was not truthful concerning the raise given to Longwood City Employees. I checked the tape as you challenged.

To quote the editorial, "At no time, at any point in the discussion or vote was any consideration given to making the raises retroactive to Oct. 1 of this year. Nada, not word one...." The tape clearly shows otherwise, that as part of the motion I said, "and make it effective in October."

You also said, "There was a clear consensus and agreement that the $500 raises would be granted on the anniversary date of each employee...." Wrong again! The tape gives no such indication.

The editorial also pieced together an erroneous chronology of events to indicate that I was buying union support for two candidates. Our city administrator confirmed that this chronology was also fabricated.

In addition to the errors in the editorial, some pertinent facts were missing. Those candidates who received union support were given that commitment way back in early September as a result of being interviewed by union representatives. The only consideration, asked by the unions was to listen and treat the employees fairly. No deals were made. If you have evidence to the contrary, it is probably criminal; take it to the state attorney.

The reasons for the raises are simple. Longwood has had the lowest governmental pay scales in the county. There was justification for no raises in 1991 and 1992 when the city was in financial crisis. Back then we had an austerity program, cutting budgets, eliminating employees and giving no raises. Now, however the city has turned around and is in excellent financial condition. We have no debt and record surpluses. It's time to pay back the employees who sacrificed to bring us through the tough times. The second reason for the raises is because we have been losing skilled help, especially in the fire and police divisions. The cost of training new employees justifies the raises.

Are your sensational headlines and injurious articles designed to increase circulation? Does the end justify the means? Paul Lovestrand Mayor of Longwood

A word from the WISE organization

To the editor:

W.I.S.E (weapons in School Eliminated) is pleased that the students at Lake Brantley High School notified authorities regarding the possibility of a weapon on campus.

Reporting dangerous situations on campus is an act of good citizenship, and can help save the lives of students and faculty.

W.I.S.E. was initiated at Lake Brantley High School almost three years ago, and has been responsible for the recovery of several weapons. It encourages students to "break" the code of silence via a confidential phone call.

Students carry a pocket-sized W.I.S.E. card, which has the telephone number to report suspicious letters, Page 5A

Who heard our concerns?

At an Administrative Hearing recently, the Society for the Preservation of Fort Mellon Park challenged the proposed changes to Sanford's Comprehensive Plan, which were intended to permit commercial development in the Park.

From the beginning, the Society felt it was important to challenge the proposed changes in zoning and future land use. Which we did, with the generous volunteer work of a planning expert from our own number. Presentations were made to the Planning and Zoning Commission and the City Commission. We're not sure how much was really "heard" by Commissioners. They passed the changes, to clear the way for a hotel/conference center in the middle of the Park.

Eventually, the state agency responsible found the changes "in compliance." How much did DCA "hear" of our testimony? We're not really sure. City officials lobbied in Tallahassee for the changes. The Society did not muster the resources to do that.

As provided by the rules, the Society filed a petition and a hearing date was set by the state Division of Administrative Hearings. After much searching for available and affordable assistance, Society members made the decision to proceed without legal counsel and "experts." More than a month before the hearing date, the City asserted in a motion to the court that the Society "cannot prevail without expert witness testimony," and raised the prospect of seeking to recover attorney's fees and costs. At the Hearing, in addition to labeling almost all the Society's material as irrelevant, immaterial, and prejudicial (though much of it was documents issued by official bodies), lawyers put out a blizzard of objections. Making good on their threat to impose thousands of dollars in costs against us, lawyers for the City secured a Voluntary Dismissal of the Hearing. Conduct of the lawyers may well have been simply lawyers doing what they do. But one thing seems clear to me: the basic purpose of the City of Sanford in this proceeding was to assure that there would be no real exploration of the issues the society wanted to present.

Who "heard" us? How can citizens be heard? Who can speak for quality of life, to counter the influence of those with a financial motive? One can imagine that one of the more powerful lobbies in Tallahassee is made up of "experts" who shape a system that guarantees high fees will keep rolling in. Is "dueling experts" the most effective way to produce wise decisions for the public?

Today, many in our state consider the interests of tourists and investors more worthy than concern for the quality of life of those of us already here. They call this economic progress. I call it economic imperialism.

What to do? First, a hard look at the quality of our elected officials is important. Fortunately, we get to do that every few years. It's called voting. Beyond that, if expert testimony is to be a prerequisite to effective participation in Administrative Hearings, then citizens should have some other means of access. It is one thing for an established business or city government to set aside money for legal fees and expert See Hunt, Page 5A

Fann finds things to gripe about

To the editor:

Russ White invites comment by asking, "Do you have anything worth griping about." Yes, I do.

Unbridled progress like unbridled capitalism can become "the mother of all problems." Examples abound, but the city of Los Angeles and Robber Barons come to mind. Don't be surprised that a social and economic conservative can support a role for government in the big scheme of things. Otherwise, advantages go to the few at the expense of the many.

When government deliberately fails to do its job, I get concerned and sometimes angry. For example, using my tax dollars or the people of Sanford's property to jump-start a booming economy is sheer nonsense. Blindly attracting more businesses to an area already short of hired help is like pouring gas on a fire. Targeted employees will have to be imported with their needs for domiciles and infrastructure. Higher taxes will be needed because progress never has nor will it ever pay for itself. Quality of life has already declined over the last 28 years I've been here. I will do my part to avoid more of the same medicine local government has been feeding me.

Like Russ White, I invite comments or criticism about anything I've said.

witnesses. It is quite another for citizens, largely of modest means, to raise funds to protect what they see as the interests of the community.

One obvious way to improve citizen access is through legislative action in Tallahassee. The prospects don't seem good, one of the City's experts said to me in a private conversation, considering the special interests involved. How to level the playing field? Perhaps the most direct way is to make available an office dedicated to providing professional assistance to citizens. Whether a creation of government itself, or of a concerned professional community (does pro bono still exist?), or both, such a function is much needed. Our issue of preserving the Park in Sanford is only one of several in Seminole County that has citizen groups pitted against their own government, trying to preserve quality of life. I sense a rising tide of citizen concern in the county, and even some glimmers of response by political figures.

Back to Sanford. Were we heard in any substantive way at the Administrative Hearing? No. Should we have been put in the position of helping provide $50,000, as taxpayers, for our own defeat? Certainly not. Was this the last and only means to Save the Park? Thankfully, No. The cancellation by City Commission of the PRA lease is great, but only one step toward preserving Fort Mellon Park in its entirety.

Mr. Hunt is a native and resident of Sanford, and is Co-Chair of the Society for the Preservation of Fort Mellon Park.

Fiction helps advance the facts

I am Joan Ryan, born 10 years before the Joan Ryan whose biography I am writing. Technically, this is an autobiography because Joan Ryan and Joan Ryan are essentially the same person, but as a device to get at the truth of myself, I have invented another Joan Ryan to achieve a closeness of observation back to the earliest stages of my life, which the actual me doesn't remember so well....

Joan Ryan

It's difficult for a journalist to resist poking fun at Edmund Morris. His book, "Dutch: A Memoir of Ronald Reagan," has drawn scathing criticisms from those who say his use of a fictional observer -- a character sort of himself but not completely -- renders the book useless as biography. They say the mingling of fact and fiction is an outrage, a cop-out, a crime against journalism.

Please. I agree with the critics to this extent: Morris's unusual approach has raised legitimate questions about the nature of truth in journalism. How does a journalist get at the truth of a subject? All journalists would answer, at least in part, that facts are at the heart of an accurate story. Facts can never be compromised. Facts are sacrosanct. I personally am a big fan of facts. But I don't kid myself that they are the same as truth.

I have read biographies stuffed to bursting with facts, quotes and eyewitness recollections -- all of them double- and triple-checked for accuracy. When I finished such books, however, I was often left wondering what the facts had added up to. I felt as if I had been shown the most minute details of every piece of a jigsaw puzzle but denied the completed picture. I still didn't really know the truth of the person.

What Morris has done is distill and make sense of hundreds of interviews and archival material into the voice of a single semi-fictional observer, though real people certainly are quoted and all material seems carefully footnoted. It seems to me that by using himself as a character, the author can more cleanly and dramatically impart information without losing readers under a mountain of facts for facts' sake.

One could even make the argument that Morris is being more truthful than conventional biographers. He is admitting from the outset that the Reagan you're getting on the pages is the Reagan as seen through the writer's eyes -- which is what you get in any biography, except most biographers write at such a distance from their subjects that they create an illusion of objectivity.

Rather than being self-indulgent, as critics have argued, Morris's device can be interpreted as a throwing-off of the conceit that he -- or any writer -- can be completely objective. And he's throwing off the conceit that he alone, in some disembodied God-like voice, can explain the subject's inner essence to the rest of us.

So the question is: Can Morris's personal point of view provide an accurate and truthful portrait? Sure -- as accurate as any other point of view. Because each of us observes life through our own filters, Reagan's friends, family and eyewitnesses are no more likely to provide the "truth" about Reagan than Morris, who had the benefit of weaving everyone else's observations with his own to arrive as close to the truth as might be possible.

What it boils down to is either the reader trusts Morris as an insightful, intelligent, reliable narrator or he doesn't. Whether the narrator is a real person or a fictional character doesn't affect the completed picture of Reagan.

Anyway, it's not like Morris's approach hasn't been used before. Athletes and politicians create fictionalized selves all the time, and even refer to themselves in the third person. "Don't ever count out Reggie Jackson," Reggie Jackson was known to say. Or how about Bob Dole? "Bob Dole believes in America," Bob Dole said.

In an interview on "60 Minutes," Morris told of watching Reagan in the Oval Office as he was about to deliver a speech on national television. He seemed distracted and kept looking to the left in search of something. Suddenly his picture popped on to the camera's monitor, and Reagan brightened and relaxed. "Ah, there he is," he said.

There is something so perfect about a fictional observer observing a president observing himself playing the greatest role of his life.

Airport

Flying Colours, Caledonian will carry the new name of JMC Holidays, Ltd. A limited number of flights from the airline are expected to return to Sanford as early as December.

Caledonian Airways joined Britannia Airways in leaving Sanford for the Orlando International Airport earlier this year, between them taking more than 20 percent of the airport's business.

Despite the losses, Sanford's airport is expected to handle 1 million passengers this year. In 1998, the airport served 1.2 million passengers. The airport has grown rapidly from 25,000 passengers in 1994 and 50,000 passengers in 1998. British charter flights provide the bulk of the airport's passengers.

Gouldthorpe said that more international and domestic service is expected to come to the airport next year.

Cities within Florida that the airport is hoping to serve by attracting consumer and regional airlines include Tallahassee, Ft. Lauderdale, Ft. Myers, and Key West.

Pan American Airways recently provided the airport with its first regularly scheduled domestic service.

"If we can have two or three domestic carriers to anchor the facility, we'll be very happy," Gouldthorpe said. Pan Am's success is key to attracting additional domestic service.

"All of them, we know, are watching Pan Am very closely," Gouldthorpe said.

By the time a $24.5 million domestic terminal expansion project is complete in December, 2000, Gouldthorpe said there may be two or three domestic carriers. OSI is providing $10 million toward the domestic terminal expansion.

In addition, the tour operator space for the international terminal is being expanded. The $390,000 project is expected to be complete in December.

Pan Am's strategy is to expand into secondary airports in key markets. The airline is already committed to serving the Orlando Sanford Airport, Portsmouth, N.H., which is 50 miles from Boston, and the Chicago-Gary Airport on Nov. 17.

