SAVING A LIFE

A white German shepherd dog owes her life to some concerned Lake Monroe fishermen and a quick-thinking animal control officer. Fishermen trolling the Lake Monroe seawall on Seminole Boulevard near Mangoustine Avenue on Saturday morning saw the dog floundering in the waves. Sanford police were called to the scene, and they in turn notified the Seminole County Animal Control Department. When Animal Control Officer Bob Young arrived at the scene, the dog had climbed into the drainage pipe in the seawall. As the rising water level quickly narrowed airspace in the pipe, Young "lassoed" the dog's head (top photo), yanked her up over the seawall (center) and then put a regular rope lead around the shivering beast (right). The dog's owner, Valle Cox, 609 E. Second St., Sanford, said the animal, named Star, apparently dug her way under a fence early Saturday morning to escape. Star was reunited with Mrs. Cox this morning at the Animal Control Department at Five Points.

Crime Lab Lake Mary Out Of The Running

The city of Lake Mary is out of the running as the location for the new Central Florida Crime Laboratory, according to Claude Truby, director of the Sanford Crime Lab, which the new facility is to replace.

"We have backed off the Lake Mary site because it is involved in litigation," Truby said today.

The site Lake Mary was proposing to lease or sell to the state for the proposed new $4 million crime lab was two acres of a 10-acre parcel off Hinehart Road. The city acquired the parcel in 1979, but has been involved in a lawsuit filed by the seller, Jeno Paulucci, for the last several months.

The Lake Mary City Council late last week agreed to consider an offer for settlement of the suit from Paulucci representatives and asked for changes in two sections of the proposal. The proposal included a clause banning the location of a city vehicle barn at the site and called for a restriction on the property's use to governmental structures until 21 years after the death of Paulucci's daughter, Gena, now 19.

Truby said the sites now under consideration are: a state-owned parcel adjacent to the state office building in downtown Orlando; a former Orange County vehicle inspection station, also in downtown Orlando, and the University of Central Florida research park, east of Orlando.

"Orange County is the greatest contributor of work to the crime lab," Truby said today, adding this is why an Orange County site is favored at this point.

He said the Florida Department of Law Enforcement, under whose domain the crime lab falls, must get together a legislative package seeking $4 million in state money for funding the construction of the facility by the time the Legislature convenes on Jan. 18. — DONNA ESTES.

County May Cut Down Majority On Use Change

By LEE DANCY
Herald Staff Writer

A smaller majority may soon be required from the Seminole County Commission when voting on a requested land-use change.

In the past, a required four-fifths vote was needed from the commission to approve a change in designated land uses outlined in the county's comprehensive plan. At Tuesday evening's public hearings for requested zoning and land-use changes, the commission will vote on a proposal to change that requirement to only three-fifths vote.

Before a property owner can receive the necessary rezoning for a piece of property he or she wants to develop in a way incompatible with the county's land-use plan, the proposal

Groundbreaking Set For $6 Million Plant

By DONNA ESTES
Herald Staff Writer

Extension of water and sewer lines to the proposed site of the new $6 million Rush-Hampton Industries facilities off Silver Lake Road in the city is expected to be approved by the Sanford City Commission at a 7 p.m. meeting today.

City Manager W.E. "Pete" Knowles is recommending that the city enter into an agreement with the firm, scheduled to move its operations from Longwood, to provide some $10,000 in labor to extend the utility service as the city has done in the past for other industries.

City Engineer Mack LaZenby estimates costs of materials and boring and jacking under the railroad and Lake Drive to extend the service at about $24,892. This cost would be paid by Rush-Hampton.

Rush Bailey, president of Rush-Hampton, said today that plans call for construction of a 167,000-square-foot, manufacturing-warehouse plant, including 30,000 square feet in office space. Ground is scheduled to be broken in December and construction to begin in January, he said.

The construction will be done in two phases, he said, with the manufacturing plant scheduled for completion in September and the offices completed two months later. While construction costs of the facility are estimated at $6 million, some $2 million worth of equipment will be in the plant.

Bailey said that while the firm currently has 550 employees, an additional 150 will be hired when the new plant opens in September.

The 10-year-old firm has been operating out of eight buildings in Longwood and one in Altamonte Springs in leased facilities, Bailey said.

"We'll be transferring the entire operation to Sanford," he said. "We want to get everything under one roof."

Rush-Hampton is basically a research company, Bailey said, and "owns a lot of patents on citrus extracts and air-treatment and odor-control devices, using the trademark CA-90."

"We also are expanding into other areas, including food preservatives," he added.

In other action at tonight's meeting, the commission will consider awarding purchase orders for 10 new budgeted vehicles through state purchase. The cost of the 10 vehicles under state purchase is $68,758.40. Some $77,978 was budgeted for the vehicles. Six of the vehicles are to be used by the Police Department, one by the Fire Department and three by the Public Works Department.

Building Codes Department Is Keeping Busy In Sanford

By TENI YARBOROUGH
Herald Staff Writer

Most people passing a construction site look to see what their neighbor or a land developer are building. But few, perhaps, look to see if there is a white sheet of paper with the words "Building Permit" tacked to a stand, a tree or the structure itself. Few, that is, except Sanford's building inspectors.

The six-member staff of the city's Building Codes and Zoning Department is responsible for issuing building permits whenever a resident or developer plans to construct, remodel or add on to a present structure.

"We have to regulate all zoning within the city and determine if and where something can be built," Building Official Gary Winn says. "We try to work with people who want to build so they can do it right the first time."

According to 11-year city employee Winn, there's a lot more to regulating development within the city than just issuing building permits.

"We check into complaints, like if a guy is working on cars at his home and it appears he's running a business," Winn says. "We check it out because some neighbors don't want an automotive repair shop next door to their home. Besides, you can't have a commercial business in a residential area. It's against zoning regulations."

Building permits for residential construction recently went from $13 to $23 per square foot. Commercial building permits increased from $15 to $25 per square foot.

"We're still below the average for permit cost," Winn says. "The average in the state is about $31 per square foot. But we haven't increased our fees in about eight years and, frankly, we were losing money on the permits."

Winn, who receives an annual salary of $20,347.85, will celebrate his first year as building official on Wednesday. He is department head and administrator of the department, which includes Leah Rogers as zoning and codes inspector, Al Payne and John Steffens as building inspectors, Doris Harrison as secretary and Marilyn Kempnick as clerk-typist.

Ms. Rogers receives a salary of $13,188.96, Payne and Steffens each $15,187.20, Ms. Harrison $10,973.55, and Ms. Kempnick $9,362.85 annually.

The total budget for the department is $126,480. Anticipated revenue from building permits in fiscal 1981-82 is $38,000. Last year the city reaped $90,200 from the sale of building permits.

"You just can't judge what your (permit) receipts will be because the market fluctuates so," Winn says. "We have a lot of residents and commercial developers in Sanford who want to build in the city but loan interest rates are just too high right now."

Winn says he "feels for young people just starting out." He says a home purchased 10 years ago for about $13,000 is now worth about $36,000.

"The only problem with the cost of homes and buildings going up is that salaries usually don't match the rate of inflation," he says. "Maybe a young person or couple can afford the down payment or rent, but not both. It's quite a chunk all at once."

Winn predicts that if interest rates drop, "Everybody will build. I know a lot of people who are just sitting and waiting for the rates to drop, and when they do, they're building."

But, where are they going to build? Is Sanford capped out as far as places to build go?

According to Winn, the southern portion of the city is undergoing a lot of development planning now.

"Down on the south end we've got Hidden Lake and Groveview Village subdivisions concepts in the works," he says. "There will be room for growth down there for at least the next five to 10 years. We're probably

Winn: I'm Happy In This Job

He's celebrating his first year as city building official, but Gary Winn is no stranger to Sanford or to City Hall.

"I was born and raised in Sanford," he said. "And I have no desire to go anywhere else. I like Sanford, I enjoy my job. I'm on top as far as my field or career is concerned. I'm happy."

The 33-year-old city department head is single, and "aside from work, I enjoy hunting and fishing with a passion."

"I love to hunt deer and wild hogs," he says. "I recently bought myself a new gun for my birthday. Nice gift for myself, isn't it?"

Winn says he also enjoys cars, and if anyone's been counting lately, they'll know he's had quite a few.

"I would estimate I've had about 178 cars and trucks over the last 11 years, and about 156 boats of every type over the last 10 years," he said. "I enjoy them, but I get tired of them and trade them off."

Winn is taking courses at Seminole Community College. He says he lacks about nine hours to get an associate of arts degree.

"I'm going now, 10 or more years after high school, because I want to go," he says. "I like it."

What course is he taking this semester?

"British Literature. Sounds a bit heavy and it is, but I like it," Winn says. He says the class includes only two other students.

Miami Couple Await Word Of Their Lost Son 'Boo'

KEY LARGO (UPI) — A Miami carpenter and his wife waited anxiously today for experts to compare the footprints of their son to that of a tiny corpse found Saturday in a Florida Keys mangrove swamp near where 2½-year-old Thomas "Boo" Perry III mysteriously disappeared more than a week ago.

Little Boo was last seen Nov. 14 when he took a walk away from a Key Largo campground with a family acquaintance. The friend returned several hours later and told the boy's father, "Your son's under some rocks, hurt." He later disappeared as well.

UM Explosion Probed

MIAMI (UPI) — Special investigators will search today for the cause of an explosion and fire that filled the fourth floor of a University of Miami research building with noxious fumes and low radiation Sunday.

No one was injured, but police evacuated about a dozen medical students from the building and sealed off a two-block area for two hours.

'Share-A-Job' Bill Filed

TALLAHASSEE (UPI) — Two or more people sharing one job works in private business and the state should divide some of its jobs so mothers and others with restricted time can find part-time work, two women legislators believe.

Reps. Carrie Meek, D-Miami, and Virginia Rosen, D-North Miami Beach, have introduced a bill (HB 138) that would authorize state agencies to set aside up to 10 percent of their budgeted positions under a "shared employment" program.

Pilot In The Drink Safely

VERO BEACH (UPI) — A Vero Beach carpenter escaped injury Sunday as he ditched his single-engine Cessna 182 in the Atlantic Ocean three miles east of Vero Beach.

Art Feher, 33, said his plane developed engine trouble, but after he ditched he was able to pull a life raft from the plane. He was picked up by the fishing boat Blue Jillian a few minutes later.

Satcom In Orbit

CAPE CANAVERAL (UPI) — The RCA Satcom III-B avoided whatever caused its predecessor to disappear into space two years ago Sunday and was kicked into stationary orbit over the Pacific Ocean.

The firing of the spacecraft engine went without a hitch and the replacement satellite is sitting over the equator. In December 1979, an identical operation resulted in the mysterious disappearance of the original Satcom III.

