

FIVE HOURS DEBATE ON THE NAVAL LIMIT TREATY SHOWS UNANIMOUS SPIRIT

Throughout Day's Discussion Raise no Voice In Opposition DISAPPOINTED

OVER FACT THAT TREATY DOES NOT GO FAR ENOUGH IN LAND AND SEA QUESTION.

WASHINGTON, March 29.—Five hours of debate on the naval limitation treaty revealed a virtually unanimous senate sentiment in its favor and resulted in an agreement to vote finally upon its ratification today.

Throughout the day's discussion not a single voice was raised in opposition, although from the democratic side there were numerous expressions of disappointment that the treaty did not go further in the direction of both land and sea disarmament. Claiming a share of credit for the reduction actually accomplished, the democrats at the same time sought to show that the whole idea of an armament conference originated with the democratic congress of 1915 and finally was forced upon a reluctant republican administration.

Last night the administration leaders were predicting that the ratification would be unanimous and that the submarine and poison gas treaty would be approved by a like vote today. The sudden sweep of progress aroused hope in some administration circles that the two Chinese treaties might also be ratified and the whole group of arms conference covenants returned to the White House with senate approval by the end of this week.

Debate on the naval treaty, which began with yesterday's session, was devoid of the colorful touches which had characterized the fight over the four power pact. Senator Lodge of Massachusetts explained the treaty's provisions in a detailed statement of more than two hours, and Senator Underwood of Alabama, added his approval in a short speech declaring the treaty would be accepted as an epochal achievement by the American people regardless of party.

Senator Hitchcock, Nebraska, took the lead in claiming for his party the credit to be derived from the achievements of the conference. He pointed out that the naval appropriation bill of 1916 contained a suggestion for such a conference and declared that the resolution for a conference introduced a year ago by Senator Borah, republican, Idaho, was heartily supported by the democrats of the senate and was opposed actively by President Harding.

The assertions of Senator Hitchcock regarding the president's attitude were denied by Senator Kellough, republican, Minnesota, who said Mr. Harding had been anxious for an international meeting of minds, although he might have withheld approval from some of the specific proposals in that direction considered in congress. The discussion finally resolved itself into a League of Nations argument in which Senator Williams, democrat, Missouri, predicted that the league would remain a political issue until the United States had become a member of it.

Making his only observation during the debate, Senator Borah, author of the conference resolution, asked how it could remain a political issue "with one party going in the front door and the other going in the back door."

SANFORD GOLF CLUB ORGANIZED LAST NIGHT AT ENTHUSIASTIC MEETING

S. O. Chase, Father of the Club, is Made the First President of the Organization

The much-talked of Golf Course for Sanford is at last to become a reality. At a meeting held in the Court House last night, a large number of the initial subscribers elected officers, a Charter Committee, and named this new civic enterprise, The Sanford Country Club. The determined and enthusiastic spirit which dominated the meeting and the genuine interest evidenced by Sanford's representative men augurs well for its success.

F. P. Forster, president of the First National Bank, was appointed temporary chairman, Mr. Forster through his own efforts secured subscriptions for the purchase of the property in an amount over $9,000.00, and in his report to the meeting stated that a sufficient amount of subscriptions had been pledged to purchase the property and make the necessary improvements on the building, which will be the Country Club. This property was formerly the Amory Estate, consisting of one hundred and fifty acres of land, and on which there are two good houses and a grove of eight hundred orange trees. It is ideally located for a golf course and the fair way, when completed, will possess natural hazards and other desirable features to be found on a golf course laid out in a rolling country. The building to be used as a Club house was originally a fine old residence and will be one of the most complete club houses in the state after renovations and alterations are completed. The Club is easily accessible from Sanford being located on the recently macadamized Paola road.

It was apparent from Mr. Forster's report that the golf course committee of the Sanford Chamber of Commerce of which Mr. S. O. Chase was chairman, had put in a great deal of time on this matter. It was through the efforts of Mr. Chase's committee that the purchase of the property was consummated, permitting Mr. Forster the opportunity of submitting a definite proposition when soliciting subscriptions from the citizens of Sanford for a golf course.

A nominating committee appointed by Mr. Forster submitted the following names for officers of the Sanford Country Club, all of whom were unanimously elected: President, S. O. Chase; first vice-president, Forest Lake; second vice-president, F. P. Forster; third vice-president, H. R. Stevens. Board of Directors: R. J. Holly, Arthur Yowell, Ed. Higgins, Fred T. Williams, J. G. Ball, O. P. Swope; Deane Turner, treasurer, and H. C. DuBoise, secretary.

The Sanford Country Club is to be congratulated on the appointment of Mr. Chase as its president. He is one of the most successful business men in Sanford and has the enviable reputation of bringing to a successful culmination anything he undertakes. The work he has accomplished as chairman of the golf course committee of the Sanford Chamber of Commerce made it obvious to those present that the future success of the project would be assured under his able guidance. It is expected that a club house and nine hole course will be completed by fall.

GROWERS CAN LOOK FOR BIG PRICES FOR THEIR FRUIT THE COMING SEASON

Buyers are already in Florida contracting for next year's fruit.

"It is a little odd that they would be buying next year's fruit before all of this season's fruit is shipped, and are really offering what looks like attractive prices."

"There's a reason." The real truth of the damage to the California citrus industry is not generally known in Florida, for the average Floridian has really sympathized with California and has not endeavored to make capital out of California's misfortune.

But nevertheless, the California fruit industry has been hit hard, and if any one is to benefit by California's misfortune it should be the growers, not the speculators.

One of the strongest fruit concerns in Florida sent one of their best men to California to learn the real truth of the effects of the freeze in that state, and this is what he writes:

"The January freeze in California was the most serious one in the history of the California fruit industry, not only in its effect in the present crop, but also because of its effect on the crop of the next two or three years.

"In many sections the young trees have been seriously hurt, while in other sections not only the young trees, but the bearing wood on the older trees have been frozen back. The natural effect on this will be a material reduction in the output of both Navels and Valencia's from California next season, with some improvement in the output during the following season."

Naturally, the speculators will endeavor to make a "killing" under these circumstances by tying up your orange crop by what looks like a favorable contract. Don't be fooled, but wait and get what your fruit is worth.—Wauchulla Advocate.

Senators En Tour to the Shoals Say it is Too Big for Solution MUST BE KEPT

IN READINESS FOR THE NEXT WAR WHICH ALL PROFITEERS ARE WAITING TO OCCUR.

FLORENCE, Ala., March 29.—The foremost engineers of America will be called upon to appear in Washington before the senate agricultural committee to aid in solving the Muscle Shoals problem, Senator Norris, chairman of the committee, announced after the government's nitrate plants had been inspected.

Members of the house military affairs committee which with the senate committee is inspecting the nitrate and water power projects, expressed the view that Muscle Shoals actually and Muscle Shoals on paper looked quite unlike, and Representative Hull declared the house committee would never consent to the plants being scrapped.

Mr. Hull said the plants might well be used in time of peace for making fertilizer but that they "must ever be kept in readiness in case of emergency."

Chairman Norris did not share the view of a few of his colleagues that the Muscle Shoals problem might be speedily disposed of on return to Washington of the committee. He said he would invite the presidents of four chemical and technical organizations to appear before the committee at once. They are the American Society of Electrical Engineers, American Society of Chemical Engineers, American Society of Civil Engineers and the American Society of Mechanical Engineers.

"We have a tremendous responsibility before us," asserted the chairman, "and we are going to endeavor to thresh it out along business like and sound scientific lines."

In saying that the visit of the committees had shown many new angles to the situation not covered by the hearings in Washington, Mr. Hull declared, "We had a lot of evidence before us which we have found here to be more camouflage." It was his opinion, he said, that much of the ground must be gone over again.

The entire day was spent in a tour of the two nitrate plants and other properties of the reservation. Data before the committees showed that the government spent $91,237,650 on the nitrate plants and that the salvage value as scrap was estimated at $7,860,000. They were told that plant No. 1 was obsolete and that $4,000,000 would be required to make it modern.

Members of the congressional party ended their day's program as guests of Edward O'Neal, vice president of the Alabama Farm Bureau Federation, at a barbecue dinner at his country home near Florence. After an inspection tomorrow of the site for proposed dam No. 1, seventeen miles east of Florence, the party will leave for Washington.

In line with the announcement of Frederick E. Engstrom that he would modify his bid so as to exclude the Gorges plant organizations were backing Henry Ford's offer telegraphed him at Fort Myers, Fla., urging him to consider modification of his bid "to conform to the federal water power act and divorce Gorges." They had received no reply late yesterday.

The Alabama Muscle Shoals Association, organized with the announced purpose of supporting the Ford proposal, stated through its president, Emmet O'Neal, that a committee appointed to investigate the legal and moral phase of the Alabama Power Company's contract with the government had reported that "the alleged option of the power company is void." The committee making the inquiry, according to Mr. O'Neal's statement, held that "the army officer who sought to give this option to the Alabama Power Company exceeded its authority."

PERSONALS

Great weather right on.

Sanford is getting winter visitors every day.

This city is the stopping place for the tourist going back home.

George A. DeCottes and J. J. Dickinson were among the Sanford attorneys attending court at Titusville today.

Mrs. Ora Layton, of Orlando, was in the city yesterday on business connected with the state health department.

Mr. and Mrs. George E. Witherington, of Providence, R. I., were in the city today enroute from points farther south.

J. H. Huddleston, of Geneva, was in the city today bringing in a load of new Irish potatoes that he sold readily enough at good prices.

Mr. and Mrs. N. J. Lillard are arranging to move into their fine new bungalow recently built on Sanford Heights on Central avenue.

Ray Greene, of the faculty of Rollins College, Winter Park, was among the visitors to the city today and his many Sanford friends were glad to see him.

Rotarians Give Accounts of District Meet at Savannah

The Rotary luncheon at the Valdez Hotel was enlivened today by the members who attended the district meeting at Savannah giving an account of the meeting. President Harry Stevens gave a detailed report of the meeting and the many side lights of the big convention at which the clubs of the Southern states of the Eighth District took part. St. Petersburg is the next convention city as St. Pete with their jazz band and their bunch of live wires completely captured the convention. Dear old John Turner, the district governor from Tampa had served his year and was supplanted by a man from Alabama and the various committees of Rotary held their meetings all over the city and there was a meeting of some kind every hour.

Deane Turner gave an account of the meeting of the committees on Boys Work as he is chairman of this committee in the Sanford Club and the work being done in this department of Rotary is worthy of more than passing notice.

Charlie Henry gave an account of the meeting of the good fellowship committees and the entertainment that was offered the guests and from all accounts it would seem that they lacked nothing to be provided for their welfare while there especially in the hotel line. In fact Mayor Henry was simply crazy about some of the Savannah hotels.

The noonday luncheon today was replete with many good things and among them was the embracing in the membership of Harry B. Lewis and J. D. Davison into full fledged members of Sanford Rotary and they will be duly initiated later on.

