Federal Grand Jury Indicts Connally

JOHN B. CONNALLY

Nixon May Lose Dem Supporters

WASHINGTON (AP) — Many House Democrats, a group crucial to President Nixon's hopes of avoiding impeachment, appear prepared to follow their three Judiciary Committee colleagues into the impeachment camp.

Interviews with a dozen Southern Democrats, representing a cross-section of the 74 from the 11 states of the Old Confederacy, and estimates of experienced House headcounters indicate Nixon may hold barely half of them.

With most of the 174 Northern and Western Democrats expected to vote for impeachment, that means the President would have to hold almost all of the 187 House Republicans, a difficult task after six of 17 Republicans on the Judiciary panel voted for impeachment.

Thus, the decline in the President's southern flank is a major factor in the growing belief of House leaders that Nixon will be impeached.

Even among the more conservative, older Southern Democrats, solid backers of Nixon on most legislative matters, there has been a perceptible decline in the President's support.

Few, even likely Nixon backers, are willing to say for sure they will oppose the impeachment move.

"I don't want to vote for impeachment," said Rep. Joe D. Waggoner, D-La., one of the acknowledged leaders of the conservative Southerners. But he declined to say how he would vote and noted, "I have made no irrevocable statement."

WASHINGTON (AP) — Former Treasury Secretary John B. Connally was indicted today by a federal grand jury on charges of bribery, perjury and obstructing justice.

The indictment said Connally accepted $10,000 in cash from a milk fund official, Jake Jacobsen, in exchange for recommending that federal milk price supports be increased.

Jacobsen, an official of Associated Milk Producers Inc., also was indicted on a charge of giving an illegal payment to a public official.

In all, the grand jury cited Connally, a Texas Democrat turned Republican, on five alleged violations of federal law.

The maximum possible penalties for the five counts total 16 years in jail and fines of $30,000 for Connally.

The indictment charged that between May 14 and Sept. 24, 1971, Jacobsen gave Connally the $10,000 in exchange for Connally's recommendation to the secretary of agriculture that the milk price supports go up.

Second Article Approval Seen

WASHINGTON (AP) — A second impeachment article accusing President Nixon of violating the Constitution and his oath of office was drafted today by a bipartisan group which seemed certain to obtain its approval in the House Judiciary Committee.

The panel recommended Saturday to the House of Representatives that Nixon be impeached for the Watergate cover-up.

Debate on the second proposed article was delayed somewhat as drafting continued. Committee leaders were expected to press for a final vote by evening.

The re-drafted second article was to be presented to the committee by Rep. William L. Hungate, D-Mo. It included five itemized charges and a conclusion that:

"In all of this Richard M. Nixon has acted in a manner contrary to his trust as President and subvertive of constitutional government to the great prejudice of the cause of law and justice and to the manifest injury of the people of the United States."

The five charges were that Nixon:

- Acted personally and through subordinates to get confidential income tax information from the Internal Revenue Service.
- Missed the FBI and Secret Service by directing or authorizing them to wiretap for purposes unrelated to national security.
- Established the so-called Plumbers unit "financed in part with money derived from

Marlene's Goal: Fewer Unwanted Pets In County

MARLENE WHARRAN

Marlene Wharran, a young Longwood housewife, is a natural for Pet Concern Inc., of Central Florida.

She can't resist pets. There's Laddie, the collie, King the half-Shepherd, half-Spitzi, Friend and the stray mongrel abandoned in the neighborhood. And Satin, a strong black Labrador who she took on Monday. Except for a minor personality conflict between King and Satin, everyone seems to get along fine.

Pet Concern Inc., in which Marlene is an officer, can't resist pets. Feeling this way, they want to make countians more conscious of the fact that pets of the opposite gender can't resist each other.

They want to reduce the number of unwanted puppies and kittens—thousands each year—born into the area. Most of the unwanted pets are destroyed by the animal control pound. But many die slow, agonizing deaths due to starvation and neglect.

Pet Concern Inc., gives financial support to pet owners who want to have their pets spayed or neutered, but cannot afford the cost. The amount of Pet Concern's support depends on the individual needs of each pet owner.

Since its inception two years ago, the organization has been responsible for desking an average of 25 animals a month. With more money, they say, they could do more.

Presently, their only funds are derived from occasional Flea Markets, members dues, and sponsors' contributions. Members may pay from $2 to $15 in dues, and sponsors, anywhere from $25 to $100. So far, only one group, the Orlando Navy Wives, has contributed at all.

Marlene Wharran first recognized the extent of unwanted pet problem in her area after several radio stations ran a public service ad for Pet Concern. Various pet owners called with surplus kittens—121 in all. Almost all were taken to the Orlando Humane society for destruction. The Seminole county has no facilities for holding or destroying cats.

