County's Oldest School Eyed As Children's Museum

By Michael Beha
Herald Staff Writer

A Seminole County School administrator thinks the county's oldest school might make a nice children's museum.

James J. Elliott, consultant/coordinator of social studies for the school district, plans to ask the school board at its 3 p.m. Wednesday meeting to form a study group to examine Sanford Grammar for possible use as a museum.

Sanford Grammar, Hopper and South Side elementary schools will be closed at the end of this school year. The schools will be replaced by Hamilton Elementary School, scheduled for completion in July.

Elliott suggests that Sanford Grammar School, the fourth oldest school in continuous use in the state, "would provide an ideal setting for a museum."

"The museum would become an educational institution which could transmit certain kinds of information or ideas better than any other educational institution," Elliott said. "The strength of the museum is its ability to use actual objects in the transmission of ideas to large numbers of people."

Elliott suggests the museum could be divided into theme rooms to support the district's curriculum. He said a Florida room, a native American room and a Seminole County room could be developed as back-grounds for class work.

The facility could also serve as a geography lab which would be too expensive for each school to develop on its own and county staff could use the building to develop programs and exhibits to visit schools in the district, Elliott said.

He added that the auditorium and stage could become a community meeting room in addition to hosting mock trials, public speakers and in-service training and workshops. The school could also serve as a clearing-house for social studies activities in the district, he said.

Sanford Grammar was built in 1902 as Sanford High School, when Seminole County was still a part of Orange County. It's first class of seniors graduated in 1907 and the school housed all 12 grades until 1911, when a new high school (now Sanford Middle School) opened.

Seminole County was separated from Orange in 1913 and three years later twin wings were constructed on the school, providing 14 classrooms, a library, office and auditorium.

A lunchroom and kitchen were added to the school in 1921 by the Sanford Woman's Club. Lunches were prepared there for students at Sanford Grammar, Sanford High School, South Side and West Side elementary schools.

Murder Trial Opens

Opening statements were expected to be heard this morning in the trial of a Eustis man accused of kidnapping a Sanford man, robbing him and shooting him to death.

A 12-member jury and two alternates were selected Monday to hear the case of Donald Ray Bean Jr., 19, who is charged with felony murder in the Feb. 12 death of John Thomas Ellis, 43, of 816 Cherokee Circle.

Assistant State Attorney Angela Blakely said she won't seek the death penalty, meaning that Bean, a baby-faced young man with medium-length black hair, faces a sentence of life in prison with no chance of parole for 25 years if convicted.

Circuit Judge C. Vernon Mize Jr. will preside in the trial to be held in Courtroom B at the Seminole County Court House.

According to a Longwood police report, Ellis was shot in the head, stomach and leg with three shots fired from a .38-caliber handgun at 3:20 a.m. after he got into his van, parked outside the Post Time Lounge at U.S. Highway 17-92 and Dog Track Road in Longwood.

Ellis died from massive bleeding and lacerations of the brain, a Seminole County medical examiner's report said.

While Ellis was in the lounge, a man entered his white Dodge van and was hiding in the rear when Ellis and a woman returned to the van, police said. The man placed a gun against the woman's head and threatened to shoot her unless Ellis drove him to another location, police reports said.

After Ellis drove to Grant street behind the lounge, the gunman forced the woman out of the van, and as the gunman also tried to get out of the van, Ellis lunged at him and the gun fired, reports said.

Jay McDonald Wills, 18, of Eustis, has pleaded guilty to being an accessory after fact in the case and is scheduled to testify for the prosecution.

Wills said he and Bean had been driving around the Sanford-Longwood area on the night of the shooting, according to court records.

They stopped at the Post Time Lounge and a van drove up behind them and a man got out and went into the lounge, Wills said. Bean said he was going to check out the van. Later a man and a woman came out of the lounge, got in the van and a short time later the van drove down the road and stopped, Wills said.

Wills said he heard several shots and then Bean ran up to the car, carrying a pistol and a wallet and they drove away.

Bean told Wills he had shot into the van, Wills said. Wills dropped Bean off at a friend's house and drove to Volusia County where he was stopped and arrested by a deputy sheriff after a description of a car seen leaving the lounge had been broadcast to law agencies.

Education Week Gets Off Ground

Seminole County Schools are honoring teachers, principals, students and retired educators this week in observance of American Education Week.

The highlight of the week is a reception for retired educators scheduled for 3 p.m. today at Seminole High School.

William and Aleatha Hamilton, retired Seminole County educators with 85 years of combined experience, will be recognized for their service. The school board will also name a new elementary school in Sanford after the Hamiltons.

Educational exhibits, featuring the works of Seminole County students, are on display this week at the school board office at 1211 Mellonville Ave. Additionally, the district's 43 schools have planned a wide array of activities to commemorate American Education Week.

On Monday, Assistant Superintendent Owen McCarron took off in a hot air balloon at Idyllwild Elementary School. Superintendent Robert Hughes addressed students at Milwee Middle School, Lakeview Middle School Assistant Principal Jim Shupe recognized outstanding teachers and students and Geneva and Red Bug elementary students wrote letters to reporters.

Earlier today, Pine Crest Elementary teachers will be honored at a breakfast by the school's PTA and volunteers will be honored at lunch at Hopper Elementary. Lyman High School students will see a presentation on career opportunities.

Parents and citizens are invited to lunch at Geneva, Midway, and Idyllwild elementaries and Rosenwald Exceptional Child Care Center.

Woodlands Elementary and Milwee will have open house for parents Wednesday. Woodlands will also release balloons at 1 p.m. culminating the school's fundraising efforts to save the Statue of Liberty.

Forest City Elementary will have a pot luck lunch for teacher aides,

Don't Rebuild Paint Plant, Residents Say

By Donna Estes
Herald Staff Writer

If United Solvents of America, Inc. comes to the city of Sanford with plans to rebuild its paint products plant, destroyed by fire Oct. 29, it may not find a welcome reception from city officials.

Not only residents of nearby Academy Manor oppose rebuilding, but City Manager W.E. "Pete" Knowles also criticized officials at the plant for their callousness about the city's welfare.

"Their lack of concern startled me," Knowles said.

And City Commissioner Milton Smith said he would hope the plant owners seriously consider relocating the facility.

Knowles said he concurred with the some 70 Academy Manor residents who turned out at Monday night's city commission meeting, seeking commission assurances that the plant won't be built near their homes.

"I would much rather see it out in the boondocks," Knowles said. He added that the city commission could prohibit the storage of over 10 gallons of volatile fluids at any site in the city and thus eliminate hazards of this sort.

Dudley Blake, president of United Solvents, 1107 Airport Boulevard, could not be reached for comment today. However, soon after the plant burned Oct. 29, officials of the firm said the facility would be rebuilt.

Robert B. Thomas of 129 Bethune Circle, spokesman for Academy Manor residents, introduced Louise Wellon, 139 Bethune Circle, who informed the commissioners that she was hospitalized after the blaze.

"My doctor said the blindness I had was a result of chemicals from the fire found in my blood stream," she said. "I say that plant is a bad thing and we don't want it."

Thomas urged the commission to refuse permission to United Solvents to rebuild its plant. He said the chemical fire and the thick smoke it produced damaged homes, cars and destroyed vegetables residents growing in their yards.

In addition, the city was not prepared for such an emergency, he said, and there was no shelter designated when the homeowners were evacuated twice on the day of the fire.

"One police officer when asked by a woman where she should go for shelter, told her, 'Go south,'" Thomas said.

Robert B. Thomas Jr.

Saying he read "the rhetoric about the commissioners' dedication to serving the people," Thomas asked them to prove it. He asked the board to "pray about this and think about us. We are human beings and pay taxes. If a fire like this happens again, we may not be as lucky as we were the last time."

Mayor Lee P. Moore assured them that their comments would be taken into consideration if United Solvents comes before the city commission seeking permission to rebuild. The city has not received a request from the firm as yet.

But J.Q. "Slim" Galloway, chairman of the city's planning and zoning board, was asked to study petitions against rebuilding submitted by the Academy Manor residents and to pass the word to his colleagues for consideration if a site plan is submitted.

"I prayerfully hope you are not just throwing us another ball that we will have to chase," Thomas said. "I have lived here all my life, except for the time I spent in the military. We have been neglected," he concluded to applause from his neighbors.

"I'm hoping we can relieve your fears," Smith told the group, adding he appreciates their feelings on the issue.

Later in the meeting, Knowles said that at one point water sprayed on the blaze by firefighters attempting to extinguish it, mixed with the solvents and was running off the United Solvents property into a drainage ditch. He said if this had allowed to continue, the tainted water would have flowed through the city to the train yards, through residential property to the city sewer plant and on to Lake Monroe.

City Chastised For Effort To Settle Blacks' Lawsuit

'What if five others threaten to sue if you settle?'

—John W. Leroy Jr.

Somedays city officials just can't win.

The Sanford City Commission last week decided to negotiate a settlement of the lawsuit filed in federal court by five black residents to change at-large elections for city officials to election by district, at least in part.

The commissioners were convinced that the city could not win the lawsuit because of the high costs involved in a defense. Cost estimates of defending the city ranged from $250,000, up to $1 million if the suit went all the way to the U.S. Supreme Court.