HARDING INVITED TO ADDRESS EDITORS

WASHINGTON, March 28.—President Harding is shaping plans for his Alaska trip next summer so that he can attend the 37th annual convention of the National Editorial Association to be held at Missoula, Montana, early in July. The president is a paid-up member of the National Editorial Association and proud of his affiliation with this organization of newspaper owners. Such an address would be of national interest.

Preparations are made for two special de luxe trains to transport the editors during their entire tour of twenty-one days, starting and ending at Chicago.

Besides visiting Yellowstone and Glacier National Parks, the newspaper party will travel over the vast stretch of Montana, stopping in twenty or more towns and passing through the mining and agricultural districts of the state. Part of the journey will be by water, up Flathead Lake, which is one of the most scenic spots that lie outside Yellowstone and Glacier National Parks.

Missoula is making extensive arrangements to entertain the visitors during the three days they will be there for the convention. All the other towns on the itinerary are vying with one another in plans to show their hospitality.

Special entertainment will be provided in Yellowstone Park where the semi-centennial celebration of this national playground will be in full swing. And, later on the trip, when the editors arrive in Glacier Park they will be greeted in a picturesque manner by the original inhabitants of the Rocky Mountain country, the Black-foot Indians, who still stick to their tribal custom of registering their arriving guests with the mammoth quill of the Golden Eagle.

SANFORD'S TEMPERATURE

Calm and cloudy says the weather report today but this sounds something like the vegetable report given out saying celery was down when it was up. It is breezy and it is clear at this time of the day even though it was calm and cloudy early this morning. It is just a bit of Florida weather and you can't tell any more about the Florida weather than you can about Florida politics as William Jennings Bryan will find out when he starts running against Park Trammell. Oh, well, we should worry. Our peppers are looking fine.

HAD HIGH RANK AS HUMORIST

William Everts "One of the Wittiest Men I Ever Met," Asserted Chauncey M. Depew.

"William M. Everts was the wittiest man I ever met," writes Chauncey M. Depew in Scribner's magazine. "It is difficult to rehabilitate in the sayings of a wit the complete flavor of the utterance. It is easier with a man of humor."

"Everts was very proud of his efforts as a farmer on his large estate in Vermont. Among his prizes was a drove of pigs. He sent to Chief Justice Morrison R. Waite a copy of his eulogy on Chief Justice Salmon P. Chase, Waite's predecessor, and at the same time a ham, saying in his letter: 'My dear chief justice, I send you today one of my prize hams and also my eulogy on Chief Justice Chase, both the products of my pen.'"

"The good things Mr. Everts said would be talked of long after a dinner. I remember on one occasion his famous partner, Mr. Choate, who was a Harvard man, while Everts was a graduate from Yale, introduced Mr. Everts by saying that he was surprised that a Yale man, with all the prejudices of that institution against the superior advantages of Harvard, should have risked the coats of his stomach at a Harvard dinner. Mr. Everts replied: 'When I go to a Harvard dinner I always leave the coats of my stomach at home.'"

IGNORANCE HARD TO CREDIT

Superstitious Belief Almost Cost Woman in German Village Her Life, It Is Reported.

To cast the devil out of a woman living in a village of the Lauenburger district of Pomerania, Germany, three hags tortured her. She appears to have been of a sour and somewhat hysterical disposition and three of the village gossips came to the conclusion that her feelings were due to diabolical possession and resolved to effect a cure by means of ancient enchantments known by them. They first of all gathered the herbs needed for the purpose in the forests at the proper conjunction of the stars. Then a tripod was formed of three chairs and to these the patient was bound. Beneath her was placed a pall of red-hot coal on which the herbs were scattered. As the fumes of the burning weeds veiled the victim the three hags chanted the prescribed enchantment. The louder the woman shrieked the louder they sang, and after the process had been continued long enough to prove effective they ran away, believing the devil would run out of the woman after them. She, however, continued to shriek. Her cries were heard by a man who came to the rescue and unbound her.

The struggle for business success has often been so unrelenting that men have forgotten the dream children of their boyhood days, have discarded a priceless legacy, and, at last, having arrived at the goal of material success, find themselves penniless in all that matters—penniless in companionship, friendship and love. —Crawford C. McCullough.

Civilization Traced in Coins.

Man first had an opportunity to call "heads or tails" more than 2,200 years ago, when the practice of stamping a head on coins was instituted by the Greeks, with the likeness of Alexander the Great. Some of these ancient Greek coins are valuable as art objects alone, the embossing being of rare workmanship and surpassing anything to be seen on the coinage of today. It is naturally an example of the great height which Greek culture reached in that day.

The course of civilization in fact can easily be traced in these coins. The Roman coinage, some of which bears the head of Nero, is not equal in beauty to that of the Greek, but nevertheless shows a high quality of art. But the money of the succeeding "Dark Ages" is crude in the extreme, and even the English ten-cent piece of 1000 A. D. is childishly primitive in comparison.

Irish Settled in Iceland.

It was only in 1918 that the long constitutional controversy between Iceland and the Danish government resulted in the recognition of that island as a free and sovereign state in association with Denmark, under one and the same king, and once more "the hermit of the Atlantic," as it has been called, is free to pursue its way in accord with those early days when colonists from Norway and Ireland established a commonwealth which lasted more than four centuries.

The Irish of the Twelfth century were not the first of their race to find a home in Iceland, for the first settlers were anchorites from Ireland who found in these remote attitudes a place to exercise their vocation. —Christian Science Monitor.

"ANTI-CIGARETTE WEEK" STARTS ON SUNDAY, APRIL 23

Is National Plan of Anti-Cigarette League.

CHICAGO, March 29.—The week beginning April 23 has been designated as "National Anti-Cigarette Week" by the National Anti-Cigarette League, according to an announcement made recently by Miss Lucy Page Gaston, superintendent of the league.

The announcement says that the reason for selecting this particular week is because Saturday was officially designated as Anti-Cigarette day by the International Sunday School Association.

In her statement, Miss Gaston says: "We cannot hope that prohibition of liquor will be a success until the cigarette is eliminated, because cigarette smoking creates a craving which only alcohol can satisfy. Home brew and cigarettes are twin evils, neither of which is likely to be abolished successfully while the other remains with us."

"The National Anti-Cigarette League stands for the complete extermination of the cigarette through education, law enforcement and prohibition legislation, but we are not seeking to prohibit the sale or use of tobacco in other forms except to and by minors."

"The astonishing increase in cigarette smoking by women and girls is cause for genuine alarm owing to the fact that this habit strikes directly at the fountain of life thereby imperiling the virility and strength of future generations."

"The immeasurable harm which the cigarette is causing to youth of America is now widely recognized by parents, teachers and others interested in the welfare of the rising generation. The community organization plan of our 'Clean Life Movement' is proving to be just what is needed not only to combat the cigarette but other evils that menace the health and morals of the youth of every community."

LOOKS LIKE NEW RAILROAD THROUGH THE EVERGLADES

(By The Associated Press) MOORE HAVEN, March 29.—It is reported here that a party of prospectors has just completed a trip through the Everglades for the purpose of inspecting the territory with a view to the building of a railroad from Miami Canal to Lake Okechobee and around Lake Shore to connect with the Atlantic Coast Line at Clewiston.

Nothing definite concerning the movements or the identity of the reported investigating party is known here except that the engineer of a small boat which took them from South Bay to West Palm Beach said they had informed him they were looking over the possible route for a railroad from Miami to Clewiston.

WEATHER AND CROP CONDITIONS IN FLORIDA FOR THE WEEK ENDING MARCH 28.

Temperature: On the whole, the temperature averaged below the seasonal; there were, however, moderately warm days during the last of the week. Frost occurred on the 23d southward to the central portion of the peninsula, and temperatures were in the 30's in the interior of the extreme north and west on the same date.

Precipitation: The week was a dry one, no rain occurring over the greater portion of the section. The greatest amount reported was 0.80 of an inch at Pensacola. The need of rain is becoming urgent in some uplands in the central division, and the drought, which has been continuous, in a measure, in the south for several months, has done considerable damage to truck, especially in the Lake Okechobee section. Low lands over most of the section continue in fair to good condition.

Condition of Crops: The week was cool, dry and sunny, which was favorable for farm work, now well advanced; in fact, ahead of the average for the season. The planting of corn, cotton, some cane, peanuts, velvet beans, tobacco and truck continued over much of the section, especially the northern and western counties. Some cotton is up. Much corn has been worked; melon vines in some fields are "running." Slight damage resulted, however, to plants on the 23d in extreme northern localities; replanting will be necessary. Small shipments of Irish potatoes were made from the Hastings section, but general work will not begin before about the 1st proximo. The frost on the 23d did good rather than harm to potatoes; it arrested the "blight" which was becoming general in some fields. Truck is abundant. Citrus trees are in splendid condition, but rain would be beneficial.

MANATEE AND FOUR YOUNG DYNAMITED

MIAMI, Fla., March 28.—A mother manatee, 12 feet long, and her four young ones, was killed by a blast of dynamite discharged at the mouth of the Miami river Sunday by workmen engaged in deepening the channel. It was estimated that she weighed 1,700 pounds.

The killing of the manatee and her family is regarded as the practical extermination of the species in North America. One time plentiful in waters of southern Florida, authorities declare that they have been reduced to a very small band in the Miami river, and it is believed that all that are left could be counted on the fingers of one hand.

FASHION SHOW DREW BIG CROWD TO THE PRINCESS

BAUMEL'S SEMI-ANNUAL FASHION DISPLAY THE EVENT OF THE SEASON

The Princess Theatre was a bower of loveliness and spring beauty last night when the Baumel Fashion Show held the semi-annual revue of all the latest creations in India's wear and millinery. As usual with the fashion show the theatre was crowded with the ladies and a few of the sterner sex who one and all were anxious to get a glimpse of the latest decrees of fashion right from the world's marts of trade. The Baumel's Fashion Shows are said to be bigger and better each time and also that they are far superior to the shows held in cities twice the size of Sanford and the show always brings hundreds from surrounding cities and towns to see the bewildering array of regal gowns and hats. The varied styles of the customer's art were displayed by Mrs. Hal Wight, Miss Elizabeth Humphries, Miss Marjorie Clay, Miss Mildred Simmons, Miss Mildred Holly, Miss Esther Miller and Miss Daphne Wimbish. Among the modish gowns worn by Mrs. Wight was a beautiful white tailored canton crepe dress with plaited panels and a meadow lark crepe Romaine trimmed in henna georgette, one of the Peggy-Paige models.

Marjorie Clay was sweet and winsome in a Peggy-Paige crepe Romaine of peach blow color trimmed with sea shell and white beads worn with a Kans model picture hat of white. Also with a Copenhagen Russack model, headed in steel nail heads, the feature of this dress being that the entire trimming of the dress was on the sleeves beginning at the elbow and reaching to the wrists. Another was a sport costume including a tan and red model of canton and crepe net.

