Rain raises havoc on games

Your front lawn and the water levels around the area are benefitting from the showers and thunderstorms that have blanketed Seminole County the last couple of days. But it certainly has played havoc with local baseball and softball leagues.

On Tuesday night, all but one game was postponed due to rain.

Deputies go for the gold

SANFORD — Seminole County sheriff's deputies brought some gold and bronze medals home from last week's Florida Police and Law Enforcement Olympics in Daytona Beach.

In a field of 3,800 lawmen-sportsmen from around the state Sgt. Jerry Human and Deputy Sid Miller took the gold in doubles racquet ball. Miller also won the gold in singles racquetball.

Deputy Mike Weppert won a bronze medal in pole vaulting. Deputy Kevin Lavigne brought home the bronze in wrist wrestling. Sgt. Jack Cash won bronze for the 100 individual medley, a swimming event utilizing four different types of strokes.

The sheriff's department softball team and golfers also participated. The players paid their own expenses to participate in the annual event.

Lawmen honored in DUI action

SANFORD — Several Seminole County lawmen have been honored for their work in curbing drunk driving. The officers received plaques and pens, to use for writing tickets, from Mothers Against Drunk Drivers.

Kids facing crisis

Child abuse group declares an emergency

By JANET BASS
United Press International

WASHINGTON — The soaring number of child abuse and neglect cases now represents a "national emergency" and the nation's ineffective response constitutes a "moral disaster," a federal advisory board said Wednesday.

Despite the nation's avowed aim to protect children, "hundreds of thousands of kids are starved and abandoned, burned and severely beaten, raped and sodomized, berated and belittled," said the U.S. Advisory Board on Child Abuse and Neglect in its first report.

"The board has concluded that child abuse and neglect in the United States now represents a national emergency," according to the 15-member panel, which was established by Congress in 1988.

"Not only is child abuse wrong, but the nation's lack of an effective response to it is wrong. Neither can be tolerated. Together they constitute a moral disaster," the board said.

The number of reported cases of child maltreatment skyrocketed during the last 15 years. There were an estimated 60,000 cases in 1974, 1.1 million in 1980 and 2.4 million cases reported throughout the 1980s.

"There are reasons to believe that even that number is just a fraction of the actual incidence of child abuse and neglect. Surveys con-

Seminole County willing to spend $1 million to help

By J. MARK BARFIELD
Herald staff writer

SANFORD — Seminole County commissioners decided Tuesday they need to increase spending to expand care and treatment for troubled and underprivileged youth.

Three of five commissioners said they were willing to set aside one-eighth of a mill of taxes to help bolster children's health, psychological and recreational programs in the county to meet the needs of the growing number of abused and neglected children in the county.

The tax would raise close $1 million each year and levy 12 1/2 cents on each $1,000 of taxable property. The current county tax rate is about $4.56 per $1,000 of taxable property.

Commissioners gave their support to the findings of a year-long study conducted by the county's Commission on Children appointed by them in April 1989 to study unmet needs of children. The committee found long waiting lists for daycare services and increasing reports of child neglect and abuse. In many cases they found, programs aren't available or are too small to meet the growing needs.

"Spend a dollar today so down the road you don't have to spend a hundred dollars," said Joseph Rosier, chairman of the county Commission on Children that conducted the study. "If all the children had a safe harbor, none would be at risk."

City restructuring, job freeze proposed

By J. BRADLEY DILLING
Herald staff writer

SANFORD — A restructuring of the city government proposed by City Manager Frank Falson this week to keep tax rates down would reduce the city payroll by seven jobs while combining two departments.

Falson has proposed the restructuring in a $22.14 million budget, which includes a property tax increase. The proposed budget is up ten percent over the $20.9

"I've got an employee who is obviously worried about losing his job. I can understand that, but there is no reason to be concerned. I'm not proposing firing anybody."

million budget this year.

The changes are aimed at cutting expenses to keep tax rates down. The tax hike would be one mill or the equivalent of $618,000 in revenue. For homeowners with property valued at $100,000, the tax would increase from $515 to $590. For homeowners with property valued at $75,000, the rate will increase from $343 to $393 and the rate on property valued at $50,000 would jump from $171 to $196.

Under Falson's proposal, the parks department, which the city commission split last year to create a separate recreation department, would be combined with the public works department. Seven jobs would be "frozen" after the departments are combined.

The result of the freeze — which amounts to a cut — is the loss of five jobs.

Financially-strapped school district budget looks thinner than usual for coming year

By VICKI DeSORMIER
Herald staff writer

SANFORD — When completed, the Seminole County school district's 1991 budget will be thinner than past budgets — in every sense of the word, according to school officials.

The financially-strapped district hopes to package the budget more concisely in the past to save both paper and money. "It isn't going to be in as big a package as it was in the past," Mary Chambers, assistant superintendent for finance Mary Chambers, said Tuesday night. "We're just giving the bare facts."

And because of the crunch, Superintendent Bob Hughes quipped, budget hearings scheduled last night by the Seminole County School Board will be brief. "There's not too much we can talk about this year."

Bob Hughes said. "There's not much money in the budget."

The school district has, according to Hughes, had to do a "great deal of belt tightening" to make the budget for the 1990-91 year "work."

Following the failure of the bond issue referendum in February, the district is faced with overcrowded conditions at all but one elementary school and many middle and high schools with limited financial resources to deal with the problem.

While an educational plant survey conducted last year recommended the construction of 12 new elementary schools, two additional middle schools and another high school, money is available for the construction of only two elementary schools before the start of the 1990-91 school year.

Bush delays oil drilling off Florida

By GEORGE LOBSENZ
United Press International

WASHINGTON — President Bush, in a politically sensitive environmental decision, said Tuesday he would delay all oil drilling off the shores of California for at least six years and defer any development off the Florida Keys until the end of the century.

Bush, citing the need to protect ecologically sensitive coastal areas, also announced he would not allow any federal sales of oil and natural gas leases off the North Atlantic Coast or the shores of Washington and Oregon for the next 10 years to allow time for further environmental study.

Bush said the only areas offshore California where drilling might be permitted after 1996 were 87 southern California sea floor tracts identified as having high potential for significant amounts of oil and gas. All 87 are located in the Santa Maria Basin and the Santa Barbara Channel. Otherwise, Bush said all other lease sales offshore California would be delayed until after 2000.

Most controversy concerned the lease sales off Florida and California, where state officials and environmentalists have urged Bush to put

Judge sends speeder up the river

United Press International

INVERNESS — A Citrus County judge known for his stiff, sometimes outrageous sentences, has sent boat speeder Al L. Porter up the river — literally.

County Judge Gary Graham last week ordered Porter, who was caught speeding in a manatee zone, to sit in his boat on the Withlacoochee River and hold up a sign that warns boaters to slow down to save the endangered manatees.

Graham garnered national attention two weeks ago when he sent a man to jail for appearing in his court in a T-shirt that said "Haulin' Ass." Graham said that sentence was necessary to maintain order in his court.

On Monday, the judge said extraordinary measures were necessary to protect the manatees.

"We've got manatee zones designed to protect the manatee and they are just not working," Graham said. "The manatees continue to be killed."

Probation and fines, "even stiff fines, are not working," he said.

"If they have to come back for four or five weekends and work to solve the problem they are creating, it will stick in their minds," he said.

The judge waived a fine for Porter, 19, of Sebastian Inlet on Florida's east coast and ordered him to carry a personal message to boaters on the Withlacoochee.

Petition may be renewed to treat man

PENSACOLA — An elderly man hospitalized by court order has returned home, but state officials said Tuesday they are ready to renew a petition requiring him to get medical treatment.

The Department of Health and Rehabilitative Services plans to prepare the petition asking a court to place George Stokes, 94, under adult protective services, said spokesman Joel Gaston.

The department will also request the court appoint a lawyer for Stokes.

HRS officials said the department will pursue the petition only if Stokes' family is unwilling to give him the necessary medication for his hypothyroidism while he is at home.

Bill signed to protect residents

TALLAHASSEE — Gov. Bob Martinez signed into law Tuesday a bill that strengthens rules protecting residents of mobile-home parks from large rent hikes.

The new law imposes stricter rent-increase disclosure rules to prevent park owners from raising rents with tenants' knowledge and also requires the use of mediators to settle dispute cases.

It also changes the standard in the Florida Mobile Home Act by which tenants can challenge rent increases from "unconscionable" to "unreasonable."

State won't divest pension fund

FORT LAUDERDALE — Florida's state government opposes South Africa's apartheid policies in principle but cannot divest its $20 billion pension fund from companies that do business there without losing significant interest, administrators said.

While anti-apartheid leader Nelson Mandela tours the United States asking Americans to increase economic pressure on Pretoria's white minority government, state officials said they have no choice but to continue investing in companies that do business with South Africa.

Divestment could cost the state $100 million annually in accrued interest, according to a Tuesday report in the Fort Lauderdale Sun-Sentinel.

State faces fine for food stamp errors

TALLAHASSEE — Florida faces a $1.3 million federal fine because the wrong number of food stamps were given to recipients in 11.09 percent of the food stamps cases studied, regulators said.

Reggie Smith, head of the state food stamp office, said he learned Tuesday that the federal government tentatively will allow mistakes in only 10.97 percent of cases studied in any state.

"I knew there was a sanction involved. I just didn't know how much," said Smith, who suspected the fine was coming during surveys by the state Department of Health and Rehabilitative Services.

In recent months, HRS officials have tried to arrest the problem by focusing on troublesome communities.

Woman of gator victim denies charges

TALLAHASSEE — A woman whose 9-year-old son was attacked by an alligator at a local swimming hole has denied charges that she could have prevented the attack.

Summer Reeves said Tuesday in a written statement that the attack Sunday on her son, Dominic Reeves, happened so fast that nothing could have prevented it.

A witness to the attack, Marianne Hightman, said Monday she filed a complaint with the state's Child Abuse Registry over the incident, claiming Reeves ignored warnings about the alligator being seen in the pond, a popular swimming area located south of town.

off planned lease sales off northern, central and southwestern Florida in the Gulf of Mexico.

In both states, the opponents said oil and gas development would irreparably damage rich fishing grounds and vital habitat for many rare animals and ecosystems, particularly the coral reefs of the Keys, where Bush often vacations for fishing trips.

In a recent report to Bush, a special administration task force recommended the president delay lease sales off California and Florida as additional studies could be done on the environmental impact of drilling.

In his announcement, Bush said he was accepting those recommendations, saying: "Further steps to protect the environment are needed."

But Bush said that while he was responding to environmental concerns, the nation had to accept that offshore drilling was needed to meet U.S. energy demands.

Politically, Bush's decision not only shores up his effort to portray himself as the "environmental president."

NEWS FROM THE REGION AND ACROSS THE STATE

Martinez slashes state budget

By MICHAEL BOLINE
United Press International

TALLAHASSEE — Gov. Bob Martinez used his line-item veto Tuesday to strike projects worth $91.6 million from the $27.4 billion state budget for the fiscal year beginning July 1.