Election Correction

The Evening Herald in its Sunday edition incorrectly reported the candidates in opposing races in the Dec. 1 Casselberry city election. The city council candidates and correct races are: Incumbent John Leighty, 10-year city council veteran, opposed by George Smith; and incumbent Tom Embree, being challenged by Carl Robertson Jr. Embree served on the council from 1973 to 1975 before he was transferred out of state by the U.S. Navy. He ran unsuccessfully in 1977 and 1978 and was elected to a two-year term in 1979. Robertson served two terms from 1976 to 1980 and was defeated in a bid for reelection in 1980.

Colorado temperatures crept up to nearly 80 degrees under sunny skies Sunday and broke several record high temperatures for the date. But it was a different story in the upper-Midwest where freezing rain and snow showers were scattered over the Dakotas.

Oven-Ignited Blaze Destroys Duplex

A Sunday morning blaze near Sanford has left two families homeless and caused $30,000 in damages. There were no injuries.

Seminole County Fire Investigator Ray Pippin said an oven being used to heat the south side of a duplex on Dixie Way, just off 18th Street, ignited nearby combustibles. The oven door had been left open to warm the home by members of the Willie Hill family.

The north side of the duplex was occupied by the Willie Washington family. The Red Cross was called to assist both families in finding temporary housing.

Sanford firefighters had extinguished the 9:47 a.m. fire before county fire fighters arrived, according to Sanford Fire Chief William Galley.

The $30,000 damage estimate includes damage to the structure and contents, Pippin said. The house was a total loss, Pippin said.

JAI ALAI HJINKS

A security guard at the Jai Alai fronton in Fern Park was alert but too late Thursday evening to save Manuel Asenjo of Orlando the price of two new hubcaps for his 1981 Ford Thunderbird. But he may have saved him the expense of replacing all four.

Guard James Houston told police he saw two males loitering around Asenjo's car at about 11 p.m. and when they noticed they were being observed fled carrying two hubcaps. The other two wheel covers were left on the ground.

Asenjo valued the stolen hubcaps at $120.

Patco Construction worker Troy T. Thompson, Rt. 4, Sanford, told police someone stole an engineer's construction level from the bed of his pickup truck sometime between 9 p.m. Tuesday and 7:45 a.m. Thursday. The theft occurred while the truck was parked at his residence, police report.

The level was valued at $1,400.

Lake Wayman... Again

By LEE DANCY

Herald Staff Writer

An ongoing controversy between Lake Wayman area residents and the city of Longwood could be further inflamed or noticeably tempered, depending on a ruling by the city attorney expected at tonight's City Commission meeting.

Lake Wayman residents, represented by Georgia Avenue resident Larry Hoffman, have appeared in group force at the last two commission meetings. The group's complaints focus partly on the city, but primarily on lakeshore property owner Ben L. Beckner.

Hoffman says Beckner has erected a steel cable fence, blocking property that does not belong to him. Beckner said the cable borders property which he either owns or has an option to buy.

City Attorney Marvin Rooks visited the area in question last week. He is expected to give a ruling whether Beckner's cable fence is legally erected or is set on lakefront property not belonging to him.

At the heart of the issue are two strips of property bordering the east and west sides of the lake. Prior to 1951, the two strips were city streets connecting Georgia and Seminole Avenues to form Lake Wayman Circle.

In 1951 the city vacated the property, giving up all public rights to the former city streets, Rooks said at the Nov. 18 commission meeting. The ruling angered Hoffman and the residents he represented, who believe the 1951 City Commission did not intend to vacate the property.

Beckner has stretched his cable across that strip of property, blocking foot traffic—primarily children who once used it as a shortcut to school. Hoffman said Beckner has installed the cable fence past his property line on the strip of land, but Beckner said the cable borders property he has an option to buy on which he can legally erect a fence.

If Rooks says the cable is legally on Beckner's property, local children will have to take the long route to school.

The commission also will vote on the first reading of an ordinance prohibiting plantings, fences or other structures on city rights of way. Fences constructed too close to city streets in the past have caused problems for city street repair crews, according to city officials.

...Commission May Require A Smaller Majority

currently must be approved by four of the five commissioners. If the land owner receives that approval, he or she must reappear before the commission for a three-fifths approval of the requested zoning change.

The commission needed approval from the Florida Legislature to make this change. A prerequisite for the legislative approval was unanimous support for the voting change from Seminole County's four state legislators, which was received earlier this year.

Four-fifths approval for land-use changes was instituted when the county's comprehensive land-use plan was adopted in September 1977. Hillsborough County is the only other county to require four-fifths approval on incompatible land-use changes.

Some commissioners, including Robert G. "Bud" Feather, a real-estate agent and developer elected to the board in 1980, think the four-fifths vote constitutes a form of "minority rule."

By putting the power to veto a proposed land-use plan change into the hands of only two commissioners, the four-fifths vote requirement gives a minority the power of a majority, according to Feather.

Commissioner Bill Kirchhoff said he plans to vote against the proposal. He said the issue is not one of "minority rule," but to make it easier for developers to gain an amendment to the land-use plan.

— Dennis W. Bloser, 30, Wymore Road, Altamonte Springs, conspiracy to commit grand theft. Bloser was charged with stealing $150 from the Fern Park Zayre department store where he worked.

Also Friday, Paul Petty, 41, of Sanford, pleaded no contest to a charge of petty theft and was sentenced to serve 10 weekends in the county jail. He was accused of stealing merchandise from Roberts Grocery, 901 Locust Ave., Sanford.

CHICKEN OUT

A man brandishing a small pistol held up Church's Fried Chicken, U.S. Highway 17-92, Fern Park, Friday and escaped with $70, police report.

Store manager Richard Kettles said the man walked up to the cash register by the take-out window, removed a small handgun from beneath his jacket and stated: "Hey man, see this? Hurry up."

Kettles told police he handed the man about $70 and then was ordered to walk to the rear of the store. The man fled on foot.

TRUCK DRIVER CHARGED

The driver of a semi-trailer that crashed into a Chuluota woman's car Monday, cutting the car in half and killing the woman, has been charged by the Florida Highway Patrol with improper passing.

J. Harrison Grooms, 49, of Celina, Ohio, was charged in the incident on State Road 46, five miles east of Sanford.

He had been traveling east on SR 46 at 9:40 a.m. when he attempted to pass another vehicle and encountered a car in the opposing lane.

The car was driven by Virginia Still Lederman, 64, of Second Street, Avenue E, Chuluota.

According to State Trooper A. G. Conklin, Mrs. Lederman applied her brakes when she saw the truck could not complete passing, and skidded sideways toward the vehicle. The truck rammed the side of her car, cutting it in two, according to witnesses.

Mrs. Lederman died at Seminole Memorial Hospital about 10:53 a.m. of massive head and chest injuries.

Grooms suffered minor back injuries and was treated at Seminole Memorial Hospital and released.

WINDOW KICKED IN

A rear kitchen window at 642 Magnolia Drive, Altamonte Springs, was kicked in sometime between 9:45 a.m. and 8:05 p.m. Thursday, police report, but homeowner Nina Klock Mentuccia reported nothing appears missing.

HOME RANSACKED

A neighbor discovered the Tom Rogers home at 509 Smokerias, Longwood, had been burglarized and ransacked while the owners were away, police report.

The incident occurred sometime between 2:30 p.m. Wednesday and 5:45 p.m. Thursday. A list of missing items is being compiled.

Southern Bell Unlikely To Get Full Rate Hike

TALLAHASSEE, Fla. (UPI) — The Public Service Commission begins final hearings today on Southern Bell Telephone's petition for a $280 million rate increase with indications the state's second largest utility won't be granted nearly that much.

The PSC staff has recommended a $138 million increase. That's more than Public Counsel Jack Shreve believes is justified, but he said he is encouraged by the way the case appears to be proceeding.

One of the big-money issues on the table is Southern Bell's request to exclude the $64 million in profits it makes on the "yellow pages" from its rate base. The PSC staff sided with Shreve, saying the yellow pages profits should count toward overall earnings.

The yellow pages issue is among some important policy decisions the five commissioners must make in addition to deciding the total amount of the rate increase.

Southern Bell proposed a new way of charging for local calls. It wants to offer, on an optional basis, local measured service. Customers would pay a fee for each call, with the charge based on the length of the call and time of day, instead of the current basic service charge covering an unlimited number of local calls.

Southern Bell officials emphasized that the service would be optional and customers choosing it would have an opportunity to save money. Many south Florida consumers oppose the measured service plan, fearing it would be the first step toward mandatory charges on each local call.

Shreve said he had not paid much attention to the proposal until consumer wrath popped up.

"People were so upset about it that we came out against it," he said.

Recommendations by the company that have been endorsed by Shreve and the commission staff include reduced rates for long distance calls made between noon and 1 p.m. on weekend days.

Southern Bell also proposes reducing the minimum charge to one minute, instead of the current three minutes, on operator-assisted intrastate long distance calls.

Consumer reaction to the Southern Bell case has been steady but mild in comparison to the furor surrounding the recent Florida Power & Light Co. case. When FP&L asked for an extra $478 million a year in revenues, commissioners were besieged with thousands of letters and telephone calls.

"We have been getting letters for months, but it's nothing like with Florida Power & Light," said George Hanna, commission director of consumer affairs.

The PSC finally approved $278 million for the power company, which now has petitions for reconsideration.

SHA Director Search Narrows

The list of candidates for executive director of the Sanford Housing Authority has been narrowed to 15 or 20 applicants, according to Joseph Caldwell, chairman of the SHA Board of Commissioners, today.

Caldwell said that among the applicants still in the running are Linda Williams, currently interim director, and Thomas Wilson III, the executive director who was fired by past authority members in November 1980.

Each of the commissioners submitted a list of five top candidates for the post, which carries an annual $20,000 to $30,000 salary, from among more than 100 applicants, Caldwell said. The lists are now being compiled into one comprehensive list, he said.

He said the board will meet again next week to go over the favored candidates again. A new director probably will be appointed in January, he added.

Some $20,000 has been budgeted for the salary.

Wilson was employed by the authority for eight years prior to his firing after a vote of no confidence a year ago. Mrs. Williams has been employed by the authority for eight years in various capacities.

In a related matter, Roger Bowen, an accountant with the Sanford firm of Greene & Dycus, said today he probably will complete an audit of SHA records of its Community Development Block Grant (CTBG) program within a month.

The city of Sanford withdrew its sponsorship of the grant program, designed to aid low-income families in acquiring renovatable homes, last April. It was believed at first that a number of records concerning the program did not exist.

However, Bowen said today that almost all records were either located or are locatable and that the audit has been proceeding.

The city withdrew its support of the program after it was found that some $600,000 in federal funds had been spent and only eight dilapidated houses purchased and rehabilitated for sale.

(homeowners) by this commission will be taken away," Kirchhoff said about the proposal to change the requirement from four-fifths to three-fifths.