On Monday night, however, the commissioners were severely criticized by a member of its charter revision commission for failing to stand by the voters who had turned down residency districts for commissioners a year ago, and election by districts in 1980.

John W. Leroy Jr. of 1401 E. Second St. said that he had favored districting and in fact voted for it in 1982, but that the fact remains that the majority of the voters turned it down.

Leroy said the only ones who will benefit from the lawsuit are the lawyers.

"I cannot see letting five people dictate what the city will do," Leroy said. "What if five others threaten to sue if you settle?"

Commissioner David Farr said, "I would hope we would lose. If there was any way or chance that we could have won, we would have fought."

Commissioner Eddie Keith, the only commissioner who voted against negotiating for settlement, reiterated his position that the city should have fought the lawsuit. He insisted the city stood a good chance of winning.

Mayor Lee P. Moore also pointed out again that of the five blacks who filed the lawsuit, one was not registered to vote in the 1982 election and two others did not vote. —Donna Estes

Dredging Gets Go-Ahead; Early Sunday Cruise Booze Nixed

It's full speed ahead with the dredging of the west basin at the Sanford Marina, by unanimous city commission vote, despite the state's rejection of permits to expand the number of docks.

The commission also approved Monday joint-venturing a garbage transfer station to save the city up to $25,000 per year and accepted with thanks the donation of $2,000 to buy playground equipment for the McKibbin Park on 25th Street.

At the same time, they unanimously turned down a request from the Star of Sanford cruise ship for permission to serve alcoholic beverages aboard ship at 10:30 a.m. Sundays.

The city commission some months ago pledged to spend $117,000 to dredge the east and west basins at the Sanford Marina partly because, Charles Volk, Monroe Harbour operator, planned to expand the number of docks there. Since the city owns and leases the property to Volk, the city would realize higher lease payments with the expansion.

However, the state Department of Environmental Regulation turned down a request for a permit. But Volk is appealing and City Manager W.E. "Pete" said he believes a permit will ultimately be granted and the dredging in the west basin will have to be done eventually. In addition, he said that delaying the work now could mean higher future costs. Since the dredging equipment is already in place, the cost of the west basin dredging is $50,000, approved as part of the $117,000.

The board also unanimously approved a concept whereby the city will permit Industrial Waste Systems (IWS), a privately-owned and operated company to use a portion of the city maintenance facility property on Poplar Avenue for a garbage transfer station in exchange for lower rates for city garbage disposal. While the city has been paying the county from $2.60 to $2.80 per cubic yard to use a county garbage transfer station at Upsala and the county's main Osceola sanitary landfill for garbage disposal, IWS said it will charge the city $2.20 per cubic yard.

Assistant City Manager Steve Harriett said the city stands to save up to $25,000 in dumping fees with this arrangement in addition to achieving reduced costs for fuel, man hours and wear and tear on garbage packers by cutting down on the distance vehicles must travel to the county dumps.

The commission accepted with thanks an offer from the Barnett Bank to pay the city $5 per new account opened during its grand opening promotion in the next few days. The new bank is located west of U.S. 17-92 near Airport Boulevard.

Bank officials estimated the total donation to the city will be $2,000 and asked that the funds be used to purchase playground equipment. The commission concurred.

Parks and Recreation Director Jim Jernigan suggested the equipment be placed at McKibbin Park on 25th Street and the board approved.

When the commission turned down the Star of Sanford request to begin serving Sunday liquor at 10:30 a.m. instead of noon as allowed by city ordinance, Mayor Lee P. Moore said it would not be fair to other city businesses to give the cruise ship a special variance.

Nanci Yronis, director of the firm, said that considerable confusion would be created if the ship lines had to reschedule its morning cruises and it would be expensive to reprint and redistribute schedules and brochures if the request were denied.

NATION IN BRIEF

Boston To Pick A New Mayor Today

BOSTON (UPI) — Both candidates in Boston's racially charged mayoral campaign, Raymond Flynn and Melvin King, counted on well-organized drives to get out the vote today.

A relaxed Flynn sang Irish ballads with senior citizens Monday while underdog King, hoping to be the city's first black mayor, complained of voter intimidation through a highly publicized campaign to find fraudulent registrations. The two wound up their campaigns to succeed Kevin White, who is stepping down after 16 years, the longest mayoral tenure in the city's history.

Officials estimated 70 percent of 282,000 Boston's registered voters would vote, despite forecasts of rain and chilly winds.

"It feels wonderful to receive this kind of response," Flynn said after attending a rally during which he grabbed a microphone to sing an Irish ballad with an elderly audience.

King staged a news conference on the steps of City Hall and charged the city Election Department with frightening potential voters through the use of uniformed police officers to check voters' addresses.

Judge Fines Flynt

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — Sex magazine publisher Larry Flynt was fined $25,000 and ordered to pay $10,000 each day he refuses to reveal where he got a missing audio tape he says proves John De Lorean was entrapped by the FBI in his $24 million drug case.

U.S. District Court Judge Robert Takasugi found Flynt innocent Monday of criminal contempt for failing to produce the tape, which the Hustler magazine publisher claims was stolen.

But he fined him $25,000 for refusing to appear at a Nov. 1 hearing, and tacked on the $10,000 civil assessment starting today. Flynt, 40, was also ordered to appear in court each weekday until he reveals his source.

The recording contains a conversation in which De Lorean is allegedly threatened by James Hoffman, an undercover FBI informant, for trying to back out of a $24 million cocaine deal. The tape's authenticity has never been established.

Children Enter Hospital

ROSLYN, N.Y. (UPI) — A 7-year-old South Korean girl who came to the United States with her 4-year-old brother aboard Air Force One faced a series of tests today to determine if she can undergo life-saving heart surgery.

The girl and her brother, who both suffer from holes in their hearts, were brought from their homeland Monday by President and Mrs. Reagan to undergo operations unavailable in South Korea.

Ahn Ji Sook, 7, and Lee Kil Woo, 4, were taken to St. Francis Hospital in Roslyn where the operations are expected to be performed.

Their arrival in New York capped a long flight from South Korea.

Strikers Refuse To Work

PHOENIX, Ariz. (UPI) — Thousands of striking Greyhound workers burned back-to-work orders and held nationwide rallies, yelling "Hell no, we won't go" in defiance of a company deadline, but Greyhound pledged to resume limited service and slashed ticket prices.

Negotiators for the 12,700 striking workers were to meet with Greyhound representatives today, the 13th day of the walkout, under the auspices of federal mediator Sam Franklin. They had not met since Oct. 31.

Greyhound plans to resume limited service Thursday using 400 newly hired drivers, and to lure passengers back, the company took out full-page newspaper ads this week announcing half-price fares.

They Came, Played, Stayed

Betty Jones of Valdosta, Ga., received a gold medal in the stitchery category of the Golden Age Games Hobby Show last week for her old-fashioned christening gown, bonnet and baby pillow.

If you think dominoes is a quiet game played mostly by little old ladies in parlors, you haven't seen the contestants in the Golden Age Games go at it.

They were going at it at the Sanford Civic Center Friday afternoon in a jovial atmosphere: the loud clatter of ivory dominoes being briskly shuffled on hard top tables before each game, the elated shouts of the victors, the sighs of the losers.

"It's mentally stimulating and it keeps your mind alert. You have to be adding all the time," said Jean E. Hess with a sharp look in her eye as she began her match.

Mrs. Hess, who is 61 years old and lives at 2017 Elizabeth Court in Sanford, won a gold medal in dominoes last year and was eager for a repeat performance this time.

"Jean plays a mean game," said her male opponent with a smile as Mrs. Hess blew him away in a matchup a little later.

Mrs. Hess and her husband, a retired policeman, moved to Sanford from Miami two years ago to escape the crime and turmoil of the Gold Coast. "I played poker with the girls for 25 years (in Miami), but then it got to where I was afraid to go out of the house at night," she said. "We love Sanford. It's quiet and we like the slow way of living."

The Hesses used to drive up to Sanford from Miami for the Golden Age Games. "We started coming up in 1978," she said. "We had a camper and we'd come up with some friends. It was fun."

The couple recently opened a golf driving range at the airport called the Sanford Airport Driving Range. Not surprisingly golf is her favorite sport and she has already won a bronze medal in golf during the games this year.

But she's fond of dominoes, too. "You can relax at night with your friends with dominoes. We play it with our neighbors once a week," she said. —Charles Cobb

Hull Runs Away With Gold Medal

Don Hull just keeps running away with gold medals at the Golden Age Games.

Saturday morning he easily outdistanced the other contestants in the 100-yard dash at the track at Seminole High School in Sanford, finishing in a flat 12 seconds.

Earlier in the day the 65-year-old man from Port Orange snared a gold medal after winning the 50-yard dash in 6.98 seconds. He's also won two gold medals in canoeing and two silver medals in the swimming competition.

"Winning isn't everything," said Hull, as he slipped a Diet Pepsi after zipping through the 100-yard dash on a chilly, sunny morning. "Of course, I'd rather win, but being able to compete is what's important."

"Everybody here is friendly. They applaud everyone, even if they come in last. You don't hear any moaning or complaining."

Hull was on the track teams in high school and college, but after that he didn't participate in the sport for nearly 40 years.

Then a few years ago a friend told him about the Golden Age Games and he became active again. Very active as a matter of fact. He's participated in eight or nine senior games all over Florida and in Puerto Rico and won a wall full of medals.