The airline is also looking into secondary airports in cities such as Montreal, Toronto, St. Louis, and Philadelphia, and Pan Am officials say service could be expanded into four additional cities next year. Although Atlanta does not have a secondary airport, Pan Am is also considering service to Atlanta.

Other cities the airline is considering expanding service to include Pittsburgh, Pa., and San Juan and Aguadilla, P.R. In Sanford, Pan Am already is operating a maintenance facility and a domestic charter service.

"There is a pattern in airport's such as the London-Gatwick Airport, the Boston-Logan Airport, Portsmouth, and Chicago-Gary, where secondary airports are becoming more popular," Gouldthorpe said. "Sanford's geographic positioning is very well defined, and it is well ahead of the curve."

Now, with an agreement in place to manage the domestic as well as the international terminals, Gouldthorpe said that OSI will seek to add regular domestic service and commuter airlines to sites within Florida.

"Pan Am is the first of what we think will be many of these start-up carriers that we think will be instrumental to the airport," Gouldthorpe said.

Pan Am's service between Sanford and Portsmouth marked the first Pan Am flights since the spring of 1998.

The parent company of OSI, London-based TBI plc, recently completed a merger to become the third largest private airport operation company in the world, with a presence in 32 airports.

OSI has 20 full-time employees and 350 sub-contract employees.

commissioned a 2nd Lt. in the Army in 1969. He served with the 11th Armored Cavalry Regiment in Vietnam.

"After Vietnam, the U.S. Army was in dire straits," Godwin said. "We'd lost all our NCOs. They were killed, wounded or plain tuckered out. I admire men like Gen. Colin Powell who stayed on and put everything back in order."

Godwin came off active duty and joined the Florida Army National Guard in 1973 as commander of Company B, 2nd Battalion, 124th Infantry Regiment. He and Frankie Godwin live in Winter Springs.

Gen. Goodwin commands 3,600 members of the 53rd Infantry Brigade, Florida Army National Guard, headquarters in Tampa. The force, known as "The Gator Brigade," began in 1921. Its units comprise of combat, medical, signal, transportation and logistics assets and are located throughout the state from DeFuniak Springs to Perrine.

As he was leaving the Armory in Sanford, Gen. Goodwin looked across at Fort Mellon Park and onto Lake Monroe. It was very quiet, raining only slightly.

"The word from Tampa is promising," he said. "Hurricane Irene may not be bad as expected."

The general was prepared, however, for whatever awaited him. His pins were on straight and he was headed straight to the front.

event of flooding."

Ritchey said most areas in Seminole County should be able to handle the expected rainfall.

"If we do get a significant amount in a very short time period, we may experience some minor flooding, but unless the severity and strength of Irene changes we don't expect to have to activate to a higher level than status one," she said. "I think we'll get wet, but hopefully that's all that will happen."

Citing the low unemployment rate and heavy employment recruiting efforts of many Central Florida businesses, Lyles said, "Some students or others who attend may get a job offer or may get leads to companies seeking employees — that can happen, especially in the high-tech industries."

He added that students and other interested parties may bring resumes while gathering information and talking to representatives from area businesses.

Lake Mary bank names 10 to board

LAKE MARY — The Community National Bank of Mid-Florida has named 10 "outstanding" citizens to its community advisory board.

Bank President Bill Barwick named longtime community activist and 34-year banking veteran Bob Douglas to head the board several weeks ago.

Douglas, who recently retired as senior vice president of Sun Trust in Sanford after 19 years, had a hand in nominating members to the board, Barwick said.

"Our community advisory board plays a critical role in serving both the community and the bank," Barwick said. "In our area, they serve as the voice of this community, alerting the community needs and ways we can better serve the local area. Part of their responsibility includes marketing the bank and its services within their professional spheres," Barwick added. "In another sense, they serve as the conscience of the bank," Barwick emphasized. "They help us to focus our energies in ways that will do the most good in the community."

The new Community Advisory Board includes a state attorney, several local business owners, and real estate, insurance and development experts.

Named to the board were Carol A. Bulford of Onal Realty Group; David S. Haines, LUTCF, of Florida Farm Bureau Insurance Companies; David M. Hill of Robert W. Baird & Co., Winter Park; Earl M. Laffer of Earl Laffer & Sons Excavation; Architect Jerry W. Mills of Burke, Sales & Mills Associates, Inc.; Bob Parsell of Sanford Ace Hardware; Larry (Eddie) Pedigo of Modern Welding Co. of Florida; Seth Rutberg of the State's Attorney's office; Fred W. Shattuck, retired and James (Vick) representing the medical office of Weliva Associates of Longwood.

The Community Advisory Board is a critical link between us and the community," Barwick said. Board members are appointed to one-year terms and gather on a monthly basis.

Community National Bank of Mid-Florida plans to move into a new 4,000 square foot headquarters facility at 3001 Lake Mary Blvd. later this month.

Longwood to discuss pay raises

By Joe DeSantis
Staff Writer

LONGWOOD — According to the published agenda for Longwood's City Commission meeting Monday night, deputy mayor Steve Miller will request the city commission rescind the action it took at a special meeting Oct. 8.

That meeting, attended by mayor Paul Lovstrand, and commissioners Dan Anderson and Rusty Miles, produced a vote that failed to change the date of $500 pay raises for city employees from their anniversary hire date to Oct. 1, 1999.

Miller's request to rescind will be subject to interpretation of Robert's Rules of Order and parliamentary procedure. Although there was a quorum at the Oct. 8 special meeting, three votes were necessary to carry any motions. Lovstrand and Anderson voted in favor of changing the date of raises, while Miles cast the dissenting vote.

In this instance, under usual procedural rules, Miles' vote becomes the majority vote, and he would be the only voting member eligible to return the item to the agenda for consideration.

The board will also consider a number of house keeping items at its 7 p.m. gathering.

Commissioners are expected to nominate two residents to serve on the city's Parks and Recreation Advisory Board and another to fill a vacancy on the Codes Enforcement Board.

The city is also expected to appoint a Seminole County elector to serve on the City of Longwood Canvassing Board for the upcoming Nov. 2 city election.

Commissioners will also consider a recommendation from the Director of Public Safety to approve the purchase of 15 new Ford Crown Victoria police vehicles from Don Reid Ford in the amount of $298,200.

A purchase order in the amount of $29,624 is also being recommended for storage tanks, piping and related fillings for the liquid chlorine system at Water Treatment Plants No. 1 and No. 2.

The Engineering Division of the Community Services department will also recommend the commission award a contract in the amount of $387,093 to Golden Eagle Construction for the East Street road improvement project.

The board will also read by title only three resolutions dealing with special assessments for improvements at 14th Avenue, 13th Avenue, and First Place.

Commissioners are also expected to read by title only and adopt Resolution 99-994, clarifying the language in Question No. 14 of the proposed Charter amendments voters will decide Nov. 2. The amendment deals with provisions and procedure for the removal of the city administrator.

City Attorney Richard Taylor is also expected to request the board schedule a special meeting to discuss a pending lawsuit dealing with Longwood's Annual Fall Arts Festival. Five residents along Warren Avenue contend they are denied access to their property and incur a violation of their civil rights when the city closes off Warren and Wilma for a two-day weekend festival that attracts 30-40,000 visitors.

The next scheduled court day on the suit, which seeks temporary and permanent injunctive relief is scheduled for Nov. 5 at 1 p.m. in Seminole County Circuit Court.

Schools stress tolerance through 'Key to Your Character' program

By Bill Karne
Staff Writer

SANFORD — In Seminole County schools, students are taught tolerance from day one in kindergarten through high school graduation.

Not every student will accept the lessons contained within the school district's program known as "Keys to Your Character." In the program, teachers stress certain values such as generosity, responsibility, and service.

At Rock Lake Middle School in Longwood recently, school administrators suspended or counseled more than a dozen students involved in physical acts of intolerance committed against a Jewish student during a six week period ending Oct. 4.

In addition, racial slurs were found written on at least one boys bathroom door on Oct. 3 at Rock Lake Middle School, according to the Seminole County Sheriff's Office.

This is what the "Keys To Your Character" program, in place since the 1995-96 school year, is designed to prevent.

In the program, an 8-year-old child might learn about values such as respect, then create a drawing to illustrate the phrase "respect people for who they are, not their color."

Activities used to promote respect include planting a tree in respect for someone, discussing examples of disrespectful actions, having a respect bulletin board, participating in conflict resolution programs, and inviting law enforcement officers as guest speakers.

"In this curriculum we explore different cultures and religions," said Marion Dailey, director of instructional support services for the school-district. "At Christmas time, we explore the cultures and religions around the world."

Students are taught the value of caring through activities such as making a chart showing what caring looks like and sounds like, having students bring in recent stories from the media that show caring, reading biographies, reading children's books to younger children, and holding discussions.

Each month, teachers and others in the school system receive the key and activity sheet for the month. The "key" is an 11X17 inch poster outline of a key, with the value of the month printed on it, and it can be cut out and laminated.

"These are suggestions to teachers that go out every month," Dailey said. "Most guidance counselors design programs around them."

A video was produced to support the program, and there are school-district workshops with each school represented each spring.

Success of the program is difficult to determine, and a search is underway for a quantitative method of evaluating the success of the project.

"It has to be done all the time," Dailey said. "It's the teachable moment, when something is done wrong and you talk about what you could have done better."

There were 14 incidents in which a Jewish student was harassed during a six-week period ending Oct. 4, ranging from knocking the yarmulke off the his head, to hiding the yarmulke or striking the student from behind.

The yarmulke is a skullcap worn by Jewish men and boys, especially those adhering to Orthodox or Conservative Judaism.

Ron Pinnell, director of secondary education, said that none of the incidents involved the Jewish student being taunted with anti-Semitic slurs.

Rock Lake Middle School is not the only Seminole County school where racial slurs have been found written on bathroom doors or walls, Pinnell said.

"Children do inappropriate things just like adults do," Pinnell said. "The important thing is to address it quickly and correctly."

Zena Sulkes, director of Hebrew Day School of Central Florida in Maitland, said that the incidents illustrate why the state has mandated that students learn about the Holocaust of World War II, in which six million Jews died.

Depending on the offenses committed, Harris said discipline for the students has included three-day and one-day out of school suspensions; in-school suspensions; and counseling.

Because of the incidents, Harris plans to bring in speakers to discuss tolerance and to organize activities designed to build tolerance.

Last Tuesday, students at the school took a "time out for tolerance," learning lessons from their teachers about divisiveness, tolerance and acceptance.

Members of the Seminole County School Board said Harris handled the situation properly.

Gun shot wound leads to doctor's first surgical operation

Mary Leffler Strong's book "The Story of Early Sanford" continues to have interesting information so I have edited her section entitled "Along the Avenue" for you today. (The Avenue refers to Mellonville Avenue.)

"After the Indians had been driven back into South Florida and the War Between the States had progressed into the Reconstruction Period, many people who had lost their homes in the border states looked toward Florida for a new beginning.

A dock and a store had been built at Mellonville. Others who intended to embark on citrus culture sought the sandy soil of the ridge section where they grubbed up palmettos and scrub oak roots, cut down the pines and planted orange trees.

Mr. and Mrs. A. J. Vaughn, originally from Virginia, with their large family of children were the first settlers. Mr. Vaughn had been an Indian scout in the war years and had taken advantage of the Government Act of 1842 which deeded a tract of 160 acres of land to any homesteader who would live on it for five years and assume responsibility for his own protection from Indians.