Martinez also criticized lawmakers for approving $376,000 to create a job for an influential state senator. Because the money was part of a larger appropriation, the governor, under state law, could not eliminate it without vetoing the whole appropriation.

The money is to start an Academic Enhancement Institute and Research Center in the State University System to monitor the public school system. The job of running the program was expected to go to Sen. Curtis Peterson, D-Lakeland, an education expert who is retiring from the Legislature this year.

Martinez urged university system Chancellor Charles Reed to simply not spend the money, saying the state education bureaucracy already produces enough studies and reports.

"I don't know that we need another one to put out a separate document," Martinez told a news conference.

Reed and Board of Regents Chairman Charles Edwards Sr. said in a joint statement that they would take up the governor's request at the regents' July 26 meeting.

"I personally intend to comply with the governor's request that I strongly consider whether this is in the best interests of the public," Reed, who was vacationing in Italy, said in a separate statement.

Of the overall spending plan, Martinez said, "This one I thought was a little bit better than last year's in terms of how they prepared it, so I commend them on it."

Big ticket items that drew vetoes included a $12.9 million satellite office complex in Leon County to house the Department of Lottery and other state offices. Martinez said the project did not fit in the county's comprehensive growth plan.

Martinez also killed an $18.5 million office complex for Alachua County, plus $17.2 million to buy the Royal Trust Tower in Dade County.

Prison shake-up shuffles inmates; Martinez assesses political fallout

United Press International

TALLAHASSEE — About 840 inmates were moved from community prisons to more secure facilities Tuesday in a shake-up prompted by the case of an escaped cop killer accused of murdering a Tallahassee woman.

Meanwhile, Gov. Bob Martinez's campaign manager played down the political damage from the weekend episode, while the two Democrats vying to challenge Martinez in November shrank from making Donald David Dillbeck a campaign issue.

Dillbeck, 27, slipped away from a work assignment catering a banquet in In Greina Friday night. The convicted murderer made his way about 35 miles to Tallahassee, where he is accused of stabbing Faye Lamb Vann in her car in a shopping mall parking lot Sunday afternoon.

On Monday, Martinez ordered the immediate firing of three Department of Corrections officials whose "terrible judgement" placed Dillbeck in the minimum-security Quincy Vocational Center despite his violent criminal record and disciplinary problems, including a 1983 escape attempt.

Martinez also ordered the return of all inmates serving minimum-mandatory sentences from community prisons to close-custody institutions, plus a review of DOC procedures.

Authorities turned up only 3 inmates still serving 25-year minimum-mandatory sentences in community facilities similar to the Quincy center, which had only a single perimeter fence that is not patrolled by armed guards, said DOC spokesman Bob Macmaster.

The others were serving shorter minimum-mandatory terms for drugs or weapons offenses, Macmaster said.

"They're people serving minimum-mandatory portions of their sentences in community facilities," Macmaster said. "They're being reclassified as close-custody and being pulled

Blacks upset by reception of Mandela

United Press International

MIAMI — Outrage and embarrassment swept through south Florida's black communities Tuesday after six area mayors and the governor denounced Nelson Mandela for his support of Cuba's Fidel Castro and refused to issue proclamations honoring the civil rights leader.

"It is an embarrassment," said Ray Fauntroy, head of the Dade County chapter of the Southern Christian Leadership Conference. "This town (Miami), which is supposed to be an international city, has not responded as every other city in the world has (to a visit by Mandela)."

Mandela, the deputy president of the African National Congress, is to arrive in Miami Wednesday evening.

Mandela's refusal to denounce Castro, the Palestine Liberation Organization's Yasser Arafat and Libya's Moammar Gadhafi, who have all endorsed the ANC's campaign to end apartheid in South Africa, has angered large segments of south Florida's Cuban and Jewish populations.

Professing disappointment in Mandela's support of the controversial leaders, the mayors of Miami and Miami Beach have refused to issue proclamations honoring him during his visit to south Florida.

FPBS loses campaign money

Cabinet agrees to give FPBS time to find other money

United Press International

TALLAHASSEE — The Florida Cabinet rejected Tuesday a plan to use $481,000 in state lottery money to fund coverage of statewide political campaigns this year by public broadcasting television stations.

The Cabinet, however, agreed to give the Florida Public Broadcasting Service until Aug. 14 to find another source for the money.

"Without knowing until August we'll have the money for (campaign coverage), it will severely handicap our pre-planning," said Carol Ayers, general manager for the service, which has 11 television stations throughout Florida.

The $481,000 was contained in a contract for the broadcasting service to provide educational and instructional programs to the state Department of Education. It was pushed by Sen. George Stuart, D-Orlando, into public broadcasting's $8 million operating budget during the last days of the Legislature.

Broadcasters and education officials say the money would enhance coverage of statewide political campaigns and help voters make informed decisions about the candidates.

But most Cabinet members said they were opposed to using lottery money.

Cabinet approves tougher dolphin shipping rules

United Press International

TALLAHASSEE — The Florida Cabinet Tuesday gave conceptual approval to a new, tougher set of proposed rules for transporting dolphins that are caught in Florida waters.

The Cabinet's decision allows Department of Natural Resources staff to send the regulations through the rule-making process, which state officials say will take at least two months.

"We're very pleased that we're going to have better protection of dolphins and their transport," said Paul Green, a governor's aide. "With clear rules we'll be able to avoid the problem that surfaced with the Baltimore Aquarium."

The proposed rules were developed at the request of the governor and Cabinet seven months ago, after the Baltimore Aquarium captured two Atlantic bottlenose dolphins from Tampa Bay last November.

Gov. Bob Martinez accused aquarium officials of illegally moving the dolphins to a Hawk's Cay resort in Key Largo, where one of them subsequently died.

Under federal law, Florida cannot stop people from capturing dolphins, but it can regulate the transporting of the marine mammals. The National Marine Fisheries Service is responsible for handing out capture permits.

Although Baltimore Aquarium workers had federal permission to capture the dolphins, Martinez said they did not have state permission. He tried to get the state to file charges against the aquarium, but prosecutors said they had no grounds.

"We still insist it was an illegal move," Green said.

But aquarium officials still maintain they had all the required permits.

Man arrested after accident

CASSELBERRY — A man who allegedly drove away with his injured passenger after his car struck another vehicle from behind on State Road 436, Casselberry, has been arrested.

Robert Joseph Krapski, 21, of Orlando, was arrested outside the ABC Lounge, U.S. Highway 17-92, after lawmen found his car there. Casselberry police said both Krapski and his passenger Douglas C. Burton, 23, of Casselberry, suffered head injuries in the accident that occurred near New Drive at about 8:23 p.m. Tuesday.

Krapski was charged with leaving the scene of an accident with injuries and driving with a suspended license.

The arrest was made at 8:54 p.m. and both Krapski and Burton were treated at a local hospital, before Krapski was jailed.

Couple accused in drug deals

SANFORD — A Sanford couple was arrested by Sanford police's Special Investigations Unit after they allegedly bought one-half pound of marijuana from an undercover agent Tuesday night.

The same couple is accused of on June 20 selling an agent $35 worth of LSD at their house.

The arrests of Phillip Byron Loper, 23, and Holly Martencoper, 32, 114 Country Club Road, were made at the Holiday Inn, 530 Palmetto Ave. The agent reportedly directed them to come to his room at the inn after Holly Loper allegedly indicated to him over the phone that she wanted to buy $600 worth of marijuana. At about 9:37 p.m. Tuesday both suspects were charged with possession of marijuana and possession and sale and delivery of LSD.

Phillip Loper was also charged with carrying a concealed, loaded, .22-caliber pistol in his pocket at the time of the arrests. Holly Loper was also charged with possession of drug paraphernalia.

Man accused of having stolen property

SANFORD — City police here charged Daniel Hugo Kish, 28, address unknown, with possession of stolen property and as an accessory after the fact in connection with a burglary to a Sanford apartment.

Police allege Kish allegedly received a stolen pendant from one of two co-defendants in the case, involving a burglary to Apartment 106, 2580 Ridgewood Ave. The victim told police she recovered her pendant from Kish June 16. Kish was arrested at the county jail Tuesday.

SANFORD — Jeff Deen, assistant state's attorney in Seminole County for five years, has announced he will oppose incumbent Judge Robert McGregor for 18th circuit judge.

Deen called the circuit's Group 11, the seat he is seeking, "static" and "woefully lacking" in community involvement.

"I don't think this is a place to retire," he said yesterday. "Exploding growth is taxing every resource, and the judiciary has to be able to respond to that. It's not enough any more to just show up for work and say, 'I'm the judge and I can't do anything about it.'"

Deen said he would seek to open to the public judicial administrative meetings. Although such meetings are exempt from state open meetings law, he said, "the spirit of the law" should allow the public to know how judges arrive at decisions concerning money and daily operations at the courthouse.

Fess proposes newspaper recycling plan

By NICK PFEIFER
Herald staff writer

LAKE MARY — Mayor Dick Fess is planning to propose a city ordinance at the July 5 city commission meeting that, if approved, will make Lake Mary the first city in the nation to enact a total recycled products ordinance that includes newspapers, newsprint ink and food containers.

"Every year," Fess said, "Americans throw away enough scrap paper to build a wall, 12 feet high, from Los Angeles to New York City, and I think it's about time we did something to reverse this process."

In his proposal, still in the discussion stage with City Attorney Ned Julian, Fess wants a ban on the sale and/or distribution of all newspapers and newspaper products within the city limits of Lake Mary, unless the newspapers are printed on stock that is at least 50 percent recycled, and the newsprint is capable of being de-inked without the use of chlorine bleach. "Hopefully," he said, "we can strive for newspapers printed on 100 percent recycled material."

Taking it one step further, Fess said he would also like to have a ban prohibiting all restaurants and convenience stores from using any containers for take-out food unless they are recyclable.

"If we can do that," he said, "Lake Mary will be the first city in the entire nation to have a complete recycled materials ordinance." He said Toronto, Canada and Suffolk County, New York already have the ban on newspapers, while Santa Barbara, California has enacted the food container prohibition, but no city has put it all together into one package.

Lake Mary has already implemented a residential curbside recycling program, the first such program in Seminole County.

$100. "You can't be an independent judge and accept money from the attorneys you preside over," Deen said. "A judge's ethics — an attorney's ethics — are supposed to be higher than that."

In July, Deen received national attention for his prosecution of the first woman charged with supplying her baby with cocaine. Jennifer Johnson, of Altamonte Springs, became the first mother convicted for the offense and was ordered by the court to seek treatment.

Deen left the state's attorney's office after that prosecution and became an associate of Barnett and Barclay law firm in Orlando. He returned to his job as prosecutor after five months.

"It was the job of my dreams, but I decided I wanted to run for judge in February," he said.

His resignation from the state's attorneys office takes effect today.

Deen is a graduate of the University of Florida and Cumberland School of Law in Alabama.

Altamonte police take to the stage

ALTAMONTE SPRINGS

The Altamonte Springs Police Department will once again go into production. Following up on the tremendous success of the children's public service announcements "Cops On Safety," this project will be entitled "Cops On Security." The focus of this project will be on issues that are of concern to seniors and those involved in neighborhood watch.