But the games in Sanford are "the best by far. The cooperation here is outstanding, the way the community and different civic groups participate," said Hull.

Hull who used to be parks and recreation director for an area in Virginia, said the Sanford games have served as a model for similar games that were organized in other parts of the country.

"If you don't have an interest you vegetate. Running has improved my health and my mental alertness," he said. "But we keep it in perspective. We enter games all over the state, but if something comes up we'd rather do, we do that instead."

The games "give us something to do. It's truly a lot of fun. You can't do something like this without the support of your wife. She encourages me and goes to all the games with me." —Charles Cobb

Sanford Man Held In Rape Of Girl, 15

A Sanford man charged with the rape Monday of a 15-year-old girl is being held in the Seminole County jail without bond.

The man took the girl to a wooded area off Markham Woods Road in south Seminole County, forced her from his car and then forced her to have sexual intercourse, a Seminole County sheriff's deputy reported.

The girl was then put into the back seat of the man's 1980 Pontiac. He drove a short distance north on Markham Woods Road and then the car struck a tree, the report said.

The girl ran from the car and called for help at 202 Markham Woods Road. The man fled on foot and was arrested at 8:30 p.m. He was charged with leaving the scene of an accident and taken to jail, the report said.

The girl was taken to Central Florida Regional Hospital where an examination showed signs of an assault, the report said.

WOMAN REPORTS RAPE

A 21-year-old Casselberry woman reported she was raped early Sunday morning by a man who offered her a ride home from a bar.

The woman said she met a man called "David" at Fern Park Station in Fern Park at about 2 a.m. They talked for short time, then she left the bar with him and they drove to a convenience store on Fernwood Boulevard where she entered and bought a beer, officers said.

The suspect then drove to Red Bug Lake Road, in Seminole County, and told the victim he needed to stop at his apartment before taking her home. He made several stops and turns as they entered a secluded area, authorities said.

The victim told Seminole County sheriff's deputies that the man parked his car on a dirt road on the north side of Red Bug Lake Road. He produced four sets of handcuffs, told the woman he was a police officer and bound her hands and ankles with two pairs of handcuffs, she said.

The woman said the man ripped her clothes as she struggled and she stopped fighting when he held an open pocket knife to her throat and threatened her.

The man forced the woman into the backseat of his yellow, hatch-back-type car and raped her, she told deputies.

The woman said the man sexually assaulted and told her he had done this before, investigators said.

After the attack the woman was ordered out of the car and the man tied her hands with her shoe laces and blindfolded her with a sock, she told deputies.

The woman said the rapist drove west on Red Bug Lake road and she ran to a nearby apartment to call for help.

WORLD IN BRIEF

Syria Warns U.S. Will Pay For Retaliation

DAMASCUS, Syria (UPI) — Syria warned America "will pay a very precious price" if the United States tries to avenge the bombing that killed at least 239 U.S. servicemen at the Marine headquarters in Beirut.

Washington said it has circumstantial evidence Syria helped plan the Oct. 23 attack and would seek revenge once the culprits were identified.

Both nations have stepped up their military presence in the Middle East since a terrorist plowed a bomb-laden truck into the four-story Marine barracks at Beirut International Airport, killing at least 239 Marines and sailors.

Syria criticized renewed U.S. reconnaissance flights over Lebanon Monday.

"The mere presence of American naval forces in the Mediterranean waters and the flights of American planes over other territories are provocative actions," Syria's government-controlled Damascus radio said.

Castro Accuses Reagan

HAVANA, Cuba (UPI) — With some 1 million people chanting "lies," Fidel Castro angrily charged that President Reagan falsely justified the U.S.-led invasion of Grenada by blaming Cuba and warned Washington is planning new adventures.

"The shooting has hardly stopped in Grenada and already they talk of interventions in El Salvador, in Nicaragua and in Cuba," Castro told the cheering crowd in the downtown Plaza of the Revolution.

Castro's comments at a funeral rally Monday ended the second day of national mourning for the 24 Cubans killed fighting American forces in the Oct. 25 invasion of the Caribbean island.

"Not just small countries, but all of humanity is threatened by Reagan's policy," Castro said from his platform overlooking the victims' caskets.

Thousands of people streamed into Havana's central square Monday morning and passed the wide columns of the base of the Jose Marti monument in the plaza, where the caskets, draped with blue, red and white national flags, were surrounded by a military honor guard.

Grenada Rulers Captured

ST. GEORGE'S, Grenada (UPI) — All 16 members of the Marxist-led council that ruled Grenada after the overthrow and execution of Prime Minister Maurice Bishop were arrested and face possible criminal charges, officials said.

"We are only arresting people in connection with criminal acts such as the murder of Bishop," Maj. Allan Douglas of Jamaica said.

Douglas, a spokesman for the six-nation Caribbean force guarding Grenada, announced the arrest of Ruben Nelson, the last person still at large from the Marxist-led Revolutionary Military Council that ruled Grenada until the U.S.-led invasion Oct. 25.

They're There Protests Mixed With Support For Missiles

By Paula Butturini
United Press International

The first of the new U.S. missiles to be deployed in western Europe arrived in Britain to a chorus of protests from anti-nuclear groups across the continent. Supporters argued the weapons were vital to keeping the peace.

"It is a major tragedy for the human race," said Monsignor Bruce Kent, the Roman Catholic priest who heads Britain's Campaign for Nuclear Disarmament. "The world is now far more dangerous."

An American C-141 Starliner transport plane had barely touched down with a cargo of cruise missiles at England's Greenham Common airbase Monday when opponents of the medium-range nuclear rockets renewed their protests.

In Rome, where the Italian government opened a three-day debate on the deployment, police hauled off and briefly detained 200 chanting anti-nuclear protesters outside the Parliament building.

Left-wing parliamentarians involved in the demonstration complained that police roughed up the group.

Britain's opposition Labor Party leader, Neil Kinnock, said the arrival of the first of 572 U.S. cruise and Pershing-2 missiles "endangered the whole world."

The Soviet Union — whose deployment of new SS-20 missiles prompted NATO's 1979 decision to deploy new missiles in Britain, Italy, West Germany, Belgium and the Netherlands — did not immediately respond.

But the official Soviet news agency Tass, in a dispatch from London, noted the arrival of the missiles and said British Prime Minister Margaret Thatcher was preparing her country for life after a nuclear holocaust.

Mrs. Thatcher defended the missiles' arrival, saying Europe could not accept the Soviet "monopoly" of modern medium-range nuclear missiles aimed at the West.

In West Germany, which along with its allies originally requested the deployment, a group of scientists asked a constitutional court to ban the missiles.

Eight West European Socialist disarmament experts urged the Socialist International in Helsinki, Finland, to postpone the deployment, scheduled to take place in phases beginning next month.

In Paris, Socialist International President Willy Brandt said it was "too late to expect a miracle" agreement at Geneva and the vital question was how to resume negotiations once the missiles are deployed.

In Geneva Monday, the United States made a new offer on limiting medium-range nuclear missiles to a total of 420 warheads each, but the Soviet Union called the proposal "unacceptable."

Socialist Prime Minister Bettino Craxi repledged Italy's intention to install the U.S. missiles, but urged the superpowers to keep negotiating in Geneva.

"We have stressed over and over again if the Americans and the Soviets reach an agreement in Geneva, deployment of new medium-range nuclear missiles in Western Europe can be reversed," one diplomat said at NATO headquarters in Brussels, Belgium.

Hot water from the sun.

An investment that gives you a 17% annual tax-free return, a 40% tax credit, and pays up to $400 immediately.

A residential solar water heater. One of the best investments under the sun. Here's how it adds up to your benefit:

1. FPL will pay up to $400 on the purchase and installation in your home of a solar water heater replacing an electric water heater.
2. Uncle Sam provides a 40% tax credit on the purchase cost.
3. The minute you install your solar water heater you start saving about 70% of the cost of heating your water. For the typical family of four that means a savings of $182 a year—an annual tax-free return of 17% on the average cost of a solar water heater.

The new unit must meet our standards and be installed by a participating dealer/contractor. For more information and a list of dealers, call the Watt-Wise™ Line.

This program benefits you and all our customers. Because it costs less than the oil necessary to generate the electricity wasted by inefficient homes.

Postage Rate Hike Could Kill Service

For the seventh time since Congress reorganized the Postal Service in 1971, its governors want to increase the price of a first-class stamp. The proposed hike from 20 to 23 cents, effective Oct. 1, 1984, will mean a 400 percent rise since the change to a public corporation and a boost of nearly 50 percent over the past four years.

But since Postmaster General William Bolger says the increase is necessary to stave off an $800 million deficit, he probably will get his way.

We hope that both Congress and the Postal Rate Commission scrutinize this request because such an increase can only encourage both large and small users of first-class mail to switch to increasingly practical electronic delivery and bill-paying systems.

A similar result of increases in package mailing rates a few years ago made parcel post non-competitive with the private United Parcel Service.

The new rate schedule suggests that the Postal Service hopes to subsidize other services from first-class profits. Only modest increases, if at all, are called for parcel post in a belated effort to undercut UPS.

Some reasons why the Postal Service is in this bind is because its approximately 600,000 employees are paid more than comparable workers in private industry and because its long-held monopoly status encourages overcharging but not productivity.

