

PRESIDENT WILSON STIRS THE AMERICAN PEOPLE BY FLAG DAY ADDRESS

WARNED NOT TO HEED GERMAN INTRIGUE--HONOR THE FLAG

Washington, D. C., June 15.—President Wilson warned the American people in a flag day address on the Washington monument grounds yesterday that Germany has carried into effect the greater part of her immediate plans for conquest and now is negotiating a "new intrigue of peace," designed to end the war while her aggressions are sure.

Thousands gathered on the monument grounds to hear the President and government departments closed to give clerks an opportunity to attend.

Many in the audience recalled that standing in the same spot one year ago today, before war seemed so imminent, the President uttered defiance to foreign born citizens' political activity in the United States in these words:

"There is disloyalty active in the United States and it must be absolutely crushed. There are those who at this moment who are trying to levy a species of political blackmail, saying 'do what we wish in the interest of foreign sentiment or we will wreak our vengeance at the polls.' That is the sort of thing against which the American nation will turn with a might and triumph of sentiment which will teach these gentlemen once and for all that loyalty to the flag is the first test of tolerance in the United States."

The United States Marine Band played patriotic airs and a chorus of 600 voices, organized among government clerks sang. Many persons carried small American flags, and as the band played the Star Spangled Banner, a big flag was hoisted to the top of the monument.

The central empires, the President declares, have been centered into one great autocracy ridden empire, "throwing a broad belt of German military power and political control across the very center of Europe and beyond the Mediterranean into the heart of Asia."

This accomplished, he said, it is easy to understand why Germany is fostering a propaganda for an early peace. "Peace, peace, peace has been the talk of her foreign office for over a year and more," said the President. "A little of the talk has been public but the most of it has been private. Through all sorts of channels it comes to me, and in all sorts of guises. The military masters under whom Germany is bleeding see very clearly to what point this war has brought them. They see immense advantages still in their hands which they have up to this point apparently gained. If they can hold these advantages they will have justified themselves before the German people. They will have gained by force what they have promised to have gained for it."

The President spoke again of the German aggressions which drove the United States to war. He described the purposes for which the American now carry the Stars and Stripes to Europe for the first time in history, are not new to American traditions because realization of Germany's war aims must eventually mean the undoing of the whole world.

FLAG DAY EXERCISES

Sanford Lodge of Elks Observe Day in Fitting Manner

The Benevolent and Protective Order of Elks are a patriotic order in every sense of the word and their emblem is the American flag. It is natural therefore that every year when Flag Day is to be observed that the Elks lodges all over the country are found in the forefront paying homage to the Stars and Stripes. Sanford lodge is always active in this respect and last night at the club house of the Elks the exercises commemorating Flag Day were of a high order and while not public afforded the members the opportunity of hearing another stirring and patriotic appeal to Americans by Hon. George G. Herring. This subject, "The Tribute to the Flag" is near and dear to Capt. Herring's heart and whenever the occasion arises that he can express his opinions on the subject of patriotism and the American's duty to the flag he is listened to with wrapt attention and his words carry conviction with them.

The exercises last night at the Elks home were patriotic in every particular and the beautiful Flag Day program was carried out according to the rites and ritual of the Elks lodge. On account of other attractions in the city the exercises were not public but it is now hoped that next year arrangements can be made to hold the exercises in the park where every one can enjoy them, for the great lesson of love for the country and honor to the flag is shown in the Flag Day of the Elks in a manner that is most impressive and sublime.

RED CROSS FISH FRY

Ladies Were Successful Yesterday and Made Neat Sum of Money

The ladies of the Red Cross Society are to be congratulated upon their fish fry held yesterday at Woodland Park for they pulled a stunt that deserves great praise. With cloudy skies and threatening weather they went bravely to work and served the big fish dinner and other good things to eat and the crowd patronized the affair so well that the ladies believe this morning that they have netted about $75 which is certainly a cause for rejoicing. The ladies and the mere help responded nobly to the good cause and yesterday being Thursday the employees and employers had plenty of time to take the afternoon for pleasure and the edibles and the various amusements were patronized to the limit and the pretty Red Cross girls worked without stint to make everyone feel at home. The cars made regular trips to and from the park and Woodland was never more popular than yesterday. A complete report of the day will be given in Tuesday's Herald and the many who helped to make the affair such a success will be given due thanks for the same.

BOUGHT LIBERTY BONDS

Patriotic Citizens Who Purchased From First National

The First National Bank of Sanford has sent in to the Federal Reserve Bank of Atlanta, Georgia fifty-three subscriptions to the Liberty Loan bonds amounting to $43,500.00.

Every director and officer of the Bank is subscribing for bonds, in addition to the subscription of the Bank, which is for $30,000.00. If every other National Bank in the country subscribed in the same proportion to its resources, one half of the loan would be taken by them alone. Following is a list of those who are doing their bit for their country, as well as those who are going to the front.

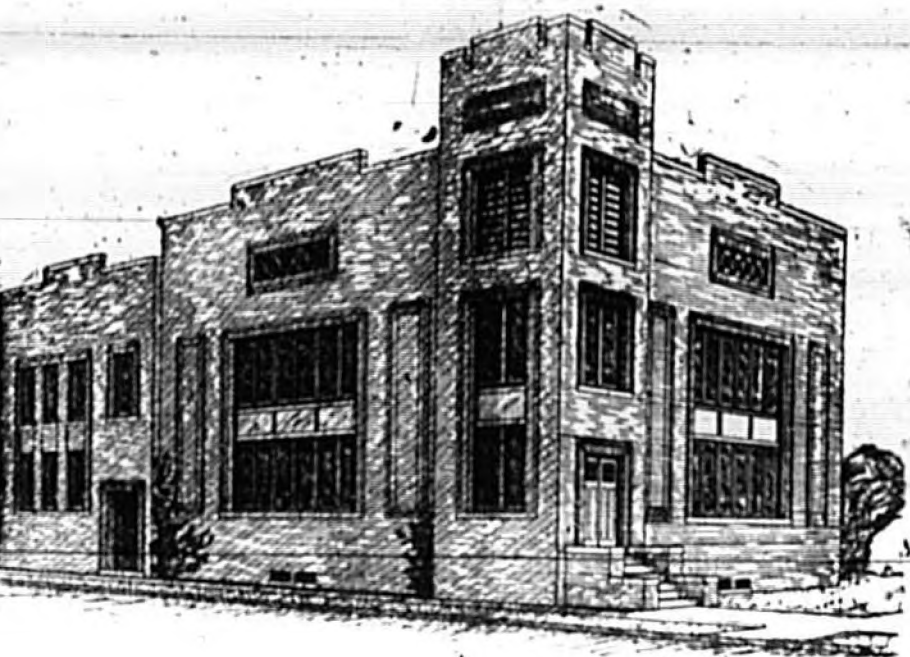

- P. R. Andrews, Mrs. Elizabeth Jewett, W. A. Lefler, A. S. Matlack, J. F. McClelland, J. Sherman Moore, Gate City Camp, Woodmen of the World; Dr. George Hyman, G. F. Smith, Mrs. Kate D. Forster, Miss Mary L. Muller, John D. Abrams, C. M. Berry, J. R. Hayden, Harold C. Huskins, Edith E. Mead, H. C. DuBose, W. H. Merryweather, P. M. Elder, Mrs. Anna M. Maris, W. R. PRESBYTERIAN REVIVAL BRINGING PEOPLE TO THE SENSE OF DUTY

DR. J. G. VENABLE HOLDING SERVICES EVERY NIGHT AT THE PRESBYTERIAN CHURCH AND EVERY MORNING ON FIRST STREET

Just now with our minds torn with the conflicting emotions and the time almost upon us when our hearts will be torn with things from the front and the death of our loved ones there was never a more propitious time for the people to look to God for spiritual guidance, for personal aid and for that peace that comes to those who have a great and true religion and Christian faith.

Thus our minds and hearts are open for the series of revival services that are being conducted at the Presbyterian church each night by Dr. J. G. Venable and the church is crowded each night by those who having heard this message of faith from His servant have come to love him and they are anxious to hear more and more of the message each night and to bring their friends that they may hear and benefit thereby.

Told with a quiet yet forceful manner, with the power of the orator but in the simple language easily understood, with the confidence of the tidily man since he has been gone straight to the mark each evening and won a large place for him in the hearts of his hearers. And this is also true of the meetings for men held each morning in the downtown section of the city convenient for the businessmen and those who toil. These morning meetings are twenty minute meetings each day at eleven o'clock and each morning finds an ever increasing audience to greet the speaker who talks to them in the language that cannot be misunderstood and in a manly way best suited to men.

Dr. Venable gives no athletic exhibitions or contortions when he talks to the people. He has no mourner's bench picked out to make the so-called sinner conspicuous, he calls for no public profession of faith, no eleventh hour convictions of sin or pyrotechnic displays to embellish his words but his message is carried home to each and every one of his hearers by the very force of the truths, by his earnest effort to save and his Godgiven ability to instill his own thoughts in the minds of his audience in the quiet yet firm and forceful language of the teacher of the gospel. He has made a deep impression upon the hearts and minds of the people and it is good news to them that Dr. Venable will be here all next week that everyone in this section of the state may have the opportunity of hearing him.

And since this is the season when prayer and communion with God should and will be observed by more people than ever in the world's history The Herald gives this space to the good work that all may be brought to realize their position and condition in the world today and taking heed come into the great white light of better understanding.

Board of Trade

Mr. J. B. McDonald, president of the Stuart, Fla., Board of Trade is attending the Methodist conference in the city this week. Mr. McDonald was a prompt visitor at the Sanford Board of Trade office and spoke very highly of conditions as he found them and predicts many big things for Sanford's future.

Mr. Geo. W. Collins of Stuart is attending the Methodist conference and came around to ascertain at the Board of Trade office if it was a fact that the same land now covered with green corn produced also a crop of peaches. This season, says some, will yield 100 bushels of peaches per acre.

The board of governors and advisory board of the Sanford Board of Trade have a very important meeting on for Monday evening 8 o'clock, June 18th, at the office of President F. E. Dutton. It is urged that every officer be present because of the important business to be attended to.