Mildred Simmons was regal in several beautiful costumes and displayed to advantage an unusual model of henna canton crepe trimmed with fine steel cut beads a feature of this model being an afternoon gown without sleeves. It was a copy of a Paris model of the very latest designs. Another design was a Peggy-Paige dress of beautiful peach colored canton crepe embroidered in new crystal beads and silver threads the feature being the new dropped shoulder, the Russian blouse effect and the extremely youthful Eton collar.

Miss Simmons also displayed a black lace evening gown of periwinkle crepe de chine which was worn with the new model Stone hat trimmed with plumes of the same shade.

Mildred Holly, the youngest of the models, displayed her youthful beauty in several girlish dresses among them being a navy blue canton crepe with fuchsia combination with exaggerated hoop skirt effect at the hips. She was also winsome in her second number when she sang the "Sheik of Araby" while wearing a copen evening dress of georgette with petal effect and hoop skirt. She was also very pretty in a sport costume of red coat and white plaited georgette skirt.

Miss Humphries, of the striking brunette type, was lovely in a black canton crepe with front and back panel embroidered in steel beads with airplane effect, black georgette edged in steel beads which formed the sleeves and drapery. She was also stunning in a red crepe knit sport dress trimmed with white. She also showed to advantage an unusual sport costume of white ratine with a gimp of red and white checked gingham. And a Peggy-Paige model of black georgette with the new peasant sleeves contrasted with grey banded skirt trimmed with red and white beads.

Esther Miller was piquant in a navy blue canton crepe trimmed with steel beads the feature being panels hanging from the sleeves and heavily headed with steel. Also a black taffeta Peggy-Paige model trimmed with fuchsia canton crepe the sleeves being very long and tight with open checker board effect down the entire length. She also wore an unusual sport dress of black and white tricolored with checker board effect skirt.

Daphne Wimbish, a model of grace and vivacity, was unusually charming in several beautiful costumes one being a peach color canton crepe with smart short cape and heavy braid embroidery in a bow knot design, the kimona blouse of white canton crepe in front and peach color canton in back. Also a bride-like costume in an evening gown of white georgette with full draped skirt trimmed in panels of silver beads. Also a charming costume of grey canton crepe and a lavender crepe Colonial style dress.

One of the best features of the Fashion Show each year is the specialties and vaudeville stunts put on under the personal supervision of S. Sanford Baumel. The fashion show last night was enlivened by the following program of favorites and as usual, they were good all the way through:

Popular Melodies—Billy Hoffman.
Delightful Tunes—H. C. Clauss.
Character Comedian—Tom Egan.
Beautiful Ballads—Sid Rive.
Sweet Songbird—Mildred Holly.
Violin Soloist—Al Witherington.
Entertainer de Luxe—S. S. Baumel.
Boy Wonder Cornetist—Master Schirard.

The hats worn at the fashion show were exquisite creations of the best milliners of this and foreign countries and harmonized with each and every costume. These included sport hats, tailored hats and large picture hats and all the new and bright shades that are being worn this season so extensively that the 1922 fashions will long be known as the "colorful spring" in millinery. The bright colors were well demonstrated at the fashion show last night although the lighting effect did not give them the proper scope in which to display the real blending of rich effects. All of the model costumes were purchased in New York personally by Mrs. S. S. Baumel and both Mr. and Mrs. Baumel are always on the lookout for the newest things for millady's wear, striving to purchase only the very latest creations in order that Sanford and Seminole ladies can be the best dressed in the state.

The stage was beautifully decorated in a home-like setting, embellished by flowers and ferns, the furnishing being green to correspond with the note of spring in the costumes.

All the shoes worn by the models were furnished for the fashion show through the courtesy of Lloyd's Shoe Store and the shoes played an important part in the perfect ensemble. The furniture was loaned by the Sanford Furniture Co., and T. J. Miller & Son, the piano by the Hintermiller Piano Co., and the candy was from the store of Lower & Roumillat.

Mr. and Mrs. Baumel wish to thank all those who so ably assisted in making the Fashion Show such a success and all those who attended the show and by their presence showed their appreciation of the efforts of the Specialty Shop to please their patrons. The music for the program was furnished by Al Witherington, violin, and Mrs. Abercrombie, piano, and was up to the usual high standard.

MEMBER THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The Orlando Sentinel welcomes opposition to Joe Sears but says they would rather have a candidate from Orlando. Well, trot him out. We will vote for him.

Those summer rates to Florida put on by the Coast Line means that many summer tourists will come to Sanford for the summer vacation and use our new golf links.

There will be a "moon dance" at the Orlando water carnival Friday night. We suppose they will have everything that goes with a "moon carnival" which means moonshine, etc.

The big road meeting at St. Augustine today ought to settle several questions that have been agitating the public mind for some time. This city should have a big delegation at the meeting.

Another expedition has started for the south pole and the leader of the bunch says he will explore the "roof of the world." We sure hope he don't fall through until we can harvest our celery crop at least.

Two million for waterways in Florida and not a cent for the St. Johns river from Palatka to Sanford as far as the reports in the despatches show. This is fine business and shows that we need a new delegation in congress all round.

It is a good thing for any city the size of Sanford to have a fashion show such as Baumels have twice a year. It brings new customers to Sanford, gives the city a better tone in business, shows the world that we have live wire merchants here and last but not least makes Sanford people feel that they are up to now with Dame Fashion.

Gang of thieves in Chicago suburbs walked into millionaire's mansion and took all his stock of liquors, diamonds, silverware, etc., and walked right out, dumped it in a truck and went away from there while all the servants were locked up in the cellar. Well they couldn't do that in Sanford for no cellars have any liquor in them.

Judge Bell seeks to restrain Imperial Wizard Simmons from publishing any replies to his critics in the newspapers. Simmons had prepared a statement for all the newspapers giving the Ku Klux side of the story and the courts seek to restrain him from giving the world the news. Why don't they restrain the New York World and other papers and magazines from talking about the Klan. It is just as broad as it is long and the whole story looks like a frame up in some quarters that should be investigated and made public.

A working man must have more than $2,600 a year to sustain himself and family the Railway Labor Board is told by the union. And while this may sound big to some people when you figure it out the sum is pitifully small upon which to raise a family and even get them the real necessities of life. People require more these days than in olden times and regardless of whether they need certain things or not they see other people with them and the family makes life miserable for the bread winner until they get them. Guess we people who are heads of families know what we are talking about, yea bo.

FLORIDA SHIPPERS SEEK RELIEF.

The attorney for the Florida state railroad commission, Hon. James E. Calkins, has forwarded his brief urging a reduction on freight rates for citrus fruits and vegetables from Florida, to the interstate commerce commission at Washington.

Mr. Calkins shows that fifty per cent of the selling price in northern markets of Florida citrus fruits is added costs because of transportation charges. In the matter of vegetables it is pointed out that often the transportation charges eat up the entire selling price and demand a check from the shipper in addition.

Unless something can be done in this matter it is evident there must either be a cessation of Florida development along those lines, or the growers of citrus fruits and vegetables must accept their losses as a patriotic duty and continue to feed the country as an act of charity.

When transportation charges exceed the cost of production plus a reasonable profit to the producer, it is time to sound the danger horn. As much as our people are friendly to the transportation companies, it is beyond the reasonable expectation of even a philanthropist to believe they are going to be content to raise and market solely to the transportation companies may receive a certified dividend on a watered stock capitalization, as is the case at this time.

There is plenty of profit at a reasonable selling price, for grower, shipper and middleman handling Florida products. When any one of the three attempts to take more than their just proportion somebody is due to take a hand in readjustment; and we know of no other authorized to do this except the commerce commissions, state and interstate.

There has been a great deal of theoretical slush sent out in the past about the "reasonableness of allowing" the railroads something extra because Florida is so far out of the way. The people, seeing California put in close marketing reach with the Atlantic coast, while Florida is still held off despite the closer proximity of farthest Florida points compared with the nearest California places, are beginning to demand their rights in this state. Mr. Calkins should have the solid and persistent backing of the state press and of every organization, commercial, or other business, in the fight he is making in the name of the Florida state railroad commission.—Tampa Tribune.

THE BRYAN MEETING.

The local movement to induce Hon. W. J. Bryan to become a candidate for the nomination for United States senator was formally launched under very satisfactory conditions at the meeting in the court house last night. While many citizens who have openly declared their purpose to support him in the event that he is a candidate were not present, there was still a larger attendance than is usual at meetings of this character. Impressive speeches were delivered by a number of representative citizens, and the meeting was altogether pleasing to Mr. Bryan's friends in this section. If the same interest is manifested in other sections of the state that is evident here, there is certainly a "call" for Mr. Bryan to enter the race.—Tampa Times.

BABSON WAS RIGHT.

Many of the papers published in Alabama do not take kindly to the utterances of the financial expert, Roger W. Babson, who is traveling over the United States and the result of his visit is telegraphed to hundreds of papers throughout the country. The Alabama papers claim that each city Babson visited he praised that individual city to the skies, and particularly in Mobile, Birmingham and Montgomery. He also told of their wonderful advantages over other parts of the South and that their future was great.

Then when he reached New Orleans he told the people there that that city was the greatest in the entire South and that Alabama's chances were not as good as they should be. This has aroused the ire of the Alabamians and they refer to his talks as an outburst of "Babsonism."

We noticed in a Chicago paper that Babson stated while in California that Florida's chances were not any better than elsewhere in the South. Though he told the citizens of Miami and again in Jacksonville that South Florida had not as yet suffered any by the depression, but might a year or so later.

We do not believe Florida has any quarrel with Mr. Babson as what he said about the goodness of Florida occupied a column or more in many of the metropolitan newspapers and what he said in California did not occupy three lines. Possibly he did not say it at all.

UNCLE HANK

The mouse is behind many an up-lift movement.

Mr. Babson is a well posted man and in many cases he has spoken the truth as to conditions. He sees a rising market and that in another twelve months everybody will be busy and hard times will be forgotten.—Florida Post.

FROM OTHER SANCTUIMS

NOTHING IMPOSSIBLE IN SOUTH FLORIDA

(From Florida Post) One Dr. Burston has written a long letter to the News-Tribune of Fort Pierce and says when that progressive city gets a bridge across the Indian river it will be on a level with the Palm Beaches and Miami. Meaning, we suppose, that Fort Pierce, will be another large city like the two.

Such a thing is not impossible. Just a few years ago when Miami was making gigantic strides to become a city of the first class not much attention was paid to the Palm Beaches, and West Palm Beach in particular. The general opinion was that South-east Florida would only support one big city and that would be Miami.

Did the West Palm Beach boosters lay down and agree with that kind of talk? Hardly. They went ahead and spent thousands of dollars for publicity and their town bloomed. Today they have a population that is creeping fast toward the 20,000 mark. And they are not stopping at that, either. They are after the trade from the North and from the South, and altogether are after the big trade from the Everglades and are getting it.

Dollars flowing into the coffers of the merchants will build up any town or city. Those dollars must come from the back country and from the outside. The family man arriving in town generally wants a job and if it is not forthcoming he goes to another town. Therefore one town loses and the other gains in population.