Although postal employee productivity has been on the increase, the system's sudden fiscal woes — after two years of black ink — would suggest that more economies through automation and attrition are necessary.

For national security reasons, we're not at the point where we want to see the Postal Service replaced by private industry. Its rates also are still among the more reasonable for government-run mails. Those who share this view should also be concerned whether the unintended result of the latest rate hike proposals will be to hasten the end of the post office.

Apology? Absurd

Poland's government ought to be grateful to President Reagan for the partial easing of American economic sanctions imposed after the military crackdown nearly two years ago. After all, the lifting of martial law was a mere paper charade. Free unions remain only a memory. And political prisoners number 3,000.

The world would believe from Warsaw's official rhetoric recently that Poland is a model of civic virtue and has been wronged by the United States. Incredibly, the Jaruzelski government asserts that the easing of American sanctions is totally inadequate. Poland's communist masters are actually demanding compensation for damage caused by the U.S. sanctions.

"Such absurdity ought to be rejected out of hand by the Reagan administration. Neither compensation nor apology is required for penalizing a government that has repeatedly proved itself the enemy of its own citizens.

Indeed, the demand for compensation calls into serious question the Reagan administration's decision to ease the sanctions by negotiating the repayment of the $14 billion Polish debt to western governments and discussing the resumption of Polish fishing in American waters.

The administration has justified its concessions with hopes they will encourage further liberalization in Poland. Considering the demand for compensation, such a development is less likely than ever.

Fortunately, the administration has only agreed to discuss debt rescheduling and fishing rights. Before any decisions are made, Warsaw should be required to ease its repression and drop any further nonsense about reparations from the United States.

BERRY'S WORLD

"Do you want the 'serial marriage rats'?"

By Diane Petryk

Your own condo on the beach. Sounds like a great way to spend a week or two vacation. Tennis courts, pool, saunas, all the amenities. The price sounds low and it can be yours for the same weeks every year.

That's known as a timeshare, and they're becoming very popular. But the Consumer Information Center of the Federal General Services Administration has a few words of caution for you.

If you are only buying that two-week piece of the condo, you could find yourself spreading thousands of dollars for nothing. While there have been many successful timeshare projects, a number of resorts have sold timeshares and then gone out of business, or, they have not lived up to their promises.

In addition, some buyers have found they were unable to use the resorts when they planned. Since timeshares are based on having a prearranged vacation place you can count on, one of your first questions should be whether you can count on your own vacation. Are there likely to be last minute changes? In that case, your vacation and your vacation timeshare may not mesh.

There are salespeople who promote timesharing as an investment. However, the center warns that the biggest benefit of timesharing is the use of the facilities, not profits, so investment claims should be scrutinized. Resale could be difficult, and even if you do sell, there will be costs.

If you have the option of swapping your space for space at another resort owned by the same company or network, remember the swap you want, when you want it, usually cannot be guaranteed. Be sure to check restrictions that might apply to these exchanges, the center advises.

If the facility you are considering buying into is not complete, check the company's record. Also get a written commitment the resort will be finished as promised. One way to protect yourself is to put your money into an escrow account while the project is being completed. Find out what your rights are if the builder or management company has financial problems or defaults. Otherwise, you could lose everything.

The center says don't forget the total cost of your vacation each year will include travel, finance charges and annual maintenance fees that will probably rise. Compare these costs with a stay at a regular resort in the same location.

Also, be sure everything the salesman promises is written into the contract. Ask about a "cooling-off" period during which you can reconsider your decision. Before you sign anything take time — be wary of pressure tactics that insist you will miss out if you don't sign up "today". Review all documents. If you are not sure what it all means, ask a lawyer familiar with timeshare contracts to look it over for you.

If you want to learn more, the center offers its Ten Timeshare Tips factsheet for 50 cents. You can obtain a copy by writing to Consumer Information Center, Dept. 406L, Pueblo, Colorado 81009.

Inside Dope Epidemic

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Public television documentaries have been doing a good job of drawing attention to drug abuse and the growing use of "recreational" narcotics.

So how come we never see a teevee special exploring the ever-widening circulation of inside dope?

The rising clamor for quick inside dope fixes was brought home to me the other day by the mailman, who delivered an advertising brochure announcing the impending publication of a newsletter digest.

Yes, fellow financiers, we not longer have to subscribe to more than 200 individual newsletters to keep abreast of the latest economic and investment developments.

The editors of the digest will read them all for us and summarize the high points.

It used to be said that two or more Americans couldn't get together without forming some sort of national association to lobby for some sort of special interest legislation.

Nowadays, it seems, two or more strangers meeting on the street, or in a bar, or wherever, are more likely to start a newsletter.

The proliferation of this form of communication is one of the true phenomena of our times.

There is hardly any topic worth mentioning that hasn't attracted one or more newsletters. But the one commodity they have in common is inside dope.

It being fairly easy to get hooked on esoterica, once information users become inside dope addicts, they are easy marks for peddlers and pushers.

Although industry spokesmen may try to soft-pedal this, the fact is that newsletters thrive on crises. Once the energy crisis, for example, had reared its ugly head, dozens of newsletters specializing in synthetic fuels, oil and gas and related topics began springing to life.

If anyone ever figures out a way to derive energy from newsletters, that crisis will pretty much be solved.

The greatest promise, however, appears to lie in the digest field. Other newsletters, who can recognize a good thing when they see it, are certain to follow the lead of the economic newsletter digester, if they haven't already. Soon we will have newsletters digesting other newsletters devoted to health, housing, communications, agriculture and myriad other topics.

That will set the stage for what may be the ultimate in newsletter brevity — a digest of the digests.

Minority Program Flop, Auditors Say

WASHINGTON — A Commerce Department program intended to help minority inventors develop and market their products has been a dismal failure. An unreleased draft report by the department's inspector general and other agency documents lay much of the blame on mismanagement in Washington.

Lackadaisical supervision from headquarters is best illustrated by what federal investigators say happened at the now-defunct Northwest Technology Center in Seattle, Wash. The center "achieved little success in assisting minority firms in the commercialization of high-technology products," the investigators wrote.

What's more, the government is still trying to collect $159,000 the auditors say was misspent by the center's director, Clarence W. "Bo" Hunter. His extravagant two-year reign, which ended when the funds ran out in April 1982, was detailed in agency documents obtained by my reporters Tony Capaccio and Laurie Siegel.

Through his attorney, Hunter said he had made a full response to the IG audit and complained that "in some aspects the draft (report) is just plain inaccurate."

The IG determined that Hunter's center falsely claimed to have commercialized at least three products, including something called a "Fill Up Housing System."

Eyes Early Clue To AIDS

By Sharon Rutenberg
UPI Science Writer

CHICAGO (UPI) — Doctors may be able to detect the mysterious disease AIDS early by monitoring eye changes in high-risk patients, a researcher at the National Eye Institute says.

Dr. Alan G. Palestine, senior staff fellow at the Bethesda, Md., institute, and colleagues studied 36 patients with Acquired Immune Deficiency Syndrome, an incurable condition which breaks down victims' immune system and leaves them open to deadly infections.

The researchers found four conditions could be present in the victims' eyes, most commonly retinal cotton wool spots and cytomegalovirus retinitis.

Cotton wool spots are tiny, fluffy spots on the retina and usually only show up in people with diabetes and high blood pressure, Palestine said. They do not affect vision.

Cytomegalovirus retinitis is a virus condition involving the retina which may lead to loss of sight.

Another was Kaposi's sarcoma of the eyelid and conjunctiva, the linings of the eyelid and tissue coating the front of the eyeball. In this form, Kaposi's sarcoma, a rare cancer common in AIDS victims, can interfere with lid functioning.

The fourth eye condition the researchers found was cranial nerve palsies, or paralysis, which can cause double vision, Palestine said.

"AIDS should be suspected in patients with these symptoms" if the patients are in high-risk groups, he said.

Those at high risk of contracting AIDS are homosexual men, intravenous drug users and hemophiliacs.

Palestine said the study's findings also may help doctors assess how well potential treatments for AIDS work. Cytomegalovirus retinitis may be particularly useful because it progresses steadily, whereas other infections come and go.

"By monitoring eye lesions, we can assess the potential effect of therapy on AIDS," he said. "In any disease, the more parameters you have to follow, the more you may be able to evaluate the treatment."

Palestine cautioned the eye conditions can be found in other diseases and are not unique to AIDS.

But the ophthalmologist's role is important because when he notices the conditions in a patient, he should "suspect AIDS is another possibility as an explanation for those findings," Palestine said.

AIDS is believed to be triggered by an unknown infectious agent, possibly a virus spread by sexual contact and blood or blood products.

Victims develop at least one life-threatening infection.

The national Centers for Disease Control had recorded 2,513 cases of AIDS as of Oct. 17. Of those, 1,048 had died, a fatality rate of 41 percent.

WILLIAM RUSHER

Jesse Jackson's Advisor

NEW YORK (NEA) — Jesse Jackson's declaration of his candidacy for the Democratic presidential nomination makes it necessary for Americans to consider afresh a curious episode in the career of the late Martin Luther King Jr., and the links of both men to a man named Hunter ("Jack") O'Dell, who should be better known to the American people.