"We're not against breeding of ADA registered animals," Marlene says, "but we are against having your pet run wild during the time it's in heat twice a year."

Marlene said that Pet Concern is currently handling one case of cruelty where a female dog was permitted to mate indiscriminately for the last five years. "She's had 10 litters of mongrel pups, all of them unwanted. And it's practically destroyed the dog. The best thing we can hope for is to have the animal put to sleep."

Pet Concern is still a small organization, with barely 10 regular members in Seminole county. Most of the members are women of all ages including teachers, housewives, and a businesswoman or two.

Their biggest procedural move so far is breaking away from the parent organization in Orange County in order to meet the particular needs of Seminole countians.

Wheat Deal Characterized As A $300 Million Error

WASHINGTON (AP) — Senate investigators have characterized the massive 1972 wheat sale to the Soviet Union as a $300 million error in judgment by top officials of the Agriculture Department.

Six Republicans joined all of the committee's Democrats in voting to recommend impeachment. All those opposed were Republicans.

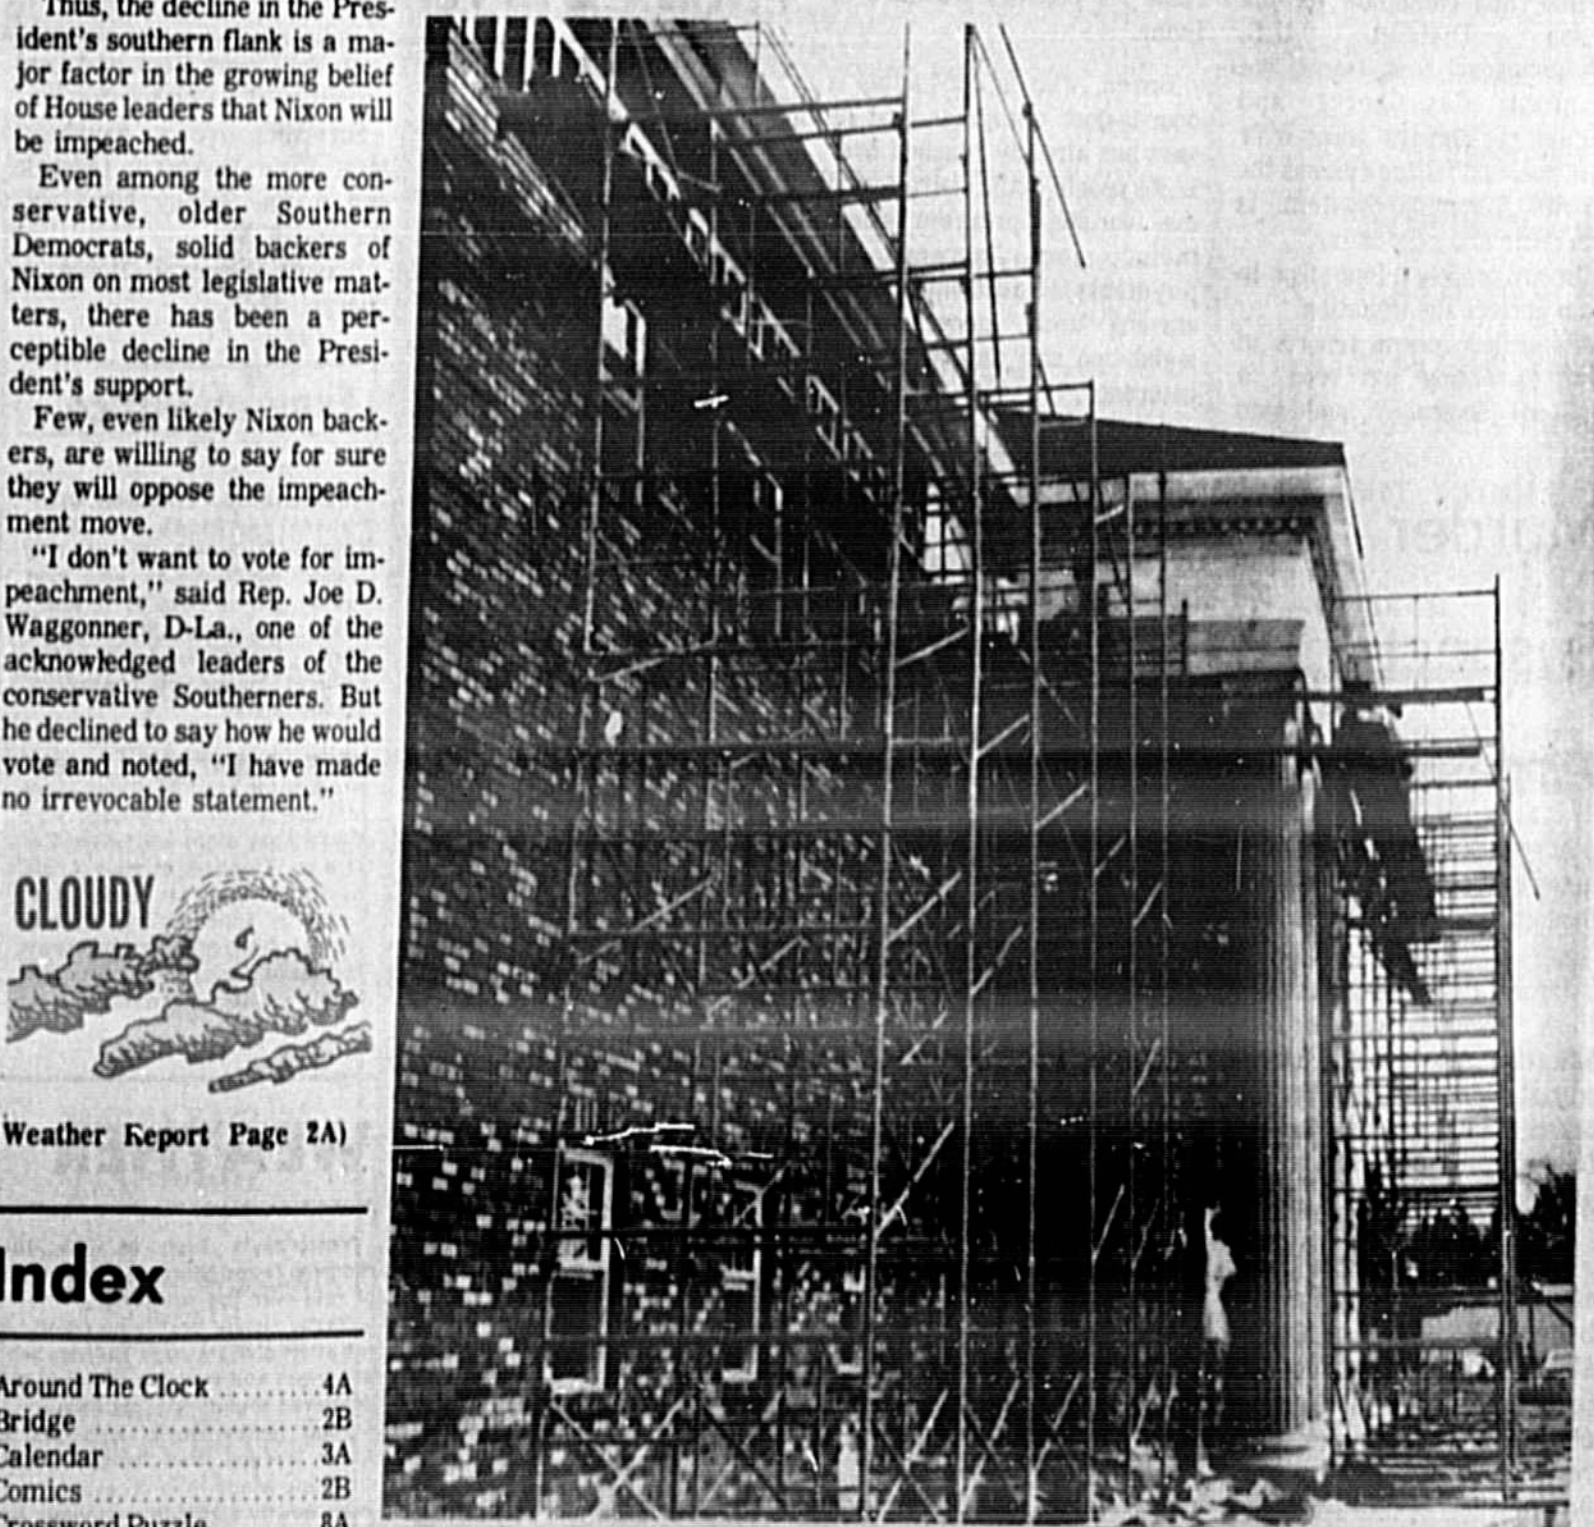

Those who returned to home districts said they found response from constituents favorable.

"There is overwhelming support in my district for impeachment," said Rep. Charles B. Rangel, D-N.Y. Rangel, who kicked off his re-election campaign in Harlem Sunday night, said his mail was running 25 to 1 for removal of Nixon from office.

Rep. Elizabeth Holtzman, D-N.Y., said she expects her Brooklyn constituents to support her in the difficult decision.

