Volt Surge Kills Man First Day On Job

A 28-year-old Sanford construction worker was electrocuted on his first day on the job at a hotel construction site at Lake Buena Vista, south of Orlando.

Mark Douglas Theller, of 2580 Ridgewood Ave., was killed Monday afternoon by a surge of 440 volts when he apparently got too close to a fuse box which contained live exposed wires at the Grand Cypress Resort, a Hyatt hotel, an Orange County sheriff's spokesman said.

Theller "is believed to have come too close to the hot wires which arced and electrocuted him." the spokesman said.

Theiler, an electrician's helper with the Tri-City Electric Co. of Altamonte Springs, was alone when he entered the power box room.

Mrs. Paula Eidell, secretary at Tri-City and wife of owner Buddy Eidell, said today the incident is being investigated by the federal Occupational. Safety and Health Administration, the state of Florida and the insurance firm and Tri-City would have no comment until those investigations are complete.

A fire department helicopter took Theiler from the construction site to the Orlando Regional Medical Center at about 3 p.m. He was pronounced dead on arrival.

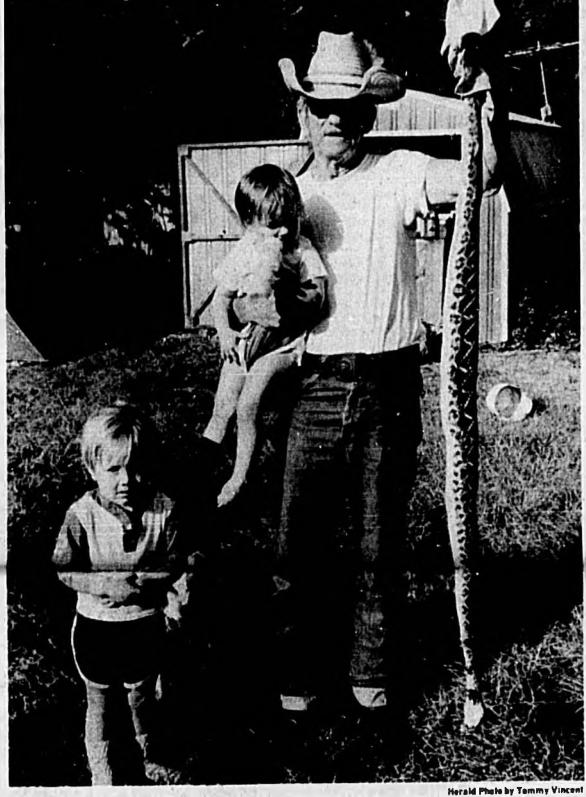

"He (Theller) wanted to be an electrician," said Deborah Anne Kandalec, the victim's sister. "We thought it would be good for him."

"He had no experience. It was his first day on the Job. We can't imagine why he was allowed to go near the fuse box," said Mrs. Kandalec, who lives in Sanford.

"When we saw the news on TV with the helicopter landing at the hospital and they were taking his body out of the helicopter and I realized that was my brother, it was an unbelievable experience. You hear about things like that happening all the time, but it's always someone else," she said.

She said Theiler's wife Victoria is expecting a child.

Snakes Alive

Allen Nelson of Sanford holds up his two-year-old granddaugh ter Amanda and the six-foot rattle snake he killed with a shovel in his backyard on Bedford Avenue, while granddaughter Brent, 3, looks like she wants no part of it. Nelson said he found the diamond back rattler Wednesday afternoon - coiled and ready to strike with Amanda just six feet away. After picking up Amanda and moving her away he said he got a shovel and came up from behind the snake and chopped at it. Nelson, a docent at the Central Florida Zoo who works with nonpolsonous snakes, said at first he didn't realize it was a rattler because he hasn't seen one in the area for 22 years.

Commissioners Drop Compromise, Opt For Single Family In Core Area

By Donna Estes

Herald Staff Writer The Sanford City Commission discarded compromise early Wednesday evening and decided to go ahead and rezone a core area of the old city to single-family residential, SR-1.

The area has carried a multi-family designation for 40 years.

Reversing a tentative decision made Monday night based on a suggestion from Mayor Lee P. Moore, four members of the city commission - David Farr. Milton Smith, Ned Yancey and Eddie Keith - moved forward to rezone from multi-family residential to single-family residential the old section of the city from 4th to 13th streets between Laurel Avenue and the center of Palmetto

A public hearing and preliminary adoption of the rezoning is scheduled for Oct. 10 and public hearing and final adoption will take place Oct. 24.

Also last evening, the board agreed to adopt a resolution giving the owners of apartment and rooming houses in the area up to two years to bring their tructures into compliance with the Officials said in some cases this will mean only the installation of smoke detection devices and fire extinguishers while in others fire walls between apartments must be installed. Mayor Moore estimated costs could run as high as $3,000 for some owners.

The commissioners agonized for 90 minutes over the Moore compromise before coming to a decision that it just wouldn't work.

Moore's plan was to create a new zoning where owner-occupants of single family homes could convert them to apartments to supplement their retirement incomes. Absentee landlords could also continue their apartment complexes, but could not expand them or rebuild them if they were destroyed by fire.

Moore made it clear from the beginning he personally opposed both the rezoning and the compromise, preferring to keep the multi-family zoning the area had had for 4 decades. Nevertheless, he spoke on Wednesday as he had at the city commission's meeting Monday night on compromise to protect property

Property owners of single family homes in the area lined the wall of the city manager's conference room at city hall, just as they had earlier this week. But those who spoke at the workshop session did so only to question and try to understand where the complex discussion among commissioners was at the moment.

In the thinking of George Willis of the planning and zoning commission, which recommended the rezoning to SR-1. Moore's plan could be abused.

"Shrewd investors will laugh and say thank-you." Willis said of the Moore

The SR-1 zoning the commission finally settled on permits. Farr noted, not only single family homes, but also two-family dwellings as a conditional use if recommended by the planning and zoning board and approved by the city commission.

Farr suggested the city's overall zoning ordinance be changed to require public hearings prior to conversion of a single family home into a two family dwelling. This would give neighboring property owners the right to object, he said. The four other commissioners liked the Idea.

In addition, the commission agreed to adopt a resolution giving the multifamily property owners in the district up to two years to comply with the fire codes as non-conforming properties.

The section of the zoning ordinance permitting the multi-family structures to remain forever as long as their use for that purpose did not stop for six months or longer was read to settle the fears of multi-family owners that their property would lose preferred zoning if sold.