Dr. Andrew Caldwell came to the area for his health which greatly improved and while here saw the need for a physician. He moved his family here from South Carolina, arriving in April 1868 on the steamer Darlington. This was the only boat on the river making a weekly round trip to Jacksonville with supplies, passengers and mail. The Caldwells bought the land across the "Big Road" (Mellonville Avenue) from the Vaughn family and built a house and planted a grove.

A story of Dr. Caldwell's first surgical operation relates that when Kate Vaughn was wrestling with her brothers for possession of a loaded gun, she accidentally shot a hole through her hand. The doctor arrived minus his instruments and anesthetics. A little chloroform was procured from Mrs. Hayden and with the aid of a sharp ax, the shattered hand was chopped off. This left Kate with only one hand, but it didn't deter her much as she became much sought after as an expert seamstress and lived to a ripe old age.

GRAVE SINCERITY

The Way We Were

Judge Hayden and family bought land and planted oranges next door, south of the Caldwell grove. They were winter people, living in Atlanta during the summers. Just beyond the Haydens, Mr. Vaughn had donated two acres for a church and the Methodists erected a log house of worship there. All denominations worshipped there until the Silver Lake Presbyterian Church was organized. It was later torn down to make room for Earnest Chapel.

To the north of the Caldwell house, Mr. A. J. Doyle, a young Irishman who had married Mary Speer, built the finest home in that section. It was surrounded by a large orange grove. The Doyles spent their summers at St. Augustine Beach, the only beach resort on the Atlantic at that time. After Mr. Doyle's death, the grove and home were sold and the family moved to town.

Opposite the Doyle grove was the large Speer grove, a show place, until it was destroyed by the Big Freeze. Dr. Algenon Speer started his grove in 1845. He constructed his house in the grove to withstand Indian attacks, so it became the mecca for all settlers when the cry "Indians" was heard.

Just south of the Speer grove, which also held the family burial ground, was a big house later replaced by the Cornell home. Farther south was the Ginn house and that of the Deans. Other homes in the area were the Vaughns and the Anna Woodbridge house which later became the Seminole County Old People's Home. Sidney Chase, Jr.'s home was later built on that site.

At the southwest corner of 25th Street and Mellonville Dr. Spence owned a large orange grove in which he built a hotel, the Orange House. Mathew and Richard Marks with their wives made this their home. West of this grove was the house of the Major Whitners, parents of Charles, Joseph and Howard. Further west were the large Foster family, the Earnests and the Hugheys.

Mr. Hughey with his family, slaves and household goods had journeyed south from Brunswick, Georgia and settled first at Markham as did the Markham family from Atlanta. Both later moved to Sanford. Mr. Hughey built a house and planted a grove at about 19th Street which was later divided by Park Avenue. He later sold it to the Markhams and in 1845 built another house around the corner on Hughey Street, now 20th Street. This house was later destroyed by fire after having been the home of five generations of the same family.

To the east near the river, lived the Cameron family - Archie, Joe and Sammy. Other settlers in that community were the Hicksons, Rowans, Cowans and Thigpens.

Pumpkin Patch opens

The Youth Group of First United Methodist Church of Oviedo is opened their 8th Annual Pumpkin Patch, located on Red Bug Lake Road across from Target and Chilla.

The Pumpkin Patch is open Sunday through Thursday 9 a.m. to 9 p.m. and until 10 p.m. on Friday and Saturday nights.

In addition to pumpkins, there will be Indian corn, gourds, corn stalks, and carving kits. The pumpkin meter will help provide a unique way of determining your donation.

The annual event has grown to be one of the nation's largest, with the Oviedo youth program ranked fourth last year out of 500 church pumpkin patches nationwide.

Proceeds from this year's event will be used by the youth for various mission projects.

Pre-schools and elementary schools in the Oviedo and Winter Springs area are invited to bring youngsters to the patch for story telling and to receive a miniature pumpkin.

For details on scheduling a pre-school or kindergarten group, contact Terry Bushey at 699-1291.

For more information on the Pumpkin Patch, contact Dan Lykens at 365-9380.

Family Fall Festival is Oct. 16

The congregation of Community United Methodist Church in Casselberry is holding the fifth annual Family Fall Festival and Bazaar on Saturday, Oct. 16, from 9 a.m. to 6 p.m. There will be activities for people of all ages.

Pumpkins, cornstalls, bales of hay and gourds will be sold in the pumpkin patch. Jams, jellies, pickles, walnuts and pecans from North Carolina and Georgia will be sold in the "Pumpkin Bazaar" along with other fall and pumpkin items.

The women of the church have been working for a year making holiday craft items for the bazaar. Also included will be a bake sale complete with homemade apple butter. These will be used items in Granny's Attic.

There will be all types of games for children, including a cake walk, dunk tank and moonwalk.

The men of the church will be cooking Al Brown BBQ chicken and ribs dinner for $3.50 per person. Other items will include Spanish dishes prepared by the Hispanic Ministry.

Live entertainment will take place under the Entertainment tent all day. Some of the entertainment will include Buggy Creek Trio, Damascus Road, Minister Design, Ken Flick and the Hispanic singers.

For more information, call the church office at 831-3777, extension 204.

The festival is located at Community United Methodist Church, 4921 S. Highway 17-92, Casselberry, 1/2 mile north of US Highway 426.

Walter named Employee of the Month

Sanford City Manager Tony Vanderworp presents the Employee of the Month award to City Engineer Bob Walter. In nominating Walter for the award, his boss Jay Marder, director of Engineering and Planning, said Walter "provides the backbone to the Department of Engineering and Planning's engineering function. He added that "solves those enigmatic 'devil's-in-the-details' technical problems that also require good judgment."

PBAS presents Year 2000 summit

On Wednesday, Oct. 20, 1999, the Private Business Association of Seminole (P.B.A.S.) will host a business reception for area business leaders and elected officials. The reception will be held in the Domestic Lounge of the Sanford/Olando Airport from 5:30-7 p.m.

The featured speaker will be Mr. David Orr, Senior Vice President and Chief Economist for First Union, Charlotte, North Carolina. Mr. Orr joined First Union in 1987 as vice president for economic research. He is a Chartered Financial Analyst and a member of the North Carolina Society of Financial Analysts. He is a graduate and former instructor at the American Bankers Association National Graduate Trust School. Mr. Orr received a degree in economics from Davidson College in 1966. He can often be seen on CNBC as an economic source/commentator.

Seminole County has experienced tremendous growth over the past ten years. The county boasts a population of 338,000; over 8,000 businesses call it home. In recent years, Seminole County has become known as the catalyst of the Central Florida High Technology Corridor. There seems to be no end in sight... or is there?

According to Mr. Orr, "the global economic recovery now underway is reversing the favorable tailwinds that supercharged the U.S. financial markets and domestic economy from early 1997 through the spring of 1999. Wall Street has figured out that conditions have changed, but Mr. Orr is still believing as if this Nirvana will go on forever."

Mr Orr's topic for Wednesday evening's Summit is "No Virginia, Nirvana won't last forever."

The Private Business Association of Seminole, begun in 1993, was founded to serve the needs of private businesses and corporations in the Central Florida area. The Association has an active membership representing a variety of businesses. This reception is the fourth in a series of events sponsored by the P.B.A.S. According to P.B.A.S. President Hugh Harling, "this is our opportunity to gain a better understanding of this critical time and to begin planning now for Seminole's economic future."

Military News

Robert A. Rauch has completed basic cadet training and received the rank of cadet fourth class at the U.S. Air Force Academy, Colorado Springs, Colo.

The Cadet is one of 1,283 men and women who completed the rigorous, five-week orientation program. The training prepares cadets to enter their first academic year at the academy.

The cadets completed the training in two phases. Phase one consisted of military and physical preparation which focused on the transition from civilian to military life.

Phase two involved a two-week outdoor stay on the academy grounds to participate in activities to extend their physical limitations and build self and group confidence.

The U.S. Air Force Academy curriculum offers education in the basic, engineering and social sciences, the humanities, and 30 other academic majors.

Rauch is the son of Robert J. and Sandi A. Rauch of Lake Mary.

He is a 1999 graduate of Lake Mary High School.

Army Pfc. Justen D. Robinett has arrived at Fort Benning, Columbus, Ga., to complete basic military training.

During the training, the soldier will receive instruction in drill and ceremonies, map reading, tactics, military customs and courtesies, physical fitness, and first aid.

Robinett is the son of Vickie L. Hiers of Orange City.

Army Cadet Eliel H. Pimentel was placed on the Dean's List at the U.S. Military Academy, West Point, N.Y. To qualify for the honor, the cadet was required to maintain a 3.0 grade point average.

The cadet plans to graduate in the year 2002 with a bachelor's degree and will be commissioned as a second lieutenant in the U.S. Army.

The mission of the U.S. Military Academy is to educate, train, and inspire young cadets to be commissioned officers and leaders of character who are committed to the values of "duty, honor, country," and professionalism throughout their Army career.

Pimentel is the son of Huberto and Arlene Pimentel of Oviedo.

He is a 1998 graduate of Oviedo High School.

Potential new, non-surgical treatment for women with abnormal PAP results

MAITLAND — Physician Associates announced today the start of a clinical study investigating a potential new, non-surgical treatment for cervical dysplasia.

Physician Associates is one of only 14 medical organizations in the country, and the only one in Florida, conducting research in conjunction with the biopharmaceutical company that created the vaccine, StressGen Biotechnologies Corp.

Cervical dysplasia is a condition characterized by the presence of abnormal cells that sometimes precede cervical cancer. These abnormal cells are usually detected in women through regular Pap smear screening. The primary goal of the Phase I clinical trial is to determine whether this new treatment (called SGN-00101) is tolerated safely by patients with cervical dysplasia. "Cervical dysplasia may progress to cancer if left untreated," said Gregory Zittel, M.D., FACOG, Study Principle for Physician Associates. "We are very interested in exploring non-surgical treatments designed to stimulate an immune response against these dysplastic cells."

The main risk factor associated with cervical dysplasia is infection with the human papilloma virus (HPV), which is sexually transmitted. HPV can exist in the cervix for many years without apparent symptoms. The Centers for Disease Control and Prevention estimate that as many as 24 million Americans are currently infected with HPV.

Researchers are looking for 40 women ages 18 and up to participate in the study. Participants must have been diagnosed with an abnormal Pap smear or HPV 16 positive and must not be pregnant or nursing. HPV 16 is most commonly found in advanced stages of dysplasia and is considered to be "high risk" with respect to progression to cancer.

The study is being conducted at the following Physician Associates offices: downtown Orlando, Oviedo and Sand Lake. If you would like to take part in the study, please contact Jackie Tucker, study coordinator, at 407/306-7655.

Physician Associates is an independent family of physicians, and other health professionals, specializing in Family Practice, Internal Medicine, Obstetrics and Gynecology and Pediatrics. The Group of 80 physicians has eight offices in Orange, Seminole and Osceola counties.

ATLANTA BRAVES ON VERGE OF SWEEP

NEW YORK - The Atlanta Braves scored an unearned run in the top of the first inning and a trio of pitchers made it stand up as the Braves took a 3-0 lead in the National League Championship Series with a 1-0 victory over the Mets at Shea Stadium Friday night.

Gerald Williams walked to lead off the game and advanced to second when Mets pitcher Al Leiter threw wildly to first on a chopper to the mound by Brett Boone.

Williams then scored when Mike Piazza tried to nail Boone at second on the back-end of a double steal and threw the ball into center field.

The Braves would only get three hits off of Leiter and relievers John Franco and Benitez, but they scored a run.

The Mets, meanwhile, got seven hits off of Tom Glavine, Mike Remlinger and John Rocker, but could not push a run across the plate.