The Commission also will vote Tuesday morning on a proposal to assume control of the Lake Howell Water Reclamation District. The district was set up five years ago as a special taxing district when property owners were planning to develop the land near the southern boundary of the city of Casselberry, said Commissioner Sandra Glenn, who represents the district.

Bonds floated to pay for the water reclamation district have now been paid. Mrs. Glenn said residents of the area want the county to assume responsibility for water service in the area.

NATION IN BRIEF

Soviets May Be Willing To Talk Arms Reduction

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Administration officials believe the Soviet Union has changed its initial thumbs-down attitude toward President Reagan's nuclear arms reduction proposal and now is willing to talk about it.

"The fact the president has laid down a bold initiative, that has been thoroughly applauded in Europe as well as here, has to be significant as far as the Soviets are concerned," said White House Counselor Edwin Neese.

Major Quake Predicted

PASADENA, Calif. (UPI) — Caltech seismologist warns an analysis of earthquake patterns indicates Southern California is due for a major earthquake within nine months.

Professor Karen McNally said Friday she assessed earthquake patterns in California during the past 40 years and concluded Southern Californians should prepare for a temer with a magnitude exceeding 6 on the Richter Scale.

Murder Evidence Displayed

WEST TRENTON, N.J. (UPI) — State police imposed strict rules for today's opening of the nearly 90,000 pieces of evidence detailing the murder-kidnaping case of Charles Lindbergh Jr.

The evidence and documents were sealed after the sensational 1935 trial of Bruno Hauptmann for kidnaping and murdering the 20-month-old son of aviator Charles Lindbergh in 1931.

Were There 2 Gunmen?

DALLAS (UPI) — While Dallas commemorated the 18th anniversary of the assassination of John F. Kennedy, the National Academy of Sciences announced plans to release a report, possibly before the new year, that would resolve the dispute of how many shots were fired at the president.

A 12-member NAS team has studied a tape recording made while a motorcycle policeman's microphone was left "open" during the assassination Nov. 22, 1963. Some experts say four gun shots can be heard on the tape — which, if true, could cast doubt on the Warren Commission finding that Lee Harvey Oswald acted alone in assassinating Kennedy.

WORLD IN BRIEF

Brezhnev Arrives in Bonn To Mass Demonstrations

BONN, West Germany (UPI) — Soviet President Leonid Brezhnev, opposed by mass demonstrations labeling him a "murderer," arrived for talks with Chancellor Helmut Schmidt today dominated by concern over European missiles.

In deference to Brezhnev's 74 years and frail health, the government kept the Sunday night arrival ceremony to an informal minimum. Authorities clamped down on demonstrations by Afghan and Soviet refugees, but thousands of people protested against Brezhnev in several West German cities.

Saudi Peace Plan Opposed

FEZ, Morocco (UPI) — Syria, Iraq and the PLO reportedly lined up against any Saudi peace plan that recognizes Israel, sharply dividing Arab foreign ministers negotiating the agenda for Wednesday's Arab League summit.

The challenges to the Saudi Arabian proposal arose during nearly seven hours of closed-door talks Sunday and the foreign ministers adjourned their heavily guarded preparations for the 12th Arab summit until early today.

Paisley Calls For Strikes

BELFAST, Northern Ireland (UPI) — Protestant militant Rev. Ian Paisley challenged British rule today, calling for a strike to paralyze Northern Ireland and a parade of his armed vigilantes to back demands for a crackdown on the IRA.

Paisley, vowing the province of Ulster would be joined to the Irish republic "over our dead bodies," demanded the reestablishment of a separate parliament in Northern Ireland.

Spending Bill Vetoed

WASHINGTON (UPI) — A determined President Reagan, who earlier won tough budget and tax fights, today escalated his war with Congress by vetoing an emergency funding bill and forcing a partial shutdown of the government.

House Democratic leaders, in a surprise move, decided against attempting an override of the veto and said they would take no action until Reagan provided specific recommendations on how to get the government moving again.

Reagan appeared before reporters in the White House press room to announce the first veto of his presidency — one that followed a weekend of threats, cajoling and negotiation between Congress and the White House.

Democrats assailed the veto as "theatrics" and as a tool for setting up a "confrontation" with Congress. But Reagan insisted it was necessary to show he is resolute to control federal spending.

With some 400,000 federal workers facing a furlough without pay because of his action, the president cited the tough choice that confronted him in deciding whether to veto or sign the $427.9 billion spending bill, which reached the White House at 6:30 a.m. EST this morning.

"The failure to provide a reasonable (budget) resolution means that some citizens may be inconvenienced and that there is a possibility of some temporary hardship," he said. "Nevertheless, a far greater threat to all Americans is the sustained hardship they will suffer by continuing the past budget-busting policies of big spending and big deficits."

ROLL OUT THE BARRELS

Workers of City Chemicals Co. Inc. of Orlando prepare to move 80 barrels of non-flammable "halogenated" solvents from the firm's two-acre waste chemical storage site near Airport Boulevard and Jewett Lane in Sanford, Friday. The chemicals are being transported to an approved U.S. Environmental Protection Agency (EPA) landfill in South Carolina. Driving the fork lift for the firm is Bill Reynolds (left) while Bob Floyd supervises. The city of Sanford and the state Department of Environmental Regulation have been trying for a year to get the court to force City Chemicals to close the facility and remove the drums. All of the 3,261 barrels are to be disposed of within 26 weeks.

going to see a lot of growth on the west side of town, near where the new hospital is going up."

Winn says he expects a lot of clinics, doctors' offices and medical-related businesses to move into the area near the new hospital, on U.S. 17-92 at Mangostine Avenue.

"Sanford's internal city, however, is pretty well capped," Winn says. "I really don't see how we can add much else downtown unless a business leaves and a new one comes in. We're pretty limited now with downtown development of new businesses."

Residential areas, he says, are "keeping up with the times pretty well." He says the average home in Sanford ranges in price between $30,000 and $80,000.

In October the city issued $6,800 in residential building permits, $36,295 in addition or alteration permits, $14,995 in residential-improvement permits and $87,330 in commercial-improvement permits.

Winn says his department does more than issue building permits, however. The department also is charged with issuing occupational licenses, inspecting new businesses before they open to ensure they meet code requirements, implementing the city's condemnation program, and working closely with the city Fire Department to ensure that all fire and building codes are adhered to during construction stages and afterward.

"One thing I am especially proud of is our new Code Enforcement Board," he says. "The board was set up nine months ago to make people conform when we have determined they are breaking the codes."

Handwriting On Wall For Doc's Scrawl

LONDON (UPI) — Doctors' sloppy writing may seem to be just a joke but not to druggists who think illegible scribbling could be putting patients' lives increasingly in danger.

The Pharmaceutical Society of Great Britain has sent a memo to its 30,000 members saying that because many drugs now have similar names, the illegibility of doctors' handwritten prescriptions could cause pharmacists to give patients the wrong drug or the wrong dosage.

The memorandum, also sent to 136 branches of the British medical and dental associations, advises druggists not to fill prescriptions if there is any doubt about the doctor's request.

'Careless Ramblings'

David Stockman will stay on as budget director, but the damage is done. His value to the administration as an advocate for President Reagan's economic policies on Capitol Hill has been seriously compromised by the publication of an article in the Atlantic Monthly portraying him — in his own words — as being highly skeptical about the way the program is being implemented. Mr. Stockman did the prudent thing in offering to resign. He has not denied making the statements attributed to him in the Atlantic, although he dismisses them as "careless ramblings" and says they are being misconstrued. Even if he thought his ramblings were off the record, it was grievously indiscreet to talk about his doubts to an editor of the Washington Post who was working on the Atlantic article.

At his news conference Mr. Stockman put an interpretation on the published remarks that somewhat diminishes their force. He said he would not have described the supply-side tax cuts as a "Trojan horse" concealing their purpose if he had been more mindful of what that metaphor implies. He is now back on record with his belief that the President is on a "sound, constructive course" with his tax and budget policies.

There is an adage in politics that if you make a mistake the wisest course is to admit it, take your lumps, and get it behind you. Mr. Stockman's swift public apology for his "loose talk" and his offer to resign may reflect that wisdom and offers the best chance to keeping his indiscretion from becoming fatal to his career with the Reagan administration.

Obviously the President does not want to see him go. By refusing to accept the resignation Mr. Reagan was not only being charitable to one of the youngest of his top advisers but was helping to minimize the significance of the entire incident. And not the least of his considerations, no doubt, is that Mr. Stockman would be a hard man to replace. He was picked to head the Office of Management and Budget because of his remarkable grasp of the complexities of the federal budgeting process, and nothing has happened to diminish his value in that respect.

If Mr. Stockman has gone through a period of questioning about the outlook for the Reagan economic program he is not alone. Treasury Secretary Donald Regan was confessing some skepticism about the President's tax and budget cuts earlier this year, but has since become their staunch defender. From the start, it would appear, there have been varying degrees of faith and commitment to supply-side economics within the administration.

Members of the President's team are not required to stop thinking for themselves. A technician as shrewd as Mr. Stockman could not have spent the last 10 months immersed in White House policy-making without changing his perception of the program Mr. Reagan has been trying to put in place. The necessity of bargaining with Congress and the performance of the economy have forced the President himself to modify his goals.

The problem is that "careless ramblings" by officials of the President can create confusion about the administration's policies and goals. For some time it has been apparent that Mr. Reagan needs to clarify who can speak for his administration on defense and foreign policy. His experience with Mr. Stockman's loose tongue should tell him that he faces the same problem on the domestic side.

BERRY'S WORLD

"Hey, if you're another small businessman planning to unload your Volcker-related troubles on me, FORGET IT."

By LEE DANCY

Adopted people are some of the nicest you'll ever meet.

Twenty five years ago, two first rate people adopted me. Coming from this rather biased perspective, my telling others that adopted people are the finest human beings they can know must produce thoughts like: "I think he's the most arrogant person I've ever known."

I'm willing to risk it, however. I believe children who are adopted, for the most part, are more well adjusted, motivated and luckier than so many children living with their natural parents.

Incidents of sexual, physical and emotional child abuse give me my best ammunition for this argument. Rarely does a week go by when at least one or two stories about these brutal crimes don't appear in most large daily newspapers.

Many natural parents, on the other hand, are ideal mommies and daddies and all adopted parents are not perfect. For example, a story appeared on the wire services a few months back about two people who "un-adopted" their 16 year old son saying he was rebellious, disobedient, etcetera.

The social worker in the case said the boy was bright, intuitive and free spirited. He said the parents were very strict fundamentalists in their religion and were not flexible enough.

Far fewer parents who went to the trouble to adopt a child, later kick them out of their homes, however. On the advent of National Adoption

Week, Nov. 22-28, I am writing this column to laud adoptive families, especially my own.

When I was two months old, Mr. and Mrs. Allen J. Dancy had their first look at me. Judging from baby pictures, I wasn't much of an eyelet at that early age.

