Billups trial date set

A June 8 trial date was set Tuesday for two men charged in connection with sexual battery on a Longwood woman last year. The trials for Lewis Billups, a former professional football player, and Gregory Calloway were scheduled during their arraignments. Billups, whose attorney earlier filed a not guilty plea and waiver of appearance is charged with sexual battery on an incapacitated person, extortion and conspiracy to commit extortion. Billups is in custody in Kentucky on an unrelated case of threatening to end the career of professional basketball player, Rex Chapman. During the Tuesday arraignment, the public defender's office was appointed to represent Calloway. Billups retained private counsel and is represented by attorney Lori Wheeler. The pair are charged in connection with allegations by a woman who claims she was drugged then raped by Billups, a former player for the Cincinnati Bengals and Green Bay Packers. The woman claims the assault was videotaped by Calloway at Billups' Alaquia home. Further, she claims the pair attempted to extort money from her by threatening to show the tape to her husband.

Residents affected? Sex joints curtailed

By J. MARK BARFIELD
Herald Senior Staff Writer

SANFORD — Seminole County commissioners voted unanimously to approve changes to their adult entertainment ordinance to reduce the number of potential sites for new strip joints and other lease-for-sale businesses. The changes will take effect in about a month.

They would impose additional requirements on the three existing adult businesses in the unincorporated areas of the county, but not close down any current establishments due to the minimum distance requirements.

In response to an outcry of Fern Park residents, commissioners increased the distance between adult businesses and residential property from the current 100 to 500 feet. The distance between adult establishments was increased from 500 to 1,500 feet. Most of the current adult businesses in the county are located in the Fern Park.

An effort to locate another nude bar in the former Freddie's Steakhouse was withdrawn amid the protest of hundreds of residents.

Current Planning Manager Herb Hardin said the changes could reduce the number of potential sites. See Adult, Page 5A

Bang up day for Sanford cops

Tuesday was a busy day for the Sanford Police Department when it came to investigating auto accidents. Last night, a three-car hit-and-run mishap at the corner of Celery and Mellonville avenues left Evelyn Woods with injuries that had to be treated at Central Florida Regional Hospital. Police said the driver of the 1980 Oldsmobile, above left, fled on foot after striking Woods' 1985 Toyota and forcing Timothy L. Brown off the road and into a tree in his 1968 Buick. Police are still investigating the accident. Earlier in the day, a two car accident at French Avenue and 1st Street left a woman and her children injured. Wayne Wilhelm, holding one of the babies taken from a car at the scene, stopped to assist. Officer Rick Poovey, right, gathered information at the scene for his report.

Schools to standardize conduct code

By VICKI DeSORMIER

SANFORD — With little discussion from the public, the Seminole County school board unanimously approved a once-controversial anti-drug policy for advertisement last night.

The policy, debated in one form or another for more than three years, will be brought up again for a public hearing in thirty days before it is voted on for a final time by the school board. Under the provisions of the proposed policy, any student who is involved in any extra-curricular activity, who is caught drinking, using drugs or tobacco products, possessing fake identification or making racial or ethnic slurs may be suspended from all team or club activities, excluding practices, for five to ten days on the first offense.

Allison Garcia, the mother of a former Lake Mary High School cheerleader, spoke in favor of the policy in its present form.

"Having no policy is more dangerous than letting each school do whatever the hell they please," she said.

She said that students have to take the consequences for their actions, but the consequences should be the same at each school.

In the past, Garcia has been against the policy, which had included provisions for penalties which included required drug treatment for those students who were even seen holding a drink. She had also opposed the policy on the grounds that it proposed enforcement 24 hours a day, seven days a week, 365 days a year.

A committee of parents, teachers, administrators and students have crafted a compromise. See Policy, Page 5A

Anti-abortion leader testifies

By J. MARK BARFIELD
Herald Senior Staff Writer

SANFORD — A Central Florida anti-abortion leader testified Tuesday he had not violated a judge's injunction against blocking entrance to a Melbourne, Fla. abortion clinic or accusing employees or clients of the clinics.

But Bruce Cagle of Palm Bay, southeastern United States field director of Operation Rescue National, gave testimony into other tactics used in his fight against legal abortions, including obtaining a tag number at a Melbourne women's clinic in an effort to identify a clinic physician.

Cagle's testimony came during the second day of hearings in a complaint made by a group of Central Florida abortion clinics. The clinics allege the protesters should be found in contempt of court for blocking access. See Abortion, Page 5A

Former honor student convicted of rape

FORT PIERCE — A former high school honor student convicted of raping a disabled woman with a broomstick was sentenced to 20 years in prison.

Damon Lee Harris, who cried during much of the hour-long sentencing hearing Monday, insisted he was not the attacker.

The victim was attacked in April 1991 on the eve of her 28th birthday. She said she is certain that Harris, then 17, is the man who had sex with her and then turned violent, punching her in the head and face before picking up a jagged stick and assaulting her.

Assistant State Attorney Lynn Park sought a maximum 22-year prison term because of the brutality of the crime and Harris' criminal record. Harris was arrested in 1990 on charges that he stabbed a man in the stomach and nearly killed him, Park said.

Union files complaint against Universal

ORLANDO — A labor union filed a complaint against Universal Studios Florida, claiming the theme park fired or demoted 15 employees because of union activity.

The performers identified in the complaint participated in a union organizing campaign at the park last April, said Carol Waaser, senior business representative for Actors' Equity Association in New York. The union lost that election, receiving 37 percent of the 145 votes cast.

Waaser said Tuesday about 26 Universal employees were fired or reduced to casual status — meaning they lost benefits — after the park re-auditioned all of its 200 performers in late January and early February.

Taylor charged with grand theft in soccer case

By SANDRA ELLIOTT
Herald Staff Writer

SANFORD—The power struggle over control of the Seminole Soccer Club has taken a turn into criminal court with businessman Barry Taylor being charged with taking over $15,000 from the volunteer organization.

The charge of grand theft by misrepresentation, a third degree felony, was filed by the Seminole County State Attorney's Office stems from allegations made by soccer club board members. In a civil suit filed earlier against Taylor, the board, claims Taylor, billed the organization more than $20,000 in November, 1991 for advertising in a national soccer magazine. In the suit, the group claims Taylor placed less than $9,000 worth of ads and paid less than $5,000 for them.

Taylor attributed the discrepancies to billing mistakes by the magazine, Soccer America, and from his charges for administrative work and processing tournament applications. The ads were placed through Taylor's company, Retail Store Consultants.

Taylor, who has tried to regain the presidency of the soccer group for nearly a year, claims the charges are unfounded and the result of an internal power struggle.

Last May, the board voted to remove Taylor as president. Taylor challenged the board's authority to do so which touched off a series of legal actions.

On March 11, an appeals committee of the U.S. Youth Soccer Association found the board violated the group's bylaws in attempting to oust Taylor.

Current soccer club president Joe Neri said Taylor is basing his claim that he should not be removed from office on the club constitution. However, although the group has articles of incorporation and bylaws, no record of an officially recorded constitution can be found.

Further, Neri said he has received nothing from the Florida Youth Soccer Association, their governing body, to indicate Taylor should be reinstated.

"I did receive a letter from Taylor, a threatening letter," Neri said. "But I have received nothing official from the Florida Youth Soccer Association." He said he had not been informed of any sanctions which might be imposed on the local club. In addition to the legal steps to remove Taylor from office, Neri said the membership voted in December by a wide margin to remove Taylor as president and as a member of the not for profit group.

Taylor could not be reached for comment this morning.

The soccer club's legal committee is scheduled to meet Friday to discuss the USYSA's ruling. Refusal to abide by the ruling could result in the club facing sanctions which might result in loss of insurance and being banned from interclub and tournament play.

The Seminole Soccer Club, which has about 1,500 youth soccer players, owns a complex west of Sanford near the county's Lake Sylvan Park.

Despite the USYSA ruling, board secretary John Lahey claims an order by Seminole Circuit Judge Wallace Hall enjoining Taylor from acting as club president carries more weight.

NEWS FROM THE REGION AND ACROSS THE STATE

Bills need Senate nod

House for health care reform and bingo regulation

By JACKIE HALLIFAX
Associated Press Writer

TALLAHASSEE — The House passed measures designed to fix Florida's health care system and regulate bingo, but both bills face uncertain futures in the Senate.

The House voted 76-40 Tuesday to pass legislation (HB 2271) that sets up regional boards charged with pooling the purchasing power of the public and private sectors to drive down health care costs. The bill, backed by Gov. Lawton Chiles, also enacts insurance reforms for the small-group market.

The insurance reforms limit companies to considering only four factors — location, age, gender and smoking history — when setting rates for small-group policies and require companies to guarantee issuance of policies.

The Senate, however, has yet to get any health care reform measure out of committee. A sticking point has been whether the regional boards would be open to state government, which has to buy health care for 300,000 state workers and dependents and 1.7 million Medicaid recipients.

A meeting of the Senate Health Care Committee, scheduled for Tuesday morning, was cancelled.

The bingo bill (CS-HB 31) passed on a 91-25 vote. It would require license fees, fingerprinting and background checks for large-scale bingo operators.

A Senate committee has passed a less restrictive bingo bill that would leave the games virtually without state regulation.

The House bill was intended to keep organized crime out of Florida bingo operations, said Rep. Edward Healey, D-West Palm Beach, the sponsor.

Attorney General Bob Butterworth and Department of Business Regulation Secretary Janet Ferris have endorsed the licensing and background checks the bill would require.

The legislation would require all bingo operations to register with the state.

Those with revenues of more than $104,000 a year would have to pay license fees of $150 a year. Those with more than $300,000 a year in revenues would pay $250 a year to pay for enforcement of the regulations.

Meanwhile, Chiles' hopes of abolishing unfair sales tax loopholes were dealt a blow when a Senate panel voted to study it further.