Ten years ago Fort Pierce looked like an impossibility. The streets were in bad shape and the merchants were not very active. Since that time the streets have all been paved, new blocks have been built and many homes erected for the newcomers and the merchants all have larger and better stocks. A bridge will be built across the Indian river and the beach or peninsula part will be developed. West of the town the rich muck lands are being drained and improved. It will be the garden spot of that locality.

As South Florida is developing fast it will only be natural that a big town will exist and flourish about every 60 miles. Miami will take care of herself and all of the territory south to Cape Sable. Northwest sixty-six miles West Palm Beach is growing like a weed and will be a big city.

Then sixty miles north of the Palm Beaches is Fort Pierce, which has just begun to grow and the future development of the town is in the hands of the citizens. If they spend money for publicity and keep their town on the map through the channels of their Chamber of Commerce, Fort Pierce will grow, but the boosting has got to be done along the lines that made fine cities out of Miami and the Palm Beaches.

Up in Brevard county there are three towns that have the chance to become a large city and they are Cocoa, Melbourne and Titusville. Of the three Cocoa at present has the edge, but unless she spends more for publicity Melbourne will grab the plum and run off with it. Titusville does not seem to be doing much. One of the three towns has the chance and we will watch and see which one improves that chance.

Sixty miles north of Cocoa is Daytona, and the two cities on the peninsula part, and they are called the Triple Cities. Today they boast of nearly 10,000 people and are spending thousands for publicity and have a bunch of boosters that spend their money for bigger and more prosperous town. They are getting their reward, for the Triple Cities are doing fine.

Then comes St. Augustine and Jacksonville, and both cities are growing fast. St. Augustine is not a slow coach town even if it is old. There is a live wire bunch in the town that are making the place hum.

Coming down the Coast Line the first town is Palatka, a place that would like the state capitol if Ocala does not object. Palatka stood still for many years but is doing better now.

Then comes DeLand, a fine town and whose boosters put the town on the map and they keep it there. DeLand is a good town and a fine trading point.

A great many say, how about Sanford? Here is a town that is growing and yet is sleeping on her rights. Sanford has water transportation and makes but little of it. Sanford is famed for its celery and ships a lot of it, yet does not get the proper freight rate that it should.

Orlando is another fast growing city and not of the mushroom kind. Orlando is the best inland city in the state and none have yet ever disputed it. Orlando's big asset is not tourists, but a fine back country that extends for forty to sixty miles in every direction. Orlando is getting new hotels today that she should have had five years ago. There never has been hotel room enough in the city to take proper care of the guests.

Lakeland is another fine city that is growing by leaps and bounds. It is in a position where it commands a fine trade and especially from that section traversed by the Atlantic Coast Line south to Fort Myers which helps feed the merchants. Lakeland's geographic position is great and if it does not grow faster in the next ten years than it has during the last twenty, it will be the fault of the citizens. The town has the location and the trade is just outside of the limits waiting to be asked.

Tampa is in the large city class and grows whether it is boomed or not but Tampa could grow faster if her citizens would pay more attention to establishing deep water and steamship lines than to politics.

Many other cities are flourishing and one of the most phenomenal is St. Petersburg. A town that was placed on the map in big letters through printers' ink. Publicity made St. Petersburg and today it is one of the fastest growing cities in Florida. St. Petersburg is another example of what a live chamber of commerce, a Rotary and a Kiwanis club can do, along with the raising of money for publicity and the low rates that prevailed for apartments and hotels.

Important cities also in South Florida are Gainesville, Ocala, Fort Myers, Arcadia, Leesburg, Eustis, Plant City, Lake Wales, Sebring and other towns which are not to be sneezed at and are rapidly coming to the front.

What a contrast as compared with but fifteen years ago. Then there were one or two towns that seemed to be forging ahead and the rest were dead. Today there are over 100 towns and cities that have caught the go-ahead fever and the sound of hammer and saw is noticeable in all of the places.

The town that is classed as a dead one in South Florida today had better wake up. The progressive cities are all riding on the limited. They have no use for the way freight of yesterday.

THE GOLF CLUB.

One of the greatest institutions ever organized in Sanford was that of the Sanford Country Club that was instituted last night at the court house at one of the most harmonious and one of the most earnest and yet without one of the jolliest meetings ever held in Sanford. The officers were elected and a committee appointed to draft the by-laws and constitution and make the Sanford golf and country club one of the finest in the country. A golf expert has already told the officers that the land purchased on Crystal Lake was one of the prettiest in the state, had more natural hazards and some of the most beautiful land effects that he had ever seen anywhere. Butchart, the greatest of them all, laid out links next to the present location last year and said that from a topographical viewpoint Crystal Lake country offered the best links in the United States. This is some claim to prominence and the men who are at the head of the Sanford Golf Club intend to go right ahead and build the links and have the course ready for the tourists and the home folks next fall. They are men who do things and they intend to do big things on the new golf and country club. In the midst of a beautiful orange grove, rich in scenic beauty, with three houses on the land, with all kinds of hills and dales and beautiful lakes, with plenty of good building sites for winter visitors the land is worth double what the golf club paid for it and the men behind it will make it a success from the very start.

Now, let the red-blooded men in Seminole County take out a membership and push the Sanford Golf Club to a finish. It means more to the county and to Sanford than anything that has ever been started. It means an influx of winter tourists and summer tourists, it means a new tourist hotel in Sanford and one near the golf links, it means distinguished visitors coming here in the winter months and spending weeks playing golf on a real golf course. It means—well, it means that Sanford will become the city of our dreams now. All honor to S. O. Chase, F. P. Forster and the other gentlemen who have put it over.

The Sanford Golf and Country Club will make Sanford famous all over the United States and foreign countries.

DO WE WANT HIGH CLASS ENTERTAINMENT?

This is a question for the people of Sanford and Seminole county to decide for themselves and it will probably be decided after next week when the Chautauqua will begin a week's engagement here. The Herald does not know how one ticket sale is progressing for the Chautauqua The Business and Professional Women's Club is backing the proposition and they will put it across if it is physically possible to do so. In the years gone by the Chautauqua has never paid in Sanford and each year the willing and the patriotic and those who want high class entertainment go down in their pockets to foster this kind of amusement in Sanford. It is up to the better class of people, the high minded, the moral, the father and mothers of children to get out and see that good clean shows are brought here or else sink into the slough of despondency with no hope of ever having the better class of amusements. The American Legion has just finished a lyceum course here, all of the entertainments being good, instructive, high class and entertaining in every respect. Shows fit for the school children, shows that were instructive. Did they succeed? They did not and the American Legion boys are in the hole to the tune of several hundred dollars in consequence. Now comes the Chautauqua with the usual apathy displayed by the general public and by those who ought to be enthusiastic over this kind of entertainment. They may rally round the standards of the ladies and help them put it over or they may not. The Herald is waiting to see what the Sanford people do about this show business and then we expect to speak right out loud in the meeting and tell you something.

MORTGAGES ON HOMES AND FARMS $42,320,040

The ratio of mortgage debt to value is 36.8 per cent.

On owned farms as reported in the census of agriculture the total mortgage debt was $12,909,813, while the total value of these mortgaged farms was $50,580,550, the ratio of debt to value is 36.8 per cent.

RAIL STRIKERS CREATE RIOT IN MARYLAND SHOP

HAGERSTOWN, Md., March 29.—Rioting broke out in the yards of the Western Maryland Railroad late tonight when an attempt was said to have been made by non-union employees to turn an engine.

Members of the Federated Shops Crafts and of the Maintenance of Way Employees unions who went out on strike last Saturday because of wage reductions were said to have interfered with the non-union workers and railway guards were declared to have discharged revolvers in an effort to quell the disturbance. One man was reported to have been wounded.

The strike is a sequel to the taking over of the Western Maryland Railroad shops and maintenance of way work by the Dickson Repair Co. of Youngstown, Ohio. The walkout was called as a protest against a reduction in wages and an increase in the work day, from eight to ten hours, the unions demanding that the contracting firm restore the rate of pay, rates and working conditions established by the United States Labor Board, while the shops were being operated by the railroads.

The men also protested against loss of their seniority and riding privileges, with transfer of the shops to the contractors. The questions of the legality of railroads, contracting with private firms for shop work is pending before the labor board.

The strike is being directed from Hagerstown, where the operating headquarters of the railroad are situated.

The Yowell-Drew Co., of Orlando, has recently purchased the Orlando Pottery Plant of that city and are planning to extend the factory.

Stung But Rewarded.

Patrons of a Long Island telephone line complained of a buzzing on the wires and a trouble hunter was sent out to locate the difficulty. He located it and he did something else, for he found that a swarm of bees had made a hive in the connection box on a telephone pole. The trouble hunter worked for hours and finally routed the bees with a fire extinguisher. He was badly stung, but he was rewarded by ten pounds of honey stored in the connection box.

Takes City Directory's Place.

How the telephone book is displacing the directory is illustrated by complaints in Brooklyn, which has no city directory now, that it is hard to find the address of persons living there unless they have a telephone. Of course everybody of consequence ought to have telephone service now, but all of those who can't are of consequence to themselves, and many of them are of consequence to others. Moral: Live out in the country, where everybody knows you.—Boston Daily Globe.

PRIZES WERE DISTRIBUTED AMONG SCHOOL CHILDREN

Mrs. Ora Layton, field worker for the Florida Public Health Association, and special supervisor of social service for Orange county, was here yesterday visiting the schools. The children had been offered an entertainment as a prize for selling the greatest number of Christmas seals and Sanford sold the most in the county and Lake Monroe the second. The Health Fairy Troupe consisting of Peiratt and two fairies was presented for the edification of the scholars, the members of the troupe being from Winter Park in the personnel of Dorothy Cole and Dorothy Goble and Mrs. Cole accompanist. The entertainment lasted for an hour and fifteen minutes and was given for the purpose of driving home the lessons in health and crusade work. Miss Cole also gave a violin solo and Miss Goble solo dancing and several other specialties. Mrs. Layton rewarded 250 pupils for keeping the health crusade 10 weeks in the Grammar school and 500 primary pupils. Two entertainments were given, one yesterday afternoon and one this morning at ten and tonight one will be given at Lake Monroe school.

SWEDISH AMBASSADOR HERE.

The Swedish ambassador to the United States, Axel Allenberg, was here yesterday and today and spent his time very pleasantly visiting farms and groves and talking with many of his countrymen. He was accompanied by his wife and daughter, Miss Tangred Allenberg and Miss Gena Littlehook.

The ambassador is one of the handsomest men in the diplomatic corps and he charmed everyone with whom he came in contact during his short stay in this city. The party were well pleased with their visit here and hoped they would have an opportunity of returning at some future time. While here they were recognized and did not wish to accept any social favors preferring to pass away the time quietly and unostentatiously.