Citizens of Atlanta have undertaken a task that it will take fifty years to complete, that of chiseling in statutory on the side of Stone Mountain a pictorial story of the great war between the states. The work will require skill and ability but marks the opinion the average Atlanta citizen has of lasting progress.

The Sanford Board of Trade is now on the exchange list of twenty two organizations, representing 15,000 persons. These organizations will show on your new membership card July 1st. A card will show you how you stand of home and who you are and will bring you many connections that otherwise you would never receive.

The Board of Trade in the near future will issue an instructive pamphlet on subirrigation and on soil and home conditions in every section of Seminole county. The book will be compiled by successful growers all over the county and will deal with his section direct. We are having numerous calls from all over the county for such information and know from such inquiries just what we must produce in the way of information.

The average man would be ready to contribute to the Board of Trade if he knew what it was doing. But the average man is usually content to go matters progress and not inquire the cause of such progressiveness. That is why he remains the average man. Christian Science Monitor.

With the rumor that the War Department contemplated the placing of three or four cantonment camps in Florida, the Board of Trade at once got busy and made every effort possible to locate one of the camps in this section, making some attractive offers but found that no cantonments would be placed in Florida, at least south of Jacksonville. Characteristic of the board of governors, they were alert to opportunities and left nothing undone in an effort to secure one of these cantonments for Sanford and while they were not successful, their sincere efforts are to be appreciated by the citizens and business men.

As people we are progressive but we are only first grade students in efficiency. For a good wholesome lesson along the line of efficiency all of us should hear the 20 minute talks by Dr. Venable delivered daily. His talks are classics for their common sense, inspiration and moral business advice. To hear him is an investment and a duty.

SUBMARINES ARE ACTIVE AEROPLANES DROP BOMBS WAR IS NOT OVER YET

Prof. Ezell to DeLand

The many friends here of Prof. B. F. Ezell will be rejoiced to know that although he has resigned from the Sanford schools he will still be a near neighbor, having been offered the position of supervising principal of the DeLand schools and accepted the same. Prof. Ezell held the same position with the Sanford schools for three years and has a host of friends here who are congratulating him upon the fact that he will not leave Florida but will be near Sanford and also that he has secured this good position with our sister city of DeLand.

Tomatoes Given Away

W. H. Byers, who has a farm on Beardsall avenue has stopped shipping tomatoes and will give them away to any one who wants to come out there and pick them and carry them away. This is a good opportunity for those who want to eat tomatoes and should be taken up. Mr. Byers wants to help the country in the time of war and is willing to give the tomatoes to anyone wanting them and they will be wasted if they are not used up. Since canned tomatoes will bring high prices this fall this is the time to eat them. See Mr. Byers and get them for nothing.

National Patriotic Sunday

Sunday, July 1, is National Patriotic Day. The Florida Sunday School Association is asking every Sunday school in the state to observe it. Ever since President Wilson sanctioned the day by the issuance of his proclamation to American Sunday schools plans have been making for its observance in this state. R. C. Wender, general secretary of the Florida Sunday School Association has given out the following information.

"We are anxious to make Patriotic Sunday a great day in Florida. The purpose of the day is to produce a concerted action throughout the state in the interest of patriotism, and to give our great army of Sunday school people an opportunity to do something practical in the crisis which faces our country. We are asking that every Sunday school and every individual contributor that day either to the army work of the Y. M. C. A. or to the Red Cross."

"We hardly realize the vast needs along these lines. Our boys are enlisted. Many of them are Sunday school boys. The temptations of their new life are many. The army work of the Y. M. C. A. attempts a great love work in its programs by which it gives the boys surroundings which will keep them from the idle, immoral life which seeks everywhere the destruction of our youth. The Red Cross is abundant in labor too numerous to mention. Our Florida schools on Patriotic Day ought to contribute thousands of dollars to these worthy causes."

"We are preparing in our office a suggestive program for the day. This program, together with literature explaining the work of the Y. M. C. A. and the Red Cross, with contribution slips and other matter will be mailed from Jacksonville from our office to every school this week. Our association is working hand and heart with these great organizations. We are hoping to make Patriotic Sunday both the beginning of a sustained program of helpfulness which our schools can render during the continuance of the war."

"No matter what an individual may believe as to the rightness of the war, no Sunday school man or woman can fail to respond to the call of the Master to aid those who are compelled either to fight in the war or to suffer because of the results of it."

Revival Will Close Early Tonight

The revival meeting at the Presbyterian church will close at 8:25 tonight in order to allow the people present to attend the play being given for the benefit of the Red Cross Society. The meeting will also start at 7:30 and everyone is urged to attend the meeting at the church first.

LITTLE NEWS FROM BATTLE FRONTS BUT LIVES ARE BEING LOST

It may be the quiet before the storm but it is a fact that the war fronts are quiet this week and but little news of actual operations is actually filtering from the seats of war through any news service.

The greatest air-raid in-point-of casualties yet made over England by German aircraft, the arrival in France of Maj.-Gen. John J. Pershing, who is to command the American forces on the continent and the simultaneous arrival in the Russian capital and arrival at a Pacific port, respectively of American and Russian missions which are to discuss matters connected with the prosecution of the war are the outstanding features of the news of the world war. Of none of the war fronts has there been an engagement of noteworthy importance.

Nearly 400 persons were killed and more than 100 injured in a midday bomb dropping raid by some twelve to fifteen German airplanes over London.

London, June 14.—An official dispatch received in Venizelist quarters in London from Saloniki, says the abdication of King Constantine has been made known officially to the people of Athens, and that perfect order prevails. It is expected by the supporters of former Premier Venizelos that he will be recalled to power over united Greece and will work cordially and loyally with the new king.

It is felt absolutely necessary, the dispatch adds, to remove from Athens those men, who if possible are more responsible than Constantine for the events which led to the crisis, namely, General Toumanis, Colonel Mavreas and former Premier Gounaris. Former King Constantine and the other members of the Greek royalty are still in Athens, although, according to reports here, King Constantine desires to leave. Reuter's correspondent at Athens says that all military measures in Thessaly, the Gulf of Corinth and elsewhere have been carried out satisfactorily.

London, June 14.—The weekly shipping report issued by the Admiralty today states that 22 merchantmen of more than 1,600 tons were sunk. Ten merchantmen of less than that tonnage also were sunk, together with six fishing vessels.

A summary of the report follows: Arrivals, 2,767; sailings, 2,822. British merchant ships over 1,600 tons, one previously, twenty-two; under 1,600 tons, including one previously, ten. British fishing vessels sunk, six. British merchant ships unsuccessfully attacked, including seven previously, 24.

Paris, June 14.—The liner Sequana, carrying 550 passengers was torpedoed and sunk in the Atlantic with the loss of 190 men.

Among the passengers was a detachment of Senegalese rifles. The Sequana was formerly the City of Corinth, owned by the South Atlantic Navigation Co. of Paris. The vessel was 430 feet long and her gross tonnage was 5,567.

Boston, June 14.—A German submarine sank the Leyland liner, Anglian which left here May 30 for Liverpool, according to a telegram to the agents.

Eagles Buy Liberty Bond

Sanford Aerie of Eagles are patriotic and are the first lodge in the city to buy a Liberty Bond. Secretary C. C. Woodruff reports that the lodge planked down their hard cash for the bond and are doing their bit for their country.

Thirty-Six From Florida

Gainesville, June 13.—Thirty-six students of the University of Florida left Tuesday for an eastern training camp, where they will receive instruction in ambulance work and field hospital service. They will be sent to the front in France as soon as their training is completed.

Among The Theatres

A Baroness in Pictures
Valkyrien, who won the Government prize for the most beautiful woman in Denmark is a success in motion pictures. So she is ready to admit that her real name is Baroness Dewitz.

Manager Lane states that Baroness Dewitz will be seen at the Lyric Theatre Wednesday in an unusual Pathé Gold Rooster Play of reincarnation and love, entitled "THE IMAGE MAKER." She was a famous dancer and actress in Denmark, but after she married Baron Dewitz she retired. The call of the camera was too strong, however, and as Valkyrien she went into motion pictures.

The rumor that she was a Baroness was noised about, but it was not until she was assured of success that Baroness Dewitz admitted to her friends that it was she who was Valkyrien. At first she feared that her society friends would snub her because she danced in bare feet and light flowing robes, but she found that Americans are not narrow minded prudles and she won more friends.

Wallace Reid and Myrtle Stedman at the Star Friday.

Wallace Reid, who with Myrtle Stedman will be seen at the Star on Friday in the Moroso Paramount production, "The World Apart," staged a very exciting battle during the filming of the picture. Director Taylor gave the contestants, Wally, Eugene Pallette and Henry Barrows, a room, and without any rehearsing told them to go ahead and fight. During the conflict, which was not without action, Pallette was thrown under a desk and his wrist sprained; Barrows was knocked down with a blow on the neck, and Wally received a badly cut lip which prevented his working the next day.

her, but again comes to an understanding of what it means, and again strikes out for herself. How she achieves her ambition forms one of the most fascinating of fiction and screen stories. It is the story of a woman's life and reveals secret emotions in a manner seldom encountered in the photodrama.

In its outward aspects, "The Price She Paid" is a picture de luxe, as it deals with the lives of people of unlimited wealth. Miss Young's gowns are of the latest mode and her beauty never has been seen to such good advantage. The director, Charles Giblyn is a new member of the Selznick forces and "The Price She Paid" will be the first of a series of big features which will be produced under his supervision.

"The Power of Decision"
"The Power of Decision," the five part photodrama starring beautiful Frances Nelson, which will be seen at the Star Theatre tonight is a play of great mental and moral stimulus.

The central idea of the play is that "Every mortal man has within himself the God given power of decision." Margot, the artist's model, who marries a famous author is called upon to exercise this power amid circumstances which would puzzle a wiser head than that of this girl.

"The Power of Decision" raises many important questions which cannot help being of the deepest interest to motion picture patrons. Among them are: "Has a woman a right to marry a man she does not love?" "Can she love a man she does not respect?" "Which will last the longer, blind love or an esteem based on nobility of character?" "Will not an honest decision strengthen the moral fibre for good and all?"