Ma Bell donates $$ to project

By NICK PFENAU
Herald Staff Writer

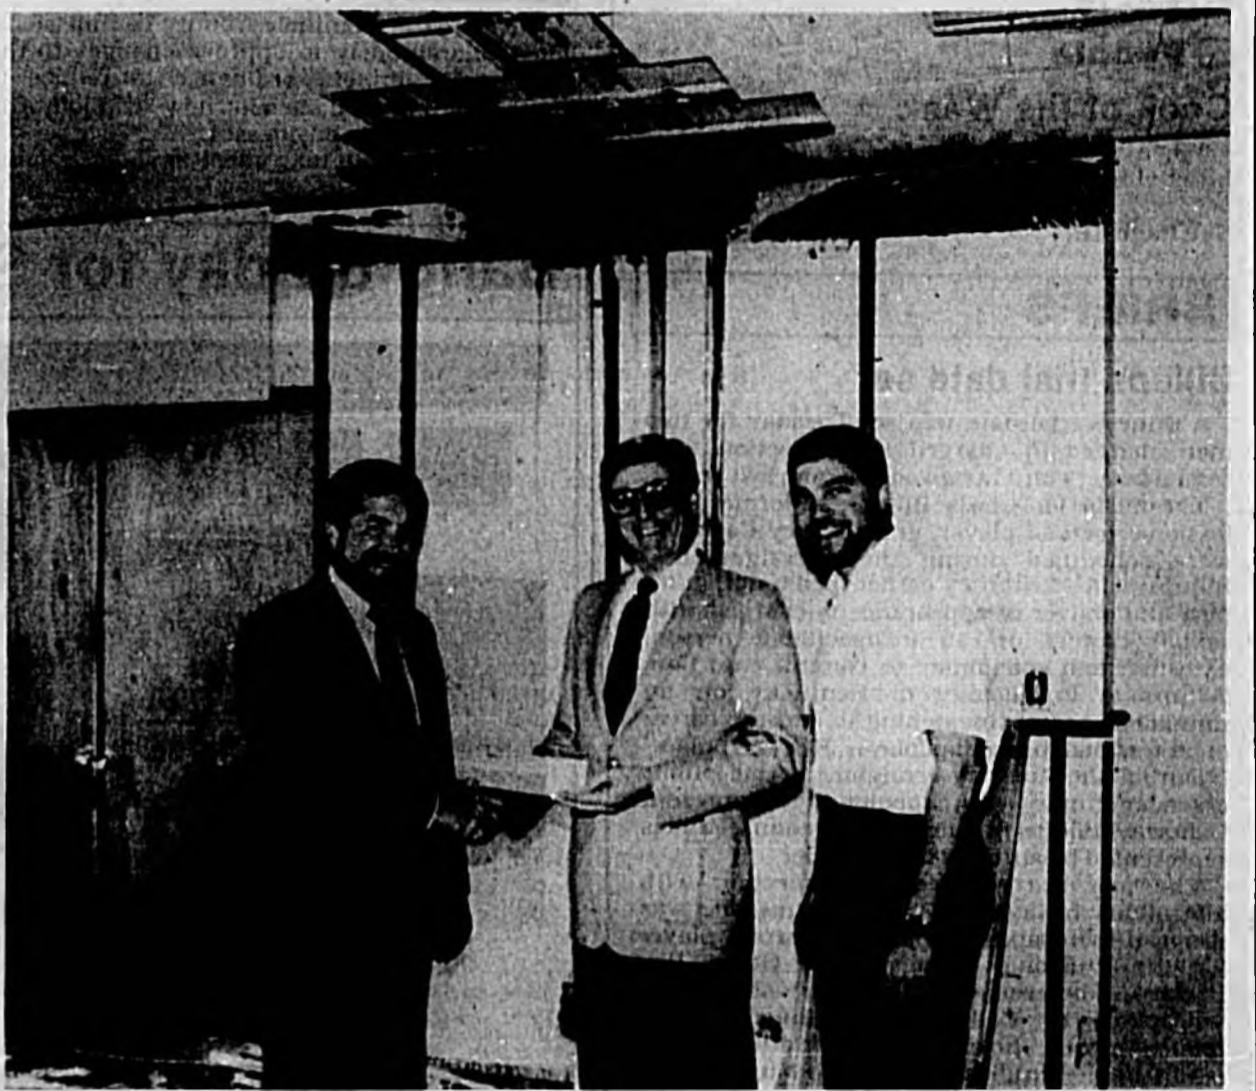

SANFORD — Refurbishing work at the Greater Sanford Chamber of Commerce building got a boost yesterday. Southern Bell donated $2,000 to the chamber to help finance the work.

Although the building is owned by the City of Sanford, the chamber has been financing the work on improving the meeting room and offices. At the present time, the office staff has been moved to other rooms while that area is being refurbished.

Executive Director Dave Farr said the cost of the work is estimated at slightly more than $20,000. Money is being obtained from several businesses which maintain chamber membership.

Meanwhile, a new problem has emerged in the refurbishing project. A main support beam over the trusses has been found to be infested with subterranean termites.

"It's actually a double beam, 6 by 20 inches in size," Farr said, "and about 20 feet long. There is no question that it will have to be replaced with a steel beam."

Farr expects the replacement will take an additional three or four days of work. "We still plan on being finished in time for our Business After Hours Open House here at the chamber on April 15th," he said. During Monday night's Sanford City Commission meeting, the termite problem was discussed. Mayor Bettye Smith commented that while the city owned the building, no formal lease has ever been arranged.

She asked the city staff to look into the possibility of having a termite insurance policy on the structure.

Clerk accused of embezzling $700,000

By Associated Press

KEY WEST — An accounting clerk charged with embezzling about $700,000 will return to North Carolina rather than leave the country as planned aboard a boat she recently purchased, police said.

Accounts receivable clerk Wendy Sue Dawley, 28, of Winston-Salem, N.C., was arrested in Key West on Monday. She has been cooperating with investigators and indicated she will not fight extradition, said detective John McKinney.

She allegedly embezzled the money from Hanes Corp., a subsidiary of Sara Lee Corp.

Dawley arrived in Key West on Saturday aboard a $250,000 luxury boat. She allegedly purchased the 37-foot Bertram and hired a full-time captain for it with funds she stole.

The captain told police Dawley had asked how to take the vessel out of the country. "She knew the heat was on," McKinney said.

Her journal entries included instructions to her husband to make funeral arrangements as well as details of her embezzlement schemes, in which she set up phony bank accounts for the same companies she was sending payments to as part of her job, officials said.

She would then make out checks to the phony accounts and hand-deliver the checks to the banks, police said.

The warrant for her arrest included charges of fraud and false pretense and more charges are expected, police said. Dawley reportedly had been arrested and served prison time for similar thefts at another company.

According to police, she claimed to have started stealing again to pay off a $24,000 judgment against her for the previous case.

Sergeant takes stand in King beating trial

By LINDA DEUTSCH
AP Special Correspondent

LOS ANGELES — The police sergeant who supervised the Rodney King beating said the motorist displayed superhuman strength, talked gibberish and had a far-off look, convincing him without a doubt that King was high on PCP.

Sgt. Stacey Koon, one of four officers on trial in federal court, testified Tuesday that King threw five policemen off his back.

"When I saw that move, that was 100 percent confirmation that Rodney King was on PCP," Koon said. "I believed he had thrown approximately 800 pounds of officers off his back."

PCP can give users superhuman strength. But tests showed no trace of PCP in King's body, and the motorist denied under oath that he had taken the drug.

Koon, the first defendant to take the stand, denied officers used racial slurs during the videotaped beating. King testified he was taunted with the word "nigger," but later said he wasn't sure whether it was really "killer."

The sergeant startled jurors when he twice leaned forward in the witness box and roared to show how King reacted when Koon shocked him with a stun gun.

He said when he first saw King at the end of a car chase, he thought the motorist was "buffed out ... muscular," like recently released prisoners look from lifting weights behind bars.

Koon, along with Officers Laurence Powell, Theodore Briseno and Timothy Wind, are accused of violating King's civil rights in the 1991 beating. Their acquittals after a state trial last year touched off deadly riots.

Defense attorney Ira Salzman's questioning focused on Koon's perception of King as high on PCP. Even if the motorist was not drugged, the defense claims officers were justified in thinking so because of his odd behavior.

The 42-year-old Koon said that after the car chase, King was sweating profusely. He said their eyes met from 20 feet away.

"The look that he gave me was that he looks at you and looks right through you," he recalled. "It's a bizarre look. On the street I had seen it many times before in drug suspects."

"He then engaged me in gibberish," Koon said. "It's not English, not German or any language I ever heard. It was the same phrase over and over again."

Koon said King, ordered to get down on the ground, "reached out and began to tap the ground as if he didn't know where the ground was."

He said King arose and waved at a police helicopter overhead, then "did a little dance" and gyrated his buttocks at a California Highway Patrol officer. King testified these events never occurred.

Sanford night club owner claims cops still harass him

By VICKI DeSORMIER
Herald Staff Writer

SANFORD — Fred Mungen said he has had enough of being harassed by the Sanford Police Department and the City of Sanford in his Party Machine night club on Park Drive.

Mungen, who has owned the club for over a year, said his customers are being scared away by police officers maintaining a constant presence in the club.

"I don't mind the police being in my place," he said, "but when they come in there with their guns strapped on, they scare people."

Mungen said Saturday night, members of the Sanford Police SWAT team, fully armed, came into the night club to "ask (Mungen) some questions."

He said they asked where all the people were when they found only a few patrons in the restaurant and bar.

"They've been scared away, that's where they are," he said he told the officers.

Gene Butler, who manages the club for Mungen, said there were only about eight people in the club Saturday night.

The officers, dressed in black police t-shirts and armed with large guns, have been coming into the club for the last two weekends, Butler said.

Mungen said that he has tried meeting with the city on the matter of the harassment he believes he is suffering at the hands of the Sanford Police.

He met on Monday with acting police chief Ralph Russell to discuss the problem. He said he believed at the time that they had come to an understanding, but said yesterday that he may have been mistaken.

He said he has no choice, as a result of Saturday night's SWAT team visit, but to seek legal advice and take some action.

The club, which began as a teen club last year, recently made the switch to an adult nightclub. Mungen said he would like to designate one night a week as a teens-only night, but has been told by city officials that he can not do that.

"They keep saying they don't know if it is legal or not," he said. "I was under the impression that I could do that. I've been told over and over by the state that it's alright, but the city says they don't know."

He said he has garnered a great deal of community support for his club, especially from parents who believe it would be a good alternative for their teens who now travel to Orlando for entertainment.

"We have a lot of community support," he said. "But we have been harassed so much by the police that people are being scared away from the club."

City officials said that group of area residents have complained to the city commission that club goers have been leaving beer bottles and soiled condoms in their yards and making too much noise.

"We've only been having twenty people or less in here," said Butler. "How much trouble could they cause?"

Public is invited to provide input for design of new school

By VICKI DeSORMIER
Herald Staff Writer

SANFORD — The Seminole County school district has $38 million to spend on a new high school in Winter Springs and they don't want to do it alone.

The new school, which is expected to open by the 1995-96 school year does not even have a name, but it is entering the first design phases with the architects who will draw up the final plans.

District officials and architects from the firm of Schenkel and Schultz have planned a series of workshops beginning the end of this week which will allow the public to step forward and voice their opinions about what the school should include in terms of facilities and amenities that will best suit the needs of the students while still coming within the budget parameters.

The first meeting will take place on Thursday, March 25 from 3 to 7 p.m. at the Winter Springs City Hall on State Road 434.

Subsequent meetings will also be at the city hall on April 15 and on May 6.

District officials said they chose to have such long work shops in order to give a wide cross section of the public, including students, teachers and working parents, as well as those who work varying hours to take part in the process.

Though the state mandates much of what must be included in a school facility, there is some freedom regarding those things which are not stipulated by the legislature and the Department of Education.

The school district wants to involve as much of the public as possible in the school from the earliest stages, Dianne Kramer, executive director of facilities said. Too often, the public feels as if the district does not value their input, she said.