The story begins in 1956, when the Senate Internal Security Subcommittee (of which I was then associate counsel) issued a subpoena for O'Dell, whom it suspected of being a district organizer for the Communist Party in New Orleans. O'Dell got wind that the feds were looking for him and skipped town; but when the U.S. Marshals inspected his rented room they found a highly suggestive cache of documents, including: two fake Social Security cards in names O'Dell was using as aliases; 375 copies of an issue of the official communist newspaper, The Worker; a directive from the National Organization Commission of the Communist Party, addressed, "To all districts"; a memorandum proposing communist penetration of the churches, the NAACP and the Democratic Party; and a vast array of communist literature from nearly a dozen countries.

O'Dell subsequently appeared before the subcommittee in Washington, took the Fifth Amendment on these documents and all related subjects, and dropped out of sight. By 1962, however, he was, believe it or not, serving as Southeastern director of Martin Luther King Jr.'s Southern Christian Leadership Conference.

It was the St. Louis Globe-Democrat that discovered and published, late in 1962, the astonishing background of Dr. King's Southeastern director.

O'Dell has known Jesse Jackson at least since their days in the SCLC in the early 1960s, and at some point in the mid-1970s Jackson incredibly named him to serve as director of the International Department of Operation PUSH ("People United to Save Humanity"). Jackson's black self-help group. In that capacity, O'Dell regularly accompanied Jackson and Jackson's wife on trips abroad, becoming known as a staunch friend of the Arabs and especially of the PLO.

That is the astounding 27-year record of a chief foreign policy adviser to the latest entrant in the Democratic presidential sweepstakes. The media obligingly buried O'Dell's connection with Martin Luther King Jr. Will they be as cooperative in the case of Jesse Jackson?

on the record indelibly. He used to be editorial page editor of a Virginia newspaper.

"Compulsory busing is madness," he wrote in an editorial in 1981. "Compulsory busing between city and suburb is madness compounded." In another editorial he supported capital punishment because "I just don't trust parole agencies."

Wilkinson served for a year as deputy assistant attorney general for civil rights. A former Justice Department lawyer, Tim Cooke, said Wilkinson pursued the Reagan administration's "raid on civil rights" with enthusiasm.

Wilkinson is only 38, which means he could remain on the bench for 30 or 40 years if he is nominated and confirmed.

GUYANA ON THE SPOT: Guyana's leftist prime minister, Linden Forbes Burnham, is feeling the heat of recent developments in the eastern Caribbean region. Grenada's Marxist regime is gone, and neighboring Suriname's socialist dictator has cooled his ardent courtship of Cuba, leaving Burnham a bit lonely and threatened.

Two other prime ministers, John M.G. Adams of Barbados and Edward Seaga of Jamaica, have accused Burnham of leaking the U.S. invasion plans to Grenada's communist rulers. They may soon try to kick Guyana out of the regional common market council, CARICOM. This would be disastrous for Guyana, whose economy is already in a mess.

The investigators noted that $51,572 was paid to the center's employees for one particular grant, but that the time and attendance records needed to document and justify the payments "appear to have been created in response to ... our own inquiries regarding such documents." A memo explains that all "were prepared in identical ink and handwriting for the entire grant period."

Footnote: Last June, Margaret Matta, one of the headquarter's officials who had jurisdiction over the Seattle center, recommended that the department pay $42,176 in costs the auditors had questioned. But two months ago, another branch of the Commerce Department conducted an in-depth review and found "no justification to allow the reinstatement of the questioned costs." Matta has refused to comment.

BLUNDER OF THE WEEK: President Reagan has invited the wrath of the National Women's Political Caucus with his latest favorite for a federal appeals court judgeship: J. Harvie Wilkinson III. That would make 22 men and no women Reagan has appointed to the appeals bench. The women's caucus plans to protest if Wilkinson is actually nominated; it has identified four qualified women candidates for the Fourth Circuit appeals court.

Wilkinson is a pillar of the white, conservative Virginia establishment. Unlike most judicial candidates, his opinions on matters of public policy are Sanford 850, an under eight division II team, ended the season with a 2-1 loss. Jonathan Duryea scored the lone goal for Sanford which ended the season with a 1-8 record.

Dickerson's 146-Yard Mission Rips Atlanta

ATLANTA (UPI) — Eric Dickerson was a man on a mission.

Turning in his poorest performance while playing against Atlanta last month, the Los Angeles rookie running back set two single-season team records Monday night in leading the Rams to a 36-13 victory over the Falcons and back into a tie with San Francisco for the NFC West lead.

Dickerson, the NFL rushing and scoring leader with 1,369 yards and 19 touchdowns with five games yet to go in his first year as a pro, picked up 146 yards on 21 carries and scored two touchdowns despite sitting out the entire fourth quarter in the one-sided contest.

The second player selected in last spring's NFL college draft after a record-setting career at Southern Methodist, Dickerson had only 64 yards in 29 carries in the Rams come-from-behind win over the Falcons a month ago, although he also had two touchdowns then too.

"I was not mentally prepared for that first game and was disappointed in my play," he said. "I started thinking about this game a little then and concentrated hard on it this week."

"I don't like to get shut down by any team and I certainly wasn't going to let it happen again."

"I don't like to think about records, but they're made to be broken," said Dickerson. "I have a long, hard road to go to get better. Because of the sophisticated defenses in this league, you can't stay the same. I realize I'm a rookie and have a lot to learn."

The Rams, who host Washington next Sunday, are now 7-4. The Falcons, who host the co-leading 49ers, are 4-7 — putting them three games off the pace with only five games left to play.

"The chance to get back in the race hung in the balance in this game, but we're obviously not playing well enough to achieve that," said Atlanta coach Dan Henning. "The playoffs are out of the question for us now."

The Rams, with Dickerson's backup Barry Redden rushing for 110 yards, including a 40-yard touchdown jaunt, and Vince Ferragamo passing for 173 yards and two touchdowns, outclassed the Falcons most of the way.

The Falcons scored first, getting a 31-yard Mick Luckhurst field goal with 5:34 left in the first period after being pushed back from a first-and-goal at the Rams' 2. But a 61-yard Ferragamo to Preston Dennard pass and Dickinson's 1-yard plunge at the end of an 80-yard drive had the Rams ahead 14-3 before the second period was five minutes old. The Falcons added another Luckhurst field goal, a 23-yarder, with 2:48 left in the first half, but the Rams had a 7-yard touchdown run by Dickerson, a 9-yard Ferragamo to George Farmer touchdown pass and a 27-yard field goal by Chuck Nelson before the Falcons crossed midfield again.

Atlanta's lone touchdown drive, a 73-yard march featuring two long pass interference calls, came on a 1-yard run by Gerald Riggs, filling in for William Andrews who was injured late in the first half, and Redden offset that with his long touchdown run.

"I was well pleased with our game, offensive and defensively," said Rams coach John Robinson. "Defensively, we controlled the line of scrimmage and made them do some things they didn't want to do. Offensively, Vince played one of his better games. He was in control all the way. Both his play calling and execution were outstanding."

"Atlanta plays good defense, so we threw some new formations at them," said Ferragamo. "That seemed to confuse them and gave us some good results."

"We needed to get a touchdown on the first long drive," said Falcons quarterback Steve Bartkowski who went into the game as the leading passer in the NFC, but completed only 14 of 30 for 137 yards. "We simply didn't execute well enough to finish it off."

"Our position in the standings shouldn't change our priorities for trying to win," said Bartkowski, who failed to throw a touchdown pass for the second week in a row. "I hope we'll use the last five games to come together again as a winning team."

The Rams, on the other hand, talked about beating out the 49ers for the division title.

Broken Ribs Cost Bucs Wilder For The Season

TAMPA (UPI) — Running back James Wilder, who set an NFL record two weeks ago with 42 carries against Pittsburgh and who had rushed for 345 yards in two games, has been lost for the season with rib injuries, Tampa Bay Buccaneers' Coach John McKay said Monday.

Wilder, who missed one game earlier this year with a broken rib, suffered two cracked ribs in Sunday's Cleveland game and because of their location McKay said he would not take a chance on further injury.

"He suffered two cracked ribs above the spleen and kidney area," McKay said. "It would be very hard to protect and it would be senseless to have the young man sustain further injury."

"He will go on injured reserve tomorrow," McKay said.

Wilder will have to remain on injured reserve a minimum of four weeks, which means the 1-10 Bucs would have just one game left.

Wilder had complained he was injured on a "cheap shot" by a Cleveland Browns player but McKay said the game film showed that was not the case.

"It was a clean hit," McKay said. "He (Browns player) hit him in the back where he was bruised, but he was not flat on the ground."

Wilder was virtually the entire Tampa offense over the past several weeks and was described last week by McKay as the Bucs' ultimate weapon. He has 640 yards on 101 carries, 407 yards of that in his last three games, and leads the NFL in pass receiving with 57 catches.

After setting the NFL record for carries, Wilder ran for a club record 210 yards and a club record 75-yard touchdown the following week as the Bucs won their only game 17-12 over Minnesota.

In addition to the loss of Wilder, the Bucs face the possible loss of quarterback Jack Thompson, who suffered an elbow injury against the Browns and standout defensive end Lee Roy Selmon who has both a bruised knee and a groin pull.

The Bucs will be at home Sunday after a three-game road trip, hosting the 4-7 Chicago Bears, who they lost to in Chicago 17-10 in the second game of the year.