My mother told me my nose ran constantly until well past my first birthday. She learned quickly not to give me my bottle while playing in my crib. I always unscrewed it and poured the milk or juice liberally across everything.

As I grew I didn't make things any easier. I needed an expensive operation to align my crossed eyes, corrective shoes to fix my flat feet, special reading lessons to make up for the classes I missed while getting my eyes fixed, braces, countless trips to the dermatologist during adolescence, not to mention college and assorted other endeavors I made which cost them a bundle.

Occasionally I wonder what my life would have been like without them. Seeing double all my life, living with an atrocious overbite, suffering from terminal acne and generally missing out on so many of the good things in life my parents helped me experience.

An unwed mother's decision to keep her baby is understandable. According to the Children's Home Society, the social stigma of being a mother without a husband is quickly diminishing. It must also be incredibly difficult to carry a child to term, give birth and then give it up for adoption.

What kind of life can an infant and his teenage mother expect for themselves though? If the child's father continues to love and support his new "family" and both parents work, the youngster might have a chance at a happy childhood and successful future.

So many young men who become fathers this way do not make this choice, however. Even if he does choose to stay, the two young parents have been burdened early in life with the pressures derived from raising a family. Raising a child is a great expense these days, even for two working parents.

Adoptive parents must pass the test of an agency. They must be reasonably secure financially and be able to provide a comfortable home for their new son or daughter.

Most importantly, adoptive parents truly want a child. This fact is the crucial consideration. Too many babies come into the world today by "accident." Can mommy and daddy's little "accident" really expect all the love and opportunities he or she could receive in an adoptive home? I doubt it.

Next Thursday is Thanksgiving. As I've done every year since I was old enough to understand, I will thank God for my mother and father. I will also pray for the millions of orphans, abused children and runaways throughout the world.

ROBERT WALTERS Poisoning Of The Powerless

INGALLS, Ark. (NEA) — What killed Jesus Cuanas Lucas?

Arkansas' chief medical examiner, Dr. Famy A. Malik, says "circumstantial evidence" suggests that Lucas was poisoned by exposure to highly toxic pesticides — but his official report says: "Manner of death: Natural."

The coroner here in sparsely populated Bradley County, Thomas McLemore, says Lucas apparently "inhaled a substance that restricted the flow of oxygen to his lungs" — but he is reluctant to talk further about the case.

That case has nationwide implications because experts fear that hundreds — and perhaps thousands — of farm workers have their lives cut short every year because of pesticide exposure, yet few specific instances are ever documented.

Pesticide poisonings usually occur in rural areas where communication links are weak, medical facilities are limited, dominant agribusiness interests are intent upon stifling unfavorable news about their operations.

The victims invariably are illegal immigrants (usually Mexicans who have sneaked into the country) who do not speak English, are unaware of any government remedies that might be available, are entirely lacking in political influence and are terrified of being discovered and deported.

They are, however, being regularly exposed to the more than 1,200 chemicals — many of them toxic or carcinogenic — designated for use as agricultural pesticides.

Because reliable information about the scope of the problem is difficult to obtain, most available reports are old or based upon projections from limited data.

In 1970, the Department of Health, Education and Welfare estimated that 800 people were killed and 80,000 others injured every year because of improper use of pesticides.

A study conducted in Imperial County, Calif., in the center of one of that state's leading agricultural areas, found that the rate of birth defects among children born to the wives of farm workers was three times higher than the national average.

The Environmental Protection Agency counted 2,500 to 3,000 cases annually during the 1970s in which hospitalization was required because of pesticide poisoning. Those working on farms were twice as susceptible as employees in any other group.

The difficulty of documenting the problem is vividly illustrated by the death of Lucas, the 21-year-old father of three who is universally described by his friends and relatives as strong, energetic and in excellent health throughout his life.

Soviets 'Spiked' Stories

Robert Moss, one of those frighteningly articulate young Englishmen, an Oxford graduate, has just published his second tremendously important political novel, "Death Beam" (Crown).

Moss's first novel, "The Spike," sold a couple of hundred thousand copies in hardcover and a million in paperback.

It concerned the ability of the Soviet secret police, the KGB, to penetrate the American media and "spike" — that is, kill — a story. What Moss has done as a novelist is to fuse an informed, indeed expert, anti-communist message with the novel designed for a mass audience. He has done so with enormous commercial success, and he cannot fail to have a far-reaching political impact.

Moss is an elegant young man around 40 years of age. He favors English tweed jackets and grey vests and shirts with stiff collars. He also knows more about the arcane world of international intelligence, counter-intelligence, and misinformation than anyone I have ever met outside the agencies themselves.

The highly influential British magazine, "The Economist," publishes a special newsletter called "Foreign Report." It comes out weekly, is full of hot — sometimes even classified — news from the intelligence agencies, and is very useful to journalists. It's expensive, and to get it you have to agree never to quote it directly. Moss edited that for several years before moving to the United States and launching his career as a novelist.

His new novel, "Death Beam," concerns the race between the United States and the Soviet Union to produce a viable laser-beam weapon.

As usual, Moss is right on top of the news. The useful magazine "Aviation and Space Technology" has published a dynamite report to the effect that the Soviets have grabbed the lead in laser technology.

Secretary of Defense Caspar Weinberger has just said that the future of anti-missile technology lies in space. And President Reagan has ordered a speed-up in our laser-space capabilities.

In theory, space provides the best defense against an ICBM. We can now spot a Soviet launch from our satellites within a split second after it takes off. A laser beam directed from space could kill the missile in mid take-off, dumping it back on its own launch personnel.

Robert Moss is convinced that the next war will be fought in space, and he is concerned that the Soviets have already developed — though we have not — "killer satellites," which are designed to knock out the military eyes of the United States in space. That, he says, is Stage One of space warfare.

In Stage Two, you develop a defensive capability of knocking out ICBMs from space platforms equipped with laser beams. Moss believes the Soviets have an operational defensive laser.

In Stage Three, you develop an offensive laser which would strike at enemy targets from space. Hence his title, "Death Beam."

Moss says that in a recent speech, Fidel Castro signalled that the United States is due to become a target for intensified terrorist warfare. Moss believes that the United States, with its weakened internal security, its floating population of illegal aliens, and its minority enclaves, will prove to be a terrorist's dream.

I asked Moss if his next novel might deal with this theme. His eyes twinkled.

WILLIAM STEIF Health Care Profits

The nation's 7,000 hospitals have a surplus of beds, and most experts agree we have as many doctors as we need. Yet the U.S. health care bill shot up 15.2 percent last year over 1979 to $247 billion. Hospital costs rose even faster, 16 percent over 1979, to a total of $100 billion.

What's wrong with a free enterprise economy that produces such results?

The answer, a bit oversimplified, is that there's too little competition in the American health care business.

Everyday in the newspapers and on TV you see auto dealers, clothiers and grocers advertising rebates and discounts. But you don't see health care bargains. If you're sick you pay the going price to a doctor or hospital or you disregard your illness. Often you can't, and shouldn't, disregard illness.

So the free market hasn't worked well in the health care field. So far, at least.

There is hope for change, signaled by a recent, little-noticed Washington meeting. The meeting was called by the Health and Human Services Department to attract private capital into investing in Health Maintenance Organizations.

The HMO is a prepaid health plan offering a comprehensive range of services to enrolled members for a monthly fee and, in some cases, nominal out-of-pocket expenses. Some are non-profit, some profit-making. There are two basic types:

— A staff organization that provides care at its clinics and employs doctors, with specialized care provided under contract.

— Individual Practice Associations, in which doctors band together and establish their own controls to keep costs down. IPAs have no central clinics; doctors work out of their own offices.

HHS Secretary Richard Schweiker told the Washington meeting: "Ten years ago there were only 30 prototype HMOs in 15 states. Today there are nearly 250 HMOs in 38 states. Enrollment in these plans has increased from 3 million in 1970 to almost 10 million today."

Some of this growth was stimulated by the federal government. Since 1974 the Office of HMOs in Schweiker's department has provided $205 million in grants and $145 million in loans to non-profits HMOs, on condition the money would be repaid in full if the HMOs converted to profit-making enterprises.

The non-profit concept has been only marginally successful. Struggling, capital-short HMOs have gone broke. For-profit companies have shied away from buying non-profit HMOs because they didn't want to take on federal liabilities.

JACK ANDERSON

Radio Free Europe: Awash In Beer

WASHINGTON — During the past year, I have reported that Radio Free Europe-Radio Liberty, the U.S. government's Munich-based network that broadcasts straight news to the propaganda-drenched people of Eastern Europe, has been spending money like a drunken sailor and making incredible blunders — like beaming the wrong programs to the wrong countries in the wrong language.

Now I think I may have discovered at least part of the reason for this rampant inefficiency: The radio stations' Munich headquarters is awash in beer, wine and hard liquor. The employees have apparently decided to make the city's famous Oktoberfest a year-round affair.

"Parties are being conducted in the engineering maintenance workshop about two times per month, usually on Thursdays, starting at 11 noon, during which one or two barrels of beer are consumed by technicians, laborers, engineering management representatives, as well as management employees. Whenever the available number of beer barrels happens to be insufficient, additional amounts of beer are picked up from the canteen by the case in bottles to supplement the shortage."

There's little chance that the building's canteen will run dry. An eyes-only memo seen by my associate Indy Badwar discloses that RFE-RL has a 13-year contract with a local brewery "which guarantees a consumption of beer in the canteen of 35,000 liters per year." That's about 100,000 bottles.

Furthermore, according to the memo, "Radio Free Europe and Radio Liberty money must be used to pay for any amount of beer less than that amount consumed." So the American taxpayers lose either way: If the radio station employees don't swill enough beer, Uncle Sam must make good on the brewery contract; and if they do . . .

There is "an inherent problem of alcohol abuse" in the organization, a senior manager pointed out in another memo. The subordinate to whom the memo was addressed had this to say in defense:

"I am not surprised that such a problem exists, since hard liquor, wine and beer are sold in the canteen from 0700 hours in the morning until 2100 hours or later in the evening. At the same time, hard liquor, wine and beer are available in the building in coin-vending machines 24 hours per day seven days per week."

Members of the Washington-based Board for International Broadcasting, which is responsible for overseeing the two stations, have been at a loss to explain the embarrassing bloopers that mar the broadcasts to the Soviet Union and its satellites. I've reported some of the more egregious howlers in past columns. They would be funny if RFE-RL's mission were not so important.

A senior staff member of the board, who has seen the memos mentioned above, scribbled this terse note to his colleagues: "I have a feeling . . . that we may be getting closer to the real reason for RFE-RL studio inefficiency."

NOBODY LISTENED: The disastrous events in Iran over the last three years demonstrated a serious breakdown in U.S. intelligence. The fault was not in our intelligence agencies' underlings, but in the superstars of foreign policy in Washington, who heard only what they wanted to hear and ignored any reports that suggested their preconceptions might be wrong.