She said she hopes their ideas can be incorporated into the new building.

City leaders helping people

There are times when you don't need to fight city hall to get something done. The City of Lake Mary is giving free help to owners of storm-damaged yards.

Beginning now, and extending through April, yard trash pickups in the city will be offered free of charge. Pickups will continue to be made each Wednesday.

Although a few people questioned how pickups might be improved, it was not brought about through any massive demands.

City Manager John Litton took it upon himself to tour the city where he reported seeing massive yard damage. He then contacted Western Waste about the possibility of free pickups.

Bringing it up last week to the city commission drew unanimous support.

It will cost the city approximately $1,500, but officials agree it is a needed help for the people.

The only stipulation is that the yard trash be bagged at no more than 4 feet in length, and 50 pounds in weight. There are no restrictions on how many bags may be used.

The people of Lake Mary have reason to be pleased.

How to fight crime Phase two

They're all you wonderful people out there in never-never land. Listen up. I've got a question for you. Are you ready to consider — very carefully — the second phase of "radical action" that will drastically reduce the incidence and the severity of crime in our neighborhoods? It will, if we can get the "legal beagles" and the "government bureaucrats" to get behind the action and push, rather than hold back on its implementation.

It will also go a long way to clear out the — let's call it the "nickel and dime trade" — jail/prison/penitentiary occupants to make room for the "fifty and one hundred dollar" — long term, "violent criminal occupants." You know the ones I mean... the ones that federal/state legislators and/or federal/state judges "order to be released" to "lessen the overcrowding" in our jails/prisons/penitentiaries.

What is this "second phase" of radical action that I referred to? Well now — guys and gals — hunker down, tighten your seat belts, take a deep breath and I'll tell you. Listen carefully.

It's called the "the stocks." For all of you kids under 50 — no — I don't mean "stocks, bonds, funds and the like." For all of you other "kids" over 50, don't give me a hard time. You know what I'm referring to.

"The stocks." A wooden, outdoor structure, containing a long bench for "you" to sit on, many sets of two wrist holes to "carcass" your wrists and two ankle holes to hold your ankles in a "tender embrace." And there you would sit — rain or shine — day and night, hot or cold, and get fed "one" meal a day — for as many "24-hour days as your sentence calls for. And, no time out for "potty calls."

"The sentence." Twenty-four hours in the stocks for each 30 days of sentence. And, each succeeding sentence would double the preceding sentence for all of you repeat offenders. What do you mean, you don't understand? First time offender — 24 hours. Second time offender — 48 hours. Third time offender — 96 hours. A fourth offence — aw — you don't even want to know. It does add up rather quickly, doesn't it?

Uncomfortable? Absolutely. Embarrassing as hell, you bet. Especially when "people you know that know you" walk by and laugh at you and maybe throw eggs at you. (We respectfully request that no rotten eggs be used. They smell terrible.)

Radical — you better believe it. Effective — definitely yes — but only if it's implemented. You see, guys and gals, out there in never-never land, it's nothing more than an old-time "reward/punishment system." That "system" had worked for several hundred years with "our kids." That system "will work" for our kids and their wayward parents if — and only if — we can get it past the legal beagles and the government bureaucrats and their incessant cries of "child abuse" and "adult abuse" when it might very well be considered "common-sense abuse."

You want to "chop crime off at the knees?" Well then, get mad! Get so damn mad about it that you could chew up railroad locomotives and spit out carpet tacks. If and when you reach that point, you will have reached what I call "a hard-nosed attitude on crime." And that's when you can get something "done about it." Don't ask — demand. "Demand" action from the federal level — the state level, the local judiciary level. All applicable levels.

But — in every level of demand — demand in a totally legal manner. We don't need more lawbreakers out there. We "gottanuffareddy."

BEN WATTENBERG

Have we seen the worst of it?

Americans like to know where they are and whither they are tending (to quote Lincoln). We measure things with regularity and ingenuity in the commercial arena. Each month, for example, the Census Bureau publishes the "Index of Leading Economic Indicators," which presents 11 data series to give us a clue about what comes next. Alas, we do not do as well in the social realm — just where we are hurting these days. There have been sporadic attempts to put together a "Social Indicators" compendium, but none has survived to regularity. Too bad; studying regular data collections can open our eyes.

Come now William Bennett, the former shake-'em-up Secretary/Czar/Chairman of Everything during the Reagan presidency. Bennett is the editor of, and has written the introduction to, a new "Index of Leading Cultural Indicators," which lays out 20 behavioral trends. These include some of the most troubling aspects of our condition: illegitimacy, drugs, crime, divorce, education and even television viewing.

Bennett has done a fine job, for a first crack at it. He has presented a fair and objective array of data, and examined the numbers. His main point is sobering, accurate, consequential — but I think somewhat off the mark in one respect. We are shown where we are, but not whither we are tending.

Bennett writes: "Over the last three decades we have experienced substantial social regression. Today the forces of social decomposition are challenging — and in some instances overtaking — the forces of social composition."

The key words are not only the sad ones of "regression" and "decomposition," but "three decades." Many of Bennett's three-decade trends back up his depressing view: illegitimate births — way up; violent crime — way up; divorce — way up; SAT scores — down; expected prison time for a crime — way down; television viewing — up. Even with some of the positive trends presented (drug use, drop-outs and infant mortality are down) it is an appropriately gloomy assessment. We have taken a hit, and we are paying for it.

But data compendiums can open our eyes. For me, this one has crystallized some thoughts, although not the way Bennett has suggested.

Suppose we look at our condition not from 1980, but from roughly 1980. Still using Bennett's data, a somewhat different picture emerges. For example: Divorce rate — down; prison time — up somewhat; rate of children in welfare families — about the same; SAT scores — about the same; daily television viewing — about the same, but with better selections due to the advent of cable. (Illegitimacy remains up. The crime rate is high, but not growing, if alternative government data series are used.)

In fact, as I count it, since 1980 more of Bennett's trends are positive, or neutral, than negative.

Might something be happening other than ongoing social regression? Perhaps we hit bottom around 1980, and then society began, slowly, to react in a healthy way. Might it be that while we still suffer from decomposition, and are worse off than we were, we have turned the corner?

Rethinking squirrely propoganda

BOSTON — As a child of the 1950s, I was taught to think of the squirrel as a lovable, furry role model of the American work ethic. The creature who frequented my school books worked his tail off all fall collecting the acorns of assorted oak trees. When winter came around he survived by just nipping over to the little tree grocery store for his three square nuts a day.

I should have known better I am sure. The only tree in our apartment courtyard was an alantus not an oak. The squirrels in our neighborhood seemed to spend most of their time perfecting their electric tightwire act.

But these were the Cold War years when all good little animals were expected to do their part for the great anthropomorphic propoganda machine. Remember the three little piggies? The boring, brick-house piggy was the one who survived the big bad wolf. You get the idea.

Since then I have learned the truth about urban squirrels, and of course about the economy. Squirrels may indeed put away their acorns for a snowy day. But they don't have a clue where they put them.

Their survival, indeed their complete takeover of the city, has nothing to do with the virtues of the good old 1950s: industry, husbandry, loyalty. They thrive on the economic tools of the 1990s: ingenuity, adaptability, flat-out nerve. And, of course, sunflower seeds.

Which brings us to the subject at hand. The case of the Wallenda at my window. Named after the humanoids, the Flying Wallendas.

For the better part of three years, I have been happily feeding an assortment of basic winter-hardy New England birds out of a modest plastic bird feeder at my second-story kitchen window. My Audubon life-list includes the squabbling finch family, several pairs of titmice, some overbearing blue jays, subdued juncos, sparrows, and an occasional downy woodpecker, or, in this case, downy plasticpecker.

The first hint that a somewhat heavier visitor had taken up a post at the window was the discovery that the seed cups were being knocked to the ground. The second hint was Wally himself performing a flying leap from fence to electric wire to tree branch to window feeder. Degree of difficulty 7, execution 5.7.

This feat was matched by an extremely large mammal, female and human, lunging at the window, knocking in anger, and yelling at a squirrel not remotely my own size. Degree of difficulty 1, execution 3.5, factor of absurdity 9.8.

For several weeks, Wally and I performed our duet. He worked on his acrobatics with the passion of an apprentice in a circus training program. I worked on my bird feeder defense hysterics. The difference, however, was that he improved his act.

Sometime during February he learned to execute a soft landing in the feeder with one graceful motion. It would have taken him less time to learn, I am sure, except that the feeder was squirrel-proof. Did I mention that?

Never mind the 1950s squirrel, that dutiful hunter-gatherer. By my observation there is nothing as impressive and determined as a '90s squirrel conquering the latest technology.

After one month, he could not only get at the seeds, he could balance directly on top of the food under a small — equally squirrel-proof — overhand, thereby gaining food and shelter simultaneously. Degree of difficulty 10, execution 10.3.

A '90s kind of squirrel, he didn't just work hard, he worked smart. Indeed, he began exhibiting pride in his accomplishment and boldness at this feat. I, on the other hand, have been reduced to his co-dependent or his audience. If the feeder is empty, he stares directly through the window at me until I put down my newspaper and get him some more seeds.

Does this mean that I can't defend my own home bird feeder against a measly squirrel? The problem is that I belong to the old economy. I have to go to an office to write the words that get the paycheck that puts bird food in the feeder. I have to squirrel away savings — just like I was taught — while he spends all day learning new skills. He wins.

Let it not be said however that I am hopelessly mired in oldthink. I'm a '90s kind of gal. After all, I used to run a bird feeder. Now after extensive retraining, I can proudly announce that I am operating a squirrel feeder.

Campaign reform: Unpopular history

WASHINGTON — For Sen. Joseph Biden, D-Del., the raging debate over campaign finance reform has come full circle.

Twenty years ago, a 30-year-old Biden proudly introduced his first bill: public funding for congressional campaigns. When Biden joined 63 of his fellow Democrats for a strategy-planning caucus, he received his first primer in hard-ball politics.

Though freshmen senators never spoke up in these sessions, Biden delivered a spirited five-minute speech to press his case of removing the influence of special-interest money from elections. A party elder responded to Biden's blasphemy with icy silence and a disbelieving stare.

Biden recalls what happened when the late cigar-chomping senator from Mississippi, James Eastland, finally responded: "He didn't even stand up all the way. (he) just hunched over the table and looked down. He said, 'Joe, son, they tell me you're the youngest man (ever elected) to the United States Senate.'" (Biden was actually not the youngest, but he says he "didn't dare correct" Eastland.)

Eastland continued: "You all make many more speeches like you did here today, son, you all are going to be the youngest one-term senator in the history of the United States Senate."

Later that day, a dejected Biden tried to explain himself to another veteran in the cloak room. "You just don't understand," the veteran said. "I have worked 28 years to get in the position where some young whipper-snapper just can't come up and run against me. If you do (public financing), it means whoever runs against me is going to have as much money as I have. What have I worked 28 years for?"