And it was noted that multi-family structures could not be rebuilt if 60 percent or more of the structure was destroyed by fire. The owners would have the right to keep them in good

War Powers Compromise Now Before The Senate

WASHINGTON (UPI) - President Reagan, having swayed an edgy House, called on the Senate to demonstrate "responsible leadership" today and approve a resolution allowing him to keep U.S. Marines in Lebanon for 18 more

"This is not an easy decision for anyone, but believe me, it is a necessary one for our country and the world," House Speaker Thomas O'Nelll told his colleagues Wednesday before they voted 270-161 to accept the compromise plan, which O'Neill helped negotiate with White House.

The Senate also is expected to endorse the resolution, despite opposition from minority Democrats, who, like some of their counterparts in the House, are fearful the United States will become ensuared in a Vietnam-like conflict.

Stopgap Spending OKd

WASHINGTON (UPI) - The House, resisting the temptation to add pork-barrel projects to crucial legislation, has approved a "clean" stopgap spending bill needed to fund most federal agencies past midnight Friday.

The Senate could consider the measure late today. There are indications it will follow the House's lead and avoid attaching controversial riders to the bill.

The stopgap bill, which would fund the government until Nov. 15, is needed because Congress has not yet passed eight of the 13 regular appropriations bills for fiscal 1984. which begins Saturday.

Spending authority for most federal agencies will expire with the 1983 fiscal year at midnight Friday, although government services would not be affected until Monday, the next regular work day, if the resolution is not enacted.

"What makes it cost effective to drive those vehicles home?" Williams said. He said he wants to re-examine the board's policy to determine if it is indeed less expensive to allow the vehicles to be taken home.

He asked Hughes to provide information on who is authorized to take the county-owned vehicles home. how far their homes are from school and estimates of how much money the county saves by allowing them to be taken home.

Hughes said he would comply with the request.

In other business, the board unanimously approved a $15,000 settlement of a lawsuit filed by Mark Tyler of Casselberry whose truck was destroyed in a collision with a school bus in 1981.

Board attorney Ned Julian Jr. said "there is no question of liability in this matter. The bus creamed the Julian said the board had offered the $15,000 settlement earlier this year but it was rejected. After reconsideration. Tyler asked that the settlement be offered again.

The board delayed action on a suit filed by a South Seminole Middle School student who blames the school district for an injury he received at the school playground after school. Julian told board members the district's insurance carrier, Gallagher & Bassett of Orlando, recommended payment of all medical bills incurred by Curtis Roberts. 14, of Casselberry. Those medical bills have been about $4,000 so far for Roberts who required surgery to repair a severe elbow fracture he received when he fell on a basketball court at the school.

Roberts claims he slipped on gravel which school officials should have removed from the court.

Julian said the boad's liability is difficult to figure because of the state policy on leaving school playgrounds open to the public. "A jury might very well say since we have to leave the playground we should have someone there to supervise."

Hughes was not eager to settle the matter. The school board cannot be responsible for injuries on the playground after school hours, Hughes said.

"Students wander on and off the playground at will. A student may have thrown gravel on the court. Hughes said. "This could set a precedent."

Tylenol

One Year After Poisonings, Case Still Unsolved

...despite the adverse publicity afforded the poisonings of seven people from cyanide-laced Tylenol, the pain reliever has regained its former popularity

CHICAGO (UPI) - A year has passed since seven Chicago area residents died from taking Extra-Strength Tylenol capsules laced with cyanide and the killer has not been caught.
"We have 10 investigators still working on the case full time - five from the FBI and five from the Illinois Division of Criminal Investigation," DCI Commander Thomas Schumpp said Wednesday.

"Currently we have 25,000 pages of materials (and) we have used computer technology to collate and analyze a lot of seemingly unrelated material." Schumpp said.

"We have been sitting down and reanalyzing and redigesting the material ... making sure that everything we developed during the course of the investigation was handled to the nth degree," he said.

Investigators hope renewed interest on the anniversary of the killings may spark some new leads.

A young man in north suburban Arlington Heights became the first victim the afternoon of Sept. 29, 1982.

Later, his brother and sister-in-law, distraught over his sudden death, took Tylenol capsules and also were stricken.
In nearby Elk Grove Village, Mary
Kellerman, 12, suffering from a mild cold, died suddenly the same day. Two suburban firemen noted similarities between the deaths and made a "wild guess" that their common link was Extra Strength Tylenol, taken by all the victims prior to their deaths. Four more people would die over the course of the next few days, and in each case, cyanide-tainted Extra-Strength Tylenol was the killer.

The pace of the investigation has slowed since the first heetic weeks. Schumpp said there have been no new leads in the past few months.

"We are out on the street pursuing a number of leads," Schumpp said. "It's still a major case."

Ironically, Tylenol, despite all the publicity lavished on the poisonings, has recovered its former position as the nation's leading aspirin-free pain re-

School Officials OK Rezoning Plan To Help Balance Growth

By Micheal Beha Herald Staff Writer

Seminole County school officials hope a rezoning plan for eight elementary schools in northern Seminole County will balance rapid growth at Idyllwilde and Lake Mary elementary schools with slower growing areas in Sanford.

Assistant Superintendent for Instruction Dan Dagg said the rezoning is intended to provide space for future growth at schools outside the city without using portable

The rezoning will create an attendance zone for Hamilton Elementary School, scheduled to replace Sanford Grammar, South Side and Hopper elementary schools when it opens next year. Dagg said projected attendance at Hamilton will be around 700.

Pine Crest, with first, second and third grades, and Goldsboro, with kindergarten, fourth and fifth grades, will each be made full elementary schools with kin-dergarten through lifth grade classes. Dagg said the rezoning would probably give each of those schools enrollments of 700 as well.

Seminole County is unlike a lot of others," he said. "Because of its location the district is still growing and there is a lot of new construction."

That plan calls for consideration by a committee composed of Board member Jean Bryant, County Commissioner Bill Kirchhoff, Willie King of the Seminole County NAACP and representatives from the eight schools affected by the rezoning. That group is scheduled to submit a tentative plan to Hughes in February for presentation to the school board in March.

CAPE CANAVERAL (UPI) - The Army launched five Pershing 1 missiles on test flights Wednesday in an annual test of equipment and military personnel, officials said.

An Army spokeswoman said all of the test flights were successful.

The Pershing 1s are to be replaced in West Germany by the controversial Pershing 2 missiles later this year. The new missiles have a 1,000 mile range, giving NATO forces the capability of striking inside the Soviet Union, and are more powerful than the Pershing 1s.

Getting A Free Ride

MIAMI (UPI) - Commuters could get a free ride on Dade County's $1 billion Metrorail mass transit system if a federal grant comes through, transportation officials said.