If Thompson is unable to play, Jerry Golstyen will return to the starting assignment he had for the first two games of the season.

McKay told reporters he declined to talk to them after the game in Cleveland because he had nothing to say.

"I was just tired of talking to the press," he said. "I didn't have anything to say to the press that would be worth a damn. I was worried about Wilder who was in there spitting up a little blood and I just felt it was senseless for me to go out there and say 'Gentlemen we lost, these are the reasons we lost.'"

"Hell, it was self-evident," he said.

MIAMI (UPI) — Coach Don Shula said Monday game films indicate his Miami Dolphins were robbed of a touchdown in Sunday's 17-6 loss at New England, but he also said the incident shows that television replays may not be the answer.

Rookie receiver Mark Clayton caught a 6-yard pass from Dan Marino and was ruled down inside the 1 yard line. Clayton said he caught the ball in the end zone and was knocked back over the goal line by Patriot cornerback Ronnie Lippett.

Lippett said "the ball was never in." The officials agreed with the former University of Miami cornerback.

Shula, a member of the NFL's rule-making Competition Committee, said Monday that films showed Clayton was over the goal line. But he said it was hard to tell from the video replay shown on NBC-TV because of the camera angle.

"From the camera shot we got it looked like the ball was in the end zone and his feet were in the end zone. Then he got knocked out," Shula said.

But he said, "That's really the James Wilder, Tampa Bay's lone offensive weapon, will be lost for the rest of the season with two broken ribs. Wilder was hurt in the Bucs' loss to Cleveland on Sunday.

problem with using instant replays (to help officials), because camera angles mean so much."

The play came with 5:29 left in the game and a touchdown and extra point would have put Miami within four points at 17-13. Shula wasn't using the play as an excuse, however.

"It was a tough day looking at films," he said Monday. "They dominated pretty much in all areas. Offensively, we couldn't get any continuity. We'd run one play and get stuffed on the next."

Rookie Dan Marino had gone into the game leading all quarterbacks in the complicated NFL rating system, but after completing only 14 of 37 passes for 141 yards, he has dropped to sixth.

"Marino had his worst day by far, percentage-wise," Shula said. "He had some opportunities to bail himself out late in the game, but he didn't take advantage of them."

"Dan put a lot of balls on the money and he had some bad throws," the coach said. "They also made lot of good plays defensively, or we missed them by inches."

The Dolphins are 7-4 and tied for the AFC East with Buffalo, a game ahead of Baltimore and New England. The Dolphins play four of their last five games at home and next is Baltimore Sunday.

Kathleen Selected For Rotary Bowl

Prep Football

Lakeland Kathleen has been invited to play Lyman in the South Seminole Rotary Bowl football game. Rotary spokesman George Grant announced Tuesday. Kathleen coach Gary Spruce accepted and said the contract will be finalized on Thursday.

The Rotary Bowl will be held Saturday, Nov. 26 at 8 p.m. at the Lyman Stadium.

"We picked Lakeland Kathleen because of its good record (6-3)," said Grant. Lake Mary and Melbourne were also in the running for the berth. The Rams have a 5-4 record after beating Seminole Friday. The Rams were probably hurt by the fact that they already played — and lost — to Lyman on Sept. 30. Melbourne is also 6-3, but does not have the football tradition of Lakeland Kathleen.

"I haven't followed Lakeland Kathleen lately," said Lyman Principal Carlton Henley. "But in the past, its always had fine support from its fans."

Spruce confirmed the Lakeland Kathleen following. "Yes, we have pretty good fans," he said. "I don't keep track of the attendance, but I know our gate receipts are pretty good. As long as the principal and the athletic director are happy, I guess we're doing all right."

Kathleen has posted victories over Lake Wales (17-7), Plant City (23-0), Sarasota Riverview (3-0), Lake Gibson (27-12), Auburndale (34-7) and Bartow (12-7). It has lost to Brandon (10-9), Tampa King (21-14) and Winter Haven (6-0). The Red Devils close the season this Friday against arch-rival Lakeland High.

Kathleen usually has a wide-open offense and it likes to throw the ball. Last year, the Red Devils sent their quarterback, Pat Pinner, to the University of Florida and

Rebels Thrash Eustis To Cap Perfect Season; Accept Berth For Kumquat Bowl This Saturday

Pop Warner Football

The All-American Midget Rebels finished the regular season with a 9-0 record by romping to a 42-0 victory over the Eustis Tigers in Pop Warner football action Saturday at Lake Brantley High Stadium in Altamonte Springs. The Midget Rebels also remained unscored upon for the regular season.

The first Rebel touchdown came on a 40-yard pass from quarterback Kelly McKinnon to Jim Frein. Johnny Griffin caught a 26-yard pass to maintain the second drive, which was capped off by a nine-yard bootleg by McKinnon.

The two-platoon system and the hard hitting of the Rebels began to wear the Tigers down in the second half. The third Rebel TD was scored by Todd Fuggi, who also had a good day kicking the ball. A 15-yard, fourth-down reception by Mike Mandeville enabled the Rebels to keep their next drive alive and blocks by David Smith, Wayne Jackson and Greg Markham helped Chad Gropelose burst up the middle for a 15-yard touchdown romp.

Power runners Johnny Griffin and Robb Boss scored fourth quarter touchdowns. The consistent blocking by tackles Jack Campbell and Derek Willfong and guards Emory Prueit and Lance Stewart helped the Rebel halfback-defensive back Vic Riddle to the University of Central Florida.

LAST GAME — The prep football regular season draws to a close this weekend with the Seminole Spruce Creek and Lake Mary-Oviedo games highlighting the schedule.

It will be homecoming for the 3-6 Fighting Seminoles and they will try to avenge last year's homecoming loss against the up-and-done Hawks. Lake Mary will also try to avenge last season's loss to the Lions.

Lake Brantley closes at home against Boone. Lyman hosts DeLand and Lake Howell takes on fifth-ranked Winter Park at Showalter Field.

Seminole coach Jerry Posey announced his weekly awards for the game against Lake Mary Tuesday. The Optimist Club Players of the Week were Fred Brinson (defense) and Keith Brown (offense). Brinson led the Seminoles in tackles while Brown graded out the best of the offensive linemen.

Hatchman offensive award winners were Brown, fullback Daryl Edgemon, guard David Linton and halfback Dexter Jones. Headhunter defensive awards went to Brinson and sophomore defensive end Theron Liggins. Savage specialty team award winners were Vince Williams, Jo-Jo McCloud and Deron Thompson. Thompson returned a kickoff 85 yards for a touchdown.

offense to prevail.

The potent Eustis offense was shutout by an awesome Rebel defense, the Midget Rebels' ninth straight shutout. Steve Ogler recovered two fumbles and Frank Redding led all tacklers with eight solos. The Tigers' passing attack was hampered by the rush of Jeff Froemming, Hugh Graham and Sean Carterline. Scott Siles, Danny Page and Mark Ogler covered the Eustis receivers flawlessly.

The Midget Rebels are slated to go up against the Ocoee Bulldogs in the Mid-Florida Pop Warner Championship game — the Kumquat Bowl — which will be played at Orlando Oak Ridge High this Saturday (Nov. 19) at 6 p.m.

The Rebels will be playing the Maryland State Champions in a bowl game over the Thanksgiving weekend and will most likely go on to play for the State Championship in the Tomoka Bowl in Jacksonville on Dec. 3.

Maryland, Tennessee In Citrus

COLLEGE PARK, Md. (UPI) — Maryland will be invited to play in the Inaugural Citrus Bowl against Tennessee "with no strings attached," a bowl official said Monday.

Sam Hines, a member of the Citrus selection committee said both the Terrapins and Volunteers would be invited even if both lost their season finales.

"There are no strings attached," Hines said, acknowledging the bowl is "rolling dice" hoping Maryland and Tennessee both win Saturday.

The Terps, 7-3, travel to North Carolina State while the Volunteers are 6-3 with games against Kentucky and Vanderbilt still remaining.

"They're the highest rated teams we could realistically expect to come to our bowl," Hines said. "Some took themselves out of consideration because our early date (Dec. 17) conflicts with their exams."

Hines added that while both teams could finish 7-4, "We think both will wind up 8-3 and in the Top 20."

The Citrus Bowl — the renamed Tangerine Bowl — will be televised by the Mizlou TV network before an expected sell-out crowd of more than 50,000.

The Citrus Bowl will pay each team approximately $500,000.

The Hall of Fame is also actively pursuing the Terps, who were bidding for a major bowl before two straight losses.

"We would love to have Maryland," said committee member Elmore Huggins of the Hall of Fame Bowl. "They're right at the top with us."

Terp coach Bobby Ross has reportedly told

College Football

Maryland athletic director Dick Dull that the Citrus Bowl will be his first choice of bowl games — if a choice is available.

Maryland lost to Florida 35-20 in the 1980 Tangerine Bowl.

MEMPHIS, Tenn. (UPI) — The bid is supposed to be sealed tight until Saturday, but it is no secret the Liberty Bowl will ask Notre Dame and Boston College to be participants in the Dec. 29 silver anniversary contest.

The post-season pairing cannot become official until invitations are issued Saturday, but there was no doubt in the mind of Liberty Bowl selection committee chairman Tim Treadwell III who would receive bids.