I know this is the case, because for two years before the shah of Iran was unceremoniously given the heave-ho, I was reporting that the Peacock Throne was wobbling. My sources were intelligence reports from the field — the same reports that were studiously shrugged off by the Kissingers and the Brzezinskis.

Some of these suppressed intelligence reports can now be quoted verbatim. In 1975, for example, the Air Force Office of Special Investigations prepared an eerily accurate report titled "Terrorist Movements in Iran." It not only identified the Ayatollah Khomeini as a substantial threat to the shah — at a time when the CIA and the State Department gave no indication they had even heard of the man — but warned that American personnel in Iran were very likely to be targets of the anti-shah forces' wrath.

Khomeini "has come to be a symbol of resistance for Iranian political dissidents of widely varying political persuasions," the Air Force analysts reported, adding that he was getting financial as well as political support from middle- and lower-class Iranians.

The report explained why Americans in Iran would be tempting victims for terrorists: The large number of Americans gave them high visibility; their concentration in a few locations made the terrorists' job easier. And "an attack on them will garner national and international publicity."

The Air Force report was filed and forgotten.

Seminole High defensive football coordinator Dave Mosure has a glow in his eyes when he extols the merits of this year's defensive people.

In turn, the defensive people have a similar glow when they speak about the prowess of the former South Miami High coach who's in his initial year at Sanford. While the glow has burned brightly to one of respect as victories have climbed the Seminole ladder and conference, district and county championships have been collected — it didn't start out that way.

The glow may have illuminated more out of alarm than respect for the fiery defensive whiz who doesn't mince words when talking about his trade.

"At first they thought I might be a little crazy," laughed Mosure about his early impression on the Tribe. "But after they got to know me a bit they realized the intensity and yelling was genuine."

The players concur. "When I first met him I was kind of surprised," relates senior defensive captain and linebacker Byron Washington. "He doesn't really look like a football coach."

"With that short hair he looks more like a Marine sergeant or something. After I started talking with him I realized he was good, but some of the other guys weren't so sure how to take him."

Defensive end Larry Eason had the same military impression. "Like Byron said, I too thought he looked like a Marine drill sergeant," said Eason. "But after I watched him I began to feel the same way he did."

"He had so much intensity that's where I draw mine from. I just knew he was a winner by the way he acted."

Not only did the intensity carry over, but the winning did too. Which, is not hard to realize when talking about Mosure. The fiery mentor coached three district champions at South Miami in four years.

While Mosure has never ordered Gomer Pyle out of the barracks and into the latrine, he has drilled the Seminole into a solid, close-knit defensive unit that thrives on the gamble.

"They just dare you to beat them," appraised Daytona Beach Mainland coach Bob Wallace. "They'll put all 11 guys up on the line of scrimmage and dare you to get by them."

Mosure's defensive theory includes a 4-3 and a pro 3-4 plus "other things I've picked up over the years," he says. The combinations number as many as 50 and Mosure knows he can't have any dumb-bells out there to make it work.

And, it has worked. Seminole sports a 8-2 look with district and conference champions. The Tribe has two shutouts. Opposing quarterbacks have thrown for less than 30 percent. Friday, the Tribe goes after the regional crown at home against Vero Beach.

Like many coaches, Mosure spotted a turning point in the season. Unlike many other coaches, though, it came after a loss and not a victory. "After we lost to Astronaut (19-0), I knew we were going to be all right," revealed Mosure.

"I saw a lot of good things that first game, and if we'd improve I knew we were going to have a good club."

That improvement — that Mosure yelled for, and received — has been a vital key.

Much of it came in the form of 6-foot-3, 210-pound defensive tackle Bill Painter. The blond-haired senior had always been a mystery to the Seminole coaching staff.

"Bill always looked good on the hoof," pointed out head coach Jerry Posey about the youngster's size and off-season work. "But he graded out the lowest defensively in our first two games."

That was subject to change. "The darkhorse," laughed Mosure about his defensive tackle. "Painter was a shock to everybody but myself because I had no preconceived notions about him."

"His improvement has been tremendous. He rushes the quarterback well, but he doesn't forget to smell out the draw play either. He's done a great job for us."

"You know, I'm so intense and Bill's a little loose. That's good for me. He's the only individual in my life that's been able to make me smile on the day of a football game," informed Mosure.

And Mosure has made Painter smile too. Smile with the collection of Headhunter awards that he takes home each week for defensive excellence.

Painter, though, saw Mosure in a different glow from the very outset.

"I understood the yelling from the beginning," Painter said while getting

Seminoles '81: A Look At A Champion

Register, who was an important member of Bobby Lundquist's district champion baseball team. "Coach Mosure was a little weird from what we were used to."

"As we went along though we realized he knew what he was talking about. After the first loss, he sat us down and told us what we did wrong."

"He didn't yell at us... well, maybe he did a little... but he made us understand what defense was all about," said Register.

One of the highest on Mosure is Seminole's early-season kicking hero Alan Cahill. Cahill started the season on offense, but was switched to defense.

"I didn't know what to expect," said the sturdy-built senior. "I was a little leery of him at first because I was the smallest defensive lineman (170 pounds)."

The leer didn't last very long. "He gave me the chance that I didn't think I was going to get," said Cahill. "But he and coach (Hank) Daviero made us into a team. They made us into a family."

"When they get us fired up before a game and the adrenalin is pumping, I get on the field I'm as big as Painter or Isaac Williams or any of them," blurted Cahill.

Mosure agrees with his small defensive tackle wholeheartedly. "Alan Cahill is a 320-pound player in a 170-pound body," raves Dave. "He moved into defensive tackle and outplays guys 30-40 pounds heavier."

While Washington, Register, Painter, Eason and Cahill may be some of the lesser known defenders, they complement the likes of Antonio Davis, Ed "Too Short" Jones, John Rowsey, Butch Carter, Tim Herring and super safety Vince Edwards very well.

For a couple weeks, it looks as if Davis, the middle linebacker, may have a franchise on the area Burger King restaurants. Twice, he was Burger King Player of the week and two other times he was Sanford Optimist Player of the Week.

If Davis was getting fat, however, it didn't show. He still leads the defense in tackles every week and two Friday's ago returned an interception for a TD to put the damper on Mainland.

"Too Short" Jones has been a giant in the defensive backfield along with Edwards, the fastest 440-yard dash man in the county, and youngsters Tim Herring and Harold Gaines, who split time at the halfback spot. Butch Carter is a sure tackler and sticky-fingered interceptor at the other halfback.

"Ed Jones is dynamite," points out Mosure. "He's the prime example that big things come in small packages (5-foot-6). Ed had a bad time during the first part of the year. He messed up and I had to sit him out."

"A lot of guys would have quit. But he came back and didn't give up. He became so tough, I could no longer keep him out. He locked himself in permanently."

And the rest of the defense is locked in so permanently that it has picked off 19 enemy passes, which goes a way toward that 30 percent pass completion percentage.

"That's a lot of interceptions," echoed Mosure. "I'm sure our aggressive style of play is responsible."

Along with a wild-eyed defensive whiz and 12 crazed Indiana.

Politowicz, McNulty, Averill, Matthews Earn All-State Status

Trinity 4th, Patriots 6th In State Cross Country

Lake Brantley's Lady Patriots cross country team has been in the state's top ten most of the season. So, it wasn't particularly surprising that Jim Marshall's crew secured a sixth place in Saturday's 4A State Meet Saturday at DeLand's Municipal Airport.

"We were shooting for the top five, but we're very satisfied with sixth place," said Marshall Monday morning. "Four of the top five ran better than they ever have before."

Junior Ellen Stern had the top time for Patriots on the two-mile course. Stern ran a 12:02 for an 11th place finish to lead the Pats, who totaled 187 points, two less than Winter Park. Orange Park easily outdistanced the field with 39 points.

Clearwater Countryside was second with 112. Sharon Chiong of Miami Killian was first in 10:37.8.

Senior Tracy Bonham was second for Brantley with a 12:09 clocking in 20th place. Sophomore Kathryn Hayward was 39th with a time of 12:32. Traci Rowland (71st, 13:08) and freshman Kim Lubenow (73rd, 13:08) completed the Patriots top five.

Turning to 2A competition, George Austin's Trinity Prep girls received solid performances from seniors Shannon McNulty and Tracy Johnson along with eighth grader Adrienne Politowicz to garner a fourth place finish.

McNulty, a Lake Mary resident who rounded into form after an early season injury, took fifth place with a 12:08 clocking just two seconds behind Politowicz's fourth place 12:06.

Johnson, from Sanford, was 15th in 12:35.

While Trinity's was fourth, it was the best time of the 1A schools as Clearwater Catholic took both boys and girls titles. Clearwater is 2A.

"We're going to send a recommendation to the state to divide the two classes," said Austin. "There are just too many (24) schools especially in the boys meet (30) where they had 169 runners."

Freshman Tommy Matthews led the Prep boys to a 12th place finish by finishing ninth over the three-mile layout with a time of 15:52.

By placing in the top ten, Politowicz and McNulty earned All-State status as did Lake Mary's talented freshman Kim Averill. Mike Gibson's flashy frosh turned in a seventh place finish as she cruised the two miles in 12:17—her best time this year.

In the boys' meet, Largo upended Edgewater, 83-67, for the 4A crown. Coach David Huggins' Lyman boys were 10th with 250 points. Winter Park's Brian Jaeger ran a 14:38.6 to easily win the 4A division. — SAM COOK

Knights Let Bethune Escape, 24-20

Central Florida's football Knights jumped up two levels to play Bethune-Cookman Saturday night at the Tangerine Bowl.

And, UCF came within two steps of handing the powerful Division I-AA Wildcats an embarrassing setback.

Reserve quarterback Bob Burkhart came off the bench to engineer a 97-yard drive that fizzled at the Bethune two-yard line with just seven seconds left.

It was there the drive stalled, nevertheless, and the Division III Knights let BCC escape with a 24-20 victory.

"I told people it was going to be close," said a relieved 'Cats coach Bobby Frazier. "But nobody would believe me. We're just lucky to get out alive."

The victory upped Bethune's record to 7-3. The Wildcats take on Florida A & M in the annual Florida Classic Saturday at Tampa Stadium.

UCF, meanwhile, finished at 4-6 in its third season. "There's no way we should have hung in there with Bethune-Cookman," pointed out coach Don Jones. "I'm so damn proud of our effort, I can't describe it."

Burkhart, despite having a fourth-down pass go awry at the two, wore the hero's armor for the Knights. The ex-Lyman Greyhound guided UCF's last-gasp drive by hitting 3-of-5 passes for 53 yards.

At the four, though, three running plays gained just two yards and the subsequent pass went incomplete. Bethune-Cookman's defense, ranked first in the nation, made the big plays when it had to be led by ex-Fighting Seminole Charles Riggins.

The game opened as the blowout it expected to be with Bethune rolling up a 21-0 bulge.