Game 4 of the NLCS is set for 7:30 p.m. tonight (Saturday) with Game 5 (if necessary) on Sunday at 4 p.m. Both games would be shown on WESH Channel 2.

The American League Championship Series has the New York Yankees leading 2-0 with Game 3 set for 4 p.m. today (Saturday) at Boston's Fenway Park. The Yankees will send five-time Cy Young award winner, and former Red Sox pitcher, Roger Clemens to the mound, while the Red Sox will counter with Pedro Martinez, who led the major league in wins (23) and ERA (2.23) last season.

Game 4 is set for Sunday at 7:30 p.m. and Game 5 (if necessary) would be played on Monday at 8 p.m.

The ALCS games are being shown on WOFL Channel 35.

In a somewhat strange move on Friday, Mike Hargrave was fired as Cleveland Indians manager despite winning five straight division titles, averaging 91 wins per year and going to the World Series twice.

MAGIC WIN AGAIN

ORLANDO - Veterans Monty Williams scored 20 points, Chris Oatling 13 points and Armon Gilliam 10 points and the Orlando Magic rallied to outscore the Miami Heat 34-19 in the fourth quarter to pull out an 85-76 victory Friday night in the Magic's first preseason game at Orlando Arena.

The Magic trailed 57-51 after three quarters before exploding in the fourth quarter to improve to 3-0 in the preseason.

Orlando will be home again on Sunday, hosting the Houston Rockets at 7:30 p.m. at the O-rena.

NEMECHEK EARNS TALLADEGA POLE

TALLADEGA, AL - Lakeeland's Joe Nemecek won his third pole of the season Friday, running 198.331, the fastest lap for a NASCAR Winston Cup race since Bill Elliott ran a 199.388 back in 1990.

Following Nemecek's Bell South Chevrolet were Ricky Rudd (Ford), Kenny Wallace (Chevrolet), Ken Schrader (Chevrolet) and rookie Tony Stewart (Pontiac).

Points leader Dale Jarrett was 17th, while Bobby Labonte was 11th, Mark Martin 9th and Jeff Gordon 14th.

The Winston 500 will run at 1 p.m. on Sunday and can be seen on ESPN.

ALTAMONTE SPRINGS YOUTH BASKETBALL

ALTAMONTE SPRINGS - The Altamonte Basketball Academy will be holding registration for a Youth League next week.

The league is both boys and girls regardless of experience or skill level.

Rams dominate in tune-up

Defense sparkles as Lake Mary rolls

By Dean Smith
SPORTS EDITOR

ORLANDO - Lake Mary used a balanced offense and a swarming defense to easily dismantle Colonial, 23-6, in a Class 6A-District 2 football game at Jennings Kite Field Friday night.

Three different players scored touchdowns in the first quarter as the Rams raced to a 21-0 lead and the Grenadiers could offer very little resistance in trying to deny Lake Mary its fifth straight victory since a season-opening loss to Seminole.

"We listed three goals for ourselves this year," said Lake Mary head coach Greg Stanton. "No. 1 was to have a winning season, No. 2 to make the playoffs and No. 3 to win the district championship and then see what happens after that."

"With this win we are now 5-1 so we know we are going to be at least a .500 club and only need one more win to have a winning season. And that's important because it's been several years since we've had a winning season at Lake Mary."

The win also keeps Lake Mary undefeated in district play at 4-0 and in a tie for Lake Brantley.

Next week the Rams will host Apopka (which lost its first game of the season to Lake Brantley, 32-6, at home Friday) in a crucial 6A-2 game at Don T. Reynolds Stadium and then close out the district schedule with a game against the Patriots at Tom Story Field on Oct. 29th.

A win next week against Apopka would assure Lake Mary of a spot in the playoffs no matter what it does against Lake Brantley.

The win over Colonial may have been relatively easy, but it did not come without a price.

"We had some kids get nicked up tonight," said a concerned Stanton. "One of our defensive backs may have a strained calf and two of our running backs are limping around."

When asked what the Rams needed to do to get ready for Apopka, Stanton said,

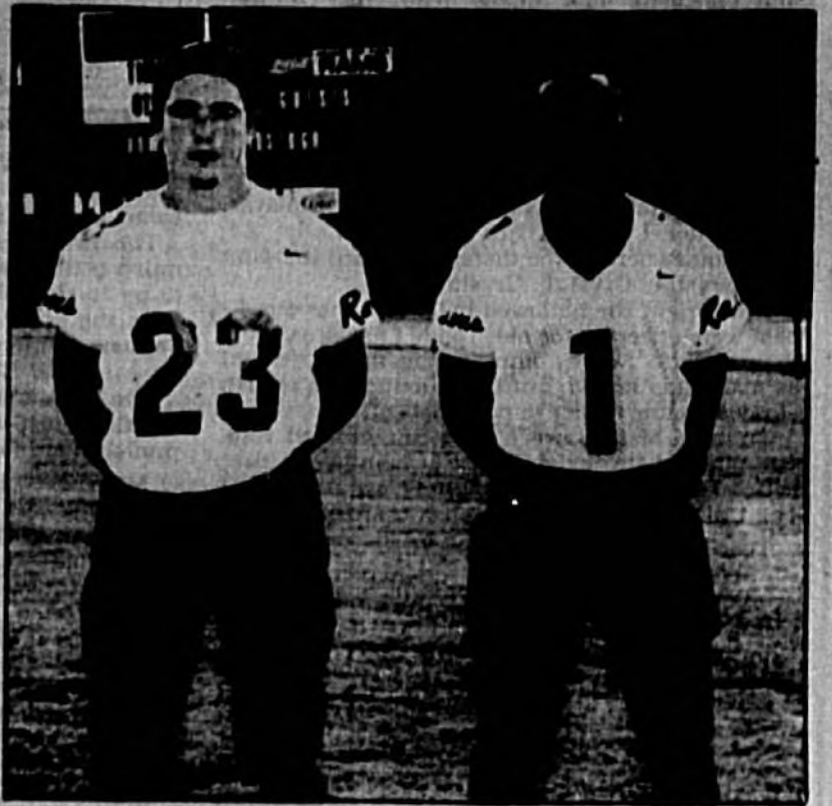

"The first thing we have to do is get healthy and play better Lake Mary football. Our offense wasn't bad, but I don't think it is playing as well as either Lake Brantley or Apopka, but our defense has been outstanding. If it (defense) can keep us close and get us the ball, we've made a chance."

Lake Mary scored on its first possession on a touchdown by Anthony Ballerino and then scored again five plays later. After the Rams defense forced Colonial to punt after three plays, Ballerino returned a punt to the one-yard line and quarterback Jason Hadley carried it in from there to make the score 14-0.

On their next possession, the Grenadiers were denied on a fourth down try from their own 15 and Lake Mary took over.

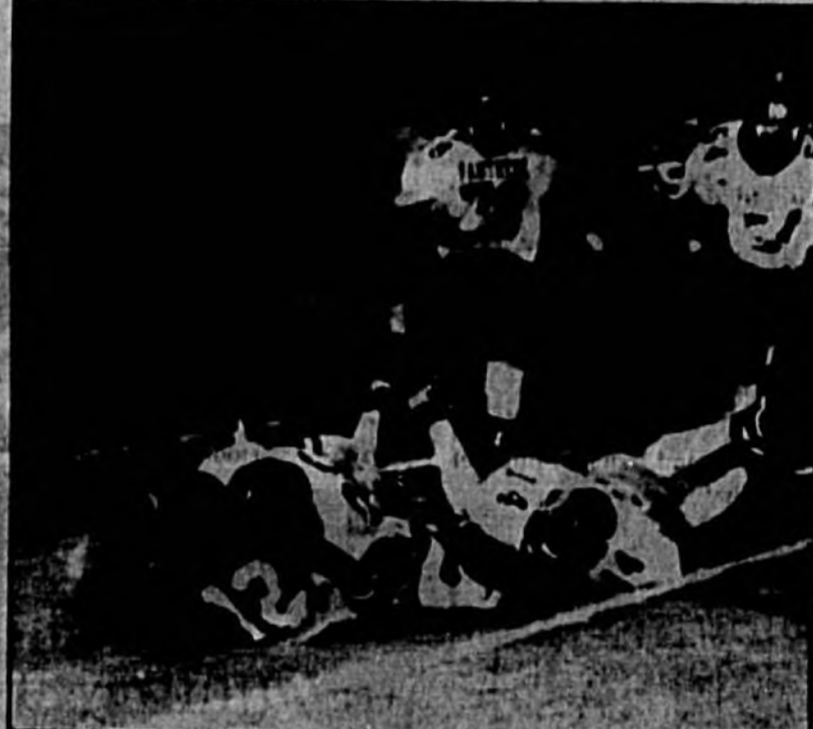

Three plays later, Haven Perkins bulled in from the one to give the Rams a 21-0 lead after the first quarter.

Seminole High School kept the ball on the ground Friday night and rammed the ball right down the throats of the Pine Ridge Panthers, running for 254 yards as a team and holding the visitors to 67 total yards in a 23-0 Class 5A-District 4 victory at Thomas E. Whigham Stadium.

Doing most of the damage offensively for the Fighting Seminoles were quarterback Garrett Goldsmith (No. 7, left), who rushed for a game-high 113 yards and scored three touchdowns, fullback Clarence Lattner (No. 28, above, left), who ran for 90 yards, and running back Ed Manning (No. 12, above, right), who gained 47 yards.

SANFORD - Next stop, Spruce Creek.

Seminole tuned up for next week's district showdown with Spruce Creek by dominating Pine Ridge 23-0 Friday at Thomas E. Whigham Stadium in a Class 5A-District 4 high school football contest.

Quarterback Garrett Goldsmith ran for 113 yards and three touchdowns, while Seminole's defense forced two turnovers and limited Spruce Creek to just 67 total yards.

"We have all the momentum," Goldsmith said. "We're fired up, and ready to go for the district title."

Next Friday, No. 9 State-Ranked Seminole (6-1 overall, 4-0 in the district) will battle No. 7 State-Ranked Spruce Creek (6-0 overall, 3-0 in the district) for district supremacy, in a contest starting at 7:30 p.m. at Daytona Beach Municipal Stadium. The top two teams in the district will make the state playoffs.

"I'm pleased," said Seminole head coach Jim Worthington. "We fought hard defensively, and did a great job in shutting them out. We executed well, and that's what we'll have to do Friday to be in the district hunt."

Spruce Creek also appears ready for Seminole, after a convincing 28-0 win on Friday over Lyman.

Hawks humble Greyhounds

LONGWOOD - Cinderella's slipper wouldn't fit Lyman again this week.

The Greyhounds were hoping to pull off their second major upset in a row, but Jermaine Green and undefeated Spruce Creek were not about to get caught looking ahead.

Friday night at the Curlew Hasty Sports Complex, the Hawks pushed their record to 6-0 with a humbling 28-0 Class 5A-District 4 victory over Lyman High School.

Spruce Creek, which was ranked No. 7 in the FFWA Class 5A State Poll this week, remains a half-game behind first place Seminole (which blanketed Pine Ridge 23-0 Friday night) in 5A-4.

Next week Seminole (6-1 overall, 4-0 in 5A-4, ranked No. 9 in state poll) plays Spruce Creek (6-0 overall, 3-0 in district) at Daytona Beach Municipal Stadium, with the No. 1 district seed in the playoffs on the line.

"We've got to cool it out along next week," said The Hawks' Green, who scored three touchdowns Friday.