These problems confront Margot, the heroine of the power of decision, and she is forced to face the alternative of finding an answer for them in her own life or of drifting aimlessly, without definite purpose. Her choice is a wise one, and Margot's moral awakening, as told in this convincing photoplay is of tremendous value and compelling interest.

Lyric Thursday
During the filming of "Money Magic," the Vitagraph Blue Ribbon feature, starring Edith Storey, Antonio Moreno and William Duncan, which is the attraction at the Lyric Theatre Thursday, Mr. Duncan suffered a severe fall which bruised him considerably and gave him a violent headache, which lasted for over a week, forcing him to remain away from his work at the studios.

The story calls for Mr. Duncan to mount a high mountain on which his mines are supposed to be located. Owing to heart trouble the high altitude proves disastrous to him and he falls to the ground.

Journeying to the location, Director Wolbert stationed his camera man to one side of the screen and gave Duncan the signal to start his climb. Reaching the designated spot, Mr. Duncan portrayed his weakness and fell in an unsightly heap to the ground. He only rolled a little way, however—not enough to prove fatal as the story states.

"Come on," shouted the director, "a little further in order to make it a thriller."

Mr. Duncan moved to roll a "little further," but he rolled in the wrong direction. On one side of him was a rough cliff covered with rocks and underbrush. It was toward this cliff he rolled, and in spite of immediate warning by the camera man and director he caught himself too late and fell to the bottom, where he lay stunned until they picked him up.

The first thing he asked when he recovered consciousness was: "Did you film that—it'll make a thriller if you did?"

He was assured that the camera had registered his fall, and also that he had narrowly escaped plunging over another cliff, directly beneath the first.

The next scene show him being found by Miss Storey and Mr. Moreno, and as this location was miles away from the studio he insisted that it be filmed despite his condition. As it required no effort from him, Director Wolbert consented.

Nevertheless, had it been necessary to film another scene, it would have had to be postponed until later, for Mr. Duncan suffered to no small extent during the next half hour and was so weak from the general shaking up which he received that he had to be helped to the machine which took him home where he remained one week, according to strict orders delivered by his physician. Lyric Thursday.

The Sumter County Times says that $100,000 will be spent immediately in testing wells for oil near Bushnell, and that machinery has already arrived and work commenced. The freight alone on the outfit is in the neighborhood of $2,000. The prospectors must have faith in the proposition and all Florida will wish them success.

A man can be patriotic and be a little patriotic all the time, but patriotism wanes with excessive hunger that has no valid excuse for existence. And just why Americans are taxed double while "starving" Europe can buy American goods at about half the price we are forced to pay is a riddle we are unable to read—too dense to solve.

One of the great improvement projects of the Kissimmee section, financed chiefly by public spirited citizens—a bridge and fill across the head of Lake Tohopekaliga—will be completed within the next ten days, it is announced by the contractor in charge.

A naturalized citizen at Waterbury, Conn., registered, but claimed an exemption because he had two wives and five children, one wife and three children still being in Russia.

Uncle Sam's Belt
The total area of the canal zone, which includes all the land and water within five miles on either side of the center line of the canal, but does not include the area within the three mile limit on the Atlantic and Pacific ends of the canal, is 411 1/2 square miles, of which the land area is 342.35 square miles. The area of Gatun lake within the five mile limit is 106.4 miles, the area of Miraflores lake 1.5 miles and the area of the canal channel itself .85 mile. The area was given in 1911 as 418 square miles, which was correct at that time, but by a treaty proclaimed Feb. 18, 1915, an area of six and one-half square miles adjoining Panama City was ceded to Panama in exchange for two small tracts, one of them in the city of Colon, on which one of the defense batteries of the canal is situated. The same treaty gave the Panama canal administration control of all the waters of Gatun lake outside of the five mile limit and all land adjoining the lake up to the hundred foot contour line, adding sixty-one square miles to the 411 1/2 miles within the zone, making the area of the canal zone and controlled territory 522 1/2 square miles.—Christian Herald.

By Post
Maurice Maeterlück, they say, one day found the little daughter of a friend very busily and conscientiously blakeening a nice sheet of white paper. He asked to whom she was writing. "For Prince charming," said the child. Naturally the reply delighted the author of "The Blue Bird." When the little girl had finished her letter she put the sheet of paper in an envelope, wrote on it "The Prince Charming" and said to Maeterlück: "Please stick a stamp on it and put it in the post."
"A man to whom the poet was telling the story interrupted him at this point. "And what," said he, "did you do about it?"
"Well," said Maeterlück dreamily, "I stuck a stamp on the envelope, and I put the letter to the Prince Charming in the letter box on the corner. You never can tell."—New York Post.

Why Japan Cannot Be Starved.
Two of the most interesting sights in Tokyo are the fish market at Nihombashi and the Mitsukoshi department store, very near the Billingsgate of Tokyo. Nihombashi is not only the geographical center of Tokyo, but of Japan, according to the Japanese, who ought to know. Here is situated what is probably the largest fish market in the world. There is every kind of fish a man could mention and a few thousand other varieties. Some big fellows cut up into great steaks, weighing ten pounds or so, and there are little ones which would make good minnow bait, if one could find a hook small enough not to mangle them. I think that in certain sections they must use a chain-oils sklu for a fish net and save everything that does not pass through the pores. Until the sea dries up around Japan the islands will never starve.—Christian Herald.

Others Have Had the Same Desires.
Two high school girls came into the criminal courtroom a few days ago just after a case had been tried and the jury had been locked up in the jury room for deliberation.

"May we listen to this case?" one of the girls asked an officer of the court.
"They just finished the case," replied the official, "and the jury is now debating what its verdict should be."
"May we go and listen to the jury debate?" they asked.
And then the official enlightened them on one phase of the jury system.—Indianapolis News.

The Word Umbrella.
The English word umbrella is very like the Latin, coming through the Italian "ombrella," or "little shade." The French, German, Spanish and others give it a distinctive name, such as "parapluie," "regenschirm" and "paraguas."
"Umbrella" and "parasol" are etymologically precisely the same thing, but custom has given them the distinctions that we understand today.

Poison Upon Their Cheeks.
Professor M. P. Philbrick of the University of Washington told the Washington State Philological society that women of the seventeenth century powdered their cheeks with corrosive sublimate (bichloride of mercury) and with white lead. And they performed their gloves with ambergris.

Law Versus Judge Lynch

By RICHARD MARKLEY

Two gentlemen of Four Aces, a mining town, were consulting as to how to get rid of an enemy. One demurred at shooting since a court had been established.
"You see, Jim," he said, "they'll keep us in jail forever waiting to try us."
"Don't you worry about that, Pete," said the other. "This yere community isn't ready for real law yet."
So they shot their man and stood trial.

The citizens of Four Aces, eager to try the new legal system that had been introduced, did not inconvenience the two criminals at all by delay. The murder was committed in the morning, and by 3 o'clock in the afternoon the trial commenced. A hub of the law named Simpson was prosecuting attorney, and one Waterman was assigned by the court to defend the accused. To save time, they were tried together. The first hour was occupied in fencing between the prosecutor and counsel for the defense, the latter claiming that the first shot killed the gambler, and the man who fled it was the murderer, while the other could not be tried for killing a corpse. An appeal to the judge established the fact that both were instrumental in the deed and they should be convicted or acquitted together.

Then the prosecutor summoned witnesses who saw the shooting. The first was the barkeeper of the saloon, who was standing behind the bar at the time. He testified that he saw the two men open fire at the same moment on the gambler.
Question—What were you doing when the shooting commenced?
Witness—Tom O'Brian had just called for some pizen, and I was reaching to the shelf back of the bar for it.
Question—How could you see the shooting when your back was turned to the shooters?
Witness—There was a big lookin' glass behind the bar. I seen it in that.
"Your honor," said the lawyer, turning to the judge, "I move that this man's testimony be stricken out. He did not see the shooting. He merely saw a reflection."

The judge considered for a while, then decided that a reflection was not a thing in itself, therefore the testimony of the barkeeper was not to be considered by the jury.
There were several other persons in the room at the time of the crime, but counsel for defense proved that the eyesight of one was bad, that another was so deaf that he couldn't hear a cannon fired, to say nothing of a revolver, while a third had been sitting at a table in a log in the room, where he could not see the group in question. Friends of the accused swore that they had known them for years, both had taught Sunday school and neither had ever carried a revolver—indeed, they would not know how to handle such a weapon.
The prosecutor endeavored to impeach the veracity of these witnesses, but when he called on citizens present to swear that they wouldn't believe them under oath one of the witnesses announced that if any man dared to question his word or his sacred honor he would let daylight into his carcases. This effectively prevented the impeachment of any of these witnesses.

When the lawyers had got through with the case there was an impressive silence in the court. The judge seemed averse to instructing the jury to acquit the murderer, but he could not see how he could do anything else. He was scratching his head when Officer Budd, a prominent citizen of Four Aces and leader of the late violence committee that had ceased operations in view of the introduction of law into the place, arose and said:

"Your honor, these yere men have been tried accordin' to law, and the evidence shows that they are as innocent as two turtle doves. I suggest that before givin' up our former method we try 'em by the Lynch system. Let for to see how the two compare."
The judge accepted the situation and gave up his seat—a cracker box before his desk, a board between two barrels—to Mr. Budd, who took his place and said:

"Let all the witnesses for the prosecution stand up in line."
When the line was formed Judge Lynch or Mr. Budd said to them: "These yere two men air charged with the killin' of Charles Beaton, gambler. All of you who know for sartin that they done it hold up your hands."
Every witness held up a hand.

"That'll do," said Mr. Budd; then, turning to the large number of spectators present, he added:
"Citizens of Four Aces, you have seen a trial by court methods and a trial by Lynch methods. All who are in favor of the first say 'Aye.'
A dead silence followed.
"All those in favor of these yere 'olins' bein' treated to Lynch law say 'Aye.'
There was a roar of "Ayes" that struck terror into the accused meef."
"Such bein' the case," Mr. Budd concluded by virtue of being head of the vigilance committee, "I call upon the members for the purpose of executing the prisoners."
Ten minutes later two forms were dangling and the citizens of Four Aces had resumed their usual vocations.