The Maine Sunday Telegram said Cohen's Washington office had received 397 communications from Maine in the 48 hours after the committee opened public discussion on articles of impeachment on Wednesday. The paper said 281 of the communications favored impeachment.

Rep. Joseph J. Maraziti, R-N.J., on the other hand, said he surveyed about 300 persons attending an Elks club in Clifton, N.J., on Sunday and "at $8 per cent were in support of my vote." Maraziti voted against impeachment.

UNITED STATE BANK BUILDING NEARS COMPLETION

"Early September" is the projected completion date for the United State Bank's new building on 47-82 in Sanford, according to vice president Wayne E. Albert. The second level, lacking air conditioning or carpeting will be used for bank storage and for a community room, Albert said. When that level is completed, the bank will consider renting to outside interests.

Voters To Decide Lake Mary's Fate

The day of reckoning arrives in Lake Mary Tuesday when the city's 834 registered voters decide if they want to remain a city — or turn back its charter to the state.

The vote to dis-incorporate — the first such election in Florida in 10 years — is being led by the husband of the mayor, George Hess, while the Chamber of Commerce heads up those forces who favor remaining a city.

The city, only 11 months old, is divided over such issues as multi-family zoning, the high cost of running a city and the general "unresponsiveness" of councilmen.

Basically the argument seems to revolve around the question of "growth" vs. maintaining the "quiet, rural character" of the community's vote gained national attention when it came to light that Mayor Margie Hess would be out of a job should her husband's effort be successful.

The voting machine will be set up inside the United Presbyterian Church's fellowship hall on West Wilbur Avenue.

DEAR ABBY Many Mothers Hate Children

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: Is it true that some women are just not cut out to be mothers?

Unfortunately, because of inadequate birth control methods, I find myself stuck with two kids. Before I had them, I had a job I really enjoyed, and I was free to come and go as I pleased without being at the mercy of baby-sitters.

My husband and I are drifting apart. He still has all the freedom he wants, but I can't go with him. A lot of resentment has been building up inside of me these past four years. Sometimes I actually hate my children, but I still resent my children. I'm not writing for advice because nobody can help me. It's just something I'll have to live with. After all, it's not their fault that they were born. It's mine.

If there were a book entitled "How to Learn to Love Unwanted Children" I would be just what I need.

NAMELESS IN GA. DEAR NAMELESS: You are not alone, but most mothers who share your feelings would not admit (even to themselves) that they feel that way. It would make them feel too guilty.

Your letter makes an excellent case for birth control. Every child deserves to be a wanted child. You can't possibly feel this way without communicating your resentment to your children. (You may not abuse them physically, but you are depriving them — emotionally.)

To quote the late Lord Brain: "When, wherever you live in the world, you can have children only when you wish, that will be a revolution with more far-reaching effects on the pattern of human culture than the discovery of atomic energy."

DEAR ABBY: Our daughter was recently married at a lovely church wedding. It was her first marriage, but Billy had been married briefly before. (The marriage was annulled.)

The bride and groom received a beautiful sterling silver tray from Billy's aunt and uncle. The following card was enclosed. "This tray is not monogrammed, but if you are married a year from now, and you take it to Hudson's jewelry store, they will monogram it for you free of charge. Love, Aunt Peggy and Uncle Clifford." Well, Abby, what do you make of that?

DEAR INDIG: It's a pretty good bet that Aunt Peggy and Uncle Clifford sent Billy a wedding gift for his first time around, and because it was monogrammed, it was memorable. And they wanted to make sure history didn't repeat itself. (It's practical, but poor taste.)

PROBLEMS? You'll feel better if you get it off your chest. For a personal reply, write to ABBY, Box No. 6750, L.A., Calif. 90068. Enclose stamped, self-addressed envelope, please.

For Abby's booklet, "How to Have a Lovely Wedding," send $1 to Abigail Van Buren, 122 Lasky Dr., Beverly Hills, Cal. 90212.

Montgomery Ward ribbon cutting will include donation to Seminole United Fund.

Ward Opens In Altamonte

A ribbon cutting of 500 one-dollar bills to be donated to the Seminole United Fund will mark the July 31 opening of the 165,000 square-foot Montgomery Ward's department store at the Interstate Mall in Altamonte Springs.

The store, "one of the largest stores of its type in the area," will open to credit customers Saturday morning, according to General Manager Robert M. Lewis.

An 18-day auto service center opened in early July, he said, manned by 25 servicemen. Lewis said the center should prove to be "one of the most popular departments."

Taking part in the ribbon cutting ceremonies will be Altamonte Springs Mayor Norman Floyd, Chamber of Commerce President J. C. Horner and Ward's President Sidney A. McKnight, along with other store officials.