Topics such as consumer fraud, harassing phone calls, home security, and neighborhood watch will be covered.

The 30-second announcements, filmed by Full Sail Center for the Recording Arts, will star Central Florida police chiefs and sheriffs.

The production dates have been set for June 25, July 5, 6, and 7, and will be shot at various locations in Central Florida.

Nuclear robot space probe ready for launch

By WILLIAM HARWOOD
UPI science writer

CAPE CANAVERAL — A boxy robot probe that cost NASA and the European Space Agency nearly a million dollars a pound is finally ready for launch in October on a historic flight over the poles of the sun, officials said Tuesday.

The nuclear-powered, 800-pound Ulysses probe, built in Europe in a joint NASA-ESA venture, is scheduled for launch aboard the shuttle Discovery at 6:35 a.m. EDT Oct. 5.

Once released from the shuttle's cargo bay, the probe will be fired to Jupiter so it can utilize the giant planet's gravity for a slingshot boost down and out of the plane of the solar system onto a trajectory carrying it over the sun's south and north poles.

No other spacecraft has ever flown over the poles of the sun and no other such craft are planned after Ulysses, which will need five years to complete its unprecedented mission.

Peter Wenzel, Ulysses project scientist with the European Space Agency, said at a news conference the small spacecraft will revolutionize man's knowledge of the sun, the closest of the 100 billion or so stars in Earth's galaxy and the only one that can be easily studied.

"Ulysses is a mission bound for a region of space never explored before, namely, the region above the poles of the sun," Wenzel said. "Previous space missions that investigated the fields and particles generated by the sun were confined to a narrow disk in which all the planets move around the sun.

"Ulysses will take us a step further. It will take us into the third dimension."

The United States' share of the Ulysses mission is about $500 million, including the cost of the shuttle launch. The European Space Agency spent around $250 million to build the spacecraft.

Wheels in motion for Doo-dah Parade

By J. BRADLEY DILLING
Herald staff writer

SANFORD — The Greater Sanford Chamber of Commerce Doo-dah Parade is off and running.

And true to the spirit of the event, it may end up running in reverse.

The "liberty-with-a-little-bit-of-lunacy" parade was so popular last year, that its organizers (preferring to be known as "dis-organizers") announced that they may prolong the event.

"We had some complaints last year that it was not long enough," said Unofficial Parade

Disorganizer Jean Skipper. "So if the parade is not that long, we're going to march down the street and turn around and march right back."

Steve Alford — the man who successfully raised the money to save the fourth of July fireworks of Sanford — will be the parade's Less Than Grand Marshal.

The special guests of dishonor are the Midge, for whom a parade queen has been named. Skipper is keeping the queen's identity a secret, but gave the following hints. She helped organize this parade. She has only been here since last December. She is Swedish. And for duration of the parade, her name will be "Helga."

But the best part for participants is that entry fees have been slashed in half, meaning that entries using cars will be charged $7.13 per auto instead of $14.26, and entries not using cars will be charged $3.065 instead of $7.13. This raises the question of how anyone is supposed to pay that extra half cent.

"Who cares?" Skipper said. "If they want to split a penny in half, that's their business. It's the Doo-dah parade."

Skipper said that so far there are 12 organizations participating.

Can Gorbachev survive change?

Soviet President Mikhail Gorbachev is struggling to avoid being overwhelmed by challenges to his power. The question being asked everywhere, including among those close to him, is whether Gorbachev can survive and, if not, who or what will follow him. In these circumstances, President Bush's decision not to lay down ultimatums or to take sides in the turbulent Soviet drama is an eminently sensible one.

Having condemned and harassed Baltic independence movements, Gorbachev now seems ready to negotiate their gradual disengagement from the Soviet Union, a course thrust upon him by the spread of nationalist sentiment even to the giant Russian federation, which has just declared itself sovereign. That further polarizes the split between conservatives — Communist hard-liners who think Gorbachev's economic and political reforms have gone too far — and radicals led by Russian President Boris Yeltsin, who want to accelerate the process. There's even the prospect that the already faction-ridden Soviet Communist Party may break into two or more independent parties.

Theoretically that shouldn't matter as Gorbachev tries to strengthen state institutions while diminishing the power of the party apparatus. Yet party factionalism, and the weakness he has shown toward the republics, further threaten to erode his power generally. Gorbachev's failure to stop the deterioration in the economy, and his vacillation about whether to raise bread prices or to submit his economic plans to a popular referendum, have provoked disenchantment not only among party and state leaders but among the people.

Abroad, Gorbachev continues to send conflicting signals about whether Moscow will accept a unified Germany in NATO, the Western military alliance, and if so, what price the Kremlin will demand, either in economic aid or in arms control concessions from the West.

In these circumstances, the Bush administration's critics argue that its posture toward Moscow is too weighted in favor of Gorbachev and his policies. If that were true, the criticism would be valid but it's not. Bush has made U.S. policy priorities clear — in favor of Baltic independence, free-market economic reforms and political pluralism — yet without setting conditions that, if not met, would put Washington on a collision course with Moscow.

Bush and Gorbachev both know that U.S. help for the Soviet Union — trade benefits, joint-venture capital or forward movement in the arms control arena — depend on Soviet behavior. Yet by leaving most of this unsaid, the president has left himself, and Gorbachev, enough maneuvering room to avoid the kind of friction that could make the task of this Soviet leader, or anyone who follows him, unduly more difficult. Steady on.

Words of wisdom

James Madison once warned that the more people obey the unwritten moral laws of their society, the less they will need written laws that restrict their freedoms.

Madison's advice should be stamped on every government building in Washington.

We have housing scandals, ethics scandals, spending scandals and savings-and-loan scandals. All resulted because people took advantage of the lack of supervision and violated the basic moral laws of society.

The result will be a backlash — more supervision and less wiggle room, more laws and less freedoms.

Mandela should beware his allies

Let's hope that Nelson Mandela's appearance on Ted Koppel's "Town Meeting" (ABC) will turn out to be an illuminating and instructive moment: illuminating for Americans, instructive for Mandela.

Mandela showed he has all the makings of an authentic and long-running superstar. He needs no new epigram: the old "velvet glove over a fist of steel" will do fine. He is an elegant man, articulate, soft-spoken, humorous, and apparently unembittered. When challenged, he can snap. Twenty-seven years in jail provides the backdrop against which heroes are made.

He answered his "Town Meeting" critics with the logic of the ages. The critics said that Mandela, and more specifically his African National Congress party, is, or has been, pro-communist, pro-violence, pro-terrorist, Marxist, pro-Moammar Gadhafi of Libya, pro-Fidel Castro of Cuba and pro-Yassir Arafat of the Palestine Liberation Organization.

Mandela said, listen, we are running a national liberation movement. It's a tough job: it's been uphill for decades. Our cause is just, self-determination for blacks in South Africa. We will do what it takes to win, and take our support where we can get it. We are not going to criticize any nation, or movement, or person, that helps us. That includes Gadhafi, Castro and Arafat.

To some degree, greater or lesser, the case can be made that the ANC's position follows a certain historical tradition. Liberation groups, and liberation leaders, typically do take their support where they can find it. That goes for George Washington, Mahatma Gandhi and Menachem Begin.

Thus illuminated, Americans should know from where Mandela comes. But Mandela should also know from where America comes. It is indeed America's foreign policy to promote democracy in South Africa — and also in Libya and Cuba, and in Poland and Hungary. America is in the national liberation business.

Twenty-seven years in jail provides the backdrop against which heroes are made.

We have a duty to explain that to Mandela. He should be learning as well as teaching during his stay here. Mandela's critics on the television program made a good step in that direction. Mandela should understand those criticisms for his own purposes. He should understand that the flap about Castro-Gadhafi is not simply a question of our-friends vs. your-friends. Mandela's stated cause is self-determination. Castro and Gadhafi are among the last exponents of anti-self-determination and internal extermination. Gadhafi bankrolls terror against Americans. Mandela is for one man one vote. Castro and Gadhafi are for one man no vote.

At issue is what kind of governance Mandela or the ANC might provide for South Africa. Free or despotic? Violent or non-violent? Collectivist or market-oriented? Authentically pluralist? As the critics point out, there are aspects of the ANC's history that are troubling in these regards. The Castro-Gadhafi connection is only the symbol of those concerns.

As and if Mandela offers credible assurances, America can wisely consider aid to the ANC, as we have to others, with strings attached.

On tactical grounds, Mandela's refusal to break with thugs who support his movement is understandable. Thugs are part of the world. America also deals with thugs when it has to.

On white male rats and women

BOSTON — This is a story that begins with white male rats. No, it is not a political fantasy created by those who regard "white male rats" as redundant. The subject here is science and sex.

It turns out that most of the basic research that teaches us what is good and bad for human beings begins with rodents of the male persuasion. Their female counterparts are usually excluded because of what might be called "raging hormonal imbalance." Their female physiology is more complex.

I didn't come across this information through personal experience. I have never seen a female rodent with PMS, let alone hot flashes. Nor have I ever before worried that they were denied equal employment opportunities as research subjects.

Rather, the tale of the white male rat was reiterated at the congressional hearings of the House Subcommittee on Health and the Environment this week. These creatures were a small if furry part of the larger saga. In research, female humans are also excluded from most studies done on "people."

The pills women swallow, the diets that we follow, the exercises we adhere to — the health plan that is prescribed for us — are for the most part based on research done on a thoroughly male model. Remember the cholesterol study? Its 4,000 subjects were men. Remember the smoking study? The 15,000 subjects were men. How about the aspirin study? Its 22,000 doctors were all male.

The end result is that women with heart disease — the number one killer of women — and all sorts of ills are by and large treated as if they were men. And while this experience might be refreshing in a paycheck, it could be dangerous in a checkup.

The hearings that brought the tale of the neglected females of two species to the public consciousness were called because of a government study pushed by the congressional women's caucus. The study showed that the National Institutes of Health had failed to fulfill its own four-year-old policy to include women in clinical trials. The scientists who planned, proposed and funded research had paid little more attention to it than a smoker pays to a warning on a cigarette pack.

But it turns out that the exclusion of women as subjects for research is only one piece of a profoundly skewed research program. Not only are men studied more, so are their health problems. Diseases like ovarian cancer and osteoporosis remain second-class subjects. Even breast cancer, which kills 40,000 women a year, gets only $17 million for basic research.

All in all, about 13 percent of NIH's $5.7 billion budget goes to study the health risks of the half of the population that is female. While every woman in America will go through menopause, hormone treatment has little priority in terms of federal dollars. While every woman ages, the latest study — entitled "Normal Human Aging" — has no data about women at all.

"I've had a theory that you fund what you fear," says Rep. Patricia Schroeder, who along with Reps. Olympia Snowe of Maine and Henry Waxman of California has kept a spotlight on this issue. "When you have a male-dominated group of researchers they are more worried about prostate cancer than breast cancer."

It is hard to find what you fear in health research goes straight through the medical system. After all, who decides what we should study, what is important and who is important? The dearth of female researchers, female reviewers, female doctors and administrators at NIH has directly resulted in a dearth of research on women's health issues.