The county has asked for a $3.1 million grant from the Urban Mass Transportation Administration to pay "start-up costs" for the trouble-ridden system that opens Dec. 18. If approved, the grant would allow passengers to ride free or at reduced fares until the system is fully operational, said transportation chief Warren Higgins.

Stano Said He Stabbed Teen, Went Skating

TITUSVILLE (UPI) - A tape recording of confessed mass murderer Gerald Stano telling police investigators he had an argument with a hitchhiking Port Orange teenager in 1973 and then "just went ahead and did away with her" visibly stunned jurors charged with deciding Stano's fate.

Stano, who has admitted to killing more than three dozen women and stands to become the most prolific mass murderer in U.S. history, is accused of killing Cathy Scharf, 17. In December 1973.

Despite giving a confession to Brevard County sheriff's deputies. Stano has pleaded innocent to charges he killed Miss Scharf.

Prosecutors Wednesday played the 10-minute recording - made in August 1982 - despite defense attempts to have the tape ruled as prejudicial evidence.

On the recording, Stano said he picked up the young woman as she That shut her up for a little bit." walked along a highway in Brevard County and "a little discussion started."

On the tape, Stano told sheriff's investigators he drove the teenager to a remote section of the Merritt Island National Refuge where he killed her.

"I got her in sort of an arm lock and I told her this was the end of the line," Stano said on the tape. "Then I just sort of went ahead and did away with her" by stabbing her repeatedly.

The girl's skeletal remains were found covered by palm fronds in January 1974 in the Merritt Island National Wildlife Refuge.

After killing the woman and hiding her body. Stano said on the tape he washed up at a nearby gas station and went roller skating.

The nine-woman, three-man jury looked stunned and stared at the tape recorder. Some occasionally glanced at Stano, who turned away from the jury and recorder.

Assistant State Attorney Dean Moxley said the confession had a big Impact on jurors because Stano "wasn't relating fletion. He put you right there in the car."

Ex-Lake Helen Cop Charged In Drug Raid

ORLANDO (UPI) - A former Lake Helen law enforcement officer was among three people arrested on drug charges resulting from a four-month undercover investigation.

Florida's Wine Industry Ready 'To Take Off'

By United Press International Florida is one of the nation's fastest growing wine-drinking states and it also is developing a modest reputation as a wine-making state.

Experts say Florida's wine industry, still in its infant stages, is taking its first wobbly steps in the right direction.

"It looks like it's going to take off," said University of Florida food science professor Bob Bates, a wine authority.

The number of wineries in the state has jumped from one to five in the past two years and overall production capacity is up to 200,000 gallons from 50,000 gallons just a year ago.

There's more. Grape plantings have doubled in the past year and annual sales are up to Desiree Martinez, who is unable to walk on her own because of a complication at birth. has not seen any of the $3 million awarded her six months ago. Her medical costs are mounting and her family's worries are growing along with the bills.

The problem stems from a legal battle over a state fund created to pay malpractice verdicts. The fund, supported by assessments

Johnny Appleseed No Rube

LEOMINSTER, Mass. (UPI) - Monday was the 209th birthday of Johnny Appleseed - the man who earned his enduring nickname passing out seeds for his favorite fruit. But in his home town of Leominster, historians say

John Chapman was not the rube wearing a tin pot on his head as he was portrayed in a Walt Disney cartoon. They say he was a nature lover and one of the country's first shrewd businessmen. "Johnny wore a wide-brimmed hat, not a pot, on his head," said Evelyn Hachey, chairman of Leominster's Historical Commission. "He was a bit eccentric, walking all over the Midwest barefoot, but he was also a practical nurseryman who recognized homesteaders' need for apples and set up a business to supply them."

Born on September 26, 1774, Chapman went as a young man to join pioneers in the wilds of the Midwest. There he soon learned about the apple's growing importance and why the government required all new homesteaders to plant 50 apple trees during their first year on the land. "With apples, you could survive hard times in those days." said Mrs. Hachey. "Because they lasted for months on end, apples were a key food and with the poor transportation, if the well ran dry, you could always drink cider. 'People also used apple vinegar for preserving food, plus it was nice to have a little applesauce as a treat around the house too."

Using free seeds from local cider mills. Chapman planted over 10,000 apple trees throughout the Midwest which he either sold or gave to needy homesteaders.

Black Miss America Beautiful

Parents pass on to their children a bedrock American dream: Any boy can grow up to be president of the United States. Any girl can grow up to be Miss America.

The dream embodies America's love of egalitarianism, a firm belief that with dedication and hard work, the sky is the limit. Perhaps that is why these apple-pic myths left blacks so disillusioned.

Minority children had their dreams too, but the reality was that only white men and women ever became American presidents or Miss Americas.

became American presidents or Miss Americas.

Part of that barrier tumbled down when Vanessa Williams became our first black Miss America.

Vanessa Williams, who sings like Barbra Streisand and already has mastered several musical instruments at the age of 20, is highly accomplished. In fact, she's upset the media has made such a fuss over her race.

She was not crowned only for her achievements, though. She also won for personality and appearance. And this was an important symbolic victory against racial discrimination, the kind of skin-deep bigotry that singled out targets on the basis of color and features.

True, the new Miss America has light eyes. And because of the way in which pageant officials tend to homogenize the competitors' appearance, she did not look remarkably different from the other contestants.

But the fact is that as a black woman, she would have been barred from competing during the first three decades of the 63-year-old beauty pageant. During those early years, the only chance the Vanessa Williamses of the world had of getting close to the famous runway was to play the role of a slave to the white royalty.

With the changing times, black women were allowed to compete. But until this year, only two ever got to the finals.

Feminists, who already dismiss the pageant as a degrading sexist ritual, may view Williams' win as a token gesture.

After all, this year's runner-up is black too. What a coincidence.

And Williams apparently had no plans to

And Williams apparently had no plans to participate until pageant officials in New York saw her perform and recruited her.

Nevertheless, Miss America is vintage American, the beauty queen of the heartland, the girl next door. She is held up as an ideal.

Now that the Miss America racial barrier is broken, we hope it won't be long until parents of all races can tell their boys (and girls), "You could grow up to be president of the United States."

And mean it

Self-Inflicted Wound

Free traders, ourselves included, have opposed on principle the United Auto Workers' plan to legislate auto imports out of existence. But we also strongly suspected that the proposed legislation, known as the local content bill, would eliminate more American jobs than it created. Accordingly, we took more than passing note of a new economic study that reached precisely that conclusion.