Last of the Indian Battles.
The battle with Big Foot's band of Indians at Wounded Knee creek, South Dakota, was fought December 29, 1890. Capt. George D. Wallace of the Seventh cavalry, and about 30 soldiers were killed, and Lieut. Ernest A. Garlington of the Seventh infantry, and 38 others were wounded. A large number of the Indians, including 41 squaws and 18 paposes, were killed.

Sixth Federal Bank District Has High Hopes On Selling United States Liberty Bonds

President Wilson, the cabinet and congress are keenly awaiting news of the subscription for Liberty bonds, which the government has issued to help in the war.

The sale has been arranged through the Federal Reserve Banks and according to their districts. Our district, the sixth, includes Georgia, Florida, Alabama and approximately half of Tennessee, Mississippi and Louisiana. Few sections of the United States have such varied resources. From the orange groves of Florida to the steel mills of Alabama, and from the cotton fields of Georgia to the rice plantations of Louisiana and the stock raising section of Tennessee almost every kind of crop and manufacturing industry can be found. It will be strange indeed if the people of this prosperous section are not among the largest purchasers of Liberty bonds.

The government will be very greatly disappointed unless this great section ranks at least third in the volume of its purchases of Liberty bonds. Bankers of Atlanta, Birmingham, New Orleans, Macon, Chattanooga and Jacksonville as well as in every small town in the district, agree that when the total figures are announced that the Sixth District will be found to have done its full part.

But every man, woman and child must participate. Bonds sell as low as $50 and as high as $10,000.

Make the war loan the chief subject of discussion in your home. Make sure that each member of your family sees his or her duty and opportunity clearly.

Make up your mind today. Don't let it be said that you withheld your help in time of your country's needs.

Buying Liberty Bonds Is Not An Act of Charity

When you buy United States Liberty War Bonds you are not giving away anything. Your act of purchasing is not an act of charity. What ever money you have you possess because you have lived and worked in the glorious United States. Today the United States needs ready money to help win the war, to provide food, clothing and transportation for our soldier boys. So our government says to you: "Loan us $50 or $100, or whatever amount you like, and we will pay you 3 1/2 per cent annual interest (payments every June 15 and Dec. 15), and in addition to that we will pay you back the entire amount you lent us. Also, if the interest rate on our bonds goes up, we will advance your interest to the highest rate."

"That's a fair, square proposition. You can't lose. The United States helped you get what you have, and it is both patriotism and good business on your part to loan the government some of your money now. Order United States Liberty Bonds from your banker or your broker. Do it today."

U. S. Liberty Bond Button Is Your Badge of Honor

Every man, woman and child who buys a Liberty bond will be given a government button to wear. This badge of honor will be a sign to the world that its wearer believes in the United States, in freedom, in manhood, in righteousness, and has shown his faith by his works. Many of us are not able to fight, but there is hardly any one who cannot buy at least a $50 Liberty bond. Remember, too, that this $50 is not a gift: it is a safe and sound investment, free from taxation, paying interest and repaying the principal in full. You can't lose.

If you do not buy, both you and your country will thereby be losers. Don't be a millstone around your country's neck. Order at least one Liberty bond today.

How about mother? Wouldn't she be proud if you were to bring home a United States Liberty Bond in her name?

BE FIRST TO WEAR A BUTTON.

Be the first to wear a button. Don't delay until your friends and neighbors question your patriotism. Every buyer of Liberty bonds, issued to support the war, will receive from the United States government a button to be worn at all times and places. This button shows that you have answered your nation's first call. It tells where you stand. It speaks louder than anything you can say. Place your order for Liberty bonds today and be the first to wear a button.

LIBERTY BONDS ARE THE SAFEST

Money Paid Out Is Returned to You in Full at End of Stated Period

Greatest and Safest Of All Investments; Be a Shrewd Money Maker

Did you ever own a bond? It is the greatest and safest of all investments. The shrewdest money makers are bond buyers. The most careful investors are bond buyers.

When you buy stock, the money you pay for it is gone forever. What you buy is only a right to share in dividends, providing there should be any.

But a bond is different. The money you pay for a bond is returned to you in full at the end of a stated period. You know by reading the bond itself on precisely what date you will get back your principal. Then, instead of wondering whether you will get interest or dividends on your money, you also know by reading your bond exactly what rate of interest you will be paid and on what dates the payments will be made to you.

Insurance companies, colleges, trust funds and conservative individual investors buy bonds because they are the safest kind of investment. Bonds issued by the United States government are the most valuable of all bonds. Our government never fails to pay; usually its bonds sell above par because they are always "as good as gold." The man or woman who holds United States bonds is free from worry: the money they cost will come back in full, and every cent of interest will be paid on the appointed days.

Liberty bonds, issued by the United States government in order to win the war and re-establish peace on earth, will soon be ready for sale. You can subscribe now. These bonds are in denominations of $50, $100, $500, $1,000, $10,000, $50,000 and $100,000. You can buy one or several. Interest is at 3 1/2 per cent, payable June 15 and Dec. 15 every year. If at a later date the government should issue bonds at 4, 4 1/2, 5 or any other higher per cent of interest, you can at once exchange your 3 1/2 per cent bonds for those of the highest rate. Thus you are protected as to the future. Furthermore, these Liberty bonds are tax free; hence your income from them is not, not subject to any deduction by the city, county, state or nation.

Every man, woman or child who buys a Liberty bond will be given a button to wear. That button will indicate two things:

1.—That its wearer believes in the investment value of government bonds;

2.—That the wearer has done something to help the United States win the war. That button will be a badge of honor in all the days to come.

Why not buy at least one Liberty bond for every member of your family? Decide now. Subscriptions close June 15 at the latest, but the government reserves the right to close earlier if it prefers.

Make good for the baby's sake. Buy a United States Liberty bond for the littlest one. God bless him—or her.

Work Of Selling Liberty Bonds a Patriotic Duty

The sale of the Liberty Bonds in the Fourth Federal Reserve District is being handled without expense to the government. W. C. Wardlaw of Atlanta is chairman of the general committee in charge of the sale of the bonds, and E. Elmo Massengale is chairman of the publicity committee. Both are serving without pay. No money is being paid any newspaper, and the advertising and publicity copy is being written without charge. The leading financiers of the South are devoting their entire time to the work. It is a pleasure to this paper to be able to assist, also without pay.

When democracy goes to war democracy fights that war and pays for it. That's what the Liberty bonds are for. Will you buy your bond today?

The Kaiser is waiting to hear from the sale of United States Liberty Bonds. Make your share of that loud noise. Buy today.

Bankers Will Help You Buy U. S. Liberty Bonds

Patriotic bankers and brokers the nation over are making it easy for everybody to buy United States Liberty War Bonds. The fact that you have not an abundance of ready money need not prevent your helping your government by ordering United States Liberty bonds. See your banker or broker today and ask him about easy terms.

The U. S. A. can make two and one-half cannon for every one the Kaiser builds. Help build those cannon by buying United States Liberty Bonds. See your banker or your broker today.

President Wilson has bought United States Liberty Bonds. Have you?

How Nations of Earth Rank In Productions

Here is a list of 25 of the world's most useful and valuable commodities, showing what country leads and what country ranks second in producing them:

Commodity	Leading Country	Second Country
Wheat	U. S. A.	Russia
Corn	U. S. A.	Argentina
Oats	U. S. A.	Russia
Rye	Russia	Germany
Rice	China	British India
Tobacco	U. S. A.	British India
Cattle	U. S. A.	Russia
Sugar	Cuba	Russia
Tea	China	British India
Coffee	Brazil	Venezuela
Cocoa	Gold Coast	Brazil
Cotton	U. S. A.	British India
Wool	Australia	Argentina
SHK	China	Japan
Coal	U. S. A.	United Kingdom
Petroleum	U. S. A.	Russia
Pig Iron	U. S. A.	Germany
Steel	U. S. A.	Germany
Copper	U. S. A.	Japan
Aluminum	U. S. A.	France
Zinc	U. S. A.	Germany
Tin	Malay States	Bolivia
Rubber	Brazil	Congo
Gold	Transvaal	U. S. A.
Silver	U. S. A.	Mexico

This summary shows the number of products in which each country leads:

United States	14	Cuba	1
China	3	Gold Coast	1
Brazil	2	Malay States	1
Russia	1	Transvaal	1
Australia	1	All others	0

When you buy United States Liberty Bonds remember that you are buying the bonds of the richest nation on earth, the one most abundantly blessed by nature and by man, the producer in the greatest quantity of 44 commodities that the world demands. Remember, also, that no other country in the world leads in more than three, and that Germany, Austria-Hungary, Turkey and Bulgaria lead in none.

Nobody is entitled to any special credit for believing in the country that is so tremendously richer than any other nation. The man who doesn't believe in the nature-blessed U. S. A. is to be pitied.

If you have not yet bought your United States Liberty Bonds, see your banker or broker today.

Don't let your boy go to school without a United States Liberty Bond button on his breast. Let him be proud of his country—and of his father.

Money makes the war go. Have you bought your bond?

Don't Be Afraid of Bonds; They're Like Gold Coin

Don't get scared when anybody says "bonds." One reason why most people know very little about bonds is that usually they cost around $1,000 each, and you and I don't buy $1,000 things every day. But our United States is now issuing United States Liberty Bonds that cost as low as $50, and it's high time now to learn that a bond is the safest investment on earth. On the United States Liberty Bond you get 3 1/2 per cent interest, payable every June 15 and Dec. 15, and also you get your entire principal back.

United States Liberty Bonds are certain to become as numerous in the United States as gold pieces. They will have a wide and ready sale. Any time you need money, you can take your bond to the bank and get it. There isn't a real estate dealer anywhere, or an automobile maker, or a grocer who wouldn't be just as glad to take a United States Liberty Bond as he would to receive gold coin.

If you haven't already ordered your United States Liberty Bonds, see your banker or your broker today.

JUST A FEW "SUBMARINE CHASERS"

Sailors on the United States ship Wasp polishing some three inch shells. This size shell has been found effective against submarines.

After she had lost her heart to him, but Hilda would not admit it. Her father got hold of the rumor, and it worried him very much for he had not given up re-establishing his family in Germany through her.