Not much has changed. Congress is again debating public funding of congressional campaigns, and many members are still rebelling. Their self-preservation is paramount to political reform.

President Clinton promised to make campaign finance reform, a cornerstone of his candidacy, a high-priority issue in the White House. So far, it seems like business as usual.

The only Senate proposal thus far is basically a carbon copy of a weak "reform" bill that President Bush vetoed last year. It calls for partial public funding and moderate limits on Public Action Committees and soft money contributions — the backdoor that special interests have to contribute to Congressional campaigns.

"Moderate reform is like moderate chastity — ain't no such thing," says Biden, paraphrasing an old English saying. Sen. Paul Wellstone, D-Minn., is the "whipper-snapper" Joe Biden was 20 years ago — except Wellstone isn't taking no for an answer.

"I want to make sure that what we pass and call a 'major reform' is, indeed, a major reform," Wellstone told our associate Ed Henry. "It's not inconceivable that we could pass a 'reform' bill that isn't such a reform."

"If you benefit from the system, you're not anxious to fundamentally change it," Wellstone added. "Quite often, people who have the power don't want the change, and people who want the change don't have the power. So it's hard for people to vote for a different system other than the one that's worked pretty well for them."

The average winner of a Senate seat spends about $4 million these days getting elected. For an incumbent senator to win re-election, that means raising an average of $12,000 a week for every week of his six-year term.

Twenty years ago, a 30-year-old Biden proudly introduced his first bill.

Barbecue finances scholarships locally

By VICKI DeBORNIER
Herald Staff Writer

SANFORD — On Friday, the Sanford Rotaract Club will be sponsoring their annual fundraiser to finance scholarships at Seminole and Lake Mary high schools.

The All-You-Can-Eat Oyster Barbecue will be at Lake Golden Park near the Central Florida Regional Airport on Friday evening from 6:30 to 8:30 p.m.

"There'll be all the oysters you can eat and all the beer you can drink," said Sylvester Chang, a sponsor of the club of young Rotarians. "But it is a great family atmosphere. Lots of people come out and bring the family."

Chang said there will be hot dogs and soft drinks available for those who were not interested in the main fare.

"Some people don't like the oysters and not everyone wants beer," he said.

The Rotaract Club has long supported the Thomas Wiggins Superchallenge and other local charities, Chang said.

"They work very, very hard to raise money for others," he added. "They don't earn any money for themselves with this sort of thing. This is all for charity. It's very unselfish work."

The Seminole County school district benefits from much of the Rotaract Club's work, Chang said. The group supports several scholarships at both Seminole and Lake Mary high schools as well as contributing to FACTS (the Foundation for the Advancement of Our Community Through Schools).

Friday evening's function is expected to draw several hundred participants who have made a tradition of attending the annual event.

"We always have a good crowd," Chang said.

Tickets for the all you can eat portion of the event are $15 each. Hot dogs and sodas may be purchased a la carte at the event.

They may be purchased from any member of the Rotaract Club or from Chang at Sanford Mobil on French Avenue in Sanford.

Food programs for the elderly strapped as demand rises

By JENNIFER DIXON
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON — Meals-on-wheels programs nationwide are driving past the homes of thousands of elderly Americans because there isn't enough money to deliver dinner to the growing number of seniors too frail to cook for themselves.

In Detroit alone, 1,500 seniors are waiting to get into a program that delivers 1,350 meals a day. The average wait is six months to a year.

Neighborhood meal sites for senior citizens are also shutting down by the dozens as federal spending on nutrition programs for the elderly falls to keep pace with rising costs and heightened demand from an aging population.

Detroit closed 19 of its 80 sites last year, while Baltimore lost 17.

"We're seeing very frail, very low-income ... women, or men who never learned to cook for themselves," says Toby Felcher, who is responsible for elderly nutrition services in Baltimore. "This program does exactly what it was supposed to do. We provide these basic services to keep people alive. And without food people don't live."

And in Fort Worth, Texas, where demand for home-delivered meals has risen 100 percent in five years, Carla Jutson says she is constantly juggling her caseload to find space in the program for the city's sickest seniors.

If someone gets well enough to use a cane, he or she is taken off the rolls to make room for the latest patient discharged from the hospital into an empty house with empty cupboards, says Jutson, executive director of Meals on Wheels Inc. of Tarrant County.

is coordinating the program at Midway.

Since the beginning of this calendar year, the 18 students who are taking part in the program have received three theme-oriented kits from the scientist who is assigned to their group.

The kit includes all the materials needed for an occasional staple of pieces of tape that they will need to complete the work.

"They pool talents and efforts in order to complete the work."

"They learn about cooperation, about delegating authority and about letting each one work to his strengths," Meredith said. "It is great to see them all working together to complete a project."

Since the enrichment classes only meet for about an hour at a time, two or three times a week, it may take the students several weeks to complete their project, Meredith said.

"But it is very rewarding when they do finish it and it works," she added.

So far, the students have constructed a simple machine and a camera from everyday items that one could find at home.

They will also be challenged by a project in map making before the end of the school year.

The scientists who are involved in the program are available to the students for scientific discussion and encouragement.

The pen pal scientists receive letters from the students describing the experiments they have completed.

"They are all very excited by all the projects," Meredith said. "They love the challenge of the work."

The program also teaches the students the value of good communications and cooperative skills, Meredith said.

The non-competitive, open-ended nature of the program allows the students to participate at their individual level of ability and interest.

"They have to work with each other," she noted. "There's only one project per group so there are four to six kids who have to work on a single experiment."

More than 25,000 students nationwide, including about a dozen students at Geneva Elementary School, take part in the experiments during the school year.

Schools that are interested in participating in the Science-By-Mail program should contact the Orlando Science Museum.

violating an October 1992 injunction prohibiting obstructions to clinic access, trespassing on clinic property, blocking clinic access, physically abusing clinic employees or clients, or directing others to do those things.

The ruling affects abortion clinics in only Brevard and Seminole counties.

Eighteenth Circuit Judge Robert B. McGregor anticipated a quick decision in the matter as testimony neared an end Tuesday. The next hearing is set for April 2, McGregor said Tuesday. He would consider expanding residential picketing and other tactics used by the groups and individuals.

Defendants face jail terms and fines if McGregor decides they have violated the order. Two formerly named defendants, Judy Madsen and Shirley Hobbs, were removed from the complaint Tuesday by clinic attorneys. They said they had no evidence Madsen and Hobbs had violated the order, but were still governed by it.

Clinic attorneys played three segments of video tape recorded in February and earlier this month showing demonstrations beside Aware Woman Center for Choice in Melbourne and near the South Melbourne Beach condominium of clinic owners Patricia and Ted Windle. The film was made by Aware Woman supporters.

The tapes showed motorists slowing to wait for crowds of protesters, both pro- and anti-abortion, to allow them to enter the clinic parking lot.

One taped segment from March 6 showed a woman shouting "If you don't repent, He'll strike you dead." The woman was identified by a clinic consultant as Michelle King, who Cadie identified as an active member of Operation Rescue National.

Cadie denied violating the October injunction, but gave insight into tactics used by anti-abortionists.

"I have looked up license numbers," Cadie testified. "I don't believe I've mailed any literature to people. We were curious about who an abortionist was at Aware Woman so I took the license number and went to the tag number and had them look it up."

Cadie said the information was used to identify the physician by name during sidewalk protests, but testified he was unaware if the name and address information was used by others. Abortion clinic physicians have been picketed at their homes.

Cadie, of Palm Bay, at first denied membership with Operation Goliath, but under pointed questioning by clinic attorney Talbot D'Alemberte, admitted to his involvement with the Brevard County-based anti-Vihlen said he and Benham are buying the property from owners James and Betty Widdis, who live in one corner of the 45-acre site. Vihlen wants to remove 650,000 cubic yards from the site during the next 12 months, leaving a 14-acre lake.

Vihlen has committed to stocking the lake with fish and planting native wetland plants and trees around the lake.

Vihlen said he does plan to develop the property one day, either building upscale homes or industrial uses.

promise policy, which Supt. Paul Hagerly is calling a "citizenship policy."

Though a group of Oviedo High School students, all members of the school's newspaper class, sat in the front of the room wearing black t-shirts emblazoned with the Constitution's First Amendment and the paper's name, they said nothing to the board in opposition to the policy.

One staff member said the group was there only to check their facts for stories which will appear in the next issue of the paper and not to make a statement.

They said, however, they hope to encourage the student body to attend the next public hearing and to voice their opposition at that time.

Board member Nancy Warren invited the students to speak, saying that their silence would be interpreted as approval. Still, they remained silent.

Howard Marks, an attorney who has spoken to the board on behalf of the American Civil Liberties Union in this matter before, said the policy is unconstitutional.

"I thought (this policy) was dead," he said. "But it's reared its ugly head again. I think it is unwise and unenforceable. And Marks said the policy goes beyond the school board's jurisdiction, though he said the current version is better than the previous ones.

The policy will be advertised and another public hearing will be scheduled for next month.

Clinton faces risks sticking with Yeltsin

By TOM RAUM
AP News Analyst

WASHINGTON — President Clinton, forced to focus on foreign policy by the turn of events in Russia, is plotting a course of high-stakes support for Boris Yeltsin that could backfire if the Russian president falters.

Clinton criticized then-President Bush during last year's campaign for supporting Soviet President Mikhail Gorbachev for too long. And now, Clinton risks making the same mistake as he walks a difficult tightrope in his first major foreign policy initiative.

Some Russia experts say Yeltsin's days are numbered — and that Clinton's show of support can only briefly postpone the inevitable, at best.

Clinton is banking on the opposite view — that Yeltsin still represents the best hope for political and economic reform in Russia and that a strong show of U.S. support now will help him solidify an admittedly shaky hold on power.

"He is after all, the first elected president in a thousand years," Clinton said Tuesday at a news conference at which he offered "an aggressive and quite specific plan" of aid for Russia at his April 3-4 summit with Yeltsin.

Clinton even signaled he would consider moving the summit from western Canada to Moscow if necessary. The meeting is not expected to be moved. But Clinton's saying he would consider a venue change shows the lengths to which he would go in supporting Yeltsin.

"Basically, President Clinton cannot save Yeltsin. Yeltsin was a lame duck before these most recent events ... Going to Moscow would be a mistake, a very big mistake," said Robert Sharlet, a political scientist at Union College who specializes in Russian affairs.

There is little question that Clinton must deal with Yeltsin so long as he remains the head of government. The question is how much support to offer, especially if impeachment proceedings are begun.

"Clinton has no choice but to support Yeltsin," said Dimitri Simes, a Russian policy expert at the Carnegie Endowment for International Peace who generally agrees with Clinton's moves so far.

"For one thing, to sell his aid package to Congress will be difficult under the best of circumstances. It would be even harder if he distanced himself from Yeltsin," Simes said. "At the same time, he has to be very careful not to create the impression that he's tying his political fortunes to Yeltsin."

The end of the Cold War and the breakup of the Soviet empire has generated some interesting new political dynamics in Washington.