The study was conducted by Wharton Econometric Forecasting Associates, one of the nation's most prestigious forecasting firms. In the interests of full disclosure, it should be noted that the Wharton study was commissioned by Japanese automakers, a fact prominently printed in the report itself. But Wharton's reasoning and data are as sound as the firm's reputation for careful scholarship and integrity.

What Wharton found was this: American consumers and workers alike would be far better off if the local content measure, requiring most-imported autos to contain a high percentage of American-made parts, is not enacted. For starters, passage of the bill would cost the American consumer $18 billion per year in higher new-car prices, an increase averaging a full 10 percent.

Putting such a blatantly protectionist law on the books would trigger inevitable retaliation abroad. One consequence would be slower growth and diminished American exports. The Wharton economists estimated that, while 58,000 new jobs would be created in the domestic auto industry by 1991, 423,000 American jobs in other areas of the economy would be lost.

Why Alan Cranston Must Worry

PORTLAND, Maine (NEA) — Alan Cranston's campaign seems to be in trouble — although no one in his camp will admit it.

Some of the problems were apparent as Cranston made the rounds of small receptions and meetings, trying to woo the support of Maine Democrats in their straw-poll contest.

Cranston is campaigning to become the candidate of the liberal side of the Democratic Party. As his advisors see it, if they can capture the left from Gary Hart, they can leave former Vice President Walter Mondale and Ohio Sen. John Glenn to fight it out for the center. Cranston's advisers believe that Glenn will knock Mondale out during the early primaries and that the later primaries will be Glenn-Cranston contests. They feel that at that point, a majority of the party will swing their way, since Glenn is too conservative for most Democrats.

Cranston has been campaigning almost exclusively on two issues — arms control and the nuclear freeze — and has found a responsive audience among many Democrats. Suddenly, however, two events in quick succession have threatened to undermine his philosophical base.

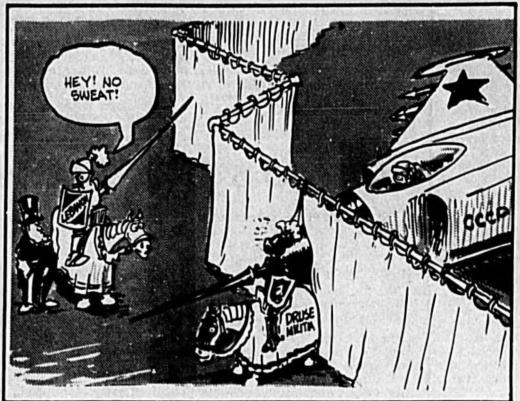

The first was the shooting down of the Korean Airlines 747. The nation's mood became much more hawkish almost overnight, and many Democrats have begun to question the position of arms control at almost any price, which Cranston represents.

Hard on the heels of the Soviet action came the announcement that the old liberal warhorse, George McGovern, would again enter the fray.

In terms of concern, most of the contenders' camps equated McGovern's announcement with Harold Stassen's quadrennial statement of candidacy. Publicly, the Cranston camp was unconcerned — but privately, they have to be worried: The Democrats who they counted on for their initial base of support are exactly the ones who will be most attracted to McGovern. In fact, most of Cranston's team members can trace their first political experience to McGovern's 1972 campaign.

These problems were evident when Cranston met with party regulars in Maine. The Korean 747 occupied most people's thoughts, and Cranston was forced to field some very sharp questions.

Cranston praised President Reagan's "sound handling" and "measured response" to the downing of the 747, but called for renewed emphasis on securing a new arms-control pact with the Soviets. Cranston argued that as the Soviets' behavior worsens, the need for a treaty grows.

Pentagon's Overruns

WASHINGTON — The Pentagon has blundered into the computer age with all the recklessness of the legendary Light Brigade.

Computer contracts have been bursting like shrapnel, scattering dollars to the winds. The cost to the taxpayers is already measured in the hundreds of millions of dollars. Here are three outrageous examples of sky-high overruns in Pentagon computer contracts, all with the same supplier — the Boeing Co.:

— In 1980, the Army signed a contract with Boeing to streamline recruiting programs. The intial cost was supposed to be $8.5 million over a five-year period. Three years later, the cost estimate now stands at a whopping $120 million, with no hard final figure in sight. The Army expected to pay no more than $10,000 a month for the computer service; yet the first month's bill from Boeing was $1.3 million — nearly a 13,000 percent overrun.

— During the same period, the Navy awarded Boeing a contract for similar services. The original cost estimate was $524,000 over a three-and-a-half year period. The Navy now has revised that estimate up to $13 inillion. The monthly cost of the service was supposed to be $12,000; the first month's bill was $350,000.

— The Air Force gave Boeing a five-year contract for teleprocessing services, at a total estimated cost of $426,000. The contract is only about a year old, so no exact figures on cost overruns are available yet. But in a letter to Rep. Jack Brooks, D-Tex., the General Accounting Office predicted: "This contract could cost the government far more than has been estimated."

Congressional investigators told my associates indy Badhwar and Donald Goldberg that the main reason for the huge cost overruns is quite simply bad management — or none at all — by Pentagon officials responsible for the computer programs. They don't know what they're doing or what the computers should do.

An analysis prepared for the General Services Administration explained why this problem may exist in an electrical agencies: Program managers' tenure is often no more than 18 or 24 months, so they're looking for quick fixes instead of long-term results. Furthermore, their backgrounds have not prepared them to cope with high-technology problems—and the computer field is still so new it's hard even to find outside consultants who know what they're doing.

Meanwhile, the GAO has recommended that all three services' contracts with Boeing be terminated and put out for competitive bids. The Army and Navy have shown a willingness to heed the GAO's suggestion. But the Air Force "has remained firm in its support of the contract," a GAO memo said, adding: "We believe the Air Force is wrong."

SOME JUNKYARD: President Reagan campaigned on a promise to clean out waste and fraud in government agencies by appointing inspectors general who were as mean as junkyard dogs. A principal target of Republican wrath was the scandal-ridden General Services Administration.

It now appears that the GSA's inspector general, Joseph A. Sickon, is more intent on turning his investigators into well-groomed poodles than into bare-fanged watchdogs.

He recently ordered 32 auditors and office directors to attend a two-day training course (at $309 a head) that GSA insiders refer to as a "finishing school for etiquette training."

Was Sharon Right?

Israeli Defense Minister Ariel Sharon was forced from office after a Lebanese faction allied with the Israelis slaughtered hundreds of Palestinian civilians in their Lebanese refugee camps. A subsequent high-level Israeli investigation indicated that the Israeli military had been lax in this matter, and Sharon resigned, though he retained cabinet rank.