The Knights rebounded on the legs of fullback Steve Colubiale. The Mainland High graduate ripped off 21 yards on the first good UCF drive, then scored three plays later on a six-yard toss from starting quarterback Mike McCrary.

Later in the second quarter, Bruce Gordon picked up a Kenny McMillan aerial and raced 36 yards for the TD.

BCC added a field goal in the third quarter, but Vincent Lewis broke loose for 64 yards and a touchdown to pull the Knights within, 24-20, heading into the final 15 minutes. — SAM COOK

Falcons Struggle For Playoff Spot

ATLANTA (UPI) — The Atlanta Falcons, struggling to earn a playoff berth after being considered a shoe-in earlier in the season, will have their backs against the wall tonight against the Minnesota Vikings.

The Falcons, 12-4 last season, are 5-6 after losing six of their last eight games and prior to Sunday's action were tied with six other NFC teams in a battle for the conference's second wildcard berth.

The Vikings, 7-4, go into tonight's nationally televised contest with a 1½-game lead in their bid to repeat as NFC Central champions, having won seven of their last nine games.

"I think everyone on our team knows how crucial Monday night's game is to us," said Atlanta Coach Leeman Bennett. "Unfortunately, that can also work against you. People can try too hard and make mistakes. Winning is taking up the slack somewhere when an area breaks down. It is also something we must do in order to have a good finish."

"We've got to get the belief back where we think we are going to win," said Bennett. "Too often this year we've subconsciously waited for things to go wrong while last year we always had the feeling we could pull out a victory in the closing seconds. "Minnesota is a team that knows how to win and does it week after week," he said. "We know how tough the Vikings are. Coach (Bud) Grant seems to have his team playing the best it has in several years and we will have to play up to their level in order to win."

"Obviously, their passing game is a concern to us," said Bennett. "They had a great deal of success passing the last time we played (in last season's opener when the Vikings won, 24-23, on a last-minute field goal) and seem to be able to pass regardless of the opponent."

MVP Jackson Leads SCC To Matador Classic Crown

Seminole Community College's Arthur "A.J." Jackson started the weekend on the bench — but it's going to be hard to keep him there much longer.

The former Edgewater basketballer threw in 18 points Saturday night to wrap up an outstanding weekend and led the Raiders to the Matador Classic, 77-72, over Edison Community College at Valencia Community College.

For his exploits, the 6-1 sophomore was named the tournament's most valuable player. Jackson came off the bench Friday to help SCC come from behind the whip Gulf Coast, 80-78. It was his 30-foot jumper at the buzzer which nipped Edison.

Saturday, Jackson nailed 4-of-7 shots and handed out seven assists to help the Raiders grab their second straight weekend tournament and improve to 4-1. Last weekend, SCC won its own tournament.

Jackson's superb Friday performance earned him a start on Saturday and he made the most of it.

SCC Basketball

The stocky guard fired in Seminole's first 10 points as the Raiders jumped to a 20-8 bulge.

"He really had an outstanding tournament," lauded SCC coach Joe Sterling. "It was a tough game all the way. We had to hit our free throws at the end."

The Raiders connected on 29-of-64 floor shots for 45 percent. Edison also hit 29 field goals, but Raiders held the edge at the foul line 19-of-27 to 14-of-19.

Along with Jackson, guard Travis Filer put on an awesome shooting show, hitting 10-of-13 fielders and all eight free throws for 28 points. Filer and Sanford's Reggie Butler each plucked seven of SCC's 33 rebounds. Ex-Seminole Bruce McCray added 18 points to the cause and sophomore Eric Ervin doled out six assists.

Jackson, Filer and Butler all made the All-Tournament team. Gulf Coast's Alonzo Slones, Valencia Community College's Cleveland Lawson and Edison's 6-9 center Bill Coffell joined the elite six.

Tuesday night, Sterling and his Raiders host Florida College. The Falcons from Temple Terrace near Tampa are undefeated in four games and inflicted the lone loss on the Raiders, 88-70, last Tuesday. Tipoff is 7:30 p.m.

UPI Picks Tar Heels No. 1

Carolina Begins Title Road

NEW YORK (UPI) — The road to the NCAA championship may well begin along Tobacco Road.

North Carolina, one of the kingspins of college basketball, has been named the No. 1 team in preseason balloting by UPI's Board of Coaches.

The Tar Heels, who lost to Indiana 63-50 in last season's championship game, are in strong position to at long last provide Coach Dean Smith with that elusive NCAA title.

Anchored by an imposing front line and a gifted freshman class, North Carolina was awarded 20 first-place votes and 574 total points by the 42-member panel of coaches.

UCLA was a tight second with 11 first-place votes and 556 points followed by No. 3 Kentucky (four first-place, 521 points), No. 4 Louisville (three first-place votes, 408 points) and No. 5 Georgetown (three first-place votes, 399 points).

The rest of the Top 10 is: No. 6 Virginia (one first-place vote, 293 points), No. 7 Wichita State (285), No. 8 Iowa (255), No. 9 DePaul (247) and No. 10 Minnesota (191).

Smith enters his 20th season at North Carolina. One of the game's most innovative and respected coaches, he has won 20 or more games 11 straight years and been to the Final Four six times. But the NCAA champion has never been his.

The Tar Heels, although losing forward Al Wood through graduation, come back with two tough big men in James Worthy and Sam Perkins and an able point guard in Jimmy Black. And Michael Jordan, one of the most ballyhooed freshmen in the country, will strengthen an already outstanding team.

Completing the Top 20 is: No. 11 Indiana, No. 12 Tulsa, No. 13 Georgia, No. 14 Wake Forest, No. 15 Missouri, No. 16 San Francisco, No. 17 Alabama-Birmingham, No. 18 Louisiana State, No. 19 Arkansas and No. 20 Nevada-Las Vegas.

Balloting was based on 15 points for a first-place vote, 14 for second place, 13 for third, etc.

UCLA, under new coach Larry Farmer, has one of the nation's best backcourts in Rod Foster and Michael Holton and extraordinary depth at forward. And there is now height in the middle with 7-foot recruit Stuart Gray.

Coach Joe Hall at Kentucky also has exceptional depth. Sam Bowie is recovering from a fractured leg but there is also 6-11 Melvin Turpin, Dirk Minniefield, Jim Master, Derrick Hord and Charles Hurt. Kentucky's second five would roll through most leagues.

Louisville won 19 of 20 games in one run last season. This time all five starters — led by Derrick Smith — are back and are complemented by freshmen Milt Wagner and Manuel Forrest.

Shelton Impresses Nets, 109-92

SEATTLE (UPI) — The New Jersey Nets had seven players who had never seen Lonnie Shelton play, so the Seattle forward wanted to make a good first impression.

The Nets were definitely impressed. Shelton scored a game-high 22 points and grabbed eight rebounds to lead the Sonics to a 109-92 rout in the NBA's only game Sunday night.

"When you play someone for the first time, you want to make a good impression so they don't think you're a pushover or that they can take it easy the next time," said Shelton, a 6-8, 240-pound power forward.

Buck Williams, the Nets' No. 1 draft choice this year, bore the brunt of Shelton's bruising physical game and admitted he was impressed.

"Shelton's a great player. I learned a lot from him. I'll be more aware next time around," Williams said. But, he added, "I've never played a game where I was intimidated."

New Jersey, which has three rookies and four second-year players, seemed to lose composure in the third period when the Sonics used their muscle and height to bully the youthful Nets.

After battling to a 51-48 lead at halftime, the Sonics, using 14 points from Shelton and Jack Sikma, ran off a 19-4 scoring burst in the first 7:30 of the third quarter to take command of the game with a 70-50 lead.

"With a young team, you can take their heads out of the game by getting physical with them," said Shelton.

James Donaldson, the 7-2, 270-pound reserve center of the Sonics, was called into action early in the game when Sikma got three early fouls and responded with a season-high 15 points and four of ten blocked shots by Seattle.

New Jersey, which suffered its seventh straight loss on the road and dropped to 3-10, was paced by Otis Birdsong's 16 points and Darwin Cook's 14.

"I don't think we have a team yet," said Nets coach Larry Brown, whose team record dropped to 2-10. "We have a lot of young people and new players and it's tough to get everybody together."

"I think we're closer to being in sync again," said Sonics Coach Lenny Wilkens, whose team finally evened their mark at 5-5. "We played a great first game but after that we haven't played very well as a team."

OPTIMIST WINNERS

Bucs Buzz-Saw Packers

TAMPA, Fla. (UPI)—The Tampa Bay Buccaneers gave Green Bay rookie quarterback Rick Campbell a rude welcome to the world of professional football.

A buzz-saw Buccaneer defense intercepted Campbell four times Sunday — one for a touchdown, one setting up a touchdown and one setting up a field goal — as the Bucs routed the Packers 37-3 to keep alive their hopes for a playoff spot.

Campbell was thrust into action for the first time this season when starter David Whitehurst, himself filling in for the injured Lynn Dickey, went out in the first period with a groin injury.

Veteran cornerback Cedric Brown set the pace for the Bucs' defense, intercepting Campbell on the first play of the second quarter and going 81-yards for a touchdown to give Tampa a 10-0 lead.

Brown then intercepted Campbell in the final period, returning the ball 50 yards to the Packer 35 and setting up the final score, a 2-yard pass from Chuck Fusina to Jimmy Giles.

In between those two scores, Neal Colzie intercepted Campbell to set up a 33-yard field goal by Bill Capece in the final seconds of the first half.

Doug Williams hit Theo Bell with a 7-yard touchdown and Capece, who had kicked a 47-yard field goal in the first period, kicked a Buc-record 51-yard field goal in the final period.

Green Bay's only score came on a 53-yard field goal by Jan Stenerud, a Packer record.

The fourth interception of Campbell was made by John Holt, but the Bucs failed to capitalize on it. In addition to the four interceptions, the Bucs also sacked the rookie twice for 11 yards lost.

"We played our best game," said Tampa Coach John McKay who saw his Bucs bounce back after two straight lackluster losses and get back in the scramble for the playoffs.

Buccaneers

The Bucs now are 6-6 in the NFC's Central Division and trail the 7-4 Minnesota Vikings, who play the Atlanta Falcons tonight. The loss snapped a three-game winning streak for Green Bay and dropped the Packers to 5-7.

"Green Bay got a tough break when they lost Whitehurst," McKay said. "I feel sorry for Coach (Bart) Starr, having to go with his third quarterback. That's difficult."

"It was rough and shaky but we dropped some balls," Starr said. "If circumstances had been a little different a couple of time I think that he (Campbell) could have done better. We turned it over to them too many times. He'll survive that."

"That was a tremendously big play for them," Starr said of Brown's first interception. "That was a turnaround. We were in the ballgame at that point. That really hurt. It deflates you and really get them pumped up."

"We needed a big play," Brown said. "Green Bay was driving and as fortune would have it, I picked it off. I didn't think, I just reacted. I read the quarterback. I don't think he was aware of the full scope of the field and he eyed his receiver."