But conversely, the rise of women in medical and policy-making positions in the rest of the world has put these issues in the public eye. This summer, the congressional women's caucus will be presenting a health package that calls for more research.

In fairness, medical science is not all that different from any other business in America that is just beginning to adjust to women. There is the dual notion that you can either treat women just like men or exclude them altogether.

According to the rat theory, many researchers lament that including women with all their peculiar plumbing is too complicated, and too expensive. But in the long run, research that is only valid for half the human species is no bargain. So the next time you pop a pill, or follow the doctor's orders, check carefully for the telltale paw prints of the white male rats.

I have never seen a female rodent with PMS, let alone hot flashes.

Vets try to save captain's image

WASHINGTON — When some 80 aging Navy vets meet in Indianapolis on Aug. 10, the Navy's hatchet job on the USS Iowa investigation will hover over them like a dark shadow. These men from another generation know what it is like to be vilified by Navy investigators.

The Navy has admitted that it probably goofed in assuming that a love-sick sailor blew up himself and 46 shipmates by exploding the Iowa gun turret on April 19, 1939. Yet for 45 years, the Navy has refused to be as candid with the men of the USS Indianapolis.

In 1945, the Indianapolis, at sea after unloading the main parts of the Hiroshima atomic bomb on a Pacific island, was torpedoed by a Japanese submarine. In all, 880 men died, making it the Navy's worst ocean disaster.

The survivors feel their skipper, Capt. Charles McVay III, was used as a scapegoat for the tragedy, just as the Navy sought to use the Iowa's hapless gunner's mate, Clayton Hartwig. More than 700 Navy ships were sunk in World War II alone, but McVay was the only captain ever court-martialed for the loss of his ship in battle.

The Indianapolis survivors and McVay's family are working anew to clear McVay, bolstered by a seething investigative book to be published next month. Journalist Dan Kurzman, author of "Fatal Voyage," told us that McVay was railroaded by the Navy to quiet the political clamor over the deaths. Kurzman's list of outrages in the McVay case reads like a banana republic show trial, and it is the last thing the Navy needs to read in the context of the USS Iowa debacle: — A document buried in an obscure file admits that the charge on which McVay was convicted probably had nothing to do with the sinking of the ship. Indeed, one Navy memo characterizes the charge as "super-technical." — That charge, failure to zig-zag in potentially dangerous waters, was of dubious merit. McVay's orders left the zig-zagging up to him. — The Navy had information about Japanese sub sightings in the area that may have alerted McVay to be more cautious, but no one alerted the Indianapolis. The sub sightings were kept under wraps for "security" reasons.

The Navy has admitted it goofed in assuming that a love-sick sailor blew up himself and 46 shipmates.

Keeping lawyers in check

I don't know how many people in Florida are having a problem with their attorney but, according to the Florida Bar, over 7,000 unhappy people registered complaints last year. My guess is that three times that many also had problems but decided it would be a waste of time to notify the Bar since only about three out of every 100 ever result in any action against the attorney.

I'm in the process of setting up a Florida-wide non-profit organization that may help people resolve their differences with lawyers and going to the Bar only as a last resort. A non-lawyer citizens committee would review the complaint and help determine further action. This organization could also be available to assist in litigation.

I'd like to hear from everyone in Florida having a problem of any kind with an attorney.

Land for the two schools has been donated.

One site, in Heathrow, was donated by the Arvida Company. It will be called Heathrow Elementary School.

The other school, located in Oviedo, which will be called Marguerite Partin Elementary School, was donated by the Anden Corporation. Partin taught at Lawton Elementary School in Oviedo for 31 years beginning from 1938 to 1967.

At last night's board meeting, the school board set up a schedule for the approval of the budget for the upcoming fiscal year which will allow for two public hearings before the final approval is made in September.

The budget will be available from the district finance department to members of the board on the afternoon of July 19 when they will meet in an informal work session and discuss the first draft.

At a 7 p.m. meeting July 24, the board will review the draft and adopt a tentative budget for the purposes of advertising in newspapers July 29.

Details on when Porter is to perform his 32 hours of community service or how much of it will be spent holding the sign were left up to the Florida Marine Patrol, which gave him the speeding ticket May 28.

Graham withheld adjudication of guilt, but put Porter on probation for six months.

Porter admitted in court he was speeding on the Withlacoochee River, but he told Graham he was unaware he was in a manatee zone.

As part of his community service, Porter is to sit in his boat, holding a sign next to the posted sign to draw the attention of other boaters.

For Graham, the sentence was the latest in a list of creative rulings that include the dismantling of a truck, a death sentence for pet poisonous snakes and jail sentences for dirty language in court.

Statistics show that large proportions of cases of suspected child maltreatment remain unreported," the report said.

One case that became a national symbol of child abuse involved disbarred, millionaire New York lawyer Joel Steinberg, who was convicted last year of manslaughter in the beating death of his illegally adopted 6-year-old daughter, Lisa.

The board faulted the existing child protection system as a poorly coordinated web of agencies that, if more efficiently operated, could have prevented child abuse tragedies.

The advisory board recommended a 31-point plan to combat maltreatment and abandonment of children. Steps include a new strategy to curb child abuse, a presidential declaration of the crisis and more

Youth

About 100 people, mostly advocates of children's services, attended the meeting Tuesday morning. Many of them said the needs of children from low- and moderate-income families are not fulfilled in Seminole County.

"A child abuser will get psychological counseling once he is arrested," said George Gumby, a volunteer Guardian Ad Litem. "But what happens to their victims? They get nothing and as a result, the odds are they'll grow up to be child abusers themselves."

"We've got to really give of ourselves because we have thousands of kids out there who really need it," said Ivan Bowers, director of student services for Seminole County schools.

"This is not just altruistic, this is an economic necessity," said Nancy Palmer, a member of the Florida Bar Association's Children's Commission. "These children will be the one's who will be paying our social security, running our government when they grow up."

But several members of the audience expressed concerns that by appropriating up to $1 million for children's services the county may be establishing a welfare program. The state allows county's to establish independent "juvenile welfare boards" with taxing authority that does not require commission approval.

"Downstream, there is the possibility this could develop into a juvenile welfare board," said Wes Pennington, a member of the Seminole County Republican Executive Committee. "The state statute allows the board to take budget out of the hands of the county commission. There's not enough money to take care of all the problems we have today."

"We need to take responsibility for our own children," said Jack Zelsman, a salesman. "We resources.

Among the recommendations: ● Congress should direct an appropriate research agency to determine the cost of developing and implementing a comprehensive national program for preventing and treating child maltreatment.

● Health and Human Services Secretary Louis Sullivan — with governors, mayors and county executives — should develop a process to generate plans for community-based prevention, identification and treatment of abuse and neglect.

● President Bush should address the nation and declare the child abuse problem a national emergency. Federal, state and local officials should provide sufficient funds for child abuse and neglect efforts.

● A federal data collection system on child maltreatment should be established.

● There should be minimum educational requirements for child protection system caseworkers.

Deborah Walsh, associate director of the American Federation of Teachers and an advisory board member, said a multi-disciplinary approach is necessary and that schools could play a major role if given adequate funding.

full-time positions and two part-time positions for an annual savings of $207,253.

"I've got an employee who is obviously worried about losing his job," Faison said, referring to concern over the changes. "I can understand that but there is no reason to be concerned. I'm not proposing firing anybody."

Faison said the changes he has proposed fall within the parameters of the city charter.

"There are things that are prohibited in the charter, but these aren't any of them," said Commissioner A.A. McClanahan. "The charter allows the city to create an ordinance that would allow the change."

The proposal recommends freezing, or not filling, certain vacancies after the parks and public works departments are merged. Together, the departments have 107.5 positions, with each part-time position equalling one half. Public works has 86.5, parks has 21 employees. Under the proposed merger, the public works department would have a total of 100.5 employees.

Four of the positions will be eliminated due to retirement. Two positions already have been eliminated due to retirement and one position, that of parks director, will be when eliminated. Under the proposal, when Public Works Director Bob Kelley retires this July 15, Jernigan will assume Kelley's place.

The seven personnel to be cut include a maintenance superintendent, a gardener, a maintenance worker, the assistant curator of the city museum, the parks director and two part-time secretaries. With the part-time positions considered as halves, the number of positions eliminated is 5.5.

Faison said the departments could be merged because they are structured similarly. Faison said each has workers responsible for maintaining buildings and the grounds on which they sit.

Jernigan had requested five new positions, but the city manager's proposal refuses all of them.

Jernigan said he would not comment on the matter until the budget hearings are concluded. "I'll wait until it goes through the wash first and gets through the commission before I comment on anything," Jernigan said.

U.S. Caesarean births high

By KAREN KLINGER
UPI Science Writer

BOSTON — After rising steadily for the past 30 years, the rate of infants born through Caesarean section in the United States remains "extraordinarily high," a government researcher said.

A study by the National Center for Health Statistics found the Caesarean rate during 1981 through 1986 to be 23 per 100 hospital deliveries — more than twice the rate in England and the Netherlands and more than three times the rate in Japan.

Only Brazil, with 32 Caesarean sections per 100 deliveries, and Puerto Rico, with 29, had higher rates than the United States out of 21 countries studied, researcher Francis Notzon wrote in an article published Tuesday in the Journal of the American Medical Association.

A Caesarean section is a surgical procedure in which the abdomen and womb are cut open for childbirth. It is performed when conditions exist that could make normal, vaginal

Administration and U.S. Senate reach major housing agreement

By STEVE GRUBEL
United Press International

WASHINGTON — The administration and Senate leaders reached agreement on compromise legislation that could lead to approval of the first major housing bill in a decade, Senate sources said.

The bill, which reforms federal housing policy and is designed to provide decent and affordable housing for moderate- and middle-income families, could be passed before the Senate leaves for a weeklong July 4 recess Friday.

The agreement, which previously proved elusive, was worked out Tuesday by assistant Senate Democratic leader Alan Cranston, HUD Secretary Jack Kemp, a top-level representative of budget director Richard Darman and about 10 senators most involved in the legislation.

Cranston and Sen. Alfonse D'Amato, R-N.Y., the floor managers for the bill, were scheduled to reveal the details of the agreement Thursday, but Senate sources said it covered all the major points that had held up action on the bill.

The agreement, according to the sources, covered the cost of the bill, the means to keep the Federal Housing Administration mortgage program financially sound, the scope of the proposed HOPE (Housing Opportunity Partnership) compact between the federal government and states to provide housing for the poor; and the amount of money for President Bush's HOPE program to help middle- and low-income people buy houses.

Administration representatives had warned that unless their objections were met, senior advisers would recommend Bush veto the bill, which has been developed over three years.

After a week of debate negotiations off the floor, the Senate was stymied when it could not reach a vote on a D'Amato amendment on FHA mortgages and Democratic leader George Mitchell set the bill aside.

The sources said that the agreement adopted the administration position of putting FHA on a sound footing and end the dramatic shrinking of the mortgage surplus.