But even before this scandal, Sharon's grand design for Lebanon had been frustrated, even as the Israeli military advance ground to a halt before taking Belrut. Israel had come under intensinternational pressure, in part because of highly exaggerted reports of Lebanes civilian casualties. And Washington was part of the pressure.

For that, we are now paying a high price, and the president's options are severely limited.

Sharon had in mind a grand design for Lebanon which, had it been pressed to its conclusion, would have spared us the present agony. He set out to smash the Palestine Liberation fighters in Lebanon, and succeeded admirably. He humiliated the Syrians, by destroying their sair force, and he terrified, the Soviets by showing that their missiles could be destroyed on the ground.

Sharon's goal was to get the Syrians and the Palestinians out of Lebanon. and install a government in Beirut that would be neutral in the Arab-Israeli conflict.

But Sharon fell far short of these goals, and the PLO, the Syrians and their Soviet backers are very much back in the Lebanon picture. The Israelis have withdrawn southward, effectively partitioning the country, and Reagan is left with the mess.

From a long-range point of view, one must conclude that the Israelis have now lost their first war, and that the skies in the Middle East are rapidly darkening. The stage is set for an Israel-Syria war, with the superpowers close at hand.

President Assad of Syria is achieving a strategic victory despite his military defeat, and he is achieving it by his skillful manipulation of Lebanese religious and political factions. There are at least seven private factional armies fighting in Lebanon, plus the regular Lebanese army, plus the International Peacekeeping Force. At times, people on the scene are uncertain about who is shooting at whom. The Syrian goal is to topple the rickety government of Lebanese President Gemayel and turn Lebanon into a Syrian protectorate.

Centers Act Against Research Fraud

By Gino Del Guercio UPI Science Writer ON (UPI) — In New

BOSTON (UPI) — In New York, a doctor used a felt-tip pen to paint black spots on mice to falsify transplant research. A Philadelphia physician plagiarized works of his colleagues. At Harvard, a young researcher's doctored data forced a prestigious medical journal to issue two retractions.

Altogether, at least a dozen cases of research fraud have hit the headlines in the last 10 years — more, it is believed, than ever before.

Instead of allowing increased public scrutiny, however, many universities and science centers are closing their doors to keep any incidents of fraud strictly under their control.

"Most academicians in medical schools are now more secretive than the military was with My Lai." said Robert H. Glew. a tenured professor at the University of Pittsburg School of Medi-

"Their first reaction is to protect and guard very carefully any information that might appear negative or critical of the medical school, health center or physician." Private universities have the right to protect their reputations, but they are also the users of enormous amounts of taxpayer-funded scientific grants. Tax-dollar contributions to U.S. research totaled $37.7 billion this year.

Generally, the users of public funds are held accountable for how they spend them. But by instituting policies that keep incidents of fraud secret, universities are able to protect scientists.

"It's a double standard," said Eric G.

Stover, a staff member of the American Association for the Advancement of Science. "We maintain that scientists shouldn't have any special rights."

Some people also argue that keeping scientific fraud secret encourages scientists to cheat. Also, when public disclosure of fraud is not made, a scientist caught cheating can often skip to another university.

"The first reaction of the institution when confronted with fraud or some other deviant behavior is to make sure they get the problem out and it lands somewhere else," said Judith P. Swazey, a medical ethics scholar and president of College of the Atlantic, Bar Harbor, Maine.

"In this way many physicians go bouncing from institution to institution," she said.

Universities, however, feel justified in setting strict protocols. One spokesman said administrators fear adverse publicity can hit an institution in its pocketbook, resulting in less chance of getting approval for grants.

Even though the controversy seems to have boiled up overnight, fraud is nothing new. It has been practiced throughout history by some of the world's greatest scientists.

The first modern physicist, Isaac Newton, is said to have manipulated data to support his theory of gravitation. The published results of experiments conducted by the father of genetics. Gregor Mendel, are generally believed to have been too good to be true.

Even Galileo, founder of the scientific method, is said to have exaggerated the outcome of experiments.

outcome of experiments.

Until recently, however, the problem was viewed as inconsequential because there were so few reports of fraud. But over the past few years, many of the nation's top universities and research centers have been embarrassed by public disclosure of trickery in the laboratory.

Yale University, Massachusetts General Hospital, Cornell University, Emory University, Harvard Medical School and the National Institutes of Health have been affected by researchers in recent years who passed off plagfarized results, concocted fake data or otherwise doctored their experiment results.

Why there seem to be so many recent cases remains the subject of great speculation.

Some people believe the increase is due to a doubling of the number of scientists every decade since World War II. Another theory points the finger at post-Watergate Journalists seeking to find a scandal wherever they look. Still another theory rapidly gaining acceptance suggests the self-policing mechanisms once thought to have existed in science have broken down under ever-increasing pressures.

And some, like Dr. Francis Moore, former dean of Harvard University Medical School, believe reports of fraud are more frequent because the issue is simply getting more publicity.

"I don't think fraud is any more frequent today than in the past. The press just makes a bigger case out of it."

Rebel Threat Delays Reopening Of Airport

BEIRUT, Lebanon (UPI) - The Lebanese government canceled plans to reopen Beirut airport today after Druze Moslem rebels threatened to break a truce and shell the airstrip.

Their threat Wednesday coincided with Druze artillery shelling and Syrian machine-gun fire that violated Lebanon's cease-fire in effect since Monday. A hand grenade also wounded two French soldiers in the multinational peacekeeping force.

Druze militiamen claimed opening the airport would violate the cease-fire accord because the Christian-led government has put the facility to military usc.

The airport, closed during the latest round of sectarian strife, also serves as the base for 1,200 U.S. Marines in the peace-keeping force.

Protest Will Greet Reagan

MANILA. Philippines (UPI) - President Reagan will be met by "a million" protesters and mass sit-down demonstrations in the streets if he visits Manila in November as planned, a leader of the political opposition warned today.

Former Sen. Salvador Laurel, president of the UNIDO opposition coalition, said the protests would be aimed at preventing Reagan from traveling through the capital's streets.

Reagan is scheduled for a Nov. 5-6 visit to the Philippines, a chief U.S. ally in Southeast Asia and home to two major American military bases. White House officials have considered scrapping the Manila stop. However, American officials both in Washington and at the U.S. Embassy today maintained there has been no change as yet in the planned trip, which critics assert would be an endorsement of Marcos's troubled regime.

Mrs. Burford suggested allegations of political influence referred from the White House to the Justice Department five days before her resignation may have been a setup to oust her and quiet the EPA controversy that forced 20 other executives to leave their jobs.