More than 300 employees will man the varied departments at the new store from 10 a.m. to 9 p.m. Monday through Saturday and 12:30 to 5:30 p.m. Sundays.

Twenty-six other stores in the 229,755 square foot mall including A&P, American Multi-Cinema, Superx drug stores, Pan Americans Bank, restaurants and retail stores will have a grand opening Sept. 1.

SHS would administer the program — separately from the local 480 low-rent housing units — and provide credit counseling for prospective home buyers.

Wilson has said if the $246,000 in state and federal funding sought for the program could not be obtained it could still be started with $30,000 in local funds "for a revolving fund for acquisition and rehabilitation" plus salaries for administrative, personnel and legal and architectural consultants.

The program would buy standard houses that can be brought to 1974 standards, renovate them and train local workers in the process and then sell the units to qualified low-income families with mortgages obtained locally.

"Hopefully a property could be purchased, rehabilitated and ready for sale in six to eight weeks once the program is established," Wilson said.

Twenty per cent would be added to purchase and renovation costs to cover overhead of the continuing program.

DR. L. E. LAMB Can Aneurysm Be Predicted?

DEAR DR. LAMB — My husband was a comparatively healthy man for 50 years, considered to be a slight hypochondriac because of his many miscellaneous complaints. He complained of headaches and eye pains for years. And, he had miscellaneous little skin problems over the years.

At age 51, in a three-month span, he suffered an attack of acute diverticulitis, a severe generalized eczema, and nine days after drainage surgery for a second ruptured diverticulitis, he suffered a massive cerebral hemorrhage due to an aneurysm. The doctors claimed each was a separate condition unrelated to the other. It is claimed that cerebral hemorrhage from an aneurysm is an unpredictable and unusual illness. Yet, over the years I have heard about a number of people who have died from this. Is there any way to predict this weakness? What preventive measures can be taken? Can you comment?

DEAR READER — I'm not surprised that you are confused by that array of illnesses. Your doctors have told you the truth. The type of aneurysm that forms in the arteries to the brain, inside the skull, is called a "berry aneurysm" referring to its berry-like shape. The artery wall apparently has a defect in it from birth. In time the area of the artery balloons out into a small, thin-walled berry-like structure.

There is simply no way the doctor can know it is there without injecting dye into the arteries to the brain and taking X-rays to show it. This procedure is not a doctor underdresses lightly. There needs to be some pretty good reason to book your husband for the aneurysm breaks. It is like trying to explain why a weak bridge suddenly collapses on its own one day. A sudden sharp rise in blood pressure, as might occur during violent physical exertion, can cause it. Or, if the person happens to have high blood pressure then the little balloon is more likely to burst. There would not appear to be anything in your husband's other illnesses that would have been a factor in causing the sudden hemorrhage.

Cerebral hemorrhage is not so rare, but hemorrhage from the small berry aneurysm is. Most cerebral hemorrhages occur from arteries diseased with fatty-cholesterol deposits which rupture under the influence of high blood pressure.

One of many things that can cause severe recurring headaches is an expanding berry aneurysm. Depending upon the nature of the headaches, the doctor may decide to study the arteries to the brain. The aneurysm may leak slowly, not causing instant death, and enable the patient to be diagnosed and treated successfully. This is very touch and go, and one never knows if the patient will survive or not. Surgery is often used in these extreme cases if the facilities and the person trained to do such surgery are immediately available. Surgical procedures to deal with hemorrhage in the brain from any cause are serious and difficult. However, I have known of people who have survived such episodes and lived normal full lives for years afterward with no evidence of recurrence or other significant medical problems.

Send your questions to Dr. Lamb, in care of this newspaper, P.O. Box 1551, Radio City Station, New York, N.Y. 10019. For a copy of Dr. Lamb's book on cholesterol, send 50 cents to the same address and request the "Cholesterol" booklet.

Police Still Hunting Missing Mom, Son

MIAMI (AP) — After almost a week, police were still searching today for a 3-year-old boy reported missing with his mother after he was exposed to infectious hepatitis.

The aunt, Cheryl Stickle, said the boy went along with her when she drove his mother, who had become upset after signing divorce papers, to the hospital for treatment.

But instead of being treated, Mrs. Carroll took her son to a restaurant at the hospital emergency room and then disappeared, police said.

The day after Michael and his mother vanished from Jackson Memorial Hospital, an aunt who had been caring for the boy became ill with what has been diagnosed as infectious hepatitis.

Police said they have received about 250 telephoned tips since the search began Wednesday for Patricia Carroll, 30, a recent mental patient, and her son, Michael Carroll, Jr., 3.