Clinton — who came to office vowing to focus like a laser beam on the economy and who criticized Bush for spending too much time on foreign policy — now finds himself deeply involved in internal Russian politics.

And, although questions on the crisis didn't dominate Clinton's first formal news conference of his presidency, it generated the most questions — six out of 12.

To be sure, in the past day or so, administration officials have sought to put some distance between themselves and Yeltsin — suggesting they principally support the process of reform more than any particular individual.

Clinton himself alluded to the risk of repeating the mistake made in offering near-exclusive support to Gorbachev, saying he'd "tried to be supportive of reformers throughout Russia and, indeed, throughout all the former communist countries ..."

But then he noted that Yeltsin "has the mandate of having been voted on in a free and open election where people were free to vote and free to stay home."

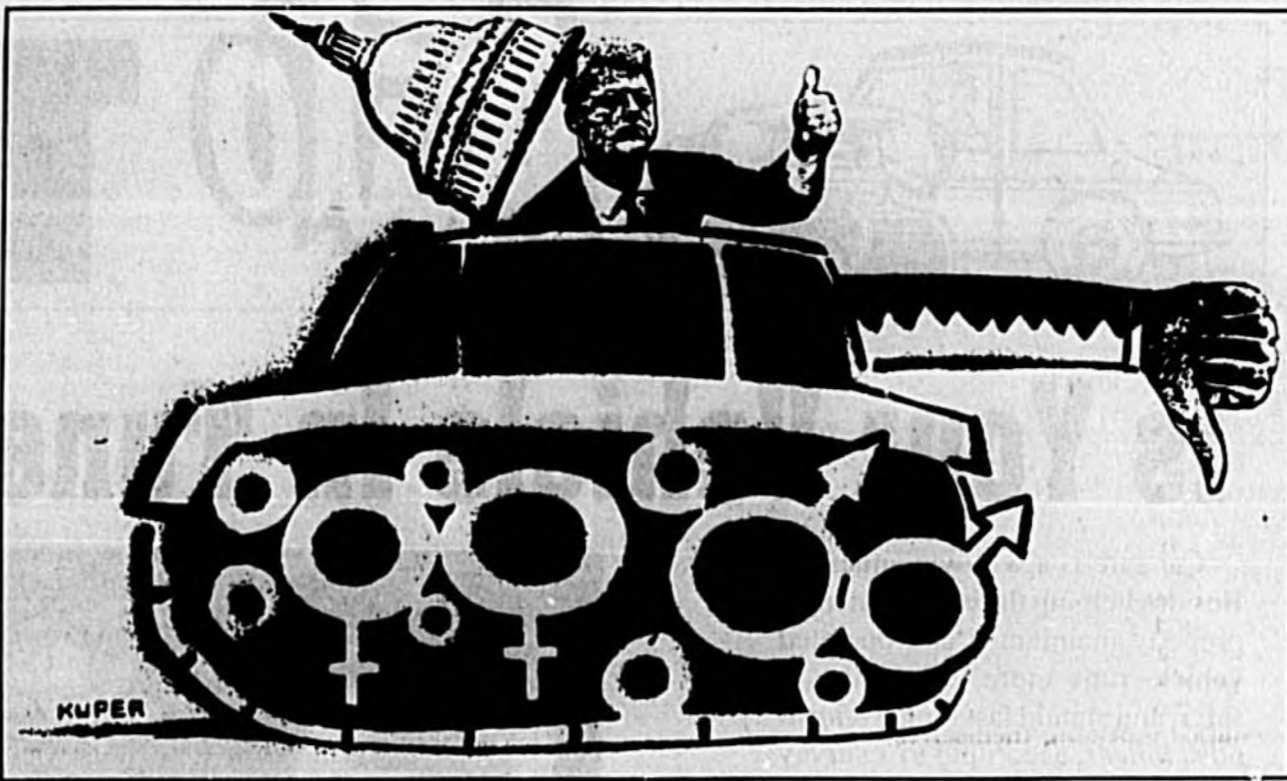

That sidestepped the fact that the Russian vice president — now a bitter rival of Yeltsin — was also elected, as were members of the Russian parliament.

That there are two schools of thought on the subject is no better dramatized by the conflicting advice being offered by former President Nixon and former Secretary of State Henry Kissinger.

Nixon says Clinton could make a lasting mark in history by offering the strongest possible support to Yeltsin. Kissinger, one of Nixon's closest advisers, argues that the United States is on the brink of making the same mistake with Yeltsin that it made with Gorbachev and "must not tie itself to any one leader."

"There is a risk of getting tied to Yeltsin excessively," said Helmut Sonnenfeldt, a foreign policy analyst at the Brookings Institution. But, he added, "there really isn't any alternative...and who knows how things in Russia are going to turn out?"

Gays in the military

President signals military might be able to bar gays from some jobs

By HANGY BENAG
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON — President Clinton is signaling that he might allow the military to limit homosexuals to certain jobs once the armed forces implement his order to allow the enlistment of openly gay recruits.

At his first formal news conference, the president said he wouldn't rule out restricting the duties of homosexuals "depending on what the grounds and arguments were."

Clinton said that if it were constitutionally permissible for the military to discriminate against people based on their sexual orientation, "I would think you could make appropriate distinctions on duty assignments once they're in."

"The courts have historically given quite wide berth to the military to make judgments of that kind in terms of duty assignments," he said.

The president also voiced pessimism about U.S. companies getting access to Japanese markets, made another pitch for his economic stimulus package and offered fresh support for Russian President Boris Yeltsin. Clinton quickly warmed up to the crowd of reporters in the White House's ornate East Room and seemed at ease parrying questions that spanned issues from Russian economic reforms to hangings in Mississippi jails.

The only sore spot came when a questioner suggested that his effectiveness as commander in chief had been limited by his support for homosexuals in the military and because he never served in the armed forces.

"I don't have a problem being commander in chief," Clinton replied frostily.

Clinton's comments about possibly limiting the military assignments of homosexuals drew quick criticism from gay rights leaders.

"Any suggestion that gays and lesbians should be discriminated against either in terms of entering or staying in the armed forces, or in terms of the job they get, is ridiculous," said Tim McFeeley, head of the Human Rights Campaign Fund.

But Rep. Gerry Studds, D-Mass., an openly gay member of Congress, said that "given the context and brevity of the president's remarks, it is not clear how they should be interpreted."

And Studds noted that Clinton was asked only whether segregating assignments would be constitutional, not whether it would be just or proper.

Addressing U.S. ties with Japan, Clinton said the persistent trade surplus enjoyed by Tokyo "never seems to change very much." He said that suggests "the possibility of obtaining real even access to the Japanese market is somewhat remote."

He renewed his support for higher tariffs on foreign-made minivans, saying he was "astonished" that the Bush administration "gave a $300 million-a-year freebie to the Japanese for no apparent reason. And we got nothing — and I emphasize nothing — in return."

The president said he hoped to address the minivan issue "in the context of a larger set of trade issues to be raised first with the Japanese government before acting unilaterally."

Clinton is scheduled to meet April 16 with Japanese Prime Minister Kiichi Miyazawa in preparation for a July summit of Western leaders in Tokyo.

With Yeltsin's footing in Russia appearing increasingly precarious, early questioning in the news conference focused on U.S. support for the embattled leader of the democracy movement in Moscow.

Democrats try to pick their way through GOP budget mine field

By STEVEN KOMAROW
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON — Senate Democrats are negotiating a mine field of Republican amendments on taxes, Social Security and defense as they try to win passage of President Clinton's deficit-reduction plan.

The president's hotly debated defense spending cuts and energy taxes have survived in the floor action that began last week. But perhaps the toughest choice was scheduled today, with a vote on killing Clinton's proposal to raise taxes on better-off Social Security recipients.

"This is clearly just not fair," said Sen. Trent Lott, R-Miss., author of the amendment. "This is a raid, taking taxes, taking money from Social Security recipients."

Clinton's plan would raise $32 billion from the elderly by increasing the amount of Social Security benefits that are subject to income tax.

Now, individual Social Security recipients pay taxes on up to half of their Social Security benefits once their income exceeds $25,000 for an individual or $32,000 for a couple. The president would raise to 85 percent the portion of benefits subject to the income tax, the same as for private pensions.

The tax is part of Clinton's $1.5 trillion fiscal 1994 budget, which envisions in its Senate form about $502 billion in deficit reduction over the next five years. The Senate plans to end debate and vote on the budget by noon Thursday.

Democrats on Tuesday defended the Social Security tax as a necessary part of the "shared sacrifice" Clinton has proposed to reduce the federal deficit and bolster the economy.

"This is a part of what we're going to have to do — to do it," said Sen. Daniel Patrick Moynihan, D-N.Y., perhaps the Senate's leading advocate of the Social Security program. "Its time has come."

"This is an amendment aimed at weakening our resolve, at convincing one part of the population that they are being unfairly asked to do their share."

said Sen. Jay Rockefeller, D-W.Va.

But Republicans, tarred by Democrats for years as the enemies of Social Security, clearly delighted at the chance to turn the tables.

"I'm frankly surprised we would try to do this to America's seniors," said Sen. John McCain, R-Ariz.

"We need to make a statement: When a candidate says something, they should mean it," said Sen. Don Nickles, R-Okla., referring specifically to Clinton's promise not to raise taxes on the middle class.

The Social Security amendment was raised after a day of actions that affected the politics around the budget more than the budget itself.

Most significantly, the Senate's more conservative Democrats and its Republicans combined to win a pair of amendments that, although not binding, put it on record against any cuts in the Pentagon budget beyond what Clinton proposed.

The House budget, approved last week, trimmed the president's military budget along with domestic accounts to achieve greater deficit reduction than he initially proposed.

The House last week also approved Clinton's companion program, a $16.3 billion economic stimulus bill to speed money to summer youth jobs, highway projects, unemployment compensation and other programs.

The Senate Appropriations Committee approved the spending bill on Tuesday, and Clinton told a news conference that he would make sure none of the money would go to wasteful projects, as some Republicans have said. The full Senate is expected to consider the measure beginning Thursday, after finishing with the budget.

Final congressional action on the budget and the spending bill will require compromises between the two chambers. Only the spending bill actually requires Clinton's signature.

Is Your Vehicle In Tune With The Environment?

Car care is a win-win situation. Besides helping the environment, a properly maintained and operated vehicle runs more efficiently, is safer, and should last longer - up to 50% longer, according to a survey of ASE-certified Master Auto Technicians. The following tips, from the experts at the non-profit National Institute for Automotive Service Excellence (ASE), can help put you on the road to environmentally conscious car care.

Keep your engine tuned-up - a misfiring spark plug can reduce fuel efficiency as much as 30%. Follow the service schedules listed in your owner's manual. Replace filters and fluids as recommended. You'll help cut down on air pollution too!

Check your tires for proper inflation. Under inflated or poorly aligned tires waste fuel - your engine is forced to work harder to push the vehicle. Properly maintained tires also last longer, meaning fewer scrap tires have to be disposed.