BUENA VISTA ESTATES LOTS TO BE SOLD TO HIGHEST BIDDER AT AUCTION SATURDAY

Elsewhere in this paper, will be found a large display advertisement of the big day, an auction lot sale in Sanford of the remaining lots of Buena Vista Estate Addition. Many of the choice lots in this addition have already been sold to our bankers, county officials, hotel men and other prominent and well known citizens which speaks well for the value of this property. These people would not have already bought in this property had it not been that they realized that Sanford would grow in this direction and this property would be worth more in the future and was nice elevated tract of land for building purposes.

For this property to be sold at auction to the highest bidder, regardless of price, value or location, upon such easy terms will furnish a big surprise to everybody in this vicinity and, unquestionably everyone who can spare the time and the money will arrange to be at this sale and secure some of these lots before the increase in prices is made before another year rolls around.

Very valuable and useful articles are to be given away at this sale and such articles as are being given away will be appreciated in every household, not merely as an ornament but as articles of every day need. Think of it! Hams of meat, pieces of bacon, sugar, salt, coffee and many, many other articles.

The ladies of the Methodist Church will serve a dinner at a very nominal cost and the proceeds will go towards help paying some of the church's obligations and one lot is to be sold, the proceeds of which goes to the benefit of the church. This is a splendid thought on the part of the owners and sale conductors and will mean that Sanford's loyal supporters of a good cause will make it convenient to attend this sale and the men folks will certainly aim to relieve their good housewives from the necessity of getting dinner on this day and attend the sale and help to support a good cause and probably, at the same time, make some purchases of lots at bargain prices. Free automobiles will take you out and back from the sale. Brass Band will be used throughout the day and the witty Twin Auctioneers will certainly furnish entertainment for all who attend the sale. Let's go—not one but everybody as this is Sanford's day to make her town grow in numbers as well as in values of real estate.

Shriners, Attention!

I desire to meet all members of the Mystic Shrine Friday evening in the Palm Room of the Valdez Hotel at 8 o'clock to discuss holding of a Ceremonial here during May.

ANTS ON MARCH

Seeming Proof That Instinct Is Not Infallible.

Small Creatures Dragged Themselves to Death Because No One of Them Had Any Initiative.

At six o'clock in the morning I was starting for a swim in a British Guiana jungle when, at the foot of the laboratory steps I saw a swiftly moving, broad line of army ants on safari, passing through the compound to the beach. I traced them back under the servants' quarters, through two clumps of bamboos, to an outhouse.

Later, I followed along the column down to the river sand, through a dense mass of underbrush, through a hollow log, up the bank, back through light jungle—to the outhouse again; and on a large fallen log, a few feet beyond the spot where their nest had been, the ends of the circle actually came together. It was the most astonishing thing, and I had to verify it again and again before I could believe the evidence of my eyes.

It was a strong column, six lines wide in many places, and the ants fully believed that they were on their way to a new home; for most were carrying eggs or larvae, although many had food. For an hour, at noon, during heavy rain, the column weakened and almost disappeared; but when the sun returned, the lines rejoined, and the revolution of the vicious circle continued.

Careful measurement of the great circle showed a circumference of 1,200 feet. We timed the laden ants and found that they averaged two to two and three-quarters inches a second. So a given individual would complete the round in about two hours and a half.

All the afternoon the insane circle revolved; at midnight, the hosts were still moving; the second morning many had weakened and dropped their burdens and the general pace had very appreciably slackened. But still the blind grip of instinct held them. On, on, they must go! Always before in their nomadic life there had been a goal—a sanctuary of hollow tree, snug heart of bamboos; surely this terrible grind must end somehow.

Through sun and cloud, day and night, hour after hour, there was found no ant with individual initiative enough to turn aside an ant's breadth from the circle that he had traversed perhaps 15 times.

Fewer and fewer now came along the well-worn path; burdens littered the line of march, like the arms and accoutrements thrown down by a retreating army. At last, a scanty single line struggled past—tired, hopeless, bewildered, idiotic and thoughtless to the last.

Then some half-dead ant struggled from the circle along the beach and threw the line behind him into confusion. The desperation of total exhaustion had accomplished what necessity and opportunity and normal life could not. Several others followed his scent instead of that leading back toward the outhouse; and as an amoeba gradually flows into one of its own pseudopodia, so the forlorn hope of the great Helton army passed slowly down the beach and on into the jungle.

Would they die singly and in bewildered groups, or would the remnant draw together, and, again guided by the supermind of its mentor, lay the foundation of another army, and again come to nest in my outhouse?—William Beebe in the Atlantic Monthly.

Knew Him Well.

One summer I visited in a fashionable little town in the West. I went to a tea one afternoon, and while there met a woman who said she knew some one who lived in the town in which I also lived. She asked me if I happened to know a certain man.

I said: "Yes, I know who he is. And I remember that at one time he took a lariat rope and tried to lariat a well-educated and charming school teacher because he wanted her to marry his son. She did not seem willing, so he used these measures to force her to do so."

After this explanation of the knowledge I possessed of the man she added: "Well, my dear, he is my brother."

I sought another part of the garden.—Chicago Tribune.

King Abandons Chapel Royal.

It is reported in English church circles that the king is thinking about unburdening the civil list by ceasing the use of the Chapel Royal, St. James' palace.

The king and queen never attend services at St. James', preferring the private chapel at Buckingham palace. Historical students and sentimental Londoners will be much grieved, for the service in that ancient building, which belongs to the Holbein period of the palace, with the boy choristers—"the children of the Chapel Royal"—in their beautiful uniform of scarlet and gold, like pages of antique pattern, is one of the most curious and beautiful survivals of the time.

Easily Arranged.

"Did you make any New Year resolutions?"

"Not for myself," replied Senator Borghum. "My constituents provide me with resolutions ready made for all seasons of the year. All I am expected to do is to write back and tell them how much better they are than anything I could think up on my own account."

SEN. TRAMMELL WILL NOT STEP ASIDE FOR BRYAN

SAYS HE INTENDS TO RUN AND IS CONFIDENT OF ELECTION.

WASHINGTON, March 29.—That he will not step aside to allow even William Jennings Bryan to make his way into the United States senate from Florida; that Bryan has not lived in that state long enough yet to be recognized as a legal voter in Florida; that the main demand for Bryan to run for the senate comes from Trammell's political enemies; that rumors that Mr. Trammell would get out of the way if appointed to some federal commission at a $10,000 a year salary are without foundation; and that money is being spent to secure circulation of petitions for signature, urging Bryan to enter the primary. These things are summed up in a statement by Senator Park Trammell of Florida, and he closes the statement with the emphatic announcement that he will remain in the race and is confident of renomination and re-election.

Senator Trammell says in his statement:

"I am a candidate for election to a second term in the senate and feel confident of winning by an overwhelming majority in the June primary. While some of my political enemies and some republicans have for months been trying to stir up opposition to me, they have been unable to arouse any great amount of opposition. It seems to be quite generally believed that I will not be opposed by any public man of Florida, who has heretofore been identified with the political and public affairs of my state. These public men who have for years been identified with Florida, and many of whom would make good United States senators, as Florida has just as capable and able public men as any state in the Union, realize that a very large majority of the people of my state are satisfied with my services in the senate and they are favorable to my re-election. It seems that my only possible opposition is Hon. W. J. Bryan, who is not a registered voter in Florida, and who cannot register until some five or six weeks before the June primary, as he has not yet been a citizen of the state one year, and who, as is well known, was a citizen and voter of Nebraska until recently, having been a candidate in that state less than two years ago.

"As to Mr. Bryan's personal attitude regarding his possible candidacy, I have no comment to make. In regard to the fight being made on me by a few, however, I will say I do not propose to sit idly by any longer and permit them to continue by misrepresentations and fallacious arguments, to try to deceive the people of Florida into bringing about opposition to me.

"We Floridians have felt a great pride in our state, we have been proud of Florida's wonderful growth, and justly so. In the highest esteem we have held Florida's progressive, enterprising and intelligent citizenship. If there is a state in the Union that is 'on the map' it is Florida. The state with her progressive and splendid citizenship, with her charm, her wonderful resources and natural advantages, is decidedly 'on the map.' Yet, to further their political ends, a few political enemies of mine and a few republicans, who desire to try to split up the democratic party, are reflecting upon our state and Florida's enterprising and progressive citizenship by saying the state needs one man 'to put it on the map' and to advertise Florida. With their shoulders to the wheel thousands upon thousands of enterprising Florida citizens have for years been carrying on this work and they have made such a good job of it that to the thoughtful it seems absurd and ridiculous for any Floridian to now talk about one man putting Florida on the map. Such contention is resented by a very large majority of the people of Florida and should be.

"About four weeks ago a man named Walsh, who is not a registered voter of Florida and who came to the state only a few months ago from Pennsylvania, opened in his office at Miami headquarters for the purpose of sending out petitions for circulation, requesting Mr. Bryan to run for the senate, the signers pledging Mr. Bryan their vote and active support. Mr. Walsh who, though not a voter in Florida but who is trying to run the politics of Florida, has sent these petitions broadcast. Some of those receiving them refused to circulate them and sent the petitions to me, some consigned them to the waste basket, and some are being circulated mostly by political enemies of mine. All kinds of misleading tactics are being used to get signers, yet it is my information that a far larger number are refusing to sign the petitions than those that are signing them. In some localities, I am informed, to help the petition movement it is said that I will not be a candidate, which statement is false. Some of the petition circulators state, in trying to induce voters to sign, that the petition amounts to nothing and does not bind them, which of course is untrue as the wording of the petition is that the voter pledges his vote and active support. Some of these people state that the movement is not antagonistic to me. This statement of course is untrue. Yet some people will sign any kind of a petition without reading it. Pay has also been offered for circulating petitions.

"It has been talked in some quarters that I would be gotten out of Mr. Bryan's way by being appointed on a federal commission at ten thousand dollars a year. This is false. I would not entertain such proposition for a moment. I have never bartered and traded in politics. I will not do so now. This is just a piece of scheming politics to deceive the Florida voters. Some of my political enemies will sign these petitions some people will sign any kind of a petition, and some who have been misled by the misleading tactics adopted have probably signed but my political enemies and the other signers, which will be no great proportion of the white democratic voters of Florida, cannot settle the question. The sovereign will of the democratic party will be expressed at the ballot box on June 6 by the white democratic voters of Florida. My cause will be submitted to them and I have absolute confidence that I will be re-elected by a sweeping majority by the people whom I have faithfully served in the United States senate and in every other office that it has been my honor and privilege to serve."

LOOK OUT FOR HORSEHAIR SHAVING BRUSHES ON MARKET

(By The Associated Press)

JACKSONVILLE, March 29.—The State Board of Health has issued a circular urging that dealers in and purchasers of shaving brushes in Florida inspect the brushes carefully and select only those which have been properly sterilized by the manufacturer. Colonel Raymond C. Turke, state health officer, recently was advised by the Public Health Service in Washington that the New York authorities had prohibited the manufacture of shaving brushes from horse hair in that state and that such action might result in the shipment of stocks of horse hair to states where there is no legal objection to shaving brushes of that variety.