"We are going to extend the bids at 6 p.m. (EST) to Notre Dame and Boston College simultaneously," Treadwell told the Memphis Quarterback Club Monday. "We have every reason to believe they will accept the bid."

Treadwell said the Liberty Bowl committee spent most of Sunday on the telephone, negotiating until 11 p.m. to put the Fighting Irish-Eagles game together.

"We lost team after team who would not wait for us," Treadwell said. "We gambled so hard. We went to the brink with this thing."

The committee used what Treadwell called a "Mississippi gambler" strategy.

"What did we do? We took what we thought was our opportunity to go for the biggest name in college football," he said.

A.F. "Bud" Dudley, who founded the Liberty Bowl in Philadelphia 25 years ago, was more subdued in his references to the teams, but could not hide his satisfaction at lining up Notre Dame, his alma mater, for the game.

"We are about to start our 25th game," he said. "No one's supposed to mention names or teams until Saturday, but I guess you can conjecture (who they'll be) if they accept."

"I couldn't be happier with any other bowl right now," said Boston College athletic director Tim Flynn.

Eddie White, assistant sports information director at Notre Dame, said the pick was unexpected.

"It was kind of a surprise. It has people talking. It would really be something, two great Catholic schools fighting it out in Memphis," White said.

"The magic of Notre Dame, especially in this area here, is fantastic," said Reid Oslin, sports information director at Boston College.

Notre Dame and Boston College, the only two Catholic schools playing NCAA Division I-A football, have met only once and the Irish won that game in 1975.

Each school will get a $630,000 Liberty Bowl payoff, up from last year's $480,000.

The Fighting Irish record stands at 6-4 this season following a loss to Penn State and they still must tangle this weekend with the feisty Air Force Academy.

It would be the first bowl game for Notre Dame coach Gerry Faust, who took the reins in 1981 after Dan Devine closed out as coach with a 17-10 loss to national champion Georgia in the Sugar Bowl.

Rogers Outduels Cook For Late-Model Win

NEW SMYRNA BEACH — Coming out on top of a race long high-speed duel with former track champion Jack Cook, David Rogers drove the Wayne Densch Budweiser Firebird to victory in the 25-lap late model feature on Saturday night at New Smyrna Speedway.

Finishing third and fourth were newcomers Daniel Keene and Perry Lovelady who are setting up their cars for the Nov. 27th Sixth Annual "Florida Cracker 200" Late Model Championship. Smokey Yuntick Jr. was fifth.

In pre-race warm-ups, previous week's winner Joe Middleton and former Winston Cup regular Billie Harvey tangled and crashed.

Young Mike Goldberg survived a crash-filled thunder car feature to score a well deserved win over Pete Starr, Jerry Fitch, Tommy Patterson and Buddy Teed.

In street stock action, early leader Ronnie Roach was quickly overpowered by Pat Weaver who drove his Ford Torino to victory, besting Ron Dicandido, Randy Smathers, Doug Young and Casey Hawthorne.

Top four-cylinder finishers were Bob Clark, Milo Vidic, Ike Roland, Eddie Tovat and Bob

Mike Fritts and Troy Maloney won the spectator drags. The Great American Sack race, an event in which the driver wears a large shopping bag over his helmet, while the co-pilot gives him directions, went to Joey Warmack.

Stormin' Norman Selvidge won the giant demolition derby.

Reds Casually Inquire About Free-Agent Parker

CINCINNATI (UPI) — The agent for free-agent outfielder Dave Parker is playing down a meeting today between his client and Bob Howsam, president of the Cincinnati Reds.

"It's just a casual meeting," said Tom Reich. "We have had absolutely no substantive discussions at all ... But (Parker and the Reds) certainly has a ring to it."

Parker, a Cincinnati native, and Howsam were scheduled to meet this afternoon.

Parker, 32, opted for free agency after spending his entire playing career with the Pittsburgh Pirates organization. He was the National League's Most Valuable Player in 1978, but his relationship with the Pirates went sour several years ago, as he was hampered by injuries and his productivity slacked off.

Parker played in 144 games last season and hit .279 with 12 homers and 69 RBIs.

Some Reds officials had kind words for Parker on the eve of his get-together with Howsam.

"In tough situations, he was productive against us when I was with Montreal," said new Reds manager Vern Rapp. "He did the job for the Pirates when games were on the line. You have to go on somebody's track record. In 1977 and 1978, I didn't feel that there was another outfielder in the National League of his stature."

Howsam said the meeting shows the Reds are seriously interested in Parker.

"I've only seen him on the field," the Reds president said. "In the late '70s, he was an outstanding ballplayer."

Medich Faces 7 Charges

PITTSBURGH (UPI) — Former Pittsburgh Pirate pitcher George "Doc" Medich was charged with writing seven improper prescriptions for drugs, officials say.

The state attorney general's office said Monday that Medich, 34, a licensed medical doctor, allegedly wrote prescriptions for 121 tablets of the addictive pain killer Percodan.

He also is charged with allegedly writing prescriptions for Flexeril, a muscle relaxant; Indocin, used to fight inflammation and kill pain; and Catapres, used to combat high blood pressure, the office said.

Medich allegedly used the names of non-existent patients on some prescriptions while other prescriptions were made out to real people who never got the drugs, the office said.

He allegedly obtained the drugs himself at a pharmacy in the city's Oakland section, the office said.

Medich declined comment; on the case but his attorney, Lawrence Zurawsky, said "the matter is being resolved."

Medich, an Alliquippa native now residing in Allison Park, currently works in an orthopedic residency program at Children's Hospital in Pittsburgh. He was formerly employed at Allegheny General Hospital.

Nebraska Near Unanimous — Pell Receives Reprimand

College Football

University of Florida.

A statement from the SEC said, "The results of this inquiry shows that Coach Pell did violate Southeastern Conference regulations by publicly criticizing the performance of the officials assigned to the game."

The SEC said it had emphasized to Pell the importance of abiding by league regulations and that he had given assurances that "such an unfortunate situation" would not recur.

"I expected the action to be taken and accepted it," Pell said. "I chose the worst possible method to express my concern and feel badly about it. Voicing these concerns through the media was not a good example for a coach to set."

After the Auburn game, Pell had angrily charged that it was the second time in three years that the Gators had played at Auburn and scored a touchdown only to have the score "stolen" by officials.

He was referring to a play where Florida tailback Neul Anderson ran into the endzone from the Auburn seven only to have officials rule he was stripped of the ball before crossing the goal line.

Auburn recovered the fumble.

Immediately after the controversial turnover, Auburn halfback Bo James ran 80 yards for the Tigers' final touchdown of the day.

Pell had also accused Auburn coaches and players of prejudicing the officials before the game through newspaper quotes, "and there were stacks of them, accusing us of teaching dirty football, and that's a lie."

Pell said he entered the Auburn game thinking the officials were prejudiced.

"It seems like the negative press can influence the officials on borderline calls," Pell said after the game.

MIAMI (UPI) — The expectation that the University of Miami will be invited to take on Nebraska in the 50th annual renewal of the Orange Bowl game is causing what could be the worst ticket crunch ever for the New Year's event.

With the local Miami Hurricanes putting an apparent lock on an Orange Bowl bid to play the Big Eight champions, the ticket demand is fierce.

The box office at the Orange Bowl stadium sold out 6,000 end zone tickets in five hours Sunday, finishing off the local sale. Those tickets had been available since March, but no one knew for sure the Hurricanes would be in the bowl until Saturday night.

The Hurricanes virtually clinched the berth in the golden anniversary Orange Bowl game with a 17-16 victory over Florida State in the final seconds at Tallahassee Saturday night.

NEW YORK (UPI) — Saving its best performance for next-to-last, Nebraska moved to within one vote of being the unanimous choice in the UPI coaches' ratings with one regular season game remaining.

The Cornhuskers received 40 of a possible 41 votes and 614 points in the Tuesday's latest balloting by the UPI Board of Coaches. Texas, the only other unbeaten Division I-A team in the nation, received the other first place vote and 568 points to remain in the second spot. The Longhorns received two first-place votes last week.

Rounding out the top five are No. 3 Auburn (528 points), No. 4 Miami of Florida (469) and No. 5 Illinois (465).

Auburn, 9-1, is coming off a 13-7 decision over previously-unbeaten Georgia to clinch a tie for the Southeastern Conference crown and guarantee a Sugar Bowl bid.

Nebraska, 11-0, rolled over Kansas 67-13 behind I-back Mike Rozier's 285-yard, four-touchdown performance to clinch a tie for the Big Eight title and a guaranteed Orange Bowl trip.

After what Nebraska coach Tom Osborne called his team's best game of the season, the Cornhuskers get a week off before their Nov. 26 showdown with Oklahoma.

Nebraska will meet Miami, 10-1, on Jan. 2, thanks to a 17-14 Hurricanes season-ending victory over Florida State. It was Miami's 10th straight win, giving the Hurricanes the nation's second-longest winning streak — behind Nebraska's 21-game streak.

Texas improved to 9-0 with a 20-14 win over Texas Christian Saturday and Illinois rolled past Indiana 41-29. The win clinched a tie for the Big Ten title and Rose Bowl bid for the Illini, 9-1, and moved them up one spot in the rankings.