Do-it-yourselfers, dispose of used motor oil, anti-freeze/coolant, tires, and old batteries properly. Many repair facilities accept these items. Or call your local municipal or county government for recycling sites. Never dump used oil or anti-freeze on the ground or in open streams.

If you think your efforts are not needed, look again: Each year twenty times the amount of oil spilled by the tanker Exxon Valdez in Alaska is improperly dumped into America's environment by do-it-yourselfers.

If you are not a do-it-yourselfer, find a good technician. Ask friends and associates for their recommendations. Check the reputation of the repair shop with your local consumer group. Look for places which employ ASE-certified technicians. ASE technicians have passed national certification exams in auto repair specialties such as engine performance and air conditioning.

Shops with ASE technicians usually display ASE's blue and white outdoor sign, while the technicians wear similar shoulder insignia.

Keep your air conditioner in top condition and have it serviced only by a certified technician competent to handle/recycle refrigerants. Air conditioners contain CFCs - gases that have been implicated in the depletion of the ozone layer. Improper service can cause some of this gas to leak into the atmosphere

- so it's important to choose a qualified technician.

Observe speed limits. Mileage decreases sharply above 55 mph.

Drive gently. Avoid sudden accelerations and jerky stop-and-go's. Use cruise-control on open highways to keep your speed as steady as possible.

Avoid excessive idling. Shut off the engine while waiting for friends and family.

Remove excess items from the vehicle. Less weight means better mileage. Store luggage/cargo in the trunk rather than on the roof to reduce air drag.

Plan trips. Consolidate your daily errands to eliminate unnecessary driving. Try to travel when traffic is light to avoid stop-and-go conditions. Join a car pool.

Remember, how your car runs, how you drive it, and how its fluids, old parts, and tires are disposed of all have serious consequences on the environment.

For a copy of ASE's brochure, "Keeping Your Vehicle in Tune with the Environment," send a business-sized, stamped envelope to: ASE, Dept. C93, 13505 Dulles Technology Dr., Herndon, VA 22071.

Certified Pros, ASE-certified auto technicians give consumers an extra measure of confidence because they have taken national, standardized competency exams. ASE-certified technicians can be found at all types of repair facilities.

Indians try to regroup after loss of Olin, Crews

By CHUCK MELVIN AP Sports Writer

CLEVELAND — The Cleveland Indians don't mind to let the deaths of two teammates destroy the resolve of professional athletes.

This is going to make our team closer, second base coach Carlos Berroa said Tuesday at the Indians camp at Winter Haven. Berroa may be right because of this, but we have to put it behind us and put it out of our minds.

Relief pitcher Steve Olin, 27, and first baseman Fred Lewis died following a boating accident on a lake near Ocala, Fla., on Central Florida on Monday night. Starter Bob Ojeda, 35, was injured seriously, but was expected to recover.

The accident put a tragic dent in the Indians' rebuilding program, which had begun making sense when the team bounced back from a 1991 franchise record 103 losses in 1991 to a fourth-place finish at 76-86 last year. The 19 game improvement was second best in the majors last season.

Fans, anxious to put three decades of losing behind them, were intrigued by the turnaround. Preseason ticket sales were running nearly three times ahead of last year. The Shell of a new baseball stadium, due to open in 1994, was taking shape on the southeast side of downtown.

Understandably, Cleveland fans were shocked that club manager Mike Horowitz had the nerve to announce the January 1993 deadline to trade away the Indians' future.

"We know we have a window to play with the way we would like to," Horowitz said. "We're going to do what we can. I don't know what we can do, but I hope it's the best that we can do. I hope it's the best that we can do."

Olin had been an integral part of the Indians' long-term plan, contributing to the club's 1991 success. Last year he pitched 100 games and had 100 the Indians' 100 wins last year, and he spent the spring about taking the next step, becoming a 150-win pitcher.

"My goal is to be one of the most dominant closers in baseball," Olin said. He had 300 out of 100 in his last month. "I don't know if it's realistic to expect something like that, but I don't know if it's realistic to expect something like that, but I don't know if it's realistic to expect something like that."

"I don't know if it's realistic to expect something like that, but I don't know if it's realistic to expect something like that, but I don't know if it's realistic to expect something like that."

"I don't know if it's realistic to expect something like that, but I don't know if it's realistic to expect something like that, but I don't know if it's realistic to expect something like that."

Trinity netters get best of Tribe

From Staff Reports

SANFORD — It was a close one, but Trinity Prep won all six of the pre-set matches in its boys' tennis dual meet with Seminole Tuesday afternoon at Lake Forest, but all five of the singles matches were close, requiring a minimum of 12 games to be decided.

The meet was a make-up of a contest that was originally scheduled for March 9 but was rained out.

Both the Nos. 1 and 4 singles matches were decided by 5-3 counts. Trinity Prep's Tom Egan defeated Olan Capronizado at the No. 1 position while Sam Nafkara outlasted Eric Young in the No. 4 singles match.

The winner margin made other three singles matches 5-1.

At No. 2, singles, Artubdin defeated Seminole David Edwards. Trinity Prep Scott Ezberg bested Eran Mazur in the No. 3 singles match. Brandon Rich of Trinity Prep came out on top of Brad Alexander at the No. 1 position.

Both doubles matches were won by Trinity Prep by 5-2 counts.

In the No. 4 double, meet, Egan and Artubdin defeated Eran and Edwards. The No. 2 doubles, Ezberg and Nafkara, knocked off Mazur and Young.

New to the Seminole camp are all four March 11 and 12. The Tribe will have a dual with the coming of the Seminole Athletic Conference season on March 15 and 16.

Ponder edges Trentham in Spring Fling

Special to the Herald

BARBERVILLE — Tony Ponder's margin of victory was the distance from his front bumper to the back of his front wheel well, edging out Tuck Trentham Saturday night in a green flag 100-lap Hoosier Spring Fling Late Model feature at Volusia County Speedway.

Pole-sitting Ponder of DeLand kept the No. 1 spot for all but three laps in the 50-mile race, but had to battle Orange City's Trentham for the last 20 laps, giving up the lead when Trentham cut to the inside on the backstretch and claimed the point at the end of 83 laps.

But Trentham got caught behind Scott Lagasse coming out of turns three and four, giving Ponder a chance to drop to the inside rail and retake the lead by the time they reached the start-finish line at the end of the 88th lap.

"I don't know, I had my eyes closed," joked Ponder about the move that gave him the lead. "Lagasse had some early trouble, but was running good and I knew he would hold it so I could get by."

The excitement wasn't over for Ponder and Trentham as the two leaders turned the 100-lap race into a five-mile dash, Trentham moving up for a bumper-to-bumper race. The two actually came together in turn four of lap 97.

Then, on the final lap, the two got together one more time, sheet metal-to-sheet metal, slipping and sliding down the final straightaway to the finish line.

After the two crossed the line, locked up with only three feet between the two front bumpers, both went into the wall and had to be removed by track wreckers. Ponder's car appeared to have lost both the front and rear clips despite taking another checkered flag for the 1993 season.

"Actually, we were just trying to succeed," Ponder said from the winner's circle. "With nine cars on the track, I had more trouble with lapped traffic than I've had with 28. Those cars just got big and wide."

Following Ponder and Trentham over the finish line for third was Ken Francis, the only other car on the lead lap at the end of the 100-lapper. Lagasse was fourth while Jim Grotha finished fifth.

In other feature events, Gene Menning took the top spot in the Hobby class; Derick Luthe was the winner in the Mini Stock division; Earl Mark topped the Sportsman division; and Scott Laughlin was the winner among the Street Stocks.

Laughlin raced from pole to checkered flag on the 15-lap Street Stock feature to hold off late challenger Bruce Baker, Jimmy Hefner, an early challenger, finished third ahead of Ray Fulford and Steve Torner.

Luthe, who plans to race in the Sportsman division later in the season, was testing a new car for Bobby Shepard and turned a good enough test to bring home the trophy and checkered flag after 15 laps in the Mini-Stock class, outdistancing runner-up Chad Pelfrey.

Mark of DeLand called for help from the grandstands to help with his No. 72 Ford in the winner's circle after holding off the non-Fords in the 10-lap Sportsman division main event.

"The thing handles pretty good," Mark said. "But if anyone in the stands knows why it's breaking up at the end of the straightaway, we'd like to know about it."

Rogers survives Cook, tough track for Late Model win

By PAUL MARBOLIA
Special to the Herald

SAMSULA — Orlando's David Rogers held off a late race charge by Jack Cook to win the 25-lap FASCAR-sanctioned Late Model race Saturday night at New Smyrna Speedway.

Rogers, who started the race from the 11th position, took the lead on lap seven and pulled away from the rest of the pack to a 10-car advantage. But a caution on lap 17, brought out when Wayne Anderson blew his engine, tightened the field for a new restart with Cook restarting on the outside pole.

Despite several laps of bumper-to-bumper racing, Rogers withstood the challenge to win his second feature event of the season.

"The car was great tonight, but the track was real tough," said Rogers, a three-time track Late Model champion. "After the race started, we had a light rain and after a few yellow flag laps, we were able to race again. Then Wayne (Anderson) blew his engine. The oil on the damp track made it real rough."

Trailing Rogers and Cook to the checkers were Rob Underwood, Bobby Blake, and Ed Meredith.

Meredith led the first six laps. On a yellow flag restart, Rogers out-duelled Meredith for the point. Two laps later, Cook and Anderson got by Meredith, dropping him to fourth place.

As Cook and Anderson battled for second place, Rogers easily pulled away from the competition. While racing side-by-side with Cook, Anderson lost his engine and had to call it a night.

New Smyrna Beach pilot Jerry Symons dominated racing action in the Russell Cycle Care 25-lap Mini-Stock feature event to notch his 11th win of the season.

Driving the Park Ave. Auto Parts Pinto, Symons set the evening's fastest qualifying time but, by virtue of the draw, started the race from the fourth position. Symons moved into second on the second lap and, on the following lap, used an inside move to take the point from early race leader Ted Vulpius.

"The car was great tonight," said Symons, who has won 10 of the last 11 races. "I have to thank my crew and sponsors. They really helped me a lot."

Following Symons to victory lane were, in order of finish, Bobby Sears (who set the evening's second fastest qualifying time), Vulpius, J.D. Duncan, and Richard Newton.

Barbara Pierce led all but the last lap of the Sportsman division main event. After the white flag flew, Dale Howard got by Pierce to lead the most important lap of all, the final one, and went on to claim his 12th win of the season.

Rounding out the top five were Pierce, Roger Favreau, Walt Loggins, and David LeBeau.

Earnhardt leads but Bodine is close behind

Associated Press

DAYTONA BEACH — NASCAR's winningest active champion, Dale Earnhardt, carries an uncomfortably narrow 19-point lead into Sunday's Tran South Financial 500 race.