The administration proposal would continue the 3.8 percent up-front premium but add an additional 0.5 percent annual premium for persons with low down payments and it would require borrowers to pay two-thirds of closing costs in cash. Cranston estimated this would cost a typical family another $1,000 more than paid now.

The agreement, according to the sources, also would include rent vouchers as one of three options — to go with construction and rehabilitation — that local communities can use in developing housing plans.

Robbers plot big armored heist

United Press International

ROCHESTER, N.Y. — The FBI has been called in to help investigate the "well-planned" $10.8 million armored car robbery that occurred when two guards stopped at a convenience store for a coffee break, police said.

The robbery Tuesday was the second-largest armored car heist in U.S. history and police were investigating several leads in the case but did not know whether the crime was an inside job.

"I can tell you that it was obviously well planned and successfully executed," said sheriff's department Capt. Neil Flood.

The two Armored Motor Services of America guards were taking the cash to the Federal Reserve Bank in Buffalo when they stopped at the Bi-Rite Market at about 7 a.m. Tuesday in the Rochester suburb of Henrietta, said Monroe County Sheriff Andrew Meloni.

The $10.8 million was the second-largest amount ever taken in an armored car robbery in the United States, Meloni said. The FBI had been called in to help investigate the case, he said.

After the first guard entered the store, the driver was accosted by a man who jammed a shotgun through a gunport in the truck, said Flood.

Flood said the driver had less than two years of experience and the guard "less than one."

He said stopping for food and coffee at the convenience store was not part of a regular routine.

"But I can tell you that it's not (company) policy" to leave the armored car "in order to get coffee," Flood said. "I'm sure their corporate regulations forbid that."

Swimmers beware

Two six-foot alligators were removed from Sylvan Lake Park yesterday, closing the beach to summer campers. Bob Chorvat, manager of Seminole County Parks and Recreation, says the beach is usually closed to swimmers because no lifeguards are provided. "These lakes usually have more than one gator in them," he said. "We're only permitted to trap those that are creating a nuisance." An alligator had been reported close to shore last week, calling for yesterday's removal.

NATIONAL BRIEFS

Flag amendment fails again

WASHINGTON — The push for a constitutional amendment to ban desecration of the American flag has ended for the year in Congress, but the issue is likely to remain a burning topic on the campaign trail.

On Tuesday, the Senate followed the House in rejecting a proposal to amend the Constitution to ban flag desecration.

The 58-42 tally to pass the amendment was nine votes short of the two-thirds majority needed for adoption. Seven Republicans joined 35 Democrats in voting against the amendment, while 20 Democrats teamed with 38 Republicans in voting in favor.

Endangered Species Act may change

WASHINGTON — The administration said it would seek to change the Endangered Species Act as part of its plan for preserving both timber jobs and the vanishing northern spotted owl in the Pacific Northwest.

The change proposed Tuesday would broaden the powers of a rarely used Cabinet-level appeals committee that already has limited authority to override some conservation measures under the Endangered Species Act.

Environmental groups immediately assailed the proposal as an attempt to weaken the 17-year-old law, which established a process for recognizing and protecting plants and animals that are in danger of extinction.

United States tops young male homicide

BOSTON — The United States has by far the highest homicide rate for young males among leading industrial nations, with three-quarters of the homicides linked to guns, a study showed.

The overall homicide rate for American males ages 15 to 24 was 21.9 per 100,000 population in 1987 — more than seven times higher than in Canada, 20 times higher than in West Germany and 40 times higher than in Japan, said researchers from the National Center for Health Statistics.

Researchers said they focused on young males because they account for one-fifth of all homicides in the United States. In a study published Tuesday in the Journal of the American Medical Association, Lois Fingerhut and Joel Kleinman said they found large variations in homicide rates among states and among countries.

WORLD BRIEFS

Zambia capital under curfew

LUSAKA, Zambia — Authorities imposed a nightly curfew on the capital after two days of student-led, anti-government rioting and random looting killed at least 25 people and wounded scores.

State-run radio and television announced the 6 p.m. to 6 a.m. curfew to a city still echoing to sporadic gunfire Tuesday as riot police fought scattered running battles with protesters.

More than 100 people have been detained since the civil unrest — the worst since 1986 — broke out Monday, officials said.

Most of the 25 dead were under 20 and some were policemen, hospital sources said.

Residents flee Monrovia as rebels near MONROVIA, Liberia — Some 10,000 Liberians demanding a peaceful resolution of the nation's civil war marched through the capital, and thousands more fled the city in fear of street fights between government forces and rebels of the National Patriotic Front.

The demonstrators, estimated to number more than 10,000, demanded President Samuel Doe's resignation Tuesday and chanted "We Shall Overcome, Someday."

15 survivors found in Iran quake rubble

TEHRAN, Iran — International relief workers, giving up on finding any more survivors from last week's devastating earthquake, were leaving Iran despite reports another 15 people were found alive under tons of rubble.

Heathrow race may attract 400 athletes

By NICK PFEIFAU
Herald staff writer

HEATHROW — Possibly as many as 400 athletes are expected to participate in the Orlando Sports Fest Triathlon, set to begin Saturday at 7:30 a.m., at the Heathrow Racquet Club.

The Heathrow event is the second in a series of four Sports Fest meets. The first was held May 26 on the campus of the University of Florida. The third event will be July 14 at Turkey Lake Park and the last in this year's series, at Seaworld, August 18, is expected to draw 1,000 participants.

Jeffrey Cuddeback, 32, of Apopka, and Kitty Sokoll, 32, of New Smyrna Beach, will both be on hand for this local event. Cuddeback has participated three times in the Ironman competition in Hawaii and finished 20th in the world class competition. Sokoll won first place in the sprint trials earlier this year, and has participated in the Grand Prix Iron Man competition.

This Saturday's events will begin with a one-third mile swim across Heathrow's 22 acre lake, followed by a ten-mile bike race down Markham Woods Road and a three-mile run from the Heathrow Racquet Club to the Heathrow Country Club.

Awards will be given to the top three overall winners, both male and female in 22 different age categories.

Advance registrations are being handled by the Track Shack, 1322 N. Mills Ave., Orlando, with late registration on the morning of the event, at Heathrow's Racquet Club.

The public is invited to be on hand at either the start of the competition at the Racquet Club, or the finish line at the Heathrow Country Club as the local athletic enthusiasts compete for recognition and awards.

Gas prices up as temperatures rise, AAA says

From staff reports

HEATHROW — The price of gasoline is up on an average of 1.7 cents per gallon in the Seminole and Orange County areas, according to the AAA Clubs of Florida statistics released last week.

Kathleen Wilkins, AAA spokesperson said, "Though gasoline prices showed declines last summer, that was an unusual case and can be attributed to the market adjusting itself from the severe increases experienced in the Spring of 1989. This year's increase is more typical and due to increased summer tourist travel, as well as stricter regulations by the EPA with regard to gasoline volatility during the summer months."

After four months of declining prices, regular unleaded at the self service pumps locally rose from $1.053 in May to $1.062 in June. Premium unleaded rose from $1.261 to $1.271. Full service prices showed an increase from $1.429 in May to $1.438 in June for regular unleaded, but a decline of a little more than a half cent in premium unleaded.

Around the state, gasoline prices are the lowest at self service pumps in the Pensacola area, and highest in Naples. At full service pumps, lowest prices are in Lakeland and the highest prices are in Port Richey where premium unleaded averages $1.686 per gallon.

In most cases gas prices in the Seminole and Orange County area are 3 cents per gallon higher than the state averages.

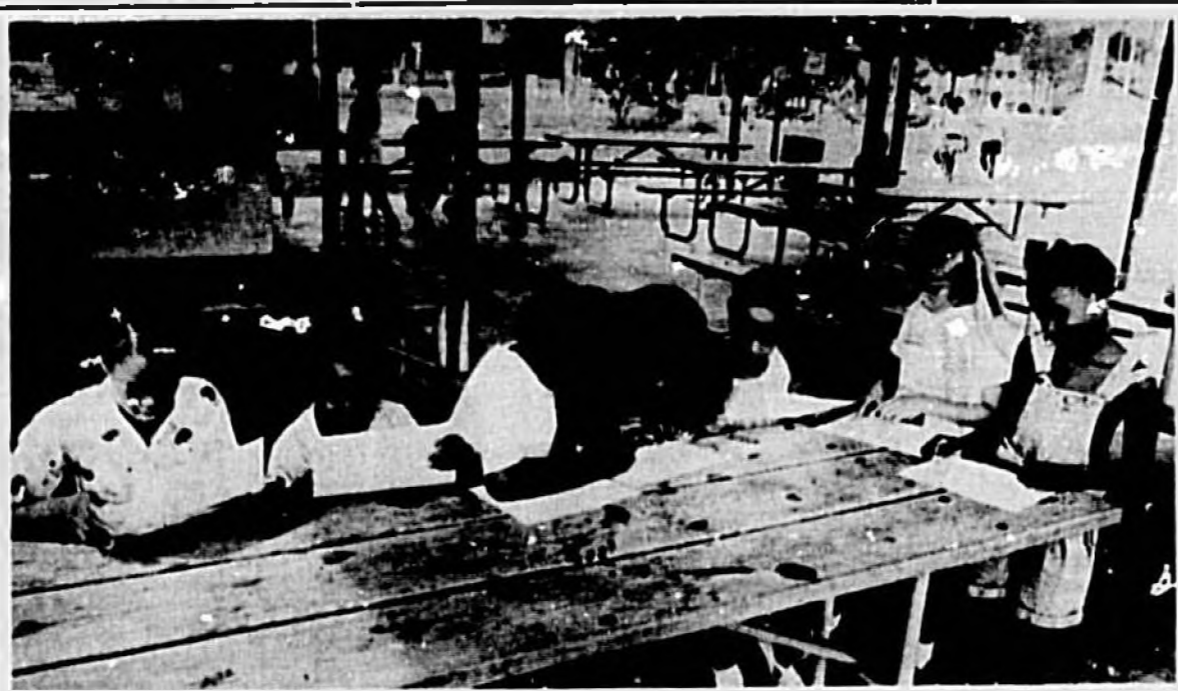

Baptist moderates fear purge

United Press International

NASHVILLE, Tenn. — Southern Baptist fundamentalists have started a purge of moderates within the church hierarchy by demanding the resignations of two Baptist Press executives, some ministers say.

Al Shackelford, the director of the Nashville-based Baptist Press, and news editor Dan Martin said they have not yet responded to fundamentalists' demands that they resign or be fired by Sept. 1.

"I have two options, either of which means I'm gone," Martin said. "It's apparent the conservative leadership wants its own minister of information. It'll be a controlled press and the average Baptist will be the loser."

Rookie powers Expos by Cubs

Jerry Goff's first career home run was one in a million.

The Expos' rookie catcher, pinch hitting to lead off the ninth inning, blasted a 3-2 delivery off reliever Les Lancaster over the right field fence Tuesday to power the Expos to a 6-5 victory over the Chicago Cubs.