However, Von Bischoff's plan for building up his family by marrying his daughter to her cousin Carl was dashed because news came to his uncle that he had been killed in the war.

One day a young man who gave his name as Fiegler appeared at Herman Bischoff's residence and asked for Hilda. He was the soldier that she had nursed as a prisoner. He had been sent to England as a prisoner of war and had escaped. He had then got transportation to America by securing a berth as fireman on a ship about to sail for New York.

The first thing Von Bischoff knew about the stranger's coming was information from his daughter that she had given her troth to the fugitive and desired her father's sanction to the match. She and her lover planned to be married before his return to the army.

Six months after his departure his wife received word from him that he had succeeded in what he had undertaken and was again in the ranks fighting for the fatherland. Then came a letter stating that he was at home badly wounded.

Hilda, now Frau Fiegler, determined to join him. Her father, finding that she was resolved on doing so, determined to go with her. They went by way of Copenhagen and in due time arrived at the village from which Herman Bischoff had departed thirty years before for America.

Hilda von Bischoff's associates were native Americans, and she had not that love for Germany that had remained in her father. When the war broke out she told him that she wished to go abroad to do Red Cross work, and he only consented on her promise to devote herself to the care of sick and wounded soldiers in Germany.

Hilda had been given plenty of pin money and, not having spent it all, had something in bank. One day she left for Europe without saying anything to her father as to her going and on her arrival at the seat of war was enrolled in the American Red Cross service.

There were English, French, Belgians, Germans, Austrians and citizens of the United States to be cared for, and all received the same attention. Of course the enemy sick and wounded men soon as they recovered were considered prisoners and placed in concentration camps, while the French, English and Americans were returned to duty.

Hilda remained at her post of duty a year, when, her health giving out, she returned to America. Some of her friends suspected while nursing a soldier she had lost her heart to him, but Hilda would not admit it.

Re-establishing A Family

Herman von Bischoff came to America as a young man, determined to make a fortune, return with it to Germany and build up his family, which was an old one, though impoverished. Von Bischoff chose a valuable field for money making in America. He became a brewer and by the time he was fifty years old was in a position to retire from business with the fortune he had come over for. But a business life had accustomed him to active habits, and he did not relish going back to Germany to a life of idleness. Besides, the pan-European war had come on, and he thought he could be of more service to the Fatherland by sending money for hospital service.

Weather report—clear and fair.

Help the Red Cross, buy a Liberty bond, help the home guards.

The glaring headlights are the greatest nuisance with which the roads are at present infested. Why not an ordinance against it?

The time is not far distant when the cattle of Florida will all be fenced. It is coming here in Seminole county first.

The man who plants something now for fall markets is the man who will make money. All staples will bring a good price.

It is time to think about the Seminole County Fair for next February. Don't wait until February to arrange for the Fair grounds and the exhibits.

The new primary law was knocked into a cocked hat by the veto of our great governor. Knowing the evils of the Bryan primary law it was hardly expected of the governor. But then the Bryan law elected Catts and not the people of Florida.

A Fourth of July celebration at Sanford would bring the people here and hold our own at home. It has been many years since we had a good old rousing Fourth here and this is certainly the right time to hold one.

The Florida Press Association will hold their annual meeting at Jacksonville on June 28, 29 and 30th but up to date there has been very little said about it. What is the matter with the acting president and the various committees?

The first page of that good paper, the Sanford Herald of last week was given over entirely to the Sanford High School Commencement. It was illustrated with half tone cuts of the graduating class and high school faculty. The press work and make up was good, and the page presented a very handsome appearance.—Sawannee Democrat.

MIAMI CITY MARKET
W. S. Witham of Atlanta and Miami sends the Metropolis a newspaper clipping telling of the successful first day of a public market at Decatur, Georgia, which the Decatur Board of Trade is responsible for, and authorizes the Metropolis to state that he will give the free use of lot 6 on Tenth street between avenues C and D for six months to try out a similar scheme in Miami. In Decatur the Board of Trade declared Saturday and Tuesday of each week open market days. They invited every farmer in DeKalb and Fulton counties to bring stuff to the public square and invited every housewife within trolley reach to come with a market basket. And the only trouble with the first day's business was that so many housewives came with market baskets that there was not enough produce to go around.

Just how a public market in Miami in the summer time would work the Metropolis does not know, but it would be worth trying out. And under the auspices and the boosting of the Chamber of Commerce the enterprise might well be undertaken.—Miami Metropolis.

WOULD BE UNFORTUNATE
Vice President Marshall states that in his opinion it would be a national misfortune if all the tax free wealth represented by the Liberty Loan bond issue of $5,000,000,000 should pass into the possession of the rich rather than in a large measure into the hands of the average American.

He believes that taxation is not only likely to be higher during and after the war, but that taxes are to be more thoroughly collected, and much property heretofore escaping taxation will be taxed and the tax-free Liberty bonds are all in the hands of the rich the poorer people of the nation will have to pay a disproportionate part of the taxes.

The government has certainly made every provision and effort to avert such a result, and the banks and business houses have greatly assisted the Government's efforts. The bonds are made of small denominations and can be paid for in installments. There is no reason why every American of any means or earning power cannot become the owner of a Liberty Loan Bond.

RIFLES FOR HOME GUARDS
Under legislation which has just passed congress, any home guards that are organized at Jacksonville during the present war will be entitled to receive rifles and other equipment from the United States government. The bill as finally agreed to in conference and approved by both houses provides:

"That the Secretary of War, during the existing emergency, is authorized in his discretion to issue from time to time to the several states and territories for the equipment of such home guards having the character of state police or constabulary, or such other home guards as may be organized under the discretion of the governors of the several states and territories or other state troops or militia, such rifles and ammunition therefor, cartridge belts, haversacks, canteens, in limited amounts as available supplies will permit, provided that the property so issued shall remain the property of the United States and shall be received for by the governors of the several states and territories and commissioners of the District of Columbia and accounted for by them under such regulations and upon furnishing such bonds or security as the Secretary of War may prescribe, and that any property so issued shall be returned to the United States on demand when no longer needed for the purposes for which issued or if, in the judgment of the Secretary of War, an exigency requires the use of the property for federal purposes."—Jacksonville Metropolis.

Army Rifles of Europe.
The German Mauser rifle is faster than any other rifle used by the armies of Europe. The magazine holds five cartridges, packed in chargers. The British rifle is the outcome of the South African war. It holds ten cartridges and is sighted from 200 to 2,800 yards. The Italian Mannlicher-Carcano is rather slow, discharging but fifteen rounds of shot a minute. The French Lebel is the longest rifle. The tube magazine under the barrel holds eight cartridges. The bullet used in it weighs 198 grains. The Russian rifle is seven inches longer than the British. It is capable of firing twenty-four bullets to the minute. The bayonet is always fixed. The Austrian rifle is the lightest of all, yet its bullet, 244 grain, is the heaviest used by any of the powers. It is very rapid in action. The Belgian Mauser of 1889 holds five cartridges carried in clips. It can not be used as a single loader. It weighs over eight pounds.

Where Franklin Was Born.
Benjamin Franklin was born on Milk street, Boston. When Benjamin was still young his father removed to a small gambrel-roofed house in Hanover street, near where it is crossed by Union street. Before the house swung the "Sign of the Blue Ball," about as big as a coconut, which signified that Mr. Josiah Franklin, Benjamin Franklin's father, carried on the business of making soap and candles.

Very Unfeminine
By OSCAR COX

I went into Charley's for lunch the other day, and while I was eating Fred Bemerton came in, and I asked him to sit down at the table with me. He did so, and I congratulated him on his engagement, of which I had heard some time before. He didn't look like a man who had just been made happy by a girl, but I reckoned he had passed out of the seventh heaven stage and was wondering how he was going to support a wife on a salary that he had been spending entirely on himself.

"It's all off," he said snappishly. "What's the trouble?" I asked. "See here, Jim; I've had all I want of girls. They have no sense of honor such as a man has. Fact is there's nothing manly—I mean noble—in 'em at all. Nothing a girl likes so much as to get a fellow by the ear and play him for a fool. That's what Mattie wanted with me."

"You haven't yet got to the cause of the breach." "Well, Molly and I were out at a dance. I put my name on her card for every alternate dance, leaving her a chance with some one else for every dance with me. That was about right, wasn't it? She objected. I told her I thought one in two was enough for the other fellows, and she said she thought that if she danced with me two or three times during the evening it would be enough for me. I told her that if that was all I was to get I'd go without any. And I scratched my name off her card entirely. Do you know, the girl filled her card without my name being on it and was the merriest girl in the room."

"Very unfeminine." "You mean very detestable." "What did you do next?" "Why, I left before the dance was finished and left her to go home with some one of the fellows she had preferred to me."

"Oh, you did?" "You bet I did!" "You had taken her to the dance, hadn't you?" "Yes." "What did she do next?" "Nothing." "And you?" "I wrote her a note saying that if every other fellow had as much right to dance with her as I would better call it off."

"And she?" "She hasn't deigned to send me a reply."

"Very unfeminine." "Jim," he said, bristling, "that's the second time you've used that expression. I'd like to know what you mean by it."

"I have used it ironically, Fred." "Ironically?" "Yes. The girl acted like a girl. You acted like a nunny."

Now, he knew very well that he had made a guy of himself, and when I bore witness to the fact instead of getting up on his ear he collapsed. He didn't say a word for awhile, but he looked like a man who had committed a crime and had just realized that the heavens were about to fall on him. His first words were:

"I've knocked the bottom out of the universe." "Oh, no, you haven't." "You don't think so?" eagerly and with a beam of hope.

"No." "What shall I do?" "Take a back track as quick as you can." "How?" "Go to her and ask her pardon. Tell her that you've made an ass of yourself and will never do so any more."

"I think I'd rather write it." "Nonsense. Face the music like a man. Writing would only show half hearted repentance. Speech is better than ink any time and in such cases is infinitely better. What's written is capable of various interpretations. In speaking one has the advantage of looking his meaning. In writing there is no expression of any kind."

"But suppose she won't see me?" "Hang on till she does." "And suppose she sees me, but turns me down?" "Hang on all the tighter."