Lyman (2-3 overall, 2-2 in 5A-4) is tied with Mainland (which improved to 5-2 overall and 3-2 in district with a 55-0 thrashing of Lake Howell Friday) for third place, however with their win over Mainland last week and games left with Pine Ridge and Winter Springs, Lyman should take third in the district.

The Greyhounds will travel to Deltona next Thursday to play Pine Ridge at 7:30 p.m.

"We took it (the game) a lot more seriously," said Brian Hill of his team's attitude towards the game after Lyman's upset last week over Mainland.

In the first quarter, Green ran 22 yards for a touchdown. This touchdown was the result of a passing play from Eddie Lucas to Steven Kennedy. Jersey McDonough (yes, the Hawks' kicker is a female) kicked the extra point that pushed Spruce Creek to an early lead that would only swell throughout the game.

In just four plays Spruce Creek's defense forced Lyman to punt. But, Marshall Smith and Ricky Argo were not willing to give up possession that easily. Smith forced a fumble on the return and Argo jumped on it. Despite all their effort, eight plays later, they were forced to punt again. This time there was no fumble and Green ran for 35 yards on their first play.

In the second quarter, Green scored his second touchdown of the game. This time the touchdown came off a 12 yard run.

Again McDonough kicked the extra point.

A short time later a pass from Lucas to Hill concluded in a touchdown, the whole play spanned 24 yards, and McDonough was again able to tack on the extra point.

As the second half began, Lyman kicker Travis Rothstein kicked off, Green received the ball and proceeded to run 88 yards for a touchdown, his third of the night. The extra point, kicked by McDonough, was good.

Doug Justice (Spruce Creek) had a big night on defense with six tackles, and several big plays.

Lyman's defensive players that had multiple tackles were, John Hartman with 16 tackles, Argo with five, Smith with four tackles, and Trey Point with three tackles, one of which involved a 12-yard loss for Spruce Creek.

While Lyman's defense was strong, Green was just too much for them. In 15 carries over just three quarters, Green ran for 301 yards.

"They outplayed us, they were more physical," said Lyman head coach Bill Coughell. "Great teams are able to play at that level every week, we are learning how to be a great team, but we're not there yet."

"We have to keep believing in what we're doing."

Second in a row for Seminole swimmers

LONGWOOD - The Seminole High School swim team stretched its winning streak to two and earned its season with easy victories over Lake Howell in a Seminole Athletic Conference meet at the Lyman High School Pool Thursday afternoon.

The Fighting Seminoles boys nearly doubled the score on the Silver Hawks, winning 91-48, but the Tribe girls did even better, nearly tripling the final score, coasting 120-48.

What's Up In The NFL... Week No. 6

SANFORD - Welcome to Week Six football fans, many of us are still licking our wounds. This has been a difficult season and last week was rock bottom.

Critics at The Herald lashed out at The Crystal Ball of Football after my disastrous day and I fired right back.

My agent, Leigh Steinberg, had to separate me from Russ White after he dumped a carton of sour chocolate milk on my head. The editorial staff jumped on the bandwagon as they hammered me in The Meter on Wednesday.

After realizing the obvious, that all my colleagues had turned on me, I decided to get away. Seeking refuge in familiar territory I ended up on the 50-yard line at the Citrus Bowl. As I began to meditate and contemplate the career I could have had in the National Football League as a player, not a writer, I was startled.

Off somewhere in the distance I heard the faint cry, "Crystal...Crystal...Crystal?"

That's right the hallowed halls of Super Bowl's past were cheering for me. Today I am answering their cheers. Not by announcing my retirement as many had hoped, but by announcing a rebirth of my amazing ability to prognosticate.

Grandpa Marino won't get a Super Bowl ring. The Washed-Up Redskins are a flash in the pan. Dilfer still stinks. The Dolphins are all felons. The Dallas Cowgirls are sissies.

There, now I feel better.

After suffering abuse at the hands of about everyone this week, I felt it was important to come back swinging. Now I know how Bengal Charlie must feel every week after his team loses.

Let's get right to the schedule and find some winners.

What's Up In The NFL

BRADY LESSARD

JACKSONVILLE (-18) VS. CLEVELAND

It's obvious that the Jaguars will win this game, but this is a ton of points.

The Browns got close last week but face a much better team in this one. Look for Cleveland to try to slow the game down while Jacksonville does the opposite. Come on baby light my fire. Jaguars 34, Browns 12.

NEW ENGLAND (-2) VS. MIAMI

The Dolphins cheated to get their win against the Colts last week and I hope the Patriots will punish them for it.

My beloved Bills will watch from a distance we win either way. TOO CLOSE TO CALL.

INDIANAPOLIS (-2) AT NEW YORK JETS

The Colts are furious after being cheated last week by the Dolphins. They'll look to take it out on a depleted Jets team.

Parcells is the squads' only hope at an upset but remember, even the best painter needs paint. Parcells has nothing but a dried out brush. Colts 31, Jets 16.

DETROIT (-4) VS. MINNESOTA

I couldn't care less who win this game, they're both "pretender contenders" in my book.

The Vikings have been a disgrace all season but should get up for this one. Vikings 23, Lions 20.

BUFFALO (-3) VS. OAKLAND

My beloved Bills are in a sweet spot right now. They've beaten the Dolphins, who beat the Colts, who beat them. Now they play a team they have the talent to beat, but they better not go to sleep.

Rich Gannon has earned my respect, the man's a competitor...only Flutie surpasses him in that department. My two favorite teams do battle in this one. I REFUSE TO PICK BETWEEN FRIENDS.

PITTSBURGH (-5) AT CINCINNATI

The Bengals are still drunk from their party after beating the Browns last week.

Sober up Cincinnati here come the Steelers. I have a strong feeling that Pittsburgh plans to take out a whole lot of aggression on the second-worst team in the League. Steelers 26, Bengals 10.

TENNESSEE (-5) AT NEW ORLEANS

These two teams have caused me more heartache this year than any others.

The Titans by playing tough solid ball, the Aints by not playing tough, solid ball. Toss a coin in this one I hear Wuerffel may get the start. Titans 23, Aints 17.

SEATTLE (-1) AT SAN DIEGO

The Chargers have a great defense and will use it all today.

The Seahawks come to town stocked with offensive firepower but have failed to use it thus far.

I like the style of Harbaugh and the Chargers and look for them to surprise a lot of folks this season starting with Seahawks fans. Chargers 19, Seahawks 17.

GREEN BAY (-4) AT DENVER

The Packers will take this game seriously even though many think they'll take the game lightly.

Green Bay has a chance to put some distance between them and the rest of their Division. The Broncos got a win last week, probably the only one they'll get in the first half of the season. Big Al is flipping out! Packers 26, Broncos 13.

DALLAS (-3) AT NEW YORK GIANTS

The Giants are the most boring team in the League to watch, but they are decent at home. I like the Cowgirls in this one as they look to take control of their Division. Deion Sanders is back, and unfortunately, Dallas may be too. Cowgirls 24, Giants 10.

This week promises to be as full of surprises as the rest of the season has been, but there are a few great games to make it worthwhile.

The heat I've been suffering from former friends and fans has been almost unbearable and most would have collapsed by now. As a premier handicapper over the past few years, I, unlike the uneducated masses, understand the game completely.

I'm as confident as ever and continue to rest on the laurels of my better than 90% return on LOCK OF THE WEEK selections over the past few years.

This week I'm going with GREEN BAY (-3) OVER THE BRONCOS as my patented LOCK OF THE WEEK.

The Crystal Ball of Football is back, and so is the Pack. "Six-pack" Layer and his sidekicks will owe me an apology Monday.

Seminole head coach Tony Ackerson. "We didn't swim very fast, but our kids are more depleted right now than they've been all season."

"We have four more hard days until we begin resting for our district meet."

Danilo Gosling, Dan Bishop and Nick Crivellari led the way for the Fighting Seminoles boys, winning two individual events each and taking part in two winning relay teams each.

"I was really pleased that our guys swam hard all afternoon," said Ackerson. "Even when it was obvious that they weren't swimming particularly fast. They understand what the big picture is."

Corrie Seland, Angela Ellis and Bethany Kiebaum won two individual events and were on two winning relay teams each for the Seminoles girls.

Lindsay Bahr also had a pair of individual event wins for the Tribe, while Brittany Hutchinson and Amber Ellis were each on two winning relay teams.

Both Seminole swim teams are now 2-2 on the season and will next compete against Lyman at the Greyhounds' home pool on Thursday at 3:30 p.m.

This is a rescheduled meet from the one suspended because of the threat of Hurricane Floyd last month.

Lake Howell will return to action next Wednesday (October 30th) with a meet against Bishop Moore at the Longwood Aquatic Center starting at 4 p.m.

"Lake Howell's team is a lot like ours in many respects," said Ackerson. "They've got a lot of younger girls, and just a few boys. Coach Brown does a good job with them, and they're an extremely nice bunch of kids."

UCF football game to start at 7 p.m.

Special to the Herald

ORLANDO - University of Central Florida Athletics Director Steve Sloan announced Friday afternoon that UCF's football game against Nicholls State, scheduled for Saturday at the Citrus Bowl, has been moved from 6 p.m. to 7 p.m. in order to miss most of the effects of Hurricane Irene.

"Based on the weather projections I have been given, the center of the storm is supposed to move to the south and east of the Citrus Bowl during the day Saturday so we should be okay to play," Sloan said. "The extra hour should give us a little more time for the storm to move out of the area."

Sloan explored several possibilities, from moving the game to Sunday or even rescheduling. Please see UCF, Page 2B overall, 0-3 in the district) away early, leading 17-0 at halftime and never looking back.

Standout running back Clarence Latimer rushed for 90 yards on 21 carries, as Seminole's ball control oriented offense racked up 254 rushing yards on the night.

In a game that showcased Seminole's hard hitting defense, it was fitting that a fumble recovery by defensive back Honatho Badier gave Seminole the ball on Spruce Creek's 21 yard line, setting up the first score.

Goldsmith capitalized by breaking free on a quarterback keeper for a 17-yard first quarter touchdown run.

Seminole's longest scoring drive of the night gave the Tribe a 10-0 lead early in the second quarter.

Goldsmith's 49-yard run highlighted an 83 yard scoring drive, and Matt Nixon capped the drive with a 30-yard field goal.

"The whole (offensive line) played well tonight," Goldsmith said. "They were making some tremendous holes."

Late in the second quarter, Goldsmith gave Seminole a comfortable 17-0 lead with a one-yard touchdown run.

Ed Manning's 26-yard run was key to the 52 yard drive. Manning finished with 47 yards rushing on seven carries.

Goldsmith's third touchdown run of the night was worthy of highlight films. In the third quarter, Goldsmith escaped a sack deep in the backfield and ran 21 yards for the touchdown, diving over Panther defender Stephan Coleman into the end zone.

"I just wanted to get in the end zone," Goldsmith said.

Seminole sacked Pine Ridge quarterback Markie May four times, and defenders such as Henry Oliver and Mike Bradley pressured May throughout the contest.

May finished with just six completions out of 21 attempts for 59 yards, and Manning made a fourth quarter interception.

Defensive back Justin McKinney saved a touchdown for Seminole late in the third quarter. Wide receiver James Perry was wide open for what would have likely been a 48-yard touchdown reception, but McKinney raced back to deliver a crushing blow that knocked the ball out of Perry's hands.

Goldsmith also deflected several key passes on defense. "It gets tiring," Goldsmith said of playing both offense and defense. "But, I have to fight through it."