"I wasn't thinking home run," said Goff, recalled from Indianapolis of the American Association (AAA) June 16. "It's not that I haven't dreamt it. That's gone through my mind a million times. It just so happened that today was the day."

Elsewhere in the National League: Pittsburgh blanked Philadelphia 1-0. Atlanta dumped Los Angeles 4-2. Cincinnati edged San Francisco 3-2 in 12 innings. San Diego shut out Houston 7-0, and New York slammed St. Louis 8-6 in 11 innings.

Orange Bowl delays vote

MIAMI — The Orange Bowl Committee has delayed until September a vote on whether to move the New Year's Day classic from the aging Orange Bowl stadium to 4-year-old Joe Robbie Stadium.

A vote had been tentatively scheduled for early July, but committee president Arthur Hertz said about one-fourth of the committee's 117 voting members are out of town all summer.

"They prevailed upon us not to do this without them," Hertz said.

The bowl's contract with the city to use the stadium is up after the 1991 game in January.

McEnroe loses at Wimbledon

WIMBLEDON, England — John McEnroe made an inglorious exit from Wimbledon Tuesday, losing in straight sets in the first round to Derrick Rostagno, a player ranked 129th in the world.

The three-time Wimbledon champion fell 7-5, 6-4, 6-4 in his first appearance at a Grand Slam tournament since his expulsion from the Australian Open in January.

Also playing in the first round Tuesday were French Open champion Andre Gomez, the No. 5 seed, and No. 6 Tim Mayotte.

The top seeds on the women's side — Steffi Graf, Martina Navratilova and Monica Seles — all made quick work of their overmatched opponents, none of the three favorites surrendering more than three games.

No. 12 Jennifer Capriati, 14 years old and 89 days, became the youngest player to win a match at Wimbledon, eliminating Helen Kelesi 6-3, 6-1.

England, Yugoslavia stay alive

ROME — Their injured captain was back home. And hundreds of their rowdy fans were soon to follow, having been tossed out of the country by an Italian magistrate.

All the same, it was an exceptional night of soccer for England Tuesday.

David Platt, a substitute, scored with less than a minute left to give England a 1-0 overtime victory over Belgium and a spot in the World Cup quarterfinals.

In the day's other second-round game, Yugoslavia edged Spain 2-1 in overtime in Verona behind two goals from Dragan Stojkovic. Yugoslavia reached the World Cup quarterfinals for the first time in 28 years.

Indians after divisional foes

Stan Jefferson first walked, then ran and the Cleveland Indians continued their warpath on American League Eastern Division teams.

Sandy Alomar's bloop single scored Stan Jefferson in the ninth inning with the winning run to send Cleveland to a 5-3 victory Tuesday night over the Baltimore Orioles.

It was Cleveland's third win in a row and eighth in their last 11 games. All have come against eastern division teams.

Although the Indians have received timely hitting and good pitching, it was Jefferson's base-running that helped.

Pinch-running for Ken Phelps, Jefferson proceeded to steal second and third base to set up Alomar's RBI.

Elsewhere in the American League, Boston zipped Toronto 3-0. Minnesota edged Texas 5-4. New York crushed Milwaukee 8-2. Oakland nipped Detroit 3-2. Kansas City rapped Seattle 4-1 and Chicago knocked California 11-9.

Rain, diamonds don't mix

Wet weather washes away most games

From staff reports

Your front lawn and the water levels around the area are benefitting from the showers and thunderstorms that have blanketed Seminole County the last couple of days. But it certainly has played havoc with local baseball and softball leagues.

On Tuesday night, all but one game was postponed due to rain.

At Chase Park in Sanford, only the first game of a scheduled doubleheader in the Sanford Recreation Department's Tuesday Night Women's Slowpitch Softball League.

In Lake Mary, a National Amateur Baseball Federation game between Lake Mary and Lake Brantley was washed out. According to Lake Mary coach Allen Tuttle, no make-up date has been set.

The same thing happened in Oviedo, where a game between Oviedo High School's NABF team and Adcock Rooling (Seminole High School's summer team) was rained out.

Instead of getting their teams ready to play on Tuesday night, most coaches were busy making sure that their home fields were protected from the rain that fell most of Tuesday afternoon and evening.

"This is the second time this summer we've had a game with Adcock rained out," said Oviedo coach Mike Ferrell. "It looks like we're going to play a doubleheader the next time we meet (on July 16 at Oviedo). If we can fit in another game, we will."

Also, Southeast Seminole and Longwood were scheduled to play in the final game of the Bambino (11 and 12-year-olds) All-Star District Tournament on Tuesday night. No information concerning when the game would be played was reported.

The outlook doesn't hold much promise for getting any games in during the next 48 hours. This afternoon and evening, there's a 70 percent chance of showers with thunderstorm activity likely for Thursday afternoon and evening. There is the chance for less rain on Friday and Saturday.

In Home Medical holds off Seko

From staff reports

SANFORD -- In Home Medical broke a 3-3 tie with two runs in the third and fifth innings, then held off a late Seko Air Freight rally to post a 7-6 triumph and move into a tie for third place in the Sanford Recreation Department Tuesday Night Women's Slowpitch Softball League at Chase Park.

The scheduled games matching Harear Aluminum Products with the Honey Bees and league-leading Thermocarbon against second-place Ensley Incorporated were cancelled because of rain and will be made up at a later date.

The standings have Thermocarbon on top at 7-0 followed by Ensley (5-2), Seko and In Home Medical (both 4-4), Harear (2-5) and the Honey Bees (1-6).

Next week, Thermocarbon plays Harear. Seko faces the Honey Bees and Ensley challenges In Home Medical.

In Home scored a pair of runs in the bottom of the first inning to grab the early lead. Rita Clifton singled and Dawn McCall, Loyda Hale and Abby Dealba all walked to score Clifton. After McCall was forced at the plate, Bird lifted a sacrifice fly to right field to score Hale.

In Home Medical increased the lead to 3-0 with a run in the second. Marisa Pomales singled, Susan Feldman and Sheri Yates both reached on fielder's choices and Clifton walked to score Pomales.

Seko came back to tie the score with three runs in the top of the third. Sonya Poole and Bobbie Mosley both singled and Faye Kennedy walked to load the bases. Peggy Pulliam singled in two runs before Janet Morris walked to reload the bases. Rene Carter then hit into a fielder's choice. Kennedy scoring on the play to tie the score at 3-3.

Bobbie Mosley contributed two singles and a pair of runs scored to the Seko Air Freight attack on Tuesday night, but it wasn't enough to keep Seko from dropping a one-run decision to In Home Medical.

In Home Medical took the lead for good with two runs in the bottom of the third. After Dealba singled and Lisa Bishop walked to start the inning, the next two batters popped out. Yvonne Simms and Pomales followed with singles to score Dealba and Bishop, respectively, to give In Home the lead back.

In Home Medical pushed its advantage to four with a two-run fifth. Bird, Powell, Simms and Pomales hit consecutive singles to score the runs. Simms and Pomales registering one RBI each.

Seko tried to pull out the game in the top of the seventh by scoring three runs. With one out, Mosley singled. A strike out later, Pulliam singled and went to second on the throw went to third. Morris then singled to score Mosley and Pulliam and went to second on the throw to the plate. Carter singled to score Morris and wound up on second, but the next batter was retired to end the game.

Magic can't afford to make mistake with No. 4 pick

United Press International

ORLANDO — The brain trust of the Orlando Magic heads into Wednesday's NBA draft agonizing over the long and the short of it.

With a half-dozen weaknesses and no second-round selection, Orlando cannot afford a mistake with the No. 4 pick. Two of the players the club covets most, Derrick Coleman of Syracuse and Georgia Tech's Dennis Scott, will likely be off the board within the first three picks.

If Oregon State star Gary Payton is also gone, the Magic choice could come down to either 6-foot-1 Chris Jackson of Louisiana State or Dwayne Schintzius, the 7-2 enigma from the University of Florida.

Monday's trade of guard Reggie Theus to New Jersey strips Orlando of its one legitimate threat from the perimeter, perhaps indicating the club has settled on Jackson, who left the Tigers following his sophomore season. Jackson boasts superior quickness off the dribble and outstanding shooting range.

Still, Schintzius remains an intriguing possibility. Orlando is dismal in the pivot, with Dave Corzine coming off a major knee injury and Mark Acres an undistinguished backup.

"Dwayne has become the mystery man of the draft, maybe the biggest mystery in NBA draft history," says Magic General Manager Pat Williams. "I'm not sure anybody thinks they have a handle on this guy."

Schintzius, a fine shooter with a deft passing touch, was suspended twice at Florida following campus altercations. He quit the team last year in a dispute with ex-Gator coach Don DeVoe. This spring, Schintzius showed up overweight at two different camps attended by NBA scouts.

Williams is quite familiar with the frustrations of untapped talent. He worked for the 76ers when Philadelphia drafted 6-11 Darryl Dawkins out of high school. Dawkins never learned the subtleties of NBA pivot play and made most of his headlines with dunks rather than dominance.

Orlando is also considering several small forwards who can complement Terry Catledge — La Salle's Lionel Simmons, 6-7, and 6-6 Willie Burton of Minnesota.

"Burton fits the role of the athletic small forward who has a very good inside-outside game," says John Gabriel, director of scouting for the Magic.

Burton came on strong during the NCAA Tournament and was named MVP of the Orlando All-Star Classic. Simmons, the No. 3 scorer in NCAA history, is a strong post-up player and always plays under control.

"If you're a player who relies on inside strength and you're a small forward, it will be double or triple the effort to score like that in the pros because everybody's bigger," Gabriel says.

Orlando gave up its second-round pick, No. 29 overall, to Chicago in a draft day deal for Corzine a year ago.

Anderson charges to easy Late Model victory

Special to the Herald

ORLANDO — Defending Florida Governor's Cup champion Dick Anderson sped to an easy 25-lap win in Friday night's FASCAR-sanctioned Late Model feature at Orlando SpeedWorld.

At New Smyrna Speedway on Saturday night, the entire program was rained out.

On Friday night at Orlando, Anderson started near the rear of the field and quickly worked his way up to the second spot, right behind early leader and defending track champion David Russell.

After a caution for oil on the track, Russell lost traction momentarily in turn No. 4, allowing Anderson to use the "bump-and-run" tactic to secure the lead.

From that point on, Anderson survived numerous cautions and a red flag period as the field of high-priced machines began to show the effects of the demolition-derby syndrome.

With nearly every car in the field suffering sheet metal damage and the car of Dave McCabe destroyed in a bout with the turn No. 1 retaining wall, track officials decided to hold an impromptu Late Model drivers' meeting after the race.

For Anderson, it was his first FASCAR-sanctioned win of the season at SpeedWorld. Russell took second over Doug Latham, 1974 Palm Beach Fairgrounds Speedway Late Model track champion Jim Crowe and Jimmy Sals.