Earnhardt said 1,366-mile Darlington (S.C.) Raceway, the oldest asphalt superspeedway in the country, poses a special challenge.

"Darlington is the toughest, most difficult, hardest track anybody has ever raced on anytime," said Earnhardt, who first saw Darlington when his father, the late Ralph Earnhardt, raced there. His father is enshrined in the National Motorsports Press Association Hall of Fame, which is located on the Darlington Raceway grounds used for racing since 1850.

"Nineteen points isn't much of a lead anywhere. That's like maybe two positions in one race. Two positions at Darlington isn't anything. Shoot, two positions at Darlington isn't anything for one lap," Earnhardt said.

Earnhardt, whose best finishes in the first four races have been a pair of second places, leads second-place Geoff Bodine 619-600 in the NASCAR Winston Cup standings.

Bodine's best finish has been a third place.

Rusty Wallace, a winner in the second race of the season, is third in the standings with 592 points, while Dale Jarrett, who captured the season-opening Daytona 500, is fourth with 560.

Maxx Race Cards Rookie of the Year leader Jeff Gordon is fifth with 536 points.

Rounding out the top 10 released Monday are Mark Martin, 533; Ernie Ivan, 527; Morgan Shepherd, 510; Davey Allison, 509, and Hut Stricklin, 501.

Earnhardt leads the circuit in money winnings with $322,005, while Jarrett is second with $304,280.

allow a ball out of the infield. With the win, the Royals take over sole leadership of the American Division with a 2-0 record. Completing the standings are the Security National Bank Orioles, the Fisher, Laurence & Deen Blue Jays and Sunniland Corporation Red Sox (all 1-1) and the First Union Bank A's (0-2).

The Royals will play again Saturday, taking on the Blue Jays in an 8 a.m. game at Roy Holler Field in Ft. Meillon Park.

The National Division standings have the defending City Champion Expos, the Railroaders Cubs and the Rinker Materials Dodgers all tied at 1-0, while the Monroe Harbour Pirates are 0-1 and the Cardinals are 0-2.

There will be a National Division doubleheader at Roy Holler Field on Thursday, with the Dodgers facing the Expos at 5:45 p.m. and the Cubs welcoming the Pirates at 7:45 p.m. The Cardinals will be back in action Saturday, battling the Cubs at 2 p.m.

The Royals took advantage of wildness on the part of the Cardinals pitchers to score eight runs in the bottom of the first inning. The first four batters in the Royals lineup walked with Anderson getting the RBI, before Nick Johnson cleared the bases with a double to make the score 4-0. Seven more bases on balls produced the other four runs.

The Cardinals got their lone run in the second inning on a walk to Joe Sondhiem, a wild pitch, a ground out and a passed ball.

The Royals came back with six more runs in the bottom of the second inning with the big blow being a two-run double by Randy Casey.

D.A.V. came back to finish the game by the slaughter rule in the bottom of the third on a two-run single by Casey.

Despite the limited hitting, all 13 Royals players scored at least one run each.

Doing the damage were Casey (double, single, run, four RBI), Johnson (double, run, three RBI), Anderson (two runs, RBI), Chris Cullough (three runs) and Swayne Tillman, Clyde Stevens, Melvin Holt, Jeremiah Jenkins, Taurus Burke, William Kirby, Anthony Ratanarong, Calvin Thompkins and Lugene Ingram (one run scored each).

one-hitter, walking one and striking out one. She also supported her cause by hitting three singles, scoring three runs, and driving in a pair of runs.

"It was good to play," said Lake Brantley coach Debbie Frank. "We haven't played in so long, we definitely needed a game this week before we head south (for the Miami-Westminster Christian Tournament)."

"We played good defense. We made the basic plays and that's what we've been preaching all season."

They also hit the offerings of Deltona pitcher Robyn Emery with great regularity, collecting 21 hits, including doubles by Melissa Rathbun and Rachel Poppe.

Rachel Poppe also had a single, one run scored, and two RBI. Melissa Rathbun also contributed an RBI and a run scored.

Nicole Rathbun, Melissa's older sister, chipped in with three singles and three runs scored. Tiffany Poppe, Rachel's younger sister, added two singles, three runs scored, and an RBI.

go from first to third and the game was over.

The victory improved the sixth-ranked Saints' record to 19-9 overall, but more importantly raised their conference record to 8-3, a cushion of 1 1/2 games over SCC in the battle for second place in the MFC and an automatic bid to the state tournament.

The loss dropped the Raiders, who were ranked No. 10 in the state poll released Tuesday, to 14-9 overall and 5-5 in the conference. SCC will host two more crucial MFC games today, against Valencia, and Thursday against top-ranked Florida Community College at Jacksonville. Both games will start at 3 p.m. at Raider Field.

Santa Fe took a 1-0 lead in the top of the first inning on singles by Mark Hudgins, Chris Wiggs and Ronnie Sowell, but the Raiders answered right back on a triple by Sanford's Demetry Beamon and a passed ball.

The Saints took the lead back in the third as Gene Swift singled, Sowell walked and Jon Jolly lifted an opposite field home run to right to make the score 4-1.

SCC's Ray Hagar halved the lead with a long blast to right center field in the bottom of the fourth inning. It was the fifth home run of the year for the freshman catcher from McLaurin, Ma.

Santa Fe picked up a pair of runs in the fifth inning on a single by Wiggs, an error, a squeeze bunt and a sacrifice fly.

The Raiders got two runs back in the sixth inning on a single by Beamon, a double by Oviedo's B.J. Calapa, an RBI single by Ray Hagar and a sacrifice fly by Sanford's Rick Eckstein.

The Saints' final run came in the seventh as Swift was hit by a pitch and later scored on a passed ball.

SCC tried to pull out the win in the ninth as Johnny Goodrich led off with a walk, moved to second on a ground out, stole third as Randy Hagar walked. Callahan singled to score Goodrich, with pinch-runner Pete Cestaro advancing to second.

Callahan's hit ended the day for winning pitcher Kevin Sheehan (3-2), who was replaced by Matt Lang. Lang struck out Beamon for the second out of the inning, but Cruz singled to score Cestaro with the sixth run.

Callahan rounded second and hesitated before starting for third as the centerfielder threw toward home to try to get Cestaro. But the first baseman cut off the throw and easily retired Callahan to end the game.

Brian Spivey led Santa Fe by going two-for-four, while Wiggs was two-for-five. Swift added three runs scored for the winners.

Contributing to the Raiders offense were Beamon (3-for-5, triple, double, two runs), Ray Hagar (home run, single, run, two RBI), Calapa (double, run), Callahan and Cruz (single, RBI), Goodrich (single, run), Deltona's Pete Bezeredl (single), Cestaro (run) and Eckstein (RBI).

Oviedo's David Blanton allowed six runs, only four were earned, on nine hits in five innings of work to fall to 2-3 on the season. Julio Linares allowed only one hit and no earned runs in four innings of relief.

Indians

Even before the accident, pitching was the weakest link in the Indians' plan. By trading away high-priced veterans and spending millions to renovate their farm system, they had developed a solid core of everyday players including Baerga, who hit .312 with 20 homers and 105 RBIs last year; left fielder Albert Belle, with 62 home runs and 207 RBIs over the past two seasons; and center fielder Kenny Lofton, who set a rookie record with 66 stolen bases last year.

Reliable young pitchers, however, were harder to find. Olin and No. 1 starter Charles Nagy represented some of the best to have come through the Cleveland system in years.

Olin also was prized in the clubhouse, where his good humor made him one of the team's most popular players. Last year, he and fellow reliever Kevin Wickander drew national attention with a series of bubble gum-chewing contests that ended in a tie — both crammed 71 pieces of gum into their mouths before a Sunday game.

They petitioned David Leterman's show in hopes of staging a chew-off, but were turned down.

The good times only made the tragedy that much harder to bear.

"It's sad for us because we are a close team," Baerga said. "We want to let their families know we're there for them."

Southern belle tempts northern 'meat and potato man'

By RENEE KEITH
Herald Correspondent

The north meets the south, lovingly so, in the kitchen of Chrissy Veino. Chrissy's cooking experience and know-how when it comes to those "good old southern recipes," are an accumulation she's obtained by various means over the years.

Some have been passed down through the family; others she's gathered from friends and some have been found in cookbooks. But, many are Chrissy's own creations.

With all of this wonderful cooking knowledge, Chrissy faced yet another cooking challenge. You see, this southern cook met and became engaged to a northern boy. "He's a meat and potato man," says Chrissy. "He's not one who goes much for any type of changes."

"Especially when it comes to his meals." But, believing the old adage, "one of the ways to a man's heart is through his stomach," Chrissy knew she'd have to learn how to prepare his favorite dishes. She accomplished this feat much to Bobby's liking. He also enjoys Chrissy's southern style of cooking. Although there were some adjustments, it all just came together. In fact, according to Chrissy, she even picked up on a few new cooking angles.

Chrissy is employed full time with E.R.C. Insurance Company, located in Altamonte Springs. She's been with the company for a little more than a year, holding the current position of a clerk time, however. "It's time well spent, when you see that certain lamp or that special sofa fit in just the way you'd hoped it would," Bobby says. Chrissy feels there is no better feeling than the one of standing back, looking it all over, and knowing "We did all of this!"

Chrissy gets a "Super Charge" when it comes to estate and yard sales. She rarely misses a weekend that she is not seeking out at least two or three sales. "The bargains and great deals are out there," as she points out some of her many treasures. "You just need to start early, keep on your toes and by all means, don't be afraid to haggle over price," she says.

Her "yen" for bargain hunting is where Chrissy has found many of her cookbooks. Cream Cheese Pie was found in one of those books. "It's the type of dessert that most everyone likes," says Chrissy. You really can't fail with this one.

"Fast" Black Beans and Rice. The name of this recipe says it all. "This recipe took me the longest time to convince Bobby to try." But, the bottom line, says Chrissy, "he loves it."

typist. "I really love my job," she says. Chrissy, "It's an excellent company to work for and there are no limits when it comes to opportunities in career training," she says.

Her fiancé, Bobby Peterson, works in collections for a Sanford furniture company. He's been with this company for one year. Bobby will be applying for sponsorship with the Sanford

Police Department by the end of March. His plans are to enroll at Seminole Community College, taking their course in police officer training. Bobby hopes to be certified as a police officer by the end of December.

Chrissy and Bobby are excited and staying busy as they settled into their new home. Matching colors and designs to blend in with their decor takes a lot of

It's strawberry season; enjoy

It's time to enjoy the naturally sweet taste of Florida strawberries. Not only are they beautiful to look at, they are delicious to eat as well.

The harvest is plentiful in spite of the "weather" conditions of recent weeks. The season is peaking just now so the price is reasonable. Include the vitamin-rich favorite in many of your springtime meals.

For breakfast slice a few choice berries on cereal or garnish the egg platter with strawberry fans, better yet, top waffles or pancakes with this fresh fruit topping.