"I know what I did wrong and the mistakes I made today are correctable ones," Campbell said. "Surprisingly enough I felt quite at home on the field even though it was the first time. But, as everyone saw, I made some rookie mistakes."

Tampa so dominated the game that the Bucs never had to punt and had 211 return yards on punts and interceptions to none for the Packers. Tampa's four interceptions accounted for 150 yards return, while two punts were run back 61 yards.

One of the punt returns was for 56 yards by rookie Holt, who actually made a mistake in fielding the punt at the goal line. But he turned the mistake into a 56-yard return that set up the Williams-to-Bell touchdown.

"That may have been as disappointing a play as we had all day," Starr said. "We get a great punt and he makes an error on it by fielding it in the first place. But we let him out of there, poor coverage and poor tackling."

Holt said he didn't know where he was when he fielded the punt.

"I just made a mistake but turned it into some good," he said. "It was that kind of a game."

Brotherly Love Text Of Novel

By MERLA MANOR
Herald Feature Writer

Sterling Watson reviews novel at SCC.

Sterling Watson, educator-novelist, read portions of his first novel, "Weep No More My Brother," at the Fine Arts Theatre at Seminole Community College Wednesday.

The novel is a grim-beautiful story of a man's love for his brother and his search for and destruction of the brother's murderer. The story takes place mostly at Raiford prison in northern Florida.

Watson, at present the acting director of the writing workshop at Eckerd College in St. Petersburg, once taught English and creative writing at Raiford.

"While the book isn't a documentary of prison life," Watson said, "I did want to show what prison life is like. It is especially bad in Florida prisons, and Raiford in particular. The ritualized life in prisons takes on an almost poetic quality, and there is a great deal of writing talent among the prisoners.

"Students always ask how much of the story is real and how much is fiction. It is always a little of both, but the author never wants to be accused of actually living the story."

Watson's second book "When The War Is Over" is now in the hands of his agent, and his third book "Blind Tongues" is in progress.

"Blind Tongues is written from the point of view of a woman, which, of course, I'm not. But then art has the power to transcend differences of sex, race, nationalities, etc."

Watson recommended beginning writers in the audience go to instructors of creative writing at their local colleges for instruction and criticism, rather than pay self-styled critics who advertise in magazines.

Christmas Shopping A Real Chore

DEAR ABBY: How do you go about putting a stop to exchanging Christmas gifts with people you hardly ever see? I don't mean relatives, I mean out-of-towners who used to be neighbors and whose children were friendly with our children (all grown now), and folks we are no longer close to.

Shopping, wrapping and mailing Christmas presents have gotten to be a real chore, and I am not as young as I used to be. It's also expensive. I would like to get off a lot of people's lists and take them off mine, too. I'm sure they feel the same way about it, but don't know how to get off ours.

So how do I get off this merry-go-round, Abby? I would prefer to send Christmas cards to a number of people who are still on my Christmas gift list. Thanks from...

CUTTING CORNERS IN CHICAGO
DEAR CHICAGO: Early in

Dear Abby

December write a note to those you'd like to take off your gift list and put on your card list, saying you are "thankful" for friends with whom you can be perfectly frank. Explain that this year, along with trimming your Christmas tree, you're trimming your gift list and sending cards instead. I'll wager they'll appreciate your practical approach and will cheerfully reciprocate.

DEAR ABBY: My cousin recently lost her baby daughter. The baby died a few hours after she was born.

It's been only three weeks, and already three women have asked me whether my cousin intends to return the baby gifts she received at her baby shower!

I find it hard to believe anyone could be so small as to be concerned about whether her baby gift will be returned or not.

What do I tell these women? I certainly do not want to approach my cousin with such pettiness. She's having a hard enough time as it is.

CAN'T BELIEVE IT
DEAR CANT: I suggest that you tell these petty, insensitive women that you wouldn't consider approaching your cousin with such a painful question.

FOOTPRINTS IN THE SAND
One night a man had a dream. He dreamed he was walking along the beach with the Lord. Across the sky flashed scenes from his life. For each scene, he noticed two sets of footprints in the sand: one belonging to him, and the other to the Lord.

When the last scene flashed before him, he looked back at the footprints and noticed that many times along the path there was only one set of footprints in the sand. He also noticed that this happened during the lowest and saddest times in his life.

This really bothered him, so he questioned the Lord. "Lord, you said that once I decided to follow you, you would walk with me all the way, but I noticed that during the most troublesome times of my life, there was only one set of footprints. I don't understand why, when I needed you the most, you deserted me."

The Lord replied, "My precious, precious child, I love you and would never leave you. During your times of trial and suffering, when you see only one set of footprints, it was then that I carried you."

Fresh Foods Back

By GAYNOR MADDOX
Special to the Herald

We are seeing the beginnings of a revival in the fine art of cooking. And there is a new book on the market that is likely to accelerate that trend.

"Today we are in the midst of a revival of freshly made foods, free of chemical additives and artificial colors and flavors," note Sylvia Rosenthal and Fran Shingel, the authors of an indispensable kitchen handbook titled "How Cooking Works."

"Fussy, pretentious food is out," say the authors. "Food that is disarmingly simple and honest, in which the taste of each ingredient is highlighted, is in. True elegance stems from first-rate ingredients carefully and simply prepared. This kind of cooking will never go out of style."

Their attractive book — which is priced at $19.95 — would make an excellent Christmas gift.

The 400-page volume describes tools and techniques for preparing a wide variety of foods. Full attention is given to the purchase and preparation of vegetables.

Also included are tables of emergency substitutions, equivalent amounts, weight, measure and metric units. There is even information for those on special diets.

Here are a few of the questions that the book answers:

- Why does meat shrink when it is cooked?
- Why does the size of pan or pot matter?
- Why are some vegetables cooked covered while others are cooked uncovered?
- Why is a combination of butter and oil best for sautéing?
- Why does heat thicken sauces?
- Why should a soufflé be placed in the bottom third of the oven?
- Why does bread crust become semi-rigid with baking?

"The answers will help you to understand not only what you are doing but, more important, why you are doing it," say the authors. "There is no doubt that great chefs, like the great artists in every field, are born inspired and touched by genius, but cooking is an acquired skill for most of us."

"Good cooking is the sum of many simple operations, and the more we know about them (and the more we cook), the easier it becomes, making the time we spend in the kitchen enjoyable and relaxing, crowned with the pride and satisfaction of preparing fine food for appreciative friends and family."

Another book for the Christmas list is "The Breads of France" by Bernard Clayton Jr., a former Time-Life correspondent who now is a writer and editor at Indiana University. The paperback costs $8.95.

The book describes a wide variety of breads — including some seldom encountered in this country — and explains how to bake them in the American kitchen. Included are recipes from 21 regions, including Paris, Bayonne, Monaco and the Rhone Valley.

ORANGE MACAROON CAKE

Blend of 1 orange
1 can (4½ ounces) blanched whole almonds
7 eggs, separated
1 cup sugar
¼ teaspoon salt

1 can (8 ounces) frozen concentrated orange juice, thawed, divided
¼ cup sifted potato starch
¼ cup flaked coconut, divided
Remove rind from the orange in thin strips with a vegetable peeler. Place in container of an electric blender, add almonds, cover and process at high speed until almonds are ground. In a large mixing bowl, beat egg yolks until thick and lemon-colored. Gradually beat in sugar. Beat until very thick. Stir in salt and 1 tablespoon concentrated orange juice. Reserve remaining concentrated orange juice for sauce. Stir in orange rind and ground almonds. Gently fold in potato starch and ¼ cup coconut. Beat egg whites until stiff peaks form. Add a small amount to batter and mix well. Gently but thoroughly fold in remaining egg whites. Turn into ungreased 9-by-3 ½-inch tube cake pan. Sprinkle top with remaining ¼ cup coconut. Bake in 325-degree oven 55 to 60 minutes or until cake tester inserted in cake comes out clean. Invert pan and let cake cool completely before removing to serve. This kitchen-tested recipe makes one 9-inch cake, 10 servings.

Crab Claws Are A True Delicacy

If you have never tried stone crab claws, then you have missed out on one of the true delicacies on earth! The claw meat of the stone crab is rich, sweet, and firm textured. The claws are removed and precooked on board the boat as the crabs are taken from the traps. The claws are then frozen to preserve quality.

The holidays ahead provide the perfect opportunity to try this gourmet food. The claws can be cracked to allow guests to slip the succulent meat out with cocktail forks. Served cold or hot with melted butter or warmed Mustard Sauce, they will quickly disappear.

TO PREPARE STONE CRAB CLAWS: Thaw stone crab claws if frozen. Crack all sections of shell with a hammer or nutcracker. Remove the shell and movable pincer, leaving the meat attached to the remaining pincer.

MUSTARD SAUCE:
½ cup sour cream
1-½ tablespoons prepared mustard

2 teaspoons melted butter or margarine
½ teaspoon parsley flakes
¼ teaspoon salt

Combine all ingredients. Heat at a very low temperature, just until warm, stirring occasionally. Do not boil. Makes approximately 2 1/2 cups sauce. Serve with hot or cold stone crab claws.

Fresh Fruit Salad

A fresh fruit salad can be an eye and taste pleasing addition to any party or get-together. However, to the harried hostess who must contend with all last minute details, it can often seem a treat not worth the worry and effort. If a fruit salad is made too early in the day, it may turn brown and not appear fresh at party time.

The same is true with the always-popular guacamole dip. If the hostess waits until the last minute to prepare the salad or dip, she may be faced with her guests catching her in the kitchen with her paring knife.

Most of us, at one time or another, have attempted to stop this unsightly browning by sprinkling lemon juice onto our fresh cut fruit. However, the amount of lemon juice needed to produce the desired anti-darkening effect is so great that it either masks the fruit's flavor or makes the fruit taste too tart.

Sugar or syrup will often help retard discoloration, but even then small amounts of oxygen (which causes the browning) still seem to take their toll.

Is there no solution? The answer, as more and more fruit lovers and party givers are finding out, is yes. There is a product called A C M Ever-Fresh which has proven to be very effective in retarding browning. It is an ascorbic-acid mixture, which authorities agree is the best mixture to preserve both the color and taste of the fruit.

Ascorbic acid is derived from fruits and vegetables and is known otherwise as Vitamin C. Citrus acid also is found in most fruits and vegetables and can be related to the effect of squeezing a small amount of lemon on fruit to enhance its flavor.

Simply put, the two together in Ever-Fresh do a much better job of preserving the appearance and flavor of the fruit than either alone.

Light colored fruit such as apricots, apples, bananas, nectarines, pears and peaches are those that benefit most from pretreatment with Ever-Fresh. While berries, melons and grapes don't require pretreatment, tossing them in Ever-Fresh can greatly enhance their flavor. In guacamole, it will not only improve upon flavor, but will keep the dip fresh for up to three days if it is stored in an air-tight container.