The 25-lapper for the Sportsman cars was a runaway victory for young Ricky Marshall, giving him an even dozen feature wins in 1990. By the luck of the draw, Marshall started on the pole and led every lap. Miami visitor Steve Lamb took second while Timmy Todd scored a hard-earned third place finish over Jeff Meyer and

IN BRIEF

Garage sale set

Sunrise Kiwanis of Sanford will hold its annual garage sale on June 30, from 8 a.m. until all merchandise is sold at the Church of the Nazarene, 2581 Sanford Ave. Proceeds will benefit several community projects.

Celebration slated

The Annual July 4th Celebration in Geneva will begin with a parade at 10 a.m., on First Street.

Activities following the parade will be held at the Geneva Community Center. They include skits, songs, cloggers, twirlers, the Geneva Players, a beauty and talent contest, arts and crafts and barbecue dinner.

Dinner is $4. Hot dogs and hamburgers are available for a small fee.

For information about entering the parade, call David Haddix at 349-5994; the beauty-talent contest, call Teena at 349-5406; the arts and crafts exhibit, call Jessie at 349-5112.

Blood bank seeks donors

Central Florida Blood Bank is asking area residents to make Blood Brotherhood Day part of their 4th of July plans and to donate blood to help the blood bank prepare for holiday emergencies that are typical during this slow summer donation period. The event will take place Monday, July 2, from 9 a.m. to 7 p.m. at all branch locations, a seven county area, with a goal of collecting 1,100 units of blood.

There will be several incentives for donors, including a coupon for a 20 percent discounted admission price at Universal Studios Florida, which is good for up to six people.

Donating blood is a safe procedure that only takes about 45 minutes. Donors must be in good health, at least 17 years old, and weigh a minimum of 100 pounds. All Central Florida Blood Bank donors receive a free cholesterol screening to help monitor their health with results mailed within three to four weeks of their donation.

For more information or to locate the branch closest to you, call the blood bank at 849-6100.

Southwest flavors spice cantina food

Cook offers hearty soups, salads, even a cure for hangover

By JOAN KING
Herald correspondent

SANFORD — Francisco Aranza, our Cook of the Week, is a charming, old-world, southern gentleman from Houston. He lights ladies' cigarettes and opens doors for them.

Aranza likes to be called Frank, because too often people try to pronounce his name in a peculiar way making it more difficult than it is.

He and his wife Nelda have been married for 11 years. She is also from Texas and has five children while Aranza has six. Along with 11 children, they have 36 grandchildren and five great-grandchildren who all live in Houston.

Aranza owns and operates Tex Mex, the cantina in the Winn Dixie Plaza on 17-92 in Sanford.

Aranza calls Mexican cuisine colorful and exciting.

"There are three cultures involved in Mexican cooking. The Aztecs, Spanish and French have all influenced the foods of Mexico," he says.

From the Aztecs came corn which is a predominant staple and used in 80% of Mexican cuisine.

"In Mexico corn is used as bread. In this country flour tortillas are preferred but in Mexico they use corn tortillas," Aranza explains.

The Aztecs also brought chiles (peppers), tomatoes and squash.

The second culture which influenced Mexican cuisine was Spanish culture, as Mexico was ruled by Spain for many years.

"Spain introduced beef, pork, wine, rice and olives to Mexico," Aranza says.

He goes on to explain the French influence.

"Mexico was also ruled by the French under the leadership of Maximilian. The French brought a technique in preparing food," he says.

Aranza has owned five restaurants and was the maitre d' in the executive dining room of a Houston bank before he and Nelda moved to Sanford.

In August of 1987, Aranza visited a nephew in the area who took him to a Mexican restaurant. He wasn't impressed with the restaurant but he fell in love with Sanford and moved here shortly after his visit. It was a good move for the Aranzas as the Texas economy wasn't very stable in 1987.

By January of 1988, Aranza was in business with a new restaurant in a small space on 17-92 in beautiful Sanford. When the opportunity presented itself with a new, larger exposure, he moved his operation into the present location in the Winn Dixie Plaza on 17-92.

Aranza, a well-read man, quotes from a recent article by Edward Cone, an American writer in Paris, who wrote a piece for the May 1990 issue of Texas Monthly. Cone was quoting a Frenchman who owns Plein Sude, a restaurant near Paris.

"There are three great world cuisines — French, Chinese and Mexican. Tex Mex is merely an interpretation," Aranza says.

"Tex Mex is a popular term throughout the world today."

This rather new form of cooking came out of necessity and took time to catch on with the rest of the world as it slowly migrated from the border towns of the U.S.-Mexican line.

Aranza explains, "In Mexico, on every street corner, there was a corn mill where peasants could have their corn ground for a few pennies. In the 30's when people didn't have the staples to make Mexican food, they substituted the corn for flour. The economy was so bad that mothers had to find a cheaper way to feed their families."

"Thus, Tex Mex was born by Mexicans who moved into the U.S. border towns and migrated north."

The real difference in Mexican cuisine and Tex Mex can be appreciated by comparing the two foods side-by-side. One could say that the comparison is like the difference between a French crepe and an American flapjack.

Americans are hearty eaters, therefore, Tex Mex appeals to those with an appetite for spicy, filling food with a heavy salsa, chili and carne.

Tex Mex food is complemented by a Mexican beer. Tecate, served with a piece of lime. Aranza claims that seven out of 10 Floridians prefer Carona beer, but Tecate wins in Texas and Mexico.

Tex Mex is more or less an American creation born out of necessity and is spreading around the world due to popularity.

Aranza states, "If the Mexican restaurants don't switch to Tex Mex they can look forward to closing as several in the Orlando area already have."

When Aranza first opened his restaurant in Sanford, all that he really wanted was to make friends and have fun. He was very successful in both endeavors.

However, his wife Nelda said to him, "We must make money."

When they moved into the new Tex Mex Cantina, Aranza says, "We couldn't afford wallpaper. Now we don't need it."

The walls are covered with signatures, doodles and graffiti by children and all who have the child in them. Aranza says that he would rather have everyone write on the walls in the restaurant than in the rest rooms. The graffiti is a marvelous display of those who came and left their mark. One of the first to sign the wall according to Aranza was Judge Fred Hill, then others followed including publishers, reporters and writers. Aranza tells the children who come with their parents that they may write on his walls but not to do it at home lest they get into trouble.

To sum up the Tex Mex craze, Aranza says, "Tex Mex is something you eat and don't forget. People are tired of the traditional Mexican food."

The menu at this Tex Mex Cantina has been altered slightly to accommodate the Sanford people who have definite likes of their own.

Aranza states, "People have their own preferences and I try to comply. I have a wonderful clientele and everyone who walks through the door is special."

QUACAMOLE — SALAD OR DIP

2 medium avacados, pitted, pared, cut up
1/2 small onion chopped
2 Tbs. lemon juice
1 clove garlic, minced
1/2 tsp. salt
1 small Jalapeno (hot pepper) minced

In blender container place all ingredients and blend until the mixture is fully incorporated. If used as a dip, add 2 Tbs. sour cream.

FRIJOLES A LA CHARRA — BEAN SOUP

8 oz. Pinto beans
6 cups water
1/2 cup chopped onion
6 slices bacon
1 8-oz. can tomatoes chopped

2 Tbs. cilantro chopped
1 tsp. salt
2 Jalapenos chopped

Soak beans overnight in a large pan in 4 cups of water. Drain, add 6 cups water. Cook on low heat covered for 1 1/2 hours. Cook bacon crisp, drain, crumble. Add bacon, onion, tomatoes, Jalapenos, cilantro, and salt. Allow to cook for 45 minutes or until beans are tender.

Aranza states, "People have their own preferences and I try to comply. I have a wonderful clientele and everyone who walks through the door is special."

MENUDO — TRIPE SOUP

2 lbs. honeycomb tripe
1 1/2 lbs. veal knuckle
8 cups water
3 medium onions chopped
2 cloves garlic diced
1/2 tsp. crushed oregano
1/2 tsp. crushed red pepper
2 12-oz. cans hominy
2 Tbs. chili powder, mild

Cut tripe into 1 inch pieces, cook in large pan with veal knuckle, water. Cook for 2 hours. Add onions, garlic, oregano, peppers and chili powder. Cook an additional hour. Add drained hominy, let simmer for 25 minutes. Serve hot. Frank says, "This recipe is popular in Mexico and Texas. This hearty soup is eaten with a mixture of chopped onions, peppers, cilantro and wedges of lime or lemon. Menudo is eaten as a cure for hangovers. It works well."

Aranza states, "If the Mexican restaurants don't switch to Tex Mex they can look forward to closing as several in the Orlando area already have."

Help find best pet

During June, Adopt-a-Cat month, the Sanford Herald will be searching for pet stories from our grade school and middle school-aged readers.

We need you to write us a letter about you and your pet to be reviewed by our panel of judges. Tell us how you adopted your pet, what your pet means to you, and include any anecdotes about you and your pet. Your pet does not have to be a cat to qualify.

Judging will be based on sincerity and clarity. You must live in Seminole County to enter. We will select one winner from grade school and one winner from middle school. We will be running a different contest for high school students in the near future.

Letters should be typed or printed legibly. Include your name, your pet's name, street address, city and daytime phone number at the top of your letter.

Deliver or mail to "Love a Pet Contest," Sanford Herald, 300 N. French Ave., Sanford, 32771.

There is no maximum length limit on letters. Entries are due at the Herald office by 1 p.m., Friday, June 29.

The two winners will be featured with their pets in an upcoming edition of the Herald.

Herbal tea remedy praised by readers

DEAR DR. GOTT: Awhile ago, you wrote about an herbal tea that cures toenail fungus. What is the tea, where can I purchase it and how is it used?

DEAR READER: In 1986, on advice from a reader, I published a column about treating chronic toenail and/or fingernail fungus with Pau d'Arco tea. Sometimes known as Lapacho tea, it is readily available in most health-food stores.

breast enlargement, lactation, interruption of menstruation and diminished libido (sex drive). Therefore, your sister's vaginal bleeding could represent an unusual but direct effect of the medicine.

While her symptom is not dangerous, it is certainly annoying. Therefore, I think she ought to ask her doctor to substitute another medication for the Aldomet. Many effective

Since the column appeared, I have received a constant stream of letters from grateful readers who have used the tea treatment with great success. The substance is safe, inexpensive and easy to use. Here's how.

Use one teaspoon (or bag) of tea per cup of water. Brew the concoction.

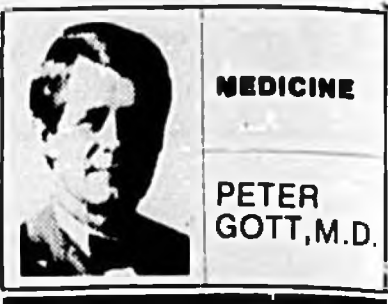

When the mixture has cooled to the point it doesn't burn, soak the toes or fingers until the tea becomes cold.

Use the treatment once or twice a day. Within a few days, improvement should be evident. Within weeks, according to my readers' comments, the fungus should disappear. For those patients who experience a recurrence, repeat treatments may be required.

DEAR DR. GOTT: My sister is on Aldomet for her blood pressure. Every once in a while, she goes off the medication. When beginning it again, she experiences vaginal bleeding every time. Why does this happen?