Completing the Top 20 were No. 6 Southern Methodist (8-1), No. 7 Georgia (8-1-1), No. 8 Michigan (8-2), No. 9 Brigham Young (9-1), No. 10 Ohio State (8-2), No. 11 Iowa (8-2), No. 12 Florida (7-2-1), No. 13 Pittsburgh (8-2), No. 14 Washington (8-2), No. 15 West Virginia (8-2), No. 16 Alabama (7-2), No. 17 Missouri (7-3), No. 18 Baylor (7-2-1), No. 19 Boston College (7-2) and No. 20 Oklahoma (7-3).

BIRMINGHAM, Ala. (UPI) — Florida coach Charley Pell says he expected the slap on the wrist the Southeastern Conference gave him for accusing officials of cheating the Gators out of a victory in their Oct. 29 game at Auburn.

Florida lost the game 28-21 and afterwards Pell told reporters the SEC game officials had been inconsistent. He said, "Inconsistency is sorry officiating."

SEC spokesmen said the reprimand was issued Monday upon the completion of an official inquiry into Pell's comments by the league office and the

Forget About Home Computers, Inventor Warns

By Mark Ridolfi

AMES, Iowa (UPI) — John Vincent Atanasoff, 80, the father of the modern digital computer, says of the home computer boom, "Forget it."

Atanasoff has nothing against contemporary computer corporations that base their designs on his pioneering technology. And he cannot say enough about the boost computers have given business and academics.

But for now, he said, personal computers in the home satisfy computer-makers' marketing needs more than the buyer's demands.

"I probably should be careful what I say," said the former physics researcher who invented the first computer in 1939 in order to answer his own physics questions. "But moving computers into society should be done carefully."

"We're a crazy bunch of people. Most of us should just forget it."

He said home computers do not yet have enough practical applications to make them worthwhile for the average person.

However, he confided that he owns a home word-processing computer, on which he is writing a 160-page article recounting his discovery.

Atanasoff is the man who coined such contemporary computer terms as "digital," "memory" and "analog."

Atanasoff received a hero's welcome recently when he returned to Iowa State University to commemorate the 10th anniversary of a court decision that officially recognized him as the father of the digital computer.

"I haven't gotten credit for it in the past but that is changing," he said. "Everyone who is important in the field already knows my name."

It was a day loaded with press conferences, lectures, and a breakfast with a dozen ISU computer students well aware of the name Atanasoff, but a bit hazy on the details that led to his discovery.

"I don't know if they should spend much time looking back at what I did," Atanasoff said. "Science is a forward-looking endeavor."

"I reached a stumbling block and I had to get away," Atanasoff recalled. "So I drove hard as hell until I got to the Mississippi River."

Just across the Illinois border, he stopped in a Rock Island "honky tonk" as he called it, where he outlined the four principles still used in computers today.

One of those principles was using electricity, not mechanical means, to carry messages throughout the first computer. Another was using a mathematical system that is still used today.

But Atanasoff said he never visualized where that 1939 insight would lead.

Atanasoff never received any financial benefit from his invention and only now is getting academic acclaim.

Two Pennsylvania researchers held the patent on computer technology being used in the industry. But in a legal battle between computer giants Sperry Rand and Honeywell 10 years ago, Honeywell presented arguments that Atanasoff was the originator of the first computer.

The legal conflict was nearly as exciting and more time consuming than the original discovery of the computer, said Atanasoff with a smile.

"It's unfortunate that it had to come to this," he said. "But now that the computer is established, it will grow two times, no four times, in its importance."

Until preliminary investigations for the lawsuit, Atanasoff wasn't even aware the computers of today were so strongly based on his ideas.

"I had been told there was a whole new way of computing," he said. "But after I looked into it, I saw it used the same principles I discovered."

At age 80, Atanasoff has not slowed down. After a successful career in teaching and consulting, he is in the midst of a purely academic venture — redesigning an English alphabet for both writing and computing that does away with redundant letter combinations.

"There are so many ways of making the same sound and it just confuses students and makes the English language the most difficult of all," he said.

"I'm not sure what will come of our attempts, but I know who will get credit for it."

Coax Back Workaholic, Says Expert

By Bob Keim
 United Press International

Getting a workaholic to realize there is life outside of the office may be difficult, but researchers say it's possible with a little planning. And the results could make life at home better for everyone.

A workaholic can have a so-called normal or happy home life, says Penn State University Assistant Prof. Ann Crouter.

"What it requires is that the family and workaholic both compromise," she said in an interview.

"What is often a good idea is that the family set aside certain times during the week when they will do things as a family."

The family must stress the importance of the agreed-upon time.

"The only way it will work is if the person knows they will be disappointing people if they don't conform."

Ms. Crouter said a workaholic is "someone who puts in an inordinate amount of time and energy at work at the expense of other aspects of their life."

Most are driven by a desire to succeed, but some fear they will lose their jobs if they do not work long hours, she said.

"You can't really expect a workaholic to change completely, so you should keep your expectations reasonable."

Other methods designed to reduce the time a workaholic spends on the job include moving farther away from the office.

Ms. Crouter said this method is effective in keeping people from just "running over to the office" but it isn't successful with people who bring work home.

Another good strategy is taking weekends and vacations with the family to a place where the workaholic can escape the telephone, she said.

Some research suggests, "Men who have concentrated solely on their work in the early parts of their career reach a point in mid-life where they regret doing this," Ms. Crouter said. "Some people do recognize the cost of this pattern."

She advises families of workaholics. "Try to accommodate it (work), but don't let it define your life. Make reasonable demands and be consistent."

"It's possible for anybody at any age to change."

Answer to Previous Puzzle

Preventive Plan to Avoid Heart Attack

DEAR DR. LAMB — I have read the symptoms of having a heart attack, but never anything about how to tell when you are having a heart problem that may be leading to an attack. Heart attacks practically gallop in my family. My father and all three of his brothers have died of heart trouble. When death came they just slumped over.

I could go on as the history includes many others — but you get the picture. Any time I get a pain anymore I get nervous and have decided the best thing to do is get some information and quit fretting.

DEAR READER — You have put your finger on the basic reason why it is important to have a preventive program for heart attacks. The first symptom may be a person's last: dropping dead. It is a little late to begin a treatment program when that occurs.

DEAR READER — It is a big enough problem that I receive a number of letters about it. I would suggest you see a neurologist as your next move. A number of neurological disorders can cause excess saliva. So can some digestive disorders, including an excess of stomach acid. If the neurologist cannot find the basis of the disorder, your physician might wish to try you on an anticholinergic, such as Pro-Banthine. It helps to diminish stomach acid production and at the same time helps to dry the mouth. It is worth considering.

Send your questions to Dr. Lamb, P.O. Box 1551, Radio City Station, New York, N.Y. 10019.

HOROSCOPE

What The Day Will Bring...

YOUR BIRTHDAY NOVEMBER 16, 1983 There are strong possibilities that you can increase your earnings this coming year through unique or conventional ventures. Be inventive and resourceful in tapping new sources.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) Material gains are likely today, but they may not come through channels you expect. Don't block any openings which could fatten your wallet. Order now: The New Matchmaker wheel and booklet, which reveals romantic compatibilities for all signs, tells how to get along with others, finds rising signs, hidden qualities, plus more. Send $2 to Astro-Graph, Box 489, Radio City Station, N.Y. 10019. Mail an additional $1 and your zodiac sign for your Scorpio Astro-Graph predictions for the year ahead.

AGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) Keep on good terms with business contacts you've met recently. If one of these acquaintances likes you, he'll use his influence on your behalf.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) In competitive commercial encounters today conduct yourself so that your behavior sets you apart from competitors, to give you the edge.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) Be a good listener today, even when conversing with dull individuals. Helpful information could come from an undramatic source.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) Lady Luck is in your corner today where your material needs are concerned. However, you must move swiftly. She is exceedingly impatient.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) Business situations conducted along unconventional lines could prove profitable for you today! traditional methods might fizzle.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) Partnership arrangements look promising today, provided neither party tries to outshine the other. See yourselves as equals.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) You'll be successful today if you don't try to imitate another's style in career matters. Express your originality and creativity.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) Do not prejudice social obligations today. You could be pleasantly surprised when all turn to be more fun than you anticipated.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) Events could take a fortunate turn today when something that you thought would cost you money may instead produce a tidy profit.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) Persons you encounter today will reflect your behavior toward them. Be sure to say "please" and "thank you" if you want good results.

WIN AT BRIDGE

Bridge hand table with North, West, East, South cards and vulnerable/dealer info.

By Oswald Jacoby and James Jacoby South looked over dummy and made the fatuous remark. "We didn't bid nearly enough." Then he took dummy's ace of hearts, led a trump to his ace, ruffed a heart, a club to his jack, another heart ruff and a club to his ace.

Unfortunately for South, that old devil West ruffed the second club, put his partner in with a diamond, ruffed another club and took his queen of hearts to leave South down one.

"I was on my way toward seven when the hand collapsed. What could I have done?" asked South.

We will give our own answer. (North's was unprintable.) South could have ducked a spade at trick two and guarded against all 4-1 trump and club breaks. Suits break 3-2 only some 68 percent of the time, so that conservative play had considerable merit. In any event, South should have kept his mouth shut at trick one so that he could have kept his foot out of it.

A duplicate player might have tried the line South had adopted. Overtricks mean lots of match points and the safety play of the immediate trump duck would leave him with a bad score, since all declarers would be in game against that same king of hearts lead.