Joint Panel To Review Jury Probe Halt Order

TALLAHASSEE, Fla. (AP) — The Joint Legislative Auditing Committee will meet Wednesday to review Florida Chief Justice James Adkins' order halting a grand jury investigation of insurance Commissioner Thomas O'Malley until after the Nov. 5 election.

Committee Chairman George Firestone, D-Miami, said the panel will review the order to determine what authority Adkins used in suspending any investigation of O'Malley or anyone else qualified as a candidate.

The meeting will be in Miami. Deputy Atty. Gen. Baya Harrison said a petition by Gov. Reubin Askew and Atty. Gen. Robert Shevin seeking a review by the full seven-member court of the order would be filed late today.

The investigation of O'Malley grew out of a request by the Auditing Committee for appointment of a special prosecutor and a grand jury probe of former Education Commissioner Floyd Christian. The state grand jury continued a probe into the state government after Christian was indicted.

U.S. Has Flubbed Its Image In Greece

WASHINGTON—We predicted on May 27 that "the military junta now in power in Greece will be toppled before the end of June."

Analysts are still wondering how much power the new civilian government in Greece really has. Some predict that the military will keep a wary eye on events to see that they don't get out of hand.

According to our sources, however, the Karamanlis government won't be hobbled by the military. On the contrary, these sources say that a special court will be convened to try the deposed strongman, Gen. Dimitrios Ioannides, and his band of political primitives.

One of those who will feel the ax, our sources predict, will be the Greek ambassador to Washington, Constantine Panayiotis.

Unfortunately, Kissinger ignored appeals to end U.S. cooperation with the Greek Junta. At least one confidential document predicted months ago that such action would bring down the military dictatorship, with the United States getting the credit.

If NATO would withhold its cooperation, suggested the document, "not only will the alliance gain enormously in prestige, but from that time the days of the dictatorial regime will be numbered."

The McKinsey report, though couched in careful non-language to ensure it won't be blackballed for outspokenness, makes clear that the department needs major reform.

The principal need (s) to improve the way in which the department is managed overall, the report states. The problems extend from Brinegar's office throughout his sprawling, sprawling, bureaucratic empire.

For instance, the department has wasted millions on impractical projects such as a personal kiltzcar transport system in Morgantown, W. Va., an airconditioned passenger train and a superbass that runs on a magnetic rail. But it has failed to provide a proper mix between air, auto, bus and rail service.

The report attributes this failure to lack of "clear-cut rationale" at the top. "There was no sufficiently disciplined process," states the report, "to enable the Office of the Secretary to evaluate the programs and decide on further action."

In its dozens of pages of recommendations, the report lays out a primer for writing memos, coordinating programs, monitoring the activities of the farflung agencies and extricating clear decisions from the present mass of red tape.

Public Office Beats 'Slammer'

Dummies don't become Supreme Court Justices so we'll have to presume that Florida's Chief Justice James Adkins had what he considered good and sufficient reasons for halting the grand jury investigation of Insurance Commissioner Thomas O'Malley.

Still we can't help but wonder if he's forgotten his early days in the legal profession when, we would assume, he came across more than his share of the world's scoundrels.

Perhaps sitting on the high court and dealing only with the technicalities of the law has blurred his memories of those days.

Or, maybe, he just has more faith in human nature than we do.

In any event, should his ruling stand we predict that Floridians are going to see some strange names on the ballot in the future. The Chief Justice declared that his O'Malley ruling would stand as a "general policy" throughout Florida; no grand jury would investigate anyone seeking election until after Nov. 5.

If we interpret that correctly, it means that should Joe Blow, the notorious gangster or, to localize it, a dealer in obscene literature, discover he is to be the subject of a grand jury investigation, or is the subject of a grand jury investigation, he need only file for public office and he's bought himself four months during which some ugly things could happen to people who might be on the jury's list of possible witnesses.

And pity the poor voter. He'll have to wade through a ballot containing more names than the average city's phone book as every two-bit crook, numbers writer, gambler, pimp and prostitute suddenly feels a great need to serve in public office—at least for four months.

Pay Up

Rep. William S. Moorehead, who heads a House subcommittee on foreign operations of the U.S. government, estimates that foreign countries owe a grand total of $60 billion to the United States in loans and unpaid claims.

Those are harsh words, and I have no intention of unsaying any of them. But it is only fair to add that, for any democracy to have a fighting chance, the quality of self-discipline must be displayed, not only by the masses of voters, but by the fortunate denizens of whatever social and economic upper crust the society may have.

Italy affords a spectacular example of the psychological damage that can be wrought by an undisciplined upper class.

South of Rome, the vast majority of Italy's population is a dirt-poor peasantry. In the north there is at least a relative prosperity; but this means simply that the existence of industry has created both a conservative middle class and a large base of proletarianized labor—the latter providing, of course, the great bulk of the membership for Italy's Communist Party, which regularly polls 25 per cent of the vote in national elections.