He sat deliberating. Presently he looked up at me and said: "Jim, I would rather attack a fortification single handed. Is there no other way out of it?" "There wouldn't be for me if I were in your place." Another session of screwing up of courage, and he rose from his seat, took his hat and said: "Goodby, Jim. If I fall look for my body in the canal." "Goodby, Fred. I know just how you feel; I've been there myself." "Acted like a chump?" "No; like an inebriated donkey." The same evening the following telephone dialogue took place between him and me: Fred (in gleeful voice)—It's all right. Jim—Are you forgiven? Fred—You bet. Jim—Did she say that you had acted like a natural born idiot? Fred—No; she said I'd been a naughty boy. Jim—Then your body is not in the canal? Fred—No; it's locked in Molly's arms. She's in the booth with me. Jim—Oh! Goodby. Fred—Goodby, old man. Much thankfulness. Osculatory sounds, then a click, then silence.

"I BEG YOUR PARDON," SAYS POLITE UMPIRE
TO appreciate this you must remember Kid Gleason, fifty-four years old, can kick any player on the White Sox team. He was scolding balls and strikes in the batting practice. Mayer objected to a strike and said: "O. H. H. have a heart!" "It was right in the groove," declared Gleason. "It was a foot outside," protested Mayer. "Well, I beg your pardon, anyway," retorted the umpire.

SPEED AND CONTROL MAKE GREAT PITCHERS
Learn How to Unbend Curves in Bushes, Says Pieh.

Cy Pieh, that illustrious pitcher who zipped the baseball in and about the New York Polo grounds for a brief spell with the Yanks, makes the interesting announcement that the only way for a big leaguer "to git goin' right" is to slip back to the bush for one year and learn how to unbend some of his curves. "I come up to the big league two years loaded down with curve balls, and the best they got me was a return ticket. I've got every one of them curves packed in that there grip you see up in the wall, and I'm goin' to keep 'em there till I have a chance to get in the bush and straighten 'em out. I'm goin' to be able to pitch this season, and when I come back I'm goin' to have a fast ball and a slow one that a catcher could put his hand on with his eyes shut. I know now that the gag is to put the ball exactly where you want it, and it will get you more than all the curves in the world if they are scattered."

EVANS' CROWN IN DANGER.
National Amateur and Open Champion Will Have Hard Row to Hoe.
If plans of a host of golfers do not go astray a smiling, likable, congenial young fellow from Chicago is liable to lose his smile for a time this coming summer. The player in question, who redoubtable Chick and are arranging a series of battles which they hope will take both crowns away from the Chicagoan. The professionals have banded to fight off the amateur experts who in the last four years have just about disgraced the instructors. Evans is forced to suffer because Jerome D. Travers and Francis Outlet also had the temerity to outwit the teacher by winning the open. Now the player who is supposed to know enough to teach any amateur something and besides beat most of the amateurs is gunning for the scalp of Evans, with the determination to bring back the open title to the ranks in which it is supposed to stay.

From the Cellar of Life.
Do not be afraid, do not cry out, for life is good. I came from low down, from the cellar of life, where darkness and terror reign, where man is half beast and life is only a fight for bread. It flows slowly there, in dark streams, but even there gleam pearls of courage, of intelligence and of heroism, even there beauty and love exist. Every where that man is found, good is in tiny particles and invisible roots that still it is there. All these roots will not perish; some will grow and flourish and bear fruit. I thought dearly the right to believe this; therefore it is mine my whole life long. And thus I have won yet another right, the right to demand that you, too, believe as I do, for I am the voice of that life, the despairing cry of those who remain below and who have sent me to herald their pain. They also long to rise to self respect, to light and freedom.—Gorky in "The Peasants."

Horae Sense.
If you work for a man, in heaven's name work for him. If he pays wages that supply you for bread and butter, work for him, speak well of him, think well of him, stand by him and stand by the institution he represents. I think if I worked for a man I would work for him. I would not work for him a part of his time, but all of his time. I would give an undivided service or none. If put to a pinch an ounce of loyalty is worth a pound of cleverness. If you vilify, condemn and eternally disparage, why, resign your position and when you are outside rear to your heart's content. But, I pray you, so long as you are a part of an institution, do not condemn it. Not that you will injure the institution—not that—but when you disparage the concern of which you are a part you disparage yourself.—Elbert Hubbard

Colony of Cousins.
In Cullin bay, close to the great rock of Gibraltar, there is a colony so unique that it stands out almost as a tribe distinct in itself. Many generations ago, during a storm, a fleet of Genoese fishermen put into the sheltered spot and so escaped the fury of the sea. In the boats, so history has it, were many women, and they became so enamored of the spot that huts were built and they remained. Hundreds of years have passed, and the little tribe still lingers on. It is a colony of cousins, dwelling apart in the shadow of a great rock and going down to the sea in ships to earn a hard won livelihood.

All Pleased.
A candidate for parliamentary honors called upon a Scottish miner and met with a hearty reception and assurance of his vote. After his departure the candidate of the opposite party appeared on the scene and received the miner's reply. "Oh, aye, sir; I'll vote for ye." After he had gone the miner's wife remonstrated with her beloved against such behavior. "Never you mind, lassie. Ye see it's like this—tw a already gone awa' pleased, and when I gang the giv'na vote I'll please ma'sel', and there will be three o' us that's pleased."—London Mail

I wonder how many of our people enjoyed the band concert last week in the park. I mean by that how many of our people were out to hear it for certainly all those who attended enjoyed it to the limit. Sanford has a corking good band now and while it may not be appreciated to the fullest here it has several offers to play at other cities on the glorious Fourth. And by the way that reminds me that this Fourth of all other times should be made a gala occasion here in Sanford. If we ever thought of celebrating the Fourth of July we should do it this year. I do not mean setting off a million dollars worth of powder and making useless noises but just one of those good old fashioned Fourth of July celebrations that would be full of patriotism and significance. We could have a fish fry and athletic contests and many other features and if necessary have it at one of the nearby resorts and the day would really mean something for both young and old. This would be a good stunt for the Sanford Band to work up.

There were several accidents reported in the auto world here last week and this reminds me that the auto drivers or at least some of them are getting mighty careless and they do not seem to care for life or property. Our good roads are a great temptation to speed and there are some drivers that should be taken up and examined for their sanity. The law that prevents youngsters under fifteen from driving should also be made to apply to older ones that have no sense. A good fine levied on some of the careless ones would do much to stop this wild eyed idea of speeding and paying no attention to the rights of other people on the roads.

In this great time, when every citizen must do his part, the President has made his chief appeal to the men who live on the land. He is right in doing so, for the safety of our country just now is in the hands of our farmers. What I mean is not merely our safety and the safety of our allies in the matter of food. I mean that the safety of the United States against foreign invasion hangs on the decision of the farmers of the forty eight states.

The two great weapons in this war are arms and starvation. The war against German arms will be won or lost in France--the war against starvation will be won or lost in America. The Kaiser cannot whip the French and English armies and the English navy while England has food. But it is still possible that the Goerman submarines may be able to keep enough from reaching England to starve her into submission.

If the submarines win, the first item in the Kaiser's terms of peace will be the English fleet. With the English fleet in his possession the Kaiser will be master of the world. What will happen to us then? Every man who stops to think knows the answer. We shall have money, food, labor, land--everything that is desirable in the world except the power to protect what we have. Experts estimate that it will take nine months to get ready to meet a German army of even 150,000 men, with modern artillery. Under such circumstances would the Germans treat us better than they have already treated Belgium and France?

Even if the armies of our allies should crush the German military power this summer, before the shortage of food can reach the point of want, the world would still need vast quantities of American food. But if they do not, only one course can make us safe, and that is to grow food enough on our farms for ourselves and our allies and to put ships enough on the sea to carry the food, in spite of the submarines, to the men who are fighting our fight.

If the war lasts beyond this summer it will be the American farmer who will win, or lose the war, who will overcome militarism and autocracy, or allow them to spread and control the world, ourselves included.

This is no fanciful picture, but sober fact. Many a man will make light of it until he comes to think it over, but I venture to say that few will treat it lightly after careful thought. It is no more impossible than the great war itself appeared to be, only a few days before it began.

It is true that we can greatly increase the available food supply out of grain now used in making liquors, and by reducing household waste. But when these two things are done, and done thoroughly, they will not be enough. The final decision will still rest in the hands of the men who raise our food in the first place.

The clear duty of the nation is to guarantee the farmers a fair price for their crops when grown, and a reasonable supply of labor at harvest.

The clear duty of the farmer is to raise food enough to win this war for democracy against Kaiserism. No such responsibility has ever rested on any class of men since the world began as rests today on the farmers of America.

The war is making many changes and reforms that have been discussed for years with indifferent success attending the efforts of the reformers have come about since the war brought people to their senses. One of these is the useless society stunt of doing nothing that was of any benefit to the community and the society sets especially of the larger cities having been brought to their senses are now engaged in work that really amounts to something.

Everyone in society will be interested in an article appearing in Harper's Bazar for June, written by Mrs. J. Francis A. Clark, daughter of Mr. Poultny Bigelow. Discussing the wonderful changes that have come over society during her lifetime. Mrs. Clark says: "A brief ten years have seen the passing of the so called society leaders. Now gorgeous functions are given only for charity, and the smartest social gatherings have become smaller and more conservative. Formerly, life in society was the only outlet the fashionable woman had for her energies. Today she has entered the great fields of philanthropy, civics, reform work, politics and suffrage. The wealth, power, tact and intelligence of women have been turned from elaborate entertainments to such objects as the care of the poor, the helping of working girls, the lessening of infant mortality. These are the things which now occupy many a woman's time, to the exclusion of the entirely frivolous life."

More Preparedness

The present week is to witness a ceremony impressive and unique in the history of the nation, if not in the history of the world. Ten million men, in the prime of their youth, regardless of race will register for actual service in the great world war.

The act is hardly less impressive because these men must--not may--offer themselves, with a severe penalty for failure. From this mighty host, half a million men, the fittest, are to be chosen for the first army with which the nation will defend its right to be called a free and independent people, and other half millions are likely to be called to the colors within the months to follow.