FRESH FRUIT TOPPING
2 cups sliced fresh strawberries

1/4 cup sugar
1 Tbsp. cornstarch
Combine fruit and sugar; mix well. Let stand at least 30 minutes. Drain juice into 2-cup glass measure. Add water if necessary to make 1/4 cup. Stir in cornstarch.

Microwave on 100 percent power, uncovered, 1 1/2-2 minutes or until mixture boils, stirring once. Cool slightly. Stir in fresh fruit. Spoon onto waffles, etc. Top with whipped cream if desired.

Strawberries and rhubarb team for this brightly colored jam. Because the strawberries are not cooked, they maintain the fresh fruit taste. Freezer storage is required.

FRESH STRAWBERRY-RHUBARB JAM

1 1/2 pints fresh strawberries
2 cups sliced rhubarb
1/4 cup water
1 package (1 1/4 oz.) powdered fruit pectin
5 cups sugar
Hull and wash strawberries; process in food processor or blender until pureed. Measure out 1 1/4 cups; set aside.

Combine rhubarb, water and pectin in 2-quart glass batter bowl; mix well.

Microwave on 100 percent power, uncovered, 5-6 minutes or until rhubarb is tender and pectin dissolved, stirring twice. Stir in sugar (mixture will become thick). Microwave on 100 percent uncovered, 3-4 minutes or until mixture boils, stirring once. Stir in crushed strawberries until well mixed. Spoon into jars or freezer containers; cover. Let stand at room temperature about 2-4 hours. Label and store in freezer. About 6 cups.

Tip: Unsweetened frozen rhubarb and/or strawberries can be substituted for fresh fruits.

Strawberries add a unique flavor and attractive color to this main dish salad. It is perfect for spring brunches, luncheons and showers.

STRAWBERRY-CHICKEN SALAD

3-3 1/2 lbs. frying chicken, cut up
1/2 cup long or medium grain white rice
1 cup water
1/4 tsp. salt
1/2 Tbsp. cooking oil
2 Tbsp. milk-recipe Ranch salad dressing mix
1/2 cup milk
1/2 cup mayonnaise
1 cup sliced celery
1-1 1/2 cups sliced fresh strawberries
Lettuce
Arrange chicken, skin side up, in 12x8-inch glass baking dish, placing larger pieces toward corners of dish. Cover with wax paper. Microwave on 100 percent power 20-25 minutes or until done. Cool enough to handle.

Combine rice, water, salt, and oil in 1 1/2-quart glass casserole. Cover with casserole lid. Microwave on 100 percent power 4-4 1/2 minutes or until mixture boils, then microwave on 30 percent (low) 18-20 minutes or until rice is tender. Fluff with fork. Let stand, covered, 5 minutes. Cool. Remove skin

Syrup glazes entrees

By MARIALISA CALTA
NEA Food Editor

Vermonters do a number of things with maple syrup. Some drink it straight. Others boil it, pour it over snow and serve it with black coffee, raised doughnuts and sour pickles. (This is the traditional menu for sugar-on-snow parties.) Home cooks use it as a sweetener in baked goods. I have found a few main-dish recipes that I think show off the taste of maple syrup, without hurting your teeth. Here they are.

ROAST LOIN OF PORK WITH MAPLE SYRUP GLAZE

- 1 tablespoon juniper berries
- 4 bay leaves
- 1 teaspoon cracked black pepper
- 1 teaspoon chopped garlic
- 2 tablespoons chopped fresh sage, or 1 1/2 teaspoons dried
- 1 shallot, thinly sliced
- 4 tablespoons maple syrup
- 2 tablespoons balsamic vinegar
- 3 tablespoons extra-virgin

olive oil
1 3-pound piece of boneless pork loin, trimmed of all fat; or 3 pounds of pork loin chops (8-8 chops)
salt
Make marinade by coarsely chopping juniper berries and bay leaves. Mix in a bowl with pepper, garlic, sage, shallot, 2 tablespoons syrup, 1 tablespoon vinegar and 2 tablespoons olive oil. Rub mixture all over roast or chops, and marinate in refrigerator overnight.
Preheat oven to 375 degrees (if using roast), or preheat broiler (if making chops). Season meat with salt. Mix together remaining syrup, vinegar and olive oil, and set aside.

For roast: Set on rack in roasting pan, and roast 20 minutes. Baste with syrup mixture and continue roasting 10 minutes, or until internal temperature has reached 140 degrees or desired doneness is reached.
For chops: Broil for several minutes on one side, brush each chop with reserved syrup mixture and broil until done to taste. Flip chops, and repeat.
Yield: 6 to 8 servings.

Put burner on medium high. Pour in milk and start to thicken. If too thick add more milk. Then add mushroom soup. Pour over chops and bake at 350° for 30 minutes.

Tightest ship in shipping has a few leaks to plug

DEAR ABBY: When I read about the letters regarding UPS shipments, I had to write.

Because I am disabled, I am on a number of medications. The medical plan I am insured under uses a mail-order pharmacy. When I order drugs, I am required to order a three-month supply at a time. The value of my last order was $1,200. It was delivered by UPS. The driver rang my doorbell one time and threw the package on my porch. Before I could see who was there, his truck was halfway down the street. He didn't bother to get a signature — or even ask for one. Had I not been home, that $1,200 package would have been on my front porch in plain view to anyone who would have had the inclination to steal it. So much for UPS' unwritten law!

MIKE HOFFMAN, PORTLAND, ORE.

DEAR MIKE: Wow! Do you ever have company! Read on: DEAR ABBY: I wasn't surprised by the letter complaining about UPS; you should receive a truckload more.

When I moved from Massachusetts to Oregon several years ago, I shipped a personal computer to myself via UPS. It to UPS representatives brought promises that my computer would be returned promptly, but no admission that the computer was damaged or that anyone in particular, much less UPS, was responsible.

Several weeks had passed when a UPS truck drove up my street. My wife and I watched it pass by our house. I was still cursing UPS when the neighbor boy came over to show us something he had in a wheelbarrow. It was my computer. He said it had been dumped in their garage and he wondered if it was ours!

After that, UPS representatives continued to answer my complaints by promising much, but delivering nothing, so I concluded that the only way I could get compensation was to take them to court.

I did. And now I can happily sign myself... A SATISFIED UPS CUSTOMER was packed as it had been by the manufacturer, and I was informed that the shipper would be liable if there was any damage.

The parcel arrived — the packaging was mutilated and my computer was in pieces! After my phone call, UPS sent a representative out to see whether the computer had been packed correctly; I was told he would have to take the parcel to Portland for more investigation.

Several weeks later, I phoned UPS and was told that my computer was on its way back to Massachusetts in its mutilated packing so it could be inspected by the sender. I explained that I was the sender and I was not in Massachusetts! Many phone calls and letters

Tremors call for a second opinion

DEAR DR. GOTT: I'm a 70-year-old woman with Parkinson's disease. It started primarily with tremors in my left arm and now they have spread to the right and to other parts of my body. My doctor has me on Sinemet, which I'm afraid to use because of the side effects. I'm also on Inderal because of elevated blood pressure and wonder if, after 10 years, this medication could be the cause of my tremors.

DEAR READER: Inderal, a beta blocker used for treating heart disease and hypertension, is an improbable cause of your progressive tremor. If you do, indeed, have Parkinson's disease -- which is due to a malfunction of certain nerve tissue within the brain -- Sinemet is the treatment of choice and will diminish or eliminate the shaking and gait disturbances of the disorder. Remember that all medicine -- even aspirin -- has side effects; these must be carefully weighed in relation to the potential benefits that in your case seem quite impressive. The major side effects of Sinemet are nausea, heart irregularities, involuntary muscle movements and occasional mental changes.

Rather than simply refusing to take Sinemet, why not ask your family doctor for a referral to a neurologist for a second opinion? The specialist will examine you, confirm the diagnosis and discuss treatment options.

DEAR DR. GOTT: Is there a connection between oral contraceptives and periodontal disease?

DEAR READER: A study reported in the Journal of Dental Hygiene (March-April 1991) showed that the use of oral contraceptives is associated with gingivitis (inflammation of the gums). This gum disorder is also caused by pregnancy.

However, because the use of contraceptive pills ordinarily lasts longer than a pregnancy, there is more likelihood that chronic gingivitis will occur, leading to periodontal disease (plaque build-up with the eventual destruction of the tissues and bone that support the teeth). Periodontal disease can only

WIN AT BRIDGE

By Phillip Alder

Mention Chicago to someone and he or she thinks of the freezing winters, the El, the gangsters of old, the Bulls, the Bears and the Blackhawks. Or, if that person loves summer pastimes, the Cubs and the White Sox. But there is also a stock exchange in Chicago and, as in New York, many bridge experts trade there. One of the up-and-coming brigade is Barry Goren, who is no relation to Charles of that ilk.

He played today's deal while still in his teens. Do you see how, in his apparently hopeless six-heart contract, he gave the defenders a chance to slip?

Goren's strong, artificial and forcing two clubs isn't a textbook bid. Normally, the hand would contain not only offensive winners but also defensive tricks.

When the dummy came down, Goren thought he had no chance of winning 12 tricks. However, rather than give up meekly, he set a small trap for West. At trick one, he called for dummy's club four.

Obviously West should have switched to the diamond queen (or a spade), but without giving it much thought he exited with a club. Goren gave the defenders no second chance. He discarded the spade king on dummy's club ace, cashed the heart 10 and led the spade queen, ruffing out East's ace. He went back to dummy with a trump, and his diamond losers disappeared on dummy's spade winners.

When he saw the dummy, Goren thought that he had misjudged in the bidding. East was unlikely to find the heart lead that can defeat five spades. But when West misjudged in the play, Goren was exonerated.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) Members of the opposite gender may find you more attractive than usual today. Relish this attention, but don't wander off the straight and narrow. An innocent flirtation could get out of hand.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) If you attempt to buy affection today instead of earning it, your gestures are likely to fall flat. Saying "I love you" and showing it will have more impact than a material gift.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) Be wary today of making unreasonable demands on the one you love. Possessive requests will push this person away from you instead of drawing him or her closer to you.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) There's a possibility today that you might let someone down who was always there to assist you whenever you needed help. Thoughtlessness on your behalf could impair the relationship.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) If you have a disagreement with your sweetheart today, the worst thing you can do is let your friends know about it. Resolve your differences in private.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) Occasionally, we all feel we don't get the appropriate attention from those we love. Today this might happen to you, but don't wear your heart on your sleeve.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) Continue to establish a good relationship with co-workers today, but don't let this lead to something romantic. If you do, it could cause unnecessary complications.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) You, more than most signs in the zodiac, value your independence. You might step out of character today and put limitations on the freedom of one you love.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) A loved one might not react to a given situation today exactly as you envision. Make allowances for his or her rights to freedom of expression.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) Instead of being supportive of your mate today, you might focus on criticism instead. Your shortsightedness will not only hurt the one you love, it could ignite a heated argument.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) This is one of those days where you might be unduly generous to the undeserving, while being rather stingy toward someone whom you should be looking out for.