The lopsided win provides welcome momentum for Seminole after last week's narrow 28-21 win over Lake Howell and the Oct. 2 upset loss to Oviedo, 24-21.

"This feels great," Goldsmith said. "We've been playing poorly the last few weeks."

Friday marked the first game for new Pine Ridge head coach Travis Peoples, following the resignation of Tim Johnson this past week.

Rams

Neither team could mount a scoring challenge in the second quarter and the two squads went to intermission with Lake Mary leading 21-0.

The Rams got the ball to open the second half but were forced to punt after gaining one first down.

Starting from his own 10, Colonial quarterback Brandon Blake, who transferred to the Orlando school from Winter Springs this summer, was flushed out of the pocket by a blitzing Justin Komondoros and tackled the signal-caller in the end zone for a safety.

Lake Mary was unable to move the ball after the ensuing kick off, but the defense got the ball right back as Eric Coleman picked off the first of his two interceptions on the night and returned the ball from the 40 to the two-yard line.

Dwayne Lowery took the ball into the end zone on the first play after the interception, but a bad snap on the extra point try left the score 29-0 heading into the fourth quarter.

The Rams' final score of the game came on one of their few sustained drives. Starting from their own 29 with 2:18 left in the third quarter, the visitors marched 56 yards on 10 plays before the drive stalled, setting up Russ Abrams' 34-yard field goal with 6:30 to play in the game.

The only bright spot on offense for Colonial in the game came with 4:09 to go in the game.

Julius Lee ran 11 yards for a first down and then galloped 41-yards on a draw play down to the three-yard line. Blake then carried the ball in for the Grenadiers lone score of the game with 3:01 left to play and Lake Mary was able to run out the clock.

Stanton was extremely pleased with his defense after the game.

"To hold those guys (Colonial) to only six points is outstanding," said Stanton. "The defensive coaches had a great game plan and the kids carried it out perfectly."

In addition to kicking the field goal and three extra points, Abrams also put the ball in the end zone five times, forcing Colonial to start on its own 20 each time.

Luke Lukaik also picked off a Blake pass for the Rams, while Mike Pagozalaki also had a big game on defense.

Offensively, Hadley, Lowery, Ballerino, Mario Fields, Charles Harris and Andy Britt all performed well.

FAU-UCF MEN'S SOCCER KICKOFF TO BE DELAYED BY HURRICANE IRRENE

ORLANDO - The Trans America Athletic Conference men's soccer game between the University of Central Florida and Florida Atlantic University, slated for Saturday at the UCF Arena Soccer Field, has been moved from 2 p.m. to 7 p.m. to avoid the effects of Hurricane Irene.

Word of the change came in response to the announcement that today's UCF-Nicholls State football game would also be changed to 7 p.m. The storm is expected to clear the Orlando area in time for kickoff.

GUNDERSDUD SHOOTS PAR TO LEAD UCF WOMEN'S GOLF AT BEACON WOODS

BAYONET POINT - Sophomore Monica Gundersrud of the University of Central Florida fired an even-par 72 to earn a first place tie after Friday's first round of the Beacon Woods Invitational.

The Golden Knights currently rank third as a team at 306, nine strokes off the pace set by host University of South Florida. Kelly Lagendrost of USF and Anna Certison of Mississippi State each matched Gundersrud for the individual lead.

Sophomore Olivia Hartley shot a 36-40 - 76 (+4) first round for UCF to place in a tie for 11th. The Golden Knights' Line Berg and Tanja Arnold are in 30th at 41-39 - 80 (+9). Tatiana Londene finished out of Friday's scoring at 41-42 - 83 after the first day.

The tournament continues with single rounds Saturday and Sunday, weather permitting.

ASTRO-GRAPH
BERNICE BEDE OSOL

In the year ahead, strive to participate in involvements in that will enable you to display your full talents and abilities. The more you are able to implement them, the greater your success will be.
LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) If you take as gospel the facts offered by someone you know tends to exaggerate things, you could be setting yourself up for a costly mistake today. Evaluate your source. Libra, treat yourself to a birthday gift. Send the required refund form and for your Astro-Graph predictions for the year ahead by mailing $2 and self-addressed stamped envelope to Astro-Graph, c/o the newspaper, P.O. Box 1784, Murray Hill Station, New York, NY 10156. Be sure to state your Zodiac sign.
SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) Your usual keen judgment might not be up to par today, so be extra careful about making decisions you'll have to live with. It's best to talk things over first with experienced people.
SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) Make certain you'll be able to honor any lunch promises you make today before you generously offer to give away the store. Later, you'll have to ante up whatever it is you pledge.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) Treat serious matters with the seriousness they deserve today, especially those of a financial nature. You could be in for a big loss if you are indifferent to reality.
AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18) Don't butt in today where others have a different way of doing something, especially if it involves something important. Your interference could be damaging.
PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20) The secret to success is to be both a dreamer and a doer. If you fail to take positive measures to implement your dreams or ideas, they'll count for nothing.
ARIES (March 21-April 19) Your belief could burst if you build your hopes upon unrealistic promises. Guard against any tendencies you get to expect more from developments than conditions warrant.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) Rely solely upon your own efforts today if you have a specific objective you're trying to achieve. Lady Luck won't be replacing hard work or ability. Trust yourself at this time.
GEMINI (May 21-June 20) If something doesn't compute in your mind today, don't expect it to work out in the real world either. Wistful thinking will lead you down a slippery road.
CANCER (June 21-July 22) Be very careful today or you might be taken in by glitter which overshadows the true worth of something. This includes both the packaging of fame or people.
LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) Should you feel a need to seek advice today, keep in mind that some people are inclined to tell you only what they think you want to hear instead of frank opinions. Only the truth can help.
VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) Without stern self-discipline today, you could easily be inclined to overindulge in some manner. Remember, there is a price to pay for everything and you might not like the cost.

WIN AT BRIDGE

Not always only on paper

By Phillip Alder

Despite what you might think, text-book deals do arise in "real life." Take this example, which occurred during the 1993 Bermuda Bowl match between Argentina and the United States.
Now should the play go in three no-trump after West leads the club jack? Even if you use a 16-18 no-trump opening, this South hand is too strong for that bid. The good five-card suit and all those aces and kings make it worth nearer 30 points than 18.
South starts with seven top tricks: two spades, two hearts, two diamonds and one club. So, four diamond tricks, not five, are sufficient to bring home the contract.
The Argentine South won the second club trick, cashed the diamond ace, played a spade to dummy's king, then finessed the diamond jack. However, West scooped up the trick

The Case of the Goat Lady surely gave Bob McMillan and his team of lawyers in the Seminole County Attorney's Office more than a few gray hairs.

Seems the Goat Lady's neighbors didn't appreciate her pets.

Neither did the county's code enforcement board.

The case went to court, and many thought the county's stance was insensitive to animals if not downright mean-spirited. It didn't matter that the judge ruled against the Goat Lady.

"It was a negative PR comment for the County Attorneys, one of very few," said Sanford attorney Thom Greene, who represented the Goat Lady.

For the most part, it's not easy getting the county's goat in court. Bob McMillan leads a 18-person legal team that has earned the respect of both the area's judges and independent attorneys.

"They have to walk a delicate line," says Judge Carmine Bravo. "It means following the law and respecting the feelings of the county's residents."

Greene, whose First Street office is just a few blocks away from the Seminole County Attorney Bob McMillan and his team of lawyers have a delicate job. They must have the wisdom of Solomon and the grace of Job, while balancing the egos of their political bosses.

County Services Building, said he hears mostly good comments about the county's attorneys.

"They had a guy a few years ago who took everything — no matter how small — to the Fifth District Court of Appeals," Green says. "He was a bit much."

Winter Park attorney David Wasserman, who represents the adult entertainment industry vividly recalls a toe-to-toe, yelling combat with Bob McMillan at a County Commission meeting two years ago. The two took the debate to the edge.

"I felt as a resident I was getting bang for my buck," Wasserman says, remembering the confrontation. "Bob McMillan did a good job representing the county. I was doing my job. He knew that. We shook hands later."

Wasserman said he has less respect — but respect none the less — for Lonnie Groot, the deputy county attorney.

"We just don't agree ideologically," Wasserman says. "He does a good job, too. I have to deal with guys like him all over the country. I been furious at some of them. Furious."

McMillan, 52, is generally in good spirits, approachable, friendly. He dresses sharply, preppy at times. Some of the gray in his hair probably did come from the Case of the Goat Lady, some from Wasserman.

"The Case of the Goat Lady got big press," McMillan says. "The poor woman said that her goats saved her life, escaping from Germany. The first judge couldn't hear the case. He recused himself because he had children on his own property."

Another time, McMillan had to represent the county against Rolf the Dog, a German Shepherd who wound up going to prison.

"Someone busted Rolf from Animal Control. Finally, a judge sent Rolf off to be a prison guard dog. Rolf died in prison."

McMillan has headed the county's legal team for 10 years. This means reporting to each member of the Board of County Commissioners. It means leading the entire legal team in any number of law related issues. Suits against the county. Land purchases. Land development and zoning. See Practice, Page 2C

Lady in Blue

Walters becomes the first woman to earn lieutenant bars

Senior Police Officer Shell Walters made history recently when she was promoted to the rank of

Herald
Lieutenant, the first female officer to achieve that status in the history of the Altamonte Springs police department. The former Altamonte high school basketball star, now a 10-year veteran with the Altamonte department, told Herald staff writer Joe DeLanceo she enjoys juggling life with her two "families" — the one at home, and the one in blue.

Q: How does it feel to be a ground-breaker with the Altamonte Springs police department?

A: When I first got the news of the promotion I was overwhelmingly grateful. I worked hard for this and the exam was stressful and strenuous. I'm very proud of the rank and I'm happy to be working with a very professional and dedicated group of people.

Q: Do you anticipate any problem areas with subordinates male officers having to take direction from a female superior?

A: We have very modern, forwarding thinking officers on the Altamonte police force. I don't think my being a female lieutenant will be much of an issue. What I do expect is a ration of grief from superior officers—it's natural for them to best chop a little with new lieutenants.

Q: How do you juggle family responsibilities with the responsibilities of the uniform and the badge?

A: I'm like any other working parent, male or female. When I'm home, my family is my first priority. When I'm at the office my fellow officers become my second family. I do the same thing many parents do, juggle work with baths, homework, and family time.

Q: Now that you are a lieutenant, will your husband Kenny have to salute you when you come home from the office?

A: (Chuckles) No. He's been my rock, my study buddy. He really helped me prepare for the lieutenant's exam, always helping with quizzes on the four different sections. He's very happy and excited about my promotion.

Q: How did you two meet and how did you wind up with the Altamonte Springs police department?

A: We met when I was down in Florida on spring break in 1987. I moved here in 1988 and we got married in 1990. He works for Hughes Supply, and we have two daughters, Shelby 6, and Allison, 2.

Q: What got you interested in law enforcement?
A: When I was playing basketball in high school I thought about going on to play in college. I wanted a career choice that would give me the opportunity to work directly with people. Law enforcement provides that opportunity on a daily basis.

Q: Do you feel any added weight or pressure as the first female lieutenant?

A: Not at all. We have very dedicated and professional women officers in every single division of this department. It's a pretty diverse force. I'm the first female lieutenant because I'm the first female to take the lieutenant's exam.

Q: You've shown a lot of persistence and perseverance in achieving that rank. Do you foresee a "blue ceiling" in law enforcement, similar to the "glass ceiling" other women face in more traditional occupations?

A: To keep climbing in rank I've got to keep pushing to jump. But I certainly plan to keep going. Somewhere down the road I'd like to achieve the status of Commander or Deputy Chief.