Almost since the dark days of the Revolution, the people of the United States have been boasting their ability on short notice to "lick all creation," but since this country was in the "licking" business, some 19 years ago, when it encountered a rather easy and quick job war has changed so marvelously that Sherman's famous definition has come almost tame and meaningless.

No yet have the individual citizens of this county, with the few exceptions of those who are officially in touch with developments, come to a personal realization and acceptance of actual conditions that have led them to personal sacrifice for their country. They have not yet changed their methods of living or quickened their preparation for what is to come. The principal changes are those that have been forced upon them by the enormously increased, and so far almost unnecessary cost of living.

Not until the world conflict at present staged three thousand miles away shall bring direct and personal results into our own lives will its full meaning dawn convincingly in our souls. The loss of son or brother or friend in the trenches "somewhere in France," the appearance of a German warship bombarding an American coast city would bring it home to us, and nothing less startling will arouse many of us to voluntary personal sacrifice for our country.

How many of the ten million men of the United States, who are offering themselves this week will meet the requirements of physical preparedness fixed by army authorities as requisites? Is one in twenty ready for the training that will transform him into a "first class fighting man?" Are there two or three in twenty?

Those who may not be called into the first or the second army, all the men and women who remain behind must do their bit at home. The conservation of the shortened food supply is the one thing that reaches and touches every one, that not yet, perhaps, but soon, Floridians in common with all Americans may have to eat what they can get, not what they want or even what they may have the money to buy, but what they can get. Then they will discover to their great surprise that they can get along comfortably with much less than they have been accustomed to, that all their lives they have been eating more than they needed, more than their physical systems could assimilate. They will find that they will be better off with one third or one half less meat than they have ordinarily consumed and they will improve under the change. They will discover that they will improve under a "ration" of sugar and syrup, one quarter of the usual allowance. They will be forced to other changes and reductions of diet and will wonder why they are clearer headed and more efficient in spite of it.

A considerable part of our preparedness will come through a diminished food supply, through fewer varieties of food and reformed appetites. It will be a real preparedness, for it will conserve the food supply for the men at the front, and it will fit us better for what is to come. And while the men who are to go to the fighting lines are in the training camps wouldn't it be rather a good idea for those who stay at home to prepare themselves by training and subduing their appetites to meet new conditions?

WHAT THE RED CROSS MEANS

People Not Taking Interest That Occasion Demands
The following article was written in consequence of the lack of enthusiasm in supporting the Red Cross here, and the lack of interest shown in the recent benefits for that society, which must be due in a measure, to an unconscious ignorance of the immediate and urgent need of that very worthy organization. Think for a moment of the last ten years. The San Francisco earthquake, the Chinese famine, the Mississippi floods, the Titanic, the Eastland disaster. These things must be cared for. The debris must be cleared away, the dead identified, the homeless sheltered, the injured attended to. Who does all of these things? The Red Cross--a world wide organization.

The American Red Cross is chartered by congress. It is the only volunteer agency for relief commissioned by the government in case of war or overwhelming disaster. The President of the United States is President of the society. Though just as ready to serve in time of peace, a war with its horrors, its ravages of humanity and all that humanity has achieved cannot help but bring the Red Cross into active prominence.

Many of us had forgotten that America had a Red Cross organization, or if we remembered, our recollection was a rather hazy one. We knew nothing definite concerning that worthy relief agency. Now that we are asked to become members of the Red Cross, we ask why? Why should I join the Red Cross? I am not fitted for a nurse! What good would it do if I did?

Don't you realize that every member helps? Do you realize that by supporting the Red Cross you are aiding those brave men over in France? That you are contributing, if not to the relief of your own son, your own brother, your own husband, to some other woman's husband, some other man's boy, some other man's brother. And that other man is your brother! Not only that, he too, is a citizen of the United States, and the United States, your country, needs you.

Sanford is trying to do her little bit for her country. Don't let all the work devolve upon just a few. EVERYBODY help! What if you can't go to the war because you have a family? Possibly you are longing for a brother or several sons whom you would give to your country, if you had them.

A first aid nurse uses the means at hand; you do the same. If you can't go to the war yourself you can at least aid and support the small division of America's Red Cross already begun here in Sanford, and which is struggling so hard to secure a foothold.

It needs money for materials--materials to be made up into clothing and other necessities for our soldiers. We have not asked for contributions from any one, but we are trying hard to raise money and at the same time provide you, in this dull season with several excellent attractions.

Next Friday night Mr. Edouard D'Oize, who is well known and very popular here will present three plays for the benefit of the Sanford Red Cross, which should be enthusiastically patronized.

Every member of the Red Cross should endeavor to take one or two tickets and those who are not members please do your bit by boosting and if you do not feel inclined to come because the Red Cross is behind it, come for your own sake. There is no doubt that you will enjoy it.

Don't anyone be a SLACKER! Remember, the American Red Cross is the official relief agency. BOTH IN PEACE AND WAR of the United States Government.

Death of Mrs. Wise
The mysterious death of Mrs. Mary Wise at Tampa last Wednesday will be regretted in this city where she resided with her son, George Wise for the past year. The following account appears in yesterday's Tampa Tribune:

The funeral of Mrs. Mary Wise, whose body was found floating in the Hillsboro river last Monday was buried yesterday in Woodlawn Cemetery. With the final rites over the body there fades from public interest a case that for several days was one of the most mysterious deaths ever known in the city. For several days after the discovery of the body it lay unclaimed and unidentified at the undertaking parlors of R. Marion Reed, while the police department worked day and night to find the relatives of the woman, and to clear up the circumstances connected with the death. It is now generally accepted by the police and the public that the unfortunate woman wandered away after leaving an automobile of relatives near the Butterworth home on East Park, where she was going to visit, and losing her way in to the darkness, fell into the river.

The Butterworths were at church at the time Mrs. Wise alighted from the automobile at the corner, it was learned Saturday, but unfortunately the Ohmes did not wait to ascertain this fact. Why Mrs. Wise did not wait at the Butterworth home for the return of the family has not been learned. The funeral was held from the undertaking parlors of B. Marion Reed, with services conducted by Rev. T. J. Nixon. In addition to the immediate relatives of the dead woman the services were attended by a number of friends of the family and persons who had known Mrs. Wise when she lived in Tampa.

Mrs. Wise is survived by her husband, who is in Mobile; a daughter, Mrs. Paul Ohme of Brandon, a daughter in Philadelphia and one son, George Wise of Sanford.

The pall bearers were Joe Turcks, P. A. Coe, H. A. Thornton, W. D. Whitaker, S. C. McConnell and H. L. Sumner.

Following Precedent.
"Where is that cut I had on yesterday?" asked the hungry-looking poet. "I sent it to the laundry," said his wife. "Gracious, woman, I had a poem written on it!" "Oh, it will come back. You know your poems always do."--Yonkers Statesman.

A Native Acacia.
Southern California boasts one native species of acacia, the cat's claw (a Grevil), which is but a shrub in that state, but becomes a tree in Arizona. It bears small pale yellow flowers and an abundance of very sharp thorns.

Economy Can Be Carried Too Far.
It doesn't pay to save a penny at the expense of several pennies worth of time and effort. All economy is not economy. Some of it costs more than it is worth.

Figured Out by Science.
An Italian scientist has figured that a square mile of the surface of the earth in six hours of sunshine receives heat equivalent to the combustion of more than 2,000 tons of coal.

How Long?
"Mother," said Freddie as he laid down a paper telling of the success of the French army, "how long would a fellow have to study to become a President, if he had the talent?"--Youth's Companion.

Items of Interest for the Man Behind the Plow

Dried Foods Save Cans

There is no need of emphasizing the scarcity of tin and glass cans—every housewife who is trying to conserve foods against the coming knows it is hard to get them at reasonable prices, or at any price.

The demand for tin cans is 25 to 40 per cent greater than last year and tin plate from which they are made is less available. The reason or the scarcity is obvious. Tin plate is 98 per cent steel and 2 per cent tin, and steel is the backbone of war.

The price of glass has risen steadily until it has reached a point that makes any larger extension of its use impracticable. Fiber and paper containers are coming into use.

It is not necessary that all kinds of food be packed in tin or glass containers says the University of Florida Extension division. Corn, sweet potatoes, beans and peas do not need to be canned; they can be dried and will keep under proper conditions for several months. Jellies and preserves can be kept in wide mouthed bottles and sealed with a cap of paraffin.

The housewife may do much towards alleviating the shortage of cans by doing a large share of her own cooking at home. The demand for "ready to eat" foods, such as baked pork and beans and many others, with the simple direction, "heat and serve," represents the largest factor in the increased use of tin cans.

Many articles formerly sold in tin containers are now being packed by the manufacturer in fiber, paper or cloth, and those housewife should follow their lead.

Build a Storage House

The sweet potato acreage has been greatly increased in Florida in line with the National demand for a greater production of food crops. It is not reasonable to suppose that all of the sweet potatoes produced in the state can be eaten in a short time, nor that all can find a ready market at good prices? To save them for food it is necessary that they be properly cured and stored.

The most practicable means of storing the sweet potatoes is in a building erected and fitted for the purpose, says A. P. Spencer of the University of Florida extension division. To build such a house requires money and knowledge. The money should be raised in the community to be served and the knowledge gained from persons who have had some experience with the process of properly curing the potato.

With everything pointing to a long war, it is likely that curing and storing houses will be needed for several years. In that time, the profits from handling potatoes will pay for the houses and they can be used to advantage in succeeding years.

If there is no storage house in your vicinity, now is the time to begin the agitation necessary to secure one. The extension division is ready to help with information and plans.

Plan Your Meals Carefully

The day of the groaning dinner table is doomed. For housewives are learning that the loaded table and the full dinner pail do not mean a well nourished family and usually mean a great deal of waste of food. So at this time it is unpatriotic and in bad taste. A great deal may be saved by careful selection and cooking of the day's food. Cook only what will be needed and plan to use every scrap left over. Be careful that no food is wasted through poor or careless cooking, being scorched or underdone. Teach the family to eat only what they need and not great quantities because it tastes good, is the advice of Miss Agnes Ellen Harris of the University of Florida extension division.