On top of this social structure there exists a thin layer of very wealthy families and individuals, few of whom have ever done a day's work in their lives. Their money is largely inherited, and they have a positive flair for spending it lavishly and with maximum publicity. This is the crowd that brought into vogue the concept of "la dolce vita"—literally, "the sweet life;" the bikini-clad contessas and their bronzed young escorts, the fast cars, the luxurious yachts, the hints of drugs and orgies, the parties that last till dawn.

It doesn't take much imagination to picture the impact of his well-publicized social stratum on the hard-working peasants and industrial laborers of Italy. The mechanism of envy is an old story, and a totally human one. It is simply beside the point to argue that the collective wealth of these worthless spivs, if confiscated in toto, wouldn't foot Italy's bills for a month.

The real point is that their undisciplined behavior constitutes a running affront to every less fortunate Italian who is trying to live with a little dignity and to participate, with a modicum of self-control, in a rational democratic society.

What makes matters worse is that, in Italy, such pimples on the body politic don't even pay their fair share of the taxes. The Italian tax-collection system is a porous mass of corruption.

Democracy Sweet Life For Chosen

In recent columns I have been critical, and I believe justly so, of the voters in such democracies as Britain and Italy. They have had a lot of fun, since World War II, voting themselves all sorts of "benefits"—e.g., free medical care—without any serious reference to whether their respective national economies could afford these goodies.

I went so far as to say that it seemed to me highly questionable whether, on the showing of Britain and Italy, democracy is in the long run a self-sustainable form of government. For the key is self-discipline, and I saw precious little evidence that voters in democratic societies have the self-discipline to resist the sort of raids on the national treasury that ultimately make a shambles of the economy.

Those are harsh words, and I have no intention of unsaying any of them. But it is only fair to add that, for any democracy to have a fighting chance, the quality of self-discipline must be displayed, not only by the masses of voters, but by the fortunate denizens of whatever social and economic upper crust the society may have.

Economic Predicting Unrealistic

WASHINGTON—(NEA)—Government economists, like mathematicians, use figures. Many employ calculators to perform operations in minutes that once took weeks or months. But there the similarity with science ends.

It is now clear to many top-ranking Washington economists the figures they use aren't relevant to the real world or don't mean what they seem. The data they do have is woefully incomplete and quite frequently altered somewhere along the line.

Worse, much of the economic data considers the U.S. as a unit virtually in isolation from the rest of the world. But with the large-scale growth of multinational corporations and the now-heavy U.S. dependence on foreign markets and foreign raw materials, U.S. data alone, however complete and accurate, is not enough.

But however incomplete or inaccurate U.S. data, the confusion and slipshod condition of most foreign economic statistics staggers the imagination. To build economic predictions on the basis of such is like playing with loaded dice without knowing to what degree the cubes are unbalanced.

Adding to the confusion is the fact that political actions in a dozen countries around the world may have more effect on economic conditions than supply, demand and other conventional factors.

Every day, the stock market columns give detailed and learned explanations on why the market went down or up—after the event. Even the best analysts are usually wrong when they predict what the market will do tomorrow.

This is the state of government economic forecasting and therefore of economic planning. The economists can explain in great detail what happened last year (or last week) in the economy. Their theories are modeled to fit the results.

But there are no accepted economic theories to explain that we are going through today. The chart lines have run off the charts. Each economist is now on his own. He develops his own economic models, based in part on his own experience but heavily larded with his own emotional and philosophic outlook.

FLORIDA IN BRIEF

Murder Suspect Returned

ORLANDO, Fla. (AP)—Cecil Floyd, who reportedly has confessed to six slayings including three in Florida, has waived extradition and is returning to this Central Florida city, police say.

The 35-year-old former Indiana carpenter was taken by car from the Leno, Ark., jail Sunday to face murder charges and a federal kidnap charge. He was expected to arrive here later today.

Authorities said his wife, Lorna, 24, was jailed here Sunday as a material witness in the investigation after she was flown ahead of her husband. Officials said the two were extradited separately for reasons of security.

Both the Floyds have been charged with armed robbery at Leno, but Arkansas officials said they probably won't stand trial there because of the graver charges in Florida.

Deputies at Leno said Floyd confessed to a total of 11 persons, several of them in two weeks of apparently aimless wandering with their children through the South and Midwest. Police say the journey started with the kidnap of a Micanopy, Fla., gasoline station attendant June 30.

"I swear on my dead father's grave I didn't commit no 11 murders," Floyd told the Orlando Sentinel Star in a jail cell interview at Leno.