Following are some recipes for fruit salads, dressings and guacamole that should make your next party or get-together easier and more enjoyable — for both you and your guests.

For further information or additional recipes, please write to ACM Ever-Fresh, MCP Foods, Inc., P.O. Box 3633, Anaheim, CA 92803.

FRESH FRUIT SALAD

4 cups fresh fruit, cut up
1 teaspoon ACM Ever-Fresh
2 tablespoons water or fruit juice
Mix Ever-Fresh with water or fruit juice in shallow bowl. Cut light colored fruit into Ever-Fresh solution. These fruits include: bananas, apples, pears, peaches, apricots, nectarines. Mix fruit gently to completely cover surfaces with solution. Mix in other fruits, if any. Dressing may be added, if desired. Salad may be stored, covered, several hours without discoloration.

DRESSING IDEAS: MIX MAYONNAISE, SOUR CREAM OR YOGURT WITH RED CURRANT JELLY AND EVER-FRESH. MAKES 4 SERVINGS.

WHIPPED CREAM DRESSING

½ cup heavy cream
1 tablespoon ACM Ever-Fresh
Beat cream until stiff. Slowly beat in Ever-Fresh. Spoon over fruit salad and mix gently. Yield: 1 Cup.

Richard Allen: From Invisible Man To Embattled Public Figure

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Richard Allen may be the only man in the White House who is jealous of David Stockman.

Storm clouds blew around Stockman, President Reagan's budget director, for a time last week, then swiftly vanished. But for Allen, caught in a typhoon of bad news for weeks, the forecast remains gloomy.

As national security adviser for Reagan, Allen toiled in the inner rings of the White House during the opening months of the Reagan administration so anonymously that he was known as the invisible man.

Urbane and well-tailored, Allen would speak to the press only as a "senior administration official" for background. His name was not to be used.

Television shows looked for other presidential spokesmen, for although Allen has a quick wit and ready smile beneath his carefully-brushed silver hair, it has been acknowledged in the administration that his monotone briefings on foreign affairs at times rendered little that was helpful. He was known among reporters to be flippant.

Now suddenly, through an unlikely series of events, Allen is visible and controversial during what has become the administration's most turbulent period. Allen currently is under investigation by the Justice Department for receiving $1,000 in cash from a Japanese journalist.

The Washington Post reported in today's editions that Justice Department prosecutors have recommended the Allen investigation be closed without appointment of a special prosecutor because the FBI found no evidence he committed a crime. A department spokesman had no comment on the report.

But Allen's problems may not be over. The Post quoted sources as saying a number of presidential advisers are counseling that he showed such bad judgement that he ought to be dismissed.

He had finally been brought out of the closet to stage manage the White House effort to win approval of the sale of AWACS radar planes to Saudi Arabia. Rough days followed and he was criticized for bungling the job. The task was shifted to Reagan chief of staff Jim Baker before Senate passage was won.

On the heels of that came a flap over a report that Secretary of State Alexander Haig smoothed the way for former President Richard Nixon to make a private visit to Saudi Arabia. Allen reportedly instigated the story about his old adversary since their jobs have many parallel duties.

Then an Army general on Allen's hush-hush National Security Council made a speech, without clearance, that the Soviet Union and the United States were "drifting" toward war. Although the general was fired by Allen, the incident put the NSC chief back in the headlines.

No sooner had that passed than the long-simmering dispute between Allen and Haig erupted in print. Haig told a reporter "guerrilla" warfare was being conducted in the White House against him, but later said Allen was not the source of such rumors.

The administration sought to ignore the incident but Reagan finally was forced to summon both Allen and Haig to the Oval Office, where he told them to quit bickering in public and concentrate on their jobs.

Just when the heat was building, the spotlight of unwanted publicity shifted to Stockman, Reagan's budget director, who criticized the administration's economic program in a magazine interview. The uproar was so sudden that Allen slipped briefly into the shadows of yesterday's headlines. A not for long.

A Japanese newspaper reported a high Reagan official had taken $1,000 from a Japanese journalist for an interview with first lady Nancy Reagan.

The White House on Friday issued a statement that while it was Allen who had received the payment, he had taken it to avoid embarrassment since such honoraria are customary in Japan.

Allen said he had placed the money in an envelope of his office, intending to pass it along to the proper authorities. But, he said, the envelope was forgotten when he moved to a new office.

Someone else found it and the investigation began.

The White House press office said Friday Reagan found out about the payment and an ensuing investigation by the Justice Department that same day.

That statement was rolled back "to correct the record" Tuesday when Communications Director David Gergen said Reagan had learned about the incident in mid-September, but was barred by law from discussing it openly while an investigation was under way.

It was the third time the story needed patching.

Fred Fielding, the White House counsel, had said the FBI was through with its investigation. Fielding is Allen's private lawyer. Larry Speakes, the deputy press secretary, said Friday Allen had been cleared of anything wrong.

But the Justice Department responded that its investigation has not yet been concluded either way.

Allen said on Friday he had not set up the interview with Mrs. Reagan and the Japanese journalist, but he later added he "did receive the initial request."

Even before he got to the White House, Allen was in difficulty.

He was suspended briefly last year as a campaign adviser when the Wall Street Journal reported he had worked together with a Japanese businessman to sell American planes to Japan.

An official of Grumman aircraft has charged Allen tried to obtain a million dollar campaign contribution in 1972 for President Nixon — charges denied by Allen.

Meanwhile, Allen, while in private business, had as a client a Tokyo research organization which employs the husband of the woman who originally contacted Allen about an interview with Mrs. Reagan. Allen said the husband was an old friend.

In addition, he withdrew himself earlier this year from debate and decision-making about Japanese auto imports, saying he had once been a consultant for Datsun.

Grin And Bare It

MALIBU, Calif. (UPI) — Nine people arrested for nude sunbathing plan to ask federal courts to declare as unconstitutional ordinances prohibiting sunning in the buff.

Nine of the more than 500 persons arrested for nudity on local beaches prepared today for another series of confusing courtroom appearances that attorneys say will end up in the federal courts.

Lawyers for the nine accused nude sunbathers said they would go to the U.S. District Court to attack the ordinances as unconstitutional and impinging upon individual rights of freedom of expression and congregation.

In addition, a $1 million lawsuit has been filed against Los Angeles County Sheriff Peter Pitchess and his deputies for alleged civil rights violations.

The court appearances originally scheduled for trial last week in nearby Calabasas were postponed when it was discovered that the assigned judge, on loan from Santa Monica, had been disqualified by the prosecution for saying ordinances banning nudity on beaches were "unclear."

A total of 549 persons were arrested for being in the buff on a beach. Most accepted fines without contest. Twenty-one have been tried to date with 12 convictions and five acquittals.

Thirty-six were dismissed and two trials resulted in hung juries. Others are awaiting trial.

Attorneys Stephen Yagman and David Kestenbaum won dismissal last week of charges against 34 sun strippers on grounds they were not brought to trial within 45 days of arraignment.

HOROSCOPE

By BERNICE BEDE OSOL For Tuesday, November 24, 1981

YOUR BIRTHDAY Tuesday, November 24 This coming year you're likely to take on a few more responsibilities and duties than you have in the past. Some of these assignments may not be of your own choosing, but the results will be gratifying. SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) Be kind to those who need your help today, but also be careful that a greedy acquaintance doesn't take advantage of you. Be generous, but selective. Romance, travel, luck, resources, possible pitfalls and career for the coming months are all discussed in your Astro-Graph which begins with your birthday. Mail $1 for each to Astro-Graph, Box 489, Radio City Station, N.Y. 10019. Be sure to specify birth date. CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) If you fail to acknowledge persons who have helped you recently, they may not be willing to aid you again when you need them. Saying "thanks" means a lot. AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) You're good at getting what you go after today, but you may not be overly pleased with the fruits of your victory. Keep your expectations within limits. PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) If you have any problems in your love life today, iron things out with your romantic partner. Bringing a third party into the picture will muddy the water. ARIES (March 21-April 19) Be extremely careful in business dealings today. Misunderstandings could arise if all aspects are not properly spelled out in advance. TAURUS (April 20-May 20) Persons whose help you need work-or-careerwise could take positions contrary to yours today. Try to reason things out. GEMINI (May 21-June 20) Treat serious situations with the respect they deserve today, but don't become negative to the extent where it may impede your progress. CANCER (June 21-July 22) Look out for those in your charge today, but try not to be too possessive, or to lay down conditions they may find oppressive. Be firm, but fair. LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) It's best to postpone today if you feel going in you'll not be able to conclude them properly. Reschedule events to when time will be your ally. VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) If you hope to get today, you must first be a giver. Others won't treat you generously when they feel you've been a trifle stingy with them. LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) Your possibilities for material gains are good today, but don't do anything at the expense of others. Cut your profit a bit if it will keep your reputation intact. SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) You're very capable today, provided you don't assign undue importance to negative thoughts. Why worry about what may never happen.

It's OK To Eat Lean Red Meat

DEAR DR. LAMB - Recently you agreed with the person who asked about eating poultry and fish rather than red meats to avoid saturated fats. Well, I have been told that half the fat in beef is unsaturated fat and that more than half of the fat in pork is unsaturated fat. What is wrong then with red meat for a diet? I always thought a good healthy diet should include some good red meat, that it was good for your blood and gave you a lot of good protein. Are some cuts of beef better than others? Which is better, pork or beef? Should you leave organ meats alone?

DEAR READER - I have no objection to people eating red meats if their system can handle it. If you read my column often you know that I usually advocate individualizing rather than generalizing. If you happen to have a high cholesterol level, then it is wise to lose weight and to limit fat. If these measures are not adequate it is important to limit saturated fat and cholesterol. A severe problem might even be benefited by a vegetarian diet. It depends upon the patient and his problem.

Now, lean red meat - such as round steak with all the fat removed - is a good food. It is a good source of complete protein. And it is a low calorie food if you don't fry it in grease or add fat gravy to it. A whole pound of raw lean round steak only contains about 600 calories.

You are right that about half of the fat in beef is unsaturated. But almost all of that is monounsaturated fat, which is not much better than saturated fat. Beef fat is very low in the polyunsaturated fat that many heart specialists believe is better for you. The relationship of beef, sheep, pork and organ meats is included in The Health Letter number 8-12, Red Meats: Good and Bad, which I

Oswald: "Review of the bidding tells you that you must try to keep East from gaining the lead so you should find out that your only good line of play is to duck that first heart." Alan: "West can do no better than to continue. Then you discard two spades on the top hearts, play dummy's ace of spades; ruff a spade high; back to dummy with the eight of trumps; ruff another spade; back to dummy with jack of trumps; ruff one more spade; back to dummy again with the king of clubs and you discard one diamond on the last spade." Oswald: "Expert play, but you can be an expert if you plan things at trick one." (NEWSPAPER ENTERPRISE ASSN.)