The action taken by the state of New York was in order to eliminate the possibility of transmitting anthrax to human beings. The disease is primarily one of lower animals but human cases appear among those who handle hides, hairs of animals or become infected through the use of shaving brushes manufactured from the hairs of anthrax animals.

Drinking a Glass of Hot Water is a Splendid Habit

Cleanse and sweeten the system each morning and wash away poisonous, stagnant matter.

Those of us who are accustomed to feel dull and heavy when we arise; splitting headache, stuffy from a cold, foul tongue, nasty breath, acid stomach, lame back can instead both look and feel as fresh as a daisy always by washing the poisons and toxins from the body with phosphated hot water each morning.

We should drink, before breakfast, a glass of hot water with a teaspoonful of limestone phosphate in it to flush from the stomach, liver, kidneys and bowels the previous day's indigestible waste, sour bile and poisonous toxins; thus cleansing, sweetening and purifying the entire alimentary tract before eating more food.

The action of limestone phosphate and hot water on an empty stomach is wonderfully invigorating. It cleans out all the sour fermentations, gases, waste and acidity and gives one a fine appetite for breakfast. A quarter pound of limestone phosphate costs very little at the drug store, but is enough to make anyone who is bothered with biliousness, constipation, stomach trouble or rheumatism an enthusiast on internal sanitation.

LET RAILROADS EARN REASONABLE RETURNS

DUNN'S IDEAS ON HOW TO SOLVE PROBLEM.

NEW ORLEANS, La., March 29.—There is absolutely no way to solve the railroad problem under private ownership which does not include letting the railways earn net returns that are reasonable compared with those earned in other lines of business, Samuel O. Dunn, of Chicago, told the Western Petroleum Refiners Association here.

"The decline in the development of the railways has continued until it has become a menace to the business and prosperity of the entire country," said Mr. Dunn. "The railways with their existing capacity could hardly handle a larger traffic than they handled in 1920. In view of past experience it is reasonable to assume that after business revives the demand for transportation will within a few years be 40 to 50 per cent larger than in 1920.

"Railway freight business increased 40 per cent between 1906 and 1913, and again increased 40 per cent between 1913 and 1920. In the former period, however, the number of locomotives increased 24 per cent and the number of freight cars also 24 per cent, while in the seven years ending with 1920 the number of both locomotives and cars increased only slightly over two per cent. The railways handled the heavy business of 1917, 1918 and 1920 largely with surplus capacity provided in earlier years. Their surplus capacity was exhausted by 1920 and future increases of business must be handled, if at all, with increases of capacity made in future.

"You may consolidate the railways or not consolidate them. You may repeal the rate making provisions of the Transportation act as many advocate, or you may let them stand. You may increase the powers of the labor board and the Interstate Commerce Commission, or you may reduce them. Whatever else is done, however, the railways will not be able adequately to increase their facilities, and they will not be able to handle a largely increased traffic when it comes, unless they are allowed to earn a net return sufficient to cause new investment of from one billion to two billion dollars a year in their securities for some years.

"To allow the railways to earn reasonable net returns does not involve keeping their rates high. Their net return in 1921 was one-half billion dollars less than in 1918, although their rates were much higher. Their rates had to be so much higher mainly because their operating expenses for handling a traffic no larger were $2,300,000,000 more than in 1916. The only remedy for high rates is the reduction of operating expenses. One of the things most needed to make possible large and permanent reductions of expenses is the investment of a large amount of capital in improvements which will enable the railways to operate more economically. Neither the capital needed for these improvements, nor that needed to enable the railways to expand their capacity can be raised unless the railways are allowed to earn a reasonable net return.

"Reductions of rates are desirable, but any reductions made in disregard of the necessity of the railways earning adequate net returns will indefinitely postpone needed improvements.

"If when general business revives we have more acute congestions of traffic and a relatively greater shortage of facilities of transportation than ever before, what attitude is the public going to assume?

"If we ever get government ownership of railways in this country it will not be a result of thoughtful and sober discussion and decision, but of some violent outburst of public sentiment precipitated by inability of the railways to handle satisfactorily the country's commerce."

Coast Line to Offer Summer Rates to Florida Says O'Neal

The Atlantic Coast Line railroad will offer special tourist fares to Florida during the summer months, the reduction to apply to all points in the state, where winter tariffs are listed, it was announced yesterday by W. R. O'Neal, local representative of the road.

Mr. O'Neal made public a telegram he received from executives of the road which stated that the round trip rates to Florida cities from northern points would be made on a basis of eighty per cent of the rates now in existence. The message said further that the new rates would be tendered connecting roads for hauling purposes in compiling fares to Florida.

The action of the Atlantic Coast Line is generally hailed as an assurance that the railroads are at last to recognize Florida as an all-the-year-around state and it is predicted that all lines running into the state will follow the example set by the Coast Line.

The local Chamber of Commerce has joined with other chambers in the state and the Florida development board of Jacksonville in the effort to obtain the recognition from the railroads, believing that the climate in this state in the summer months is worthy of the claim Florida is a fitting place to spend summer vacations.

Although the message received by Mr. O'Neal did not state on what date the new rates would become effective it is believed they will become operative in the near future, lasting until next October, when the winter season opens.—Orlando Sentinel.

SWEETHEART STUFF FAILED TO WORK

During the campaign a number of mothers with marriageable daughters, supported by the daughters themselves, announced that the girls' young men friends must support the women's ticket or stop courting the young women.

Election officials are of the opinion that a majority of the men voted for the women candidates and that it was the heavy women vote that defeated Mrs. McDermott and Mrs. Steiner.

OCALA ARISING FROM THE ASHES OF BIG FIRE

(By The Associated Press) Ocala, March 29.—From the ashes of the serious fire in the business section of Ocala February 18, eighteen new buildings already are rising. George MacKay & Co., who suffered the heaviest loss in the fire, have begun construction of what will be one of the handsomest mercantile buildings in Florida. Within two weeks after the fire the insurance adjustments, clearing of the debris was under way, and a week ago the MacKay company began work on its new building. Work on the Chace and Gerig building is expected to be under way at an early date.

The new MacKaKy building will be three stories in height as against the two stories of the old one. The front will be of buff colored brick, with the mortar indented and with plate glass show windows on the ground floor and large steel sash windows with prism glasses on the second and third floors.

MEMBER THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Fellow told us today that he saw the "fifty horsemen of the Apocalypse" on the road the other night and luckily he had his own wife with him.

The last battalion of soldier dead returned from France yesterday. It calls to memory many sad events in connection with the war and the faces of those boys who went over so filled with ardor and hope.

See pictures in paper of a girl and her fellow who she has promised to marry and has fooled him five times by refusing to go through with the ceremony at the altar. In looking at them one does not wonder at it. They both look like nuts. Of course they are in "high society."

General Pershing says the reductions in the army are a serious blow to the nation's military policy. Well, Gen. old boy, it was done for that very purpose, you know. Sort of done for the good of the nation like calling the boys out in time of war and all that stuff. You know what we mean.

This part of the state will not mind the increased assessment made on personal and real property by the state equalizer if he makes the balance of the state pay their pro rata share of the taxes. We are willing to pay all the traffic will stand but we want it to come back to us and not go for improvements at some other point where they pay but little taxes.

Seattle woman amputated her own arm yesterday because "a spirit commanded her to do so" and now she is not expected to live. Again we are called upon to remark that spirits in these days are funny things. Now, when we were young, the spirits hovered around the corner grocery and they were good spirits and never commanded any of us to cut off our arms.

There are so many fine affairs all over the state to which we are invited every day—social affairs, business affairs and all kinds of gatherings where we could have such a good time in pleasure and profit combined—but we cannot get away from this beautiful typewriter and office desk to which we have been chained by the dear little daily.

Tampa is bonding for $50,000 for terminals on the water front. This seems like a large sum but it is none too large for a growing city like Tampa. Sanford wants to bond for water front improvements and some people cannot see it but the lake front and terminals and docks and piers and boat basin will be the greatest assets of this city in the next ten years. Water transportation has come to stay and will be the biggest thing in the south in a few years.

We wish we could convince the people here that the importance of the river transportation, the deepening of the St. Johns river, the cutting of the canal into Indian river and many other improvements are the real developments for this section. So few people seem to be able to look ahead and see what our river transportation means to this city. Without the St. Johns river Sanford would be completely bottled up now and forever and yet we do not appreciate what the river means to us.

GROCERIES FRUITS AND VEGETABLES. Courtesy and Prompt Service Our Motto. DEANE TURNER. Phones 497-494. WELAKA BLOCK.

It gives the Herald editor a satisfied feeling to know that at last the golf links are assured for Sanford. We have talked about golf links and a country club for ten years or more until we were heartily tired of it and we suppose our readers were tired of it too. But once starting something we never quit until somebody puts it over and we knew when the Chamber of Commerce took up the golf question and put S. O. Chase as chairman of the committee that something would be done and it was. Now Sanford is in a fair way to have a fairway second to none in the country.

BORROWING MONEY TO PAY DEBTS.

Secretary Mellon estimates that the receipts from the March payments of income and profit taxes will total 460 million dollars. This will be 300 millions less than such receipts in March, a year ago.

We clip the above from an exchange and have no reason to doubt its accuracy. It shows an alarming deficiency in the resources of the government, a deficiency with every year which takes us farther away from the bloated incomes, and the exorbitant profits of the flush war times. It brings us face to face with a mighty inconvenient dilemma. There are 530 million dollars of treasury certificates which must be redeemed at once if Uncle Sam would maintain his reputation of a prompt debt payer. It is impossible to think of his allowing that reputation, gained through the stress of so many years, to go by the board. It must be maintained at whatever cost. To pay this 350 millions of dollars of indebtedness, Secretary Mellon has but 460 millions of dollars of revenue. Of course, it can't be done. But one course is open to him. Taxation cannot be increased for it has already passed the limit of safety, and is stagnating all business with its weight. Uncle Sam must borrow money to pay his debts. It is disagreeable but necessary. Plans are under way to issue 250 millions of treasury certificates to pay off these old certificates and provide a little ready cash. The treasury must adopt the plan of Milwaukee to pay one note by writing another, and "Thank God, that debt's paid." Or it might adopt the German plan of printing untold millions—or billions—of paper money, and paying its debts with that, but that would be a remedy worse than the disease, and sure to be followed by disaster.

Uncle Sam has greatly the advantage of the average citizen, in his ability to borrow. His credit is good for any amount at any time or place. But he is determined to keep it good. When the average citizen finds his income inadequate to meet his expenses with no prospect of increasing it, he begins to think of economy and retrenchment. Not so with congress.