The newspaper quoted Floyd as saying he confessed to three Orlando slayings: a motel operator last November, a 17-year-old Orlando housewife last February and a student medical technician from Pittsburgh last May.

Shevin Seeks Suit Dismissal

TALLAHASSEE, Fla. (AP)—Atty. Gen. Robert Shevin today asked federal court to dismiss a suit brought by political gadfly Jim Fair seeking to block Shevin's re-election.

Fair contended that Shevin, unopposed for re-election, should not have been allowed to qualify as a candidate because he failed to reduce crime in Florida, as he pledged to do in 1970 or not seek re-election.

A motion filed in U.S. District Court, Shevin said Fair did not have standing to bring the suit and had not exhausted his state court remedies.

In his 1970 campaign, Shevin pledged, "I will provide the leadership to substantially reduce crime or I will resign and not seek re-election."

He said recently he provided the leadership but population growth and other factors prevented a reduction.

8 Die In Weekend Wrecks

Two victims of hit-and-run drivers—a 12-year-old boy and a Mississippi man—were among eight people killed on state highways during the weekend, the Florida Highway Patrol says.

Troopers said the boy, Frederick Curry, was struck by a hit-and-run vehicle Friday as he rode his bicycle in Jacksonville.

The body of another victim of a hit-and-run driver, James C. Travis, 49, of Charleston, Mississippi, was found on a Hollywood street early Saturday, troopers said.

It's Up To Worker To Determine Future

By GEORGE W. CRANE Ph. D., M.D.

CASE B-60: Joel D., aged 18, is confused. "Dr. Crane," he began, "my parents insist that I go on to college."

"But I don't know what I want to choose as a career. 'So why waste my money on courses that just go round in circles and don't help me in later life?'"

"I'm looking for a job that has a future in it and I don't want a future in ANY job right now."

Actually, there is no future in ANY job!

For jobs are just like the stationary rungs on a ladder. They don't go up any place! Nor move up or down!

But an ambitious person can use various jobs as rungs on the ladder to success. Remember, the future always lies in the worker; not in the job!

Record Number Of Women Seek Election

TALLAHASSEE, Fla. (AP)—Voters in the Sept. 10 state primary will see listed on the ballot more women running for more offices than ever before.

ERA (the Equal Rights Amendment), she said. "They just want to prove they can hold public office."

Paula Hawkins is running for the Republican nomination to the U.S. Senate. Two Democrats are seeking election to the U.S. House—Joe Am Sanders of Orlando in the 5th District and Evelyn Tucker of Fort Pierce in the 10th District.

One woman is running for the U.S. Senate, two for Congress, two for Cabinet seats, two for lieutenant governor, three for the state Senate, 34 for the state House and several for Judges.

"People more and more are looking at women running for office not as women but as people," said state Sen. Lori Wilson of Merritt Island, who is collecting signatures to qualify for re-election as an independent.

"There always have been a lot of qualified women," Mrs. Dexter said. "They're just not deciding to run. I know I'm more qualified for the job than any of the men in the race."

Also running for a Cabinet post is Sheila King, a Coral Gables art teacher and political unknown who seeks the Democratic nomination as education commissioner.

Secretary of State Dorothy Gissom, Florida's first woman Cabinet member, said women are just getting more active.

dog freedoms to the five in Amendment I. Most newspaper articles on dogs are about the poor little fellows that bile and some unreasonable crank has them put in the pound.

I am still cleaning up after dogs. Last Sunday I was away and at least three dogs were in my yard. Two weeks ago I forgot to look where I was stepping and spoiled my second best shoes. The odor would not come out, so I had to buy new ones.

There were many other things I could have used the money for but I had to buy shoes.

The man said he lived in an older, frame house—three or four bedrooms as best I can recall. Only their bedroom had a window-type air conditioner in it.

Even so, 15-bucks??? It must be a faulty meter. Unfortunately (or fortunate for him) I can't remember his full name, nor where he resides. Man, that's like money in the bank.

71 Years Can't Slow Bob Hope

By DICK KLEINER, The Herald Services. HOLLYWOOD — (NEA) — At 71 most men are slowing down — or have quit the race entirely. Not Bob Hope.

Bob Hope turned 71 May 29, and, far from thinking about celebrating it easily, he's actually accelerating his career. He's going back to a schedule he abandoned two decades ago.

His home in Toluca Lake, a pleasant Los Angeles suburb, is famous for its unique one-hole golf course. Every day he goes out and plays. His country club, Lakebide, is only a few minutes away. Almost every afternoon, at about 5, he drives over and plays a round.

Madness With A Method

LOS ANGELES (AP) — It takes a second and then a third look to recognize Maximilian Schell in his making for "The Man in the Glass Booth," beginning production of the American Film Theater's second season.