Then by planning your meals by the following rule you will have well balanced menus furnishing enough food for the working man and growing children. First have a meat or meat substitute (eggs, beans, peas, cheese, milk, etc.). Then a starchy vegetable, rice, potatoes, dried beans, macaroni, etc. Then a succulent vegetable or salad, green vegetable cooked or served raw. Let the dessert be preferably of fruit though if the meal is light a pudding may be served. Sugar will be furnished in the pudding or simple cakes that may be served from time to time.

Avoid duplication of foods. If you serve meat do not include a meat substitute in the menu. Do not serve potatoes and macaroni, or baked beans and potatoes, or baked beans and meat, or hot biscuits and hot dumplings. Plan simple meals well cooked and served and the health of the family will ascend while the grocer's bill descends.

Velvet Beans for Food

There has been much discussion regarding the velvet bean as a food possibility, based on varied experiences. Miss Agnes Ellen Harris of the University of Florida extension division submits this information, which comes from Mrs. Classen who has tried them.

"I have tried two kinds, the common mottled velvet bean and the Chinese variety, and have proved to my satisfaction that they are perfectly wholesome when eaten in the same quantity as other beans, such as lima, kidney or navy. They cause no digestive disturbance, which may be partly due to the way I prepare them.

"The skin of these beans is very coarse and heavy. I understand that with any kind of beans it is the skin that causes trouble; so the first thing I do is to get rid of the skins on the velvet beans. I soak them for 24 hours, bring them to a boil, and then add a teaspoonful of soda to a cup of dried beans. I then rinse them in cold water and the skins be so loose they will slip off easily. They can be removed quite rapidly.

"I have made three kinds of soup with these beans which have been very satisfactory—a soup with milk, one with tomatoes and the third was made by cooking the beans with a ham bone, just like the old fashioned navy bean soup. I have also made good bean croquettes and bean soufflé. They make a fine combination for all sorts of things, but they must always be combined with something of a high flavor because they are lacking in that respect.

"I bought my beans at a mill and hulled them myself. At least half were bad, because they had been exposed to the weather, but even then when I weighed the good beans I found they had cost me two cents pound, which is cheap enough in these days of high living costs."

Velvet beans are grown in great quantities in Florida and if they can be used for human food they will fill an important place in the family ration.

Shallow Cultivation for Corn

Best results will be obtained by cultivating corn shallow during the dry period. A light cultivator that will thoroughly pulverize the top soil to a depth of not more than two inches is the best to use, says the University of Florida extension division.

Moisture is brought up from below the corn roots by capillary attraction. This process goes right along when the soil is firm about the roots, but if the soil is pulverized to a considerable depth, the flow of moisture is stopped at the level reached by the cultivation.

It is necessary to pulverize the top soil to keep the moisture from coming to the surface and being lost by evaporation. If any light shower falls sufficient to cake the surface of the soil when dried, work the cultivator in the field again to break the caked surface.

By such methods of careful cultivation moisture will be conserved for the crop and the roots of the plants will not be disturbed.

The Average Citizen and the Liberty Loan

By Hon. Carter Glass of Virginia, Chairman of House Committee on Banking and Currency.

In ordinary times the ordinary, average citizen of the United States has few demands made upon him by his National Government. He daily receives his mail delivered to him by a Federal employee. If he is a manufacturer or exporter he receives consular reports and other documents. If he is a farmer he receives various bulletins from the Government, and through the extension work of the Agricultural Department he receives material assistance. He pays his taxes to the Federal Government (unless he be wealthy enough to pay an income tax) only in an indirect way and in no great amount by paying a little higher price for some of his purchases. He serves occasionally on the juries in the Federal courts. But as a general thing the Federal Government asks nothing of him. In return for the benefits he derives from the Federal Government, including protection at home and abroad and what blessings of liberty he enjoys, the only return he is called upon to make is to stand up when "The Star Spangled Banner" is played and to cheer a little on the Fourth of July.

But when the country is at war the ordinary, average American citizen is called upon to show appreciation of and make return for the benefits and blessings his country has secured to him. When the honor and prestige of the Nation are at stake, when the welfare and success of the Nation are threatened and the safety of the Nation endangered, there comes a call to which every true citizen will respond.

Not every one is called upon to bear arms for his country, but everyone is called upon to do some service to his country. Some are to fight our enemies on the seas, some our enemies on land, some to manufacture the munitions and other things our Army and Navy will need, some to grow products to feed our Nation and our Army and the people and armies of our allies.

To see that these things are done is the duty of our Government, and to accomplish these things our Government must have large sums of money to pay our soldiers and our sailors, to purchase things they will need for warfare and maintenance, and money to lend to our allies who have been hard pressed with the fearful expenses of three years of fearful war. This money must be drawn from the body of the people; it is neither desirable nor wise to draw it all from the financiers or the wealthy of the country, nor would it be patriotic. This "Liberty Loan" should be the loan of the great body of the American people, and not from only one or several classes. The more the people finance the Government the less dictation there can be from special interests.

The money to meet the immediate need of the United States in this war is to be raised by the sale of Liberty Loan bonds. It is not to be sent abroad, but to be expended in America, and it will go back into the pocket of the people whose it came in return for their product, their labor, their manufactures. The people of no nation every before had so magnificent a chance to do the patriotic thing, the noble thing, and at the same time profit themselves so greatly by doing it.

"These are the times that try man's souls," said old Tom Paine in Revolutionary days. This year 1917 is a time that tries our Americanism. Not by the amount of money realized by the sale of these bonds but by the number of subscribers to the loan, by the number of Americans who lend their money to their Government, is the Americanism of the people of the United States to be demonstrated.

SAY WAR WILL PROVE A BASEBALL STIMULUS

Games Played Close to the Actual Fighting Line.

John B. Foster, secretary of the New York Giants, agrees with President Barrows of the International league that war will not hurt the game of baseball. He believes even that baseball might be stimulated.

"War has never hurt baseball in this country," said Foster. "As a matter of fact, it was the baseball played during the civil war by the soldiers which resulted in giving the game its great impetus in this country."

"Baseball was highly prosperous during the Spanish-American war. Toronto had an extraordinarily good season last year. As a result of the present war in Europe there is more baseball being played in England and France than ever before, and the game has gained a foothold in Italy. The reservists who were called home to the colors took the sport with them when they left this country."

"Baseball games have been played repeatedly close to the actual fighting line. One such game at Verdun went seven innings before it was broken up by the appearance of hostile aeroplanes."

"There is a lot of baseball being played around London, and it is exciting more interest in that vicinity than it ever did before. There are plans to organize a professional league at Monte Carlo as soon as the war is over."

"The more men are forced to think of serious things the greater is their need for some form of relaxation. It is probable that everybody will be talking war, but there will be no better place to discuss things than at the baseball parks. From all my experience and my years of connection with the game it is my opinion that war or no war, baseball is due for a good year."

RAY GREAT DISTANCE RUNNER

Has Confidence, Nerve and Gameness. He Defeated the Best of Them.

Many claim that Jolo Ray is the best distance foot runner ever developed in this country. He is a real racer, full of nerve and confidence. After the race at the Panama-Pacific championships, when he turned up and defeated such good ones as Norman Taber, who a short time previous made the 4 minutes 12 3/5 seconds world's record time; Abel Kivlat and several others, a reception was tendered the athletes at the Olympic club. Little Jolo was called upon for a speech, and what he said was, "I came here from Chicago to defeat the champions and record holders, and I did it good and plenty." Furthermore, since then he has defeated other great runners.

Previous to the one and a half mile race at the Millrose games, where the Chicago boy turned a new record for the distance, he asked the name of the men who were going to run against him. When the most dangerous competitor in the field was mentioned Ray remarked: "Is that all I have to beat? Well, I will make a record in the race anyway. I was never so fit for a race as I am at the present time."

Jolo defeated the "easy bunch," as he termed the other entrants during the conversation. Moreover, he made a world's indoor record for the distance. Jolo Ray is full of confidence, nerve and gameness, which requirements are necessary to be a real foot runner.

Pencing a Continent.
The state of South Australia has since 1891 erected 29,148 miles of "vermin fences," enough to encircle the globe and with the remnant build a double line fence along the southern border of the United States. When contracts now running are completed the mileage will be much increased. New South Wales has expended over $27,000,000 for rabbit extermination and has within its borders 38,000 miles of fence. One of Western Australia's fences extends entirely across the continent. Of late years the rabbit has been repaying in part for his keeping his board, as it were. He goes to sweep the total of food exports from the commonwealth. Along the country roads rabbits may be seen lunging on fences awaiting the passage of the rabbit carts, which convey them to the packing houses to be prepared for shipment as frozen meat and hides. Practically all are exported. The Australian does not eat "vermin"—National Geographic Magazine.

Soap an Antiseptic.

Some medical authorities, explaining the abatement of epidemic diseases in recent years, are sufficiently free from professional ties to attribute this betterment of conditions not to medical science, but to the increased use of soap and water. Many medical authorities hold the opinion that with a clean house and a clean person no one need have much fear of infection. A writer in the New York Medical Record says: "Soap is now recognized to be antiseptic and to be efficacious must produce a lather. Bacteria rubbed into soap or dropped on its surface are incapable of multiplication. The typhoid bacillus is very sensitive to soap, being killed by a 5 per cent solution in a short time. More than half the total number will die in a minute. The thorough use of a pure potash soap is not only a mechanical method of cleaning, but is an active favor in cutting down germs."

Ware the Skidding.
It may be a good thing to rush at success—but remember there's lots of "skidding."

Hard Indeed.
"This is a hard world," said the steplejack as he crashed to the pavement. Choral.

Greeks Knew Tin.
The Greeks in the Homeric times were familiar with the metal tin. Copper, tin and gold were used by Hephaestus in welding the famous shield of Achilles. Twenty layers of tin were in the cuirass of Agamemnon. No allusion to tin is found in the "Odyssey."

Soils and Crops.
A close study of soils and crops shows that the relation is purely natural. In that crops showing preference for a certain soil is due entirely to the demands of these crops for a definite amount of water and warmth. Plantfood is a secondary consideration, and as this can easily be supplied by man the problem is solved.