It scorns economy, especially in its own expenses. Not long since it voted $360,000 for the purchase of seeds for congressmen to distribute to their constituents, in the hope of influencing a few votes. A pure graft which has been exposed and derided time out of mind, but still persists in congress, even while the nation has to borrow money to pay its honest debts. What is popularly known as the "pork barrel bill" is another illustration of the reluctance of congress to practice economy when it trenches on their pet privileges. The nation rejoiced when congress passed the budget bill, after long years of solicitation and Director Dawes took hold of it with an energetic determination to effect some real economies in our wasteful methods. He has already done much good, and instituted many reforms, saving the nation millions of dollars, but if congress is to ignore and override his recommendations at will, his further usefulness will be curbed. The earnest, wholehearted co-operation of congress is needed to get the best results from the budget. If that is lacking it can be of little good, and congress does not seem to realize the necessity for economy. The old fashioned method of retrenching expenses to meet a reduced income is not in favor now-a-days.—Tampa Times.

They call the measly sums given to the St. Johns river "pork" but it is the best investment the government ever made for the people. If we had any delegation in congress we could get action on our river.

SELLING BONDS AT PAR.

The recent sale of bonds in Lakeland to the amount of $573 above par shows that boosting a city and advertising it well does help when that said city has something to sell. Those that keep track of well advertised communities cannot help but notice that the towns that are boosted and bragged of by their own citizens are the ones that get away with the bacon.

Lakeland authorities sold $100,000 worth of bonds and they brought a little more than par. That speaks well for Lakeland. Other booming cities like Miami, West Palm Beach, Daytona, Jacksonville and Orlando have had bonds to sell and in all cases the bonds brought more than par.

UNCLE HANK

Some of them city apartments are so small that a feller can't swallow a pea without pressing th' janitor's bell.

Yet in some communities we are told that boosting does not pay. That a Chamber of Commerce or a Board of Trade was an expense, and that the town could not afford to pay for a live wire secretary, and in those same towns today the town authorities or the county commissioners have to fight like sin to get even 95 per cent of the total. The bond houses won't give par although the tax payers will pay par and then some.

Now, doesn't it pay to boost? Hasn't the secretary of the Lakeland Chamber of Commerce been a paying investment? Is there any move on foot to discard their secretary and thus save a bit of money? Lakeland is one of the best inland towns in Florida and is not far behind Orlando when it comes to business transacted yearly. Pessimists are not allowed to stay in the town over night. They do not try to fit square pegs into round holes in Lakeland as the citizens are up and doing every minute.

The members of the Cocon Board of Trade and also in Moore Haven have discarded their respective secretaries on the ground of economy and imagine that some of the members who also have a multitude of personal and other duties to perform will have nothing else to do but give their time free gratis to their public boosting machine. The result will be nothing accomplished.

Hire a secretary even if your taxes are boosted. Hire a live wire every time and your bonds, like those in Lakeland, will bring par or more.

A live town is made so by the citizens and not by any other agency.—Florida Post.

EXEMPTING TAXES.

The Safety Harbor Herald says: The City Commissioners, at their meeting on Tuesday night, passed the ordinance which has been watched for with interest by many who contemplate building this spring, that of exempting the city taxes for five years from date of the ordinance on all buildings and additions to buildings.

It is never the purpose of the Tribune to hinder in any way the progressive steps of any place, but it would call attention of the city of Safety Harbor to one or two things in the matter of exempting property from taxation for a number of years as an inducement to new business to come in.

In the first place the home merchant and business man who has struggled along during the past years doing his part in keeping up the expense fund of a city, has as much right to be exempt from taxation for a period of years to allow him to catch up with improvements he wishes to make, or to increase the stock he needs. It is all right to encourage new business, but, speaking generally, the business that comes to a place demanding something more than the other business men get, is so apt to be entirely for self, that by the time the tax-exempt period expires it is liable to sell out to some one else for a good profit and seek another tax-exempt town for another period.

In the second place, with the tax-exempt securities, and the unfair manner in which the income tax is levied, three per cent of the entire population is now paying seventy per cent of the total tax of the government, not including state, county and municipal taxes. Every man or business which is exempt from tax paying for a year, or for a period of years, is riding free on the back of the men who are paying; and the heavy burden of taxation will never be lifted in this country until every man pays his just, fair part.

Suppose, under a tax exempting ordinance, there should grow up a city of several thousand people, where now are but a few hundred, practically all the increase being made through the exempted business. There would grow up with it the need for fire protection, police protection, health protection, and schools, to say nothing of the utilities such as light, gas, water and power. Where would the money come from to support these needed protections? Bonds, you say? Bonds, interest and retirement, depend on taxes, and you could get nothing from the tax-exempt new property values which you would be bound to protect.

Of course Safety Harbor is of age and knows its own business, presumably, but it perhaps has overlooked the fact that almost every municipality in this country has ceased to exempt new business from paying its just part of the expense of protection and government which it will enjoy in any place it proposes to set down.—Tampa Tribune.

NEWSPAPERS HELP FLORIDIANS GET EDUCATION

GAINESVILLE, March 29.—Florida newspapers have helped another thousand Floridians get started or renew their educational activities since January 1st by publishing a notice at that time concerning the scholarships offered by the state in correspondence study through the General Extension Division of the University of Florida. One thousand and thirty-two new students have enrolled and attached to their applications notices from forty-seven daily and weekly newspapers besides mentioning a large number of other papers of the state. Among the students registered are men and women and girls and boys of all ages who for some reason or other were not able to finish their education and desire to go ahead with it at this time, or those who are seeking practical instruction which will help them make a better living and become better citizens.

B. C. Riley, director of the General Extension Division says, "Florida newspapers are the one great agency which has made it possible for the General Extension Division to enroll not only the greatest number of students of any of the divisions in the South, but to take front rank among those in the United States. The General Extension Division is the agency through which the University of Florida offers its great educational advantages and resources to all the people regardless of residences, previous education or training and advantages. The Division is supported by a state appropriation and with the assistance of newspapers is trying to reach folks particularly in the isolated sections of the state who want more education. Citizens who desire practical assistance may find some of the Agricultural Reading Courses, Teachers' Review Courses, Commercial Courses, High School Courses or the Civil Service Courses of particular interest. DAUGHERTY SAYS CIVIL SERVICE HINDRANCE TO GOVERNMENT EFFICIENCY

WASHINGTON, March 29.—Belief that the civil service is a hindrance to government efficiency was expressed by Attorney-General Daugherty, testifying recently before the house appropriations committee.

"It is probably a gratuitous suggestion, but I believe the civil service is an interference to some extent in the discharge of public business," said the attorney-general, as quoted in the printed record of the hearing. "While I am attorney general and while the civil service law is in the statutes I will enforce it and observe it as I expect to enforce and observe all laws.

"I believe if it were not for the civil service we could get along with less than two-thirds of the number of employees under civil service, and probably get twice as much work out of them."

Asked by a member to explain just now what might be done. Mr. Daugherty said:

"I suppose the department of justice has as good employees and as faithful, who are under civil service, as those who are under civil service in any other department, but they are not as anxious generally to be in place to commence work on the dot as they are to quit work before the dot. . . . I would rather take the recommendations of a political committee, either Democratic or Republican, a self-respecting committee for the appointment of a man or woman than be compelled to go through the requirements of the civil service to secure an employe. They are hardly as ambitious, hardly as energetic under the civil service as are those not under civil service."

SANFORD'S TEMPERATURE

As each day comes to us with the wonderful weather and the wonderful prospects unfolded to our vision in this vale of loveliness and it gives one a satisfied feeling that we are living in a place that is just about as near perfection as one can get it on this mundane sphere (whatever that means) and it also brings to mind that we should be happy as the mocking bird, the June bug and all other orders of creation. Our prospects this day are so bright as to dazzle the sun and that is going some. Watch the Herald for future announcements of a raise in taxes.

MILLIONS FOR CONSTRUCTION

It is possible to assemble all the figures to represent the money that is being expended in Florida for construction work, not including any but that of a public character, the aggregate amount would be both enormous and astounding. With a very great expenditure of time and labor these figures could be assembled, merely for the purpose of definite information. However, our present purpose is served if we present some data with reference to Palm Beach county, a Florida unit carved out of the wilderness not so many years ago. As a matter of history Palm Beach county was created in 1909, and has had portions taken away to form parts of Broward and Okeechobee counties. It has, or had in 1920, as now constituted, a total population of 18,654. It had in that same year a total property valuation, railroad and telegraph lines not included, of $7,392,680, which figures give only an idea as to the approximate actual value today of property in that county.

As money is counted today, eight millions of dollars is not a very large amount with which to represent the wealth of a county. But it must be remembered that the constructed wealth that is in Palm Beach county, as in every other county, has been accumulated in comparatively brief time and that the work started from practically nothing except with Nature's endowment in soil and climate. Originally there were no public roads and bridges, no schools and other public building, no adequate drainage by which the rich soil could be made available—no improvements of any sort. But the people went to work and have achieved wonders, not only in Palm Beach but in every other Florida county, until today there are modern facilities, constructed improvements, of enormous value and costing, in the aggregate, almost fabulous sums of money.

Florida's construction work is by no means completed, far from it. But it goes on steadily and to the utmost extent possible within limited resources. At that, the resources are very considerable. Again taking Palm Beach county for illustration, there

BUILD - I

"A Nation of Home Owners" is the everyone who is paying rent can be property of his native land? Of Spring, the impulse to own your own are public enterprises now under way in that county that call for the expenditure of nearly $4,000,000, half of the property valuation of two years ago. These enterprises include permanently constructed roads and bridges, public school buildings, light and water plants, drainage and other like improvements for which the people have voted the money, some of which will come from current tax receipts and more through bonds which they will redeem out of their earnings in the coming years, while at the same time having the benefits of these improvements.

Truly, the construction work that is now going on in Florida, building for the present and for many, many years into the future, is enormous. It is made possible only through the thrift and enterprise of the people. When one stops to consider with what they have to do to get "arunning start" as is said in racing parlance, with the obstacles they have to overcome, many of them ignorant or ill-advised opposition, their progress is as amazing as it is stupendous, as worthy as it is enterprising.

It is sincerely to be hoped that this Florida construction work will go on, as is necessary and in keeping with the progressive spirit of a people desirous of achieving that which is both desirable and commendable. Wise direction of this work is essential in order that it may prove an asset of inestimable value to the present generation and to those of the future, that to these latter may be handed as a heritage and not as a liability without accompanying benefits.—Times-Union.

HAVE DARK HAIR AND LOOK YOUNG

NOBODY CAN TELL WHEN YOU DARKEN GRAY, FADED HAIR WITH SAGE TEA

Grandmother kept her hair beautifully darkened, glossy and attractive with a brew of Sage Tea and Sulphur. Whenever her hair took on that dull, faded or streaked appearance, this simple mixture was applied with wonderful effect. By asking at any drug store for "Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound," you will get a large bottle of this old-time recipe, improved by the addition of other ingredients, all ready to use, at very little cost. This simple mixture can be depended upon to restore natural color and beauty to the hair.

A well-known downtown druggist says everybody uses Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound now because it darkens so naturally and evenly that nobody can tell it has been applied—it's so easy to use, too. You simply dampens a comb or soft brush and draw it through your hair, taking one strand at a time. By morning the gray hair disappears, after another application or two, it is restored to its natural color and looks glossy, soft and beautiful.—Adv.