Tommy Vincent's Faces Around Seminole County

Can I have this dance? When the Wednesday afternoon Senior Dances begin, Francis Morgan and Alan Raymond become Sanford's own Ginger Rogers and Fred Astaire.

Sanford city commissioners Brady Lessard and Velma Williams know a thing or two about serving the people. Recently, they took time to serve meals during the "Servants of the People" luncheon to raise money for Mother Weaver's Mission.

As market managers, Vince and Karen Ford keep things in line at the Sanford Farmers' Market, which is open every Tuesday from 7 a.m. to 1 p.m. next to the Chamber of Commerce Building.

What's happening in school? Ask Seminole High School students Justin Frost, a second baseman on the Junior Varsity baseball team, and Tamara Sleep, a member of the school's varsity softball team.

ing. Interlocal agreements with the county's seven cities.

At any time, the County Attorney could be replaced if three of the commissioners turned on him.

"I marvel at the way he dances around some of the prima donnas who get elected to office," Sanford attorney Mack Cleveland says.

"Bob's a diplomat," former County Commissioner Win Adams says. "He advises the commissioners on the legal consequences of their actions. We're not legal scholars. He is. He diplomatically tells us when we're skating on thin ice. He's got a very, very tough job."

To be sure, McMillan needs to be his sharpest during public meetings.

"It's important to give immediate answers to complex questions," he says. "There has to be a balance. Without prejudice to a decision it must make, the board needs information. The other party — usually present — is also aware of what the county attorney is saying or advising. Overriding this is the public's interest."

A graduate of Fordham University's Law School, McMillan was an Air Force captain in legal affairs.

"When my son watches JAG on television, I tell him that's what I did — flying jets, handling court cases," McMillan says, laughing. "Well, everything but the flying."

He also worked at Martin Marietta before joining Nikki Clayton on the county's legal team. That was in 1979, when Clayton and McMillan were the only ones on the team.

McMillan says each of the attorneys in the County Attorney's Office works to solve problems before they develop.

"A good attorney makes the hard cases seem easy," he says. "It's best to prevent things before they become visible. The more we can save the taxpayer's the better we do our job."

In recent weeks, McMillan and his present staff have been uprooted from their offices at the County Services Building. This meant transferring volumes of books and paperwork from the main office to a trailer located at Five Points.

"The temporary move actually benefited us," McMillan says. "Because of the way our work spaces were so chopped up at the County Services Building, it was difficult for us to do our work and accommodate visitors. I frequently had to lead someone out of my office or else they would end up lost or in a wash room."

Commissioner Dick Van Der Weide suggested that the attorneys' offices be renovated. McMillan and company made no protest. They'll be moving back in November. Other attorneys will work at the county's office at Reflections off Lake Mary Boulevard.

Legal office administrator Dorothy Greene said she's relieved all has worked out for the county's legal beagles.

"We finally getting to work at home again," she said.

Antique schoolhouse bell is at center of family discord

DEAR ABBY: Several years ago my husband's sister asked us if we wanted an old schoolhouse bell she had purchased. She was moving and could not take it with her. Because we like antiques, we accepted her offer.

After much effort and paying to rent a moving truck — the bell weighed 1,500 pounds — my husband moved it to our house. It was so heavy he got it no farther than the top of our driveway, and there it sat for more than two years! It became obvious that the bell was just too large and heavy for us to do anything with. It would have cost us a small fortune to have someone build a stand for it, so I asked a local auctioneer if he could sell the bell for us.

When my sister-in-law learned I had sold the bell, she had a fit! She thought I should have asked her permission to sell the bell, as she had considered the bell only on "loan" to us. I never considered a 1,500-pound item that we paid to move, sitting in my driveway for more than two years, a "loan." I'm angry that this has caused such a rift in my husband's family.

I was always taught that when you are given something, it is yours to do with as you please. My husband feels caught in the middle, and we are now having marital problems for the first time in our 14-year marriage. What do you suggest?

MELVA IN PHILLIPSBURG, N.J.

DEAR MELVA: I, too, have always thought that once a gift is given it belongs to the recipient to keep or dispose of as he or she wishes. However, the bell is gone and there is nothing any of you can do at this point to retrieve it. Perhaps offering to split the money you received for the bell will soothe your sister-in-law's wounded spirit. In any case, you and your husband should not let his sister's attitude sabotage your marriage.

DEAR ABBY: Tomorrow I'll be celebrating my 64th birthday, and even though I have read your column faithfully for many years, I never thought I would be writing you for advice. This is the dilemma:

I am computer literate, while my wife of 45 years has been somewhat apprehensive about attempting to learn computer basics. Our grandson is 14 and would very much like to have a computer. My wife is adamantly opposed to it at this time. She says that when he graduates from high school, she will contemplate getting him one. I say by that time our grandson would have lost valuable time and the opportunities that come from having knowledge of the computer. There are many youngsters who, upon completion of high school, are forced to go to work. Consequently, their formal education is set aside until later, or perhaps never.

My wish would be for our grandson to continue his formal education after graduating from high school. However, in the event that he does not, I think we should get him a computer NOW, so that he could gain the necessary knowledge to compete in the labor market. As you well know, almost every workplace now requires employees to have at least some knowledge of computers.

Whatever your answer is, I will honor it. If it is contrary to my thinking, I'll never again mention it to my wife. However, if you agree with me, please try to convince my wife that we are doing a disservice to our grandson by not getting him a computer now. Thank you.

MANNY IN LAS VEGAS

DEAR MANNY: I agree with you. Computer proficiency is a skill that students need today. Colleges, as well as employers, expect applicants to be computer literate. If your wife doubts this, she should place a call to some of the local high schools and inquire. Perhaps that will reassure her.

DEAR ABBY: We're having a discussion in our office about dating. A co-worker is going out with her husband tonight. She considers it a date, but another co-worker and I disagree. Of course, if you are married, you're allowed to go out with each other, but it's not considered a "date." Is it? Abby, what do you think?

CYNTHIA IN EL PASO

DEAR CYNTHIA: My trusty Webster's Collegiate Dictionary (10th Edition) defines "date" as "an appointment to meet at a specified time; esp. a social engagement between two persons that often has a romantic character." That definition describes the engagement your co-worker has with her husband, so she does indeed have a "date." Dating while married is a terrific way to keep romance alive — don't you agree?

Anniversary

Lewis E. (Eddie) and Kathryn Smith

Smiths celebrate 30th anniversary at Daytona Beach

CASSELBERRY - Lewis E. (Eddie) and Kathryn M. Smith of Casselberry celebrated their 30th wedding anniversary on Oct. 11.

The couple were married in Little Rock, Ark. in a double wedding and double ring ceremony with Kathryn's sister and her husband, Jeanne and Buddy Coffman. The sisters met their husbands three months prior to their marriage and both men proposed to their future brides within 30 minutes of each other.

The first time Eddie met Kathryn, she had rolled her hair on orange juice cans. As the story goes, he went back for a second look, liked what he saw and stayed.

Kathryn and Eddie have lived in Florida for 21 years and have two sons, Eddie III of Casselberry and Tommy of Tallahassee, and one grandson, Zachary.

Eddie has been in the pest control business for 26 years and is currently employed by Jim Rowe Pest Control of Sanford.

They are members of the Independent Order of Foresters, a family fraternal, benevolent organization. Eddie has been a High Court officer of the IOF for more than seven years. Both he and Kathryn devote most of their time to doing volunteer work for the IOF, Children's Rights Foundation, Children's Miracle Network and the MS Society.

The Smiths spent their 30th anniversary at Daytona Beach with a celebration including 150 friends along with raising funds for the Prevention of Child Abuse through a golf tournament and auction.

The couple's secret to 30 years of marriage is always be there to help people in need.

The Russis mark golden wedding anniversary at reception for 138

Tony Russi considers himself one lucky fellow. He and his beloved Betty celebrated 50 years of nuptial bliss on Oct. 1. Tony cherishes these 50 years and is quick to extol, "I have lived a married life for 50 years that most men only dream about."

Betty and Tony grew up in Sanford and have known each other forever, although he is three years older than she is. He joined the United States Marine Corps when he was 16 and was discharged in June, 1949 when he was 20 years old.

It was only natural that Tony returned home to his Sanford roots after serving a tour of military duty for his country. Not long after, he ran into Betty while he was wearing an "orange bathing suit," he said. Betty took notice, liked what she saw and has charmed the man of her dreams ever since.

The Russis started dating in July, 1949 and were married less than three months later on Oct. 1 by the Rev. J. Bernard Root at the Congregational Church in Sanford. She was barely 17.

Tony's mother, Tina Russi, still lives independently in Sanford. He is the eldest of five brothers and two sisters. Betty is the daughter of Norma and John Carson Cook. There were three girls in her family.

It didn't take long for Tony to get his feet wet in the insurance business where he was highly successful for 45 years. He owned and operated Tony Russi Insurance Agency in Sanford before selling it to his two sons, Tony Jr. of Sanford, and Rick of Altamonte Springs. The third son, Randy, is a teacher at South Seminole Middle School.

Betty and Tony have been active on the civic, church, school and social scene in Sanford. Betty has always been a mom and homemaker. They have traveled extensively on the homefront and abroad. They are the world's greatest Gator fans and have always bought season's tickets and followed the team wherever it went until this season.

Tony laughed, "I took care of the national debt and foreign aid and she selected the tie I would wear."

Suddenly the pace changed in the lives of the beautiful couple. Before her birthday in September, Betty had a massive heart attack, requiring by-pass surgery, and later suffered two strokes. The makings of a birthday celebration and anniversary celebration were shifted to hold. Then, at the last minute, the anniversary party was rescheduled since Betty was making so much progress.

And so about 138 of Sanford's finest arrived at the Sanford Garden Club on Sept. 30 to wish the Russis a happy golden wedding anniversary. The tables were centered with arrangements of pink roses (Betty's favorite flower) accented with glowing pink candles. The white and chocolate anniversary cake was frosted in white with gold leaves and the numeral "50" decorated the top tier. A table held a display of photographs of the couple's happy life together.