Mrs. Burford said she was en route to California to announce the grant in late July, 1982, when she found that briefing materials regarding the site "were severely inadequate." Mrs. Burford said she then canceled a news conference and ordered a study of all such sites.

Pollution Slowly Killing Chesapeake Bay

WASHINGTON (UPI) -- A comprehensive study says the Chesapeake Bay is slowly being poisoned by a flood of pollutants and only a concerted effort by three states and the federal government can save its valuable fishing waters.

A seven-year tederal study labeled the bay, the nation's largest estuary, "an ecoystem in decline" because of massive infusions over the years of toxic chemical wastes, fertilizer runoff from farms and sewage plant dis-

Those pollutants, the report said, have cut into catches of fresh-water spawning fish such as shad and striped bass, decreased oyster and clam populations and reduced submerged aquatic vegetation - grasses that serve as a "womb" for crabs and other

The massive study also outlined a program for Maryland, Virginia, Pennsylvania and the federal government to reduce pollutants flowing into the bay from feeder rivers such as the Susquehanna, James and Potomac.

The report said one of the biggest problems is agricultural fertilizer. It urged state officials to teach farmers how to reduce fertilizer runoff from their lands and give them incentives for doing so.

Scientists believe phosphorus, nitrogen and other nutrients from fertilizers are spurring growth of microscopic plant and animal life in the water. That, in turn, has clouded the water and cut sunlight to the crucial underwater grasses that support bay life.

Other recommendations were that governments involved:

-Analyze all major industrial and municipal discharges for toxic chemicals and toughen water quality standards where

-Institute chlorine control programs.

-Toughen enforcement of programs controlling runoff of stormwater from city streets. -Strengthen wetlands protection laws.

-Consider limiting the amount of phosphates in detergents.

The study urges Maryland. Virginia and Pennsylvania to formulate a comprehensive basin-wide cleanup plan by July 1984.

Officials estimated the cost of a bay cleanup program at more than $1 billion, but said it was too early to say who would shoulder the

Traffic Deaths Down 11%

CHICAGO (UPI) - Despite an in- attributable to the 55 mph law. We've crease in traffic, Americans in 1982 recorded the biggest drop in auto fatalities since the 55 mph speed limit became law, the National Safety

About 46,000 people died in motor vehicle accidents in 1982, according to the council. The totals are down 11 percent from 1981.

Much of the decline is attributed to a 17 percent drop in deaths among middle-age drivers (45 to 64 years old), usually a statistically stable

'In 1974 we recorded a 17 percent drop in overall traffic deaths," said Alan Hoskins, manager of the NSC statistics department. "But that was been racking our brains to find out what caused the major drop this year.

"We've had a couple of grassroots movements preaching driving safety." said Al Lauersdorf, NSC administrator of highway safety. "It's hard to measure their effect on driving."

The decline in traffic deaths was all the more startling because the number of drivers and the number of miles driven have shot up more than 20 percent since 1974.

Traffic fatalities have generally climbed slowly since 1974 along with the number of drivers and number of miles driven.

Reagan Says Watt Controversy Is Over

WASHINGTON (UPI) - President Reagan, hoping to put an end to speculation that James Watt may have to resign, says he considers the flap over his interior secretary's remarks settled.

So, apparently, does Watt, whose wisecrack that members of his coal leasing advisory commission include a black, a woman, "two Jews and a cripple" set off a clamor on Capitol Hill for his resignation.

The White House "wanted to end all this speculation," a presidential aide

The Washington Post reported today that Watt prepared a letter of resignation it after becoming convinced neither the president nor the White House staff would press him to guit

Watt had no immediate comment about the report. A White House spokesman said he did not know whether Watt had prepared a resignation letter or not.

"President Reagan considers the matter closed and all his aides do too," deputy press secretary Larry Speakes said. "The matter is behind us."

Speakes said Reagan is not going to ask for a resignation and Watt is "not going to submit it."

Top Senate Republicans also signaled

KKK Owed Her $115,000, But She Dies A Pauper

CHATTANOOGA. Tenn. (UPI) — Katherine Johnson never collected $115,000 awarded her in an unprecedented civil rights suit against the Ku Klux Klan. She died a pauper and her family buried her in an all-black cemetery overgrown with weeds. Mrs. Johnson. 51, and four other black women were shot by three Ku Klux Klansmen three years ago as they stood on a street corner. Friends at her funeral Wednesday said the frail woman lived in a small, shabby dwelling and gave up hope of ever collecting the money awarded her "She only said that she hoped God would let her live long enough to see the day that everybody is treated equally," said Opal Jackson, 49, who also was wounded by the shotgun blasts. The five women were awarded a total of $535,000 in the February 1982 lawsuit touted as the first ever filed based on the Ku Klux Klan Acts of the Reconstruction era.

Civil rights leaders hailed the judgment as a victory against "Klansmen and terrorists everywhere." But the Klansmen disappeared without paying a penny and their faction — the Justice Knights of the Ku Klux Klan — disbanded.

Mrs. Johnson had been hospitalized in deteriorating health for several weeks before her death seven days ago. Civil rights leaders raised $500 for the funeral. Otherwise, they said she would have been buried as a pauper in a pine box at the Hamilton County Penal Farm.

"That would have been so terrible. A pauper's funeral is cold and cruel," said the Rev. M.T. Billingsley, pastor of the Baptist church that Mrs. Johnson's family attends.

Crowd U.S. Navy TOKYO (UPI) - Soviet ships moved their search for wreckage of the downed South Korean airliner Wednesday toward a U.S. search area in the northern Japan Sea amid reports American searchers had located the plane's flight recorder. The Japanese news reports that U.S. search ships had located the airliner's electronic flight recorder and that its recovery was imminent were again denied by White House press spokesman Larry Speakesn. The flight recorder could help explain why the Korean Air Lines Boeing 747 veered hundreds of miles off course into Soviet airspace Sept. 1. A Soviet fighter shet the plane down with the loss of 269 lives. Speakes said a 10-member international party invited to board U.S. ships to observe the operation would be given the recorder, or black box, for examination if and when it was found. The Japanese Maritime Safety Agency said the main force of the Soviet fleet was diverted into waters northwest of Moneron Island near where specially equipped U.S. Navy vessels were searching for the plane's wreckage. "Most of the Soviet ships conducted search operations northeast of Moneron in the past," a spokesman said. "Today, the main force of the Soviet flotilla was sighted near the U.S. search area."