DEAR READER: Aldomet (methyl dopa) is commonly used to lower blood pressure. Although its precise method of action is not known, it probably acts by interfering with one or more of the body's pressor substances, naturally produced chemicals that raise blood pressure.

Because the drug affects some fundamental biochemical processes, it can cause varied side effects, including sedation, weakness, dizziness, nausea, jaundice and joint pain. In particular, Aldomet may affect blood formation and the reproductive tract, leading to anemia, bleeding tendency, blood-pressure-lowering drugs are available, I'm sure the doctor would be willing to prescribe one that is less apt to cause side effects.

WIN AT BRIDGE

By James Jacoby

Although South really had nothing extra for his jump rebid of two no-trump, he thought he had the right values to go on when responder North invited slam.

North had shown a diamond suit and strong support in clubs, and had cue-bid a spade control. South liked having only K-5 of diamonds, plus the top club cards (K-Q-J), so he bid six. Then, to show that he could play the cards as well as he bid them, he made an overtrick on a crisscross squeeze. Declarer ruffed the king of spades lead in dummy, played K-A of diamonds and ruffed a diamond with his jack of clubs. This was a necessary unblocking play just in case West had started with 10-x-x-x in the trump suit. He then played K-Q and ace of clubs. The two good diamonds were cashed, on which South discarded a heart and a spade, leaving him with Q-8 of spades and A-K alone in hearts. The dummy had J-4-2 of hearts and the last trump. What could West hold? If he came down to A-9 of spades and only Q-10 of hearts, declarer would cash A-K of hearts, dropping the queen. If he kept the Q-10-9 of hearts and the lone spade ace, declarer would come to the heart ace, ruff out the ace of spades, and return to his hand with the other high heart to score the 13th trick with the spade queen.

HOROSCOPE

By Bernice Bede Osol
YOUR BIRTHDAY
June 28, 1990

Patience will be required in the year ahead for endeavors or enterprises you hope will lead you to more abundant circumstances. Your progress should be steady, but it may not be speedy.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) The respect of your peers today if they know exactly where you stand on pertinent matters. Be sure what you have to say has the ring of sincerity and truth. Trying to patch up a broken romance? The Astro-Graph Matchmaker can help you to understand what to do to make the relationship work. Mail S22 to Matchmaker, P.O. Box 91428, Cleveland, OH 44101-3428.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) Prudence is called for today in the management of your resources. If you're shopping and can't find what you want at the right price, keep searching until you can.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) The types of social activities that are likely to be the most pleasurable for you today will be those that are tone down a bit, somewhere away from the maddening crowds with a few select friends.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) Today you're likely to be methodical in procedures as well as conscientious about your responsibilities. There isn't much chance you'll neglect or confuse your priorities.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) It behooves you to associate with your more ambitious friends today as opposed to those who are more frivolous. Companions will have a strong influence on the outcome of events.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) You possess a unique attribute today for making much from meager circumstances. From the crumbs that others ignore, you might be able to bake a full loaf.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) The reason you might be able to make something arduous look easy today is because you'll have some valuable past experiences upon which to draw that others may lack.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19)

There is a possibility you may receive now or in the very near future something of worth that has long been due you. It pertains to something you've conditioned yourself not to expect.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) Observations you make today regarding the true motives of others could be remarkably astute. However, it's best to keep what you surmise to yourself.

ARIES (March 21-April 19) Conditions pertaining to significant issues continue to trend in your favor again today. Keep moving in a direction where the efforts you expend will generate the most good.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) In developments today where you are in a position to exercise authority, be cognizant of the frailties of the others. Use a firm hand, but not a clenched fist.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) Financial conditions look manageable if all of the family members work in unison to help keep the household budget in fact. Exceptions might cause the cookie jar to crumble.

Make-ahead dishes helpful

Summertime is a time of family get-togethers and special festivities. Make-ahead dishes are always helpful.

Serve sliced ham or turkey with a selection of salads for an easy buffet or picnic. Plan a barbecue with a salad or two!

This make-ahead fruit combination is perfect for freezing and then enjoying as a salad or summer snack. Its crowd size recipe will serve 24.

FROZEN FRUIT SQUARES

- 1 package (8 oz.) cream cheese
- 1/4 cup sugar
- 2 cans (16 oz. ea.) chunky mixed fruit, undrained
- 1 T. lemon juice
- 1 package (10 oz.) frozen strawberries
- 2 cups blueberries
- 3 bananas, sliced

Microwave (100% power) cream cheese in 2-qt. batter bowl 30-60 seconds or until softened, stirring once. Beat until smooth. Beat in sugar. Slowly blend in undrained mixed fruit. Stir in lemon juice.

Microwave (100%) strawberries in package (remove in metal bin) 1-1/2 minutes or until partially thawed. Add to cream cheese mixture along with blueberries and bananas. Pour into 12 x 8 inch baking dish. Cover and freeze until firm, about 6 hours. Allow to stand at room temperature about 30 minutes before cutting into squares and serving.

This colorful slaw serves 12 and is a flavorful addition to any barbecue, family reunion or picnic. It keeps well so leftovers can be enjoyed for several days.

CALICO SLAW

- 1 medium head cabbage,

shredded

- 1 small green pepper, finely chopped
- 1 medium carrot, shredded
- 1/4 cup radishes
- 2/5 cup sugar
- 2/5 cup white vinegar
- 1/2 cup cooking oil
- 1 T. celery seed
- 1 T. dry mustard
- 1/4 t. pepper

Combine cabbage, green pepper, carrot and radishes in large bowl, set aside. Combine remaining ingredients in 2-cup glass measure. Microwave on 100% power, 2-3 minutes or until mixture boils, stirring once. Pour over cabbage mixture; toss to mix well. Cover and refrigerate several hours or overnight. Serve this salad in a lettuce-lined bowl topped with cashews. It's best if prepared the day before, making it great for parties and receptions.

COMPANY CHICKEN SALAD

- 2 whole chicken breasts, split
- 4 cups hot water
- 1/2 t. salt
- 1 cup uncooked ring macaroni
- 2 cups halved orange segments
- 1 cup sliced celery
- 1 cup halved seedless grapes
- 1 cup mayonnaise
- 1/4 cup whipping cream, whipped
- 1 T. lemon juice

- 1 t. salt
- 1/4 t. white pepper
- 1 cup salted cashews

Place chicken breasts on a microwave-safe meat rack or in a 10 x 6 baking dish. Cover with wax paper. Microwave on 100% power 10-11 minutes or until chicken is done. Cool.

Microwave (100%) water and salt in uncovered 2 qt. batter bowl 6-7 minutes or until steaming hot, add macaroni. Microwave (100%) uncovered 6-8 minutes or until just about tender, stirring once or twice. Let stand 5 minutes. Drain and rinse in cold water.

Remove skin and bones from chicken; cut into bite-size pieces. Combine with remaining ingredients, except cashews in a 2-qt. serving bowl; mix lightly. Cover and refrigerate overnight, allowing macaroni to absorb dressing and flavors to blend. Just before serving, stir half the cashews into salad; sprinkle remainder on top. Garnish with fresh mint leaves.

*Mandarin oranges can be substituted for fresh oranges.

Serve this colorful salad for a luncheon or as an accompaniment for barbecued meats or poultry.

ITALIAN PASTA SALAD

- 2 cups uncooked pasta, shells or rotini
- 2 cups sliced carrots
- 1 cup sliced celery
- 1 T. water
- 1 cup halved fresh mushrooms
- 1/2 cup sliced pepperoni
- 1/2 cup halved pitted ripe olives
- 1/2 cup snipped fresh parsley
- 1 cup Italian dressing
- 2 T. Parmesan cheese

Cook macaroni as directed on package. Drain and rinse in cold water; set aside. Combine carrots, celery and water in 2-qt. casserole. Cover. Microwave on 100% power 5-6 minutes or until vegetables are tender-crisp, stirring once. Drain. Add cooked pasta and remaining ingredients. Mix lightly; refrigerate several hours.

Do you have a question or suggestion about microwave cooking? Midge Mycoff will use her column to answer. Address letters to: Midge Mycoff, Sanford Herald, 300 N. French Ave., Sanford, 32771.

Cool summer fruit

Young couple have become elderly neighbor's keepers

DEAR ABBY: I just came back from helping an elderly neighbor lift her invalid husband off the couch and onto the bed to be "changed." (This is the third time this morning.)

My husband and I are graduate students who work nights and are home at odd hours, grabbing a quick bite or typing a last-minute paper.

When we rented this apartment, we gave our telephone number to this elderly neighbor and told her to call us in case of an emergency. At first, she called only when her husband had fallen. He has gotten himself into some strange positions; once his head was wedged between the sofa and the coffee table. He's a very large man, and she can't handle him alone. No other neighbors seem willing to help, and there's no family nearby.

Now we are called several times during the day and at night, too. Also, their apartment is becoming a health hazard with piles of soiled diapers all over the place. (The odor and flies are terrible!)

We will be moving after we graduate, and we're concerned about what will happen to this couple after we move. Please help.

FEELING HELPLESS
DEAR FEELING HELPLESS: Don't wait another day. Call your county social services department (sometimes listed under "family services") and explain the situation.

A social worker will be sent out to appraise your neighbors' needs. Most communities have a "visiting-nurse service" for elderly or physically challenged people who require daily care.

Bless you for caring enough about your neighbors to have written to me.

DEAR ABBY: I am engaged to be married to "Mr. Right" very soon. We've been very serious for two years. Mr. Right was formerly married to "Mrs. Wrong." They have two children. The problem is his mother.

ADVICE

She insists on keeping several pictures of Mr. Right with Mrs. Wrong conspicuously displayed in her home — even though she claims not to care for her. I know it's her home, but this has bothered me for two years now. Since I am engaged to her son, I feel very offended and have told my fiancée that I will not visit his mother after we are married if she doesn't remove those pictures.

NOT WANTING TO STIR UP TROUBLE
DEAR NOT WANTING TO STIR UP TROUBLE: Be true to your signature and let it pass until after the wedding. Then present your mother-in-law with current wedding pictures suitably framed and "help" her select the places to display them.

Then the pictures of Mr. Right and Mrs. Wrong can be retired with other mementos of ancient history — possibly a dusty and seldom-opened family album.

DEAR ABBY: Stamps don't stick? Wet the stamp but don't dog-lick all the glue off. Touch the stamp to a wet sponge. If possible, buy stamps in coils of 100 or more; they're made for machine applications and have more (and better) glue. Also, they haven't been touched by the hands of the many inventory employees at the post office. There is nothing in the many postal books about clean hands, and most post offices have no convenient place to wash hands anyway.

Another tip: It's better to lick the envelope, not the stamp. Believe it or not, the envelope is usually cleaner than the stamp.

No glue at all on these stamps? Cockroaches ate it all off in the drawer. Honest. It happens all the time. They leave no tracks.

Print more letters about the poor quality of glue. It didn't used to be this bad. Maybe the postmaster general will wise up, but don't count on it. I am a retired postmaster, and you may use my name.

ELMER PINKERTON ELMWOOD, NEB.