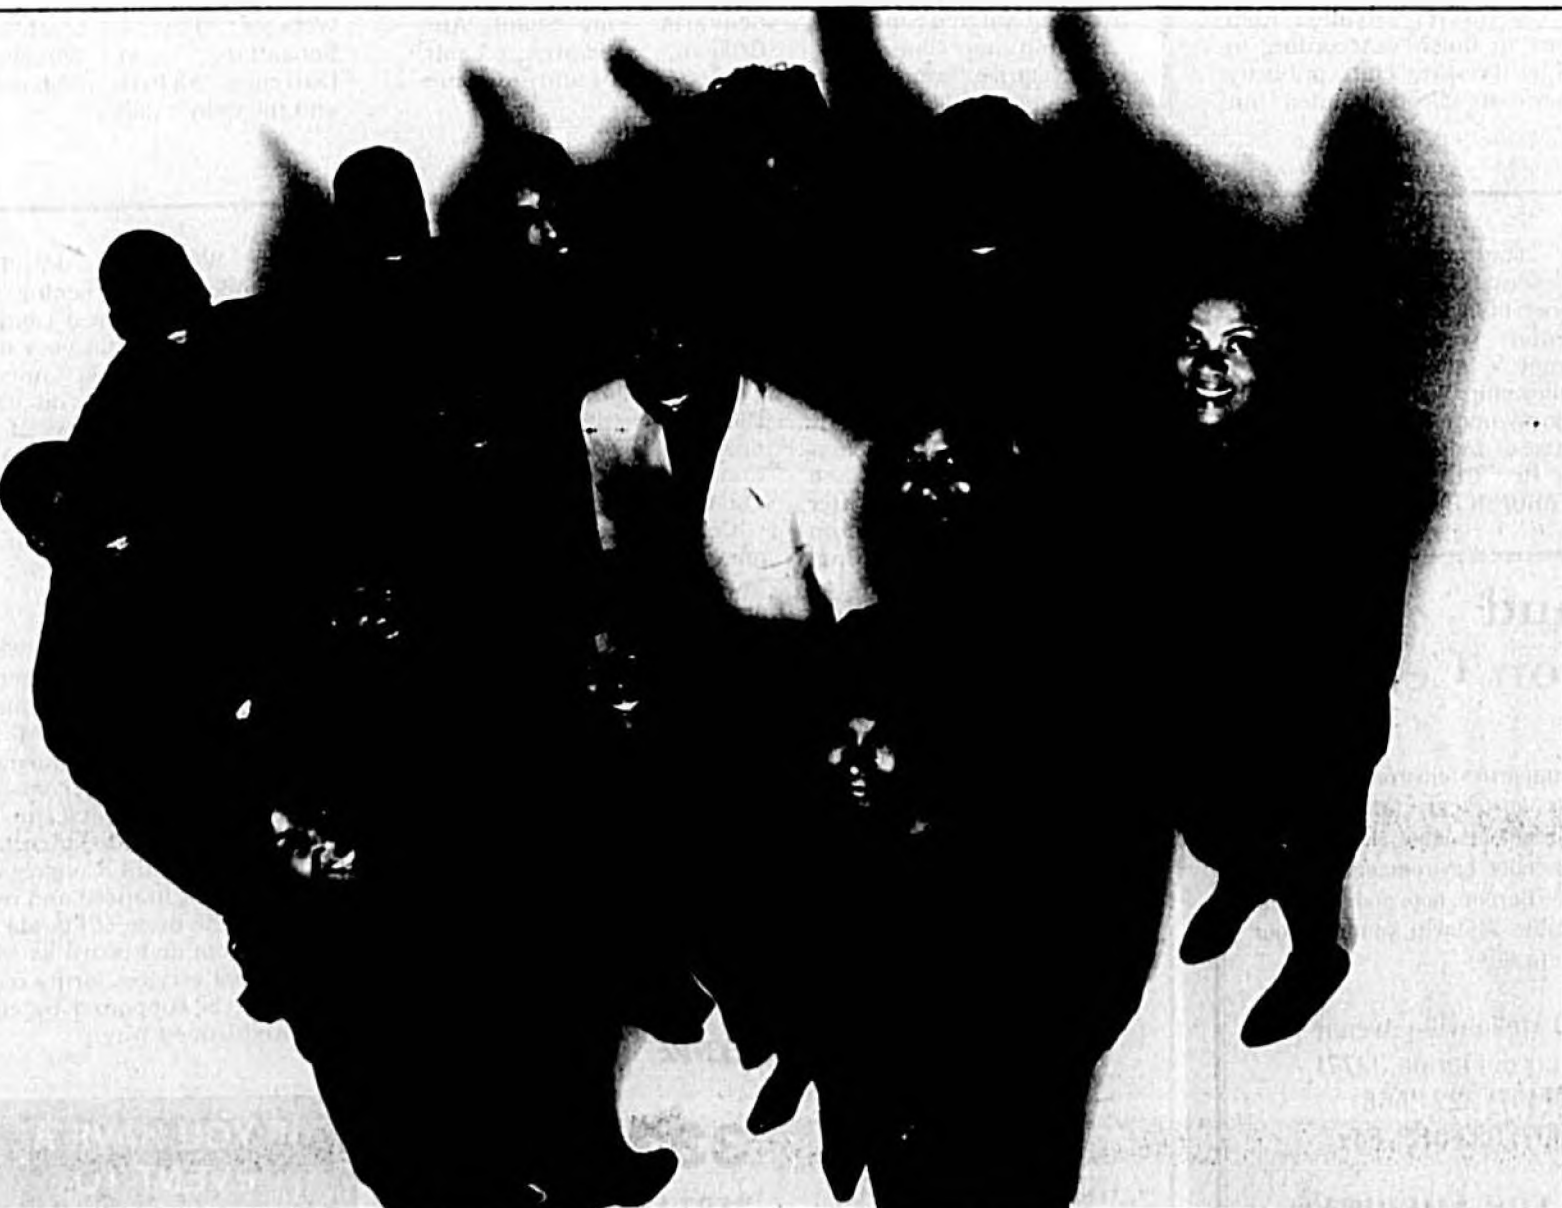

It was a night to eat, drink and be merry. Buck's Catering went all out in serving the delectable cuisine fit for royalty including: steamed jumbo shrimp, crab-stuffed mushrooms, baby back Hawaiian ribs, Italian meatballs, carved

Aliens show up at Lake Mary's 'Stardust Saturday Night Live'

It was a quiet evening in Lake Mary until the aliens arrived. And they didn't come alone, they brought a few Jedi with them. Well, it was actually Girl Scouts dressed as aliens and Jedi.

Saturday, Oct. 9 was the 4th Annual Stardust Talent Show. The girls from Junior Girl Scout Troop 458 were dressed as Star Wars characters for the song "The Saga Begins", Weird Al Yankovic's homage to the movie "The Phantom Menace". Girls from Troop 458 also participated in two other acts, dancing to Shania Twain's "Honey, I'm Home" and "Never Fully Dressed Without A Smile" from Annie.

The theme for the Talent Show this year was "Stardust Saturday Night Live." Senior Troop 148, organizers of the talent show, opened the event with an SNL skit. There were three additional skits from Troop 148 throughout the show, including a Martha Stewart parody and a takeoff of the Spartan cheerleaders. Two girls from Troop 148 did get serious long enough to sing a duet, "There Can Be Miracles" from Prince of Egypt.

Junior Girl Scout Troop 504 also provided a lot of talent Saturday night.

Kaycee Forner, Chelsea O'Boyle and Amara Kott are all members of the Lake Mary Elementary School Band. They performed two songs together as a trio, then each girl played a solo on their instrument. Michelle Ennis and Laura Selsky from Troop 504 danced to the Backstreet Boys song "Larger Than Life" and Nina Yaguel and Megan Sladek danced to the Britney Spears song "Crazy".

Two first grade Brownie troops from Lake Mary performed. Troop 194 were adorable singing "Old McDonald". With the help of Lake Mary music teacher Amy Gonzalez, Troop 1966 performed "Three Little Fishes". In addition to the song, that included fish dancing to classical music under black light.

Brownie Troop 1277 sang "Atama Kata". That's "Head and Shoulders" in Japanese.

Blanca Mendez, a junior from 146, danced to the Shania Twain song "That Don't Impress Me Much". First grader Elise Brent from Troop 1966 demonstrated her karate form.

Thanks to music teacher Amy Gonzalez for lending her piano, Melissa Kunkel and Jessica Cranias were both able to perform piano solos. Melissa played "Swift Horses" and "Teepee". Jessica played "Dream Echoes". The last act in the talent show was a Girl Scout cheer written and performed by Junior Troop 592.

In addition to the Talent Show, there was also a silent auction. The silent auction is a fund raiser for Senior Girl Scout Troop 148. Because cookie sales drop as girls get older, Cadette and Senior troops have to find other ways to raise funds. Senior Troop 148 has been saving for three years to visit the Girl Scout National headquarters in New York. The girls were very fortunate to get donations for the auction from Walt Disney World, the Central Florida Zoo, Sak Theatre Comedy Lab, A World of Orchids, Ripley's Believe It Or Not, Citrus Council of Girl Scouts and Fox 35.

The troop was also selling T-shirts left over from previous events. Funds from the sale of the T-shirts go to benefit the Service Unit Uniform Fund. Whenever a Girl Scout can't afford the cost of a uniform, the Service Unit will provide one for them out of the uniform fund.

tenderloin of beef, assorted cheeses, pasta, scampi, chocolate covered strawberries, assorted mini desserts on a separate table and an open bar. Garfield Willetts and band provided the lively music for the guests' dancing and listening pleasure.

Betty arrived in her wheel chair wearing a lovely black and gold print outfit complemented with a white corsage. She is looking forward to ditching the wheel chair for her birthday and anniversary gift from Tony, a brand-spanking new Jaguar ordered before the heart attack. It is parked in the family garage and has never been driven by her.

Several attending the golden gala have commented on how beautiful and lovely the evening was. "...a return to the good old days..."

Would the Russis tie the knot all over again?

Betty: "We would do the same thing again."

Tony: "Certainly! In a heart beat."

WOMAN'S CLUB PUTS ON THE RITZ

"Puttin' on the Ritz" was the highlight of the opening of the 1999-2000 season for the Sanford Woman's Club. Carole Kirchhoff, chairman of the club's public affairs department, was in charge of the delightful program.

The long-awaited opening of the historic Ritz Theater in Sanford is just around the corner. The distinctive landmark has been in the process of repair and renovation for several years and will certainly enhance the cultural climate of the greater Sanford community.

Dressed as flapper girls, Carole, Beverly Boothe, Eve Rogero and Helen Stairs, president of the Ritz board, milled around the clubhouse in promoting the Ritz. Helen Stairs briefly addressed the assembly stressing the urgent need of seats for the theater. The seating capacity is 550 and the seats with an engraved name plate (tax-deductible) are $500.00 each.

Ritz board member David Scott, principal of Idyllwild Elementary School and holder of a "Principal of the Year" title showed slides of the progress of the Ritz Preservation from start to finish. According to Libby Prevatt, club publicity chairman, Scott pointed out several finds in the rubble: an orchestra pit, a musician's stand, a tunnel under the building leading to dressing rooms and a trap door used to get performers off stage during the vaudeville days.

Bart Rush, a downtown Sangre merchant, is donating the stage curtains. The building is near completion and the dedication is set in late November.

President Bettye Smith conducted the business meeting. Past presidents in attendance were: Vida Smith, Ann Brisson, Winifred "Bill" Gielow, Marty Colegrove, DeLores Lash and Ruth Gaines.

New members attending were: Susan Ceynowa, Linda Sparrow and Mildred Smith.

Nominations Chairman Marty Colegrove announced the following candidates for election: Jane Saxon, second vice president; Frances Mitchell, recording secretary; and Retha Blankenship, chairman of the arts department, who were all elected to the perspective offices.

It was announced the Literary Group, open to all club members, will meet Oct. 20, at the home of Frances Mitchell. For information, call her. It was also announced that the club will sponsor and host the Golden Age Games Bridge Tournament at the clubhouse.

The clubhouse was decorated in the fall and Halloween motif. The hostess committee included: Viola Frank and Polly Pezold, chairmen, Phyllis Senkarik, Emy Sokol, Ann Brisson, DeLores Lash, Jeanette Pell and Rochelle Whitley.

FIVE GENERATIONS MEET FOR REUNION

A gathering of the clan took place recently at the home of Betty Jack. The family members were served barbecue with all the trimmings, prepared by Betty.

The delegation included five generations as follows: Betty's mother, Freda Webster, 88, great great grandmother, from Sebastian; Betty, great grandmother; Paula Simpson, grandmother, Sanford; Alisha Durrence, mother, Meas, Ariz.; and Devon Durrence, the family's newest heir, 11 months old.

Among the out-of-town relatives attending were Roger Webster, Betty's brother, Sebastian; and Shawn Durrence, Alisha's husband and the baby's dad.