Bad weather hampered search operations, but seven U.S. ships, including the deep-sea sonar-equipped tug Naraggansett and the survey ship Conserver, were sighted in the area, the Japanese spokesman said.
Nine Soviet ships, including a destroyer and a missile-carrying cruiser, were sighted near the American ships about 12 miles northwest of Moneron. Four other Soviet ships remained in waters far to the east. The observer team.

Love Canal Area Still Unsafe: EPA

NIAGARA FALLS. N.Y. (UPI) — The Environmental Protection Agency says new evidence of leaking chemicals in the Love Canal area has forced it to re-evaluate whether the area is safe to live in.

"Maybe the outer reaches of the declaration area might be habitable," said Environmental Protection Agency spokesman Robert Ogg. Ogg announced the agency has now revised plans to determine whether the area was a safe place to live.

"I cannot tell you it is safe" at this time, said one state Health Department official to a member of the Love Canal Revitalization Agency.

Ogg said the updated information would be turned over to the Centers for Disease Control in Atlanta and the state Health Department, who would make the decision on habitability. A decision is not anticipated until between March 1985 and February 1988.

The EPA and state Department of Environmental Conservation said the review was partially due to an analysis from the Office of Technological Assessment that found the EPA should not have told people it was safe to live in the area around the infamous dump site.

The New York Times reported today that the EPA had found evidence of leaking chemicals in the area. The agency said a "total review" was needed of the scientific data amassed by the agency last year and used as the basis for the declaration that the area - a block and a half to six blocks from the contaminated canal - was habitable. Love Canal was used in the 1940's and 1950's as a Plastics Corp. After it was developed into a residential neighborhood, the chemicals began to seep into homes.

The government relocated 800 families from the area in 1980 and the state had earlier relocated 237 families

Flustered Forecaster Sounds Call For Help

Would anyone out there like to take a crack at this? You can't do much worse than I have over the last three weeks. Here's all you have to do: Send in your predictions for next week's games (the week of Oct. 3) by next Wednesday (Oct. 5) and the person who has the best record gets to write this column the following week. Pick the winning team and by how much they are going to win.

The games include all six Seminole county high schools, UCF, Florida and Florida State (sometimes the University of Miami) and the Tampa Bay Bucs and Miami Dolphins. There are 10 games to be picked. In case of a tie, closest to the point spreads wins. Send predictions to, The Sanford Herald (sports department), P.O. Box 1657, Sanford.

At least everyone is taking my advice and not betting their bank roll on my predictions. Well. almost everyone. A guy named Guido said he and his "family" were disappointed in my performance. Guido said he is reserving a spot at the bottom of Lake Okeechobee for me - right next to Jimmy Hoffa, no doubt.

After last week's mediocre 5-5 record, I stand at 15-14-1 for the season. That's a pretty good reason to try and dump this column, or at least let someone else do it for one week.

SEMINOLE AT MAINLAND

The Tribe is riding high after a stunning 29-27 comeback victory over Lake Howell a week ago. On the other hand, the Mainland Bucs are playing about as well as their professional namesake. A three-game winning streak is well within the reach of Jerry Posey's Seminoles. Tribe by 12 LYMAN AT LAKE MARY

The Rams want to look good in their home opener. But, if they play like they did against Lake Brantley, it's going to be a long night for Lake Mary fans. Lyman has been pretty unpredictable this season, though, and this one will go down to the wire. Lyman by 2 DELAND AT LAKE HOWELL

The Silver Hawks are mad. They are going to be out for blood Friday night and don't expect them to lose the lead once they get it. DeLand's Bulldogs will be the Hawks' prey and it could get pretty ugly. Lake Howell by 18

LEESBURG AT OVIEDO

Maybe I'll pick a tie in this one. The Oviedo Lions have played three games thus far, and I haven't picked the outcome correctly yet. The Lions are oming off their first win of the season and the offensive line is starting to open up holes for Barry Williams and J.W. Yarborough. Leesburg got hammered its last time out and they won't recover in time for Friday's game. Oviedo by 10

VALDOSTA STATE AT UCF

It's Homecoming for the Central Florida Knights and coach Lou Saban will have his team at its best. The Knights are out to snap a two-game losing streak and the Valdosta State Blazers will be the victim. UCF by 8

FLORIDA AT LSU

Playing a night game in Baton Rouge, La. is about as much fun as snorting fiberglass. LSU always has an added advantage at the "Pit" down in the bayous, where Gators are often turned into luggage. LSU by 6

FLORIDA STATE AT AUBURN

What an exciting town Auburn, Alabama is. I won't tell you what they don't have, but the biggest night spot is the Wendy's down the road from the campus. And that closes at 10 (10:30 on weekends). The Auburn Tigers don't have much else to do than concentrate on football, and sometimes they don't even do that too well. This week will be one of those times. Florida State by

MIAMI AT DUKE

The Hurricanes demolished Notre Dame last week and will clean off their trail by blowing away the Duke Blue Devils. Mlami by 24

BUCS AT PACKERS

The Tampa Bay Bues are 4-4 in 1983. Unfortunately, all four of the wins came in the preseason and don't count. Jack Thompson seems to have won the starting quarterback spot and he's lucky. If he was on the New York Giants he would be fourth string and probably on waivers about now. The Giants don't play the Bucs, so maybe they can lend Tampa Bay second stringer Phil Simms or third stringer Jeff Rutledge. Packers by

DOLPHINS AT SAINTS

"Snake" Stabler was uncoiled in his own end zone for a safety that cost the Saints an upset victory over the Dallas Cowboys last week. Stabler and the Saints are eager to upset somebody, and, if the Snake is at his old form, the victim will be the Dolphins, New Orleans by 1

BIG JV GAME TONIGHT

Lake Mary's Rams dedicate their new stadium Friday night against Lyman, but tonight at 7:30, the Rams and Sanford's Fighting Seminoles get together in a junior varsity game which should be a good one.

Seminole whipped Lake Howell, 14-13, last Thursday when running back Alvin Jones broke lose for two long TD runs - one on a punt return for coach Bill Zeiss' Seminoles. Jones has been running behind linemen Carl Tipton and Clint Boyles.

Coach Walt Morgan's Lake Mary swimmers are improving - but they still haven't improved enough to dunk Trinity Prep's powerful Saints.

The Saints tripped Lake Mary for the second time this season Wednesday swimming to an easy 104.55 victory in the girls' meet and taking a 96-70 win in the boys' meet.

Jenny Pence led the girls' romp as she won the 100 fly and the 50 free along with anchoring the 200-yard medley team. Eighth grader Lauren Aspinwall captured the 200 free and helped out on the victory in the 400 free relay. Rachael Weightman took the 500 free and was on the winning medley Sherry Purkerson (100 breast) and Sheri Clayton (100 back) had the Lady Rams only two first places.