Author and Artist Fought Real Duel With Riding Gloves

California Has Another Sensation in Artistic Circle

(By The Associated Press) SAN FRANCISCO, March 30.—Harry Leon Wilson, nationally known author, and Theodore Criley, artist, fought a duel last Saturday according to the San Francisco Examiner today. The duel was fought in a sheltered glen near Carmel, seventy miles south of here, at daylight. Weapons were fists, encased in riding gloves. Criley won. The newspaper says a feud of long standing arising from a quarrel after New Year's festivity was responsible.

FIFTY DELEGATES AT ROAD MEETING IN ST. AUGUSTINE

ST. AUGUSTINE, Fla., March 30.—Good roads advocates, approximately 50 in number representing virtually every section in the state met here yesterday morning at a meeting called by the St. Augustine board of trade for the purpose of devising ways and means for improving road building in Florida.

The meeting was called to order by J. J. Gannon, president of the local board of trade, and following an invocation by the Rev. Calkins, of the Baptist church, Eugent Master, city manager of St. Augustine, was made chairman of the conference.

An afternoon session was held on Anastasia Island, after which adjournment was taken until today.

Speakers yesterday voiced the aim of the conference as that of helping the state road department solve its problems. To this end steps are to be taken looking to amendment of the federal road building specifications so that the state may build roads of materials deemed best for its climate and yet share in federal funds. Increased funds for the state road department to carry on its work will also be sought.

The federal government's requirement in the allotment of road funds, it was set forth, that twelve inches of rock and eight inches of solid concrete be laid. This method of surfacing was held to be "absurd" in this climate.

LAST BATTALION OF SOLDIER DEAD HOME

NEW YORK, March 30.—The last battalion of soldier dead to be brought home from the fields of France—1,060 in all—were saluted by the guns of Fort Hamilton and Wadsworth when the army transport Cambri passed through the Narrows last evening with her precious cargo. Flags of escorting craft flew at half mast, and were dipped in salute to the fallen warriors.

Forty-five thousand of those who made the supreme sacrifice overseas, in the service of the United States, have now been brought back to their home land, and only about 100 more bodies await shipment from England and France. All of the others who fell in battle or died behind the lines will continue to rest in foreign soil, that being the wish of their relatives.

Commemoration ceremonies for those who died in uniform will be conducted Sunday in Erocklyn.

General Pershing is to lead a parade organized by the Veterans. In the participation there will be high naval and army officials. Groups of sailors and congressmen, Mayor Hylan, and leaders in civil life.

"The Red Peacock" is Feature at Star Today

Admittedly one of the biggest emotional photoplays to be seen here in many months will be "The Red Peacock," a new Paramount picture starring Pola Negri, the famous European screen star, which comes to the Star Theatre today. Miss Negri is said to be the Sarah Bernha of the screen, and that she is versatile is amply proven by her superb work in such pictures as "Passion," "Gypsy Blood" and "The Last Payment," the latter a Paramount picture, scoring heavily.

In the story, Pola Negri is seen as Violette, a flower girl, who is driven from her squalid home by a drunken step-father and forced to make her own way through life. She meets a young playwright in dramatic circumstances, and the story of their love is finely told in a series of remarkable scenes that hold one's attention to the final fade out. Pola Negri, a dramatic actress of great force and brilliance, meets the requirements of her arduous role with exquisite artistry.

The scenes of the picture are laid in Europe. The director was Paul Stein and the supporting company is one of the best thus far seen in any Pola Negri photoplay.

STATE BANKS WIN RIGHT TO CHARGE CHECKS EXCHANGE

TAX ASSESSOR VAUGHN DIRECTED TO INCREASE TAXES TEN PER CENT.

Tax Assessor Alex Vaughn has received a letter from State Tax Equalizer Harion Dawson advising him that after a canvass of the county by one of his representatives he had come to the conclusion that Seminole county real and personal property was due for a ten per cent raise all round. His orders are as follows:

"You are hereby directed to make your valuations and assessments for the year 1922 accordingly, raising the tax valuation of the two classes of property by the specified ten per cent as required by Chapter 8584, Laws of Florida, Acts of 1921."

Mr. Dawson has ordered increases in the valuation of a number of counties in the state declaring that a personal examination of the 1921 tax rolls revealed inequalities in valuation. In case the changes are made the assessment will be raised but the millage can be lowered by the county commissioners who can be relied upon to look after the business of taxation in this county which their years of residence and experience guarantees the taxpayers. There are many things to be taken into consideration in these tax matters and while everyone recognizes the fact that taxes have never been equalized in the state and they should be, it is also a fact that many counties have never paid their just share and if this is remedied South Florida will offer no serious objection to the change. Sanford celery lands and orange groves have paid the limit for many years, some certain parcels of lands probably paying more than others which could and should be equalized, but when we know that other lands in the state are not paying their pro rata of taxes and that the owners have avoided paying their just share for years this part of the state naturally desires that all pay alike and thereby comes the objection. Since the act of the 1921 legislature was for this purpose it gives the tax payers a ray of hope that maybe at last the taxes will be placed where they belong and will be equalized in just proportion.

COX SEES BRIGHT FUTURE IN STORE FOR DEMOCRACY

(By The Associated Press)
JACKSON, Miss., March 30.—James M. Cox, former governor of Ohio and Democratic candidate for the presidency in the 1920 election, made an address before the joint session of the two houses of the Mississippi legislature last night on the international policies and what he termed "Lodgeism" and the "Boo-weevilism" in our international affairs. He paid tribute to Woodrow Wilson, the League of Nations, and urged Southern farmers to diversify.

He championed the cause of Henry Ford in his efforts to obtain lease of the Muscle Shoals nitrate and water power projects.

"I want to see his millions and nature's vast facilities joined at Muscle Shoals," Mr. Cox said. "I want to see the government of the United States give him this opportunity."

Mr. Cox in a sally against what he characterized as "the blight of Lodgeism" charged that Senator Lodge "killed" the League of Nations.

Mr. Cox asserted that the Massachusetts senator "knew full well what would happen to the country" and "had been warned by no less an authority than former President Taft."

He closed with an optimistic prediction for the future success of the Democratic party.

DESTROY NEWSPAPER PLANT AT DUBLIN

(By The Associated Press)
DUBLIN, March 30.—A large party of armed men early yesterday morning held up the staff of the Freeman's Journal, smashed the presses, threw gasoline on the floors, and set fire to the building. The staff of the newspaper were liberated after the fire was started.

THE REASON WHY—Mine Locomotives, Factory Trucks, Battleships, Airplanes, Submarines and railroads rely almost exclusively on "EXIDE" BATTERIES because of their heavy capacity, rugged construction. There is an "EXIDE" Battery made to fit every make automobile with 3 to 7 years service. See us about an "EXIDE" for your car.—RAY BROTHERS, "EXIDE" BATTERY SERVICE. 311-tfc-daw

THE WEATHER

For Florida: Partly cloudy tonight and Friday; probably showers Friday.

PERSONALS

Chautauqua next week.

Looks more like rain today. Badly needed.

If it turns cold again the celery growers will be so prosperous they will have to go into the printing business to spend their money.

J. S. (Pop) Wilson has gone to Hastings where he will handle the potato crop for a Pittsburgh firm, and expects to be absent for several weeks.

Attend the play at the High School Auditorium tonight and help the Juniors out. They need the money and are giving you a good entertainment in return.

Lloyd's Shoe Store is giving away a valuable souvenir with each purchase of shoes or supplies on Saturday and until all of them are gone. Watch the Daily tomorrow for the announcement.

Harold E. Hall, advance agent for the Redpath Chautauqua is in the city and will assist in the publicity work for the Business and Professional Woman's Club. The Chautauqua begins next Tuesday.

Forest Lake and R. W. Pearman are at St. Augustine today attending the meeting of the State Roads department and the good roads boosters from all over the state. They will have something of interest to tell the meeting of the governors tomorrow at the Valdez Hotel.

Mr. and Mrs. Arthur E. Wakeman, of Brooklyn, N. Y., who have been the guests of the Seminole Hotel and Mr. and Mrs. W. T. Donnelly and family, left Tuesday noon via boat for New York. Many social affairs were given for both Mr. and Mrs. Wakeman, which included trips up the St. Johns river on the beautiful boat, "New Era," and numerous auto trips to East Coast and other Florida points of interest. The many friends look forward to an early return visit to Sanford.

BUENA VISTA ESTATES AUCTION LOT SALE SATURDAY WILL ATTRACT A BIG CROWD.

Seems like everybody in Sanford are making plans to go to the big auction sale Saturday. Never before in the history of Sanford has such a fine number of plats been placed on the market so that everybody can buy at their own price. It seems like an increase in the price of celery has been made to secure these lots at your own price instead of paying somebody else's fixed price. Everybody believes real estate in Sanford will be higher next year and all the unsold lots in Buena Vista Estates will be increased in price so the people buying now beat the other fellow to the big bargain sale.

More people will be in Florida in the fall of 1922 and 1923 than ever before buying lots and Florida land. California's freeze and snow storms has put Florida products in markets never before known. Watch the next year be a big money maker for Florida property owners. Already property has begun to change hands in the north.

Saturday will be Sanford's big day and the Mothers Club will serve such a dinner as everybody will gladly be willing to give the small nominal price asked. Help your mothers men boys and girls. See they have a big crowd to supply dinner to, and if you go and bring some one with you you will have done a worthy act. Make your plans to be there and catch the greasy pig. If there by 10 o'clock you might win $10.00 by guessing what lot No. 5 in block C sells for. Somebody will get $10.00 and this may be your lucky day.

The world at your door every evening for 15c.—Daily Herald.

A valuable article given away Saturday with each purchase. See advertisement in Friday's Herald.—Lloyd's Shoe Store.

MEAT INJURIOUS TO THE KIDNEYS

TAKE A TABLESPOONFUL OF 4 SALTS IF EACH HURTS OR BLADDER BOTHERS

We are a nation of meat eaters and our blood is filled with uric acid, says a well-known authority, who warns us to be constantly on guard against kidney trouble.

The kidneys do their utmost to free the blood of this irritating acid, but become weak from the overwork; they get sluggish; the eliminative tissues clog and thus the waste is retained in the blood to poison the entire system.

When your kidneys ache and feel like lumps of lead, and you have stinging pains in the back or the urine is cloudy, full of sediment, or the bladder is irritable, obliging you to seek relief during the night; when you have severe headaches, nervous and dizzy spells, sleeplessness, acid stomach or rheumatism in bad weather, get from your pharmacist about four ounces of Jad Salts; take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast each morning and in a few days your kidneys will act fine. This famous salts is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and has been used for generations to flush and stimulate clogged kidneys, to neutralize the acids in urine so it is no longer a source of irritation, thus ending urinary and bladder disorders.

Jad Salts is inexpensive and cannot injure; makes a delightful effervescent lithia-water drink, and nobody can make a mistake by taking a little occasionally to keep the kidneys clean and active.—Adv.