In the boys' meet, the Donahues combined to win three events and a relay. Brian took the 206 free and the 500 free while Chris grabbed the 200 IM. Both joined Robert Penn and Brian Weightman to take the 400 free relay.

"If we go 3-19 instead of 19-3 after that, then I can hang up my spikes. But dag-gone it, I'm going to take credit for it," said Schmidt. "Some guys came up to me after I said it, and said that I took the pressure off. I stuck my neck out, and it worked well."

"I don't know. I don't think that was a turning point," said Owens. "We're not as old as we seem. Maybe older players play better."

Morgan doubled and scored in the first, had an RBI single in the second and a two-run single in the fifth. Diaz belted a solo homer in the second and added Mike Schmidt belted his 40th a two-run shot in the third.

Peace Duels Wickersham As 'Edgy' Gators Visit LSU

United Press International You can't blame the 9th-ranked Florida Gators for being a bit edgy about their Saturday night visit to 13th-ranked Louisiana State. This is the third time in four seasons the Gators have been unbeaten prior to playing the Bengals - and the other two times LSU spoiled that record.

"We're determined not to have that happen again," says Florida quarterback Wayne Peace. "Everybody has talked to us about it, even the coaches. Frankly, we're tired of it."

The Bengals, after a two-week absence, moved back into the rankings this week following their 40-14 victory over then 7th-ranked Washington and are slight favorites over the Gators who swept past Mississippi State, 35-12, to improve to 3-0-1 (the tie was with Southern Cal three weeks ago).

A crowd of more than 82,000 is expected to watch a passing duel between Peace, the current Southeastern Conference career total offense leader, and sophomore Jeff Wickersham.

Peace, who has a career total of 5,557 yards - just 19 yards behind fifth-place Archie Manning on the SEC's all-time list - completed 21 of 34 passes for 260 yards and two touchdowns last week while Wickersham was 16 of 27 for 259 yards and one touchdown and ran for three touchdowns against the Huskles.

'Wickersham is maturing and becoming a better leader every day," says LSU coach Jerry Stovall said. "He's helping us grow as a team. Jeff-to w veteran now — he's played 12 quarters."

Peace says Florida "can throw with anyone... and also have a pretty good running game." But LSU, which has

season with a 40-35 loss to Florida State. has the SEC's second and third leading rushers in sophomore co-tailbacks Garry James and Dalton Hilliard.

In other Saturday games, 4th-ranked Alabama hosts Memphis State, 8thranked Georgia hosts Mississippi State. 10th-ranked Auburn hosts Florida State. Ole Miss hosts Southern Miss, Tennessee plays The Citadel (in Memphis) for the first time since 1939, Talane hosts Vanderbilt and 15th-ranked Miami of Florida visits Duke.

Kentucky, 4-0 and ranked No. 18 after going 0-10-1 last year, has an open date.

There's no line on unbeaten Alabama although Memphis State, playing the Crimson Tide for the first time since 1959, lost by only 14 points at 5thranked North Carolina. Alabama quarterback Walter Lewis leads the SEC in passing with 35-of-60 and is second in total offense with an average of 240 yards per game.

Unbeaten, once-tled Georgia is an 11-point favorite as the Bulldogs open their bid for a fourth straight SEC championship. Their game with Mississippi State pits two former Valdosta (Ga.) High School teammates + quarterbacks John Bond of State and John Lastinger of Georgia.

Bond, was Lastinger's receiver when he was a junior and Lastinger a senior at Valdosta. He is second to Peace among active players on the SEC career offense list with 5.457 yards.

Lastinger lost his starting role to sophomore Todd Williams but regained won two straight since opening the it last week when Williams was injured.

Miss Turner, T.W. Wilkes Repeat Vows

Sandra Dawn Turner and Thomas Wayne Wilkes were married Sept. 24, at 1 p.m., at the United Church of Christ, Altamonte Springs. The Rev. Wayne E. Smith performed the double ring and unity candle ceremony. The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Edward V. Turner, 950 Vihlen Road, Sanford. The bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. James A. Wilkes, Huntsville, Given in marriage by her mother and father, the bride wore her mother's wedding gown when she was married 35 years ago. The ivory satin gown was fashioned with an off-the-shoulder neckline, long slim sleeves terminating in calla points at the wrists and a full gathered skirt shirred at the bottom to form points. Rows of lace bordered the flowing cathedral train. A tiara of pearl-encrusted ivory schiffli lace secured her cathedral length veil of imported illusion that was embellished with irridescents. The bride carried a formal cascade of ivory cymbidium orchids and bridal white roses with soft touches of pastel colors.

Nancy McClure attended the bride as maid of honor. She wore an orchid taffeta gown with matching lace and puffed sleeves. The fitted bodice was held by a wide taffeta sash. She carried a garden-style bouquet of Groomsmen were Michael Turner, Gregory Turner and Alstroemeria, lilies and miniature carnations in orchid Cesidio Conte, Junior groomsman was Ryan Turner.

Bridesmaids were Dianne Wilkes, Donna Adams and Lori Brakeman. The junior bridesmald was Amy Turner. to Charleston, S.C., and Amelia Island. They wore yelow, light blue, mint green and apricot gowns identical to the honor attendant's. They carried bouquets in shades to match their gowns.

The bridegroom's father served his son as best man. a research and design technician.

Talk to your school counselor about this. You need a died a few years ago; then I asked her if I could call her mother image - someone with whom you can have a definitely not the one. Back off, honey, and get counseling.

> DEAR ABBY: This is a very touchy situation. A nice young couple we hardly know (socially) are expecting a baby soon and they have asked us to be their child's godparents. (We did not accept. We told them we would let them know.) Then they informed us that if the baby is a boy they will name him after my husband, and if it's

DEAR SMALLTOWN: You may not be able to, but if you must hurt their feelings to avoid being drawn into a commitment with which you are uncomfortable (and being godparents is a lifelong commitment), you will have to risk it. Conviction May Intensify Probe Of Teamster Chief CLEVELAND (UPI) - Government attorneys say the embezzlement conviction of Allen Friedman for collecting a union salary without working may spur a more intensive investigation of his nephew. Teamster president Jackie Presser.

Friedman, 62, who was listed as a business agent for Presser's Cleveland Local 507, was convicted Wednesday by a U.S. District Court jury on four counts of embezzlement.

Presser, who is a target of the investigation, is still secretary-treasurer of Local 507. He has repeatedly denied'any wrongdoing.

Big Hospitals Sinking Under Growing Burdens
